REMARKS BY SPEAKER GRASSLEY

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Iowa House. Welcome back to the chamber for the 2024 Legislative Session.

Thank you for continuing to trust me with the honor of serving as Speaker of the House.

Majority Leader Windschitl – we've accomplished a lot together as leaders of this caucus. Let's keep this good thing rolling.

Minority Leader Konfrst – I have a great deal of respect for you and the way you lead your caucus. I look forward to another session working with you toward solutions that benefit the state we all love.

I hope, like me, all of you enjoyed your time back home in your district. Between constituent meetings, the farm and my family, I was certainly kept busy.

I'll tell ya - two teenage girls sure keeps me on my toes. But sometimes it's my 9-year-old Chance that tests me most, and I think that's probably because he's a whole lot like my dad.

The first day back always carries an air of excitement. It's great to see many of you again for the first time in a long time and get caught up on how we spent our interim. If you try and talk to me about yields, I'll quickly change the subject to something else maybe like my daughter's state championship volleyball team.

But all that time spent in the combine during the interim leaves me with plenty of time to think about the upcoming session. Some of my best ideas have come during the hours spent in the field, thinking about the input I hear from my constituents and all the members who share what they're hearing across the state.

I don't know if any of you have heard, but Iowa House Republicans represent all 99 of Iowa's 99 counties. So we feel we have a good pulse on the concerns and priorities of Iowans as we set our agenda for this session.

Iowans have come to know our caucus as leaders that will be responsible with their tax money and defenders of their freedom. That will continue to be the case for as long as Iowans elect us as the majority party. In addition to those core tenants, we are embarking on a bold agenda for the 2024 Legislative Session guided by four themes we've heard about from Iowans.

When we released our list of priorities in December, one of our main themes was making sure Iowa is a safe place to live and raise a family. Unfortunately, the tragic shooting at Perry High school just four days ago has reinforced that this is more urgent than ever.

For all of us, the loss of life in Perry is top of mind as we begin session. People choose Iowa because our state is viewed as safe. So when we see these senseless acts of violence in our own home state, in our own schools, it shakes us to our core. In Iowa, every parent should be able to send their kids to school and trust that they will return home safe.

Our caucus talks a lot about keeping students safe. This means many things. It means investing in school security. It means prioritizing school resource officers. It means protecting children's mental health. It means teaching resilience over victimhood. And it means ridding our classrooms and school libraries of inappropriate content.

I can't wrap my head around how this issue of sexually explicit material in schools got so convoluted. I am still shocked that we actually have people willing to fight this hard to keep pornographic material in our schools. What is the educational value of oral sex scenes in a school library book? Have we lost our minds?

Last session, we passed a simple solution to protect Iowa's students from inappropriate material. It should've been an easy policy for schools to implement. But instead, some chose to politicize this issue. And if we need to pass additional legislation this year to protect our kids from this over-sexualization, we will.

Outside of our schools, we will continue to differentiate ourselves from our neighbors to the north and to the east and their soft-on-crime policies. We've seen smash and grab mobs take over cities, not just on the coasts, but here in the Midwest. We've seen people turn their backs on law enforcement and act as though they are the enemy. Not here in Iowa.

We will prioritize a safe and secure Iowa with policies that get repeat offenders off the street. We'll ensure the state is doing all it can to support law enforcement recruitment efforts and protections for these brave men and women.

Our second theme is ensuring Iowa's Strong Economy.

Bidenomics has hit Iowans' pocketbooks hard. House Republicans want to deliver relief that Iowans can feel as soon as possible. If you've come to know anything about our caucus' tax proposals, you know it will be sustainable. This session, we'll look at speeding up our previously passed tax cuts as quickly as we can.

Our counterparts in Minnesota's Capitol building are making Iowa an even more appealing place to be able to support your family or run a business.

This session, we'll explore policies that further incentivize businesses currently stuck in states like Minnesota – who takes their policy cues from California – by the way, which do we like better, Minnefornia or Calisota? – to bring their businesses and employees here to Iowa where they will have the freedom to thrive.

This session we will also focus on keeping government transparent and efficient. Last year, we consolidated our state government, making it more efficient and cost-effective. We can't stop there. Iowans expect a transparent government that works for them.

Government agencies must make their tools and information easy to access and easy to understand.

Staffing shortages continue to put tremendous pressure on our nursing homes and hospitals. We need to pursue policies that help these critical industries ensure they can provide quality, consistent care at a reasonable cost to the Iowa taxpayers.

And finally, circling back to education. Our fourth and final theme is improving education outcomes for Iowa students. By many national rankings, Iowa's K-12 Education system is slipping amongst its peers. We need to work with educators to ensure we are doing all we can to reverse that trend.

This session, we'll dive into Iowa's K-12 education standards to ensure they are setting our students and teachers up for success.

We have heard from so many teachers, who have to deal with so many distractions and behavioral issues, that they can't spend enough time actually teaching their students. We want those teachers – who too often feel like no one has their back – to know that we hear you.

One of our focuses this session is empowering teachers and getting them the disciplinary tools and compensation they deserve.

Beyond K-12, it's time for us to have a comprehensive review of our higher education system and ensure taxpayer dollars are going toward preparing our workforce, particularly in high-demand fields.

It'll be a busy year. Much of what I just walked through may not be easy. But our caucus prides itself on our track record of delivering on the promises we make to Iowans. And we must continue to fulfill our commitments to the voters. I know this group is ready to get the job done.

Alright – That's enough from me. Let's get to work.

Bossman of Woodbury, Chair of the committee to notify the Senate that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communication that the Senate might desire to transmit, reported that the committee had performed its duty.

The report was accepted and the committee discharged.

Minority Leader Konfrst offered the following remarks:

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER KONFRST

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning ladies and gentleman of the House. It's lovely to see you all again, typically we get a little more time but it's good to see you.

I'm really grateful for the opportunity. I first want to thank my family for their patience. Leaders work a lot during family time. I also want to thank my caucus for your dedication and commitment to true service to the people of Iowa and your willingness to keep fighting even against long odds. It means a lot to your constituents and to me.

Today, we are starting session under a cloud. The shooting in Perry has shaken us to our core. We are scared. Parents are scared to take their kids to school. We are scared to be in the Capitol and we are scared to be in public places. It's simply time to do something.

My hope this session, after hearing the Speaker's commitment to doing something about this, is that we can actually do something because people at the end of this session should feel safer taking their kids to school in the morning than they do today.

That's our job, let's work together to get something done. We don't know all the details about what happened in Perry, but we do know this: we have to do something. It's not enough just to move on. Ahmir deserves better, and so do all our kids.

As we look forward to this session, we've also been traveling this state and talking to voters. A word I would use to describe so many Iowans is frustrated. I've got to tell you friends, they don't like any of us. They're sick of politics and sick of politicians. They want us to accomplish something that serves everyone, not just the special interests and not just base voters. That is what we are here to push for this year.

Iowans are also telling us that they are frustrated with partisanship and with the fact that we can't come together to work together. So I would like to open this session with the conciliatory note: let's work together. Let's find a way to get things done together. Last session when Leader Windschitl and I sat down at a table and talked about a policy, I got tears in my eyes because that is what we are here to do. To work together to put the people of Iowa over the politics of this place.

We work every day to put people over politics. You know we have our agenda. We are going to defend reproductive freedom. We are going to defend public education. We are going to fight to legalize marijuana and we are going to continue to work to lower the costs for Iowa families. Iowa House Democrats firmly believe that a tax bill is not the only thing keeping families from feeling comfortable when they are doing their kitchen table budget.

There are a lot of things we can do and they are not partisan. So how about this year, the fact that Democrats introduce a bill doesn't mean it is a bad idea automatically out of the gate. I get how it works here. I know what the realities are, but Iowans don't and they expect us to do better. Even if we have a good idea, I will give it to you. You can run it and it will be yours.

What matters most is that we build policies that Iowans will recognize and will have better lives because of. We are here to serve Iowans. We are not here to serve the people that give us checks. We are not here to serve the people who stand in the lobby and try to tell us what to do. We are here to serve Iowans. I hope we can do that together.

This session, let me tell you this. I enjoy working with Leader Windschitl. I enjoy working with Speaker Grassley and I enjoy working with so many of you. Instead of going to our corners all the time, let's take some time to come together. Let's take some time to not just have a bipartisanship vote on the board but draft bipartisanship policies that include the input of 36 people in this chamber.

We can do better than we are doing for Iowans and then we can all go back and say to Iowans: "We put people over politics." We came together to get something done and your lives will be different in May because of the work we do in January, February, and March. Let's work together and say to the special interests that you have had your turn. It is now Iowans' turn to feel we are representing them wholly and well.

At the end of the day, let's keep our focus on people and leave politics at the door.

Thank you very much.

Remarks were given by Majority Leader Windschitl.

GOVERNOR'S CONDITION OF THE STATE MESSAGE

Madam President, Mr. Speaker, Lt. Governor, legislative leaders and members, justices and judges, my fellow Iowans:

Last week, the unthinkable happened in Iowa when shots were fired in the halls of Perry High School, taking the life of 11-year-old Ahmir Jolliff, and injuring seven others.

Our hearts are still heavy and our prayers continue for the victims and their families, and for the entire Perry community.

It's impossible to understand why things like this happen. The senselessness of it shakes us to our very core.

Yet even in the darkest hour, light and hope break through. That was certainly the case on that day.

Principal Dan Marburger was nearby when the shooting began. Despite the danger, he put himself in harm's way, risking his life to protect his students. Dan sustained multiple gunshot wounds at close range. His unflinching bravery saved lives that morning.

Dan is a hero, and we pray that he's soon back where he belongs, with the students who are so lucky to have him.

I also want to recognize the courageous actions of the local law enforcement officers, first responders, and state and federal agents who were on scene that day. The first officers arrived just minutes after the shooting began, and immediately they entered the building.

Within thirty minutes of the school's call for help, an army of more than 150 police officers and first responders from across the metro area and surrounding communities arrived on the scene to assist.

Officers who heard the dispatch remarked how calm everyone sounded. How focused they were. How well they worked together in the midst of such a tragedy.

This is who Iowans are and what we do. Whether in person or in spirit, Iowans showed up that day in Perry, and we'll be there every day through their recovery.

Please join me in expressing our gratitude to some of the brave men and women who courageously served that day.

Iowa's law enforcement officers, first responders and military service members live up to their oath to protect our communities and citizens every day. These jobs demand service above self and great personal sacrifice.

This past year, Officer Kevin Cram of the Algona Police Department and Tony Hoffman, a firefighter with the Ionia Fire Department, gave the ultimate sacrifice in the line of duty.

Please join me in a moment of silence to honor these two fallen heroes and their families, as well as all those affected by the tragic events in Perry.

This is the seventh time I've addressed this body to report on the condition of the state. The first time, in 2018, workforce was one of the top issues.

At that time, only about 58% of all Iowans in the workforce had training or education beyond high school. The result was thousands of high-quality jobs going unfilled, and thousands of Iowans missing out on a rewarding career.

So together, we set out to increase that number to 70% by 2025. I introduced the Future Ready Iowa Act, and a few months later, it passed the legislature with unanimous support.

Tonight, I'm happy to say that we've reached our ambitious goal, and we did it ahead of schedule.

Now I want to be clear: This isn't mission accomplished. The work of connecting Iowa's employers with thousands of skilled workers will continue this session.

But reaching this milestone serves as a powerful lesson in how real change happens.

Future Ready Iowa was born in this building with an executive order and bipartisan legislation. We set the vision and laid the foundation. But elected leaders aren't the ones who got it done.

It was the people of Iowa—the teachers, administrators, business owners, community colleges, and of course, countless students and adult learners.

They are the ones who created a new culture, merging the worlds of work and education like never before. They created apprenticeship programs and brought the workplace into the classroom. They mentored young Iowans, encouraged their friends to go back to school, and supported their loved ones' dreams.

Iowans took the tools we gave them and built something extraordinary.

To those who have contributed, thank you. You're one of the many reasons why I can stand before you tonight and confidently say: the condition of our state is strong!

Everything we do in this building should follow that same pattern. Set a bold vision, build the infrastructure, and then turn it over to the people of Iowa to do what they do best.

Future Ready Iowa is one example. School choice is yet another.

Last year, we made it our top priority to give all our children a quality education that meets their needs. That meant giving families a choice.

And that is exactly what we did. In the face of intense pressure to keep the status quo, we passed one of the boldest school choice programs in the country, kicking off a national revolution.

We laid the foundation, and now Iowa parents—regardless of their income—can decide what's best for their children.

One semester in, this new educational freedom is already changing lives.

Just recently, I heard from a family whose autistic son is thriving in a Catholic school that welcomed him with open arms. I also heard from a father who feels like his boys now have a true shot at the American Dream thanks to their new school.

I want to emphasize, though: the change we're seeing isn't just limited to those who choose private schools. Because educational freedom isn't about public versus private; it's about what's best for each individual child. It's about understanding that there isn't just one way to educate our kids.

Which is why I'm happy to announce that, this month, the State Board of Education will vote on eight new public charter school applications, including schools that focus on career training and at-risk youth.

Our public school districts also are stepping up their efforts to attract and retain students.

Here in Des Moines, the superintendent recently highlighted the district's efforts to deliver an educational product that "attracts our students and attracts parents to either stay with us or to come back to us."

In Oskaloosa, the public school saw a net gain of students this year from private schools. And after hearing about the culture they've created and the great things they're doing, I understand why.

It goes to show that a rising tide of competition and choice really can lift all boats. Our education policies are working, because—together—we stood firm and passed a law that puts Iowans in charge of their children's future.

By locking in educational freedom, we sent a powerful message: Where our children are concerned, no system, however long-standing, is above reform.

This session, we must be guided by that same principle once again.

Because there's still a group of students who are being left behind. And there's yet another long-standing system in need of reform.

In Iowa, special education is overseen by what we call Area Education Agencies, or AEAs. These nine regional entities, which operate without meaningful oversight, were created in the 70s to provide special-education support for school districts.

This type of regional system makes sense and isn't unique to Iowa.

But what is unique to Iowa is that our school districts are forced to give their special-education funding to the AEAs. This mandate leaves little room for accountability.

Over the last year, in dozens of conversations with parents, teachers, school administrators and AEA staff, it's become clear that while some of our AEAs are doing great work, others are underperforming.

We have superintendents who won't use their services but are still required to pay for them.

And AEAs have grown well beyond their core mission of helping students with disabilities, creating top-heavy organizations with high administrative expenses.

