DEATH SUMMONS DR. J. A. DEARMAND, PIONEER DOCTOR

Prominent Politician and Public Servant Dies of Arterial Sclerosis

In the death of Dr. J. A. DeArmand Friday evening from arterial sclerosis Davenport has lost one of its pioneer physicians, a public servant with a long and unblemished record and a politician with a wide acquaintance in Davenport and in Iowa.

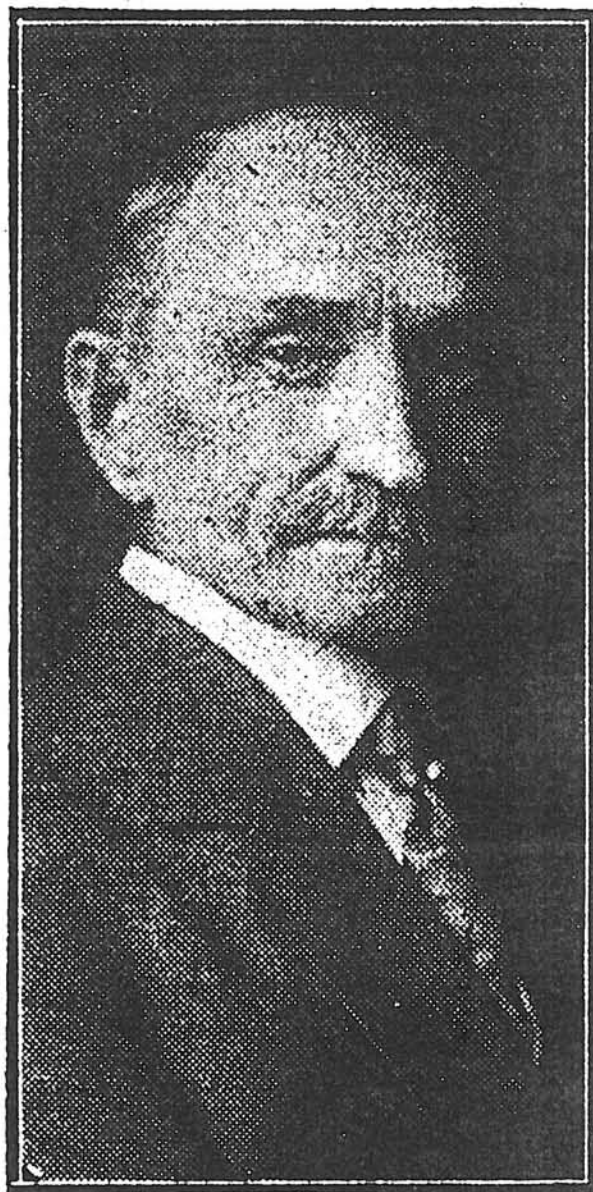

On Christmas day Dr. De Armand was taken sick while at the dinner table. He went to bed and his condition soon became so critical that his physician's skill told him he had but a short time to live. He calmly wrote detailed instructions on the care of his body after death, the funeral and burial.

The deceased expressed the wish that no flowers be sent, that his body be incinerated, that the body be removed to the undertaking parlors as soon after death as possible, and that no one should view the remains. What undertaker should be employed and who the pallbearers should be was also specified. The family has observed to the letter this last request.

Dr. DeArmand had been in poor health for over a year. In February of 1916 he was taken sick and has never since then been in good health. Even while sick and confined to his bed he continued to minister to several patients, diagnosing their ailments and prescribing treatment.

In addition to practicing in Davenport for over 27 years and in LeClaire for 13 years Dr. De Armand held one of the governing reins in the Democratic party for many years and also bed he continued to minister to several patients, diagnosing their ailments and prescribing treatment.

In addition to practicing in Davenport for over 27 years and in LeClaire for 13 years Dr. De Armand held one of the governing reins in the Democratic party for many years and also occupied many public offices. As county physician for several terms beginning in 1891 he carried out several reforms in the treatment of the poor. He made regular inspection trips to the county home and to Mercy hospital.

Mr. De Armand's next public office was that of alderman of the Fifth ward, to which place he was elected on the Democratic ticket. He served two terms. He was also elected to the state legislature and served in the Thirty-second and Thirty-third general assemblies. Mr. De Armand was the nominee against I. S. Pepper for congress on the Democratic ticket and in 1915 was the Democratic nominee against Alfred C. Mueller for mayor. He was also on the board of insane commissioners.

Throughout his long political career Dr. De Armand was a warm personal friend of the late J. J. Richardson, publisher of The Democrat. He was correspondent of The Democrat for many years at LeClaire when that city was one of the most important shipping towns on the Mississippi river.

The funeral will be held at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the rooms of Trinity lodge of the Masonic order of which the deceased was a member. The Masonic ritual will be read by E. M. White. Rt. Rev. Marmaduke Hare, dean of Trinity cathedral, will officiate at the Davenport crematorium.

The pallbearers will be Dr. W. A. Stoecks, Dr. W. L. Allen, Dr. E. O. Ficke, Dr. P. H. Schroeder, C. H. Murphy and Capt. Walter A. Blair.

John A. De Armand was born March 7, 1852, at Hollidaysburg, Pa. Together with his parents he came to Scott county at the age of 12 years. His father ran a farm on Ripley street. He attended the old No. 1 school, now Washington school, and the old high school at Sixth and Main streets.

After finishing his work there Dr. De Armand entered the college of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania where he finished a three

JURORS EXCUSED UNTIL TOMORROW

Case of Christenia Set for 9 A. M. by M. F. Donegan

The dismissal and postponement of several cases noted for the Scott county court this morning resulted in trial jurors, who were excused at 2 p. m. being excused tomorrow when the first jury will be called.

Judge Donegan assigned Jennie Christenia vs. V. Kaufmann appears for the plaintiff and F. A. Cooper for the defendant.

The plaintiff is seeking $684.84 alleged due on account of nursing, service, lodgings, drugs and medical improvements made on defendant by the plaintiff.

A writ of attachment was secured by the plaintiff against defendant, and the defendant filed answer and counterclaim damages in the sum of $1,000.

The petition states that the plaintiff entered the home of the defendant on Jan. 3, 1916, and remained there until June 21, 1916. The plaintiff charges that the defendant was sick during this time and that the plaintiff was paid for nursing services for $610.71 for nursing.
