A Beloved Citizen.

Words are but poor things with which to express the sorrow felt here over the death of "Ned" Hoyt, as he was familiarly known to all. Few men are so endowed with those qualities which attract and cement friendships as was he. An equable and happy temperament, a disposition at once cordial, genial and friendly, a nature whose predominant trait was dependability united to give him wide and deep-seated popularity. If fault lay in him, it was found in a generosity too lavish to be always discriminatory, the result being that his purse accompanied his sympathies whenever and wherever appeal was made. Thus it was that here in Manchester many a home of the poor owes to him, an unknown giver, gratitude for timely and appreciated aid. In business life, in political life, Mr. Hoyt was conspicuously upright. He bore within him an integrity which was never questioned. He had no enemies, for his very kindness, freedom from resentment and unaffected friendliness disarmed the spirit of rancor before it materialized and won complete and immediate confidence. The publishers of this paper, who have so long prized friendship with him and the pioneer family of which he was so worthy a member, are not ashamed to profess a deep feeling of personal loss resultant from the death of one who enjoyed to the highest degree the affection and esteem of this community. Life will not be long enough to erase from the memories of Manchester friends the recollection of this lovable nature, nor will those friends fail to convey to those to whom he was most dear expressions of earnest sympathy.

FAIR PROGRAM NEARLY COMPLETED.

The dates of the Delaware County fair are set for August 31st, September 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and the local fair board is making every effort to make this, the tenth and last fair under the present management, bigger and better than ever.

While it has been the aim in the past to give the people of this county and the surrounding territory the very best in every department, plans have been made for added features for the 1926 fair. Contracts have been signed for the appearance of Harry Snodgrass, "king of the ivories," one of the greatest radio features of today, who will be here on Tuesday, August 31st, only. This will be the only fair date he will play.

Great interest is being taken in the "Pageant of Progress," which will be staged under the direction of a professional director, all characters being chosen from the various parts of the county. Each person taking part in the pageant will be costumed in detail. The queen will be chosen by popular vote throughout the county.

The pageant will be crowned upon an vass will be made for funds necessary to give the Scout movement in Manchester a real boost. The town will be organized and solicitors will call at every home, and it is sincerely hoped that the necessary funds will be raised.

In order that our people may become more familiar with the work the Scout organization is doing we reprint from the official Scout publication the following:

All nations have such laws coming down from past ages. The Japanese have their Bushido, or laws of the old Samurai warriors. During the Middle Ages, the Knights of King Arthur and various crusading orders, such as the Knights Templar, developed in Europe and the Holy Land the laws of chivalry. In aboriginal America, the red Indians had their code of honor; likewise the Zulus, Hindus, and the later European nations have their ancient codes.

The following laws, which relate to the Boy Scouts of America, are the laws a boy promises to obey when he takes his Scout Oath:

1. A Scout is trustworthy.—A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his scout badge.
2. A Scout is loyal.—He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due: his scout leader, his home and parents, and country.
3. A Scout is helpful.—He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons, and share the home duties. He must do at least one good turn to somebody every day.
4. A Scout is friendly.—He is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout.
5. A Scout is courteous.—He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people, and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.
6. A Scout is kind.—He is a friend to animals. He will not kill nor hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.
7. A Scout is obedient.—He obeys his parents, scoutmaster, patrol leader, and all other duly constituted authorities.
8. A Scout is cheerful.—He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheery. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardships.
9. A Scout is thrifty.—He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay, but must not receive tips for courtesies or good turns.
10. A Scout is brave.—He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and to stand up for the right against the coaxing of friends or the jeers and threats of enemies; defeat does not down him.
