riage with Miss Georgia Cone, who is a native of this county, born in 1862, and daughter of Frederick and Emma (Roberts) Cone. The parents of the latter came to Clinton county in 1838 and entered land from the government and became quite wealthy. The year of their emigration to this state was one in which many Indians were passing back and forth through his district, and the Roberts homestead was many times their stopping place. Mrs. Cone was born in 1841, the second white child born in this county, in a house at the end of Fifth avenue, and is still living. Mr. Cone was a native of Connecticut, and before coming to Iowa lived for a time in Ohio. Mr. Cone passed away in 1894, mourned by all who knew him and leaving his wife and children. Besides his wife, Mr. Cone left surviving him the following five children: Mrs. Sadie Pierson, a resident of Clinton; Mrs. Lea, wife of our subject; Charles, a conductor on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, running between Chicago and Clinton; Carl, manager of a machine shop in Clinton; and Minnie, who lives with Mr. Lea, and is a stenographer in the People's Bank. To Mr. and Mrs. Lea have been born two children: Fred C., born in 1883, who took a thorough business course in Clinton College; and Mabel E., born in 1886, who is attending high school.

In 1894 Mr. Lea purchased the old Cone homestead, which is finely situated in the town of Clinton and has every modern convenience. He has held the position of engineer on the Northwestern Railway for many years, and by his ability and faithfulness to duty has won for himself a high place in the estimation of his employers. He is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division No. 125.

WILLIAM LAKE.

After a very busy and useful life, in which he has won for himself a comfortable competence and an honored name, William Lake is now living retired in the city of Clinton. He is a native of England, born in Treluck, Monmouthshire, July 30, 1826, and is a son of John and Flora Margaret (Pontifex) Lake, who spent their entire lives in that country, where the former died at the age of sixty-one, the latter at the age of sixty-seven. By occupation the father was a grocer and farmer.

Our subject, who is one of a family of six children, was reared and educated in his native land, and was twenty-two years of age when he crossed the ocean and took up his residence in Elgin, Illinois, where he was first engaged in farming, and then accepted the position of fireman on the Fox River Railroad with John Smith as engineer on the Galena—an engine which was made at the Norris Iron Works in Philadelphia.

On the 9th of March, 1857, Mr. Lake came to Clinton, Iowa, as engineer on the construction train, building the Chicago, Iowa & Nebraska Railroad, now the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad. A year and a half later he went south to Memphis, Tennessee, where, under General Joseph E. Johnson, he assisted in surveying for fortifications preparatory for the Civil war, and remained there about a year. He then returned to Clinton, and with Darwin Parsons built a flouring mill near the site of the present Farmer's Mill, it being the second mill erected here, but a year later he sold his interest in the enterprise to Chancy Lamb and entered the railroad shops as a mechanic, being thus employed for five years. During the following year he was employed as engineer on the steam ferry boats carrying cars across the river.

Mr. Lake next went to Chattanooga, Tennessee, and entered the employ of the government as an engineer and mechanic, and while there had charge of rebuilding the engine "General," under General Sherman, who had captured it from the Rebels. This engine had quite a history and figured in one of the most exciting episodes of the Civil war. Captain Foster, a Union scout, together with eighty men, were one hundred miles inside the rebel lines, dressed in civilian clothes, and one day arrived at Big Shanty, a station on the Chattanooga & Atlanta road, and while the passengers and crew of a waiting train, to which was attached the engine "General," were eating breakfast, Captain Foster and his men made a dash, captured the train and started for the Union lines. The train crew came out, got a handcar and followed it about five miles, when they got a construction train, took on some rebel soldiers and gave chase, and when within a few miles of the Union lines they overhauled Captain Foster, and in an engagement shot most of his men, captured Captain Foster and sixteen men, took them back to headquarters, where they were all hung as spies.

At the close of the war Mr. Lake returned to Clinton and again entered the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad shops as a mechanic, remaining there until 1871, when he took up the study of law under E. C. Foster and was admitted to the bar the following year. For several years he was successfully engaged in the practice of his chosen profession, but of later years has devoted his attention principally to dealing in grain and stock as a speculator, and in this he has also prospered. He has built his own and several other residences in the city, some of which he has sold, and in 1894 he also erected a fine double residence.

Mr. Lake was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Meredith, also a native of Monmouthshire, England, and a daughter of James and Paulina Meredith. She died in 1897, at the age of seventy-three years. Eight children were born to this union, but five died in infancy, the others being William, an engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad; John, deceased; and Eleanor Elizabeth.

Mr. Lake has twice visited his native land, the first time in 1867, when his mother was still living, though his father was dead, and again in 1871. He is a member of the Baptist church and a thirty-second-degree Mason, belonging to all of the Masonic bodies, including the blue lodge, chapter, commandery, Mystic Shrine and consistory. The Republican party has always found in him a staunch supporter of its principles, and his fellow citizens, recognizing his worth and ability, have called upon him to fill several political positions of honor and trust. While engaged in the practice of law he has served for seven years as justice of the peace, and he has also been a member of the city council four years and county supervisor six years. In 1880 he was elected to the legislature and most ably represented his district in that body, serving as a member of several important committees.

COLONEL WILLIAM G. CUMMINGS.

Among the brave men who devoted the opening years of their manhood to the defense of our country from the internal foes who sought her dismemberment was Colonel William G. Cummings, who was a dis-the same office on the corner of Fifth avenue and Second street. He is a member of the Homœopathic State Medical Society and the American Institute of Homœopathy. Dr. King's father and grandfather and his great-grandfather were physicians. Dr. King married Miss H. M. Y., and his success in life owing to his own efforts and good management. He has been twice married; his first wife was Ann Tomlinson, a native of England; she died, leaving two children—George B. and Sarah S.; his present wife is Philippi Jane Retallick, a native of England; they have three children—Nellie, Charles and Frank.

He married Mary C. Myers, from Germany, in 1849; they have four children—Harmonn, Mary, Henry and Willie. Mr. Kreim and Henry carry on the hardware store; his sons Harmonn and Willie carry on the grocery store.

PROF. CARL V. LACHMUND, Director of the German Conservatory of Music, Eighth avenue, west of Fourth street; is a native of Missouri, and was born March 27, 1853; he was brought up principally in this State; he very early in life developed a taste for music, and having determined to make the profession a study, he went abroad and studied six years, under the ablest professors in music, enjoying rare advantages; after perfecting himself in his profession, he engaged in teaching; in 1877, he organized the Conservatory of Music, and is meeting with an unusual degree of success, having over two hundred names enrolled, and having pupils from throughout the State; he has labored indefatigably to raise the standard of classical music, and there are very few professors of music his equal in piano, organ and violin theories combined; his sister, Miss Emma Lachmund, is also connected with the Conservatory; she studied in Europe, and received a thorough musical education, and in piano, violin and vocal music she enjoys a high reputation. Prof. Lachmund has had several offers to become professor of music in several Eastern institutions of high standing, but has declined. In 1877, he was united in marriage to Miss Carrie J. Culbertson, of Fulton, Ill.; she, also, has a good musical education; they have one daughter—Helen Reed.
