GREAT LOSS TO COMMUNITY IN NOTABLE DEATH

Frank S. Payne Dies Unexpectedly Today At Age Of 63 Years

A death which fell with crushing force, not only because of its unexpectedness but also because of the prominence and wide diversity of interests of the one taken, was that of Frank S. Payne, which occurred about nine o'clock this morning, Thursday, April 13, at the home on Drake Avenue. He had been in his ordinary health apparently up to the time he left his office at the Iowa Southern Utilities Co. building about six o'clock last evening where he was in conference with E. F. Bulmahn discussing plans for a business trip they were to make to Chicago the latter part of the week. He retired in his usual spirits, bidding Mrs. Payne the usual good night. About 4:30 this morning she was awakened by some commotion in his room adjoining where he was in considerable pain and had dropped to the floor after arising. Doctors were called and he was made more comfortable. Later in the morning he conversed some, apparently believing the attack was diminishing. But about nine o'clock, shortly after the doctor had counted his pulse and taken his blood pressure, both of which seemed to have become fairly satisfactory, he suddenly was taken with the fatal attack. Death was due to a gall bladder disturbance which manifested itself after it had been considered of no serious consequence since a somewhat serious attack many years ago. Heart complications were the direct cause of death.

It is with mingled emotions that one undertakes to record the story of such an eventful life as that of Frank S. Payne. His aspirations for his city have been parallel with virtually all of the notable achievements of this community during the years of his Huron, S. D., Apr. 13 (UP)—A girl and a man were slightly injured today when four band bandits opened fire with a machine gun as they fled after failing in an attempt to rob the Security State bank.

Entering the institution shortly before the opening hour, the robbers were unable to get any money because the vault was held fast by a time lock.

INFLATION TO THE FRONT IN CONGRESS NOW

Leaders In Both Houses Face Task Holding Members In Line

Washington, April 13 (UP)—The long-suffered congressional drive for inflation boiled to the surface today as the $8,000,000,000 Frazier currency expansion and farm mortgage relief plan was pressed in house and senate.

Administration leaders in both chambers faced a real task in beating back the determined efforts of a growing western insurgent bloc to write the North Dakota senator's proposal into the Roosevelt farm bill.

The leaders were confident they would defeat the inflationists. The inflationists, while not overly hopeful for success of the Frazier plan, believed their drive would force the administration to take a specific stand on the currency question.

Trailing comet-like in the wake of the heavily-backed Frazier proposal was a hastily resurrected 16 to 1 silver coinage proposal by Senator Wheeler, Dem., Mont. Senator Thomas, Dem., Okla., announced he would seek a vote on a dollar devaluation scheme.

In the house, Rep. Boukhan, Rep., Wis., served notice he would seek a roll call today on the Frazier plan as a substitute for the president's farm mortgage reamending bill. The report contends that inflation to increase prices and reduce the value of debts in

GRANDPARENT HALTS FATHER AND GIRL HERE

Arthur Hopper Stopped with Daughter By Mother-in-Law

Can a father kidnap his own daughter?

While the warrant held by Des Moines officers who last night called here for Arthur Hopper, age 55, of near Kirksville, Mo., and his 7-year-old daughter, Virginia Maxine, was sworn out on the grounds of disturbing the peace, it was understood that one of the most unusual cases to come to the attention of county officials here in some time, yesterday, grew out of the fight of a father and a grandmother for custody of a child.

Yesterday afternoon at 3:30 Deputy Sheriff Ray Brunson received a telephone call from H. W. Taylor, Polk county deputy sheriff at Des Moines, asking him to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet car in which a young man was taking a seven year old girl into Missouri. Mr. Brunson posted himself at the Shell oil station at Washington and Haynes avenue and waited there for an hour or so when by an odd coincidence the car which he was seeking, was driven into the station for gas.

