Death of Col. J. D. Test.

One of the pioneers of the Missourri slope is dead. Colonel James D.
Test, of Council Bluffs died in Chicago on Thursday evening, the 18th inst.

For nearly fifteen years we had known him well and intimately.—
He was one of the most enterprising and public spirited citizens of Iowa.
In many responsible and honorable positions he had served the people
among whom he lived with marked ability, unsullied integrity and unquestioned fidelity. And although held in high esteem as a public man,
it was in social life and in the generous exercise of the kindly offices of friendship and hospitality that he was most distinguished as a faultless model of the true Western gentleman.

No man living had better evidence of the depth and genuineness of his attachments than the writer of this article, who during a long and dangerous illness, away from home,
found in Colonel Test at once a warm hearted friend and a sleepless watcher at his bedside. One grave has closed over the memories of that tireless and cheerful friendship, but they can only be obliterated
by that one which shall shut us,
too, out from life and light.

He was a true man. His judgment always clear and generally correct never erred save in deference to the promptings of a kind and impulsively generous heart. In all this life we shall never find a friend more unselfish, more self-denying or truer in adversity than he upon whose early and sudden death we write these heart-felt words. His name, wreathed in the recollections of his good deeds, shall long be held
dear by neighbors, friends and kind-
red. Nebr. City News.

THE very best thing which Spain
can do with Cuba is to "let it slide."
The present insurrection will most certainly, if a failure, become a rebellious germ which, in time, will grow into an insurrection whose power will annihilate the rule of the Spaniard. As a matter of finance,

Col. James D. Test.

A dispatch received here yesterday afternoon, announced that the subject of this article was lying seriously ill in Chicago. Scarce had an interchange of feelings between friends relative thereto been made, when another dispatch was received announcing his death from congestion of the lungs. This sad news cast a gloom into the circles of his acquaintance. Dead! His friends could hardly bring themselves to believe that he, who, but a few days before had left them in seeming enjoyment of the best of health, could now be cold in death. The flash of the lightning along the wires announcing to his friends that he was no more, was so sudden—so unexpected—that the nerves of many were sensibly affected and the eyes of friends met in inquiring glances as they talked of him who had been so suddenly snatched from among them by death.

Col. James D. Test, has been long known in the political history of Iowa, as a prominent actor in the many campaigns between the parties in this State, always acting with the Democratic party, and while by his course he may have made many enemies, he also made for himself many warm friends, who will mourn his death and sympathize with the relatives in their affliction.

Mr. Test was one of the earliest settlers of Council Bluffs, and, if our memory serves us rightly was the second State Senator elected from the Missouri Slope and represented what is now a portion of three Congressional districts.

We understand that preparations are being made to have his body brought here for burial, and that on the arrival of his remains appropriate funeral ceremonies will be inaugurated.

DEATH OF COL. JAMES D. TEST.

A telegram announces the death of Colonel JAMES D. TEST, of this City at the residence of Robert Forsyth, Esq., General Freight Agent of the Illinois Central Railroad in Chicago. Colonel Test left here a few weeks ago on a visit to friends in that city, and a day or two since took suddenly ill of lung fever. On Thursday at ten o'clock in the forenoon, a telegram was received, saying that he was ill, but not dangerous. At ten minutes after six, in the afternoon another was received saying that he was no better, and for Colonel Grosvenor to come at once. At forty minutes after seven the announcement was received that he died at six o'clock in the afternoon. His age was about forty years. He was born in the State of Indiana, and came to this place about 1853, and with the exception of a short time spent in Colorado, was always a resident of Council Bluffs. He was a lawyer by profession, and besides being in the front rank, whilst in practice, he was a gentleman of fine literary acquirements and ability. Of a kind and social disposition, he had many friends who grieve as for the loss of a brother. We have known him but a short time, yet his intimate connection with the early history of the city, his extensive acquaintance with our people, and his genial nature warrant us in saying that his loss will be severely felt in this community. But whilst we have reason to mourn for the departure of a beloved companion, our bereavement is incomparable to that of his young daughter who, having lost an affectionate mother by death a few years ago, is deprived of the love and counsel of a devoted father. Those of us who knew him best, loved him most. Several of our prominent citizens will go to Chicago in the train this morning to receive his remains to the end that they may be deposited by the side of his wife, who preceded him to the country beyond the grave.

