HOME BUREAU DIRECTORS HELD HELPFUL MEETING

The first meeting of the Home Bureau Directors for 1921 was held Wednesday at the Y. W. C. A., with the following directors present: Mrs. Travis, Franklin township; Mrs. Wright, Fayette township; Mrs. Shanklin, Clinton township; Mrs. Slife, Jackson township; Miss Huffman, Marlon; Mrs. Tanner, president; Miss Neale Knowles, state leader, who was in the county on business, was also present at the meeting.

The first matter of business taken up was a consideration of the Fess home economics amendment. The purpose of this measure is to amend the Vocational education act (Smith-Hughes) in such a way that vocational training in home making pursuits may receive as much aid from Federal funds, and that these funds may be as suitably administered as is the case with vocational training in agricultural and industrial pursuits.

At present, home economics may receive one-fifth as much from federal funds as either of the other two groups of occupations, or one-tenth as much as the two together. Requests were made that this matter go on record as favoring the amendment.

A committee was appointed to take up the matter of securing space in the Home Bureau Messenger for the home department work.

A poultry club, judging club (food and clothing, canning and clothing clubs were decided upon for active work.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Tanner gave a report of the state federation meeting in Des Moines, and Miss Knowles gave a report of the national federation meet-

LAKES OF KILLARNEY PLEAS.

Professor Nicholas Knight of Cornell College Writes of the Loveliness of the Emer- ald Isle.

By NICHOLAS KNIGHT

The beautiful green little island, the land of poetry and song as well as of countless fairy tales, arising from out the Atlantic like a veritable emerald, is so stirred up and agitated in present strife and conflict, that the world is apt not to see the other side of a most pleasing picture; and that is the magnificent scenery in portions of fair Hibernia.

Like Italy, Switzerland, England, Scotland and many other countries, Ireland has its own lake district, and for wild, romantic beauty, the Lakes of Killarney, removed a safe distance from the present "war zone," are probably without a rival in any quarter of the globe.

Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate of England, wrote: "There is nothing in England or Scotland as beautiful as Killarney; and if mountain, wood and water harmoniously blend constitute the most perfect and adequate loveliness that nature presents, it surely must be owned that it has, all the world, no superior."

Killarney is the most entrancing region in the British Isles, or even in northwestern Europe. The beautiful lakes are situated in the midst of Ireland's highest mountains whose sides are covered with a tangled forest that is almost tropical in its density. We recognize the trees with which we are most familiar, as beech, oak, birch elm, and larch are abundant. There is natural beauty everywhere, and also wonderful ruins, reminders of the rich historic Hibernian past. The peasant cottages so characteristic of the lovely green island are everywhere in evidence.

The Lakes of Killarney are a chain of three connecting bodies of water nestling securely in a large valley near the center of County Kerry, in the southwest island.
