WILLIAM K. WOOD

NEVADA, IOWA, MARCH 27, 1917

CALIFORNIA OR BUST?

Among the first tourists that have passed through the county this season, are Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hamilton and baby, Letcher Gilbert, of Seal Beach, California. They left Chicago February 15, 1917, and have walked every day except Sunday, but they walked last Sunday owing to the good roads. They reported the best roads they found west of Chicago were in Story county. They expect to reach the boundary line of California in 140 days, or June 10th.

The baby is 20 months of age and was in excellent health, just having a little cold but standing the trip well.

The prize they will receive will be a handsome six-room bungalow at Seal Beach, California, given by a man at that place. They are making their way by selling post cards.

The wagon was made by the baby's father, and its wheels are 7-inches, the smallest wheels on any wagon passing through the country. The fur coat the baby wears was made from a coat of the mother's and will be proof against the weather that they may meet in the west, where snow blizzards held Californians en route from a visit in Nevada the winter.

Some very interesting episodes of travels were experienced coming from Cedar Rapids to Belle Plaine when they traveled in the hail and rain, and the roads were very bad. Also they meet some very peculiar people—some who are willing to be kind and cheerful, while others are not. At one place the lady went to a farm house and asked to get some hot water for the hot water bottle to keep the baby's feet warm. The lady of the house replied she would get it and in the meantime Mrs. Hamilton was given notice by the husband with a shot gun saying, "reckon you wont hang around here long." To escape the rains, and meet they found shelter in an empty house. They found an old stove which they took in, patched up and made fire in to get dry and warm. They also paid one farmer 75c to sleep in a barn.

The reading painted on the lit the wagon reads "To California or Bust, and "Made in the U. S. A." The friends they meet on this journey wish for them that they may successfully arrive in California at the specified time and live long and happy in the bungalow they are working so hard to win.

LINKS IN LIFE OF STRONG MAN

W. K. WOOD

The death of Hon. William K. Wood, which occurred at his home just south of Iowa Center a little after eight o'clock on the evening of Wednesday, March 21, 1917, removes a man who stood in a class by himself among the pioneers and representative citizens of the county. He came to Story county, then a young man with a family before the land in this county was open to entry, and he squatted upon a piece that was attractive, held it until it was open to entry, entered it and continued to occupy it for a full period of sixty-five years to a month, from the time when he squatted until the time when he died also thereon. Between times he had been about all that a man of strong character, sound principles and iron constitution could be asked or expected to be. He aided his neighbors, suffered privations, overcame difficulties, built up a competence, reared a family, filled local offices, was honored with a pension. How he stood it all is the mystery which all late-comers have to puzzle over when they hear the tales of those who settled in and overcame the wilderness: but though he was not a big man, he was a wiry one, and his length of years is evidence that the experiences did not ruin his health. But it is the way of such matters that some people lie down and die under such stress, while with others it is a momentary matter any adverse effects from which are soon thrown off, and it suggests the saying concerning the Pilgrim Fathers who landed on Plymouth Rock drenched with the surf to camp in the snow on a winter's day, that half of them died the first winter and the other half arrived for an average of forty years. W. K. Wood was of the sort to go through that sort of experience and then to live to bury the second half. As we said before, he was in a class by himself.

Mr. Wood was the fourth of nine children of John G. and Anna (Kennison) Wood, who were born respectively in Kentucky and Virginia, met and married in Ohio, lived in that state and in Indiana until 1854, when they followed younger members of the family to Iowa Center, where they spent their declining years. W. K. was born in Logan county, Ohio, April 19, 1823, and died as stated at Iowa Center, Iowa, March 21, 1917, aged 93 years, 11 months and 2 days. He grew up in Ohio and Indiana and enjoyed the advantages of such schools as there were. He was married first in Indiana in 1847, migrated to Iowa in 1849, arriving at Cory's Grove on June 22 of that year, prospected in succeeding years to the Iowa Territory, Col. Clinton located near Iowa Center in March of 1853, although the dates are slightly confused and his settlement may have been a year earlier.

