Correct local time at Albert Call's.

Both trams in on time; arrivals light.

Travel to and from Espanola has been light for the past few days.

Don Epifanio Vigil has sufficiently recovered from his late indisposition to make his appearance on the streets.

The force at the district clerk's office have been kept busy recently docketing new cases. The civil docket at the February term will be a lengthy one.

The concert given by the military band yesterday was among the most enjoyable given for many weeks past. The selections from Il Trovatore were especially well executed and the entire programme was very much enjoyed by those present to hear it.

A first class private boarding house will be opened January 1 in the L. Spiegelberg residence on Washington avenue by Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Thayer. Boarders received for the week or month. The table will be supplied with everything in the shape of dishes which the market affords.

The meeting of the board of directors of the Texas, Santa Fe and Northern railroad company was held yesterday evening at the office of the company on San Francisco street. No business of importance was transacted, the board adjourning until 4 p. m. on Saturday next.

The Lone Star denies that small-pox has been epidemic at El Paso, and asks that its New Mexico exchanges do that city the justice to state that out of a population of three thousand there have been at the most but sixteen small-pox patients there at one time.

Sheriff Martinez came up from the south yesterday. While absent, he served for F. A. Manzanera, Esq., a notice of contest on Hon. Tunaquillo Luna, at the residence of the latter in Los Lunas. Mr. Martinez went on south as far as Lake Valley and reports great activity at that point, both in real estate, commercial and mining transactions.

I desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that I have a large and handsome stock of jewelry, diamonds, watches, clocks and silverware, and I will be constantly receiving new goods until after the holidays. The public are cordially invited to call and examine my stock, which will be found to suit all on account of the very low prices. Come early and avoid the rush. ALBERT CALL, Santa Fe's old and reliable jeweler.

A new strike was made in the Chester mine on Wednesday, which surpasses anything yet found in that now celebrated shaft. Specimens of ore brought to this city yesterday were assayed and found to carry twelve thousand ounces of silver to the ton. The new strike is a large body of ore, which if it holds out will make the owners, General Atkinson, Colonel Herlow and others, heavy as to pocket within a very short time.

DEED.

Taylor—In this city on Thursday, December 28, 1882, after a short illness R. Howe Taylor (late of Marshalltown, Iowa), in the 56th year of his age.

Funeral services will be held at his late residence, this Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Relatives and friends of the family, also the members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and of the Masonic fraternity are respectfully invited to attend.

OBITUARY.

Doctor R. Howe Taylor, for the past two years a resident of Santa Fe, and engaged in mercantile business on San Francisco street, died yesterday morning at his residence, in this city. Mr. Taylor came to Santa Fe from Marshalltown, in the state of Iowa, where he had resided for many years, and had been highly honored by the citizens of that city and the county of Marshall, he having been state senator for two terms, county treasurer and county judge for several terms and elected and served as mayor of the city for four years, besides many other positions of public trust. Previous to his going into politics he won signal success as a successful physician, having a large practice in that community. He was an active member of the Odd Fellows and Masonic fraternities, having received the higher degrees in these bodies, also of the order of Forerunners. Finding his health somewhat impaired he came to Santa Fe, and engaged in the grocery business on San Francisco street, building up in that short time one of the best retail trades in the city. His kindly nature and generous impulses won for him during his residence here many warm friends who learned with sadness of his sudden demise.

Mr. Taylor leaves a widow and two daughters, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad affliction.

The funeral services will take place this afternoon for his late residence, attended by the members of the Odd Fellow and Masonic fraternities.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICK RENEWER is a scientific compound of the most powerful agents in the vegetable kingdom, cures gray hair to its original color, makes the scalp white and cures dandruff and humors out of the hair. It furnishes a nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported, and is moist, soft and glossy, surpassed as a hair dressing by no other. It is the most economical preparation sold to the public, as its effect is long lasting, making only a small application necessary. It is used and used by eminent physicians and officially endorsed by the State of Massachusetts. It is the only Hall's Hair Renewer sold with the test of many years in this country and in foreign countries. It is now known and used

The following item has been going the rounds of the eastern press: Rumors have been telegraphed from Albuquerque, N. M., to Chicago and elsewhere, and are being printed at length and in considerable detail, to the effect that the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, which is now being constructed as the connecting link between the St. Louis and San Francisco and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe with the Southern Pacific, is in financial difficulties. The rumor grows out of some delay in paying sub-contractors for ties, etc. Messrs. J. and W. Seligman, who, with other bankers, are managing the finances of the Atlantic and Pacific, state that the money has been provided for the completion of the remaining 130 miles of the road to connect it with the Southern Pacific, and that there will be no delay in the payment of all contractors. The Atlantic and Pacific has now 500 miles of track completed and the connection with the Southern Pacific will be made in April.

