REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER PRICHARD

Thank you Mr. Speaker and good evening members of the House.

I first want to thank my fellow caucus members. You continue to impress me with your leadership and persistence to do what's best for the people of your district.

I also want to thank legislative staff, including LSA, clerks, pages, and doormen who put in countless hours to make our important work possible. I especially want to thank the House Democratic Staff team: Joe, Dean, Jake, Rachelle, Kelsey, Bill, Brian, Dave, Alison, Jessye, and Steph. Thanks for all your hard work. We couldn't do this job without you.

When the session began back in January, I challenged each of us in this body to be the leaders that this moment in our history requires. To work together to restore faith and hope in our state, our nation, and our democracy.

My caucus pledged cooperation and hard work this year to turn the page on the pandemic and focus on long-term recovery efforts for Iowans and our entire economy.

Since opening day in January, 1,875 more Iowans have died from COVID-19. Thousands more have become infected. Too many Iowans are still having their lives and livelihoods disrupted by the pandemic. Whether it's the small business owner still trying to keep the doors open and hire workers or the parents struggling to find child care and keep their jobs.

House Democrats kept our promise to Iowans this session. We developed an aggressive plan to help families recover, get kids back in school safely, reopen small businesses, and support our dedicated health care workers on the front lines.

Instead of working together to enact aggressive recovery plans in the middle of this life-changing pandemic, Governor Reynolds and Republican leaders chose a partisan agenda that by and large ignored the pandemic.

Division over unity and partisanship over common sense.

This was a session without courage. It was a session that ignored the historic challenges Iowans face today.

We should have done more for families who need affordable child care, not raise property taxes on homeowners.

We should have done more to help Iowans who lost their job during the pandemic get back on their feet, not cut off assistance before they find a new job.

We should have helped Iowa students recover, not shift money from public schools to charter schools instead.

We should have worked together to lure new workers and businesses to Iowa, not make our state unwelcoming to others by embracing inequality, picking on kids, stripping away basic health care rights, and banning diversity education.

We should have provided more accountability and transparency of our tax dollars, not make deals with the special interests behind closed doors.

Strong leadership requires courage.

It takes courage to live in our democracy. It takes courage to speak truth to those who bend it. It takes courage to stand up to the special interests. It takes courage to speak out against extremist ideals that threaten our democracy every day.

Despite this body's lack of initiative and courage, I know the people of Iowa will persevere.

WE always have.

I wish you all a happy summer. I hope that you can find time for your family and a return to normalcy.

When we meet back here next winter, I hope you will come with the leadership and courage that Iowans could have used this session.

Remarks were given by Majority Leader Windschitl.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER GRASSLEY

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Iowa House, we've made it to the end of the 2021 Legislative Session.

First-year members: congratulations on completing your first session. To the staff – Jeff, Brad, Ashley, Jason, Amanda, Natalie, Kristin, Ben, Kristi, Lew, Mackenzie, Haley, Savannah, Melissa and Laura: Thank you for your tremendous work all session long.

To everyone in this chamber: to the legislators, Chief Clerk's office, pages, clerks and doormen. Thank you for all of your service and sacrifice to move this state forward.

It comes with long hours, late nights, time away from family, and many strenuous projects. But we do it all because of the thing we have in common.

We love the great state of Iowa.

As we walk out of the chamber today, there are certainly many accomplishments to be proud of.

When I sat here in front of you in January, welcoming you all back to the House floor, I laid out several priorities for our caucus.

We were fresh off the campaign trail. And in electing Republicans to represent 97 of Iowa's 99 counties, Iowans had just sent us a message – loud and clear - on the direction they wanted to see for the state of Iowa.

They gave us an agenda; get kids back in school, support law enforcement, expand access to child care and broadband internet and deliver a responsible budget. So, we got to work.

After hearing from countless parents whose voices weren't being heard, we responded with policies to deliver more parental choice in education. Almost immediately upon returning to the Statehouse, we passed a bill to require schools to offer parents the option of sending their children for 100% in-person learning.

And we didn't stop there. We established an additional avenue for the creation of charter schools in the parts of the state that need it most. And we prohibited school boards from limiting a parent's choice to open enroll their child just because of where they live.

Iowans made it clear they expected us to support law enforcement. We passed an expansive bill to increase protections and support for law enforcement while giving them additional tools to keep our communities safer.

We made supporting public safety a priority in the budget as well. As we identified our budget priorities, we allocated an increase of $20.5 million for the Department of Corrections and an increase of $10.6 million for the Department of Public Safety. The largest increases for each of those departments in a decade.

We fought hard to maintain those record increases as we negotiated the budget. And I was proud to see those make it into the budget's final passage.

While I'm on the budget, in my opening comments for session, I made Iowans a promise that in a time of so much uncertainty, Iowans could trust to see the same steady, responsible leadership they've come to expect from House Republicans when it comes to the budget.

Because of the conservative and responsible budgeting principles from House Republicans over the last decade, our state was in a strong enough fiscal position to not only fund our priorities, but deliver significant tax relief for Iowans.

In our tax relief package, we included income tax cuts for hardworking Iowans, a phaseout of the inheritance tax, additional workforce housing credits, and much more. And we did it in a responsible way to maintain the state's fiscal stability.

The last thing I'd like to highlight is something we can all take home to our constituents with pride. This chamber led the way for the expansion of access to quality, affordable child care. We passed over ten bills addressing the problem from all angles.

We were successful in seeing many of those bills become law. We doubled the income eligibility for child care tax credits from families making $45,000 a year to $90,000. We eliminated the "cliff effect" so families can take a promotion and accept a pay raise without losing their child care assistance all at once.

We increased child care rates by $13.4 million and increased access to child care in rural areas by allowing in-home child care providers to accept an additional child.

I could go on for 30 more minutes listing all of the great things we accomplished this session. From protecting the 2nd Amendment, Free Speech in Schools, Life, and Election Integrity, to expanding access to broadband, mental health services, and telehealth. But I'll leave it there for today.

As we head back to our districts, we have a lot to show for our work in the Capitol these last four months. Iowans put their faith in us to act on their priorities, to keep our promises. And I'm proud of how we've delivered.

Now, it's time we head back to our districts to listen to our constituents and receive additional instructions. I look forward to returning to the chamber with all of you and continuing our work for the state of Iowa.

Thank you.

The House stood at ease at 11:39 p.m., until the fall of the gavel.

The House resumed session at 11:44 p.m., Speaker Grassley in the chair.