The results are troubling.

Iowa students with disabilities are performing below the national average. In the last five years, they've ranked 30th or worse on 9 of 12 national assessments. Yet, Iowa spends over $5,300 dollars more per-pupil on special education than the national average.

That's unacceptable. And tonight, I'm announcing legislation to change it.

Under my proposal, AEAs will focus solely on students with disabilities, as they should. Independent oversight will move to the Department of Education.

And most important, school districts will now control their special education funds—meaning they no longer will be mandated to send those funds to the AEAs.

If schools like the services from their AEA, they can continue to use them. If they want to use a neighboring AEA instead, they can do that.

Or, they can go outside the AEA system—contract with a private company or partner with other districts to share a speech or behavioral therapist. Or they can spend more on special education teachers and put the dollars right into the classroom.

In short, each school will decide how best to meet the needs of their students.

Now, I know there are parents of students with disabilities who have been told that we're planning to end the AEAs or even cut services their families depend on.

Let me speak directly to you: That claim is categorically false. In fact, we are not reducing special-education funding by one dime. We are simply giving control of the funding to those who work directly with your child on a daily basis, and we're taking special education off autopilot, where it has been stuck for far too long.

Once again, let's drive transformational change and do what's right for our children.

Being able to read is a key component of every child's success.

Nationally, our reading scores have held steady over the last few years because, unlike so many states, we kept our kids in school throughout the pandemic.

But holding steady isn't good enough, especially when reading is the foundation of learning.

Children who can't read by third grade are four times more likely to drop out of high school, which dramatically increases their chances of being arrested, using illegal drugs, and having poor health.

Yet 35% of Iowa's third graders aren't reading proficiently. Again, it's better than most states; 60% of California third graders don't meet that mark.

But something is clearly not working.

We're the only state in the country that doesn't require competency in early literacy instruction for teacher licensure. The only state.

And over the last few decades, the way we teach reading has changed from what we know works. Sounding out letters—phonics—has increasingly fallen out of fashion.

Thankfully, many educators aren't letting phonics become a thing of the past. Ann Mincks is one of them. She teaches reading to high school students who don't speak English as their primary language.

What a difficult job, and Ann has done amazing things.

Using evidence-based instruction, grounded in what's called the "science of reading," Ann has helped increase the reading proficiency of her students at Des Moines Hoover by 25%.

As she herself puts it, she is giving these students "one of the most fundamental human rights in education."

I agree. And in recognition of her success, Ann has been named the 2024 Iowa teacher of the year. She's here with us tonight, so please join me in recognizing her outstanding efforts.

I want to spread what Ann is doing at Hoover to every school in this state—to make sure that our teaching techniques are grounded in the science of reading.

And I'm proud to announce that we're well on our way.

Through a partnership with Lexia Learning, the State is providing—at no charge—a training program on the science of reading to all elementary school teachers.

This program helped improve reading scores in other states, and I'm confident it will do the same here.

Already nearly 2,000 teachers and administrators have started the training or are registered to start soon.

We're also going to require, as every other state does, that our teachers pass a nationally recognized test. And we're going to hold colleges and universities accountable by making the Foundations of Reading assessment a requirement for education majors to graduate.

Like their students, our talented educators will meet high expectations when they have the support they need.

I hope every legislator in this room will join me in making literacy a top priority in every Iowa classroom.

Whatever improvements we make to our education system, the success of our kids will always depend on great teachers.

Aside from parents, teachers are some of the most influential figures in a child's life. They push them to be their best, set them on a path to success, and impart a love of learning that can change their lives for the better.

We want younger Iowans to see the teaching profession as something to aspire to. It's one of the highest callings one can have, so let's make sure that teacher pay sends that message.

Tonight I'm asking the legislature to invest $96 million in new money to increase starting pay by 50%, to $50,000, and set a minimum salary of $62,000 for teachers with at least 12 years of experience.

In addition, I'm allocating $10 million to a merit-based grant program that will reward teachers who have gone above and beyond to help their students succeed.

These investments will put Iowa in the top-five states for starting pay and help recruit more of the best and brightest to join the teaching profession.

In a rare and historic special session, we voted to pass the fetal heartbeat bill by an even wider margin than the first time. That was more than an ordinary vote. It was an act of courage and conviction that will ultimately save precious lives.

As we continue to fight for the law in the courts, I want to thank you for putting Iowa firmly on the side of life.

By passing the heartbeat bill, we affirmed an essential truth: every Iowan counts.

To continue building a robust culture of life, we must also do everything in our power to ensure new moms and their families—especially those who are struggling—have what they need to make ends meet.

Today, Medicaid only covers postpartum care for two months after birth. I'm proposing to expand that coverage to 12 months, for new moms who make less than $42,000 a year.

Let's do more to help moms, babies, and their families get off to a good start.

Programs like Medicaid are critical for families working to get back on their feet. But government support is just the first step on the road to lasting self-sufficiency. Support from within the community is just as important.

The good news is that many of these resources already exist across our state—from faith communities, nonprofits, and so many other remarkable organizations. They are doing life-changing work every day.

Government's role is not to replace these grassroots efforts, but to amplify and facilitate them.

That's why I'm thrilled to announce Thrive Iowa, a remarkable new initiative that will leverage faith-based organizations and private sector networks to connect individuals and families to support outside of government assistance.

Whatever the challenge, Thrive Iowa will be there with dedicated navigators to help Iowans find their way to lasting independence. And countless lives will surely change for the better.

In the aftermath of Covid, with the influence of social media, and the breakdown of the family, mental health remains a real challenge for many Iowans.

We've made significant progress over the last several years, investing millions in behavioral health providers, creating the state's first children's mental health system, and funding numerous impactful projects around the state.

One of those projects will soon mark a pivotal moment for Iowa's youth. This year YSS, a youth-centered non-profit, will open Ember Recovery Campus, a groundbreaking new facility offering 70 behavioral-health beds that will focus on emergency shelter, crisis stabilization, and addiction treatment.

This project, the first of its kind in Iowa, represents the largest public private investment in children's behavioral health in our history and is a model for our state.

With us tonight is YSS CEO Andrew Allen, and we're especially proud to have Karly and Andrew, siblings who recently graduated from the YSS addiction treatment program. Their shared battle against substance use disorder is all too familiar for families struggling through the opioid epidemic. They're proof that in the midst of desperation, there is hope for recovery.

Please join me in recognizing them.

But there's still more work to be done. In Iowa, there is little to no coordination between our 13 mental-health and 19 substance-use regions. That's a problem, because over 25% of adults with serious mental health challenges also suffer from substance use.

Our state is filled with capable professionals who care about getting Iowans the support they need. But their talent and dedication are short-changed by a fractured system that makes coordination almost impossible.

To better serve Iowans, I am proposing we combine the 32 different substance-use and mental-health regions together into seven new, unified behavioral health districts.

I'm also proposing to increase support for behavioral-health services with a portion of Iowa's opioid settlement funds.

The results will be a greater investment on the ground, improved connectivity between providers, districts, and the state, and—most important—treatment delivered to Iowans when and where they need it.

Better customer service for Iowans was the goal of our alignment bill last year. And I'm proud to say, we have already begun to deliver.

We have reduced the approval time for physician licenses from 65 days to three; we've created a new building and construction division to consolidate permitting, building code standards, and safety inspections into a single front door, and are transitioning more than 80 state agency websites onto a single platform to improve the user experience for Iowans.

To top it off, we made these improvements while at the same time reducing the size of government. With the legislature's help, we cut 21 agencies from my cabinet, removed 620 open positions, and saved millions of dollars in just the first year.

But alignment is about more than numbers.

Joseph Lang was a motor vehicle enforcement officer with DOT before we realigned state government and moved 100 MVE officers to DPS. As part of the standard training for new state troopers, he underwent a tactical medical course.

Joe was one of the first to arrive on the scene at Perry High School last week. Because of his new role, Joe was outfitted with the right medical supplies and the right training for this type of situation. When he entered the building, he was directed to a critically injured victim. He applied a tourniquet and treated wounds exactly as trained. And he saved a life.

Trooper Joe Lang is with us this evening. Please stand to recognize him.

While we've made a lot of progress, there is one more area in need of alignment—boards and commissions. The alignment bill you passed last year created a committee—with representation from the legislature—to review all 256 boards and commissions.

After four public meetings, engagement with the boards, and review of 1300 public comments, the committee submitted their final recommendations in September.

My proposal would implement their recommendations, eliminating 111 redundant or obsolete boards—a decrease of 43%—while streamlining those that remain.

This is the first comprehensive boards-and-commissions review we've done in our one-hundred and seventy-five year history. That seems a little long, so this bill also requires that we evaluate each board at least every five years to ensure they're actually meeting the needs of Iowans.

Iowans elected us to create and execute policies that carry out their will—not to outsource that authority to others they can't hold accountable at the ballot box. While many boards and commissions will continue to play an important role, the democratic process is the best way to preserve Iowans' engagement in their government.

This bill empowers us to carry out the kind of oversight the people of Iowa expect.

As alignment shows, efficient and effective government is about delivering services to Iowans in a way that helps them meet their own long-term goals.

That's why we turned our unemployment system into a reemployment system. And it's having the intended effect.

Our unemployment rate remains low, we have the 6th highest labor force participation rate in the country, and Iowans are now spending on average less than 10 weeks on unemployment. That's the lowest rate in 56 years—turns out, good things happen when we promote work.

Because so many Iowans are drawing a paycheck instead of a government check, our unemployment trust fund is full—to the point where we can reduce the unemployment insurance payments that employers make by half.

The result will be significant savings for employers of all sizes, saving more than $800 million over five years. Instead of paying money into the government, these businesses can create more jobs, increase salaries, or reinvest into their communities.

In short, this will create even greater prosperity throughout our state.

States are generally focused on domestic policy—on what's happening here in our communities.

But over the last few years, states have been forced to deal with foreign threats—sometimes because the federal government has refused to carry out its constitutional duty.

The crisis at the Southern Border is at the top of the list. Thankfully, our men and women in uniform continue to answer the call to step in where their national leaders have failed.

In August and September of last year, 109 Iowa National Guard soldiers and 31 state troopers and special agents from the Department of Public Safety were deployed to the US Southern Border in Texas to support Operation Lone Star.

There, they worked alongside the Texas National Guard and Highway Patrol, combating criminal activity along a 1,200 mile stretch of the Rio Grande.

They manned illegal points of entry, worked human smuggling and drug trafficking cases, and apprehended nearly 3,000 illegal migrants.

I had the opportunity to visit the border during the Guard's deployment. One of the soldiers I spoke with told me that Operation Lone Star had given him the greatest sense of service to his country he's ever known.

And because they believed so strongly in the mission, every soldier and officer who served at the border did so voluntarily.

Many of them are here with us tonight. Please stand and join me in expressing our heartfelt gratitude.

The crisis on our southern border isn't the only foreign threat where states have had to play a role.

China continues to grow more aggressive, and buying American land has been one of the many ways they have waged this new battle.

Fortunately, Iowa has some of the strongest laws in the country on foreign ownership of land—in fact, other states have looked to us as a model for their own policies.

But as China's threat adapts, our laws should too. Because we cannot let foreign governments undermine the agricultural dominance our farmers have worked so hard to build.

To that end, working in conjunction with Secretary of Agriculture Naig, we've developed a bill to further protect our farmland from foreign interests. This legislation will enhance reporting and enforcement, increase penalties, and provide more transparency to Iowans on what land is currently under foreign ownership.

Let's continue to lead the nation. Let's make sure that American soil remains in American hands.

You know it wouldn't be a condition of the state address without me talking about your money—or, as the government calls it, taxes.

When we started this journey in 2018, our income-tax rate was the sixth highest in the nation at 8.98%. It was clear we needed to make a change.

That year, we passed legislation that finally cut rates and—even more important—established an approach that would guide us over the next five years.

That approach is defined, above all, by a sense of responsibility to the people of Iowa. They deserve a government that exercises the discipline and restraint to live within its means, as well as the humility to collect only what it needs, while returning the rest to them.

This approach has served us well. Since 2018, we've delivered two more major tax reform packages that cut income taxes, eliminated tax on retirement income, and made our code more friendly to farm families. And we did so while continuing to make strategic investments in key priorities.

Our most recent income-tax bill established a flat rate of 3.9%, set to phase in gradually until finally taking effect in 2026. As always, it was an aggressive, growth-oriented policy on a responsible, conservative timeline.

And once again, opponents said that letting Iowans keep more of their money would break the government. One left-leaning group called it a "recipe for disaster."

Well, that was wrong. Two years later, it's clear that we are well positioned to go further, faster.

Even with the tax cuts we have already delivered, state revenue continues to grow, ending the year with a $1.83 billion surplus and more than $900 million in reserve funds.

Let me be absolutely clear: the surplus does not mean that we aren't spending enough; it means we're still taking too much of Iowans' hard-earned money.

Tonight, I'm proposing a bill that reduces the income-tax rate to a flat 3.65%, while allowing it to take effect this year, retroactive to January 1st. The following year, in 2025, the rate would fall again to flat 3.5%.

This bill represents a total savings of almost $3.8 billion for taxpayers over the next five years. And it gets there by cutting taxes for every Iowan who pays them.

The average family of four with an income of about $78,000 will see a tax savings of over 25%. A single mother of two making $47,000 would see an even greater savings of more than 42%.

And there would be no waiting. The cuts would start to show up in paychecks this year! So let's not hesitate. Let's stick to the approach we established in 2018 and allow Iowans to keep more of their money.

When I look back on what we've done over the last year—and really over the last six—I'm so proud of what we've accomplished together.

There are those who said we did too much, too fast. That change wasn't necessary or that it would make us worse off.

But when I look at the result of our hard work, I know we've made a difference. And it drives me to do it again; to work even harder this session.

Because you know what? Iowa is on the rise, and as the world descends on our state over this next week, they're going to see it.

They're going to see one the most livable, most affordable states in the country. A state that's #1 for retirement and #1 for young home ownership.

They're going to see what it's like to be in a state that saves more than it spends, cuts taxes, and rewards economic growth and innovation; that orients its educational system to students, parents, and teachers; where life is protected, family comes first, and community runs deep.

They will see a place that, despite no mountains or oceans, has been recognized as one of the best states in the country, period.

In an uneasy nation, Iowa stands out as a fixed point of prosperity and stability. As a reminder that remarkable people can always be trusted to build remarkable things.