Funeral of the late J. D. Test.

FIREMEN'S UNION MEETING.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Mar. 19, 1869. The meeting was called to order and on motion Mr. Lewis Henn was elected Chairman, and A. E. Steinmetz, Secretary.

The following resolution was presented and adopted:

Resolved, By the several fire companies of the city of Council Bluffs, in mass convention assembled, that each company, in full uniform, will attend the funeral of Brother James D. Test, late a member of Bluff City Steam Fire Company, No. 1.

On motion a committee consisting of John Conn, O. Johnson, Lewis Henn and A. E. Steinmetz, was appointed to confer with the Odd Fellows and act in conjunction with them in making the necessary arrangements for the funeral.

Moved and carried that the several fire companies meet at their respective places at 9 o'clock on Sunday morning.

The Secretary was instructed to furnish a copy of these proceedings to the BUGLE and Nonpareil for publication.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

L. HENN, Chairman.

A. E. STEINMETZ, Secretary.

Chamounie Valley.

We are indebted to Miss Florence Fetter one of the pupils of the German school in this city for the following translation of one of the letters of the celebrated German poet Goethe:

CHAMOUNIE, Nov. 4, 9 o'clock p. m.

I take the pen that I may approach nearer to you in thought, though I know it were better that I repose for a while from my mental labors.

Selensie, in a beautiful open valley, we leave behind. During our rest I must particularly notice the white, fleecy clouds enveloping this, the Chamounie valley. I have observed the same phenomenon in other countries but that rising from the snow mountains of Burn, is the finest I have ever seen. In soft fleecy transparent evaporation the sun seems to draw upward to himself these snow-capped summits. The point before us closes the valley, gradually growing in elevations until in the end the slopes become cliffs, mounting high, and still higher one above the other, and from these rocks the Arva bursts, thundering in torrents to the pebbly basin below. Through the valley, we wind around the cliffs, ever before us always growing higher, are the snow mountains. On these the scenery is constantly changing. Occasionally in front are green pine forests—on our right deep dells, the tops of their pines corresponding in height with our position. On our left, were mountains bold and pointed, and we felt that we were advancing nearer a higher chain of mountains. Now passing through a broad, bed of pebbles and rocks, (washed down the declivities by summer freshets) we enter a very pleasant valley in which is located the pretty little village of Servos. Hence the road leads around some rocks, again bringing us to the Arva, where we ascend the mountains. The masses now become greater, looming up in gigantic vastness. Here it seems Nature, with rude hands first began to build the Great Immense. When we entered the Chamounie valley it was growing dark, and to us this Great Immense was only visible. The stars can Snow fell in this section about daylight this morning, in sufficient quantity to whiten the house tops and the ground, presenting quite a winterish appearance. It remained but a short time, however, passing rapidly away before the influence of the rays of the rising sun. At noon all traces of the snow were gone.

Funeral of the late James D. Test.

One of the most imposing sights that we have witnessed in the West, was the scene presented to our eyes at the depot of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad in this city, yesterday, Sunday, the 21st inst., on the arrival of the remains of the late James D. Test, under charge of Messrs. E. Ryan and J. L. Stewart—these gentlemen having been expected to go to Chicago to receive and see to the transportation of the remains to this city.

At one o'clock the Odd Fellows of this city, and the members of one of the Omaha lodges, met at their Hall according to previous notice to make arrangements for receiving the remains, and superintending the burial thereof. The several fire companies of this city—the Bluff City, steam fire engine; the Rescue, hand engine; the Protection, hook and ladder; the Phoenix, hook and ladder, and the Fire Kings, of Omaha—met at the respective places of meeting in the city for a similar purpose. Matters being properly arranged, a procession was formed and marched to the depot, where was already assembled a large concourse of our citizens, making as we have said, one of the most imposing scenes of the character we have ever witnessed in the West.

