HON. W. W. MORROW
DIES SUDDENLY

One of Our Oldest and Most Highly Respected Citizens Passes Away Tuesday Morning

The blow which the people of this community had wished could be spared us, has fallen. Our best known and most beloved citizen has gone on that long journey from whence no traveler has returned. For almost sixty years he has been a leading citizen of this community, county and state. His life was so interwoven with the affairs of our community and state that it is impossible yet to realize that all that is left of him is a lovmemory and an influence for good that will last as long as there is one living who know him.

As we pass in and out among the people of this community it seems that every person feels that he has lost a close personal friend. And this is true. His friendship knew no bounds. He was just as helpful and loyal to the poor and lowly as to those who occupied high places and he had the power to make them feel and know that he was sincere in his friendship.

Willison White Morrow was born January 4, 1849 in Guernsey county Ohio, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrow. His mother's maiden name was Elizabeth Roberts and it was a rather unusual coincident that when he was a young man he had three brothers and four sisters, of which he was the youngest and the last to leave this life. He came to this county in 1864 and settled on the farm which is now known as Burr Oak farm, which remained the family home until twenty years ago they moved to their present home in Afton. This has been his home since 1864, although they resided in Des. Moines six years during the time he was state treasurer which was between the years 1906 to 1912.

He was married to Elizabeth Roberts December 14, 1869, who survives him. One child, a daughter was born to them, who died at the age of two years. They raised two children, Dr. E. E. Roberts, who died about two years ago and Mrs. Effie Taylor whose home is in Pacific Grove, Calif.

He was prominent in public life serving in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth state legislatures. He collected the state fair he has been one of the leading spirits. First as a director

WILLISON W. MORROW

The Giant of the Forest has fallen. The FIRST CITIZEN of Union County and south-west Iowa, one of the best known and most beloved men in the state on Tuesday morning. Just at the break of day, answered the last great summons that awaits us all.

In his seventy fourth year, like a ripened sheaf of good golden wheat gathered for the Great Harvest, Will Morrow, as he was lovingly known to thousands of Iowans, folded his tent, said good bye to earth and friends and entered unfraild into the Great Beyond. He was ready for the call.

In those last moments when his noble wife sought to minister to him he looked up into her face and said "Lib, this is the last." He was a prince among men. He was the very soul of honor and integrity and loved his word as he did his life. Once given it was never broken. He kept it religiously. A more loyal, unselfish and devoted friend never lived. He was one of those rare characters who gave back to those around him far more than he received. Recently the writer said to him "Will, I can never hope to repay you in this world for all your kindnesses." He answered, "They are already paid and forgotten" and they were. Appreciation was all that he cared for. It was the supreme delight of his life to do some kindly, helpful act for another. No man ever lived in Union County who did more of these things. I am sure all who knew him will agree upon this as the one outstanding characteristic of his long life. IT WILL BE HIS MONUMENT towering above all the many other splendid things he accomplished. It kept his life full of sunshine to the last. If every one for whom he did some kindly act could bring a flower and a tear to his bier, it would be a tribute such as we have never seen before in our midst. It would be a long procession of both old and young, of rich and poor, of high and low, for he made no distinction save that he delighted most in helping those who needed it most, particularly some young person who was making a sincere effort to get a foot hold on the highway of life. Youth had a magic appeal to him. Only Sunday, in spite of his illness, he went to church to teach his class of young men that he delighted to call "his boys". Monday evening he urged Mrs. Morrow to attend a meeting giving to the mothers. Returning home she found him with his lesson leaf and bible preparing for next Sunday. The subject is "Isaiah's Summons and Response" and the Golden Text, "Here am I, send me." How beautiful and appropriate for that last evening on earth, sitting by the fire place in the old home. With this thought he retired for the night. He will not teach the class next Sunday. His work is finished here. "His boys" will miss him, but they have the memory and inspiration of his exemplary life calling them to follow on Union county will miss him and she weeps today as one household. He will be greatly missed at state gatherings, for he was known to and esteemed by nearly every public man in Iowa. He loved the fellowship of his friends and was one of the most companionable men I ever knew. Afton stands to near her great loss today to the community. He was a man of great and noble character and in that community had been sacred to him by whose passing is a great loss to community, county and commonwealth. But he has finished the fight and kept the faith. Kept the faith with all his fellowmen and with his Maester upon whom he leaned.

