DES MOINES:
MILLS PUBLISHING COMPANY,
PREFACE.

The numerous amendments made to the Code of 1873, at each succeeding General Assembly, together with the many other general statutes, taken in connection with the fact that the State edition of the Code was practically exhausted, seemed to make a revision of the Code almost a necessity, at least much to be desired. In this belief the work of revision and annotation was undertaken.

It has been the object of the editor to revise the Code, so as to show wherein it has been changed in its various provisions, and to present it as it is now in force; and to embody the general and permanent statutes passed by the Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth General Assemblies in connection with the appropriate matter in the Code. In doing this part of the work amendments to any section of the Code, by way of change or substitution, are included in brackets with marginal references to the chapter and section of the amending act. Statutes of a general or permanent character passed subsequent to the Code, which are not expressed to be amendatory of any specific section thereof, are included entire under subheadings in their appropriate connection with the text, except the chapter on mechanics' liens, being Chapter 100, Laws of 1876, which is substituted for Chapter 8 of Title IV of the Code, which is repealed by the former act.

In the publication of the State edition of the Code numerous errors occurred, some of which changed the sense and effect of the law. These have been corrected, so that this work will correctly embody all the general statute law of the State in force on the 4th day of July, 1880. In addition to the matter of the appendix of the Code will be found the various organic acts, the swamp land laws, rules of the Supreme Court, and notes to the State Constitution, besides other statutes of general interest.

In the first volume following the Analysis will be found a table showing where the various general statutes passed since the Code may be found.

In the work of annotation it has been the aim of the author to give the substance of every decision of the Supreme Court construing any of the provisions of the statute, either directly or remotely, without repetition, and in doing this the opinions themselves have been carefully examined, and not simply the head-note or digests of the case adopted. The notes come down to and include the decisions of the fifty-first volume of Iowa Reports.

Hoping that the labor and care bestowed upon the preparation of the work may materially lighten the labors of the members of the legal profession, and be found useful to all who have occasion to use the book, it is respectfully submitted.

PREFACE TO EDITION OF 1882.

Since the publication of the Revised and Annotated Code in 1880, the Nineteenth General Assembly has intervened, which has made numerous amendments to the Code and to other general statutes, and has also added many new and independent laws, whereby a further revision of the Revised and Annotated Code becomes necessary in order that it shall embrace the entire statute law of the State of a permanent character at the present time.

This has been done on the plan of the original work.

There have been also five volumes of Reports of the Supreme Court decisions published since the summer of 1880, containing many decisions bearing upon the various provisions of the statute. These have been carefully collected and noted, together with many additional decisions found in prior volumes bearing more or less directly on the provisions of the statutes, which will be found in a supplement at the end of the work with convenient and intelligible reference to the statutes passed upon.

Trusting that the profession, and those having occasion to examine or use the statute law of the State, will find this work convenient and helpful, it is respectfully submitted.

W. E. M.
PREFACE TO EDITION OF 1888.

The purpose of this edition has been to supply the courts and the bar, and all persons using the laws of the State, with a book in which all the statutes as they were in force, July, 1888, may be conveniently found; together with notes of the decisions of the Supreme Court, giving constructions to the statutory questions arising in the course of litigation. The last previous edition was in 1884, since which time we have had two sessions of the General Assembly, which have enacted important and numerous changes in the statute law of the State, some of which are based upon constitutional changes which have made radical changes in our judicial system. These numerous and important changes have made it necessary for an entirely new Revision of the laws, which has been attempted, to which we have added further annotations of the Supreme Court decisions down to and including the May term, 1888, whereby the Revised and Annotated Code has been greatly enlarged and improved.

AN ACT RELATING TO EVIDENCE.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa: That the revised and annotated Code of Iowa prepared by William E. Miller, and to be published by Mills & Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, when so published, and certified by the Secretary of State to embrace the Code of Iowa of 1873 as amended by subsequent statutes, and the general and permanent statutes of the fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth general assemblies, shall be receivable in evidence in all the courts of this state, with like effect as if published by the state.

Approved, March 27, 1880.

CERTIFICATE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

I, J. A. T. Hull, Secretary of State of the State of Iowa, hereby certify that I have examined the “Revised and Annotated Code of Iowa,” prepared by Wm. E. Miller, and published by Mills & Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, and find that it embraces the Code of 1873 as amended by subsequent statutes, and the general and permanent statutes of the fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth General Assemblies.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State this twenty-eighth day of May, A. D. 1880.

J. A. T. Hull,
DES MOINES, OCT. 29, 1888.

We have examined the advanced sheets of Judge Miller's new edition of the Code of Iowa, soon to be issued. We regard it a complete work. It has many improvements which largely add to its value as compared with other and prior editions. We esteem it accurate in the text and in the citation of cases. We recommend it to the profession of the State and elsewhere.

W. H. SEEVERS, Chief Justice.

SECTION 1. [Boundaries of state.]—The boundaries of the state of Iowa are defined in the preamble of the constitution.

SEC. 2. The state possesses sovereignty co-extensive with the boundaries referred to in the preceding section, subject to such rights as may at any time exist in the United States in relation to the public lands, or to any military or naval establishment.

SEC. 3. The state has concurrent jurisdiction on the waters of any river or lake which forms a common boundary between this and any other state.

The concurrent jurisdiction of the states of Illinois and Iowa over the Mississippi river attaches to cases, either civil or criminal, arising out of the commerce of such river; but does not authorize the courts of Iowa to abate a nuisance existing in the river on the Illinois side of the main channel thereof. Gilbert v. The Moline Water Power and Manuf. Co., 19 Iowa, 319. See State v. Mullen, 35 Id., 199.

The courts of this state will take notice that the island of Rock Island is within the state of Illinois. Ibid.

A person may be tried in the courts of Iowa for keeping a house of ill-fame on a boat in the Mississippi river, although such boat may, when so used, for a portion of the time, as the water recedes, rest on the soil of an island, and on the east side thereof near the Illinois shore; and the court may abate the nuisance caused by and on such boat when so used. Ibid.

SEC. 4. Exclusive jurisdiction over all lands situate in the state now or hereafter purchased by the United States on which buildings for public uses are, or shall be erected, is hereby ceded to the United States, and the same shall be exempt from taxation so long as the same are owned by the United States. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent on such lands the service of any judicial process issued from or returnable to any court of this state or judge thereof, or to prevent such courts from exercising jurisdiction of crimes committed thereon.

CHAPTER 2.

OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SECTION 5. The sessions of the general assembly shall be held at the seat of government, unless the governor shall convene them at some other place in times of pestilence or public danger.

Sec. 6. [Temporary organization.]—At two o'clock in the afternoon of the day on which the general assembly shall convene, and at the time of convening of the houses respectively, the president of the senate, or in his absence some person claiming to be a member, shall call the senate to order, and, if necessary, a temporary president shall be chosen from their own number by the persons claiming to be elected senators. And some person claiming to be elected a member of the house of representatives shall call the house to order, and the persons present, claiming to be elected to the senate shall choose a secretary, and those of the house of representatives a clerk for the time being.

Sec. 7. [Certificates of election.]—Such secretary and clerk shall receive and file the certificates of election presented, each for his own house, and make a list therefrom of the persons who appear to have been elected members of the respective houses.

Sec. 8. [Election of temporary officers.]—The persons so appearing to be members shall proceed to elect such other officers for the time being as may be requisite; and when so temporarily organized, shall choose a committee of five, who shall examine and report upon the credentials of the persons claiming to be members.

Sec. 9. [Permanent organization.]—The members reported by the committee as holding certificates of election from the proper authority, shall proceed to the permanent organization of their respective houses by the election of officers.

Sec. 10. Any member may administer oaths necessary in the course of business of the house of which he is a member, and while acting on a committee upon the business of such committee.

Sec. 11. [Freedom of speech.]—No member shall be questioned in any other place for any speech or debate in either house.

Sec. 12. (As amended by ch. 52, 19th g. a.) [Compensation of officers and employees.]—The compensation of the members, officers and employees of the general assembly shall be: To every member for each regular session, five hundred and fifty dollars, and for each extra session the same compensation per day while in session, to be ascertained by the rate per day of the compensation of the members of the general assembly at the preceding session, and for every (mile by the nearest traveled route) in going to and returning from the place where the general assembly is held (five cents per mile); but in no case shall the compensation for any extra session exceed six dollars per day exclusive of mileage. To the secretary of the senate and chief clerk of the house, seven dollars per day, each; to the assistant secretaries of the senate and clerks of the house, six dollars per day, each; to the enrolling and engrossing clerks, five dollars per day, each; to the sergeant-at-arms, doorkeepers, janitors, (and) postmasters, four dollars per day, each; and mail-carrier, five dollars per diem; to clerks of committees, three dollars per day, each, and the necessary stationery for each of the clerks, secretaries, and their assistants aforesaid; to the paperfolders, two dollars and fifty cents per day, each; to the messengers, two dollars per day, each. And no other or greater compensation shall be allowed such officers and employes, nor shall there be any allowance of or for stationery except as above provided, postage, newspapers, or other perquisites in any form or manner or under any name or designation. And this act shall apply to the officers and employes so named of the 19th general assembly for their full term of office.

Within thirty days after the convening of the general assembly, the presiding officers of the two houses shall jointly certify to the auditor of state the names of the members, officers and employes of their respective houses, and the amount of mileage due each member respectively, who shall thereupon draw a warrant upon the state treasurer for the amount due each member for mileage, as above certified. He shall also issue to each member of the general assembly, at the end of said thirty days, a warrant for one-half the salary due each member for the session, and the remaining one-half at the close of the session, and that at the close of any extra or adjourned session, the compensation of the member shall be paid upon the certificate of the presiding officers of each house, showing the number of days of allowance and the compensation as provided by law.

He shall also issue to each officer and employe of the general assembly, upon the certificate of the presiding officer of the house to which such officer or employe belongs, a warrant from time to time, for the amount due said officer or employe for services rendered.

He shall also issue warrants from time to time, to the postmaster, assistant-postmaster and mail carrier, upon certificates signed by the president of the senate and speaker of the house, for the amount due said officers for services rendered. Said warrants shall be paid out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 13. [Term of office.]—The speaker of the house of representatives shall hold his office until the first day of the meeting of a regular session next after that at which he was elected. All other officers elected by either house shall hold their offices only during the session at which they were elected.

SEC. 14. Each house has authority to punish as a contempt, by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, the offense of knowingly arresting a member in violation of his privilege, of assaulting or threatening to assault a member, or threatening to do any harm to the person or property of a member for anything by him said or done in either house as a member thereof; of attempting by menace or other corrupt means to control or influence a member in giving his vote, or to prevent his giving it; of disorderly or contemptuous conduct tending to disturb its proceedings; of refusal to attend, or be sworn, or be examined as a witness before either house, or a committee when duly summoned; of assaulting or preventing any person going to either house, or its committee by order thereof, knowing the same; of rescuing or attempting to rescue any person arrested by order of either house, knowing of such arrest; or knowingly impeding any officer of either house in the discharge of his duties as such.

The statute confers no power upon a visiting committee of the legislature to the insane hospital, to punish a witness for contempt, and where such power has been exercised and the plaintiff restrained of his liberty upon the order of such committee, for refusing to testify before it, such restraint is illegal, and the plaintiff will be discharged on habeas corpus. Brown v. Davidson, 59 Iowa, 461.

SEC. 15. Fines and imprisonment for contempt shall only be by virtue of an order of the proper house entering it on its journals, stating the grounds thereof. Imprisonment shall be effected by a warrant under the hand of the presiding officer for the time being of the house ordering it, countersigned by the acting secretary or clerk, running in the name of the state and directed to the sheriff or jailor of the proper county. Under such warrant, the proper officer will be authorized to commit and detain the person. Fines shall be collected by a similar warrant directed to any proper officer of any county in which the offender has property, and executed in the same manner as executions for fines issued from courts of record, and the proceeds paid into the state treasury.

SEC. 16. Imprisonment for contempt shall not extend beyond the session at which it is ordered, and shall be in the jail of the county in which the general assembly is then sitting; or if there be no such jail, then in one of the nearest county jails. Punishment for contempt shall not constitute a bar to any other proceeding, civil or criminal, for the same act.

SEC. 17. [May compel attendance of witnesses.]—Whenever a committee of either house, or joint committee of both, is charged with an investigation requiring the personal attendance of witnesses, any person may be compelled to appear before such committee as a witness by serving upon him, in the same manner a subpoena is required to be served in a civil action in the district court, an order, naming the time and place he is required to appear, signed by the presiding officer of the house appointing the committee, and attested by its acting secretary or clerk; or, in case of a joint committee, signed and attested by such officers of either house.

SEC. 18. Witnesses shall be entitled to the same compensation for attendance under the preceding section as before the district court, but shall not have the right to demand payment of their fees in advance.

SEC. 19. Joint conventions of the general assembly shall meet in the hall of the house of representatives for such purposes as are or shall be provided by law. The president of the senate, or, in his absence, the speaker of the house of representatives, shall preside, or in the absence of both, a temporary president shall be appointed by a joint vote.

SEC. 20. [Tellers.]—After the time for the meeting of the joint convention has been designated and prior thereto, each house shall appoint one teller, and the two shall act as judges of the election.

SEC. 21. [Record of.]—The clerk of the house of representatives shall act as secretary of the convention, and he and the secretary of the senate shall keep a fair and correct record of the proceedings of the convention, which shall be entered on the journals of each house.

SEC. 22. [Vote, how taken.]—When any officer is to be elected by joint convention, the names of the members shall be arranged in alphabetical order by the secretaries, and each member shall vote in the order in which his name stands when thus arranged. The name of the person voted for, and of the members voting, shall be entered in writing by the tellers, who, after the secretary shall have called the names of the members a second time, and the name of the person for whom each member has voted, shall report to the president of the convention the number of votes given for each candidate.

SEC. 23. [Second poll.]—If no person shall receive the votes of a majority of the members present, a second poll may be taken, and so on from time to time until some person receives such majority.

SEC. 24. [Adjournment.]—If the purpose for which the joint convention assembled is not concluded, the president shall adjourn the same from time to time as the members present may determine.

SEC. 25. [Certificates of election.]—When any person shall have received a majority of the votes as aforesaid, the president shall declare him to be elected, and shall, in the presence of the convention, sign two certificates of such election, attested by the tellers, one of which he shall transmit to the governor, and the other shall be preserved among the records of the convention and entered at length on the journals of each house. The governor shall issue a commission to the person so elected.

SEC. 26. [Election of senators.]—Joint conventions for the purpose of electing a senator in the congress of the United States, and canvassing the votes for governor and lieutenant governor, shall be conducted according to the foregoing provisions so far as applicable.

SEC. 27. In the absence of other rules, those of parliamentary practice comprised in Cushing's manual shall govern.

STATIONERY FOR LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEES.

An Act to authorize the secretary of state to furnish stationery for the use of standing or select committees of the general assembly, or either branch thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, etc., That it is hereby made the duty of the secretary of state to furnish to, and supply, the standing committees of the senate and house of representatives, and any select or special committees that are or may be raised or appointed by the general assembly, or either branch thereof, with all the stationery necessary for the use of such committees.

SEC. 2. [Mode of drawing same.]—That in order to draw such stationery the chairman of each of said committees shall, from time to time, as he may deem necessary, make out his requisition on the secretary of state for the amount and kind that is deemed necessary, and upon presentation thereof to said secretary, he shall deliver the same to said chairman and take a receipt therefor, which requisicition and receipt shall be filed in the office of said secretary, and shall be a sufficient voucher to him for such stationery.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers February 7, 1874.)

CHAPTER 3.

OF THE STATUTES.

SECTION 28. When the governor approves a bill, he shall set his name thereto with the date of his approval.

Printed copies of the approval by the governor, of the laws published in a volume issued by authority of the state, are not essential in order that the laws may take effect. Dishon v. Smith, 10 Iowa, 212.

SEC. 29. [Veto of bill.]—When a bill, having passed the general assembly, is returned by the governor with his objections, and is afterward passed as provided in the constitution, a certificate signed by the presiding officer of each house in the following form shall be indorsed thereon or attached thereto: "This bill having been returned by the governor with his objections, to the house in which it originated, and after reconsideration having again passed both houses by yeas and nays by a majority of two-thirds of the members of each house, has become a law this —— day of ———."

SEC. 30. [When bill not returned in time.]—When a bill has passed the general assembly, and is not returned by the governor within three days, as provided in the constitution, it shall be authenticated by the secretary of state indorsing thereon: "This bill having remained with the governor three days (Sunday excepted), the general assembly being in session, has become a law this — day of
_— Secretary of State_."

SEC. 31. The original acts of the general assembly shall be deposited with and kept by the secretary of state.

SEC. 32. [Take effect.]—Acts of a private nature which do not prescribe the time when they take effect, shall do so on the thirtieth day next after they have been approved by the governor, or indorsed as provided in this chapter.

SEC. 33. [Of public nature: publication.]—Acts which are to take effect by publication in newspapers, shall be published in at least two papers, one at least of them at the seat of government, and if such papers are not designated in the act, the same may be designated by the secretary of state, and the act published accordingly. All such acts shall take effect on the twentieth day after the date of the last publication, and the secretary of state shall make and sign on the original roll of each of such acts a certificate, stating in what papers it was published, and the date of the last publication in each of them, which certificate and the printing thereof at the foot of the act shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated.

Where a statute contains a provision that it shall take effect from and after its publication In certain newspapers named therein, it will be in force as a law from the date of such publication, notwithstanding the provisions of section 37, above. — Hunt v. Murray, 17 Iowa, 313; State v.
Donehey, 6 Id., 395. See also Thatcher v. Hawn, 12 Id., 303.
The publication of a statute without the direction of the general assembly will give it no effect.
Scott v. Clark et al., 1 Iowa, 70; Calkins v. The State, ex rel., 1 G. Greene, 68.
The legislature cannot delegate authority to the governor to determine when a statute shall take effect. Such delegation would be unconstitutional. — Scott v. Clark, 1 Id., 70.
Where a statute, regularly passed by the general assembly, and approved by the governor, con­tains provisions for submitting it to a vote of the people, as to whether it shall become a law or not, such provisions are void, and a vote of the people in pursuance with provisions has no legal effect whatever. The act becomes a law by being passed by the two houses of the general assembly, signed by the governor, and at the time fixed in the constitution. — Santo v. The State of Iowa, 2 Id., 164.
A law can no more be repealed than it can be enacted by a vote of the people. — Geebrick v. The State, 5 Id., 491.
The case of Santo v. The State, 2 Id., is cited and reaffirmed in The State v. Beneke, 9 Id., 203;
The State v. Weir, 33 Id., 134.
The original act on file in the office of the secretary of state is the ultimate proof of a statute, whatever errors there may be in what purports to be a copy thereof; and the appellate court will inform itself, and take cognizance of the true reading of a statute, by referring to the original act on file in the office of the secretary of state. — Clare v. The State of Iowa, 5 Id., 509.
When the general assembly by law provides that an act shall be published in certain newspa­pers, and take effect from such publication, and the act is published accordingly, it takes effect from the time of such publication; and where the act published corresponds with the original act, on file in the office of the secretary of state, it is to be deemed in force, although the act, as published in the session laws, may not correspond with it. — The State of Iowa v. Don­ iskey, 8 Id., 306.
Under the territorial organization it was held that where no time was fixed in a statute as to the time of its taking effect, it took effect from its passage. — Semple v. Hendershot, Morris, 27.
The validity or taking effect of a law cannot be made to depend on a vote of the people, and a section of an act providing for such vote is unconstitutional. But if the act is complete without such invalid section it will be held valid without regard thereto. — Weir v. Cream, 37 Id., 649.
Chapter 144 of the acts of 1863, restraining stock from running at large, was accordingly held to be valid and in force, regardless of the section therein providing that the adoption of the act should be dependent on a vote of the people of the different counties. — Id.
An act of the legislature of 1855 in relation to the taking effect of the general statutes, pro­vided "that the governor of the state, whenever he may deem it necessary that any law or laws of a general nature should take effect at an earlier day than by the general publication and distribution, may, in writing, direct any such law to be published in any paper published in this state, anl from such publication thus directed, such law shall be in full force, was held to be unconstitutional. The power conferred upon the general assembly by the constitution, it was held, could not be constitutionally conferred upon the governor or any other person. — Pilky v.
Gleason, 1 Id., 322.
So also the publication of a statute in newspapers, without authority or direction of the gen-
The legislative power of the state of Iowa is vested in the general assembly and can be exercised alone by that body. The act of January 24, 1855, entitled "an act to relocate the seat of government," although it provided that it should take effect from and after its passage, did not take effect until published and distributed under the general law on the first of July following; because it could not take effect, under the constitution, until published by direction of the legislature—the publication by direction of the governor gave it no validity.

A note by the secretary of state appended to an act of the general assembly, as published in pamphlet form, stating that the act was published in certain newspapers at a given date, is not evidence of the fact.

The enrolled bill, signed by the presiding officer of the general assembly and approved by the governor is the ultimate and conclusive proof of the legislative will.

The recitals in the preamble to an act of the general assembly, embracing statements of fact affecting the rights of third persons, do not import absolute verity or conclusive proof of the truth of such statements. Where an act of the general assembly provided that it should take effect from its publication in two certain newspapers, it was held that it would not take effect by publication in but one newspaper. It was also held, that a certificate of the secretary of state that it had been published in one newspaper would not justify the inference that the act had been properly published in another paper.

The acts of each general assembly shall be printed in pages of the same size, and as near as may be of the same style, type and appearance with the edition of this code.

The secretary of state shall superintend the printing of the laws as above directed. In the absence of any other provision, the number of copies to be printed and bound, and the time within which the same shall be completed, may be fixed by resolution of each general assembly, or, in case no such resolution is passed, shall be determined by the executive council.

Every act passed in amendment of, or in addition to, any chapter or section of this code, or in amendment of, or in addition to, any previous act of the same kind, shall contain in the title thereof a reference to the number and name of the chapter so amended or added to, and if such reference be omitted, the secretary of state shall, in preparing such act for publication, supply the omission.

A subsequent statute does not necessarily repeal a prior one on the same subject. Both may stand where there are no express repealing words, and if so, it is the duty of the court so to construe them as to avoid conflicts.

Repeals by implication are not favored.

The courts take judicial notice of the time when a statute takes effect.

A statute is not "passed" by the legislature until it is approved by the governor.

A subsequent statute does not necessarily repeal a prior one on the same subject. Both may stand where there are no express repealing words, and if so, it is the duty of the court so to construe them as to avoid conflicts.
SEC. 39. (As amended by ch. 123, 17th g. a.) (The secretary of state shall distribute the laws aforesaid as follows: To the state library, for distribution to other states and territories, and for exchange, two hundred copies. Two copies to each state institution, to each judge of a court of record, and to each state officer. One copy to each member of the general assembly. Ten copies to the library of the law department of the state university. One copy to the state historical society; all of the foregoing to be bound in law sheep. Thirteen thousand copies of the laws, bound in boards, for distribution to county auditors upon their requisition.)

SEC. 40. (Each county officer, justice of the peace, township clerk, and mayor of a city or incorporated town, shall be supplied with a copy of the laws for the use of his office, which shall be delivered to his successor in office. Distribution shall be made upon the requisition of the county auditor upon the secretary of state, which requisition shall state the number of copies required for distribution under the provisions of this section, and also the number of copies requisite for sale in the county; and said requisition shall be made before the first day of March in each year, and thereupon the secretary of state shall forward the number so certified and file with the auditor of state a certificate thereof, which shall be charged to such county by the auditor of state. The auditor of state shall credit the county with the number of copies distributed under the provisions of the act, upon the filing of the proper vouchers by the county auditors, and upon sale of such laws by the county auditors at the rate of fifty cents per copy. The said county auditor shall pay said amounts to the county treasurer of his county, for the use of the state revenue, and the treasurer shall execute duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed with the auditor of state. The county auditors shall furnish the laws in their respective counties as hereinbefore provided.)

DISTRIBUTION OF COPIES OF THE CODE.

AN ACT to provide state institutions, justices of the peace, and township clerks with copies of the Code.

SECTION 1. [Distribution by county auditor.]—Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa, That it shall be the duty of the auditor of each county in the state to furnish to any state institution in his county, and to each justice of the peace and township clerk of such county, a copy of the code, and take a receipt therefor, which receipt shall be a sufficient voucher for the county auditor in his settlement with the auditor of state: Provided, Such distribution can be made without a reprint of the code.

SEC. 2. In all cases where the county auditors have already furnished copies of the code to the justices of the peace or township clerks or any of them in their respective counties, such action by said county auditor is hereby legalized, and his sworn statement of the number of copies so furnished, shall be a sufficient voucher therefor in his settlement with the auditor of state.

SEC. 3. Should the number of copies of the code in the possession of any county auditor at the time of taking effect of this act be insufficient for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned, it shall be lawful for him to draw upon the secretary of state [for the] number required to make up the deficiency, who shall as soon as practicable thereafter transmit the same to such county auditor, and shall certify to the auditor of state the number of copies so transmitted by him. The auditor of state shall charge to such county auditor the number of copies of the code furnished him by the state, and shall credit him with such as have been or may be disposed of as provided in the first and second section of this act.
SEC. 4. It shall be the duty of every justice of the peace and township clerk, upon the expiration of his term of office, or whenever his office becomes vacant, to deposit with his successor in office, or with the county auditor, such copy of the code as well as all other books and papers which have come into his hands as such justice of the peace or township clerk.

SEC. 41. [Session laws, price of.—The secretary of state and county auditor shall sell the copies remaining in their hands at fifty cents a copy. The secretary of state shall report under oath to the auditor of state the number of copies remaining on hand after the distribution aforesaid, and the auditor of state shall charge him therewith and credit him with the proceeds of all that are sold, upon payment of the same into the state treasury. The county auditor shall pay the proceeds of all copies sold by him to the county treasurer, taking his duplicate receipts therefor, one of which he shall transmit to the auditor of state.

SEC. 42. [Report to be made annually.]—The secretary of state and county auditors shall, on or before the fifteenth day of November in each year, report to the auditor of state the number of copies sold and the number remaining on hand, and the amount paid into the state or county treasury, and the auditor shall charge such state or county treasurer with such amount.

SEC. 43. [Copies delivered to successor.]—When the secretary of state or county auditor goes out of office having any such copies remaining, he shall deliver them to his successor, taking his duplicate receipts therefor, one of which he shall transmit to the auditor of state, who shall thereupon give such officer the proper credit and charge his successor with the copies received by him. Every officer receiving a copy of such laws shall execute a receipt therefor, and shall deliver such copy to his successors, or to the officer from whom he received it, for the use of such successor, and upon failure to do so shall be liable on his official bond or in his individual capacity.

SEC. 44. The compensation for the publication of laws which are ordered by the general assembly to take effect by publication, unless otherwise fixed, shall be audited and paid by the state. Such compensation shall be one-third the rates of legal advertisements allowed by law.

SEC. 45. In the construction of the statutes, the following rules shall be observed, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the manifest intent of the general assembly or repugnant to the context of the statute:

1. The repeal of a statute does not revive a statute previously repealed, nor affect any right which has accrued, any duty imposed, any penalty incurred, or any proceeding commenced, under or by virtue of the statute repealed;

Under this clause it has been held that the modification of section 779 of the Revision of 1860, by section 13, chapter 173, laws of 1862 (now section 890 of the Code), did not affect the right of the wife to redeem her homestead sold before such change, at any time within one year after the removal of the disability of coverture as provided in that section. Adams v. Beetle, 19 Iowa, 61; Myers v. Copeland, 20 Id., 22. An indictment found under a statute is not affected by a repeal of such statute. State v. Shaffer, 21 Iowa, 456; see, also, Peoria M. & F. Ins. Co. v. Dickerson, 28 Id., 274. An amendment of the statute of limitations will not operate retrospectively and have the effect to revive a right of action that was barred under the former statute. Thompson v. Reed, 41 Iowa, 48.

The defendant executed his promissory note in Iowa, and resided in Minnesota long enough for the action to be fully barred by the statutes of that state: Held, that the enactment of section 19, chapter 167, acts of the Thirteenth General Assembly, did not remove the bar. Ibid.

The continuance of a cause and the time in which pleadings in actions should be filed are not "rights accrued" which cannot be affected by the repeal of a statute. Where an original notice was served prior to the taking effect of the Code, but the second day of the term occurred thereafter, it was held, that the provisions of the Code would govern respecting the time to plead. Brotherton v. Brotherton, 41 Iowa, 112.

Where an action has been commenced under and prior to the repeal of a statute, it is saved by subdivision one of section 45. Inskeep v. Inskeep, 5 Id., 204, 221.
Nor will such repeal affect rights of dower which accrued previous to the repealing act. Burke v. Barron, 8 Id., 132.

The repeal of that part of the revenue laws imposing penalties for delinquencies will not remove penalties incurred prior to such repeal, unless the intention to do so be clearly expressed. Bartruff v. Remey, 15 Id., 257.

The repeal of a statute does not revive a statute previously repealed. City of Burlington v. Kelar, 18 Id., 69; Adams v. Beale et al., 19 Id., 61.

An indictment presented under a statute which is afterward repealed is not affected thereby. The State v. Shaffer, 21 Id., 486.

Where an original notice was served before the Code took effect, and the second day of the term occurred after that time, it was held, that the Code would govern in respect to the time to plead. Broiherton v. Broiherton, 41 Id., 112.

The continuance of a case and the time in which pleadings should be filed are not "rights accrued" which cannot be affected by the repeal of existing statutes. Id. But a sale of real property, made after the taking effect of the Code, under a judgment rendered before that time, should conform to the statute in force at the time the judgment was rendered, and in such case the judgment debtor had the right to elect to have the property appraised or sold subject to redemption. Holland v. Dickerson, 1d., 367.

The repeal of a statute under which penalties had accrued for the non-payment of taxes, will not affect the liability of the owner for the amount of such penalties. The C., R. & M. R. R. Co. et al. v. Carroll County, 41 Id., 153.

The provisions of the Revision relating to a stay of execution govern where the judgments were rendered prior to the taking effect of the Code. Du Bois et al. v. Bloom, 38 Id., 512.

The repeal of section 2742 of the Code and its substitution by chapter 145 of the acts of 1878, held to apply only in cases tried in the court below after the taking effect of that statute. Sumondson v. Simondson, 50 Id., 110; Trebon v. Zaraff et al., Id., 190; see, also, Schmets v. Schmets, 52 Id., 513, 514; Shaw v. McHenry, Id., 156.

2. Words and phrases shall be construed according to the extent and the approved usage of the language; but technical words and phrases, and such others as may have acquired a peculiar and appropriate meaning in law, shall be construed according to such meaning;

See Hinds v. Hinds, 1 Iowa, 36, 39. The word "assignment" has acquired a peculiar and appropriate meaning in law. It is a technical word, and is to be construed according to its peculiar and technical meaning. Cowles & Co. v. Ricketts, 1 Iowa, 582, 585.

3. Words importing the singular number may be extended to several persons or things, and words importing the plural number may be applied to one person or thing, and words importing the masculine gender only may be extended to females;

Language denoting the plural number applies equally to the singular. The State v. Thomas, 59 Iowa, 220.

4. Words giving a joint authority to three or more public officers or other persons, shall be construed as giving such authority to a majority of them, unless it be otherwise expressed in the act giving the authority;

5. The words "highway" and "road" include public bridges and may be held equivalent to the words "county way," "county road," "common road," and "state-road;"

The words "highway" and "road" do not include a railroad. Stokes v. Scott County, 10 Iowa, 166, 175. But the terms "county road" are not broad enough to include a highway by prescription. The State v. Snader, 25 Id., 205.

6. The words "insane person," include idiots, lunatics, distracted persons, and persons of unsound mind;

7. The word "issue," as applied to descent of estates, includes all lawful lineal descendants;

8. The word "land," and the phrases "real estate" and "real property" include lands, tenants, hereditaments, and all rights thereto and interests therein, equitable as well as legal;

The terms "real property" include "all rights thereto and interest therein, equitable as well as legal." It is this interest which a minor may redeem in lands sold for taxes, after three years
He redeems the interest of a minor, and not that of an adult owner. Jacobs v. Potter, 34 Iowa, 841. See also Adams v. Beale, 19 Id., 61; Burton v. Heinrager, 13 Id., 348; Stout v. Merrill, 35 Id., 55; Stockdale v. Treasurer, etc., 12 Id., 536; Pelon v. De Bevo, 13 Id., 53, 5b; The Bank, etc., v. Anderson, 14 Id., 557.

A lease-hold in land having more than two years to run is such an interest in land as to be subject to a judgment lien. First National Bank v. Bennett, 49 Iowa, 537; Cook & Sargent v. Dillon, 19 Id., 407. Where under a parcel purchase of real property the purchaser erects improvements thereon, he thereby acquires an equitable interest in the land, which interest under our statute is a mortgageable one. White v. Butt, 32 Id., 835.

The mortgagee of real property is an owner in such sense as to entitle him to notice of the assessment of damages for a right of way over the mortgaged property. Without such notice the proceedings will not affect his rights. Severn v. Cole and the R. Co., 38 Id., 463. A lease-hold interest in land is real estate within the meaning of this subdivision of the statute. Melhop, Sons & Co v. Menshart et al., 70 Id., 655.

9. The words “personal property” include money, goods, chattels, evidences of debt, and things in action;

A promissory note that has been paid off is the “personal property” of the maker, and he may maintain an action of replevin thereon. Sawyer v. Hayes, 20 Iowa, 25. See also Hatch & Thompson v. Gray, 21 Id., 59; Callanan v. Brown, 31 Id., 33, 337; The State v. Orwig, 24 Id., 102, 105.

10. The word “property” includes personal and real property;

A draft, being personal property, is the subject of larceny, and also of embezzlement under our laws. State v. Orwig, 24 Iowa, 102.

11. The word “month” means a calendar month, and the word “year,” and the abbreviation “A.D.,” are equivalent to the expression “year of our Lord;”

12. The word “oath” includes affirmation in all cases where an affirmation may be substituted for an oath, and in like cases the word “swear” includes “affirm.”

13. The word “person” may be extended to bodies corporate;

When the word “person” is used in a statute, corporations as well as individuals are included. Wales & Son v. Muscatine, 4 Iowa, 302. The word person may include corporations. Delier v. The Plymouth County Agricultural Society, 57 Id., 484.

14. Where the seal of a court or public office or officer may be required to be affixed to any paper the word “seal” shall include an impression upon the paper alone as well as upon wax or a wafer affixed thereto;

Where a seal may be required by law to be affixed to any paper, the word “seal” will include an impression of such seal upon the paper alone, as well as upon wax or wafer thereon. Per Baldwin, J., in Gage et al. v. The D. & P. R. Co., 11 Iowa, 313.

15. The word “state,” when applied to the different parts of the United States, includes the District of Columbia and the territories, and the words “United States” may include the said district and territories;

16. The word “town” may include cities as well as incorporated villages;

The legal signification of the word town in this state is collection of houses. Steyer v. Dwyer, 31 Iowa, 20. Parol evidence is admissible for the purpose of showing that certain words used in a contract, have, by known and established usage, acquired a meaning different from their general or popular sense; as that the word “town,” used in a contract, included the town and vicinity. Id. But the word will not include an unincorporated village. Truax v. Pool, 46 Id., 264.

17. The word “will” includes codicils;

18. The words “written,” and “in writing,” may include printing, engraving, lithography, or any other mode of representing words and letters, excepting those cases where the written signature or mark of any person is required;

19. The term “sheriff” may be extended to any person performing the duties of sheriff either generally or in special cases.

Subdivision 19 of this section does not authorize any person other than the sheriff to serve notices or sell property on execution, but other sections of the Code authorize private persons to serve notices and subpenas. Such persons, however, are not entitled to charge fees for making such service. Conaway v. The M. & G. M. E’y Co., 48 Iowa, 92.
20. The word "deed" is applied to an instrument conveying lands, but does not imply a sealed instrument; and the words "bond" and "indenture" do not necessarily imply a seal, and the word "undertaking" means a promise or security in any form.

A seal is not essential to the validity of a conveyance in this state. Pierson v. Armstrong, 1 Iowa, 282; Simms v. Harvey, 19 Id., 273, 290; Switzer v. Knapp, 10 Id., 72.

21. The term "executor" includes administrator, where the subject matter applies to an administrator;

While there are no restrictions or limitations of the statute upon the right of the wife to administer upon the estate of her husband, yet that right cannot be regarded as absolute, for she may be insane or otherwise incompetent, and something must be left to the discretion of the court. Estate of O'Brien, 63 Iowa, 622.

22. The Roman numerals and Arabic figures are to be taken as a part of the English language;

23. In computing time the first day shall be excluded and the last included, unless the last falls on Sunday, in which case the time prescribed shall be extended so as to include the whole of the following Monday;

Unless otherwise expressed, the mode of computing time is by excluding the first day and including the last. Tencher v. English v. Hiatt, 23 Iowa, 527; Benkert v. Jacoby, 37 Id., 273; Cooper v. The Cedar R. W. P. Co., 42 Id., 398.

Where judgment was rendered on the 21st day of October, and ten days were given to file bill of exceptions, a bill filed on the 1st day of November was held to have been too late. It should have been filed on the 31st day of October. Manning v. Irish, 47 Id., 650.

Where the statute does not require a specified number of "clear days" notice, the method of computing time is to exclude the first and include the last day. Bonney v. Cocke, 61 Id., 304.

24. Degrees of consanguinity and affinity shall be computed according to the civil law;

25. The word "clerk" means clerk of the court in which the action or proceeding is brought or is pending; and the words "clerk's office" mean his office.

CHAPTER 4.

OF THE CODE AND ITS OPERATION.

SECTION 46. [The Code.]—In the citation of the statutes, this shall not be reckoned as one of the statutes of the present political year, but it may be designated as the "Code," adding as it may be necessary the title, chapter, or section.

SEC. 47. [Repeal of prior statutes.]—All public and general statutes passed prior to the present session of the general assembly, and all public and special acts, the subjects whereof are revised in this Code, or which are repugnant to the provisions thereof, are hereby repealed, subject to the limitations and with the exceptions herein expressed.

Statutes which are public and special, whose subjects are not revised in the Code, or which are repugnant to the provisions thereof, are hereby repealed, subject to the limitations and with the exceptions herein expressed.

Statutes which are public and special, whose subjects are not revised in the Code, are not repealed unless their provisions are repugnant to the enactments of the Code, and in this class are included the statutes in relation to the swamp lands and swamp land funds. Gray v. Mount, 45 Iowa, 591. See also, City of Burlington v. Leebrick et al., 43 Id., 252. See also, The State v. Harris, 10 Id., 441; The State v. Jones, 1 Id., 365.

Where a judgment was rendered in a justice's court in December, 1868, less than five years prior to the taking effect of the code of 1873, and execution was issued thereon in 1877, it was held that the execution was lawfully issued, and was valid; for although section 3911 of the revision, which was in force when the judgment was rendered, provided that in such cases execution should not issue after five years from the entry of the judgment, yet, as that time had not elapsed when section 3569 of the code took effect, that section became the law applicable to the case, and extended the time for issuing execution to ten years from the date of the judgment. Wood v. Hamilton, 59 Iowa, 476.

This section repealed section 8 of chapter 107, acts of the eleventh general assembly. Staples v. Plymouth County, 82 Iowa, 364.
CHAP. 4.

THE CODE AND ITS OPERATION.

SEC. 48. Local acts are not repealed unless it be herein so expressed, or unless the provisions of this code are repugnant thereto.

SEC. 49. This code shall take effect on the first day of September, A. D. 1873, until which time existing statutes continue in force, and nothing contained in this title in relation to the preparation and publication of the statutes shall be construed as including this code.

SEC. 50. This repeal of existing statutes shall not affect any act done, any right accruing or which has accrued or been established, nor any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil cause before the time when such repeal takes effect; but the proceedings in such cases shall be conformed to the provisions of this code as far as consistent.

The repeal of a statute under which penalties had accrued for the non-payment of taxes, will not relieve the owner of the land from the payment of such penalties. The C. R. & M. R. R. Co. and The I. R. L. Co. v. Carroll Co., 41 Iowa, 153.

An act done, a right accruing or accrued, or a suit or proceeding commenced before the repeal of a statute, is not affected thereby. Fifield v. Chick, 39 Id., 651.

The provisions of the revision of 1860 relating to the stay of execution, govern in cases of judgments rendered before the code took effect. DuBoise et al. v. Bloom, 38 Id., 512.

In an action for a divorce commenced before the code took effect, and tried afterward, either party had the right to demand a jury trial in accordance with the prior law. The right to a jury trial was a right accrued under the law repealed. Wadsworth v. Wadsworth, 40 Id., 448.

The rights of a party injured through the negligence of a railroad company are to be governed by the statute in force at the time of the injury received, and he can derive no advantage from a subsequent statute passed before the commencement of the action enlarging the liability of the railroad company. Payne v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 44 Id., 236.

A sale of real property, made after the code of 1873 took effect, under a judgment rendered prior thereto, should conform to the law in force at the time the judgment was rendered, and the judgment debtor had the right to elect to have the property appraised or sold subject to redemption. Holland v. Dickerson, 41 Id., 367; Babcock v. Gurney, 42 Id., 154.

Where a judgment was rendered in a justice's court in December, 1868, less than five years prior to the taking effect of the code of 1873, and execution was issued thereon in 1877, it was held that the execution was lawfully issued, and was valid; for although section 3911 of the revision, which was in force when the judgment was rendered, provided that in such cases execution should not issue after five years from the entry of the judgment, yet as that time had not elapsed when section 3569 of the code took effect, that section became the law applicable to the case, and extended the time for issuing execution to ten years from the date of the judgment. Woods v. Haviland, 59 Id., 476.

SEC. 51. No offense committed, and no penalty or forfeiture incurred under any statute hereby repealed and before the repeal takes effect, shall be affected by the repeal, except that when a punishment, penalty, or forfeiture is mitigated by the provisions herein contained, such provisions shall be applied to a judgment to be pronounced after the repeal.

SEC. 52. No suit or prosecution pending when this repeal takes effect, for an offense committed, or for the recovery of a penalty or forfeiture incurred, shall be affected by the repeal, but the proceedings may be conformed to the provisions of this code as far as consistent.

SEC. 53. The terms “heretofore” and “hereafter,” as used in this code, have relation to the time when this statute takes effect.

The word “hereafter” in section 1672 of the code of 1851, was held to have had reference to the date of taking effect of that code, and not to the date of its passage. Bennett v. Bevard, 6 Iowa, 82.

SEC. 54. [Acts in conflict with code.]—Whenever an act of a general nature passed at the present session of the general assembly, separate from this code, conflicts with or contravenes any of the provisions thereof, the provisions of the code shall prevail.
TITLE II.

OF THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

CHAPTER 1.

OF THE GOVERNOR.

SECTION 55. The governor shall keep his office at the seat of government, in which shall be transacted the business of the executive department of the state, and he shall keep a secretary at said office during his absence.

SEC. 56. He shall cause a journal to be kept in the executive office, in which shall be made an entry of every official act done by him at the time when done. If, in cases of emergency, acts are done elsewhere than in such office, an entry thereof shall be made in the journal as soon thereafter as possible.

SEC. 57. He shall cause a military record to be kept, in which shall be made an entry of every act done by him as commander-in-chief.

SEC. 58. [Reward for criminals.]—Whenever the governor is satisfied that the crime of murder or arson has been committed within the state, and that the person charged therewith has not been arrested, or has escaped therefrom, he may, in his discretion, offer a reward not exceeding five hundred dollars for the arrest and delivery to the proper authorities of the person so charged, which reward shall be audited upon the certificate of the governor that the same has been earned, and paid by the state.

Under this section the governor is authorized to offer a reward, in certain cases, for the apprehension of persons charged with the crimes of murder or arson, but the power to offer such reward is not conferred upon a county. The board of supervisors may, however, offer a reward for the recovery of money which has been stolen from the county. Hawks v. Marion County, 48 Iowa, 472.

SEC. 59. Whenever the governor is satisfied that an action or proceeding has been commenced which may affect the rights or interest of the state, he may employ counsel to protect such rights or interests; and when any civil action or proceeding has been or is about to be commenced by the proper officer in behalf of the state, he may employ additional counsel to assist in the cause.

SEC. 60. Expenses incurred under the preceding section and in causing the laws to be executed, may be allowed by the governor and paid from the contingent fund.

CHAPTER 2.

OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

SECTION 61. The secretary of state shall keep his office at the seat of government and perform all duties which may be required of him by law; he shall have charge of and keep all the acts and resolutions of the territorial legislature, and the general assembly of the state, the enrolled copy of the constitution of the state, and all bonds, books, records, maps, registers, and papers which now are or may hereafter be deposited to be kept in his office.

Sec. 62. All commissions issued by the governor shall be countersigned by the secretary, who shall register each commission in a book to be kept for that purpose, specifying the office, name of officer, date of commission, and tenure of office.

Sec. 63. He shall report to the governor, before each regular session of the general assembly, an abstract for each year of the criminal returns received from the clerks of the several district courts, embracing all the facts contained in such returns.

Sec. 64. He shall furnish the library of congress two copies of all legislative journals and reports of state officers immediately upon the publication thereof.

Sec. 65. The secretary of state shall receive and preserve in his office all papers transmitted to him in relation to the incorporation of cities or towns, or the annexation of territory to the same, or the consolidation or the abandonment of municipal corporations, and shall keep an alphabetical list of said cities and towns in a book provided for that purpose, in which shall be entered the name of the town or city, the character of the same, whether town or city, and if a city, whether of first or second class, the county in which situated, and the date of organization.

CHAPTER 3.
OF THE AUDITOR OF STATE.

Section 66. The auditor shall keep his office at the seat of government. He is the general accountant of the state, and it is his duty:

1. To keep and state all accounts between the state and the United States or any other state, or any public officer of the state, or person indebted to the state or intrusted with the collection, disbursement, or management of funds belonging to the same, when they are payable to or from the state treasury;

2. To settle the accounts of all county treasurers and receivers of state revenues payable into the state treasury, for each of their official terms separately;

3. To keep fair, clear and separate accounts of all the revenues, funds, and incomes of the state payable into the state treasury, and of all disbursements and investments thereof, showing the particulars of the same;

4. To settle the accounts of all public debtors for debts due the state treasury, and to require such persons, or their legal representatives, who have not accounted, to settle their accounts.

5. To settle all claims against the treasury, and when a claim is recognized by law for which no appropriation has been made, to give the claimant a certificate thereof, and report the same to the general assembly.

6. To direct and superintend the payment of all money payable into the state treasury, and cause to be instituted and prosecuted the proper actions for the recovery of debts and other moneys so payable;

7. To superintend the fiscal affairs of the state, and secure their management as required by law; to furnish proper instruction, directions, and forms to the county auditors and treasurers, in compliance with which they shall severally keep their accounts relating to the revenue of the state, and perform the duties of their several offices; also forms for the reports required to be made by said officers to such auditor, and of receipts to be given by such treasurers to the tax payers;

It is the duty of the auditor of state to issue a warrant for money appropriated by the general assembly whenever the appropriation is payable, regardless of the fact that there may be no money in the treasury with which to pay it. The State v. Sherman, 46 Iowa, 415.

In the construction of the clause of a statute the context is to be regarded, as well as other statutes in pari materia, and the reason and spirit of the law. Id.

9. To have the custody of all books, papers, records, documents, vouchers, conveyances, leases, mortgages, bonds, and other securities appertaining to the fiscal affairs and property of the state, which are not required to be kept in some other office;

10. To furnish the governor on his requisition, information in writing upon any subject connected with his office, and to suggest to the general assembly plans for the improvement and management of the public revenue and property;

11. (Amended by chap. 82, 22d g. a.) To report to the governor before each regular session of the general assembly, a complete statement of the revenue, funds, income, taxable property, and other resources and property of the state, and of public revenues and expenditures since his last report, up to the first, with a detailed statement of the expenditures to be defrayed from the treasury for the (term following that covered by his report) specifying each expenditure, and distinguishing between such as are provided for by appropriations and such as are not, and showing the probable deficiency of any former appropriations;

12. [Apportion school money.]—He shall, on the first Monday of March and September of each year, apportion the interest of the permanent school fund among the several counties in proportion to the number of persons between five and twenty-one years of age in each, as shown by the last report filed with him by the superintendent of public instruction.

SEC. 67. [Divide warrants.]-When the amount due from the state to any person exceeds twenty dollars, the auditor shall, if requested, divide the amount into parcels of not less than ten dollars and issue warrants therefor.

SEC. 68. [May require information of persons having property of the state.]-The auditor may at any time require any person receiving money, securities, or property belonging to the state, or having the management, disbursement, or other disposition of the same, an account of which is kept in his office, to render statements thereof, and information in reference thereto. Any such person refusing or neglecting to render such statement or information, shall forfeit twenty-five dollars, to be recovered by civil action in the name of the state.

SEC. 69. Every claim against the state shall be presented to the auditor for settlement within two years after it accrues, and if thereafter presented, the same shall not be audited. When a claim is presented, the auditor is authorized to examine the claimant and any other persons under oath, touching such claim, or cause them to verify the same by affidavit or deposition.

SEC. 70. If any officer who is accountable to the treasury for any money or property, neglects to render an account to the auditor within the time prescribed by law, or if no time is prescribed, then, within twenty days after being required so to do by the auditor, the auditor shall state an account against him from the books of the auditor's office, charging ten per cent damages on the whole sum appearing due, and interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on the aggregate from the time when the account should have been rendered; all of which may be recovered by an action brought on such account, or on the official bond of such officer.
SEC. 71. If any such officer fails to pay into the treasury the amount received by him within the time prescribed by law, or, having settled with the auditor fails to pay the amount found due, the auditor shall charge such officer with twenty per cent damages on the amount due, with interest on the aggregate from the time the same became due at the rate of six per cent per annum, and the whole may be recovered by an action brought on such account, or on the official bond of such officer, and he shall forfeit his commission.

SEC. 72. The penal provisions in the two preceding sections are subject to any legal defense which the officer may have against the account as stated by the auditor, but judgment for costs shall be rendered against the officer in the action, whatever be its result, unless he rendered an account within the time named in the two preceding sections.

SEC. 73. [Oath of treasurer, etc.]—When a county treasurer or other receiver of public money seeks to obtain credit on the books of the auditor's office for payment made to the treasurer, before giving such credit, the auditor shall require him to take and subscribe an oath that he has not used, loaned or appropriated any of the public money for his private benefit, nor for the benefit of any other person.

SEC. 74. In those cases where the auditor is authorized to call upon persons or officers for information, or statements, or accounts, he may issue his requisition therefor in writing to the person or officer called upon, allowing reasonable time, which having been served as a notice in a civil action by the sheriff of the county in which the person or officer called upon resides, and returned to the auditor with the service indorsed thereon, shall be evidence of the making of the requisition therein expressed.

CHAPTER 4.

OF THE TREASURER OF STATE.

SECTION 75. [Office of treasurer.]—The treasurer shall keep his office at the seat of government, and shall keep an accurate account of the receipts and disbursements at the treasury, in books kept for that purpose, in which he shall specify the names of the persons from whom money is received and on what account, and the time thereof.

SEC. 76. He shall enter in a book the memorandum of warrants issued as certified to him by the auditor, and receive in payment of public dues the warrants so issued in conformity with law, and redeem the same if there be money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and on receiving any such warrant, shall cause the person presenting it to endorse it, and shall write on the face thereof "redeemed," and enter in the book containing the auditor's memoranda in appropriate columns, the name of the person to whom paid, date of payment, and amount of interest paid.

SEC. 77. When money is paid him the treasurer shall execute receipts in duplicate therefor, stating the fund to which it belongs, one of which must be delivered to the auditor in order to obtain the proper credit, and the treasurer must be charged therewith.

SEC. 78. [Pay warrants in order.]—He shall pay no money from the treasury but upon the warrants of the auditor, and only in the order of their issuance; or if there is no money in the treasury from which such warrant can be paid, he shall, upon request of the holder, indorse upon the warrant the date of its presentation, and sign it, from which time the warrant shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, until the time directed in the next section.
If there is no money in the treasury with which to pay a warrant when presented, the treasurer is required to indorse thereon the day of presentation, and therefrom it will draw interest at six per centum per annum. The State v. Sherman, 46 Iowa, 415.

Sec. 79. He shall keep a record of the number and amount of the warrants so presented and indorsed for non-payment, and when there are funds in the treasury for their payment to an amount sufficient to render it advisable, he shall give notice to what number of warrants the funds will extend, or the number which he will pay, by three insertions in a newspaper printed at the seat of government; at the expiration of thirty days from the day of the last publication, interest on the warrants so named as being payable, shall cease.

Sec. 80. Once in each week he shall certify to the auditor the number, date, amount, and payee of each warrant taken up by him, with the date when taken up, and the amount of interest allowed; and on the first Monday of January, April and July, and on the first day of October, annually, he is directed to account with the auditor and deposit in his office all such warrants received at the treasury, and take the auditor's receipt therefor.

Sec. 81. (As amended by chap. 82, 22d g. a.) [Report to governor.] As soon as practicable after the first Monday of November preceding the regular session of the general assembly, he shall report to the governor the state of the treasury up to the first day of July preceding, exhibiting the amount received and paid out by the treasurer since his last report, and the balance remaining in the treasury.

Sec. 82. [Provide funds to pay interest on state bonds.]—When interest on any bonds of the state becomes due, the treasurer shall provide funds for the payment thereof on the day and at the place where payable; and persons holding such bonds are required to present the same at such place within ten days from such day, at the expiration of which time the funds remaining unexpended and vouchers for interest paid shall be returned to the treasury.

CHAPTER 5.

OF THE STATE LAND OFFICE AND REGISTER THEREOF.

[The office of register was abolished by ch. 206, laws of 1881.]

Section 83. [Office: duties.]—The register of the state land office shall keep his office at the seat of government. The books and records of such office shall be so kept as to show and preserve an accurate chain of title from the general government to the purchaser of each smallest subdivision of land; to preserve a permanent record, in books suitably indexed, of all correspondence with any of the departments of the general government in relation to state lands; to preserve by proper records copies of the original lists furnished by the selecting agents of the state, and of all other papers in relation to such lands which are of permanent interest.

Sec. 84. Separate tract books shall be kept for the university lands, the saline lands, the half-million acre grant, the sixteenth sections, the swamp lands, and such other lands as the state now owns or may hereafter own, so that each description of state lands shall be kept separate from all others, and each set of tract books shall be a complete record of all the lands to which they relate.

Sec. 85. Said tract books shall be ruled in a manner similar to those used in the United States land offices, so as to record each tract by its smallest legal subdivision, its section, township, and range, to whom sold, and when, the price per acre, to whom patented, and when.
Sec. 86. The state land office shall be kept open during business hours, and shall have the personal supervision of the register; the documents and records therein shall be subject to inspection, in the presence of the register, by parties having an interest therein, and certified copies thereof, signed by said register with the seal of said office attached, shall be deemed presumptive evidence of the fact to which they relate, and on request they shall be furnished by the register for a reasonable compensation.

Sec. 87. Patents for land shall issue from the state land office, shall be signed by the governor and recorded by the register; and each patent shall contain therein a marginal certificate of the book and page on which it is recorded, which certificate shall be signed by the register, and all patents shall be delivered free of charge.

Sec. 88. No patent shall be issued for any lands belonging to the state, except upon the certificate of the person or officer specially charged with the custody of the same, setting forth the appraised value per acre, name of person to whom sold, date of sale, price per acre, amount paid, name of person making final payment, and of the person who is entitled to the patent, and if thus entitled by assignment from the original purchaser, setting forth fully such assignment, which certificate shall be filed and preserved in the land office.

Sec. 89. The register is authorized and required to correct all clerical errors of his office, in name of grantee, and description of tract of land conveyed by the state found upon the records of such office; he shall attach his official certificate to each conveyance so corrected, and the reasons therefor; record the same with the record of the original conveyance, and make the necessary correction in the tract and plat books of his office. Such corrections, when made in accordance with the foregoing provisions, shall have the force and effect of a deed originally correct, subject to prior rights accrued without notice.

Sec. 90. The register shall receive any field notes, maps, records, or other papers relating to the public survey of this state, whenever the same shall be turned over to the state in pursuance to an act of congress, entitled "an act for the discontinuance of the office of surveyor general in the several districts as soon as the surveys therein can be completed, for abolishing land offices under certain circumstances, and for other purposes," approved June 12, 1840, and any act amendatory thereof, and shall provide for their safe keeping and proper arrangement as public records; and free access to the same by the lawful authority of the United States, for the purpose of taking extracts therefrom, or making copies thereof, shall always be granted.

Sec. 91. [When governor may relinquish title to lands patented to the state.]—Whenever the governor is satisfied by the commissioner of the general land office that the title to any lands which may have been certified to the state under any of the several grants, is inferior to the rights of any valid interfering pre-emptor or claimant, he is authorized and required to release by deed of relinquishment such color of title to the United States, to the end that the requirements of the interior department may be complied with, and that such tract or tracts of land may be patented by the general government to the legal claimants.

Sec. 92. [Governor may in certain cases quitclaim.]—Whenever the governor is satisfied by proper record evidence that any tract of land which may have been deeded by virtue of any donation or sale to the state, is not the land intended to have been described, and that an error has been committed in making out the transfers, in order that such error may be corrected, he is authorized to quitclaim the same to the proper owner thereof, and to receive a deed or deeds for the lands intended to have been deeded to the state originally.

Sec. 93. [As amended by chap. 167, 18th g. a., and chap. 123, 19th g. a.) [Land granted under acts of congress.] In cases where lands have been granted to the state of Iowa by act of congress, and certified lists of lands inuring under the grant have been made to the state by the commissioner of the general land office, as required by act of congress, and such lands have been granted by act of the general assembly to any person or company, and such person or company shall have complied with and fulfilled the conditions of the grant, the register of the state land office is hereby authorized to prepare, on the application of (such person or company, or on the application of a party claiming title through such person or company), a list or lists of lands situated in each county inuring to such (applicant), from the lists certified by the commissioner of the general land office, as aforesaid, which shall be signed by the governor of the state and attested by the secretary of the state, with the state seal, and then be certified by the register to be true, and corrected copies of the lists made to this state, and deliver them to such (applicant), who is hereby authorized to have them recorded in the proper county, and when so recorded they shall be notice to all persons the same as deeds now are, and shall be evidence of title in such grantee or his or its assigns to the lands therein described under the grant of congress by which the lands were certified to the state, so far as the certified lists made by the commissioner aforesaid conferred titled to the state; but where lands embraced in such lists are not of the character embraced by such acts of congress or the acts of the general assembly of the state, and are not intended to be granted thereby, the lists, so far as these lands are concerned, shall be perfectly null and void, and of no force or effect whatever; provided, that no lands now in suit shall be included in such lists until said suits are determined, and such lands adjudged to be the property of the company. Provided, further, that the register shall not include in any of the lists so certified to the state which have been adjudicated by the proper courts to belong to any other grant, or adjudicated to belong to any county or individual under the swamp land grant, or any homestead or pre-emption settlement. Nor shall said certificate so issued confer any right or title against any person or company having any vested right, either legal or equitable, to any of the lands so certified.)

(Cap. 206, Laws of 1880.)

TO CONSOLIDATE OFFICE OF REGISTER OF STATE LAND OFFICE WITH OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE.

An Act to consolidate the office of the register of the state land office with the office of secretary of state.

SEC. 1. [State land office transferred to secretary of state.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa, That on and after the first Monday in January, in the year 1883, the office of register of the state land office shall be transferred to the custody of the secretary of state, and the (present) incumbent of the office of register of the state land office shall then turn over and deliver to the secretary all book, papers, maps, furniture and property of every description held by him as belonging to his office.

Sec. 2. From and after the first Monday of January, in the year 1883, all business pertaining to the office of register of the state land office as provided by law, and all duties now required to be performed by the said register shall thereafter be performed by the secretary of state, and he shall have and hold possession and control of all the property turned over to him, as specified in section 1 of this act.

[Election of.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The state printer and the state binder shall be elected at each regular session of the general assembly, and shall hold their offices for two years from the time they enter upon the duties of such offices, which time shall be on the first day of May in the year following that in which they are elected; but from and after the year 1893 the term of each of the officers named shall begin on the first day of January in the odd numbered year.

SEC. 2. They shall keep their respective offices at the seat of government, sufficiently equipped to enable them promptly to print and bind the laws, journals, reports, and do all other printing and binding required for the state officers, or by or for the general assembly, or either branch thereof; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed as including letter heads, envelopes or postal cards, nor as interfering with the authority of the executive council to apportion so much of the public printing and binding as it may deem advisable to have done at the institution for the deaf and dumb.

SEC. 3. [Quality of work.]—All such work shall be done in a neat, substantial and workmanlike manner and promptly delivered to the proper officer, so that the public business shall not be delayed or suffer from any failure to have the work done in a reasonable and proper time.

SEC. 4. The state printer shall promptly deliver to the state binder the printed sheets of laws, journals and other publications, as the work progresses, as well as all other work requiring stitching or binding; and the state binder shall, upon completion of the work, as required, deliver the same to the secretary of state, taking his receipt therefor; and it is the duty of the secretary of state to see that the proper number of copies is so delivered. All printing which does not require binding shall be promptly delivered by the state printer to the secretary of state, or the officer ordering the work.

SEC. 5. [Orders for work.]—No work shall be ordered of the state printer except upon a regular form of blank furnished by the secretary of state, and kept in his office. If he find there has been a compliance herewith, he shall certify the same, stating the amount to which the officer presenting the bill is entitled. In case such work has not been properly done, or any item in said bill has not, in his judgment been earned, he shall refuse to certify as to such item, or shall state what reduced amount, if any, the officer is entitled to as compensation for such defective work.

Sec. 7. The auditor of state, upon presentation to him of the foregoing certificate, shall draw his warrant upon the treasurer of state, for the amount therein stated to be due.

Such parts of the reports as emanate from boards or officers directly required by law to report, may be leaded with six to pica leads. All extracts copied therein, as well as reports and papers submitted therewith, shall be set solid. No tables of any character shall be leaded, and all tables shall be set as (in) as compact a form as practicable. SECTION. 111. [Who composes.]—The governor, auditor, secretary, and treasurer of state, or any three of them, shall constitute the executive council.

SEC. 112. [Duties in relation to census.]—The executive council must prepare and cause to be printed suitable blank forms for the purpose of taking the census, which, together with such printed directions as will be calculated to secure uniformity in the returns, must be furnished to the respective county auditors, and by them to the township assessors, on or before the first Monday in January of the year in which the census is to be taken.

SEC. 113. [How census taken.]—The township assessor of each township shall, at the time of assessing property in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and every ten years thereafter, take an enumeration of the inhabitants in his township.

SEC. 114. Said assessor shall make a return on or before the first day of June of such enumeration to the auditor of the county, who shall make and forward to the secretary of state on or before the first day of September in the current year, an abstract of said census return, showing:

The number of persons entitled to vote;

The total number of children between five and twenty-one years of age;
The number of families and the number of dwelling houses;

The burden of proving that a judgment by confession, entered by the clerk in vacation, was not approved by the judge, at the next term, rests upon the party disputing its validity, otherwise it becomes the judgment of the court and is presumptively valid. Kendig v. Marble, 58 Iowa, 529.

Sec. 118. The executive council may require any auditor failing to make returns as herein provided, to send up the returns as soon as practicable at the expense of the delinquent county.

Sec. 119. The secretary of state shall keep a journal in which shall be entered all acts of the executive council.

expended for the state, the officer or person having charge of such fund shall keep an accurate account therewith, showing when, to whom, and for what, any portion of said fund has been expended, and to take and preserve receipts for all amounts expended.

SEC. 124. [Report of contingent fund to be made.]—Such officer or person shall, on or before the first day of November preceding each regular session of the general assembly, report to the auditor of state, stating in detail in what manner such funds have been expended, and shall not be credited with any expenditure unless the same has been done in the manner contemplated by the law making the appropriation, nor unless he has preserved and filed with such auditor proper receipts and vouchers for each sum expended. All funds not properly accounted for may be recovered by the state from the person or officer charged therewith, with fifty per­ indirectly, as such regent, trustee, manager, commissioner, or inspector (as the case may be), make, or enter into, or consent to any contract or agreement, expressed or

OF THE JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

CHAPTER 1.

OF THE ORGANIZATION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

(Sections 133, 134, 135, 136 and 137 of this chapter are repealed by chapter 59, laws of 1886.)

ESTABLISHING SUPREME COURT AT SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.

An Act establishing the supreme court at the seat of government, and providing officers therefor.

SECTION 1. (As amended by ch. 34, 22d g. a.) [Supreme court held at seat of government.] Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the supreme court shall be held at the seat of government, and shall convene and hold [three] terms each year, one of which shall commence on the [third] Tuesday [in] [January,] one on the [second] Tuesday [in May,] and one on the first Tuesday of October. Each of said terms of court shall be for the submission and determination of causes and for the transaction of such other business as shall properly come before the court. All causes on the docket shall be heard at each term unless continued or otherwise disposed of by order of the court. The court shall remain in session so far as practicable until it is determined what the opinion of the court shall be in all causes submitted to it except in causes where a re-argument is ordered. Judgment of affirmance, rulings and orders in causes submitted, and orders authorized by law may be made and entered by the court at any time regardless of the terms of court.

SEC. 2. (Court to appoint bailiffs.) The court is hereby authorized to appoint the necessary bailiffs to attend the court and to perform such other duties and execute such orders as may be directed or ordered by the court. Each bailiff shall receive two dollars and fifty cents for a day's service, to be paid out of the contingent fund on the order of the chief justice. The court may also at any time require the attendance and services of the sheriff of Polk county.

SEC. 3. (Causes for transfer.) All causes and other business pending in said court for the terms now authorized to be held at Council Bluffs, Davenport, and Dubuque, shall be at once transferred for further action and disposition to the term of said court which is to commence on the first Tuesday of October, A. D. 1886.

SEC. 4. Sections numbered 133, 134, 135, 136, and 137 of the Code, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Approved April 1, 1886.
SEC. 138. All bills for contingent expenses shall contain the items thereof, and shall be certified to as correct by the chief justice before being audited.

SEC. 139. The presence of three judges is necessary for the transaction of business, but one alone may adjourn from day to day, or to a particular day, or until the next term.

SEC. 140. When the court is equally divided in opinion, the judgment of the court below shall stand affirmed, but the decision is of no further force or authority. Prior to the revision it was held that where by reason of the sickness, consanguinity or other cause, one of the judges was unable to set and the decision of the court below stood affirmed by a division of opinion of the other judges, the judgment had the same force and effect as judgments in other cases. Zeigler v. Vance, 3 Iowa, 523.

SEC. 141. If all the judges fail to attend on the first day of the term, the clerk must enter the fact on record, and the court shall stand adjourned until the next day, and so on until the fourth day; then, if none of the judges appear, the court shall stand adjourned until the next term.

SEC. 142. [Stand continued.]-No process or proceeding shall in any manner be affected by an adjournment or failure to hold court, but shall stand continued to the next term, without any special order to that effect.

SEC. 143. [Opinions filed.]-The opinions of the court, and those of any judge dissenting therefrom, on all questions reviewed on appeal, as well as such motions, collateral questions, and points of practice as such court may think of sufficient importance, shall be reduced to writing and filed with the clerk. In Baker v. Kerr, 13 Iowa, 384, the supreme court, after recognizing the requirements of the statute, uses this language: "And, therefore, in view of the great press of business, in our anxiety to pass upon and adjudicate the causes submitted with as little delay as possible, we have felt at liberty, and that indeed it was our duty, to announce that a case was affirmed, without filing a written opinion, when it was unimportant, involved no new question, and when an opinion would be but repetition and tend to unnecessarily encumber our published reports."

SEC. 144. [Records show.]-The records and reports must in all cases show whether a decision was made by a full bench, and whether either, and if so, which, of the judges dissented from the decision.

SEC. 145. [Reports: what included.]-If the decision, in the judgment of the court, is not of sufficient general importance to be published, it shall be so designated, in which case it shall not be included in the reports, and no case shall be reported except by order of the full bench.

SUPREME COURT TERMS.

An Act relating to the supreme court and to the terms thereof.

SECTION 1. [Date of holding terms.]-Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The supreme court shall hold three terms each year; one of which shall commence on the third Tuesday in January, one on the second Tuesday in May, and one on the first Tuesday in October.

SEC. 148. He shall promptly announce by letter any decision rendered to one of the attorneys of each side, when such attorneys are not in attendance at the place of court.

CHAPTER 3.

A criminal case is under the control of the proper district attorney until the supreme court acquires jurisdiction thereof on appeal, after which it is under the sole control of the attorney-general; and an appeal taken with the consent of the district attorney after the time for taking an appeal by law has expired, will be dismissed on motion of the attorney-general. The State v. Fleming, 13 Iowa, 443.

[Sections 155, 156, 157, and 160, repealed by chapter 60, laws of 1880.]

An Act to provide for the stereotyping, publishing and sale of the supreme court reports, and to repeal sections 155, 156, 157 and 160, chapter 4, title 3, of the code, and to fix the salary of the supreme court reporter.

[Section 1. (As substituted by chapter 125 20th g. a.) Reporter to prepare opinions for publication.—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa, That as soon as practicable after sufficient opinions are announced to make a volume, as herein provided, the supreme court reporter shall furnish and deliver at his office at Des Moines, Iowa, to the person, persons or corporation having the contract with the state for publishing the same, copies of such opinions, and with each opinion a syllabus, a brief statement of the facts involved, and, in all cases where he may deem it of sufficient importance, the legal propositions made by counsel in the argument, with the authorities cited, when the same have been prepared and furnished by counsel in a brief form and in a manner suitable for publication, but the argument shall not be reported at length, and within twenty days after the proof sheets for a volume have been furnished to him by the publishers at his office in Des Moines, Iowa, he shall furnish to such publishers an index and table of cases to such volume. The publishers shall furnish to the reporter without delay, as soon as they shall be issued, two copies of the revised proof sheets of the opinions, head-notes, index and table of cases of each volume, for correction and approval by the reporter and judges of the supreme court, and shall cause such corrections to be made therein as shall be indicated by the reporter or said judges. Each of said volumes shall contain not less than 750, nor more than 800 pages, exclusive of the table of cases and index, and the workmanship and quality of material shall in every particular be equal to the first issue of volume forty of the Iowa supreme court reports, and shall be approved and accepted by a majority of the judges of the supreme court.]

SEC. 2. The copyright of all the supreme court reports hereafter published shall vest in the secretary of state for the benefit of the people of this state, but this shall not be construed to prevent the contractor, by whom any volume is published, his representative or assignees, from continuing the exclusive publication and sale of such volume so long as he or they shall, in all respects, comply with the requirements of this act in respect to the character, sale and price of such volume.

SEC. 3. The supreme court reporter shall have no pecuniary interest in such reports, but the same shall be published under the contract, to be entered into by the executive council with the person, persons or corporation, who shall agree to publish and sell the same on the terms most advantageous to the people of this state, at a price not to exceed two dollars per volume, of the size and quality as provided for in this act. And if any such volume shall, in any way, or from any cause, contain more than eight hundred pages, no increased or additional price shall be charged therefor.

SEC. 4. The executive council shall, commencing in the first week in April, 1880, and every eight years thereafter, advertise weekly in six different newspapers in different localities in this state, for the term of six weeks, that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the secretary of state for printing, publishing and selling the said reports for the term of eight years next after the first day of June of said year, at a certain rate per volume, to be stated in said proposal, not exceeding the maximum price fixed by this act, and in accordance with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 5. Each bidder shall deposit with the state treasurer the sum of one thousand dollars before making his proposal, to be forfeited to the state in case he shall not make a contract according to his proposal if accepted, and according to the requirements of this act, and shall take a receipt from said treasurer and deposit the same with his proposal, and upon entering into the contract herein provided, or upon the proposal being rejected, the said sum shall be returned.

SEC. 6. The successful bidder shall enter into a contract that he will publish the supreme court reports of the state of the quality, style and character in all respects as set out in section one of this act, that he will publish and deliver to the secretary of state, at the capitol in Des Moines, two hundred and fifty copies free of cost for publication and delivery at the earliest practicable time, and within sixty days after the delivery of the manuscripts for any one copy of such reports to the publishers; that he will stereotype the same, and at all times keep the same on sale in the state of Iowa, to residents of this state for actual use at the contract price, in suitable quantities, in the city of Des Moines; that he will furnish the state any number of additional copies that may be required for its own use at the contract price, and procure new stereotype plates whenever the original plates shall become defaced or destroyed; and the said contract shall fully provide for the carrying into effect of all the provisions of this act, and shall be made within thirty days after he is notified of the acceptance of his proposal.

SEC. 7. (Successful bidder to file bond.) The successful bidder shall, at the time of making his contract, execute and file with the treasurer of state a bond in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned to fulfill such contract in all particulars, with at least two sufficient sureties, residents of this state, to be approved by the executive council of the state. Such bond shall, by its terms, be the joint and several obligations of the persons executing it. If the successful bidder shall fail to complete his contract, or shall forfeit the same for any cause, the executive council shall relet the contract as soon thereafter as practicable in the manner provided in this act; provided, however, that such bidder, in lieu of sureties for such bond, may deposit therewith bonds of the United States, payable to the bearer, amounting to not less than ten thousand dollars.

SEC. 8. The contract of the successful bidder required by this act shall contain, among others, the following covenants on his part:

First. That he will not take out in his own name, nor procure to be taken out in the name of any person other than the secretary of state of this state, a copyright upon any volume of the supreme court reports published under such contract; and that upon any breach of this covenant he will pay the treasurer of this state the sum of two thousand dollars as liquidated damages.

Second. That in case it shall be determined in any action upon the bond of such contractor that he has failed in any respect to comply with the provisions of this act or his contract, the executive council may declare the contract forfeited; and that, upon such forfeitures so declared, such contractor will, upon demand, transfer to the secretary of state of this state, for the use of the state, the stereotyped plates of each volume of such reports published under such contract, or in default thereof will pay to the treasurer of this state two thousand dollars for each such volume as liquidated damages for a failure to make such transfer, and such failure shall be deemed a breach of the conditions of such bond, and such liquidated damages may be recovered by action on such bond.

Sec. 9. The supreme court reporter shall receive as his compensation for all services up to the first day of July, 1880, such sums as shall be paid to him by the state under existing laws for the publication of the supreme court reports, up to and including volume fifty-one. After the first day of July, 1880, the supreme court reporter shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars, payable quarterly upon the certificate of the judges of said court that he has properly performed the duties of reporter as required by this act.

Sec. 10. [Repeal of statute.—Sections 155, 156, 157 and 160, of chapter 4, title III, of the code, and all acts and parts of acts conflicting with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed: Provided, that the passage of this act shall not be construed to affect the publication of the supreme court reports up to and including volume fifty-one, but in all other respects the provisions of this act shall be in force from the time it takes effect as hereinafter provided.

Chapter 133, laws of 1876, authorized three volumes to be published in each of the years 1876 and 1877.

Sec. 158. [Copyright.—The copyright of all reports prepared or published after the first day of January, A. D. 1875, shall be the property of the state. But the reporter shall own the copyright of all reports published before that time, and the supreme court may order the publication of a new edition of any volume of which the copyright is owned by the reporter when the public interest requires it, and may require compliance therewith within six months by an order entered of record; and if the reporter neglects or refuses to comply with such order, then such copyright shall be forfeited to the state.

Sec. 159. (As amended by chapter 33, 22d g. a.) [Disposition of reports.—The copies received by the secretary of state shall be disposed of by him as follows: Two copies of each volume to the library of congress and the library of the supreme court of the United States; one copy to the library of each state and territory of the United States, to each judge of the supreme, district and [superior] courts, to the clerk of the supreme court and attorney-general; fifty copies to the state library, to be and remain therein as a part thereof, and one copy to each county in the state, [and two copies to each county where the district court is held in more than one place, one copy to be given to each place where court is held, and one copy to the supreme court reporter], and twenty copies to the law department of the state university, and twenty copies to the state historical society for exchange in such manner as the proper officers thereof think advisable, and the remaining copies, together with all reports now in the office of governor, secretary, auditor, treasurer of state, and register of the land office, and superintendent of public instruction, shall be used by the trustees of the state library in exchange for such books on law or equity, or reports of other states as they may select. All books received by such exchange shall be deposited in and become a part of the state library.

CHAPTER 5.

OF THE DISTRICT AND CIRCUIT COURT AND JUDGES THEREOF.

SECTION 161. [Jurisdiction of district court. ]—The district court shall have and exercise general original jurisdiction, both civil and criminal, where not otherwise provided, and appellate jurisdiction in all criminal matters. Such court shall have a general supervision over all inferior courts and officers in all criminal matters, to prevent and correct abuses where no other remedy is provided.

The district court has a general supervision over all inferior courts, to prevent and correct abuses, where no other remedy is provided. Pierson's Executors, 13 Iowa, 449.

The jurisdiction is general and original, and can only be taken away by express words or irresistible implication. Mere negative words will not oust the jurisdiction. Sterritt v. Robinson, 17 Id., 61. See also Waples v. Marsh, 19 Id., 381.

The district court being a court of general original jurisdiction, has power to recall a grand jury to pass upon an offense committed after their discharge and before the adjournment of the term. The State of Iowa v. Reid, 22 Id., 413.

It was held that under the revision the district court had no jurisdiction in bastardy proceedings; that the jurisdiction belonged to the circuit court. The State v. Cook, 31 Id., 519. But see section 4715 of the code.

Section 162 of the code defined the jurisdiction of the circuit court. Chapter 134, laws of 1886, repealed said section, and also section 163.

Section 162 did not authorize an appeal from the action of the fence-viewers to the circuit court. In the absence of any statute allowing such an appeal, it cannot be taken. McKeevev et al. v. Jenks et al., 39 Iowa, 350.

Under the revision the circuit court had no jurisdiction in certiorari proceedings. Thompson v. Reed, 29 Id., 117; 48 Id., 679.

Under chapter 86, laws of the twelfth general assembly, as amended by chapter 153, laws of the thirteenth general assembly, the circuit court had exclusive jurisdiction of appeals from the special tribunals organized for contesting elections under chapter 37 of the revision; and of all appeals from inferior tribunals in civil cases. McKinney v. Wood, 35 Id., 167.

All appeals from justices of the peace in civil actions, including actions for forcible entry and detainer, must be taken to the circuit court, and an appeal in such cases cannot even by consent be taken to the district court. Easton v. Fleming, 51 Id., 305.

All appeals from justices of the peace in civil actions must be taken to the circuit court. State v. Knapf, 61 Id., 523.

Where a judgment of a justice of the peace was appealed from to the district court prior to the taking effect of the act creating the circuit court, the appellee afterward filed the transcript in the circuit court, and obtained judgment thereon against the appellant and his sureties on the appeal bond; at the following term the defendant applied to set aside the judgment for certain reasons specified, but made no objection to the jurisdiction of the circuit court; it was held, that by thus appearing and failing to object to the jurisdiction, he was thereby estopped from doing so for the first time in the supreme court. The I. N. C. R. Co. v. Ritter, 36 Id., 568.

The circuit court had exclusive jurisdiction of all appeals from justices of the peace in civil cases. When a change of venue was asked of such appeal the change must be to the circuit court of another county, and not the district court. A change of venue to the latter can be had under section 2552, only in cases where the courts have concurrent jurisdiction. Schuchart v. Lamney, 62 Id., 197.

The circuit court had exclusive jurisdiction of writs of error to justices' courts; and when such writ was pending in the circuit court, a change to the circuit court is void, and the case still remains in the circuit court; but lest there should be a failure of justice, the order granting the change, though void, will be reversed on appeal at the costs of the parties moving for the change, though they did not designate the court to which the change should be made. Sals v. Delahrey, 64 Id., 109.

Seventeenth. The seventeenth district shall consist of the counties of Tama and Benton, and shall have one judge.

Eighteenth. The eighteenth district shall consist of the counties of Linn, Jones and Cedar, and shall have two judges. Excepting for the purpose of electing judges the provisions of this section shall not take effect until the first day of January, A. D. 1887.

Sec. 4. The district judge shall be a resident of the district in which he is elected, and shall hold his office for a term of four years. The first election under the provisions of this act shall be at the general election in the year 1886: Provided, however, that the present acting judges of the district courts whose terms of office shall not have expired on or before said first day of January, 1887, shall be by virtue of their said office judges of the district court in and for the districts created by this act in which they may severally reside; and until the terms for which said judges were elected shall expire, only so many additional judges shall be chosen under the provisions of this act as shall be required (if any) to make the number of judges to which such district is entitled, under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 5. (As amended by ch. 37, 22d g. a.) [Terms: where held.] The judges shall hold the district courts in the several counties of their districts at all the places where district courts or circuit courts are held at the time this act takes effect (and grand jurors and petit jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the terms at all such places, according to law, from the territory from which petit jurors have heretofore been chosen), and the district court shall hold not less than two terms at other places than county seats where the circuit court is authorized to be held, at the time this act takes effect (and the district court shall hear and determine all causes, including civil, probate and criminal, within the territory over which the circuit court has heretofore had jurisdiction), and (grand and petit) jurors shall be drawn thereat, as heretofore provided therefor, and provided, that transcripts of all judgments, decrees, and the levy of writs of attachment on real estate, mechanics' liens, lis pendens, sales of real estate, redemptions, satisfaction of judgments, mechanics' liens, dismissal or decrees in lis pendens, together with all other matters affecting titles to real estate, shall be certified by the deputy clerk at such places other than county seats, forthwith, to the clerk of the district court at the county seats, who shall enter the same upon the records in his office in all respects as if originating and originally filed, begun or entered at the county seat of such counties, and provided further, that the provisions of section 163 of the code, shall be and remain in full force and effect under the provisions of this act. They shall hold their courts at such times, and in such order as shall best dispose of the business thereof, and as they may arrange among themselves; provided, however, there shall be held not less than four terms a year in each county. In case the judges of any district are unable to agree, as to the manner of holding their courts, or as to the counties in which they are severally to preside, they shall refer the matter to the chief justice of the supreme court, who shall assign said judges to such counties as he may determine; and the chief justice of the supreme court shall also have power to assign any district judge when not occupied in holding court in his own district, to hold court in any other district in the state where any judge may be incapacitated from holding court, or there may arise a necessity therefor. But this section shall not be held to affect the right of the judges to interchange holding their terms of court, as now provided by law.

Sec. 6. [Judges shall fix terms.]—On or before the first day of October in each odd numbered year, the judges shall meet in their respective districts, and determine the times and places of holding their courts during the two succeeding calendar years. The plan of schedule thus agreed upon, or ordered by the chief justice of the supreme court, when they cannot agree, shall be before going into effect be published as now required by law for similar orders of the judges of the district and circuit courts. In preparing said plan or schedule they shall so arrange if practicable that each judge shall hold at least one term of court during the year in each of the several counties of his district. The terms of the circuit court which have been set down or assigned for the year 1887 in the several counties of the state shall be held as terms of the district court, and the judges may determine anew the times and places for holding their courts during the year 1887.

SEC. 7. [Jurisdiction original and exclusive.]—The district court when organized and constituted as contemplated in this chapter, shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction of all actions, proceedings and remedies both civil and criminal, except in cases where exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction is or may hereafter be conferred upon some other court or tribunal by the constitution and laws of the state, and shall have and exercise all the powers usually possessed and exercised by courts of record.

SEC. 8. All the rights, duties, powers and jurisdiction now by law belonging to or vested in, or exercised by the circuit court shall upon and after the first day of January, 1887, be transferred to, conferred upon and exercised by the district court; and all causes, proceedings, and remedies of every kind pending or undetermined in the circuit court at said date shall stand for trial or other disposition in the district court as if originally brought therein.

SEC. 9. [District court has full jurisdiction.]—Upon the abolition of the circuit court, as in this act provided, the district court shall succeed to, and exercise full authority and jurisdiction over the records of the circuit court, and may enforce all judgments, decrees and orders thereof in the same manner and to the same extent as it may exercise like jurisdiction and authority over its own records, and for the purpose of the issuance of process, and of any and all other acts necessary to the due and efficient enforcement of the orders, judgments and decrees of the circuit court, the records thereof shall be deemed records of the district court. Transcripts and process from the judgments, decrees and records of the circuit court, shall be issued by the clerk of the district court, and under the seal of his office.

SEC. 10. When a change of venue is granted on the ground of objection made to the judge, such judge may, in his discretion, if there be a judge or judges of the same district, against whom there is no objection, assign the cause to such judge. Or if more than one, to one of them for trial, and if there be no other judge of his district against whom there is no objection, then he may, in his discretion, send the cause for trial to the nearest and most convenient county of another district for trial before a judge of such other district; or he may procure another judge of another district to interchange with him for the trial of such cause.

SEC. 11. The judges of the district court shall have power to prescribe uniform rules of practice for the government of the district courts of the state, and to prescribe rules for making up issues in vacation, and entering, in vacation, judgment in default of appearance or pleading. For that purpose, said judges shall meet in convention in the supreme court room in the capitol at the state capital, on the first Wednesday in January, A. D. 1887, and at such time thereafter as may be designated by the chief justice on the request of a majority of the district judges of the state, and shall organize by selecting a president, vice-president and secretary from their number, and the secretary of state shall, upon requisition of the presiding officer, supply the convention with such stationery as shall be deemed necessary for the dispatch of the business of the convention. When a majority of the convention shall have agreed upon such rules, and the time when they shall go into effect, the same shall be signed by the president and countersigned by the secretary of the convention, and filed with the secretary of state, and the secretary of state shall cause such rules to be printed, and when so printed he shall forward a certified copy thereof to the clerk of the district court in each county of the state. And the clerk shall immediately upon the receipt of such copy of the rules so adopted, spread the same upon the records of said court, and such rules shall continue in force until altered or amended in convention as provided in this act.
RELATING TO HOLDING COURTS.

TITLE III.

SEC. 12. The salary of district judges elected or holding office under the provisions of the constitution of the state and this act, shall be $2,500 per year, to be paid from the state treasury in manner now provided by law for the payment of judges of the district and circuit court.

SEC. 13. [Powers of clerks of district court.]—On and after the first day of January, 1887, the clerk of the district court shall have and exercise within his county all the powers and jurisdiction of the court and of the judge thereof in the following matters:

SEC. 14. [Appeal.]—Any person deeming himself aggrieved by any order made or entered by the clerk under the powers herein conferred in the last preceding section may have the same reviewed in court at the next term thereafter upon motion, and upon such notice as the court may prescribe. Upon the filing of such motion the clerk shall place the cause or proceeding on the docket without additional docket fee, and the matter shall stand for hearing on trial de novo in open court.

SEC. 15. The records, orders and judgments made and entered by the clerk as hereinbefore provided and not reversed, set aside or modified by the court shall stand and be of the same force, validity and effect, and shall be entitled to the same faith and credit as if made by the court, or by a judge thereof.

SEC. 16. [Compensation of clerk.]—From and after the first day of January, 1887, the clerk of the district court in each county, in addition to the compensation now provided by law, shall be allowed to retain from fees collected by him in matters of probate and guardianship, such sum as may be fixed by the board of supervisors, not exceeding the sum of three hundred dollars per year; but such additional compensation shall in no case be allowed to be paid out of the county treasury.

—At least [two] terms of each court shall be held in every organized county in each year, and the district and circuit judges of each judicial district shall, on or before the first Monday in December, A. D. 1873, and in each alternate year thereafter, designate and fix by an order under their hands, the times of holding the terms of such courts in each county in their districts for the two years next ensuing the first day of January thereafter, which order shall be forthwith forwarded by the district judge to the secretary of state and the clerk of the district court in each county in such district, and the clerk shall file the same and enter it of record in the journal of each court, and cause such order to be published for four weeks in some weekly newspaper published in such county, if there be any such published. The secretary of state shall, within ten days after receiving said orders, or before the first Monday in January after said orders are made, prepare a tabular statement of the times of holding the several courts as fixed by the several orders in his office, and have printed one thousand copies thereof, which shall be distributed as follows: One copy to each state officer, state library, library of the law department of the state university, each clerk of the district court and sheriff, and the residue to the county auditors in proportion to the population of each county, for gratuitous distribution among the attorneys of the county.

SEC. 166. (As amended by ch. 12, 15th g. a.) [A special term may be ordered in the county at any regular term of court in that county, or at any other time, by the judge, for the trial of all causes pending at the last regular term of said court held prior to said special term, in which either party shall have served upon the opposite party or his attorney, in the manner provided for the service of original notice, at least twenty days prior to said special term, a notice in writing that such cause will be brought on for trial. When, ordering a special term, the court or judge shall direct whether a grand or trial jury or both shall be summoned.] An indictment found at a special term of the district court held on the day fixed by law for the regular term of court held in another county of the district, was held not invalid on the ground of having been found at such special term. State v. Clark, 30 Iowa, 168.

Where a special term of the district court in one county was ordered for the 30th day of November, 1868, which was the day fixed by law for a regular term of the court in another county of the same district, and the special term was adjourned on the 14th of the following month, it was held that an indictment found thereat, to which a grand jury was returned, was not invalid on the ground that it was not found at a legal term of the court. Id.

LEGALIZING SPECIAL TERMS OF COURT.

