Vinton's Best Known One of Citizens Passed Away Early Sunday . Morning - Funeral Saturday.

John Ryder, who, during his active years, was one of Vinton's most prominent business men, passed away Sunday, Aug. 13, 1911. He had been sick for quite a period previous to his demise. He was in bed but a few days. The Monday evening previous to his death he walked from the Spragle House to the residence of George Horridge. After visiting awhile with Mr. Horridge and wife, he returned to the hotel. On his way back he fell and was slightly injured. He was immediately placed in bed and never rose from it alive. The cause of his death was locomotor ataxia. Lost winter he spent at San Antonio and this summer he spent at Clear Lake. All during his sickness which has covered a period of some years, he was able to conduct his commission business.

Mr. Ryder was born on a farm near Tiffin, Ohio, on Aug. 14, 1831, and was raised at and near that city. On Nov. 14, 1854, he was married to Mary Jane Tyler, of Freemont, Ohio. Immediately after his marriage, in partnership with his brother-in-law, he went into the mercantile business at Elmore, Ohio, buying wool, grain and all kinds of dairy products in connection with the store. Although young in years, he developed and evinced a remarkable talent for the mercantile business and was successful. After several years' business in Elmore he moved back to Fremont, Ohio. Here he took on active interest in public affairs and was elected to be square with his fellow-mon. Although which approve to him when itically during his active life in Vinton the editor of this paper always numbered him among those he considered his personal friends. He had a large heart in him and he was always willing to share it.

Besides his two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Mitchell, who has reached the ripe age of 88 years, and is living with her son, L. A. Mitchell, of Sloux Falls, and Mrs. Elizabeth Glick, of Atchison, a number of nephews mourn his death.

The funeral services were held at the Ryder residense yesterday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. A. W. Caul, pastor of the Baptist church. The remains were laid away in Evergreen cemetery.

Although years, he developed and young in evinced a remarkable talent for the mercantile business and was successful. After several years' business in Elmore he moved back to Fremont, Ohio. Here he took on active interest in public affairs and was elected to the legislature from that city in 1862 as a republican. He was one of the last of the whig element in that state. After the adjournment of the legislature he again entered the mercantile business in Fremont and for several years he conducted a successful dry goods business. He moved to Vinton, Iowa, in 1870 and engaged in the butter and egg business and was very successful. He was backed by ample capital and at the time conducted the largest butter and egg commission house in Iowa.

He changed his political alliance and enlisted under the Greeley banner and from that to the democratic party. He became one of the leading members and counselors of that party in Benton county. In 1882, in the prohibition campaign he conducted a canvass for member of the house of representatives of the Iowa legislature and was successful, being the first democrat to be elected Benton county in a number of years. In 1884 he made a canvass for the senate and was elected. He was a prominent member of both houses. Shortly after that he dropped out of the political field and took but little interest in local politics.

The one strong trait in Mr. Ryder's character was his intense love for young people. This interest was shared by his good wife who has preceded him. They were never so happy as when they had a bevy of young people at their home. They enjoyed being surrounded by them. Many is the words of goo dadvice spoken by Mr. Ryder to the young men of Vinton. He possessed a strictly business mind. He gave it his personal attention and whatever he engaged in was pretty sure to be successful by reason of this personal attention.

Mr. Ryder's leading principle was

WARNER LEWIS CLARK was born in Virginia, November 14, 1822; he died at Buffalo, Muscatine county, Iowa, September 22, 1911. In 1828 his family removed to Illinois, living first near Rock Island, then at Warsaw and Andalusia. In 1833, Benjamin Clark, his father, who was then operating a ferry across the Mississippi river, removed to the west shore and established his home at Buffalo. Mr. Clark went into the pineries in 1848, cutting and rafting logs. Later he engaged in the timber business more extensively and removed to Davenport, establishing saw mills on Black river, Wisconsin. In 1850 he engaged as an owner in steamboating on the Mississippi, his packets running between Davenport, Rock Island and Keokuk. The business grew and prospered, some of the best boats on the river being in the fleet. For some years the government contract for carrying the mails between the points touched was held by Captain Clark, and by 1859 he had become very wealthy for that day. In the same year he suffered reverses in the general panic and soon thereafter returned to reside at Buffalo where he made his home until his death. At the time of his death Captain Clark was the oldest continuous resident in Iowa. He had contributed much to the newspapers and to students upon early men and events. His opinions were valuable and his statements always accepted on matters of interest to him.

John Ryder was born near Tiffin, Ohio, August 14, 1831; he died at Vinton, Iowa, August 13, 1911. He was educated in the rural schools of his native county, entered the general mercantile business there, and very successfully engaged in grain and wool buying. In 1862 was elected to the Ohio legislature, serving one term. He had been a Whig but became a Republican and removed to Benton county, Iowa, in 1870, where he established a butter and egg commission house, which grew to large proportions. He became a supporter of Horace Greeley in his canvass for the presidency, and then a leader in the Democratic party. When he was elected to the House of Representatives of the Nineteenth General Assembly in 1882, he was the first Democrat elected to the legislature from Benton county for many years. He served in the Senate through the Twentieth and Twenty-first General Assemblies.

CORNELIUS LORENZO POOR was born in Venango county, Pennsylvania, May 13, 1845; he died at Burlington, Iowa, May 12, 1912. He was educated in the State Normal School at Edinboro, Penn., entered a law office and pursued his studies until his admission to