Will Morrow is gone. Loving hands today will tenderly lay his body beside the little one that has so long preceded him and was ever beckoning him on. But his life will live and ere long we hope and believe we shall again be able to say "Good Morning, Will". With countless others we weep, we mourn the loss of the best friend we ever knew.

C. H. THOMAS,
Creston, Iowa.

MR. MORROW

My heart is sore. The death of Mr. Morrow comes to me as a personal loss. He was so fine, so kindly and for years he has been to me such a good friend. It is rare that one can have a real affection for a man outside of father, brother or son. But so many of us had just such an affection for Mr. Morrow.

He had become what we term wealthy in dollars and cents, and no man will say but what he got it honestly, but his real wealth was the endearment that so many people had for him. Friends are the rarest thing in the world and such friends as he had constitute the greatest wealth any man can have. So often have I visited with him when every hour was one of joy. So often have I heard him speak of people with such charity such depth of feeling that to me he became a beloved friend. All Iowa will mourn him. He had such a firm hold on thousands of people in this state, men and women of activity who knew him and who always had such respect for him, such confidence in him that they, too feel a deep personal loss.

He saw something good in humanity. There was no fault finding but always that kindness that characterizes the man of greatness of heart. His faith in the future was deep and everlasting. To him there was a message in the beauty of the stars, a word of hope in the recurring of the seasons and a trust in the goodness of God that was supreme. The mystery of all the wonderful universe is now to him a solved question. Many of the things that he would talk about would wonder as to the meaning of his heart. His splendid courage of manhood are given reward by a just God for if there was a man who made the world better by his being here that man was W. W. Morrow.

There is a recompense to all this sorrow because of the manner of his living. He gave hope to his friends, he helped make easy the hardest paths that beset the highway of life across the face of this gray old world and he left to all of us the richest heritage possible in the sweet memory we have of him in life.

It is not good-bye just a goodnight as he passes over, for we are standing on the shore of the river, a silver strand on which is strung jewels, the human hearts touched by God's infinite grace, dropping one by one into the silent stream always flowing on and on, until, finally the tide of Time washes all to the opposite shore where there is peace and rest, joy and life. The state historical society of Iowa weeks, months or years, but an infinitude of beauty and of glory measured

THAYER LAKE IS BEING IMPROVED

A great Deal of Work is Being Done to Make a Resort—Roads Around the Lake.

During the past few weeks deal of work has been done Thayer lake getting it in that people can enjoy an out this summer. Two corduroy have been built and another be built, thus enabling cars clear around the lake. The underbrush has been cleared, the trees trimmed up, making fine place for people to go days outing. To make a considerable work besides the building of the bridges. Practically all around grading had to be done culverts had to be built care of the drainage and a large number of trees had to be grubbed also brush cut and debris but they are getting well along work.

Soon they expect to begin building of bath houses, for thousands of people who go there every summer. Some way will be arranged so that will be taken care of in a way will be satisfactory to all. Those who will want to go there for a day, others for only a few while some want to go there camp for a few days.

He was prominent in public life serving in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth general assemblies. In the state fair he has been one of the leading spirits. First as a director and later as president. To him is given the credit of having made the state fair the success it is today. When he took the presidency it was hardly worthy of the name of a state fair. After retiring from the state treasurer's office he was elected as treasurer of the fair association and remained in that office until his death. Three years as director, four years as president and nine years as treasurer, a record worthy to be proud of.

In our local community he has been a leader. This was evidenced by the fact that he has been president of the Business Club almost continuously since its organization. A short time after his return from Des Moines, he was elected to that position and with the exception of one year has held the office.

In a political way he has been a power in the state. His advice was always sought and his influence felt. He tried at all times to see good men selected for office and the record he leaves is worthy of him and a delightful memory to his relatives and friends.

All Afton mourns him. Our loss is the greatest, aside from his immediate family, for he was so close to all of us that it is personal. We mourn for our loss and not for him, for he has passed on to an eternal reward and we would not recall him if it was our power to do so. He has tasted of the joys of eternal life.