It's because of them—because of Iowans—that the condition of our state is truly strong, and our future is truly bright.

Thank you, God bless you, and God bless the great state of Iowa.

CONDITION OF THE JUDICIAL BRANCH MESSAGE

Madame President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, Governor Reynolds, Lieutenant Governor Gregg, state officials, colleagues, family, friends and all Iowans.

Thank you for the opportunity to address this joint convention of the 90th General Assembly on the condition of the judiciary.

As introduced, I am Suzy Christensen, and I am honored to stand before you today as your chief justice. I continue to live in Harlan with Jay, my husband of 42 years. He is here today along with our five children and their spouses. And when Grammy has an open mic, our eight grandchildren expect a shoutout. My brothers join me today as well as my mom, sitting up front like moms do. Dad is with me in spirit—I am once again wearing his robe for this special day.

Thank you to members of Iowa's Court of Appeals as well as the chief judges from our eight judicial districts across the state who are in attendance today.

As I've said before, I am only one of seven justices on the Iowa Supreme Court. I would like to introduce the other six members: Justices Tom Waterman, Ed Mansfield, Christopher McDonald, Dana Oxley, Matt McDermott and Dave May. I want to thank each of you for entrusting me with the extraordinary responsibility of serving as chief justice.

It is truly an honor to serve with these distinguished jurists who are not only my colleagues but also my friends. As justices, we spend a lot of time reviewing trial records and appellate briefs, participating in oral arguments, conferencing all cases before us, and setting policy for the judicial branch. But we also make time to break bread together and learn a little bit more about our families and non-judge lives. And for the first time since I've been standing up here, I am not the only justice who has grandchildren to brag about. Within the past few months, Justices Waterman and McDonald each welcomed a new grandson into the world. I may not be their Grammy, but I'm giving them a shout out. It's been said, "The reason grandchildren and grandparents get along so well is that they have a common enemy." You're gonna love it.

Today's speech is my fourth condition of the judiciary. Each year I choose a theme. My first theme was hope. At that time, we were not yet one year into the pandemic, and I wanted the people of Iowa to know that the judiciary did not succumb to COVID-19 and that we remained open for business to ensure continued access to justice. My second theme was peace. Because we were still in the midst of a pandemic, I wanted the people of Iowa to know that the judicial branch was blocking out all the chaos and staying laser focused on our commitment to provide Iowans with meaningful access to justice.

Last year, my theme was listening. With Director Kelly Garcia of the Department of Health and Human Services, I toured the state, visiting eleven communities to learn how the department and judicial branch could work together to improve the lives of Iowa's most vulnerable children and their families.

As you may recall from last year's speech, we created a Juvenile Justice Task Force with some very noble goals:

- Improve outcomes for youth and families;
- Increase public safety;
- Decrease recidivism;
- Be fiscally responsible; and
- Reduce disproportionality & overrepresentation of youth of color in our system.

In early 2023, that task force, which was composed of all the relevant stakeholders including several legislators, came up with 55 recommendations. I am really excited about one particular recommendation that is already being implemented, the diversion program. The intent of diversion is to provide low level juvenile offenders with opportunities to address negative behaviors and become productive members of society, without the barriers the juvenile justice system may unintentionally create. Since implementation of the statewide diversion policy on June 5 of last year, Juvenile Court Services has already diverted nearly 2,500 youth from formal processing. We are confident that diversion will help us meet many of the goals the task force set out to address.

I could spend an entire speech on this topic but instead I will direct you to our annual report released just today for an in-depth discussion of the Juvenile Justice Task Force recommendations and the many other great things going on with the judicial branch.

Fast forward another year. My colleagues and I continue to listen and learn better ways to administer justice more efficiently for the sake of all Iowans. One thing we know for sure: Judges, court staff and lawyers cannot do it alone. We need your help.

At this very moment, I am standing before 150 people (actually 151 people with the Governor) who, hands down, have the most direct line of communication to Iowans. I have no doubt that you, Iowans elected by Iowans, have a mighty interest in upholding the public's trust and confidence in the judicial branch.

- When new laws are enacted by you, or
- when one neighbor sues another neighbor, or
- when an officer charges someone with a violent crime, it is your judicial branch who applies those laws, determines the outcomes of legal disagreements, and sends convicted criminals to prison to ensure community safety.

I am no Pollyanna. I respect that you may not agree with every opinion issued by the Iowa Supreme Court or decision handed down by one of our trial court judges or magistrates. Heck, I don't agree with every opinion issued by the supreme court. And when I was practicing law, I remember a few cases where the trial court judge or appellate court got it dead wrong (in my opinion). But from the bottom of my heart, I believe that every judge in this state is trying his or her best to apply the law to the facts of a case and make a thoughtful decision.

So, exactly how am I asking for your help today? If your constituents tell you a judge got something wrong, or maybe you tell your constituents the same thing, that is your right to hold such a belief. I may even agree with you. But what I'm asking you to do is to take that opportunity to explain that, even when you believe a judge is dead wrong, they are public servants—just like you—and they are committed to the rule of law—just as you would want them to be.

That leads me to my theme for this year, building connections. Connections are so important in state government. All three branches work for a common constituency—each and every Iowan. And all three branches are held together by the same framework—our great constitution. Government has often been compared to a three-legged stool with one leg for executive, one leg for legislative and one leg for judiciary. We owe it to the people of Iowa to work together and ensure that the three-legged stool remains rock solid.

Another form of support that I am asking for today will come as no surprise: financial. We rely on you, our legislature, to provide us with adequate funding and this year we are asking for a 4.3% increase in funding.

What makes up that 4.3%? In the judicial branch, salaries and benefits account for 95% of our budget. That isn't just a piece of the pie—it's pretty darn near the whole pie. Just like every other employer, public or private, we need to competitively pay our employees and judges. These people have an incredibly important responsibility: making sure all Iowans have meaningful access to justice.

I would like to talk a little bit about judicial pay. Salaries for judges are set by statute. In the last 15 years, judges have received only five increases. That means they have been told "no pay increase" 10 out of 15 years. When we take inflation into consideration, the purchasing power of judges' pay has actually decreased 17.2% in the past 12 years.

Our judges feel the impact of their salaries not even keeping pace with the cost of living. It is discouraging to know that they are paid less than judges in every state bordering Iowa. For example, Iowa judges make $16,000 less per year than South Dakota judges, and they make $38,000 less per year than Nebraska district court judges.

It's no wonder that the average number of applicants per district court judge vacancy in Iowa has decreased 62% in the past 20 years. In 2003 there was an average of about 17 applicants per vacancy but in 2023 it was down to an average of 6.5 applicants per vacancy. This dramatic decrease in applicants is deeply distressing; being appointed by the Governor to the bench should be the pinnacle of an attorney's career, not a deep financial sacrifice.

While judicial pay may be unpredictable and considered a barrier when soliciting qualified attorneys to apply for judgeships, we have always been able to minimize that bit of a stick by waving a carrot—a predictable pension plan.

For those of you who have listened to my prior speeches, I have never broached the topic of either pay or pension for our judges. I talk about these things one-on-one with you during our session meetings, but I have never used the state of the judiciary as a soapbox to relay that message. This year is different. I feel compelled to publicly speak from this platform, in front of our general assembly, as the voice of all judges in our state. Throughout the past year or so, the judicial pension has faced a real problem.

Let me back up a bit for those of you who may not know about Iowa's judicial pension. Iowa judges do not participate in IPERS, the retirement plan offered to most public employees in Iowa. Instead, we are members of the Judicial Retirement System. The Iowa Constitution guarantees judges "adequate retirement compensation" which is further specified in Iowa Code section 602.9104. Until recently, judges paid a fixed contribution rate into their retirement system. For those of you who have IPERS, which also has its own fixed contribution rate, this may sound familiar.

Anyway, that same code section includes a trigger for the judicial pension: once the system reaches "fully funded status," the contribution rates for judges and the state change from fixed to variable. That happened for the first time at the start of fiscal year 2022 when the judicial pension became fully funded—it rang the bell. But if that balance dips below fully funded status again, which it has already done since the bell was rung, the statute makes no provision for reverting back to a fixed contribution rate.

As a result, beginning in fiscal year 2023 and each year after, the rates judges pay into their pension system is no longer consistent and now fluctuates every year. What does that look like so far? Judges are paying more of their salaries into their pension. When you combine stagnate salaries with increasing pension rates, we end up with every single judge in the state experiencing a net pay decrease. For current judges, that's a hard pill to swallow. For those we are trying to persuade to join the judicial ranks, the unpredictability of the pension makes it less useful as a carrot.

We are asking you to fix this problem so that we can recruit and retain talented judges. The Judicial Branch has filed a bill to return the Judicial Retirement System to a fixed contribution rate like originally set by our legislature. We believe it is in the best interests of the judges, and state, to have certainty in budget predictions. And this can be accomplished with a fixed contribution rate structure, like it used to be, and similar to what IPERS still has.

Enough about money. I'd like to talk to you about other ways the judicial branch would like to build connections. As I stated a few minutes ago, all three branches work for a common constituency—each and every Iowan. As constitutional partners, it makes sense that we work together to help the public understand our respective roles and duties.

Every September, in celebration of Constitution Day, the University of Pennsylvania releases results of its civics knowledge survey. In 2023, it reported that only 66% of adults in the United States could rattle off the three branches of government—executive, legislative and judicial. A staggering 17% of those surveyed could not name one branch of government. That is beyond disappointing.

Just last month, I was honored to attend the funeral of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. Justice O'Connor was eulogized by some famous people, but the most moving tribute, in my opinion, was by her son, Jay. While his mother may be best known for making history by being the first woman to be appointed to the United States Supreme Court in 1981, Jay wants us to remember that her rich legacy of public service cannot be understated.

For example, in 2009, after retirement, Justice O'Connor founded the iCivics program aimed at teaching democracy to the next generation. In her own words, "The practice of democracy is not passed down through the gene pool. It must be taught and learned by each new generation." The judicial branch is supportive of our schools incorporating programs such as Justice O'Connor's iCivics, which I understand is already being used by many schools in our state.

Something else we are doing to help the public understand our respective roles and duties goes back to 2011, when we started something called Court on the Road. The name is perfect. We hit the road and hold court in various Iowa communities in an effort to interact with adults, students and local legislators about real cases on our docket. This has allowed us to provide the public with a better understanding of what the judicial branch does beyond the headlines of high-profile cases. Since its inception, we've held court in 35 communities and visited 228 schools. I am confident that the experience has been a smashing success. If you think your community would like to have the Iowa Supreme Court come to town, please let me know!

I have a new idea to share with you for building connections, something called Trial Court Show & Tell. On behalf of the judicial branch, I am extending a personal invitation to you, our legislators, to visit your local courthouse when court is in session so you can observe a typical day in the life of a trial court judge. To kick off this new idea, the judicial branch intends to invite legislators to participate in staggered times throughout the year, starting with leadership and members of the House and Senate Judiciary Committees.

I can't wait to see this idea unfold. No doubt you will walk away from Trial Court Show & Tell with a better understanding of what we do, and a deep respect for all the folks who keep the wheels of justice turning.

I have spent quite a bit of time talking about how we, as leaders of Iowa's three branches of government, can work together to keep the three-legged stool rock solid. Iowans will also benefit when we build and nurture connections with other partnerships, individuals and entities we fondly refer to as our bar family.

The Iowa County Attorneys Association, the Iowa Defense Counsel Association and the State Public Defender are all part of that bar family among other groups. I would be remiss if I didn't discuss with you another very important topic from last year, and that is indigent defense. According to the 6th Amendment of the United States Constitution and Article 1, section 10 of our state constitution, criminal defendants have a right to counsel. This is constitutionally crystal clear.

In that speech, I started my remarks with a bold statement: the statewide contract attorney shortage is threatening to bring criminal proceedings to a screeching halt. Unfortunately, that is still true. Talk to your county attorney...talk to a judge...talk to a local criminal defense attorney, and you will undoubtedly get an earful.

A whopping 95% of Iowa's nearly 10,000 licensed attorneys are not signed up to accept court appointments to represent juveniles and indigent defendants. What can be done to get more licensed attorneys to sign up? The judicial branch is working with the State Public Defender, Jeff Wright, and the Iowa State Bar Association to figure out solutions. But we need your help.

Over and over again, from across the state, I continue to hear from judges and lawyers that Iowa needs to substantially increase the pay for attorneys doing indigent defense work. Like the judge pay issue, every state that touches Iowa pays more for this work. We are seeing this most acutely in eastern Iowa where attorneys are choosing to work in Illinois over Iowa because Illinois recently revised its hourly rate to be approximately twice as much as Iowa. We have got to do better.

My battle cry this year is the same as last year. The state must fulfill its constitutional duty to provide criminal defendants with the right to counsel. To increase the number of licensed attorneys who will sign up, the judicial branch continues to support your efforts to increase funding for indigent defense and thank you for what you have done thus far. Justice is in jeopardy by the lack of contract attorneys. And based on what we're being told, the current pay structure is simply too low.

While higher pay would certainly help ease the pain, it won't entirely fix the problem. More broadly, and like many other states, we need more attorneys in rural Iowa. We need creative solutions to attract attorneys to practice in rural areas. Something we're doing right now to address the need for rural attorneys is increasing the implementation of a tool that became necessary during the pandemic—remote proceedings. We cannot expect our lawyers to be in two places at one time, yet that is the position we are putting them in when the number of criminal cases far exceeds the number of available attorneys. That's why we have revised our court rules to direct judges to conduct more remote proceedings when the circumstances are appropriate.

In addition to using remote proceedings to alleviate the problem, we are looking into how we can incentivize young attorneys to hang out a shingle in rural areas. Some of the ideas that seem promising are student-loan forgiveness, stipends and tax breaks. Those things are very familiar in the medical profession—doesn't it make sense to look into similar opportunities for the legal profession to help Iowans access justice? Ultimately, these are policy decisions best left in your hands, but we encourage you to explore ways we can increase the number of rural attorneys. And we stand ready to partner with you to ensure these policies are promoted and ultimately successful.

I'd like to share with you a connection recently made that resulted in a positive outcome for many Iowans. Once upon a time, several years ago, I was presiding over a jury trial in Fremont County. It is a quaint community but, as many of you know, no one has to use blinkers in a small town because everyone knows where you're going. Anyway, it was becoming abundantly clear that we might not be able to seat a jury of 12 people who didn't have a close relationship or conflict with one of the players. We were down to the last juror who could be considered for jury duty. If she was dismissed, I warned the local sheriff that I would have to send him out to the town square and start snagging potential jurors.