The machine was owned and driven by William Grant of Kirksville, Mo. He had with him a man and woman, whom he described as friends who had just gone along for the ride, and Hopper and the seven year old girl. All were taken to the sheriff's office here and held while local officials got in touch with the Des Moines officers. The capital city orders were to release Grant and his friends but to hold Hopper and the little girl.

Father's Story
At the sheriff's office Hopper told his version of the so-called kidnaping to a reporter as follows:

Fourteen years ago he had married and married Estie Allen of Rice, Missouri. Two children were born, one a boy, who died six years ago. The other, a girl, Mrs. Hopper was taken ill and died. At the time she was first taken ill pressure, both of which seemed to have become fairly satisfactory, he suddenly was taken with the fatal attack. Death was due to a gall bladder disturbance which manifested itself after it had been considered of no serious consequence since a somewhat serious attack many years ago. Heart complications were the direct cause of death.

It is with mingled emotions that one undertakes to record the story of such an eventful life as that of Frank S. Payne. His aspirations for his city have been parallel with virtually all of the notable achievements of this community during the years of his active career here. He was Iowa born on a farm north of Mt. Pleasant, August 16, 1869, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Payne, notable people in their community, his father a Civil War soldier, both his parents of fine ancestry. He graduated from Iowa Wesleyan college at Mt. Pleasant in 1892, then took his law course at North western university law school Chicago, and located in Centerville which his rare ability of analysis and deduction convinced him even in 1894 had more than the usual possibilities. He was married October 8, 1896 to Grace Dickinson of Mt. Pleasant, and they came to Centerville to make their home.
 His interest in public affairs early impressed his associates and for two terms he was chosen to represent Appanoose county in the general assembly at Des Moines.
 This provided the foundation for a state wide acquaintance that he continually widened through life until he was one of the best known men in Iowa, and one of the most highly regarded for his sound political and business counsel. Friends at various times urged him to become a candidate for congress, and he was offered political appointment of great responsibility by Governor Kendall, which he declined because his desire to serve his state did not lead him to desire political honor for himself, but only the opportunity to be a helpful factor wherever opportunity permitted.
 It is significant that when a few years ago the task was undertaken of naming the fifty most influential men in Iowa Frank S.
 Payne was readily selected as one of that number.

Always Public Spirited

It was a constant characteristic of Mr. Payne that he wanted to be in position to be of help to others. He believed in doing right for right's sake and in being brotherly to all people because he had a high ideal of service. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, the Masonic lodge, of the Elks lodge, the Kiwanis club, the Country club, and the Des Moines club.
 He had for many years interested himself in the Association of Com-the inflationists, while not overly hopeful for success of the Frazier plan, believed their drive would force the administration to take a tion.

 of the heavily-backed Frazier proposal was a hastily resurrected nounced he would seek a vote on a dollar devaluation scheme.

In the house, Rep. Bollean, Rep., Wis., served notice he would seek a roll call today on the Frazier plan as a substitute for the president's farm mortgage refinancing bill. The new prairie bloc supporting him contends that inflation to increase prices and reduce the value of debts in terms of commodities is the only practical way of helping the farmer.

The Frazier bill proposes to have the federal government assume all farm mortgages. To do this, the government would issue more than $8,000,000,000 of bonds.
 If possible, these bonds would be floated in the open market, but not even the most optimistic proponents expect this could be done.
 When public sale failed, the government would turn the bonds over to the federal reserve system which would issue currency with the obligations as basis. The farm debt would be amortized, with 1-1-2 per cent of the principal coming due each year and interest payable at the same rate.

 Work On Farms

Des Moines, Ia., April 13 (UP)— Spring planting was again delayed in Iowa when frost and freezing temperatures with threats of rain or snow were forecast for tonight.

Federal meteorologist Charles D.
 Reed predicted possible rain or snow in the extreme southeastern section of the state and frost and freezing temperatures over the state.

Temperatures will range from around 20 in the northern section of the state to 30 in the southeastern. Temperatures in the center will be slightly higher, Reed said.