But though he could stand all the experiences of those pioneer times and conditions, it was difficult with the women. Life was

INGERSOLL'S TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

(As the request of a friend of the Representative we publish this beautiful tribute)

"Lincoln was as patient as Destiny, whose undecipherable hieroglyphics were so deeply engraven on his sad and tragic face. "Nothing discloses real character like the use of power. It is easy for the weak to be gentle. Most people can bear adversity. But if you wish to know what a man really is, give him power. This is the supreme test. It is the glory of Lincoln that, having almost absolute power, he never abused it, except on the side of mercy. "Wealth could not purchase, power could not awe, this divine, this loving man. He knew no fear except the fear of doing wrong. Hating slavery, pitying the master seeking to conquer, not persons, but prejudices—he was the embodiment of the self-denial, the courage, the hope and the nobility of a Nation. He spoke not to inflame, not to upbraid, but to convince. He raised his hands, not to strike but in benediction. He longed to pardon. He loved to see the pearls of joy on cheeks of wife, whose husband he had rescued from death. "Lincoln was the grandest figure of the fiercest civil war. He is the gentlest memory of our world."

out for his permanent location a spot over in Story county, not many miles away indeed, but nevertheless separated from his first location by both Skunk river and Indian creek. And after his removal from Cory's Grove, that locality yet remained for a considerable time the only place there was to go to when he had occasion to go anywhere, and every time he went he had to cross both of those streams both going and coming. He crossed those streams with oxen that were willing enough to go toward their former pastures but not in the opposite direction, with horses that would get scared and snarl themselves up in the harness, with strangers in distress who gave him a dollar for seeing them through the impassable Slough of Despond the first election held in Story county and he helped to organize the county in 1853. He was up to Nevada when the commissioners came here to pick out the location for the county seat, and he bought, platted and laid out the first addition to the plat of the original town, the same appearing yet on the plats as "Wood's Addition." He helped at the raising or rolling of the logs for T. E. Alderman's cabin, which was the beginning of Nevada as a town, and he was around when, as the story goes, old Squire Robinson presiding in justice court at the preliminary examination, sentenced the first murderer in the county to be hanged. But though he could stand all the experiences of those pioneer times and conditions, it was difficult with the women. Life was

CITY ELECTION

PASSES QUIETLY

CONTEST FOR ASSESSOR THE ONLY INTERESTING FEATURE

The city election passed off very quietly, Monday, with little interest manifested aside from the contest for assessor, in which Lars Haugsted was pitted, by his friends, as an independent candidate, against Thomas Stephens, the present incumbent and the caucus nominee of the Citizens' ticket.

In the First ward, a lackadaisical sort of a skirmish was made to rouse opposition to M. C. Allen, the Citizens nominee for councilman, friends of Butler Poolo scoring seventeen votes for him falling short of an even break with Mr. Allen by sixty-four votes.

The returns, semi-authentic but not official, as the count had not been tabulated at the hour of going to press, indicate that Mr. Stephens is elected assessor by three votes, due to his attaining a majority of twenty votes in the Fourth, his home ward, thus overcoming Mr Haugsted's majorities in the First, Second, and Third wards, which totaled seventeen.

The officials who will serve the city for the next two years are:

- Mayor, Charles Hall.
- Councilmen at large, C. C. Harris and J. W. McConkie
- Treasurer, W. D. Childs.
- Assessor, Thomas Stephens.
- First Ward Councilman, M. C. Allen.
- Second Ward Councilman, Mike McLaughlin.
- Third Ward Councilman, F. M. Boardman.
- Fourth Ward Councilman, Charles McCord.

DISTRICT COURT

IN SESSION

ATTORNEY GENERAL HAVNER WORKING WITH GRAND JURY

District court convened Monday with Judge Fry of Boone on the bench. The morning session was devoted to a call of the docket, and the assignment of the cases, and the afternoon was taken up with the final settlement of the Ringheim estate.