An Act to legalize certain orders for special terms of court and the proceedings therein.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa. That all orders heretofore entered at a regular term of any district or circuit court within the state, providing for and ordering a special term of said court, for the trial of causes pending in said court at said regular term, are hereby legalized and made valid. And the holding of any special term that has been or may hereafter be held under said order heretofore entered as aforesaid, is hereby legalized and authorized, and all proceedings at-said special term shall be, and are hereby, made as valid and binding as though the same were made and had at a regular term of said court.

Sec. 167. If the judge does not appear on the day appointed for holding the court, the clerk shall make an entry thereof in his record, and adjourn the court till the next day, and so until the third day, unless the judge appears, provided three days are allowed for such term.

It is competent, under this section, for a judge, when the business requires it, to extend a term of his court in one county beyond the time fixed for the commencement of a term in another county, for at least three days, during which adjournments from day to day may be made by the clerk in the latter county. Cook v. Smith et al., 54 Iowa, 636.

Where a motion for a new trial is not determined at the term when made, as it need not be, it will stand continued generally, without any record entry, and may be taken up at the next succeeding term. Van Denhaar v. Van Donseller, 56 Id., 671.

The circuit court had exclusive jurisdiction of all appeals from justices of the peace in civil cases. When a change of venue is asked of such appeal the change must be to the circuit court of another county and not to the district court. A change of venue to the latter can be had under section 2592, only in cases where the courts have concurrent jurisdiction. Schuchra v. Lamme, 62 Id., 197.

Sec. 168. [Adjournment.]—If the judge does not appear by five o’clock of the third day, and before the expiration of the time allotted for the term of the court, it shall stand adjourned till the next regular term.

Sec. 169. If the judge is sick, or for any other sufficient cause is unable to attend court at the regularly appointed time, he may, by a written order, direct an adjournment to a particular day therein specified, and the clerk shall, on the first day of the term, or as soon thereafter as he receives the order, adjourn the court as therein directed.

It was held under this section prior to the code that where a trial was commenced in the middle of a term, under the belief that it can be concluded before the day when the judge is directed, but not imperatively required, to hold court in another county, he may remain and conclude that case, receive the verdict and pass judgment, even though this may be done on a day, or at a time, when regularly he would be opening or holding court in another county. State v. Knight, 19 Iowa, 94.

When at a regular term of the court, a special term has been ordered to be held at a future day fixed, which special term was postponed by the clerk, on the written order of the judge made in vacation, it was held that the postponement was regular under section 1583 of the code of 1851, which was the same as this section. The State v. Ballenger, 10 Id., 368.

The judge may, by written order to the clerk, direct an adjournment of the term under this section. State v. Clark, 30 Id., 171.

The statute does not fix a day for the ending of a term of court, but it does authorize the judge, for sufficient cause, to adjourn a term before it is begun. So, where the approaching term in another county was adjourned, and the trial of the cause then before the court was prolonged into the time when court would otherwise have been in session in the other county, held not error. The State v. Stevens, 67 Id., 557.

Sec. 170. No recognizance, or other instrument or proceeding, shall be rendered invalid by reason of there being a failure of the term; but all proceedings pending in court shall be continued to the next regular term, unless an adjournment be made as authorized in the last preceding section.

The failure of a term of court will not have the effect to discharge the sureties upon an appearance bond. State of Iowa v. Brown, 16 Iowa, 314.

Sec. 171. [Parties must appear.]—In cases of such continuance or adjournments, persons recognized or bound to appear at the regular term which has failed as aforesaid, shall be held in like manner to appear at the time so fixed, and their sureties, if any, shall be liable in case of their non-appearance, in the same manner as though the term had been held at the regular time and they had failed to make their appearance thereat.

Sec. 172. Upon any final adjournment of the court, all business not otherwise disposed of, will stand continued generally.

Sec. 173. When a county is not provided with a regular court house at the place where the courts are to be held, they shall be held at such place as the board of supervisors provide.

SEC. 174. If no suitable place be thus provided, the court may direct the sheriff to procure one.

SEC. 175. The district judges may interchange and hold each others' courts.

Section 1576 of the code of 1851, which was the same in substance as this section, was held not to be inconsistent with the constitution. The State v. Stingley et al., 10 Iowa, 488.

Where judges exchange and hold each other's courts, each judge may, though in vacation, certify the evidence tried before him. Howe et al. v. Jones et al., 66 Id., 156.

SEC. 176. [Records read.] The clerk shall, from time to time, read over all the entries made of record in open court; which, when correct, shall be signed by the judge.

When by the omission of the clerk judgment was not entered upon a verdict at the term at which it was returned, it was held competent for the court at a subsequent term, both parties appearing and being heard, to order the entry of judgment on the verdict. Shepherd v. Brenton, 20 Iowa, 41.

It is not error to permit a jury after having returned a sealed verdict, to correct an error in the verdict which has occurred through inadvertence only. Hamilton v. Barton, 20 Id., 505.

Where the record book contained an entry of judgment in an action for — damages and a specified amount of costs, it was held that the judgment could be enforced only for the costs specified, although the judge's calendar contained the entry, "clerk to assess," and the judgment does not show a judgment for both damages and costs. Case v. Plato et al., 54 Id., 64.

SEC. 177. When it is not practicable to have all the records prepared and thus approved during the term, they may be read, corrected, and approved at the next succeeding term; but such delay shall not prevent an execution from issuing in the meantime; and all other proceedings may take place in the same manner as though the record had been approved and signed. Entries authorized to be made in vacation shall be read, approved, and signed at the next term of the court.

The failure of the judge to sign the records does not affect the binding force or effect of an order made during the term, dismissing an appeal. Ohare v. Leonard, 19 Iowa, 515.

The provisions of this section are directory, and a failure to sign the records will not affect the validity of the judgments entered therein. Childs v. McChesney, 20 Id., 431.

A circuit judge had jurisdiction upon the opening of a term of court to amend or expunge a record entry made by the clerk in vacation, and his action in so doing cannot be reviewed in the supreme court on certiorari. Carpenter v. Zueer, 56 Id., 300.

The signing by the judge of a draft of a decree prepared by counsel is not the signing of the record required by this section, and though recorded by the clerk, it does not preclude the court from amending or expunging it at any time before the record proper is signed as provided by sections 173. Boals v. Shlues, 29 Iowa, 507.

This provision of the statute, requiring the judge to sign the records, is directory merely, and a non-compliance therewith does not affect the validity of judgments entered on such records. Childs v. McChesney, 20 Id., 431.

Where the clerk omitted to enter upon the records of the court a decree which had been duly signed, and, the term of office of the judge before whom the case was tried having expired, his successor directed the case to be referred, it was held that the clerk should have been ordered to spread the decree upon the proper record book, and that it was erroneous to disregard the decree, and order a reference of the cause for trial anew. Tracey et al. v. Beeson et al., 47 Id., 155.

SEC. 178. The record aforesaid is under the control of the court and may be amended, or any entry therein expunged, at any time during the term at which it is made, or before it is signed by the judge.

This section applies to all entries made without authority, or upon a supposed state of facts which is afterward found not to exist. The court may, on its own motion, under this section, correct its record, and it is required to permit nothing to be made or remain of record that is not in accord with truth and within its authority. Boals v. Shlues, 29 Iowa, 507.

Under this section it was held that it is competent for the trial court to change its previous rulings upon a demurrer at any time during the term. Brace v. Grady, 36 Id., 352.

The court may correct or expunge any entry in the records thereof before the same is read or signed. Shepherd v. Brenton, 19 Id., 84.

Where the court has made and entered an erroneous decision, it is not only the right of the court, but its duty, also, under this section, to correct the error on its own motion, if discovered during the term at which it is made, or before the record has been signed. Wolmerstadt v. Jacobs, 61 Id., 372.
Where the clerk omitted to record a decree which had been duly signed, and the term of office of the judge before whom the cause was tried having expired, his successor directed that the cause be referred: held, that the clerk should have been ordered to spread the decree upon the proper record book, and that it was erroneous to disregard the decree and order a reference of the cause for a trial anew. Tracy v. Beeson, 47 Id., 155.

Whether the records are approved or not during the term, is entirely immaterial. The statute on this subject is merely directory. Besides, the statute provides that when it is not practicable to have the records read during the term, they may be read and approved at a succeeding term. Finch v. Hollinger, 47 Id., 178.

The court may, in its discretion, allow amendments to the pleadings after a decision has been announced in the case, and a memorandum thereof made on the calendar. Spink v. McCall, 52 Id., 432.

Under the decisions of the courts in this country and in England, as well as under this section of the code, a court has authority, after it has entered judgment of a fine against a defendant, at the same term, and before any part of the judgment has been performed, to set the judgment aside and enter another judgment imposing a heavier penalty. The State v. Dougherty, 70 Id., 439.

Sec. 179. Entries made, approved and signed at a previous term can be altered only to correct an evident mistake. Where it is shown that the name of a grand juror has, by mistake of the clerk, been omitted from the record of a prior term, the court may order a correction of the record by the insertion therein of the name of such juror. The State v. McComb, 18 Iowa, 43.

Where the record omitted to state that, in an equitable action, by consent the trial was by the second method, it was competent for the district court, by an order nunc pro tunc, to so correct the record as to supply the omission, and this may be done after the case has been appealed and is pending in the supreme court. This section does not deprive the court of the power to make such a nunc pro tunc entry. Buckwalter v. Craig, 24 Id., 215.

So a nunc pro tunc order may be made at a term of court subsequent to the finding of an indictment showing that some of the grand jurors were selected from the bystanders upon the failure of some of those named in the precept to appear. The State v. Munzenmaier, 1d., 87. See further, Roberts v. Austin Corbin & Co., 26 Id., 313.

A mistake made by the clerk in entering up a judgment, may be corrected on motion of the plaintiff, within the time and in the manner prescribed by the statute, even after payment and satisfaction by the defendant of the erroneous judgment. Goldsmith v. Clauson, 14 Id., 278.

Record entries made, approved and signed at a previous term can be altered only to correct an evident mistake of fact. Knox v. Mosier et al., 72 Id., 154.

Sec. 180. [Judges make rules. ]—The judges of the district and circuit court in any district may provide by general rule:
1. That the time of filing pleadings or motions shall be other than provided in this code;
2. That issues in all, or a part of the counties in such district, shall be made up in vacation;
3. Prescribing penalties that shall follow the overruling or sustaining a motion or demurrer;
4. Adopting such other rules as they may deem expedient, not inconsistent with this code. Such rules shall be signed by said judges, and such number published as they deem expedient, and shall be distributed by the district judge as follows: To the secretary of state, to each of the judges of the supreme court, attorney-general, clerk of the supreme court, state library, and law department of the state university, one copy each, to be filed and preserved in the said several offices or departments; and the residue to the clerks of the district court in each county composing such district, in such proportion as such judge deems proper. The expense of publishing and distributing such rules shall be paid by the counties composing the district, as the judges may direct. Such rules may be revised and changed as often as the judges deem proper, and shall be published and distributed in the same manner, but shall not take effect until ninety days after their entry of record.

It was held competent for the district court to adopt and enforce rules limiting the right of witnesses subpoenaed and attending court in several cases at the same time, to fees for mileage and attendance in one case only. Miffert v. The D. B. & M. R. Co., 34 Iowa, 430.
A rule of court requiring a bill of exceptions to be prepared and presented to the judge for signature before the hearing of a motion for a new trial, is inconsistent with sections 2837 and 2838 of the code, and, notwithstanding such rule, the party who files a motion for a new trial in compliance with those sections is entitled to have the same determined on its merits. Emery et al. v. Emery et al., 54 Id., 106.

Under this section the district court has power to make a rule requiring the defendant, when so notified, to appear and plead by noon of the first day of the term, notwithstanding section 2599 of the code, and that upon failing to do so default will be entered against him. McGrew v. Downs, 67 Id., 687.

See, however, the provision of chapter 134, laws of 1886, which abolished the circuit court, and thereby repealed all provisions purporting to confer any power upon the judges of that court.

SEC. 181. (As amended by section 1, chapter 185, 18th general assembly.) [May appoint reporter.] The judge of the district or circuit court may appoint, whenever in the judgment of either of them it will expedite the public business, a short-hand reporter, who shall be well skilled in the art and competent to discharge the duties required, for the purpose of recording the oral testimony of witnesses [in civil cases upon the request of either party thereto, and in all criminal cases which are tried upon indictment, and in other criminal cases and such other matters as the judge may direct. But the judge shall not so direct in any criminal case unless it shall satisfactorily appear to him that the interests of the state or defendant require the reporting of the testimony in said case: provided, the defendant in any criminal case may have the testimony therein reported without an order of the judge by first paying or securing to said reporter his fees for reporting the same.]

The short-hand reporter’s notes of the evidence and his transcript, or interpretation thereof, must be filed as a part of the records of the case; the first at the close of the examination, the second when prepared at the request of either party, and unless this requirement be complied with, these papers and their contents cannot be regarded as part of the record. Lowe v. Lowe, 40 Iowa, 220-226.

SEC. 182. (Oath: removal.)—Such reporter shall take an oath faithfully to perform the duties of his office, which shall be filed in the office of the clerk. He shall attend such sessions of the court as the judge may direct, and may be removed by the judge making the appointment, for misconduct, incapacity, or inattention to duty.

SEC. 183. (Judgment in vacation.)—With consent of parties, actions, special proceedings, and other matters pending in the courts named in this chapter, may be taken under advisement by the judges, decided and entered of record in vacation, or at the next term; if so entered in vacation, they shall have the same force and effect from the time of such entry as if done in term time. A judgment cannot be lawfully entered of record in vacation except by consent of parties. Nat. Bk. of McGregor v. Hostetter, 61 Iowa, 397.

Where the testimony in a case, being all documentary and in form of depositions, after part of plaintiff’s evidence had been submitted, the judge expressed a wish to take the papers and examine them and determine the cause in vacation, to which neither party objected, and two terms of the court intervened before the court finally directed an entry of judgment to be made in vacation, it was held, that the conduct of the parties amounted to an agreement to submit in vacation. Metiers v. Funk et al., 51 Id., 92.

This section does not prevent the determination of a cause which has been taken under advisement, at a later term than that next following its submission. Trulock v. Morte et al., 72 Id., 510.

A motion in arrest, and for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, cannot be filed and considered by the judge in vacation without an express agreement of the parties to that effect. Scribner, Burroughs & Co. v. Rutherford, 69 Id., 551.

SEC. 184. (Court of record.)—The circuit court shall be held by the circuit judge, and be a court of record; shall have and use its own seal, having on the face thereof the words “circuit court” and the name of the county and state.

The court may hear a cause and render a judgment or decree therein in vacation when the parties consent thereto. Hattenbock v. Hoskins, 12 Id., 199; O’Hagen v. O’Hagen, 14 Id., 264.

To constitute the circuit court, the circuit judge must be in the discharge of his official duties.
CHAPTER 6.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 187. No judge of any court of record shall practice as an attorney or counselor at law, or give advice in relation to any action pending, or about to be brought in any of the courts of this state.

Sec. 188. All process issued by the clerk of the court shall bear date the day it is issued, to be attested in the name of the clerk who issued the same, and be under the seal of the court.

Sec. 189. All judicial proceedings must be public, unless otherwise specially provided by statute, or agreed upon by the parties.

Sec. 190. A judge or justice is disqualified from acting as such, except by mutual consent of parties, in any case wherein he is a party or interested, or where he is related to either party by consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree, or where he has been attorney for either party in the action or proceeding. But this section does not prevent them from disposing of any preliminary matter not affecting the merits of the case.

Sec. 191. [Sunday.]—No court can be opened, nor any judicial business transacted on Sunday, except:
1. To give instructions to a jury then deliberating on their verdict;
2. To receive a verdict, or discharge a jury;
3. To exercise the powers of a single magistrate in a criminal proceeding;
4. And such other acts as are provided by law.

In order to avoid a judgment, regular on its face, on the ground that it was rendered after midnight on Saturday, the evidence should establish beyond the doubt naturally arising from the difficulty of determining the precise time of a particular transaction, that it was thus rendered. Bishop v. Carter, Sheriff, et al., 29 Iowa, 165.
CHAPTER 7.

OF THE CLERK OF THE DISTRICT COURT.

SECTION 193. The clerk of the district court is, by virtue of his office, clerk of the circuit court.

SECTION 194. He shall keep his office at the county seat; shall attend the sessions of the district and circuit courts himself, or by deputy; keep the records, papers, and seals of both courts, and record their proceedings as hereinafter directed under the direction of the judges of each court respectively.

SECTION 195. [How designated.]—The clerk of the district court shall, while acting as clerk of the circuit court, be known and designated as “clerk of the circuit court;” and in all certificates and records relating to said court, signed by him, he shall so designate himself. The deputy of the clerk of the district court may perform any of the duties required by the clerk of the district court, to be performed in and for said circuit court; and may sign all certificates and records thereof, in the same manner and with the same force and effect as the clerk of the district court.

SECTION 196. The records of each court consist of the original papers constituting the causes adjudicated or pending in that court, and the books prescribed in the next section.

An affidavit filed as the basis of an order for publication of the original notice in a suit to foreclose a mortgage becomes a part of the record in the case. Bradley v. Jamison, 46 Iowa, 68.

SECTION 197. The clerk is required to keep the following books for the business of the district and circuit courts severally:

1. [Record book.]—A book containing the entries of the proceedings of the court, which may be known as the “record book,” and which is to have an index referring to each proceeding in each cause under the name of the parties, both plaintiff and defendant, and under the name of each person named in either party;

2. A book containing an abstract of the judgments, having in separate and appropriate columns the names of the parties, the date of the judgment, the damages recovered, costs, the date of the issuance and return of executions, with entry of satisfaction and other memoranda; which book may be known as the “judgment docket,” and is to have an index like that required for the record book;

3. A book in which to enter in detail the costs and fees in each action or proceeding under the title of the same, with an index like that required above, and which may be known as the “fee book.”

4. A book in which to enter the following matters in relation to any judgment under which real property is sold, entering them after the execution is returned—the title of the action, the date of the judgment, the amount of damages recovered, the total amount of costs, and the officer’s return in full—which book may be known as the “sale book,” and is to have an index like those required above;

5. A book in which to make a complete record when required by law;

6. A book to be called the “incumbrance book,” in which the sheriff shall enter a statement of the levy of every attachment on real estate, as required by Part III of this code;
7. A book to be known as the "appearance docket," with an index to the same, in which all actions entered in said docket shall be indexed directly in the name of each plaintiff; and reversely in the name of each defendant therein;

The book here denominated the "appearance docket" is not the same as what is called the "bar docket," the latter constitutes no part of the records of the court. It is not known to or recognized by statute, and cannot be used to show that a cause was disposed of out of its order. Gifford v. Cole, 57 Iowa, 272.

8. A book in which an index of all liens in district or circuit courts shall be kept.

The entry of a judgment in the "record book," and in the "judgment docket," under the title of a single plaintiff and defendant, with the addition of "et al.," to the name of the defendant, without an index referring to each defendant, does not operate as notice to third persons who were not included as defendants. Cummings v. Long, 16 Iowa, 41.

An entry made by the sheriff in the "incumbrance book," under section 3022 of the code, showing that certain land therein described had been attached, was held to be notice to purchasers, though such entry was not indexed by the clerk in the index of liens required by this provision of the statute. Blodgett v. Hewecamp Bros. et al., 64 Id., 548.

This section requiring the clerk of the district court to keep a book to be known as the "record book," within which to enter the business of the court, is directory merely, and not compulsory; and a decree of a mortgage foreclosure is not void because entered by the clerk in a record book designated, "deed of foreclosure of mortgages," a book not expressly mentioned in the statute. Carr v. Bosworth, 72 Id., 530.

The general rule is, that where a record is shown to be lost its contents may be proved by secondary evidence. If such evidence discloses that other and better evidence exists, then the better evidence must be produced. Conger v. Converse, 9 Id., 557.

The judge's calendar does not, under sections 196, 197 and 198 of the code, constitute part of the records of the court. Rogers v. Morton, 51 Id., 709, 710.

An entry made by the sheriff in pursuance of section 3022 of the code, *has made an entry in the "incumbrance book," showing that certain land therein described had been attached, such entry is notice to subsequent purchasers, though the entry is not indexed, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 8 of section 197 of the code, requiring the clerk to keep an index of liens in the circuit and district courts. Blodgett v. Hewecamp Bros. et al., 64 Id., 548.

SEC. 198. The clerk shall enter in said appearance docket, each suit that shall be brought in the court, numbering them consecutively in the order in which they shall have been commenced, which number shall not be changed during the further progress of the suit. In entering the suits, the clerk shall set out the full name(s) of all the parties, plaintiffs and defendants, as contained in the petition, or as subsequently made parties by any pleading, proceeding or order, and shall give the date of the filing of the petition.

SEC. 199. When the original notice shall be returned to the office of the clerk, he shall enter in said docket so much of the return thereon as to show who of the parties have been served therewith, and the manner and time of service.

SEC. 200. The clerk shall, immediately upon the filing thereof, make in the appearance docket a memorandum of the date of the filing of all petitions, demurrers, answers, motions, or paper of any other description in the cause; and no pleading of any description shall be considered as filed in the cause, or be taken from the clerk's office, until the said memorandum is made.

When a pleading is delivered to the clerk, and a memorandum of the date of filing thereof made in the appearance docket, it is considered filed. Haverly v. Alcott et al., 57 Iowa, 171, 173.

A paper is not filed unless a memorandum is made thereof in the appearance docket. Padden v. Moore, 58 Id., 706.

Where the clerk has neglected to make a memorandum on the appearance docket of the date of the filing of a petition, the action may be dismissed on motion. Nickson v. Blair, 58 Id., 391.

The provisions of this section, that no pleading shall be considered as filed until the required memorandum is made upon the appearance docket, does not apply to a bill of exceptions. Boyer v. Foster, 62 Id., 322.

Where the appearance docket showed the filing of the petition in a former action, and the decree showed that the present plaintiff, who was then defendant, was mentioned as one of the defendants, but there was no memorandum in the docket of his appearance in that case, the omission of it would not affect the jurisdiction of the court, and the recital of the plaintiff's name in the former decree was sufficient to overcome the omission in the docket. Toliver et al. v. Morgan et al., 34 N. W. R., 389.
SEC. 201. Immediately upon the sustaining or overruling of any demurrer or motion; the striking out or amendment of any pleading; trial of the cause; rendition of the verdict; entry of judgment; issuing of execution, or any other act or thing done in the progress of the cause, the like memorandum thereof shall be made in said docket, giving the date thereof, and the number of the book and page of the record where the entry thereof shall have been made, it being intended that the appearance docket shall be an index from the commencement to the end of a suit.

SEC. 202. The district and circuit judges of any county, may, by a joint order under their hands, direct that the records and minutes of both courts be kept in one set of books. But all matters touching decedent's estates, wills, administrations, guardians and heirs, and all business relating thereto transacted in the circuit court, and also the record of marriage licenses, shall be kept separate, in proper books prepared for that purpose, as heretofore.

SEC. 203. (As amended by ch. 82, 22d g. a.) [Report criminal returns.] The clerk of the district court is required to report to the secretary of state, on or before the first Monday in [August] of each year, the number of convictions for all crimes and misdemeanors in that court in his county for the year preceding; and such report shall show the character of the offense and the sentence of punishment, the occupation of the convict, whether he can read and write, his general habits, and also the expenses of the county for criminal prosecutions during the year, including, but distinguishing, the compensation of the district attorney.

SEC. 204. [Not act as attorney.]—The clerk, or deputy clerk of the district court is prohibited from holding the office of justice of the peace, or practicing, directly or indirectly, as attorney or solicitor in the district or circuit court.

CHAPTER 8.
COUNTY ATTORNEY.

(CONTENTS OF LAW.)
COUNTY ATTORNEYS AND THEIR DUTIES—REPEALS CHAPTER 8, TITLE THREE, AND SECTION 3775 OF CODE.

An Act to provide for the election of county attorneys, define their duties, and fix their compensation, and to repeal chapter 8, title 3, and section 3775 of code of 1873.

SECTION 1. [County attorney elected in each county.] Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That at the general election in 1886, and every two years thereafter, a county attorney shall be elected in each county, who shall hold his office for the term of two years from the first Monday in January next following his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified, who shall, before he enters upon the duties of his office, execute a bond to the state of Iowa, with two or more sureties, in a sum of not less than five thousand dollars, to be approved by the board of supervisors, which bond shall be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of the office and the payment to the county treasurer of all moneys which shall come to the hands of such officer by virtue of his office. The bond shall be filed in the office of the county auditor and be recorded as other official bonds.

SEC. 2. [Duties of.]—The county attorney shall appear for the state and county in all cases and proceedings in the courts of his county to which the state or county is a party, and in the supreme court in all cases in which the county is a party, and shall collect and pay over to the person or officer entitled thereto, all money due the state or county, so far as he is able to collect the same; provided, that in criminal cases less than a felony elsewhere than in the district court it shall be his duty to appear unless otherwise engaged in the performance of his official duties. In every criminal case appealed from his county to the supreme court he shall, at least thirty days prior to the term at which the case is to be heard, prepare and deliver to the attorney-general a properly prepared abstract of the case.

SEC. 3. [Shall give opinions.]—The county attorney shall, without compensation, give opinions and advice to the board of supervisors, and other civil officers of their respective counties, when requested so to do by such board or officers in which the state or county is interested, or relating to the duty of the board or officers in which the state or county may have an interest, but shall not appear before the board of supervisors in the trial of any cause in which the state or county is not interested, or in applications to establish, vacate or alter highways.

SEC. 4. The county attorney may appoint deputies, who shall act without any compensation from the county, to assist him in the discharge of his duties. With the approval of the district court he may procure such assistance in the trial of a person charged with the crime of felony as he shall deem necessary, and such assistant, upon presenting to the board of supervisors a certificate of the district judge before whom said cause was tried, certifying to the service rendered, shall be allowed a reasonable compensation therefor, to be fixed by the board of supervisors. But nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the board of supervisors from employing an attorney to assist the county attorney in any cause or proceeding in which the state or county is interested.

SEC. 5. In the absence, sickness or disability of the county attorney and his deputies, the court before whom it is his duty to appear, and in which there may be business for him to attend, may appoint an attorney to act as county attorney by order to be entered upon the minutes of the court, and he shall receive out of the compensation allowed to the county attorney, such sum as the board of supervisors shall determine to be reasonable for the services rendered, and when it is before a court of record where the judge shall determine to be a reasonable compensation, and while acting under said appointment he shall have all the authority and be subject to all the responsibilities herein conferred on county attorneys. But in criminal cases less than a felony, a justice of the peace or magistrate cannot appoint an attorney at the expense of the county or county attorney; provided, that a justice of the peace shall not appoint an attorney to act as county attorney in any case unless reasonable notice in writing has been given the county attorney that his services will be required before such justice at a time therein named.

SEC. 6. No county attorney shall receive any fee or reward from or on behalf of any prosecutor or other individual, for services in any prosecution or business to which it shall be his official duty to attend, nor be concerned as an attorney or counsel for a party other than for the state or county, in any civil or criminal action pending or arising in his county upon the same facts upon which any criminal action or civil action wherein the state or county was a party, has been by such attorney commenced or prosecuted.

SEC. 7. It shall be the duty of the county attorney whenever he shall receive any money in his official capacity, to give the person paying the same a receipt and file a duplicate with the county auditor.

SEC. 8. Whenever required by the grand jury the county attorney shall attend them for the purpose of examining witnesses in their presence, or of giving them advice in any legal matter, and to cause subpoenas or other writs of process to issue to bring witnesses and draw up bills of indictment, but he shall not be present with the grand jury when an indictment is considered and found.

SEC. 9. In case of vacancy in the office of county attorney by death, resignation or otherwise, the board of supervisors shall appoint a county attorney, who shall give bond and take the same oath, and perform the same duties as the regular county attorney, and shall hold said office until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 10. [All laws in regard to district attorney shall apply to county attorney.—]—Wherever the term district attorney appears in the laws of Iowa, it shall hereafter mean county attorney, and all laws now in force regulating the duties of district attorneys in criminal matters and proceedings, shall apply to county attorneys within their respective counties.

SEC. 11. [Compensation.] The county attorneys of the several counties in this state shall be allowed an annual salary to be fixed by the board of supervisors of their respective counties at their June meeting of each even numbered year as follows: In counties of not more than five thousand inhabitants, not to exceed five hundred dollars. In counties of over five thousand and under ten thousand, not exceeding six hundred dollars. In counties of over ten thousand and under fifteen thousand, not exceeding seven hundred and fifty dollars. In counties of over fifteen thousand and under twenty thousand, not exceeding nine hundred dollars. In counties of over twenty thousand and under thirty thousand, not exceeding one thousand dollars. In all counties of over thirty thousand, not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars; said salary to be paid quarterly at the first meeting of the board of supervisors after it shall become due, and in addition thereto for all fines collected (and school fund mortgages foreclosed) the same fees as are now allowed to attorneys for suits on written instruments where judgment is obtained, and shall be entitled to his necessary and actual expenses incurred attending the discharge of his duty at a place other than his place of residence and the county seat, which shall be audited and allowed by the board of supervisors of the county. Population shall be determined by the last preceding national or state census; provided, that in no county shall the salary be less than three hundred dollars and fees as herein specified.

SEC. 12. The term of office of all district attorneys in the state shall end on the first day of January, A. D. 1887.

SEC. 13. [Repeals chap. 8, title 3, and section 3775 of code.]—That chapter 8 of title 3 and section 3775 of the code of 1873 be and the same, together with all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

Approved April 5, 1886.

During the existence of the office of district attorney, the district court had no power, when that officer was present, to appoint another attorney to assist him in a criminal trial and thereby bind the county to pay for such assistance. Seaton v. Polk County, 39 Iowa, 626.

It was held, however, that, in the absence of the district attorney the district court had power to appoint a special prosecutor for the term. White v. Polk County, 17 Id., 413. It was also held in the same case that the district attorney was a state, and not a county officer.
CHAPTER 9.

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS.

(This chapter is modified by chapter 168, laws of 1884. Sections 208, 209 and 210 repealed by the same act.)

RELATIVE TO PRACTICE OF LAW.

An Act to regulate admission to practice as attorneys and counselors in the courts of this state. (Repealing sections 208, 209 and 210 of the code.)

Section 1. [Supreme]Court.—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The power to admit persons to practice as attorneys and counselors in the courts of this state, or any of them, is hereby vested exclusively in the supreme court.

Section 2. [Qualifications of applicants.]—Every applicant for such admission must be at least twenty-one years of age, of good moral character, and an inhabitant of this state, and must have actually and in good faith pursued a regular course of study of the law for at least two full years, either in the office of a member of the bar in this state, residing therein, and in regular practice, or in some reputable law school in the United States, or partly in such office and partly in such law school; provided, that in reckoning such period of study, the school year of any such law school, consisting of not less than thirty-six weeks, exclusive of vacations, shall be considered equivalent to a full year.

Section 3. Every such applicant shall also be examined by the court or by a committee of not less than three members of the bar, appointed by the court, as to his learning and skill in the law; and the court must be satisfied, before admitting to practice, that the applicant has actually and in good faith devoted the time hereinafter required to the study of law, and possesses the requisite learning and skill therein.

Section 4. Such examination shall be held in open court, provided, that the graduates of the law department of the state university may be examined at the university, in Iowa City, by a committee of not less than three (3) members of the bar, appointed by the supreme court for that purpose; and on production of his diploma from said law department, and a certificate by such committee that they have examined such applicant, and are of opinion that he possesses the learning and skill requisite for practice of the law, any such graduate may be exempted by the court from further examination.

Section 5. [Attorneys from other states.]—Any person becoming a resident of this state, after having been admitted to the bar of any other of the United States, in which he has previously resided, may, in the discretion of the court, be admitted to practice in this state without examination or proof of period of study as hereinbefore provided, on proof of the other qualifications by this act required, and on satisfactory proof that he has practiced law regularly for not less than one year in the state from which he comes, after having been duly admitted to the bar according to the laws of such state.

Section 6. All persons on being admitted to the bar, shall take an oath, or affirmation, to support the constitution of the United States and of the state of Iowa, and to faithfully discharge the duties of an attorney and counselor of this state, according to the best of their ability.
CHAP. 9] ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS. 57

SEC. 7. [Supreme court may prescribe rules.]
—The supreme court may by general rules prescribe the mode in which examinations under this act shall be conducted, and in which the qualifications required as to age, residence, character, and term of study shall be proved, and may make any further rules, not inconsistent with this act, for the purpose of carrying out its object and intent.

SEC. 8. [Attorneys from other states may appear and conduct cases.]
—Any member of the bar of another state, actually engaged in any cause or matter pending in any court of this state, may be permitted by such court to appear and conduct such cause or matter while retaining his residence in another state, without being subject to the foregoing provisions of this act.

SEC. 9. [Repeal of code, §§ 208, 209, 210.]
—Sections 208, 209 and 210 of the code are hereby repealed, and nothing herein contained shall affect or impair the right of any person heretofore admitted to practice in any of the courts of this state to continue so to practice.

(Approved April 5, 1884.)

SEC. 211. [Duties of an attorney.]
—It is the duty of an attorney and counselor:
1. To maintain the respect due to the courts of justice and judicial officers;
2. To counsel or maintain no other actions, proceedings or defenses than those which appear to him legal and just, except the defense of a person charged with a public offense;
3. To employ, for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to him, such means only as are consistent with truth, and never to seek to mislead the judges by any artifice or false statement of fact or law;
4. To maintain inviolate the confidence, and, at any peril to himself, to preserve the secret of his client.

It is well settled that this privilege is strictly confined to members of the legal profession, as barristers, counselors, attorneys and solicitors, and those whose intervention is necessary to facilitate the communication between attorney and client, as interpreters, etc. (Foster v. Hall, 12 Pick., 89; 2 Starkie’s Ev., 229; 1 Greenleaf’s Ev., Sec. 239; Wilson v. Rastal, 4 T. R., 759; cited in Sample v. Frost, 10 Iowa, 266.) It was accordingly held in the Iowa case that communications relating to the subject-matter of an action, made by one of the parties thereto, to a person supposed to be an attorney-at-law, and with a view to employ him professionally in the suit, when said person was not an attorney-at-law of any court, but was receiving business as one, and was expecting to be, and was admitted to practice at the next term of the district court, were not privileged under section 2393 of the code of 1851.

In an action by an attorney against the county for legal services alleged to have been rendered under an employment by the board of supervisors, it was held that the plaintiff could not recover on the quantum meruit. Tatloch & Wilson v. Louisa County, 46 Id., 130.

5. To abstain from all offensive personalities, and to advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a party or witness, unless required by the justice of the cause with which he is charged;
6. Not to encourage either the commencement or continuance of an action or proceeding from any motive of passion or interest;
7. Never to reject, for any consideration personal to himself, the cause of the defenseless or the oppressed.

SEC. 212. [When disbarred.]
—An attorney and counselor who is guilty of deceit or collusion, or consents thereto, with intent to deceive a court, or judge, or a party to an action or proceeding, is liable to be disbarred, and shall forfeit to the injured party treble damages, to be recovered in a civil action.

SEC. 213. An attorney and counselor has power:
1. To execute, in the name of his client, a bond, or other written instrument, necessary and proper for the prosecution of an action or proceeding about to be or already commenced; or for the prosecution or defense of any right growing out of an action, proceeding, or final judgment rendered therein;
2. To bind his client to any agreement, in respect to any proceeding within the scope of his proper duties and powers; but no evidence of any such agreement is receivable, except the statement of the attorney himself, his written agreement signed and filed with the clerk, or an entry thereof upon the records of the court; The record of an agreement between attorneys respecting a matter in litigation, based upon testimony or affidavits offered after the agreement was disputed, constitutes no stronger evidence than the testimony or affidavits themselves, and is not conclusive upon the objecting party. Hiller v. Landis, 44 Iowa, 223. Beck, J., dissenting.

In this case a motion was made to amend the record by adding thereto the statement that, by agreement of counsel, the case was to be heard by the court and a decree rendered in vacation, as of the term at which it was submitted. The motion was supported by affidavits and opposed by counter-affidavits denying the existence of such agreement. The court below sustained the motion. It was held by the supreme court that such a record was not sufficient to establish the agreement, and reversed the judgment.

An attorney employed to secure the possession of real property by legal proceedings cannot bind his client by an agreement to pay the party in possession a sum of money in consideration of the surrender of the possession. Stuck v. Reese, 15 Iowa, 122.

The record of an agreement between attorneys respecting a matter of litigation, based upon testimony or affidavits offered after the agreement is disputed, is no stronger evidence than the testimony or the affidavits themselves, and is not conclusive upon the objecting party. Hiller v. Landis, 44 Iowa, 223.

Where there is a dispute as to an oral agreement of attorneys in a case it cannot be settled by their affidavits. Dryden v. Wallis, 54 Iowa, 667.

The supreme court is precluded by this section of the statute from finding from affidavits alone that counsel for appellee agreed to appellant's abstract of the evidence. Preston v. Hale et al., 65 Iowa, 409.

"No evidence of an agreement by an attorney is receivable to bind his client, except the statement of the attorney himself, his written agreement signed and filed with the clerk, or an entry thereof upon the records of the court. Sapp & Lyman v. Aiken, Underwood & Co., 68 Iowa, 699.

SEC. 214. [May be required to prove authority.]—The court may, on motion, for either party and on the showing of reasonable grounds therefor, require the attorney for the adverse party, or for any one of the several adverse parties, to produce, or prove by his own oath or otherwise, the authority under which he appears, and, until he does so, may stay all proceedings by him on behalf of the parties for whom he assumes to appear.

The court has power to require an attorney to produce or prove his authority to appear for a party. If he has written authority the court may require him to produce it. The State, ex rel., etc., v. Tilghman, 6 Iowa, 500.

SEC. 215. An attorney has a lien for a general balance of compensation upon:

1. Any papers belonging to his client, which have come into his hands in the course of his professional employment;
2. Money in his hands belonging to his client;
3. Money due his client in the hands of the adverse party, or attorney of such party, in an action or proceeding in which the attorney claiming the lien was employed, from the time of giving notice in writing to such adverse party, or attorney of such party, if the money is in the possession or under the control of such attorney, which notice shall state the amount claimed, and, in general terms, for what services.
4. After judgment in any court of record, such notice may be given and the lien made effective against the judgment debtor, by entering the same in the judgment docket opposite the entry of the judgment.

The lien of an attorney on the money due to his client and in the hands of the adverse party, is binding from the date of notice to such party, and will have priority over proceedings in garnishment wherein the notice is subsequently served. Meyers v. McHugh, 16 Iowa, 335. But where the right to set off a judgment recovered in one action against that recovered in another between the same parties arises before notice of the lien is given, the right of set-off is superior Hurst v. Sheets et al., 21 Iowa, 501.
At any time before an attorney gives notice to the adverse party of his lien for fees upon money due his client, and in the absence of collusion between the parties to the suit, it is entirely competent for them to settle without reference to the claim of the attorney for his fees. Casar v. Sergeant, 7 Id., 317.

An attorney is entitled to a lien for his services in an action by giving notice thereof to the adverse party, against whom the judgment has been rendered, and after such notice the latter cannot escape responsibility to the attorney by paying the money to the clerk, though the attorney have notice thereof, nor do any act to defeat the lien, which can only be discharged by payment or legal proceedings. Fisher v. The City of Oskaloosa, 23 Id., 381. See Cross v. Ackley, 40 Id., 493.

The claim by an attorney of a lien on the judgment must be in writing to bind the judgment creditor. Phillips v. Gorman, 43 Id., 101. See second head-note on page 350, 48 Iowa.

Under this section it was held that a lien of an attorney extends only to the amount which is ultimately found to be due his client after allowing offsets. Giffney v. Stewart, 61 Id., 207.

The right to a lien on money due his client in the hands of the adverse party, given an attorney by this provision of the code, is not confined to actions on contract, but exists in all actions where there is a money liability from the adverse party to his client. Smith & Baylis v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 56 Id., 720.

The notice of the attorney's claim for a lien served upon an agent of a corporation defendant is a sufficient service to bind the corporation, and such notice may be inserted in the original notice and served with it, and a single notice is sufficient to cover all services rendered in the action by the claimants, whether before or after the service of the notice. Id.

A contract between an attorney and his client that the former shall have for his compensation one-third of the amount that may be ultimately recovered in the action, the attorney to pay no costs, except his own personal expenses, is not champertous. Winslow v. Central R'y of Iowa, 71 Id., 197.

SEC. 216. Any person interested may release such lien, by executing a bond in a sum double the amount claimed, or in such sum as may be fixed by a judge, payable to the attorney, with surety to be approved by the clerk of the supreme or district court, conditioned to pay an amount finally found due the attorney for his services, which amount may be ascertained by suit on the bond. Such lien will be released, unless the attorney, within ten days after demand therefor, files with the clerk a full and complete bill of particulars of the services and amount claimed for each item, or written contract with the party for whom the services were rendered.

A, an attorney, claimed a lien upon a judgment which he had recovered for his client, C, and subsequently the latter filed a bond, in conformity with section 216 of the code, to discharge the lien. Held, that the lien was not kept in force by the filing of a bond by the attorney in compliance with sections 225 and 226 of the code. Cross v. Ackley, 40 Iowa, 493.

SEC. 217. Any court of record may revoke or suspend the license of an attorney or counselor at law to practice therein, and a revocation or suspension in one county operates to the same extent in the courts of all other counties.

In order to revoke or suspend the license of an attorney there must be an accusation and charges— a notice and a "day in court"; and it cannot be done summarily by order of the court. The State of Iowa v. Start, 7 Iowa, 499.

SEC. 218. [Causes for revocation.]—The following are sufficient causes for revocation or suspension:
1. When he has been convicted of a felony, or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, in either of which cases the record is conclusive evidence;
2. When he is guilty of a willful disobedience or violation of the order of the court, requiring him to do or forbear an act connected with, or in the course of his profession;
3. For a willful violation of any of the duties of an attorney or counselor as hereinbefore prescribed;
4. For doing any other act to which such a consequence is, by law, attached.

SEC. 219. The proceedings to remove or suspend an attorney may be commenced by the direction of the court, or on motion of any individual. In the former case, the court must direct some attorney to draw up the accusation; in the latter, the accusation must be drawn up and sworn to by the person making it.

It is probable that the district court, in the exercise of its inherent authority, could require a member of the bar to prosecute charges, filed under this section, against a practicing attorney, looking to his disbarment, but the exercise of such authority rests in the sound discretion of the judge. Byington v. Moore, 70 Iowa, 266.

A proceeding upon charges preferred by a private prosecutor to disbar an attorney is a special proceeding wherein a change of venue on account of the prejudice of the judge may be granted on the same conditions and upon compliance with the same rules as in ordinary actions. The State v. Clarke, 46 Id., 155.

SEC. 220. [Same.]—If the court deem the accusation sufficient to justify further action, it shall cause an order to be entered requiring the accused to appear and answer on a day therein fixed, either at the same or a subsequent term, and shall cause a copy of the accusation and order to be served upon him personally.

SEC. 221. [Trial.]—To the accusation he may plead or demur, and the issues joined thereon shall, in all cases, be tried by the court, all the evidence being reduced to writing, filed and preserved.

SEC. 222. [Judgment.]—If the accused plead guilty, or fail to answer, the court shall proceed to render such judgment as the case requires.

SEC. 223. [Appeal.]—In case of a removal or suspension being ordered by a district or circuit court, an appeal therefrom lies to the supreme court, and all the original papers, together with a transcript of the record, shall thereupon be transferred to the supreme court, to be there considered and finally acted upon. A judgment of acquittal by the district or circuit court is final.

SEC. 224. [Misdemeanor: when guilty.]—An attorney who receives the money or property of his client in the course of his professional business, and refuses to pay or deliver it in a reasonable time after demand, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 225. When the attorney claims to be entitled to a lien upon the money or property, he is not liable to the penalties of the preceding section until the person demanding the money proffers sufficient security for the payment of the amount of the attorney's claim when it is legally ascertained.

SEC. 226. [Same.]—Nor is he in any case liable as aforesaid, provided he gives sufficient security that he will pay over the whole, or any portion thereof, to the claimant when he is found entitled thereto.

See note y, ante, p. 49.

CHAPTER 10.

OF JURORS.

SECTION 227. All qualified electors of the state, of good moral character, sound judgment, and in full possession of the senses of hearing and seeing, are competent jurors in their respective counties.

The failure of a defendant in a criminal action to object to a juror on the ground of incompetency is not cured by verdict. If the defendant knew at the time the jury was sworn that any of them were not qualified to act as such, he would have waived his right to object thereafter, but not otherwise. The State v. Groome, 10 Iowa, 308, 316.

The defendant may consent to go to trial with but eleven jurors, and a trial in this manner, with such consent, is not in conflict with the constitution. The defendant may with the consent of the state and the court waive a statutory provision in his favor. The State v. Kaufman, 51 Id., 578.

SEC. 228. The following persons are exempt from liability to act as jurors: All persons holding office under the laws of the United States or of this state; all practicing attorneys, physicians, and clergymen; all acting professors or teachers of any college, school, or other institution of learning; and all persons disabled by bodily infirmity, or over sixty-five years of age.

SEC. 229. Any person may be excused from serving on a jury when his own interests or those of the public will be materially injured by his attendance, or when the state of his own health, or the death, or the sickness of a member of his family, requires his absence.

Sec. 230. [Time to appear.]—Unless the judge otherwise orders, jurors shall be summoned to appear at ten o'clock A. M. of the second day of the term, at which time they shall be called and all excuses heard and determined by the court. If any person summoned fail to appear without furnishing a sufficient excuse, the court shall issue a rule returnable at that or the succeeding term, requiring him to appear, and show cause why he should not be fined for contempt, and unless he renders a sufficient excuse for such failure, the court may fine him in any amount not exceeding ten dollars, and shall require him to pay the costs, and stand committed until the fine and costs are paid.

Sec. 231. [Grand jury consists of five.]—That from and after the first day of January, A. D. 1887, the grand jury shall be composed as follows: In counties having a population of sixteen thousand inhabitants or less, the grand jury shall be composed of five members; and in counties having a population of more than sixteen thousand inhabitants the grand jury shall be composed of seven members. The trial jurors in the counties containing less than fifteen thousand inhabitants shall consist of fifteen, unless the judge otherwise orders, but in counties containing fifteen thousand inhabitants or over, the number of trial jurors shall be twenty-four. Such population shall in each case be determined by the last preceding national or state census. (Provided, that where a single county constitutes a district, the court may increase the number of such trial jurors not to exceed twenty-two.)

Sec. 232. [Failure of trial jurors to attend.]—Should there not be the number of trial jurors in attendance, as provided in the preceding section, by reason of a failure of the persons summoned to attend, or because excused as provided in section two hundred and thirty of this chapter, the requisite number of persons to supply the deficiency shall be drawn in the same manner as provided in sections two hundred and forty and two hundred forty-one of this chapter. The persons so drawn shall be forthwith summoned to appear, and serve as trial jurors during the term.

Where there were three jurors of the panel failed to attend and one was excused, and the sheriff by order of the court called a bystander to serve for the term, it was held that a party not satisfied with this mode of filling up the jury with a talesman should have challenged the talesman and thus compelled an additional showing under this section, and that a challenge to the panel was bad. Buford & Co. v. McGetchel, 60 Iowa, 298.

The court is not obliged to delay the trial of a cause in order to fill the panel of the jury, when exhausted, from the body of the county, as provided in this section, but may direct the panel to be filled from the bystanders, this section being directory only. The State v Harris, 64 Id., 287.

Where the district judge ordered twenty persons to be summoned as trial jurors for the term, but two of them failed to appear, and one was excused, and after the defendant had peremptorily challenged four of those present and the panel was exhausted, held that the court was not obliged to delay the trial until the panel could be filled from the jury lists and summoned from the body of the county, as provided by this section, but might direct the panel to be filled from the bystanders—this section being directory only. The State v. Harris, 64 Id., 287.

Sec. 233. [Discharge of.]—If, in the judgment of the court, the business of the term does not require the attendance of all, or a portion of the trial jurors, they, or such portion as the court deems proper, may be discharged. Should it afterwards appear that a jury is required, the court may direct them to be resum­moned, or impanel a jury from the bystanders.

Sec. 234. [Two jury lists.]—That two jury lists, one consisting of seventy-five persons to serve as grand jurors, and one consisting of one hundred and fifty persons, or, in counties containing more than twenty thousand inhabitants, of two hundred and fifty persons, to serve as trial jurors, and composed of persons competent and liable to serve as jurors, shall annually be made in each county from which to select jurors for the year commencing on the first day of January.
That the lists of grand and petit jurors selected under section 234, and accompanying the proper election returns, are not authenticated by formal certificate, is not, in the absence of fraud, sufficient cause for setting aside an indictment. The State v. Ansaleme, 15 Iowa, 43. See State v. DeLong, 12 Id., 453.

Juryors for the circuit and district courts may be drawn from the same list. A separate list is not required for the circuit court. The State v. Lawrence, 88 Id., 51.

Where there were three jurors of the panel failed to attend and one was excused, and the sheriff, by order of the court called a bystander to serve for the term, it was held that a party not satisfied with this mode of filling up the jury with a talesman, should have challenged the talesman and thus compelled an additional showing under this section, and that a challenge to the panel was bad. Buford & Co. v. McGetchel, 60 Id., 298.

It is no valid objection to a grand jury that the judges of election in the various townships of the county returned in all eighty-five instead seventy-five names from which to select grand jurors. Neither does the fact that the names of the persons selected to compose the jury were not entered upon the election book, affect the validity of the jury. The State v. Knight, 19 Id., 94.

Under sections 234 and 239 grand jurors are selected for the first term of the district court in the year at which jurors are required, commencing next after the first day of January in each year, and to serve for one year, or until the corresponding term of the succeeding year. Consequently, where a term of the district court began on the 8th day of December, 1884, and continued into January, 1885, the grand jury impaneled in 1884 was competent to find an indictment during the term in January, 1885. The State v. Winebrenner, and 3 other cases, 67 Id., 230.

SEC. 235. Should there be less than the required number of such persons in any county, the list shall comprise all those who answer the above description in the same proportion.

SEC. 236. On or before the first Monday in September in each year, the county auditor shall apportion the number to be selected from each election precinct, as nearly as practicable in proportion to the number of votes polled therein at the last general election, and shall deliver a statement thereof to the sheriff.

The statute in relation to the mode of obtaining jurors was held to be directory, and a substantial compliance with its provisions sufficient. The State v. Corney et al., 20 Iowa, 82.

In The State v. Brandt, 41 Id., 593, it was held by a majority of the court that an indictment will be set aside where there is a departure from the requirements of the statute affecting the substantial rights of the defendant; following State v. Corney, supra.

SEC. 237. The sheriff shall cause a written notice to be delivered to one of the judges of election in each precinct of the county, on or before the day of the general election in each year, informing them of the number of jurors apportioned for the ensuing year to their respective precincts.

SEC. 238. [Duty of judges of election.]—The judges shall thereupon make the requisite selection, and return lists of names as selected to the auditor with the returns of the election, and in case the judges of election shall fail to make and return said lists as herein required, the county canvassers shall, at the meeting to canvass the votes polled in the county, make such lists for the delinquent precincts, and the auditor shall file said lists in his office and cause a copy thereof to be recorded in the election book.

SEC. 239. [Term of service.]—Grand jurors shall be selected for the first term in the year at which jurors are required, commencing next after the first day of January in each year, and shall serve for one year. Trial jurors shall be selected for each term wherein they are required; but no person shall be required to attend as a trial juror more than two terms in the same year, and in counties containing a population of more than five thousand inhabitants, it shall be a cause of challenge that the person has served on a jury in a court of record within one year, unless he be a member of the regular panel.

See as to conflict between this section and section 2723 of the Revision of 1860.

SEC. 240. (As amended by ch. 184, 17th g. a.) At least twenty days prior to the first day of any term at which a jury is to be selected, the auditor or his deputy must write out the names on the lists aforesaid which have not been previously drawn as jurors during the year, on separate ballots, and the clerk of the district court, or his deputy, and sheriff [or his deputy] having compared said ballots with the lists, and corrected the same, if necessary, shall place the ballots in a box provided for that purpose.

Sec. 241. (As substituted by chap, 42, 21st g. a.) [Duty of judge of election.]—(After thoroughly mixing the same, the clerk or his deputy shall draw therefrom the requisite number of jurors to serve as aforesaid, and shall, within three days thereafter, issue a precept to the sheriff commanding him to summon the said jurors to appear before the court as provided in section two hundred thirty of the code. When the grand jury shall be composed of five members only, the number drawn shall be eight, and when the grand jury shall be composed of seven members the number of grand jurors to be drawn shall be twelve; provided, that in drawing such jury not more than one person shall be drawn as a grand juror from any civil township, excepting where the grand jury is by law required to be drawn from a district containing fewer civil townships than the number of grand jurors required to be summoned; in which case, if the number of civil townships in such district be not less than one-half of the number of jurors required, not more than two persons shall be drawn as grand jurors from any such township; and if the number of civil townships be less than one-half of the number of jurors required, not more than three persons shall be drawn as grand jurors from any such township. If more persons shall be drawn from any civil township than are hereby authorized it shall be the duty of the officer drawing such grand jury to reject all superfluous names so drawn, and to proceed with the drawing until the required number of jurors shall be secured. No person shall serve as grand juror for two consecutive years.)

Sec. 242. The sheriff shall immediately obey such precept, and, on or before the day for the appearance of said jurors, must make return thereof, and on failure to do so, without sufficient cause, is liable to be fined for a contempt in any amount not exceeding fifty dollars.

The precept issued to the sheriff may be served by the deputy sheriff or a special constable appointed for the purpose. The State v. Arthur, 39 Iowa, 631.

Sec. 243. [Grand jurors to attend.]—Except when required at a special term which has been called in vacation, the grand jury need not be summoned after the first term, but must appear at the next term without summons, under the same penalty as though they had been regularly summoned.

Sec. 244. [When precept is set aside.]—Where, from any cause, the persons summoned to serve as grand or trial jurors fail to appear, or when from any cause the court shall decide that the grand or trial jurors have been illegally elected or drawn, the court may set aside the precept under which the jurors were summoned, and cause a precept to be issued to the sheriff commanding him to summon a sufficient number of persons from the body of the county, to serve as jurors at the term of court then being holden, which precept may be made returnable forthwith, or at some subsequent day of the term, in the discretion of the court.

Where, in a civil action, after all of the regular jurors but one had been excused by the court, a party demanded and insisted upon having the regular jury, and the court, after the one remaining juror was called, ordered the sheriff to fill up the panel with talesmen, and the cause being tried by one regular juror and eleven talesmen, it was held that there was no such abuse of the discretion vested in the court below as to warrant the interference of the supreme court. Emeric v. Sloo, 13 Iowa, 1-39.

Where a challenge, for the cause that the juror was not of the regular panel, and had served as a juror in a court of record within one year before that term, is overruled, and the party making the challenge fails to exhaust his peremptory challenges, the action of the court, though erroneous, will be held to be error without prejudice. Barnes v. The Incorporated Town of Newton, 46 Id., 567.

When the list of jurors had been destroyed by fire, it was held competent under this section for the district court to cause a precept to be issued to the sheriff, directing him to summon a new panel from the body of the county. And where, in such case, twenty-four jurors were selected from ten of the twenty townships of the county, it was held to be a sufficient compliance with this section requiring their selection from the body of the county. The State v. Arthur, 39 Id., 631.
It is competent for the court to direct in what form evidence shall be presented upon the trial of a challenge to a panel of jurors. The State v. Linde et al., 54 Id., 139.

Where, on the challenge of a person held to answer a criminal charge, the court sustained the same and discharged the grand jury and another jury was summoned and impaneled as provided in this section, the defendant being indicted by the new grand jury moved to quash the indictment on the ground that the first grand jury was illegally discharged, and consequently, that the second one was illegally drawn. Held, that the order discharging the first grand jury could not be thus collaterally attacked. The State v. Hart, 67 Id., 142.

SEC. 245. (As amended by ch. 16, laws of 1874.) [How paid.]—(At the close of each term the clerk of the court must make out a certificate to each juror of the amount to which he is entitled for his services, which certificate shall authorize the county auditor to issue a warrant to each juror for the said amount on the county treasurer without the same being audited by the board of supervisors.)

CHAPTER 11.

OF SECURITIES AND INVESTMENTS.

SECTION 246. [Form of security.]—Whenever security is required to be given by law, or by order on judgment of a court, and no particular mode is prescribed, it shall be by bond.

SEC. 247. [For whose benefit.]—Such security, when not otherwise directed, may, if for the benefit of individuals, be given to the party intended to be thereby secured. If in relation to the public matters concerning the inhabitants of one county, or part of a county, it may be made payable to the county; if concerning the inhabitants of more than one county, it may be made payable to the state. But a mere mistake in these respects will not vitiate the security.

A mistake as to the name of the obligee in a sheriff's bond will not operate to render it invalid. Charles v. Haslins, 11 Iowa, 329.

Where a guardian's bond was made payable to the county instead of to the parties interested, it was held not invalid as to the latter, and that suit might be brought thereon in the name of any one intended to be secured who has sustained an injury by a breach thereof. Nor will the fact that the bond is thus made payable, or the failure of the proper officer to enter of record the approval thereof, invalidate the title derived under the guardian's sale. Pursley v. Hayes, 22 Id., 11.

SEC. 248. No defective bond or other security, or affidavit, in any case, shall prejudice the party giving or making it, provided it be so rectified within a reasonable time after the defect is discovered, as not to cause essential injury to either party.

The power given to the court to allow an amendment to a defective bond or other security, under section 248 above, was held not to authorize the affixing of an omitted stamp to an appeal bond in a case appealed from a justice of the peace. Hughes v. Strickler, 19 Iowa, 413, 418.

The jurat of an affidavit, offered in evidence, may be amended by adding thereto a reference to the notarial seal of the notary before whom the affidavit was made, which reference was omitted in the original jurat. Hallet v. The C. & N. W. Ry Co., 22 Id., 259.

The affidavit may be amended in substance as well as in form. Langworthy v. Waters et al., 11 Id., 432.

Where the penalty in an attachment bond is for too small an amount, the same may be amended by filing a new bond in the proper amount. Gourley v. Carmody, 23 Id., 212; Elliott v. Stevens & Co., 10 Id., 418.

So, also, where an attachment bond recited that the proceedings were being had in the district court of a county which was not the one in which the action was in fact commenced; held, that the defect could be cured by an amended bond being filed. Holmes & Avery v. Budd, 11 Id., 136.

An affidavit for an attachment may be amended, and the plaintiff will not be prejudiced by the defect corrected; nor is it necessary to issue and levy a new writ upon the property attached. Wadsworth & Wells v. Cheeney & Stinson, 13 Id., 556.

SEC. 249. The surety in every bond provided for by this code, must be a a resident of this state, and worth double the sum to be secured beyond the amount of his debts, and have property liable to execution in this state equal to the sum to be secured. Where there are two or more sureties in the same bond, they must, in the aggregate, have the qualification prescribed in this section.

The sureties in the aggregate, if more than one, must have the qualifications required by the statute. Per Dillon, J., in Wasson v. Mitchell, 18 Iowa, 154.

Sec. 250. The officer whose duty it is to take a surety in any bond provided for by this code shall require the person offered as surety to make affidavit of his qualification, which affidavit may be made before such officer, or other officer authorized to administer oaths. The taking of such an affidavit shall not exempt the officer from any liability to which he might otherwise be subject for taking insufficient security.

A justice of the peace may refuse to accept the surety on an appeal bond, unless he will justify that he is worth the required amount over and above his liabilities and property exempt from execution. Lane & Wilson v. Goldsmith, 23 Id., 240.

The act of the clerk in passing upon the sufficiency of a stay bond is not a judicial one, and he is liable to any damages accruing to the judgment creditor by reason of his negligence in approving an insufficient bond. Hubbard v. Sietzer, 47 Id., 681.

Sec. 251. Where investments of money are directed to be made, and no mode of investment is pointed out by statute, they must be made in the stocks or bonds of this state, or of those of the United States, and upon bond or mortgage of real property of the clear unencumbered value of at least twice the investment.

Sec. 252. [When discharged.]—When such investment is made by order of any court, the security taken shall in no case be discharged, impaired, or transferred, without an order of the court to that effect entered on the minutes thereof.

Sec. 253. [Reinvestment.]—The clerk or other person appointed in such cases to make the investment must receive all moneys as they become due thereon, and apply or reinvest the same under the direction of the court, unless the court appoint some other person to do such acts.

Sec. 254. Once in each year, and oftener if required by the court, the person so appointed must, on oath, render to the court an account in writing of all moneys so received by him, and of the application thereof.

Sec. 255. [Delivery of property or deposit of money.]—When it is admitted by the pleading or examination of a party that he has in his possession or under his control any money or property capable of delivery, which is in any degree the subject of litigation, and which is held by him as trustee for another party, the court, or judge thereof, may order the same to be deposited in the office of the clerk, or delivered to such party, with or without security, subject to the further direction of the court; or may order such money to be deposited in a bank with the consent of the parties in interest, to the credit of the court in which the action is pending, and the same shall be paid out by such bank, only upon the check of the clerk annexed to the certified order of the court directing such payment.

Money paid to the clerk of the courts, upon a judgment recorded in his office, is received by him in virtue of his office, and upon his failure to pay the same over to the judgment creditor, an action may be maintained on his official bond. Morgan v. Long, 29 Id., 434.

Sec. 256. [Obedience compelled.]—Whenever a court, or judge, in the exercise of its or his authority, has ordered the deposit or delivery of money or other property, and the order is disobeyed, the court, besides punishing the disobedience, may make an order requiring the sheriff to take the money or property, and deposit or deliver it in conformity with the directions of the court or judge.

Sec. 257. The sheriff has the same power in such cases, as when acting under an order for the delivery of personal property.
An Act to facilitate the giving of bonds required by law, and authorize the acceptance of fidelity surety companies as sureties upon such bonds, and prescribing the rights and liabilities of such companies as such sureties.

Section 1. [Persons required to give bonds.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Whenever any person who now or hereafter may be required or permitted by law to make, execute and give bond or undertaking with security conditioned for the faithful performance of any duty, or of the doing or not doing of any thing in said bond or undertaking specified, any officer who is now or shall hereafter be required to approve the sufficiency of any such bond or undertaking may, in the discretion of such officer, in lieu of the securities now required by law, upon satisfactory evidence, accept such bond or undertaking and approve the same whenever the conditions of such bond or undertaking are guaranteed by a company or corporation duly organized or incorporated within this state, under the laws thereof, or authorized by law to do business in this state, and authorized to guarantee the fidelity of persons holding positions of public or private trust; and which company shall have an unimpaired paid up capital of not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars; provided, that nothing herein contained shall apply to bonds in criminal cases.

Section 2. [Release of surety.]—Such company may be released from its liability as such surety on any bond on the same terms and conditions, and in the same manner, as is by law prescribed for the release of individual persons as such sureties, it being the true intent and meaning of this act to enable companies created, incorporated or chartered for the purpose of insuring the fidelity of persons holding places of public or private trust, to become surety on bonds required by law, subject to all the rights and liabilities of private persons.

Sec. 3. [Notice given.]—Whenever suit is required to be brought on any bond given by such company, service shall be had upon any agent of such company in this state, and if there is no agent in the state, then service may be had by serving the auditor of state thirty days before the term of court in which the suit is sought to be brought, and it shall be the duty of the auditor of state to immediately, upon service being made upon him, mail a copy of such notice to such company at their principal place of business, and any notice so served shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on any such company.

Sec. 4. Any company which shall execute any bonds as surety, under the provisions of this act, shall be estopped in any proceeding to enforce the liability which it shall have assumed to incur, to deny its corporate power to execute such instrument or assume such liability; and provided, that private property of stockholders shall be liable for debts of the corporation to the full amount of capital stock held by such stockholders.

Sec. 5. Section 679, of the code, shall not apply to bonds executed by fidelity surety companies, in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 6. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Approved April 10, 1886.
CHAPTER 12.

OF NOTARIES PUBLIC.

SECTION 258. [For what time appointed.]
The governor may appoint and commission one or more notaries public in each county, and may at any time revoke such appointment. The commissions of all notaries public heretofore or hereafter issued prior to the fourth day of July, A. D. 1876, shall expire on that day, and commissions subsequently issued shall be for no longer period than three years, and all such commissions shall expire on the fourth day of July in the same year. The secretary of state shall, on or before the first day of June, A. D. 1876, and every three years thereafter, notify each notary when his commission will expire.

The certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public must be in the county for which he is a notary, or the acknowledgment will be defective. Willard v. Cramer, 36 Iowa, 22.

Affixing his seal with the county engraven thereon, does not cure the defect. Id.

The record of a bill of sale or other instrument thus defective acknowledged does not impart notice. Id.

The certificate of a notary public must be authenticated by an impression thereon of his notarial seal containing the name of the state, and in the absence of such authentication, a deposition will be suppressed. Stephens v. Williams, 46 Id., 540.

The clerk of the county in and for which a notary public is appointed may certify to the fact of his appointment, but cannot certify to the genuineness of the notary's signature, which can only be evidenced by the proper notarial seal. Id.

Where the only seal attached to the notary's certificate was a wafer with the name and residence of the notary written thereon with a pen, it was held to be insufficient as a seal. Id.

A certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public which fails to show the county for which he is such notary, is fatally defective, and affixing his seal upon which the name of the county is engraven, will not cure the defect. Willard v. Cramer, 36 Id., 22.

SEC. 259. Before any such commission is delivered to the person appointed, he shall:

1. Procure a seal upon which shall be engraved the words "notarial seal" and "Iowa," with his surname at length, and at least the initials of his christian name;

2. Execute a bond to the state of Iowa in the sum of five hundred dollars, conditioned for the true and faithful execution of the duties of his office, which bond shall be approved by the clerk of the district court of the proper county;

3. Write on said bond, or a paper attached thereto, his signature, and place thereon a distinct impression of his official seal;

4. File such bond with attached papers, if any, in the office of the secretary of state;

5. Remit to such secretary the fee required by law. [When the secretary of state is satisfied that the foregoing particulars have been fully complied with, he shall deliver the commission to the person appointed.]

A notary public is a public officer, and while acting de facto, his acts affecting third persons cannot be assailed. Reaney v. Leas & Lyon, 14 Id., 464.

Where a notary was duly appointed by the governor, but failed to file a bond as required by law, held, that he was an officer de facto, but not de jure. Id.

The certificate of a notary public must be authenticated by an impression thereon of his notarial seal containing the name of the state, and in the absence of such authentication, a deposition will be suppressed. Stephens v. Williams, 46 Id., 540.

The clerk of the county in and for which a notary public is appointed, may certify to the fact of his appointment, but cannot certify to the genuineness of the notary's signature, which can only be evidenced by the proper notarial seal. Id.

Where the only seal attached to the notary's certificate was a wafer with the name and residence of the notary written thereon with a pen, it was held to be insufficient as a seal. Id.
A certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public which fails to show the county for which he is such notary, is fatally defective, and affixing his seal upon which the name of the county is engraven, will not cure the defect. Willard v. Cramer, 36 Id., 22.

SEC. 260. (Amended by ch. 100, 22d g. a.) [Secretary to forward copy.]—When the secretary of state delivers the commission to the person appointed, he shall make a (certificate of such appointment) and forward the same to the clerk of the district court of the proper county, who shall file and preserve the same in his office, and it shall be deemed sufficient evidence to enable such clerk to certify that the person so commissioned is a notary public during the time such commission is in force.

SEC. 261. [Revocation.]—Should the commission of any person appointed notary public be revoked by the governor, the secretary of state shall immediately notify such person, and the clerk of the district court of the proper county, through the mail.

SEC. 262. [Powers.]—Each notary is invested with the powers and shall perform the duties which pertain to that office by the custom and law of merchants.

SEC. 263. [Keep record of notices sent.]—Every notary public is required to keep a true record of all notices given or sent by him, with the time and manner in which the same were given or sent, and the names of all the parties to whom the same was given or sent, with a copy of the instrument in relation to which the notice is served, and of the notice itself.

The certificate of a notary public, showing the manner in which notice of protest was served upon parties, is not rendered inadmissible as evidence because it was not made at the time of the presentation and protest. Chatham Bank v. Allison, 15 Iowa, 357.

SEC. 264. On the death, resignation, or removal from office, of any notary, his records, with all his official papers, shall, within three months thereafter, be deposited in the office of the clerk of the district court in the county for which such notary shall have been appointed; and if any notary, on his resignation or removal, neglects for three months so to deposit them, he shall be held guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished accordingly, and be liable in an action to any person injured by such neglect; and if an executor or administrator of a deceased notary willfully neglects for three months after his acceptance of that appointment, to deposit the records and papers of a deceased notary which came into his hands in said clerk's office, he shall be held guilty of a misdemeanor and punished accordingly.

SEC. 265. If a notary remove his residence from the county for which he was appointed, such removal shall be taken as a resignation.

SEC. 266. [Duty of clerk.]—Each clerk aforesaid shall receive and safely keep all such records and papers of the notary in the cases above named, and shall give attested copies of them under the seal of his court, for which he may demand such fees as by law may be allowed to the notaries, and such copies shall have the same effect as if certified by the notary.

CHAPTER 13.

OF COMMISSIONERS IN OTHER STATES.

SECTION 267. The governor may appoint and commission in each of the United States and territories, one or more commissioners, to continue in office for the term of three years from the date of commission, unless such appointment shall be sooner revoked by the governor; such commissioners, when qualified as hereinafter provided, shall be empowered to administer oaths, take depositions and affidavits to be used in the courts of this state, and to take acknowledgments of proof of deeds and other instruments to be recorded and used in this state.

Sec. 268. Each commissioner, exercising the authority conferred upon him by this chapter, shall have an official seal, on which shall be engraved the words, "Commissioner for Iowa," with his surname at length, and at least the initials of his christian name; also the name of the state in which he has been commissioned to act, which seal must be so engraved as to make a clear impression on wax or wafer.

The seal of a commissioner of this state, resident in another state, is entitled to credit as evidence only where the names of the commissioner and of the state for which he acts are so engraved upon it that they appear in the impression of the same upon paper. An impression of a seal giving only the name of the commissioner, upon which the name of the state is written with a pen, should not be admitted in evidence. Gage et al. v. The Dubuque & P. R. Co. et al., 11 Iowa, 316.

Sec. 269. A signature and impression of such seal of any commissioner, qualified as herein provided, and corresponding with that on file in the office of the secretary of state, shall be entitled to the same credit as evidence in the courts and public offices of this state, as the signature and seal of a clerk of the district court or notary public of this state.

Sec. 270. [Compensation.]—Such commissioner is authorized to demand for his services the same fee as may be allowed for similar services by the laws of the state in which he is to exercise his office.

Sec. 271. [Effect of local acts.]-Oaths administered by any such commissioner, affidavits and depositions taken by him, and acknowledgments as aforesaid certified by him over his official signature and seal, are made as effective in law to all intents and purposes, as if done and certified by a clerk of the district court or justice of the peace of this state.

Sec. 272. [Qualification.]—Before such commissioner can perform any of the duties of his office, he is required to take and subscribe an oath that he will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Iowa, and that he will faithfully perform the duties of such office; which oath shall be taken and subscribed before some judge or clerk of a court of record in the state in which the commissioner is to exercise his appointment, and certified under the hand of the person taking it, and the seal of his court, or before a duly authorized commissioner for Iowa, resident in said state, which certificate shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state of this state, and on which shall be the official signature and a clear impression of the official seal of such commissioner.

Sec. 273. [Duty of secretary of state.]—The secretary of state, upon the receipt of the certificate as provided in section two hundred and sixty-nine of this chapter, shall examine the same, and if this chapter has been strictly complied with, it shall be his duty to forward to said commissioner a certificate properly attested, that he has been duly commissioned a commissioner for Iowa; and that he is duly qualified as required by the laws of Iowa authorizing the appointment of commissioners in other states; and it shall be the further duty of the secretary of state to forward a duplicate of said certificate to the secretary of state in which said commissioner may have been appointed.

Sec. 274. [List to be published.]—The secretary of state shall cause to be published, with the session laws of each general assembly, a full and complete list of all commissioners for Iowa who are duly qualified, and whose commissions do not expire on or before the fourth day of July of the year in which such publication is made, which list shall give the post office address, date of qualification, and date of expiration of the commission of each commissioner.

Sec. 275. [Power of commissioners of other states in this state.]—Commissioners of the like nature appointed in this state, under the authority of any other of the United States or territories, are hereby invested with the au-
OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS. [TITLE III.

Section 277. (As amended by ch. 126, 21st g. a.) [When authorized.]—The following officers are authorized to administer oaths, and take and certify the acknowledgment of instruments in writing: Each judge of the supreme court; each judge of the district court; each judge of the circuit court; each judge of the supreme court; each clerk of the supreme court; each clerk of the district court as such, or as clerk of the circuit court; each deputy clerk of the district and circuit courts; each county auditor; each deputy county auditor; each sheriff and his deputies, in cases where they are authorized by law to select commissioners or appraisers, or to impanel jurors for the view or appraisement of property, or are directed as an official duty to have property appraised, or take the answers of garnishees; each justice of the peace within his county; each notary public within his county.

(As amended by ch. 62, 18th g. a.) [Who authorized.]—[The governor of the state, the secretary of state, the auditor of state, and the treasurer of the state, are authorized to administer oaths in any matter pertaining to the business of their respective offices, or that may come before them for consideration and action as members of the executive council.]

Section 278. [Affirmation.—Persons conscientiously opposed to swearing may affirm, and shall be subject to the penalties of perjury as in case of swearing.]
TITLE IV.

RELATING TO COUNTY, TOWNSHIP, TOWN, AND CITY GOVERNMENT.

CHAPTER 1.

OF COUNTIES.

SECTION 279. Each county is a body corporate for civil and political purposes only, and as such may sue and be sued; shall keep a seal such as provided by law; may acquire and hold property, and make all contracts necessary or expedient for the management, control, and improvement of the same; and, for the better exercise of its civil and political powers, may make any order for the disposition of its property, and may do such other acts and exercise such other powers as may be allowed by law.

Counties are not held liable to private actions for the neglect of their officers in respect to highways, unless the statute has by express provision created the liability. Soper v. Henry County, 26 Iowa, 261.

Counties are corporations for political purposes, and as such are clothed with the attribute of perpetual succession. Prescott v. Gonser, 34 Id., 175, 177.

A county as a municipal corporation, having authority to hold and dispose of lands granted to it, possesses the incidental power, the same as a natural person, to do, through its proper officers, whatever in their judgment may be necessary to preserve and protect its interests in and title to the same. It was accordingly held that a county, through its board of supervisors, in view of the fact that its interests and claims in respect to the swamp lands under congressional and state grants were involved in doubt, might make a valid contract with an individual to the effect that in case he should succeed through his efforts and labor in having the claims of the county established and allowed by the general government, he should be entitled to receive, as compensation for his services, one-half the land, or the indemnity granted in lieu thereof. Allen v. Cerro Gordo County, 34 Id., 54. Nor is it necessary that such a contract should be submitted to a vote of the people. Id.

The approaches to a bridge constitute a part of the bridge itself, and the county is bound to so construct its bridges, including approaches, and maintain the same, that they shall be safe for travelers, and is liable for damages caused by any defects in the bridges or approaches thereto. Albee v. Floyd County, 46 Id., 177.

In an action against a county for injuries caused by the falling of a bridge, the records of the board of supervisors are not admissible to show that they appropriated money for repairing or reconstructing the bridge. Titter v. Iowa County, 48 Id., 90.

To establish the liability of the county it must be shown that prior to the accident the county had assumed control of the bridge, or made appropriations for building or repairing it. Id.

SEC. 280. [Jurisdiction.]—Counties bounded by a stream or other waters, have concurrent jurisdiction over the whole of the waters lying between them.

SEC. 281. [County seat relocation.]:—Whenever the citizens of any county desire the relocation of their county seat, they may petition their board of supervisors respecting the same at any regular session.

A petition for the submission of the question of the relocation of a county seat must be presented at a regular session of the board of supervisors. The board is not authorized to entertain such petition at an adjourned session. Ellis v. Board of Supervisors of Harrison County, 40 Iowa, 301.

SEC. 282. Such petition shall designate the place at which the petitioners desire to have the county's seat relocated, and shall be signed by none but legal voters of said county, and shall be accompanied by affidavits sufficient to satisfy said board that the signers are all legal voters of said county, and that the signatures on said petition are all genuine.

Under this section it is a compliance therewith to show by affidavit that the signers of the petition were legal voters of the county at the time of signing the same. Stone v. Miller, 60 Iowa, 243, 248.

SEC. 283. Remonstrances, signed by legal voters of the county only, and verified in like manner as the petition, may also be presented to the board. If the same persons petition and remonstrate they shall be counted only on the remonstrance, and if a greater number of legal voters remonstrate against the relocation than petition for it, no election shall be ordered.

In determining the sufficiency of a petition for removal of a county seat, and the genuineness of the signatures thereto, the board of supervisors act in a judicial capacity, but their jurisdiction is limited to a determination of the matters prescribed by the statute, upon the evidence therein specified; they have no power to consider evidence other than the affidavits which accompany the petition and remonstrance. Herrick v. Carpenter et al., 54 Iowa, 340. See also, Baker v. The Board, etc., 40 Id., 228; Bennett et al. v. Hetherington et al., 41 Id., 142.

SEC. 284. Sixty days' notice of the presentation of such petition shall be given by three insertions in a weekly newspaper, if there be one printed in the county; if no paper be therein printed, by posting the same in every township in the county, and on the door of the court house therein.

It was held in Dishon v. Smith, County Judge, 10 Iowa, 212, that the provisions of chapter 46, laws of 1855, prescribing the time and manner of giving notices of the presentation of a petition for an election on the question of removing a county seat, were directory merely, and the absence of such notice did not invalidate an election of which the electors had due notice.

The notice of the presentation of a petition respecting the removal of a county seat, required by section 284 of the code, is sufficient if one of the three publications be made sixty days before the petition is presented. Bennett v. Hetherington, 41 Id., 142.

After a petition and remonstrance have been presented to the board of supervisors, respecting the removal of the county seat, the board is not authorized to hear and consider an application of signers asking that their names be stricken from the remonstrance. Loomis v. Bailey, 45 Id., 400.

Names appearing on the petition and also on the remonstrance are not to be counted on the former. Duffees v. Sherman, 48 Id., 287.

SEC. 285. [When vote may be taken.]—Upon the presentation of such petition, signed by at least one-half of all the legal voters in the county as shown by the last preceding census, if the notice hereinbefore prescribed shall have been given, the board shall order that at the next general election a vote shall be taken between said place and the existing county seat, and shall require a constable of each township in the county to post notices of such order in three public places in such township at least fifty days before said election, and shall also publish a notice of such election in some newspaper, if there be one published in the county, for four consecutive weeks, the last publication to be at least twenty days before said election.

To entitle the applicants to a submission of the question to the people, the number of signers to the petition must not only be at least one-half the legal voters of the county, but should also be greater than the number of remonstrants. Loomis et al. v. Bailey et al., 45 Iowa, 400.

SEC. 286. [How conducted.]—Such election shall be conducted as elections for county officers. The ballot shall state that it was cast for the county seat, and name the place voted for.

The language of a ballot on the removal of a county seat, as in ordinary elections, is to be construed in the light of all the facts connected with the election, and if the ballot expresses the intention of the voter beyond a reasonable doubt, it is sufficient without regard to technical inaccuracies. Hawes v. Miller et al., 56 Iowa, 395.

SEC. 287. [Removal of.]—If the point designated in the petition obtain a majority of all the votes cast, the board of supervisors shall make a record thereof, and declare the same to be the county seat of said county, and shall remove the records and documents thereto as early as practicable thereafter.
SEC. 288. [How often.]—The vote for re-location above provided for, shall not take place in any county oftener than once in three years. It was held under revision, section 231, and chapter 42, laws of 1862, that these did not provide the only remedy by which a controversy relative to the relocation of a county seat can be settled, but an injunction will be granted to restrain the removal of the records and offices to a new point, where the petition alleges fraud and illegality sufficient to invalidate the proceedings, and prays for a decree declaring the election void on account thereof. Seeatt v. Faville, 23 Iowa, 321.

SEC. 289. (As amended by ch. 80, 20th g. a, and ch. 91, 22d g. a.) [When bonds may issue.]—In any county, the outstanding indebtedness of which, on the first day of January, (1888,) exceed the sum of five thousand dollars, the board of supervisors, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members thereof, are empowered, if they deem it for the public interest, to fund the same and issue bonds of the county therefor, in sums not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, each having not more than ten years to run, and bearing a rate of interest not exceeding (six) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, which bonds shall be substantially in the following form:

No. .......

The county of .........., in the state of Iowa, for value received, promises to pay .........., or order, at the office of the treasurer of said county in .........., on the first day of .........., 18 ......, or at any time before that date, at the pleasure of the county, the sum of .......... dollars, with interest at the rate of .......... per cent per annum, payable at the office of said treasurer semi-annually, on the first days of .......... and .......... in each year on presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached. This bond is issued by the board of supervisors of said county under the provisions of chapter .... of the code of Iowa, and in conformity with a resolution of said board dated .......... day of .........., 18.......

In testimony whereof, the said county, by its board of supervisors, has caused this bond to be signed by the chairman of the board, and attested by the auditor, with the county seal attached, this .......... day of .........., 18.......

Auditor. ....................................

And the interest coupon shall be in the following form:

§ ........ The treasurer of .......... county, Iowa, will pay the holder hereof, on the .......... day of .........., 18......, at his office in .........., .......... dollars, for interest on county bond No .........., issued under provisions of chapter .......... of the code of Iowa.

County auditor.

SEC. 290. (As amended by ch. 80, 20th g. a, and ch. 71, 22d g. a.) [Disposition of bonds.]—Whenever bonds, issued under this chapter, shall be duly executed, numbered consecutively and sealed, they shall be delivered to the county treasurer and his receipt taken therefor, and he shall stand charged on his official bond with all bonds delivered to him and the proceeds thereof, and he shall sell the same, or exchange them, on the best available terms for any legal indebtedness of the county, outstanding on the first day of January, (1888), but in neither case for a less sum than the face value of the bonds and all interest accrued on them at the date of such sale or exchange. And if any portion of the said bonds are sold for money, the proceeds thereof shall be applied exclusively for the payment of liabilities existing against the county at and before the date above named. When they are exchanged for warrants and other legal evidences of county indebtedness, the treasurer shall at once proceed to cancel such evidences of indebtedness, by endorsing on the face thereof the amount for which they were received, the word "canceled" and the date of cancellation. He shall also keep a record of bonds sold or exchanged by him by number, date of sale, amount, date of maturity, the name and postoffice address of purchasers, and, if exchanged, what evidences of indebtedness were received therefor, which record shall be open at all times for inspection by the public. Whenever the holder of any bond shall sell or transfer it, the purchaser shall notify the treasurer of such purchase, giving at the same time the number of the bond transferred and his postoffice address; and every such transfer shall be noted on the record. The treasurer shall also report, under oath, to the board at each regular session, a statement of all bonds sold or exchanged by him since the preceding report, and the date of such sale or exchange, and when exchanged, a list or description of the county indebtedness exchanged therefor, and the amount of accrued interest received by him on such sale or exchange, which latter sum shall be charged to him as money received on bond fund, and so entered by him on his books; but such bonds shall not be exchanged for any indebtedness of the county except by the approval of the board of supervisors of said county.)

SEC. 291. [Tax levied to pay bonds.]
The board of supervisors shall cause to be assessed and levied each year upon the taxable property of the county, in addition to the levy authorized for other purposes, a sufficient sum to pay the interest on outstanding bonds issued in conformity with the provisions of this chapter accruing before the next annual levy, and such proportion of the principal that at the end of three years the sum raised from such levies shall equal at least twenty per cent of the amount of bonds issued; at the end of five years at least forty per cent of the amount; and at and before the date of maturity of the bonds, shall be equal to the whole amount of the principal and interest; and the money arising from such levies shall be known as the bond fund, and shall be used for the payment of bonds and interest-coupons, and for no other purpose whatever; and the treasurer shall open and keep in his books a separate and special account thereof, which shall at all times show the exact condition of said bond fund.

SEC. 292. [How paid or redeemed.]
Whenever the amount in the hands of the treasurer belonging to the bond fund, after setting aside the sum required to pay interest maturing before the next levy, is sufficient to redeem one or more bonds, he shall notify the owner of such bond or bonds that he is prepared to pay the same, with all interest accrued thereon, and if not presented for payment or redemption within thirty days after the date of such notice, the interest on such bonds shall cease, and the amount due thereon shall be set aside for its payment whenever presented. All redemptions shall be made in the exact order of their issuance, beginning at the lowest or first number; and the notice herein required shall be directed to the post office address of the owner, as shown by the record kept in the treasurer's office.

SEC. 293. [When executive council may levy tax.]
If the board of supervisors of any county which has issued bonds under the provisions of this chapter shall fail to make the levy necessary to pay such bonds, or interest-coupons, at maturity, and the same shall have been presented to the county treasurer, and the payment thereof refused, the owner may file the bond, together with all unpaid coupons, with the auditor of state, taking his receipt therefor, and the same shall be registered in the auditor's office; and the executive council shall, at their next session as a board of equalization, and at each annual equalization thereafter, add to the state tax to be levied in said county, a sufficient rate to realize the amount of principal or interest past due, and to become due prior to the next levy, and the same shall be levied and collected as a part of the state tax, and paid into the state treasury, and passed to the special credit of such county as bond tax, and shall be paid by warrant, as the payments mature, to the holder of such registered obligations, as shown by the register in the office of the state auditor, until the same shall be fully satisfied and discharged; any balance then remaining being passed to the general account and credit of said county.

LIENS UPON PROPERTY OF POLITICAL CORPORATIONS.

An Act to provide for the creation and enforcement of liens in certain cases where corporations have issued bonds in excess of the amount allowed by law.

SECTION 1. [Lien of holders where bonds have been issued in excess of lawful amount.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That where a corporation has issued bonds in payment of an indebtedness exceeding five per centum on the value of the taxable property of such corporation, for labor upon and materials furnished in the erection and furnishing a building, and making improvements for such corporation, the holders of said bonds, or any of them, including the assignees thereof, shall have a lien upon such building and furniture and fixtures therein, and upon the land of such corporation on which such building and improvements are situated, to the amount of such indebtedness.

Sec. 2. [Enforcement of lien.]—Any person having a lien by virtue of this act, may enforce the same by equitable proceedings in any district or circuit court of the county where the property is situated, at any time before the maturity of said bonds, as though the action was for the labor done and material furnished and used in and about the erection of said building. All persons owning such bonds shall be made parties plaintiffs and defendants, and if the names of such owners are unknown they shall be made parties defendant, as provided by section twenty-six hundred and twenty-two of the code. The plaintiff shall set forth, and the court shall ascertain and determine the entire amount of the indebtedness on such bonds, and order that the property be sold to pay such indebtedness, and the proceeds of the sale shall be paid to the court to be by it distributed pro rata among the holders of such indebtedness; but no money judgment shall be rendered against such corporation, and the clerk shall not pay the proceeds of such sale to the holders of such indebtedness until they deliver him their bonds, which shall be by him canceled.

This chapter, assuming to give holders of bonds in excess of the constitutional limit a lien on the materials furnished, is unconstitutional and invalid. Mosher v. The Ind. School District of Ackley, 44 Iowa, 122.

CHAPTER 2.

OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

SECTION 294. [Number: election.]—The board of supervisors in each county shall consist of three persons, except where the number may heretofore have been, or hereafter be, increased in the manner provided by section two hundred and ninety-nine of this chapter. They shall be qualified electors, and be elected by the qualified voters of their respective counties, and shall hold their office for three years.

Sec. 295. At the general election in each year, there shall be at least one supervisor elected in each county, who shall not be a resident of the same township with either of the members holding over, and who shall continue in office three years.
Sec. 296. [Meetings of.]—The members of the board shall meet at the county seat of their respective counties on the first Mondays of January, April, June, September, and the first Monday after the general election in each year, and such special meetings as are provided for by law.

Sec. 297. [Quorum.]—A majority of the board of supervisors shall be a quorum to transact business, but should a division take place on any question when only two members of the board are in attendance, the question shall be continued until there is a full board of supervisors.

Sec. 298. [Resignation.]—The absence of any supervisor from the county for six months in succession shall be a resignation of his office.

Sec. 299. [Number: How increased.]—The board of supervisors of any county may, and when petitioned to do so by one-fourth of the electors of said county, shall, submit to the qualified voters of the county at any regular election, the question, "Shall the number of supervisors be increased to five," or "seven," as the board shall elect in submitting the question. If the majority of the votes cast shall be for the increase of the number, then, at the next ensuing election for a supervisor, the requisite additional supervisors shall be elected, whose terms of office shall be determined by lot in such a manner that one-half of the additional members shall hold their office for three years, and on-half for two years. In any county where the number of supervisors has been increased to "five" or "seven," the board of supervisors, on petition of one-fourth of the legal voters of the county, shall submit to the qualified voters of the county at any regular election the question, "Shall the number of supervisors be reduced to 'five,' or 'three?'" If a majority of the votes cast shall be for the decrease, then the board of supervisors shall be reduced to the number indicated by such vote, and thereafter there shall be annually elected the number requisite to keep the board full.

