35 licensee or permittee for certain alcohol-related injuries,

1 commonly referred to as the dram shop Act.

2 Under current law, an alcoholic beverage licensee or 3 permittee, whether or not the license or permit was issued
4 by the division or by the licensing authority of any other 5 state, is liable to a person for all damages resulting from an 6 intoxicated person if the licensee or permittee sold or served

11 would become intoxicated.

12 The bill provides that damages are available to an innocent

21 $100,000 for claims involving loss of means of support or loss 22 of services, companionship, society, or consortium resulting