This potential juror was willing to serve on the jury but had a newborn child at home and needed frequent breaks and privacy for pumping. As the presiding judge, I could ensure frequent breaks, but what about a private setting for her? We quickly worked with the Fremont County officials to find an old closet that could be locked from the inside, and a handwritten sign that said "PRIVATE" was taped on the door. That woman not only served as a juror but was the foreperson.

Recently, we called upon Iowa State Association of Counties [ISAC] to help implement a federal law that requires employers to provide basic accommodations, such as time and space, for breastfeeding mothers at work. They didn't hesitate to help and immediately reached out to its members. I am excited to report that Pottawattamie County was the first to notify us that it created a very nice and welcoming lactation room which I was pleased to tour in October. It sure beats an old closet lit with a single bulb, and helps jurors, court staff, attorneys and litigants participate in the legal system with dignity.

I applaud the counties who either already had lactation rooms in their courthouses or who are implementing them now. On behalf of women and babies everywhere, thank you!

As chief justice, I represent 1529 employees and 261 judges who serve in the judicial branch. These public servants are special. They get it. They understand that what may be a typical day at work for them is perhaps the most difficult day for the person they see engaging in our judicial system.

Iowans rely on these public servants to delicately handle:

- Divorces
- child custody and support
- adoptions
- personal injury and wrongful death
- administration of estates
- criminal matters ranging from seatbelt violations to murder, and
- cases involving children who have been neglected or abused.

Our staff and judges handle these cases with the solemnity and care they deserve. Like I said, these are special people, and I am so very proud of them. But, like many employers, we need more employees to help us fulfil our duty to provide Iowans with access to justice.

The work of a public servant is deeply rewarding, and I encourage Iowans to consider a career in Iowa's Judicial Branch. If you're interested, please take a look at our website where you can learn more about specific job postings, salary and benefits.

One job in the judicial branch that warrants additional comment is that of court reporting. Last year, I reported on the court reporter shortage crisis. Although we are still severely short-staffed in that area, I want to share some good news that will hopefully move the needle.

Iowa's official form of court reporting has been stenotype. With a small machine that has very few keys, court reporters softly take down every single word during a trial. Their notes look like gibberish, but court reporters can magically turn gibberish into beautiful transcripts.

The Supreme Court recently expanded the definition of official court reporting to include not only stenotype but stenomask reporting, also called voice writers. They are professionals who use a handheld mask, which has a microphone inside, to repeat what is said in a court proceeding, verbatim. That audio is then transformed into text in near real time through the use of a transcription system. Surprisingly, the stenomask is soundproof and allows the reporter to do his or her work without disturbing others.

Broadening the definition of court reporting to include stenomask opens up the door to more people filling these positions in the judicial branch. Because the military has been exclusively using stenomask reporters for over 50 years, we can now recruit and hire a previously untapped pool of potential court reporters—veterans.

To make sure Iowans and soon-to-be Iowans are aware of this opportunity, we are also connecting with Home Base Iowa and Workforce Development. Recently, the Governor and I had a great conversation about this topic, and she offered her administration's assistance to pursue potential court reporter training opportunities for high school students.

One time I was making small talk with a court reporter and asked, "What made you decide to be a court reporter?" I have never forgotten her answer, and I believe it illustrates the importance of making connections. When Dixie was only 15 years old, she was returning home from a family vacation with her family when her dad parked the popup camper at a campground for the night. Everyone but Dixie headed to the bathhouse. When Dixie's mom returned to the camper and asked, "Where's Grandma?" Dixie told her she should have been at the bathhouse too. The family began looking for her in the dark, unfamiliar campground. Sadly, they found Dixie's grandma floating in the campground swimming pool. There were no lights or fencing around the pool.

In a room full of lots of lawyers and judges, it will come as no surprise that a lawsuit was filed. Dixie was an important witness for the case because she was the last person to see her grandmother alive. Dixie doesn't remember a lot about the trial, but she does remember that the court reporter was kind, and she showed her how the machine works and why it's important to have a record of what people are saying in court.

A seed was planted. A connection was made. Dixie reflects upon that interaction with a court reporter as the catalyst for her becoming an official reporter herself. She reported for 41 years, with the last 27 years as an official reporter with the Iowa Judicial Branch.

I want to do more to connect with you, our elected leaders. It's a lot easier to talk about our budget and other things on the judicial branch's wish list when I know the person sitting across the table.

That's why I'm taking this opportunity to remind you of my office hours at the capitol during session. Starting January 22 and going through March 11, I'll be in the Old Supreme Court chambers from 10 to noon. On those Mondays, I'll stick around and eat lunch on the ground floor. Please stop in. I'd love to get to know you better and hear what's on your mind. If you can't make one of those Mondays work, please reach out and we can find another time to connect. If something pops up and I can't make it work, I have six other justices who I know would be more than happy to scoot across the street and take my spot.

As I'm preparing for this speech every year, I am often asked, "How's Shawn doing?" I have no doubt that Shawn's journey from methamphetamine addiction to recovery continues to provide encouragement to others who may be struggling with any kind of addiction.

When I checked in with Shawn, I asked him my standard question from our old days in STEPS Family Treatment Court: "Shawn, how many days of sobriety?" He still keeps track, every single day. And his answer is stunning. It's 2,123 days. That's 5 years and 8 months. On his five-year anniversary, he went skydiving and sent me a picture to prove it. Rylan joined his dad on the phone with me the other night. He is turning into a fine young man and will celebrate his 12th birthday in three days.

Of all the things Shawn shared with me about this past year, I was most overjoyed that he and his friend, Jason, are now the proud co-founders of a new AA in their hometown of Anita. Meetings are held every Thursday night from 6:45 to 7:45 in the basement of the Congregational Church. And the name of their group is pretty darn catchy: "I Need A Meeting." Say it fast. "I Need A Meeting." Sounds just like "Anita Meeting." Great marketing.

As always, thank you Shawn, for allowing me to keep Iowans updated on your story of how Iowa's judicial branch provided a path for your enduring sobriety. You continue to be an inspiration to many, and always to me.

This chamber holds a lot of tradition…tradition I must relearn every January when we are invited to be guests in your home for the condition of the judiciary. Many of you may not have noticed something out of the ordinary during my speech—something from the judiciary. I asked Jodi, my court reporter, to be at my right side like she was for nearly 12 years. I cannot think of a better way to memorialize my commitment to building connections than to make an official record with one of Iowa's finest certified shorthand reporters.

In closing, I would like to invite everyone to join us shortly downstairs in the historic courtroom for coffee and cookies.

I also want to thank the many silent heroes who stand ready to protect us at today's public event. They risk their own safety in order to protect and serve our communities. I know that I speak for everyone in this room—thank you for serving, for doing a job that puts others first, and for preserving law and order.

I'd also like to acknowledge Captain Mark Miller who agreed to be here today at what may be his last official duty before retirement and provide security for an old friend. Mark and I built a connection over 30 years ago when he started trooping and I was an assistant county attorney.

I also want to thank my colleagues for their commitment to our work and to the legislature for its support of our work and for giving me this opportunity to speak with you today.

As chief of the Iowa Supreme Court, I promise to work hard towards building meaningful connections. Like I said, we owe it to the people of Iowa to work together and ensure that the three-legged stool remains rock solid.

Thank you.

Major General Osborn delivered the following Condition of the Iowa National Guard Message:

CONDITION OF THE IOWA NATIONAL GUARD MESSAGE

Good morning ladies and gentlemen, thank you Speaker Grassley and President Sinclair for the invitation to be here and speak with you today.

Lieutenant Governor Gregg, distinguished members of the Iowa General Assembly, state officials, and my fellow Iowans.

It is truly a privilege for me to speak to this dignified body and share with you the major events and accomplishments of our Iowa National Guard. Today, I want to address our unwavering commitment to people, readiness, modernization, and communication.

This is my first time standing before you as the Adjutant General, representing the nearly nine thousand men and women of the Iowa National Guard, and I am truly honored to lead this organization. This is not a position I ever envisioned when I joined the Army 40 years ago. Like many Soldiers, I enlisted into the miliary for multiple reasons, including the fact that military service runs deep in my family.

I am the grandson of a farmer from Eastern Iowa who was drafted and deployed to France in World War I, as part of the Army's 88th Division, and came back to work his farm once again. I am the son of a father who was a United States Marine and served in Korea at the tail end of the Korean War. They both influenced and instilled in me a calling to serve.

I ultimately joined the military because of the college benefits, but it was the experiences, leadership skills, and opportunities I gained that has kept me here all these years.

And now as the leader of the Iowa National Guard, as I have advanced in rank and age, I have seen the impact the Guard can have on people. Those willing to sacrifice for state and nation. We owe our Service Members every opportunity and benefit to take care of them and allow them to do their jobs.

We are very thankful for the strong support we receive from the members of this general assembly, from our Iowa Congressional delegation, the Governor's Office, and above all, from Iowans across this great state.

This past year you provided over $16.6 million dollars in funding for infrastructure and over $6.4 million dollars in Service Scholarships supporting 988 Soldiers and Airmen.

On behalf of the Iowa National Guard, I want to thank each of you for all you have done to assist in building a world class organization that is Always Ready to respond.

I want to publicly thank Governor Reynolds and Lieutenant Governor Gregg for their continued support of Iowans who serve or have served our nation and state in military service.

It is simply our people, the service members of the Iowa National Guard, our families, and our civilian employers who continue to sacrifice their time, talents, and resources that enable us to be Always Ready to respond whenever and wherever we are needed.

Today, I am proud to share with you the professionalism and commitment of our people over the past year, explain my priorities as the Adjutant General and lay out our vision for the future.

But I want to begin by letting you know who exactly we are. The Iowa National Guard - we are Iowans, serving Iowans from across this great state.

We are comprised of nearly 9,000 full-time, and part-time Soldiers and Airmen along with our civilian employees. Our roots come from each of Iowa's 99 counties.

Of those 9,000 members, more than 6,500 serve part-time with the Iowa National Guard as they attend school or work fulltime for other employers across the state.

Our full-time workforce includes more than 2,200 service members and civilians who work at one of our 36 armories, our 3 Army aviation facilities, our 13 Army Field Maintenance Shops, our 3 Air National Guard facilities, or on Camp Dodge.

We are a diversified force. Our service members range in age anywhere from 17 to 61 years old and our formations are comprised of multiple races, ethnic backgrounds, national origins, and religions.

We are your employees, your employers, your neighbors, your friends, and your loved ones – who choose to work and live in Iowa while serving our nation and state.

The uniqueness of the Guard is our dual role. We train and prepare for domestic operations here in the state of Iowa and federal operations around the world. For instance, we completed the U.S. Northern Command's VIGILANT GUARD training exercise this past August. This is the premier exercise for the National Guard that tests our ability to execute domestic operations here in the continental United States in conjunction with other state agencies and federal partners.

Our largest domestic operation this past year occurred in August when we sent 109 Soldiers to Texas, in support of Operation Lone Star, at Governor Reynolds direction. This task force, made up entirely of volunteers, was drawn from our Cavalry Squadron, one of our Infantry Battalions, and our Military Police Company.

We are also regularly mobilizing Iowa National Guard service members for Federal missions.

There was a day when the National Guard served simply as a Strategic Reserve, only called upon by the federal government in case of extreme emergency. Not anymore. The National Guard today is, and will continue to be, a fully capable and equipped Operational Reserve, and a partner in the broader military strategy to address our world's challenges.

We have proven our capabilities over this past year with multiple deployments including the 209th Medical Company and 1133rd Transportation Company's missions to Poland in support of Operation Atlantic Resolve.

The 831st Engineer Vertical Construction Company who is currently mobilized and deployed to the Middle East in support of Operation Spartan Shield and providing critical infrastructure support throughout the CENTCOM region.

The 1034th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion who is currently mobilized and deployed supporting federal agencies on the southwest border.

And just last week, we mobilized and deployed members of 2nd Battalion 211th Aviation Regiment and the 186th Military Police Company to Kosovo as part of an ongoing multinational NATO peacekeeping mission providing safety, security, and stability for all citizens throughout Kosovo and the Balkans.

The men and women of our Air National Guard have been just as busy over the last year. Our Airmen supported federal missions throughout the world including Korea, Japan, Italy, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Greenland, and Germany on everything from cyber security to air refueling. Many of our Airmen also served at their home station, here in Iowa, while supporting missions all over the globe.

Standouts this past year include the 132d Wing in Des Moines where 109 Airmen from the 132d Wing Intelligence Group supported 7 different combatant commands with targeting analysis from both home station and deployed locations.

The 124th Attack Squadron piloted MQ9 remote piloted aircraft, conducting 262 combat missions over 3 different continents.

The 168th Cyber Operations Squadron mobilized over 40 Airmen for a duration of 6 months operating from the Des Moines Air Base and at locations abroad. These men and women supported operations across 3 different continents protecting critical networks and serving as a quick reaction force ready to perform cyber incident response.

The 185th Air Refueling Wing in Sioux City performed air refueling missions around the world with over 2,152 flying hours encompassing 630 missions and off-loading 5 million pounds of aviation fuel to 717 aircraft.

The Iowa National Guard is truly a joint force, comprised of both Army and Air. Under my direction, the Iowa National Guard Joint Force Headquarters has undertaken the greatest transformation since its inception. We have accomplished this with a renewed focus on a balanced Army and Air approach and by appointing Colonel Mark Kappelmann as our first true fulltime Director of the Joint Staff.

This initiative is a reorganization that optimizes organizational efficiencies, leverages our human capital, and brings the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard into a more cohesive, joint team, without growing our force structure.

This reform also unburdens the Army Staff and affords them the opportunity to focus more time and attention on our deployable units and their domestic and warfighting missions.

This strategic management decision touches all aspects of the culture and performance of the Iowa National Guard. I expect the Joint Staff to reach full operational capability this year.

Within the Joint Staff, we are one of the first states in the nation to implement the Integrated Primary Prevention Workforce. This is the Department of Defense's answer to Congressionally mandated activities that provides new and additional resources to Sexual Assault Response and Prevention, Sexual Assault Victim Advocacy, and the public health prevention domains of Self-Directed Harm, Family Violence, and Workplace Violence.

To organize and manage this new capability the Prevention and Resilience Services Directorate was created.

This includes 14 new full-time civilian employees with 8 in primary prevention and 6 in sexual assault and victim advocacy services. This new directorate synchronizes existing capabilities which support Service Members, their families, and the Families of the Fallen with a wide range of responsive resources.