As to the form of ballots for additional supervisors, see Bradfield v. Wart, 36 Iowa, 294.

Supervisor districts.

An Act to divide counties into supervisor districts [amendatory of code, title IV; chapter 2, "of the board of supervisors"][amendatory of code, title IV; chapter 2, "of the board of supervisors"].

Section 1. (As amended by ch. 68, 17th g. a.) [District divided.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the board of supervisors of each county may, at their regular meeting in June, A. D. 1874 [or at their regular June meeting in any even numbered year thereafter], divide their respective counties by townships into a number of supervisor districts corresponding to the number of supervisors in their respective counties; [or at such regular meeting they may abolish supervisors' districts and provide for electing supervisors for the county at large.]

Sec. 2. Such districts shall be as nearly equal in population as possible, and shall each embrace townships as nearly contiguous as practicable, each of which said districts shall be entitled to one member of such board, to be elected by the electors of said district.

Sec. 3. [Election of member.]—In case such division, or any subsequent division, shall be found to leave any district or districts without a member of such board of supervisors, then at the next ensuing general election a supervisor shall be elected by and from such district having no member of such board; and if there be two such districts or more, then the new member or members of said board shall be elected by and from the district or districts having the greatest population ac-according to the last state census, and so on until each of said districts shall have one member of such board.

Sec. 4. Any county may be re-districted as provided by the preceding sections of this act, once in each and every two years, and not oftener, and nothing herein contained shall be construed or have the effect to lengthen or diminish the term of office of any member of such board.

Sec. 300. [Organization: powers.]-The board of supervisors, at their first meeting in every year, shall organize by choosing one of their number as chairman, who shall preside at all the meetings of the board during the year. Every chairman of the board of supervisors shall have power to administer an oath to any person concerning any matter submitted to the board or connected with their powers.

Sec. 301. Special meetings of the board of supervisors shall be held only when requested by a majority of the board, which request shall be in writing, addressed to the county auditor, and shall specify the object for which such special meeting is desired. The auditor shall thereupon fix a day for such meeting, not later than ten days from the day of the filing of the petition with him, and shall immediately give notice in writing to each of the supervisors personally, or by leaving a copy thereof at his residence, at least six days before the day set for such meeting. The notice shall state the time and place where the meeting will be held and the object of it, as stated in the petition; and at such special meeting no business other than that so designated in the petition and notice shall be considered or transacted. The auditor shall also give public notice of the meeting by publication in not exceeding two newspapers published in the county, or, if there be none, by causing notice of the same to be posted on the front door of the court house of the county, and in two other public places therein, one week before the time set therefor.

A meeting of the board of supervisors held for the special purpose of canvassing the votes cast at an election, necessarily carries with it the power to declare the result of the election, and where such election was upon the subject of removing the county seat, and the result thereof the board could also at such meeting order the removal of the records to the new county seat. Cole v. Board of Supervisors of Jackson County, 11 Iowa, 552.

It is not necessary to the validity of a contract on part of the county that it should be entered into at a regular session of the board of supervisors. The board can exercise its powers at a special meeting called by a majority of its members, and in the absence of a contrary showing the meeting will be deemed to be regular. Allen v. Cerro Gordo County, 34 Id., 54.

The board of supervisors have no power to levy a tax at any other than the regular meetings appointed by statute, or at a special meeting called in the manner provided by this section. Scott v. Union County, 63 Id., 583.

Sec. 302. [Failure of duty.]—If any supervisor shall neglect or refuse to perform any of the duties which are, or shall be, required of him by law as a member of the board of supervisors, without just cause therefor, he shall, for each offense, forfeit one hundred dollars.

Sec. 303. [Powers.]-The board of supervisors at any regular meeting shall have the following powers, to-wit:

1. To appoint one of their number chairman, and also a clerk in the absence of the regular officers;
2. To adjourn from time to time, as occasion may require;
3. To make such orders concerning the corporate property of the county as they may deem expedient;
4. To examine and settle all accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the county, and to examine, settle, and allow all just claims against the county unless otherwise provided for by law.

A justice of the peace is entitled in criminal cases to cost of stationery used therein, to be paid from the county treasury, and it is the duty of the board of supervisors to “settle and allow” such claims. Evans v. Story County, 35 Iowa, 126.
The board of supervisors has no right to prescribe the rule that bills for medical services rendered a pauper shall only be allowed at a regular meeting of the township trustees. Hunter v. Jasper County, 40 Iowa, 568.

The district attorney cannot render the county liable for the services of an attorney requested by him to conduct a prosecution. A claim is not a just claim against the county unless the law elsewhere either requires or authorizes its payment. Foster et al. v. Clinton County, 51 Iowa, 541.

A citizen and taxpayer of a county has sufficient interest in the subject matter to entitle him to maintain an action to enjoin the refunding of certain taxes illegally ordered by the board of supervisors. Hoepers v. Wyatt, 63 Iowa, 264.

The sworn statement of the county superintendent, giving the time he has been occupied in the discharge of his official duties, and his expenses, is not conclusive upon the board of supervisors, and they may refuse to allow the claim if they deem it unreasonable or unjust. Bean v. The Board of Supervisors of Carroll County, 51 Iowa, 53.

The ordering of the erection of a bridge at a cost of more than $5,000, by a board of supervisors, without first submitting a proposition therefor to the voters of the county, is the doing of an act prohibited by statute within the meaning of section 3966 of the code, and renders the members of the board voting for such order indictable under the section for misdemeanor. The State v. Coulee et al., 25 Iowa, 237.

The necessary expense incurred by the township trustees in providing and furnishing a place in which to hold the general state election is not a just claim against the county. Turner & Co. v. Woodbury County, 57 Iowa, 440.

The allowance of a claim against a county by the board of supervisors is not the rendition of a judgment; and, where such allowance is illegal, a tax-payer may enjoin the payment of the same, and is not required to proceed by appeal or certiorari. Hoepers v. Wyatt et al., 63 Iowa, 294.

5. To build and keep in repair the necessary buildings for the use of the county and of the courts;

6. [To insure.]—To cause the county buildings to be insured in the name of the county, or otherwise, for the benefit of the county as they shall deem expedient, and in case there are no county buildings, to provide suitable rooms for county purposes;

7. [Change boundaries.]—To set off, organize and change the boundaries of townships in their respective counties, designate and give names thereto, and define the place of holding the first election;

8. [Ferries.]—To grant licenses for keeping ferries in their respective counties as provided by law;

9. [Purchase real estate for county.]—To purchase for the use of the county any real estate necessary for the erection of buildings for county purposes, to remove or designate a new site for any county buildings required to be at the county seat, when such removal shall not exceed the limits of the village or city at which the county seat is located;

10. [Control officers.]—To require any county officer to make a report, under oath, to them, on any subject connected with the duties of his office, and to require any such officer to give such bonds, or additional bonds, as shall be reasonable or necessary for the faithful performance of their several duties; and any such officer who shall neglect or refuse to make such report or give such bonds within twenty days after being so required, may be removed from office by the board by a vote of a majority of the members elected;

Boards of supervisors are not personally liable for honest mistakes or errors of judgment, whether of law or fact, in the approval of official bonds, but they are liable for carelessness and official misconduct. Wasson v. Mitchell, 18 Iowa, 153.

11. [County agents.]—To represent their respective counties, and to have the care and management of the property and business of the county in all cases where no other provision shall be made;

This provision gives the board of supervisors power, if acting in good faith, to compromise a judgment in favor of the county. Collins v. Welch et al., 55 Iowa, 72; Haislett v. Howard Co., 14, 377.

The board of supervisors of a county have power to compromise an action pending against the county. Grimes v. Hamilton County, 37 Iowa, 290.

This provision imposes upon the board of supervisors the care and management of the county property. Call v. Hamilton County, 62 Iowa, 443.
12. To manage and control the school fund of their respective counties as shall be provided by law;

13. [Highways.—To appoint commissioners to act with similar commissioners duly appointed in any other county or counties, and to authorize them to lay out, alter, or discontinue any highway extending through their own and one or more other counties, subject to the ratification of the board;

14. To fix compensation of all services of county and township officers not otherwise provided for by law, and to provide for the payment of the same;

The board of supervisors has no authority to offer a reward for the arrest of persons charged with the commission of crime, but they may offer a reward for the recovery of money which has been stolen from the county.

15. To authorize the taking of a vote of the people for the relocation of the county seat as provided by law;

16. To alter, vacate, alter, or discontinue any state or territorial highway within their respective counties;

17. To lay out, establish, alter, or discontinue any county highway heretofore or now laid out, or hereafter to be laid out through or within their respective counties, as may be provided by law.

The county authorities alone have the power to establish highways, and the general supervision thereof, including bridges.

A county has the power to grade and improve its public highways, to make contracts therefor, and issue warrants in payment thereof.

It is the duty of the counties in Iowa in which "county bridges" are situated, to construct and maintain in proper condition for public use upon the public highways all county bridges, and this duty involves the corresponding liability for injuries resulting from defects in their construction or neglect to keep them in repair.

Counties are liable for injuries resulting from defective bridges upon public highways erected and maintained by them.

In an action against a county for injuries caused by the falling of a bridge, the records of the board of supervisors are not admissible to show that they appropriated money for repairing or reconstructing the bridge.

"County bridges," to which county liability attaches, are such only as require for their erection an extraordinary expenditure of money—such bridges as cannot be constructed with the limited means under the control of the respective road districts of the county, or such as have been constructed by the county.

To provide for the erection of all bridges which may be necessary, and which the public convenience may require within their respective counties, and to keep the same in repair.
The power of county supervisors to erect bridges under this provision of the code applies to bridges across streams in cities. This power is not limited by section 527 of the code, which confers upon cities the control of bridges and streets within their limits, and authorizes them to aid in the construction of county bridges within their limits. O. S. E. W. v. Pottawattamie County, 72 Iowa, 193.

19. [Bounty.]—To determine what bounties, in addition to those already provided by law, if any, shall be offered and paid by their county on the scalps of such wild animals taken and killed within their county as they may deem it expedient to exterminate. But no such bounty shall exceed five dollars;

20. [Poor house.]—To purchase for the use of the county any real estate necessary for the erection of buildings for the support of the poor of such county, and for a farm to be used in connection therewith;

21. To have and exercise all the powers in relation to the poor given by law to the county authorities;

22. To make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as they may deem necessary for the government of their body, the transaction of business, and the preservation of order;

23. The board of supervisors shall constitute the board of county canvassers;

24. [As amended by ch. 80, 16th g. a.] [Submit to vote: proposition to erect buildings or bridges.] (It shall not be competent for said board of supervisors to order the erection of a court house, jail, poor house, or other building or bridge, where the probable cost will exceed five thousand dollars, nor the purchase of real estate for county purposes exceeding two thousand dollars in value, until a proposition therefor shall have been first submitted to the legal voters of the county, and voted for by a majority of all voting for and against such proposition, at a general [or special] election, notice of the same being given for thirty days previously in a newspaper, if one is published in the county, and if none be published therein, then by written notice posted in a public place in each township in the county; provided, that the board of supervisors of any county having a population of more than ten thousand, may appropriate for the construction of any one bridge, which is, or may hereafter become a county charge within the limits of such county; or may appropriate towards the construction of any bridge across any unnavigable river, which is the dividing line between any two counties in this state, and between one county in this state and another state, such sum as may be necessary, not exceeding the sum of forty dollars a lineal foot for superstructure; but in no case shall they appropriate for said purpose, including superstructure and approaches, a sum exceeding fifteen thousand dollars. Provided, however, that in any county having a population exceeding fifteen thousand, said board may appropriate as aforesaid, not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars. Provided, that no county shall expend a sum exceeding fifteen thousand dollars in aid of the construction of a bridge across a stream which is the dividing line between two counties.)

The board of supervisors has no power to bind the county for the erection of a public building, the probable cost of which will exceed $5,000, unless authorized to do so by a majority vote of the legal voters of the county; and then only to the extent of the sum authorized by the vote. Richards v. Warren County, 31 Iowa, 381.

And since the county cannot be made liable on an express contract by the board in excess of the amount authorized by the vote, it cannot be made liable on an implied one. Id.

The occupancy of a public building by a county will not render it liable to pay an amount in excess of the sum voted. Id.

The board of supervisors has power to order the erection of a public building, the cost of which does not exceed $5,000, and may also order the purchase of grounds on which to erect the same, the cost of which does not exceed $2,000. The cost of the building and the cost of the grounds are not to be estimated together. Merchant v. Tama County, 32 Id., 200.

The appropriation of $7,000 out of the swamp land moneys of the county, to aid in the construction of a bridge, authorized by a vote of the electors of a county, imposes no restriction upon the power of the board to make an additional appropriation under the statute. Bell v. Fouch, 21 Id., 119.
The authority of the board of supervisors to lay out, establish, alter or discontinue roads was not abridged or taken away by the provisions of chapter 160, acts of the twelfth general assembly. Payne v. Brooks et al., 38 Iowa, 263.

The board has no power to submit a proposition to raise money by taxation for the construction of bridges at a special election. Yant v. Brooks, 13 Iowa, 87.

But it may submit a proposition for appropriating the swamp land fund to the erection of a county high school building at a special election. Gray et al. v. Mount et al., 45 Iowa, 591; Allen v. Cerro Gordo County, 34 Iowa, 54. The board of supervisors alone is authorized to submit this question. Id.

In the submission to the electors of a proposition for the outlay of money, two distinct objects, each calling for a certain specified amount of funds, cannot be included in one proposition, so that the voter shall be unable to vote for the one against the other. Id.

Where a county owns a jail building, its supervisors cannot, without an approving vote of the electors, enter into a valid contract for the erection of movable iron cells for use in such building, at a cost exceeding $5,000. Such cells cannot be regarded as repairs to the building, within the meaning of the statute. Cook v. Des Moines County, 70 Iowa, 171.

SEC. 305. [Majority of whole board required.]—No tax shall be levied, no contract for any public buildings entered into, no settlement with the county officers made, no real estate purchased or sold, no new site designated for any county buildings, no changes made in the boundaries of townships, and no money appropriated to aid in the construction of highways and bridges, without a majority of the whole board of supervisors voting therefor and consenting thereto.

SEC. 306. [County officers control advertisements.] The clerk of the district court, sheriff, auditor, treasurer and recorder shall designate the newspapers in which the notices pertaining to their several offices shall be published, and the board of supervisors shall designate the papers in which all other county notices shall be published; and in counties having a population exceeding eighteen thousand inhabitants the board shall designate as one of such papers a paper published in a foreign language, if there be such in its county.

SEC. 307. (As amended by ch. 197, 20th g. a.) [Newspapers selected to publish proceedings.]—The board of supervisors shall, at its January session of each year, select two newspapers published within the county, or one if there be but one published therein, having the largest number of bona fide yearly subscribers within the county, which circulation shall be determined as follows: In case of contest the applicants shall each deposit with the county auditor on or before a day named by the board of supervisors, a certified statement, subscribed and sworn to before some competent officer, giving the names of the several postoffices and the number and the names of the bona fide yearly subscribers receiving their papers through each of said offices, living within the county, such statements to be in sealed envelopes and opened by the county auditor upon direction by the board of supervisors to do so, and the two applicants thus showing the greatest number of bona fide yearly subscribers living within the county shall be the county official papers, in which all the proceedings of the county board of supervisors, the schedule of bills allowed and the reports of the county treasurer, including a schedule of the receipts and expenditures, shall be published at the expense of the county during the ensuing year, and the cost of such publication shall not exceed one-third the rate allowed by law for legal advertisements, and (as amended by ch. 86 21st g. a.):

Provided, that in counties having a population of seventeen (17) thousand inhabitants or more, three papers (not more than two of which shall be published in the same town) may be selected in which such proceedings shall be published, with the same limitation as to compensation, etc. Provided, that in counties having ten thousand inhabitants or more, a newspaper printed in each foreign language, if published within the county, may also be selected, in which such proceedings shall be published under the same limitations as to compensation. Provided, that in counties having two county seats each district shall be regarded as a county for that purpose. In case charges of fraud are made by an aggrieved publisher, the board shall seek other evidence of circulation, and the aggrieved publisher shall have the right of appeal to the circuit court for redress of grievance. Said appeal shall be taken as in ordinary actions, and in case of appeal, neither publisher to the contest shall receive pay for publishing such proceedings until the case is disposed of in the circuit court.

The provisions of this section do not entitle the publisher of the newspaper designated to publish the proceedings of the board of supervisors, to publish the schedule of receipts and expenditures as required by section 304, and he cannot recover therefor. McBride v. Hardin County, 58 Iowa, 219.

A board of supervisors has power to award the printing required by section 307 of the code, to the two newspapers having the largest circulation in the county, at 33% cents per square, and to designate two newspapers to do the printing required by section 304, at a rate not exceeding $1 per square. Sperry v. Kretchner et al., 63 Iowa, 525.

The provisions of this section do not entitle the publisher of the newspaper, designated to publish the proceedings of the board of supervisors, to publish the schedule of receipts and expenditures as required by section 304 of the code, and he cannot recover therefor. McBride v. Hardin County, 58 Id., 219.

The proprietor of a newspaper has no such private or personal interest in the publication of the laws of the state and proceedings of the board of supervisors as that he can maintain an action or proceeding in his own name to compel the board of supervisors to order the publication thereof in his paper. Welch v. Board of Supervisors, 23 Id., 199; Smith v. Zoram et al., 37 Id., 89.

SEC. 308. [Books kept: minute book.]—The board is authorized and required to keep the following books:
1. A book to be known as the "minute-book," in which shall be recorded all orders and decisions made by them, except those relating to highways. All orders for the allowance of money from the county treasury shall state on what account and to whom the allowance is made, dating the same and numbering them consecutively through each year;
2. A book to be known as the "highway record," in which shall be recorded all proceedings and adjudications relating to the establishment, change or discontinuance of highways;
3. A book to be known as the "warrant book," in which shall be entered in the order of their issuance the number, date, amount, name of drawee of each warrant drawn on the treasury, and the number of warrants as directed in relation to the minute book.

SEC. 309. [Submit questions to people.]—The board of supervisors may submit to the people of the county at any regular election, or at any special one called for that purpose, the question whether money may be borrowed to aid in the erection of any public buildings, whether any species of stock, not prohibited by law shall be permitted to run at large, and at what time it shall be prohibited, and the question of any other local or police regulation not inconsistent with the laws of the state. And when the warrants of a county are at a depreciated value, they may, in like manner, submit the question whether a tax of a higher rate than that provided by law shall be levied, and in all cases when an additional tax is laid in pursuance of a vote of the people of any county, for the special purpose of repaying borrowed money, or constructing, or aiding to construct, any highway or bridge, such special tax shall be paid in money, and in no other manner.

It was held in Dalby v. Wolf, 14 Iowa, 228, that section 114 of the code of 1851, authorizing the people of the several counties of the state to decide by a majority vote to restrain swine and sheep from running at large, was not inconsistent with article 1, section 6 of the constitution of 1857. See, also, Long v. Boone County, 36 Iowa, 69.

In order to avoid, on the ground of fraud, the result of a submission to the voters of a county of a question involving the purchase of a public building, there must be some showing of artifice to conceal material facts peculiarly within the knowledge of the board of supervisors ordering the submission, and not open to and attainable by others. Starr & Brand v. Board of Supervisors, etc., 22 Id., 401.
A submission by the board of supervisors to the voters of a county, of a question involving the expenditure of money in the purchase of a public building, is of no effect unless accompanied by proposition to levy a tax for the payment thereof, and the adoption of the same, together with the proposition of expenditure. "Starr v. Board of Supervisors," 22 Iowa, 491.

SEC. 310. The mode of submitting such questions to the people shall be the following: The whole question, including the sum desired to be raised, or the amount of tax desired to be levied, or the rate per annum, and the whole regulation, including the time of its taking effect or having operation, if it be of a nature to be set forth, and penalty for its violation, if there be one, shall be published at least four weeks in some newspaper printed in the county. If there be no such newspaper, the publication shall be by being posted up in at least one of the most public places in each township in the county, and in addition, in at least five among the most public places in the county, one of them being the door of the court house, for at least thirty days prior to the time of taking the vote. All such notices shall name the time when such question will be voted upon, and the form in which the question shall be taken, and a copy of the question submitted shall be posted up at each place of voting during the day of election.

When the board of supervisors are satisfied that the requirements of sections 309 and 310 of the code have been substantially complied with, in respect to levying a tax of a higher rate than that provided by law, and that a majority of votes has been cast in favor of the proposition, they are empowered to levy such tax in pursuance of the vote. "The Iowa R. R. Land Co. v. Sac County et al.," 39 Iowa, 124.

Where the board of supervisors resolved to submit the question of issuing bonds for the construction of a court house, and of levying a tax to pay the same, and prescribed that the form of the ballot should be: "For Court House Bonds," and "Against Court House Bonds," it was held that a majority of votes in favor of the proposition included the adoption of the proposition to levy the tax. "Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. Co. v. Kossuth County," 41 Iowa, 57.

As to the appropriation of the swamp lands, the question may be submitted by the board of supervisors at a special election. "Gray v. Mount et al.," 45 Iowa, 591.

SEC. 311. [When to borrow or expend money.]—When a question so submitted involves the borrowing or expenditure of money, the proposition of the question must be accompanied by a provision to lay a tax for the payment thereof in addition to the usual taxes, as directed in the following section, and no vote adopting the question proposed will be of effect unless it adopt the tax also.

A submission by the board of supervisors to the voters of a county, of a question involving the expenditure of money in the purchase of a public building, is of no effect unless accompanied by a proposition to levy a tax for the payment thereof, and the adoption of the same, together with the proposition of expenditure. "Starr v. Board of Supervisors," 22 Iowa, 491.

In order to render the vote of any validity, or to confer any authority by it, all the requisites of the statute must be complied with in reference to each question or proposition submitted to vote. "McMullen et al. v. Lee County," 3 Iowa, 811.

The submission of three several propositions at the same time to a vote of the people will not of itself render the proceedings invalid under such submission, if each proposition submitted in other respects meet the requirements of the law. "Id.

It is not required, under the law, that there should be a distinct provision levying the tax, in the proposition submitted to the people, to be voted for separately from the question of subscribing stock (or whatever the main question is), but to render the vote to adopt the proposition to subscribe, etc., of any effect, the proposition, and each of them, if more than one is submitted, must be accompanied by a provision for levying a tax to pay the same. "Id.

SEC. 312. The rate of tax shall in no case be more than one per cent on the county valuation in one year. When the object is to borrow money for the erection of public buildings, as above provided, the rate shall be such as to pay the debt in a period not exceeding ten years. When the object is to construct, or to aid in constructing, any highway or bridge, the annual rate shall not be less than one mill on the dollar of valuation, and any of the above taxes becoming delinquent shall draw the same interest with the ordinary taxes.

SEC. 313. [Levy to continue.]—When it is supposed that the levy of one year will not pay the entire amount, the proposition and the vote must be to continue the proposed rate from year to year, until the amount is paid.

SEC. 314. [When question adopted.]—The board of supervisors, on being satisished that the above requirements have been substantially complied with, and that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the proposition submitted, shall cause the proposition and the result of the vote to be entered at large in the minute book, and a notice of its adoption to be published for the same time and in the same manner as above provided for publishing the preliminary notice, and from the time of entering the result of the vote in relation to borrowing or expending money, and from the completion of the notice of its adoption in the case of a local or police regulation, the vote and entry thereof on the county records shall be in full force and effect.

See The Iowa R. L. Co. v. Sac County, 39 Iowa, 124.

SEC. 315. [May be rescinded.]—Propositions thus adopted, and local regulations thus established, may be rescinded in like manner and upon like notice by a subsequent vote taken thereon, but neither contracts made under them, nor the taxes appointed for carrying them into effect, can be rescinded.

SEC. 316. The board shall submit the question of the adoption or rescission of such a measure when petitioned therefor by one-fourth of the voters of the county, unless a different number be prescribed by law in any special case.

SEC. 317. The record of the adoption or rescission of any such measure shall be presumptive evidence that all the proceedings necessary to give the vote validity have been regularly conducted.

SEC. 318. [Excess of tax.]—In case the amount produced by the rate of tax proposed and levied exceeds the amount sought for the specific object, it shall not, therefore, be invalid, but the excess shall go into the ordinary county funds.

SEC. 319. [Distinct fund.]—Money so raised for such purposes is specially appropriated, and constitutes a fund distinct from all others in the hands of the treasurer until the obligation assumed is discharged.

RELATIVE TO APPROPRIATION OF INSURANCE RECEIVED FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

An Act authorizing boards of supervisors to appropriate amounts received as insurance thereon in reconstructing public buildings destroyed by fire, wind, or lightning [additional to chap. 2, title IV, of the code, relating to boards of supervisors].

SECTION 1. [Money received on insurance.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in any county in this state where the public buildings thereof or any of them, have been or may hereafter be destroyed by fire, wind, or lightning, the board of supervisors of such county, for the purpose of reconstructing the same, may appropriate, in addition to the amount now authorized by law, the amount received by way of insurance on such building or buildings so destroyed.

An Act to authorize boards of supervisors to compromise judgments against county treasurers and their sureties in certain cases.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Where judgment has been heretofore rendered against any county treasurer and his sureties in favor of any county in this state, which judgment exceeds the sum of forty thousand dollars ($40,000), and remains unsatisfied, and the board of supervisors of such county are satisfied that the full amount thereof cannot be collected on execution, such board of supervisors shall have full power, and are hereby authorized to compromise said judgment, and to enter full satisfaction thereof under the terms of such compromise.

SEC. 2. [Release.]—In all cases referred to in section one of this act, if the principal debtor and every one of the sureties shall, in writing, execute a written consent to a compromise, with any one or more of the sureties, and to a release of such surety, or sureties, and in such writing shall agree that such compromise, or release shall not release any of the sureties who shall not compromise and be released from payment of the unpaid judgment; then, in that case, upon the filing of such written consent with the county auditor of such county, the board of supervisors of such county shall have full power, and are hereby authorized, to compromise with any one or more of such sureties, and to release such surety or sureties upon the terms which may be agreed upon in such compromise.

SEC. 3. [Money used.]—In case of any compromise as herein provided made under section one of this act, or made under section two of this act, the money received by the county shall be paid to the various funds of the county, in proportion to the amount of each fund in default, as the same existed at the time the judgment was rendered, as nearly as the same can be ascertained, so that each fund shall receive its pro rata share as the same shall be determined by the board of supervisors thereof, and no more.

(CHAP. 13, LAWS OF 1884.)

(TOLL-BRIDGES OVER STREAMS DIVIDING COUNTIES.)

An Act authorizing boards of supervisors to purchase, maintain and keep up bridges over streams dividing their respective counties.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That boards of supervisors in adjoining counties, each of which contains, according to the last census, a population exceeding 10,000 inhabitants, shall have authority to purchase and acquire any toll-bridge erected across any stream dividing said counties at the place said bridge is erected, and keep and maintain the same at joint expense as a free public bridge, provided that the total cost of such bridge shall not exceed the sum of $10,000.

SEC. 2. [Proceedings where boards of supervisors agree.]—If said boards of supervisors are able to agree upon the terms upon which they will purchase such bridge and the proportion each will pay towards the purchase and maintenance of the same, such agreement shall be reduced to writing, signed by the respective chairmen and recorded in the records of their proceedings. But if they are unable to thus agree, the county desiring to purchase said bridge may institute a special proceeding in the circuit court of either of said counties, and said cause shall be conducted as an equitable cause, and the court shall determine whether there is any public necessity for said bridge, the relative benefit the same will be to the two counties, and based upon such benefit the proportion each county shall bear in the purchase and maintenance of said bridge, and shall enter decree accordingly, either or both parties having the right of appeal to the supreme court. Upon entering of a decree in favor of the purchase of such bridge, it shall be the duty of said respective boards of supervisors at once to proceed to complete the purchase upon such terms as are determined on, and to forthwith levy the necessary taxes to make the payments, and said counties shall thereafter keep and maintain such bridge and be responsible for the safe condition thereof, as provided by law.
Approved March 14, 1884.
(Took effect by publication in newspapers.)

An Act to authorize boards of supervisors to levy a tax to pay interest upon certain outstanding bonds.

Section 1. [Tax may be levied.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in all counties wherein county bonds have been issued in pursuance of a vote of the people to obtain money for the erection of any public building, and wherein the annual tax named in the proposition so submitted to the people for the purpose of paying the annual interest accruing upon such bonds, is insufficient to pay the same as it matures, the boards of supervisors are hereby authorized to levy for said purpose, and no other, a tax of one and one-half mills for the year 1888 and a tax of one mill on the dollar for the year 1889, 1890 and 1891, and thereafter a tax of one-half mill on the dollar until said bonds are paid; provided that this act shall not prevent the levy of a greater tax than above mentioned, if any such proposition so submitted to the people authorize such greater levy.
Approved March 23, 1888.

CHAPTER 3.

OF THE COUNTY AUDITOR.

Section 320. The county auditor shall:
1. Record all the proceedings of the board in proper books provided for that purpose;
2. Make full entries of all their resolutions and decisions on all questions concerning the raising of money, and for the allowance of money from the county treasury;
3. Record the vote of each supervisor on any question submitted to the board, if required by any member present;
4. Sign all orders issued by the board for the payment of money, and record, in a book provided for the purpose, the reports of the county treasurer of the receipts and disbursements of the county;
   It is the specific duty of the auditor to sign and issue warrants as directed by the board of
5. Preserve and file all accounts acted upon by the board, with their action thereon, and perform such special duties as are or may be required of him by law;
6. Designate upon every account on which any sum shall be allowed by the board, the amount so allowed, and the charges for which the same were allowed;
7. Deliver to any person who may demand it, a certified copy of any record or account in his office on payment of his legal fees therefor.

Sec. 321. [When to sign warrants.]—The auditor shall not sign or issue any county warrant except upon the recorded vote or resolution of the board of supervisors authorizing the same, except for jury fees, and every such warrant shall be numbered, and the date, amount, and number of the same, and the name of the person to whom issued, shall be entered in a book to be kept by him in his office for the purpose.

Where a claim against a county was examined by the board of supervisors and marked "allowed" by one of them, with the consent of all, in accordance with the usual course of business, and the auditor issued warrants for the amount, it was held, that the allowance was legal and bound the county, although no formal vote was taken or appeared of record. This section of the code is directory. Griggs v. Kimball, 42 Iowa, 512.

County warrants are not negotiable instruments under the law merchant. While they are assignable under the statute, and the assignee may sue thereon in his own name, they are subject to any defenses which might be made against the payee. Clark v. Polk County, 19 Id., 248.

SEC. 322. [School fund.]—Whenever the auditor of the county shall receive from the state auditor notice of the apportionment of the school moneys to be distributed in the county, he shall file the same in his office and transmit a copy thereof to the county treasurer, and he shall also lay a certified copy thereof before the board at its next regular meeting.

SEC. 323. The county auditor shall have the general custody and control of the court house in each county respectively, subject to the direction of the board of supervisors.

SEC. 324. [Report to secretary of state.]—The county auditor shall report to the secretary of state the name, office, and term of office of every county officer elected or appointed, within ten days after their election and qualification, and the secretary of state shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose in his office.

SEC. 325. [Who eligible.]—The clerk of the district court and county recorder shall each be eligible to the office of county auditor, and may discharge the duties of both offices.

SEC. 326. [Cannot be treasurer.]—The offices of county auditor and county treasurer shall not be united in the same person. The auditor and his deputy are prohibited from acting as attorney, either directly or indirectly, in any matter pending before the board of supervisors.

CHAPTER 4.

OF THE COUNTY TREASURER.

SECTION 327. [Duties of.]—The treasurer shall receive all money payable to the county, and disburse the same on warrants drawn and signed by the county auditor and sealed with the county seal, and not otherwise; and shall keep a true account of all receipts and disbursements, and hold the same at all times ready for the inspection of the board of supervisors.

The treasurer of the county is authorized to disburse the funds of the county upon warrants drawn, signed and sealed with the county seal, and not otherwise. Prescott v. Gonser, 34 Iowa, 175, 178.

A county warrant is of no validity unless it has the seal of the county attached thereto. The seal of the district court is insufficient. Springer v. Clay County, 35 Id., 241.

The principal and interest of loans from the school fund are payable to the county treasurer, and the payment of the proceeds of a judgment in favor of such fund to the county auditor by the clerk of the district court is unauthorized. Mahaska County v. Searle et al., 44 Id., 452.

SEC. 328. [When no funds.]—When the warrant drawn by the auditor on the treasurer is presented for payment and not paid for want of money, the treasurer shall endorse thereon a note of that fact and the date of presentation, and sign it, and henceforth it shall draw interest at the rate of six per cent; and when a warrant which draws interest is taken up, the treasurer is required to indorse upon it the date and amount of interest allowed, and such warrant is to be considered as canceled and shall not be reissued.
There is no provision of the statute to the effect that upon giving notice that the county is ready to redeem its warrants, the interest thereon shall cease. Rooney v. Dubuque County, 44 Iowa, 128.

SEC. 328. (Added by ch. 84, 21st g. a.) [Additional sec. 328 1-2 code.]—The treasurer shall keep a record of the number and amount of the warrants presented and endorsed for non-payment, which shall be paid in the order of such presentation when there are funds in the treasury for their payment to an amount sufficient to render it advisable; he shall give notice to what number of warrants the funds will extend, or the number which he will pay, by posting a written notice in his office, and at the expiration of thirty days from the date of such posting, interest on the warrants so named as being payable shall cease.

SEC. 329. (Warrants when divided.)—When a person wishing to make a payment into the treasury presents a warrant of an amount greater than such payment, the treasurer shall cancel the same and give the holder a certificate of the overplus, upon the presentation of which to the county auditor, he shall file it and issue a new warrant of that amount, and charge the treasurer therewith, and such certificate is transferable by delivery, and will entitle the holder to a new warrant, which, however, must be issued in the first drawee’s name.

Where the treasurer received a county warrant in payment of taxes which was in excess of the amount due, and instead of issuing a certificate of overplus issued warrants, which were void for want of authority to make them, it was held, that the treasurer was authorized to receive the warrant from plaintiff, and that the county was liable for the excess beyond his debt to the county. Barney v. Buena Vista County, 33 Iowa, 261.

SEC. 330. (Warrant book.)—The treasurer shall keep a book, ruled so as to contain a column for each of the following items in relation to the warrants drawn on him by the auditor—the number, date, drawee’s name, when paid, to whom, original amount, and interest paid on each.

SEC. 331. (Keep separate accounts.)—The treasurer shall keep a separate account of the several taxes for state, county, school and highway purposes, opening an account between himself and each of those funds, charging himself with the amount of the tax, and crediting himself with the amounts paid over severally, and with the amount of delinquent taxes when legally authorized so to do.

SEC. 332. (Warrants cancelled.)—The warrants returned by the treasurer shall be compared with the warrant book, and the word “canceled” be written over the minute of the proper numbers in the warrant book, and the original warrant be preserved for at least two years.

Where a county treasurer neglected to cancel warrants upon receiving them, in the manner prescribed by law, and they were afterward abstracted from his office, and again put into circulation, it was held that he was liable to the county, on his official bond, for the amount of the warrants abstracted, although he was guilty of no fault or negligence other than his failure to cancel the warrants. Johnson County v. Hughes et al., 12 Iowa, 360.

SEC. 333. (Returns of.)—The treasurer is required to make weekly returns to the auditor of the number, date, drawee’s name, when paid, to whom paid, original amount and interest, as kept in the book before directed.

SEC. 334. (Accounts each term.)—A person re-elected to, or holding over, the office of treasurer, shall keep separate accounts for each term of his office.

Where, under the code of 1851, a county treasurer was re-elected and continued in office during his second term after the time fixed for qualification, it was held that he did not legally hold over, but remained treasurer de facto only, and that the sureties on his official bond for the first term were not liable for his delinquencies in office after the expiration of that term. The County of Wapello v. Bingham, 10 Iowa, 39.

An Act further defining the duties of county officers, and amending section 203 of the code.

SECTION 1. (To furnish information to governor or general assembly.)—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: It is hereby made the duty of each county officer, when called upon by the governor or either house of the general assembly so to do, to communicate to the governor, or such house, any information that may be in his possession as such officer, and to furnish any statistics at his command when thus called upon.

Sec. 2. [Auditor to report to clerk criminal expenses.]—In order to enable the clerk of the district court to comply with the provisions of section two hundred and three (203) of the code, it is made the duty of the county auditor to report to said clerk, before the first day of November, in each year, the expenses of the county criminal prosecutions, during the year ending the thirtieth day of September preceding, including, but distinguishing, the compensation of the district attorney.

Sec. 3. [To what time report to come.]—It is hereby made the duty of the clerk of the district court in preparing the report required by said section 203 of the code, to make such report for the year ending the 30th day of September, preceding.

Sec. 4. [Failure punished.]—Failure on the part of any officer to perform any duty required of him by this act, shall render him liable to prosecution and punishment for a misdemeanor.

Approved March 4, 1880.

An Act enabling county treasurers to pay outstanding warrants. (Additional to code, chapter 4, title IV, relating to the county treasurer.)

Section 1. [Treasurer may call in county warrants.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That county treasurers are authorized to issue calls for outstanding warrants at any time he may have sufficient funds on hand for which such warrant(s) was (were) issued; and from and after such calls have been made public, interest shall cease on all warrants included in said call.

Sec. 2. [Notice to be published.]—County treasurers shall publish said notice twice in the newspaper having the largest circulation in the county in which such publication is made, and each notice shall designate the warrants called.

RELATING TO TRANSFER OF FUNDS RAISED BY SPECIAL LEVY.

An Act to provide for the transfer of moneys raised by special levy to county fund for general purposes. (Additional to code, chapter 4, title IV: "Of board of supervisors.")

Section 1. [Special taxes uncalled for transferred to general fund.] Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in any county of this state, where any special levy has been made to pay any claim, bond or other indebtedness, and the same shall have remained in the treasury of the county uncalled for, for a period of three years, the board of supervisors of such county may authorize such unclaimed fund to be transferred to the general county fund.

OF THE COUNTY RECORDER AND SHERIFF. [TITLE IV.]

CHAPTER 5.

OF THE COUNTY RECORDER.

Section 335. [Duties of.]—The recorder shall keep his office at the county seat, and he shall record at length, and as speedily as possible, all instruments in writing which may be delivered to him for record, in the manner directed by law.

Sec. 336. [Treasurer eligible.]—The same person may be eligible to, and hold the office of county recorder and county treasurer; provided, the number of inhabitants in such county does not exceed ten thousand.

An Act extending the right to hold the office of county recorder to women.

Section 1. [Sex does not disqualify.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That no person shall be disqualified for holding the office of county recorder on account of sex.

Approved March 12, 1880.

In the case of Huff v. Cook, 44 Iowa, 639, it was held that there is no constitutional inhibition upon the right of a woman to hold the office of county superintendent of schools. The case was an appeal from Warren circuit court, wherein the plaintiff was contesting the right of a woman to hold that office to which she had been duly elected. While this case was pending in the supreme court on appeal, the sixteenth general assembly passed an act as follows:

"Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That no person shall be deemed ineligible by reason of sex, to any school office in the state.

"Sec. 2. No person who may have been or shall be elected or appointed to the office of county superintendent of common schools, or school director in the state of Iowa, shall be deprived of the office by reason of sex."

It will be observed that neither by this act nor by chapter 40 of the laws of 1880 does the legislature undertake to confer upon women the right to hold these offices, probably for the reason that the rights exist without legislation.

CHAPTER 6.

OF THE SHERIFF.

Section 337. [Duties of.]—The sheriff shall by himself or his deputies, execute according to law, and return all writs and other legal process issued by lawful authority and to him directed or committed, and shall perform such other duties as may be required of him by law.

The deputy acts in place of the sheriff, and the special constables mentioned in section 341 are to assist the sheriff in the discharge of his duties at and during the sessions of the court, which includes the service of process issued during the session in the transaction of the business of court.

A deputy sheriff has the same power as his principal to administer an oath to a garnishee, when directed so to do by the plaintiff, under an attachment or execution. Conable v. Smith v. Hylton, 10 Id., 593.

A sheriff and his sureties are liable on his official bond for trespasses committed by him in attempting to discharge his official duties. Charles v. Haskins et al., 11 Id., 329.

For a failure of a deputy sheriff to pay over money collected by him on execution, the action should be brought against the sheriff and his sureties on his official bond, and not against the deputy. Brayton v. Town et al., 12 Id., 347.

A judgment obtained against a sheriff for malfeasance in office is assignable, and the assignee may sue thereon in his own name. Charles v. Haskins et al., 11 Id., 329.

The determination upon the merits of issues joined on the allegations of a bill filed by a judgment debtor against the sheriff and a purchaser of certain real property sold at judicial sale to satisfy the judgment, is binding as a prior adjudication of such issues, upon the debtor, the creditor and those claiming through them. Campbell v. Ayers et al., 18 Id., 252.

A judgment against the sheriff on his official bond is prima facie evidence against his sureties. The sureties may show fraud or collusion in obtaining the judgment against their principal, or a mistake in the amount of the judgment, or that it has been paid; but they cannot go behind the judgment, and re-litigate the question already determined. Charles v. Haskins, 14 Id., 471.

Sec. 338. His disobedience of the command of any such process is a contempt of the court from which it issued, and may be punished by the same accordingly, and he is further liable to the action of any person injured thereby.

Sec. 339. He has the charge and custody of the jail or other prison of his county, and of the prisoners in the same, and is required to receive those lawfully committed, and to keep them himself, or by his deputy or jailor, until discharged by law.

A sheriff is not entitled to additional compensation for personal attention rendered to prisoners in the jail beyond payment for their board. The fees and salary of the officer include compensation for such services. Grubb v. Louisa County, 40 Iowa, 314.

Sec. 340. [Conservators of the peace.]—The sheriff and his deputies are conservators of the peace, and to keep the same, or to prevent crime, or to arrest any person liable thereto, or to execute process of law, may call any person to their aid, and, when necessary, the sheriff may summon the power of the county.

Sec. 341. The sheriff shall attend upon the district and circuit courts of his county, and while either remains in session he shall be allowed the assistance of such number of bailiffs as either may direct. They shall be appointed by the sheriff, and shall be regarded as deputy sheriffs, for whose acts the sheriff shall be responsible.

Sec. 342. [Not appear as attorney or counsel.]—No sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, or constable, shall appear in any court as attorney or counsel for any party, nor make any writing or process to commence, or to be in any manner used in the same, and such writing or process made by any of them shall be rejected.

This section does not prohibit peace officers from making complaint of the violation of the criminal laws of the state. Santo v. The State, 2 Iowa, 165, 221.

Sec. 343. [Shall not purchase.]—No sheriff, deputy sheriff, coroner, or constable, shall become the purchaser, either directly or indirectly, of any property by him exposed to sale under any process of law, and every such purchase is absolutely void.

Sec. 344. [Execute process when out of office.]—Sheriffs and their deputies may execute any process which may be in their hands at the expiration of their office, and, in case of a vacancy occurring in the office of sheriff from any cause, deputies shall be under the same obligation to execute legal process then in his or their hands, and to return the same as if the sheriff had continued in office, and he and they will remain liable therefor under the provisions of law, as in other cases.

Sec. 345. [Deliver to successor.]—Where a sheriff goes out of office, he shall deliver to his successor all books and papers pertaining to the office, and property attached and levied upon, except as provided in the preceding section, and all prisoners in the jail, and take his receipt specifying the same, and such receipt shall be sufficient indemnity to the person taking it.

The failure of the outgoing sheriff to take a receipt from his successor for property turned over to him, would not, necessarily, continue his liability for the keeping of the property. If the property is actually delivered to his successor, it is sufficient to devolve the responsibility on the latter. McKay v. Leonard, 17 Iowa, 569. And so an offer on the part of a sheriff, on the expiration of his term of office, to deliver attached property to his successor, discharges the former from future responsibility for the safe keeping of the property attached, and devolves this duty upon his successor. Fickler v. Martin et al., 32 Id., 117.

Sec. 346. If the sheriff die or go out of office before the return of any process then in his hands, his successor, or other officer authorized to discharge the duties of the office, may proceed to execute and return the same in the same manner as the outgoing sheriff should have done, but nothing in this section shall be construed to exempt the out-going sheriff and his deputies from the duty imposed on them by section three hundred and thirty-seven of this chapter, to execute and return all process in their hands at the time the vacancy in the office of sheriff occurs.

SEC. 347. On the election or appointment of a new sheriff all new process shall be directed to him.

SEC. 348. If the sheriff, who has made a sale of real estate on execution, die, or go out of office before the period of redemption expires, his successor shall make the necessary deed to carry out such sale.

OF THE CORONER.

SECTION 349. It is the duty of the coroner to perform all the duties of the sheriff when there is no sheriff, and in cases where exception is taken to the sheriff as provided in the next section.

The sureties on the official bond of the coroner are liable for his acts while he is acting ex officio as sheriff. Fieman v. Shaw, 49 Iowa, 312.

To render the service of process by a coroner valid, the partiality, consanguinity, or interest of the sheriff either as a party to the action or otherwise, must be made to appear by the record. If the service of the writ is insufficient, the writ alone abates, not the action. Beard v. Smith, 9 Id., 50. See also Minott v. Vineyard, 11 Id., 90.

SEC. 350. [To serve process.]—In all proceedings in the courts of record, where it appears from the papers that the sheriff is a party to the action, or where, in any action commenced or about to be commenced, an affidavit is filed with the clerk of the court, stating that the sheriff and his deputy are absent from the county, and are not expected to return in time to perform the service needed; or stating a partiality, prejudice, consanguinity or interest on the part of the sheriff, the clerk or court shall direct process to the coroner, whose duty it shall be to execute it in the same manner as if he were sheriff.

This section applies to criminal as well as civil cases. Accordingly, when the accused shall file an affidavit to the effect that, by reason of partiality or prejudice, he believes the sheriff will not act fairly in the selection of talesmen, the duty of filling up the jury should be taken by the court from the sheriff. The State v. Hardin et al., 46 Iowa, 623.

To render the service of process by a coroner valid, the partiality, consanguinity, or interest of the sheriff either as a party to the action or otherwise, must be made to appear by the record. If the service of the writ is insufficient, the writ alone abates, not the action. Beard v. Smith, 9 Id., 50. See also Minott v. Vineyard, 11 Id., 90.

SEC. 351. [Same.]—When there is no sheriff, deputy sheriff or coroner qualified to serve legal process, the clerk of the court may, by writing under his hand and the seal of the court certifying the above fact, appoint any suitable person specially in each case to execute such process, who shall be sworn, but he need not give bond, and his return shall be entitled to the same credit as the sheriff’s when the appointment is attached thereto.

The credit given to a return of a writ of attachment made by a person specially appointed by the clerk to serve the same, must depend upon the validity of the appointment, which must accompany the return. Currens v. Batcheller, 9 Iowa, 309.

Where the clerk in making the appointment recited that it had been shown him by affidavit that there was “no sheriff, deputy sheriff, or coroner at the county seat of the county, nor in the county, competent to serve attachment process in the suit, but that they, and each of them, are absent from the county seat, and that several miles additional travel would be necessary in order to serve the process of attachment aforesaid by said officers,” it was held that the showing was insufficient, and the appointment invalid.
[SEC. 352. [Inquest.]-The coroner shall hold an inquest upon the dead bodies of such persons only as are supposed to have died by unlawful means. When he has notice of the dead body of a person supposed to have died by unlawful means, found or being in his county, he is required to issue his warrant to a constable of his county, requiring him to summon forthwith three electors of the county to appear before the coroner at a time and place named in the warrant.

SEC. 353. The warrant may be in substance as follows:

STATE OF IOWA,

To any constable of the said county: In the name of the state of Iowa you are hereby required to summon forthwith three electors of your county, to appear before me at (name the place), at (name the day and hour or say forthwith), then and there to hold an inquest upon the dead body of .........., there lying, and find by what means he died.

Witness my hand this .... day of ...., A. D. 18...

A. B., coroner of ......... county.

SEC. 354. [Service.]-The constable shall execute the warrant, and make return thereof at the time and place named.

SEC. 355. [Jurors.]-If any juror fails to appear, the coroner shall cause the proper number to be summoned or returned from the bystanders, immediately, and proceed to impanel them and administer the following oath in substance:

[Form of oath.]—"You do solemnly swear (or affirm) that you will diligently inquire, and true presentment make, when, how, and by what means the person whose body lies here dead came to his death, according to your knowledge and the evidence given you."

SEC. 356. The coroner may issue subpoenas within his county for witnesses, returnable forthwith, or at such time and place as he shall therein direct, and witnesses shall be allowed the same fees as in cases before a justice of the peace, and the coroner has the same authority to enforce the attendance of witnesses, and to punish them and jurors for contempt in disobeying his process, as a justice of the peace has when his process issues in behalf of the state.

SEC. 357. An oath shall be administered to the witnesses in substance as follows:

"You do solemnly swear that the testimony which you shall give to this inquest concerning the death of the person here lying dead, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

SEC. 358. The testimony shall be reduced to writing under the coroner's order, and subscribed by the witness.

SEC. 359. [Verdict.]-The jurors having inspected the body, heard the testimony, and made all useful inquiries, shall return to the coroner their inquisition in writing, under their hands, in substance as follows, and stating the matters in the following form suggested, as far as found:

STATE OF IOWA,

An inquisition holden at ......, in ...... county, on the ...... day of ......, A. D. 18......, before ......, coroner of the said county, upon the body of ...... (or a person unknown), there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed. The said jurors upon their oaths do say (here state when, how, by what person, means, weapon, or accident, he came to his death, or whether feloniously).

In testimony whereof, the said jurors have hereunto set their hands, the day and year aforesaid.

SEC. 360. [Secret.]-If the inquisition find that a crime has been committed on the deceased, and name the person whom the jury believe has committed it, the inquest shall not be made public until after the arrest directed in the next section.

Sec. 361. [Arrest.]—If the person charged be present, the coroner may order his arrest by an officer or any other person present, and shall then make a warrant requiring the officer or other person to take him before a justice of the peace.

Sec. 362. [Warrant.]—If the person charged be not present, and the coroner believes he can be taken, the coroner may issue a warrant to the sheriff and constables of the county, requiring them to arrest the person and take him before a justice of the peace.

Sec. 363. The warrant of a coroner in the above case shall be of equal authority with that of a justice of the peace, and when the person charged is brought before the justice, such justice shall cause an information to be filed against him, and the same proceedings shall be had as in other cases under information, and he shall be dealt with as a person held under an information in the usual form.

Sec. 364. [Form of warrant.]—The warrant of the coroner shall recite substantially the transactions before him, and the verdict of the jury of inquest leading to the arrest, and such warrant shall be a sufficient foundation for the proceeding of the justice instead of an information.

Sec. 365. [Return.]—The coroner shall then return to the district court the inquisition, the written evidence, and a list of the witnesses who testified to material matter.

Sec. 366. [Body of deceased.]—The coroner shall cause the body of a deceased person which he is called to view to be delivered to his friends, if any there be, but if not, he shall cause him to be decently buried and the expense to be paid from any property found with the body, or, if there be none, from the county treasury, by certifying an account of the expenses, which, being presented to the board of supervisors, shall be allowed by them, if deemed reasonable, and paid as other claims on the county.

Sec. 367. When there is no coroner, and in case of his absence or inability to act, any justice of the peace of the same county is authorized to perform the duties of coroner in relation to dead bodies, and in such case he may cause the person charged to be brought before himself by his warrant, and may proceed with him as a justice of the peace.

Sec. 368. (As amended by ch. 64, 20th g. a.) [Surgeons.]—In the above inquisition by a coroner, when he or the jury deem it requisite, he may summon one or more physicians or surgeons to make a scientific examination, who, instead of witness fees, shall receive such reasonable compensation as may be allowed by the county board of supervisors.

The coroner, or justice acting in his absence, is charged with the duty of fixing the compensation to the physician or surgeon making a scientific examination upon a deceased person in view, and his decision respecting the amount is in the nature of an adjudication, preventing the physician from suing the county in an original action for his services. Cushman v. Washington County, 43 Iowa, 255; Sanford v. Lee County, 49 Id., 145.

CHAPTER 8.

OF THE COUNTY SURVEYOR.

Section 369. [Duties of.]—The county surveyor shall make all surveys of land within his county, which he may be called upon to make, and his surveys shall be held as presumptively correct.

Sec. 370. The field notes and plats made by the county surveyor shall be transcribed into a well bound book under the supervision of the surveyor, when desired by a person interested and at his expense.

SEC. 371. [Field notes.]—Previous to making any survey, he shall furnish himself with a copy of the field notes of the original survey of the same land, if there be any in the office of the county auditor, and his survey shall be made in accordance therewith.

SEC. 372. [Corners.]—He is required to establish the corners by taking bearing trees and noting particularly their course and distance, but if there be no trees within reasonable distance, the corners are to be marked by stones firmly placed in the earth, or by mounds.

SEC. 373. [Rules.]—In the resurvey and subdivisions of lands by county surveyors, their deputies, or other persons, the rules prescribed by acts of congress and the instructions of the secretary of the interior shall be in all respects followed.

SEC. 374. [Plat and copy evidence.]—The county surveyor shall, when requested, furnish the person for whom the survey is made with a copy of the field notes and plat of the survey, and such copy certified by him, and also a copy from the record, certified by the county auditor, with the seal, shall be presumptive evidence of the survey and of the facts herein required to be set forth, and which are stated accordingly, between those persons who join in requesting it and any other person then concerned who has reasonable notice that such a survey is to be made and the time thereof.

SEC. 375. [Book furnished.]—The board of supervisors is required to furnish a substantial, well bound book, in which the field notes and plats made by the county surveyor may be recorded.

SEC. 376. The plat record shall show distinctly of what piece of land it is a survey; at whose personal request it was made, the names of the chainmen, and that they were approved and sworn by the surveyor, and the date of the survey; and the courses shall be taken according to the true meridian, and the variation of the magnetic from the true meridian stated.

SEC. 377. The necessary chainmen and other persons must be employed by the person requiring the survey done, unless otherwise agreed; but the chainmen must be disinterested persons and approved by the surveyor, and sworn by him to measure justly and impartially to the best of their knowledge and ability.

SEC. 378. [Surveyor may administer oaths.]—County surveyors, when establishing defaced or lost land corners or lines, may issue subpoenas for witnesses and administer oaths to them, and all fees for service of officers and attendance of witnesses shall be the same as in proceedings before justices of the peace.

An Act to provide for the permanent survey of lands.

SECTION 1. [Surveys upon agreement of owners of adjacent lands.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That whenever the owner or owners of adjacent tracts of land shall desire to establish permanently the lines and corners thereof between them, he, she, or they may enter into a written agreement to employ and abide by the survey of some surveyor; and after said survey is completed, a plat thereof with a description of all corners and lines plainly marked and described thereon, together with the written agreement of the parties, shall be recorded in the recorder's office of the county where the lands are situated; or, after any survey of lands is completed and the parties interested therein as owners are satisfied with such survey; or, when the owners of adjoining lands desire to perpetuate existing lines and corners heretofore made between them, it shall be lawful for them to cause a plat thereof to be made with a description of all such lines and corners made thereon, which plat shall be acknowledged before some officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and signed by each of said owners as an agreement between them so far as relates to such lines and corners; all of which shall be recorded in the recorder's office of the county in which the lands are situated; and the lines and corners so made, and described and recorded, shall be binding upon the parties entering into said agreement and signing said plats, their heirs, successors, and assigns, and shall never be changed.

SEC. 2. [Mode of obtaining survey where owners do not agree.]— Whenever one or more proprietors of land in this state, the corners and boundaries of whose lands are lost, destroyed, or are in dispute, or who are desirous of having said corners and boundaries permanently established, and who will not enter into agreement as provided by section first of this act, it shall be lawful for said proprietor or proprietors that they shall cause a notice in writing to be served on the owner or owners of adjacent tract or tracts, if known and residing in the county where said lands are situated, or if not known and residing in such county, by publishing in a newspaper published in such county, and if no newspaper shall be published, then by putting up in four different public places in said county, a written or printed notice to the effect that on a day named therein, he, she, or they will make application to the district court of the county in which said lands are situated, at its next succeeding term, for the appointment of a commission of one or more surveyors to make survey of and permanently establish said corners and boundaries, which notice shall be posted up at least four weeks before the time appointed for said application; and one of said notices shall be in the precinct or township in which said corners and boundaries are situated.

A proceeding to establish a lost corner under this chapter is a special proceeding, triable as an ordinary action, and reviewable by the supreme court upon errors assigned. In matter of the application, etc., 54 Iowa, 33.

The action of fence viewers in locating and apportioning division lines of fence is not conclusive, and it is competent for a land owner to show, in a proper action, that a fence was located upon his land, and not upon the division line, and he may recover damages therefor. *Peschongs v.
Mueller*, 50 Id., 237.

This section providing a summary proceeding for determining and locating the true boundary line between land owners, without any issue made in court, or jury trial, is not in conflict with section 9, article 1, of the constitution, which provides that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of

SEC. 3. [District court to appoint commission to survey and report.]— Upon the filing of proper petition and proof of due notice aforesaid, the said court shall appoint a commission of one or more surveyors, entirely disinterested, to make said survey, who shall proceed to make said survey and report his or their proceedings to that or the next term of said court, accompanied by a plat and notes of said survey; and each of said surveyors shall be authorized to administer an oath to any of the assistants necessary in the execution of said survey, to faithfully and im­ partially perform their respective duties, and take the evidence under oath administered by the surveyor, and incorporate the same with his or their survey, of any person or persons, who may be able to identify any original government corner, or witness thereto, or government line, tree, or other noted object, or any other legally established corner, or other corners that have been recognized as such by the adjoining proprietors for over ten years.

SEC. 4. [Objections to report may be made.]—Upon the filing of said report, any person whose interests may be affected by said survey, shall be at liberty to enter his objections to said report, and the court shall hear and determine said objections, and enter an order or judgment either approving or rejecting said report, or modifying or amending the same according to the rights and interests of the parties, or may refer the same back to said commission to correct their report and survey in conformity with the judgment of the court; or the court may, for good reason, set aside said commission and appoint a new one, who shall proceed anew, and determine the boundaries and corners of the lands in question. The corners and boundaries established in said survey, as approved in the final judgment of the court, if not appealed from within thirty days, shall be held and considered as permanently and unalterably established according to said survey. The expenses and costs of the surveys and suit shall be apportioned among all the parties according to their respective interests.

Where division lines between adjoining owners of lands are in dispute, proceedings may be instituted by any one, such owners to have the same established under chapter 8, of the laws of 1874, even though the lines have been previously fixed by the county surveyor. Strait et al. v. Cook et al., 46 Iowa, 57.

On an appeal from a proceeding to establish a lost corner under this act no bill of exceptions is necessary to preserve the evidence on which the commissioner's report is based, for such evidence must accompany the report and is thus part of the record. Davis v. Curtis et al., 68 Id., 66.

As to duty of commissioners in proceedings to establish lost corner, see opinion in same case.

CHAPTER 9.

OF TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

SECTION 379. [Supervisors may divide county into townships.]—The board of supervisors of each county shall divide the same into townships, as the convenience of the citizens may require, accurately defining the boundaries thereof, and may from time to time make such alterations in the number and boundaries of the townships as it may deem proper; provided, however, that if the congressional township lines are not adopted and followed, the board of supervisors shall not change the lines of any civil township so as to divide any school district or subdistrict, unless a majority of the voters of such district or subdistrict shall petition therefor.

The board of supervisors has power under this section of the code to divide townships and create new ones whenever the public convenience requires it, and the question of the political existence of a new township so created is in no manner affected by any irregularity in the first election of its officers; nor does such irregularity in any way affect the validity of subsequent elections of officers, or of the sets of officers subsequently elected. Lones v. Harris et al., 71 Iowa, 478.

SEC. 380. [Must be ten voters.]—No township shall be organized in which at the time of organization there shall not be at least ten legal voters; provided, that each county shall have one civil township.

SEC. 381. [Changes recorded.]—The description of the boundaries of each township, and of all alterations in them, and of all new townships, shall be recorded in full in the records of the board of supervisors and of the township.

SEC. 382. (As amended by ch. 106, 20th g. a.) [When township contains a city or town.]—When any township has within its limits an incorporated city or town (with a population exceeding fifteen hundred inhabitants), the electors of such township residing without the limits of such city or town, may, at the January, April or June session of the board of supervisors of the county, petition to have such township divided into two townships; the one to embrace the territory without, and the other the territory within such corporate limits; which petition shall be accompanied by the affidavit of three individuals to the effect that all the signatures to such petition are genuine, and that the signers thereof are all legal voters of said township, residing outside said corporate limits. (Remonstrances signed by such legal voters may also be presented on the hearing before the board of supervisors hereinafter provided for, and, if the same persons petition and remonstrate they shall be counted on the remonstrance only.)
Under this section the board of supervisors has no discretion, and must divide a township where all the prerequisites of the law have been complied with, and the petition therefor is presented at the time authorized by statute. Henry et al. v. Taylor et al., 57 Iowa, 72, 74.

Sec. 383. Notice of the time when such petition will be presented, shall be given by two publications in a weekly newspaper published in the township, the last of which publications shall be at least ten days prior to the time fixed for the presentation of such petition; or if no paper is printed in such township, or the papers therein printed refuse to make such publication, the notice herein contemplated shall be given by posting in five places in the township; two of which shall be without and three within such corporate limits.

Sec. 384. (As amended by ch. 48, 21st g. a.) If such petition is signed by a majority of the electors of such township residing without the corporate limits of such city or town, the board of supervisors shall divide such township into two townships, as prayed therein, but except for election purposes, including the appointment of all judges and clerks of election rendered necessary by the change, such division shall not take effect until the first Monday of January next ensuing. (Provided, that when the citizens of any township so set off desire to dissolve their township organization and return again to the township from which they were taken, they may do so by the same procedure as in sections 382 and 383 for the division, except that said petition shall be signed by a majority of the electors of both townships.)

In this section, relating to the division of a township containing a city or incorporated town, the words "for election purposes," refer only to the election of the officers for the new township, and as the old township organization in such a case continues to exist until the first day of January following the order of the supervisors for the division of the township, all other elections to be held before the first of January must be by the original township as it was before the division. So held, in a case where a tax in aid of a railway was voted by the whole original township in December, prior to the January when the division of the township, previously ordered, took effect under the statute. Williams et al. v. Poor et al., 65 Iowa, 410.

Sec. 385. [First election.]—When a new township is formed, the board of supervisors shall call the first township election, to be held at such place as it may designate, on the day of the next general election.

Sec. 386. The auditor shall issue a warrant for such first election, stating the time and place of the same, the officers to be elected, and any other business which is to be attended to; and no other business shall be done than such as is so named.

Sec. 387. Such warrant may be directed to any constable of the county, or to any citizen of the same township, by name, and shall be served by posting up copies thereof in three of the most public places in the township, fifteen days before the day of the election; the original warrant shall be returned to the presiding officer of the election, to be returned to the clerk when elected, with a return thereon of the manner of service, verified by oath if served by any other than an officer.

Sec. 389. [Township officers.]—(In each township there shall be elected three trustees, one clerk, one assessor, two constables, and two justices of the peace, but where a city or incorporated town is situated in a township, the trustees of the township may order the election of one or two additional justices and constables, and at least one justice and constable shall reside within the limits of such city or town.

Sec. 390. (As amended by ch. 110, 19th g. a.) [Assessors in townships containing cities or towns to hold for two years.]—At the general election in the year 1882, and biennially thereafter, there shall be elected in each township, a part of which is included within the incorporated limits of any incorporated city or town, by the qualified voters of such township residing without the corporate limits of such city or town, one assessor in the same manner as provided by law for the election of township assessors, and at the regular municipal election of each town or city in the year 1882, and biennially thereafter, whether such city or town embraces one or more townships or parts of townships, there shall be elected by the qualified voters of such city or town one or more assessors for such city or town, and such assessors shall be restricted in the discharge of their official duties to the limits within which they are elected, and shall hold their offices for the term of two years from the first day of January next ensuing.
The city council of any incorporated city having a population of ten thousand or over, may, by a resolution to be adopted at least five weeks before the time for any regular municipal election, determine whether it shall be necessary to elect more than one assessor, and fix the number thereof, not exceeding three, and thereupon the mayor of such city shall make proclamation of such determination in like manner and at the same time that he shall proclaim the election of other city officers to be elected at the municipal election next ensuing, and such resolution shall also divide such city into districts for assessment purposes; and the county auditor of the county in which such city is situate, upon being notified of such division, shall provide a separate assessment book for each of said assessment district(s); said assessors when so elected shall give bond and qualify, receive the same compensation, be under like penalties, and perform the same duties in like manner as township assessors, except as herein provided. In case there should be a failure to elect, (or) a vacancy shall occur in the office of assessor within such incorporated city, the city council may elect some suitable person to perform the duties of such office for the unexpired term. It shall be the duty of such assessors, if more than one shall have been elected, to meet at least once a week, and oftener if they shall deem it necessary, and carefully compare valuations in order to secure a uniform assessment of all the property of such city, and when so met they shall constitute a board of assessment, a majority of whom shall determine the value of any property as to which difference may arise in such board: Provided, that the city council of any city or town, having a population as aforesaid, shall have power in the year 1882, by resolution, to increase the number of assessors not exceeding three, and to appoint the additional number provided for; and each assessor so appointed shall qualify and act, and hold their (his) office for the term provided for in this act.

An assessor elected in accordance with section 390 of the code of 1873, providing for the election of assessors in townships containing a city or incorporated town: held, a township and not a city officer. Kinne v. City of Waverly, 42 Iowa, 486.

Under this section, as amended by chapter 6 of the laws of 1876, the assessor in a township whose limits are the same as those of a city acting under a special charter, is an officer of the township and not of the city, and he should be elected at the general township election. The State v. Finger, 46 Id., 25.

RELATING TO DUTY OF TOWNSHIP CLERKS.

An Act to compel township clerks to post up statement of receipts and disbursements at each general election. [Additional to code, chapter 9, title IV, “Of townships and township officers.”]

SECTION 1. [Township clerks to post statement of the receipts and disbursements at place of election.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That hereafter it shall be the duty of township clerks in each county in the state, on the morning of the day of each general election, and before the hour for opening the polls, to post up at the place where such general election is to be held in his township, a statement in writing, showing all receipts of money and disbursements in his office, for the preceding year, such statement to be certi­fied by the trustees of said township.

Approved, March 8, 1876.

CITY ASSESSORS.

An Act providing for the election of city assessors in cities organized and existing under special charters.

SECTION 1. [One assessor to be elected in cities organized under special charters.]-That the qualified electors of all cities organized and existing under special charters shall, at their regular annual election, elect one city assessor, who shall hold his office for the term of one year and until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 391. [Place of election.]—The trustees shall designate the place where elections will be held, and whenever a change is made from the usual place of holding elections in the township, notice of such change shall be given by posting up notices thereof in three public places in the township, ten days prior to the day on which the election is to be held.

SEC. 392. They shall cause a record to be kept of all their proceedings.

SEC. 393. The township trustees are the overseers of the poor, fence viewers, and the township board of equalization and board of health, and shall have charge of all cemeteries within the limits of their township dedicated to public use when the same is not controlled by other trustees or incorporated bodies.

SEC. 394. [Refusing to serve. ]—Any person elected to a township office and refusing to qualify and serve shall forfeit the sum of five dollars, which may be recovered by action in the name of the county, to the use of the school fund in the county, but no person shall be compelled to serve as a township officer two terms in succession.

Refusing to qualify and serve in a township office when elected thereto is not a crime. Polk County v. Heeb, 87 Iowa, 361, 367.

Civil townships are not corporations, under the statutes of Iowa, but merely legal subdivisions of a county for governmental purposes, and are not capable of suing or being sued. The Township, etc. v. Muhle, 52 Iowa, 132.

SEC. 395. The township clerk shall keep accurate records of the proceedings and orders of the trustees, and perform such other acts as may be required of him by law.

It is not necessary that a complaint to the fence viewers of the insufficiency of a partition fence should be in writing. Tables v. Ogden, 46 Iowa, 134.

SEC. 396. (As amended by ch. 110, 16th g. a.) He is authorized to administer the oath of office to all the township officers, and he shall make a record thereof, and also of all who file certificates of their having taken the oath before any other officer authorized to administer the same. [The clerk shall also have power to administer oaths to township officers, judges of election, clerks of election, and highway supervisors, for services rendered in their respective townships.

SEC. 397. [Notify auditor. ]—The clerk, immediately after the election of officers in his township, shall send a written notice thereof to the county auditor, stating the names of the persons elected, and the time of the election, and shall enter the time of the election of each officer in the township record.

SEC. 398. Constables: duty.—The constables shall serve all warrants, notices, and other process lawfully directed to them by the trustees or clerk of the township or any court, and perform such other duties as are or may be required by law.

SEC. 399. [Same.]—Constables are ministerial officers of justices of the peace.

To support the acts of one on the ground that he is an officer de facto, they must have been done under color of the office, the duties of which should have been discharged by the person filling it. Barley v. Fisher, 38 Iowa, 279.

If one holds himself out as a public officer, or acts as an officer de facto, he is stopped to deny that he was an officer de jure, even when indicted for malfeasance. The State v. Stone, 40 Id., 347.

All acts of public officers are to be regarded as prima facie correct; and when an act has been shown to have been done by an officer pursuant to law, it will be deemed lawful and valid until the contrary be established by affirmative proof. Smith v. The District Township of Knox, 42 Id., 522.

Until the contrary is shown, it will be presumed that public officers have acted in compliance with law. Spiller v. Scofield, 43 Id., 571; Brown v. Lamb, 4 G. Greene, 485; Barney v. Buena Vista County, 33 Id., 261; Dollarhide v. The Board of Commissioners, 1 G. Greene, 158; Cole v. Porter, 4 Iowa, 510; McGuire v. Derwine, 1 G. Greene, 251; Barney v. Crittenden, 2 Iowa, 165; Neally v. Redman, 5 Id., 387.

In relation to officers, civil and municipal, when the question arises between third parties, parol evidence is admissible to show that they were officers at a given time, and perhaps to show that they acted as such. Coonley v. Hawkins, 2 Id., 75.

Before one can claim to be an officer de facto, there must be a law creating the office. The office itself must be de jure; the officer may then be de facto. The Town of Decorah v. Bulis, 25 Id., 12.

As an action against a justice of the peace for false imprisonment, evidence on the part of the defendant that he was and had been acting as a justice of the peace de facto is admissible, and when given it will be presumed that he has been duly appointed to the office until the contrary shall appear. Longegan v. Hammer, 30 Id., 508.

When an assessor has filed an official bond and taken the oath of office he is an officer de facto, and a party refusing to take the required oath in the assessment of his property, cannot escape liability by showing that the bond was informal, or any other mere irregularity in qualifying. Washington County v. Miller, 14 Id., 584.

The official acts of an alderman de facto of a city will be held valid in collateral proceedings. Cochran v. McCleary, 22 Id., 75.

A constable who has been re-elected and continues to act without filing a new bond or taking the official oath anew, is an officer de facto, and is competent to make arrests. The State v. Bates, 23 Id., 96.

A public officer duly elected or appointed, but who has failed to qualify in the manner prescribed by law, acts de facto, and his acts as to third persons are entitled to credit. Keeny v. Leas & Lyon, 14 Id., 464.

While, for some purposes, a constable is considered a county officer, he is, nevertheless, to be generally classed as a township officer. The State v. Bevans, 27 Id., 173.

Courts will take judicial notice of the time of elections established by law. Davis et al. v. Best, 2 Id., 96.

In this country all offices are public, except such as, though called offices, are nevertheless employments of a private nature, like the offices of a bank or other private corporation. Keeny v. Leas & Lyon, 14 Id., 464.

As between third persons, when the question arises whether a person in doing an act was an officer, it is sufficient to show him to be such de facto; and it is not required of the person claiming or justifying under the act of the officer to show that he is such, by the highest and best evidence. This, however, is required when the officer himself is a party, and he justifies, or claims, by virtue of his office. Id.

A usurper is one who intrudes himself into or undertakes to exercise the duties of an office without any claim or color of right or authority. An officer de jure is one who has a complete legal title to his office against the world; and an officer de facto is one who comes in by the forms of an election or appointment, and who thus acts under claim or color of right, but who, in consequence of some informality, omission or want of qualification, could not hold the office, if his right were tried in a direct proceeding, by an information in the nature of a quo warranto. Ex parte Stahl, 40 Id., 547.

Incompatibility in office exists where the nature and duties of the two offices are such as to render it improper, from considerations of public policy, for one incumbent to retain both. It does not necessarily arise when the incumbent places himself for the time being in a position where it is impossible to discharge the duties of both offices.

ELECTION OF TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

An Act to further amend section 591, chapter one (1), title five (5) of the code, relating to the election of township officers.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That at the general election in the year 1880, and biennially thereafter, there shall be elected in each civil township of the state by the qualified electors thereof in the manner prescribed by law, one township clerk, one assessor, and one highway supervisor for each highway district, who shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Sec. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Approved March 26, 1880.

Such assessor shall hold his office for the term of one year from the first day of January next ensuing after their election.*

Sec. 2. The assessment made as aforesaid shall be equalized by the city council of such city, who shall have the same powers in relation thereto as are delegated by law to the township trustees.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the trustees, board of directors, or other officers, having the custody and control of any cemetery in this state, shall have power, subject to the by-laws and regulations of said cemetery, to enclose, improve and adorn the grounds of such cemetery, to construct avenues in the same, to erect proper buildings for the use of said cemetery, to prescribe rules for improving or adorning the lots therein, or for the erection of monuments or other memorials of the dead upon such lots; to prohibit any use, division, improvement or adornment of a lot which they may deem improper.
SEC. 2. [Penalty for injuring or defacing graves, etc.]—Any person who shall willfully and maliciously destroy, mutilate, deface, injure or remove any tomb, vault, monument, gravestone or other structure placed in any public or private cemetery in this state, or any fences, railing or other work for the protection or ornamentation of said cemetery, or of any tomb, vault, monument, or gravestone, or other structure aforesaid, on any cemetery lot within such cemetery, or shall willfully and maliciously destroy, cut, break or injure any tree, shrub, plant or lawn within the limits of said cemetery, or shall drive at unusual and forbidden speed over the avenues or roads in said cemetery, or shall drive outside of said avenues and roads and over the grass or graves of said cemetery, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than one nor more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court; and such offender shall also be liable in an action of trespass in the name of the person or corporation having the custody and control of said cemetery grounds, to pay all such damages as have been occasioned by his unlawful act or acts, which money, when recovered, shall be applied by said person or corporation to the reparation and restoration of the property so injured or destroyed, if the same can be so repaired or restored.

SEC. 3. [Trustees may appoint watchmen.]—It shall be lawful for the trustees, directors or other officers having the custody and control of any cemetery in this state, to appoint as many day and night watchmen of their ground as they may think expedient, and also their sextons, superintendents, gardeners and agents, stationed upon or near said grounds, are hereby authorized to take and subscribe before any mayor of a city, or justice of the peace of the township where such cemetery is situated, an oath of office similar to that required by law of constables, and upon the taking of such oath such watchmen, sextons, superintendents, gardeners and agents, shall have, exercise and possess all the powers of police officers within or adjacent to the cemetery grounds, and they and each of them shall have power to arrest any and all persons engaged in violating the laws of this state in reference to the protection, care and preservation of cemeteries, and of the trees, shrubbery, plants, structures, grass and adornments therein, and to bring such person so offending before any justice of the peace within such township to be dealt with according to law.

SEC. 400. There shall be elected at the general election in every year, a township collector in and for each organized township in every county, except the township in which the county seat is located, who shall hold office for one year; provided, the board of supervisors of the county shall order the election of township collectors as in this chapter hereinafter provided.

SEC. 401. He shall qualify as other elective officers, and give a bond to the county in a penal sum equal to double the amount of tax to be by him collected, which shall be presented to and approved by the board of supervisors of the county and recorded the same as the bond of county officers.

SEC. 402. [Auditor's duty.]—The auditor, in counties where township collectors are elected, shall make out a duplicate tax list of each township, and deliver the same, with the original, to the county treasurer.

SEC. 403. Treasurer's duty: powers of collector.]—The county treasurer shall deliver to each township collector in the county, as soon as he has qualified, such duplicate tax list of his township and take his receipt therefor, specifying the total amount of the tax charged in such list, and charge the same over to each township collector in a book to be kept for that purpose; and such duplicate tax list, when so made out and delivered to the township collectors, may be used as an execution, and shall be sufficient authority for them to collect the taxes therein charged in any township in the county by distress and sale or otherwise, as now provided by law for the collection of taxes by the county treasurer; and the county treasurer shall not receive or collect any of the taxes charged in any duplicate tax list so delivered, except the tax of the non-residents of the township, until the same has been returned to him, as hereinafter provided. The said county treasurer shall procure for and deliver to each township collector with said tax list, a tax receipt-book, with a blank margin or stub, upon which the said township collector shall enter the number and date of the tax receipt given to the tax payer, the amount of tax and by whom paid, which said tax receipt-book shall be returned to the county treasurer, with the said duplicate tax as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 404. [To give notice.]—Upon the receipt of said tax lists, each township collector, immediately, shall cause the notice of the reception thereof to be posted up in some conspicuous place in every school district in the township, and in every ward of any city therein, so located as will be most likely to give notice to the inhabitants thereof, and also publish such notice for four weeks in one or more weekly papers, if any published in the township, designating in such notice a convenient place in such township where he will attend from nine o'clock A. M. to four o'clock P. M., at least once in each week, on a day to be specified in said notice, until March first following, for the purpose of receiving payment of taxes, and each collector shall attend accordingly, and he shall proceed to collect and receipt for all taxes therein charged, in the same manner as now provided by law for the collection of taxes by the county treasurer, and all the laws which apply to and govern the collection of taxes by county treasurers shall apply to and govern the collection of taxes by said township collector, when not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 405. [Demand taxes: distress and sale.]—Every collector, after the first of March in each year, shall call at least once on each person whose tax remains unpaid, or at the place of his usual residence, if in the township for which such collector has been chosen, and shall demand the payment of taxes charged to him on his property. In case any person shall attempt to remove from the township property on which tax is due, without leaving sufficient to pay such tax, at any time after the duplicate comes into his hands, the collector shall attach such property and hold the same until the tax is paid, or make the tax out of such property. In case any person refuse or neglect to pay the tax, or shall have removed from said township, the collector shall levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person who ought to pay the same, or of any goods and chattels on which the said tax was assessed, wheresoever the same may be found within the county. The collector shall give public notice of the time and place of sale, and of the property to be sold, at least six days previous to the sale, by advertisements to be posted up in at least three public places in the township, where such sale shall be made. The sale shall be made by public auction, and if the property shall be sold for more than the amount of the tax, penalty and costs, the surplus shall be returned to the person in whose possession the property was when the distress was made.

Sec. 406. The township collectors shall make monthly statements to the county treasurer of the amount of tax collected by them on each fund, and pay the same over to the county treasurer and take his receipt therefor; and they shall complete the collection of the tax charged in the said duplicate tax lists, by distress and sale or otherwise, on or before the first Monday in May next after the receipt of said duplicate tax list, and pay over the amount so collected to the county treasurer and return to him the said tax lists and receipt books, and make a full and complete settlement for the taxes so collected with the county treasurer, which settlement shall be subject to the examination and correction by the board of supervisors of the county at its next session.

A temporary surrender by the township collector of the tax list to the county treasurer for the purpose of having it laid before the board of supervisors, in connection with a question relating to a disputed tax, will not operate to deprive the collector of the power of resuming his duties in the collection of taxes upon a re-delivery of the tax list to him. Shaw v. Orr, 39 Iowa, 355.

SEC. 407. [Compensation.]—Each township collector shall receive for his services the following compensation: 1. Two per cent of all sums collected by him on the first two thousand dollars, and one per cent on all sums in excess thereof collected by him otherwise than by distress and sale, to be paid out of the county treasury; 2. Five per cent upon all taxes collected by him by distress and sale, which percentage and costs shall be collected of the delinquent tax-payer, and the same fees in addition to the said five per cent as constables are entitled to receive for the sale of property on execution.

SEC. 408. [Unpaid taxes.]—After the return of said duplicate tax lists and settlement as provided above, the county treasurer shall receive, receipt for, and collect any unpaid taxes in the county, and shall proceed to advertise and sell all the real estate in the county upon which the taxes have not been paid, for the unpaid taxes therein as provided by law.

SEC. 409. [When there is failure to collect.]—If any of the taxes mentioned in the tax list shall remain unpaid, and the collector shall not be able to collect the same, he shall deliver to the county treasurer an account of the taxes so remaining due; and upon making oath before the county auditor, or in case of his absence before any justice of the peace, that the sums mentioned in such account remain unpaid, and that he has not, upon diligent inquiry, been able to discover any goods or chattels belonging to or in the possession of the person charged with or liable to pay such sums, whereon he could levy the same, he shall be credited by the county treasurer with the amount thereof, but such oath and credit shall only be presumptive evidence of the correctness thereof.

SEC. 410. [Liability.]—Such collector and his sureties shall be liable for the loss, by theft or otherwise, of any money collected by him and in his possession.

SEC. 411. [When election of collector ordered.]—The board of supervisors of each county in the state having a population exceeding seven thousand inhabitants, as shown by the last preceding census, are hereby authorized and empowered to order an election of a township collector in each organized township in their county, by a resolution to that effect, passed at their regular meeting in June in any year by a two-thirds vote of the board, which shall be spread upon the records of the board, and the first election of township collectors in such county shall be held at the next general election after the passage of such resolution, and every year thereafter until the said resolution is repealed by the board, by a like vote, at their regular meeting in June in any year. They shall be voted for and elected in the manner of the other township officers, and in all counties in the state where such resolution is not in force, as provided in this section, then sections four hundred and one to four hundred and eleven inclusive of this chapter, shall be inoperative and of no effect.

SEC. 412. [How changed.]—Any township desirous of changing its name may petition the board of supervisors of the county in which such township is situated, and if it shall appear to said board that a majority of the actual resident voters of such township are in favor of such change, such board shall cause three notices to be posted up in three of the most public places of such township for at least thirty days previous to the next session of said board, which notice shall state the fact that a petition has been presented to said board by the citizens of said township, praying for a change of the name of the same, and the name prayed for in said petition, and that unless those interested in the change of such name shall appear at the next regular session of said board and show cause why said name shall not be changed, there will be an order made granting such change, which notice shall be attested by the auditor.

Sec. 413. If, at the time fixed for the hearing of said petition, said board is satisfied that there is a majority in favor of such change of name, said board shall make an order granting such change, which shall be attested by the auditor and recorded in the office of the recorder of the county where such township is situated.

Sec. 414. The cost of such change and recording shall be paid by the petitioners. But should it appear to said board that a majority of the citizens of such township are opposed to such change, such petition shall be dismissed and the cost of the proceeding taxed against the petitioners.

Sec. 415. [Board of health.]-The township trustees shall have power to make whatever regulations they deem necessary for the protection of the public health, and respecting nuisances, sources of filth, and causes of sickness within their respective townships: provided, that their jurisdiction shall not extend to any city or incorporated town situated therein.

Sec. 416. [Regulations published.]-Notice shall be given of all regulations made, by publishing the same in a newspaper published in the township, or, where there is no newspaper, by posting in five public places therein.

Sec. 417. [Power: how executed.]-The trustees may order the owner or occupant, at his own expense, to remove any nuisance, source of filth, or cause of sickness found on private property within such time as they deem reasonable, and if such person neglects to do so, he shall forfeit a sum of not exceeding twenty-five dollars for every day during which he knowingly permits such nuisance or cause of sickness to remain after the time prescribed for the removal thereof. The order shall be in writing, and served by any constable of the town in the usual way of serving notices in civil suits. If the owner or occupant fails to comply with such order, the trustees may cause the nuisance, source of filth, or cause of sickness to be removed, and all expenses incurred thereby shall be paid by such owner or occupant.

Sec. 418. [Use means necessary.]-The trustees shall have power to employ all such persons as shall be necessary to carry into effect the regulations adopted and published according to the powers vested in the trustees, and to fix their compensation; to employ physicians in case of poverty, and to take such general precautions and actions as they may deem necessary for the public health.

Sec. 419. [Violation: punishment.]-Any person who shall willfully violate any of the regulations so made and published by the trustees, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine or imprisonment, such fine not to exceed one hundred dollars, and such imprisonment not to exceed thirty days.

Sec. 420. [Expenses: how paid.]-All expenses, now or hereafter incurred by the trustees of a township in the exercise of the powers heretofore or herein conferred, shall be borne by the township. The trustees shall certify the amount required to pay such expenses to the board of supervisors of the county, and that board shall, at the time it levies the general taxes, and in addition thereto, levy on the property of such township a sufficient tax to pay the amount so certified by the trustees. The tax so levied shall be collected by the county treasurer with the other taxes, and be paid over to the township clerk.
An Act to provide for condemning, surveying and platting cemeteries, and authorizing all transfers of lots therein to be filed with and recorded by the township clerk. (Additional to code, chapter 9, title IV.)

SECTION 1. [Cemeteries may be platted.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That where there is located in any township one or more cemeteries, the owner or owners of the same, or any party or parties owning any interest therein, may cause the same to be surveyed, platted and laid out into subdivisions and lots, numbering the same by progressive numbers, giving the dimensions, length and breadth thereof, with reference to known or permanent monuments to be made; and which plat shall accurately describe all the subdivisions of the tract of land used, or designed to be used, as a cemetery; said plat shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder, and filed with and recorded by the township clerk and preserved by him among the records of his office.

SEC. 2. [Lots to be conveyed by deed to be recorded by township clerk.]—All conveyances of subdivisions or lots of a cemetery thus platted shall be by deed from the proper owner, which deed shall be recorded with the township clerk in a book kept by him for that purpose, for the recording of which the said clerk shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents for each instrument recorded, to be paid by the party desiring the record made.

SEC. 3. [Trustees may condemn lands.]—The township trustees are hereby empowered to condemn or purchase and pay for out of the general fund, and enter upon and take any lands within the territorial limits of such township for use of cemeteries in the same manner as is now provided for incorporated cities and towns.

SEC. 4. [Shall levy tax to pay lands condemned.]—They shall at the regular meeting in April levy a tax sufficient to pay for any such lands so condemned or purchased, or for the necessary improvement and maintenance of cemeteries thus established. They shall have power to control any such cemeteries, or appoint trustees for the same, or sell it to any private corporation for cemetery purposes.

An Act to authorize township trustees to employ attorneys in certain cases.

SECTION 1. [Trustees may employ counsel when made parties to certain suits.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That whenever litigation shall arise involving the right or duty of township trustees to certify or levy taxes which have been authorized upon expressed conditions, then in such cases, if the trustees are made parties to said litigation, they shall have authority to employ attorneys in behalf of said township, and are further authorized to levy the necessary tax to pay for said legal services, and to defray the unavoidable expenses of said litigation.

OF CITIES AND INCORPORATED TOWNS.

SECTION 421. (As amended by ch. 79, 18th g. a.) [How incorporated.]-When the inhabitants of any part of any county not embraced within the limits of any city or incorporated town shall desire to be organized into a city or incorporated town, they may apply by petition in writing, signed by not less than (twenty-five) of the qualified electors of the territory to be embraced in the proposed city or incorporated town, to the circuit court of the proper county, which petition shall describe the territory proposed to be embraced in such city or incorporated town, and shall have annexed thereto an accurate map or plat thereof and state the name proposed for such city or incorporated town, and shall be accompanied with satisfactory proofs of the number of inhabitants within the territory embraced in said limits.

SEC. 422. [Commissioners appointed: election notice.]-When such petition shall be presented, the court shall forthwith appoint five commissioners who shall at once call an election of all the qualified electors residing within the territory embraced within said limits as described and platted, to be held at some convenient place within said limits, the notice for which shall be given by publication in some newspaper published within said limits, if any there be, for three successive weeks, and by posting notices in five public places within said limits; said posting and the first publication to be not less than three weeks preceding such election. Such notice shall specify the place and time of such election, and a description of the limits of said proposed town or city, and that a description and plat thereof are on file in the office of the clerk of the circuit court.

SEC. 423. [Result of election published: papers, where filed.]-If a majority of the ballots cast at such election be in favor of such incorporation, the clerk shall, immediately on the return of the commissioners being filed in his office, give notice of the result by publication in a newspaper, or, if no newspaper be published in the county, by posting in five public places within the limits of the proposed city or town; and in such notice he shall designate to which of the classes of incorporation hereinafter prescribed such city or town shall belong. A copy of the notice, with proper proof of its publication, shall be filed with the papers, and a certified copy of all papers and record entries relating to the matter on file in the clerk's office shall be filed in the recorder's office of the county and in the office of the secretary of state.