The grand jury convened in active session about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and this morning Attorney General Havner came in from Des Moines and is participating in their advancement of the evidence against Quan Sue, the suspect of the Story City murder. The Alcorn vs. Cambridge Mercantile Co. suit came up for hearing this morning and in all likelihood will absorb the attention of the court the greater part of the day.

IOWA FALLS JS. NEVADA IN A BASKET BALL CONTEST

A double header basket ball game was held Saturday evening at the High school gymnasium. The girls played the Iowa Falls girls and were defeated by a score of 6 to 27 in favor of Iowa Falls. The boys played with the Iowa Falls boys were defeated by a score of 12 to 16 in favor of Iowa Falls. The game was a fast one for the boys. The girls had a misfortune of having one of the girls knocked out. Nevertheless both games were very interesting and although defeated the game was good.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

The Thursday club will meet with Mrs. Frances Webb.

The Utility club meets Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. S. Nordskog.

The Social Four club meets Wednesday afternoon with B. A. Fetterhoff.

Mrs. Bert Vinsel will be hostess to the Kensington club at one o'clock luncheon, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. H. Addison will entertain the members of the Third Club, Wednesday, at a 1 o'clock luncheon. A pleasant time is anticipated.

C. E. Bishop of the Iowa State College gave a very interesting address on "Garden Clubs" at the Library, Monday afternoon. The Federation clubs, J. R. Gill presided at the meeting. The work was very nicely worked out.

Miss Maud Wakefield pleasantly entertained the Womans Club at the home of Mr. Vinsel, Monday evening. Miss Mildred has given a very interesting paper in "Commerce" after the various discussions was given the different members.

Mrs. W. O. Payne very pleasantly entertained the Bridge Club at the home of Mrs. Gilles Saturday afternoon. The president of the club was Mrs. Will of Lima, Kan. Mrs. Payne served a two course luncheon assisted by Miss Dorothy Dutton.

Miss Christyna Callison entertained Friday evening at the M. church to a well pleased audience of the W. C. T. U. to the Missionary societies. She gave an interesting talk on Temperance work and W. C. T. U. work. Miss Callison is a state organizer and succeeded in getting a dozen new members.

The True Millennium.

The true millennium, when it comes will not be one great big, all embracing millennium, but a whole lot of the millenniums. Anything else will be just an imitation millennium. The reason for this is easily made out. A millennium, if it means anything worthy of its mellifluous name, is certain blissful state of affairs springing over the surface of the earth with everybody having exactly what they want, and everybody quickly discovering as we go about trying to the reformers and the ideal and the society leaders and the history has Florida had as many tourists as this winter. No matter where one goes they meet swarms of people from the north and east. Anyhow he settled and squatted and fought his battle with the wilderness. He voted at representative office, enjoyed universal esteem, lived placidly through a much drawn-out old age and finally has been gathered to his fathers at an age to which it is given to very few men to attain. He came to Story county to chop logs for a cabin in the wilderness, made the pioneer's successful struggle for a homestead and lived to see the wilderness develop into one of the richest counties anywhere and the homestead to become worth more per acre than was the total value of any quarter section in the county when he came here.

Mr. Wood has been the source perhaps of more pioneer stories of the county than we know of as having come from any other source, and they have always borne the stamp of verity, although appearing as wonderful as the yarns of the Arabian Nights when put opposite the facts and conditions of the community as the present generation knows them. His original settlement in Iowa was at Cory's Grove in Elkhart township of Polk county, Mr. Wood's first wife having been a daughter of the pioneer, and for reasons that were doubtless good then he plucked