In addition, our Prevention and Resilience Services team has begun coordination with the Department of Health and Human Services Public Health team to leverage existing resources and streamline the preventative services that our Service Members receive in their home county.

Ultimately, these long-term holistic efforts lay the groundwork to keep your Iowa National Guard ready to execute any State or Federal mission well into the future.

When I came into this role almost one year ago, I laid out four priorities for the Iowa National Guard: People, Readiness, Modernization, and Communication.

Our People are the foundation of our organization, and we must ensure they are developed, cared for, and resourced for success through engagement, mentorship, and planning.

Readiness entails recruiting, training, leading, and retaining Soldiers and Airmen. We must ensure our Service Members are ready to lead our formations, are competent in their technical skills, masters of their equipment, and will operate successfully as an individual or part of a unit to accomplish their mission.

We will continue to Modernize our forces and our infrastructure to meet the size, scope, and demand of the future requirements of our military.

We must Communicate by engaging not only our Soldiers and Airmen, but also the public we serve. We will continue to tell the story of who we are, show the professionalism of our organization, and counter any misunderstanding of military service that may exist.

(PEOPLE)

Everything we do truly starts with our People. Every one of our Soldiers and Airmen chose to raise their right hand and become a part of something bigger than themselves to serve both state and nation.

At this time, it is my honor to highlight a few people from our organization.

Soldiers like Specialist Nicole Duarte. Originally from Florida, her parents moved to Iowa for better opportunities. Coming from an immigrant family, Nicole was seeking the American Dream, but more importantly guidance for her life and future career. She was originally intrigued about the Guard while in high school and enjoyed the idea of being able to Serve while still having a civilian lifestyle. She wanted to become a nurse and found incredible training and a true family environment with our Brigade Medical Company on Camp Dodge. She now works full-time as a military medical trainer at the Sustainment Training Center located on Camp Dodge, training hundreds of medical soldiers from not just here in Iowa, but from all across the country. And in a continued effort to give back, she was one of the first people that supported the Service to Citizenship Program where people can serve to gain their citizenship.

Please help me in recognizing Specialist Nicole Duarte.

Another one of these Soldiers is Staff Sergeant Nick Darland, from Ankeny. Staff Sergeant Darland is a part-time Soldier with Bravo company 1347th Division Sustainment Support Battalion out of Knoxville.

He has been in the Guard for twelve years and was recently recognized for saving a co-worker's life at his full-time job in Peru, Iowa. In fact, Darland credits his training from the Iowa National Guard for having the skills to help, when an employee collapsed, suffering a massive heart attack. In this moment of crisis, Darland immediately starting lifesaving actions and kept this man alive until first responders arrived.

A true example of a hero, ladies and gentlemen Staff Sergeant Nick Darland.

A great example of a dedicated life of serving Iowans is our State Command Chief Master Sergeant Sarah Orwig. She is the first female Iowa Air National Guard Command Chief.

She has spent most of her career in the 185th Security Forces Squadron, where she served as the Chief of Security Forces and qualified as a Phoenix Raven, a higher level of qualification for security. She also serves as the District Representative for the Enlisted Association of the National Guard of Iowa promoting the professional development and wellness of the enlisted force. Plus, in her full-time capacity she is a firefighter for her community of Sioux City.

Ladies and gentlemen State Command Chief Master Sergeant Sarah Orwig.

And lastly, I want to highlight two brothers in the Iowa National Guard who volunteered to support the Operation Lone Star mission at the southwest border. Both are Soldiers with the Iowa National Guard.

One of these brothers took time away from his full-time job and volunteered to deploy as a Soldier with Task Force Rio Bravo. The other brother, also a Solider, deployed instead in his full-time capacity as a Special Agent with the Iowa Division of Criminal Investigation.

Ladies and Gentlemen Chief Warrant Officer 4 and State Senator Dan Dawson.

These are just a few examples of the exceptional individuals both part-time and full-time who make up the Iowa National Guard. They understand the opportunities and benefits of being a part of what makes this state and country great. We continue to seek out individuals who want to be a part of this team, so that we can keep our formations full and ready to respond to any mission.

I would also like to recognize that taking care of our people goes well beyond our Soldiers and Airmen. We recognize that military service also places significant demands and stress on families, friends, and loved ones. We owe them all an organizational culture that recognizes and values their contributions and sacrifices.

Please join me in thanking those family members who also serve along with their Service Members.

(READINESS)

The reality is we live in a very volatile world. From strategic threats that impact our allies, partners, and interests abroad to protection of our critical infrastructure, networks, and communities here at home.

More than ever, we are focused on building the resiliency of our people and training them in challenging environments to maintain proficiency and responsiveness to the needs of our civilian leadership.

A key part of our readiness effort includes our partnership with the country of Kosovo as part of the Department of Defense State Partnership Program. This past year we conducted over a dozen joint events to increase our interoperability. We were able to execute the largest Hazardous Materials Training in our Iowa-Kosovo State Partnership history that included the 71st Civil Support Team, members of the Kosovo Security Force, and local Des Moines first responders.

In addition, Iowa Guardsmen joined our Kosovo Security Force partners in Defender Europe 2023, Europe's largest multi-national exercise involving 7,000 U.S. troops and 17,000 partner nation forces from over 20 countries.

The strength of this partnership has expanded beyond security cooperation to include civilian institutions and a greater partnership between Iowa and Kosovo as a whole.

I had the privilege of joining Governor Reynolds on her very first visit to Kosovo this past June, at the invitation of Kosovo President Osmani, with the visit reciprocated by the Kosovo President making her first trip to Iowa in October.

As we enter our thirteenth year of this partnership, we will continue to leverage this relationship to enhance the readiness of the Iowa National Guard and the Kosovo Security Force.

Training is also a key component of readiness. Training is a constant within the Iowa National Guard and 2023 saw many significant training events across our formations.

The 124th Attack Squadron designed and executed exercise Hawki Fury where they flew live fire training sorties for the first time out of the Des Moines Airbase with an unmanned MQ-9.

Members of 1st Battalion 133rd Infantry and 1st Battalion 194th Field Artillery participated in a demanding 28-day combat training center rotation at Fort Johnson, Louisiana.

Soldiers from the 294th Medical Company and 2nd Battalion 211th Aviation Regiment provided direct medical and medical evacuation support at Northern Strike, one of the largest Department of Defense annual joint and multi-national training exercises.

This year will be no different as we continue to train and build readiness across the Iowa National Guard.

For the Air Guard, this includes improving individual and unit capability through the execution of operations both within the framework of exercises and in real-world mission support.

These operations will take some of our airmen to locations around the world, however many of these missions are executed from their home duty locations right here in Iowa.

For the Iowa Army National Guard, the major event for 2024 is participation as the key training audience in an exportable combat training capability, or xCTC training exercise at Camp Ripley, Minnesota in August. Over half of the Iowa Army National Guard formations will directly participate in or support this exercise along with units from 5 other states. This collaborative training event is a significant stepping-stone in building ready units for their assigned capabilities and future missions.

These extensive exercises and support missions often necessitate additional duty days for many Soldiers and Airmen, requiring them to go beyond their normal 39 days of training a year. We realize these specialized opportunities place additional burden on the families and employers of our Service Members and we want to continue to thank them for their support and understanding.

We also want to recognize the great work of the volunteers with the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve, whose assistance helps to promote cooperation and understanding between Service Members and their civilian employers.

In addition to training…Readiness includes manning our formations. It is imperative for the readiness of our organization that we meet or exceed strength requirements.

Today, I am proud to say, the Iowa National Guard is at 99.5% of our required strength and ended 2023 with a retention rate of over 80%.

Since late 2021 however, our recruiting success has slowed, as we are dealing with the challenges that are being felt across the Department of Defense in respect to military recruiting. But as we continue to maneuver through this environment, we have experienced improvements over the last quarter, and we will continue to apply effort, energy, and resources to our recruiting and personnel readiness.

One of these efforts includes filling our recruiting ranks with professional Soldiers and Airmen who not only recruit but lead our young men and women with character and integrity.

In many areas across Iowa, our recruiting force is the face of the Iowa National Guard, and it is our objective to ensure our recruiters build trust, confidence, and partnerships within our communities.

We appreciate the openness of the schools and thank administrators who are willing to work with us as we educate young people about the opportunities to serve while still seeking career or educational goals in the state of Iowa.

(MODERNIZATION)

With the generous support of the Legislature through Rebuild Iowa Infrastructure Funds, we continue to maintain and upgrade our facilities across the state.

This past year we have completed projects at Readiness Centers in Carroll, Mason City, Clinton, Storm Lake, Boone, Oskaloosa, Davenport, Cedar Rapids, Knoxville, and Muscatine.

On Camp Dodge in Johnston, this included upgrades to key utilities infrastructure on post as well as ongoing lifecycle renovations to our Joint Forces Headquarters, which in addition to the Iowa National Guard, hosts several other state agencies.

Your continued support of our facilities allows us to bring in matching federal dollars and provides the infrastructure needed to support Iowa and our Nation in times of need.

We broke ground this past year on our newest Readiness Center, located on Veterans Parkway in West Des Moines. This 24-million-dollar facility, 75% of which was funded by the federal government, is scheduled to open in the spring of 2025, with capacity for over 200 Soldiers and their equipment.

For the Iowa Air National Guard, the 185th Air Refueling Wing in Sioux City completed a 13-million-dollar federal renovation of their air crew operations building, which added new global communication capabilities and air-crew facilities while posturing for future missions.

Moving forward, our military construction priorities are focused on the multi-million-dollar capital improvements needed for the runway and ramp at the Sioux City Gateway Airport and 185th Air Refueling Wing.

Without these improvements we are at risk of losing the air refueling mission in Sioux City or being overlooked for future aeronautical missions.

We continue to educate, posture, and work with our Iowa Congressional delegation, National Guard Bureau, the Federal Aviation Administration, and our Siouxland partners to include the city of Sioux City, the Siouxland Chamber, and the Sioux City Gateway Airport to secure federal support and funding to posture the Wing for future and expanded capabilities.

Additionally, the Governors of Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota collectively signed a letter of support during the 2023 Tri-State Governor's Conference, supporting the Sioux City runway replacement.

As the Army and Air Force continue to modernize their force for future demands, we continue to communicate with the National Guard Bureau, Department of the Army, and Department of the Air Force regarding changes to mission and structure that may impact the Iowa National Guard. Our goal is to maintain our current size, provide a variety of opportunities for our Soldiers and Airmen, and remain relevant in the future military environment of 2030 and beyond.

(COMMUNICATION)

We have made communication a top priority by telling our story and being more integrated within our communities across the state. This past year we were involved in more community engagements than we have been in years. We continue to send the message that our doors are open, and you are always welcome to visit any of our readiness centers.

We invite everyone to come see firsthand the professionalism of our Service Members and gain a better understanding of the Iowa National Guard.

Last year we conducted community engagement events at various readiness centers across the state where we invited community leaders and businesses to join us to learn more about their local unit and hear the incredible stories of their local Service Members and why they serve.

These events were held in Knoxville, Middletown, Boone, Waterloo, Storm Lake, and Carroll. This year we will be visiting Cedar Rapids, Mason City, Davenport, Dubuque, and Council Bluffs and we invite all of you to attend.

Another example of community engagement is the Innovative Readiness Training project completed in Woodbine this past year. This is a Department of Defense military training initiative that delivers joint training opportunities to increase deployment readiness while simultaneously providing key services such as health care, construction, transportation, or cybersecurity with lasting benefits for American communities. This training project provided hands on training for 30 Airmen with the Civil Engineering Squadron out of the 185th Air Refueling Wing, where they completed the construction of a new STEM classroom for the Woodbine school district.

And finally, as part of our continued communication efforts, we are very excited to share with the legislature our newest annual report magazine.

It's a visual summary that details our units, our activities, who we are, and the economic impact we have across the state.

This is another opportunity for us to tell the Iowa National Guard story. We have provided a copy of this for you at your desk.

Looking toward the future, we will continue to prioritize our people, ensuring they have the resources, training, and support they need to succeed.

We will maintain our commitment to readiness, constantly adapting and preparing for the challenges that lie ahead.

Modernization will remain a top priority as we strive to stay at the forefront of miliary capabilities, and we will continue to strengthen our communication channels, fostering a culture of collaboration and transparency.

We are truly blessed to live in a state where our men and women are willing to serve, willing to answer the call, and willing to support the needs of our State and Nation. It is a commitment carried forward by each one of our Soldiers and Airmen.

So let me again express my gratitude for your continued support.

It is your support that has allowed us to develop and grow the Iowa National Guard Service Scholarship into an incredible benefit for Iowans to gain a college education while serving in the Iowa National Guard.

And I look forward to working with you as we seek to modify the Iowa National Guard Service Scholarship and expand the reach of the current program to include greater credentialing and certification opportunities for our Service Members.

This modification is an opportunity for Iowa Guard Service Members to receive a post-secondary certificate or competency-based credentials with already approved state funding.

It has been my honor to present to you the Condition of the Guard. The Iowa National Guard is strong. I am confident that we will remain strong with our dedicated Soldiers, Airmen, and civilian employees…and we will continue to be ready for the next call.

We are your citizen Soldiers and Airmen who live here, work here, and serve this great state and nation.

God Bless our men and women in uniform, God Bless the great State of Iowa, God Bless the United States of America, thank you.

PIONEER LAWMAKERS ADDRESS

Senator Todd Taylor introduced John Putney, who addressed the House as follows:

Mr. Speaker, Madam President, Senator Whitver, Senator Taylor, Senator Dotzler, Representative Windschitl, current members of the Iowa Legislature, and my Fellow Pioneer Classmates – thank you very much for the great honor of sharing memories and thoughts of my time associated with the legislature – as a citizen, lobbyist, and member of the Iowa Senate.

I appreciate the opportunity to reflect on some history, fondly reminisce, and offer some personal thoughts on the past and present.

Last night, I took a look at the last speeches that were given at this ceremony honoring the Pioneer Lawmakers of their respective classes. I mentioned to my wife, Emily that these past speeches seemed a lot longer than the one the I was planning on giving. Her reply: When was the last time you heard someone say that a speech was too short?

I grew up in a politically active environment. My dad, Lawrence Putney was elected to the House for his first term the year I was born. He served 10 years in the House and in 1952, he lost his bid to become Speaker of the House by one vote after six ballots. He then was elected Speaker Pro Tempore.