STATESMAN ANNUAL.

The STATESMAN ANNUAL has become a recognized institution of Marshalltown and Central Iowa. It is expected and welcomed by the people, encouraged and sustained by the business community, and generally complimented by the press. This has been a matter of great satisfaction to the management of THE STATESMAN. No labor or expense has been spared to make the present issue especially acceptable to all. It contains the fullest possible presentment of our city and country, its advantages and its prospects. There will be printed 20,000 copies, and they will be distributed throughout the entire country.

We desire in this connection to extend our thanks to our patrons without distinction as to politics or profession. Our patrons are our friends, and they embrace all classes. Though Democratic in politics, our Democracy is of the broadest character and means the greatest good to all. And in every thing that pertains to the welfare of the city we shall henceforth, as in the past, oppose all jobs and support all worthy enterprises, let it hurt or let it help whomsoever it may. In our

Sudden Death.

Our citizens were sadly startled Thursday, by the receiving of a dispatch from Santa Fe, New Mexico, that Hon. R. Howe Taylor, so well known in this city and central Iowa, was dead. The particulars have not yet been received, but it is known that for several months his health had been rapidly failing.

Mr. Taylor sold out his individual interest in this city something over a year ago and removed with his family to Santa Fe, where he has since been engaged in business, and where his death occurred. He had taken a prominent part in the history of Marshall County. He was born in Newport, Rhode Island, October 1, 1825, and received his education and studied medicine in New York, coming West in 1853, and settling in Marshalltown in 1854, being one of the oldest settlers. In 1861 he was elected County Judge, and has held the office County Treasurer, County Recorder and County Supervisor. In 1871 he was elected Presidential Elector. In 1877 he was elected Mayor of this city, and was re-elected in 1870. At one time, in 1858 and afterwards, he was one of the editors of the Times.

Dr. Taylor was a man of more than ordinary ability, of literary tastes, and no man had in him a bigger, better or more generous heart; honorable to a fault, and a man of remarkable fine judgment; retired and modest, his personal friends only knew and could appreciate him.

His death will be deeply felt and long mourned by his hosts of friends in this county.

Mrs. Maria V. Holyoke, who delivered such a delightful lecture at the Congregational church night before last, departs to-day for Wallace, where she lectures to-night. Yesterday she received a letter from the president of the National Prohibition alliance, under the auspices of which she has been so long lecturing, thanking her for her earnest labor, and stating that for lack of funds it has become necessary to discontinue the further employment of lecturers. The president, however, expressed the hope that by the 1st of February the alliance would be in a financial condition to make a new contract with her. A letter was also received from her sister, who had just returned to New York from an extended sojourn in the holy land. Mrs. Holyoke's sister was formerly for years in charge of the musical department of Vassar college. Her husband is a Congregational minister, now quartered near Rock Island, Ill. But for this being the week of prayer the lady would have delivered two lectures here.

Thanks.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

I desire through your paper to express my appreciation of the kindness shown and the aid given me, both during the sickness and at the burial of my late husband. I would make particular mention of the fraternity of Odd Fellows, to whom I am very grateful. I should have made earlier acknowledgment, but my great and sudden calamity and the multiplication of altogether new cares and duties devolving upon me by the loss of my husband, caused me for a time to forget that which I now take pleasure in doing. I trust, therefore, the tardiness of this acknowledgment will not be taken by any as evidence of ingratitude and want of appreciation.

MRS. TAYLOR.

to the heart of that rich mineral section, one from Eagle which is about fifty miles distant from the Black Range, and the nearest point now to be reached by rail, and another from Socorro by the way of the Magdalena, Pueblos and Gallinas. The principal camps are Chloride and Grafton, the former in the Apache district, and the latter in the Black Range mining district. They are about fifteen miles apart. Chloride is a very prosperous camp, of from 200 to 300 population. The Ivanhoe mine, owned by Bob Ingersoll, is one mile from Grafton. Among the great mines of this camp are the Alaska, Great Southwest, Keystone, Great Republic, and the Occidental.

ABOUT CHLORIDE

there is the Colossal, a splendid mine, the White Signal, the U. S. Treasury and the White Eagle, all of which are representative mines of the Apache district, and are showing rich mineral. The Apache mine, the Nana, Wall Street, Nos. 1 and 2, and Bustin mine are also excellent assayers, running from fifty ounces away up into the thousands, of gold and sulphurets of silver. Reduction works are badly needed. Near Grafton, at the Occidental mine, owned by Rev. Dr. Fulton and St. Joseph and St. Louis parties a ten stamp mill is being erected. At Fairview work on Col. Nulton's copper smelter is progressing very slow. Labor is high. The miners will not work for less than $4 a day, nor will they allow any one to work below that price. Wood and water are plentiful. In speaking of

SANTA FE COUNTY MINES

Mr. Loker became enthusiastic. He said the Old and New Placers, about Golden far surpassed anything of the kind in this country. Gold and copper and the newly discovered silver mines make a wonderful showing, and if the people of Santa Fe are of a mind to take advantage of it they will find there a veritable bonanza.