But though he could stand all the experiences of those pioneer times and conditions, it was different with the women. Life was hard and they broke under it. Mr. Wood was four times married and it was the wife who came to him after the pioneer struggle was won that has been his helpmate for more than forty years and who now survives him. He was married first in Kosciusko county, Indiana, October 7, 1847, to Melinda Cory, who bore him three sons, came with him to Iowa and died here March 29, 1862. The boys were Corv, Curtis A. and James H., of whom Cory died as a young man, and already married, in 1873, and James H. in Chicago a few weeks ago, while Curtis A., who was elected sheriff of Story county in 1887 and 1889, is actively engaged in the livestock commission business in Chicago. His second wife was Louisa Ingersol, who died February 3, 1874, leaving him one daughter, Carrie, who is now Mrs. Edwin Pizer of Nevada. He married third, on December 3, 1870, Mrs. Julia Hobbs, who died May 8, 1874, leaving him a daughter, Queen, who is now Mrs. Edwin Summers of Oregon City, Oregon. FISHES TREMBLE WITH FEAR Inhabitants of Water, It Is Asserted, Show the Same Emotions as Do Domestic Pets.

To most people whose opportunities for observing fish life are limited to occasional visits to an aquarium, the thought rarely occurs that these finny inhabitants of the water are capable of as many varied emotions as are our domestic pets, the cat and dog, says Popular Science.

In an account of the investigations conducted by Dr. Francis Ward, an English zoologist, into the behavior and life of fish in their natural environment, the following appears:

"We are accustomed to think that only we humans become pallid with fear or agitated with joy. But some experiments with perch in the artificial pond show that when their repose is suddenly disturbed by tapping on the glass, the fish visibly tremble and the bars which are characteristic of this species actually disappear for the time being only to reappear when the disturbance is removed and the equilibrium of the fish is restored.

"Sometimes a pike that is rapidly advancing on his prey becomes suspicious about the latter's character. The pursuer will suddenly stop, in an attitude of doubt, his back will arch and he will remain suspended as though studying the cause of his suspicions. Only when he is thoroughly reassured does he become rigid, to advance to the final attack; if his suspicion is not allayed he drops to the bottom of the tank."

The reason for this is easily made. A millennium, if it means any worthy of its mellifluous name, certain blissful state of affairs spring over the surface of the earth everybody, having exactly what wants, is perfectly satisfied. Be quickly discover as we go about the society leaders and the experts and the politicians the two of them want the same thing that unless each one of them gets the right kind of millennium, he will be mad and won't play. Therefore is obvious that the same millennium even if it were a bangup good would not do for all of them.

Exercise and Good Nerves.

A certain world's champion has been seen sometimes jogging at a dog like a prizefighter, around Central Park, New York city. You might think that he was a lightweight pugilist, a "distance man," but the matter which he is training is a test of more than of strength, for all he is a 15-ounce cue, Charles P. Curtis writes in the World's Work. His is Willie Hoppe, the champion hard player of the world. He knows well what he is about; steady and confidence keep company good health; and one of the best to peel off your coat and go them.

Overlooked.

Wife—Mabel has just informed that she is going to be married.
Husband—Have you seen the young man?

"Not yet."
"Um! Considering that she is your daughter, don't you think she should have consulted us first?"

"But you must remember, dear, she is a girl."

Episcopal Church, and he is now steward in his church, and is acting as assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school, the latter institution numbering about forty in actual attendance.