The funeral service will be held this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the late home, conducted by Dr. A. E. Kephord of Toledo, Iowa. Dr. Kephord has been a friend of Mr. Morrow for many years and it was his request that the service be by him. Interment will be made in Graceland.

Every brook and lane, every hill and shade in that community had been sacred to him by an intimate association of close to sixty years. His parents were pioneers and he loved God's Great Outdoors. He was supremely loyal to his home community, but he was broad and ever willing to help anywhere he could and the very day he died it had been planned for him to accompany a number of Creston citizens to Des Moines to throw the weight of his influence in behalf of a much needed improvement here. He answered every call to service and did it with a joy that removed all embarrassment from the asking. Hundreds of times he saw first the opportunity to assist or honor some friend and brought to them the first knowledge of it.

He would protest our saying he was without fault, but there was so little of it as to scarcely form a background for the big, helpful life he lived. He may not leave much wealth as some, but in unselfish deeds done to help others and make life's way for them easier and brighter, he was rich beyond compare. He died as he wished, active to the end. Visiting him Sunday evening we found him intensely interested in all the affairs of the community and state. But he had every detail prepared for the end he knew was near. He loved Iowa and the greatest agricultural fair in the world is due as much to his leadership and wise counsel as to any other man in the state.

But amid all his public service and success there was no place like the old home and it was an ideal one. The Morrow home was known over the state for its warm hospitality and his beloved wife shared equally with him in making it so. They were never happier than when surrounded by friends and the word "Welcome" rang through every room. He was a christian gentleman and ideal citizen has made a decided success of that industry. Mr. Leech was married February 20, 1866, to Rachel A. Courtney, daughter of George and Eacey J. Courtney, who came from Virginia to Iowa, in 1851, and settled in Lucas County. To Mr. and Mrs. Leech have been born six children—Preston M., died aged six years; Arthur A., Julia A., George C., Elmer E. and Roy, died in infancy. Mr. Leech has been trustee of his township eight years, and at present is serving as school director. He and his wife are members of the Congregational church.

W. MORROW, of the firm of Morrow Brothers, stock-dealers of Union Township, is a son of William Morrow who came to Union County with his family in 1864, purchasing 280 acres of the farm now occupied by the brothers. There were then about sixty acres improved. In 1871 the parents removed to Afton. William Morrow was born in Washington County, Pennsylvania, October 31, 1807, and grew to manhood in his native county. He removed to Guernsey County, Ohio, with his family, thence to Illinois, coming from Lawrence County, that State, to Union County. The children of William Morrow and wife are—Robert F., of San Francisco, California, a member of the Board of Trade of that city and a director of the Bank of California, was formerly interested in the mines, and his wealth is estimated at several millions; Mrs. Martha J. Bragg, of Union County; Mrs. Mary E. Lorimer, of Great Bend, Kansas; Mrs. Dorcas W. Hawkins, of Richland County, Illinois; Mrs. Esther Laughlin, who removed to Kansas after marriage, and has since died; William B., who was a soldier in the war of the Rebellion, as a member of the One Hundred and Twenty-second Ohio Infantry, and was lost at the battle of the Wilderness, and James C., who is associated with his brother W. W., in business. He resides in Kansas where the brothers have large farming and stock interests. W. W. has charge of the business interests of the firm in Union County. He was born in Guernsey County, Ohio, in 1849, and married Miss Mary E. Roberts, daughter of C. G. Roberts, of Union Township.

ISAAC K. WHITE, one of the early settlers of Union County, was born in Caledonia County, Vermont, August 10, 1825. His father, John White, was a native of Massachusetts, and his paternal grandfather was born in New Hampshire, and of Scotch-Irish ancestry. His maternal ancestry was of Dutch origin. William White, the grandfather, was a soldier of the Revolutionary war. John White married Sarah Kendall, and immediately immigrated to Vermont. They first settled in Washington County, and later went to Caledonia County. When Isaac K. was two years old his parents returned to Washington County, where they passed the remainder of their days. John White was twice married, Isaac being a child of the second marriage. His first wife was Lucy Blanchard. There were fifteen children by both marriages, fourteen of whom grew to maturity. The family consisted of eight sons and seven daughters. Four sons and four daughters are living. Only two of the family settled in Iowa; Stephen, who was the youngest child of the first marriage and our subject. Stephen came in 1855 and purchased a farm in Jones Township, where he lived until his death. Isaac K. was married in Manchester, New Hampshire, to Miss Elizabeth Gregg, who was born in Windham December 18, 1827. Her parents were Samuel and Janette (Dickey) Gregg, natives of New Hampshire, and of Scotch-Irish descent. Her father died when she was sixteen months old, and her mother afterward married David Dickey (not a relative). Mrs. White was reared in Manchester, where her