HADLEY HEADED OFF.

Mr. Walter C. Hadley, of "Hadley's Pointers, Mines, Money and Commerce," a clean cut, sprightly journal, arrived in the city last evening from Las Vegas, and was headed off by a reporter. In response to the interrogation: "How's biz?" he jumped at once to the point, and said: "The outlook for New Mexico mines is extremely fine, but the manipulation of the Lake Valley Sierra Grande mining company's stock by New York schemers will bring no good results to New Mexico properties. That company's stock has been all the rage on Wall street, selling as high as $8, but it's lost its grip now. I have a telegram here received to-day, saying that it is down to $3. That was a fall my country men, and it won't cheer the heart of our miners. The New York Mining News, received to-day, is very bitter in its denunciation of schemers who have been manipulating this stock."

The Iowa financial round-up for the year shows a balance in the treasury over last year. This was on hand last year $360,679; cash received during the year, $1,931,126.40, leaving on hand a balance of $369,385.41.

Peter Dahl left his farm house, six miles from Elkader, last Thursday evening, and was seen no more until his dead body was found near a straw stack on his farm. He was evidently frozen to death.

The Hepburn mill of E. Badger, between Clarinda, Page county, and Hepburn was burned to the ground last week.

Hon. J. F. McJunkin, ex-attorney general of Iowa, who died at his home in Washington, Iowa, on the 1st had been afflicted with lung and kidney troubles for some years, but was in better health than usual the day before death. The deceased was a native of Washington county, Pa. He read law at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and came to Iowa in 1856. He was elected State senator in 1863 and attorney general in 1876 and in 1878. He was fifty-two years old, and leaves a wife and three children.

The Hon. R. Howe Taylor, formerly state senator of Marshall county, and long one of the prominent men of the city of Marshalltown, died at Santa Fe, New Mexico, last week. He removed there some two years ago. Mr. Taylor was born in Rhode Island in 1825. He came to Marshall county in 1854, and was one of the earliest settlers there.

sense. Was originally, in politics, a liberty man, and since 1854 has been a strong and influential republican.

In religious sentiment, he is a Baptist, and has been a member of the church many years.

On the 24th of April, 1848, he married Miss Lucy A. Brewer, of Unadilla Forks, New York, and they have had two children, only one of them, Eva Louise, now living. Mother and daughter are communicants in the Baptist church, and active in the Sunday-school and other christian enterprises.

Dr. Blackman is a very influential man in Mitchell county, and his influence is wholly on the side of good morals. He nobly strives to give an elevated tone to society. At an early day he took a very active part in educational matters, and was town superintendent of schools in New York and Wisconsin. He has not lost his interest in such matters, but in Iowa has had less time to attend to them. He believes that intelligence and virtue are the safeguards of a republic, and he encourages both to the extent of his abilities. He is a positive man—makes up his mind what to do and does it.

Dr. Blackman is a member of the Mitchell County Medical Society and the American Medical Association, and was a delegate to the National Medical Association which met at St. Louis in 1873. He has an excellent standing in the medical profession, and is a leading man in the community.

HON. ROBERT H. TAYLOR, M.D.,

MARSHALLTOWN.

THE present mayor of Marshalltown, R. Howe Taylor, is of Norman-French stock. His original ancestor in England came to that country at the time of the invasion by William the Conqueror, in 1066. The name was then spelt Tellefaire. At what period the Taylors came to this country we are unable to state, but the grandfather of Robert Howe was an officer in the first war with the mother country. His maternal grandfather Howe also was an officer in the same war.

The subject of this sketch, a son of Charles C. Taylor, a mechanic, and in later years a farmer, and Mary Howe, was born at Newport, Rhode Island, on the 1st of October, 1825.

When he was about ten or eleven years old the family moved to Dutchess county, New York, where the son did a little work on his father's farm, and served as clerk a short time, finishing his education at the Poughkeepsie Collegiate Institute, in 1845. He taught school awhile in New York, moved to Wisconsin in 1850, and resumed teaching, reading medicine while so doing, in both states. He attended lectures while in New York, and after being in Wisconsin one year attended a course at the University of St. Louis, now St. Louis Medical College, graduating in 1851.

