DEATH OF HON. S. T. SPANGLER.

A Wealthy and Influential Citizen of Buchanan County, He Dies
at His Home in Buffalo Township.

At his home in Buffalo township, at 7 o'clock, Monday morning, April 29, Hon. S. T. Spangler passed away, the result of internal injuries received some time ago. The following sketch of Mr. Spangler's life is taken from Williams' history of Buchanan county, written in 1880:

"S. T. Spangler was born in Maryland, June 11, 1829. When about six years of age he went with his father, George W. Spangler, to Trumbull county, Ohio, where they made their home about five years, when they moved to Coshocton county, Ohio, where George W. Spangler died in 1840. S. T. Spangler remained in Coshocton county till the spring of 1857, when he came to Buchanan county, Iowa, and purchased one hundred and twenty acres where he still resides, in section thirty-four, Buffalo township. The first five years he spent in moderate farming, not expecting to make this his future home; but his far-seeing eye discerned the fact that here was a country where money could be made. At once he commenced to lay his plans, and those who know him today can testify to his great success. About the year 1862 he engaged in the stock business, at first dealing only in common stock; but finding the great need of better, turned his attention at once to the improvement of his stock. In 1869 he purchased a herd of seventeen cattle, but finding the grade not fine enough, he made investments of over twelve thousand dollars before he felt satisfied with the condition of his stock. He is a man whose judgment in this, as well as other departments of business, is emphatically sound. To his first purchase of land he has added different tracts until now he owns sixteen hundred acres, his first purchase costing him five dollars per acre and the last eighteen. This farm is known far and near as the West Buffalo stock farm, and as a stock farm is one of the finest in the county; and, in fact, the state will furnish no better, when its natural location, its water privileges, and its size, are taken into consideration. Mr. Spangler's reputation as a thorough-going and honorable business man is at a standard that any man may well be proud of, and in addition to his busi-

ent tracts until now he owns sixteen hundred acres, his first purchase costing him five dollars per acre and the last eighteen. This farm is known far and near as the West Buffalo stock farm, and as a stock farm is one of the finest in the county; and, in fact, the state will furnish no better, when its natural location, its water privileges, and its size, are taken into consideration. Mr. Spangler's reputation as a thorough-going and honorable business man is at a standard that any man may well be proud of, and in addition to his business ability, he has a happy faculty of being friendly (an important element of business ability). His sales within the past six months have amounted to over five thousand dol- laes. The high prices he has paid for stock have frequently been re- paid to him in his sales, often sell- ing lots of young cattle for three hundred and three hundred and fifty dollars per head, and he has some on hand now of more than double these prices. At present he has three hun- dred and fifty head of feeding cattle, together with over one hundred head of thoroughbreds. Mr. Spangler was married in Ohio, July 31, 1852, to Miss Sarah Adams, who was born in Coshocton county, Ohio, December 29, 1833. She is a daughter of J. Q. Adams, a descendant of President Adams. They have a family of three children, one son and two daughters. The oldest, Ella L., born in Coshoc- ton county, Ohio, March 14, 1854, married A. T. Flickinger on Decem- ber 29, 1880; her husband is an at- torney at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and a man of fine scholarship and good ability. The second child, Emma A., was born also in Coshocton coun- ty, Ohio, in 1855, October 31st; and married John Myer, a prominent farmer in Byron township, December 29, 1880. The son, George F., was born in this county, March 2, 1858."

To the above it should be added that Mr. Spangler was active in poli- tics. During the war he was a Re- publican, but in the hard times of the early '70's he became an Anti- Monopolist, and was elected on that ticket as member of the legislature from this county in 1874, making an excellent record in the lower house. Later he was the Greenback candi- date for congress from this district, but was not elected. Mr. Spangler was a man of great energy, honora- ble in all his dealings, possessed much ability, and dies with the re- gard of a very large circle of ac- quaintances. He acquired large wealth, but it was honestly done, and it is in no sense "tainted."

BUCHANAN COUNTY PIONEER CROSSES THE GREAT RIVER

SAMUEL T. SPANGLER IS DEAD.