SEC. 424. [When complete.]-When certified copies are made and filed as prescribed by the preceding section, and officers are elected and qualified for such city or town as hereinafter provided, the incorporation thereof shall be complete; whereof notice shall be taken in all judicial proceedings.

The courts of record will, under this section, when the requirements of this and the preceding section are complied with, take judicial notice in what county a given incorporated town is situated. State v. Reeder, 60 Iowa, 527, 529.

SEC. 425. [First election of officers: notice to be given.]-When the incorporation of such city or town is completed, the commissioners shall give notice for two consecutive weeks of the time and place of holding the first election of officers therefor, by publication in a newspaper, or, if none be published within the limits of such city or town, by posting in five public places within the limits of the same. At such election the qualified electors residing within the limits of such city or town shall choose officers therefor, to hold until the first annual election of officers according to its grade, as hereinafter in this chapter prescribed. The commissioners shall act as judges and clerks of the election, and otherwise it shall be conducted and the officers elected thereat shall be qualified in the manner prescribed by law for the election and qualification of township officers.

Sec. 426. [Mode of procedure.]-When the inhabitants of a part of any county adjoining any city or town shall desire to be annexed to such city or town, they may apply by petition in writing to the circuit court of the proper county, signed by not less than a majority of the electors residing within the territory proposed to be annexed; which petition shall state at whose instance it is presented, and shall be accompanied by an accurate plat or map of such territory.

It is not competent for the inhabitants of a town and territory adjoining to exempt, by the petition of incorporation, property from municipal taxation which would otherwise be subject thereto.

Bayzlett v. City of Mount Vernon, 33 Iowa, 229.

Sec. 427. Like proceedings, as nearly as applicable, shall be had on such petition as are prescribed in sections four hundred and twenty-two and four hundred and twenty-three of this chapter, provided, that notice of the election shall also be served on the mayor or other presiding officer of the town or city to which the annexation is proposed, and such election shall be held in the territory proposed to be annexed.

Sec. 428. [Proposition to be submitted to the people.]-The council or trustees of said city or town may give the consent thereof to such annexation, or they may, in their discretion, provide by ordinance or resolution for submitting to the electors at the next annual election of municipal officers the question whether such annexation shall be made; and if such consent be given, or if a majority of the electors of such city or town voting at such election shall vote in favor of annexation, then on the return of such vote to the proper authority of such city or town a resolution or ordinance shall be adopted or passed declaring that the territory described in the petition has been annexed to and is a part of such city or town; and the clerk or recorder of the said city or town shall make out two copies of the petition, plat, orders of the circuit court, abstract of votes, and resolutions or ordinances in relation to such annexation, with a certificate that the same are correct, attested by the seal of such city or town, and he shall deliver one of said copies to the recorder of the county, who shall, having first made record thereof in the proper books of record, file and preserve the same, and the other of said copies shall be forwarded by the clerk or recorder of said city or town to the secretary of state.

Sec. 429. [Annexation: when complete.]-So soon as said resolution or ordinance declaring such annexation has been adopted, and the said copies transmitted, delivered and recorded, the said territory shall be deemed and taken to be a part and parcel of the said city or town, and the clerk or recorder of the said city or town shall make out two copies of the petition, plat, orders of the circuit court, abstract of votes, and resolutions or ordinances in relation to said annexation, with a certificate that the same are correct, attested by the seal of such city or town, and he shall deliver one of said copies to the recorder of the county, who shall, having first made record thereof in the proper books of record, file and preserve the same, and the other of said copies shall be forwarded by the clerk or recorder of said city or town to the secretary of state.

Sec. 430. [Mode of annexing territory.]-When any municipal corporation shall desire to annex any contiguous territory thereto, not embraced within the limits of any city or town, it shall be lawful for the trustees or council of the corporation, by an ordinance passed for that purpose at least one month before the regular annual election, to submit the question of annexation to the qualified electors of such corporation; and if a majority of the electors of the corporation voting on the question shall vote in favor of such annexation, the council or trustees of such corporation shall present to the circuit court a petition praying for such annexation, which petition shall describe the territory proposed to be annexed to such municipal corporation, and have attached thereto an accurate map or plat thereof, and like proceedings shall be had upon said petition as are provided in sections four hundred and twenty-two and four hundred and twenty-three of this chapter, so far as the same may be applicable; and if the result of the election be favorable to the proposed annexation, the same record shall be made as provided in said sections, and thereupon the said contiguous territory proposed to be annexed shall be in law deemed and taken to be included in, and shall be a part of said municipal corporation, and the inhabitants thereof shall in all respects be citizens thereafter of the said municipal corporation.

Sec. 431.[Same.]—When any incorporated city shall desire to annex to such corporation any abutting or contiguous territory thereto, which is not embraced within the limits of any city, and which territory has been laid out in lots or parcels containing two acres or less, the council of such corporation may present to the circuit court of the county in which such city is situate, a petition setting forth the facts and describing the territory that is desired to be annexed, and that the same has been laid out as above mentioned, together with the names of each owner of any portion of such territory, without describing at length, if there is more than one such owner, the particular portion of such territory owned by each, which petition shall have attached thereto a map or plat of such territory. A notice of the filing of such petition shall be served by publication in one daily or weekly newspaper published in such city, and by posting in five public places in the territory outside of said city for the period of four weeks; and the corporation shall be plaintiff and said owners defendants, and issues joined and the cause tried in the ordinary manner as far as applicable, except that no judgment for costs shall be rendered against any defendant who does not make any defense. If the court find the allegations of the petition to be true, and that justice and equity require that said territory, or any part thereof, should be annexed to such corporation, a decree shall be entered accordingly, and from the time of entering such decree, the territory therein described shall be included in and become a part of such corporation. The powers conferred under the provisions of this section shall also apply to cities acting under special charters.

This section, with respect to its operation upon cities acting under special charters, is not controlled by section 551 of the code. Its provisions apply as well to cities organized under special charters as to those organized under the general law. City of Burlington v. Leebrick et al., 43 Iowa, 252.

Sec. 432. (As amended by ch. 3, 17th g. a.) [When corporations desire to unite with each other.]—When any city or incorporated town shall desire to be annexed to another and contiguous city or incorporated town, the council or trustees of each of such cities or towns shall appoint three commissioners to arrange and report to such council or trustees respectively the terms and conditions on which the proposed annexation can be made; and if the council or trustees of each of such cities or towns approve of the terms and conditions proposed, they shall, by proper ordinance, so declare; and thereupon the council or trustees of each of such cities or towns, by ordinance passed [and one publication had thereof at least ten days] prior to the general and annual election therein, may submit the question of such annexation, upon the said terms and conditions so proposed, to the electors of their respective cities or towns, and if a majority of the electors of each vote in favor of such annexation, the council or trustees of each shall, by proper ordinance, so declare; and a certified copy of the whole proceedings for annexation of the city or town to be annexed being filed with the clerk or recorder of the city or town to which the annexation is made, the latter shall file with the secretary of state, and in the recorder’s office of the county, a certified copy of all proceedings had by both of such cities or towns in the matter of such annexation.

Sec. 433. (As amended by ch. 3, 17th g. a.) [Proceedings of annexation.]—When certified copies of the proceedings for annexation are filed as contemplated in the preceding section, the annexation shall be deemed complete, [and the terms and conditions mentioned in section four hundred and thirty-two of the code shall be a part of the law for the government of the city or town to which annexation is made, and said city or town shall have power to pass such ordinances, not inconsistent with law, as will carry into effect and maintain the terms of such annexation; and thereafter the city or town annexed shall be governed as a part of the city or town to which annexation is made; and any citizen of the annexed city or town may institute and maintain legal proceedings to compel the city or town, and council or trustees thereof, to which annexation is made, to execute such terms and conditions; provided, that such annexation shall not affect or impair any rights or liabilities then existing for or against either of such cities or towns, and that they may be enforced the same as if no such annexation had taken place; and provided, further, that a city or town separated from another city or town by an intervening city or town or territory, may be annexed to such city or town in the manner herein provided, but such annexation shall not be consummated and completed until such intervening city, town or territory is also annexed. Any proceedings which may have been commenced under said sections as amended under the provisions of this act prior to the taking effect of this act for the annexation of a city or town, are hereby declared valid and legal, and such proceedings may be completed in accordance with said section and the provisions of this act.

RELATING TO THE EXTENSION OF CITY LIMITS.

An Act empowering cities to extend their corporate limits. [Additional to the code, chapter 10, title IV.]

Section 1. (As amended by ch. 169, 17th g. a.) [Additional mode of extending limits.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in addition to the methods now provided by law, any city or incorporated town in this state may have its limits enlarged in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

Sec. 2. The council may fix the boundaries of the city or incorporated town as enlarged to the proposed extent, which boundaries shall, as far as practicable, be terminated by straight lines drawn parallel to the corresponding lines of the government survey.

Sec. 3. [Extension to be submitted to vote.]—The question of making such extension must then be submitted to a vote of all the qualified electors inhabiting the whole city or town as thus proposed to be enlarged. A day must be fixed for such election by resolution of the council of the city or town whose limits are proposed to be enlarged, and notice thereof must be given by proclamation of the mayor of said city or town of the time of holding such election, and setting forth the exact question to be presented to the electors for determination; which proclamation shall be published for four weeks consecutively prior to said election in some newspaper published in said city or town, which notice shall be deemed sufficient notice of said election and its purposes to all the inhabitants of the city or town as proposed to be enlarged; and if at such election the number of legal votes cast for such extension shall exceed those cast against it, the mayor shall issue his proclamation announcing that fact, and from henceforth the limits of said city or town shall be enlarged as proposed.

Sec. 4. (As amended by ch. 169, 17th g. a., and ch. 158, laws 20th g. a.) [Certain lands within limits not taxable except for road tax.]—No lands included within said extended limits which shall not have been laid off into lots of ten acres or less, or which shall not subsequently be divided into parcels of ten acres or less, by the extension of streets or alleys, and which shall also in good faith be occupied and used for agricultural or horticultural purposes, shall be tax-ABLE FOR ANY CITY OR TOWN PURPOSE, EXCEPT THAT THEY MAY BE SUBJECTED TO A ROAD TAX TO THE SAME EXTENT AS THOUGH THEY WERE OUTSIDE OF THE CITY OR TOWN LIMITS, WHICH SAID TAX SHALL BE PAID INTO THE CITY TREASURY. (THE PROVISIONS OF THIS CHAPTER SHALL APPLY TO CITIES ORGANIZED AND ACTING UNDER SPECIAL CHARTERS.)

THIS CHAPTER AS AMENDED BY CHAPTER 158 OF THE LAWS OF 1884, HELD TO CONFER UPON CITIES ACTING UNDER SPECIAL CHARTERS THE POWER TO EXTEND THEIR BOUNDARIES, AS THEREIN PROVIDED, BY INCLUDING TERRITORY NOT Laid OFF INTO LOTS OF TWO ACRES OR LESS, AS COMTEMPLATED BY SECTION 451 OF THE CODE. GLASS ET AL. V. CITY OF CEDAR RAPIDS, 65 IOWA, 297.

ALTHOUGH A TRACT OF LAND OF 13.42 ACRES, USED FOR AGRICULTURAL PURPOSES, WAS ANNEXED TO THE CITY OF BURLINGTON, AT A TIME WHEN CHAPTER 47, LAWS OF 1876, DID NOT EXEMPT AGRICULTURAL TRACTS OF LESS THAN TWENTY ACRES FROM TAXATION FOR CITY PURPOSES, HELD THAT CHAPTER 169, LAWS OF 1878, AMENDING SAID CHAPTER 47, EXEMPTING ALL SUCH TRACTS OF MORE THAN TEN ACRES, APPLIED TO LAND ALREADY INCLUDED WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS, AND THAT THEREAFTER SAID TRACT WAS EXEMPT FROM TAXATION BY THE CITY. WINZER V. CITY OF BURLINGTON, 68 IOWA, 279.

RE-SURVEY OF TOWN PLATS.

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE RE-SURVEY AND PLATING OF CITY OR TOWN PLATS, OR ADDITIONS THERETO, IN CASES WHERE THE ORIGINAL PLATS HAVE BEEN LOST AND NOT ACKNOWLEDGED OR RECORDED.

SECTION 1. [WHERE TOWN PLAT IS LOST A RE-SURVEY MAY BE MADE.] BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA: THAT IN ALL CASES WHERE THE ORIGINAL TOWN PLAT OF ANY CITY, TOWN OR VILLAGE OF THIS STATE, OR ANY OF THE ADDITIONS TO ANY SUCH CITY, TOWN OR VILLAGE, SHALL HAVE BEEN LOST, MISLAIRED OR DESTROYED, BY THE SALE AND CONVEYANCE OF ANY SUBDIVISION, BLOCK OR LOT THEREOF, BY THE ORIGINAL OWNER OR PROPRIETOR, TO ANY PERSON OR PERSONS, BEFORE THE SAME SHALL HAVE BEEN RECORDED, IT SHALL BE LAWFUL FOR ANY THREE PERSONS INTERESTED IN SUCH CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE OR ADDITION THERETO, TO HAVE SUCH ORIGINAL TOWN, CITY, VILLAGE OR ADDITION TO SUCH CITY, TOWN OR VILLAGE, RE-SURVEYED AND RE-PLATED, AND SUCH PLAT MADE A MATTER OF RECORD, AS HEREINAFTER SET FORTH; PROVIDED, THAT IN NO CASE SHALL SUCH RE-PLAT BE MADE A MATTER OF RECORD WITHOUT THE CONSENT IN WRITING INDORSED THEREON, OF THE ORIGINAL OWNER OR PROPRIETOR OF SUCH CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE OR ADDITION THERETO, IF HE BE ALIVE AND HIS RESIDENCE KNOWN TO THOSE WHO DESIRE SUCH RE-PLAT RECORDED.

SEC. 2. [DUTY OF COUNTY SURVEYOR.]—THE COUNTY SURVEYOR OF ANY COUNTY OF THIS STATE IN WHICH IS SITuate ANY SUCH CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ADDITION THERETO, AS CONTEMPLATED IN SECTION ONE OF THIS ACT, IS HEREBY AUTHORIZED, EMPOWERED, AND UPON PAYMENT TO HIM OF HIS LEGAL FEES BY THE PERSON INTERESTED, REQUIRED TO RE-SURVEY ANY SUCH CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ADDITION THERETO, AND SHALL MAKE OUT A PLAT OF SUCH CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ADDITION SO RE-SURVEYED, WHICH PLAT SHALL IN ALL RESPECTS, AS NEAR AS POSSIBLE, CONFORM TO THE ORIGINAL LINES OF SAID CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ANY ADDITION THERETO THAT MAY BE RE-SURVEYED, AND IT SHALL IN ALL RESPECTS BE MADE OUT AS REQUIRED BY SECTION 559 OF THE CODE. AND IN ORDER TO THE PERFECT COMPLETION OF SUCH RE-SURVEY AND PLAT, THE SAID SURVEYOR IS EMPOWERED AND AUTHORIZED TO SUBPOENA WITNESSES, ADMINISTER OATHS, AND TO TAKE EVIDENCE TOUCHING SAID ORIGINAL PLAT, LINES, SUBDIVISIONS OF SAID CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ADDITION THERETO SOUGHT TO BE SURVEYED AND RE-PLATTED; ALSO AS TO WHETHER THE ORIGINAL PROPRIETOR BE DEAD OR LIVING, AND TOUCHING ALL THINGS NECESSARY TO ENABLE HIM TO ACCURATELY ESTABLISH THE LINES AND BOUNDARIES OF SAID CITY, TOWN, VILLAGE, OR ADDITION THERETO, AND THE VARIOUS SUBDIVISIONS THEREOF; PROVIDED, THAT IN ALL CASES, BEFORE ANY SUCH RE-SURVEY SHALL BE MADE, THE COUNTY SURVEYOR OF THE PROPER COUNTY SHALL GIVE FOUR WEEKS' NOTICE IN SOME NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY, IF THERE BE ANY, OF SUCH CONTEMPLATED re-survey, and, in case there is no such paper published in the county, then by posting up four written notices in four of the most public places in the county, one of which shall be in said district proposed to be re-surveyed.

Sec. 3. [County surveyor to re-plat; certify to plat.]—When the surveyor shall have completed said plat, as hereinbefore contemplated, he shall attach his certificate thereto, to the effect that said plat is a just, true and accurate plat of said city, town, village, or addition so surveyed by him; and the said plat and certificate thereto shall be filed for record in the office of the recorder of deeds for the proper county, and from the date of such filing it shall be regarded and treated in all courts of law and equity in this state, as though the same had been made by the original owners or proprietors of said land so re-surveyed and re-platted; provided, that any person or persons deeming themselves aggrieved by said re-survey or re-platting may at any time, within six months from the date of filing said plat for record, commence action by bill in chancery in the circuit or district court against the person employing the surveyor as aforesaid and setting up their causes of complaint, and asking that said record be canceled.

Sec. 4. [Trial of cause.]—If it shall appear on the trial of said cause that said city, town, village, or addition thereto was originally laid out and platted, that the original owner or proprietor had sold any and all the lots in such city, town, village, or addition, or that he intended to dedicate to the public streets, alleys or public squares of such city, town, village or addition, that the plat thereof has never been recorded, but was lost or mislaid, that the owner or proprietor is dead, or his residence unknown, and that the re-survey and re-plat so filed for record is a substantially accurate survey and plat of the original plat of such city, town, village, or addition thereto, then said bill shall be dismissed at the costs of the complainants; otherwise the court shall set aside said re-plat and cancel the same of record at the costs of defendants.

Sec. 434. [Corporations may abandon and adopt this chapter.]—Any city or town incorporated by special charter, or in any other manner than that provided by this chapter, may abandon its charter and organize itself under the provisions of this chapter with the same territorial limits by pursuing the course hereinafter prescribed.

The general provisions of the law for the incorporation of cities and towns do not apply to cities incorporated under special charters. Deborah v. Bullit, 25 Iowa, 12.

Sec. 435. [Petition to be presented; election ordered.]—Upon the petition of fifty legal voters in any city or town to the council or trustees thereof, praying that the question of abandoning its charter be submitted to the legal voters, the council or trustees shall immediately direct a special election to be held, at which the question shall be decided, specifying at the same time, the time and place of holding the same, and appointing the judges and clerks of the election.

Sec. 436. [Proclamation; notice of election given.]—The mayor, or in case there is no mayor, the president of the council or board of trustees, shall at once issue a proclamation giving notice of such election, of the question submitted to the electors, and of the time and place of holding the election; which proclamation shall be published for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in such city or town; and if there is none published therein, then such proclamation shall be published by posting a copy thereof in five public places within the corporate limits of such city or town, one of which shall be on the door of the mayor's office.

Sec. 437. [Manner of voting.]—At such election, those who desire to vote in favor of the abandonment of the charter shall deposit a ballot with the words "in favor of abandonment;" those desiring to vote against the abandonment shall deposit a ballot with the words "against abandonment." The election shall be conducted in other respects as elections for city officers are conducted under the charter. The abstract of votes shall be returned to the city council or board of trustees, who shall canvass the same and declare the result, which shall be entered on the journal.

Sec. 438. (As amended by ch. 164, 19th g. a.) [Special charter abandoned.]
—If a majority of the votes cast at such election be in favor of the abandonment of the charter, the council or trustees shall immediately call a special election for the election of officers for such corporation according to its class as defined by this chapter; and from and after the election and qualification of such officers, the former charter of such city or town shall be considered as abandoned, and such city or town shall be considered as organized, and shall have all the rights and be subject to all the liabilities of the class to which it belongs, but the officers so elected shall hold their offices only until the next annual municipal election in such city or town. (Except in cities of the first class, where such special election is or shall have been held on the first Monday of March of an even year, when they shall hold their offices for the term of two years thereafter. All ordinances of such city or town in force at the time of the abandonment of such special charter, not inconsistent or in conflict with the general incorporation laws of the state, shall be and remain in force until otherwise altered, amended or repealed by the council or trustees of such new organization.) If a majority of the votes be against abandonment, that question cannot be again submitted until after the expiration of one year from the time of such election.

Sec. 439. [Vested rights not affected.]
—All rights and property of every description which were vested in any municipal corporation under its former organization, shall be deemed and held to be vested in the same municipal corporation under the organization herein contemplated; and no right or liability, either in favor of or against such corporation existing at the time, and no suit or prosecution of any kind shall be affected by such change; provided, that when a different remedy is given by this chapter which can properly be made applicable to any right existing at the time such change is made, the same shall be deemed cumulative to the remedies before provided, and may be used accordingly.

Where a city organized under a special charter abandoned its organization and reorganized under the general law, the special charter remains in full force for a time after the election, and the officers under such charter continue also. The special charter laps over and covers a portion of the time which is covered by the term for which the new officers are elected, to-wit: that time between the election and the qualification of the officers elected. Cox v. City of Burlington, 43 Iowa, 612.

Where in such case the city marshal under the old organization was elected under the new, and continued without interruption to discharge the duties of the office, held, that it was not competent for the city council, after the re-incorporation, to diminish the salary of the officer for the term for which he was first elected. Id.

Sec. 440. [Application: how made.]
—When the inhabitants of a part of any town or city shall desire to have the part of the territory of such city or town in which they reside severed from, or stricken out of the limits of such city or town, they may apply by petition in writing, signed by a majority of the resident property holders of that part of the territory of such city or town, to the circuit court of the county, which petition shall describe the territory proposed to be thus severed or stricken out of the limits of such city or town, and have attached thereto an accurate map or plat thereof, and shall also name the person or persons authorized to act in behalf of the petitioners in the prosecution of said petition.

Territory within the limits of a city should not be severed therefrom in a proceeding under sections 440, et seq., on the ground that it receives no benefits from the municipal improvements, and is not needed for present municipal purposes; if it is manifest, from the facts in the case, that it will soon be required for such purposes in the extension and growth of the city in that direction. Mosier v. City of Des Moines, 31 Iowa, 174. See McKean v. Mount Vernon, 51 Id., 306.

Sec. 441. Notice of the filing of the same shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in said city or town, or by posting a notice of the same in five public places in said city or town for four weeks previous to the succeeding term.
of said court, which notice shall contain the substance of said petition and state the term of court at which the hearing thereof will be had.

Sec. 442. The hearing of such petition may be had by the court, or either party may demand a jury, and the proper authorities of such city or town, or any person interested in the subject matter of said petition, may appear and contest the granting of the same; and affidavits in support of or against said petition may be prepared and submitted, and may be examined by the court or jury, and the court may, in its discretion, permit the agent or agents named in the petition to amend or change the same, except that no amendment shall be permitted whereby the territory embraced in said petition shall be increased or diminished without continuing the case to the next term, and requiring new notice to be given as above provided.

Sec. 443. If the court or jury, after hearing the petition and evidence, shall be satisfied that said petition has been signed by a majority of the property holders residing within the limits of the part of the city or town described in the petition and plat, and that the limits have been accurately described and a correct map or plat thereof made and filed, and if the court or jury shall be further satisfied that the prayer of the petitioners should be granted, the court shall appoint three disinterested persons commissioners to adjust the terms upon which such part shall be so stricken out as to any liabilities of such city or town that have accrued during the connection of such part with such corporation.

Sec. 444. [Commissioners to take an oath: hear parties.]—The commissioners so appointed shall take and subscribe an oath that they will impartially perform their duties as such, and shall, at a time by them fixed, hear the agent named in the said petition and also the proper authorities of the city or town in regard to the subject matter to them submitted, and report to the next succeeding term of said court their doings and judgment in the premises, and upon the filing of said report the court shall decree in accordance therewith and with the prayer of said petition; provided, that for good and sufficient cause, and upon a proper showing, the court may reject or set aside said report, and appoint new commissioners, and continue the cause for further action to be had thereon.

Sec. 445. [Transcript filed.]—The clerk shall forthwith file a certified transcript of such decree, together with the petition and map, in the office of the recorder of the county and in the office of the secretary of state.

Sec. 446. [When complete: costs.]—When such certified transcripts are filed, the severance shall be deemed complete. The costs shall be paid by the petitioners, but each party shall pay their own witness fees.

Where a small village became incorporated, and included territory two miles long and one mile wide, and a rival village afterwards sprang up in another portion of the territory so included, and the interests of the villagers, whose centers were about a mile apart, were antagonistic, and the land lying between them was not platted or used for town purposes, held that a petition by the people of the new village, under sections 440, 446 of the code, for a severance of their territory from the corporation, was properly granted. Ashley et al. v. The Town of Cathope, 71 Iowa, 466.

Sec. 447. Whenever one-fourth of the legal voters of any city or incorporated town in this state shall petition the circuit court of the county wherein such corporation is situated for the discontinuance of the same, the said court shall cause to be published for at least thirty days, a notice stating that the question of discontinuing such corporation will be submitted to the legal voters of the same at the next annual corporation election.

Sec. 448. The form of the ballot shall be, "For the incorporation," and "Against the incorporation."

Sec. 449. If a two-thirds majority of all the legal votes cast for and against such proposition shall be cast "against the incorporation," then the same may be discontinued. The vote provided for in this and the two preceding sections shall not be construed to discontinue any corporation until the said corporation shall have made ample provisions for the payment of all its indebtedness, and for the faithful performance of all its contracts and obligations, and shall have levied the requisite tax therefor.

SEC. 450. [Canvass: limitation.]-The vote for this purpose shall be taken, canvassed and returned in the same manner as other municipal elections, and all expenses of the same paid by the corporation so voting. No more than one such election shall be held in the same year.

SEC. 451. The books, documents, records, papers, and corporate seal of any city or town so discontinued shall be deposited with the county auditor of the county for safe keeping and reference in future; and all court records of any mayor or other officer shall be deposited with the nearest justice of the township, who shall have authority to execute and complete all unfinished business standing on the same.

SEC. 452. [Auditor to publish fact.]-Whenever the incorporation of any city or town shall have been discontinued under the provisions of the four preceding sections, the auditor of the county wherein such corporation was situated shall publish such fact for thirty days in a county paper, if one is published in the county; if not, shall post three notices for the same length of time, and also to certify the fact to the secretary of state.

SEC. 453. [Warrants to issue: tax collected.]-For the payment of its indebtedness, the corporation shall issue warrants in cases where there is no money in the treasury, and the county treasurer shall collect the tax which shall be levied to pay such indebtedness as hereinbefore contemplated and prescribed as he collects other taxes, and pay the said warrants; and any surplus of this fund shall be passed over to the temporary school fund of the district where the same was levied.

SEC. 454. [Powers enumerated.]-Cities and towns organized as provided in this chapter shall be bodies politic and corporate under such name and style as they may select at the time of their organization, and may sue or be sued; contract or be contracted with; acquire and hold property, real and personal; have a common seal, which they may change and alter at pleasure, and have such other privileges as are incident to municipal corporations of like character or degree not inconsistent with the laws of the state.

SEC. 455. [General powers.]-All municipal corporations organized under this chapter shall have the general powers and privileges, and be subject to the rules and restrictions granted and prescribed in the succeeding section.

SEC. 456. [Prevent nuisances: riots: gaming houses: establish markets.]-They shall have power to prevent injury or annoyance from anything dangerous, offensive, or unhealthy, and to cause any nuisance to be abated; to regulate the transportation and keeping of gunpowder and other combustibles, and to provide and license magazines for the same; to prevent and punish fast or immoderate riding or driving of horses through the streets; to regulate the speed of trains and locomotives on railways running over the streets or through the limits of the city or incorporated town by ordinance, and enforce the same by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars; to establish and regulate markets; to provide for the measuring or weighing of hay, coal, or any other article of sale; to prevent any riots, noise, disturbance, or disorderly assemblages; to suppress and restrain disorderly houses, houses of ill-fame, billiard tables, nine or ten-pin alleys, or tables and ball alleys, and to authorize the destruction of all instruments and devices used for purposes of gaming, and to protect the property of the corporation and its inhabitants and to preserve peace and order therein.

A city is not liable for the negligence of its officers or agents in exercising sanitary regulations, adopted for the purpose of preventing the spread of a contagious disease, or in taking the care and custody of persons afflicted with such disease, or the houses in which such persons are kept. In executing these legislative functions the city acts as a quasi sovereignty, and is not responsible to individuals for the negligence or non-feasance of its officers or agents. Ogg v. The City of Lansing, 35 Iowa, 435.

In the exercise of the power granted in this section to cities “to suppress and restrain * * * billiard tables * * *” it is competent for municipal governments to license the same, under proper conditions. The City of Burlington v. Lawrence, 42 Id., 631.

Under this section incorporated cities and towns have power to abate nuisances, but in the exercise of this power they have no authority to provide by ordinance for the punishment by fine of persons guilty of creating a nuisance. Incorporated Town of Nevada v. Hutchins, 59 Id., 506.

Under the power conferred by this section to repress and restrain disorderly houses, a city has authority by audience to make it an offense to visit such houses. The State, ex rel., v. Botkin, 71 Id., 86.

Under this section cities and towns have power to abate nuisances; but the nuisance must be such in fact, and must in fact exist; and if the thing abated be not a nuisance, the declaration of the city council that it is does not make it so, and is not conclusive upon the owner of the property interfered with, and he may test the action of the council by certiorari or he may have the question determined in an action against the city and its officers for damages. Cole v. Keigler et al., 84 Id., 59.

The provision of this section giving cities the power to “establish and regulate markets” does not empower them to pass an ordinance forbidding the peddling of meats; and an information charging a violation of such an ordinance, is bad on demurrer. City of Burlington v. Dankwardt, 84 N. W. R., 891.

The power to suppress and restrain disorderly houses, etc., conferred upon cities by this section, does not authorize the passage of an ordinance declaring the keeping of such a misdemeanor, and imposing a punishment by fine and imprisonment for the offense. The City of Chariton v. Barber, 54 Iowa, 360.

It is competent for a municipal corporation, under the authority conferred by this section and section 482, to provide by ordinance for the arrest and punishment of persons found in a state of intoxication. Town of Bloomfield v. Trimble, 1 Id., 390.

An ordinance of a city which declares the keeping of a house, where loud and unusual noises are permitted, to be a nuisance, and provides for the punishment of any person convicted thereof, is valid under this section. It does not define an offense punishable by the state statutes. The City of Centerville v. Miller, 57 Id., 56.

Under this section, a town has the power to erect scales, appoint a weighmaster and regulate their use by reasonable ordinances. Davis v. Town of Anita, 35 N. W. R., 244.

Under this section incorporated cities and towns have power to abate nuisances, but in the exercise of this power they have no authority to provide by ordinance for the punishment by fine of persons guilty of creating a nuisance. Incorporated Town of Nevada v. Hutchins, 59 Iowa, 506.

Cities and towns have the power to abate nuisances, but the nuisance must in fact exist; and if the thing abated be not a nuisance, the declaration of the city council that it is does not make it so, and is not conclusive upon the owner of the property interfered with; but he may either test the validity of the action of the council by certiorari or he may have a determination of the same question in an action against the city and its officers for damages sustained. Cole v. Keigler et al., 84 Id., 59; citing Clark v. Mayor, 13 Barb., 32; Welch v. Stewell, 2 Doug., (Mich.) 332; Underwood v. Green, 42 N. J., 140; Yates v. Milwaukee, 10 Wall., 497; Haskell v. New Bedford, 163 Mass., 589; Winfield v. The People, 14 Mich., 41; Everett v. Council Bluffs, 46 Iowa, 90; City of Salem v. Eastern Ry. Co., 98 Mass., 431.

A city or town council has power under this section to cause any nuisance to be abated, and a person who has erected a hay scales upon the street without leave of the council cannot enjoin the marshal from removing the same therefrom on the order of the city council. Emerson v. Babcock, 59 Iowa, 257.

SEC. 457. [Regulations against fires.]—They shall have power to make regulations against danger from accidents by fire, to establish fire districts, and, on petition of the owners of two-thirds of the ground included in any square or block, to prohibit the erection thereon of any building or addition to any building, unless the outer walls thereof be made of brick and mortar or of iron and stone and mortar, and to provide for the removal of any buildings or additions erected contrary to such prohibitions.

The destruction of private property to prevent the spread of a conflagration is not a taking of private property for public use, entitling the owner to compensation therefor. Field v. The City of Des Moines, 39 Iowa, 575.

That the officers of a municipal corporation are authorized by ordinance to direct the destruction of private buildings and other property to prevent the spread of fire, does not make the corporation liable to the owners of the property thus destroyed, in the absence of an express statute or provision in the charter creating such liability. Id.
A municipal corporation is not liable for the acts of its officers done under an ordinance which it had no power to pass. Id.

Where a power granted to a municipal corporation is directed to be exercised through certain means or in a particular manner, there is implied an inhibition upon doing it through other means or in a different manner. Accordingly, a city cannot prohibit the erection of wooden buildings within certain limits, except on petition of the owners of two-thirds of the grounds included in any square or block, as provided in this section of the code. The City of Des Moines v. Gilchrist et al., 67 Id., 210.

Sec. 458. [Burial of the dead.]—They shall have power to regulate the burial of the dead, to provide without the limits of the corporation places for the interment of the dead, to prevent any subinterments within such limits, and to cause any body interred contrary to such prohibition to be taken up and buried without the limits of the corporation.

Sec. 459. [Animals running at large.]-They shall have power to restrain and regulate the running at large of cattle, horses, swine, sheep, and other animals within the limits of the corporation, and to authorize the distraining, impounding, and sale of the same for the penalty incurred and costs of the proceeding, to prevent the running at large of dogs and injuries therefrom, and to authorize the destruction of the same when at large contrary to any prohibition to that effect.

The power to regulate does not include the power to license. City of Burlington v. Bumgardner, 42 Iowa, 673.

An ordinance of a municipal corporation can have no extra-territorial force, but persons and property coming within the territorial limits of the corporation come under its authority. Gossling v. Campbell, 4 Iowa, 296.

Sec. 460. [Theatrical exhibitions.]—They shall have power to regulate or prohibit all theatrical exhibitions of whatever name or nature, for which money or any other reward is in any manner demanded or received; but lectures on scientific, historical or literary subjects shall not come within the provisions of this section.

Sec. 461. [Public library established.]—The establishment and maintenance of a free public library is hereby declared to be a proper and legitimate object of municipal expenditure; and the council or trustees of any city or incorporated town may appropriate money for the formation and maintenance of such a library, open to the free use of all its inhabitants under proper regulations, and for the purchase of land and erection of buildings, or for the hiring of buildings or rooms suitable for that purpose, and for the compensation of the necessary employes; provided, that the amount appropriated in any one year for the maintenance of such a library shall not exceed one mill upon the dollar of the assessed valuation of such city or town. Any such city or incorporated town may receive, hold, or dispose of any and all gifts, donations, devises, and bequests that may be made to such city or incorporated town for the purpose of establishing, increasing, or improving any such public library; and the city or town council thereof may apply the use, profits, proceeds, interests, and rents accruing therefrom in such manner as will best promote the prosperity and utility of such library. Every city or incorporated town in which such a public library shall be maintained shall be entitled to receive a copy of the laws, journals, and all other works published by authority of the state after the establishment of such library, for the use of such library, and the secretary of state is hereby authorized and required to furnish the same from year to year to such city or incorporated town. But no appropriation of money can be made under this section, unless the proposition is submitted to a vote of the people; and at the municipal election of such city or town, the question, “Shall the city (or town council, as the case may be) accept the benefits of the provisions of this section?”

Sec. 462. [Auctioneers and transient merchants.]—They shall have power to regulate and license sales by auctioneers and transient merchants within their corporate limits, provided, that the exercise of the power shall not interfere with sales made by sheriffs, constables, coroners, marshals, executors, guardians, assignees of insolvent debtors or bankrupts, or any other person required by law to sell real or personal property.

A city of the second class has no power under the general law, nor under chapter 97, laws of the ninth general assembly (from which this section is taken), to pass an ordinance requiring a resident merchant engaged in the ordinary business of selling goods at retail, to pay a certain per cent on the amount arising from the sale of a portion of his merchandise which he employs an auctioneer to sell. The section applies only to auctioneers and transient merchants. City of Oskaloosa v.陆ie & Faxon, 25 Iowa, 440.

Sec. 463. (As amended by ch. 136, 19th g. a.) (They shall have power to regulate, license or prohibit the sale of horses or other domestic animals at auction in the streets, alleys or public places; to regulate, license or tax all carts, wagons, drays, coaches, hacks, omnibuses and every description of conveyance kept for hire; to regulate, license and tax taverns, restaurants, eating-houses; to regulate, license, tax or prohibit beer and wine saloons; (but no license issued therefor shall extend beyond the first day of May following the grant thereof); to regulate, license and tax billiard saloons, pool tables, and all other tables kept for hire; ten-pin or other ball alleys, shooting galleries or places; to regulate and license pawnbrokers and peddlers; to regulate, license or prohibit circuses, menageries, theatres, shows, and exhibitions of all kinds, except such as may be exempted by the general laws of the state; and to regulate or prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors, not prohibited by the laws of the state).

The power to regulate does not include the power to license. City of Burlington v. Bumgardner, 42 Iowa, 673.

The power to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors, conferred upon cities having special charters by section 2, of chapter 154, laws of 1868, includes the power to license such sale. The City of Keokuk v. Dressell, 47 Id., 597. This statute held not unconstitutional in The State v. King, 37 Id., 462.

A city incorporated under the general law of the state has no authority to pass an ordinance authorizing the forfeiture or destruction of liquors kept for sale in violation of an ordinance of such city. Henke v. McCord et al., 55 Id., 378.

Under authority to license, taxes cannot be imposed, and the power to tax does not confer the authority to license, the objects to be obtained in the exercise of these powers not being the same. The City of Burlington v. Bumgardner, 42 Id., 673; Same v. Putnam Ins. Co., 31 Id., 102; The State v. Herod, 29 Id., 123; The State, for the use, etc., v. Smith, 31 Id., 493.

A city or town organized under the general incorporation law has no power to enact provisions in an ordinance intended to regulate the sale of wine and beer, making it a condition of the granting of a license therefor that the person to whom it is granted shall not sell liquors the sale of which is prohibited by the laws of the state, nor suffer or permit gambling on the premises occupied by him, and imposing penalties for the violation of such conditions, to be collected by action on the bond of the licensee. An ordinance so providing is void, and no action can be maintained on the bond to recover penalties. The Town of New Hamilton v. Conroy et al., 56 Id., 495.

Chapter 119, laws of 1878, prohibiting the sale of malt or vinous liquors within two miles of the corporate limits of any municipal corporation, and authorizing such corporations to "regulate, license, tax, or prohibit" the same is not unconstitutional. The State v. Shroeder, 51 Id., 197.

Under this section, cities and towns have power to provide by ordinance for licensing peddlers; but if an ordinance passed for that purpose is such that a court, upon a mere examination of its terms, must declare it unreasonable, it is void. In this case it was held that an ordinance requiring a peddler to pay as a license, "not less than one nor more than twenty-five dollars for a fixed time, in the discretion of the mayor," was void for unreasonableness. State Center v. Barenstien, 66 Id., 249.

GRANTING POWERS TO CITIES UNDER SPECIAL CHARTERS.

An Act to grant additional authority to cities organized under special charters and to make certain provisions of law applicable thereto.

Section 1. [Provisions of code made applicable.] Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That sections 454 to 463 inclusive, and section 3720 of the code of Iowa, 1873, and all the provisions of chapter 89 of the nineteenth general assembly are hereby made applicable to the cities acting under special charters, the same as if such cities were therein specially enumrated.

SEC. 2. That nothing in section one of this act shall be construed or considered as repealing any law now in existence granting authority to any cities incorporated under special charters, but wherever authority on any of the subjects mentioned in foregoing laws is now in existence the provisions of said section shall be deemed merely cumulative thereto.

SEC. 3. All cities organized under special charters are hereby authorized to provide by ordinance for the election of mayor and city marshal, for such terms as the city council may deem expedient. Provided, that no such term of office shall exceed two years.

SEC. 4. That cities organized under special charters are hereby authorized to prohibit, or regulate, the piling or depositing of any kind of wood, lumber or timber upon any lot or property within the city limits within a distance of one hundred yards of any dwelling house.

SEC. 5. Cities organized under special charters are hereby authorized to provide by ordinance for the repair of any building which is dangerous, or which may be liable to fall, and to levy and collect a special tax against the property and owner thereof for the expense thereof as other special taxes are levied and collected.

Approved April, 1886.

SEC. 494. (As amended by ch. 6, 15th g. a.) [Streets, alleys, public grounds and railways.]—They shall have power to lay off, open, widen, straighten, narrow, vacate, extend, establish and light streets, alleys, public grounds, wharves, landing, and market places; and to provide for the condemnation of such real estate as may be necessary for such purposes. They shall also have the power to authorize or forbid the location or laying down of tracks for railways and street railways on all streets, alleys and public places; but no railway track can thus be located and laid down until after the injury to the property abutting upon the street, alley or public places upon which such railway track is proposed to be located and laid down has been ascertained and compensated in the manner provided for (taking private property for works of internal improvement, in chapter four of title X of the code of 1873.)

Prior to the code of 1873, railroad companies had the right to construct their roads, subject to equitable control, upon the streets of cities and incorporated towns, without their consent and without making compensation therefor. The City of Clinton v. The Cedar Rapids & M. R. R'y Co., 24 Iowa, 455; The C., N. & S. W. R. Co. v. The M. & T. of Newton, 36 Id., 293; Ingram, Ken-

This section confers upon municipal corporations power to vacate streets and alleys. Marshalltown v. Forney, 61 Id., 583.

Where under a right granted by a city ordinance, the defendant had, prior to the taking effect of this section, surveyed, staked out and located its railroad along the city street, but did not lay down its track until after the taking effect of this section, it was held that it was properly restrained from operating its road along the street until it should compensate the plaintiff, whose dwelling was situated thereon, for his damages as provided in this section. Following Mulhalland

The exercise of the power conferred upon cities and towns, by this section, to establish streets, will not be reviewed by the courts upon the ground that it is in conflict with the public interest, the decision of the city or town authorities upon that question being conclusive. Cherokee v. The

For a discussion of the power of a city council to vacate streets in a city organized under a special charter, but even afterwards incorporated under the general incorporation law of the state, see Stubenrauch v. Neuenesch et al., 54 Id., 567.

The compensation provided for by this section, as amended by chapter 6 of the laws of the fiftteenth general assembly, cannot be limited to damages for change of grade, but includes all legitimate damages, and where the occupancy of the street is unlawful, a person, who is injured thereby, may maintain an action for the trespass before the permanent damages are assessed.
This section is in terms applicable to all railway tracks which may be constructed in the streets of a city after its passage. Id., 404.

The provisions of this section, with reference to the rights of a railroad company over the streets of cities and incorporated towns, do not apply to actions commenced prior to the time when it took effect. Ingram, Kennedy & Day v. The C., D. & M. Ry Co., 38 id., 669.

The power conferred by this section upon cities acting under the general incorporation law, to authorize or forbid the laying of street railway tracks on the streets is, by chapter 96, laws of 1880, extended to and applicable to cities acting under special charters, and such cities have no power to authorize a railroad company to use the streets for railway purposes, without compensation to the owners of lots abutting upon the streets to be used. Slange et al. v. The City of Dubuque, 62 id., 303.

Under this section not all of the owners of lots abutting upon a street on which a railroad is laid, may recover damages, but only those owning lots on that portion of the street which is so used, and owners of lots abutting upon a street crossed only by a railroad, are, consequently, not entitled to damages under the statute. Morgan v. Des Moines & St. Louis Ry Co., 64 id., 589.

This section makes a distinction between railways proper and street railways—the former being such as are operated by steam, and the latter those operated by horses, and under this section it is only where a railroad operated by steam is built along a street that an abutting lot-owner is entitled to damages. Such right does not arise upon the construction of a railway operated by horses. Sears v. The Marshalltown Street R'y Co., 65 id., 742.

Parol testimony that a street has been abandoned is not admissible to prove that it has been vacated, for that is properly matter of record under this section. Lathrop v. The Central Iowa R'y Co., 69 id., 105.

Defendant's railway was built on its own ground along one side of a street in a city, and the road-bed, but not the ties or rails, encroached a little upon the street, but not so as to cause any actual damage to plaintiff's property situated on the opposite side of the street. Held that such encroachment did not entitle him to recover for damages to his property on account of the building and operation of the road in such close proximity thereto on the company's own land. Rinard v. The Burlington & Western R'y Co., 66 id., 440.

Where the bed of defendant's railway was partly on plaintiff's land, and partly on the city street adjacent to the land, plaintiff was entitled, in the proceeding to assess damages, to be compensated, not only for the appropriation of the portion of his land taken for the right of way, but also for the injury he would sustain on account of laying down of the railroad track in the street on which his property abutted. McLean v. The C. I. & D. Ry Co., 67 id., 563.

Where a railway company, prior to the enactment of section 464 of the code, commenced the use of the street for its tracks, it did so free from any claim for damages by abutting lot-owners, but where, since such enactment, the company built another track on the same street, under authority from the city, without making compensation to lot-owners, the occupancy of such second track is a trespass upon which the owner or his grantee may recover damages. The Mer. U. B. Wire Co. v. The C., B. & Q. R. R. Co., 70 id., 105.

The damages contemplated by this section to which abutting lot-owners are entitled by the construction of a railroad being full and permanent, there can be but one recovery, and that only in favor of the abutter who owned the property when the road was built, or the assignee of his claim. A purchaser from such abutter, under a warranty deed, who bought after the road was put in operation, cannot recover. Pratt et al. v. Des Moines N. W. R'y Co., 72 Id., 249.

Where the damages to which the abutting lot-owner has not been ascertained and paid at the time of the occupation of the street by the railroad, an action therefor will be barred in five years. Id.

In Williams et al. v. Carey, Mayor, et al., 34 N. W. R., 313, it was held that under section 464 of the code the city of Des Moines had authority to vacate 12 feet of Madison street for the benefit of the general public, although the lots fronting thereon were somewhat depreciated thereby. The owners of lots abutting on a city street on which a railway has been built, cannot have their damages ascertained by a sheriff's jury in the method prescribed for the condemnation of right of way. Stough v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 71 Id., 611; Mulholland v. Des Moines & N. W. R'y Co., 60 Id., 740.

Sec. 465. [Grading of streets: construction of sewers.]—They shall have power to provide for the grading and repairs of any street, avenue, or alley, and the construction of sewers, [and shall defray the expenses of the same out of the general funds of such city or town], but no street shall be graded except the same be ordered to be done by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the city council or trustees.

The provisions of this section with reference to the rights of a railroad company over the streets of cities and incorporated towns, do not apply to actions commenced prior to the time when it took effect. Ingram, Kennedy & Day v. The C. D. & M. Ry Co., 38 Iowa, 669.

The words in brackets in this section repealed as to alleys by section 5, chapter 51, 15th g. a.
A city not only has the right to make improvements upon a street and reimburse itself for the expense thereby incurred by levying a special tax upon abutting property owners, but it has also the right to prescribe the mode in which such tax shall be assessed. The City of Burlington v. Quick, 47 Iowa, 222.

If a city, in grading its streets, causes the work to be done in a careful and skillful manner, it will not be liable, in the absence of a statute to that effect, for injury resulting therefrom. Ellis v. Iowa City, 29 Iowa, 229.

Where, by raising the grade of a street, the drainage which had before existed is destroyed, the city is liable in an action by an adjacent property owner for failing to provide a temporary means of escape for the surface water, where such provision is practicable. Ross v. The City of Clinton, 46 Id., 606.

A municipal corporation is liable for the negligence or carelessness of its agents in the construction of public works on the same principle that a natural person is liable for damages resulting from his carelessness, unskillfulness or wrong doing. Cotes & Patchin v. The City of Davenport, 9 Id., 237; Templin v. Iowa City, 14 Id., 39.

For further cases upon the liability of municipal corporations for injuries resulting from defective streets and sidewalks, see notes to section 527, post.

As to what is an improvement of a street, see Koons v. Lucas, 52 Iowa, 177. This section confers on incorporated towns full control over their streets, and the town cannot escape liability for an injury sustained by reason of the unsafe condition of its streets on the ground that they were put in such condition by the supervisor of the road district. Clark v. Town of Epworth, 36 Id., 462.

Where a street has been paved at the expense of the owners of abutting property, and the pavement has been torn up in the construction of a sewer, it cannot be required at the expense of abutting property owners, but the restoration of the pavement must be accounted as part of the work of constructing the sewer, and the expense thereof must be paid out of the general fund of the city. The City of Burlington v. Palmer, 67 Id., 651.

The cost of grading a city street, as distinguished from paving it, cannot be assessed to the owners of abutting lots; but where grading is necessary to secure a proper foundation for a pavement, and the grading is done as incident to the paving, the cost may be regarded as part of the cost of paving, for which the owners of abutting lots may be taxed. But whether in such case the cost of grading may be considered as a part of the cost of paving, depends upon the actual necessity of the grading in order to secure a proper foundation for the pavement, and the fact that the city council sees fit to regard the grading and paving as essentially one work is not conclusive of the question.

Sec. 466. They shall have power to construct sidewalks, to curb, pave, gravel, macadamize, and gutter any highway or alley therein, and to levy a special tax on the lots and parcels of land fronting on such highway or alley to pay the expenses of such improvement. But unless a majority of the resident owners of the property subject to assessment for such improvement petition the council or trustees to make the same, such improvements shall not be made until three-fourths of all the members of such council or trustees shall, by vote, assent to the making of the same.

Under this section cities are authorized to pass an ordinance assessing upon a corner lot the cost of macadamizing one-fourth of the square formed by the intersection of streets. Wolf v. City of Keokuk, 48 Iowa, 129.

Where a city charter authorized the corporation to require the owners of lots "to pave and repair one-half the width of the streets contiguous to their respective lots,—it was held, that the word "pave," as used in this connection, included all things necessary to make a level and convenient surface for horses, carriages and foot passengers. Buell v. Ball, 20 Id., 252.

Authority in a city to "pave" its streets confers power to macadamize them and to provide for their proper drainage by the construction of gutters. Warren v. Nowley, 31 Id., 31.

Authority conferred upon a city to require abutting lot owners to pave the streets, includes authority to require them to build sidewalks. Id.

The legislature has constitutional authority to require streets in municipal corporations to be paved, and the cost of the same assessed upon the abutting lots. Id. To the same effect is Morrison v. Hershire, 32 Id., 271.

A corner lot having a frontage on two different streets may be properly assessed for the cost of improving both fronts. Id.

The power to macadamize the streets of a city includes the power to "trim" and "gutter." McNamar v. Estes et al., 32 Id., 245.

While the danger of giving elasticity to words conferring upon municipal corporations power to levy taxes is admitted, they must nevertheless receive such a reasonable construction as will truly reflect the legislative will. Id.
This section does not empower a city council to pass an ordinance for the construction of a sidewalk and for the levying of a tax upon abutting property to pay the cost thereof, unless a petition therefor is presented to the council, signed by a majority of the resident owners of the property abutting the street to be improved; without such petition the improvement cannot be ordered or the tax levied unless three-fourths of the whole number of the council by vote assent to the same. Tallant v. The City of Burlington, 39 Id., 545, 547.

Where a city is authorized to make street improvements on the petition of not less than two-thirds of the abutting owners, a person who joins in such petition is thereby estopped from afterwards claiming that the assessment of the tax for such improvement petitioned for was unauthorized and illegal on the ground that two-thirds of the abutting owners had not joined in the petition. City of Burlington v. Gilbert, 31 Id., 335.

It is competent for a city council to delegate to a committee the requisite authority to construct a sidewalk. Breuer v. The City of Davenport, 51 Id., 457.

Where the records of a city council show the adoption of a resolution, it will be presumed to have been adopted by the requisite majority. Id.

A street railway company having a right of way for its track over a street cannot be taxed for the cost of an improvement of the street under section 466 of the code. Koons v. Lucas, 52 Id., 177.

A city has power to levy and collect a special tax upon the property of a school district situated within its limits which is used solely for school purposes. The exemption of such property from taxation, provided in title 6 of the code, extends only to taxation authorized by that title. The City of Burlington v. The Ind. School Dist. of Sioux City, 55 Id., 190.

Where a city, under sections 493 and 478, passed a general ordinance providing for the construction of gutters in the streets, prescribing the mode in which the charge on the respective owners of lots or lands and on the lots and lands, should be assessed and determined, and providing that the ordinance should take effect five days after its publication, and providing also, the city council may at any time hereafter, by resolution, direct and provide for guttering any of the streets of said city, it was held that the word "hereafter" referred to the date of the passage, and not to the date of taking effect of the ordinance, and that a resolution passed between these dates was valid. Kendall v. Knight, 60 Id., 29.

Where in such case the resolution passed pursuant to the ordinance provided that the expense of the gutters "shall be paid by the property holders along each side of said streets in proportion to the frontage each may own," it was held the tax was valid although it was not provided that it should be assessed as a charge on the abutting property; such provision was unnecessary, as section 478 of the code makes it a lien on the real estate. Id.

Under section 496 of the code, a city may pave a street and assess the cost thereof upon the owners of abutting lots. Such paving, it would seem, may include the changing of grade preparatory to paving, provided the whole improvement constitutes but one undertaking, and the assessment is made for the whole work. But it is not competent, under said section, to charge the owners of abutting lots for the grading of a street, though such grading is done with reference to paving the same at another time, and as a separate and further improvement. Statutes of this kind are usually construed strictly. See opinion for cases distinguished. Bucroft v. The City of Council Bluffs, 63 Id., 846.

SEC. 467. (As amended by ch. 15, 22d g. a.) [Expense assessed on property.]—They shall have power to repair sidewalks, and to assess the expense thereof on the property in front of which such repairs are made.

SEC. 468. [Temporary sidewalks: expense limited.]—They shall have power to provide for the laying of temporary plank sidewalks upon the natural surface of the ground without regard to grade, on streets not permanently improved, at a cost not exceeding forty cents a lineal foot, and to provide for the assessment of the cost thereof on the property in front of which the same shall be laid.

SEC. 469. [When grade of streets is changed after buildings are erected: damages to be assessed and paid.]—When any city or town shall have established the grade of any street or alley, and any person shall have built or made any improvements on such street or alley according to the established grade thereof, and such city or town shall alter such established grade in such a manner as to injure or diminish the value of said property, said city or town shall pay to the owner or owners of said property so injured the amount of such damage or injury, which shall be assessed by three persons—one of whom shall be appointed by the mayor of such city or town, one by the owner of the property, and one by the two so appointed, or in case of their disagreement, by mayor and owner, or in case of their disagreement, by the city council or town trustees. If the owner of such property shall fail to appoint one such appraiser in ten days from the time of receiving notice so to do, then the city council or town trustees shall appoint all such appraisers, and no such alteration of grade shall be made until said damages so assessed shall have been paid or tendered to the owner of the property so injured or damaged. The appraisers shall be sworn to faithfully execute their duties according to the best of their ability. Before entering upon their duties, they shall give notice by publication for three weeks in one or more newspapers printed in such city, of the time and place of their meeting for the purpose of viewing the premises and making their assessment. They shall view the premises, and, in their discretion, receive any legal evidence, and may adjourn from day to day. When the appraisement shall be completed, the appraisers shall sign and return the same to the city council or town trustees within thirty days of their appointment. The city council or town trustees shall have power, in their discretion, to confirm or annul the appraisement, and if annulled, all the proceedings shall be void, but if confirmed, an order of the confirmation shall be entered. Any person interested may appeal from the order of confirmation to the circuit court of the county in which such city or town is situated, by notice in writing to the mayor at any time before the expiration of twenty days after the entering the order of confirmation. Upon the trial of the appeal, all questions involved in the proceedings, including the amount of damages, shall be open to investigation, and the burden of proof shall, in all cases, be upon the city or town to show that the proceedings are in conformity with this section. The cost of any proceedings incurred prior to the order of such city council or trustees confirming or annulling the appraisement, shall in all cases be paid by such city or town.

The owner of property which is depreciated permanently in value by carelessness in the improvement of a street, may recover damages of a city making the same, even though the property at the time was occupied by tenants. He may also recover where he held the injured premises under a contract for a deed which was ultimately executed.

At common law or without a statute a municipal corporation is not liable, in the absence of negligence, for damages resulting from grading or changing the grade of its streets. Cole v. The City of Muscatine, 14 Ia., 296; Ellis v. Iowa City, 29 Ia., 229; Russell v. The City of Burlington, 31 Ia., 282; The City of Burlington v. Gilbert, 31 Ia., 256; Slatten v. The D. V. R. Co., 29 Ia., 148.

Where the statute gives damages resulting from the change of grade, they must be ascertained strictly in the manner provided in the statute. The City of Burlington v. Gilbert, 31 Ia., 356; Cole v. The City of Muscatine, 14 Ia., 296.

Under this section a city is liable in damages for injury caused by changing the established grade of streets, to adjoining property improved with reference to the former grade, whether the injury is direct and caused by negligence of the city, or consists in a general depreciation in value in consequence of the change of grade. Hempstead v. The City of Des Moines, 52 Ia., 363.

Where the established grade of a street is changed, resulting in injury to adjacent property, recoverable under this section, the measure of damages is the difference in value of the property resulting from the change, and the city is entitled to have set off against the amount of the damages any enhancement in value of the property by reason of the change. Meyer v. The City of Burlington, 52 Ia., 560.

The right of action for damages caused by a change of grade, as provided in this section, does not accrue upon the passage of an ordinance providing for such change of grade, but when the physical change is made. Hempstead v. The City of Des Moines, 63 Ia., 36.

Before a city can make a physical change in the established grade of a street, it must, under section 469 of the code, have the damages to abutting lot owners assessed, and must pay or tender such damages. This section of the code is made applicable to cities acting under special charters by section 479, and its provisions are not repealed as to such cities by sections 8, 9 and 10 of chapter 106, of the laws of 1876—the provisions thereof running parallel with, and not contrary to, the provisions of said section. Phillips v. The City of Council Bluffs, 9 Ia., 576.

Where the defendant city had established the grade of a street, and plaintiff had made improvements upon her abutting lot to conform to such established grade, and afterwards the city passed an ordinance to change such established grade, and did actually change the grade from curb to curb, and afterwards cut down the sidewalk to the last established grade, without at any time causing the damages to plaintiff occasioned by such changes of grade to be appraised and paid, held, first, that under section 469 of the code, plaintiff had a right of action against the city to recover such damages; second, that such right of action arose, not upon the passage of the ordinance to change the grade, but upon the actual change of the grade; third, that the right of action for cutting down the street and sidewalk was one and indivisible; and, fourth, that plaintiff, having a former action recovered of the city for cutting down the street from curb to curb, cannot now maintain this action for damages for cutting down the sidewalk, as these damages were incidental to, and essentially connected with, the subject matter of the prior suit, and must be held to have been adjudicated therein. Hempstead v. The City of Des Moines, 63 Id., 36.

When a notice of appeal from the commissioner's appraisement of damages in proceedings to change the grade of streets under this section of the code is properly given to the mayor of the city, it is not material that his official character is not designated therein. Conklin v. City of Kewaunee, 35 N. W. R., 444.

SEC. 470. They shall have power to purchase or condemn, and pay for, out of the general fund, and enter upon and take any lands within or without the territorial limits of such city or town, for the use of public squares, streets, parks, commons, cemeteries, hospital grounds, or any other proper and legitimate municipal use, and to enclose, ornament and improve the same. They shall have entire control of the same, and shall have power, in case such lands are deemed unsuitable or insufficient for the purpose for which they were originally granted, to dispose of and convey the same; and conveyances executed in accordance with this chapter shall be held to extinguish all rights and claims of any such town or city to such lands existing prior to such conveyance. But when such lands are disposed of and conveyed, enough thereof shall be reserved for streets to accommodate adjoining property owners.

When a portion of ground is dedicated by the original proprietors of a town or city for the purpose of a “public square” therein, the municipal authorities have no authority to sell the same or divert it to uses and purposes foreign to those for which the dedication was made. Warren v. The Mayor of Lyons, 23 Iowa, 351.

SEC. 471. (As amended by ch. 11, 22d g. a.) They shall have power to erect water works [or to establish and maintain gas works or electric light plants, with all the necessary poles, wires, burners and other requisites of said gas works or electric light plants], or to authorize the erection of the same; but no such works shall be erected or authorized until a majority of the voters of the city or town, at a general or special election, by vote approve the same.

An ordinance of a city providing that in the consideration of the premises, the supply of water in the city, etc., the franchise of the water company and all its property actually required for the management of its works, shall be exempt from city taxation, is not invalid. Such provision, in effect, applies the taxes as they become due in part payment of or in consideration for the water rent, and, hence, is not objectionable as an exemption from taxation. Grant v. The City of Davenport, 36 Iowa, 396.

A water company which supplies the city with water, whose rates are regulated by the city council, and which, by the terms of the ordinance conferring its powers, may be purchased at a fixed price by the city, is, nevertheless, a private corporation, and its property is subject to taxation. Appeal of the Des Moines Water Co., 43 Id., 324.

A city council has no power to contract for the publication of its general proceedings at the cost of the city, and the owner of a newspaper publishing such proceedings at the instance of the council cannot recover therefor against the city. Stidger v. The City of Red Oak, 64 Id., 485.

SEC. 472. (As amended by ch. 26, 22d g. a.) [Extent of jurisdiction.]—They shall have power to construct or authorize the construction of such works without their limits, and for the purpose of maintaining and protecting the same from injury, and the water from pollution, their jurisdiction shall extend over the territory occupied by such works and all reservoirs, streams, trenches, pipes and drains, used in, and necessary for the construction, maintenance and operation of the same, and over the stream or source from which the water is taken for five miles above the point from which it is taken; and to enact all ordinances and regulations necessary to carry the power herein conferred into effect.

SEC. 473. [When privilege granted to individuals.]—When the right to build and operate such works is granted to private individuals or incorporated companies by said cities and towns, they may make such grant to inure for a term of not more than twenty-five years, and authorize such individual or company to charge and collect from each person supplied by them with water, such water rent as may be agreed upon between said person or corporation so building said works, and said city or town; and such cities or towns are authorized and empowered to enter into a contract with the individual or company constructing said works, to supply said city or town with water for fire purposes, and for such other purposes as may be necessary for the health and safety thereof, and to pay therefor such sum or sums as may be agreed upon between said contracting parties.

The validity of an ordinance giving to a company the exclusive privilege for a term of years of laying water pipes in the streets, etc., can be contested only by some other company or individual afterward claiming such right. Grant v. City of Davenport, 36 Iowa, 396.

An ordinance authorizing a corporation to construct water works in the city upon conditions prescribed therein, and providing that the city shall have the right, whenever its financial condition will permit, to purchase and control the works, is not an "incurring of indebtedness" within the prohibition of the constitution. It is only the assuming of an obligation which, without further action on the part of the city, will not ripen into a debt, that is thus forbidden. Burlington W. W. v. Woodward, 49 Id., 58.

Sec. 474. [May condemn private property.]—Said cities or towns are hereby authorized to condemn and appropriate so much private property as shall be necessary for the construction and operation of said water works; and when they shall authorize the construction and operation thereof by individuals or corporations, they may confer, by ordinance, upon such person or corporation the said power to take and appropriate private property for said purpose.

Establishment of Waterworks, Gas and Electric Light Plants.

An Act to amend section 471 of the code of 1873, relating to the power of establishing waterworks by cities and towns, and making the powers granted in section 472, 473, 474 and 475 of the code of 1873, applicable to establishment of gas works or electric light plants, and providing for the payment for the same by the issuing of bonds.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That section 471 of the code of 1873 be and the same is hereby amended by inserting in the first line thereof after the word "works" the following words: "Or to establish and maintain gas works or electric light plants, with all the necessary poles, wires, burners and other requisites of said gas works or electric light plants."

Sec. 2. That sections 472, 473, 474 and 475 of the code of 1873, shall be held to apply to the establishment and maintenance (maintenance) of gas works and electric light plants as fully as they do the erection of waterworks.

Sec. 3. [Cities may issue bonds for light plants.]—That incorporated cities and towns for the purpose of establishing such gas works or electric light plant shall have the power to issue their bonds running for not more than twenty years at a rate of interest not higher than six per cent; provided, that the total amount of indebtedness for all purposes in said cities shall not exceed the five per cent of the assessed valuation of said cities as provided by the constitution.

Sec. 475. [Assess water rents as a special tax: collection of: amount.]—All cities and incorporated towns constructing such works are authorized to assess from time to time, in such manner as they shall deem equitable, upon each tenement or other place supplied with water, such water rents as may be agreed upon; and at the regular time of levying taxes in each year, said city or town is hereby empowered to levy and cause to be collected, in addition to the taxes now authorized to be levied, a special tax on taxable property in said city or town, which tax, with the water rents hereby authorized, shall be sufficient to pay the expenses of running and operating such works, and if the right to build, maintain and operate such works is granted to private individuals or incorporated companies by such cities or towns, and said cities or towns shall contract with said individuals or companies for a supply of water for any purpose, such city shall levy each year, and cause to be collected, a special tax as provided for above sufficient to pay off such water rents so agreed to be paid to said individual or company constructing said works; Provided, however, that said tax shall not exceed the sum of five mills on the dollar for any one year, nor shall the same be levied upon the taxable property of said city or town which lies wholly without the limits of the benefit or protection of such works, which limit shall be fixed by the city council or board of trustees each year before making said levy.

SEC. 476. [Procedures when private property is condemned.]—When it shall be deemed necessary by any such corporation to enter upon or take private property for any of the above uses, an application in writing shall be made to the circuit court, which application shall describe, as correctly as may be, the property to be taken, the object proposed, and the owners of the property, and of each lot or parcel thereof known, and notice of the filing thereof shall be given as is required to commence a civil action in said court. After such notice shall have been given, the court shall proceed to determine the compensation to be paid for the taking of the property, and for that purpose shall impanel a jury, and the mode of procedure therein shall be the same, so far as applicable, as in an action by ordinary proceedings. The assessment shall be made so that the amount payable to each owner may be ascertained either by allotting to each owner by name or on each lot or parcel of land, and the inquiry and assessment shall in other respects be made by the jurors under such instructions as shall be given by the court. The jurors shall be sworn to make the whole inquiry and assessment, but may be allowed to return a verdict as to part and be discharged as to the rest in the discretion of the court, and in case they shall be discharged from rendering a verdict in whole or in part, another jury may be impaneled at the earliest convenient time, which shall make the whole inquiry and assessment, or the part not made, as the case may be.

The destruction of private property to prevent the spread of fire is not a taking of private property for public use, entitling the owner to compensation from the city. Field v. The City of Des Moines, 39 Iowa, 575. The diversion of travel from other streets, following the opening of a new street in a city, is but a remote consequence of the appropriation of the land taken for the new street, and is not an element of damages. Cherokee v. The S. C. & I. F. Town Lot Co., 52 Id., 279.

A proceeding in court under this section to condemn land for the extension of a city street is a “suit” within the meaning of section 3419 of the code, and may be submitted to arbitrators, by an order of court, upon agreement of parties. The City of Marion v. Ganby et al., 68 Id., 142.

SEC. 477. [Payment or deposit of damages.]—When the amount of compensation due to any of the owners of the property to be taken shall be ascertained, the court shall make such order as to its payment or deposit as may be deemed just and proper, and may require adverse claimants to any part of the money or property to interplead, so as to fully settle their rights and interests, and may direct the time and manner in which possession of the property shall be taken or delivered, and may, if necessary, enforce an order giving possession. But none of the property shall be actually taken or occupied until the compensation thus ascertained shall have been paid, or secured to be paid. The costs occasioned by the inquiry and assessment shall be paid by the corporation, and as to the other costs which may arise, they shall be charged or taxed as the court, in its discretion, may direct; no delay in making an assessment of compensation, or in taking possession, shall be occasioned by any doubt which may arise as to the ownership of the property, or any part thereof, or as to the interest of the respective owners; but in such cases the court shall require the deposit of the money allowed as compensation for the whole of the property, or the part in dispute; and in all cases as soon as the corporation shall have paid the compensation assessed, or secured its payment by a deposit of money under the order of the court, possession of the property may be taken and the public work or improvement progress.

SEC. 478. [Assessment on lots: how enforced.]—Each municipal corporation may, by a general ordinance, prescribe the mode in which the charge on the respective owners of lots or lands, and on the lots or lands, shall be assessed and determined for the purposes authorized by this chapter; such charge, when assessed, shall be payable by the owner or owners at the time of the assessment personally, and shall also be a lien upon the respective lots or parcels of land from the time of the assessment. Such charge may be collected and such lien enforced by a proceeding in law or in equity, either in the name of such corporation or of any person to whom it shall have directed payment to be made. In any such proceedings, where pleadings are required, it shall be sufficient to declare generally for work and labor done, and materials furnished on the particular street, alley or highway. Proceedings may be instituted against all the owners, or any of them, to enforce the lien against all the lots, or land, or each lot or parcel, or any number of them embraced in any one assessment, but the judgment or decree shall be rendered separately for the amount properly chargeable to each. Any proceedings may be severed, in the discretion of the court, for the purpose of trial, review or appeal.

Cities may, by ordinance, if they so elect, cause a special tax, assessed for street improvements against lots and parcels of lands fronting on the streets improved, to be certified to the county auditor to the end that it may be collected as other taxes. The City of Sioux City v. the Ind. School Dist., etc., 56 Iowa, 150.

Under this section the corporation may institute but one suit against all the owners of lots against which an assessment was made for the construction of sidewalks; but the court may, in its discretion, compel the plaintiff to sever and file a separate petition against each defendant. The proceedings in cases of this character are governed by this and the next section. City of Des Moines v. Stephenson, 55 Iowa, 150.

This section (478) making the liability for a special tax a lien upon the property of the abutting owner, is not in conflict with the constitution. The City of Burlington v. Quick, 47 Id., 222.

Where a city, under sections 466, 478, passed a general ordinance providing for the construction of gutters in the streets, prescribing the mode on which the charge on the respective owners of lots or lands and on the lots or lands should be assessed and determined, and providing that the ordinance should take effect five days after its publication, and providing also, the city council may at any time hereafter, by resolution, direct and provide for guttering any of the streets of said city, it was held that the word "hereafter" referred to the date of the passage, and not to the date of taking effect of the ordinance, and that a resolution passed between these dates was valid. Kendig v. Knight, 60 Id., 29.

Where in such case the resolution passed pursuant to the ordinance provided that the expense of the gutters "shall be paid by the property holders along each side of such streets in proportion to the frontage each may own;" it was held the tax was valid although it was not provided that it should be assessed as a charge on the abutting property, such provision was unnecessary, as section 478 of the code makes it a lien on the real estate. Id.

In McInerny v. Reed, 23 Iowa, 410, it was held that the power to levy and collect a special tax, given in a city charter, does not carry with it the power to collect such tax by a sale of the property upon which it is assessed. The collection of such tax is effected in a court of equity.

It was also held in the same case that such special tax was not assignable so as to enable the person claiming as assignee thereof to enforce its collection.

It was further held in Morrison v. Cashmore, 32 Id., 271, that a municipal corporation, organized under the general incorporation law, had authority under the general law as amended by chapter 14 of the acts of the thirteenth general assembly, to certify special assessments or taxes levied upon lots for the purpose of street improvements abutting thereon, to the county auditor, to be collected and paid over by the treasurer the same as other taxes are; and that to this end the treasurer is empowered, in case of non-payment, to sell the lots on which the assessments are made, the same as other property is sold for the non-payment of taxes.

SEC. 479. [Recovery had or charge enforced with penalty.]—In any such proceeding, where the court trying the same shall be satisfied that the work has been done, or materials furnished, which, according to the intent of the act, would be properly chargeable upon the lot or land through or by which the street, alley or highway improved, repaired or lighted, may pass, a recovery shall be permitted, or a charge enforced, to the extent of the proper proportion of the value of the work or materials which would be chargeable on such lot or land, notwithstanding any informality, irregularity or defect in any such municipal corporation or any of its officers. But in such case the court may adjudge as to costs as may be deemed proper, and in cases where an assessment shall have been regularly made, and payment shall have been neglected or refused at the time when the same was required, any municipal corporation may be entitled to demand and recover, in addition to the amount assessed and interest thereon at ten per cent from the time of the assessment, five per cent to defray the expenses of collection, which shall be included in any judgment or decree which may be rendered. The provisions and powers conferred in this chapter from section four hundred and sixty-five to section four hundred and seventy-nine, inclusive, shall apply to cities acting under special charters.

The last clause of this section, making sections 465 to 479, inclusive, applicable to cities acting under special charters, is new, and was not a part of section 1069 of the revision. It was held under that section that a city organized under a special charter could not recover from the owners of lots the cost of improvements of adjacent streets, "notwithstanding any irregularity or defect in the proceedings" under which the work was ordered. Starr v. City of Burlington, 45 Iowa, 87.

It was further held in that case that this provision was not retroactive so as to apply to proceedings for improvements ordered or contracts for work entered into prior to the taking effect of the code of 1873.

It is competent for a city, when not inconsistent with its charter, to prescribe by ordinance the steps to be taken in order to acquire jurisdiction over particular subjects. If these steps are not taken when the requirements of the ordinance are mandatory, the act of the city in an attempt to exercise authority is void. Id. See also City of Dubuque v. Wooton, 28 Id., 571.

The discretionary power vested in municipal corporations by the general authority to levy and collect taxes, in respect to the imposing of penalties for their non-payment when due, extends only to taxes levied for general purposes, and in cases of special assessments only such penalties can be collected as are fixed by statute. Ankeny v. Henningsen, 54 Id., 29.

An ordinance directing that improvements shall be ordered by resolution describing the streets and improvements, and that notice shall be given by publication of the resolution, is not directory but mandatory. Id.

Where the proceedings for the levy of the assessment of a special tax for street improvements are void for want of jurisdiction, the property owner is not estopped to deny their validity by the fact that he made no objection while the improvement was in progress. Id. See also City of Hampton v. Holley, 60 Id., 391.

The discretionary power in municipal corporations to order improvements, to prescribe the manner of improvement, and to assess the owners of property for the cost of improvement, is not subject to the qualifications or limitations imposed upon the exercise of the power of assessment under the general law. Id.

The provisions of the special act for the levy of assessments for street improvements, do not apply to the levy of assessments for the improvement of streets in cities. Id.

Municipal corporations shall have power to cause any lot of land within their limits on which water at any time becomes stagnant to be filled up or drained in such manner as may be directed by a resolution of the council or trustees; and such owner or his agent, shall, after service of a copy of such resolution, or after a publication of the same in some newspaper of general circulation in such corporation for two consecutive weeks, comply with the directions of such resolutions within the time therein specified; and in case of a failure or a refusal to do so, it may be done at the expense of said corporation; and the amount of money so expended shall be a debt due to said corporation from the owner of said lot, and shall, moreover, from the time of the adoption of such resolution, be a lien on such lot or lots.
It was held in Morrison v. Hershire, 32 Iowa, 271, that chapter 65 of the laws of 1870 was not intended as a limitation upon the power conferred by chapter 51 of the revision, as to the manner of levying a special tax for street improvements, and that the assessment and levy might lawfully be made under authority of a resolution of the city council as well as by an ordinance.

A city may, by resolution of its council, require the owners of lots within its limits, upon which water becomes stagnant, to fill the same, and publication of the resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the corporation is sufficient notice of the resolution to enable the city to recover for filling up the lots, in case the owner fails to do it, in a personal action against him therefor. The City of Independence v. Purdy, 46 Id., 202.

SEC. 481. [Delinquent charges and assessments certified to auditor.]—Any municipal corporation may, in addition to the means provided by the three preceding sections, if, by ordinance, it so elects, cause any or all delinquent charges, assessments, and taxes made or levied under and by virtue of, and for the purpose specified in said section or referred to therein, to be certified to the county auditor of the county, and be collected and paid over by the treasurer of the county in the same manner as taxes are authorized to be by this chapter.

SEC. 482. [Make and publish ordinances: enforce penalties and fines.]—Municipal corporations shall have power to make and publish, from time to time, ordinances, not inconsistent with the laws of the state, for carrying into effect or discharging the powers and duties conferred by this chapter, and such as shall seem necessary and proper to provide for the safety, preserve the health, promote the prosperity, improve the morals, order, comfort, and convenience of such corporation and the inhabitants thereof, and to enforce obedience to such ordinances by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days.

The reorganization of a city government under the general incorporation law does not have the effect to repeal an ordinance lawfully enacted under a former charter, making the council the tribunal for the trial of contested municipal elections. Ex parte Stahl, 16 Iowa, 369.

The revocation by a municipal corporation of a license to sell intoxicating liquors upon certain specified conditions, a violation of which, according to the express terms of the license, should have the effect to revoke it, is not a forfeiture beyond the powers of the corporation. Harber v. Baugh, 43 Id., 514.

The general assembly may delegate to municipal corporations the power to enact ordinances, which, when authorized, have within the corporate limits the force and effect of laws passed by the state legislature. Des Moines Gas Co. v. City of Des Moines, 44 Id., 505.

An ordinance of a city which declares the keeping of a house, where loud and unusual noises are permitted, to be a nuisance, and provides for the punishment of any person convicted thereof, is valid under this section. It does not define an offense punishable by the state statutes. The City of Centerport v. Miller, 51 Id., 56.

That a city has passed an ordinance professing to give to a gas company an exclusive right to lay pipes through its streets and light the same for a specified compensation, does not deprive it of the right to charter another gas company before the first franchise shall have expired, conferring upon it similar rights and privileges, and such rights cannot be restrained by injunction. Id.

This section, which authorizes the passage of ordinances, by cities, to improve the morals and order of the community, does not confer the power to pass an ordinance declaring the keeping of a house of ill-fame a misdemeanor, and imposing a punishment of fine and imprisonment. The City of Charleston v. Barber, 54 Id., 360.

It is competent for a municipal corporation, under the power conferred by sections 456 and 482 of the code, to provide by ordinance for the arrest and punishment of persons found in a state of intoxication. Town of Bloomfield v. Trimble, Id., 369.

An ordinance providing for the punishment of an offense which is also punishable by the state law is not for that reason invalid. The same act may constitute an offense against both the state and the municipal corporation and may be punished under both without any violation of constitutional principle. Id. See also Henke v. McCord, 55 Id., 378, noted under sec. 403, ante.

SEC. 483. [Fines recovered by action.]—Fines may, in all cases, and in addition to any other mode provided, be recovered by suit or action before a justice of the peace, or other court of competent jurisdiction, in the name of the proper municipal corporation and for its use. And in any such suit or action where pleading is necessary, it shall be sufficient to declare generally for the amount claimed to be due in respect to the violation of the ordinance, referring to its title. [TITLE IV.] and the date of its adoption or passage, and showing as near as may be the facts of the alleged violation.

A justice of the peace does not have jurisdiction to hear and determine a criminal prosecution for a violation of a city ordinance under this section of the statute, nor under the general law for the incorporation of cities and towns. Goodrich v. Brown, 30 Iowa, 291.

Sec. 484. [Offender committed to jail.]—Whenever a fine and costs imposed for the violation of any city ordinance are not paid, the person convicted may, by the officer having jurisdiction of the case, be committed until the fine and costs are paid, not to exceed thirty days.

Where a judgment against a defendant in a prosecution under a city ordinance, directed that the defendant be imprisoned until the fine and costs were paid, which judgment was according to the ordinance, it was held to be in harmony with section 484 of the code. The State v. Wells, 46 Iowa, 662.

Sec. 485. [May use county jail.]—Any city or town shall have the right to use the jail of the county for the confinement of such persons as may be liable to imprisonment under the ordinances of such city or town, but it shall be liable to the county for the cost of keeping such prisoners.

Sec. 486. [Suits: when barred.]—All suits for the recovery of any fine, and prosecutions for the commission of any offense made punishable as herein provided, shall be barred in one year after the commission of the offense for which the fine is sought to be recovered, or the prosecution is commenced.

Sec. 487. [Municipal corporations may require male residents between the ages of 21 and 45 to work on streets, alleys, or highways.]—All municipal corporations are hereby empowered to provide that all able bodied male residents of the corporation between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years shall, between the first day of April and the first day of September each year, either by themselves or satisfactory substitute, perform two days' labor upon the streets, alleys, or highways, within such corporation, at such times and places as the proper officer may direct, and upon three days' notice in writing given. They may further provide that, for each day's failure to attend and perform the labor as required at the time and place specified, the delinquent shall forfeit and pay to the corporation any sum not exceeding three dollars for each day's delinquency, and in case of failure to pay such forfeit within ten days the supervisor of highways or street commissioner of said corporation shall recover the same by an action in the name of the supervisor of highways or street commissioner of said corporation; and no property or wages belonging to said person shall be exempt to the defendant on execution; said judgment to be obtained before the mayor of said corporation, or any justice of the peace within the proper township, which money, when collected, shall be expended upon the streets of the corporation; and that all such sums remaining unpaid on the first day of September in each year may be treated and collected as taxes on property, and the same shall be a lien on all the real property of the delinquent that may be listed for taxation, and assessed and owned by him on the first day of November of the same year. (This section is as amended by ch. 32, 19th g. a.)

Sec. 488. [May aid in construction of highways outside corporate limits.]—Any city or incorporated town may aid in the construction and repair of any highway leading thereto, by appropriating therefor a portion of the highway tax belonging to said city or incorporated town, not exceeding fifty per cent thereof, annually, as hereinafter provided. When a petition shall be presented to the council or trustees, signed by one-third of the resident taxpayers of said city or town, asking that the question of aiding in the construction or repair of any highway leading thereto be submitted to the voters thereof, the council or trustees, immediately, shall give notice of a special election by posting notice in five public places in said town at least ten days before said election, which notice shall specify the time and place of holding said election, the particular highway proposed to be aided, the proportion of the highway tax then levied and not expended, or next thereafter to be levied, to be appropriated; at which election the question of “appropriation” or “no appropriation” shall be submitted, and if a majority of votes polled be for appropriation, then the council or trustees may aid in the construction and repair of said highway to the extent of said appropriation, in the same manner as they otherwise would if said highway was within the corporate limits of said city or town; but no part of such highway tax shall be expended more than two miles from the limits of such city or town. [Provided, that in incorporated towns, and cities of the second class, whether organized under a special charter or under the general incorporation law, with a population under ten thousand inhabitants, whenever one-third of the resident taxpayers of such incorporated town or city shall petition the trustees or council or such incorporated town or city, asking that a portion of the highway tax of such incorporated town or city may be used to aid in the construction or repair of highways outside and within three miles of the limits of such incorporated town or city, such trustees or council may, upon the presentation of such petition, order a part of the highway tax of such incorporated town or city, not exceeding twenty-five per cent thereof, to be used and expended to aid in the construction or repair of highways outside and within three miles of the limits of such incorporated town or city.] (This section is as amended by ch. 52, 18th g. a.)

SEC. 489. (As amended by ch. 146, 18th g. a.) [Passage of ordinances.]—

All ordinances and resolutions, or orders for the appropriation or payment of money, shall require for their passage or adoption the concurrence of a majority of all the trustees of any municipal corporation; ordinances of a general or permanent nature shall be fully and distinctly read on three different days, unless three-fourths of the council shall dispense with the rule; no ordinance shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title, and no ordinance or section thereof shall be revised or amended unless the new ordinance contain the entire ordinance or section reviewed or amended, and the ordinance or section so amended shall be repealed. (Provided, that in incorporated towns, ordinances and resolutions, or orders for the appropriation or payment of money, shall require for their passage or adoption a concurrence of four trustees, or of three trustees and the mayor).

A resolution introduced at a meeting of the city council proposing a change in the boundaries of the city, does not require for its adoption the concurrence of a majority of the whole number of trustees. Strohm v. Iowa City, 47 Iowa, 42.

When the city council amends an ordinance by enacting an entire section which embraces and reviews the whole subject-matter of an existing ordinance, a clear implication arises of an intention that the new shall repeal and take the place of the old section. And in such case, only the section amended, and not the entire ordinance, need be set out. Town of Decorah v. Dunstan Bros., 38 Id., 96.

The council of an incorporated town consists of seven members, including the mayor and recorder, and the rules cannot be suspended for the passage of an ordinance of a general nature by an affirmative vote of four members. Horner v. Rowley et al., 51 Id., 620.

Where the town ordinance was entitled "Regulating the use and sale of intoxicating liquors," but the ordinance, as set forth in the body of it, was entirely prohibitory, with no pretense of regulation, it was held invalid for want of compliance with this section, in that the subject of the ordinance was not clearly expressed in the title. Town of Conrul v. Sainer, 59 Id., 26.

Where an ordinance was read the first time at a regular meeting of the city council, and was read a second and third times at adjourned meetings held on different days, it was held a sufficient compliance with this section, and that the ordinance was legally passed. Cutcomp v. Utt, Mayor, etc., 60 Id., 156.

Where the record of the proceedings of a town council fails to show the vote upon a motion to dispense with the second and third readings of an ordinance, it will be presumed that it received the requisite three-fourths vote of all the members, and an ordinance passed in such case by the unanimous vote of the six members present will be valid. The State v. Vail, 53 Id., 550.

The provisions of this section, requiring a city ordinance revising or amending another to contain the entire ordinance revised or amended, repeals another by reason of its being on the same subject and repugnant thereto. City of Des Moines v. Hiltl et al., 55 Id., 643.
There is no rule of the common law nor provision of statute making it necessary, as a condition precedent to a right of action against a city or town upon a claim arising upon tort, that the claim should be first presented to the city or town council. Green v. The Town of Spencer, 67 Id., 410.

If there be a sense in which there is a succession of city councils, there is such immediate succession as to involve a substantial continuity, when taken with the fact that half of the aldermen hold over. And where a proposed ordinance was read on two separate days before the election of a new mayor and alderman, and was read the third time after the newly elected mayor and aldermen had taken their seats, held that this section of the code was sufficiently complied with, and that the ordinance was not for that reason invalid. McGrew v. Whitson, 69 Id., 348.

A city ordinance which contains more than one subject is void under this section, but an ordinance in two sections, by the first of which an alley is vacated, and by the second of which the ground covered by the vacated alley is granted to a private person—the main purpose of the ordinance being to transfer the title to such person—does not contain more than one subject within the meaning of this section. Dempsey et al. v. The City of Burlington et al., 66 Id., 657.

SEC. 490. [Councilmen and trustees not eligible to office; or interested in contract.]—No trustee or member of any council shall, during the time for which he has been elected or for one year thereafter, be appointed to any municipal office which shall be created, or the emoluments of which shall be increased during the term for which he shall have been elected, except in the cases provided in this chapter; nor shall any such trustee be interested, directly or indirectly, in the profits of any contract or job of work, or services to be performed for the corporation.

SEC. 491. [Salary not increased or diminished during term of office.]—The emoluments of no officer whose election or appointment is required by this chapter shall be increased or diminished during the term for which he shall have been elected or appointed; nor shall any change of compensation affect any officer whose office shall be created under the authority of this chapter during his existing term, unless the office be abolished; and no person who shall have resigned or vacated any office shall be eligible to the same during the time for which he was elected or appointed when during the same time the emoluments had been increased.

Where a city organized under a special charter abandoned its organization and reorganized under the general law, its former marshal was elected under the new organization, and continued without interruption to discharge the duties of the office: Held, that it was not competent for the city council, alter the reorganization, to diminish the salary of the officer for the term for which he was elected. Cox v. The City of Burlington, 43 Iowa, 612. See also, Bryan v. The City of Des Moines, September term, 1879.

This section, providing that a city officer's salary cannot be diminished during his term, is not repealed by chapter 56, laws of 1878. Bryan v. City of Des Moines, 51 Iowa, 599; City of Des Moines v. McHenry, Id., 710.

SEC. 492. [Ordinances recorded and published.]—All ordinances shall, as soon as may be after their passage, be recorded in a book kept for that purpose and be authenticated by the signature of the presiding officer of the council and the clerk, and all by-laws of general or permanent nature, and those imposing any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, shall be published in some newspaper of general circulation in the municipal corporation, and it shall be deemed a sufficient defense to any suit or prosecution for such fine, penalty, or forfeiture, to show that no such publication was made: Provided, however, that if no such newspaper is published within the limits of the corporation, then and in that case, such by-laws may be published by posting up three copies thereof in three public places within the limits of the corporation, two of which places shall be the postoffice and the mayor's office of such town or city; and such by-laws and ordinances shall take effect and be in force at the expiration of five days after they have been published.

SEC. 493. (As amended by ch. 146, 13th g. a.) [Yeas and nays called on passage of ordinances.]—On the passage or adoption of every by-law or ordinance, and every resolution or order to enter into contract by any council of any municipal corporation, the yeas and nays shall be called and recorded; and to pass or adopt any by-law, ordinance, or any such resolution or order, a concurrence of a majority of the whole number of members elected to the council shall be required; all appointments of officers by any council shall be made \textit{viva voce}, and the concurrence of a like majority shall be required and the names of those, and for whom they voted, on the vote resulting in an appointment, shall be recorded. No money shall be appropriated by the council except by ordinance. (\textit{Provided}, that in incorporated towns, by-laws, ordinances, resolutions or orders to enter into any contract, shall require for their passage or adoption a concurrence of four trustees, or of three trustees and the mayor.)

The provisions of this section providing for the manner of appointment to office by the city council applies to all appointments, and, in accordance with its provisions, a majority of all the members of the council, and not simply a majority of those who may be present at the meeting, must vote for a candidate to fill a vacancy in the office of city auditor. \textit{The State v. Dickie}, 47 Iowa, 629.