Hon. William K. Wood, farmer and raiser and breeder of thoroughbred stock, Iowa Centre, Iowa. The political career and experience of Mr. Wood, as well as his connection with the agricultural and stock-raising affairs of this community, have contributed to give him a wide and popular acquaintance with nearly every citizen of Story County, if not personally, than by name. William K. Wood was born in Logan County, Ohio, on April 19, 1823, his parents being John G. and Anna (Kennison) Wood, natives of Kentucky and Pennsylvania, respectively. The father went to Ohio when a young man, was there married, and followed agricultural pursuits in Logan and Allen Counties until 1840. He then moved to Indiana, and there remained some fourteen years. About 1854 he moved to Iowa, and located near where his son William now resides, where his death occurred on January 27, 1870, at the age of seventy-eight years. He served in the War of 1812, and was on the Northern frontier. He was a prominent church man, and a leading member of the Baptist denomination. His wife died about 1844. The paternal grandfather of our subject was a native of England. William K. Wood, the fourth of nine children, four sons and five daughters, all of whom, with the exception of one son, grew to maturity and became the heads of families, was a young man when he moved to Indiana with his parents, and there he received an ordinary education in the common schools. He remained with his parents until twenty-four years of age and then started out for himself, remaining in Indiana up to 1849. In the fall of that year he came to Iowa, and located first in Polk County, where he tilled the soil up to 1851 or 1852. After this he came to Story County, and as his means were rather limited, he bought but a small tract where he now lives. He has been very successful, and is now one of the wealthiest farmers of Story County, owning at the present time 1,200 acres of land, with about 400 acres in the home place, all fine land and in a good state of cultivation. He has a large two-story house, good, substantial barns and out-buildings. He is the owner of three other farms, one of 220 acres in Polk County, and he keeps a good breed of stock, having fed and bred cattle and hogs for over twenty years. He has some fine Short-horn cattle and Poland-China hogs, and also some good horses. In the management of everything connected with his farm he displays excellent judgment and thoroughness, qualities which can not fail of success. He has ever held to the principles and supported the measures of the Republican party. In the fall of 1868 he was nominated and elected to represent Story County, re-elected in 1872, and served through two terms of the Legislature, serving on several of the most important committees with credit to himself and his constituents. Mr. Wood has served as delegate to the State and other conventions, and his personal popularity is thus shown. He was married in Kosciusko County, Ind., in October, 1847, to Miss Melinda Cory, a native of Elkhart County, Ind., and the daughter of Jeremiah Cory. To them were born three children: Cory (grew to manhood, married and died in this county in 1873), Curtis A. [see sketch], and James H. (who is married and resides in the county). The mother of these children died on March 29, 1862. Mr. Wood afterward married Miss Louisa Ingersol, a native of Pennsylvania, and the daughter of David Ingersol. One child, Carrie (wife of Edwin Pizer, of this county) (was the result of this union. Mrs. Wood died on February 3, 1870, and Mr. Wood was married again on December 8, 1870, to Mrs. Julia Hobbs, a widow, and the daughter of Mr. Addis, a native of Ohio. One daughter is the fruit of this union. Mrs. Wood died on May 8, 1874. Mr. Wood is now living with his fourth wife, whose maiden name was Sarah Griffith, but who was the widow of a Mr. Davis. She was born and reared in Ohio, and by her first marriage became the mother of one child, a daughter, who is grown and married. Mr. Wood is a member of the Baptist and his wife a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He has had three wives who were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He is a Mason, but has not met with the lodge for a number of years.

Jesse R. Wood. Prominent among the successful men whose history forms the glory of Story County, Iowa, is found Jesse R. Wood, an extensive farmer and stock-raiser of Indian Creek Township. Mr. Wood was born in Allen County, Ohio, August 19, 1832, and is a son of John G. Wood, who was born in Mason County, Ky., July 17, 1792. After a happy youth passed in the Blue-Grass State, he moved to Ohio, where he met and married Miss Anna Kinnison, of Greenbrier County, Va. After his marriage Mr. Wood settled in Logan County, Ohio, in 1816, from thence he moved to Allen County in 1826, after which he located in Story County July 17, 1854, remaining there until the time of his death, January 27, 1870. He served in the War of 1812. The subject of our sketch moved with his parents to Indiana in September, 1840, and remained with them until nineteen years of age, when he located in Story County, Iowa, while there was still an abundance of game. His estate of 220 acres is in a state of excellent cultivation and very well located. In politics Mr. Wood was a Republican, but is now an Independent. In 1862 he married Miss Julia E. Wilson, of Ohio, a daughter of Alfred and Anna Adams Wilson. They are the parents of six children: Anna (who is now the wife of Walter King), Henrietta, Harvey A., Louisa A., Jessie E. and Ada L. Mrs. Wood and her daughters are members of the Christian Church, Mr. Wood belonging to the Baptist Church. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and also of the Grand Army of the Republic. Through the late war he served from 1861 until discharged April 29, 1862, on account of disability, as third sergeant Company E, Third Iowa Infantry Volunteers.