The highest temperatures reported yesterday was 69 at Burlington and Clarinda with the lowest 28 at Inwood. Traces of precipitation were reported in the southeastern section with Albia giving the only measurable report of .05 inches.

RICH ORE VEIN FOUND ON LAND WHICH SOLD LOW

Nevada Property Which Sold For $150 Found to Contain Vein of Gold and Silver

Virginia City, Nev., April 13.—(U. P.)—A new bonanza—purchased for a paltry $150—was unearthed in this historic mining town today.
Under a dilapidated old house, perched on the sides of Mt. Davidson where a half century ago bonanza kings took out hundreds of millions in silver and gold, ore as rich as that of the 60's and 70's was discovered. It was said to assay at better than $500 per ton.
Unemployed miners, turned house wreckers for a day's wages, discovered first signs of the new bonanza deposit. They were wrecking a shed for fire wood. In the rock foundation of this building ore rich in silver and gold was found.
They took samples of the ore to Oscar Lewis, superintendent of the once world-famous consolidated Virginia mine from which Mackay, Fair, Flood and O'Brien took out more than $175,000,000. The consolidated Virginia is a half block distant.
Lewis had the specimens assayed and sent the miners back for more. New samples confirmed the first assays. This was bonanza ore.
Then Lewis bought the old house and lot for $150. The owner, an unemployed miner, was glad to sell. He had never thought to examine the quartz rock in his front yard.
Examination of the house's cellar and trenches dug in the yard disclosed rich deposits of ore. A cross-cut tunnel under the house pierced a vein 12 feet wide with a core approximately a foot wide of almost free gold and silver.
The amount of the ore, across 12 feet, is estimated from assays at $50 a ton. The center core which may develop into a large pocket with further tunneling, assays at more than $500 a ton, Lewis said.

merce where he had served as director and president being especially devoted in war time to the many activities carried on thru the organization and in the many war drives. He was a major factor in the acquiring and improving of the Country club grounds, and building the fine new club house. He took a decided interest in the development of the fine road system that now covers southern Iowa and was a prime factor in disseminating information and putting forth effort for the splendid roads we now have in Appanoose county. He exhibited his willingness for public service by accepting election to the city council, and was instrumental in getting the excellent approaches the primary roads now have to the city from the east, north and west. He later saw these highways leading out over paved roads to give Centerville connection with the outside world. He also did much to set Centerville city finances in order and has given much aid along that line in county and state affairs.

Large Business Interests

Ordinarily one who had achieved so much in the business world as had Mr. Payne would have his accomplishments in that line mentioned first. But it has seemed to the writer that while he was a notable success in that regard that with him his own interests were always subordinated to the public good, so his business career is mentioned last.

His most noteworthy business connection has been with the development of the Iowa Southern Utilities company. He became attorney for the small company operating the gas plant here early in his legal career. In 1902 he was elected president of the Citizen's Electric Light and Gas Co., which was then directed by the Campbell interests. That year the company purchased the horse car line and built the electric railway in Centerville. Electric cars were put in operation in November 1902. In 1905 the company became the Centerville Light & Traction Co., he continuing as its president. In 1908 D. C. Bradley purchased the capital stock and began a great expansion movement. The first was the financing and building of the Mystic Interurban line which was opened to traffic in April 1910. Southern Iowa Traction Co. line to Albia and electrified it, passenger cars starting in August 1914

Bradley sold their interests to the D. G. Fisher Co. of Davenport and from then until 1923 Mr. Payne had no official relation to the company though he continued in an advisory capacity. In December 1923 he became vice-president and general counsel and has so continued ever since, being closely connected with the Bechtel interests which have been prominent in the company. The company has continually expanded until now it serves in 25 counties, in 120 towns direct and about 20 more indirectly by furnishing current, and is recognized as one of the leading utility companies of Iowa. It stands a monument to the initial vision and courage of Frank S. Payne who started it on its way to expansion and success, by that early faith he had in Centerville and this territory and because of his belief that one can well serve his community by building up its industries.

