nds Starr as Drugged When Slain

NEOLA, N. Y.—The finding of an eminent toxicologist that Faithfull was drugged into unconsciousness before entering the stormy waters of the Atlantic near Long Beach was regarded Monday as the most important evidence in its attempt to solve the mystery.

Alexander O. Goettler of the hospital, whose work in celebrated murder cases aided New York authorities, reported to District Attorney Elmer Edwards of Nassau county, that the dead girl's liver contained plentiful quantities of veronal (a narcotic) to have put her into unconscious sleep, but not enough to have killed her.

The autopsy previously had disclosed she died of drowning. Long Island prosecutor Charles F. Brannan, following the toxicologist's findings, promptly places the victim at Long Beach before her death.

Behind Her, a Full Life.

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Stanley Faithfull and his family Monday told an amazing story of the facts in the childhood of Starr Faithfull, describing her as the daughter of a "man old enough to be her father," who affected her life, as the basis of the family belief Starr was murdered. Starr's relations with the "man old enough to be her father, and children of his own," made a girl of many moods, bordering on the insane, and calling for special treatment and counsel in her after life, the story told by Stanley Faithfull revealed.

A Revolting Story.

A revolting story, in part unobtainable, beginning with the period of time in which this man seduced a girl to read him passages from the sex writings of Sigmund Freud and others, followed by mistreatment.

This man, Faithfull said, "was

NEBRASKAN CONFERS

What a Day, Sigh R. & T. Salesmen

When 4 o'clock came Monday afternoon at Riverview park, a throng of tired youths, Register and Tribune carrier salesmen, who came to Des Moines for a one-day convention, turned homeward.

Trucks, automobiles, special street cars, and busses hunted down the young charges to get them back home to their many Iowa cities after the convention and frolic.

Got Up at 4 A. M.

"I got up at 4 this morning and started at 5," one red haired 10-year-old said. "It'll be pretty late tonight when I get home, I guess."

He had had a lot of fun but was a little tired, he finally admitted. Clutched in his arms was a plaster dog, a trophy won in the ring toss game at Riverview park.

4,000 Attend Frolic.

At least 4,000 persons attended the frolic at the park. The Register and Tribune distributed 4,500 ice cream confections and candy bars from a truck.

Jaunty red caps joined with colored sweaters in making the young salesmen conspicuous. Parents and brothers and sisters joined in the fun as they acted as chaperones.

1,000 Go Swimming.

More than 1,000 boys and girls went swimming in the pool. The park ran out of children's suits but boys went in in men's suits just the same.

Chief of Police Henry A. Alber joined in the frolic with the boys and girls throughout the afternoon. He reported not a single injury and all lost children were restored to their groups before 4 p. m.

"Boy, What a Horse."

"Gee, wasn't the horse keen when it dived?" one small boy from the northern part of the state told a carrier from near the state (Continued on Page 11, Col. 1.)

of four rings belonging to Mrs.
Louise Elliott of 19 South West
Forty-second st.

The woman had been nursing
Mrs. Elliott, who is critically ill at her home. Inspector of Detecttives Al Pedersen said the rings disappeared from the Elliott
home some time ago.

Tuesday, the woman was taken into custody by detectives who claim she admitted taking the rings, saying she merely took them for safe keeping. The rings were recovered in a safety deposit box in a bank, according to Inspector Pedersen, who said
charges would be filed against the woman.

FRALEY FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY

Former City Councilman
Died Monday Night.

Funeral services for Wilbur S.
Fraleley, 1534 East Twenty-fourth st., are to be at 10 a. m. Thursday at Dunn's Funeral home.
Burial is to be in Laurel Hill cemetery. Mr. Fraley died Monday night at his home.

Mr. Fraley served as alderman from 1902 to 1908 and was a member of the city council from 1912 to 1916. He also served two terms as Polk county representative in the state legislature from 1910 to 1914.

He was a Mason, Elk, Yeoman, Woodman and a member of the Trades and Labor assembly. He was a member of local No. 21 of the plasterers' union and of the Methodist church.

Surviving are his widow and nine children, Mrs. Virgil Welsh of Newton; Mrs. A. B. Arvidson
of Lancaster, Cal.; Mrs. C. J.
Wonderlin of Des Moines; J. S.
Fraleley of Chicago; Helen, Charlotte, Frances, A. T. and C. H.
Fraleley all of Des Moines; and two brothers, M. C. and A. H. Fraley
of Des Moines.

"What'll we do today" was a problem which men solved by perusing the news columns of Tribune. Left to right, seated, are Roberta Dix, Herbert Mensing, Waverly; Harold Spees, Eldora;
to right, Clair Harmon, Ames; Roy Martin, and Max Allender, Harlan.

Contest Winners Remain in City Extra Day As Honor Guests.

An early morning ride over the city in Good News, II, Register and Tribune plane, a picnic at Union Park, two theater parties
and a banquet was the program which 16 star carrier salesmen
faced Tuesday.

The salesmen, winners in a recent sales contest, were honor guests at the convention and frolic Monday and remained in Des Moines for an extra day of festivity Tuesday.

Airplane rides at 5:30 a. m.
were followed by breakfast and a trip through The Register and Tribune plant. A picnic lunch was served in their honor at Union
park, followed by a baseball
game.

Guests at Theater.

After leaving the park, the group was to go to the Paramount theater where they were to be the guests of Willard Moore, manager
of the theater.

At a banquet at 6:30 p. m.
Tuesday at Younker's tearoom
the 16 boys and one girl will be presented certificates of salesmanship.

Talks will be given by Harvey
Ingham, editor of The Register
and Tribune; Gardner Cowles, publisher, and George Yates, flying photographer.

Another Show.

The program will close with another theater party after the dinner. H. B. Sheridan of the Des Moines theater will be the sales-men's host at the final party.

Attendance figures compiled Tuesday revealed that 2,500 persons attended the theater party
