CHAPTER 45
FIRE HAZARD ANALYSIS
S.F. 292

AN ACT relating to the establishment of a building materials fire toxicity filing system.

Be It Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

Section 1. NEW SECTION. 100.19 FIRE HAZARD ANALYSES.

1. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "hazard analysis" means an analytical system for the evaluation of the hazard presented by a product in a specific end use, through consideration of fire scenarios, evaluation of the fire environment of each scenario, and the evaluation on the effect of the fire environment on the given product.

2. The state fire marshal shall establish a data filing system utilizing the available hazard analyses of materials in the fire environment. The data system shall provide design information and guidance regarding the products used in construction and occupancy.

The state fire marshal shall utilize state-of-the-art procedures adopted after consideration of the procedures of third-party standards-making organizations, government agencies, and building code authorities, including but not limited to the national institute of building science, the center for fire research of the national bureau of standards, and the national fire protection association.

3. In the development of the filing system, the state fire marshal shall encourage manufacturers of building products and building contents to perform a hazard analysis of their products.

4. The state fire marshal shall report the availability of hazard analyses data to the general assembly by January 1, 1988 and shall implement the data filing system required by this section by July 1, 1990.

Approved April 24, 1987