Curtis A. Wood, county sheriff. Among the representative, thorough-going and efficient officials of Story County, Iowa, there is probably no one more deserving of mention than Mr. Wood, for his residence within its borders has extended throughout his entire life, his birth having occurred here on the 9th of October, 1855. He became familiar with the duties of farm life at a very early period, his father being a well-to-do agriculturist, but, in addition to tilling the soil, he attended the common schools near his home, and in 1873 entered the Iowa State Agricultural College, where he continued to pursue his studies until the spring of 1876. He left this institution a wide-awake, enterprising and well-informed young man, and immediately began buying and shipping stock to Chicago, an enterprise which tended to develop his knowledge of things in general, and human nature in particular. In pursuing this calling, he became well and favorably known throughout the county, and, being a staunch Republican in his political views, his numerous friends elected him to the position of county sheriff in 1887, and in 1889 re-elected him with a majority of 1,805. He is the first native-born resident of the county elected to a county office, but the very efficient manner in which he has discharged his duties has fully testified to the wisdom of the people's choice. The confidence which they have in him is intelligently placed, for they have known him from boyhood, and have had every opportunity to judge of his character and qualifications, and, to his credit be it said, that all speak warmly in his praise. He was married on the 13th of September, 1877, his wife being Miss Rose E. Beatty, her birth having occurred in Kosciusko County, Ind., November 5, 1860, and to their union two bright little boys have been born: Claud K. (born October 31, 1878), and Walter R. (born October 2, 1880). Mr. Wood is a member of the A. F. & A. M., Herald Lodge No. 455, of Maxwell, the I. O. O. F., of that place, and he also belongs to Sampson Lodge No. 77, K. of P. His parents, William K. and Malinda (Cory) Wood, were born in the "Buckeye State" in 1822 and 1830, respectively, but the latter was called from the scene of her earthly labors at the untimely age of thirty-two years, her demise occurring in Story County, Iowa, whither they had moved about 1854, being among the first settlers of this region. They were the parents of two children, of whom the subject of this sketch is the elder. His record as a private citizen, as well as a public man, is untarnished, and in all the affairs of life he has borne himself in an upright and straightforward manner, and is recognized to-day as a man of true worth.

Solomon Young is a pioneer farmer of this county, but since disposing of his farm in 1889, he has devoted his attention to the breeding of fine stock. He was born in Somerset County, Penn., March 4, 1827, and is a son of David and Mary (Ash) Young, who were also born there, the former in 1793, and the latter in 1798, their deaths occurring in 1877 and 1843, respectively. Solomon Young is the fourth of their six children, three of whom are living at the present time, and in his boyhood days learned the details of farm work under the direction of his father. His knowledge of books was acquired in the old time subscription schools, and after he had reached years of discretion he began tilling the soil on his own responsibility, and carried on the same in Pennsylvania for three years, or until 1855, at which time he came to Story County, Iowa, and settled on a farm in what is now known as Milford Township, which he named. He entered his land on the 14th of April, 1855, and on this farm he continued to make his home until 1884, when he gave up the active duties of life and removed to Nevada, selling his old homestead in 1889. Having been long a resident of this county, and an honorable and upright man in every business transaction, he is well known throughout this region, and is highly esteemed and respected. He has always supported the men and measures of the Democratic party, and has been trustee and also justice of the peace of Milford Township. He belongs to Lodge No. 99, of the A. F. & A. M., of Nevada. Miss Louisa Boucher, who was born in Somerset County, Penn., November 7, 1831, became his wife on the 5th of February, 1852, and by her he has become the father of the following children: Almira M., Hiram B., George K., Ida A., Charles E., William M., and Marion B.