This section does not take away the power of a city to make parol contracts through its agents. \textit{City of Indianola v. Jones}, 29 Id., 252; \textit{Duncombe v. Fort Dodge}, 38 Id., 281.

It is essential to the validity of an ordinance of an incorporated city or town, organized under the general law, that the yeas and nays shall be called on its passage and recorded. The provisions of this section are mandatory. \textit{The Town of Olin v. Movers}, 55 Id., 204.

This section does not require the yeas and nays to be called and recorded on a resolution directing the construction of a sewer that does not provide for letting a contract for the same. \textit{Grimmell v. City of Des Moines}, 57 Id., 148.

\textbf{SEC. 494. [Two-thirds vote required to make improvements.]}—No street or highway shall be opened, straightened or widened, nor shall any other improvement be made which will require proceedings to condemn private property without the concurrence, in the ordinance or resolution directing the same, of two-thirds of the whole number of the members elected to the council, and the concurrence of a like majority shall be required to direct any improvement or repair of a street or highway, the cost of which is to be assessed upon the owners of the property, unless two-thirds of the owners to be charged therefor shall petition in writing for the same.

Where a rule of a city council forbade members from voting upon questions in which they were directly interested, an ordinance came up at a meeting of the council for adoption, which, under this section, required a two-thirds vote of all the members, there being nine, only six of which voted for the passage of the ordinance, one of whom was directly interested in its passage; \textit{Buffington Wheel Co. v. Burnham et al.}, 60 Iowa, 493.

\textbf{SEC. 495. [Tax certified to auditor and collected as other taxes by county treasurer.]}—The council or trustees, as the case may be, of each municipal corporation, is required to cause to be certified to the county auditor, on or before the first Monday of September of each year, the percentage or number of mills on the dollar of tax levied for all city purposes by them on the taxable property within said corporation for the year then ensuing, as shown by the assessment roll of said city for said year, and the said auditor is required to place the same on the tax books of the county in the same manner as county taxes are placed thereon, which tax for municipal purposes shall be collected by the county treasurer; and in all things relating to the collection of the same, and the sale of real or personal property, he is authorized and required to proceed according to the provisions of the statutes regulating the sale of property for delinquent state and county taxes, and in all sales for such, or any delinquent taxes for municipal purposes, if there be other delinquent taxes due from the same person, or lien on the same property, the sale shall be for all the delinquent taxes; and such sales, and all sales made under or by virtue of this section, or the provisions of law herein referred to, shall be of the same validity, and, in all respects, be deemed and treated as though such sales had been made for the delinquent state or county taxes exclusively. And in any city or town incorporated under or by special charter, which now is, or hereafter may be regulated by or subject to the general incorporation laws, all delinquent taxes, except such as were levied to pay indebtedness created to take stock or aid in the building of railways, remaining unpaid upon the tax books of such city or town, shall be certified at the time, collected and paid over as above directed. And the county treasurer shall include said delinquent taxes so certified with the delinquent state and county taxes on his books, and collect the same by sale of real or personal property in the same manner as is by statute required for delinquent state and county taxes; and all sales of property for such delinquent municipal taxes shall be valid, and, in all respects be deemed and treated as though such sales had been made for delinquent state and county taxes.

It was held in Burke v. Jeffries et al., 20 Iowa, 145, that there was no provision of the general law for the incorporation of cities and towns for the levy and collection of taxes, and for sales for delinquent taxes in cities incorporated under special law; that this section, as in the revision, applied only to cities and towns organized under the general law. This defect is obviated in the section as it now stands.

The deed of the county treasurer for land sold for state and county taxes does not divest, in the hands of the purchaser, the lien of the city for unpaid taxes on the same property. Ford v. Bruce et al., and Dennison v. The City of Keokuk, 45 Id., 266.

A sale for city taxes of one year does not divest the lien of the city for the unpaid taxes of prior years. The lien of the tax purchaser is subject to the lien of the city for the taxes of prior years. Id.

This section and section 481 relate only to the mode of collection, and do not make the penalties provided in section 866 applicable to special assessments. Ansony v. Henningsen, 54 Id., 29.

Sec. 496. [Taxes limited. ]—The amount which may be certified, assessed and collected shall not exceed ten mills on the dollar, to defray its general and incidental expenses.

Sec. 497. For the purpose of creating a sinking fund for the gradual extinguishment of the bonds and funded debt of any municipal corporation, the council thereof may, in their discretion, annually, levy and collect, in addition to the other taxes of said corporation, a tax of not more than two mills on the dollar upon the assessed value of said property appraised and returned as aforesaid, which shall be paid into said treasury and be applied by order of the city council toward the extinguishment of the said bonds and funded debt, and to no other purpose whatever.

By chapter 59 of the laws of 1876, it is provided that the city council of any city of the second class organized under the existing, or any prior incorporation law of the state, which has heretofore contracted a bonded indebtedness reaching the limit then prescribed by the law for loans, and in which the amount of taxable property as shown by the assessment for the year 1875, is less than it was for the year 1876, are hereby authorized and empowered to levy, in addition to the other taxes of said corporation, a tax of not more than two mills on the dollar upon the assessed value of said property appraised and returned as aforesaid, which shall be paid into said treasury and be applied by order of the city council toward the extinguishment of the said bonds and funded debt, and to no other purpose whatever.

The levy of a tax of eight mills by a city to pay a judgment against it, after a tax of ten mills had been levied for general city and road purposes, was held not to have been illegal. Rice v. Walker, 44 Iowa, 458.

Sec. 498. The treasurer of the county shall pay over to the treasurer of any municipal corporation, all moneys received by him arising from taxes levied belonging to such municipal corporation, on or before the first day of March in each year; and such moneys as said county treasurer may receive after that time, for delinquent taxes belonging to such corporation, he shall pay over to the treasurer thereof when demanded.

Sec. 499. [May tax dogs and domestic animals.]—The council of any municipal corporation shall have power, whenever in their opinion the interests of the corporation require it, to lay and collect a tax on dogs and other domestic animals not included in the list of taxable property, for the state and county purposes; which said tax shall be collected by the collector of such corporation and paid into the treasury thereof.

Sec. 500. (As amended by ch. 79, 20th g. a., and ch. 108, 21st g. a.) Loans may be negotiated by any municipal corporation in anticipation of the revenues thereof, but the aggregate amounts of such loans shall not exceed the sum of five per cent upon the taxable property of any city or town, having a population of not less than (one thousand) nor more than six thousand, and in all other cases such loans shall not exceed the sum of three per cent on such property.]
The issuance, by a municipal corporation, of its bonds to a judgment creditor, although not strictly a loan, amounts to the same thing as borrowing money on its bonds to pay the judgment, and is authorized under this section. City of Sioux City v. Weave et al., 59 Iowa, 96.

SEC. 501. [Annual election, places for holding; qualification of voters.]—The first Monday of March shall be the regular annual period for the election of municipal officers, and all officers whose election is provided for in this chapter, or may be provided for by ordinance, shall be elected on that day. The trustees or council of every municipal corporation shall direct the place or places for holding elections for municipal officers, and whenever the corporation is divided into wards or precincts, there shall be one such place in each ward and precinct, and any person who, at the time of any election of municipal officers, would be a qualified elector under the laws of the state for county officers, and shall have actually resided in the ward or precinct in which he offers to vote for the ten days last preceding the election, shall be deemed a qualified voter; and all elections shall in all respects be held and conducted in the manner prescribed by law in case of township elections.

SEC. 502. At all elections in cities and incorporated towns which are not divided into election districts or wards, the mayor and trustees, any three of whom shall be a quorum, shall serve as judges, and the recorder shall serve as clerk, and after canvassing the votes which may be given at such election they shall declare the result, and the recorder shall make out and deliver to each person elected to any office in such city or town a certificate of such election.

SEC. 503. The returns of all municipal elections in cities and incorporated towns which are divided into election districts or wards, shall be made to the clerk or recorder of the corporation, and shall be opened by him on the third day after election. He shall call to his assistance the mayor of the corporation, or if there be no mayor, or the mayor shall have been a candidate at such election, then any justice of the peace of the county, and shall, in his presence, make out an abstract and ascertain the candidates elected in all respects as required by law for the canvass of the returns of county elections, and shall, in like manner, make out a certificate as to each candidate so elected, and cause the same to be delivered to him or to be left at his place of abode.

SEC. 504. [Oath of office: bond: vacancy.]—All officers elected or appointed in any municipal corporation shall take an oath or affirmation to support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Iowa, and the trustees or council of any municipal corporation may require from such officers, as they may think proper, a bond, with proper penalty and surety, for the faithful discharge of the duties of their office; and such trustees or council shall have the power to declare the office of any person appointed or elected to any office who shall fail to take the oath of office, or give bond when required, for ten days after he shall have been notified of appointment or election, vacant, and proceed to appoint as in other cases of vacancy.

SEC. 505. The compensation of the council or trustees shall not exceed one dollar to each member for every regular or special meeting of the board, and shall not exceed fifty dollars to each in any one year.

SEC. 506. [Jurisdiction of mayor.]—The mayor of each city or incorporated town shall be a magistrate and conservator of the peace, and, within the same, have the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in all matters, civil and criminal, arising under the laws of the state or the ordinances of such city or town; and the rules of law regulating proceedings before a justice of the peace shall be applicable to proceedings before such mayor; but the criminal jurisdiction hereby conferred shall be co-extensive with the county in which such city or town is situated.

This section has reference to mayors of cities of the second-class and incorporated towns, and does not apply to police courts in cities of the first-class. In the latter a party arrested and brought to trial for the violation of a city ordinance cannot demand a change of venue to a justice of the peace, nor is he entitled to a jury trial. Zelle v. McHenry, 51 Iowa, 572.

The mayor of a city is not entitled to recover fees from the county for services rendered as a magistrate in state cases under this section. Upton v. Clinton County, 52 Id., 311.

An appeal lies to the district court from the judgment of a mayor in a prosecution under the general law for the violation of an ordinance of the town. The State v. for the use, etc., v. Hoag, 46 Id., 337.

A change of venue may be taken from the court of a mayor of a city or incorporated town to that of a justice of the peace. Finch v. Marvin, Id., 384.

This section gives the mayor the same jurisdiction in civil cases as a justice of the peace, and therefore, his jurisdiction extends to a case brought before him by a resident of his incorporated town, against a resident of the county, though not of the corporation or township in which it is situated, by a notice served on the defendant within his township, but out of the corporation and of the township including the town. Weber v. Hamilton et al., 34 N. W. R., 424.

The rule that a mayor of a city or incorporated town may properly take judicial notice of the city ordinances was not changed by this section of the code. The Town of Laporte City v. Goodfellow, 47 Iowa, 572.

The jurisdiction of mayors of cities and incorporated towns over persons guilty of violations of municipal ordinances, is not exclusive, and a justice of the peace may issue a warrant for the arrest of one charged with such offense, and detain him in custody until the day of trial. Jaquith v. Royce, 42 Id., 496.

SEC. 507. [How classified.]—In respect to the exercise of certain corporate powers and duties of certain officers, municipal corporations are divided into cities of the first and cities of the second class, and incorporated towns.

SEC. 508. [Defined by population.]—Every municipal corporation having a population of fifteen thousand and upward shall be a city of the first class; every municipal corporation having a population exceeding two thousand, but not exceeding fifteen thousand, shall be a city of the second class; and every municipal corporation having a population not exceeding two thousand shall be deemed an incorporated town.

SEC. 509. [Governor, auditor and secretary to classify.]—The governor, auditor, secretary of state, or any two of them, within six months after the returns of any census, (taken by the authority of the state or any town or city council,) have been filed in the office of secretary of state, shall ascertain what cities of the second class are entitled to become cities of the first class, and what incorporated towns are entitled to become cities of their proper class. And the governor shall cause a statement thereof to be prepared by the secretary of state, which statement shall be published in some newspaper published in the city of Des Moines, and also in some newspaper printed in each of the cities and incorporated towns the grade of which shall have been so advanced, and a copy of said statement shall also be transmitted by the secretary of state to the next general assembly, and any such city or incorporated town shall, at the next regular annual period for the election of municipal officers, proceed to organize according to its new grade, by the election of officers properly belonging thereto, and on their election and qualification the term of service of any former officer expires.

SEC. 510. [When class is changed, the proper ordinances to be passed.]—So soon as the statement shall be published, as above provided, showing that any city or incorporated town will be entitled, at the next regular annual period for the election of municipal officers, to be organized into a city of the first or second class, as the case may be, the proper authority of such city or incorporated town shall make and publish such ordinances as may be necessary to perfect such organization in respect to the election, duties and compensation of officers or otherwise.
OF INCORPORATED TOWNS.

SEC. 511. (As amended by ch. 9, laws 17th g. a.) [Officers of incorporated towns.—The corporate authority of incorporated towns, organized for general purposes, shall be vested in one mayor, one recorder, and six trustees, to be elected by the people, who shall be qualified electors residing within the limits of the corporation, and who shall constitute the council of the incorporated town, any five of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The mayor and recorder shall hold their offices for one year, and the trustees shall hold their office for three years. At the first election after this law is in force six trustees shall be elected, two of whom shall serve for one year, two for two years, and two for three years, to be determined by lot at the first meeting of the council after the trustees are qualified, and thereafter two trustees shall be elected annually.)

SEC. 512. (As substituted by chap. 146, 18th g. a.) (The mayor shall preside at all meetings of the council, and shall have the right to vote upon all questions coming before the council. In the absence of the mayor the council shall elect one of their number to preside pro tempore. The recorder shall be clerk of the corporation and shall attend all meetings of the council, and shall make a fair and accurate record of all proceedings, rules and ordinances made and passed by the council, and the same shall at all times be open to the inspection of the electors of the corporation, but in no event shall the recorder have the right to vote on any question before the council.)

SEC. 513. [Vacancies.—The council shall have power to order special elections to fill vacancies, which may happen in the board, from the qualified electors of the corporation, who shall hold their office until the next annual election and until their successors are elected and qualified, and in the absence of the mayor and recorder from any meeting of the council the council shall have power to appoint any two of their number to perform the duties of mayor and recorder for the time being.

SEC. 514. [Election of officers.—The council of any incorporated town shall have power to provide by ordinance for the election of a treasurer, and such subordinate officers as they may deem necessary for the good government of the corporation, to prescribe their duties and compensation, or the fees they shall be entitled to receive for their services, and to require of them an oath of office, and a bond, with surety, for the faithful discharge of their duties. The election of any such officer shall be at the regular annual election, and no appointment of any officer shall endure beyond one week after the qualification of the members of the succeeding council.

SEC. 515. A marshal shall be appointed by the trustees, and shall be the principal ministerial officer of the corporation, and shall have the same power that constables have by law, co-extensive with the county, for offenses committed within the limits of the corporation. He shall execute the process of the mayor, and receive the same fees for his services that constables are allowed in similar cases.

SEC. 516. [Officers may be removed.—By the concurrent vote of five members of the council, the mayor, recorder, or any member of the council, or any officer of the corporation, may be removed from office; but no such removal shall be made without a charge in writing being made and an opportunity of hearing being given, unless the officer against whom the charge is made shall have removed out of the limits of the corporation, and when any officer shall cease to reside within the limits of the corporation, it shall be deemed a good ground for removal from office.
A municipal corporation possesses and can exercise the following powers, and none others: 1. Those granted in express words; 2. Those necessarily implied, or necessarily incident to the powers expressly granted; 3. Those absolutely essential to the declared objects and purposes of the corporation—and not simply convenient, but not indispensable; and any fair doubt as to the existence of a power will be resolved by the courts against the corporation and the existence of the power.

A municipal corporation having authority to hold and dispose of lands granted to it, possesses the incidental powers the same as individuals, to do, through its proper officers, whatever in their person, and these may be abrogated, while rights cannot; 3. While the legislature can control the private rights, and in the exercise of a power not thus created, is of no validity.

The State v. Wapello County, 13 Id., 56. Dissenting opinions.

The attempted exercise of powers not conferred is equally illegal with the exercise of a prohibited power.

The subsequent recognition by a municipal corporation of acts done in the exercise of a prohibited power will not estop the corporation to afterward deny the validity of the acts.

The general assembly may delegate to municipal corporations the power to enact ordinances which, when authorized, have within the corporate limits the force and effect of laws enacted by the state legislature. The Des Moines Gas Company v. The City of Des Moines, 44 Id., 505.

Municipal corporations may not be divested of their corporate powers, and they are in no sense vested with a right as against the state, yet it may not be lawfully deprived of its right to collect taxes which have been legally levied, because, 1. A municipal corporation has a private character in which it may acquire property and make contracts; 2. There is no such distinction as public rights and private rights, the same rights being common to both corporations and natural persons. Corporations, however, may be clothed with powers which cannot be conferred upon the natural person, and these may be abrogated, while rights cannot; 3. While the legislature can control the corporate property, its power is limited in this respect, to the purposes for which the city exists; 4. A release of municipal taxes, which have already been levied, by a statute which provides for a different kind of taxation, is not a commutation of taxes within legislative authority.

McPherson v. Foster Brothers, 43 Id., 48.

Although a municipal corporation may be divested of its corporate powers, and are in no sense vested with a right as against the state, yet it may not be lawfully deprived of its right to collect taxes which have been legally levied, because, 1. A municipal corporation has a private character in which it may acquire property and make contracts; 2. There is no such distinction as public rights and private rights, the same rights being common to both corporations and natural persons. Corporations, however, may be clothed with powers which cannot be conferred upon the natural person, and these may be abrogated, while rights cannot; 3. While the legislature can control the corporate property, its power is limited in this respect, to the purposes for which the city exists; 4. A release of municipal taxes, which have already been levied, by a statute which provides for a different kind of taxation, is not a commutation of taxes within legislative authority. Per Beck, J., in The City of Dubuque v. The Il/ Central R'y Co., 39 Id., 56. Dissenting opinions.

The term "municipal corporations" includes and especially refers to cities and towns, counties, and school districts, etc. Hull v. Marshall County, 11 Id., 142; The State v. Wapello County, 13 Id., 359; Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Carroll County, 37 Id., 152.

A municipal corporation having authority to hold and dispose of lands granted to it, possesses the incidental powers the same as individuals, to do, through its proper officers, whatever in their judgment may be necessary to preserve and perfect its interests in and to the same. Allen v. Cerro Gordo County, 34 Id., 54.

It is a well settled principle that a municipal corporation cannot exercise the power or right of taxation unless such power is expressly given to it by the legislature. Clarke, Dodge & Co. v. The City of Davenport, 14 Id., 494; The State v. Smith, 31 Id., 493.

No property can be taxed until the legislature authorizes it to be done, and when the act requires it to be done in a particular manner, that manner alone can be pursued. The City of Davenport v. The M. & M. R'y Co., 12 Id., 539.

SEC. 518. (As amended by ch. 58, 16th g. a.) [Election of mayor: term: qualification: duties.].—The mayor shall be elected biennially in cities of the first class, and annually in cities of the second class, by the qualified voters of the city. He shall be a qualified elector and reside within the limits of the city, and shall hold his office for the term for which he shall have been elected and qualified. He shall keep an office at some convenient place in the city, to be provided by the council, and shall keep the corporate seal of the city in his charge; [he shall act as president of the council:] he shall sign all commissions, licenses, and permits granted by the authority of the city council, and such other acts as by law or ordinance may require his certificate. (As amended by ch. 141, 21st g. a.) [His term of office shall be for two years, the first term dating from the first Monday in March, 1887.]

Prior to the amendment of this section the mayor of cities of the second class was not ex officio a member of the city council, nor had he a right to preside over the same. Cochran v. McCleary, 22 Iowa, 75.

SEC. 519. In case of the mayor’s death, disability, resignation, or other vacation in his office, the city council shall order a special election, as soon as practicable, to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the term of office, and may appoint some qualified elector to act as mayor until such special election. The mayor of the city shall be its chief executive officer and conservator of the peace, and it shall be his special duty to cause the ordinances and the regulations of the city to be faithfully and constantly obeyed; he shall supervise the conduct of all the officers of the city, examine the grounds of all reasonable complaints made against any of them, and cause all the violations of their duty, or their neglect, to be promptly corrected or reported to the proper tribunal for punishment and correction; he shall have and exercise within the city limits the powers conferred upon the sheriffs of counties to suppress disorders and keep the peace; he shall also perform such other duties, compatible with the nature of his office, as the council may from time to time require; he shall receive such salary, payable quarterly out of the city treasury, as may be provided by ordinance; but the amount of such salary shall neither be increased nor diminished during an incumbent’s term of office.

SEC. 520. [The numbers, divisions, and boundaries of the several wards of all cities heretofore incorporated, shall remain as fixed when this code goes into operation, until changed by the city council. Said council may, at any time, create new wards, or alter those now established, or the boundaries thereof, as may be deemed expedient; but in cities of the second class the number of wards now existing shall not be increased to a greater number than seven, nor decreased to a less number than three.] (As substituted by ch. 26, 18th g. a.)

SEC. 521. [Election of members of council.].—[In cities of the second class the qualified electors of each ward shall, on the first Monday of March of each year, elect by a plurality of votes one member of the city council, who shall at the time be a resident of the ward and a qualified elector therein. His term of office shall be two years, so that there may always be in the council two members from the same ward whose time of office shall expire in different years; but at the first election held on the organization of a new city government under this chapter, two members of the city council shall be elected in each ward, and the city council shall determine by lot their time of service, so that one trustee from each ward may serve for two years, and one for one year.

(As amended by ch. 25, 19th g. a.) [Same: cities of first class.]—[In cities of the first class the qualified electors of each ward shall, on the first Monday of March of the year 1882, elect, by a plurality of votes, one member of the city council, who shall at the time be a resident of the ward and a qualified elector thereof. And in the same year the qualified electors of cities of this class shall also elect two members at large of such city council, each of whom shall be a resident and qualified elector of the city in which he shall be elected. But, in order that their term of service expire in different years, the council, at the first regular meeting, shall determine by lot which of the aldermen at large shall serve one, and which two years. The term of service of the other aldermen shall be determined in the same way, time and manner; in cases where the number is uneven the majority shall serve one year. On the first Monday of March of each year thereafter the qualified electors shall elect for the term of two years one alderman at large and one in each ward where the term of its alderman expires. Provided, that when any city of the first class embraces within its corporate limits the whole or parts of two or more different townships, two of which townships or parts thereof contain one thousand electors each, that only one of the aldermen at large herein provided for shall be elected from any one of such townships or parts of townships.]

Sec. 522. [Organization of council: duties: shall choose clerk.]—The members elected for each city shall, on the second Monday after their election, assemble together and organize the city council. A majority of the whole number of members shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; they shall be judges of the election returns and qualifications of their own members; they shall determine the rule of their proceedings and keep a journal thereof, which shall be open to the inspection and examination of any citizen; they may compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as they shall think fit to prescribe, and shall elect from their own body a temporary president; they shall also appoint, from the qualified electors of the city, a city clerk who shall have the custody of all the laws and ordinances of the city, and shall keep a regular and correct journal of the proceedings of the council, and shall perform such other duties as may be required by the ordinance of the city. The clerk in office at the expiration of the term of service of any council, shall continue in office until his successor shall be appointed and qualified.

Prior to the act of the eighteenth general assembly, chapter 120, it was held that in the organization of the city council in cities of the second class the mayor was not ex officio a member of, and was not entitled to preside over the city council. Cochran v. McCleary, 22 Iowa, 75. But see section 531, post.

Sec. 523. [Provide seal for clerk: fees of.]—Each city council shall cause to be provided for the clerk’s office a seal, in the center of which shall be the name of the city, and around the margin the words “city clerk,” which shall be affixed to all transcripts, orders, or certificates which may be necessary or proper to authenticate under the provisions of this chapter or any ordinances of the city. For all attested certificates and transcripts other than those ordered by the city council, the same fees shall be paid to the clerk as are allowed to county officers for the same services.

Sec. 524. [Powers of council enumerated: compensation of officers.]—The city council shall possess all the legislative powers granted in this chapter and other corporate powers of the city not herein, or by some ordinance of the city council, conferred on some officer of the city; they shall have the management and control of the finances, and all the property, real and personal, belonging to the corporation; they shall determine the times and places of holding their meetings, which shall at all times be open to the public; and the mayor, or any three members, may call special meetings by notice to each of the members of the council personally served, or left at his usual place of abode; they shall appoint or provide by ordinance, that the qualified electors of the city, or of the wards or districts, as the case may require, shall elect all such city officers as may be necessary for the good government of the city, and for the due exercise of its corporate powers, and which shall have been provided for by ordinance, as to whose election or appointment provision has not herein been made; and all city officers whose term of service is not prescribed, and whose powers and duties are not defined by this chapter, shall perform such duties, exercise such powers, and continue in office such term of time, not exceeding one year, as shall be prescribed by ordinance; but all officers to be elected shall be elected at the regular annual election for municipal corporations. The officers of cities shall receive such compensation and fees for their services as the council shall by ordinance prescribe.

Where neither the duties nor the compensation of a city solicitor are prescribed by the city council, it is the duty of such solicitor, unless otherwise instructed, to perform such services as the interests of the city require, and he may recover therefor what they are reasonably worth. Kinney v. The City of Waverly, 42 Iowa, 486.

A city is not liable for the negligence of its officers or agents in executing sanitary regulations, adopted for the purpose of preventing the spread of contagious diseases, or in taking the care and custody of persons afflicted with such disease, or the houses in which such persons are kept. In executing these legislative functions the city acts as a quasi sovereignty, and is not responsible to individuals for the negligence or nonfeasance of its officers or agents. Oggy v. City of Lansing, 35 Id., 495.

Sec. 526. [Regulates markets, etc.]—No charge of assessment of any kind shall be made or levied on any wagon or other vehicle, or the horses thereto attached, or on the owner thereof, bringing produce or provisions to any of the markets in the city, for standing in or occupying a place in any of the market spaces of the city, or in the streets contiguous thereto, on market days and evenings previous thereto; but the city council shall have full power to prevent forestalling, to prohibit or regulate huckstering in the markets, to prescribe the kind and description of articles which may be sold, and the stands or places to be occupied by the vendors, and may authorize the immediate seizure and arrest, or removal from the markets of any person violating its regulations as established by ordinance, together with any article of produce in their possession, and the immediate seizure and destruction of tainted or unsound meat or other provisions.

Sec. 527. [Control highways, bridges, streets and public squares.]—The city council shall have the care, supervision and control of all public highways, bridges, streets, alleys, public squares and commons within the city, and shall cause the same to be kept open and in repair, and free from nuisances; all public bridges exceeding forty feet in length, over any stream crossing a state or county highway, shall be constructed and kept in repair by the county; provided, that the city council may appropriate a sum not exceeding ten dollars per lineal foot to aid in the construction of any county bridge within the limits of such city, or may appropriate a like sum to aid in the construction of any bridge contiguous to said city on a highway leading to the same, or any bridge across any unnavigable river which divides the county in which said city is located from another state; and that no street or alley which shall hereafter be dedicated to public use by the proprietor of the ground in any city, shall be deemed a public street or alley, or to be under the use or control of the city council, unless the dedication shall be accepted and confirmed by an ordinance especially passed for such purpose.

A city is liable for lumber furnished to repair a bridge situated on a county road, but within the corporate limits of the city. Tubbs v. The City of Maquoketa, 32 Iowa, 564.

A city is liable for injuries resulting from the defective condition of the streets, bridges and sidewalks within its corporate limits when such defects are caused by the negligence of the city. Busch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 443; Manderscheid v. The City of Dubuque, 39 Id., 79;

Burden of proof.—In an action for damages resulting from an injury caused by a defective street or bridge, the plaintiff, in order to be entitled to recover, must not only show negligence on the part of the city, but must show that he was exercising ordinary care and diligence on his own part. Rusch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 443; O’Laughlin v. The City of Dubuque, 42 Id., 399; Murphy v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 45 Id., 661; Cramer v. The City of Burlington, 42 Id., 315.

Reasonable care.—The reasonable care to be shown by the plaintiff is such care as persons of common prudence generally exercise, and whether he has exercised such degree of care is a question of fact, or a mixed question of law and fact, to be determined by the jury under the direction of the court. Rusch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 443; Cramer v. The City of Burlington, 42 Id., 315.

Negligence is the omitting to do something that a reasonable person would do, or the doing of something that a reasonable person would not do. Rusch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 443.

A city is not released from liability for negligence in the construction of a culvert within its limits by the fact that the money for its construction was appropriated by the board of supervisors of the county. Van Pelt v. The City of Davenport, 42 Id., 308.

Where a city has employed a competent engineer in the construction of a culvert, and he, in the honest exercise of his judgment, has failed to make it of sufficient capacity to avoid injury to property, the city is not liable for the injurious results of his error in judgment. Id.

The city is, nevertheless, bound to the exercise of reasonable care, judgment and skill in the construction of culverts rendered necessary by the extension of its streets, and, upon a failure to do so, liability attaches. Id.

One who could have protected his property from injury by a reasonable expenditure cannot recover from another, by whose negligence he has suffered the injury, more than the amount which would have been expended in securing such protection. Id. See, also, Simpson v. Simpson, 34 Id., 568.

The mere existence of a defect in a sidewalk of a city, not resulting from defective construction, is not sufficient to establish negligence on the part of the corporation, and in order to render it liable for an injury caused thereby, express notice of the defect must be brought home to the city, or the defect must have been so notorious as to be observable by all passers by. Donlan et ux v. The City of Clinton, 33 Id., 397; Cramer v. The City of Burlington, 39 Id., 512.

The knowledge of two or more of the citizens of a city that a sidewalk is in a dangerous condition is not notice thereof to the city. To render it liable for resulting injuries it must either have express notice of a defect not in the original construction, or the fact must be notorious. Cramer v. The City of Burlington, 39 Id., 512.

Where the officers of a city have knowledge of the construction of improvements in a negligent manner, it is no defense against the consequences of such negligence that it was not authorized by the city council, which was charged with the duty of making the improvements. Powers v. The City of Council Bluffs, 50 Id., 197.

Section 527 of the code which provides that the county shall construct and maintain all bridges over forty feet in length over streams crossing the public highways, does not change section 303 of the code, which requires the board of supervisors to build all bridges which may be needed in their counties; so in an action against a county to recover damages caused by a defective bridge, the liability does not depend upon the length of the bridge. Casey v. Tama County, 37 N. W. R., 138.

The negligent permission of an obstruction in a street from snow and ice being deposited there from natural causes, whereby injury results to a traveler, will render the city liable. Collins v. Council Bluffs, 32 Iowa, 324, 328.

What is or is not a “negligent permission” of an obstruction caused by ice and snow, does not appear in the report of the case last cited. The facts do not appear in the report, but by reference to the printed abstract we find that it was alleged and proved without conflict that the snow had fallen from time to time, which was trodden upon and not removed until a ridge of trodden snow was formed in the middle of the sidewalk; that water had flowed over the walk and frozen. This ridge was from sixteen to eighteen inches wide, and varied in height from three to six inches, and formed a series of hummocks. It was very slippery and uneven on the surface. We have been unable to find any case holding the corporation liable for the results of mere slipperiness of a sidewalk arising from a smooth surface of ice or snow accumulated upon it. On the contrary, all the cases of that kind, so far as we have been able to discover, hold that there is no liability on the part of the city. See Stone v. The Town of Hubbardton, 100 Mass., 50; Stanton v. City of Springfield, 12 Allen (Mass.), 566; Cook v. The City of Milwaukee, 24 Wis., 270; Ward v. Jefferson, 1 Id., 342; and see cases cited in Dillon on Munic. Corp., Sec. 793, under “snow and ice.”
Damages—In the case of Collins v. The City of Council Bluffs, as reported in 32 Iowa, 324, the court held that the verdict of $15,000 damages was not excessive. But on a rehearing on this question it was held otherwise, and a majority of the court required the plaintiff to remit $5,000 and accept $10,000, or a new trial would have been granted. Buck J., dissenting. See the report of the case in 33 Iowa, 432. It will be seen that Cole J., was of the opinion that any sum above $5,000 was excessive.

The measure of damages in an action against a city for injury to property, alleged to be damaged by an overflow of water caused by a negligently constructed culvert, is the actual damages sustained by the property from the overflow at the time of its occurrence. Van Fleet v. The City of Davenport, 42 Id., 388.

A person who could have protected his property from injury by a reasonable expenditure cannot recover from another, by whose negligence he has suffered the injury, more than the amount which would have been expended to secure such protection. Id.

If a party know of a defect in a street or sidewalk of a city, or if it is apparent and can be seen by him with the exercise of ordinary care and prudence, and he imprudently and recklessly goes into or upon the same and is injured in consequence of such imprudence, he cannot recover of the city. Rusch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 442.

If a person with knowledge of a defect in a street or walk, or if the defect be apparent and can be seen by him and avoided with the exercise of ordinary care, he cannot recover. Id.

Conceding that it is the duty of a road supervisor to make slight repairs to a county bridge and its approaches, still the same duty devolves upon the county when the repairs are not made by the supervisor. Roby v. Appanoose County, 63 Id., 113. See also, Laughlin v. The City of Washington, 625.

In an action against a city for damages for injuries caused by a defective bridge, evidence respecting the conduct of the city after the accident is not admissible to show that the bridge was a city bridge, for the maintenance of which in good repair the city was liable. Holmes v. The City of Humbury, 47 Id., 348.

A city is required to maintain its bridges only in reasonable and ordinarily good repair. Absolute perfection of condition is not required. Id.

Section 527 of the code provides, in substance, that before a street or alley dedicated by the owner to public use in a city shall be deemed public, the city council must accept and confirm such dedication by an ordinance specially passed for that purpose. But where the city council, by resolution, directed its committee on streets and alleys to examine the ground covered by the plat did not become public, and that the city was not liable for injuries occasioned by obstructions in such streets. Laughlin v. The City of Washington, 63 Id., 652.

The term "municipal corporations" includes and especially refers to cities, towns, counties, school districts, etc. Hull et al. v. Marshall County, 11 Id., 142; The State, etc., v. Wapello County, 13 Id., 389; Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Carroll County, 37 Id., 152.

A municipal corporation, having authority to hold and dispose of lands granted to it, possesses the incidental power, the same as individuals, to do, through its proper officers, whatever in their judgment may be necessary to preserve and perfect its interests in and title to the same. Allen v. Cerro Gordo County, 34 Id., 54.
It is a well settled principle that a municipal corporation cannot exercise the power or right of taxation unless such power is expressly given to it by the legislature. Clarke, Dodge & Co. v. The City of Davenport, 14 Id., 494; The State v. Smith, 31 Id., 493.

No property can lawfully be taxed until the legislature authorizes and requires it to be done, and when the act requires it to be done in a particular way, that way alone can be pursued. The City of Davenport v. The M. & M. R. Co., 12 Id., 559.

In an action against a city for damages caused by a defective bridge, evidence respecting the conduct of the city after the accident is not admissible to show that the bridge was a city bridge, for the maintenance of which in good repair the city was liable. Holmes v. The City of Hamburg, 47 Id., 348.

A city is required to maintain its bridges only in reasonably and ordinarily good repair. Absolute perfection of condition is not required. Id.

The provisions of section 527, that the county shall construct and maintain all bridges over forty feet in length over streams crossing public highways, does not change section 308 of the code, which requires the board of supervisors to build all bridges which may be needed in their counties. So, in an action against a county for damages occasioned by a defective bridge, the liability of the county does not depend upon the length of the bridge. Casey v. Tama County, 57 N. W. R., 138.

SEC. 528. [Wharves: docks: piers: wharfage: dockage: rates fixed: harbor masters: certified copies of survey.]—The city council shall have power to establish and construct and regulate landing places, wharves, docks, piers and basins, and to fix the rates of landing, wharfage and dockage, and to use for the purpose aforesaid any public building or any property belonging to or under the control of the city, and the city council shall have the use and control, for the above purpose, of the shore or bank of any lake or river not the property of individuals, to the extent, and in any manner, that the state can grant such use or control. The city council shall have the power to appoint or to provide that the qualified electors shall elect harbor masters, wharf masters, port wardens, and other officers usual and proper for the regulation and navigation, trade, or commerce of such city, to define their duties and powers, and to fix their fees or compensation. Copies of examination and surveys, and of the proceedings of any port warden in the usual discharge of the duties of such officers, certified under his hand and seal, shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein duly stated.

The city council have authority to pass an ordinance prohibiting those owning lots abutting on the stream navigated, from using any other place than the wharf, as established by the city authorities, without the permission of the city and payment of the ordinary wharfage fees. The City of Dubuque v. Stout, 32 Iowa, 80; s. c., Id., 47.

An ordinance of a city requiring the payment of wharfage fees is not in conflict with the constitution, even though it exact payment from vessels when they are moored at places where no wharves have been provided. The City of Kebab et al. v. The N. L. P. Co., 45 Id., 194.

A city may prescribe by ordinance the fees which shall be paid for the use of the wharves within its limits, and this power is subject only to the limitation that those fees shall be reasonable. Id.

Where a city is authorized by its charter to establish and regulate the use of wharves, fix the rates of wharfage, and regulate the anchorage and mooring of boats and rafts, it possesses, and may by ordinance exercise, the incidental power of prohibiting any and all persons, including those owning lots abutting on the stream navigated, from using any other place than the wharf, as established by the city authorities, without the permission of the city and payment of the ordinary wharfage fees. The City of Dubuque v. Stout, 32 Iowa, 80; s. c., Id., 47.

An ordinance of a city requiring the payment of wharfage fees is not in conflict with the constitution, even though it exact payment from vessels when they are moored at places where no wharves have been provided. The City of Kebab et al. v. The N. L. P. Co., 45 Id., 196.

Wharfage fees thus levied do not constitute a tax but are to be regarded simply as compensation exacted for the use of the wharves. Id.
SEC. 529. [License and regulate ferries.]—The city council of any city shall have the exclusive power to establish and to regulate, and to license ferries from such city, or any landing therein, to the opposite shore, or from one part of said city to another, and in granting such license to impose such reasonable terms and restrictions in relation to the keeping of such ferries, and the time, manner, and rates of the carriage and transportation of persons and property as the city council may prescribe, and the city council shall have power to provide for the revocation of any such license, and for the punishment by proper fines and penalties of the violation of any ordinance prohibiting unlicensed ferries, or regulating those established and licensed.

SEC. 530. [Removal from office, and vacancies.] Any member of the city council may be expelled or removed from office by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to the city council, but not a second time for the same cause; any officer appointed by the city council may be removed from office by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to the city council, and provision may be made by ordinance as to the mode in which charges shall be preferred and a hearing be had; in all cases of vacancy in the city council they shall be filled by special election, and in case any office of an elective officer, except members of the city council, shall become vacant before the regular expiration of the term thereof, the vacancy shall be filled by the city council until a successor is elected and qualified, and such successor shall be elected for the unexpired term at the first annual election that occurs after the vacancy shall have happened.

The right to a public franchise or office cannot be determined in equity upon an original bill for an injunction. Quo warranto is the proper remedy. Cochran v. McCleary, 22 Iowa, 75.

SEC. 531. (As repealed and substituted by ch. 120, 18th g. a.) [The mayor of cities of the second class shall be the presiding officer of the city council, and shall constitute a member of such council, and shall have a casting vote when there is a tie in all cases including the election of officers and passage of ordinances, and all other matters provided for in sections 489 and 493 of the code.]

Prior to the substitution of this section as the law stood under the revision, chapter 57, the mayor was not a member of the city council, and had no right to preside therein. Cochran v. McCleary, 22 Iowa, 75.

An Act in relation to the jurisdiction of mayors of cities of the second class and incorporated towns with reference to violations of city ordinances.

SECTION 1. [Mayor has exclusive jurisdiction under ordinances.] Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The mayor of cities of the second class or incorporated towns, shall have exclusive jurisdiction of violations of the city ordinances, provided, that if he is unable to hold court, or in case of his absence from the city or town, the action may be brought before any justice of the peace having an office in the city or town. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 532. (As amended by ch. 141, 21st g. a.) [Election of officers and terms.]—The qualified electors of each city of the second class shall elect a city treasurer, who shall hold his office for two years, and a city solicitor, who shall hold his office for two years; each of said officers shall have such powers and perform such duties as are prescribed in this chapter, or by any ordinance of the city council not inconsistent therewith. In all such cities the marshal, deputy marshal, and police, shall be elected by the city council, and shall hold their offices during its pleasure.

SEC. 533. [Powers and duties of marshal.]—The marshal of the cities of the second class shall execute and return all writs and processes to him directed by the mayor, and in criminal cases, or cases in violation of city ordinances, he may serve the same in any part of the county; he shall suppress all riots, disturbances, and breaches of the peace, apprehend all disorderly persons in the city, and shall pursue and arrest any person fleeing from justice in any part of the state; he shall apprehend any person in the act of committing any offense against the laws of the state or ordinances of the city, and forthwith bring such person before the mayor, or other competent authority, for examination and trial; he shall have, in the discharge of his proper duties, like power, be subject to like responsibilities, and shall receive the same fees as sheriffs and constables, in similar cases.

CITIES OF FIRST CLASS.

Sec. 534. [Cities of first class: message of mayor: appointment of police.]—The mayor of the cities of the first class shall, at the first regular meeting of the city council in the month of April of every year, and at such other times as he may deem expedient, report to the city council concerning the municipal affairs of the city, and recommend such measures as to him may seem advisable; he shall appoint one chief of police and as many subordinate officers and watchmen as the city council may deem necessary, who shall hold their appointments during the pleasure of the mayor; he shall have power, in cases of emergency, to appoint as many special watchmen as he may think proper, but such appointments shall be reported to and subject to the action of the city council at its next meeting.

By section 3 of chapter 20, of the laws of 1878, so much of section 534 of the code as was suspended by chapter 33 of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly, was revived, notwithstanding subdivision 1 of section 45 of the code. This section is, therefore, in force as if it had never been repealed.

Sec. 535. [Election of officers and terms.]—The qualified electors shall elect a marshal, a civil engineer, a treasurer, an auditor, a solicitor, police judge and a superintendent of markets, who shall hold their offices for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified; each of said officers shall have such powers and perform such duties as are prescribed in this chapter, or in any ordinance of the city, not inconsistent herewith.

Sec. 536. [Powers and duties of marshal.]—The city marshal shall execute and return all process to him directed by the mayor or judge of the police court, and shall attend on the sittings of said court; he shall have power to execute any such process, by himself or deputy, in any part of the county; he shall suppress all riots, disturbances, and breaches of the peace, apprehend all persons committing any offense against the laws of this state or the ordinances of the city, and forthwith bring such person before the proper authority for examination or trial; he shall have power to pursue and arrest any person fleeing from justice in any part of the state, and to receive and execute any proper authority for the arrest and detention of criminals fleeing or escaping from other places or states, and to appoint one or more deputies for whose official acts he shall be responsible; he shall have, in the discharge of his proper duties, like powers, be subject to like responsibilities, and shall receive the same fees as sheriffs and constables in similar cases.

A city marshal, claiming and receiving a salary under a city ordinance providing that such salary shall be full compensation for his services, is estopped to deny the authority of the city to pass such ordinance, and claim fees provided for under section 536 of the code. Bryan v. City of Des Moines, 51 Iowa, 590.

A city marshal was held entitled, under this section, to receive only constable's fees in cases where constable's and sheriff's fees differ. Id.

While under this section of the code the city marshal is entitled to the same fees as the sheriff and constable in similar cases, yet the county is not liable to him for the payment of such fees, as it is to the sheriff under section 3790, and to the constable under section 3906. Christ v. Polk County, 12 West. Jur., 429.

SEC. 537. (As amended by ch. 92, 21st g. a.) [Appointment of police: powers, duties and jurisdiction thereof.]—The city council shall, by a general ordinance, direct the number of officers of the police and watchmen to be appointed. They shall also provide, in addition to the regular watch, for the appointment of a reserved watch, to consist of a suitable number of persons in each ward, to be called into duty as the council may prescribe, and by the mayor or officers of police under his direction, in special cases of emergency. The duty of the chief and other officers of the police and of the watchmen shall be under the direction of the mayor and in conformity with the ordinances of the city, to suppress all riots, disturbances and breaches of the peace; to pursue and arrest any person fleeing from justice in any part of the state; to apprehend any and all persons in the act of committing any offense against the laws of the state or the ordinances of the city, and forthwith to bring such person or persons before the police court or other competent authority for examination; and at all times to diligently and faithfully enforce all such laws, ordinances and regulations for the preservation of good order and public welfare as the city council may ordain, and for such purposes they shall have all the power of constables. The mayor, marshal, chief of police, and watchmen of the city may, upon view, arrest any person who may be guilty of a breach of the ordinances of the city, or of any crime against the laws of the state, and may, upon reasonable information, supported by affidavits, procure process for the arrest of any person who may be charged with a breach of any of the ordinances of the city. The city council shall have the power to prescribe by ordinance the width of the tires of all wagons, drays, and other vehicles habitually used in the transportation of persons and articles from one part of the city to another, or in the transportation of coal, wood, stone or lumber into the city; to establish stands for hackney-coaches, cabs, and omnibuses, (drays and express wagons), and enforce the observance and use thereof; and to fix the rates and prices for the transportation of persons and property in such coaches, cabs and omnibuses from one part of the city to another.

An Act to authorize cities organized under special charters to provide for the construction of sewers. [Additional to code, chapter 10, title IV., "Of cities and incorporated towns."]

SECTION 1. [May construct sewers.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all cities in this state organized and existing under special charters, having a population of not less than ten thousand, as shown by the last preceding state census, may provide by ordinance for the construction of sewers, or may divide the city into sewerage districts in such manner as the council may determine, and pay the cost of constructing same out of the general revenue of the city, or assess the cost upon the adjacent property, or may levy a certain sewerage tax within the sewerage district, out of which to pay for the construction of the same, which sewerage tax shall not exceed, in any one year, two mills on the dollar of the assessed value of the property within such district, or may pay a part of the cost of such construction out of the general revenue, a part by the assessment of adjacent property, and a part by levying a tax upon all the property within the sewerage district, or may pay for the same by pursuing any two of the methods herein named.
SEC. 2. [Must be done under contract.]-It shall be the duty of such city council to require the work of constructing such sewers to be done under contract therefor, to be entered into with the lowest responsible bidder, and bonds with surety for the faithful performance of such work shall be required to be given by the contractors. Provided, that all bids for such work may be rejected by such council, if by them thought to be exorbitant, and new bids ordered.

SEC. 3. All special tax levied for the construction of sewers under this act shall be payable by the owners, personally, at the time of such assessment, and shall also be a lien upon the lots and lands so assessed, and shall bear such rate of interest, and the said property assessed may be sold for the payment thereof in the same manner at any regular or adjourned sale, or special sale called therefor, with the same forfeitures, penalties and rights of redemption and certificates, and deeds on such sales shall be made in the same manner and with like effect as in case of sales for the non-payment of the ordinary annual taxes of such cities respectively, as now or hereafter provided by law in respect thereto, or the city council may provide by ordinance for the sale of such assessed property at a special tax sale to be called therefor, after giving notice therefor three consecutive weeks in one of the newspapers published in said city; the last of which publications shall be at least ten days before the day of sale.

SEC. 4. [Provide mode of making assessments.]-Such city council may provide by ordinance for the particular mode of making and returning the assessments herein authorized, and payment of such assessments may, if so directed by said council, be enforced by suit in court, in the manner and by the proceedings provided by sections 478, 479, and 481 of the code.

SEC. 5. [Sec. 465 of code not affected.]-Nothing in this act contained shall take away, impair, or interfere with the power conferred by section 465 of the code for the construction of sewers, and payment therefor in whole as therein provided.

SEC. 6. [Cross sewers.]-The city council shall have power to provide by ordinance terms and conditions on which cross sewers may be attached to or connected with main sewers; and in cases where sewers have been constructed in whole or in part by special assessment, may pay unto the parties who have been so assessed the money, or a part thereof, charged and collected for the privilege of attaching such cross sewers.

CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERS IN CITIES OF THE FIRST CLASS.

An Act to authorize cities of the first class to provide for the construction of sewers. (Addititional to code, chapter 10, title IV, concerning "cities and incorporated towns."

SECTION 1. (As amended by ch. 34, 21st g.a.) [Construction of sewers.]-Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all cities of the first class in the state may provide by ordinance for the construction of sewers, or may divide the city into sewerage districts in such manner as the council may determine, and pay the cost of constructing same out of the general revenue of the city, or assess the costs upon the adjacent property, or may levy a certain sewerage tax within the sewerage district, out of which to pay for the construction of the same, which sewerage tax shall not exceed in any one year two mills on the dollar of the assessed value of the property within such district, or may pay a part of the costs of such construction out of the general revenue, a part of the assessment of adjacent property, and a part of levying a tax upon all property within the sewerage district, or may pay for same by pursuing any two of the methods herein named.

SEC. 2. [Bids for work to be received by city council.]—It shall be the duty of such city council to require the work of constructing such sewers to be done under contract therefor, to be entered into with the lowest responsible bidder, and bonds with security for the faithful performance of such work shall be required to be given by contractors; provided, that all bids for such work may be rejected by such council if by them thought to be exorbitant, and new bids ordered.

SEC. 3. All special tax levied for the construction of sewers under this act shall be payable by the owners personally at the time of such assessment, and shall also be a lien upon the lots and lands so assessed, and shall bear such rate of interest, and the said property assessed may be sold for the payment thereof, in the same manner at any regular or adjourned sale or special sale called therefor, with the same forfeitures, penalties and right of redemption, and certificates and deeds on such sales shall be made in the same manner and with like effect as in case of sales for non-payment of the ordinary annual taxes of such cities respectively, as now or hereafter provided by law with respect thereto, or the city council may provide by ordinance for the sale of such assessed property at a special tax sale to be called therefor, after giving notice therefor three consecutive weeks in one of the newspapers published in said city, the last of which publications shall be at least ten days before the day of the sale.

SEC. 4. [Mode of assessment.]—Such city council may provide by ordinance for the particular mode of making and returning the assessments hereinbefore authorized, and payment of such assessments may, if so directed by said council, be enforced by suit in court, in the manner and by the proceedings provided for by sections four hundred and seventy-eight, four hundred and seventy-nine, and four hundred and eighty-one of the code.

SEC. 5. [Powers conferred in section 465 of code not impaired.]—Nothing in this act contained shall take away, impair, or interfere with the powers conferred by section four hundred and sixty-five of the code, for the construction of sewers, and payment therefor in whole as therein provided.

SEC. 6. [Cross-sewerage.]—The city council shall have power to provide, by ordinance, terms and conditions on which cross-sewers may be attached to and connected with main sewers; and in cases where sewers have been constructed in whole or in part by special assessment, may pay unto the parties who have been so assessed the money, or a part thereof, charged and collected for the privilege of attaching such cross-sewers.

SEC. 7. Provided, that nothing in this chapter shall be held or taken to repeal, impair, or in any manner affect chapter fifty-four, acts of the sixteenth general assembly, or any provision thereof.

The first section of this act authorizes cities of the first class to constitute the entire city one sewerage district, or to divide it into several districts, at their discretion, to be exercised to attain an equal distribution of the burdens of taxation among the tax payers in view of the benefits of the improvement to be constructed and the true interests of the city. Grimmell v. The City of Des Moines, 57 Iowa, 144, 146.

Where a city council under this chapter passed a general ordinance providing for the construction of sewers, for letting contracts for the work, for the levy of assessments to pay for the same, etc., and that the city council might, by resolution order the construction of a sewer upon any street by a majority vote, when such improvement should be asked for in a petition by a majority of the resident property holders, or by a two-thirds vote of the council if there be no such petition, held that the passage of such resolution was sufficient to authorize the construction of the sewer directed. Id. And that when such resolution did not provide for letting the contract for the work, its passage need not be upon a call of the yeas and nays. Id.

Where the sewer is a unit, although constructed on more than one street, a single assessment therefore is valid. Id. And an assessment for a sewer is not rendered invalid because the resolution ordering the same did not direct the manner of payment, this being provided for in the general ordinance. Id.

Where the party seeks to defeat an assessment upon his property for the costs of constructing a sewer on the ground that the assessment is unequal and unjust, he must first pay or offer to pay that part of the tax that is justly due. Id.

Under a city ordinance, passed in pursuance of this chapter, where the costs of a construction of a sewer was assessed against the owners of abutting lots, it was held that collection of such assessments should be enjoined, because neither said statute nor said ordinance made any provision for notice of the assessment to the owners of the property, and it did not appear that the plaintiff, as one of such owners, either petitioned for the construction of the sewer in question, or otherwise waived his right to notice and a hearing. But it seems that it would be sufficient in such case if the ordinance should provide for proper notice, even though the statute did not so provide. Gatch v. The City of Des Moines, 63 Id., 718.

SEC. 9. [Manner of levy and collection of sewer tax.]-In case the council of any city of the first class that has been or may be so organized since January first, 1881, shall assess the cost, in whole or in part, of the construction of sewers on the adjacent property, it may, instead of making said special tax payable at the time of such assessment, levy the whole of such special tax on said property at one time, and provide by ordinance, that the same shall become payable and delinquent as follows, viz: One-fifth in sixty days, one-fifth in two years, one-fifth in three years, one-fifth in four years and one fifth in five years after the levy is made. Said special tax shall be payable by the owners of the property on which it is levied at or before the time it becomes delinquent and in the installments hereinbefore mentioned, and shall be a lien upon the lots and land so assessed and upon which it is levied, shall draw interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from the time of the levy thereof until the same shall be paid or become delinquent, whichever shall first happen. The payment of each and every installment of such tax may be enforced in the same manner, under the same penalties, and by the same methods as is provided in section three or section four of the act to which this is amendatory. Provided, however, that the sale of any property for the non-payment of any installment as aforesaid shall not be taken or construed as in any manner affecting the validity of the lien on the same for any installment thereof which may subsequently become delinquent. Said taxes shall constitute a sewerage fund for the payment of the cost of constructing sewers in front, rear or through the property upon which they are levied, and shall be used for and appropriated to no other purpose than the payment in whole or in part, as the case may be, of the cost of constructing said sewers so located or any bonds which may be issued as hereinafter provided.)

SEC. 10. (As amended by ch. 7, 22d g. a.) Whenever any such city exercises the powers granted in section 9 hereof, it may, for the purpose of anticipating the collection of said special taxes, and it may for the purpose of anticipating the collection of any sewerage taxes it has power to levy under section 1 of the act to which this is supplementary, by ordinance cause to be issued its bonds, to be called “sewerage bonds;” said bonds to be issued in four series, each series, in the aggregate respectively, to be for an amount not exceeding the amount of special taxes, as provided in section nine (9) hereof which become delinquent respectively in two, three, four and five years after their levy; and for such further amount as said city may propose to levy and have the power to levy for each of the respective years aforesaid under the provisions of section 1 of the act to which this is amendatory, on the property within the sewerage district in which said sewer or sewers are to be or have been constructed. The first series to be payable in not exceeding two years from the date of their issue; the second series to be payable in not exceeding three years from the date of their issue; the third series to be payable in not exceeding four years from the date of their issue; the fourth series to be payable in not exceeding five years from the date of their issue; all of said bonds to bear interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, interest payable annually or semi-annually, as said council may provide, with interest coupons attached, to express on their face the name of the street, highway, avenue or alley on which the sewer is located, to defray the cost of which they are issued, and also that the last four installments of the special taxes assessed and levied as aforesaid on property abutting on the particular part of the street, highway, avenue or alley on which said sewer or sewers are located, as also the sewerage tax levied, or to be levied, on the property in the sewerage district to defray the cost of the particular sewer or sewers named as aforesaid in said bonds, shall be and constitute a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds and interest; and to be used and appropriated to no other purpose until the whole of said bonds, with interest, shall have been fully paid and discharged. Said bonds shall not be negotiated or sold for less than their par value, and may be respectively for amounts ranging from one hundred dollars to one thousand dollars, as said council may by ordinance provide. The proceeds arising from said bonds shall be applied exclusively to, and appropriated and used for, no other purpose than the liquidation of the costs of constructing the sewer or sewers upon the particular street, highway, avenue or alley, to defray the cost of which said bonds are issued.

Chapter 162 of the laws of 1878, does not confer upon cities the power to assess a sewer tax upon property owned by the state and used for government purposes. Polk County Savings Bank v. The State of Iowa et al., 69 Id., 24, 24.

construction of sewers.

An Act granting additional powers to certain cities of the first class in the construction of sewers and to provide for the payment of costs of the same, and to repeal a part of section 10 of chapter 25 of the acts of the twentieth general assembly.

SECTION 1. [A tax not to exceed five mills may be levied for sewer purposes.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all cities of the first class that have been organized under the general incorporation laws of the state since the first day of January, 1881, shall have power to levy a tax not exceeding five mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation of all taxable property within such cities for the purpose of creating a fund to pay the cost and expense incurred by such cities for the purpose of constructing sewers at the intersection of streets, highways, avenues, alleys or other places, where the costs and expenses incurred are not assessable against the fronting, abutting, or adjacent property as now provided by law, and to enable such city to make such sewer improvements at intersections as aforesaid, or to include and pay a part of the costs assessable against private property as is provided in section one (1) of chapter 162 acts of the twenty-ninth (twentieth) general assembly.

Sec. 2. [City sewerage bonds may be issued.]—That such cities shall have the power to anticipate said sewer tax and the collection of the same, and to issue city sewerage bonds based on the anticipated levy and collection of said tax, which said bonds when so issued, to run for a period not exceeding twenty years, and to create a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds, with accrued and accruing interest and principal, by the levy of such taxes therefor as now authorized by law, a part of the revenue of which to be appropriated for the payment of said bonds out of said sinking fund, as the city council shall provide by ordinance.

Approved April 13, 1888.
An Act to provide for the re-assessment and re-levy of special taxes and assessments.

SECTION 1. [Validates irregular special tax.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in cities of the first class and cities organized under special charter, whenever, by reason of an alleged non-conformity to any law or ordinance, or by reason of any omission or irregularity, any special tax or assessment is either invalid or its validity is questioned, the city council may make all necessary orders and ordinances, and may take all necessary steps to correct the same, and to re-assess and re-levy the same, including the ordering of work, with the same force and effect as if made at the time provided by law or ordinance relating thereto; and may re-assess and re-levy the same with the same force and effect as an original levy. Whenever any apportionment or assessment is made and any property is assessed too little or too much, the same may be corrected and re-assessed for such additional error as may be proper, or the assessment may be reduced even to the extent of refunding the tax collected.

SEC. 2. [Re-assessment of tax: mode of.]—Any special tax upon re-assessment or re-levy shall, so far as is practicable, be levied and collected as the same would have been if the first levy had been enforced.

SEC. 3. [Construction of law.]—Any provision of any law or ordinance specifying a time when, or the order in which, acts shall be done in a proceeding which may result in a special tax, shall be taken to be subject to the qualifications of this act.

SEC. 4. [Legalizes ordinances.]—Any and every ordinance or part thereof of any such city heretofore passed in substantial conformity with this act, is hereby legalized.

Approved April 16, 1888.

SEC. 538. [Infirmary for the poor.]—The city council shall have power to establish and maintain an infirmary for the accommodation of the poor of the city, either within or without the limits of the city, and to provide for the distribution of out-door relief to the poor.

SEC. 539. [House of refuge and correction: workhouse: who may be confined therein.]—The city council shall have power to establish and maintain, either within its limits or within the county in which it is situated, a house of refuge or a house of correction, and a workhouse, or either of them, and place the same under the management and control of such directors, superintendents, and other officers as the council may, by ordinance, provide. All children under the age of sixteen years, who shall be convicted of any offense made punishable by imprisonment under any ordinance of the city, or who shall be liable to be committed to prison under any such ordinance, may be confined in such house of refuge, and may be there kept, or apprenticed out, under such rules as the directors of the house of refuge may prescribe, until they arrive at the age of eighteen years. Any person over the age of sixteen years convicted of the violation of any ordinance, and liable to be punished therefor by imprisonment, may, in lieu thereof, be committed to the house of correction, or to the workhouse, as may be provided by ordinance.

SEC. 540. [Directors of: may apprentice inmates.]—The board of directors of any house of refuge established by any city, are authorized to appoint a committee of one or more of their own number with power to execute and deliver, on behalf of said board, indentures of apprenticeship for any inmate of said institution whom they may deem a proper person for an apprenticeship to a trade or occupation, to such person as said committee or the board may select; and said indentures shall have the like force and effect as other indentures of apprenticeship under the laws of this state, and said indentures shall be filed and kept in said institution by the superintendent thereof, and it shall not be necessary to file the same in any other place or office.

Sec. 541. [Liable to be re-committed.]—When any inmate of said institution has been apprenticed and prove untrustworthy and unreformed, he or she shall be re-committed to the said institution to be held in the same manner as before said apprenticeship.

Sec. 542. [City prison: watch house: police court and clerk.]—The city council shall have power to erect, establish, and maintain a city prison, which shall be in the keeping of the city marshal under such rules and regulations as the city council shall provide. They shall provide one or more watch or station houses; they shall also provide suitable rooms for holding police court; they shall provide, by ordinance, for the election by the qualified electors of the city, or for the appointment by the police judge, of a clerk of such police court, and for the selection, summoning, and impaneling its juries, and for all such matters touching such court as may tend to its efficiency, and the dispatch of business. No clerk of said court shall be in any way concerned as counsel or agent in the prosecution or defense of any person before such court.

A party arrested and brought to trial in the police court of a city of this state for the violation of a city ordinance is not entitled to a jury trial. Nor can he demand a change of venue to justice of the peace. Zelle v. McHenry et al., 51 Iowa, 572.

Where the police court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter and of the person charged, the proceeding by habeas corpus will not be to correct its errors. Id.

Sec. 543. [Power and jurisdiction of police judge.]—The police judge shall have, in all criminal cases, the powers and jurisdiction vested in justices of the peace; he shall also have power to take the acknowledgment of deeds and other writings, and shall have jurisdiction of all violations of the ordinances of the city. Every such police court shall be deemed a court of record, shall have a seal, to be provided by the city council, with the name of the state in the center, and the style of the court around the margin.

Sec. 544. [Fees of police judge.]—The police judge holding the police court shall be entitled to receive, in all criminal cases prosecuted in behalf of the state, the same fees, to be collected in the same manner, as a justice of the peace in like cases; and in cases prosecuted in behalf of the city, such fees, not exceeding those for services of the like nature in state prosecutions, as the council may, by ordinance, prescribe; and shall also receive such salary or compensation as the city council may, in like manner, prescribe.

Where a city ordinance provided that the police judge should receive in all criminal cases the same fees as a justice of the peace in like cases, and also that he should receive a salary in addition thereto of three hundred dollars per annum, provided that out of it he should pay the salary of the clerk of the court; subsequently he agreed to accept the compensation fixed by the council in payment of his services if the council would provide by ordinance for payment of the clerk, which was done. It was held, 1, that he could not recover of the city his fees in cases where judgment was rendered against the city, decided before the passage of the ordinance; 2, that he could not recover those to which he subsequently became entitled where his petition failed to show the amount of such fees; 3, that the provision of compensation for the clerk constituted a sufficient consideration for the agreement. Crane v. City of Des Moines, 47 Iowa, 105. See ch. 56, laws of 1875, post.

An ordinance of the city of Des Moines, made in pursuance of chapter 56, laws seventeenth general assembly, providing that the only compensation of the police judge shall be the salary prescribed in such ordinance, takes away the judge's right to the fees provided for in this section. The City of Des Moines v. Hillis et al., 55 Iowa, 648.

Sec. 545. The police court shall always be open for the dispatch of business; and the jurors in said court shall have the qualifications of jurors in the district court.
A person arrested and brought before the police judge, charged with the violation of a city ordinance, is not entitled to a jury trial, nor to a change of venue. Zelle v. Mefford, 13 West. Jur., 471.

SEC. 546. [Appeal.]—An appeal may be taken from the police court in like manner as from a justice of the peace, on the trial whereof the appellate court shall take judicial notice of the ordinances of the city.

SEC. 547. [Mayor to act as police judge.]—Until a police judge shall be elected and qualified, the mayor of any such city shall have all the powers and jurisdiction of such judge, and shall hold the police court in such manner as required of the police judge, and shall be entitled to demand and receive the same fees and compensation as may be provided for the police judge or police court.

SEC. 548. [Amending special charters: mode of procedure.]—On the presentation of a petition signed by one-fourth of the electors, as shown by the vote of the next preceding charter election, of any city or town acting under a special charter or act of incorporation, to the governing body thereof, asking that the question of the amendment of such special charter or act of incorporation be submitted to the electors of such city or town, such governing body shall, immediately, propose sections amendatory of said charter or act of incorporation, and submit the same, as requested, at the first ensuing charter election. At least ten days before said election, the mayor of such city or town shall issue his proclamation setting forth the nature and character of such amendment, and shall cause such proclamation to be published in a newspaper published therein; or, if there be none, he shall cause the same to be posted in five public places in such city or town. On the day specified the amendment shall be submitted to the electors thereof for adoption or rejection, and the form of the ballots shall be “for the amendment,” or “against the amendment.”

This section was held, in Von Phul v. Hammer, 29 Iowa, 222, not to be in conflict with section 30 of article 3 of the constitution, prohibiting the legislature from passing local or special laws for the incorporation of towns and cities.

SEC. 549. If a majority of the votes cast is in favor of said amendment, the mayor, or chief officer, shall issue his proclamation accordingly; and the said amendment shall thereafter constitute a part of said charter.

SEC. 550. The legislative body of said city or town may submit any amendment to the vote of the people as aforesaid at any special election; provided, one-half the electors as aforesaid petition for that purpose, and the proceedings shall be the same as at the general election.

SEC. 551. [Prior laws repealed: corporations acting under special charters not affected thereby.]—All acts and parts of acts passed subsequent to the fourth day of July, A. D. 1858, and prior to the taking effect of this code, relating to cities of the first and second class and incorporated towns, or to any or either of said classes of municipal corporations, and applicable, both to such corporations as acting under special charter, and to such as are incorporated under the general act of which this chapter is an amendment, are repealed by the code only so far as they affect the latter, and not as they affect corporations acting under special charters. All rights, powers, privileges, duties, directions and provisions whatever, contained in and enacted by such acts and parts of acts, shall remain in full force and effect so far as municipal corporations acting under special charters are concerned, and the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to any city or town incorporated prior to the eighteenth day of July, A. D. 1858, unless the same be adopted as hereinbefore provided.

This section does not control section 431 of the code, providing that cities may institute proceedings in the circuit court for the annexation of contiguous territory under certain conditions, with respect to its operation upon cities acting under special charters. City of Burlington v. Lesbrick et al., 43 Iowa, 252.
An Act to empower cities and towns to make contracts with railroad companies for the use of wagon bridges across rivers.

Section 1. (As amended by ch. 173, 21st g. a.) [Cities located on any river shall have power to contract with bridge companies for use of bridge.]

That all cities situated on any river in the state of Iowa or any river forming the boundary line of the said state, whether organized and existing under special charter or general law, and from which to the opposite shore of any of said rivers a bridge has been or may be constructed by any railroad or other private company, corporation or person, shall have power to contract with the company, corporation or person owning such bridge for the use of the same as a public highway; which use may be jointly with any company, corporation or person having or desiring the right to use the same for the passage of cars propelled by steam or otherwise, or may be for the sole use of such portion of such bridge as may be devoted and adapted to highway travel, and in such contract may have the right to assume the sole or any portion of the liability for damage to persons or property by reason of their being on any portion of said bridge or on any approach to either end thereof caused by the running of cars or locomotives by any corporation, company or person entitled to use the said bridge, whether the damage results from the negligence of the persons engaged in running said cars or locomotives or otherwise, and to indemnify and save harmless the owners of said bridge, and any or all corporations, companies or persons entitled to use the same from all liability or damage so caused to the extent or proportion thereof assumed in the said contract. And the said city may cause to be assessed and levied, each year, upon the taxable property of said city a tax not exceeding ten (10) mills on the dollar, each year, to raise a special fund to carry out the terms of the said contract. And the said city may thereafter, and during the continuance of said contract, manage and control the said bridge so far as necessary to regulate the highway travel thereon, and may regulate the same a free or toll bridge, and prescribe such rates of toll as to it, from time to time, shall seem proper, and make all necessary police regulations for the government of the highway travel on said bridge.

Approved April 13, 1886.

An Act to authorize cities and towns to settle and adjust certain indebtedness, and to provide for the payment of the same. (Additional to code, chapter 10, title IV, “Of cities and incorporated towns.”)

Section 1. [May settle and adjust indebtedness.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That cities and towns are hereby authorized, upon such terms as they may deem just and for the best interest, to settle, adjust, renew or extend such indebtedness as may be owing by, or claimed against them, and evidenced by the bonds or other negotiable promissory instruments of such municipal corporation, and to issue new securities for such indebtedness, except as hereinafter mentioned.

Sec. 2. [May levy special tax to pay interest and principal.]—Said except as hereinafter provided; and, excepting further, that when said two miles

Approved March 25, 1878.

This chapter is not obnoxious to the provisions of the constitution requiring all laws to be uniform in their operation. Nor is it in violation of the constitutional requirement that every act shall embrace but one subject, and matters properly connected therewith. The State v. Shroeder, 51 Iowa. 197; The Town of Centerville v. Miller, Id., 712.

The fact that the title of an act contains matter not of the subject of the act does not render it invalid. Id.

In a prosecution for the sale of intoxicating liquors within two miles of the limits of a city, under an ordinance passed in pursuance of this chapter, it is sufficient to show that the sale was made within two miles of the de facto limits; that is, the limits of the territory over which the city exercises actual jurisdiction, for city purposes, with a claim of right; and such limits may be shown by parol testimony. Whether the proceedings establishing such limits were legal or not cannot be inquired into in such prosecution. * * *

Prior to the taking effect of this act the town of Toledo passed an ordinance providing "that no person shall sell within the limits of said town, or of any territory over which the town may have jurisdiction for that purpose, any beer, wine or any malt or vinous liquors without first procuring from the mayor a license, etc.," and the defendant in September, 1878, sold beer outside, but within one mile of, the corporate limits of the town; held that the ordinance applied to the two mile limit over which the town subsequently obtained jurisdiction by the statute, and that the defendant was properly found guilty thereunder. Town of Toledo v. Edens, 59 Id., 352.

RELATIVE TO CHANGE OF NAME OF CITIES AND TOWNS.

An Act to authorize cities of the first and second class[es] and incorporated towns to change their corporate names; and to prescribe the manner in which such change may be made. (Additional to code, chapter 10, title IV, relating to cities and towns.)

That the corporate name of any city of the first and second class, or incorporated towns in this state, may be changed in the manner prescribed by this act.

SEC. 2. [Council to propose change by resolution.]—The council of any city of the first or second class or any incorporated town may, by resolution, propose a change of the corporate name of such city or incorporated town setting forth therein the proposed new name, which shall not be the same as that of any city of either the first or second class or incorporated town or post-office existing in this state at the time of the passage of such resolution.

SEC. 3. [Question submitted, when.]—The question of making such change shall then be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of such city or incorporated town at the next following annual election; or at a special election, as the council may provide. Notice that a change of name is to be voted on at any election shall be published in a newspaper published in said city or incorporated town at least ten (10) days before the election.

SEC. 4. The manner of voting on the question of change shall be by having printed or written on the ballots, "Shall the name be changed as proposed?" followed by the words "Yes," or "No." If a majority of the votes cast for and against are in favor of the proposed change, the clerk of the city or incorporated town shall enter upon the records of the city or incorporated town the result of such election, and set forth in such record the new name adopted for said city or incorporated town as well as the original name thereof, and shall cause to be filed a certified copy of the entry so made in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county in which such city or incorporated town is situated and in the office of the secretary of state.

SEC. 5. [Name deemed complete, when.]—When certified copies are made and filed as required by the preceding section, the change of name shall be deemed complete, and the new name thus adopted shall be judicially recognized in all subsequent proceedings wherein said city may be interested.

SEC. 6. [Contracts not invalidated.]—Nothing herein contained shall in any manner affect the rights or liabilities of such city or incorporated town; nor invalidate any contract to which the said city or incorporated town may be a party before such change.

majority of the resident property tax-payers of such township, incorporated town, or city, asking that the question of aiding the construction of a county bridge, to be situated in whole or in part within such township, incorporated town or city, or within the township in which such incorporated town or city is situated, be submitted to the voters thereof, it shall be the duty of the trustees or council of such incorporated town or city, or trustees of such township, to immediately give notice of a special election, by publication in some newspaper published in the county, if any be published therein, and also by posting such notice in five public places in such township, incorporated town, or city, at least ten days before such election, which notice shall specify the time and place of holding said election, the proposed location of the bridge to be aided, the rate per centum of tax to be levied, and whether the entire per centum voted is to be collected in one year, or one-half collected the first year, and all the conditions in the petition. Said tax shall be collected at the time or times specified in said order in the same manner, and be subject to the same penalties for non-payment after the same becomes due and delinquent, as other taxes.

SEC. 3. The aggregate amount of tax to be voted or levied under the provision(s) of this act in any township, incorporated town, or city, shall not exceed five per centum of the assessed value of the property therein, respectively, nor shall it exceed one-half the estimated cost of the bridge sought to be aided as fixed by the board of supervisors.

SEC. 4. [Duty of county treasurer.] The moneys collected under the provision(s) of this act shall be paid out by the county treasurer, on the order of the board of supervisors of the county, and such order shall specify that it is on the special bridge fund (fund) belonging to the township, incorporated town, or city from which such tax has been collected, but in no case shall the said board make such order until the conditions specified in the petition and notice have been complied with.

years from the date thereof, and the fourth series to be for a like aggregate amount and to be payable in not exceeding eight years from the date thereof; all of said bonds to bear not exceeding six per cent per annum, interest payable annually or semi-annually as said council may provide, with interest coupons attached, to express on their face the name of the street, highway, avenue, or alley, to defray the cost for which they are issued, and also that the last four installments of the special taxes and assessments assessed and levied or to be assessed and levied as aforesaid on the lots and lands abutting on the street, highway, avenue or alley so as aforesaid opened, extended, graded, or in any other manner as aforesaid improved, shall be and constitute a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds and interest thereon, and to be used and appropriated to no other purpose until the whole of said bonds with interest thereon shall have been paid and fully discharged. Said bonds shall may provide by ordinance. The proceeds arising from said bonds shall be applied exclusively to and appropriated and used for no other purpose than the liquidation of the costs of the improvements as aforesaid to and upon the particular street,

SEC. 5. [City bonds, account exempt property, etc.].—Whenever the council of any such city shall deem it expedient they shall have power, for the purpose of

It shall be the duty of such state inspector, by himself or his deputies hereinafter provided for, to examine and test the quality of all such oils offered for sale by any manufacturer, vender, or dealer; and if upon such testing or examination the oils shall meet the requirements hereinafter specified, he shall fix his brand or device: "Approved, flash test, — degrees" (inserting the number of degrees), with the date, over his official signature, upon the package, barrel or cask containing the same. And it shall be lawful for the state inspector, or his deputies, to enter into or upon the premises of any manufacturer, vender or dealer of said oils, and if they shall find or discover any kerosene oil, or any other product of petroleum kept for illuminating purposes, that has not been inspected and branded according to the provisions of this act, they shall proceed to inspect and brand the same. imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year, or by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of shall be levied and collected as a part of the state tax and paid into the state treasury, and passed to the credit of such county, city or town as bond tax, and shall be paid by warrants as the payments mature to the holder of such obligation, as shown by the register in the office of the state auditor, until the same shall be fully satisfied and discharged; provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed to limit, or postpone the right of any holder of any such bonds to resort to any other remedy which such holder might otherwise have.

SECTION 559. [Subdivision of lands.]—Every original owner or proprietor of any tract or parcel of land who has heretofore subdivided, or shall hereafter subdivide the same into three or more parts for the purpose of laying out any town or city, or any addition thereto or any part thereof, or suburban lots, shall cause a plat of such subdivision, with references to known or permanent monuments, to be made, which shall accurately describe all the subdivisions of such tract or parcel of land, numbering the same by progressive numbers, and giving the dimensions and length and breadth thereof, and the breadth and courses of all the streets and alleys established therein. Descriptions of lots or parcels of land in such subdivisions, according to the number and designation thereof on said plat contained, in conveyances or for the purposes of taxation, shall be deemed good and valid for all intents and purposes. The duty to file for record a plat as provided herein, shall attach as a covenant of warranty in all conveyances of any part or parcel of such subdivision by the original owner or proprietors against any and all assessments, costs and damages paid, lost or incurred by any grantee, or person claiming under him, in consequence of the omission on the part of said owner or proprietors to file such plat.
When a town is properly platted, certified, acknowledged and recorded, such acts amount to a conveyance of the streets, alleys, public squares, commons, etc., to, and vest the title in, the corporation or public, for the uses specified and intended, and the corporation or public is capable of taking and holding the title for such uses and trusts. The City of Pella v. Scholte, 21 Iowa, 463. See also Fisher v. Beard, 49 Id., 625. See also Dubuque v. Benson, 23 Id., 248.

In The City of Des Moines v. Hall, 24 Iowa, 234, it was held that where the proprietor caused land adjoining a city to be platted into blocks and lots with streets and alleys, as an addition to the city in conformity with chapter 41 of the code of 1851, that an entry upon the plat that the streets and alleys marked thereon were conveyed to the county within which the city was situated was ineffectual to deprive the latter, or to confer upon the former any rights in or control over such streets and alleys. The city had the sole right of control over the same.

The laying off and recording a town plat or addition thereto under that section of the code of 1851 had the effect to vest in the corporation the fee simple title to and exclusive dominion over the streets and alleys dedicated to public use.

SEC. 560. [Plat to contain statement that it is made with the free consent of owners.]—Every such plat shall contain a statement to the effect that the above or foregoing subdivision of (here insert a correct description of the land or parcel subdivided), as appears on this plat, is with the free consent and in accordance with the desire of the undersigned owners and proprietors, which shall be signed by the owners and proprietors, and shall be duly acknowledged before some officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds; and when thus executed and acknowledged, said plat shall be filed for record and recorded in the office of the recorder of the proper county.

SEC. 561. [Acknowledgment and recording equivalent to deed.]—The acknowledgment and recording of such plat is equivalent to a deed in fee simple of such portion of the premises platted as is on such plat set apart for streets or other public use; or as is thereon dedicated to charitable, religious or educational purposes.

A public square of a city is held by the corporation in trust for the public, and cannot be sold on execution against the city for its general indebtedness. Ransom v. Boal, 29 Iowa, 65.

The fee in the streets of towns and cities laid out under the law of January 25, 1839, and the code of 1851, which was the same as this section, vests in the corporation in trust for the public, and not in the owners of lots fronting thereon. Milburn et al. v. The City of Cedar Rapids et al., 12 Id., 265; Ransom v. Boal, 29 Id., 65; The City of Clinton v. The C. R. & M. R. P. Co., 24 Id., 43; The City of Des Moines v. Hall, Id., 234; The City of Pella v. Scholte, Id., 283; Pettingill v. Devin, 35 Id., 344; Davis v. The City of Clinton, 50 Id., 585.

A city has the right to impose conditions upon which an adjacent property owner may be permitted to excavate an area under the sidewalk; and, until the conditions it has imposed are complied with, it is authorized to forbid such excavation to be made. Davis v. The City of Clinton, 50 Id., 585.

When a town is laid out with a street running parallel with a navigable river, and a narrow strip of land between the street and river is not embraced in the plat of the town, it will not be presumed that it was dedicated to public use as a front or water street for the town. Coeles v. Gray, 14 Id., 1. See Yost v. Leonard, 34 Id., 1, as to intersection of streets.

The acknowledgment and recording of a city or town plat is equivalent to a deed in fee simple of such portions of the platted premises as are set apart for streets; and by a reservation, in such act, of the right to construct and use a mill-race across one of the streets included in the plat, the owners of the land platted simply retain an easement on such street; and when the race is constructed, they are bound to build and keep in repair a bridge across the same where it cuts the street, and if they neglect to do so, and the city repairs the bridge at its own expense, it may recover the cost of the same of the owners of the race. City of Waterloo v. Union Mill Co., 59 Id., 437.

The acknowledgment and recording of a town plat, or of an addition thereto, operate to vest in the public the right to use the ground designated for highway purposes. Lathrop v. The Central Iowa Ry Co., 69 Id., 105; McDonn v. The City of Des Moines, 39, Id., 286.

SEC. 562. [Streets may be altered after the manner for highways.]—Streets and alleys so platted and laid out, or which have been platted or laid out under any prior law of this state regulating private plats, may be altered or vacated in the manner provided by law for the alteration or discontinuance of highways.

Upon the vacation of a street, or any part thereof, the title to the land embraced in the street does not revert to the original owner, and his grantee cannot evict the owner of the adjacent property who has taken possession of the land formerly constituting the street. Day et al. v. Shroeder & Lindblom, 46 Iowa, 546; Pettingill et al. v. Decin et al., 35 Id., 344.

This section relates only to the manner of vacating streets and alleys in unincorporated towns and villages. Dempsey v. City of Burlington, 66 Id., 687.

SEC. 563. [Plat may be vacated.]—Any such plat may be vacated by the proprietors thereof, at any time before the sale of any lots therein, by a written instrument declaring the same to be vacated, duly executed, acknowledged, or proved and recorded in the same office with the plat to be vacated; and the execution and recording of such writing shall operate to destroy the force and effect of the recording of the plat so vacated, and to divest all public rights in the streets, alleys, commons, and public grounds laid out or described in such plat. And in cases where any lots have been sold the plat may be vacated, as herein provided, by all the owners of lots in such plat joining in the execution of the writing aforesaid.

What effect such vacation will have on private rights, see Deeds v. Sanborn, 26 Iowa, 419.

Under the provisions of sections 563 and 564 of the code, not only the original proprietors of a town plat may vacate the same, or a portion thereof, but persons who have acquired title from such original proprietors may exercise the power conferred by the statute. McGrew v. The Town of Lettsville et al., 71 Id., 150.

The vacation of a portion of a town plat does not have the effect to take such portion out of the corporation. Id.

SEC. 564. [Not vacated when it affects the rights of others.]—Any part of a plat may be vacated under the provisions and subject to the conditions of this chapter, provided such vacating does not abridge or destroy any of the rights and privileges of other proprietors in said plat; and, provided further, that nothing contained in this section shall authorize the closing or obstructing of any public highway laid out according to law.

SEC. 565. [Streets enclosed.]—When any part of a plat shall be vacated as aforesaid, the proprietors of the lots so vacated may enclose the streets, alleys and public grounds adjoining said lots in equal proportions.

SEC. 566. [Recorder’s duty when vacated.]—The county recorder, in whose office the plats aforesaid are recorded, shall write in plain, legible letters across that part of said plat so vacated, the word “vacated,” and also make a reference on the same to the volume and page in which the instrument of vacation is recorded.

SEC. 567. [Plats vacated may be re-platted and conveyed accordingly.]—The owner of any lots in a plat so vacated may cause the same and a proportionate part of adjacent streets and public grounds to be platted and numbered by the county surveyor; and when such plat is acknowledged by such owner, and is recorded in the record office of the county, such lots may be conveyed and assessed by the numbers given them on such plat.

SEC. 568. [Plat to be made and recorded: by whom.]—Whenever the original owner or proprietor of any sub-division of land, as contemplated in section five hundred and fifty-nine of this chapter, have sold or conveyed any part thereof, or invested the public with any rights therein, and have failed and neglected to execute and file for record a plat as provided in section five hundred and fifty-nine of this chapter, the county auditor shall notify some, or all, of such owners and proprietors by mail or otherwise, and demand the execution of said plat as provided; and if such owners or proprietors, whether so notified or not, fail and neglect to execute and file for record said plat for thirty days after the issuance of such notice, the auditor shall cause to be made the plat of such subdivision and any surveying necessary therefor. Said plat shall be signed and acknowledged by the auditor, who shall certify that he executed by reason of the failure of the owners or proprietors named to do so, and filed for record; and, when so filed for record, shall have the same effect for all purposes as if executed, acknowledged and recorded by the owners or proprietors themselves. A correct statement of the costs and expenses of such plat, surveying and recording, verified by oath, shall be by the auditor laid before the first session of the board of supervisors, who shall allow the same, and order the same to be paid out of the county treasury, and who shall, at the same time, assess the said amount, pro rata, upon all the several subdivisions of said tract, lot or parcel so subdivided; and said assessment shall be collected with and in like manner as the general taxes, and shall go to the general county fund; or said board may direct suit to be brought in the name of the county before any court having jurisdiction, to recover of the said original owners or proprietors, or either of them, the said cost and expense of procuring and recording said plat.

Sec. 569. [When subdivisions of land are not described by metes and bounds.]—Whenever any congressional subdivision of land of forty acres or less, or any lot or subdivision is owned by two or more persons in severalty, and the description of one or more of the different parts or parcels thereof can not, in the judgment of the county auditor, be made sufficiently certain and accurate, for the purposes of assessment and taxation, without noting the metes and bounds of the same, the auditor shall require and cause to be made and recorded, a plat of such tract or lot of land with its several subdivisions in accordance with the provisions of this chapter; and he shall proceed in such cases according to the provisions of section five hundred and sixty-eight, and all the provisions of said section in relation to plats of towns, cities, and so forth, shall govern as to the tracts and parcels of land in this section referred to.

Sec. 570. [Conveyance deemed warranty.]—Every conveyance of land in this state shall be deemed to be a warranty that the description therein contained is sufficiently definite and accurate to enable the auditor to enter the same on the plat book required by law to be kept; and when there is presented to be entered on the transfer book, any conveyance in which the description is not, in the opinion of the auditor, sufficiently definite and accurate, he shall note said fact on said deed, with that of the entry for transfer, and shall notify the person presenting the same that the land therein not sufficiently described must be platted within thirty days thereafter. Any person aggrieved by the opinion of the auditor may, within said thirty days, appeal therefrom to the board of supervisors, by claiming said appeal in writing, and thereupon no further proceedings shall be taken by the auditor, and at their next session the board of supervisors shall determine said question and direct whether or not said plat shall be executed and filed and within what time; and if the grantor in such conveyance shall neglect for thirty days thereafter to file for record a plat of said land and of the appropriate congressional subdivision in which the same is found, duly executed and acknowledged as required by the auditor, or in case of appeal as directed by the board of supervisors, then the auditor shall proceed as is provided in section five hundred and sixty-eight of this chapter, and cause such plat to be made and recorded, and thereafter the same proceedings shall be had and rights shall accrue, and remedies had, as are in said section provided. Such plat shall describe said tract of land and any other subdivisions of the smallest congressional subdivision of which the same is part, numbering them by progressive numbers, setting forth the courses and distances, and number of acres, and such other memoranda as are usual and proper; and descriptions of such lots or subdivisions according to the number and designation thereof on said plat shall be deemed good and sufficient for all purposes of conveyancing and taxation.

Sec. 571. [Plats heretofore made legalized.]—None of the provisions of this chapter shall be construed to require replatting in any case where plats have been made and recorded in pursuance of any law heretofore in force; and all plats heretofore filed for record, and not subsequently vacated, are hereby declared valid, notwithstanding irregularities and omissions in the manner or form of acknowledg-
Section 572. [Penalty where plats have not been made.]—Any person who shall dispose of or offer for sale, or lease any lots in any town, or addition to any town or city, until the plat thereof has been duly acknowledged and recorded as provided in this chapter, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for each lot and part of lot sold or disposed of, leased, or offered for sale.

This section does not operate as a prohibition upon the sale itself, but only imposes a penalty upon the seller, and hence the purchase of a lot, the plat of which is not recorded, is not rendered invalid by this section. Watrous & Snouffer v. Blair et al., 32 Iowa, 58.

Vacation of town-plats.

An Act in relation to vacation of town-plats. [Additional to code, title IV, chapter, 12: “Of plats.”]

[When plats may be vacated.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That whenever the owners of any piece of land, not less than forty acres in amount, which has been platted into town lots, and the plat of which has been recorded, shall desire to vacate said plat or part of plat, it may be done in the manner following: A petition, signed by all the owners of the town or part of the town to be vacated, shall be filed in the clerk's office of the district court of the district in which the land so platted lies, and notice of such petition shall be given, at least four weeks before the meeting of the court, by posting notices in three conspicuous places in the town where the vacation is prayed for, and one upon the court-house door of the county. At the term of court next following the filing of petition and notice, the court shall fix the time for hearing the petition, and notice of the day so fixed shall be given by the clerk of the court in some newspaper published in the county at least one week before the day appointed for the hearing. At the hearing of the petition, if it shall appear that all the owners of lots in the town or part of the town to be vacated desire the vacation, and there is no valid objection thereto, a decree shall be entered vacating such portion of the town, and the streets, alleys, and avenues therein, and for all purposes of assessments, such portion of the town shall be as if it had never been platted into lots; Provided, however, that if any street as laid out on the plat shall be needed for the public use, it shall be excepted from the order of vacation, and shall remain a public highway: And further provided, that this act shall not affect cities of the first and second class.

Approved March 21, 1874.

Relative to town or city lots.

An Act to provide that lands to be laid out into town or city lots shall be free from incumbrance, or that security shall be given against such incumbrance, and that such lots when thus laid out shall be accurately described relative to some established corner of the congressional division of which they are part, and repealing chapter 25 of the laws of the fifteenth general assembly, and chapter 63 of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly.