Full of Years and With a Record of a Long, Honorable and Successful Career, He Quietly Lays Down the Burdens of This Life.

Samuel T. Spangler was born the 11th day of June, 1829, in Baltimore, Maryland. His parents first moved to Trumbull county, Ohio, when he was 6 years old, afterwards to Coshocton county, Ohio. His father died in 1845, at his home and surrounded by his family. His wife, Sarah M., was his constant attendant and remained by him to the last. If he had lived to the 11th day of June he would have been 78 years of age.

He was always happiest in his home, with wife, children and friends, and, in building this beautiful home, his chief thought always was that he might share its comforts with those who were near and dear to him. With a heart as big as his acres are wide, he has laid down and died, and he is no more on this earth, save as he exists in the memory of his relatives and friends and the good deeds he has done.

He made a strong fight for his life, never complaining, always patient; not

The care of the family devolved on him to a large extent. He was then 15 years of age. He remained in Coshoc-ton until the spring of 1857. He was married to Miss Sarah M. Adams in July, 1852. They came to Buchanan county, Iowa, in 1857. He settled on some land in Buffalo Grove township, and has resided there since. Mr. Spangler was a very successful farmer and dealer in stock. He purchased and sold cattle and hogs during the war from 1861 to 1865, and at the end of that time had become the owner of a large amount of land. He continued in the farming and stock business up to the time of his death.

The writer has known Mr. Spangler ever since he came to Iowa. He has always been an energetic farmer and business man. He has always been an honest man in his dealings with others.

He has been a careful man to plan investments and a good worker.

In 1873 he was nominated and elected a representative to the Fifteenth gen-eral assembly, which met in Des Moines in January, 1874. He stood well with members of that general as-sembly and with the state officers. In 1876 he was nominated for congress in this district. He was defeated in the election by T. W. Burdick, of Winni-shiek county. After these moves of a political character he devoted his time to business and the accumulation of land. He was the owner of a large amount of land. He also had a good amount of stock on his farms. As a neighbor he was always kind and ac-commodating. He stood well in the estimation of those who lived near him and with whom he was most familiar. At home he was a kind husband and father.

His children grew up around him. He gave each of them a chance to get a good education and when the daugh-ters were married he gave them a good start in the world. His son George took to the work of farming and deal-ing in cattle and hogs, and has been a very successful operator.

Mr. Spangler was one of the pioneers afraid to die, but wishing to live if it were possible, expressing the wish among his last words that there should be more gentleness and kindness among us, more charity for the faults and wrongs and opinions of others; and thus he died, with his faithful wife and children at his bedside, believing not in sect or creed, but in nature and nature's God, and surrounded with all the beauties of coming spring and the familiar objects of his active life. As Tennyson has so beautifully said in verse, so may we say it again:

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark;
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For, though from out this bourne of time and place,
The tide may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar.

He has sailed out into the wide, dark waters of eternity; has crossed the bar, and now is seeing his Pilot face to face. Rest in peace, faithful, loving husband; kind, indulgent father, goodbye.

He left surviving him his faithful wife, who resides at the home, and a family of three children, Mrs. Ella Flickinger, living at Council Bluffs. Her husband is a successful lawyer; Emma, who married John Meyer, and lives on a farm adjoining her father's; George, who married Nellie Chamber-lain, and lives in Winthrop.

All who knew him admired his sterl-ing integrity and successful work. He will be missed by all. *

Mr. Spangler was one of the pioneers of Northeastern Iowa, and, by his energy and ability, did much to build up and develop this part of the country. While in early life he was a farmer, he was later a stock buyer and shipper and breeder of fine cattle, and in the sixties imported from Canada some of the best bred shorthorn cattle that could be had, which later were added to, and increased until this herd was recognized as the leading herd of shorthorn cattle in Iowa and West Buffalo stock farm and its founder came into prominence as authority on shorthorn cattle and their breeding.

As a member of the Fifteenth general assembly, he helped formulate and enact the laws of his state, and as a delegate to some of the most important conventions was always foremost in the fight for right and justice.

