HON. CHARLES ESCHER, JR.

MR. SPEAKER: We, your committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions concerning the life and public service of Hon. Charles Escher, Jr., member of the Thirty-fourth General Assembly, beg leave to submit the following report:

On Monday night, August 10th, 1925, occurred the death of Charles Escher, Jr., at his home, Long Branch Stock Farm, near Botna, Shelby county, Iowa. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Escher, Sr., born in Iowa county, Iowa, September 4th, 1872, moving to Shelby county with his parents when four years of age and continuing a resident of said county until his death. His educational training consisted of the country schools, local high school courses and a year and a half at Cornell College. He was married to Myrtle Ryan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryan, of Irwin, Iowa, November 21st, 1894, who alone survives him. Burial was made Wednesday, August 12th, 1925, in the Botna cemetery under the auspices of Masonic Sardiis Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of which he was a member.

The above brief sketch marks the head lines in the career of one of Iowa's greatest exponents of agriculture, as the curtain of life's drama rolled down for the last time.

"Mighty Oaks from Little Acorns Grow." Charles Escher, as he was familiarly known to the live stock fraternity of America, dedicated his life to the upbuilding of agriculture, more especially the live stock end of it. It was a privilege to be his friend. It was an inspiration to know him. Generous to a fault, he held a keen insight into the future, and may well be regarded as one of the greatest students on agricultural economics this country has produced. Conservative in his judgment, sympathetic by nature, he stood ready at all times to render his fellow man valuable counsel and advice from his bountiful store of experience. It can truthfully be stated his greatest ambition was to render service to humanity in general, and agriculture in particular. Achievement heaped upon achievement filled his cup of success to overflowing. This brief eulogy would not be complete if it did not take into consideration the inspiration given to this great man's ambition as it developed into continued successful accomplishment, without giving due credit to the unstinted service, advice and sacrifice rendered by his faithful wife.

Someone has said, "By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them." As a community builder at home, Charlie Escher was always in the front rank. He was a member of the democratic party, served as a member of the board of supervisors and represented his people in the Thirty-fourth General Assembly. While a member of this body, he introduced the bill