Other Business Interests

The other business interests of Mr. Payne have been of an extensive type. He was largely instrumental in 1924 in effecting consolidation of three banks which now exist as the Centerville National of which he has been president throughout that period. He was an active factor in organizing and developing the Pure Ice Co. of which he was president and of the Centerville Clay Products of which he was also president. While his business interests have been large and varied he has maintained an interest in his original profession of the law all this time and has for many years been counsel for the C. B. & Q. railway as well as of the Iowa Southern Utilities Co.

Family Connections

He leaves besides his wife, an older brother Clyde W. Payne, of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Beck, of Ottumwa. Another sister, Mrs. Blanche Dutton died some years ago.

He was a man who despite all his business and legal responsibilities took great delight in his home and relatives. He enjoyed the family gatherings, the younger folks of his own relationship and of the families of friends, and was ever on the alert to be of helpful service to those in need or distress, and took special interest in being helpful in families where death had come. He gave much time and thought to aiding those deprived of counsel by death in helping them with their business affairs. He took much pleasure in travel, having made an extensive cruise to European and eastern lands some years ago, and the United States and Canada. He was a reader of good books, especially of travel and biography. He was

 In 1916 they built transmission electrified Streepy and No. 30

 It was in 1916 that the company became the Iowa Southern Utiliis equipped with all machinery for working in metals and does a large business in placing heating plants. Likewise it makes a specialty of mining machinery and general repair work. HON. FRANK S. PAYNE.

Grandfather Henry Payne was a native of the great state of Virginia and was one of the early settlers of Iowa, settling in Henry county of that state in 1835, before the territory had been made into a state. The father of the immediate subject of this sketch, Charles W. Payne, was born in Henry county, Iowa; his wife was Margaret Patton, who was born near Wheeling, West Virginia; her father, Matthew Patton, was also a pioneer of Iowa, and after returning to Virginia for a time, he took up his permanent residence in Henry county. Charles W. Payne has spent most of his life in the pursuit of agriculture and now owns and conducts a fine farm in Henry county, raising a great number of stock and making extensive deals in buying and shipping the same. He has been a staunch and loyal Republican and has served two terms in the lower branch of the Iowa legislature. There are four children in the family, two sons and two daughters.

Frank S. Payne, the oldest son of this family, first saw the light on a farm near Mount Pleasant, Henry county, Iowa, August 16, 1869. He passed his boyhood days on the farm and attended the country schools. He then was sent to his uncle, a lawyer in Bushnell, Illinois, and there graduated from the high school at the age of fifteen years.

From there he entered Iowa Wesleyan University at Mount Pleasant, and was graduated in 1892. Having decided upon the profession of law, he entered the Northwestern University Law School at Chicago and completed his course in 1894. In the same year he was admitted to the bar in both Iowa and Illinois, and in the fall of that year located at Centerville, where he began the practice which he has since carried on so successfully.

Besides attending to his large clientage, Mr. Payne has taken an active interest in political affairs. In the fall of 1899 he was elected on the Republican ticket as representative in the lower house of the state legislature and was re-elected in 1901. By a curious coincidence he served his first term in the house just twenty years after his father had held the same place. The part that he took in the affairs of legislation was very creditable to him. In 1896 Mr. Payne was married to Miss Grace Dickison, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa. He and his wife are members of the Presbyterian church and are valued and respected members of society, always ready to do their share toward advancing any good cause.

JOHN McFARLAND, M. D.

The medical profession probably has more opportunities and gives a wider field for studious research and beneficent work in the interests of humanity than any other great calling that now occupies the attention of men's endeavors. The ranks of the profession have a valuable addition in the person of John McFarland, who is one of the leading practitioners of Centerville, Iowa. His parents were George and Elizabeth (Solms) McFarland. The former was a native of Edinburgh,