Dr. Taylor commenced practice in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, came to Marshalltown in 1854, and continued in the profession until about 1862. He had been elected county judge the year before, and in 1863 was elected treasurer and recorder of the county, serving two years in each position.

He went into the drug business in 1864, and continued in that trade until the spring of 1877.

Dr. Taylor was state senator from the 1st of January, 1872, to the 1st of January, 1876; was chairman of the committee on penitentiary the first session, chairman of the committee on senatorial districts the second, and also acted on ways and means and railroads, two committees of much importance. He was presidential elector for the fifth district in 1876, on the republican ticket.

Dr. Taylor has served in various capacities in the municipality of Marshalltown, and is now at its head. He was elected mayor in the spring of 1877, and makes a very judicious executive. The people have great confidence in his integrity as well as capability. He is faithful in every trust confided to him.

The doctor was examining surgeon for Marshall county in the early part of the civil war, and afterward was United States examining surgeon for pensions, resigning the office several years ago.

Dr. Taylor is a Royal Arch Mason, and has been grand high priest of the Grand Encampment of the Odd-Fellows of the state.

His religious connection is with the Unitarian church; is a trustee of the Marshalltown society; his life seems to be without a blemish. Such citizens are an honor to the city, the county and the state.

He was originally a whig, and clung to the party as long as it had an existence; voted the American ticket in 1856, and has since been an unwavering republican. He edited the Marshalltown "Times" in 1858, and by pen and tongue has ably advocated the tenets of his party.

He was quite active in getting the Chicago and Northwestern railway through Marshalltown, and has been among the leaders in all local enterprises of the least consequence.

Dr. Taylor has a second wife, his first being Miss Delia A. Pratt, of Marshalltown; married in June, 1857, and dying in less than a year. His present wife was Miss Rachel Dunn, of La Porte, Indiana; married in April, 1860. She has had three children, two of them, girls, now living.

HON. DANIEL MOOAR,

KEOKUK.

AMONG the prominent citizens of Keokuk is Judge Daniel Mooar, at this time president of the Keokuk Gas Light and Coke Company.

He was born in Hillsboro county, New Hampshire, and was the youngest of fifteen children, fourteen of whom lived to grow up to man and womanhood.

He is just two generations from England, on his father's side, and two from Scotland, on his mother's. His grandfather, David Mooar, came from the interior of England when quite a boy, and settled in New England. He was of the Anglo-Norman race, and hence the peculiarity in the spelling of the name.

He was in the revolutionary war, and at the time the English propagated the small-pox through the American camps he fell a victim to that disease.

Judge Mooar's father, Jacob Mooar, was also in the revolutionary war, and fought in the battle of Bennington under General Stark, when in his seventeenth year.

The Judge, while quite small, was sent to a country district school, but some time after the death of his father, which occurred when he was in his twelfth year, he was placed in an academy in Chester, Vermont. While in that institution one of his teachers was the Hon. Horace Maynard, now member of congress from Tennessee.

The remainder of his academical education was in a classical school in Milford, New Hampshire.

In the spring of 1839, while quite a youth, he came to Cincinnati, and finding nothing to do there he went over into northern Kentucky, and for some time taught a district school in Grant county, in that state. After having earned sufficient to warrant his undertaking the study of the law, he became a student in the law office of the Hon. M. M. Benton, at Covington, and subsequently attended the law college in Cincinnati, and graduated in that institution, and was admitted to the bar in March, 1843. He settled in Covington, immediately upon the opposite side of the river from Cincinnati, which enabled him to enjoy all the advantages of that beautiful and thrifty city.

In the spring of 1844 he was married to Lydia A. Southgate, eldest daughter of the Hon. George M. Southgate, of Kentucky.

Immediately upon going to the bar he was necessarily thrown in contact and competition with the very best legal talent the country afforded; it being a well-known fact that at that day Kentucky was celebrated for her able statesmen and jurists. With the bright examples before him of the statesmanship and legal ability of such men as Clay, Crittenden, Hardin, Robertson, the Wickliffs and Marshalls, together with the able lawyers that he daily was brought in contact with, coupled with the fact that he was poor in purse and with a family to support, placed him in a position at once well calculated to inspire and bring out the entire energies of the man.

As an evidence that he fully comprehended and appreciated the position he was placed in from the time he went to the bar, he exhibited an energy and advancement in his profession that meant success, and enabled him in a very short time to acquire sufficient business for an ample support.

He continued to prosecute his profession in Kentucky for about twenty-five years, most of which time he had a large and lucrative practice. He established the reputation of being a profound lawyer, a safe counselor, and a man of high sense of honor and business integrity; hence his success.

During his professional career he never exhibited much taste for politics nor let them interfere partic-
