Daily Appeal Heard in Every Hand.

no sentence in the language arouses such emotion or interests the soul of human nature so much as the above startling appeal heard at any time, day or night. It touches the chords of feeling that vibrate in every breast. Such appeals of daily occurrence reach the hearts of Fathers, Husbands, Wives, and even from the lips of themselves, at the National Institute, 18 west Fourth street, and not an appeal is more saving than those who come engulfed in the maelstrom of the liquor habit. The hand of mercy is extended to all who desire to rid themselves of the habit, and scores of men can testify their successful results from the treatment administered at the National Institute of this city, by the most efficient physicians, attending and other conveniences found. EX-SENATOR DEAL IS DEAD.

He Dropped Dead in His Garden of Heart Disease.

Ex-Senator J. K. Deal is dead.

He dropped dead of heart disease while at work in the rear of his residence, at the corner of Tenth and Clark streets, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Senator Deal was forty-nine years of age, and has been in ill health for some time. He formerly lived at Carroll, and represented the counties of Green, Carroll and Calhoun in the Twenty-first and Twenty-second general assemblies. His term expired a short time ago, and he removed to Des Moines intending to make it his future home. When death suddenly summoned him he was at work in his wife's flower garden. He had a shovel in his hand. His wife saw him fall and ran to him and cried for help, but he soon expired.

The deceased was a member of the G. A. R. and was high up in masonry. The notice of the time and place of holding the funeral will be made later.

John K. Deal was born in Livingston county, New York. When a boy of 15 his parents moved to Indiana and he received a collegiate education at Fort Wayne. At the age of 17 he enlisted and served two years, but was released from service on account of heart trouble. He came to Iowa in 1867 and settled in Carroll county, being one of the pioneers. He served in the Iowa senate in 1886 and 1888. In November, 1869, he married Miss Julia M. Gilley, who survives him. Two children, Laura K., aged 18, and Winifred, aged 13, are also mourners over the death of a kind father.

Production of Iron and Steel.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The annual statistical report of the American Iron and Steel Association, just issued, says: The production of pig iron in 1891 was 1,063,573 net tons less than in 1890, a decrease of ten per cent. The production of Bessemer steel ingots was 494,428 net tons less, a decrease of twelve per cent. The production of open hearth steel was 649,323 net tons, an increase of nearly thirteen per cent. The production of Bessemer steel rails was 649,759 net tons less than in 1890, a decrease of over thirty per cent, but the production of all rolled iron and steel, other than rails, was only 60,235 tons less than in 1890. The production of iron and steel cut nails in 1891 was 638,770 kegs less than in 1890, but the production of wire nails 978,475 kegs, and of wire rods 89,049 tons, greater supplemental report in which the recommendation is made that the questions at issue in the transfer of Dr. Briggs to the chair of biblical theology was not an election according to the legal requirements. They add that the board in 1870 conceded one thing, and one only, to the general assembly—the right to disapprove of the election or appointment of a professor according to the laws of the institution, Dr. Briggs was not elected to the chair. A memorial from the seminary was also presented, in which it was set forth that the assembly last year transcended its power in such way as to inflict serious wrong upon the seminary. The veto of Dr. Briggs was the first test applied to the agreement of 1870, and it has proved disturbing to the peace and harmony of the church. The efficacy of the veto to protect the church from heretical teaching is emphatically denied. The directors say they are charged with a trust that must be kept inviolate, adding: "Our loyalty alike to the church and Union Seminary constrains us to believe it would be better for both the church and the seminary, that the relations which existed harmoniously between the two for more than a third of a century before 1870 should now be restored." This can be done without altering the Presbyterian character of the institution, for it was Presbyterian before the veto was granted.

SENATOR DEAL DEAD

Ex-Senator John K. Deal, Formerly a Well-Known Resident of this City

Stricken by the Grim Destroyer at His Home in Des Moines

And Without Warning is Taken From this Vale of Tears at 8 o'clock Monday Morning

Special to the Sentinel.

DES MOINES, May 23. — Ex-Senator John K. Deal, formerly of Carroll county, dropped dead at his residence in this city about 8 o'clock this morning. Senator Deal had been up to a week ago confined to his home for some time with rheumatism in his foot, but for several days past has been able to be out, so that his death comes without warning, although not wholly unexpected for several years past.

[John K. Deal was one of Carroll county's oldest and most respected citizens. As long ago as 1868 he was superintendent of schools, at the time the county seat was moved from Carrollton to Carroll. He was born in New York state in 1848, going from there to Indiana, where he enlisted in company C, eighty-eighth Indiana infantry in 1862, making an honorable record as a soldier. He came to Carroll county in the spring of 1867, being elected county superintendent the next fall, conducting the first teachers' institute ever held in the county. In 1868 he was elected clerk of the courts, serving four years. After that time he engaged in a general law, banking and real estate business until he was elected state senator in 1885. Shortly after the expiration of his term as senator in 1890, he moved to Des Moines with his family where they have since resided.]

MISTOOK HIS MAN.

The young man in our city that attempted to play marshal Thursday evening with the couple from Scranton came to grief and was worsted in the contest and arraigned before the mayor and fined $10 and cost for his fun.

The circumstances of the affair as we learn them are as follows: Thursday night an elderly gentleman and a young man went into Todd & McAllister's lunch room about 11 o'clock and called for a lunch. A couple of Carroll men concluded they would have some fun with the old gentlemen and entered the lunch room and one of them informed the old man that he was an officer and was going to arrest him and it would be necessary to search him for concealed weapons. He began to feel of the old man's clothing, when the young companion of the old man demanded to see his authority. Hot words followed and finally came to blows. The would-be marshal got the worst of it and then told the young man from Scranton that if he would go out doors he would proceed to do him up in the latest and most approved style. The challenge was promptly accepted and although the Scranton man waited outside the Carrollite would not put in an appearance. When the visitor re-entered the room the would be marshal struck him on the head with a poker. The two clinched and the Scranton man was getting the best of it when the spectators parted the two contestants and the marshal put in an appearance and placed the Carroll man under arrest. The fun did not terminate as happily as they had anticipated and in the future they will size up their man a little better.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

J. R. WHITNEY BUYS AN INTEREST IN THE CARROLL BOOT AND SHOE COMPANY AND WILL TAKE AN ACTIVE PART IN THE MANAGEMENT.

The above deal has been on the tapis for some time, the only question at issue between Mr. Whitney and G. H. Austin, whose stock Mr. Whitney purchased, being the amount of premium to be paid for the stock. The business of this institution has passed the experimental stage and Mr. Austin realizes that he is
