Samuel Gamble
James Gammien Wright was born in Ohio in February, 1817. Died at Col- lege Springs, August 24, 1894. It is with sadness that we announce the departure of this another hero of the "Sixties." He has long lived a re- spected and influential citizen in our town and leaves hosts of friends who mourn his departure. The funeral ser- vices were conducted by Dr. Moffitt at the U. P. Church, Saturday, p. m.

When the guests were well clothed and hungry, black inscribed cards were ... to each one secured partners for supper, and soon a merry crowd of dis- robed spirits was scattered over the lawn, seated about the tables, ... abundance of toothsome refreshment. When it came to devouring ... food not one shade could have ... found. They were all material, ... mortal. The supper disappeared with a healthy flourish, and, after a pleasant social chat in earthly parts, the company dispersed, universally de- claring the party a perfect and unpre- cedented success.

A Great Day for the Church.

On Sunday the German Lutheran church, northwest of town, celebrated the 25th anniversary of its existence, and it made the occasion of general rejoicing, not only by the members of the church, but by all who know the good work that has been done. An- nouncements have been out for some weeks, giving the date of the silver jubilee, and the fine church building was filled to its utmost capacity. Up- wards of fifty were present from Clar- inda. The services were rendered by both German and English and the four sermons are pronounced most excel- lent by all who heard them. Dinner was served, visitors being given pref- erence at the first tables over the members. It was a proper recognition of the fact that the past twenty-five years have brought great blessings, both temporal and spiritual, to the hardy men and women who comprise the congregation. Rev. C. S. W. Brandt, the efficient pastor, is to be congratulated upon having the priv- ilege of being in charge of the church work at such an auspicious time.

were present and partook heartily of the bounteous feast, which was served in good style and sufficed for all. Excellent music and games enlivened the occasion throughout and at 8 o'clock all betook themselves to the college chapel, where the remainder of the students were assembled and the joint social, one of the best ever held, followed. One feature of the social was the fact that each young man was introduced to every young lady.

Our friend of the lumber office still mourns for "influence" lost, as his recent diatribe by Proxy would indicate.
When the proposition was first made to petition the Board for a separate voting precinct this political Cereus threw cold water on the movement and advocated delay until, as he said, a Board could be elected that would favor it. Nevertheless a public meeting was called, at which he was conspicuous for his absence and opposition, but when he saw that the movement had made such headway that it promised success, then he came up smiling, signed the petition, and in his own imagination took the lead, thereby verifying and fulfilling a prediction made by one of our most prominent citizens the night of the public meeting, when his absence and future conduct in the matter was noted and commented upon by all hands. He stood in and was made one of the judges of election. He charged $4 for such service and $4.20 for self-constituted messenger for return of poll books.
So by the report of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors it cost Page county just $8.20 to secure the use of his ponderous frame for the day ending at midnight of Nov. 6, 1894, showing him to be a patriot for revenue only. In our next we will explain just how he expects to arrange matters so as to recover the cinch that slipped through his fingers this fall. Not that we blame him for doing his utmost in the matter, but there is a point where of which he is the agent, but there is a point where certain others have an