Mr. Spangler had been a very healthy and energetic man until some time in the summer of 1906. He was then severely hurt in the side by a young horse backing a cart against him. From this he never fully recovered. In the winter of 1907 he and his wife went to Florida and had a pleasant trip. On returning home he found so much to do that he went to work, and in some way strained the ligaments of his side. He was taken with severe pains, and though attended by the best physicians, did not recover.

He died the 29th day of April, 1907.

All who knew him admired his sterling integrity and successful work. He will be missed by all. *

VETERANS OF SPANISH WAR.

Will Hold Encampment at Dubuque One Week in June.

The United Spanish War Veterans of the department of Iowa will hold their first annual encampment and convention in Dubuque June 11 to 14, inclusive. As this will be the first reunion of any pretension since the muster out it may therefore be considered a general invitation to all veterans of the Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection who enlisted prior to July 4, 1902. It is expected that all local veterans who can possibly do so will take advantage of this opportunity to meet their old comrades whether they are members of the organization or not.

The United Spanish War Veterans is an amalgamation of all the organizations which have been formed since the muster out and has thoroughly organized camps in almost all the states in the Union. Fitzhugh Lee camp, of the convention city, has arranged an attractive series of entertainments, including, among others, steamboat rides, both daylight and moonlight, auto car and trolley rides in and about the entire city, the usual features of veterans' gatherings, such as campfires and regimental reunions have been provided for.

The G. A. R. encampment, department of Iowa, will be held on the same dates and the railroads have granted a one-fare rate from all points in Iowa. It is expected the gathering will be largely attended and that the local veterans will not be remiss is a foregone conclusion.

for week ending May 6: Another extremely cold week has been added to the score of this abnormally cool and dry season. The average daily temperature of the past week was 9 to 15 degrees below the normal. Minimum temperatures of 18 degrees were recorded at several stations on the night of May 3. On April 29, 6 to 10 inches of snow fell in considerable portions of the southern and central sections; the snow flurries were quite general on the 3d. The precipitation was generally very light in the northern section, and in the larger part of the state there is deficiency of moisture.

This is the fourth consecutive week of unseasonably low temperature, and despite adverse conditions very good

A FRIEND'S TRIBUTE TO THE LATE S. T. SPANGLER

REMINISCENCES OF 50 YEARS

C. H. Jakway Writes Feelingly of a Friendship that Extended Through Half a Century—Was Honorable and Upright in all Life's Relations.

A reminiscence covering a period of fifty years in the life of a friend seems by far too great an undertaking for one unaccustomed to writing, and would not be indulged in but at the earnest solicitude of esteemed friends.

Reckoned by the calendar, fifty years is a long period of time. Unaided by dates, other than faulty memory, omissions and errors must inevitably ensue.

In 1857 a new home and a new industry had begun to assume form on what has been known from that date to this as the Spangler farm. On passing, the writer had occasion to note that industry was the order of the day. A man and a woman were engaged in building fence, the woman held boards against the posts, the man driving the nails. In a characteristic way, an introduction ensued: "My name is Spangler, from Ohio;" "Yes, and my name is Jakway, from Vermont."

From that day on our greeting has ever been, Spangler—Jakway.

Untiring energy and thrift were the daily characteristics of a well regulated business life. To himself and estimable wife ("Sis," he called her), came comforts such as are the reward of industry and economy.

S. T. Spangler was widely known as a farmer; yet, in the strict sense of the term, he was not a cultivator of the soil. Grass, and more grass, was the objective point. He owned land for the grass it would produce and the use he could make of it. If he failed to make two blades grow where one grew before he accomplished his purpose by extending his enclosure. If Spangler was not a successful manipulator of the cattle industry, then surely there are none in this region of country. It is now several years since he closed out his extensive herd of Short-horns. He said: "It takes too much time and careful attention to perpetuate the desired type and conformation very light in the northern section, and in the larger part of the state there is deficiency of moisture.

This is the fourth consecutive week of unseasonably low temperature, and despite adverse conditions very good progress has been made in farm work. A large portion of the corn acreage has been plowed, and is in fine condition for planting. A considerable number of farmers have begun planting, and this work will be general as soon as the weather becomes sufficiently warm to insure ready germination.