Section 1. [Certificate of no incumbrance.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That whenever any person or corporation shall lay out any parcel of land into town or city lots in accordance with chapter 12, title IV, of the code, such person shall procure from the treasurer of the county in which the land lies a certified statement that the land thus laid out into lots, streets and alleys, is free from taxes, and shall also procure a certified statement from the recorder of such county, that the title in fee to said land is in such proprietor, and that the same is free from every incumbrance; which certified statements shall both be filed with the recorder before the plat of said town or city lots shall be admitted to record or be of any validity: Provided, however, that if the parcel of land so laid out shall be incumbered with a debt certain in amount, and which will fall due not more than two years after the making of the affidavit hereinafter provided for, and which the creditor will not accept with accrued interest to the day of proffered payment, if it draws interest, or with a rebate of interest at the rate of six per centum per annum if it draws no interest, or if the creditor cannot be found, then such proprietor, and if a corporation, its proper officer or agent, may file with the recorder of such county his affidavit, stating either that such proprietor has offered to pay such creditor the full amount of his debt, with interest or with a rebate of interest, as the case may be, and that such creditor would not accept the same, or that such creditor cannot be found, whereupon such proprietor may execute a bond double the amount of such incumbrance with three sureties, who shall be freeholders of the county, to be approved by the recorder and clerk of the county, which bond shall run to the county, and shall be for the benefit of the purchasers of any such town or city lots, and shall be conditioned for the payment of such incumbrance and the cancellation thereof of record as soon as practicable after the same becomes due, and for the holding of all such purchasers and those claiming under them forever harmless from such incumbrance; and when such affidavit and bond shall have been filed with the recorder, together with a certificate of the treasurer that said land is free from taxes, and the certificate of the recorder that the title in fee to said land is in such proprietor, and that the same is free from all incumbrance, except that secured by said bond, said plat shall be admitted to record, and be equally valid as if such proprietor had filed with the recorder the certificate of such recorder that said land was free from all incumbrance.

SEC. 2. All the certificates, affidavits and bonds provided for in the preceding section shall be recorded in connection with the plat to which they relate, in the office of the recorder before the said plat or the record thereof shall be of any validity.

SEC. 3. The record and plat of every town, or city, or addition thereto, which may be thus laid out, shall give the bearing and distance from some corner of a lot or block in said town, or city, or part thereof, to some corner of the congressional division of which said town, city, or addition is a part.

SEC. 4. The provisions of this act shall not prevent the annexation of contiguous territory to cities and towns under sections 426, 427, 428 and 429 of chapter 10, title IV, of the code, and chapter 47 of the sixteenth general assembly, as amended by chapter 169 of the laws of the seventeenth general assembly.

SEC. 5. [Repeal.] Chapter 25 of the laws of the fifteenth general assembly, and chapter 63 of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly are hereby repealed.

Approved March 16, 1880.
MONUMENTS TO DECEASED SOLDIERS.

An Act to provide for the erection of monuments to deceased soldiers of the late war.

SECTION 1. [Board of supervisors may appropriate $3,000 for a soldiers' monument.]
—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the board of supervisors of any county in this state are hereby authorized to appropriate from the county funds any sum of money not to exceed three thousand dollars, for the purpose of erecting on the court house square, public park at the county seat, or elsewhere in the county, as the grand army post of said county may direct, a soldiers' monument, on which shall be inscribed the names of all deceased soldiers and all who may hereafter die, who enlisted or entered the service from the county where such appropriation may be made, and also the names of other deceased soldiers, as the grand army posts of said county shall direct.

Approved April 5, 1884.
TITLE V.

CHAPTER 1.
OF THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS, AND THEIR TERMS.

SEC. 573. (Constitutional amendment 1, of 1884.) The general election for state, district, county, and township officers shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November.

SEC. 574. Special elections authorized by any law, or held to supply vacancies in any office to be filled by the vote of the qualified voters of the entire state, or of any district, county, or township, may be held at the time designated by such law, or by the officer authorized to order such election.

SEC. 575. All vacancies in office created by the expiration of a full term shall be supplied at the general election next preceding the time of expiration.

SEC. 576. (As substituted by ch. 72, 16th g.a.) [The term of office of all officers, except highway supervisors, chosen at a general election for a full term, shall commence on the first Monday in January next thereafter, except when otherwise provided by the constitution. The term of office of highway supervisor shall commence fifteen days after the date of the general election. The term of an officer chosen to fill a vacancy shall commence as soon as he has qualified therefor.]

SEC. 577. [Proclamation by governor.]—At least thirty days before any general election, the governor shall issue his proclamation designating all the offices to be filled by the vote of all the electors of the state, or by those of any congressional, legislative, or judicial district, and transmit a copy thereof to the sheriff of each county.

SEC. 578. The sheriff shall give at least ten days' notice thereof, by causing a copy of such proclamation to be published in some newspaper printed in the county; or, if there be no such paper, by posting such a copy in at least five of the most public places in the county.

SEC. 579. A similar proclamation shall be issued before any special election ordered by the governor, designating the time at which such special election shall be held, and the sheriff of each county in which such election is to be held shall give notice thereof as above provided.

SEC. 580. [Election of governor.]—The governor, lieutenant-governor, and superintendent of public instruction shall be chosen at the general election in each odd numbered year.

SEC. 581. [Other state officers.]—The secretary of state, auditor of state, treasurer of state, register of state land office, and attorney-general, shall be chosen at the general election in each even numbered year, and their term of office shall be two years.

SEC. 582. [Judges supreme court.]—One judge of the supreme court shall be chosen at the general election in each odd-numbered year, and a judge of said court shall also be chosen at the general election in the year 1876, and each sixth year thereafter.
An Act to increase the number of judges of the supreme court.

Section 1. [Court to consist of five judges.]

Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That hereafter the supreme court shall consist of five judges, three of whom shall constitute a quorum to hold court.

Section 2. The regular term of the additional judge of the supreme court, provided for by this act, shall commence on the first Monday of January, 1879, and he shall be chosen at the general election in the year 1878, and every six years thereafter.

Section 3. The vacancy in the office of judge of the supreme court created by this act, shall be filled by appointment by the governor; the person so appointed shall hold his office until the general election in the year 1876, and until his successor is elected and qualified, and at said general election there shall be chosen a judge of said court to fill the unexpired portion of the vacancy hereby created.

Section 583. The clerk and reporter of the supreme court shall be chosen at the general election in the year 1874, and each fourth year thereafter, and their terms of office shall be four years.

Section 584. A district judge and district attorney shall be chosen in each judicial district except the twelfth and thirteenth, at the general election in the year 1874, and each fourth year thereafter.

Section 585. (Repealed by chapter 134, laws of 1886.)

Section 586. A circuit judge shall be chosen in each judicial district at the general election in the year 1876, and every fourth year thereafter, and his term of office shall be four years, and shall commence on the first day of January next after his election.

Section 587. Representatives. Members of the house of representatives shall be chosen by the qualified voters of the respective representative districts in each odd-numbered year.

Section 588. Senators. Senators in the general assembly, to succeed those whose term of office is about to expire, shall be chosen by the qualified voters of the respective senatorial districts in each odd-numbered year, for the term of four years.

Section 589. County officers. Each county shall elect at the general election in each even-numbered year, a clerk of the district and circuit courts, and a recorder of deeds; and in each odd-numbered year, an auditor, a treasurer, a sheriff, a coroner, a county superintendent, and a surveyor; and each of said officers shall hold his office for the term of two years.

Section 590. Justices and constables. Two justices of the peace and two constables shall be chosen by the qualified voters of each township at the general election of each even-numbered year, and shall hold their offices for the term of two years.

A constable who has been re-elected and continues to act as before, but fails to file a new bond or take a new oath, is an officer de facto, and, in the absence of proof that an order has been made by the proper officer requiring him to qualify within a time fixed, it is equally a crime to assist a prisoner to escape from his custody as though he was an officer de jure. The State v. Bates, 23 Iowa, 96.

Section 591. (Amended by ch. 161, 18th g. a.) Election of clerk, assessor and highway supervisors for two years. That at the general election in the year 1880, and biennially thereafter, there shall be elected in each civil township of the state by the qualified electors thereof, in the manner prescribed by law, one township clerk, one assessor, and one highway supervisor for each highway district, who shall hold their offices for the term of two years and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Township Trustees.

An Act to amend section 591, title V, chapter 1 of the code, relating to terms of office of township trustees.

Section 1. [Election of trustees.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That there shall be three trustees elected in each township, who shall hold their office for the term of three years, except as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. [Manner of electing.]—At the general election in 1878 there shall be elected in each township of the state, three trustees, one of whom shall hold his office for one year, one for two years, and one for three years, their respective terms to be determined by lot by the board of canvassers of said township; and annually thereafter there shall be one trustee elected, who shall continue in office for three years, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

Sec. 3. [Repealed.]—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 592. [Additional justices and constables.]—One or two additional justices of the peace, and one or two additional constables may be elected in each township, if the trustees so direct, by posting up notices of the same in three of the most public places in the township, at least ten days before election.

Sec. 593. [Justices and constables county officers.]—Justices of the peace and constables shall be considered as county officers under the provisions of this title, but they shall be voted for by the voters of their respective townships.

Justices of the peace are county officers, under this section, and the board of supervisors, and not the township trustees, is charged by statute with the duties of canvassing the return of the election of a justice of the peace. Lynch v. Vermazen, 61 Iowa, 76.

Whether a justice of the peace, although deemed to be a county officer for some purposes, can hold a court in another township than the one for which he was elected, query. Ely v. Dillon, 21 Id., 47.

And where a case was heard and decided by a justice of another township it was held no ground for dismissing the action, the action having been commenced before a justice having jurisdiction. Id.
CHAPTER 2.

(This chapter of the code was repealed, and the following chapter enacted in lieu thereof:

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS IN CITIES.

An Act to provide for ascertaining the citizens who shall be entitled to vote in all incorporated cities, to repeal section 618 of the code and to repeal chapter two (2), title five (5) of the code.

SECTION 1. [Repeal.].—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Chapter 2, title 5 of the code is hereby repealed and the following sections of this act enacted in lieu thereof.

SEC. 2. [Cities shall have exclusive jurisdiction.].—For all purposes of election known to the laws of the state of Iowa after July 4, 1886, no city of the state shall have attached to its jurisdiction for the purpose of voting at such elections any part of a township or territory outside of the corporate boundaries of such city, and the voting precincts in such city for all elections now provided by law, whether township, city, county, state, national or special elections, shall be the wards of such city, or if a ward or wards are divided into voting precincts in any city, then for such city or cities such divisions shall be the voting precincts, and all territory of a township or townships in which such city may be situated and outside of the corporate limits of such city, shall be divided into one or more voting precincts for all election purposes, as may be determined by the board of supervisors as now provided by law. All acts or parts of acts that might seem to be in conflict with this section of this act are hereby changed to the extent of being made to conform herewith.

SEC. 3. [As amended by ch. 48, 22d g. a.]. [Council shall appoint two registers: how selected.].—In all incorporated cities of this state, (having a population of twenty-five hundred (2,500) or more, as determined by the last preceding state or national census), the city council shall, on or before the sixth Monday next preceding the general election in November of each year, appoint one suitable person from each of the two opposing political parties which cast the greatest number of votes at the then next general preceding election, from three names handed in by the chairman of the city central political committee of each of such parties, to be registers for such election precinct, in such cities, for the registration of votes therein; said registers shall be electors of the election precinct in which they shall act; shall be temperate, of good habits, and of good reputation and character, and of generally recognized clerical ability, and able to speak the English language understandingly; shall hold their offices for one year, and shall take an oath or affirmation to discharge their duties according to law. If for any cause, such registers, or any of them, shall not be appointed at or before the time above mentioned, or, if appointed, shall be unable for any cause to discharge the duties of such office, the mayor of such city shall forthwith, on similar recommendation as above provided, make such appointments, and shall also fill all vacancies, and persons so appointed by the mayor shall have the same qualifications, shall hold their offices for the same time, and shall be subject to the same duties as if appointed by the city council, except that all appointments, in cases of vacancies, shall be for the unexpired terms of office.
[Failure of mayor to appoint]—Should the mayor, upon the request of five freehold electors, fail for a period of three days to perform the duties aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay, at the suit of any such electors, to be prosecuted in any court of competent jurisdiction, the sum of one hundred dollars per day, for the equal benefit of the city and suitor.

Sec. 4. (Repealed by chapter 48, twenty-second general assembly.)

Sec. 5. The signature of the applicant shall be made at the right hand end of the line under the column "signature," one of the registrers having first administered to him this form of oath: "You do solemnly swear (or affirm) that you will fully and truly answer all such questions as shall be put to you touching your place of residence, name, place of birth, your qualifications as an elector, and your right, as such, to register and vote under the laws of this state." After which the registrers or either of them shall propound questions to the applicant for registration in relation to his name, his then place of residence, street and number; how long he has resided in the precinct where the vote is offered, what was the last place of his residence before he came into that precinct and also as to his citizenship, and whether a native or naturalized citizen, and, if the latter, when, where, and in what court, or before what officer he was naturalized, or whether by act of congress; whether he came into the precinct for the purpose of voting at that election; how long he contemplates residing in the precinct; and all such other questions as may tend to test his qualifications as a resident of the precinct, citizenship and right to vote at the polls; then, if the applicant appears to have the right to be registered, the registers shall fill out the above prescribed form of statement, whereupon the applicant shall sign as aforesaid and thus his statement for registration shall be complete under oath.

SEC. 6. Such statement shall be dated and numbered consecutively, beginning with number one each time for registration aforesaid. No person shall register at any other place than as above designated, or at any other time, except as hereinafter provided. At the close of each day's registration, the registry shall be ruled off to prevent fraudulent entries, and after the completion of the final registration and the certified copy provided for in section 8 hereof, the registers shall forthwith return the registration to the city clerk, who shall keep the same at all times open to public inspection.

SEC. 7. (As amended by ch. 48, 22d g. a.) [Registers shall prepare alphabetical list.]—The registers shall, within three days after the registration [for each general annual election] has been made, prepare an alphabetical list for their respective voting precincts of the names of all persons so registered, their residences, their last preceding places of residence, and the dates of removal when removals occur within one year; their nativity; their color; their term of residence in precinct, county and state; whether naturalized, date of papers, the naturalizing court, or place of naturalization if court is not known; whether naturalized by act of congress, and date of application for registration; which list they shall forthwith post or cause to be posted up conspicuously at the usual place of holding elections at such precinct, for inspection of the public.

SEC. 8. The registers shall be in attendance again at their respective places for the registration of voters on the Wednesday of the week preceding the day of each election in the state, provided by law for township, city, county, state, national or special elections, for the purpose of revising or correcting the lists aforesaid, and for this purpose they shall meet at 9 o'clock A.M. and remain in session until 8 o'clock p.m., of that day; and they shall there revise, correct, add to, and strike from, and complete the said lists, and shall on that day receive and add to the said lists the names of any persons who would on said election days be entitled, under the provisions of the constitution and laws of this state, to exercise the right of suffrage in their election precincts. Upon the revision and completion of each of said lists, the registers shall make a copy thereof, which, duly certified by the registers, with the proper number and date of registry in each case added, the registers shall deliver or cause to be delivered to the judges of election of the proper precinct on every such election day, before the opening of the polls. The judges of election shall carefully preserve the said lists for their use on election day; no vote shall be received at any election aforesaid unless the name of the person offering the vote be on such registry made and completed as before provided, preceding the election; a person whose name is on the registry may be challenged, and the same oath shall be put, and the same proceedings had as are prescribed by law for all such cases. This section shall be taken and held by every judicial and other tribunal as mandatory and not directory. The judges of election shall designate one of their number, or one of the clerks, at the opening of the polls, to check the name of every voter voting in such precinct whose name is on the registry. Any vote which shall be received by the judges of election in contravention of any provisions of this act shall be void, and shall be rejected from the count in any legislative or judicial proceeding wherein any result of the election is involved. The judges of election shall deliver the lists aforesaid to the official as by law provided to whom they shall deliver the returns of the elections. The registers under their duties aforesaid shall register every male applicant who would be twenty-one years of age on the day of the next election, if otherwise qualified, and every applicant who has commenced to reside in such precinct, at least the legal time before such election, now required by law, down to the date of the election, in order to be a legal voter in such precinct, according to the character of the election about to take place, shall be entered in such registry, but unless, on the day of election, he shall have resided for the legal time in such election precinct, he cannot vote therein, although otherwise qualified.

SEC. 9. The proceedings of said registers shall be open, and all persons entitled to vote in said precinct shall have the right to be heard by said registers in reference to corrections or additions to said lists. No name shall be placed upon any such lists of the name of persons, nor shall any name be added thereto, except of one who shall have appeared in person before said registers; and shall furnish, upon demand, and to the satisfaction of the registers, the same proofs of his right to register as may by law be required by judges of election of any person desiring to vote. Provided: that if an elector is, on account of sickness, which confines him to his residence in his precinct, unable to go to the registers on any day they may be in session, it shall be the duty of the registers, on the affidavit made before them, of a registered elector to visit such sick elector at his place of residence in the precinct and place the name of such sick person on the registration list if he be found entitled to be registered; such visits by the registers for the registration of such invalids shall be at no time during any registration day except between the hours of 7 A.M. and 8 A.M. or between 9 P.M. and 10 P.M. Any one of the registers, on the points hereinbefore provided, may at any time administer an oath or affirmation to any applicant, that he shall true answers make to all questions put to him touching his qualifications as an elector.

SEC. 10. That if any register shall fail to perform any duty in any of the preceding sections of this act prescribed, he shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered on the complaint of any person, before any court of competent jurisdiction; and if any register or judge of election shall willfully neglect or disregard any duty imposed in any of said sections, or make or permit to be made any registration, statement or list, except at the time and place and in the manner in said sections prescribed, or shall knowingly make or permit to be made any false statement, as aforesaid, or if any person shall willfully make or authorize to be made any statement in said section required, false in any particular, or shall violate any provisions thereof, every such register or judge of election, and every such person or persons, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not less than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than twenty days nor more than six months, or both, at the dis-tcretion of the court.

(Section 11 repealed by chapter 48, twenty-second general assembly.)

SEC. 12. The times and places of making registrations of voters shall be published by the mayor in the two leading political party daily newspapers published in every such city for a period of three days prior to the opening of the registry, or if there are no daily papers of the two leading political parties published in such city, then the notice shall be published one week before the date of the registry book, in the weekly paper of each of such political parties, inviting the voters to present themselves for registration at their respective precincts within the proper time, under the risk of being debarred the privilege of voting at such election.

SEC. 13. (As amended by ch. 48, 22d g. a.) That during the receiving and counting of the ballots in any voting precincts of such cities [and in any voting precinct made up of the townships outside of the city limits, whose polling place is within the corporate limits of said city, as hereinafter provided], it shall be unlawful for persons to congregate or loiter within one hundred feet of the voting place, or to hinder or delay in any manner any elector in reaching or leaving the place fixed for casting his ballot. It shall be unlawful for any person within said distance of one hundred feet to give or offer to give any ticket or ballot to any one not a judge of election, or to fold or unfold, or display any ballot which he intends to cast so as to reveal its contents, or to solicit the vote of any elector, or attempt in any way to influence him in the matter of casting his vote. The judges of election shall, so far as practicable, prevent any violation of this section, by having printed copies of this section conspicuously posted within one hundred feet of the voting place and in other ways, and they and each of them shall order the arrest of any person guilty of violating any of its provisions, or guilty of any breach of the peace, or disorderly conduct, and all special policemen and all other persons are authorized and required to obey the lawful orders and commands of said judges of elections, given to prevent violations of this section. But orders for the arrest of such persons shall not prevent them from properly casting their votes. The city council is authorized and required to detail and employ on the nomination of the principal political committee of each political party recognized as the two leading parties from citizens or the police force of the city, from two to four special policemen for each precinct, and duly empower them for the special occasion of each election, who shall be men of good moral character and reputation, in equal numbers from each of the leading political parties, to prevent the violation of any of the terms, provisions, or requirements of this section, or of any order or command made in pursuance with the provisions hereof, and any person violating or attempting to violate any of such terms, provisions, requirements, orders or commands shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished as provided in the last penal clause of section 10 of this act, and no other peace officer for preserving order shall exercise his authority at or near such voting places than those above named unless called in by an unexpected, dire emergency. Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the presence at the polls of any persons who are authorized by law to perform, or charged likewise, with the performance of official duties at the election, or of any persons not exceeding three from each political party having candidates to be voted for, at such elections, to act as challenging committees who are duly appointed and accredited by the principal committee of such political parties, or organizations, respectively, or of persons not exceeding three from each such political parties, appointed and accredited in the same manner, as before prescribed, for challenging committees to witness the counting of ballots.

Sec. 14. Voting precincts made up of the townships outside of the city limits of the city which is situated in such township or townships may, if preferred for the convenience of the voters therein, have their polling places for all election purposes, at some room or rooms in the court house, or other buildings within the corporate limits of such city, as the board of supervisors may provide.
Section 618, chapter 3, title V of the code is hereby repealed.

REGISTRY LAW AMENDED.

An Act to amend chapter 161 of the acts of the twenty-first general assembly, relating to elections held within cities and to registration of voters therein.

Section 1. [Place of registration.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That sections 4 and 11 of chapters 161, of the acts of the twenty-first general assembly be and the same are hereby repealed, and the following is enacted in lieu thereof: The place for the registration of voters in and for every election precinct in the cities mentioned in section three of the act of which this is amendatory, shall be the usual places of holding elections therein. The registers shall be in attendance at their respective places for registration on the second Thursday next preceding every general annual election, for the purpose of registering voters, copying registry lists and correcting the same, and performing such other duties as are required of them in order to properly prepare the necessary lists for the ensuing election. They shall be in attendance from 8 o'clock A. M. till 9 o'clock P. M.; shall personally supervise all registration and shall be in constant attendance during the hours designated for the discharge of their duties. For the general annual election in 1888, and that of every fourth year thereafter, they shall remain in attendance three days, and for every other general annual election they shall remain in attendance two days.

SEC. 2. [New lists every fourth year.]—The registers shall make a complete new registry of voters for the general annual election of 1888, and for that of every fourth year thereafter. For all other general state elections they shall prepare a new registry list, based on that of the last preceding general annual election, and every person whose name appears upon such registry list of the last preceding general annual election shall be entered upon the new registry list, as also the facts showing his qualification as a legal voter as they appear upon such last preceding registry list.

SEC. 3. [Other general and special elections.]—For all other general or special elections, whether state, county, city or township, the registry list for the last preceding general annual election shall be used, and every person registered thereon shall be considered as registered to vote at such election, except as such list may be corrected and changed by the registers, as by law provided; said registers shall meet upon the Saturday preceding every election, whether general or special, township, city, state or national, instead of upon Wednesday, as provided in section 8, of said chapter 161; and except as to said change of meeting from Wednesday to Saturday preceding said election, all of the provisions of said section eight shall remain unimpaired and in full force.

SEC. 4. [Registry list certified.]—Upon the revision and completion of said registry lists they shall be duly certified by the registers, who, after making the same corrections upon and additions to the alphabetical lists, shall deliver the registry and alphabetical lists to the judges of election for the proper precinct, on every such election day, before the hour for the opening of the polls.

SEC. 5. [Alphabetical lists.]—During the days when the registers are in session, they shall, when not actually engaged in registering voters, prepare the alphabetical lists and complete their labors with all reasonable dispatch. They shall receive as compensation $2.50 per day, for each calendar day upon which they shall be employed, for all services required of them under the provisions of this act. They shall be paid their compensation by the county, except that in case of city elections they shall be paid by the city.

SEC. 6. [Lists to be preserved.]—The city clerk shall carefully preserve all registry and alphabetical lists and poll books and other papers pertaining to the last preceding election for eighteen months after the election at which they were first issued, and may then destroy them unless a contest be then pending over the election of a person voted for at such election, in which case he shall preserve those so bearing upon such contest until after the same has been finally disposed of. He shall, on the application of the registers, deliver to them, prior to their first meeting for each election, the registry and alphabetical lists and poll books which they require in order to properly prepare the necessary lists for the next ensuing election, all of which shall be returned to him by them when they have completed their work for such election, except such as they are required to deliver to the judges of election.
SEC. 7. [Session on day of election.]-The registers shall also be in session on the day for the holding of each and every election, at some place convenient to, but not within one hundred feet of the voting place, and during all the hours in which, by law, the polls are required to be kept open, for the purpose only of granting certificates for registration to persons who, being electors, are not registered; but no such certificate shall be granted except to a person who was absent from the city during all the days fixed for the registration of voters for that election, or to a person, who, being a foreigner, has received his final papers since the last preceding day for the registration of voters for that election, or to a person whose name was, on the preceding Saturday, and in the absence of such person, stricken from the registry list, and who, on said day of election, shall prove to the satisfaction of said registers that he is a lawfully qualified elector of said voting precinct. These certificates shall contain all the data showing the qualification of the voter, as is required for a regular registration, and in addition, the special matter showing the voter's right to a certificate under this section. The proper statement shall be signed and sworn to by the voter before one of the registers, and it shall be supported by the affidavit of a freeholder who is a registered voter in that precinct, who shall make oath to the qualification of the applicant as a voter in that precinct; and if the applicant be one whose name was stricken from the registry list, said affidavit of such freeholder shall contain the fact showing the right of said applicant to vote in that precinct. The certificate shall be handed in to the judges of election with the voter's ballot. The data therefrom, showing the voter's name and his qualification as a voter, shall be entered on the registry lists by the judges and clerks of the election, under the appropriate headings, and the original certificate shall be returned to the city clerk, who shall carefully preserve it in the same manner, and for the same time as the registry lists and poll books. The certificate, before delivery to the applicant, shall be certified by the registers to the effect that the person therein named is a qualified voter in that precinct; and that he is entitled to be registered as such, under this section.

SEC. 8. [What list used.]-For every election to which the registry law is applicable, and which may be held prior to the general annual election in 1888, and registry lists for the general annual election in 1887 shall be used, in the same manner as is provided in section 3 hereof.

SEC. 9. [Amends ch. 161, 21st g. a.]-Section 13 of said chapter 161 is hereby amended by inserting in the second line thereof, after the word "cities," the following: "And in any voting precinct made up of the townships outside of the city limits, whose polling place is within the corporate limits of said city, as hereinafter provided."

SEC. 10. [Inapplicable to school electors.]-This act, and the act to which it is amendatory, are hereby declared inapplicable to elections held under and in accordance with the school laws of the state.

SEC. 11. So much, and so much only, of chapter 161, acts of the twenty-first general assembly of the state of Iowa, as is in conflict herewith, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 12. [Amendment.]-That section 7 of chapter 161, acts of the twenty-first general assembly, be amended by striking out the word "aforesaid" in the second line thereof, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "for each general annual election." And that section 3 of said act be amended by inserting after the word "state" in the first line thereof the following words: "having a population of twenty-five hundred (2,500) or more, as determined by the last preceding state or national census."

SEC. 13. This act being deemed of immediate importance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication in The Iowa State Register and The Des Moines Leader, newspapers published in Des Moines, Iowa. Approved February 8, 1888.
CHAPTER 3.

OF THE GENERAL ELECTION.

SECTION 603. [Election precincts.]—At the general elections each township shall be an election precinct, and a poll shall be opened at the place of election therein. But the board of supervisors may, in their judgment, divide any township in their county into two or more precincts.

SEC. 604. [Numbered and recorded.]—In that case they shall number or name the several precincts and cause the boundaries of each to be recorded in their minute-book, and notice thereof to be published in some newspaper of general circulation in the county for three consecutive weeks at least once a week, the last publication to be made at least thirty days before the next election.

SEC. 605. [Place of voting.]—No person shall vote in any other precinct than that in which he resides at the time.

Voting in a precinct in which the voter is not a resident is an indictable offense. The State v. Minnick, 15 Iowa, 123, Code § 3997. No person is entitled to vote at any other precinct than that in which he resides at the time he offers his vote. Id.

SEC. 606. [Judges and clerk.]—There shall be three judges of election in each precinct, who shall be appointed by the board of supervisors at their meeting in September; and there shall be two clerks of the election, one of whom shall be the township clerk, and the other some elector named by him, and if the township clerk does not attend, then the two clerks shall be chosen judges of election; provided, that the township trustees and township clerks shall be judges and clerks of election in those precincts where they respectively reside.

SEC. 607. [Failure of judges to attend.]—If any judge does not attend in time, or refuses to be sworn, his place shall be filled by an elector appointed by those who do attend; and if no judge is present at the time for opening the polls, the electors present shall choose three qualified persons to act as judges of election.

SEC. 608. [Of clerks.]—If the clerks, or either of them, are not present at the opening of the polls, or, being present, refuse to be sworn, the judges of election shall fill their places from the electors present.

SEC. 609. [Oath.]—Before opening the polls, each of the judges and clerks shall take the following oath: I, A. B., do solemnly swear that I will impartially, and to the best of my knowledge and ability, perform the duties of judge (or clerk) of this election, and will studiously endeavor to prevent fraud, deceit and abuse in conducting the same.

Neither an election nor the particular returns will be invalidated by the failure of the judges of the election to be sworn. Dishon v. Smith, 10 Iowa, 212, and cases cited on page 220.

SEC. 610. [Who may administer.]—Any one of the judges or clerks present may administer the oath to the others, and it shall be entered in the poll-books, subscribed by the person taking it, and certified by the officer administering it.

SEC. 611. The polls shall be open at nine o'clock in the forenoon, unless vacancies have to be filled as above, in which case they are to be opened as soon thereafter as may be, and they shall be kept open until six o'clock in the afternoon; and if the judges deem it necessary for receiving the ballots of all the electors, they may keep them open until nine o'clock in the evening. Proclamation thereof shall be made at or before the opening of the polls, and half an hour before closing them.

SEC. 612. [Order: preservation of.]—Any constable of the township who may be designated by the judges of election is directed to attend at the place of election, and he is authorized and required to preserve order and peace at and about the same; and if no constable be in attendance, the judges of the election may appoint one or more specially, by writing, who shall have all the power of a regular constable.

SEC. 613. [Same.]—If any person conducts in a noisy, riotous, or tumultuous manner at or about the polls so as to disturb the election, or insults or abuses the judges or clerks of election, the constable may forthwith arrest him and bring him before the judges, and they, by a warrant under their hands, may commit him to the jail of the county for a term not exceeding twenty-four hours; but they shall permit him to vote.

SEC. 614. [Boxes.]—The board of supervisors shall provide for each precinct in the county, for the purpose of elections, one box with lock and key.

SEC. 615. [Poll-books.]—The county auditor shall prepare and furnish to each of the voters, a column for the number, and sufficient blank leaves to contain the entries of the oaths, certificates and returns; and also all books, blanks and materials necessary to carry out the provisions of the chapter on registration of voters.

SEC. 616. [Ballots.]—The ballots shall designate the office for which the persons therein named are voted for.

SEC. 617. [Voting.]—In voting, the electors shall deliver their ballots to one of the judges, and he shall deposit them in the ballot-box.

SEC. 619. [Challenge.]—Any person offering to vote, whether his name be on the register or not, may be challenged as unqualified by any judge or elector; and it is the duty of each of the judges to challenge any person offering to vote whom he knows or suspects not to be duly qualified.

SEC. 620. [Oath.]—When any person is so challenged, the judges shall explain to him the qualification of an elector, and may examine him as to his qualifications, and if the person insists that he is qualified, and the challenge is not withdrawn, one of the judges shall tender to him the following oath: "You do solemnly swear that you are a citizen of the United States, that you are a resident of this precinct, that you are twenty-one years of age as you verily believe, that you have been a resident of this county sixty days, and of this state six months next preceding this election, and that you have not voted at this election." And if he takes such oath his vote shall be received.

The above oath requires that he shall swear to the present of his residence.

SEC. 621. [Name entered on poll-book.]—The name of each person, when his ballot is received, shall be entered by each of the clerks in the poll-book kept by him, so that there may be a double list of voters.

ELECTION OF ROAD SUPERVISORS AND TOWNSHIP ASSESSOR.

An Act to amend chapter 3, title V, of the code, regulating the election of supervisors of highways, and of township assessors in certain cases.

SECTION 1. [Who may vote.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That no person shall vote for supervisor of highways of any highway district other than that in which he resides at the time of election, nor shall any person living in a city or incorporated town, which constitutes a part of the township, and which has a corporate assessor, vote for a township assessor.

SEC. 2. [Manner of electing.]—The township trustees of each township or election precinct shall cause to be prepared a separate ballot-box to receive the votes for supervisors of highways, with as many different compartments as there are highway districts in the township, or election precincts, and numbered accordingly, and each person voting shall, at the time he gives in his vote for supervisor of highways, which shall be on a separate ballot, state to the judges of election the number of the highway district in which he resides, and his vote shall be placed in the corresponding compartment of the ballot-box.

SEC. 2. [Election of township assessor.]—Where any township or election precinct embraces the whole or any part of any city or incorporated town having a corporate assessor, a separate ballot-box for township assessor shall be prepared by the township trustees, and the vote for township assessor shall be in such township on a separate ballot, and every person voting for such officer shall, at the time, if required, prove to the judges of election that he resides outside of the limits of such city or incorporated town, and his vote for such officer shall be placed in the ballot-box made for that purpose.

Approved March 1, 1878.

CANVASS BY JUDGES OF ELECTION.

SEC. 622. [Canvass.]—When the poll is closed, the judges shall proceed to canvass and ascertain the result of the election.

SEC. 623. [Same.]—The canvass shall be public, and shall commence by a comparison of the poll-lists from the beginning, and a correction of any errors which may be found therein until they agree. If two or more ballots are found so folded together as to convince the judges that they were cast as one, they shall not be counted, but they shall have the words "rejected as double" written upon them, be folded together again, and kept as herein directed.

SEC. 624. [Ballot rejected.]—If, at any stage of the canvass, a ballot, not stating for what office the person therein named is voted for, is found in the box when officers of different kinds are to be elected, it is to be rejected.

SEC. 625. [Same.]—If a ballot be found containing the names of more persons for an office than can be elected to that office, and such ballot form an excess above the number voting, it shall be rejected as to that office, the cause of rejection being indorsed thereon, and disposed of as hereafter directed; and if it does not form such excess, so many of the names first in order as are required shall be counted.

SEC. 626. [Tally list.]—As a check in counting, each clerk shall keep a tally list.

SEC. 627. [Effect of excess of ballots.]—If the ballots for any officer are found to exceed the number of the voters in the poll-lists, that fact shall be certified with the number of the excess in the return, and if it be found that the vote of the precinct where the error occurred would change the result in relation to a county officer, if the person elected were deprived of so many votes, then the election shall be set aside as to him in the precinct where such excess occurs and a new election ordered therein, providing that no person or persons residing in another precinct at the time of the general election shall be allowed to vote at such special election; but if the error occurs in relation to a township officer, the trustees may order a new election or not, in their discretion. If the error be in relation to a district or state officer, the error and the number of the excess are to be certified to the state canvassers, and if it be found that the error would affect the result as above, a new vote shall be ordered in the precinct where the error happened, and the canvass be suspended until such new vote is taken and returned. Where there is a tie vote and such an excess, there shall be a new election as above directed.
The word "error" as employed in section 627 of the code, is used in the sense of excess. Rankin v. Pitkin et al., 50 Iowa, 313.

Sec. 628. A return in writing shall be made in each poll-book, setting forth, in words written at length, the whole number of ballots cast for each officer, except those rejected, the name of each person voted for, and the number of votes given to each person for each different office, which return shall be certified as correct, signed by the judges, and attested by the clerks. Such return shall be substantially as follows:

Sec. 629. [Disposition of poll-books.]—One of the poll-books containing such return, with the register of election attached thereto, in cases where such register is required by law, shall be delivered to the township clerk, and be by him filed in his office. The other poll-book, with its return, shall be enclosed, sealed, superscribed, and delivered by one of the judges of election within two days, to the county auditor, who shall file the same in his office.

Sec. 630. [Disposition of ballots and tally lists.]—When the result of the election is ascertained, the judges shall cause all the ballots, including those rejected, with the tally list, to be placed in some convenient condition for preservation and deposited with the township clerk, who is to keep them until the time is passed which is allowed for contesting the election of any officer voted for.

Sec. 631. [Result of canvass to be certified.]—In townships constituting a single precinct, the judges of the election shall certify the result as to township officers immediately after the canvass above directed; but where there are two or more precincts in a township, the trustees and clerk thereof shall meet on the day after the election, and canvass the votes given for township officers as shown by the returns from the precincts.

Sec. 632. [Tie vote for office.]—When there is a tie between two persons for a township office, the clerk shall notify them to appear at his office at a given time to determine the same by lot before one of the trustees and the clerk, and the certificate of election is to be given accordingly. If either party fail to appear or to take part in the lot, the clerk shall draw for him.

Sec. 633. [Clerk to notify officers elect.]—The ballots for township officers having been canvassed, the clerk shall, within five days thereafter, post up in three public places in the township written notices containing the names of the persons elected to township offices at such election, and require each of them to appear before the proper officer and qualify according to law.

Sec. 634. [Returns not made.]—If the returns from all the precincts are not made to the county auditor by the third day after the election, on the fourth day he shall send messengers to obtain them from those precincts whose returns are wanting, the expense of which shall be paid out of the county treasury.

Sec. 635. [Supervisors to canvass, etc.]—At their meeting on the Monday after the general election, at twelve o'clock noon, the board of supervisors shall open and canvass the returns and make abstracts, stating in words written at length the number of ballots cast in the county for each office, the name of each person voted for, and the number of votes given to each person for each different office.

A board of canvassers of an election possesses no power or authority to judge of the validity of the returns, or of votes. The State, ex rel. Rice, v. The County Judge of Marshall County, 7 Iowa, 186.

The canvassers are only to receive the returns, and count them, leaving all questions as to their validity or sufficiency to another competent tribunal. Id.

Where a board of canvassers have rejected returns which they should have counted, no legal canvas has been made. Id.

Where the returns of an election fail to show that the election officers were sworn, the canvassers could not, for this reason, reject the returns.

The board of canvassers have no discretion to receive or reject returns. If they may be known as returns, it is their duty to receive them and count the votes. The power to decide what votes or returns shall be rejected and not counted belongs solely to the tribunal which is empowered to determine ultimately upon a contested election. Id.

The board of county canvassers cannot reject an election return of a township because of extrinsic evidence connected with its execution, and thereby declare a result which will defeat the manifest intent of the people. State v. Cavers, 22 Id., 343.

A board of canvassers cannot adjudicate upon the sufficiency of election returns, but a court of justice may go behind the returns, and determine the regularity of the election and of the manner in which it was conducted. Id.

SEC. 636. [Form of abstracts.]—The abstract of the votes for each of the following classes shall be made on a different sheet:

1. Governor and lieutenant-governor;
2. All state officers not otherwise provided for;
3. Representatives in congress;
4. Senators and representatives in the general assembly from the county alone;
5. Senators and representatives in the general assembly by districts comprising more than one county;

SEC. 639. [Declare who elected.]—Each abstract of the vote for such officers as the county alone elects, shall contain a declaration of whom the canvassers determine to be elected, except when two or more persons receive an equal and the greatest number of votes.

SEC. 640. [Returns filed: abstracts recorded.]—When the canvass is concluded, the board shall deliver the original returns to the auditor to be filed in his office, and shall cause each of the abstracts mentioned in the preceding section to be recorded in a book to be kept for recording the result of county elections, and to be called the “election book.”

SEC. 641. [Certificate.]—When any person thus elected has appeared and given bond, and taken the oath of office as directed in this title, there shall be delivered him a certificate of election, under the official seal of the county, in substance as follows:

STATE OF IOWA, }
COUNTY. }

At an election held in said county on ______ day of _______, A. D. _______, A. B. was elected to the office of _______ of said county, for the term of two years from the first Monday of January, A. Sec. 643. [Tie vote.]—When two or more persons receive an equal and the highest number of votes for an office to be filled by the county alone, the auditor shall issue a notice to such persons of such tie vote and require them to appear at his office on a day named in the notice, within twenty days from the election day, and determine by lot which of them is to be declared elected.

Sec. 644. [Lot.]—The county auditor shall notify the board of canvassers, or, in case of their absence or inability, the recorder and sheriff, of such lot, and on the day fixed the parties interested, or such of them as may appear, shall determine, by a lot fairly arranged by the three officers, which of them is to be declared elected; and the three officers shall certify such lot and its result under their official names and the seal of the county, to be affixed by the county auditor, and the certificate shall be recorded in the election book, and the auditor shall deliver to the person elected his certificate of election on the terms prescribed in this chapter.

The several packages shall then be placed in one envelope and transmitted to the secretary by mail.

Sec. 646. [For senator or representative elected by more than one county.]—When a senator or representative in the general assembly is elected by a district composed of more than one county, the board of county canvassers shall, at the time of canvassing the vote of the county, make and certify an abstract of the votes cast in their county for such office, similar to the abstract required by section six hundred and thirty-six of this chapter, and the auditor shall seal up, direct, and transmit such abstract to the secretary of state as provided in section six hundred and forty-five of this chapter. He shall also transmit a similar abstract to the county auditor of each other county in the district, who shall file the same in his office.

Sec. 647. [Duty of canvassers.]—The board of state canvassers shall open the abstracts transmitted to the secretary of state, as provided by the last section, and canvass the votes therein returned at the time of canvassing the state vote, or at such other time as they may fix, and in all cases at least twenty days prior to the time fixed by law for the meeting of the next general assembly, and in case of a special election, within five days after the receipt of such abstracts, and shall immediately make out, certify, and transmit by mail to the county auditor of each county in such district, to be by him filed in his office, an abstract of such canvass similar to the abstract required by section six hundred and forty-five of this chapter.
SEC. 648. [Make certificate.]—They shall, also, make and sign a certificate showing who is elected to the office of senator or representative in such district, designating it by its number and similar to the certificate required by section six hundred and fifty-five of this chapter, and the secretary of state shall deliver it to the person appearing by it to be elected to such office on his demanding it.

SEC. 652. [Time of.]—On the Thursday following the fourth Monday after the day of election, the board of state canvassers shall open and examine the returns, if they are received from all the counties, and if not all received, they may adjourn, not exceeding twenty days, for the purpose of obtaining the returns from all the counties, and when these are received, shall proceed with the canvass.

SEC. 653. [Make abstracts.]—They shall make an abstract stating the number of ballots cast for each office, the names of all the persons voted for, for what office they respectively received the votes, and the number of votes each received, in words at length, and stating whom they declare to be elected to each office; which abstract shall be signed by the canvassers, in their official capacity, and as state canvassers, and have the seal of the state affixed.

SEC. 654. [Record of canvass.]—The secretary shall record the abstract in a book to be kept by him for recording the result of state elections, and to be called the election book, and also file the abstract.

SEC. 655. [Certificate.]—A certificate shall be prepared for each person elected, in substance as follows:

SEC. 660. (As amended by ch. 23, 16th g. a.) [Ballots.]—The names of all the electors to be chosen shall be written [or printed] on each ballot, and each ballot shall contain the name of at least one inhabitant of each congressional district into which the state may be divided, and against the name of each person shall be designated the number of the congressional district to which he belongs.

SEC. 661. [Conducted.]—This election shall be conducted, and the returns made, as directed in relation to the election of state officers and representatives in congress, except as herein otherwise expressed.

SEC. 662 [Duty of county canvassers and auditor.]}—The board of county canvassers shall examine the returns, make, sign, envelope, and seal up the abstracts, and endorse and direct them as provided in other cases, and the county auditor shall transmit them to the secretary of state by mail. In case of his failure so to do, or if they are not received by the secretary of state within fifteen days after the election, he may send a special messenger for them as in other cases.

SEC. 663. [Time of state canvass.]—On the twentieth day after the day of election, or before that time, if the returns are received from all the counties, the board of state canvassers shall open and examine the returns and make an abstract as directed in regard to the general elections, which shall be recorded by the secretary in the election book.

SEC. 664. The canvass shall be public, and in canvassing the returns the persons having the greatest number of votes are to be declared elected; and if more than the requisite number of persons are found to have the greatest and an equal number of votes, the election of one of them shall be determined by lot, to be drawn by the governor in the presence of the other canvassers.

SEC. 665. (As amended by ch. 50, 22d g. a.) [Certificate.]—After the expiration of ten days from the day the canvass is completed the governor shall issue a certificate of election under his hand and the seal of the state, and cause it to be served on each person elected, notifying him to attend at the seat of government at noon on the second Monday in January next following their appointment, and report himself to the governor as in attendance; but in case of a contest of election of an elector the governor shall withhold the certificate until the contest is determined.

SEC. 666. [Time of meeting.]—The electors so attending shall meet at noon of said Monday, and the governor shall provide them a list of all the electors, and in case of the absence of any elector, or if the proper number of electors shall, for any cause, be deficient, those present shall forthwith elect, from the citizens of the state, so many persons as will supply the deficiency.

Sec. 669. [Compensation.]—The electors shall receive a compensation of five dollars for every day's attendance, and the same mileage as members of the general assembly.

CHAPTER 5.

OF QUALIFICATION FOR OFFICE.

Section 670. [Must qualify.]—No civil officer shall enter on the duties of his office until he has qualified himself as required in this chapter.

Sec. 671. [Governor and lieutenant-governor.]—The governor and lieutenant-governor, by taking an oath in the presence of the general assembly in convention assembled, administered by a judge of the supreme court, to the effect that he will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Iowa, and will faithfully, impartially, and to the best of his knowledge and ability, discharge the duties incumbent upon him as governor, or lieutenant-governor, of this state.

Sec. 673. [Judges.]—The judges of the supreme, district and circuit courts, by taking and subscribing an oath in writing to the effect that they will support the constitution of the United States and that of the state of Iowa, and that, without fear, favor, affection, or hope of reward, they will, to the best of their knowledge and ability, administer justice according to the law, equally to the rich and the poor; and, unless elected by the people, shall be commissioned by the governor.

Sec. 674. [Who to give bond: form of.]—County supervisors and township trustees, with the officers already named in this chapter, are not required to give bond. All other civil officers elected by the people, with those specified hereafter in this chapter, are required to give bond with a condition in substance as follows:

That as...........(naming the office) in.........township, county (or state of Iowa,) he will render a true account of his office and of his doings therein to the proper authority when required thereby or by law; that he will promptly pay over to the person or officer entitled thereto all money which may come into his hands by virtue of his office; that he will promptly account for all balances of money remaining in his hands at the termination of his office; that he will exercise all reasonable diligence and care in the preservation and lawful disposal of all money, books, papers, securities or other property pertaining to his said office, and deliver them to his successor, or to any other person authorized to receive the same; and that he will faithfully and impartially, without fear, favor, fraud or oppression, discharge all duties now or hereafter required of his office by law.

Where sureties sign the official bond of their principal, leaving certain blanks as to amount, date, etc., which they expect him to properly fill, and he does fill accordingly, they are estopped from claiming that their liability is affected thereby. Wright & Co. v. Harris et al., 31 Iowa, 272.

Where a constable acting in his official capacity levies upon and sells property which is exempt from execution, he and his sureties are liable on his official bond for damages. Strunk v. Ocheltree, 11 Id., 138.

County treasurers are required to exercise only reasonable diligence and care in the preservation and disposal of the public money. Ross v. Heath, 5 Id., 149.
The duties and responsibilities of a county treasurer are fixed by his official bond, and from it the measure of liability incurred by him in the preservation and disposal of the moneys received by him as treasurer, is to be ascertained and determined. Id.

In bonds given to secure the public, courts will disregard objections purely technical, and will hold such undertakings invalid only upon the most cogent and satisfactory grounds. State v. Frederick, 8 Id., 553.

Sureties on official bonds are not liable for prior delinquencies of the principal. Mahaska County v. Ingalls, 16 Id., 81; Warren County v. Ward, 21 Id., 84.

A justice of the peace and his sureties upon his official bond are liable for notes left with him for collection. Latham v. Brown, 16 Id., 118; Beaumier v. Dickerson, 29 Id., 260; Thompson v. Dickerson, 32 Id., 369; Mahaska County v. Ingalls, 16 Id., 81.

A county treasurer is not liable for the acts or defalcations of a book-keeper or assistant in his office employed by, and acting under the direction of the board of supervisors. Scott County v. Fiske, 54 Id., 317.

The county treasurer is justified when he levies upon property for the non-payment of special taxes, to the same extent as he would be for general taxes. Games v. Robb, 8 Id., 193.

A county treasurer and his sureties are liable on his official bond for moneys received by him in partial payment of taxes. Warren County v. Ward et al., 21 Id., 84.

That the taxes collected by a county treasurer were illegally assessed cannot be set up as a defense in an action on his bond. Mahaska County v. Ingalls, 14 Id., 170.

Money paid to the clerk of the district and circuit court upon a judgment recorded in his office is received by him in virtue of his office; and upon his failure to pay over the money to the party entitled thereto an action on his bond will lie. Morgan v. Long, 29 Id., 434.

An action on the bond of a constable will lie for an “arrest without warrant or probable cause, beating, etc., by the constable,” under cover and by virtue of his office. Clancy v. Kenworthy et al., 35 N. W. R., 427.

Sec. 675. [Oath.]—Every civil officer who is required to give bond, shall take and subscribe on the back of his bond, or on a paper attached thereto, to be certified by the officer administering it, an oath that he will support the constitution of the United States and that of the state of Iowa, and that to the best of his knowledge and ability he will perform all the duties of the office of (naming it) as provided by the condition of his bond within written.

Sec. 676. [Same.]—The oath of office provided by article eleven of the constitution for all civil officers not otherwise expressly provided for, may be substantially in the following form: I, , do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Iowa, and that I will faithfully and impartially, to the best of my ability, discharge all the duties of the office of , (naming it) in , (naming the township, county, district, or state, as the case may be,) as now or hereafter required by law.

Sec. 677. [Bonds.]—The bonds of the state and district officers shall be given to the state, those of county and township officers to the county.

The bond of a county treasurer purporting to be executed unto the county of Warren and state of Iowa, is a bond given for the security of the county and not of the state. The State v. Henderson, 40 Iowa, 242.

The commencement of an action upon a county treasurer’s bond in the name of the state, for a defalcation in the state revenue, will not avoid the operation of the statute of limitation, which has already barred an action by the county. Id.

Sec. 678. [Same.]—The bond of the secretary of state shall be in the penal sum of not less than five thousand dollars.

Of the auditor of state, in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars.

Of the treasurer of state, in the sum of not less than three hundred thousand dollars.

Of the state printer, in the sum of not less than five thousand dollars.

Of the state binder, in the sum of not less than two thousand dollars.

Of the attorney-general, in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars.

Of the register of the state land office, in the sum of not less than five thousand dollars.

Of the reporter of the supreme court, in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars.
OF QUALIFICATION FOR OFFICE.

Of the clerk of the supreme court, in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars.

Of each district attorney, in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars.

Of the superintendent of public instruction, in the sum of not less than two thousand dollars.

The bonds of county treasurers, clerks of the district and circuit courts, county recorders, coroners, county surveyors, township assessors, auditors, county superintendents, sheriffs, and of justices of the peace and constables, shall each be in a penal sum to be fixed by the board of supervisors; but those of the treasurer, clerks of the district and circuit courts, auditors, and sheriffs, shall not be in a less sum than five thousand dollars each, and those of justices and constables, not less than five hundred dollars each.

SEC. 679. [Number of sureties.]—Every official bond shall be given with at least two sureties; all sureties shall be freeholders within the state; the bonds of the state printer and state binder shall be given with at least three sureties, and those of the treasurer of state and each county treasurer with at least four sureties. The board of supervisors may be made liable for omission or neglect of duty in respect to the approval of official bonds of certain officers, but they are not liable for honest mistakes or errors in judgment, whether of law or fact, in the approval of such bonds. Wasseon v. Mitchell, 18 Iowa, 153.

SEC. 680. [Approval of bonds.]—The bonds of state officers must be approved by the governor before being filed; those of district attorneys, by the district judges of their respective districts; those of county officers and township clerk, by the board of supervisors, and of township officers, by the township clerk. The approval shall in all cases be indorsed upon the bond and signed by the officer approving, or the president of the board. But in case the board of supervisors should decide that a bond which is to be approved by them is insufficient, or such bond is not approved the first day of the session, then a reasonable time, not to exceed five days, is to be allowed the officer elect to supply a sufficient bond, or to approve the same.

SEC. 681. [Same.]—If the board of supervisors refuse or neglect to approve the bond of any county officer elect, he may present the same for approval to the judge of the circuit court, who shall fix a day for the hearing. Notice of such hearing shall be served upon the board of supervisors as provided by law for the service of original notice; and due proof of such service being made to the judge at the time fixed, he shall, unless good cause for postponement be shown, proceed to hear and determine the sufficiency of the bond, and, if satisfied that the same is sufficient, he shall approve the same, and such approval shall have the same force and effect as an approval by the board of supervisors at the time the same was presented to them for approval, would have had.

SEC. 682. [State officers filed and recorded.]—The bonds and oaths of state officers shall be filed in the office of secretary of state, except those of the secretary, which shall be filed and recorded in the office of the auditor; those of county and township officers in the county auditor's office, except those of the county auditor, which shall be kept in the county treasurer's office, and those of justices of the peace, which shall be filed by the auditor in the office of the clerk of the district court, after the same have been approved and recorded.

SEC. 683. [Same: of county officers.]—The auditor of each county shall keep in his office a book to be known as the record book of officers' bonds, and shall record in said book the official bonds of all county officers, including justices of the peace and constables, filed in his county; and shall also keep an index to said book, in which, under the title of each office, shall be entered the names of each principal and his sureties, and the date of the filing of the bond.

SEC. 684. [Penalty.]—Any county officer who shall enter upon the discharge of the duties of his office, without first having caused his official bond to be recorded, shall forfeit to the county of which he is an officer, the sum of five dollars for each official act by him performed prior to the recording said bond, and the chairman of the board of supervisors of each county is hereby required to bring suit for, or collect such penalty in the name of his county; and it shall be considered a misdemeanor for any officer who is required to give bond to act in such official capacity without giving such bond as is provided by law, and he shall be liable to a fine for an amount not exceeding the amount of the bond required of him.

Sec. 685. [When governor and lieutenant-governor shall qualify.]—The governor and lieutenant-governor shall qualify within ten days after the result of the election shall be declared by the general assembly; judges of the supreme, district, and circuit courts by the first day of January following their election; and all other officers by the first Monday of January following their election.

Sec. 686. [Refusal to serve.]—A failure to qualify within the time prescribed shall be deemed a refusal to serve.

Sec. 687. [Election contested.]—When an election is contested, the person elected shall have twenty days in which to qualify after the day of the decision.

Sec. 688. [Effect of bonds.]—The bonds of officers shall be construed to cover duties required by law subsequent to giving them.

Where the covenant in the bond of the county treasurer bound him, as required by the form in section 674, ante, to "discharge all duties now or hereafter required of his office by law," the sureties on the bond are liable for his default in the management of the school fund under a law enacted after the execution of the bond. The county of Mahaska v. Ingalls et al., 14 Iowa, 170.

Sec. 689. No official bond shall be void for want of compliance with the statute, but it shall be void in law for the matter contained therein.

Sec. 690. [Bond not approved until all public property has been accounted for.]—When the incumbent of an office is re-elected, he shall qualify as above directed; but when the re-elected officer has had public funds or property in his control, under color of his office, his bond shall not be approved until he has produced and fully accounted for such funds and property to the proper person to whom he should account therefor; and the officer or board approving the bond shall indorse upon the bond before its approval the fact that the said officer has fully accounted for and produced all funds and property before that time under his control as such officer; and when it is ascertained that the incumbent holds over another term by reason of the non-election of a successor, or for the neglect or refusal of the successor to qualify he shall qualify anew within the time to be fixed by the officer who approves of the bonds of such officers.

By the failure to elect a new member of the board of supervisors prior to the expiration of a member's term, a vacancy occurs, which, under the statute, is to be filled by the qualifying anew of the member whose term expires; such member, however, is only entitled to hold the office until it can be legally filled by election, which may be at the next succeeding general election. Dyer v. Bagwell, 54 Iowa, 487.

A constable who has been re-elected and continues to act as before, but fails to file a new bond and take the oath of office anew, is an officer de facto, and in the absence of any proof that an order has been made by the proper officer to qualify by the time fixed, it is equally a crime to assist a prisoner to escape from his custody as if he had been qualified anew. The State v. Bates, 23 Iowa, 96.

This section of the code, directing the board of supervisors, before approving the bond of a re-elected county treasurer, to indorse on the bond the fact that the officer has fully accounted for and produced all funds and property before that time under his control as such officer, is directory merely, and a failure so to do does not invalidate the bond against the sureties therein. Carroll Co. v. Buggles et al., 69 Id., 269.

Sec. 691. [Temporary officer.]—Any person appointed to fill an office during the incapacity or suspension of the regular incumbent, shall qualify in the manner required by this chapter for the office so to be filled.
QUALIFICATIONS OF COUNTY AND TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

An Act relating to the qualifications of county and township officers.

SECTION 1. [May qualify in ten days.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: All county and township officers who have been or may be prevented by sickness, the inclement state of the weather or other unavoidable casualty, from qualifying for their respective offices by the first Monday of January following their election, shall be held to have legally qualified, if they do so qualify within ten days thereafter.

Approved March 30, 1886.

CHAPTER 6.

OF CONTESTING ELECTIONS.

SECTION 692. [By whom, and for what causes.]—The election of any person to a county office may be contested by any elector of the county:

1. When mal-conduct, fraud or corruption on the part of the judges of election in any precinct, or of any board of canvassers, or any member of either board, sufficient to change the result;

2. When the incumbent was not eligible to the office at the time of the election;

3. When the incumbent has been duly convicted of an infamous crime before the election, and the judgment has not been reversed, annulled, or set aside, nor the incumbent pardoned at the time of the election;

4. When the incumbent has given or offered to any elector, or any judge, clerk or canvasser of the election, any bribe or reward in money, property or thing of value for the purpose of procuring his election;

5. When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls sufficient to change the result;

6. For any error in any board of canvassers in counting the votes, or in declaring the result of the election if the error would affect the result;

7. For any other cause which shows that another was the person legally elected.

SEC. 693. [Incumbent.]—The term "incumbent" in this chapter, means the person whom the canvassers declare elected.

SEC. 694. [Same.]—When the misconduct complained of is on the part of the judges of election in a precinct, it shall not be held sufficient to set aside the election, unless the rejection of the vote of that precinct would change the result as to that office.

SEC. 695. [Court: how constituted.]—The court for the trial of contested county elections shall be thus constituted: The chairman of the board of supervisors shall be the presiding officer, and the contestant and incumbent may each name a person who shall be associated with him.

SEC. 696. [Clerk.]—The county auditor shall be clerk of this court, and keep all papers and record the proceedings in the election book, in manner similar to the record of the proceedings of the district court. But when the county auditor is a party, the court shall appoint a suitable person as clerk, whose appointment shall be recorded.
SEC. 697. [Contestant to file statement.]—The contestant shall file in the office of the county auditor, within twenty days after the day when the votes were canvassed, a written statement of his intention to contest the election, setting forth the name of the contestant, and that he is an elector of the county, the name of the incumbent, the office contested, the time of the election, and the particular causes of contest, which statement shall be verified by the affidavit of the contestant, or some other elector of the county, that the causes set forth are true as he verily believes. The contestant must also file with the county auditor a bond, with security to be approved by said auditor, conditioned to pay all costs in case the election be confirmed, or the statement be dismissed or the prosecution fail. When the auditor is a party, the clerk of the district court shall receive such statement and approve such bond.

A court of equity has power to restrain the collection of taxes levied upon property exempt from taxation. Smith & Frank v. Osborn et al., 53 Iowa, 474.

The exemption provided by this section extends only to the taxation provided in title 6 of the code, and does not exempt school district property situated in an incorporated city or town from a sidewalk tax imposed by said city or town. The City of Sioux City v. The Independent School District, etc., 55 Id., 150.

SEC. 698. [Illegal votes.]—When the reception of illegal, or the rejection of legal votes is alleged as a cause of contest, the names of the persons who so voted, or whose votes were rejected, with the precinct where they voted or offered to vote, shall be set forth in the statement.

SEC. 699. [Day of trial: notice. ]—The chairman of the board of supervisors shall thereupon fix a day for the trial, not more than thirty, nor less than twenty days thereafter; and shall cause a notice of such trial to be served on the incumbent, with a copy of the contestant's statement, at least ten days before the day set for trial.

SEC. 700. [Selection of judges.]—The contestant and incumbent shall each file in the auditor's office, on or before the day of trial, a written nomination of one associate judge of the contested election, who shall be sworn in manner and form as trial jurors are in trials of civil action. If either the contestant or the incumbent fail to nominate, the presiding judge shall appoint for him. When either of the nominated judges fails to appear on the day of trial, his place may be filled by another appointment under the same rule.

SEC. 701. [Trial postponed.]—The trial shall proceed at the time appointed, unless postponed for good cause shown by affidavit, the terms of which postponement are in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 702. [Manner of: powers of court.]—The proceedings shall be assimilated to those in an action, so far as practicable, but shall be under the control and direction of the court, which shall have all the powers of the district court necessary to the right hearing and determination of the matter, to compel the attendance of witnesses, swear them, and direct their examination; to punish for contempt in its presence or by disobedience to its lawful mandate, to adjourn from day to day, to make any order concerning intermediate costs, and to enforce its orders by attachment. It shall be governed by the rules of law and evidence applicable to the case.

SEC. 703. [Testimony.]—The testimony may be oral or by depositions, taken as in action at law in the district court.

SEC. 704. Subpoenas for witnesses may be issued at any time after the notice of trial is served, either by the clerk of the district court or by the county auditor. The command to a witness may be to appear at , on , to testify in relation to a contested election, wherein A. B. is contestant and C. D. is incumbent.

SEC. 705. [Statement not dismissed for want of form: amendment.]—The statement shall not be dismissed for want of form, if the particular causes of contest are alleged with such certainty as will sufficiently advise the incumbent of the real grounds of contest. If any part of the causes are held insufficient, they may be amended, but the incumbent will be entitled to an adjournment if he state on oath that he has matter of answer to the amended causes for the preparation of which he needs further time. Such adjournment shall be upon such terms as the court deem reasonable; but if all the causes are held insufficient, and an amendment is asked, the adjournment shall be at the cost of contestant. If no amendment is asked for or made, or in case of entire failure to prosecute, the proceedings may be dismissed.

SEC. 706. [Process: fees.]—The style, form and manner of service of process and papers, and the fees of officers and witnesses, shall be the same as in the district court, so far as the nature of the case admits.

SEC. 707. [Trial: where to take place.]—The trial of contested county elections shall take place at the county seat, unless some other place within the county is substituted by the consent of the court and parties.

SEC. 708. [Sheriff to attend.]—The court, or the presiding judge, may direct the attendance of the sheriff or a constable when deemed necessary.

SEC. 709. [Witness compelled to answer.]—The court may require any person called as a witness who voted at such election, to answer touching his qualifications as a voter; and if he was not a qualified voter in the county where he voted, then to answer for whom he voted; and if the witness answer such questions, no part of his testimony on that trial shall be used against him in any criminal action.

SEC. 710. [Compensation.]—The judges shall be entitled to receive four dollars a day for the time occupied by the trial.

SEC. 711. [Who liable for costs.]—The contestant and the incumbent are liable to the officers and witnesses for the costs made by them respectively. But if the election be confirmed, or the statement be dismissed, or the prosecution fail, judgment shall be rendered against the contestant for costs; and if the judgment be against the incumbent, or the election be set aside, it shall be against him for costs.

SEC. 712. [How collected.]—A transcript of the judgment, filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court as provided in relation to transcripts from justices' courts, shall have the same effect as there provided, and execution may issue thereon.

SEC. 713. [Certificate of election withheld.]—If notice of contesting the election of an officer is filed before the certificate of election is delivered to him, it shall be withheld until the determination of the contest.

SEC. 714. [Judgment.]—The court shall pronounce judgment whether the incumbent or any other person was duly elected, and the person so declared elected will be entitled to his certificate on qualification. If the judgment be against the incumbent, and he has already received the certificate, the judgment annuls it. If the court find that no person was duly elected, the judgment shall be that the election be set aside.

SEC. 715. [Judgment enforced.]—When either the contestant or incumbent shall be in possession of the office, by holding over or otherwise, the presiding judge shall, if the judgment be against the party so in possession of the office and in favor of his antagonist, issue an order to carry into effect the judgment of the court, which order shall be under the seal of the county, and shall command the sheriff of the county to put the successful party into possession of the office without delay, and to deliver to him all books and papers belonging to the same, and the sheriff shall execute such order as other writs.

SEC. 716. [Appeal.]—The party against whom judgment is rendered may appeal within twenty days to the circuit court but if he be in possession of the office, such appeal shall not supersede the execution of the judgment of the court.
as provided in the preceding section, unless he give a bond with security, to be approved by the circuit judge, in a sum to be fixed by the judge, and which shall be at least double the probable compensation of such officer for six months, which bond shall be conditioned that he will prosecute his appeal without delay, and that if the judgment appealed from be affirmed, he will pay over to the successful party all compensation received by him while in possession of said office after the judgment appealed from was rendered.

Where a verbal notice of appeal from the judgment of a court of contest, in a contested election case, was given at the time the judgment was rendered, and thereupon the parties made an agreement respecting the custody of the ballot-box, it was held, that the appeal should not be dismissed for insufficiency of notice. Whether or not a written notice might be necessary, if the notice of appeal were unaccompanied by any other action, quare. McIntosh v. Livingston, 41 Iowa, 219.

Sec. 717. [Judgment on appeal.]-If, upon appeal, the judgment be affirmed, the circuit court may render judgment upon the bond for the amount of damages against the appellant and his sureties on the bond.

OF CERTAIN STATE OFFICERS.

Sec. 718. [By whom.]—The election of any person to any state office, except that of governor or lieutenant-governor, or to the office of district judge, circuit judge, or district attorney, may be contested by an eligible person who received votes for the same office, for any of the causes before mentioned.

Sec. 719. [Court: how constituted.]—The court for the trial of contested state elections shall consist of three judges, not interested, of the supreme, district or circuit court, or any of them, as may be convenient.

Sec. 720. [Clerk.]-The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court. But if the person holding that office is a party to the contest, the clerk of the supreme court, or in case of his absence or inability, the auditor of state, shall be clerk.

Sec. 721. [Statement filed.]-The statement must be filed with such clerk within thirty days from the day when the votes are canvassed.

Sec. 722. [Time of trial: notice.]-The clerk shall, as soon as practicable, ascertain which three of the judges residing nearest the seat of government can attend the trial, fix a time therefor, and notify the judges, and cause a copy of the statement and a notice of the time fixed for trial to be served upon the incumbent, and a notice of the time to be served upon the contestant at least twenty days before the day of trial, and returns thereof to be made to him. When convenient, the service of the above papers may be made by the clerk of this court. The time for the trial shall not be set beyond the last Monday of January following the election.

Sec. 723. [Subpoenas: depositions.]-The secretary of state, the several clerks of the supreme and district courts, under their respective seals of office, and either of the judges of the supreme, district or circuit courts, under their hands, may issue subpoenas for witnesses to attend this court; and disobedience to such process may be treated as a contempt. Depositions may also be taken as in the case of contested county elections.

Sec. 724. [Process.]-Process and papers may be issued to and served by the sheriff of any county.

Sec. 725. [Place of trial.]-The trial shall take place at the seat of government, unless some other place be substituted by consent of the court and both parties.

Sec. 726. [Compensation.]-The judges shall be entitled to receive, for their travel and attendance, the sum of six dollars each per day, with such mileage as is allowed to members of the general assembly, to be paid from the state treasury.

Sec. 727. [Judgment filed: execution.]-A transcript of the judgment rendered by such court, filed in the office of the clerk of the supreme court, shall have the force and effect of a judgment of the supreme court, and execution may issue therefrom in the first instance, and against the party’s property generally.

SEC. 728. [Power of presiding judge.]—The presiding judge of this court shall have authority to carry into effect any order of the court after the adjournment thereof, by attachment or otherwise.

SEC. 729. [Provisions applicable.]—The provisions of this chapter, in relation to contested county elections, are applied to contested state elections when applicable, except as herein otherwise directed.

OF MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SEC. 730. [By whom.]—The election of any person to a seat in either branch of the general assembly may be contested by any qualified voter of the district to be represented.

SEC. 731. [Statement served.]—The contestant shall, within thirty days after the canvass, serve on the incumbent a statement as required in relation to county officers, except the list of illegal votes, which shall be served with the notice of taking depositions relative to them, and if no such deposition is taken, then twenty days before the first day of the next session.

SEC. 732. [Subpoenas.]—Any judge or clerk of a court of record may issue subpoenas in the above cases as in those before provided, and compel the attendance of witnesses thereunder.

SEC. 733. [Depositions.]—Depositions may be taken in such cases in the same manner and under the same rules as in an action at law in the district court; but no cause for taking the same need be shown.

SEC. 734. [Same.]—A copy of the statement, and of the notice for taking depositions with the service indorsed, and verified by affidavit if not served by an officer, shall be returned to the officer taking the depositions, and then with the depositions shall be sealed up and transmitted to the secretary of state with an indorsement thereon showing the nature of the papers, the names of the contesting parties, and the branch of the general assembly before which the contest is to be tried.

SEC. 735. [Statement and deposition given presiding officer.]—The secretary shall deliver the same unopened to the presiding officer of the house in which the contest is to be tried, on or before the second day of the session, regular or special, of the general assembly next after taking the depositions, and the presiding officer shall immediately give notice to his house that such papers are in his possession.

SEC. 736. [Power of general assembly.]—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to abridge the right of either branch of the general assembly to grant commissions to take depositions, or to send for and examine any witness it may desire to hear on such trial.

OF GOVERNOR.

SEC. 737. [By whom.]—The election of any person declared duly elected to the office of governor or lieutenant-governor, may be contested by an eligible person who received votes for the office contested.

SEC. 738. [Notice of contest.]—The contestant shall, within thirty days after the proclamation of the election, deliver to the presiding officer of each house of the general assembly a notice of his intent to contest, and a specification of the grounds of such contest as before directed.

SEC. 739. [Notice to incumbent.]—As soon as the presiding officers have received the notice of specifications, they shall make out a notice directed to the incumbent, including a copy of the specifications, which shall be served by the sergeant-at-arms.

Sec. 740. [To each house.]—The presiding officers shall also immediately make known to their respective houses that such notice and specifications have been received.

Sec. 741. [Court, how chosen.]—Each house shall forthwith proceed, separately, to choose seven members of its own body in the following manner:
1. The names of members of each house, except the presiding officer, written on similar paper tickets, shall be placed in a box, the names of the senators in their presence by their secretary, the names of the representatives in their presence by their clerk;
2. The secretary of the senate in the presence of the senate, and the clerk of the house of representatives in the presence of the house, shall draw from their respective boxes the names of seven members each;
3. As soon as the names are thus drawn, the names of the members drawn by each house shall be communicated to the other, and entered on the journal of each house.

Sec. 742. [Authority of committee.]—The members thus drawn shall constitute a committee to try and determine the contested election, and for that purpose shall hold their meetings publicly at the place where the general assembly is sitting at such times as they may designate; and may adjourn from day to day, or to a day certain, not more than four days distant, until such trial is determined; shall have power to send for persons and papers, and to take all necessary means to procure testimony, extending like privileges to contestant and the incumbent, and shall report their judgment to both branches of the general assembly, which report shall be entered on the journals of both houses.

Sec. 743. [Testimony.]—The testimony shall be confined to the matters contained in the specifications.

Sec. 744. [Judgment.]—The judgment of the committee pronounced in the final decision on the election shall be conclusive.

Sec. 745. [Other provisions.]—The provisions of this chapter in relation to other contested elections are applied to a contested election for governor, when applicable, except as herein otherwise directed.

CONTESTS OF PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

An Act providing for contesting the election of presidential electors, additional to chapter 6, title V, of the code of 1873.

Section 1. [Election of electors may be contested.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The election of any presidential elector may be contested by any eligible person who received votes for the same office, for any of the causes enumerated in chapter 6, title 5 of the code of 1873.

Sec. 2. [Court of contest: how constituted.]—The court for the trial of contested elections for presidential electors shall consist of the chief justice of the supreme court, who shall be the presiding judge of the court, and the four judges of the district court, not interested, being nearest the capital of the state, two of whom with the chief justice shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the court. If the chief justice should, for any cause, be unable to attend the trial, the next senior judge, or the one longest on the supreme court bench, if of equal rank, shall preside in place of the chief justice, and any question arising as to the membership of the court shall be determined by the members of the court not interested in the question. The secretary of the state shall be the clerk of the court, or in his absence or inability to act, the clerk of the supreme court shall be the clerk. Each member of the court, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, shall take an oath before the secretary of state or some officer qualified to administer oaths, that he will support the constitution of the United States and that of the state of Iowa, and that, without fear, favor, affection or hope of reward, he will, to the best of his knowledge and ability, administer justice according to law and the facts in the case.

SEC. 3. [Contestant must file his statement. ]—The contestant shall file the statement provided for in this chapter in the office of the secretary of state within ten days from the day on which the returns are canvassed by the state board of canvassers, and within the same time serve a copy of the same, with a notice of the contest, on the incumbent.

SEC. 4. [Clerk to notify the judges when statement is filed. ]—The clerk of the court shall, immediately after the filing of the statement, notify the judges specified in section two of this act and fix a day for the organization of the court within three days thereafter, and also notify the parties of the contest. The judges shall meet on the day fixed and organize the court and make and announce such rules for the trial of the case as they shall deem necessary for the protection of the rights of each party and a just and speedy trial of the case, and commence the trial of the case as early as practicable thereafter, and so arrange for and conduct the trial that a final determination of the same and judgment shall be rendered at least six days before the second Monday in January then next following.

SEC. 5. [Judgment. ]—The judgment of the court shall determine which of the parties to the action is entitled to hold the office of presidential elector, and shall be authenticated by the presiding judge and clerk of the court and filed with the secretary of state, and the judgment so rendered shall constitute a final determination of the title to the office, and a certificate of appointment shall be issued to the successful party as an elector.

SEC. 6. Sections 723, 724 and 725 of the code shall apply to this act.
Approved April 13, 1888.

CHAPTER 7.

OF REMOVAL AND SUSPENSION FROM OFFICE.

SECTION 746. [Causes of removal. ]—All county and township officers may be charged, tried, and removed from office for the causes following:
1. For habitual or willful neglect of duty;
2. For gross partiality;
3. For oppression;
4. For extortion;
5. For corruption;
6. For willful maladministration in office;
7. Upon conviction of a felony;
8. For a failure to produce and fully account for all public funds and property in his hands at any inspection or settlement.

If a county treasurer should refuse to make a settlement, or it should appear by an examination of his books and the counting of his cash that he is a defaulter, he is liable to be removed from

SEC. 747. [By whom made. ]—Any person may make such a charge, and the district court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction thereof by the service of original notice.
SEC. 748. [Proceedings.]—The proceedings shall be as nearly like those in other actions at law as the nature of the case admits, excepting where otherwise provided in this chapter.

The proceedings to disbar an attorney for illegal conduct as such is analogous to the proceeding provided for in sections 746, 747 and 749. The State v. Clarke, 46 Iowa, 155.

SEC. 749. [Petition.]—The petition shall be by an accuser against the accused, and shall contain the charges with the necessary specifications under them and be verified by any elector.

SEC. 750. [Notice.]—It will be sufficient that the notice require the accused to appear and answer the petition of A. B. (naming accuser), for "official misdemeanors"; but a copy of the petition must be served with the notice.

SEC. 751. [When clerk is the accused.]—If the person who holds the office of clerk of the district and circuit courts is the accused in either of those capacities, his removal or suspension shall operate in both courts and the petition may be filed with the county auditor, and both he and the clerk may issue subpoenas for witnesses, and the county auditor shall deliver the papers to the judge of the district court, on its sitting.

SEC. 752. [Suspension.]—If a continuance of the action take place beyond the return term, the court may suspend the accused from the functions of his office until the determination of the matter, if sufficient cause appear from testimony, or affidavits then presented; and if such suspension take place, the board of supervisors shall temporarily fill the office by appointment.

SEC. 753. [Appointments.]—When the accused is an officer of the court and is suspended, the court may supply his place by appointment for the term.

SEC. 754. [Trial: judgment.]—The question of fact shall be tried as in other actions, and if the accused is found guilty, judgment shall be entered removing the officer from his office, and declaring the latter vacant; and a copy thereof shall be certified to the county auditor, who shall cause it to be entered in the election book.

SEC. 755. [Costs.]—The accuser and the accused are liable to costs as in other actions.

SEC. 756. [Judges may suspend clerk or sheriff.]—The judges of the district and circuit courts in their respective districts shall have authority, on their own motion, to suspend from office any clerk of those courts, or sheriff of a county, for any of the causes mentioned in this chapter coming to their own knowledge, or manifestly appearing from the papers or testimony in any proceeding in court. When the district or circuit judge becomes satisfied that the public interest requires the suspension of the sheriff or clerk from office, he is authorized to suspend him, notwithstanding a petition cannot be filed and notice served before the close of the term. McCue v. The Circuit Court of Wapello County, 51 Iowa, 60.

Upon the suspension of the sheriff the person whom the board of supervisors may appoint is authorized to discharge the duties of the office, and not the deputy of the suspended officer. Id.

Where upon the suspension of the sheriff his deputy was temporarily appointed to discharge the duties of the office, and the board of supervisors afterward selected another person to temporarily fill the office, it was held, that it was competent for the court to decree, without an action of quo warranto, that the latter was entitled to the possession of the office. Id.

SEC. 757. [Direct petition to be filed.]—Upon suspension the court may direct the district attorney to file a petition in the name of the county; but it need not be verified.

SEC. 758. [Suspension verified.]—Such order of suspension shall be certified to the county auditor and be by him entered in the election book.

SUSPENSION OF STATE OFFICERS.

SEC. 759. [Accounts examined.]—Whenever, in the judgment of the governor, the public service requires it, he shall appoint a commission of three competent accountants who shall examine the books, papers, vouchers, moneys, securities and other documents in the possession or under the control of any state officer, shall make out a full, complete and specific statement of the transactions of said officer, with, for, or on behalf of the state, showing the true balances in each case, and report the same to the governor with such suggestions as they may deem proper.

Sec. 760. [Defalcation: suspension.]—Whenever any commission appointed as aforesaid, or under the provisions of section one hundred and thirty-two, of chapter nine, of title II of this code, shall report that any officer has been guilty of any defalcation or misappropriation of the public money, or that his accounts, papers and books are improperly or unsafely kept, and that the state is liable to suffer loss thereby, the governor shall forthwith suspend such officer from the exercise of his office, and require him to deliver all the money, books, papers and other property of the state to the governor to be disposed of as hereinafter provided.

Where a deputy sheriff collects money on execution and neglects or refuses to pay it over, the remedy of the party entitled to the money is by an action against the sheriff on his official bond, and not against the deputy and his sureties. The bond of the deputy is given to the sheriff and is for his protection. Brayton v. Town, 12 Iowa, 346.

If this section provided for the absolute removal by the governor of an elective state officer before the expiration of the term for which he was elected under the constitution, it might reasonably be contended that the statute was unconstitutional; but since it only provides for a suspension of the officer, for the reasons therein stated, from the performance of official duties, and not necessarily from the emoluments of the office, held that it is not repugnant to the constitution in the point above raised, nor as an attempt to clothe the governor with judicial power. Brown v. Duff, 66 Id., 193.

Sec. 761. [Consequences.]—After such suspension, it shall be unlawful for such officer to exercise, or attempt to exercise, any of the functions of his office until such suspension shall be revoked, and any attempt to exercise said office after such suspension, shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and shall subject the offender for each offense to the penalty of not more than one year's imprisonment in the county jail, and not more than one thousand dollars fine, to be recovered and enforced as provided by law.

Sec. 762. [Temporary appointment.]—In every such case of suspension, the governor shall appoint some suitable person to fill, temporarily, the office, and such person having qualified as required by law, shall perform all the duties and enjoy all the rights to the said office belonging, until the removal of the suspension of his predecessor or the election of a successor.

Sec. 763. [Duty of governor.]—Whenever the governor shall suspend any such public officer, he shall direct the proper legal steps to be taken to indemnify the state from loss.

Sec. 764. [Compensation.]—The commissioners provided for in this chapter shall each receive the sum of three dollars per day, for the time actually employed in the performance of their duties.

Sec. 765. (As amended by ch. 20, 16th g. a.) [Power of commissioners.]—Said commissioners shall have power, when in session (to administer oaths), to issue subpoenas, to call any person before them to testify in reference to any fact connected with their investigation; also to require such person to produce any papers or books which the district court might require to be produced.
CHAPTER 8.
OF DEPUTIES.

SECTION 766. (As amended by ch. 117, 19th g. a., and ch. 36, 22d g. a.) [Who appoint.]—The secretary, auditor, and treasurer of state, the superintendent of public instruction, the register of the state land office, (clerk of the supreme court), county auditor, treasurer, sheriff, surveyor, and recorder may appoint a deputy, (and each clerk of the district court may appoint one deputy, or in counties having a population of 30,000 inhabitants, more than one, if so ordered by the court), for whose acts he shall be responsible, and from whom he shall require bonds; which appointment must be in writing and be approved by the officer who has the approval of the principal’s bond, and shall be revocable by writing under the principal’s hand, and both the appointment and the revocation shall be filed and kept in the office of the secretary of state and county auditor respectively.

Where, upon the suspension of the sheriff, his deputy was temporarily appointed to discharge the duties of the office, and the board of supervisors afterwards selected another person to temporarily fill the office, held that it was competent for the court to decide without an action of quo warranto that the latter was entitled to the possession of the office. McCue v. The Circuit Court of Wapello County, 51 Id., 60.

SEC. 767. (As amended by ch. 4, 16th g. a.) [Powers of deputy.]—In the absence or disability of the principal, the deputy shall perform the duties of his principal pertaining to his own office; but when any officer is required to act in conjunction with or in the place of another officer, his deputy cannot supply his place: (Provided, that in the counties having two county seats the deputy may hereafter perform all acts of the principal.)

Prior to the amendment of this section it has been held that the deputy sheriff cannot supply the place of the sheriff, who is required to act with the clerk or his deputy in comparing the ballots with the list of jurors, and correcting the same if necessary. The State v. Brandt, 41 Iowa, 593. Following Dutel v. The State, 3 G. Greene, 125.

The deputy clerk has the same power to administer oaths as his principal. Wood v. Bailey, 12 Id., 46.

The acceptance of service, by the deputy sheriff, of notice of the ownership of property levied upon by the sheriff personally, is not binding upon the latter as notice to him. Chapin v. Pinkerton, 38 Id., 246.

When the duties of a public officer are of a ministerial character, they may be discharged by deputy, but not so when the duties are judicial. Abrams v. Ervin, 9 Iowa, 87.

The clerk of the district court is a ministerial officer and his deputy may do any act which the principal may do. He may take the acknowledgment of a deed, but he must do so in the name of his principal. Id.

A deputy treasurer has prima facie authority to sign the name of principal to certificates of redemption from tax sales and such certificates are admissible in evidence upon showing that the person signing the same was deputy, without further showing his authority to sign the same. Byington v. Allen, 11 Id., 3.

Where upon the suspension of the sheriff, his deputy was temporarily appointed to discharge the duties of the office, and the board of supervisors afterward selected another person to temporarily fill the office, held that it was competent for the court to decide without the action of quo warranto, that the latter was entitled to the possession of the office. McCue v. The Circuit Court of Wapello County, 51 Id., 60.

SEC. 768. [Who may be appointed.]—The secretary, treasurer and auditor of state can neither of them appoint either of the others his deputy; nor can either the clerk of the district court, auditor, recorder, treasurer or sheriff of a county, appoint either of the others.

SEC. 769. [Sheriff.]—The sheriff may appoint such number of deputies as he sees fit.

SEC. 770. [Oath.]—Each deputy shall take the same oath as his principal, which shall be indorsed upon and filed with the certificate of his appointment.

SEC. 771. [Compensation.]—When a county officer receiving a salary is compelled by the pressure of the business of his office to employ a deputy, the board of supervisors may make a reasonable allowance to such deputy.
A county officer cannot recover against the county for money paid as compensation to a deputy. The county is liable directly to the deputy, and not to the principal. Mahaska County v. Ingalls, 14 Iowa, 170.

But see Washington County v. Jones, 45 Iowa, 260, where it is held that the clerk is entitled to such additional allowance over his salary for the hire of a deputy as may be reasonable in view of the amount of labor demanded by the duties of his office.

See also Harvey v. Tama County, 46 Id., 622, in which it was held, that where the board of supervisors appointed a deputy treasurer, in pursuance of a written agreement with the treasurer that the services of such deputy should be paid for by him, and the services were rendered notwithstanding no allowance had been made by the board for their payment, the county was not liable therefor. This decision is based upon the provisions of section 771, rather than upon the agreement.

CHAPTER 9.

OF ADDITIONAL SECURITY AND THE DISCHARGE OF SURETIES.

SEC. 772. [Bonds of state officers increased.]—Whenever the governor shall deem it advisable that the bonds of any state officer should be increased and the security enlarged, or a new bond given, he shall notify said officer of the fact, the amount of new or additional security to be given, and the time when the same shall be executed, which said new security shall be approved and filed as provided by law.

SEC. 773. [Additional security required.]—Any officer or board who has the approval of another officer's bond, when of opinion that the public security requires it, upon giving ten days' notice to show cause to the contrary, may require him to give such additional security by a new bond, as may be deemed requisite, within a reasonable time to be prescribed.

SEC. 774. [Security in force.]—If a requisition made under either of the foregoing sections be complied with, both the old and the new security shall be in force; and if not complied with, the office shall become and be declared vacant, and the proceeding be certified to the proper officer to be recorded in the election book or township record.

The sureties in a new or substituted official bond, are not liable for moneys which came into the hands of their principal before its execution, and during the existence of a prior bond in place of which the new bond was given. Thompson v. Dickerson, 22 Iowa, 360.

SEC. 775. [Sureties relieved.]—When any surety on the bond of a civil officer conceives himself in danger by remaining surety, and desires to be relieved of his obligation, he may petition the approving officer or board above referred to for relief, stating the ground of his apprehension.

SEC. 776. [Notice of petition.]—The surety shall give the principal at least twenty-four hours notice of the presenting and filing of the petition, with a copy thereof. At the expiration of this notice, the approving officer may hear the matter or may postpone the hearing as the case permits or requires.

SEC. 777. [Hearing: order: effect.]—If, upon the hearing, there appears substantial ground for apprehension, the approving officer or board may order the principal to give a new bond and to supply the place of the petitioning surety within a reasonable time to be prescribed; and upon such new bond being given, the petitioning surety upon the former bond shall be declared discharged from liability on the same for future acts; which order of discharge shall be entered in the proper election book, but the bond will continue binding upon those who do not petition for relief.

SEC. 778. [Failure to comply.]—If the new bond is not given as required, the office shall be declared vacant, and the order to that effect entered in the proper election book.

SEC. 779. [Justice of the peace.]—If the proceedings relate to a justice of the peace and he is removed from office, the county auditor shall notify the proper township trustees, or clerk, of the removal.

Sec. 780. [Subpoenas.]—The approving officer may issue subpoenas in his official name for witnesses, compel their attendance, and swear them.

CHAPTER 10.
OF VACANCIES AND SPECIAL ELECTIONS.

Section 781. [Civil office: when vacant.]—Every civil office shall be vacant upon the happening of either of the following events at any time before the expiration of the term of such office, as follows:
1. The resignation of the incumbent;
2. His death;
3. His removal from office;
4. The decision of a competent tribunal declaring his office vacant;
5. His ceasing to be a resident of the state, district, county, or township in which the duties of his office are to be exercised, or for which he may have been elected;
6. A failure to elect at the proper election, there being no incumbent to continue in office until his successor is elected and qualified, nor other provision relating thereto;
7. A forfeiture of office as provided by any law of the state;
8. Conviction of an infamous crime, or of any public offense involving the violation of his oath of office;
9. The acceptance of a commission to any military office, either in the militia of this state or in the service of the United States, which requires the incumbent in the civil office to exercise his military duties out of the state for a period not less than sixty days.

Sec. 782. [Resignations: how made.]—Resignations of civil officers may be made as follows:
1. By the governor to the general assembly, if in session, if not, to the secretary of state;
2. By senators and representatives in congress, and by all officers elected by the qualified voters of the state [or chosen by the general assembly], and by judges of courts of record, and district attorneys, to the governor;
3. (As amended by ch. 107, 17th g. a.)—By senators and representatives in the general assembly, to the presiding officer of their respective bodies, if in session, who shall immediately transmit information of the same to the governor; if such bodies are not in session, to the governor;
4. By all county officers to the board of supervisors, and by members of the board of supervisors to the county auditor;
5. By all township officers to the township clerk; and by the township clerk to the township trustees, or any one of them;
6. By all officers holding by appointment to the officer or body by whom they were appointed.

