Deployment – Iraq – October 2004 to December 2005

IEDs in Iraq

Improvised Explosive Devices or IEDs were commonly used by insurgents in Iraq. Enemies would construct explosives and place them upon routinely traveled roads. IEDs have killed hundreds of Americans and wounded thousands of others. The 224th Engineer Battalion patrolled along Iraqi highways searching for undetonated IEDs in order to protect their fellow comrades.

The shrapnel and concussive power emitted from an IED could destroy a vehicle or kill anyone within its vicinity.