Theodore Elihu Alderman, the pioneer merchant of Story County, has had mention in various chapters in this history. In the early days his prominence in business, also as the county school-fund commissioner, and as the leading citizen of the county seat, gave him great influence. This, by strict integrity in his dealings with all sorts of people, he has fully maintained and still enjoys. In the summer of 1853 he started out from the village of Louis, and was connected with that institution for one year. In July, 1910, he began practice at Slater, where he showed an ability as a physician and surgeon which attracted a steadily growing patronage. Recently, however, he removed to Ogden, Boone county, Iowa.

On the 21st of September, 1910, Dr. Ross was united in marriage to Miss Edna Hendry, a daughter of J. G. Hendry, a well known banker of Bridgewater, Iowa. In addition to his professional societies Dr. Ross is prominently identified with the Masonic order, holding membership in Home Lodge, No. 370, A. F. & A. M.; Des Moines Consistory, No. 3, A. A. S. R.; and Za-ga-zig Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., all of Des Moines. He is also identified with Des Moines Lodge, No. 98, B. P. O. E. He is not affiliated with any religious denomination, but his wife holds membership in the Methodist church. Politically he gives his support to individuals rather than to party and therefore belongs to that growing class of citizens recognized as independent. Having made thorough preparation for the practice of his profession, Dr. Ross has met with marked success from the very start and he now enjoys the confidence of all who know him. Being gifted with a pleasing address he readily makes friends and is recognized as a valuable citizen not only on account of his ability in the healing art but also on account of the interest which he takes in the general welfare of the community.

WILLIAM K. WOOD.

One of the first pioneers of Story county, now living, was William K. Wood, who has resided in this county continuously for fifty-nine years. He was born in Logan county, Ohio, on the 19th of April, 1823, and is a son of John G. and Anna (Kennison) Wood. The father was a native of Kentucky and the mother of Virginia, but they were both living in Ohio at the time of their marriage and continued to live there for some years after. During the boyhood of our subject, however, they removed to Kosciusko county, Indiana, where Mrs. Wood died in 1844. About ten years thereafter John G. Wood went to Iowa, locating in Story county, where he was living at the time of his demise on the 27th of January, 1870, having arrived at the venerable age of seventy-eight years. At the age of twenty he entered the service of his country being stationed on the northern frontier during our second war with Great Britain in 1812. He was a very religious man and for many years was a communicant of the Baptist church. The paternal grandfather of William K. Wood was a native of England.

Mr. Wood was reared at home, obtaining his education in the brief sessions of the district school which was held in a log schoolhouse, which, in common with those of the day, was but inadequately lighted by means of the tiny panes in the small windows and the ventilation and heating were equally poor, the scholars sitting near the fireplace suffering from the intense heat and those near the windows shivering with the cold.

On the 17th of October, 1847, Mr. Wood was united in marriage to Miss Melinda Corey and two years later he came west, settling in Corey Grove, Polk county, Iowa, on the 22d of June, 1849. They continued to live there for eighteen months and in the spring of 1851 removed to Story county, locating on the farm where Mr. Wood still lives. It is situated on the northeast quarter of section 16, Indian Creek township, and was originally school land. When he first settled here all grain had to be hauled to Oskaloosa, that being the nearest milling point, and it required two weeks to make the trip, owing to the distance and the poor roads, which in many instances were little more than wagon tracks across the prairie. Such conditions as these could not exist long, however, in a community where such enterprising men as Mr. Wood resided, and very shortly he and his cousin, Christopher Wood, together with Nathan Webb erected a steam mill, adapted to both grist and saw mill purposes, just north of Iowa Center. This was the first steam mill built in Story county and all of the lumber and machinery had to be hauled in wagons from Keokuk. It was of great assistance to the settlers, however, and did much to simplify living conditions being in operation for many years. Mr. Wood has ever been a progressive man, always ready to aid every movement which would in any way tend to better conditions in the community and such men always succeed, and he has not been the exception. At one time he owned thirteen hundred acres of land, which he has now divided among his children, every acre of which was acquired through his thrift, tireless energy and firm determination to win. Work was very scarce in Iowa in the early days and wages very poor. He arrived here with a sick wife and five dollars in money, but undaunted by conditions and ever hopeful he cheerfully walked eight miles to obtain two days' work and at another time he went nine miles for three days' work, for which he received eight bushels of wheat, which provided them with their bread that year.