(Sec. 2. [Vacancies in boards of state institutions, as amended by ch. 107, 17th g. a.]—In case of a vacancy from any cause, other than resignation or expiration of term, occurring in any of the boards of trustees or directors of state institutions, it shall be the duty of the secretary of the board wherein the vacancies shall happen, to notify the governor thereof immediately. Provided, That this section shall not apply to vacancies in the board of regents of the state university.)
(SEC. 3. [Governor to notify general assembly.]}—Upon receiving notice of vacancies which are required to be filed by the general assembly, the governor shall at once notify that body thereof, if it be in session, and immediately upon its next convening if it be not. He shall also notify the board of regents of all vacancies occurring therein by resignation.)

(Approved March 23, 1878. Took effect April 2, 1878, by publication in newspapers.)

The tendering of a resignation of a public office, in writing, to the officer authorized by law to receive it, and the filing of the same without objection by such officer, operates to vacate the office resigned according to the tenor of such resignation. Gates v. Delaware County, 12 Iowa, 405.

SEC. 783. Vacancies shall be filled as follows:

In the offices of clerk and reporter of the supreme court, by the supreme court; in all other state offices, and in the membership of any board or commission created by the state, where no other method is specially provided, by the governor;

In county offices by the board of supervisors; and in the membership of such board by the county clerk, auditor, and recorder;

In township offices by the trustees, but where the offices of the three trustees are all vacant the clerk shall appoint, and if there be no clerk, the county auditor shall appoint.

SEC. 784. [Continuance of term.]}—Every officer elected or appointed for a fixed term shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, unless the statute under which he is elected or appointed expressly declares the contrary; provided, that this section shall not be construed in any way to prevent the removal or suspension of such officer during or after his term, in cases provided by law.

In The County of Wapello v. Bingham, 10 Iowa, 39, it was held that where a county treasurer was re-elected he should have qualified anew, and having continued in office the second term without qualifying anew he did not legally hold over, but remained treasurer de facto only, and that the sureties on the bond executed for his first term, were not liable for his delinquencies in office after the expiration of that term.

SEC. 785. [Appointments.]}—Appointments under the provisions of this chapter shall be in writing, and continue until the next election at which the vacancy can be filled until a successor is elected and qualified, and be filed with the secretary or proper township clerk, or in the proper county office, respectively.

The term of office of a justice of the peace appointed to fill a vacancy continues only until the next election, when the vacancy can be filled, and until a successor is elected and qualified. Desmond v. McCarthy, 17 Iowa, 525.

SEC. 786. [Qualification.]}—Persons appointed to office as herein provided shall qualify in the same manner as those elected, within a time to be prescribed in their appointment, and the provisions of the chapter relating to qualification for office are extended to them.

SEC. 787. [Removed.]}—A person appointed as herein contemplated may be removed by the officer appointing, and no person can be appointed who has been removed from office within one year.

SEC. 788. [Who may take possession of office.]}—When a vacancy occurs in a public office, possession shall be taken of the office room, and of the books, papers, and all things pertaining to the office, to be held until the election or appointment and qualification of a successor, as follows:

Of the office of the county auditor, by the clerk of the district court;

Of that of the clerk or treasurer, by the county auditor;

Of any of the state officers, by the governor; or in his absence or inability at the time of the occurrence, as follows:

Of the secretary, by the treasurer;

Of the auditor, register of the land office, or superintendent of public instruction, by the secretary;
Of the treasurer, by the secretary and auditor, who shall make an inventory of the money and warrants therein, sign the same, and transmit it to the governor if he be in the state; and the secretary shall take the keys of the safes and desks after depositing the books, papers, money, and warrants therein, and the auditor shall take the key of the office room.

Sec. 789. [Election to fill vacancies.]—Vacancies occurring in the township offices, ten days; in county offices, fifteen days; and in all other public elective offices, thirty days prior to a general election, shall be filled thereat. When a vacancy occurs in the office of representative in congress, or senator or representative in the general assembly, and the body in which such vacancy exists will convene prior to such election, the governor shall order a special election to fill such vacancy at the earliest practicable time, and ten days notice of such election shall be given.

Sec. 790. [Members of general assembly.]—Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of a senator or representative in the general assembly, the auditor of the county in which such vacancy occurs shall notify the governor of such fact and the cause of the vacancy; and if more than one county is represented in the district in which such vacancy may occur, then such notice shall be given by the auditor of the county in which the late member resided.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS.

Sec. 791. [Provisions for.]—The provisions relating to general elections shall govern special elections except where otherwise provided by law.

Sec. 792. [Canvass, when and by whom made.]—In all cases where special elections are held to fill vacancies in the offices of senator or representative in the general assembly, or representative in congress, the board of county canvassers shall meet at twelve o'clock, M., on the second day after said election, to canvass the votes cast at such election, and the auditor, within four days after such election, shall transmit to the secretary of state an abstract of the votes cast at said election, if there be more than one county in the district.

Sec. 793. [State canvass.]—Within fifteen days after said election, in the case last mentioned, the board of state canvassers shall meet and canvass the votes cast to fill such vacancy, and if the returns have not been received from all the counties composing said district, they may adjourn to such day as they deem necessary, not exceeding ten, for the purpose of receiving said returns.

Sec. 794. [In office of justice.]—Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of a justice of the peace or constable more than thirty days prior to any general election, the county auditor shall immediately notify the clerk of the township in which the vacancy exists, and the township clerk, within five days after receiving such notice, shall notify each of the trustees of his township in writing, fixing the time and place that they shall meet for the purpose of filling such vacancy by appointment. Such notice may be served by any constable of the township, and shall be served at least five days prior to such meeting.

Sec. 795. [Trustees to appoint; qualification.]—The trustees shall meet in accordance with such notice and fill such vacancy, and in five days after such appointment has been made, the township clerk shall record it in the township record book, and shall cause a notice to be served upon the person so appointed, informing him of his appointment, by any constable in the township in the manner prescribed by law for the service of notices, and any person so appointed and notified, shall qualify within ten days after such notice has been served upon him. The auditor may approve of the bond of a justice of the peace and constable so appointed, by the recommendation of the sufficiency of the sureties upon such bond, signed by any member of the board of supervisors.
TITLE VI.
OF REVENUE.

CHAPTER 1.
OF THE ASSESSMENT OF TAXES.

SECTION 796. [Levy: amount of]—The board of supervisors for each county shall, annually, at their September session, levy the following taxes upon the assessed value of the taxable property in the county:

1. For state revenue, one and a half mills on a dollar, or such rate as may be directed by the executive council, not exceeding two mills on a dollar;

2. (As substituted by ch. 43, 22d g. a.) For ordinary county revenue, including the support of the poor, not more than four mills on a dollar, and a poll-tax of fifty cents; [provided, however, that in counties having a population of twenty thousand and less, excepting counties having an area exceeding nine hundred square miles, such levy may be six mills or less; provided, however, that in any county in which the levy is herein limited to four mills, the board of supervisors may submit the question of increasing the same to six mills or less to a vote of the electors at any general election, and if at such election a majority of the electors declare in favor of such increase, the board of supervisors may levy the same for the year following such election at the next meeting at which the general levy is made;]

3. For the support of schools, not less than one nor more than three mills on a dollar;

4. For making and repairing bridges not more than three mills on a dollar.

The power to levy the requisite taxes is given to the board of supervisors. Hill v. Wolfe, 28 Iowa, 577, 579.

The second subdivision of this section was intended to invest the board of supervisors with all the authority necessary to raise the county revenue, including whatever may be necessary for the payment of debts. The limitations in this subdivision have the same controlling operation which those in a city charter have upon the power of municipal taxation. And one who becomes a creditor of a county is presumed to do so in view of the existing law, and cannot complain if his debt exceed its power of immediate payment. The Iowa R. Land Co. v. Sac County, 39 Id., 124.

Section 3940 of the code confers no independent power of taxation, and does not require a county or other municipal corporation to levy a tax in excess of the maximum rate of taxation allowed by the statute. Id.

It is not within the power of the board of supervisors to bind the county by the offer of a reward for the arrest of persons charged with the commission of a crime, but they may offer a reward for the recovery of money which has been stolen from the county. Hawk v. Marion County, 45 Id., 472.

EXEMPTIONS.

SEC. 797. [Property exempt]—The following classes of property are not to be taxed, and they may be omitted from the assessments herein required:

1. The property of the United States and of this state, including university, agricultural college and school lands, and all property, leased to the state; the property of a county, township, city, corporated town, or school district, when devoted entirely to the public use and not held for pecuniary profit; public grounds, including all places for the burial of the dead; fire engines, and all implements for extingushing fires, with the grounds used exclusively for their buildings and for the meetings of the fire companies; all public libraries, grounds, and buildings of literary, scientific, benevolent, agricultural, and religious institutions, and societies devoted solely to the appropriate objects of these institutions, not exceeding six hundred and forty acres in extent, and not leased or otherwise used with a view to pecuniary profit; and all property leased to agricultural, charitable institutions, and benevolent societies, and so devoted during the term of such lease; provided, that all deeds by which such property is held shall be duly filed for record before the property therein described shall be omitted from the assessment;

2. [Books, papers, and apparatus.]—The books, papers, and apparatus belonging to the above institutions, used solely for the purposes above contemplated, and the like property of students in any such institution used for their education;

3. [Money, credits.]—Money and credits belonging exclusively to such institutions, and devoted solely to sustaining them, but not exceeding in amount or income the sum prescribed by their charter;

4. [Enumeration of articles.]—Animals not hereafter specified, the wool shorn from sheep belonging to the person giving the list, his farm produce harvested within one year previous to the listing, private libraries not exceeding three hundred dollars in value, family pictures, kitchen furniture, beds and bedding requisite for each family, all wearing apparel in actual use, and all food provided for the family; but no person from whom a compensation for board or lodging is received or expected, is to be considered a member of a family within the intent of this clause;

5. [Polls or estates of infirm persons.]—The polls or estates, or both, of persons by reason of age or infirmity may, in the opinion of the assessor, be unable to contribute to the public revenue; such opinion, and the fact on which it is based, being in all cases reported to the board of equalization by the assessor or any other person, and subject to reversal by them;

6. [Farming utensils.]—The farming utensils of any person who makes his livelihood by farming, and the tools of any mechanic, not in either case to exceed three hundred dollars in value;

7. [Land entered during the year.]—Government lands entered or located, or lands purchased from this state, shall not be taxed for the year in which the entry, location, or purchase is made.

[8. (As amended by ch. 97, 21st g. a.)] The homestead, not to exceed $500 in value, of the widow of any federal soldier or sailor who died during the late war while in service or who has since died of wounds received or disease contracted while in such service. Provided, that the provisions of this act shall only apply to persons who do not own other real estate than such homestead.]

Lands granted by the United States to the state, and by the state to the counties as indemnity for swamp lands granted to the state under the acts of congress relating thereto, were not taxable prior to the act of 1870, chapter 157, though lying in a county different from that owning the lands in question. The County of Guthrie v. The County of Carroll, 34 Iowa, 108.

A water company which supplies a city with water, at rates regulated by the city council, and which, by the provisions of the ordinance conferring its powers may be purchased by the city at a fixed price, is, nevertheless, a private corporation, and its property is subject to taxation. In the matter of the appeal of the Des Moines Water Co., 45 Id., 624.

Since the primary and exclusive use of the real and personal property of such corporation is not for the extinction of fires, both are subject to taxation. "Id.

Under this section, all property, including the residence of professors upon the grounds of literary institutions and the dwellings of clergymen owned by religious societies, and used exclusively for such dwellings without income to the owners, which is proper and appropriate to effectuate the objects of the institutions or societies, is exempt from taxation. The Trustees of Griswold College v. The State of Iowa, 46 Id., 275.
This provision of the statute is not in conflict with section 3 of article 1 of the state constitution. Id.

An entry of land, under the homestead act of congress, does not divest the United States of the title until five years from the date of filing the declaratory statement, and prior to that time the land is not subject to taxation. Moriarty v. Boone County, 39 Id., 634.

Land granted to railroads under the various acts of congress and of the general assembly are not taxable until the year after they are patented. The McGregor & M. R. Co. v. Brown, Id., 655.

Parol evidence is admissible to show that a railroad company has fraudulently prevented the issuance to it of patents to lands, for the purpose of avoiding taxation thereon. The M. & M. R. Co. v. Brown, 39 Id., 655.

If property which the legislature has declared to be liable to taxation is to be exempted from bearing its due proportion of the public burdens, the exemption must rest upon some clear and just ground; and courts are not justified in indulging in nice distinctions to defeat the legislative will. Morseman v. Younkin et al., 37 Id., 350.

Lands purchased by a county for its own protection upon a judgment in its favor, are not held for "pecuniary profit," but for public use, and are not taxable. Gibson v. Howe, 37 Id., 168.

Lands granted by the state are not taxable so long as it holds the title thereto. Goodrich v. Bemman, 37 Id., 563.

Where a county bound by contract to convey its swamp lands to a railroad company refuses to do so, it will be thereby estopped from afterward claiming that during such time the title was in the company and subject to taxation. The Iowa L. Co. v. Story Co., 56 Id., 48.

Nor would such lands in any case be taxable before their conveyance by the county, if it were not then known what particular lands the company would be entitled to. There must have been a definite designation of the lands. Id. Following C. R. & M. R. R'y Co. v. Woodbury Co., 29 Id., 247.

If property which the legislature has declared to be liable to taxation is to be exempted from bearing its due proportion of the public burdens, the exemption must rest upon some clear and just ground; and courts are not justified in indulging in nice distinctions to defeat the legislative will. *Morseman v. Nor would such lands, while held as property of the county, be taxable under section 711 of the revision (section 797 of code), which exempts from taxation property of the state or county, when not held for pecuniary profit. Id.

In order to exempt real estate from taxation under this section, use and ownership, either legal or equitable, must combine in the same person. Where the legal title is in a private individual, though the property is used for a church and school, it is not exempt from taxation. Laurent v. City of Muscatine, 59 Id., 404.

The real and personal property of such corporation may be assessed to the company, and must be so assessed when the shares of stock have not been otherwise assessed. Id.

The land, buildings, machinery and water-mains are all real property, and the mains are subject to assessment in the township where the machinery which propels the water through them is situated. Id.

A building owned by a benevolent society and leased by it for pecuniary profit is subject to taxation, although built with a fund which was exempt, and into which the rents are paid. Under the statute it is immaterial to what the income from leased property is devoted. When the property is leased for business purposes it is taxable. Fort Des Moines Lodge v. County of Polk, 56 Id., 34.

Where forty acres of land were held by a church as a burying ground, but only one acre was actually used for burying purposes and the remainder as farm land, it was held that the thirty-nine acres so used were subject to taxation. Mambroy v. Churchman, 52 Id., 238.

The property of an incorporated town, where devoted entirely to the public use, and not held for any pecuniary profit, is exempt from taxation under this section, but where property is devised to trustees in trust for the town, with a proviso that the rents and profits shall be applied to a purpose, the property is held for pecuniary profit, in contemplation of the statute, and is subject to taxation. The Town of Mitchellville v. The Board of Supervisors et al., 64 Iowa, 554.

The plaintiff, a religious corporation, in August, 1880, purchased a city lot for the purpose of erecting thereon a house of worship, and it was used for no other purpose after its purchase, but in January of the same year it was assessed to the plaintiff's grantor. Held that it was not exempt, in the hands of the plaintiff, from taxation for the year 1880, under this section of the code. The First Congregational Church v. Linn County, 70 Id., 396. See also Kirk v. St. Thomas Church, 1d., 237.

SEC. 798. (As amended by ch. 50, 11th g. a., and ch. 190, 15th g. a.) [Forest trees.]—For every acre of forest trees planted and cultivated for timber within the state, the trees thereon not being more than twelve feet apart and kept in a healthy condition, the sum of one hundred dollars shall be exempted from taxation upon the owner's assessment, for ten years after each acre is so planted. (Provided, that such exemption be applied only to the realty owned by the party claiming the exemption, not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres of land, upon which the trees are grown, and in growing condition.) For every acre of fruit trees planted and suitably cultivated within the state, the trees thereon not being more than thirty-three feet apart and kept in a healthy condition, the sum of fifty dollars shall be exempted from taxation upon the owner's assessment, for five years after each acre is planted. Such exemption shall be made by the assessor at the time of the annual assessment, upon satisfactory proof that the party claiming the same has complied with this section; and the assessor shall return to the board of equalization the name of each person claiming exemption, the quantity of lands planted to timber or fruit trees, and the amount deducted from the valuation of his property; (Provided, that the amount so deducted shall not exceed one-half of the valuation of the realty upon which such exemption is claimed.)

(Section 799 was repealed and a substitute enacted in lieu thereof by chapter 45, laws of 1874; and by chapter 50 of the laws of 1878, the substituted section is repealed.)

SEC. 800. (As amended by ch. 66, 15th g. a.) When property destroyed by fire, tornado, etc.—(The board of supervisors shall have power to rebate in whole or in part the taxes of any person whose buildings, crops, stock or other property has been destroyed by fire, tornado or other unavoidable casualty) if said property shall not have been sold for taxes, or if said taxes have not been in default for thirty days at the time of destruction. But the loss for which such rebate is allowed, shall be such only as is not covered by insurance.

Where the board of supervisors rebates a tax for any of the reasons named in this section, and the tax has been paid when such rebate is made, the county treasurer has no authority to refund such tax without an order to that effect from the board of supervisors; whether a warrant from the auditor would not also be necessary, quare. Crosby v. Floete, Treas., etc., 65 Iowa, 370.

SEC. 801. (As amended by ch. 163, 16th g. a.)—All other property, real or personal, is subject to taxation in the manner directed. Ferry franchises and toll bridges, for the purposes of this title, are considered as real property. Horses, cattle, mules, asses, sheep, swine, and money, whether in possession or on deposit, and including bank bills, money, property, or labor due from solvent debtors on contract or on judgment, mortgages and other like securities, and accounts bearing interest, property situated in this state belonging to any bank, or company, incorporated or otherwise, whether incorporated by this or any other state, public stocks or loans, household furniture, including gold and silver plate, musical instruments, watches and jewelry, private libraries, for their value exceeding three hundred dollars, carriages, threshing machines, and every description of vehicle, farming utensils, machines and machinery, mechanics' tools, and professional libraries, for their aggregate value over three hundred dollars, boats and vessels of every description, wherever registered or licensed, and whether navigating the waters of this state or not, if owned either wholly or in part by inhabitants of this state, to the amount owned in this state; any and all lands in this state which are owned or held by any other county or counties claiming title under locations with swamp land indemnity scrip, or otherwise, shall be taxed the same as other real estate within the limits of the county. [The shares of stock of mutual loan and building associations shall be assessed at their cash value, but that only the unredeemed shares of such stock shall be taxed, and such unredeemed shares shall be listed to the individual owners thereof.] The property of railroads is subject to taxation, and a municipal corporation, authorized by its charter to levy and collect taxes upon "all taxable property within its limits," may levy and collect a tax upon property belonging to railroads the same as other property, and this notwithstanding the provisions of chapter 196, acts of the twelfth general assembly. Cole, J., dissenting. The Dunleith & Dubuque Bridge Co. v. The City of Dubuque, 32 Iowa, 427.

The property of railroad companies is required by section 2, article 8, of the state constitution, to be taxed the same as that of individuals—that is, the legislature is required to impose the burden of taxation upon the property of corporations for pecuniary profit the same as or equally with that of individuals. The property of this class of corporations shall bear the same burdens of taxation as are imposed upon that of individuals; each shall be taxed for the same objects, and in the same degree, so that individuals shall not be required to pay any taxes on their property which are not also assessed and laid upon the property of corporations of the class named, nor in any greater proportion. When the legislature provides for taxing the property of individuals, this clause of the constitution requires it to tax the property of corporations for pecuniary profit, to the same extent and for the same purposes. The City of Davenport v. The Chicago, R. I. & P. R'y Co., 38 Id., 633; see, also, The City of Dubuque v. The Illinois Central Ry. Co., 39 Id., 56.

Taxable property in lands includes every species of title, incumbras or complete; it embraces rights which lie in contract, executory as well as executed. Stockdale v. Treasurer of Webster Co., 12 Id., 536.

Lands included in the grant for the construction of railroads in this state, made by act of congress of May 15, 1856, are subject to taxation by the state after the railroad companies to which they were granted have acquired the title in fee, and before they had been alienated by the companies. *The B. & M. Land acquired from the government of the United States after the time fixed by the law for the completion of the assessment for the current year, is exempt from taxation until the following assessment. Des Moines Navigation & R'y Co. v. Polk County, 19 Id., 1; Tallman v. The Treasurer of Butler County, 12 Id., 541.

A mortgage made by a railroad company upon its depot grounds, road and rolling stock situated in this state, is not subject to taxation upon the failure of the mortgagee to list, when the holder or owner of the mortgage is a resident of the state. The City of Davenport v. The M. & M. R. Co., 12 Id., 439.

Agricultural college lands leased by the trustees of the college under chapter 117, laws of 1864, providing that the lessee shall pay six per cent per annum upon the appraised value of the land, with the privilege of purchasing the same at the expiration of the lease at the appraised value at the date thereof, are not taxable. Trustees of Agricultural College v. The County of Carroll, 1 Id., 103. But said lands were liable for taxation for 1870, under said chapter 157. Id.

Such premiums are in the nature of gross incomes and do not constitute property in its proper sense. Id.

Where a resident of this state had deposited for safe keeping in a bank in Illinois, certain promissory notes belonging to him, but which had never been brought by him into this state, it was held that they were subject to taxation here. Hunter v. The Board of Supervisors et al., 33 Id., 376.

The notes in such cases are merely the evidence of the debts or rights represented, and these follow the person of the owner. Id.

Lands granted by the United States to the counties as swamp lands are not subject to taxation so long as they are held and owned by the counties. SEC. 802. [Definition of term "credit."]—The term "credit" as used in this title, includes every claim and demand for money, labor, or other valuable thing, and every annuity or sum of money receivable at stated periods, and all money or property of any kind secured by deed, mortgage, or otherwise; but pensions of the United States, or any of them, or any salaries or payments expected for services to be rendered, are not included in the above.

When in the month of December, 1882, the plaintiff by parol sold a farm to another for $6,000, one hundred of which was paid down, and the remainder was to be paid on the first of March following, when possession was to be given and a warranty deed delivered; Held, that the debt thus created from the purchaser to the plaintiff was an assessable credit on the first day of January, 1883, as defined in this section.

Perrin v. Jacobs et al., 64 Iowa, 79.

SEC. 803. [How listed.]—Every inhabitant of this state, of full age and sound mind, shall assist the assessor in listing all property subject to taxation in this state of which he is the owner, or has the control or management, in the manner hereinafter directed; the property of a ward is to be listed by his guardian; of a minor, by his father if living, if not, by his mother if living, and if not, by the persons having the property in charge; of a married woman, by herself or husband; of a beneficiary for whom property is held in trust, by the trustee, and the personal property of a decedent, by the executor; of a body corporate, company, society, or partnership, by its principal accounting officer, agent, or partner. Property under mortgage or lease is so listed by and taxed to the mortgagor or lessor, unless it be listed by the mortgagor or lessee.

Mortgages before foreclosure are choses in action, and as such attach to the person of the holder and are taxable at the place of the domicile. They are not taxable in this state when the owners are non-residents. The City of Davenport v. The M. & M. B. Co., 13 Iowa, 539.

Where a vendee, under a bond "for a good and sufficient deed clear of all incumbrances," upon payment of the purchase-money, enters into the possession of the premises sold, in pursuance of the contract, he is liable for the taxes assessed upon the property after his taking possession thereof; and he cannot enforce the execution of a deed by the grantor with a covenant against the lien for taxes which have thus accrued. Miller v. Cory, 15 Id., 166.

A mortgage, where the mortgage contains covenants of warranty, is bound to defend the title against all claims arising out of delinquent taxes existing on the land at the time of the execution of the mortgage. Porter v. Lafferty et al., 33 Id., 254.

He cannot defeat the title of the mortgagee or of a third party who purchases the premises under the foreclosure of the mortgage, by buying in the property at tax sale for such delinquent taxes. In such case the tax title would inure to the mortgagee or the person purchasing at the foreclosure sale. Id.

The same rule would apply to one who purchased the mortgage premises from the mortgagor, and under the agreement to discharge it, he would be regarded as a privy in estate with the mortgagor. Id.

It is the duty of a mortgagor to pay the taxes, and he cannot set up a title having its origin in a failure to perform this duty, against the mortgagee. Dayton v. Rice et al., 47 Id., 429.

Where land was sold at sheriff’s sale and before the time for redemption had expired, a tax deed was executed to the same land, the purchase by the judgment debtor, before the expiration of the right of redemption, of the outstanding tax title, will be regarded in equity merely as the discharge of his duty to redeem the land from tax sale. Id.

SEC. 804. [Who deemed owners.]—Commission merchants and all persons trading and dealing on commission, and assignees authorized to sell, when the owner of the goods does not reside in the county, are, for the purpose of taxation, to be be deemed the owners of the property in their possession.

SEC. 805. [When listed: in whose name.]—Any person required to list property belonging to another shall list it in the same county in which he would be required to if it were his own, except as herein or otherwise directed, but he shall list it separately from his own, giving the assessor the name of the person or estate to whom it belongs; but the undivided property of a person deceased, belonging to his heirs, may be listed as belonging to his heirs without enumerating them.

SEC. 806. [Where taxed: partnership property.]—When a person is doing business in more than one county, the property and credits existing in any one of the counties shall be listed and taxed in that county, and the credits not existing or pertaining especially to the business in any county, shall be listed and taxed in that where the principal place of business may be. Any individual of a partnership is liable for the taxes due from the firm.

The personal property left by a decedent is, as a general rule, to be assessed in the county of which he died a resident, and in which administration is granted, rather than in the county where his executor resides. If different from that sections 714 and 716 of the revision (§§ 803 and 805 of the code of 1873) do not charge this rule. McGregor's Exrs. v. Vanpel, 24 Iowa, 436.

SEC. 807. [Insurance companies: how taxed.]—Every insurance company doing business in this state, except joint stock and mutual companies organized under the laws of this state, shall at the time of making the annual statements as required by law, pay into the state treasury as taxes, two and one-half per cent of gross amount of premiums received in this state during the preceding year, taking duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed with the auditor; and upon the filing of said receipts, and not till then, the said auditor shall issue the annual certificate as provided by law; and the said sum of two and one-half per cent shall be in full for all taxes, state and local.

SEC. 808. [Real property of railways.]—Lands, lots, and other real estate belonging to any railway company, not exclusively used in the operation of the severable roads, and all railway bridges across the Mississippi and Missouri rivers shall be subject to assessment and taxation on the same basis as the property of individuals in the several counties where situated.

SEC. 809. [Road-beds and highways.]—No real estate used by railway corporations for road-beds, shall be included in the assessment to individuals of the adjacent property, but all such real estate shall be deemed to be the property of such companies for the purpose of taxation; nor shall real estate, occupied for and used as a public highway, be assessed and taxed as part of adjacent lands whence the same was taken for such public purpose.

SEC. 810. [Railway property: how assessed and taxed.]—All railway property not specified in section eight hundred and eight of this chapter, shall be taxed upon the assessment made by the executive council as provided in chapter five of title ten, at the same rates, by the same officers, and for the same purposes as individual property under the provisions of this chapter; and all provisions of this title relating to the levy and collection of taxes shall apply to the taxes so levied upon railway property.

SEC. 811. [Telegraph and express companies.]—All property real or personal, including their franchises, owned by telegraph and express companies, shall be listed and assessed for taxation and shall be subject to the same levies as the property of individuals.

SEC. 812. [As amended by ch. 63, laws 15th g. a.] [When, and in whose name assessed.]—All taxable property shall be taxed each year, and personal property shall be listed and assessed each year, in the name of the owner thereof on the first day of January; (except moneys and credits of associations organized under the general incorporation laws of this state, for the purpose of transacting a banking business, and moneys and credits of private bankers and others who have loaned money, bought notes, mortgages, or other securities within the year previous to the time of assessing; in every such instance the average value of the moneys and credits which have been in the possession or under the control of the person making the list during the year previous to the time of making such assessment, shall be listed for taxation); real property shall be listed and valued in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-three, and each second year thereafter, and shall be assessed at its true cash value, having regard to its quality, location, and natural advantages, the general improvement of the vicinity, and all other elements of its value; and in each year in which real estate is not regularly assessed, the assessor shall list and value any real property not included in the previous assessment.
A banker is liable to taxation only for such moneys and credits as are in his possession as owner, and not for those which he may hold as the custodian of others. Bank deposits are taxable to the depositors and not to the bank.

Branch v. The Town of Morenci, 45 Iowa, 600.

Where the assessor employed another to make the valuations of property, which were afterwards submitted him for correction and approval, the assessment thus made was held not invalid.

Snell v. City of Fort Dodge, 45 Id., 564.

Under our law all property is assessed at the value and to the owner thereof on the first day of January of the current year.

Parsons v. Childs, 36 Id., 110.

Improvements upon real property, though made at the expense of the personal estate of the owner, and diminishing the amount of personally subject to taxation, are not to be regarded as taxable property until the real estate is again assessed in the manner provided by law.

Richards v. Wapello County, 48 Id., 507.

The plaintiff, who resided in South township, Madison county, had certain cattle fed during the winter months in Scott township; he listed them for taxation in the township where he resided, and they were also assessed in Scott township, where they happened to be on the first of January; held, that they were subject to taxation only in the township where the owner resided.

Ryno v. Madison County, 43 Id., 632.

Where a city charter refers to the general law of the state for the subjects of taxation, any change in the general law in respect thereto works a corresponding change as regards the subjects of taxation by the city for municipal purposes.

Tuckaberry v. The City of Keokuk, 52 Id., 135.

Under this section, as it stood in the revision, personal property was not subject to taxation for municipal purposes unless owned by the person to whom it was assessed, on the first day of January of the then current year.

Id.

Where the administrator of an estate, having personal property thereof in his possession, resides in the same county in which his decedent died, but in a different township, such property is taxable in the township of his residence.

Cameron v. City of Burlington, 56 Id., 320.

Under the statute, personal property is taxable to the person owning it on the first day of January, and its assessment to one who acquires the ownership between that time and the date when the assessment is made is illegal.

Wangler Bros. v. Black Hawk County, 56 Id., 334.

Improvements placed on real estate after assessment, escape taxation until the lands are again assessed, two years later.

The Central Iowa Ry Co. v. The Board of Supervisors et al., 67 Id., 199.

In view of the principle, on the one hand, that there can be no taxation of property unless the statute so provides, and the well established doctrine, on the other hand, that taxation is the rule and exemption the exception, sections 801, 812, 813 and 821 of the code, and chapter 15 of laws of 1854, being considered and held to authorize and require shares of bank stock to be assessed to their owners.

Hendle v. The Town of Keota, and three other causes, 68 Id., 334.

Sec. 813. Depreciated bank notes, and the stock of corporations and companies, shall be assessed at their cash value; credits shall be listed at such sum as the person listing them believes will be received or can be collected thereon, and annuities, at the value which the person listing believes them to be worth in money.

See United States Express Company v. Ellison, 28 Iowa, 370, 376, as to how depreciated bank notes and corporation stocks are to be assessed.

A water company which supplies a city with water, whose rates are regulated by the council, and which, by the terms of the ordinance conferring its powers, may be purchased at a fixed price by the city, is nevertheless a private corporation and its property is subject to taxation.

Appeal of Des Moines Water Co., 48 Id., 524.

The real and personal property of such a corporation may be assessed to it, and must be so assessed when the shares or stock of the company have not been otherwise assessed.

Id. See notes to section 751, ante, page 192.

Under this section the shares of stock in a toll-bridge owned by a corporation are taxable in the hands of the stockholders, although the bridge property has been taxed to the corporation and such tax has been paid. The legislature has the power under the constitution to impose a tax on the property of the corporation, and also to impose a tax on the shares of stock as the property of the respective stockholders.

Cook v. The City of Burlington, 59 Id., 231.

Sec. 814. [Debts owing to be deducted from credits.]-In making up the amount of money or credits which any person is required to list, or have listed and assessed, he will be entitled to deduct from the gross amount all debts in good faith owing by him, but no acknowledgment of indebtedness not founded on actual consideration, and no such acknowledgment made for the purpose of being so deducted, shall be considered a debt within the intent of this section, and so much only of any liability of such person as security for another shall be deducted, as the person making the list believes he will be compelled to pay on account of the inability of the principal debtor, and if there are other sureties able to contribute, then so much only as he in whose name the list is made will be bound to contribute; but no person will be entitled to any deduction on account of any obligations of any kind given to any insurance company for the premiums of insurance, nor on account of any unpaid subscription to any institution, society, corporation or company; and no person shall be entitled to any deduction on account of any indebtedness contracted for the purchase of United States bonds, or other non-taxable property.

While this section and a similar enactment in the state of Ohio are almost identical, section 39 of article 8, of the constitution of Iowa, and section 2 of article 12 of the constitution of Ohio, are so essentially different that a determination of the constitutionality of one statute is not an authority for the construction of the other. _Macklot v. City of Davenport_, 17 Iowa, 379.

Whether the tax-payer is entitled to have an acknowledgment of indebtedness deducted from the amount of moneys and credits which he is required to list for assessment, depends on whether it is founded in actual consideration. _Hutchinson v. The Board of Equalization of Oskaloosa_, 67 Id., 182.

The amount which the stockholders of an insurance company would be entitled to receive upon present distribution of the moneys and credits of the corporation is a debt due from the company to them, within the meaning of section 814 of the Code, which allows a tax-payer a deduction of his indebtedness from his taxable property, and should be deducted from its moneys and credits in listing them for taxation. _Equitable Life Ins. Co. v. Board of Equalization_, 37 N. W. R., 141.

The fund reserved by a life insurance company to pay or reinsure its policy holders is a debt due from the company to them, within the statute, section 814 of the code, and may be deducted from its moneys and credits in listing them for taxation; such indebtedness not being taxable moneys. _Id._

Corporation stocks are not "credits" of the owner within the meaning of section 814 of the code, which provides that for the purposes of taxation the tax-payer may deduct from his moneys and credits the debts which he in good faith owes at the time. _Bridgman v. The City of Keokuk et al._, 72 Iowa, 42.

SEC. 815. _Who held to be a merchant._—Any person owning, or having in his possession, or under his control, within this state, with authority to sell the same, any personal property purchased with a view of its being sold at a profit, or which has been consigned to him from any place out of this state to be sold within the same, shall be held to be a merchant for the purposes of this title; such property shall be listed for taxation, and in estimating the value thereof, the merchant shall take the average value of such property in his possession or under his control during the next year previous to the time of assessing, and if he has not been engaged in the business so long, then he shall take the average during such time as he shall have been so engaged, and if he be commencing, he shall take the value of the property at the time of assessment.

A person engaged in buying and packing pork is deemed to be a "merchant" for the purposes of taxation, and, in listing his merchandise for taxation, is entitled to estimate the average value thereof during the year next before the time of assessment. _McConn v. Roberts, Treasurer_, 25 Iowa, 152.

SEC. 816. _Who a manufacturer._—Any person who purchases, receives or holds personal property of any description for the purpose of adding to the value thereof by any process of manufacturing, packing of meats, refining, purifying or by the combination of different materials, with a view of making gain or profit by so doing, and by selling the same, shall be held to be a manufacturer for the purposes of this title, and he shall list for taxation the average value of such property in his hands, estimated as directed in the preceding section; but the value shall be estimated upon those materials only which enter into the combination of manufacture.

The fact that property was purchased and held with a view to selling it out of the state, and that it was so sold; or the fact that the property was purchased on credit or with borrowed capital, will not relieve the owner of taxation thereon. The debts owing by him may be deducted from his "moneys and credits," but not from his general property. _McConn v. Roberts, Treasurer_, 25 Iowa, 152.
SEC. 817. [Agent personally liable.]-Any person acting as the agent of another, and having in his possession, or under his control or management, any money, notes, and credits, or personal property belonging to such other person, with a view to investing or loaning, or in any other manner using the same for pecuniary profit, shall be required to list the same at the real value, and such agent shall be personally liable for the tax on the same; and if he refuse to render the list, or to swear to the same, the amount of such money, property, notes, or credits, may be listed and valued according to the best knowledge and judgment of the assessor, subject to the provisions of section eight hundred and twenty-four of this chapter.

This section of the code providing for the taxation of moneys, credits, etc., held by anyone as agent in this state for pecuniary profit, is not repugnant to Sec. 15, Art. 1 of the constitution, "which provides that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation. Hutchinson v. The Board of Equalization of Oskaloosa, 66 Iowa, 35.

Where plaintiff, a resident of this state, had under his exclusive control and management, for investment in the form of loans, money belonging to English capitalists, some of which was invested in this state and some in Kansas, but the securities were made to him and held by him in his own name, in this state, he could not defeat the provisions of this section by the legal fiction which obtains for some purposes of the law, that the situs of such property is where the owner resides. Such property is in this state taxable here. Id. But see Davenport v. The M. & M. Ry Co., 12 id., 589; Hunter v. Board of Supervisors.

If an acknowledged indebtedness be founded upon actual consideration the taxpayer is entitled to have the same deducted from his taxable moneys and credits, regardless of the motive which may have induced him to incur the obligation. So, where the plaintiff, as an agent of some English capitalists, had invested certain moneys of theirs and controlled the securities, but to avoid paying taxes thereon under this section of the code, he caused the securities to be assigned to himself and executed his own obligations to the capitalists for the amount thereof, held, that he was entitled to have the obligations thus incurred deducted from the amount of his moneys and credits, including the securities thus taken to himself, and that he was no longer liable to be taxed on such securities as agent. Hutchinson v. Board of Equalization, etc., 67 Iowa, 182.

BANKING ASSOCIATIONS.

SEC. 818. [How assessed and taxed.]-All shares of the banking associations organized within this state, pursuant to the provisions of the acts of congress to procure a national currency secured by a pledge of the United States stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof, held by any person or body corporate, shall be included in the valuation of the personal property of such person or body corporate in the assessment of taxes in the township, incorporated town or city where such banking association is located and not elsewhere, whether the holder thereof resides there or not, but not at a greater rate than is assessed on other moneyed capital in the hands of individuals.

While the capital of national banks cannot be taxed by state authority, the shares of stockholders therein may be, in a rate not exceeding that imposed upon the shares of banks organized in and by the authority of the state. Hubbard et al v. The Board of Supervisors of Johnson County, and other cases, 23 Iowa, 130.

In the case of assessment of a tax wholly unauthorized, it is not necessary, before filing a petition in its collection, for the aggrieved party to make application for relief to the board of supervisors. Id.

In a proceeding to restrain the collection of such unauthorized tax, the county treasurer is a proper party. Id.

Some slight latitude is allowed the legislature in modes of assessment, demanded by what are deemed controlling considerations, even though they should not result in absolute equality of taxation; and with this principle in mind this section of the code, providing for the taxation of national bank shares, and section 28 of chapter 60, laws of the fifteenth general assembly, providing for the taxation of the capital of savings banks compared and examined, and held not to discriminate against national banks in violation of section 5219 of the revised statutes of the United States. Davenport National Bank v. Board of Equalization, 64 Iowa, 140.

SEC. 819. [List: by whom made.]-The principal accounting officer of each of said associations, between the first and fifteenth days of January of each year, shall list the shares of the association, giving the assessor the name of each person owning shares, and the amount owned by each; and for the purpose of securing the collection of taxes assessed upon said shares, each banking association shall be liable to pay the same as the agent of each of its shareholders, under the provisions of section eight hundred and seventeen; and the association shall retain so much of any dividend belonging to any shareholder as shall be necessary to pay any taxes levied upon his shares.

SEC. 820. [Acts of congress amended.]—If, at any time, congress shall amend the acts aforesaid, then each assessor shall assess the shares in any such national bank in such manner as to conform to such amended act of congress; provided, that such shares shall not be assessed at a greater rate than is imposed by law on other moneyed capital in the hands of individuals in this state.

Chapter 153 of the laws of 1863, being the same substantially as sections 818, 819 and 820 of the code, providing for the taxation of shares in national banks, were held authorized and valid under the 41st section of the act of congress of June 3, 1864, and that of February 10, 1868. Morseman v. Youkin, Treasurer, et al., 27 Iowa, 350.

An assessment against a stockholder in a bank organized under the national banking law, does not authorize the seizure of the property of the bank to satisfy the tax. First National Bank of Iowa City v. Hershire, 51 Id., 18.

Whether the bank would be held liable for the payment of such tax in a proceeding against it, quere? Id.

CLASSIFICATION OF PROPERTY.

SEC. 821. [When, by whom, and how classified.]—The board of supervisors of each county shall, at their meeting in January in each year, classify the several descriptions of property to be assessed, for the purpose of equalizing such assessment; and the county auditor shall deliver to each assessor in the county, on or before the fifteenth day of January in each year, a certificate of such classification, together with a suitable plat of his township on which to check each parcel of land assessed, and suitable books in duplicate, properly ruled and headed, in which to enter the following items:

1. The name of the individual, corporation, company, society, partnership, or firm, to whom any property shall be taxable;
2. His or their lands, by township, range, section, or part of section, and when such part is not a congressional division or subdivision, some other description sufficient to identify it; and town lots, naming the town in which they are situated, and their proper description by number and block, or otherwise, according to the system of numbering in the town.

A failure to comply with this provision of the statute, by describing land assessed sufficient to identify it, will defeat the assessment thereof; and the same principle applies also to personal property. Roberts v. Deeds, 57 Iowa, 320.

Where the description of land assessed is insufficient to identify it a sale thereof for taxes, and a tax deed, will be void, and the defect in the description cannot be cured by extraneous evidence. Id.

While the capital of national banks cannot be taxed by state authority, the shares of stockholders therein may be, in a rate not exceeding that imposed upon the shares of banks organized in and by the authority of the state. Hubbard et al. v. The Board of Supervisors of Johnson County, and other cases, 23 Id., 130.

In the case of the assessment of a tax wholly unauthorized, it is not necessary, before filing a petition to enjoin its collection, for the aggrieved party to make application for relief to the board of supervisors. Id.

The mains and pipes of a gas company are mere appurtenances to the realty on which the works are situated and the assessment of the realty, described by lots and blocks in a city, held, to include such mains and pipes; and that where they are erroneously assessed as personal property, and the tax has been paid upon the realty thus described, the treasurer has no authority to sell the same for the alleged delinquent tax on the personalty. The Capital City Gas L. Co. v. The Charter O. Ins. Co. et al., 51 Id., 31.
The board of supervisors has power to classify property for the purpose of assessment, but not to fix the value in the several classes. The law requires that the assessors shall fix the value of each person's property according to his own best judgment. Barnum v. Barber et al., 70 Id., 87.

3. Personal property as follows: number of cattle, number of horses, number of mules, number of sheep, number of swine over six months old, number of carriages and vehicles of every description, with a separate column for the value of each; value of merchandise, amount of capital employed in manufacture, amount of money and credits, amount of taxable furniture, amount of stock or shares in any corporation or company, not required by law to be otherwise listed and taxed, amount of taxable farming utensils or mechanics' tools, amount of all other personal property not enumerated, and the number of polls; and a column for remarks. But no entry shall be made on said books of any animal under the age of one year, except as above provided.

DUTY OF ASSESSOR.

SEC. 822. [When to begin: how to list property.]—Each assessor shall enter upon the discharge of the duties of his office on the third Monday in January in each year, and shall, with the assistance of each person assessed, or who may be required by law to list property belonging to another, enter, in the books furnished him for that purpose, the several items specified in the preceding section; entering the names of the persons assessed in alphabetical order so far as practicable, by allotting to each letter its requisite number of pages in each of the said books. He shall note opposite each piece or parcel of property by him assessed, in a column of his book prepared for that purpose, the number of the highway, independent school district, district township, or subdistrict in which said property is situated.

The township assessor cannot lawfully enter upon the duties of his office until the third Monday of January next after the election. State v. Phippen, 62 Iowa, 54, 55.

SEC. 823. [Assess values: penalty for refusal to take oath.]—The assessor shall list every person in his township, and assess all the property, personal and real, therein, except such as is heretofore specifically exempted; and any person who shall refuse to assist in making out a list of his property, or of any property which he is by law required to assist in listing, or who shall refuse to make the oath required by the next section, shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in the name of the county for the use of common schools therein; and the assessor shall assess such person according to the best information he can get.

SEC. 824. [Same.]—The assessor shall administer an oath, or affirmation, to each person assessed, to the effect that he has given in a full, true, and correct inventory of all the taxable property owned by him, and all property which he is required by law to list, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and in case any one refuses to make such oath or affirmation, the assessor shall note the fact in the column of remarks opposite such person's name, and should it afterwards appear that such person so refusing has not given a full list of his property, or that which he was by law required to list, any property so omitted shall be entered on the book at double its ordinary assessable value, and taxed accordingly.

Where a taxpayer fraudulently conceals a large portion of his property from the assessor, and thus avoids paying taxes upon it, the county cannot maintain an action against him, or his estate, to recover the amount of the tax which ought to have been paid on the concealed property. Appanoose County v. Vermillion et al., 70 Iowa, 365.

This section of the code requires the taxpayer, when his property is listed, to make oath or affirmation, that he has given in a full, true and correct inventory of all property which he is required to list for taxation; and section 823 provides the penalty for refusing to do so, when required by the assessor. Held that the statute being penal must be strictly construed, and that the penalty was not incurred by refusing to subscribe printed affidavits which the assessors present to the defendants and requested them to subscribe, without offering to administer to them the oath or affirmation prescribed by the statute. Marion County v. Kruidentier, 72 Iowa, 92.

Sec. 825. [Deliver books to township clerk and county auditor.—]—Each assessor shall, on or before the first Monday in April of each year, deliver to the clerk of his township one of the assessment books, to be used by the trustees for the equalization of assessments, and for the levy of taxes for township and highway purposes. Said book shall have the several columns of numbers and values correctly footed up, and amount of personal property assessed to each person carried forward into a column under the head of "total personal property;" the other book he shall return to the office of the county auditor, on or before the third Monday in May of each year, which book shall be a correct copy of the first, after the same has been corrected by the township board of equalization.

See opinion of Day, J., in Rhyno v. Madison Co., 43 Id., 634.

While it is required by this section that the assessor shall return the assessment book to the county auditor, yet there was no provision of the code, or law in force in 1868, that required any notice whatever to be taken of such fact in the minute book, or that an assessment had been made. Per Seavers, Ch. J., in Easton v. Saxey et al., 44 Iowa, 655.

Lands granted by the United States to the counties as swamp lands are not subject to taxation so long as they are held and owned by the counties. Nor are they taxable for any year in which they may be conveyed by a county if the assessment for that year be completed before the conveyance is made. Sally v. Poorbaugh, 45 Id., 433.

When lands are acquired from the government after the close of the assessment for the current year, they are not subject to assessment for taxation until the following year. Tullman v. Treasurer of Butler Co., 12 Id., 531; Des Moines Nav. and R. Co. v. Folk Co., 10 Id., 1.

Sec. 826. [Owner unknown.—]—When the name of the owner of any real estate is unknown, it shall be lawful to assess such real estate without connecting therewith any name, but inscribing at the head of the page the words, "owners unknown," and such property, whether lands or town lots, shall be listed, as near as practicable, in the order of the numbers thereof; and no one description shall comprise more than one town lot, or more than the sixteenth part of a section or other smallest subdivision of the land according to the government surveys, except in cases where the boundaries are so irregular that it cannot be described in the usual manner in accordance with such surveys.

Lands may be sold in tracts greater than forty acres when so assessed; for while subdivisions that are assessed separately, or are in fact distinct, cannot be sold in gross, a subdivision or tract, though greater than forty acres, may be sold in a body if thus assessed; and such sale will not, for that reason, be declared illegal, when it does not appear that the taxes due upon the tract could have been satisfied by the sale of a part thereof. Corbin v. DeWolf, 25 Iowa, 124; Ware v. Thompson, 29 Id., 65; Stewart v. Corbin, 25 Id., 144; Eldridge v. Kuehl, 29 Id., 160.

A tax deed is void upon its face, which shows several tracts of land sold together for a gross sum. Ware v. Thompson, 29 Id., 65.

That a tax deed is void because it shows a sale en masse does not of itself render the sale void. Unless it is made to appear that the land was thus sold, the sale itself would not be thereby invalidated. Id. Per Wright, J.

Lands of known owners may be properly sold for delinquent taxes in tracts greater than forty acres, and when nothing appears to the contrary from the face of the deed, it will be presumed that the owners were known, and that the sale in other respects was authorized. Bulkley v. Calhoun, 32 Id., 461.

When land is assessed to the owner and also to an "unknown owner," for the same tax, the latter assessment is void, and sale thereunder confers no title on the purchaser. Nichols v. McGlothery et al., 43 Id., 189.

In certain cases holding sales in gross to be void, see Boardman v. Bourne, 20 Id., 138; Byam v. Cook, 21 Id., 392; Ferguson v. Heath, Id., 458; Harper v. Sexton, 22 Id., 442; Penn v. Clemans, 19 Id., 373; Weaver v. Grant, 39 Id., 294; Greer v. Wheeler, 41 Id., 85; Hurst & V. Dyer, 36 Id., 474; Ackley v. Sexton, 24 Id., 320.

The fact that the land was assessed as belonging to an unknown owner, when the records of the county disclosed the name of the owner, will not invalidate a sale of the land for taxes. The presumption will obtain that the assessor did his duty, and that the name of the owner was in fact unknown to him. The Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Id., 622.

The term "tract" or " parcel" is properly applied to an entire section, and a tax deed for a section is valid. Martin v. Cole, 38 Id., 141.
Lands assessed to unknown owners in forty acre tracts may be properly advertised and sold in quarter sections. Clark v. Thompson, 37 Id., 536; Stone v. Same, Id.

A tax deed conveying a quarter section en masse, and reciting an offer by the purchaser of the whole amount of taxes due thereon, shows a sale en masse, though there is a recital contained in the deed setting out each forty and the amount of taxes due on each. Id.

A description in the assessment, as six acres, will, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be regarded as six acres in the form of a square. Immigart v. Gorgas, 41 Id., 439.

The use and nature of the property must determine whether or not several lots, assessed to one owner and sold en masse, should be regarded as one lot. Where two lots were occupied and used for a purpose, the building partly on each, it was held that they might be sold for taxes together as one tract. Weaver v. Grant, 39 Id., 294.

Sec. 827. [Penalty for failure of duty.]—If any assessor shall fail or neglect to perform any of the duties required of him by this chapter, at the time and in the manner specified, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than twenty nor more than five hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action brought in the district court in the name of the county, and the judgment shall be against him and his bondsmen.

Sec. 828. [Auditor of state to publish revenue laws.]—The auditor of state is hereby authorized and required to cause to be published in pamphlet form, the revenue laws of this state for the benefit of township assessors; and shall cause the same to be distributed to the county auditors, who shall distribute the same to the township assessors of their respective counties.

TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Sec. 829. [Who composes.]—The township trustees shall constitute a board of equalization of their respective townships, and have power to equalize the assessments of all tax-payers within the same, except in such cities and incorporated towns as elect a township assessor, in which case the city council shall be the board of equalization, and shall perform such duties in substantially the same manner, as is required of a township board of equalization, by increasing or diminishing the valuation of any piece of property, or the entire assessment of any taxpayer, as they may deem just and necessary for an equitable distribution of the burden of taxation upon all the property of the township; provided, that such boards shall keep a record of their proceedings.

The board of supervisors, in their classification of the property of the county for taxation, ordered that shares of bank stock should be assessed at sixty per cent of its par value, and they were so returned by the assessor, but the township trustees acting as a board of equalization for the township, reduced the assessment to forty per cent of the par value, whereupon the board of supervisors restored the assessment to the rate it had first ordered. Held, that while the township trustees are empowered to equalize the taxes of their township, yet the board of supervisors are charged with the duty of equalizing the taxation of the county, and accordingly may fix the rate of assessments for the townships. Cassett v. Sherwood, 42 Iowa, 623.

The township trustees are constituted a board for the equalization of assessments of property taxable in their township, and they possess and may exercise this power to the same extent that it was possessed by the board of supervisors prior to the enactment of chapter 29, laws of the thirteenth general assembly, and as it is now possessed by such board as between the several townships of the county. Keck v. Board of Supervisors, etc., 37 Id., 547.

When the trustees have ordered a change to be made in the assessment of property belonging to an individual, it is the duty of the assessor to make the correction in the assessment book, and on his failure to do so, the proper correction may be ordered in a certiorari proceeding. Id.

The fact that a city council irregularly exercised the authority conferred upon it as a board of equalization will not deprive the property holder of the right of appeal to the circuit court. Ingersoll et al. v. the City of Des Moines, 46 Id., 553.

No time is prescribed in the statute within which an appeal from the board of equalization may be taken, and no bond is required to be given by the appellant. Id.

While an appeal will not lie directly from the assessor to the circuit court, but complaint must first be made to the board of equalization, yet one who is aggrieved need not complain more than once to the board. Id.

Where an appeal is taken by the tax-payer from an assessment fixed by the board of equalization, the amount of assessment cannot be raised by the court to which the appeal is taken. In the matter of the appeal of the Des Moines Water Co., 48 Id., 324.

Where plaintiff had notice of the intention of the board of equalization to increase his assessment, and he appeared and argued the question, the action of the board in increasing his assessment was not void because no record of its proceedings in that respect was made. The provisions of this section with regard to the record in such case is merely directory. * * * * *

SECT. 830. [Time of Meeting; duties of board.]—Said board shall meet for that purpose at the office of the township or city clerk, on the first Monday in April of each year, and continue from day to day until completed; and at such meeting they may also add to the assessment as returned by the assessor, any taxable property in the township, city, or incorporated town, not included therein, placing the same to the name of the owner, if known, and assessing the value thereof.

The provisions of this section, requiring the board of assessors, at their regular meetings in June, to add to the assessment any taxable property omitted by the assessor, is merely directory as to time, and a correction of this character made at their September meeting, whereby property omitted by the assessor from his lists was made to bear its due proportion of the public burden, was held authorized and valid. * * * * * * *

The case is not varied as to personal property to the effect that the assessment for the county had, before the insertion of the omitted property, been returned to and acted on by the state board of equalization. * * * * * * * *

SECT. 831. [As amended by section 1, ch. 109, 18th g. a.] [May correct assessment.]—Any person who may feel aggrieved at anything in the assessment of his property, may appear before said board of equalization in person, or by agent, at the time and place mentioned in the preceding section, and have the same corrected in such manner as to said board may seem just and equitable, and the assessors shall meet with said board and correct the assessment books as they may direct. Appeals may be taken from all boards of equalization to the circuit court of the county where the assessment is made [within sixty days after the adjournment of said board of equalization, but not afterward].

The remedy for an erroneous assessment is by application to the board of equalization, from whose decision an appeal may be taken to the circuit court. Mandamus will not lie to compel the officers of a county to strike out an assessment alleged to be erroneous. * * * * * * *

When the trustees have ordered a change to be made in the assessment of property belonging to any person it is the duty of the assessor to make the correction on the assessment book. On his failure to do so, the proper correction may be ordered in a certiorari proceeding. * * * * * * * *

Where a party who, being satisfied with the assessment made by the assessor, appeared at the proper time before the board of equalization, and, upon inquiry, was assured by it that no change would be made in such assessment, made no further appearance before the board, and the board subsequently, and without notice to the party, raised his assessment to more than double the amount fixed by the assessor, it was held that there was a right of appeal from the action of the board. * * * * * * * *

The fact that a board of equalization irregularly exercised the authority conferred upon it in the equalization of property assessed will not deprive a property holder of the right of appeal to the circuit court. * * * * * * * *

While an appeal will not lie directly from the assessor to the circuit court, but application must first be made to the board of equalization for a correction of the assessment, yet one who is aggrieved need not make more than one such application. * * * * * * * *

The remedy of a party against whom taxes are erroneously assessed, not illegally, is by application to the board of equalization for a correction of the error, and not by a suit in equity to enjoin the collection of the tax. * * * * * * * *

Proceedings by appeal to correct assessments of property for taxation are triable by equitable proceedings, without a jury, in the circuit court, and de novo in the supreme court. * * * * * * * *

The defense that the power of assessment given by this section to the board of equalization to add to the assessment returned by the assessor any taxable property in the township * * * * * * not included therein, cannot be constitutionally exercised without notice to the person assessed, will not be considered if the omission of notice has not been pleaded, and, if the party depends upon the omission of notice, the burden of proof rests upon him to show it. * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *
An Act to amend section 831, chapter 1, title VI, of the code of Iowa, in relation to boards of equalization.

SECTION 1. [Amendment of section 831 of code.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa:

That section 831 of the code of Iowa be amended as follows: by adding to the end of said section 831 the following words:

"Within sixty days after the adjournment of such board of equalization, but not afterward."

SEC. 2. [Assessor must inform owner of the valuation, and his rights.]—The assessor shall, before administering the oath or affirmation as provided in section 834 of the code, to the person assessed, inform him of the valuation put upon his property, and notify him that if he feels aggrieved, to appear before the board of equalization and show why the assessment should be changed.

SEC. 3. [Board must decide on valuations.]—At the first meeting of the board of equalization of any township, town or city, they shall decide what assessments should, in their opinion, be raised, and make an alphabetical list of names of the individuals whose assessment it is proposed to raise, and post a copy of the same in a conspicuous place in the office or place of meeting of said board, and also in each post-office located in said township, town or city, and the board shall, if in their opinion some assessments should be raised, hold an adjourned meeting, with at least one week intervening, after posting of said notices before final action thereon, which notices shall state the time and place of holding such adjourned meeting.

Conceding that section 2 of this chapter is unconstitutional, because it relates to a subject not embraced in the title of the act, as required by section 29, of article 3 of the constitution, yet such objection does not extend to the other sections of the act, and these are not rendered invalid for that reason. Henkle v. The Town of Keota, 63 Iowa, 384.

TAXATION OF CERTAIN RAILROAD LANDS.

An Act to provide for the assessment and taxation of lands within the state of Iowa, granted to railroad companies or corporations, which have become earned but not patented.

SECTION 1. [Land earned but not patented to be taxed.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all lands lying within the state of Iowa, which have been heretofore granted or may be hereafter granted to any railroad company or corporation by the general government to the state of Iowa, and by the state granted to any such railroad company or corporation, shall be subject to assessment and taxation within the counties wherein situated from and after the year the same may be earned, to the same extent as though patents had been issued to, and the title of record was in such railroad companies or corporations. The fact that such lands are claimed by more than one such company or corporation shall in no way affect the liability of such lands to assessment and levy, provided, nothing herein contained is intended to subject any lands to taxation for the past that were not taxable prior to the passage of this act.

SEC. 3. (Sec. 2.) Parol evidence shall be admissible to prove when said lands were earned.

SEC. 4. (Sec. 3.) [Repeal.]—All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Approved March 20, 1884.

COUNTY BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

SEC. 832. [Who compose: time.]—The board of supervisors shall constitute a county board of equalization, and equalize the assessments of the several townships, cities, and incorporated towns of their county, at their regular meeting in June of each year, substantially as the state board equalize assessments among the several counties of the state.

The board of supervisors has jurisdiction to increase or diminish the valuation of personal property in any town or township in the county, or may add or deduct a given percentage to or from the assessed valuation. Harney et al. v. The Board of Supervisors of Mitchell Co., 44 Iowa, 203.

The record of the board of supervisors being incomplete, its failure to show that there was an equalization by the board did not affect the validity of a tax deed. Easton v. Savery, 44 Id., 654.

If a tax is illegal, and not merely irregular, its collection may be restrained by injunction. Id.

It is not competent for the board of supervisors, as a board of equalization, to make a correction of the assessment as between individuals nor between different portions of the same district, although such district embraces two civil townships in one assessorial district; but their powers are limited to securing uniformity between the several assessorial districts in the county. Getchell v. The Board of Supervisors of Polk Co., 51 Id., 107.

The board of supervisors have no authority to determine the right of a municipal corporation to assess a tax, nor has such board authority to abate the tax levied by a district township, upon the ground that the right to levy it is in another township. The District Township of Taylor v. Moore et al., 39 Id., 605.

The board of supervisors, as a board of equalization, has no authority to add to the assessment roll or tax list property not assessed, its duty being limited to equalizing the value of property assessed by the proper officer. Royce v. Jenney et al., 50 Id., 676.

The board of supervisors have no authority to determine the right of a municipal corporation to assess a tax, nor has such board authority to abate the tax levied by a district township upon the ground that the right to levy it is in another township. The District Township of Taylor v. Moore et al., 39 Id., 695.

SEC. 833. [County auditor to send abstract to auditor of state.]—Each county auditor shall, on or before the third Monday in June in each year, make out and transmit to the auditor of state an abstract of the real and personal property in his county, in which he shall set forth:

1. The number of acres of land in his county, and the aggregate value of the same, exclusive of town lots, returned by the assessors as corrected by the county board of equalization;
2. The aggregate value of real property in each town in the county, returned by the assessor as corrected by the county board of equalization;
3. The aggregate value of personal property in his county;
4. An abstract of the aggregate value and number of cattle, the aggregate value and number of horses, the aggregate value and number of mules, the aggregate value and number of sheep, the aggregate value and number of swine over six months old, as the same are returned by the assessors of his county.
STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

SEC. 834. [Who composes: where and when to assess: duties.]—The executive council shall constitute the state board of equalization, and shall meet at the seat of government on the second Monday of July in each year in which real property is assessed. The auditor of state shall be clerk of the board by virtue of his office, and shall lay before it the abstracts transmitted to him by the county auditors, as required by the preceding section, and then the board shall proceed to equalize the valuation of real property among the several counties and towns in the following manner:

1. They shall add to the aggregate valuation of real property of each county, which they shall believe to be valued below its proper valuation, such percentage in each case as will raise the same to its proper valuation;

2. They shall deduct from the aggregate valuation of real property of each county, which they shall believe to be valued above its proper valuation, such percentage in each case as will reduce the same to its proper valuation.

SEC. 835. [Determine rate of state tax.]—The state board shall also determine each year, at the same time, the rate of state tax to be levied and collected, not exceeding two mills on the dollar.

SEC. 836. [When to complete duties.]—Said board shall keep a full record of their proceedings, and they shall finish their equalization on or before the first Monday of August, immediately after which the auditor of state shall transmit to each county auditor a statement of the percentage to be added to, or deducted from the valuation of real property in his county, and a statement of the rate of state tax fixed as aforesaid. The county auditor shall add to or deduct from the valuation of each parcel of real property in his county the required percentage; rejecting all fractions of fifty cents or less in the result, and counting all over fifty cents as one dollar.

AUDITORS SHALL TRANSCRIBE ASSESSMENTS.

SEC. 837. [How.]—After the equalization in June, hereinbefore provided, and before the first Monday in November, the county auditor shall transcribe the assessments of the several townships into a suitable book, to be provided at the expense of the county, properly ruled and headed with distinct columns in which shall be entered the names of tax-payers, descriptions of lands, number of acres and value, number of town-lots and value, value of personal property, and each description of tax, with a column for polls, and one for payments.

SEC. 838. [Consolidated tax.]—All taxes which are uniform throughout any civil township or independent school district, shall be formed into a single tax, entered upon the tax list in a single column, and denominated a consolidated tax; and each tax-receipt shall show the percentage levied for each separate fund.

LEVY.

SEC. 839. [Time for making: entered of record.]—At the regular meeting in September in each year, the board of supervisors shall levy the requisite tax for the current year in accordance with law, and shall record the same in the proper book, and the county auditor shall, as soon as practicable, complete the tax list by carrying out in a column by itself the consolidated tax, highway tax, polls, irregular tax, if any be levied, and total tax, and after adding up each column of said taxes, he shall, in his abstract at the end of each township, incorporated town, or city list, apportion the consolidated tax among the respective funds to which it belongs, according to the number of mills levied for each of said funds showing a summary of the total amount of each distinct tax.

A levy of taxes when none appeared of record cannot be proved by parol. A party claiming under a sale for the taxes of that year must show that a record once existed which has been lost or destroyed. Otherwise the sale is void. Moore v. Cooke, 40 Iowa, 290.

A levy made at the June session instead of September will not invalidate the same. Easton v. Savery, 44 Id., 654.

SEC. 840. [To pay bonded indebtedness.]—It shall not be lawful for the board of supervisors of any county to levy taxes in any one year for the payment of bonded indebtedness, except as provided in section two hundred and ninety-one, chapter 1, title 4 of this code, including judgments founded on such indebtedness, of more than three mills on the dollar upon the last corrected valuation. But this shall not be construed to reduce the rate of taxation below the rate fixed for one year, in any county in which a specific rate was fixed by the vote of such county authorizing the issue of such bonds.

SEC. 841. [Errors corrected by auditor.]—The county auditor may correct any clerical or other error in the assessment or tax book, and when such correction, affecting the amount of tax, is made after the books have passed into the hands of the treasurer, he shall charge the treasurer with all sums added to the several taxes, and credit him with all the deductions therefrom and report the same to the supervisors.

The omission of the assessor to insert the name of a person whom he intended to assess jointly with another, as the owners of the property assessed, is an error that may be properly corrected by the clerk of the board of supervisors (now auditor) under this section. Conway v. Younkin, Treas., 28 Iowa, 295.

The auditor cannot, under this section, increase the assessment of property, the valuation upon which he thinks too low, when it is not shown that such valuation was the result of a mistake or error, or that it was not proportionate to that put upon other property. Jones v. Tiffin, Treas., 24 Id., 190.

Nor would a ratification of such act by the board of supervisors have the effect to vindicate this act. Id.

Where certain wild land was omitted from the township assessor's book, and so was not assessed, but the auditor, discovering the mistake, after the return of the assessor's book, entered the land on the tax book, and affixed the valuation for the purpose of taxation at three dollars an acre, the board of supervisors having by resolution directed that the wild lands in that township be assessed at that rate, held that the auditor had authority to assess the land under sections 841 and 851 of the code, and that his assessment was valid. Parker v. Van Steenburg, 68 Id., 174.

When the county auditor, in transcribing the assessment roll, finds land taxed to one not the owner thereof, he has authority, under sections 837 and 841 of the code to substitute the name of the owner as shown by the plat book in his custody, and such assessment to the owner is notice to a purchaser at a tax sale that the land is taxed to the owner. Adams v. Snow, 65 Id., 439.

COLLECTION OF TAXES IN CITIES ACTING UNDER SPECIAL CHARTER.

An Act to promote the collection of revenue in incorporated cities acting under special charters, and to legalize the taxes heretofore levied therein, and sales made thereunder. [Additional to code, title VI, "Of revenue." ]

SECTION 1. [City council may certify to county auditor, etc.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa. That the council of each municipal corporation, acting under a special charter may, if they deem it expedient, provide by ordinance for certifying to the auditor of the county in which such city is situated on or before the first Monday of September of each year, or such other time as may be fixed by law for the levy of state and county taxes, the percentage or number of mills on the dollar of tax levied for all city purposes by them on the taxable property within the corporation for the year then ensuing, as shown by the assessment roll of said city for said year, and the county auditor, when such certification is made, is required to place the same on the tax books of the county in the same manner as state and county taxes are placed thereon, which tax for municipal purposes shall be collected and paid over to the proper officer by the county treasurer, with the same restriction, powers and liabilities, and under the same regulations as to power, mode and manner of proceeding in every respect as in relation to state and county taxes, and in all things relating to the sale of real and personal property, he is authorized and required to proceed according to the provisions of the statutes regulating the sale of property for delinquent state and county taxes, and in all sales for such or any delinquent taxes for municipal purposes, if there be other delinquent taxes due from the same person, or a lien on the same property, the sale shall be for all the delinquent taxes, and such sales and all sales made under or by virtue of this act, shall be of the same validity, and in all respects be deemed and treated as though such sales had been made for delinquent state or county taxes exclusively.

Sec. 2. [Acts of city officers legalized.]-That all acts of the officers of cities incorporated under special charters, in heretofore certifying the taxes levied or rate of taxes to the county auditor, and all collections and tax sales made thereunder, be and the same are hereby declared in all respects as valid, binding, effective and conclusive as if the power to so certify and sell had been expressly conferred by law, but nothing herein contained shall have the effect to make valid any sale for taxes which would be invalid under any other provision of law.

Approved, March 23, 1878.

TAX BOOK AND LIST.

Sec. 842. [Auditor to make form of.]-The county auditor, when making up the tax book of the county, and before said book is placed in the hands of the county treasurer for collection of the taxes therein, shall designate each piece or parcel of real estate sold for taxes and not redeemed, by writing in a plain manner opposite to each such piece the word "sold."

Sec. 843. (As amended by ch. 132, 21st g. a.) [Treasurer's authority: informality.]-The county auditor shall make an entry upon the tax list showing what it is, and for what county and year it is, and shall then deliver it to the county treasurer on or before the [thirty-first day of December], taking his receipt therefor; and such list shall be full and sufficient authority for the county treasurer to collect taxes therein levied. But no informality therein, and no delay in delivering the same after the time above specified, shall affect the validity of any taxes, or sales, or other proceedings for the collection of taxes under this title.

Under the revision it was held that the warrant provided for in section 748 was not essential to the validity of a tax-sale of land. Parker v. Sexton 29 Iowa, 421; Hurley v. Powell et. al., 31 Id., 64; Rhodes v. Sexton, 33 Id., 541; Johnson v. Case, 30 Id., 308; Stewart v. Corbin, Id., 144, and other cases.

No warrant is required by the code. The tax-list is sufficient authority to the treasurer. This section has no application to taxes levied in aid of railroads. Harwood v. Brownell, 48 Id., 657.

Sec. 844. [Aggregate certified to auditor of state.]-At the time of the delivery of said list to the treasurer, the auditor shall make to the auditor of state a certified statement showing the aggregate valuation of lands, town propyalty, and personal property in the county, each by itself, and also the aggregate amount of each separate tax as shown by said tax book.

Sec. 845. [To enter taxes unpaid for previous years: sale void.]-The treasurer, on receiving the tax book for each year, shall enter upon the same in separate columns, opposite each parcel of real property or person's name, on which or against whom any tax remains unpaid for either of the preceding years, the year or years for which such delinquent tax so remains due and unpaid. And any sale for the whole or any part of such delinquent tax, not so entered, shall be invalid.
It is the duty of the treasurer to bring forward and enter opposite the realty as unpaid tax upon personal property, and where he fails to do so a sale of the land for taxes is invalid as against one who in the meantime acquired a lien thereon.

The action of mandamus to compel the county treasurer to enter such tax upon the tax books, would not be barred by the statute of limitations before three years after the certificate of the township trustees was made, if at all.

See Jiska v. Ringgold County et al., 57 Iowa, 639, cited under section 846, post.

The sales of land for taxes divests the land of the lien of all prior unpaid taxes, and the rule operates as well in favor of the owner who redeems from the sale as the purchaser at the tax sale.

The validity of a tax voted in aid of a railroad in 1888, but which was not certified up by the township trustees until 1876, was held not to depend upon its extension on the tax books in the year in which it was voted, and the fact that it was not so extended would not prevent it from being afterward entered thereon as an unpaid tax of a former year. Harrwood v. Brownell, 40 Id., 677.

In an action to quiet title to certain separate tracts of land, and to set aside certain tax deeds under which the defendants claimed title, it was held that, under this section, the tax sales under which defendants claim title were made for delinquent taxes which were not carried forward upon the tax books of subsequent years, as required, were invalid. Barke v. Early et al., 72 Iowa, 273.

So in Hooper v. Sac County, Id., 290, a sale of land for delinquent taxes not brought forward as required by this section of the code, held, void.

Where the owner of certain land became delinquent for personal taxes for certain years, but such taxes were never carried forward, nor did they appear on any subsequent tax list against or opposite the land, nor opposite the name of the owner, as required by section 845 of the code, but the treasurer in the following year made a separate book in which he entered the amount of such taxes, the name of the person taxed, and the page where found on the tax list, Held, that a sale of the land for such taxes was invalid, as against a purchaser of the land, without actual knowledge of the delinquent personal taxes. Does et al. v. Dale et al., 37 N. W. Rep., 1.

A sale of land for the taxes of 1876, made at an adjourned sale in February, 1877, where the treasurer failed to note in the tax books of 1876 that the taxes of 1875 were delinquent, as required by section 845, of the code, held, invalid. Gardener v. Early et al., 69 Id., 42.

SEC. 846. [Treasurer to collect: illegality in proceedings.]—The treasurer, after making the above entry, shall proceed to collect the taxes, and the list shall be his authority and justification against any legality in the proceedings prior to receiving the list; and he is also authorized and required to collect, as far as practicable, the taxes remaining unpaid on the tax books of previous years.

SEC. 847. [Notice when land has been sold.]—Each county treasurer shall, when any person offers to pay taxes on any real estate marked "sold," notify such person that such property has been sold for taxes, and inform him for what taxes said property was sold, and at what time said sale was effected.

The failure of the treasurer to notify a person offering to pay taxes on a tract of land which has been sold for taxes, and so marked, will not invalidate the tax deed, nor will a failure of the auditor to so mark lands "sold" affect the validity of the sale ordered. Player v. Cochran, 37 Iowa, 258.

SEC. 848. [To certify amount required to pay taxes and redeem: compensation for.]—The county treasurer shall certify, in writing, the entire amount of taxes and assessments due upon any parcel of real estate, and all sales of the same for unpaid taxes or assessments shown by the books in his office, with the amount required for redemption from the same, if still redeemable, whenever he shall be requested so to do by any person having any interest in said real estate, and paid or tendered his fees for such certificate at the rate of fifty cents for the first parcel in each township, incorporated town, or city, and ten cents for each subsequent parcel in the same township, town, or city. Each description in the tax list shall be reckoned a parcel in computing the amount of such fees.

Where the purchaser of real property obtained from the treasurer a certificate that there were no delinquent taxes on the property, and the tax books did not show any tax to be due thereon, but it was afterwards found that there were delinquent taxes due thereon at the time, which had not been brought forward on the tax books, as required by section 845, he was held to be an innocent purchaser and would take the property free from all liens for taxes. And it was further held that if such delinquent taxes were brought forward on the tax books after the purchase, they would not constitute a lien on the property as against the purchaser. Jiska v. Ringgold County, 57 Iowa, 630.
SEC. 849. [Effect of certificate.]—Such certificate, with the treasurer's receipt showing the payment of all the taxes therein specified, and the auditor's certificate of redemption from the tax sales therein mentioned, shall be conclusive evidence for all purposes and against all persons, that the parcel of real estate in said certificate and receipt described, was, at the date thereof, free and clear of all taxes and assessments, and sales for taxes or assessments, except sales wherein the time of redemption had already expired, and the tax purchaser had received his deed.

SEC. 850. [Treasurer liable for error.]—For any loss resulting to the county, or any subdivision thereof, or to any tax purchaser, or tax payer, from an error in said certificate or receipt, the treasurer and his sureties shall be liable on his official bond.

SEC. 851. [May assess property omitted.]—The county treasurer shall assess any real property subject to taxation, which may have been omitted by the assessor, board of equalization, or county auditor, and collect taxes thereon, and in such cases he is required to note opposite the tract or lot assessed the words, "by treasurer"; provided, that such assessment shall be made within two years after the tax list shall have been delivered to him for collection, and not afterward. Where the assessor or other proper officer had failed to assess certain lands, and the treasurer discharged the duty within two years, but failed to note the fact that the assessment was made by himself, held, that the omission did not affect the legality of the assessment, and the fact and time when it was made could be shown by parol evidence. The C. R. & M. R. R. Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa, 158.

Equity will not interfere to restrain the collection of taxes authorized by law, on account of errors or irregularities in the assessment. Id.

SEC. 852. [Owner to have property omitted assessed.]—In all cases where real property subject to taxation shall not have been assessed by the township assessor or other proper officer, the owner thereof, by himself or his agent, shall have the same properly assessed by the treasurer and pay the taxes thereon; and no failure of the owner to have such property assessed, or to have the errors in the assessment corrected, and no irregularity, error, or omission in the assessment of such property, shall affect in any manner the legality of the taxes levied thereon, or affect any right or title to such real property which would have accrued to any party claiming or holding under and by virtue of a deed executed by the treasurer as provided for by this title, had the assessment of such property been in all respects regular and valid.

The tax sale will not be rendered invalid by an error in the assessment or the amount of the tax, provided any portion of the taxes for which the land was sold was legal; and that evidence of such errors might in such case be properly excluded. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa, 160; Sulley v. Kuehl, 30 Id., 275.

SEC. 853. (As amended by ch. 133, 21st g. a.) All taxes upon real estate shall, as between vendor and purchaser, become a lien upon such real estate on and after the [thirty-first day of December] in each year.

See, also, Patterson v. Baumer, 43 Iowa, 471; The Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Id., 622.
SECTION 854. [What receivable in payment.]—Auditor's warrants shall be received by the county treasurer in full payment of state taxes, and county warrants shall be received at the treasury of the proper county for the ordinary county tax, but money only shall be received for the school tax. Highway taxes may be discharged and highway certificates of work done received as provided by law.

SEC. 855. [Paid in legal tender and national bank notes.]—The county treasurers are authorized and required to receive in payment of all taxes by them collected, together with the interest and principal of the school fund, treasury notes issued as legal tender by the government of the United States, and the notes issued by the banks organized under, and in accordance with, the conditions of the acts of the congress of the United States entitled, “An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States stocks, and to provide for the redemption thereof,” approved February 25, 1863.

SEC. 856. [Same received by state treasurer.]—The treasurer of state is hereby required to receive of the several county treasurers the above mentioned notes in payment of any claims the state may have against any county for any part of the permanent school fund, or for any taxes due the state; and the said treasurer shall pay out said notes in redemption of outstanding auditor's warrants.

SEC. 857. (As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [Taxes: when due.]—No demand of taxes shall be necessary, but it shall be the duty of every person subject to taxation to attend at the office of the treasurer, unless otherwise provided, at some time between the first Monday in January and the first day of March following, and pay his taxes in full; or he may pay the one-half thereof before the first day of March succeeding the levy and the remaining half thereof before the first day of September following; provided, that in all cases where the half of any tax has not been paid before the first day of April succeeding the levy thereof, the whole amount of taxes charged against such entry shall become delinquent from the first day of March following such levy; and in case the second installment of any taxes be not paid before the first day of October succeeding its maturity, penalty shall be computed on such installment from the first day of September designating the maturity of such installment; provided, also, that in all cases where taxes are paid by installment as herein provided, each of such payments, except road taxes, shall be apportioned among the several funds for which taxes have been assessed, in their proper proportions. And if any one neglect to pay his taxes at or before maturity, as herein provided, the treasurer may make the same by distress and sale of his personal property not exempt from taxation, and the tax-list alone shall be sufficient warrant therefor.

The board of supervisors may employ a special agent or attorney to assist in the collection of taxes not collectible by the county treasurer in the discharge of his duty. Wilhelm v. Cedar County, 50 Iowa, 274.

SEC. 858. [Notice of sale given: expenses: proceeds.]—When the treasurer distrains goods, and the owner shall refuse to give a good and sufficient bond for the delivery of said goods on the day of sale, he may keep them at the expense of the owner, and shall give notice of the time and place of their sale within five days after the taking, in the manner constables are required to give notice of the sale of personal property under execution; and the time of sale shall not be more than twenty days from the day of taking, but he may adjourn the sale from time to time, not exceeding five days in all, and shall adjourn at least once when there are no bidders, and in case of adjournment he shall put up a notice thereof at the place of sale. Any surplus remaining above the taxes, charges of keeping and fees for sale, shall be returned to the owner, and the treasurer shall, on demand, render an account in writing of the sale and charges.

Sec. 859. [Deputies: compensation: delinquent taxes.]—Immediately after the taxes become delinquent, each county treasurer shall proceed to collect the same by distress and sale of the personal property of the delinquent taxpayers, in the manner prescribed in the preceding section, and for this purpose he shall, within sixty days after the taxes become delinquent, appoint one or more deputies to aid and assist him in collecting the delinquent taxes in his county. Each deputy so appointed shall receive, as compensation for his services and expenses, the sum of five per cent on the amount of all delinquent taxes collected and paid over by him, which percentage he shall collect from the delinquent, together with the whole amount of delinquent taxes and interest; and in the discharge of his duties as such assistant collector, should it become necessary to make the delinquent taxes by distress and sale he shall be entitled to receive the same compensation. In addition to the five per cent provided for in this section, as constables are entitled to receive for the sale of property on execution. But this section shall not apply, so far as it authorizes the appointment of deputies, to any county in which township collectors of taxes are elected, and the owners or agents of land that has been sold for delinquent taxes shall have the same privilege and extension of time for paying taxes as other taxpayers whose land has not been so sold.

The treasurer may seize personal property for the payment of taxes, and sell the same, notwithstanding a portion of the land of the owner is advertised for sale for the payment of the same taxes. Personal property may be seized at any time before the sale of the land. Emerick v. Sloan, 13 Iowa, 139.

A tax-deed is conclusive that the treasurer complied with his duty in endeavoring to collect the tax by distress and sale of the personal property of the delinquent taxpayer before selling the real estate. Stewart v. Corbin, 25 Id., 144.

Sections 859 and 860 provide for the collection of delinquent taxes by a deputy collector. The receipt, therefore, of a deputy collector of delinquent taxes has the same force and effect as that of the treasurer. Jones v. Welsing, 52 Id., 220.

Where a person was employed by private persons to render services in the capacity of deputy collector and treasurer, and was permitted to render the services in that capacity, he can only recover therefor the compensation allowed by law; and an agreement by such persons to pay him a greater compensation for such services than that fixed by statute, held wholly void. Fawcett v. Eberly et al., 28 Id., 544.

Sec. 860. [When treasurer is resisted.]—If the treasurer, or his deputy, be resisted or impeded in the execution of his office, he may require any suitable person to assist him therein, and if such person refuse the aid, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding ten dollars to be recovered by civil action in the name of the county, and the person resisting shall be liable as in the case of resisting the sheriff in the execution of civil process.

See Jones v. Welsing, 52 Iowa, 220, noted under section 859.

Sec. 861. [Taxes certified to treasurer of any other county.]—In all cases of delinquent taxes, in any county where the person upon whose property the same were levied shall have removed into another county of the state, leaving no property within the county where the taxes were levied, out of which the same can be made, the treasurer of the county where said taxes are delinquent, shall make out a certified abstract of said taxes as they appear upon the tax book, and forward the same to the treasurer of the county in which the person resides, or has property, who is owing said taxes, whenever the treasurer transmitting said abstract has reason to believe that said taxes can be collected thereby.

Sec. 862. [Force and effect of.]—The treasurer forwarding, and the one receiving, said abstract, shall each keep a record thereof, and upon the receipt and filing of said abstract in the office of the treasurer to whom the same is sent, it shall have the full force and effect of a levy of taxes in that county, and the collection of the same shall be proceeded with in the same manner provided by law for the collection of other taxes.

Sec. 863. [Penalty.]—The officer collecting taxes so certified into another county, shall, in addition to the penalties provided by law on delinquent taxes, assess and collect the further penalty of twenty per cent on the whole amount of such taxes, inclusive of the penalties thereon.

Sec. 864. [Return made.]—The officer receiving said abstract, shall, whenever in his opinion the taxes are uncollectible, return the abstract with the indorsement thereon of "uncollectible," and in case said taxes are collected, the officer receiving the same shall transmit the amount to the treasurer of the county where said taxes were levied, less the penalty provided by section eight hundred sixty-three of this chapter.

DELINQUENT—LIEN—PENALTY.

Sec. 865. (As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [Delinquent taxes: a lien drawing interest.]—(All taxes due and unpaid on the first day of March or the first day of September, shall become delinquent and draw interest as hereinafter provided; and taxes upon real property are hereby made a perpetual lien thereon against all persons except the United States and this state; and taxes due from any person upon personal property shall be a lien upon any real property owned by such person, or to which he may acquire a title; and the treasurer is authorized and directed to collect the delinquent taxes by the sale of any property upon which the taxes are levied, or any other personal or real property belonging to the person to whom the taxes are assessed.)

See Jiska v. Ringgold County, 57 Iowa, 630, cited under section 848, ante.

Taxes on personal property do not become a lien on real property until they are due, and they do not become due by the mere assessment of the property for taxation. Whether they become due at the time of the levy or subsequently, when the books are placed in the hands of the treasurer, quare; but until they are due the owner of real estate may convey it free from any lien for such taxes. Castle, Trustee, v. Anderson et al., 69 Id., 428.

Taxes levied upon personal property become a lien on any realty which the owner of such property may possess, or which he may acquire, but not on the personality itself; and when such personal property is sold and transferred to another after the levy of the taxes thereon and before payment thereof, it cannot be subjected to the payment of such tax. Jaffray & Co. v. Anderson et al., 66 Id., 718.

Sec. 866. (Ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [Penalty on delinquent taxes.]—(The treasurer shall continue to receive taxes after they become delinquent until collected by distress and sale; and if one-half of the taxes charged against any entry on the tax-book in the hands of a county treasurer be not paid before the first day of April after the same has been charged; or if the remaining half of such taxes has not been paid before the first day of October after its maturity, he shall collect, in addition to the tax of each taxpayer so delinquent, as penalty for non-payment, interest on such delinquent taxes, at the rate of one cent per month thereafter until paid; provided, that in all cases where the half of any taxes has not been paid before the first day of April after the same has been charged on the tax-books, penalty as above shall be collected on the whole amount of taxes charged against such entry from the first of March succeeding the levy; and provided, also, that the penalty prescribed by this section shall not apply upon taxes levied by any court to pay judgment on city or county indebtedness, but upon such taxes no other penalty than the interest, which such judgment draws, shall be collected; and provided further, nothing in this chapter shall be construed to alter the present rules governing the collection of road taxes, save that all such tax collected by the county treasurer shall be included in the first installment, and provided further, that the penalties provided by this section shall not apply to or be collected upon any taxes levied in aid of the construction of any railroad in this state.)
A sale of land for taxes frees it in the hands of the purchaser, from any and all liens thereon for delinquent taxes for prior years. Preston v. Van Gorder, 31 Iowa, 250; Bowman v. Thompson, 36 Id., 505; Hough v. Easley, 47 Id., 330.

Taxes upon personal property are a lien upon any real estate owned or acquired by the taxpayer. Garrettson v. Scofield, 44 Id., 35; Cummings v. Easton, 46 Id., 183; Paulson v. Rule et al., 49 Id., 576.

The deed of the county treasurer for real property sold for state and county purposes, does not divert the property in the hands of a purchaser of the lien of the city for unpaid city taxes, in a city organized under special charter. Dennison v. The City of Keokuk, 45 Id., 266.

A tax on personal property becomes a lien upon real estate acquired by the tax-payer subsequent to the assessment. Cummings v. Easton, 46 Id., 183.

Where penalties for non-payment of taxes accrued, and commenced to run under the law of the revision of 1860, which was repealed by this section, the liability of the tax-payer was not affected by such repeal. The C. R. & M. R. R'y Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Id., 153, 190.

This section does not apply to special assessments in cities, but only to general taxes when collected by the county treasurer. Aikeney v. Henningsein, 54 Id., 699.

See Jiska v. Ringgold County, 57 Id., 630, cited under section 845, ante.

(Chapter 29, Laws of 1874.)

Remission of Penalty and Interest on Personal Property Taxes.

An Act to remit the penalty and interest on delinquent personal property taxes in certain cases.

Section 1. [When board may remit penalties, etc.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in all cases where the county treasurer in any county in this state has neglected for the term of four years, or more, to bring forward the delinquent taxes on personal property, on the tax books, as required in section 845, chapter 1, title VI, of the code, or has for four years or more neglected to collect said tax by distress and sale of personal property or real estate, upon which said tax is a lien, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of the county to remit all of the penalties and interest that may have accrued on such delinquent taxes, on the payment by the person liable for the same of the original amount of such tax.

Approved March 18, 1874.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers, April 5, 1874.)

This act is not in conflict with the state constitution as impairing the obligation of contracts. Beecher v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 50 Iowa, 538.

Miscellaneous.

Sec. 867. [Form of receipt: effect of.]—The treasurer shall, in all cases, make out and deliver to the tax-payer a receipt, stating the time of payment, the description and assessed value of each parcel of land, and the assessed value of personal property, the amount of each kind of tax, the interest on each, and costs, if any, giving a separate receipt for each year; and he shall make the proper entries of such payments on the books of his office. Such receipt shall be in full of the party's taxes for that year, but the treasurer shall receive the full amount of any county, state, or school tax, whenever the same is tendered, and give a separate receipt therefor.

The tax-payer has the right to pay the full amount of any one tax listed against him, while refusing to pay others; and where a plaintiff deposited a sum of money with the county treasurer, with instructions not to apply it to the payment of certain specified taxes, and the treasurer, receiving no further instructions, after the first of April used it pro tanto for the discharge of the taxes which plaintiff had forbidden to be paid: Held, that plaintiff was not bound by the act of the treasurer, and that the money should have been applied as directed by the plaintiff. The Iowa R. L. Co. v. Carroll County, 39 Iowa, 151.