There are conflicting reports from the fields as to the extent of damage caused by freezing weather. It is probable that early fruit has suffered material loss. And possibly early seeded wheat, oats and barley have been somewhat injured in some localities.

there are none in this region of country. It is now several years since he closed out his extensive herd of Short-horns. He said: "It takes too much time and careful attention to perpetuate the desired type and conformation which are the essentials of a successful herd."

Passing over a multitude of events in which we were associated in pioneer days, one seems to require a passing notice; the war period of the Rebellion came and disconcerted matters on the Buffalo.

As I remember, in the fall of 1863 a hurry-up order came for more men. One evening a bespangled orderly rode up bearing a communication from S. P. Adams, provost marshal, of Dubuque, directing me to canvass Buffalo township and make returns of all men subject to do military duty to John Campbell, Independence, on or before Monday noon, following. The order came on Saturday; that made it necessary that I ride all of Sunday and Sunday night. Returns were made in due time. In short order we were informed that three men would be required from Buffalo township. Volunteers had filled the former quota, but now we were facing a draft. Great anxiety and commotion was the order of the day.

Spangler suggested a meeting of parties interested to be held at the log school house. Little was done at the first meeting save offering excuses, of which there was no dearth. Some of us had wives demanding attention; others had oxen that they need'nt must look after. Those meetings were continued five nights in succession. Spangler was conspicuous in all our deliberations. Those were "strenuous" days. Three men were persuaded for a money consideration to answer roll call in our stead. Thus the war dragged on to the close. During the war period and for some time after he was a staunch supporter of the administration, lent his every effort to the suppression of rebellion and the restoration of peace.

Later in life, a political change of base carried him over to the radical side, of which he became one of the most pronounced. Charity being a cardinal principle with him, seemed to lend a large measure of good cheer with which he was accustomed to greet his friends. In politics we failed to agree—a divided jury. In matters of temperance we stood side by side on the same platform, detesting the loathsome drink habit, together with the traffic. In matters pertaining to religion, we agreed that if measured by the rule of orthodoxy, we would fail to reach the standard, and yet we thought we had not as near to the end of religious con-

Circumstances and conditions were expected to conform to social requirements; harmony and good cheer have been the order between families during all these years.

Just before the end of life I called on my friend. The family were gathered about him, physical force yielding rapidly, often joining hands for a moment. Spangler and Jakway took leave much after the order of our meeting fifty years before—each saying to each, "Good Bye." —C. H. Jakway.

ried and lives upon a farm near the homestead in Fayette county; Charles W., Walter and Leon, all living upon the home farm; and Saloma and Freda, both at home.

William C. Falck was reared in Winneshiek county, Iowa, and there attended the public schools in the acquirement of his elementary education. He subsequently was a student in the Breckenridge school at Decorah, Iowa. After reaching maturity he came to this county and purchased land in Madison township, which he cultivated assiduously until 1913. He still owns two farms in that township. In November, 1913, he removed to Lamont and purchased the coal, feed and machinery business formerly owned by James Carr. In the comparatively short time that has since elapsed the patronage has grown rapidly and the business is steadily increasing in volume. He handles the best grades of anthracite and eastern bituminous coal, feed of all kinds, grass seeds and also the best makes of farm and power machinery. His practical knowledge of agricultural implements and of the best seed has been of great value to him in his mercantile enterprise, as it enables him to buy to advantage. His business methods are above reproach and he has won immediate recognition as a progressive and efficient business man. Aside from his store he is connected as president with the Farmers Savings Bank, which was organized in 1910. He was one of those who established the bank and was a member of its first board of directors. He has been president for the past three years and for a year previous to his election to that position was vice president. He has been connected with the institution since its organization and not a little of the credit for its continued prosperity is due to him.

On the 13th of October, 1897, Mr. Falck was united in marriage in Fayette county, Iowa, to Miss Anna Wolfe, of Scott township, that county, and they have become parents of nine children. Two were born in Clayton county, six in Fayette county and one in Buchanan county. They are as follows: Elsie, Ida, Dorothy, Lydia, Louis, Helen, Otto, Irma and Myra, all at home.

