When the baby talks, it is time to give Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. It's the greatest baby medicine known to loving mothers. It makes them eat, sleep and grow. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Dr. Connolly.

Mrs. Maud Allen of Cresco spent several days the last of the with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kuder, south of town.....Mrs Fred Hill and daughters went Saturday night to Portage, Wis., where they will visit for some time with relatives and friends..... "Bobby" Hughes, who has been working at Postville for the past two months, came home Sunday and went to work Monday morning for Mr. French in the hardware store.—Lime Springs Record.

Several of the Howard County teachers have started their work at summer schools, or are planning to attend later. Among them are: Valeria and Gladys Lawson, at Winona, Minn.; Mathilda Dell, at Cedar Falls; Mary Evans and Zina Fessenden, at Fayette; Abbie Watson, Florence Magill, and Marguerite Moore, at Cedar Falls; Lydia Clark, at Highland Park, Des Moines; Edna Pickett, at Southern Minnesota Normal, Austin.—Howard County Teacher.

A. O. Jacobs is using about four carloads of tile this year, most of it on the eighty he bought of John Burke and some on the home farm. Mr. Jacobs estimates that the extra yield of two crops of corn will pay for the tilling.....A deal was closed last week through Peavey & Holmes whereby George Shellhammer sold his farm to Bryce Seavy, taking in on the deal Mr. Seavy's meat market, furniture, fixtures and tools. Mr. Shellhammer then sold the meat market building to Frank Green, who will use it as a blacksmith shop. Pratt & Drew bought the slaughter house and part of the tools, and Robt Cooper bought the balance. This closes the Seavy shop and leaves Riceville with two meat-markets. George Shellhammer has bought land in Montana and we understand contemplates moving out there. He will give possession of the farm to Mr. Seavy on November 1st.—Riceville Recorder.

Rev. C. A. Marshall Dead.

Wednesday forenoon the sad and startling news of the sudden death from heart failure of Rev. C. A. Marshall was the topic of conversation on every hand, his death coming almost without preliminary warning. Mr. Marshall arose that morning at about five o'clock and complained of not feeling well and at breakfast time did not feel well enough to eat, but later partook of his breakfast and walked out in his yard examining the destruction done his plants and shrubbery by the storm of the previous day. He sat down on a lawn settee to rest and later went to the porch to sit in the shade and he must have felt an attack of illness coming on, for when picked up where he had fallen on the porch all appearances indicated that when stricken he was endeavoring to enter the house. He never recovered consciousness and immediately passed away at about 9 o'clock.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Congregational church.

At the time of his death, no one but his eldest daughter and hired man were about the place, but his two sons, O. A. Jr., and Anthony were immediately summoned. Two of his daughters recalled from visits they were making, arrived yesterday morning. Another son, Charles arrived Wednesday evening in response to the sad summons.

A Terrific Hail Storm.

The vicinity of Cresco experienced a terrific hail storm Tuesday afternoon which caused enormous damage to growing crops, fruit and berries. The hail commenced falling in the vicinity of Frank Klinge's and before Cresco was reached the fury of the storm was at its height. The path of the storm extended from near Zach Kapler's on the west and easterly as far as the Sutton farm, and northeasterly past Plymouth Rock to the Minnesota line.

The greatest damage was done to the barley and rye fields, although much of the corn is practically destroyed. J. E. Doolittle is plowing under his rye, not one stem in a hundred being left standing. Berry patches and truck gardens are about put out of business. In town, in addition to the damage to

A New Electric Road for Howard County, Iowa.

A movement has been started by the people of the vicinity of Proctor to build a new electric road which will run through the southern part of Howard County and connect with some of the stations along the C. & St. P. road.

A committee has been appointed under the presidency of Rev. J. W. Lakomy, of Protivin, to thoroughly discuss the matter and to devise a plan and means whereby the success of the road is to be insured.

A mass meeting of all people interested in the matter has been called for Protivin for July 4th, on the occasion Prof. F. A. Bouska, of Iowa State College, will explain the necessity of building the road.

Protivin being a thriving town located in the very heart of a farming country, but 12 or 14 miles from the next railroad station, it is evident that the projected road would be a great aid in the transportation of farm products and also add to the comfort of the people in general. For these reasons, the people are anxious to have the road and are willing to help the company to the very best of their ability.

The desire of the people of the whole vicinity is to have such a road by means of which it would be easy for them to reach Cresco, county seat.

As this would mean an increase in business for this city, we think it proper for all the people of Cresco to gladly join hands with those of Protivin in having this long cherished project realized.

MARRIED.

This evening in Elma, will place the wedding of Miss Florine Church, of that place, and Mr. T. Young, the popular assistant cashier of the Second National Bank of Elma. The wedding will be a quiet affair, only immediate relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom being invited.

The bride is a stranger to most of our readers, but we know who she is. We learned that she is possessed
