Funeral services will be held at the home at two o'clock Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was an honored member.

The deceased was born at Rockport, N. Y., August 9, 1830. On Nov. 23, 1857, he was united in marriage to Anaspatia Morton, at Ypsilanti, Mich. They left on their wedding day for the then sparsely settled state of Iowa, locating at Alden, Hardin county. The next year Mr. Pritchard was chosen principal of the Webster City schools, which position he successfully filled for a year. He then went to Hancock county where he was elected to the position of clerk of the courts and was also admitted to the bar. In 1863 he was elected to the state legislature from the counties comprising that district. He served one term, refusing a second nomination. In the summer of 1864 he was appointed to an important clerkship in the pension department at Washington and filled this until near the close of the war. In 1871 he returned to Alden and conducted a successful general mercantile business at that place for 14 years. In 1885 he and his family came to this city and they have since resided here. Mr. Pritchard continuing in active business until about ten years ago. With his energetic nature it was with great reluctance that he yielded to the entreaties of his children to retire from active business life and spend his remaining years in the comfort and quietude of his delightful home. In early manhood he became a member of the Masonic order and was instrumental in organizing the first Masonic lodge in Alden and was its first Worshipful Master. He was also the first Worshipful Master of the Hawarden lodge. He was a man of sterling integrity, whose word was as good as his bond, and his was a long, eventful and useful life.

was born at Lockport, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1830. In 1836 his parents moved to Washtenaw Co., Mich.; here he received an academic education, attending the "Union" schools at Ypsilanti, and afterward began the study of law. In the spring of 1857, he removed to Alden, Hardin county, and during the fall became the proprietor of the "Alden House," which he ran one year. He then removed to Hancock county, where he was admitted to the bar in 1858, and afterward practiced his profession and teaching. In 1860 he was elected clerk of the courts of this county, which office he filled for two years; elected in 1863, and was a member of the State Legislature of 1864; was soon after appointed department clerk in the interior department at Washington, D. C., but finding a clerkship not suited to his taste, and that the chances of promotion were few, he soon after resigned, and returned to Hancock county and continued the practice of his chosen profession. Here he remained until 1871, when he moved back to Alden, entering into partnership with his brother, in the mercantile business, and where he at present resides.

James Crow was a native of Licking Co., Ohio, and one of the early pioneers of Hancock county. Although admitted to the bar, he was a man of small parts and limited education, and was never entrusted with the management of any important cases, but contented himself with practicing chiefly in justices' courts. Some eight or nine years ago he removed to Pottawattomie Co., Iowa, but is now living in the territory of Dakota, engaged in the real estate and land business.

Byron F. Scott was admitted to practice at the bar, in this county, at the June term of court, 1871. He was a man of fair average ability, but supersensitive, and keenly felt any joke or jibe of his associates. He has left the county, and been entirely lost sight of.

William Kinsey came to Hancock county in the spring of 1870, and taught school during that summer and the succeeding year. In October, 1871, he was admitted as a member of the legal fraternity and in partnership with James Barclay, who had shortly before made his appearance, hung out their shingle, as attorneys at law, etc., but alas! for their hopes of future gain, no fish came to their net, no case was placed in their hands, and in a short time these briefless lawyers packed up and shaking the dust from off their feet, left. Mr. Kinsey is now at Milton, Muscatine county, engaged in the practice of his chosen profession and has a large and lucrative business, and is one of the rising men of that community. Of Mr. Barclay, little or nothing further is known.

A legal luminary, by the name of B. F. Westover, cast its light over the town of Britt, in August, 1882, but it shone for but a comparative short time, when it disappeared. Of Mr. Westover but little seems to be known, as his stay was but for a couple of months.

A. C. Ripley, a promising young attorney of Hancock Co., Iowa, was born in Tuscarawas Co., Ohio, on the 11th of February, 1849. His parents were Andrew and Eliza J. (Crossley) Ripley, who emigrated to Ohio in an early day. A. C., the youngest of eight children, was