The train arrived at about 3 o'clock and the remains were taken in charge by the Odd Fellows, who placed them in the hearse, when the procession proceeded up Broadway to Pearl, thence down Pearl to the Episcopal Church, where brief services were had in accordance with the ritual of that church. After which, crossing to Main, the procession was again formed in proper order, and moved north on Main to Washington Avenue, thence to the Avenue leading to Fairview Cemetery on the bluffs overlooking the Missouri river.

On arrival at the grave, the Episcopal Church burial service was read, after which the Odd Fellows performed the last solemn rites of their Order over the grave of their departed brother.

"Earth to earth and dust to dust"—he who erst-while was full of life and in the seeming enjoyment of the best of health, now lies buried in the cold and silent tomb. Peace to his ashes.

Four new dwellings are reported to be in course of erection in the vicinity of the Chicago and Northwestern depot. That portion

We clip the following "amusing fact" from the Ohio State Journal, organ of Jacobin politics in Ohio:
"It is an amusing fact that the bulk of means of the ex-King of Hanover, a prince noted for his absolutist tendencies and of his hatred of republican institutions, is invested in American five-twenties."
Aye, very "amusing" to the bondholders, who are exempted from taxation, and to their paid organs. It don't seem quite so funny to the hard working tax payers to be payers to be paying his "absolute" kingship six per cent. in gold on these bonds that were sold for sixty cents on the dollar.—Crisis first election held under the new character, he was elected Recorder of the City of Council Bluffs. In the fall of that year he was the Republican candidate for Senator against W. H. M. Pusey, the successful Democratic candidate. In 1859 he was appointed by the Council, City Attorney of Council Bluffs. In the Presidential Campaign of 1860 he was prominent among the public speakers on the Republican side. In 1861 he was appointed Register of the United States Land Office at Council Bluffs and held that position for eight years. This, however, did not, as it would seem, interfere with his activity in politics, for in 1863 he was one of the delegates to the Republican State Convention, and in 1864 he was chosen as one of the aldermen of the City.

James D. Test was another of the early lawyers of Council Bluffs, and became notable as such as well as a man of public affairs. I met him a number of times, but have very little data concerning him. He occupied a number of public offices; was one of the early aldermen of Council Bluffs in 1856, and in 1854 was elected to the State Senate, and served in the Fifth and Sixth General Assemblies with signal efficiency. I know that in the early period of my professional life he was regarded as a man of decided ability and influence.

R. L. Douglas was a very able lawyer, whom I frequently met at the State Supreme Court and the Federal Court. According to Mr. Bloomer, as stated in the foregoing sketch of Mr. Price, he came to Council Bluffs in 1854. He was not only a good lawyer, but a widely useful man in public affairs, and sometimes what seemed to be in subordinate capacities. In 1861 Mr. Douglas was elected a member of the first County Board of Supervisors, and was chosen chairman of that body, E. F. Burdick, Clerk of the District Court, acting ex-officio. In 1864 he was a member of the City Council, and again in 1866. In the same year he was elected President of the Council Bluffs & St. Joseph Railroad Company. In the fall of 1868 he was elected Judge of the new Circuit Court.

The new Judge gave careful attention to the probate business of the county, which had, under the old system (of county court) been very loosely administered, soon placing it in a condition of order and regularity hitherto sadly wanting. And in other respects the business of the court was ably conducted by the new Judge.

C. E. Stone may be ranked as one of the notable lawyers of the early period, and as a contemporary of those mentioned, but concerning his early life and career I have scarcely any data. I find that in 1858 he was elected City Attorney of Council Bluffs.

Caleb Baldwin, Samuel Clinton, George Snyder, Robert Percival, B. F. Montgomery, Lewis W. Ross, Joseph R. Reed, William F. Sapp, Joseph Lyman.

Caleb Baldwin was in his day perhaps better known to all the people of Iowa than any other of its citizens. This was attributable to both his mental caliber

Description:

This database is an index to individuals enumerated in the 1860 United States Federal Census, the Eighth Census of the United States. Census takers recorded many details including each person's name, age as of the census day, sex, color, birthplace, occupation of males over age fifteen, and more. No relationships were shown between members of a household. Additionally, the names of those listed on the population schedule are linked to actual images of the 1860 Federal Census.