Mrs. Wood died on the 29th of March, 1862. There were three children by this marriage but Cory died in 1863. Those living are Curtis A. and James H., two of the most prominent and successful live-stock commission merchants in Chicago. Mr. Wood was again married, his second union being with Miss Louisa Ingersoll, a native of Pennsylvania and a daughter of David Ingersoll. One child was born of this union, Carrie, the wife of Edwin Pizer, of St. James, Minnesota. Mrs. Wood passed away on the 3d of February, 1870, and on the 8th of the following December Mr. Wood married Mrs. Julia (Addis) Hull, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio. They had one daughter, Queen, who is now the wife of E. P. Summers, of Oregon City, Oregon. On the 8th of May, 1874, Mrs. Wood died and later Mr. Wood married his fourth and present wife, formerly Mrs. Sarah Davis, a daughter of John M. Griffith, who came to Story county from McDonough county, Illinois, in 1868. Mrs. Wood was born and reared in Highland county, Ohio, and by her first marriage had one child, Ida B., the wife of Dr. Frank Thompson, of Cambridge, this county.

Mr. Wood's political allegiance has always been given to the republican party. He voted at the first election held in Story county, the polling place being McDaniel's shanty, which stood on the east side of Indian creek. In the fall of 1868 he was elected to represent his district in the legislature and was reelected in 1870. He served on several of the most important committees, discharging his duties with great credit to himself and the constituency to whom he was indebted for his office. He has always taken an active part in local politics, serving for many years in the various township offices. He is identified with the Masonic fraternity through membership in the Nevada Lodge. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wood are members of the church, he of the Baptist and she of the Methodist Episcopal, but they worship in the Evangelical church in Iowa Center.

Owing to his long residence in the county and his great service in the upbuilding of the community as well as his faithful and at all times capable discharge of public duties he is one of the best known and most highly esteemed and respected citizens in this district.

W. J. FREED.

In the eightieth year of his age, W. J. Freed makes his home in Ames and for more than fifty-six years he has been a resident of Story county, so that he is today numbered among its honored pioneers. He was long associated with agricultural interests but some years ago put aside business cares and is now living retired in the enjoyment of well earned rest. He was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, September 19, 1831. His parents, Samuel and Nancy (Jones) Freed, were both natives of Pennsylvania, where the mother spent her entire life, while the father always lived in that state with the exception of his last two years, which were passed in Michigan. He was a blacksmith by trade and an excellent mechanic. He served a seven years' apprenticeship and then followed the trade throughout his entire life. His family numbered eleven sons and two daughters, all of whom reached mature years with the exception of three, while four of the sons and one daughter are yet living. After losing his first wife the father married again and had two daughters by that union.

W. J. Freed remained with his parents until eighteen years of age and during his youthful days worked in his father's blacksmith shop and also at farm labor for others. In 1849 he left the Keystone state and went to Porter county, Indiana, where he joined his older brother, Paul, residing there until 1854. He was married in 1852 and then began farming on his own account, but after two years removed to Story county, Iowa, where he has

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,

Des Moines, Nov. 8th, 1871.

Hon.

Iowa.

DEAR SIR:

It has been the custom of each House, at the commencement of every session of the General Assembly, to cause to be prepared and published, a table, showing certain statistics in connection with the names of the members thereof. This is usually done in much haste, hence is frequently incorrect; especially in the orthography of names. In order to prevent errors of this kind, and to have the table in print at the commencement of the session, I transmit you this circular, with a request that you will fill up the blanks found below, and return to this office as soon as practical. You will please give the first name in full, and write plainly.
