Z. T. FISHER, PIONEER DIES IN DES MOINES

Z. T. Fisher, one of Red Oak's pioneer merchants and resident of this city for nearly fifty years, died in the Mercy hospital, Des Moines, Monday evening. His death was unexpected and his physicians thought he would live several years, although he had lost the use of his limbs. His death was due to paralysis.

For the last year Mr. Fisher has been confined to his bed and unable to move without assistance. For several years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Philo D. Clark, and her husband, in Des Moines. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs.
Philo D. Clark, Des Moines, and two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Patterson of Los Angeles, and Mrs. George Martin of Kansas City.

A temporary interment has been made at the Woodland Receiving vault, Des Moines, and a permanent burial will follow at a future date in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery, Red Oak, where his wife and a daughter are buried.

Mrs. Philo Clark and daughter are in Europe.

FOOTBALL FRIDAY

The high school football team plays Council Bluffs here Saturday afternoon.

Moorish Superstitions

One of the first things a traveler notices in a Moorish town are the "hands," painted or drawn, on the walls of many dwellings. These are to avert the "evil spirit"; five, the number of fingers, is considered a sacred number.

Football Ancient Sport

Ancient Greece knew the game of football, and many savage tribes, such as the Polynesians, the Maories and the Philippine Islanders, have a similar sport.

SCRANTON'S SHOPPE

FISHER, ZELOTES T., attorney and counsellor at law, Red Oak: born December 13, 1819, in Franklin county, Ohio: was born on a farm, and worked on farm until sixteen years of age, then learned the cooper trade; received his education in a log school-house; lost his right arm by the accidental discharge of a cannon at a 4th of July celebration, at Worthington, Ohio, in 1837; after this he learned to write readily with his left hand; studied medicine a year and a half, then studied law, and was admitted to the bar at Mount Vernon, Ohio, in September, 1842; he practiced in same courts with justice Swayne, now of the U. S. supreme court, and ex-Governor Dennison, of Ohio. He was married in September, 1844, to Miss Jemima Jones, of Madison county, Ohio. In 1852 he was elected to the state legislature of Ohio from Madison county, and served through two sessions, his first service being in the first session after the new state constitution was adopted. He moved to Mahaska county, Iowa, in September, '55, and engaged in the practice of law and raising fine stock; in '58 was elected vice-president of the state board of agriculture, and in '59 was made its president: was the first secretary of the Central railroad of Iowa, from Albia to Mason City; came to Red Oak in 1871, and in May, 1872, he purchased a half interest in the Red Oak Express, and the same year was elected mayor of Red Oak. In 1879 he was elected as representative in the state legislature from Montgomery county, and while serving there he was a member of the committees on judiciary, on federal relations, on deaf and dumb asylum, and chairman of the board of public charities. Mr. Fisher was the author of a bill to abolish the office of short-hand reporter for district and circuit courts; also a bill to repeal the foolish and unjust law regarding "innocent purchasers" of notes fraudulently obtained; also, to change the law regarding the attorney fee clause in notes; also, to give all Iowa soldiers a state badge, in commemoration of their patriotic services; besides other important bills, memorials, and resolutions. As a legislator, Mr. Fisher was a faithful, painstaking and hard-working member, always attending to his appointed duties, and always trying to bring about such legislation as would be for the real benefit of the people. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have had born to them ten children, as follows: William S., born November 21, '46, married Miss Addie L. Phinney, February 26, '69; Antoinette Jane, born June 28, '48, married to Stroutherd G. Sherman, May 17, '70; Zelotes T., jr., born August 30, '50, married Miss Emily F. Taylor, October 3, '76; infant, born in January, '53; Fannie May, born May 4, '57, married William E. Pattison, November 13, '77; Sadie Jemima, born April 16, '59, died January 5, '76; Bruen White, born March 5, '61; George Edward, born June 6, '62; Lewis Belden, born March 1, '66; Florence Francis, born July 9, '72; all living except infant and Sadie, and all reside in Red Oak except William, who is engaged in a hardware store at Osceola, Iowa.
