His Wife Finds Him Dead In Greenhouse—Note Explains Motive

READ OF BRANDEGEE'S DEATH

Fear of ending his life in the insane asylum caused James Snook, age 73, to take his own life Wednesday morning at about 9:30. He used a 12 gauge shotgun. He was found by his wife in the greenhouse lying on his back with both hands on his chest and the single barrel shotgun across his body. Mrs. Snook thought his eyes were still moving, but it had been quite a while since she had heard the shot, before she went to the greenhouse to look for him. Two hats were under his head, forming a pillow. He evidentially layed on his back holding the muzzle of the gun to his heart and pulling the trigger with the other hand or with his foot. His shoes were off, the shirt unbuttoned and the barrel placed against the body. The hand holding the muzzle of the gun was powder burned. The charge made a round hole in his body but did not go through.

Note Explains Motive

A note found after the coroner arrived explained his reason for wanting to end his life. It was pinned on a sack hanging on a post in the greenhouse. "To My Dear Wife Alice: I am fast losing my mind, it is fast passing away. I prefer death to an insane asylum, don't worry over me. Roy, take good care of mother. To my dear loving Virgil Codner, good-bye and to my dear wife and Roy." On the bottom of the note was a notice requesting them to have Eicher's conduct the funeral and not to allow everyone to see him. Mrs. Snook said he had often warned her as he did this morning that if she did not see him for some time to look for him. He had the gun out in the greenhouse for a month, as he explained it, shoot black birds.

she got up. They had breakfast and he worked around for a while, then read the paper and commented on the

that he may have been killed by the servants and not taken his own life.
He then said he was going out in the field and that if he remained away too long, she should look for him. Later Mrs. Snook heard a noise sounding like a shot but thought it was the neighbors killing

INSPECT YOUR SEED CORN NOW

Annual Meeting in New London Twp.
Will Be Held At J. A. Randall's Oct. 24

Several lots of seed corn were inspected during the last two weeks and the inspection discloses that many lots may be unfit for seed.

Two lots especially that were gathered quite early showed signs of excessive mold. The cobs were in a blackened condition which means spoiled germs. These bad cases were caused by the corn being stored in buildings that were not very well ventilated.

Early gathered corn contains an excessive amount of moisture, so it will require artificial means of drying, or a room that is very well ventilated. Corn should be stored where the breeze can blow past it carrying away the moisture with it. It may be well for every farmer to examine his early seed at the earliest opportunity and note its condition. He may want to go out in the field yet and get his supply of seed for next year.

Pumpkin pie and doughnuts are to be furnished by the women, so refreshments will be plentifully provided.

Four government films are available from the United States Dept. of Agriculture, that may be used at this program provided there is time.

A large crowd is expected, because these folks always have a fine program that every member of the family

for Parade. Rev. Holly Was Main Speaker

One of the largest gatherings ever in this county was held in this city Wednesday at the Fair Grounds, where the Knights and Women of the United Klans met for the purpose of holding a parade. All day cars poured into the city from every direction and by evening thousands from all parts of this county and from greater distances were in attendance.

The afternoon session was given over to speaking and the main feature of the evening was a most spectacular parade. Headed by forty white-clothed horsemen followed by hundreds of drummers the paraders advanced in a single file to the strains of music by two out of town bands. Floats, suggestive of the various departments of the organization occupied the main places in the parade, and the parade followed to the rear of the fair grounds.

The parade thousands gathered in the amphitheatre filling four-fifths of its capacity. The parade waited for the paraders to start, amid cheers and hand clapping. White-robed marchers passed in a line, soon two brilliantly lighted floats gleamed in the face of the spectators.

The evening session opened with the singing of America, a prayer, and a sermon by Rev. Verner of Burlington. Introduction of the evening, Rev. Holly of Muscatine. Rev. Holly is a powerful speaker and in a most convincing manner held the intense attention of his hearers until a late hour.

At the lateness of the hour, Rev. Holly was obliged to make his address as brief as possible and at the conclusion of the evening those in attendance were given an invitation to return with the order.

The performance was more than expected by townspeople, the crowd was surprising and the success of the parade was far beyond the expectations of many.

Killed Self Wednesday Morn, Shooting Hole Thru Heart
With Shotgun — Was Despondent on Account of Failing Health.

James Snook, age seventy-three, and one of the most prominent of New London's residents, killed himself Wednesday about ten o'clock by shooting himself through the heart with a shot gun. Death was evidently instantaneous. He was found by his wife soon after the shooting.

While the rash act was entirely unlooked for by his wife it is now recalled that for the past few days he had been complaining of failing health and had been worried about losing his mind. A note found pinned to a sack near the body stated that his mind was fast going and that he preferred death to going to a hospital.

Mr. Snook arose Wednesday shortly after four o'clock and was about the place until about seven when he went up town returning about eight o'clock and read the morning papers. He remarked about the death of Senator Brandegee who committed suicide Tuesday in Washington, D. C., and shortly after or about nine o'clock told his wife he would go out a while and cut corn again remarking that he might die at any time.

He evidently went direct to a small hot house located at the rear of the house and wrote the note which was later found, removed his shoes, laid down, and from the circumstances must have held the shot gun muzzle to his heart and pulled the trigger with his toe. The full charge from the twelve gauge shot gun entered his chest.

Soon after his wife happened to come out to the hot house and found the body, the fatal shot having been fired just a few minutes before.

Coroner R. K. Crane was immediately summoned but with the finding of the note there was no question but what it was a suicide and no inquest was held.

Mr. Snook leaves his wife at home and a son, Ray, who lives in California and who married Miss Lute Caldwell of this city some years ago. A daughter met a tragic death some years ago in Keokuk. Mr. Snook was a brother of Senator I. N. Snook of West Point.