Mr. Falck is a republican and has served in various local offices. The family belong to the Lutheran church and the parents are active in its work. Mr. Falck owns his residence in the northwestern part of town and also, as previously mentioned, two fine farms in this county. He is a man of financial acumen and this, coupled with his industry and enterprise, insures him success in his business undertakings. His strict adherence to high standards of conduct and his agreeable personality have gained him a place in the warm regard and high esteem of many.

SAMUEL T. SPANGLER.

Samuel T. Spangler, deceased, was one of the prominent pioneer farmers and stock dealers of Buffalo township, representing that class of men who have laid broad and deep the foundation upon which has been built the present progress and prosperity of the county. He was born in Maryland on the 11th of June, 1829, a son of George V. and Rebecca (Cleggett) Spangler. The father was a farmer and the owner of a number of slaves. He removed from Maryland to Ohio when his son Samuel was nine years of age and in the Buckeye state the boy was reared, having the usual experiences which fall to the lot of the farm lad who divides his time between the work of the fields and the acquirement of a common-school education.

When twenty-one years of age Mr. Spangler bought a farm in Ohio and cultivated it until 1856, when, attracted by the business opportunities of the growing west, he came to Iowa, making the journey by rail to Dubuque and thence by wagon to Buchanan county, settling in Buffalo township, where he purchased one hundred and sixty acres of prairie land. With characteristic energy he began its development and improvement, turning the sod and bringing the fields under a high state of cultivation as the years went on. He traded horses for this land without seeing the property ahead of time, but there was no disappointment awaiting him in the rich and arable soil of this county. He successfully developed and improved his farm, which is still in possession of the family, and he added to his holdings from time to time until he became the owner of about fifteen hundred acres, which he still retained at his death and left as a valuable estate to his widow. He was also among the pioneer stock-raisers of the county, making a specialty of handling thoroughbred Durham cattle, which had excellent opportunity to graze upon his broad pastures. For his stock he always received good prices and thus his different business affairs brought him substantial success. He was one of the organizers and stockholders of the Aurora Savings Bank of Aurora, this county, was elected its first president and so continued until his demise.

On the 31st of July, 1851, Mr. Spangler was united in marriage to Miss Sarah M. Adams, who was born in Keene, Ohio, December 29, 1833, a daughter of John Q. and Lavina (Walker) Adams, who were natives of Massachusetts and of Maine, respectively, the father being a second cousin of John Adams, president of the United States. Mr. Adams was a mechanic and farmer and in an early day removed westward to Ohio, where he owned a large tract of land. He was born in 1800 and died at the age of seventy-two years, while his wife, who was born in 1807, passed away at the age of eighty-three years. Their daughter, Mrs. Spangler, remained under the parental roof until the time of her marriage and in 1856 accompanied her husband to Iowa, since which time she has lived upon the old homestead farm, where they took up their abode fifty-eight years ago. She spends, however, much time in travel and in visiting relatives. She became the mother of three children: Ella L., the wife of A. T. Flickinger, a practicing attorney of Council Bluffs, Iowa; Emma, the wife of John Meyer, of Byron township; and George F., mentioned elsewhere in this volume.

Mr. Spangler voted with the democratic party and was called by popular suffrage to represent his district in the state legislature for one term. He was also justice of the peace in pioneer times and his decisions were strictly fair and impartial, "winning golden opinions from all sorts of people." He preferred, however, to concentrate his energies upon his business affairs, which were of growing importance, and thus was he occupied until his death, which occurred April 29, 1907. He left behind him the record of a well-spent life, characterized by enterprise and honor in business and fidelity to duty in every relation. He lived to witness many changes from pioneer conditions to later day prosperity and progress, his memory forming a connecting link between the primitive past and the progressive present. Wherever he was known he was held in high esteem and most of all where he was best known—a fact indicative of a life of upright manhood.

JACOB WACKERBARTH.