The results of the 1952 election were greatly influenced by the landslide of Dwight Eisenhower's candidacy for President. 103 Republicans were elected to the House and three Democrats. In those days the extra six seats were in place because certain populace areas were entitled to more than 1 seat in the House. The Senate on the other hand, had 50 seats and the results were 44 Republicans and 6 Democrats.

In 1954, my dad was elected to the Iowa Senate and served two terms. He became the Appropriations Chair. I will never forget the day Dr. James Hilton of Iowa State came to our farm to talk to my dad about a dream he had for constructing a major venue on the Iowa State campus and asking my dad, as Appropriations Chair, to support his vision. I remember my dad expressing that Dr. Hilton's vision was exemplary, but he was skeptical that it could be funded in the near future.

Being a member of the General Assembly then was a part-time job (as it still is today) and the legislature met only once every two years. As the problems of lawmaking became more complicated there was a need to meet more often. In 1969, after Iowa voters changed the state Constitution the General Assembly began meeting every year.

Approximately 15 years after Dr. Hilton's vision and initiative, his dream became a reality, Hilton Coliseum opened in 1971.

Moving forward – In 1989 I met with the Speaker's grandfather for breakfast at a Perkins. Our visit resulted in Senator Grassley offering me a position on his staff. He told me how much the salary would be and said, "But I don't want you to tell anybody." I replied, "Don't worry about that Senator, I'm just as ashamed of it as you are!"

I spent the next three years working for the Senator. In 1992, I was asked to lead the fundraising efforts for the Iowa State Fair and I assumed that role in the spring of 1993. In addition to my job responsibilities of raising money and support, I also was tasked with lobbying for the State Fair. Over the course of the next nine years, I spent many hours and days in this building while the Legislature was in session. I made many acquaintances and friends in the lobby and in both houses of the Legislature, on both sides of the aisle. I have fond memories of the mentorship that I received from the guys like John Flannery, Jerry Fitzgerald, Steve Roberts, Brian Johnson, Larry Murphy, Larry Blixt, and Scott Newhard.

Even though I grew up in a political household, I really had zero aspirations to run for any office, EVER. However, that changed with reapportionment in 1991, when my home Senate district reconfigured back to the same district my dad represented in the Senate from 1954-1960.

During my days in the lobby, of course I had to listen to many legislators giving speeches to their colleagues in debates, etc. I remember, there was this House member who seemed to frequently be recognized about the time I wanted to go home. And it seemed to me that he would talk forever, almost like filibuster type. His name, Bill Dotzler!

And when I learned that Representative Dotzler was going to run for the Senate, I almost changed my mind about running myself. But, I did run and was elected. A long-time, respected fellow lobbyist was quoted as saying, "one of our boys from the lobby finally made it!"

But, I got to know Senator Dotzler and he became one of my closest friends in the Senate and I have always been grateful for his friendship, as well as, many others on both sides of the aisle.

As I moved from the lobby to the legislature, I reflected on key Representatives and Senators on both sides of the aisle who had actively supported our quest for the renovation and survival of the Iowa State Fair. In the House, Speakers Ron Corbett and Brent Siegrist, Dolores Mertz, Dan Huseman, Pat Murphy, Rich Arnold, Dennis Cohoon, Hubert Houser, and Chuck Gipp. In the Senate, Leonard Boswell, Larry Murphy, Tony Bisignano, Gene Fraise, Jack Kibbie, Mike Gronstal, Jack Rife and Darryl McLaren. An example of both houses, both political parties working together. Regardless of political affiliation, I think most Iowans have a vision for Iowa, a desire to preserve our quality of life and, of course, enhance it.

As elected officials, we will always have our names somewhere in the history and archives of Iowa history. That is a humbling and proud thought. But, rightfully earned through our willingness to put our names on the ballot, march in parades, attend meetings and events back in our districts, have long talks on our phones, and represent our constituents to the best of our abilities, hopefully, in their best interest.

However, I always thought that sometimes we all have taken ourselves a little too seriously. Occasionally, I liked to play a few practical jokes on my colleagues.

One day when we were debating, I noticed Senator XYZ playing solitaire on his computer. His back was towards the West Senate Gallery. I went out to the cloak room and wrote a note to the Senator with the following message: "Senator XYZ, I'm one of your constituents up in the gallery and I wonder if you could take a break from your solitaire to meet with me." I then had a page deliver it to him. It was hilarious to watch him fold down his laptop and sheepishly look up to the gallery.

Over my time in the Senate, I used pages numerous times to deliver mischievous notes to fellow Senators – all in good fun.

In the Senate, I was a member of the majority for two years, we were tied for two years, and then the Republicans became the minority in 2006.

I was visiting with Senator Dick Dearden before the 2006 session began and he told me that the Democrat Majority Leader, Senator Gronstal, was only going to let the Republicans use one elevator. I relayed this to Senator Seymour and his response was, "which one?"

Another favorite memory I have is when my Representative, Lance Horbach was facing a primary challenge with a strong opponent. A Meet the Candidates night was scheduled for Grundy Center and my wife and I attended. Representative Horbach led off with his comments and then yielded to his opponent who discussed his qualifications as a prosecutor who had great experience in addressing and replying to tough questions over his career. Horbach's opponent then finished his comments by challenging the audience to ask him any tough questions on their minds. A guy stood up and said, "How come you aren't a member of the Farm Bureau anymore?" Debate over.

It is disappointing and alarming for me to see the erosion of civility in our world today. It is occurring everyday between nations, governments, and political systems. Unfortunately, it is rampant in our own National Capitol, and in many State Capitols as well.

I think of two stories that exemplified respect and civility in years gone by.

Looking back, I have always been fascinated with the relationship of John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon. The two were Naval Officers in World War II and in 1947 they both were elected to Congress. Although they were of much different economic, political, and social backgrounds they became good friends. When JFK suffered severe injuries in an airplane accident, Nixon visited him in the hospital frequently. When Nixon ran for the US Senate in California, JFK's father, Joe Kennedy, made a significant contribution to him. When Nixon became Vice President, his office on Capitol Hill was room 362 and Kennedy's was 361.

Of course, they subsequently opposed one another in the 1960 Presidential election. Kennedy won by only 113,00 votes—Nixon was urged to contest the voting in Chicago but he declined.

Edward Kennedy reflected on behalf of his family after Nixon died in 1994, that "Despite the intensity of the campaign and the narrow outcome, Nixon accepted the results with grace and without spite."

During Nixon's Watergate troubles, the Kennedy's were silent and the only time Jackie Kennedy returned to the White House after JFK's death was when Nixon was President!

Next, I refer to Lesley K' writing on "How Gorbachev and Reagan's friendship helped thaw the Cold War." She described the two leaders as follows: one was an avid capitalist, an actor-turned US President determined to quash America's nuclear arms race with the Soviet Union's "evil empire." The other, a young committed communist who rose through the political ranks to lead the USSR, pushing publicly for reform.

But Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev, unusual bedfellows as they may have been, managed to forge not only a mutual respect, but a friendship which helped end the Cold War. In his book, Dear Mr. President, historian Jason Saltoun-Ebin writes that confidential letters between the two world leaders forced the men to "talk, debate, argue, disagree, but also offer proposals even when they thought no agreement would be possible."

I believe most of us would yearn for those times again.

Thank you for keeping this institution and our state an example of civility, respect, and friendship.

Thank you all for your commitments, dedication, and sacrifices, past and present, in making Iowa a great place to live!

Speaker Grassley offered closing remarks to the Pioneer Lawmakers.

On motion by Windschitl of Harrison, the House was recessed at 2:02 p.m., until the conclusion of party caucuses.

RESPONSORIAL READING

Please respond by reading the verses in italics

[Leader] In the rising of the sun and in its going down, we remember them.

In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter, we remember them.

[L] In the opening of the buds and in the rebirth of spring, we remember them.

In the blueness of the sky and in the warmth of summer, we remember them.

[L] In the rustling of the leaves and in the beauty of autumn, we remember them.

In the beginning of the year and when it ends, we remember them.

[L] When we are weary and in need of strength, we remember them.

When we are lost and sick at heart, we remember them.

[L] When we have joys we yearn to share, we remember them.

[ALL] So long as we live, they too shall live, for they are now a part of us, as we remember them.

Ways and Means Calendar

House Joint Resolution 2006, a joint resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution of the State of Iowa relating to requirements for certain state tax law changes and requiring a single rate for individual income taxes, was taken up for consideration.

House Joint Resolution 2006, a joint resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution of the State of Iowa relating to requirements for certain state tax law changes and requiring a single rate for individual income taxes.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is proposed:

The Constitution of the State of Iowa is amended by adding the following new section to new Article XIII:

ARTICLE XIII.
TAXATION LIMITATIONS.

Section 1. Two-thirds majority vote for state tax law changes. Passage of a bill that increases the individual income tax rate or the corporate income tax rate, or the rate of any other type of tax based upon income or legal and special reserves, shall require the affirmative votes of at least two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly. This requirement does not apply to taxes imposed at the option of a local government.

Passage of a bill that establishes a new tax on any type of income or legal and special reserves imposed by the state shall require the affirmative votes of at least two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly.

A lawsuit challenging the proper enactment of a bill under this section must be filed no later than one year following the enactment. If such a lawsuit is not filed within the one-year limit, the bill shall be considered properly enacted under this section.

Each bill to which this section applies must include a separate provision describing the requirements for enactment prescribed by this section.

The general assembly shall enact laws to implement this section.

Sec. 2. The following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is proposed:

The Constitution of the State of Iowa is amended by adding the following new section to new Article XIII:

ARTICLE XIII.
TAXATION LIMITATIONS.

Sec. 2. Single individual income tax rate. A tax on income or based upon income for individuals shall be imposed at a single rate if imposed, and shall not be imposed at a graduated rate for individuals. There shall not be more than one income tax rate above zero imposed by the state for state purposes on an individual at any one time.

Sec. 3. REFERRAL AND PUBLICATION. The foregoing proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Iowa are referred to the general assembly to be chosen at the next general election for members of the general assembly, and shall be published as provided by law for three months previous to the date of that election.

EXPLANATION

The inclusion of this explanation does not constitute agreement with the explanation's substance by the members of the general assembly.

This joint resolution proposes amendments to the Constitution of the State of Iowa by restricting certain state tax law changes and requiring a single rate for individual income taxes.

RESTRICTIONS ON CERTAIN STATE TAX LAW CHANGES. The amendment requires a bill that increases the individual income tax rate or corporate income tax rate, or the rate of any other type of tax based upon income or legal and special reserves, to be adopted by at least two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly. In addition, the amendment requires a bill that establishes a new tax on any type of income or legal and special reserves imposed by the state to be adopted by at least two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly. A lawsuit challenging enactment of a bill subject to the two-thirds majority passage requirement must be filed no later than one year following the enactment of the bill. Finally, the amendment requires the general assembly to enact laws to implement the amendment.

SINGLE INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX RATE. Under the amendment, a tax on income or based upon income for individuals shall be imposed at a single rate if imposed, and a graduated rate of taxation on such income is prohibited. The amendment prohibits more than one income tax rate above zero imposed by the state for state purposes on an individual at any one time.

REFERRAL. The resolution, if adopted, would be published and then referred to the next general assembly (91st) for adoption, before being submitted to the electorate for ratification.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT

By virtue of Senate Concurrent Resolution 101, duly adopted, the day of Friday, April 19, 2024, having arrived, the Speaker of the House of Representatives declared the 2024 Regular Session of the Ninetieth General Assembly adjourned sine die at 4:23 a.m.

SUPPLEMENT

The following reports and communications were received subsequent to final adjournment:

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER KONFRST
(Given on April 19, 2024 — House Journal Page 920)

The session wrapped up in the early morning hours on Saturday, April 20 after several days of overtime. It was a session full of surprises and, frankly, too much politics.

When the session opened, House Democrats pledged to put people over politics and work together to improve the lives of Iowans. With Iowans so frustrated with politics these days, we offered bills that have strong support from a majority of Iowans in hopes of finding some common ground with the Governor and other lawmakers.

Throughout session, we worked on plans to lower costs for everyday Iowans, invest in public schools, protect reproductive freedom, and legalize marijuana for adult recreational use. With so many Iowans struggling to pay the bills and make ends meet these days, we pushed for bills to raise wages, make childcare more affordable, reduce the sales tax, and provide more retirement security.

Unfortunately, not much progress on these priorities was made this session because the Governor and Republican leaders chose a different path: politics.

The issue that took lawmakers by surprise in the first week and took up most of the oxygen this session was the Governor's plan on special education and mental health for kids. After shifting $300 million from public schools to private schools through vouchers last session, the Governor hired an out-of-state consultant last year who proposed eliminating mental health and special education services for kids through AEAs.

When Iowans learned local parents and educators were excluded from the conversation and the changes were going to take effect right away, they were furious and fought back. Initially, there was some resistance to the Governor's plan from GOP lawmakers and they delayed the bill for several weeks.

Meanwhile, House Democrats listened to the thousands of Iowans who contacted us in opposition to the Governor's idea. We then offered plans to invest in public schools, stop the Governor's reckless plan, and make sure every kid gets a great education.

However, as the weeks carried on, the Governor ramped up pressure and demanded she get her way, just like she did with the contentious debate over vouchers. Instead of listening to Iowans, GOP legislative leaders pushed through her cuts to AEAs that ultimately will reduce special education and mental health services to Iowa kids. In the end, it was just all politics.

Reproductive freedom was again a topic of discussion this legislative session thanks to a cautionary tale from Alabama. In March, the Alabama Supreme Court ruled that every fertilized egg frozen in an IVF lab was a person. The ruling immediately paused IVF treatments for some families while creating chaos for other families, providers, and fertility clinics. It sent shockwaves across the country, and here in Iowa.

Here in Iowa, a huge majority of people — regardless of political party — support reproductive freedom and believe everyone deserves the right to make their own healthcare decisions. And the news coming out of Alabama rightly made many Iowans concerned about protections for IVF here.

Instead of doing the right thing in response, GOP lawmakers did the bidding of the powerful special interest groups at the State Capitol. Republican lawmakers in the House voted to ban abortion, halt fertility treatments like IVF, and ban some forms of birth control.

Here's the good news: Iowans saw right through the game being played for special interests. Republicans got caught playing politics and, ultimately, the Senate didn't pass the bill. It was never about listening to Iowans, it was all politics.

