31

EXPLANATION

32 ACCEPTED LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT PRACTICES. This bill amends
33 Code chapter 169, providing for veterinary practice. A person
34 is exempt from licensing requirements when providing advice
35 or performing accepted livestock management practices (Code

1 section 169.4). Pregnancy testing is an accepted livestock
2 management practice (Code section 169.3), and the bill defines 3 this to include diagnosis, fetal aging or fetal counting by 4 manual or mechanical means, or biochemical testing. The bill
5 also provides that an accepted livestock management practice 6 includes providing embryo transfer services which includes the 7 synchronization or induction of livestock estrus, the transfer
8 or transplantation of livestock embryos, and the collection
9 of livestock embryos. The bill allows persons to provide 10 assistance to a livestock owner or contract feeder, including 11 for a fee. In addition, a person providing embryo transfer 12 services may administer prescription drugs to livestock under 13 the order of a licensed veterinarian.

14 IOWA BOARD OF VETERINARY MEDICINE. The Iowa board of 15 veterinary medicine is composed of five members, three licensed 16 veterinarians and two unlicensed individuals representing the 17 general public and appointed by the governor (Code section 18 169.5). The board is responsible for overseeing the practice 19 of veterinary medicine in the state. The bill provides that at 20 least one of the licensed members must predominately practice
21 veterinary medicine on livestock and one of the nonlicensed
22 members must own livestock or an animal feeding operation, or 23 be actively engaged in livestock farming. The bill eliminates 24 a provision allowing professional veterinary associations from 25 recommending nominees to the governor.

26 LIVESTOCK TECHNICAL SERVICES. The bill, in new Code
27 chapter 169B, prohibits a person from providing livestock 28 technical services unless they have received a certificate of 29 registration issued or renewed by the department of agriculture
30 and land stewardship. Livestock technical services includes 31 providing pregnancy testing or embryo transfer services. The 32 bill provides for registration procedures. A certificate is 33 valid for two years. The department is authorized to establish 34 registration fees necessary to cover its administrative costs.
35 A veterinarian practicing under a license or temporary permit

1 is exempt from these requirements. A person who fails to 2 obtain a certificate is subject to a civil penalty of not more
3 than $100.

4 Iowa state university, in consultation with the department
5 of agriculture and land stewardship, is required to conduct a 6 study on and make recommendations for the implementation and 7 financing of a certification program for livestock technicians.
8 The university must submit findings and recommendations to the 9 legislative services agency by the end of 2010.

10 The department is not required to implement new Code chapter
11 169B until January 1, 2011.

12 EFFECTIVE DATE. The bill takes effect upon enactment.