Jacob Wackerbarth, president of the Wackerbarth & Blamer Lumber Company of Independence, is a business man of marked energy, identified with various corporations which feature largely in the development, upbuilding and material progress of Independence. Tireless energy, keen perception and ability to plan and perform are salient factors in his life record and he possesses in large measure the quality of common sense, which is too often lacking in the business world, its absence being the cause of the great majority of failures. A native of Germany, he was born in Hesse-Cassel on the 30th of May, 1855. His father, Heinrich Wackerbarth, and mother, Anna E. Kaiser Wackerbarth, were both natives of Hesse-Cassel. His mother died when her son Jacob was only eighteen months old. In his native country Heinrich Wackerbarth followed farming, owning extensive lands, and he was also mayor of the village in which he lived. He was a prominent and influential citizen of the community in which he made his home. He never neglected the higher, holier duties of life in meeting the demands of a more material character which were made upon him, but was ever an active and faithful member of the Reformed church.

Jacob Wackerbarth was the fifth in order of birth in a family of six children. He attended school in Germany and when sixteen years of age came to the United States, arriving in Independence on the 3d of May, 1872. He made his way direct to this city from New York and here engaged in the trade of carriage making, which he had previously learned in Germany. This pursuit he followed about one year, at the expiration of which time he went to Chicago and worked in a sash and door factory nearly one year, when he returned to Independence and again engaged in the manufacture of carriages, which he followed about two years. In the month of July, 1876, he returned to the old country, where he remained about four months, settling up his father's estate. Immediately after his return he went into the retail boot and shoe business in Independence. With him in this business, G. A. Steinmetz was engaged, which connection finally led to the formation of the firm of Steinmetz & Wackerbarth. In 1881 Mr. Wackerbarth engaged in the lumber business under the firm style of Zinn & Wackerbarth. That connection was maintained for seven years, at the end of which time Mr. Zinn sold out to Mr. Thomas Blamer, leading to the organization of the present firm, known as the Wackerbarth & Blamer Company. Of this corporation Mr. Wackerbarth is the president and is active in the control of an extensive and growing enterprise. This by no means indicates the limit of his business activity, however, for he is the president and was one of the organizers of the Independence Canning Corporation, is president of the Independent Ice Company and president of the Gedney Company, which owns and manages the hotel and opera house at Independence and also controls a

Description:
 This database is an index to individuals enumerated in the 1900 United States Federal Census, the Twelfth Census of the United States. Census takers recorded many details including each person's name, address, relationship to the head of household, color or race, sex, month and year of birth, age at last birthday, marital status, number of years married, the total number of children born of the mother, the number of those children living, birthplace, birthplace of father and mother, if the individual was foreign born, the year of immigration and the number of years in the United States, the citizenship status of foreign-born individuals over age twenty-one, occupation, and more. Additionally, the names of those listed on the population schedule are linked to actual images of the 1900 Federal Census. Learn more...

Verified information has been cited, so if it doesn't show a citation, more research is needed and the information is shown merely as a clue. Also, please note that quoted transcriptions are modernized transcriptions, so spelling, etc. may have been edited for readability. I also have posted a separate tree of "My Maternal Ancestors." Please let me know if you find errors. I also enjoy hearing from other researchers of my family!

From History of Buchanan County, Iowa, and its people, Chicago: S.J. Clarke Pub Co., 1914, Page 2_303

"Mr Spangler voted with the democratic party and was called by popular suffrage to represent his district in the state legislature for one term. He was also justice of the peace in pioneer times and his decisions were strictly fair and impartial, "winning golden opinions from all sorts of people." He preferred, however, to concentrate his energies upon his business affairs, which were of growing importance, and thus was he occupied until his death, which occurred in April 29, 1907. He left behind him the record of a well-spent life, characterized by enterprise and honor in business and fidelity to duty in every relation. He lived to witness many changes from pioneer conditions to later day prosperity"

This is the paternal side of the Lockard/Park family from Iowa. My Lockard ancestors immigrated from Ireland in the late 1700s. They lived first in Pennsylvania and migrated to Ohio in the early 1800s. They were among the early settlers of Jefferson and, later, Coshocton Counties, Ohio. In the later part of the 1800s, my branch migrated to Norton County, Kansas, and in the early 1900s, migrated to Des Moines, Iowa, where some descendants still live.