There are honest policy differences between Republican and Democratic lawmakers at the State Capitol and that's to be expected. But Iowans do expect us to listen to them and work together to get things done.

The deep sense of frustration Iowans have with politics these days goes well beyond basic policy differences. It's when the will of the majority is continuously ignored and decisions that impact their lives are instead made for the special interests or political power.

The only way to fix it is to put people over politics.

REMAKRS BY SPEAKER GRASSLEY
(Given on April 19, 2024 — House Journal Page 920)

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Iowa House — congratulations. We've made it to the end of the 2024 Legislative Session.

In January, I sat before you and outlined a number of priorities that our caucus would focus on this session.

Sitting here today ready for Sine Die, I'm very proud to say that we have gotten 11 of those priorities to the Governor's desk and the other two through the Iowa House.

Another thing to be proud of — 9 of those priority bills were passed with bipartisan support.

We said we'd cut your taxes and help you weather the storm of Bidenomics. Today, we cut taxes in 2025 to a flat 3.8 %.

We said we'd make your kids safer in school. We delivered two bills to lower response times to emergencies and invest in safer infrastructure and technology.

We said it was time to revisit our K-12 Education standards and prioritize social studies. We had robust debate in this chamber about the importance of history as we voted to direct the Department of Education to review all K-12 standards and require quality history and civics standards.

We said we'd demand our higher education institutions refocus on preparing the workforce. And we followed through with the elimination of any of the woke DEI offices that aren't directly required by federal or state law.

Before I wrap up. I want to acknowledge the retiring members of both the minority and majority caucuses. Thank you for your years of service to your district and to this state.

Thank you to my caucus for giving me the honor to serve another session as Speaker.

Chief Clerk Meghan Nelson — I have no idea how you and your team keep this train on the tracks every day.

Pages, Clerks, Doormen and women, Sgt. at Arms — You're an integral part of the work we do in this chamber.

House Republican Staff — I believe we have some of the very best in the business in our House Republican staff.

My chief of staff Cord Overton — One day I'm going to get you to snap but once again this session you stayed way too positive and upbeat the whole time. In all seriousness, I really appreciate the great work you've done for me this year.

Minority Leader Konfrst — Throughout the disagreements, I think we came together to deliver some great legislation for our constituents. I have a lot of respect for you and appreciate working with you in your role.

And finally, Majority Leader Windschitl — My respect for you has continued to only grow. As has my appreciation for having you as my partner and my friend to lead this caucus with.

Once again, I'm very proud of our work this General Assembly. I look forward to seeing many of you back next year.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

HOUSE FILE 2539

May 17, 2024

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol
Des Moines, Iowa 50319

Dear Mr. Secretary,

I hereby transmit House File 2539, an Act relating to penalties associated with open meetings violations.

House File 2539, as introduced, would have required public officials to receive training on their responsibilities under chapters 21 and 22. Unfortunately, this provision was removed during the legislative process. This is a laudable goal and one that I hope the Legislature will continue to pursue.

The final version of the bill increases damages assessed against governmental bodies who violate Iowa's open meeting laws and amends the definition of a "meeting" in chapter 21. Although well-intentioned, the amendment to the definition is unnecessary and will cause confusion. Open meeting laws need to be clear; otherwise, their application and enforcement will be inconsistent and varied.

I am committed to working with the Legislature and stakeholders on making our open meeting laws stronger.

For these reasons, I respectfully disapprove of House File 2539 in its entirety.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor of Iowa

1. By striking everything after the enacting clause and inserting:

<Section 1. Section 478.16, Code 2024, is amended to read as follows:

478.16 Electric transmission lines — federally registered planning authority transmission plans.

1. Development and investment in high-voltage transmission is urgently needed to ensure the reliable, adequate, secure, and stable delivery of electricity to consumers. To ensure reliable electric service to the people of Iowa as a matter of public policy, it is the intent of the general assembly to express a preference for further investment in Iowa transmission infrastructure.

~~1.~~ 2. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

a. "Electric transmission line" means a high-voltage electric transmission line located in this state with a capacity of one hundred kilovolts or more and any associated electric transmission facility, including any substation or other equipment located in this state.

b. "Electric transmission line project" means a project planned and approved in the final, utility board approved plans of the midwest independent system operator or southwest power pool to be owned, operated, and sited in this state.

~~b.~~ c. "Electric transmission owner" means an individual or entity who, as of July 1, 2020, owns and maintains an electric transmission line that is required for rate-regulated electric utilities, municipal electric utilities, and rural electric cooperatives in this state to provide electric service to the public for compensation.

~~c.~~ d. "Incumbent electric transmission owner" means any of the following, which may be formed, located, or headquartered in any state:

(1) A public utility or a municipally owned utility that owns, operates, and maintains an electric transmission line in this state.

(2) An electric cooperative corporation or association or municipally owned utility that owns an electric transmission facility in this state and has turned over the functional control of such facility to a federally approved authority.

(3) An "electric transmission owner" as defined in paragraph "b".

~~d.~~ e. "Landowner" means the same as defined in section 478.2.

~~e.~~ f. "Municipally owned utility" means a "city utility" as defined in section 362.2, or an "electric power agency" as defined in section 390.9 ~~which~~ that is comprised solely of cities or solely of cities and other political subdivisions.

~~2.~~ 3. ~~An~~ If ninety percent of the right of way length, or net acreage in the case of a substation, of the electric transmission line project is exclusively owned or controlled by an incumbent transmission owner at the time of approval of the electric transmission line project in a federally registered planning authority transmission plan, an incumbent electric transmission owner has the right to construct, own, and maintain an electric transmission line project that has been approved for construction in ~~a~~ the federally registered planning authority transmission plan and ~~which~~ that directly connects to an electric transmission facility owned by the incumbent electric transmission owner. ~~Where a proposed electric transmission line would connect to electric transmission facilities owned by two or more incumbent electric transmission owners, each incumbent electric transmission owner whose facility connects to the electric transmission line has the right to construct, own, and maintain the electric transmission line individually and equally. If an incumbent electric transmission owner declines to construct, own, and maintain its portion of an electric transmission line that would connect to electric transmission facilities owned by~~

~~two or more incumbent electric transmission owners, then the other incumbent electric transmission owner or owners that~~

~~own an electric transmission facility to which the electric transmission line connects has the right to construct, own, and maintain the electric transmission line individually.~~ Prior to the utilities board approving an electric transmission line project included in the federally registered planning authority transmission plan, the applicant shall provide to the board evidence that the applicant exclusively owns or controls ninety percent of the right of way length needed to construct the line or, in the case of substations, ninety percent of the net acreage. The evidence shall be based on and calculated on the basis of legal descriptions in recorded instruments of right of way or property exclusively owned or controlled by the applicant, who will develop, own, and operate the electric transmission line project. The board shall verify and confirm that the electric transmission line project will fit within the right of way exclusively controlled or owned with no additional right of way needed. If an additional private or public right of way or property is needed, the right of way length, or net acreage in the case of substations, shall not qualify as exclusively owned or controlled by the applicant.

~~3. c. "Synthetic media" means an image, an audio recording, or a video recording of an individual's appearance, action, or speech that has been created or intentionally manipulated with the use of generative adversarial network techniques or other digital technology in a manner to create a realistic but false image, audio, or video.

<Section 1. NEW SECTION. 135.194 Lyme disease testing information — immunity.

1. A health care provider who orders a laboratory test for the presence of Lyme disease shall provide the patient, or the patient's legal representative, with the following information:

According to the centers for disease control and prevention, as of 2011, Lyme disease is the sixth fastest growing disease in the United States.

Your health care provider has ordered a laboratory test for the presence of Lyme disease for you. Current laboratory testing for Lyme disease can be problematic and standard laboratory tests often result in false negative and false positive results and, if performed too early, you may not have produced enough antibodies to be considered positive because your immune response requires time to develop antibodies. If you are tested for the presence of Lyme disease and the results are negative, this does not necessarily mean you do not have Lyme disease. If you continue to experience symptoms, you should contact your health care provider and inquire about the appropriateness of retesting or additional treatment.

Sec. ___. Section 256.9, subsection 67, Code 2024, is amended by striking the subsection.

Sec. ___. Section 256.146, Code 2024, is amended by adding the following new subsection:

NEW SUBSECTION. 25. a. Develop and implement a process for the reporting and investigation of any incident that arises that may reasonably lead to the conclusion that any individual who is employed by the board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, or the governing board of a charter school, including an individual with a license, endorsement, certification, authorization, or statement of recognition issued by the board of educational examiners, has committed a felony or, in the case of an individual with a license, endorsement, certification, authorization, or statement of recognition issued by the board of educational examiners, has engaged in conduct described in section 256.160, subsection 1, paragraph "a", subparagraph (1).

b. The process shall prohibit the board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, and the governing board of a charter school from entering into any of the following:

(1) A written or oral agreement that prohibits the board of directors of the school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, the governing board of a charter school, an employee of the school district, the accredited nonpublic school, or the charter school, or a contractor of the school district, the accredited nonpublic school, or the charter school from discussing an incident, past performance or actions, past allegations leading to discipline or adverse employment action, or employee resignation with any governmental agent, governmental officer, or any potential employer.

(2) A written or oral agreement that waives the liability of an individual with a license, endorsement, certification, authorization, or statement of recognition issued by the board of educational examiners related to or arising from an incident, past performance or action, or past allegations of wrongdoing.

c. (1) The process shall require the board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, and the governing board of a charter school to provide all documentation and information related to the incident to the board of educational examiners for investigation if the employee who is the subject of the incident and who has a license, endorsement, certification, authorization, or statement of recognition issued by the board of educational examiners resigns or the employee's contract is terminated during the school district's, accredited nonpublic school's, or charter school's investigation of the incident.

(2) The process shall require the board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, and the governing board of a charter school school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, and the governing board of a charter school must conduct a review of the applicant's employment history, including by contacting the applicant's previous employers listed on the application for employment and by viewing the board of educational examiners' public license information to determine if the applicant has a case pending with a finding of probable cause or any licensure sanction.

e. The process shall require the board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, and the governing board of a charter school to maintain on forms prescribed by the board of educational examiners reference information related to all employees of the school district, accredited nonpublic school, or charter school, and respond to any request for such information from a potential employer. The board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, or the governing board of a charter school shall be immune from any criminal or civil liability arising from the disclosure of reference information under this paragraph if the school district, accredited nonpublic school, or charter school does not knowingly disclose false information.

f. The board of directors of a school district, the authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school, or the governing board of a charter school, and contractors of the school district, the accredited nonpublic school, or the charter school shall be immune from any civil liability arising from discussing an incident, past performance or actions, past allegations leading to discipline or adverse employment action, or employee resignation with any governmental agent, governmental officer, or any potential employer.

PHARMACY BENEFITS MANAGER REVERSE AUCTIONS

Sec. ___. NEW SECTION. 8A.319 Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auctions.

1. This section may be cited as "The Iowa Competitive Pharmacy Benefits Managers Marketplace Act".

2. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

a. "Market check" means a technology-driven evaluation of an incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's prescription drug pricing based on benchmark comparators derived from pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction processes conducted in the United States over the immediately preceding twelve months.

b. "Participant bidding agreement" means an online agreement that details common definitions, prescription drug classifications, rules, data access and use rights, and other optimal contract terms that benefit the state and that all bidders must accept as a prerequisite for participation in a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction.

c. "Pharmacy benefits manager" means the same as defined in section 510B.1.

d. "Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction" means an automated, transparent, and competitive bidding process conducted online that starts with an opening round of bids and allows qualified pharmacy benefits manager bidders to counteroffer a lower price for as many rounds of bidding as determined by the department for a multiple health plan prescription drug purchasing group.

e. "Price" means the projected cost of a pharmacy benefits manager's bid to provide prescription drug benefits to allow direct comparison of the comparably calculated costs of competing pharmacy benefits managers' proposals over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

f. "Real-time" means within no more than one hour.

g. "Self-funded private sector health plan" means any self-funded private sector employer or multi-employer health plan.

h. "Self-funded public sector health plan" means any group benefit plan under chapter 509A.

3. Consistent with section 8A.311, and notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, the department shall enter into a contract for the services of a pharmacy benefits manager for the administration of benefits of self-funded public sector health plans in compliance with this section.

4. Prior to November 1, 2024, the department shall procure, through solicitation of proposals from qualified professional services vendors, all of the following based on price, capabilities, and other factors deemed relevant by the department:

a. A technology platform with the capabilities to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction. The department shall ensure that the technology platform possesses, at a minimum, the capacity to do all of the following:

(1) Conduct an automated, online, reverse auction of pharmacy benefits manager services using a software application and high-performance data infrastructure to intake, cleanse, and normalize pharmacy benefits manager data with development methods and information security standards that have been validated by receiving service organization control 2 and national institute of standards and technology certification, or successor information technology security certifications, as identified by the office of the chief information officer.

(2) Automate repricing of diverse and complex pharmacy benefits managers' prescription drug pricing proposals to allow direct comparison by the state of the comparably calculated costs of pharmacy benefits managers' bids using one hundred percent of annual prescription drug claims data available for state-funded health plans, or a multiple health plan prescription drug purchasing group, and using code-based classification of drugs from nationally accepted drug sources.

(3) Simultaneously evaluate in real-time diverse and complex multiple proposals from full-service pharmacy benefits managers, including average wholesale price, guaranteed net cost, and national average drug acquisition cost pricing models, as well as proposals from pharmacy benefits administrators and specialty drug and rebate carve-out service providers.

(4) Produce an automated report and analysis of pharmacy benefits managers' bids, including ranking of pharmacy benefits managers' bids based on comparative costs and qualitative aspects of the bids in real-time following the close of each round of reverse auction bidding.

(5) Perform real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of one hundred percent of invoiced pharmacy benefits managers' prescription drug claims, and identify all deviations from the specific terms of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract that resulted from the reserve auction process.

b. Related services from the operator of the technology platform identified in paragraph "a", which at a minimum shall include all of the following:

(1) Evaluation of the qualifications of pharmacy benefits manager bidders.

(2) Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction services to support the department in comparing pricing for the pharmacy benefits manager procurement.

(3) Related professional services.

5. The department shall not award a contract for the technology platform and technology operator services to a vendor that is a pharmacy benefits manager or to a vendor that is managed by, or a subsidiary or affiliate of, a pharmacy benefits manager.

6. The vendor awarded the contract by the department shall not outsource any part of the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction or any part of the automated, real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of invoiced pharmacy benefits manager prescription drug claims.

