WORLD FOOD PRIZE
LAUREATE
AWARD CEREMONY

BY INVITATION ONLY

2024 LAUREATES

GEOFFREY HAWTIN

CARY FOWLER

From Seeds to Security

Dr. Geoffrey Hawtin and Dr. Cary Fowler will receive the 2024 World Food Prize for their extraordinary leadership in preserving and protecting the world's heritage of crop biodiversity and mobilizing this critical resource to defend against threats to global food security.

Over the last 50 years, their combined efforts as researchers, policy advisors, thought leaders and advocates have succeeded in engaging governments, scientists, farmers and civil society towards the conservation of over 6,000 species of crops and culturally important plants.

Hawtin and Fowler are globally recognized experts in crop biodiversity and genetic resources, which are critical for ensuring long-term food security amid challenges in climate change and other existential threats. They have been instrumental in advancing innovations in plant genetic resources throughout their careers, especially in operating and funding crop genebanks all over the world and the Svalbard Global Seed Vault.

Norman E. Borlaug Award for Field Research and Application

ENDOWED BY THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

DENNIS BEESIGAMUKAMA

UGANDA

Dr. Dennis Beesigamukama, Postdoctoral Fellow at the International Centre of Insect Physiology and Ecology (icipe), has been named the 2024 Recipient of the Norman E. Borlaug Award for Field Research and Application, Endowed by The Rockefeller Foundation.

He is recognized for spearheading the development of novel, low-cost technologies for recycling organic waste into nutrient-rich, disease- and pest-resistant, insect-composted organic fertilizers within a fraction of the time it takes to produce other organic fertilizers, addressing agricultural soil degradation challenges for over 100,000 farmers in East Africa and beyond.