HON. WILLISON WHITE MORROW

Willison White Morrow was born January 4, 1849, in Guernsey county, Ohio, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrow. His mother's maiden name was Elizabeth Roberts, and it was a rather unusual coincident that when he came to select a life partner he should choose a lady of the same name. He had three brothers and four sisters, he being the youngest and the last to pass on.

He came to Union county, Iowa, in 1864 and settled on what is now known as Burr Oak Farm, which remained the family home until 1902, when they moved to Afton, Iowa. He and Mrs. Morrow made Afton their home for twenty years, except during the six years he was state treasurer.

He was married to Elizabeth Roberts, December 14th, 1869. A daughter was born to them who died at the age of two years. They raised two children, Dr. E. E. Roberts, who preceded Mr. Morrow in death two years, and Mrs. Effie Taylor of Pacific Grove, California.

He was elected as state representative from Union county and served in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth General Assemblies. In December, 1898, he was elected director of the State Agricultural Society and served until July 4, 1900, when he was elected as director of the State Board of Agriculture, serving in that position until December 10, 1902. He was then elected as president of the State Board of Agriculture and served until December 12, 1906. On January 1, 1907, he assumed the duties of state treasurer and served three terms in that office, or until January 1, 1913. On February 24, 1915, he was elected treasurer of the State Board of Agriculture and served in that position until his death.

Mr. Morrow was a leader, not only in his local community, but in the state. Always active in public life, his influence was always felt. He led a busy, useful life, but was never too busy to give heed to the voice of need, no matter whether it came from friend or foe. His great delight was in helping a fellow being over the rough places in life. During the last few years of his life he took a great delight in teaching a class of boys in Sunday School and the last thing he did on the evening before his death was to study the lesson for the following Sunday.

His death came suddenly on the morning of April 25th, 1922, at the family home in Afton and two days later his remains were laid to rest in Greenlawn cemetery.

It is our desire to quote briefly from a resolution by the State Board of Agriculture, passed shortly after his death, as an appreciation from his coworkers in that organization:

"The history of Iowa would be incomplete without the story of his life. The merit of his true worth and manly qualities were discovered in his early boyhood days. His nearest neighbors first learned to love him because of these qualities and soon his broadmindedness and unselfish motives found a place in the hearts of the citizenship of Union county and finally he became one of the great leaders of the state.

"The earliest recollections we have of Mr. Morrow was his association with men of true character and worth in the affairs of his time. His good judgment was consulted by his immediate friends, his agricultural associates, and his political adherents. The general welfare of Iowa, especially of the Eighth District, was never measured until it had his voice of sanction.

"As officers and directors of the State Board of Agriculture we were impressed by his frank address; his straightforward manner of living; and his plain confidence in the good fellowship of those with whom he met. He loved a true heart and discarded deceit and hypocrisy wherever found."

Be It Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Fortieth General Assembly: That in the passing of Hon. Willison W. Morrow, this assembly express its realization of the loss of one of the leaders in the state, a man of strong character and sterling worth, a man of high ideals in Christian living, and the House would tender by this resolution its sympathy to the family who survives.

Be It Further Resolved, That a duly enrolled copy of this resolution be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

W. J. COLBERT,
A. O. HAUGE,
S. E. FACKLER,

Committee.

Adopted April 12, 1923.

HON. JAMES ELERICK

MR. SPEAKER—Your committee appointed to prepare resolutions commemorating the life, character, and public service of the Honorable James Elerick, of Van Buren county, beg leave to submit the following report:

Captain James Elerick was born in Belmont county, Ohio, April 6, 1836, and died at Monrovia, California, August 7, 1922, aged 86 years, 2 months and 1 day. He came to Iowa with his parents in 1849 and