7. With technical assistance and support provided by the technology platform operator, the department shall specify the terms of the participant bidding agreement. The terms of the participant bidding agreement shall not be modified except by specific consent of the department.

8. a. The technology platform used to conduct the reverse auction shall be repurposed over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract as an automated pharmacy claims adjudication engine to perform real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of one hundred percent of invoiced pharmacy benefits manager's prescription drug claims, and to identify all deviations from the specific terms of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

b. The department shall reconcile the electronically adjudicated pharmacy claims, as described in paragraph "a", with pharmacy benefits manager's invoices on a monthly or quarterly basis to ensure that state payments shall not exceed the terms specified in any pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

c. If following state payment to the pharmacy benefits manager on the basis of the reconciliation under paragraph "b" the pharmacy benefits manager asserts that the department paid less than the amount owed, the pharmacy benefits manager may seek resolution through a mutually acceptable dispute resolution process that the parties agreed to in the terms of the services contract under subsection 9, paragraph "a".

9. a. The first pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall be completed and the services contract shall be awarded to the winning pharmacy benefits manager with an effective date beginning July 1, 2025. Subsequent contracts must be awarded

no later than three months prior to termination or expiration of the current pharmacy benefits manager's services contract for a covered group, such as the state employees benefits group, that includes only active employees and dependents, but does not include retiree participants in a Medicare part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the federal Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003, Pub. L. No. 108-173.

b. In the event an eligible covered group that includes retiree participants in a Medicare part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the federal Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003, Pub. L. No. 108-173, opts to use the processes and procedures under this section, the relevant pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall be completed and the pharmacy benefits manager services contract shall be awarded to the winning pharmacy benefits manager no later than six months prior to termination or expiration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract currently covering the retiree employer group waiver program participants.

10. The department may perform a market check for providing pharmacy benefits manager services during the term of the current pharmacy benefits manager's services contract in order to ensure continuing competitiveness of incumbent prescription drug pricing during the term of a pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

11. To ensure that the department does not incur additional expenditures associated with the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction, ongoing electronic review and validation of pharmacy benefits managers' claims, and periodic market checks, the department shall implement a no-pay option that obligates the winning pharmacy benefits manager, rather than the state, to pay the cost of the technology platform and related technology platform operator services by assessing the pharmacy benefits manager a per-prescription fee in an amount agreed to by the department and the technology operator, and requiring the pharmacy benefits manager to pay the fees to the technology operator over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract. The obligation of the winning pharmacy benefits manager to pay the per-prescription fee shall be incorporated as a term of the participant bidding agreement and the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract awarded to the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction winner.

12. a. This section shall apply to group benefit plans under chapter 509A. This section shall not apply to nonprofit, nongovernmental health maintenance organizations with respect to managed care plans that provide a majority of covered health care services through a single contracted medical group.

b. (1) Three years after the first service contract is awarded to a pharmacy benefits manager pursuant to subsection 9, paragraph "a", any self-funded private sector health plan with substantial participation by Iowa employees and the employees' dependents shall have the option to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction for the specific self-funded private sector health plan utilizing the technology platform and technology operator services selected by the department under this section. The department may charge the self-funded private sector health plan a fee, as established by the department by rule, sufficient to cover any incremental cost associated with the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction.

(2) A pharmacy benefits manager selected by a self-funded private sector health plan as a result of a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction conducted pursuant to subparagraph (1) shall be assessed a per-prescription fee, pursuant to subsection 11, in an amount determined by the department by rule.

c. Any self-funded public sector health plans or self-funded private sector health plans that opt to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall retain full autonomy over determination of the individual health plan's respective prescription drug formularies and pharmacy benefit designs, and shall not be required to adopt a common prescription drug formulary or common prescription pharmacy benefit design.

d. Any pharmacy benefits manager providing services to the department, to a self-funded public sector health plan, or to a self-funded private sector health plan as described in this section shall provide the department, each participating self-funded public sector health plan, and each participating self-funded private sector health plan access to complete pharmacy claims data necessary to conduct the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction and to carry out applicable administrative and management duties.

13. Notwithstanding subsection 3, the department may elect to vacate the outcome of a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction if the lowest-cost pharmacy benefits manager's bid is not less than the projected cost trend for the incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's services contract as verified by the department. The department may utilize a consultant to conduct the verification. The cost trend shall be projected by the technology platform operator using industry-recognized data sources and shall be subject to review and approval by the department in advance of the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction. Methodology shall be applied consistently in projection of cost and savings to the state with regard to the incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's services contract and competing pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction bids.>>

Sec. 10. STATE MANDATE FUNDING SPECIFIED. NEW SUBSECTION. 11A. a. If a pupil participating in open enrollment is truant as defined in section 299.8, the receiving district may prohibit the pupil from remaining enrolled in the receiving district and from enrolling in the receiving district in the future. A receiving district shall send notification of the receiving district's decision to prohibit the pupil from remaining enrolled in the receiving district pursuant to this paragraph to the pupil's parent or guardian and to the pupil's sending district.

<DIVISION ___

PHARMACY BENEFITS MANAGER REVERSE AUCTIONS

Sec. ___. NEW SECTION. 8A.319 Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auctions.

1. This section may be cited as "The Iowa Competitive Pharmacy Benefits Managers Marketplace Act".

2. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

a. "Market check" means a technology-driven evaluation of an incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's prescription drug pricing based on benchmark comparators derived from pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction processes conducted in the United States over the immediately preceding twelve months.

b. "Participant bidding agreement" means an online agreement that details common definitions, prescription drug classifications, rules, data access and use rights, and other optimal contract terms that benefit the state and that all bidders must accept as a prerequisite for participation in a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction.

c. "Pharmacy benefits manager" means the same as defined in section 510B.1.

d. "Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction" means an automated, transparent, and competitive bidding process conducted online that starts with an opening round of bids and allows qualified pharmacy benefits manager bidders to counteroffer a lower price for as many rounds of bidding as determined by the department for a multiple health plan prescription drug purchasing group.

e. "Price" means the projected cost of a pharmacy benefits manager's bid to provide prescription drug benefits to allow direct comparison of the comparably calculated costs of competing pharmacy benefits managers' proposals over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

f. "Real-time" means within no more than one hour.

g. "Self-funded private sector health plan" means any self-funded private sector employer or multi-employer health plan.

h. "Self-funded public sector health plan" means any group benefit plan under chapter 509A.

3. Consistent with section 8A.311, and notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, the department shall enter into a contract for the services of a pharmacy benefits manager for the administration of benefits of self-funded public sector health plans in compliance with this section.

4. Prior to November 1, 2024, the department shall procure, through solicitation of proposals from qualified professional services vendors, all of the following based on price, capabilities, and other factors deemed relevant by the department:

a. A technology platform with the capabilities to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction. The department shall ensure that the technology platform possesses, at a minimum, the capacity to do all of the following:

(1) Conduct an automated, online, reverse auction of pharmacy benefits manager services using a software application and high-performance data infrastructure to intake, cleanse, and normalize pharmacy benefits manager data with development methods and information security standards that have been validated by receiving service organization control 2 and national institute of standards and technology certification, or successor information technology security certifications, as identified by the office of the chief information officer.

(2) Automate repricing of diverse and complex pharmacy benefits managers' prescription drug pricing proposals to allow direct comparison by the state of the comparably calculated costs of pharmacy benefits managers' bids using one hundred percent of annual prescription drug claims data available for state-funded health plans, or a multiple health plan

prescription drug purchasing group, and using code-based classification of drugs from nationally accepted drug sources.

(3) Simultaneously evaluate in real-time diverse and complex multiple proposals from full-service pharmacy benefits managers, including average wholesale price, guaranteed net cost, and national average drug acquisition cost pricing models, as well as proposals from pharmacy benefits administrators and specialty drug and rebate carve-out service providers.

(4) Produce an automated report and analysis of pharmacy benefits managers' bids, including ranking of pharmacy benefits managers' bids based on comparative costs and qualitative aspects of the bids in real-time following the close of each round of reverse auction bidding.

(5) Perform real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of one hundred percent of invoiced pharmacy benefits managers' prescription drug claims, and identify all deviations from the specific terms of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract that resulted from the reserve auction process.

b. Related services from the operator of the technology platform identified in paragraph "a", which at a minimum shall include all of the following:

(1) Evaluation of the qualifications of pharmacy benefits manager bidders.

(2) Pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction services to support the department in comparing pricing for the pharmacy benefits manager procurement.

(3) Related professional services.

5. The department shall not award a contract for the technology platform and technology operator services to a vendor that is a pharmacy benefits manager or to a vendor that is managed by, or a subsidiary or affiliate of, a pharmacy benefits manager.

6. The vendor awarded the contract by the department shall not outsource any part of the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction or any part of the automated, real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of invoiced pharmacy benefits manager prescription drug claims.

7. With technical assistance and support provided by the technology platform operator, the department shall specify the terms of the participant bidding agreement. The terms of the participant bidding agreement shall not be modified except by specific consent of the department.

8. a. The technology platform used to conduct the reverse auction shall be repurposed over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract as an automated pharmacy claims adjudication engine to perform real-time, electronic, line-by-line, claim-by-claim review of one hundred percent of invoiced pharmacy benefits manager's prescription drug claims, and to identify all deviations from the specific terms of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

b. The department shall reconcile the electronically adjudicated pharmacy claims, as described in paragraph "a", with pharmacy benefits manager's invoices on a monthly or quarterly basis to ensure that state payments shall not exceed the terms specified in any pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

c. If following state payment to the pharmacy benefits manager on the basis of the reconciliation under paragraph "b" the pharmacy benefits manager asserts that the department paid less than the amount owed, the pharmacy benefits manager may seek resolution through a mutually acceptable dispute resolution process that the parties agreed to in the terms of the services contract under subsection 9, paragraph "a".

9. a. The first pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall be completed and the services contract shall be awarded to the winning pharmacy benefits manager with an effective date beginning July 1, 2025. Subsequent contracts must be awarded no later than three months prior to termination or expiration of the current pharmacy benefits manager's services contract for a covered group, such as the state employees benefits group, that includes only active employees and dependents, but does not include retiree participants in a Medicare part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the federal Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003, Pub. L. No. 108-173.

b. In the event an eligible covered group that includes retiree participants in a Medicare part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the federal Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003, Pub. L. No. 108-173, opts to use the processes and procedures under this section, the relevant pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall be completed and the pharmacy benefits manager services contract shall be awarded to the winning pharmacy benefits manager no later than six months prior to termination or expiration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract currently covering the retiree employer group waiver program participants.

10. The department may perform a market check for providing pharmacy benefits manager services during the term of the current pharmacy benefits manager's services contract in order to ensure continuing competitiveness of incumbent prescription drug pricing during the term of a pharmacy benefits manager's services contract.

11. To ensure that the department does not incur additional expenditures associated with the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction, ongoing electronic review and validation of pharmacy benefits managers' claims, and periodic market checks, the department shall implement a no-pay option that obligates the winning pharmacy benefits manager, rather than the state, to pay the cost of the technology platform and related technology platform operator services by assessing the pharmacy benefits manager a per-prescription fee in an amount agreed to by the department and the technology operator, and requiring the pharmacy benefits manager to pay the fees to the technology operator over the duration of the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract. The obligation of the winning pharmacy benefits manager to pay the per-prescription fee shall be incorporated as a term of the participant bidding agreement and the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract awarded to the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction winner.

12. All of the following shall be incorporated as terms of the participant bidding agreement and the pharmacy benefits manager's services contract awarded to the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction winner:

a. The department shall require an average acquisition cost reimbursement methodology for pharmacy ingredient cost reimbursement of all prescription drugs covered by a pharmacy benefits manager.

b. A reasonable professional service fee shall be provided to a pharmacist for the pharmacist's time and service included in dispensing prescription drugs covered by a pharmacy benefits manager.

c. A covered person shall not be prohibited from filling a prescription drug order at any pharmacy in the state provided that the pharmacy accepts the same terms and conditions as the pharmacies participating in the covered person's health benefit plan's network.

d. With the exception of incentives in value-based programs established by a health carrier or a pharmacy benefits manager to promote the use of higher quality pharmacies, a pharmacy benefits manager shall not impose different cost-sharing or additional fees on a covered person based on the pharmacy at which the covered person fills a prescription drug order.

e. A pharmacy benefits manager shall not require a covered person, as a condition of payment or reimbursement, to purchase pharmacy services, including prescription drugs, exclusively through a mail-order pharmacy.

13. a. This section shall apply to group benefit plans under chapter 509A. This section shall not apply to nonprofit, nongovernmental health maintenance organizations with respect to managed care plans that provide a majority of covered health care services through a single contracted medical group.

b. (1) Three years after the first service contract is awarded to a pharmacy benefits manager pursuant to subsection 9, paragraph "a", any self-funded private sector health plan with substantial participation by Iowa employees and the employees' dependents shall have the option to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction for the specific self-funded private sector health plan utilizing the technology platform and technology operator services selected by the department under this section. The department may charge the self-funded private sector health plan a fee, as established by the department by rule, sufficient to cover any incremental cost associated with the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction.

(2) A pharmacy benefits manager selected by a self-funded private sector health plan as a result of a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction conducted pursuant to subparagraph (1) shall be assessed a per-prescription fee, pursuant to subsection 11, in an amount determined by the department by rule.

c. Any self-funded public sector health plans or self-funded private sector health plans that opt to conduct a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction shall retain full autonomy over determination of the individual health plan's respective prescription drug formularies and pharmacy benefit designs, and shall not be required to adopt a common prescription drug formulary or common prescription pharmacy benefit design.

d. Any pharmacy benefits manager providing services to the department, to a self-funded public sector health plan, or to a self-funded private sector health plan as described in this section shall provide the department, each participating self-funded public sector health plan, and each participating self-funded private sector health plan access to complete pharmacy claims data necessary to conduct the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction and to carry out applicable administrative and management duties.

14. Notwithstanding subsection 3, the department may elect to vacate the outcome of a pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction if the lowest-cost pharmacy benefits manager's bid is not less than the projected cost trend for the incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's services contract as verified by the department. The department may utilize a consultant to conduct the verification. The cost trend shall be projected by the technology platform operator using industry-recognized data sources and shall be subject to review and approval by the department in advance of the pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction. Methodology shall be applied consistently in projection of cost and savings to the state with regard to the incumbent pharmacy benefits manager's services contract and competing pharmacy benefits manager reverse auction bids.>