The payment of taxes to a deputy collector after the land had been sold for such tax, and without knowledge of the sale by the owner, will not vitiate the sale, and the purchaser is entitled to a mandamus to compel the issuance to him of a treasurer's deed. Jones v. Welsing, 52 Id., 230.

Where a tax-payer, in writing tendered payment in full of certain specified taxes, and demanded receipt therefor, it was held that such tender suspended the running of interest upon the taxes embraced in the tender. Id.

A tax deed of any undivided interest in real estate, sold for taxes upon the whole, is invalid. Craig v. Henry et al., 40 Id., 155.

Where lands omitted by the assessor or clerk have been placed upon the tax list by the treasurer, penalties commence to run from the time when such entry was in fact made, if so placed thereon after the time when the taxes would have become delinquent in case the lands had been regularly assessed and placed on the tax list at the proper time. The C., R. & M. R. R. Co. et al. v. Carroll County, 41 Id., 153, 175.

SEC. 868. [Treasurer apportion consolidated tax and make report.]—The treasurer of each county shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, apportion the consolidated tax of each civil township or independent school district in his county, collected during the preceding month, among the several funds to which it belongs, according to the number of mills levied for each fund contained in said consolidated tax, and having entered the amount of tax for each fund, including other taxes collected during the preceding month, upon his cash account, he shall report the amount of each distinct tax to the county auditor, who shall charge him up with the same.

SEC. 869. [Auditor to keep accounts: each fund kept separate.]—The county auditor shall keep full and complete accounts with the county treasurer, with each separate fund or tax by itself, in each of which accounts he shall charge him with the amounts in his hands at opening of such account, whether it be delinquent taxes, notes, cash, or other assets belonging to such fund, the amount of each tax for each year when the tax book is received by him, and all additions to each tax or fund, whether by additional assessments, interest on delinquent taxes, amount received for peddlers' licenses or other items, and shall credit the treasurer on proper vouchers, for money disbursed, for double and erroneous assessments, including all improper and illegal assessments, the correction or remission of which causes a diminution of the tax, and for unavailable taxes, or such as have been properly and legally assessed, but which there is no prospect of collecting.

SEC. 870. [Treasurer to refund taxes when directed by supervisors.]—The board of supervisors shall direct the treasurer to refund to the tax-payer any tax, or any portion of a tax, found to have been erroneously or illegally exacted or paid, with all interest and costs actually paid thereon, and in case any real property subject to taxation shall be sold for the payment of such erroneous tax, interest or cost as above mentioned, the error or irregularity in the tax may at any time be corrected as above provided, and shall not affect the validity of the sale, or the right or title conveyed by the treasurer's deed, if the property was subject to taxation for any of the purposes for which any portion of the taxes for which the land was sold was levied, and the taxes were not paid before the sale, and the property had not been redeemed from sale.

Where lands are sold for more than the legal tax due, the excess may be recovered from the county treasurer under this section. Harper v. Sexton, 22 Iowa, 442; Rhodes v. Sexton & Son, 33 Id., 540.

And where a void, illegal, or erroneous tax has been paid, the person paying the same is entitled to recover the same back under this section; and if the board of supervisors refuse to order it refunded, he may bring an action against the county. Lauman v. Des Moines County, 29 Id., 310; Isbell v. Crawford County, 40 Id., 102.

Where a tax sale of land is made for an aggregate tax, a part only of which is illegal, such illegal tax will not affect the validity of the sale, or the right and title conveyed by the treasurer's deed. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Id., 169; Parker v. Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 421; Sulley v. Kuehl, 30 Id., 276; Rhodes v. Sexton & Son 31 Id., 540.

To entitle one who has voluntarily paid taxes to have the same refunded to him in accordance with this section the tax must be shown to be erroneous or illegal in assessment or levy. An action will not lie to recover from the county for taxes, paid under a misapprehension in regard to the ownership of the taxed property, where the tax payer had full knowledge of all the facts upon which his claim of title was based. The Dubuque & S. C. R. Co. v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 40 Id., 16.

Where taxes to aid in the construction of a railroad were voted in two or more townships in a county, in one, after a part of the taxes had been collected, the tax was declared illegal by the supreme court, it was held, that the treasurer was not authorized to refund the illegal taxes collected out of the taxes lawfully collected from the other townships, and that mandamus would lie to compel him to pay the latter over to the company. The D. M. & R. Co. v. Lovery, 51 Id., 486.

This section provides for the refunding of a tax erroneously, though voluntarily paid, and if the board of supervisors, upon application for that purpose, refuse to refund, an action may be maintained against the county therefor. Richards v. Wapello County, 48 Id., 507.

Where erroneous and illegal taxes, which could not have been lawfully enforced, have been paid by the tax payer, he may maintain an action under this section to recover the same; and his failure to pursue other remedies to defeat the collection will not be a waiver of his right of recovery. Dickey v. The County of Polk, 58 Id., 257.

A sale of land for taxes after they have been paid, through mistake of the treasurer, is void, and if the owner shall voluntarily redeem from such sale, he cannot recover from the county under this section the sum paid to redeem. Morris v. The County of Sioux, 42 Id., 416.

A cause of action for the recovery from the county of taxes illegally assessed, and paid in ignorance of that fact, accrues at the very moment of payment, and the action is barred after the lapse of five years from that time. Callahan v. Madison County, 45 Id., 361.

It is not necessary that the tax be adjudged to be illegal or erroneous before the cause of action accrues. Id.

While the provisions of chapter 171, laws of 1885, requiring a registration of voters, were mandatory and imperative, and a tax voted at an election where the voters had not registered, to aid in the construction of a railroad was illegal, yet an action will not lie to compel the county treasurer to refund the amount of the tax after it has been collected and paid over to the railroad company. Butler v. The Board of Supervisors of Fayette County, 46 Id., 326.

Under an ordinance subjecting a city to the liabilities imposed upon counties by section 570, an action against the city will lie for the recovery of an illegal or erroneous tax. Fallan v. The City of Burlington, 39 Id., 743.

A cause of action for the recovery from the county of taxes illegally assessed, although paid in ignorance of that fact, accrues at the very moment of payment, and the action will be barred after the lapse of five years from that time, and it is not necessary that the tax should be adjudged illegal before the cause of action shall accrue. Callahan v. The County of Madison, 45 Id., 361. To the same effect are Hamilton v. The City of Dubuque, 50 Id., 215; Brown & Sully v. Painter, 44 Id., 988; Beecher v. The County of Clay et al., 52 Id., 140.

Where a school district from which an illegal tax had been collected, and by which the tax was expended, was afterward subdivided, it was held that the county treasurer in refunding such tax under this section of the code should apportion the amount refunded between the different districts occupying the territory from which it was collected. Dist. Tp. of Spencer v. District Tp. of Benton, 56 Id., 55.

Where taxes are erroneously exacted and paid, as contemplated in this section of the code, it is the duty of the board of supervisors to order the county treasurer to refund the same, not out of the general county fund, but out of the several funds to which the tax was apportioned when collected; but where an order to refund was refused, and an appeal was taken therefrom to the district court, the board of supervisors properly refused to enter judgment against the county for such portions of the taxes as had been collected by the county treasurer for road and school districts, and paid over at the times provided by law, without proof that there remained in the treasury funds belonging to such districts which could properly be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment. Town 4'y Land Co. v. Woodbury County, 61 Id., 212.

Where plaintiff was assessed for his moneys and credits, without any deduction being made for his debts, and he made no claim to the assessor for such deduction, and made no appearance before the board of equalization in relation thereto, but paid the tax levied pursuant to the assessment, it was held that the tax was not illegal in the contemplation of this section, and the county supervisors had no power to refund any portion thereof, and that an action would not lie against the county for the recovery thereof. Leonard v. Madison County, 64 Id., 418.

The words "erroneously or illegally exacted or paid" include taxes paid by a purchaser at tax sale, for which the land was illegally sold, because the taxes were not brought forward on the tax lists as required by section 847 of the code, and the words "such erroneous tax," afterwards occurring in said section, are equally inclusive. Parker v. Cochran, 1 Id., 757.

Where the plaintiff, a member of a partnership, was personally assessed for property belonging to the partnership, it was held to be a case of erroneous assessment merely, that the plaintiff's only remedy was before the board of equalization under this section of the code, and that the county was not liable to refund the tax after payment as under section 870, where a tax has been erroneously or illegally exacted or paid as contemplated by that section. Harris v. Fremont County, 63 Id., 639.

A district embracing a portion of the territory from which such tax has been collected may maintain an action for contribution against another district, to which the treasurer has refunded the whole tax. Dist. Tp. of Spencer v. Eiverton, 56 Id., 55.

One who has paid to the county treasurer a tax in aid of a railroad, which is afterwards adjudged to be illegal and non-collectible, is not entitled to a judgment in an action against the county, in the nature of an order requiring the treasurer to repay the tax out of the fund remaining in the hands of the treasurer, or to direct the supervisors to issue an order to the treasurer to that effect, but his remedy is by mandamus against the treasurer or supervisors, or both, to compel them to do their duty and return the tax illegally collected. Eyerly v. Jasper County, 72 Id., 149.

Sec. 871. (As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [When and how made.—On the first Monday in December in each year, the county treasurer is required to offer at public sale at his office, all lands, town lots, or other real property on which taxes of any description for the preceding year or years shall remain due and unpaid, and such sale shall be made for and in payment of the total amount of taxes, interests and costs due and unpaid on such real property.

A tax deed which recites that the sale was begun and publicly held on the first Monday of December, instead of the first Monday of October, as provided by this section, is not void upon the ground that it shows upon its face that the sale was made at a time not authorized by law. When from any good cause, the property cannot be duly advertised and offered for sale on the first Monday of October, he is authorized by section 886 of the code, to make the sale on the first Monday of the next succeeding month in which it can be made. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa, 100.

The sale of land for taxes is required to be made for all taxes of every description “for the preceding year or years” then delinquent, and the sale for the taxes of one year frees the land, in the hands of the purchaser, from any and all liens thereon for delinquent taxes for prior years. Preston v. Van Gorder, 31 Id., 250; see also, Litchfield v. Hamilton County, 40 Id., 69; Shoemaker v. Lacey, 45 Id., 422.

But the deed of the treasurer of lands sold for state and county taxes does not divest the lien for city taxes of a city organized under special charter, which were due and unpaid at the time of the sale. Denison v. City of Keokuk, 45 Id., 266.

Nor will a sale for city taxes for one year, divest the lien of the city for unpaid taxes of prior years. The lien of the city is prior to that of the purchaser. Id.

A court of equity will not interfere to stay the collection of taxes authorized by law, to which the property is justly liable, on account of irregularities. Conway v. Younkin, 25 Id., 295; Litchfield v. Hamilton County, 40 Id., 69.

This section requires the county treasurer to offer lands on which taxes are delinquent, at public sale, and at a time authorized by law, and where neither of these requirements is observed the sale will be invalid. Butler v. Delano, 42 Id., 350. To the same effect is Besore v. Doeb et al., 43 Id., 211.

The “taxes” mentioned in this section for which if delinquent sale shall be made as therein required, mean all state and county taxes only, and not taxes voted in aid of a railroad. Crowell v. Merrill et al., 69 Id., 53.

The fact that the tax sale register does not show an offering for sale of lands on the first Monday of December, is not conclusive evidence that they were not so offered, nor sufficient to overcome the presumption in favor of the validity of the tax deed. Bullis v. Marsh et al., 36 Id., 747.

Notwithstanding this section directs that a tax sale “shall be made for and in payment of the total amount of taxes, interest and costs unpaid” on the land, yet where the taxes are due and delinquent for successive years, and the sale is made for a part only of such years, and a deed is made pursuant to such sale, such deed will not be set aside at the instance of the owner of the patent title. (Following Preston v. Van Gorder, 31 Id., 250, and other cases); Kessey v. Connell, 68 Id., 430.
(For the government of tax sales in Lee county the following act was passed:)

(TAX SALES IN LEE COUNTY.

An Act to amend chapter 2, title VI, of the code, in relation to tax sales and redemption of property in counties having two county seats.

SEC. 1. [Sales to be at place where taxes are collectible.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in counties divided into two districts for the collection of taxes, and where there are two county seats, the sales of lands and property for delinquent taxes, in each collection district, shall be sold at the county seat, or the place where the taxes for each district are collected, and the deputy treasurer and the recorder or his deputy, at such county seat, or place, shall be authorized, and are hereby declared authorized and empowered, to do and perform all the duties required of the treasurer and auditor of such county.

SEC. 2. [Record: where kept.]—The records of such sales, and all matters and things pertaining to the same, shall be kept by, and in the office of, the deputy treasurer, and the recorder, or his deputy, as is required to be kept by the treasurer and auditor.

SEC. 3. [Property sold to be redeemed.]—All property sold under the provisions of this act shall be redeemed of the recorder or his deputy, and the certificate of redemption so issued shall be countersigned by the deputy treasurer, and the deputy treasurer and recorder, or his deputy, shall be authorized and empowered to do and perform all the duties in relation to such redemption as is required of the treasurer and auditor of the county.

SEC. 4. [Deputy treasurer to execute deeds.]—At the expiration of the time for redemption, as required by sections 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, chapter 2, title VI, of the code, the deputy treasurer is hereby authorized to make, execute, acknowledge, and deliver good and sufficient deeds to the purchaser or holder of the sale certificate, and to do and perform all other acts and duties required by law of the treasurer of the county in regard to the same.

Approved March 18, 1874.

(TAX SALES.

An Act to authorize the sale of lands and town lots for taxes in certain cases, for an amount less than the taxes, interest and costs due thereon. (Additional to code, chapter 2, title VI: "Of the collection of taxes.")

SEC. 1. (As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [County treasurer on first Monday in December shall sell.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That it shall be the duty of the several county treasurers of this state, on the first Monday of December in each year, or at any adjourned sale thereafter, to offer and sell at public sale, to the highest bidder therefor, all lands and town lots which then remain liable to sale for delinquent taxes, and which have heretofore been advertised and offered at public sale and passed for want of bidders, for two or more years, by giving general notice of such sale for six weeks previous thereto in the official papers of each of their respective counties, which said notice shall refer to and embrace the general provisions of this act; and in case of redemption of any real estate sold under the provisions of this act, the purchaser shall only receive the amount paid and a pro rata proportion of the penalty, interests and costs.

SEC. 2. [To ascertain interest and penalties to be paid for redemption.]—That in ascertaining the interest and penalties to be paid upon the redemption of such real estate from such sale, the sum due on any piece or parcel of real estate sold under and by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall be taken to be the full amount of taxes, interest and costs due on such parcel at the time of such sale; and all the provisions of the revenue laws of Iowa, not inconsistent with this act, shall apply to such sale, and to the redemption of any real estate sold by virtue of this act; and the amount so paid for any parcel of real estate shall be apportioned pro rata among the different funds to which it belongs.

SEC. 3. [Unavailable tax to be reported to state auditor.]—The amount of taxes due on any real estate sold under the provisions of this act, in excess of the amount for which the same was sold, shall be credited, as unavailable tax, to the county treasurer, by the county auditor, apportioning the amount among the different funds to which the same belongs. The amount of such excess due to funds belonging to the state, shall be reported by the county auditor to the auditor of state as unavailable, who shall give the county credit for the same.

Approved March 11, 1876.

When land liable to sale for delinquent taxes has been advertised and offered for two years or more, but not sold for want of bidders, and is finally advertised and sold for less than the whole amount of taxes, interest and penalty due thereon at the time of the sale under this chapter, the owner cannot redeem the same from such sale without paying the full amount of the taxes due at the time of sale, with the interest and penalty thereon. An offer to pay the amount for which the land was sold, with interest and penalties, is not sufficient to effect redemption, nor to justify the treasurer in withholding a deed from the purchaser at tax sale. Soper v. Espeset, 63 Iowa, 326.

SEC. 872. [Notice: what to contain.]—The notice to be given of such sale shall state the time and place thereof, and contain a description of the several parcels of real property to be sold for the delinquent taxes of the preceding year, and such real property as has not been advertised for the taxes of previous years and on which the taxes remain due and delinquent, and the amount of taxes and amount of interest and costs against each tract, and the name of the owner, when known, or person, if any, to whom taxed.

As to the effect of sales of several tracts at one sale for the gross amount of taxes due see ante, notes to section 826.

SEC. 873. (As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [How published.]—The county treasurer shall give such notice by causing the same to be published once in each week for three successive weeks, the last publication to be at least one week prior to the day of sale, in some newspaper printed in such county, if any such there be, or if not, then in the nearest newspaper in this state having a general circulation in such county; and also by causing a copy of such notice to be posted on the door of the county court house at least four weeks before the day of sale. But no newspaper shall be selected unless it has two hundred regular weekly subscribers, and has been regularly printed and published for at least three months preceding the fifteenth of November of said year in the same county, and has had at least twenty actual subscribers in the county wherein the delinquent property is situated, for at least three months preceding the fifteenth of November of that year. And in all cases where the treasurer may doubt the qualifications of any paper as above fixed, he shall require proof thereof by the affidavit of the publisher.

Where real property has been once duly advertised for sale for taxes, the sale thereof may be made at any time thereafter, pursuant to adjournments regularly made, and need not be again advertised. Hurley v. Street, 29 Iowa, 429.

SEC. 874. [Cost of publication: notice filed.]—The treasurer shall charge and collect, in addition to the taxes and interest, a sum not exceeding twenty cents on each tract of real property advertised for sale, which sum shall be paid into the county treasury, and the county shall pay the costs of publication, but in no case shall the county be liable for more than the amount charged to the delinquent lands for advertising, and if the treasurer cannot procure the publication of said notice for that sum, or, if for any other reason the treasurer is unable to procure the publication of said notice, he shall post up written notices of said sale in four of the most public places in his county four weeks before sale, and notice so given shall have the same force and effect as though the same had been published in a newspaper. In that case, he shall, before making such sale, file in the office of the auditor of his county, a copy of said notice with his certificate indorsed thereon, setting forth that said notice had been posted up in four of the most public places in his county four weeks before the sale, which said certificate shall be subscribed by him and sworn to before said auditor, and shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated.

Under this section, the treasurer is authorized to collect of delinquents, twenty cents for each tract advertised. McClinton v. Sutherland, 35 Iowa, 487.

But where several lots or tracts are assessed together, and a gross amount of tax levied thereon, and so advertised, they will be regarded as constituting but one tract, and liable for but one advertising fee. Id.

When taxes are delinquent upon a whole section, belonging to one owner, and lying in one contiguous body, it is the duty of the treasurer to advertise the whole tract in a single description, and not divide it up into sixteen descriptions. The C. R. & M. R. R. Co. et al v. Carroll County, 41 Id., 153.

SEC. 875. [Hour and place of sale.]-The county treasurer shall, at his office on the day of the sale, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, offer for sale, separately, each tract or parcel of real property advertised for sale, on which taxes and costs shall not have been paid.

See Martin v. Cole, 38 Iowa, 141, as to what constitutes a separate "tract or parcel" of real property.

As to what constitutes a sale as required by the statute, see Butler v. Delano, 42 Id., 350.

SEC. 876. [Purchaser: homestead liable.]-The person who offers to pay the amount of taxes due on any parcel of land, or town lot, for the smallest portion of the same is to be considered the purchaser, and when such purchaser shall designate the portion of any tract of land or town lot for which he will pay the whole amount of taxes assessed against any such tract or lot, the portion thus designated shall, in all cases, be considered an undivided portion. In all cases where the homestead is listed separately as a homestead, it shall be liable only for the taxes thereon.

Where, under the laws in force at the date of the levy of a tax, the homestead is exempt from sale for any taxes except those levied thereon though not separately listed, a subsequent change in the law will not affect the right of the owner. At a sale made for the taxes thereon the homestead could not be sold in connection with other lands, in such manner as to compel the owner to pay taxes assessed upon such other lands in order to save his homestead from absolute loss. Penn v. Clemans, 19 Iowa, 372.

Under this section of the code a purchaser at tax sale who offers to pay the taxes for less than the whole of a tract of land, acquires an undivided interest in the whole tract. Brundage v. Maloney, 52 Id., 218.

A sale of a tract of land, part of which constitutes the homestead of the delinquent tax-payer, is, under this section, void in toto. Stewart v. Corbin, 25 Id., 144. Following Penn v. Clemans supra. But see Salter v. The City of Burlington, 42 Id., 531, where it is held that, to exempt the homestead from liability for taxes accruing upon other property, it must be listed separately as a homestead. That the homestead is the only real property of the tax-payer, does not relieve him from the necessity of listing it separately, in order to thus limit its liability. This last case was decided upon the law of the revision of 1860, section 759 of which provided that the taxes due from any person upon personal property should be a lien upon any real estate owned by such person.

Section 876 of the code contemplates that land sold at tax sale shall bring the whole amount of taxes due. But chapter 79, laws of 1876, provides that in certain cases lands at such sales may sold for less than the amount of taxes due. A tax deed recited that the land therein conveyed was struck off to the highest bidder, for an amount less than the delinquent taxes. Held that there being no evidence to the contrary, the sale would be presumed lawfully made under the latter statute. Griffin v. Tittle et al., 37 N. W. R., 167.

Sec. 877. [Sale continued.]—The treasurer shall continue the sale from day to day as long as there are bidders, or until the taxes are all paid.

Where a tax deed, regular in form, recited that the land was sold January 4, and the treasurer testified that the sales of the land in the county for delinquent taxes began upon that day, and were continued from day to day until the 18th, and that he entered all the sales as of the date of the commencement; it was held that a sale of land at any time during the continuance of the sale was valid, and that the recording of the sale as of the first day did not impair the title. Phelps v. Meade et al., 41 Iowa, 470.

Where the treasurer announced that the sale of lands for delinquent taxes would be adjourned from day to day and posted a notice to that effect, but instead of resuming the sale, and adjourning it to the following or any day thereafter, he made no further offer of the lands for sale until the agent of the purchaser handed him a list of tracts, and offering in behalf of the person whose name was set opposite each tract to take the same for the taxes delinquent thereon, and the treasurer struck off the entire list as this indicated; Held, that the sale was invalid and should be set aside. Butler v. Delano, 42 Id., 350.

Sec. 878. [Re-sale.]—The person purchasing any parcel or part thereof shall forthwith pay to the treasurer the amount of taxes and costs charged thereon, and on failure to do so, the said parcel shall at once again be offered as if no such sale had been made. Such payments may be made in the same funds receivable by law in payment of taxes.

Sec. 879. [Owner may pay before sale.]—Any person owning or claiming lands, or town lots, advertised for sale as aforesaid, may pay to the county treasurer, at any time before the sale thereof, the taxes due thereon with interest, cost of advertising, and all the costs which may have accrued up to the time of such payment.

Sec. 880. [Letters and figures used: informality: effect of.]—In all advertisements for the sale of real property for taxes, and in entries required to be made by the county auditor, treasurer, or other officer, letters and figures may be used as they have been heretofore, to denote townships, ranges, sections, parts of sections, lots, blocks, date, and the amount of taxes, interest, and costs. And no irregularity or informality in the advertisement shall affect in any manner the legality of the sale, or the title to any real property conveyed by the treasurer's deed under this chapter, but, in all cases, the provisions of this chapter shall be sufficient notice to owners of the sale of their property.

In addition to the rule of liberal construction (code, sections 45, 2528) the revenue law in this and other sections provide that any irregularity, informality, error, etc., shall not affect the validity of the proceedings, or the title derived thereunder. (See code, sections 852, 880, 903, 904.) Per Cole, Ch. J., in McCready v. Sexton & Son, 29 Iowa, 380.

Sec. 881. [Certificate of publication.]—The treasurer shall obtain a copy of said advertisement, together with a certificate of the due publication thereof, from the printer or publisher of the newspaper in which the same shall have been published, and shall file the same in the office of the county auditor, and such certificate shall be substantially in the following form:

I, A. C. D. .

County Auditor .... county, Iowa.

Sec. 882. [Auditor to attend sales: duty: treasurer to keep record.]

—The county auditor shall attend all sales of real property for taxes made by the treasurer, and make a record thereof in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, therein describing the several parcels of real property on which the taxes and costs were paid by the purchaser, as they are described in the list or advertisement on file in his office, stating in separate columns the amount as obtained from the treasurer’s tax list, of each kind of tax, interest, and costs for each tract or lot, how much and what part of each tract or lot was sold, to whom sold, and date of sale. The treasurer shall also keep a book of sales in which, at the time of sale, he shall make the same records. He shall also note in the tax list, opposite the description of the property sold, the fact and date of such sale.

See Boardman v. Bourne, 20 Iowa, 136, where this section, with others, is cited.

Sec. 883. [As amended by ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [Sale adjourned.]—When all the parcels of real property advertised for sale shall have been offered, and a portion thereof shall remain unsold for want of bidders, the treasurer shall adjourn the sale to some day not exceeding two months from the time of adjournment, due notice of which day shall be given at the time of adjournment, and also by keeping a notice thereof posted in a conspicuous place in the treasurer’s office; but no further advertisement shall be necessary. On the day fixed for the reopening of the sale, the same proceedings shall be had as provided hereby for the sale commencing on the first Monday in December. And further adjournments shall be made from time to time, not exceeding two months, and the sales shall be thus continued until the next regular annual sale, or until all the taxes shall have been paid.

The sale may be adjourned from time to time without re-advertising, where the lands have been once duly advertised. Hurley v. Street, 29 Id., 429.

Sec. 884. [Penalty on auditor and treasurer for failure of duty.]

If any treasurer or auditor shall fail to attend any sale of lands as required by this chapter, either in person or by competent deputy, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than fifty nor more than three hundred dollars, to be recovered by an action in the district court against the treasurer or auditor, as the case may be, and his bondsmen. And if such officer or deputy shall sell, or assist in selling, any real property, knowing the same to be not subject to taxation, or that the taxes for which the same is sold have been paid, or shall knowingly and willfully sell, or assist in selling, any real property for payment of taxes to defraud the owner of such real property, or shall knowingly and willfully execute a deed for property so sold, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than one thousand nor more than three thousand dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding one year, or to both fine and imprisonment, and to pay the injured party all damages sustained by any such wrongful act, and all such sales shall be void.

Sec. 885. [Same.]

If any county treasurer or auditor shall hereafter be, either directly or indirectly, concerned in the purchase of any real property sold for the payment of taxes, he shall be liable to a penalty of not more than one thousand dollars, to be recovered in an action in the district court, brought in the name of the county against such treasurer or auditor, as the case may be, and his bondsmen; and all such sales shall be void.

If the treasurer is himself the purchaser at tax sale, or is directly or indirectly interested or concerned in such purchase, the sale is void. Per Wright, J., in Henderson v. Oliver, 28 Iowa, 20.

So also the deputy of the county treasurer is prohibited from acquiring an interest in lands sold at tax sale, and where he entered upon the books a sale as made to a person who was not present, and who subsequently assigned the certificate to him, it was held to be invalid. Ellis v. Peck et al., 45 Id., 112.

Such a sale, however, is not absolutely void, but voidable only, and the fraud of the officer will not defeat the title based thereon when held by a subsequent purchaser for value without notice, save upon proper proceedings instituted therefor. Id.

The act of the county treasurer in bidding off lands at a tax sale conducted by himself as agent for the purchaser, from whom he had received money to be so invested and from whom he was to receive a certain per cent as compensation, is fraudulent and renders the sale invalid. Corbin v. Beebe, 35 Iowa, 336; Everett v. Beebe, 37 Id., 452.

Where a tax sale is set aside on the ground that the treasurer who conducted the sale bid in the land as agent of the purchaser, the owner must pay the purchaser the amount which he would have had to pay to the treasurer in satisfaction of all the taxes if they had not been paid by the purchaser. The purchaser in such case is held to have acquired the right of the state and county in this respect. Everett v. Beebe, 37 Id., 452.

A tax sale will not be held fraudulent because a clerk or employe in the treasurer's office bid in the land for the purchaser, nor by the fact that some time subsequently he became interested in the property. Lorain v. Smith, 37 Iowa, 67.

Where a tax sale is set aside on the ground that the treasurer who conducted the sale bid in the land as agent for the purchaser, the owner must pay the purchaser the amount which he would have had to pay to the treasurer in satisfaction of all the taxes if they had not been paid by the purchaser. The purchaser in such case is held to have acquired the right of the state and county in this respect. Everett v. Beebe, 37 Id., 452.

And in an action at law to recover real estate, the defendant relying upon a tax title, the plaintiff may defeat such title on the ground of fraud at the tax sale. A separate proceeding for this purpose is not necessary. Id.

SEC. 886. [Sale at any other time.]—If, from neglect of officers to make returns, or from any other good cause, real property cannot be duly advertised and offered for sale on the first Monday of October, the treasurer shall make the sale on the first Monday of the next succeeding month in which it can be made, allowing time for the publication as provided in this chapter.

A tax deed which recites that the sale was begun and publicly held on the first Monday of December instead of the first Monday of October, as directed in section 883 of the code, is not void upon the ground that it shows upon its face that the sale was made at a time not authorized by law. Section 886 authorizes a sale on the first Monday of the next succeeding month after October for good cause. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Iowa, 160; Love v. Welch et al., 33 Id., 192.

The treasurer may, under this section, when from any cause the property cannot be duly advertised and offered for sale on the first Monday of October, make the sale on the first Monday of the next succeeding month in which it can be made, allowing time for publication. The reasons for postponing the sale need not appear of record. Sully v. Kuehl, 30 Id., 275.

A tax deed which recites that the sale took place on the first Monday in November, is not for that reason void. Easton v. Savary, 44 Id., 654. See, also, Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Id., 160.

CERTIFICATE OF PURCHASE.

SEC. 887. [How made: what contain.]—The county treasurer shall make out, sign, and deliver to the purchaser of any real property sold for the payment of taxes as aforesaid, a certificate of purchase, describing the property on which the taxes and costs were paid by the purchaser, as the same was described in the records of sales, and also how much and what part of each tract or lot was sold, and stating the amount of each kind of tax, interest, and costs for each tract or lot for which the same was sold, as described in the records of sales, and that payment had been made therefor. If any person shall become the purchaser of more than one parcel of property, he may have the whole included in one certificate, but each parcel shall be separately described.

The "certificate of sale" for taxes made by the treasurer and delivered to the purchaser at the tax sale, is competent evidence to show the manner of sale, etc., when offered by either party in a controversy as to the sufficiency of the tax title; but where there is a difference between such of the collection of taxes.

certificate and the record of sale, the former must yield to the latter. McCreery v. Sexton & Son, 29 Iowa, 356.

The certificate of purchase given to the purchaser by the treasurer does not pass the title to the land sold. Until the time of redemption has expired the legal title remains in the owner, and is not forfeited to the state. Williams v. Heath, 22 Id., 519, 524.

SEC. 888. [Certificate assignable.]—The certificate of purchase shall be assignable by indorsement, and an assignment thereof shall vest in the assignee, or his legal representative, all the right and title of the original purchaser; and the statement in the treasurer's deed of the fact of the assignment shall be presumptive evidence of such assignment. In case said certificate is assigned, then the assignment of said certificate shall be placed on record in the office of the county treasurer in the register of tax sales.

The assignee of a tax certificate acquires no greater right than the original purchaser, and his title is subject to all informalities attending the sale. Watson v. Phelps, 40 Iowa, 482.

One who holds under a quitclaim deed from the assignee of a tax certificate which is void for fraudulent combination of bidders, is not entitled to protection as an innocent purchaser, the grantee in a quitclaim deed not being regarded as a bona fide purchaser without notice of outstanding equities. *Id."

Where a tax purchaser assigned his certificate to another, the assignment not being recorded, and after three years from the date of the sale, but before the execution of the treasurer's deed, executed a quitclaim deed to the prior owner of the property, held, that the quitclaim deed conveyed no title, and that the assignment of the certificate was valid. Smith v. Stephenson, 45 Id., 645.

The assignee of a tax certificate holds it subject to all the infirmities by which it would have been affected in the hands of the original tax purchaser. Light v. West, 42 Id., 138.

Where fraud in the sale is alleged and proven and it is also alleged that the assignee is not a bona fide holder of the title under the tax deed, the claimant under the tax deed must show that he is a bona fide holder, and the burden of proof in the first instance rests upon him. Id. and cases cited.

SEC. 889. [When purchaser pays subsequent taxes.]—The county treasurer shall also make out, sign, and deliver to the purchaser of any real property sold for taxes aforesaid, duplicate receipts for any taxes, interest, and costs, paid by said purchaser, after the date of such purchase for any subsequent year or years, one of which receipts said purchaser shall present to the county auditor, to be by him filed in his office, and a memorandum thereof entered on the register of sales. And if he neglect to file such duplicate receipt with the auditor before the redemption, such tax shall not be a lien upon the lands, and the person paying such tax shall not be entitled to recover the same of the owner of such real estate.

If the purchaser of land at tax sale fail to file with the auditor duplicate receipts for any subsequent taxes upon such land, paid by him, the taxes so paid do not become a lien upon the land, and is not forfeited to the state. Kennedy v. Bigelow et al., 43 Iowa, 74.

When the title to real estate is in controversy, and the taxes thereon are voluntarily paid by one of the parties to the controversy, whose claim is afterwards adjudged to be invalid, he cannot recover the amount so paid from the owner. Garrigan v. Knight, 47 Id., 535.

The provisions of this section, requiring a purchaser at tax sale, upon paying subsequent taxes, to file with the auditor the duplicate receipt, in order to recover the tax upon redemption of the land, does not apply to one who has procured his tax deed, and pays taxes on the land as owner thereof. Thode, Guardian v. Sprofford et al., two cases, 65 Id., 294.

This section, requiring the filing of duplicate tax receipts, has nothing to do with the amount which the holder of the patent title must pay to redeem, when redemption is effected by a suit in equity; but in such case the redemptioner is required to pay the interest and penalty provided by section 890 of the code on each installment of taxes which has been paid by the purchaser. Styfield v. Barnum et al.; Clark v. Same, 71 Id., 245.

REDEMPTION.

SEC. 890. (As amended by ch. 45, 19th g. a.) [How effected.]—Real property, hereafter sold under the provisions of this chapter, may be redeemed at any time before the right of redemption is cut off, as hereinafter provided, by the payment to the county auditor of the proper county, to be held by him subject to the order of the purchaser, of the amount for which the same was sold, and [ten] per centum of such amount immediately added as a penalty, with ten per cent interest per annum on the whole amount thus made from the day of sale, and also the amount of all taxes, interest and costs paid for any subsequent year or years, and a similar penalty of [ten] per centum added as before on the amount of the payment for each subsequent year, with ten per cent interest per annum on the whole of such amount or amounts from the day or days of payment, unless such subsequent taxes shall have been paid by the person for whose benefit the redemption is made, which fact may be shown by the treasurer's receipt; and provided further, that such penalty for the non-payment of the taxes of any such subsequent year or years shall not attach, unless such subsequent tax or taxes shall have remained unpaid until the first day of March after they become due, so that they have become delinquent, nor shall any of said penalties apply in the cases mentioned in the last clause of section eight hundred and sixty-six of this chapter.

Under section 13, chapter 173, laws of 1863, a penalty of thirty per cent was added to the amount of the bid and had to be paid by the purchaser in making redemption, and the same penalty was also added to subsequent taxes paid by the purchaser. Multigan v. Hintrager, 18 Iowa, 171.

The widow has such an interest in the homestead owned by her husband as to entitle her to redeem the same from tax sale. And, under the revision (section 779), this right continued until one year after she became discover. Pfeffer v. Kropf, 28 Id., 27; Adams v. Beale, 19 Id., 61.

A person whose land had been sold for taxes, upon hearing of it, went to the clerk to redeem the same, who, finding the record of a second sale that had been subsequently made, by mistake, for the taxes of the same year, and never having observed the other sale, advised the owner that it required a certain amount to redeem, which was thereupon paid by him, the clerk delivering to him a certificate of redemption from such second sale. The owner had no knowledge of but one sale, and he intended to, and supposed he was, redeeming from a valid sale. Held, that on these facts the owner was entitled to redeem after the period of redemption had expired, on the ground of mistake of fact, upon his paying to the holder of the tax deed the redemption money with penalty and interest. Noble v. Bullis, 23 Id., 559.

If a land owner pays, tenders, or in good faith and without negligence attempts to pay his taxes and fails, through the fault of the officers charged with the duty of receiving the money and making the proper records, a sale and deed of the land will not be upheld. Id.

The agent of a person who owned several parcels of land left with the clerk a sum of money with directions that the clerk and treasurer examine the tax records, pay all taxes due upon the principal's lands and redeem from tax sales of the same. If any had been made; they subsequently returned to him a portion of the money, with certain tax receipts, and the assurance that there was no record of tax sale, that the sale to the defendant not being discovered until he demanded a deed; held, that the agent was justified in relying upon the assurance of the officers that no sale had been made, and that the owner was not chargeable with negligence in failing to discover the facts of the sale. Dax, J., dissenting. Id.

Where the holder of a judgment procured a tax deed of lands of the judgment debtor, which by agreement between them was to be subject to redemption by the payment of the judgment, it was held that other claimants to the land, against whom but for such agreement the tax sale would convey an absolute title, could only redeem therefrom by complying with the terms of the agreement. Jordan et al. v. Brown et al., 55 Id., 293.

The law authorizing redemption from tax sales is to be liberally construed in favor of the land owner whose estate will be divested by the sale. The Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Id., 622; Rice v. Nelson, 27 Id., 143; Adams v. Beale, 19 Id., 61; Burton v. Hintrager, 18 Id., 348.

It is the duty of the proper officer to impart correct information to parties applying to redeem from tax sales, and their mistake, error or negligence, will support the right of redemption after the execution of the tax deed. Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Id., 622.

This case, though not expressly, yet virtually overrules Bolinger v. Henderson, 23 Iowa, 165, which was a case where the plaintiff upon learning that his lot had been sold for delinquent taxes, applied within the term of redemption to the clerk, and informed him that he desired to redeem the lot from all tax sales, whereupon the clerk issued to him a certificate of redemption from a sale made in a subsequent year to the sale in question, and assured him that was all there was against the lot, and it was held that upon these facts the plaintiff was not entitled to redeem after the expiration of the period therefor. See dissenting opinion of Day, J., in Corning Town Co. v. Davis, 44 Id., 634.

That the owner of land failed to pay the taxes or redeem from tax sale, through oversight or under the belief that the taxes had been paid, will not relieve him from the effects of his omissions or warrant the setting aside of the sale. These are not mistakes from the effect of which equity will grant relief. Playter v. Cochran, 37 Id., 268.

The owner in fee simple of land which has been sold for taxes is only entitled to redeem within three years from the sale, and cannot insist upon that right after the period has expired, whether a deed has been made or not. Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Id., 415.

Since land cannot be twice sold for taxes at the same sale, although the taxes be delinquent thereon for two years, and the second sale being invalid, the purchaser is not entitled to a deed, and redemption therefrom is not necessary. Shoemaker v. Lacy, 45 Id., 422; same case, 39 Id., 277.

A mortgagee has such an interest in property sold for taxes as entitles him to redeem. Floyd v. Bunce, 41 Id., 699.

An agreement between the purchaser at tax sale and the owner, that the latter shall be allowed further time for redemption, is a valid one, and may be enforced. Interest at ten per cent per annum upon taxes paid and penalties, from the time the agreement was made, may be collected by the purchaser. Shoemaker v. Porter et al., 41 Id., 197.

A payment to the auditor, by the owner of land sold for taxes, of the amount necessary to redeem from the sales of two years, has the effect to redeem from both sales, notwithstanding the auditor fails to issue a certificate showing a redemption from both, and the treasurer executes a deed under the sale not recited in the certificate. Corbin v. Stewart, 44 Id., 543.

In redeeming but a part of lands sold in gross, the purchaser, or the clerk [auditor] when acting in his stead, has the right to demand only the money paid at the tax sale for the part redeemed, with the penalties and interest thereon, regardless of the fact whether the property was assessed and taxed at more or less than its actual relative value. Penn v. Clemans, 13 Id., 373.

Where one sale was invalid because of several parcels being sold together, while the other sales were valid, it was held that the plaintiff must pay the amount of legal taxes paid by defendant under the first sale, with six per cent interest thereon; and must also pay the statute penalty and interest upon the other sales and subsequent taxes paid by defendant. Id.

A guardian may redeem the lands of his ward, which have been sold for taxes, at any time before the execution of the tax deed, by making payment to the county auditor of the amount due. Witt, Guardian v. Meehert, 51 Id., 546.

The owner of land sold for taxes, in redeeming is not required to pay the amount of any tax paid by the purchaser, with penalties, interest and costs, for any year prior to that for which the sale was made. Sheppard et al. v. Clark et al., 58 Id., 371.

A tax deed made after the owner had paid to the clerk the amount necessary to redeem from the sale, is unauthorized and void. The failure of the clerk to notify the treasurer will not defeat the redemption. Fenton v. Way et al., 40 Id., 196.

The failure of the county treasurer (now auditor) to make the proper entry of a redemption of land from tax sale will not invalidate the redemption. Byington v. Bookwalter, 7 Id., 512.

Where a tax deed was issued by mistake after redemption, and the purchaser paid subsequent taxes, he was held entitled to recover the taxes so paid with six per cent interest thereon, tender of the same having been made by the owner. Id.

Redemption from a tax sale will not remove the lien of a former sale for delinquent taxes, and the rights of the purchaser at the former sale will not be affected by the redemption from the subsequent one. Gray v. Con et al., 40 Id., 327.

A purchaser of lands which had been sold for taxes prior to his purchase, is not entitled to redeem on the ground that after the transaction he had asked the treasurer if there were unpaid taxes, and was informed there were none, at the same time making no inquiry as to tax sales. Moore v. Hamlin, 35 Id., 482.

A person having no interest in the land has no right to redeem it from tax sale; and a redemption by such person does not divest the title of the tax purchaser, or inure to the benefit of the prior owner. Penn v. Clemans, 19 Id., 373; Byington v. Bookwalter, 7 Id., 512.

A party holding a deed for an unassigned right of dower in certain real estate has such an interest therein as entitles him to redeem the same from tax sale. And he may thus redeem not merely a part, or to the extent of his dower interest, but the whole estate. Rice v. Nelson, 27 Id., 145.

It may be laid down as a general rule that any right, whether in law or equity, whether perfect or inchoate, in possession or action, or whether in the nature of a charge or incumbrance on the land, amounts to such ownership as will entitle the party holding it to redeem the land from tax sale. Id. See also, Adams v. Beall et al. v. Beall, 19 Id., 61.

The heir of a mortgagee of real estate has such an interest therein as entitles him to redeem the land from a tax sale made for delinquent taxes thereon, at any time within one year after attaining his majority. Burton v. Hintzinger, 18 Id., 348.

A tender of a sum of money for the purpose of redemption of land from tax sale, is an admission that the amount tendered is due, and is a waiver of any irregularity in the assessment or sale. Id. See also, Brayton v. Delaware County, 16 Id., 44.

The purchaser of real estate at tax sale, cannot recover of the owner the repayment of taxes paid after the redemption thereof. Byington v. Allen, 11 Id., 3; Same v. Walsh, 1d., 27.
An acceptance by the tax purchaser of the amount paid by the owner to the treasurer to redeem lands from tax sale operates as a ratification of the act of the officer in issuing a certificate of redemption. Byington v. Hampton, 13 Id., 23.

The time of redemption of lands sold for taxes is governed by the law under which it was sold, and not that under which it was assessed. Negus v. Yauney & Smith, 22 Id., 57.

Where in a proceeding to redeem from tax sales it was found that one of the sales was invalid by reason of several tracts having been sold together, while the other sales were valid, the plaintiff was held to the payment of the amount of legal taxes paid by defendant, with interest thereon at six per cent, under the invalid sale; and the statute penalty and interest thereon in the invalid sales, together with the subsequent taxes paid by the defendant. Carl v. Watson, 25 Id., 35.

Where the owner of land was an inmate of the county poor-house, which land had been sold for taxes, prior to the expiration of the time of redemption, the supervisors directed the county auditor to draw a warrant on the county treasurer for a sum sufficient to redeem the land, and thereupon the auditor, without drawing the warrant, or receiving the money from any source, issued a certificate of redemption to the county, and the owner subsequently conveyed the land by deed to the county. The warrant on the treasurer was not issued until more than two months after the certificate of redemption. Held, that under this section of the code, assuming that the county was authorized to redeem, there having been no payment to the auditor at the time of issuing the certificate, the purchaser at the tax sale was entitled to a deed upon the expiration of the period of redemption. Reeves v. Bremer Co., 34 N. W. R., 794.

Where the notice to redeem from a tax sale is directed to a person other than the one to whom the land is taxed, it is no notice at all and does not cut off the right of redemption as against one who takes a tax deed under the sale; and in such case the period of limitation does not begin to run from the date of the tax deed. Shiffler v. Barnum, 71 Iowa, 245.

One who goes into a court of equity to redeem his land from a tax sale and deed, must refund to the purchaser the taxes paid by him on the property subsequent to the execution of the deed, with the interest and penalty provided by section 890 of the code, whether duplicate receipts for such taxes have been filed with the auditor or not. Elliott v. Parker, 72 Id., 476.

SEC. 891. [Certificate of redemption.]—The county auditor shall, upon application of any party to redeem any real property sold under the provisions of this chapter, and being satisfied that said party has a right to redeem the same, and upon the payment of the proper amount, issue to such party a certificate of redemption setting forth the facts of the sale substantially as contained in the certificate of sale, the date of the redemption, the amount paid, and by whom redeemed, and he shall make the proper entries in the book of sales in his office, and shall immediately give notice of such redemption to the county treasurer. Such certificate of redemption shall then be presented to the treasurer, who shall countersign the same and make the proper entries in the books of his office, and no certificate of redemption shall be held as evidence of such redemption without such signature of treasurer.

The county treasurer has no right to disregard the act of the county auditor in permitting redemption from tax sale to be made, and to execute a tax deed after such redemption; and an action will not lie against the treasurer for a refusal to execute a deed to the purchaser in such case. Hartman v. Anderson, 45 Iowa, 309.

SEC. 892. [Minors and lunatics.]—If real property of any minor or lunatic is sold for taxes, the same may be redeemed at any time within one year after such disability is removed, in the manner specified in the following section, or such redemption may be made by the guardian or legal representative under section eight hundred and ninety, at any time before the delivery of the deed.

The right of a minor to redeem, after attaining his majority, lands sold at tax sale during his minority, is limited to his own interest therein, and does not extend to that of other owners or tenants in common holding interests with him. Jacobs v. Porter et al., 34 Iowa, 341; Stout v. Merrill, 35 Id., 47.

It was held in Carl v. Watson, 25 Id., 35, that a person owning any interest in real property subject to redemption from tax sale, might redeem the whole property; and that the purchaser could require him to redeem the whole, if any. See, also, Meyers v. Copeland, 20 Id., 22; Burton v. Hinfrager, 18 Id., 348. The apparent conflict in these cases is explained by Cole, J., in Jacobs v. Porter, supra. See, also, Miller v. Porter, 35 Id., 166.

This section gives to minors the right to redeem their land sold for taxes, after the deed has been made. Tallman v. Cooke, 39 Id., 402.

The minor must be the owner of the lands sold for taxes at the time of such sale to be entitled to an extension of the time of redemption beyond the three years prescribed by law. A subsequently acquired title does not invest a minor with such right. Burton v. Hinfrager, 18 Id., 348.
As the law stood under section 779 of the revision of 1860, a married woman was permitted to redeem her lands sold for taxes at any time within one year after the termination of her coverture. Meyers v. Copeland et al., 20 Id., 22; Pfiffner v. Krapfel, 28 Id., 27. The code, however, makes no such provision in respect to married women as was contained in that section.

An action by a minor, under the next section, to redeem from a tax sale, is not barred until one year after he has attained his majority. Rankin v. Miller, 43 Id., 11.

An action by the heir of a minor to redeem from tax sale must be commenced within one year after the death of the minor. Gibbs v. Sawyer, 48 Id., 443.

SEC. 893. [How redeemed after deed made.]—Any person entitled to redeem lands sold for taxes after the delivery of the deed, shall redeem the same by an equitable action in a court of record, in which all persons claiming an interest in the land derived from the tax sale, as shown by the record, shall be made defendants, and the courts shall determine the rights, claims, and interest of the several parties, including liens for taxes and claims for improvements made on the land by the person claiming under the tax title. And no person shall be allowed to redeem land sold for taxes in any other manner after the service of the notice provided for by the next section, and the execution and delivery of the treasurer's deed.

Under this section a guardian may redeem the real estate of his ward, which has been sold for taxes, after the execution of the tax deed by an action in equity. Witt, Guardian, v. Mewhirter, 57 Iowa, 545.

The assignee of a mortgage claiming under a tax sale, whose assignment is not of record, is not a necessary party defendant to an action to redeem from tax sale, and he is conclusively by a decree in such action to which all the persons shown by the record to claim an interest through the tax sale are made parties. Van Gorden v. Hanna, 72 Id., 572.

EXECUTION OF DEED—NOTICE GIVEN.

SEC. 894. [Before deed is made notice to be given.]—After the expiration of two years and nine months after the date of sale of the land for taxes, the lawful holder of the certificate of purchase may cause to be served upon the person in possession of such land or town lot, and also upon the person in whose name the same is taxed, if such person resides in the county where the land is situated, in the manner provided by law for the service of original notices, a notice signed by him, his agent or attorney, stating the date of sale, the description of the land or town lot sold, the name of the purchaser, and that the right of redemption will expire and a deed for said land be made, unless redemption from such sale be made within ninety days from the completed service thereof. Service may be made upon non-residents of the county by publishing the same three times in some newspaper printed in said county, and if no newspaper is printed in said county, then in the nearest newspaper published in this state. But any such non-resident may file with the treasurer of the county a written appointment of some resident of the county where his lands or lots are situated, as agent upon whom service shall be made, and in such case, personal service of said notice shall be made upon said agent. Service shall be deemed completed when an affidavit of the service of said notice, and of the particular mode thereof, duly signed and verified by the holder of the certificate of purchase, his agent, or attorney, shall have been filed with the treasurer, authorized to execute the tax-deed. Such affidavit shall be filed by said treasurer, and entered upon the records of his office, and said record or affidavit shall be presumptive evidence of the completed service of notice herein required, and until ninety days after the service of said notice, the right of redemption from such sale shall not expire. Any person swearing falsely to any fact or statement contained in said affidavit, shall be deemed guilty of perjury and punished accordingly. The cost of serving said notice, whether by publication or otherwise, together with the cost of the affidavit, shall be added to the redemption money.

For the purpose of making service of the notice required by section 894 of the code, the owner of the legal title to the land will be deemed in possession in the absence of evidence to the contrary. Such notice may be served by the holder of the certificate of sale in person. Hall & Spencer v. Guthridge, 52 Iowa, 408.

The provision requiring service of the notice upon the person in whose name the land is taxed has reference to the person in whose name it is taxed at the time of the service, and not at the date of the sale. Id.

Redemption may be made from a tax sale at any time within ninety days after the proof of service of the notice required by this section, if the affidavit has been filed in the treasurer's office. Cummins v. Wilson et al., 59 Id., 14. Citing and following Swope v. Prior, 58 Id., 412.

The affidavit of the publisher of a newspaper of notice of the time of expiration of the time for redemption of land from tax sale is not a compliance with this section, nor is such defect cured by the additional affidavit of the holder of the certificate, that publication was made for three consecutive weeks without stating when the publication was made. Such proof of notice does not limit the time within which the owner may redeem. Ellsworth v. Cordrey, 63 Id., 615.

The right to redeem land sold for taxes expires ninety days after completed service of the notice required by this section, whether the deed is then executed or not. Ellsworth v. Love et al., 62 Id., 175; Long v. Smith, Id., 300.

Where a purchaser at tax sale offered to pay the taxes upon a forty acre tract of land "for fourteen" acres of the tract, and the language of the bid was followed in the notice of the expiration of the time of redemption, and it was held that notice and deed were void for uncertainty of description. Poindexter v. Doolittle, 54 Id., 52.

A party has ninety days after the filing of an affidavit of the service of the notice required by this section within which to redeem lands from tax sale; and a tax deed, executed prior to the expiration of such period after the affidavit is filed, is invalid. Swope v. Prior et al., 58 Id., 412.

This section in requiring notice of the expiration of the time for redemption of land sold at tax sale to be served on the "person in possession," has reference to the person in actual possession only, and does not require such notice to be served on the owner of land in the actual possession of no one. Parker v. Cochran, 64 Id., 751. Citing Fuller v. Armstrong, 53 Id., 653.

The mere request of a purchaser at tax sale, made to the foreman of a newspaper in which notice of the expiration of time of the redemption is published, to make affidavit to the fact of such publication and return it to the treasurer, does not constitute such foreman agent of the purchaser within the meaning of this section. Chambers v. Haddock, Id., 506.

When land sold for taxes was unfit for cultivation, and was not actually occupied by any one, but was used as a timber lot, by the owner, who lived in the same county, from which he got his wood until the timber was all removed, held that he was in possession of the land in such sense as to be entitled to personal service of the notice to redeem from the sale, and that service by publication was not sufficient to cut off the right of redemption. Ellsworth v. Love et al., 62 Id., 178.

A valid tax deed cannot be executed until ninety days after the completed service of the notice required by law. Long v. Smith et al., 62 Id., 329, 331.

The person upon whom this section requires the holder of a certificate of tax sale to serve notice of his application for a deed is the person in whose name the land is taxed at the time the notice is served. And where the person in possession of the land had been the owner of it, and it had been taxed to him for previous years, but he had sold and conveyed to the plaintiff who was a resident of the county, but who had failed to record his deed, and there was nothing in the records to show that plaintiff was the owner, and no taxes had yet been levied upon it for the year in which the notice was given, but it had been assessed to the plaintiff and the assessment book returned to the auditor, held that the land was "taxed" to the plaintiff in contemplation of the statute, and that notice to him was necessary in order to cut off his right to redeem. Heaton v. Knight, 63 Id., 669.

Where land has been sold for taxes to an unknown owner, and no one is in possession, there is no necessity to serve notice of the expiration of the period of redemption upon any one in order to make a tax deed therefor valid. Id., following Tuttle v. Griffith, Id., 455; and Fuller v. Armstrong, 53 Id., 623.

Where land has been sold for taxes, and when the notice is given by publication only, it must be directed to the person in whose name the land is taxed. If addressed to another, even though that other be the real owner, a tax deed issued pursuant thereto will be invalid. Hiller v. Farmham et al.; Van Gorder v. Hiller et al., 65 Id., 227.

Where one seeks to redeem from a tax sale and deed, where the deed is void for the want of the notice required by this section, he is not required to show that he has tendered to the holder of the deed the amount necessary to redeem the land. Adams v. Snow, Id., 435, 439.
Where defendant had a valid tax certificate, on which he had a right, at the commencement of the suit, to give the proper notice of expiration of redemption and take his deed in ninety days after the service of the notice, held, that the plaintiff (holder of the patent title) had the right to redeem from the sale, and to do so he was bound to pay the taxes and penalties provided by law, regardless of the statute of limitations. Long v. Smith, 67 Id. 35. See, also, Harbor v. Sexton, 66 Id. 211.

A fair construction of the statute requires that a separate notice to redeem from a tax sale should be given to the person in possession of each tract of land, or the person to whom it is taxed; and a notice to W, and some fifteen other persons named therein, and unknown owners, and referring to the land in question and some fifteen other descriptions, is not a sufficient notice to cut off the right of redemption. Witte v. Smith, 68 Id. 313.

Proof of the service of notice to redeem from a tax sale must be made by the affidavit of the owner of the certificate of purchase, his agent or attorney, and the affidavit of the proprietor of the newspaper in which the notice was published is not sufficient. Rice v. Bate et al., Id. 398.

For a case of defective proof of service of notice see Kessey v. Cornelius, Id. 430.

When the affidavit of publication of notice to redeem from a tax sale named the person to whom the notice was addressed as G. B., when the person to whom it was in fact properly addressed, as appeared from the copy of the notice attached to the affidavit, was P. B., held that it was sufficient as against P. B. Rice v. Haddock, 70 Id. 518.

An affidavit of publication of notice of the expiration of the period of redemption made by the proper party, that states that such notice was served on the owner of the land sold for taxes, "by causing the same to be published in the Algona Republican, a weekly newspaper published in the county," where the land was situated, is sufficient proof of service of the notice "by publishing the same in some newspaper printed in the county in which the land is situated, as required by this section." Neumann v. Raymond, 54 N. W. R. 519.

Where a person purchased real estate at tax sale in partnership with another, and took the certificate in his own name, in dividing the certificates with his partner, he wrote his name on one and delivered it to his partner, with the object of transferring it, held that such partner was the "lawful holder" of the certificate and the proper person to give the notice, notwithstanding the informality of the assignment. Swan v. Whaley et al., 55 N. W. R. 440.

SEC. 895. [When deed shall be made.—] Immediately after the expiration of ninety days from the date of service of the written notice hereinbefore provided, the treasurer then in office shall make out a deed for each lot or parcel of land sold and remaining unredeemed, and deliver the same to the purchaser upon the return of the certificate of purchase. The treasurer shall demand twenty-five cents for each deed made by him on such sales, but any number of parcels of land bought by one person may be included in one deed, if desired by the purchaser.

Where the county treasurer has made a tax deed so imperfect and irregular as not to pass the title, he may, on his own motion, where the law has been substantially complied with, make a second or other deed, correct in fact and regular in form, so as to invest the purchaser with the legal title. McCreary v. Sexton & Son, 20 Iowa, 336; Parker v. Sexton & Son, Id. 421; Hurley v. Street, Id. 428; Johnson v. Chase, 30 Id. 292; Gray v. Coan, Id. 596; Gentner v. Fuller, 36 Id. 604.

But when the treasurer has made and delivered to the purchaser a valid deed in compliance with the statute and the sale, he cannot divest or in any manner affect the title thus conveyed by the execution of a second deed. Rutledge v. Callanan, 52 Id. 401.

Where a tax deed does not conform in its recital to the facts, the treasurer is authorized to execute a second and correct deed, but he has no power to execute a deed which shall misstate the facts respecting any proceedings prior to its execution, and such deed if executed would be void. Gould v. Thompson, 45 Id. 450.

See, as to the effect of assignment of certificate upon lien for prior taxes, Bowman v. Eckstein, 46 Id. 533.

The notice required by sections 894 and 895, is not necessary to be given in cases where the sale was made before the enactment of those sections. Robinson v. First National Bank, etc., 48 Id. 354.

SEC. 896. [Form of.]—Deeds executed by the treasurer shall be substantially in the following form:

Know all men by these presents, that whereas the following described real property, viz.: (here follows the description) situated in the county of . . . . . . , and state of Iowa, was subject to taxation for the year (or years) A. D. . . . . ; and whereas the taxes assessed upon said real property for the year (or years) aforesaid remained due and unpaid at the date of the sale hereinafter named; and whereas, the treasurer of said county did, on the . . . . . . . . day of . . . . . . , A. D.
18..., by virtue of the authority in him vested by law, at (an adjournment of) the sale begun and publicly held on the first Monday of ..., A. D. ..., expose to public sale at the office of the county treasurer in the county aforesaid, in substantial conformity with all the requisitions of the statute in such case made and provided, the real property above described, for the payment of the taxes, interest, and costs then due and remaining unpaid on said property; and whereas, at the time and place aforesaid, A. B., of the county of ..., and state of ..., having offered to pay the sum of ... dollars and ... cents, being the whole amount of taxes, interest, and costs then due and remaining unpaid on said property, for (here follows the description of the property sold) which was the least quantity bid for; and payment of said sum having been made to said treasurer, said property was stricken off to him at that price; and whereas, the said A. B. did, on the ... day of ..., A. D. ..., duly assign the certificate of the sale of the property as aforesaid and all his right, title, and interest to said property to E. F., of the county of ..., and state of ..., and whereas, by the affidavit of ..., filed in said treasurer's office on the ... day of ..., A. D. ..., it appears that due notice has been given, more than ninety days before the execution of these presents, to ... and ... of the expiration of the time of redemption allowed by law; and whereas, three years have elapsed since the date of said sale, and said property has not been redeemed therefrom as provided for by law.

Now, therefore, I, C. D., treasurer of the county aforesaid, for and in consideration of said sum to the treasurer paid as aforesaid, and by virtue of the statute in such case made and provided, have granted, bargained, and sold, and by these presents do grant, bargain, and sell unto the said A. B. [or E. F.] his heirs and assigns, the real property last hereinbefore described, to have and to hold unto him the said A. B. [or E. F.] his heirs and assigns forever; subject, however, to all the rights of redemption provided by law. In witness whereof, I, C. D., treasurer as aforesaid, have hereunto subscribed my name on this ... day of ..., 18....

STATE OF IOWA, } ss.
COUNTY. }

I hereby certify that before me, ..., in and for said county, personally appeared the above named C. D., treasurer of said county, personally known to me to be the treasurer of said county, at the date of the execution of the above conveyance, and to be the identical person whose name is affixed to and who executed the above conveyance as treasurer of said county, and acknowledged the execution of the same to be his voluntary act and deed as treasurer of said county, for the purposes therein expressed.

Given under my hand [and seal] this ... day of ..., A. D. 18....

The recital in a tax deed, regular in form, that the certificate of tax sale had been assigned to the grantee, is sufficient to establish the fact. Stahl v. Root et ux., 34 Id., 475.

EFFECT OF DEED.

SEC. 897. [Vests title in purchaser.]—The deed shall be signed by the treasurer in his official capacity, and acknowledged by him before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds; and, when substantially thus executed and recorded in the proper record of titles to real estate, shall vest in the purchaser all the right, title, interest, and estate of the former owner, in and to the land conveyed, and also all the right, title, interest, and claim of the state and county thereto, and shall be presumptive evidence in all the courts of this state, in all controversies and suits in relation to the rights of the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, to the land thereby conveyed, of the following facts:

1. That the real property conveyed was subject to taxation for the year or years stated in the deed;
2. That the taxes were not paid at any time before the sale;
3. That the real property conveyed had not been redeemed from the sale at the date of the deed;
4. That the property had been listed and assessed;
5. That the taxes were levied according to law;
6. That the property was duly advertised for sale;
7. That the property was sold for taxes as stated in the deed. And it shall be conclusive evidence of the following facts:

1. That the manner in which the listing, assessment, levy, notice, and sale were conducted was in all respects as the law directed;
2. That the grantee named in the deed was the purchaser;
3. That all the prerequisites of the law were complied with by all the officers who had, or whose duty it was to have had, any part or action in any transaction relating to or affecting the title conveyed, or purporting to be conveyed, by the deed, from the listing and valuation of the property up to the execution of the deed, both inclusive, and that all things whatsoever required by law to make a good and valid sale, and to vest the title in the purchaser were done, except in regard to the points named in this section, wherein the deed shall be presumptive evidence only.

[What must be proved to defeat title.]—And in all controversies and suits involving the title to real property claimed and held under and by virtue of a deed executed substantially as aforesaid by the treasurer, the person claiming title adverse to the title conveyed by such deed, shall be required to prove, in order to defeat the said title, either that the said real property was not subject to taxation for the year or years named in the deed, that the taxes had been paid before the sale, that the property had been redeemed from the sale according to the provisions of this chapter, and that such redemption was had or made for the use and benefit of persons having the right of redemption under the laws of this state, or, that there had been an entire omission to list or assess the property, or to levy the taxes, or to give notice of the sale, or to sell the property; but no person shall be permitted to question the title acquired by a treasurer's deed without first showing that he, or the person under whom he claims title, had title to the property at the time of the sale, or that the title was obtained from the United States or this state after the sale, and that all taxes due upon the property have been paid by such person, or the person under whom he claims title aforesaid; provided, that in any case where a person had paid his taxes, and through mistake in the entry made in the treasurer's books or in the receipt, the land upon which the taxes were paid was afterwards sold, the treasurer's deed shall not convey the title; provided further, that in all cases where the owner of lands sold for taxes shall resist the validity of such tax title, such owner may prove fraud committed by the officer selling the same, or in the purchaser to defeat the same, and if fraud is so established such sale and title shall be void.

A tax deed is by the statute made evidence of a compliance with the requirements of the law anterior to the execution of the deed; and a party claiming under such deed is not bound, as preliminary to his right to introduce the same in evidence, to first prove an assessment, levy, advertisement, etc. Allen v. Armstrong, 16 Iowa, 508.

A tax deed, regular in form, is prima facie evidence that all of the essential prerequisites to the exercise of the taxing power have been complied with, notwithstanding it has been held that the portion of the statute making the deed conclusive evidence of such essentials is unconstitutional. McCready v. Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 356; Hurley v. Woodruff, 30 Id., 259.

The provisions of section 784 of the revision of 1860, making the tax deed conclusive evidence of matters vital and essential to any valid exercise of the taxing power, were first questioned by the supreme court in Allen v. Armstrong, supra.

While as to the fact of an assessment, levy, and sale, the tax deed is not conclusive, and it is not competent for the legislature to make it so, yet it is conclusive as to the manner thereof.
Butley v. Callanan, 32 Id., 461. See, also, as holding the same doctrine, Hubbard v. Board of Supervisors, 20 Id., 134; Eldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Id., 160; *McCreary v. Sexton & Son, supra;-
Martin v. Cole, 38 Id., 141.

A tax deed is conclusive as to the manner in which the sale was conducted; and if the deed shows that the sale was made in a manner which under some circumstances would have been proper, those circumstances will conclusively be presumed to have existed. Ware v. Little, 35 Id., 234.

It was held in that case that the provision of the revenue law making the deed conclusive evidence of due notice of the sale is valid and binding; as such notice is not essential to an exercise of the taxing power. Id.

It was again doubted in Adams v. Beale, 19 Id., 61.

In McCreary v. Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 356, it was held that the clause of the revenue law which made the treasurer's deed conclusive evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings, was unconstitutional, as depriving a person of his property without due process of law, so far as respects the essential prerequisites for the exercise of the taxing power, such as the assessment, levy, sale, and the like; as to non-essentials, or matters merely directory, it was held constitutional.

To the same effect are Roma v. Cowan, 31 Id., 125; Hurley v. Powell, Levy & Co., id., 64; *Powers
v. Fuller*, 26 Id., 470.

The tax deed is prima facie evidence of the fact of assessment, and this prima facie case is not overcome by the introduction of the assessor's book, in which it does not appear who was the assessor, whether he qualified before entering upon the discharge of his duties, nor when the assessment was made. The omitted facts may be shown by other evidence than the assessment

But the prima facie evidence of the fact of assessment furnished by the tax deed, may be overcome by the introduction of the records of the board of supervisors which fail to show any assessment, provided the records are complete and free from mutilation. Easton v. Sowry, 44 Id., 654.

The same rule applies in respect to a levy. Early v. Whittingham, 45 Id., 162.

The tax deed is prima facie evidence of the fact of sale, and conclusive evidence of the manner

A tax deed showing that the land was sold at an adjourned sale, without citing the causes for adjournment, is at least prima facie evidence that the sale was properly held, and that proper

A tax deed is conclusive evidence that the property was listed and assessed at the time and 356.

The deed is prima facie evidence of the assessment, and conclusive evidence of the advertise­
Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 506.

Where no invalidity appears on the face of the tax deed it is, it seems, conclusive evidence that the sale was conducted in the manner required by law. Smith v. Easton, 37 Id., 584. See, also,

As to all matters relating to the manner of sale, the tax deed is conclusive; and this rule of the statute prevails in equity cases as in actions at law. Clark v. Thompson; Stone v. Same, 37 Id., 536.

But the record of a tax sale will prevail as against recitals in a certificate. Id.

A memorandum of the treasurer showing an adjournment of the sale cannot be received in evidence to contradict or invalidate the tax deed. Id.

The provisions of section 784 of the revision (§97 of the code), do not apply to the case of one resisting a tax deed upon the ground that the land embraced in the deed was not in fact assessed.
In so far as that section of the revision made the deed conclusive evidence of the fact of assessment, it was unconstitutional. Immagari v. Gorgas et al., 41 Id., 439. Following *McCreary v.
Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 565.

The deed is not conclusive of the manner of the assessment in such a sense as to cure indefineness in the description upon the assessor's books, and identify the land sold as that assessed. Id.

Where an assessment is void for want of sufficient description of the land, a sale and deed thereof will transfer no interest in the property; and the purchaser cannot recover the amount which would be required to redeem under a valid tax sale. Roberts v. Deeds et al., 37 Id., 820.

If there has been a bona fide sale, in substance or in fact, the tax deed is conclusive evidence that it was done at the proper time and in the proper manner. Phelps v Meade et al., 41 Id.,

The statute has received the same construction by the supreme court of the United States in Callanan v. Hurley.
It is only in a qualified sense, however, that the tax deed is conclusive evidence of the regularity of the sale, it being always competent to show fraud committed by the officer conducting the sale, or the purchaser. Butler v. Delano, 42 Id., 350.

The prima facie evidence of an assessment, afforded by a tax deed, will be overcome where there are no records showing that there was any assessment, levy or sale for a certain year, nor evidence that such records had once existed and been lost. Early v. Whittingham, 43 Id., 192.

Proof that there was no public sale of the land, and that the sale occurred at a time to which there had been no adjournment of the prior sale, will overcome the prima facie evidence of the sale presented by the deed. Thompson v. Ware, Id., 455.

Where parol evidence had been admitted on the trial to show that the land embraced in a tax deed was sold en masse with other parcels, the jury should have been instructed either that the deed was conclusive of the regularity of the sale, or that there was no question before them on that point. Chandler v. Keiter, 44 Id., 413.

Where the certificate of sale and tax deed describe land having no necessary identity with that which has been taxed and upon which taxes are delinquent, they do not themselves constitute sufficient evidence to uphold the tax deed, but rather negative it. The Blair Town Lot Co. v. Scott, Id., 143.

A tax deed conveys no title where the evidence shows that the taxes were paid before the sale. Waters v. Gits, 29 Id., 457.

The deed is only prima facie evidence that the taxes were unpaid before the sale or not redeemed from the sale, and the establishment of either fact defeats it. Penton v. Way, 49 Id., 196.

A tax deed which shows a sale to have been in forty-acre tracts will not be defeated by evidence tending to show a sale in quarter-sections. Sibley v. Bullis, 40 Id., 429.

The owner of land may defeat the tax sale by showing fraud committed by the officer conducting the sale, or by the purchaser. McCready v. Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 356; Corbin v. Beebe, 36 Id., 398.

This may be done in defense to an action at law. A separate proceeding to establish the fraud and annul the sale is not necessary. Corbin v. Beebe, supra.

The act of the treasurer in bidding off lands at a tax sale conducted by himself, as agent of the purchaser from whom he had received money to be so invested, and from whom he was to receive a certain per centum as compensation, is fraudulent, and vitiates the sale. Corbin v. Beebe, 36 Id., 336.

To enable one, resisting a tax title, to defeat it by showing fraud on the part of the officer conducting the sale, it is not necessary to show payment or tender of payment of taxes. The restrictions imposed upon one defending against a tax title by section 897 of the code (section 784, revision), do not apply to the defense of fraud pointed out in the proviso of the section. Id.

Fraud committed by a purchaser at tax sale, as, by combination with other purchasers, will not defeat the title of a subsequent purchaser without notice of the fraud, and for value. Van Shaack v. Robbins, 36 Id., 201.

Where a combination was entered into by bidders at a tax sale, to the effect that they will not bid against each other, or that they will bid in turn, the sale is void. Keriker v. Allen, 31 Id., 578; Light v. West, 42 Id., 138; Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Id., 413; Eason v. Mackinney, 37 Id., 601; Martin v. Cole, 38 Id., 141; Van Shaack v. Robbins, 36 Id., 201; Sibley v. Bullis, 40 Id., 429.

Where a tax purchaser subsequently assigned his certificate to another who had an agent bidding for him at the same sale, the latter announcing for whom his bids were made, it was held there was no illegal combination vitiating the sale. Pearson v. Robinson, 44 Id., 413.

That one acts as the agent of two purchasers at a tax sale does not per se constitute fraudulent and illegal combination. Id.

Where there has been no levy, the sale is absolutely void, and a good faith purchaser for value acquires no title thereunder, because this is a defect which the records of the county disclose, but where the assessment and other jurisdictional steps are regular, fraud may defeat the sale, but it will not render it a nullity. Elles v. Peck, 43 Id., 112.

That the treasurer made a mistake and deceived the agent of the owner, by representing that the taxes had been paid for a certain year, are not sufficient to invalidate a sale for the unpaid taxes of that year, unless some collusion or fraudulent combination be shown between the treasurer and the purchaser. McGahan v. Carr, 6 Id., 331.

As to when evidence of misconduct of tax purchaser will not be admitted to impeach sale, see Baldridge v. Kuehl, 27 Id., 169.

Where a party attacking the validity of a tax title avers that he is ready and willing and offers to pay the opposite party the amount paid by him at the tax sale, together with all subsequent taxes, interest and costs, it is error for the court to render judgment setting aside the tax sale, without requiring the payment of the money so tendered. Corbin v. Woodbine, 33 Id., 281.

It is the tax deed and not the sale that divests the owner of his title, and if redemption is duly made from the sale before execution of the deed it divests the lien of the tax, and leaves it as free as before. Lake v. Gray, 35 Id., 44.
Where the tax deed recites the sale to have been made on the 26th day of February, when in fact it was made on the 26th day of January of the same year, the sale will not be thereby rendered invalid. Hurlburt v. Dyer, 36 Id., 474.

A mortgagor or one claiming under him, cannot defeat the lien of the mortgage by acquiring a tax title upon the land. Fair v. Brown et al., 40 Id., 299.

A lien holder cannot acquire a title by purchase at tax sale which will defeat the lien of another incumbrancer. Id.; see also Garrette v. Scefield, 44 Id., 35.

A tenant in common cannot acquire a tax title to defeat the interest of his co-tenant, the interest he acquires being held for the benefit of the latter. And the rule is the same where one is the assignee of a tax certificate, and afterwards becomes a tenant in common, before he receives the tax deed. Flinn v. McKinley, 44 Id., 58; see also Austin v. Barrett, 1 Id., 429.

Where a party claims under two tax sales of the same property, upon the first sale being shown to be void, it is competent to introduce the second deed to establish his title. Mallory v. French, 44 Id., 133.

The purchase of lands at a tax sale by one claiming to be the owner thereof is invalid, and confers no right or title thereto. Thomas v. Sickle, 32 Id., 71.

A tax deed is conclusive evidence that the treasurer took proceedings to collect the tax by distress and sale of personal property of the delinquent tax payer, before selling real estate. Stewart v. Corbin, 25 Id., 145.

Where a tax deed is set aside for fraud or other causes, the holder thereof may recover from the owner of the land an amount equal to the sum which would have been necessary to discharge the land from taxes if they had not been paid by the purchaser. Bessow v. Dush, 43 Id., 211.

When land is assessed to the owner and also to an "unknown owner" for the same tax, the latter assessment is void, and a sale thereunder confers no title on the purchaser. Nichols v. Metcalfery, 189.

Where the agent of a purchaser of lands sold for taxes selected certain lands upon which the taxes were delinquent, which he desired to purchase, and therefore the treasurer marked and entered them upon the books as sold, the sale was held void. Miller v. Corbin et al., 46 Id., 150.

Such sale being fraudulent as against the owner of the land, his right to question the tax title is not defeated by the provisions of section 897 of the code, even though he has not paid all the taxes due on the land. Id.; also, Corbin v. Beebe, 36 Id., 336.

A tax deed, by the provisions of this section, vests in the purchaser all the interest of the holder of the patent title, and the latter may avail himself of the statute of limitations as a defense against the contract to convey the same, as the patent owner could have done. Byington v. Stone et al., 51 Id., 317.

A tax deed is not conclusive evidence of the giving of the notice when the time for redemption from the sale would expire. Wilson v. Crafts, 36 Id., 430; Reed v. Thompson, 1 Id., 455.

Where the notice given of the expiration of the time of redemption from a tax sale, and the proof of the service thereof, are regular on their face, and a deed is executed in accordance therewith, any person asserting the invalidity of the deed, on the ground that the notice was not served as the proof shows, or was not served on the proper person, is not entitled to question the tax deed under this section of the regularity of all prior proceedings, and was all the evidence necessary to establish the deed, the defendant could not be charged with notice of the irregularities appearing in the records so as to be guilty of fraud in presenting its deed as evidence of a valid title, and that the plaintiff could not, after the lapse of two years, have the deed set aside on the ground of fraud in procuring it. Brownell v. The Storm Lake Bank, 63 Id., 754.
A tax deed issued pursuant to a sale that the treasurer had no power to make is not conclusive, and does not estop the holder of the patent title from asserting that the sale was made in violation of section 840 of the code. Gardner v. Early, et al., 69 Id., 42.

Where defendants claimed title under the government, but failed to trace their title to the United States, held that they were not in a situation to question the tax title under this section of the code, not even to pleading the limitation contained in section 902. Varnum v. Shuler et al., Id., 92. See also Lockridge v. Dagget, 54 Id., 332.

This section of the code does not require that a claimant of land sold for taxes, before he can maintain an action to cancel the tax deed, must first tender to the tax title holder the taxes he has paid, with interest and penalties. It is enough to aver in the petition a readiness to reimburse him, whenever the amount shall be ascertained by the court. Taylor v. Ormsby Bros. et al., 66 Id., 109.

One who claims under a tax deed, though his claim may not be good against a prior owner, has sufficient interest to entitle him to question the validity of a subsequent tax title. Adams v. Burdick et al., 68 Id., 666.

Subdivision 3 of section 897, providing that no one shall be permitted to question the title acquired by a treasurer’s deed, without showing “that all taxes due upon the property have been paid by such person, or the person under whom he claims title” is not complied with by a statement in the petition, in an action to set aside tax deeds and to enforce the right to redeem, that plaintiff offers to pay the taxes, if it shall be determined that he was entitled to redeem. Maxwell v. Palmer, 35 N. W. It., 659.

One cannot question the validity of a tax title unless he, or the person under whom he claims, had title to the land at the time of the tax sale. But such title cannot be shown by proof that Porter C. M. had title from the government, and by the introduction of the record of a deed to such person made by P. C. M., and acknowledged by Peter C. M.; nor by the introduction of the record of the deed alone, without the acknowledgment, for then there would be no proof of the execution of the deed by P. C. M. Bower v. Hallock, 71 Id., 218. See also Foster & Co. v. Eds- worth, Id., 262.

Where in an action to quiet title to land sold for taxes, the defendant claimed under, and gave in evidence a patent from the state of Iowa, and a copy of the patent to the state from the United States, it was held that the patent from the state was prima facie title which was a sufficient compliance with the statute to enable the defendant to question the plaintiff’s tax title. Callanan et al. v. Wayne County, 36 N. W. R., 654.

SEC. 898. [Previous sales not affected by code.]-The provisions of this title shall not affect sales heretofore made, or tax deeds given in pursuance of sales made before the taking effect of this code.

Under this section of the code the notice required by sections 894 and 895, to be given the owner and occupant of land sold for taxes, before the execution of a tax deed therefor, is not necessary in cases where sales were made before the enactment of those provisions. Robinson v. The First National Bank, etc., 48 Id., 394.

SALES WRONGFULLY MADE.

SEC. 899. [County to hold purchaser harmless.]-When by mistake or wrongful act of the treasurer, land has been sold on which no tax was due at the time, or whenever land is sold in consequence of error in describing such land in the tax receipt, the county is to hold the purchaser harmless by paying him the amount of principal and interest and costs to which he would have been entitled had the land been rightfully sold, and the treasurer and his bondsmen will be liable to the county to the amount of his official bond; or the purchaser, or his assignee, may recover directly of the treasurer, in an action brought to recover the same in any court having jurisdiction of the amount, and judgment shall be against him and his bondsmen; but the treasurer or his bondsmen shall be liable only for his own or his deputy’s acts.

It was held in Coulter v. Mahaska County, 17 Iowa, 92, that, under section 735 of the revision, which was the same as 899 of the code, the county was not liable to the purchaser at a tax sale of lands sold by mistake or wrongfully, after chapter 173, of the laws of 1862, took effect, for the penalty of thirty per cent and interest thereon at ten per cent.

Where there has been a sale of land for taxes after the same were fully paid, the purchaser may recover of the county under this section. But if the owner redeems from such sale he cannot recover from the county the amount paid to redeem. Morris v. The County of Sioux, 42 Iowa, 416.
Whenever land is sold at tax sale on which no tax was due, the county must hold the purchaser harmless. Hoopey v. Wyatt et al., 64 Id., 264.

When by mistake of the treasurer, lands are sold for taxes which had previously been paid, the purchaser may, at any time, within five years after he discovers the mistake, maintain an action against the county for the money paid by him on the sale. The Storm Lake Bank v. Buena Vista County, 66 Id., 128.

SEC. 900. Repealed and substituted by § 145, 16th g. a.; repealed and substituted by ch. 101, 17th g. a. Interest acquired by purchaser in school or university lands, etc.—[Whenever any school or university land, bought on a credit, is sold for taxes, the purchaser at such sale shall only acquire the interest of the original purchaser in such lands, and no sale of any such lands for taxes shall prejudice the rights of the state or university therein, or preclude the recovery of the purchase money or interest due thereon; and in all cases where real estate is mortgaged, or otherwise encumbered, to the school or university fund, the interest of the person who holds the fee shall alone be sold for taxes, and in no case shall the lien or interest of the state be affected by any sale of such encumbered real estate made for taxes. The foregoing provisions shall be extended to and shall include all lands exempted from taxation by the provisions of this title, including lands of the United States and of this state, or of any county, township, city, incorporated town, or school district, including agricultural college lands, swamp lands, burial grounds, fair grounds, public squares, public groves, or public ornamental grounds, and to any legal or equitable estate therein held, possessed or claimed for any public purpose, and no assessment or taxation of any such lands, nor the payment of any such taxes by any person, or the sale or conveyance for taxes of any such lands, shall in any manner affect the right or the title of the public therein, or prejudice the public thereto; nor shall any such payment or sale confer upon the purchaser or person who pays such taxes, any right or interest in such land adverse or prejudicial to the public right, title or ownership thereto. (As amended by ch. 101, 17th g. a.) Provided, That this section shall not in any manner affect or prejudice the rights of any person or party to any action now pending, which was commenced prior to the 4th day of July, 1876.)

The purchaser, at a sale for taxes of lands incumbered by mortgage to the school fund, takes the same subject to such incumbrance. Jasper County, for use, etc., v. Rogers et al., 17 Iowa, 254.

Under section 811 of the revision, the substance of which is embodied in section 900 of the code, it was held that when the state becomes the purchaser of lands under the foreclosure of a mortgage executed to secure school funds loaned, it takes the property purchased unincumbered by any liens for delinquent taxes; and a purchaser of the same lands from the state acquires a title free of such liens. Helphrey v. Ross, 19 Id., 40.

A tax sale of real estate mortgaged to the school or university fund passes only the interest of the person who holds the fee title, and does not affect the mortgage or any incumbrance existing thereon in favor of either of such funds. Crum v. Cotting, 22 Id., 411.

The rule that the interest of the state in property mortgaged to the school fund, and held by it as security, will not be affected by the sale of such property for taxes, but that the interest only of the mortgagor is thereby affected, applies to all sales made after the enactment of section 811 of the revision, whether the taxes accrued after or before. The State v. Shaw, 28 Id., 67.

A sale for taxes of land mortgaged to the school or university fund conveys only the interest of the mortgagor, and does not divest the lien of the mortgage. Lovelace v. Berryhill, 36 Id., 379.

If the mortgage has been foreclosed, the purchaser at the foreclosure sale takes the title free from the lien for taxes, etc. Id.

That the mortgage was made to the board of trustees of the state university instead of the university, does not change the rule. Id.

When land mortgaged to the school fund is sold for taxes accruing subsequent to the mortgage the purchaser takes it subject to the mortgage. The County of Winnebago v. Brones, Adm'r, 68 Id., 682.
SEC. 901. [When land not subject to taxation is sold.]—Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the county treasurer, either before the execution of a deed for real property sold for taxes, or if the deed be returned by the purchaser, that any tract or lot was sold which was not subject to taxation, or upon which the taxes had been paid previous to the sale, he shall make an entry opposite such tract or lot on the record of sales, that the same was erroneously sold, and such entry shall be evidence of the fact therein stated. And in such cases the purchase money shall be refunded to the purchaser as provided by this chapter.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

SEC. 902. [Action must be brought within five years after recording deed; exceptions.]—No action for the recovery of real property sold for the non-payment of taxes shall lie unless the same be brought within five years after the treasurer's deed is executed and recorded as above provided; provided, that the owner of such real property sold as aforesaid, shall, at the time of such sale, be a minor or insane, or convict in the penitentiary, five years after such disability shall be removed shall be allowed such person, his heirs, or legal representatives to bring their action.

The limitation embraced in this section commences to run from the date of the execution and recording of the treasurer's deed, instead of from the time the land was struck off to the bidder at the sale. The word sale, as used in section 790 of the revision, was construed to mean a completed sale which vested the title in the purchaser, and placed him in a position to have the legality thereof tested in the courts. Eldridge v. Kuehl, 21 Iowa, 169. The same holding followed in Henderson v. Oliver, 23 Id., 20; McC ready v. Sexton & Son, 29 Id., 356.

This section does not preclude the person claiming under the tax sale and deed from bringing an action against the original owner of land sold for taxes, within the five years to cut off the right of such owner, and to quiet the title in himself. Stevenson v. Bonesteel, 30 Id., 286.

An action for the recovery of lands sold for taxes cannot be maintained, except in the case of minors and other cases excepted by the statute, after the lapse of five years from the date of the execution and recording of the tax deed. Thomas v. Stickel, 32 Id., 11; Douglas v. Tutlock, 34 Id., 262.

It was the purpose of the statute to cure all irregularities in the mode and manner of sale which, within the limitation fixed, might have rendered the sale invalid. It was accordingly held that, a tax deed, showing the land sold in bulk, was not excepted from the operation of the statute. Id.

The possession of land by the holder of the patent title, necessary to bar an action to recover the same by one claiming under a tax title, need not be of the adverse, hostile and exclusive character required under the general statute of limitations; but any visible possession, which would enable the holder of the tax title to begin his action for the land, is sufficient.

The holder of a tax deed who seeks to recover the land from the patent owner must begin his action within five years after he becomes entitled to his deed; and he cannot prevent the running of the statute against himself by neglecting to procure his deed after it is due; (see Hintrager v. Hennessy, 46 Id., 600;) but the rights of the owner of the patent title as against the tax title do not end under the statute until five years after the tax deed is actually made and recorded. Accordingly, where the land was wild and unoccupied when sold for taxes, and continued so for some years after the tax deed was made and recorded, but, within five years after the latter date, but more than five years after the tax deed was due, the owner of the patent title asserted his right to the land by taking possession, an action by the owner of the tax title to recover the possession was barred by the statute. Executor of Griffiths v. Carter, 64 Id., 193.

The holder of a tax deed to unoccupied land has constructive possession thereof. Rice v. Haddock, 70 Id., 318.

The validity of a title acquired under a tax sale cannot be questioned after the lapse of five years from date of the execution and recording of the deed. Jeffrey v. Brokaw et al., 35 Id., 505.

Under this section an action by a purchaser at tax sale for the possession of distinct parcels of land which were sold in gross, and of which the original owner remained in undisturbed, adverse possession for more than five years after the deed was recorded, is barred. Brown & Sully v. Pointer, 38 Id., 456. Followed in Lawerty et al. v. Sexton & Son, 41 Id., 435.

No objections to the tax deed or proceedings prior thereto, or irregularities in the manner of assessment and levy, will operate to defeat the bar of the statute of limitations. Pierce v. Weare, 41 Id., 378.
Held, that an action for the recovery of land held and occupied under a tax deed based upon a fictitious sale is not barred in five years. Early v. Whittington, 49 Id., 162.

The party in possession under such tax deed and sale, is entitled to receive from the owner a sum equal to all he has paid for subsequent taxes, with interest at six per cent. Id.

In an action by the owner of land, who has been in continued possession, to set aside a tax deed to such land which was recorded more than five years prior to the commencement of the action, the holder of the tax deed is barred from setting up title thereunder. Wallace v. Sexton & Son, 44 Id., 257.

The purchaser of land at a tax sale cannot maintain an action for its recovery after five years have elapsed from the date of recording the tax deed, where the owner has been in open, adverse possession during that period. Peck v. Sexton Son, 41 Id., 566. Following Brown & Sully v. Painter, 39 Id., 456; see, also, Laverty v. Sexton & Son, 41 Id., 438; Wallace v. Sexton & Son et al., 44 Id., 257.

When the owner of land sold for delinquent taxes continues in the actual possession thereof, a purchaser at a tax sale must bring his action for the recovery of the land within five years from the time his right to a deed becomes perfect, and he cannot by delaying the taking his deed, prevent the running of the statute of limitations against him. Hintrager v. Hennessy 46 Id., 600; Thornton v. Jones, 41 Id., 397.

Where the purchaser at tax sale failed for more than eleven years to apply for his deed, it was held that the owner would be justified in presuming an abandonment of his right thereto by the purchaser, and that such purchaser could not afterwards defeat the title of the owner’s grantee. Ockendon v. Barnes et al., 45 Id., 613.

An action by a tenant in common to recover possession of the common property, which is fraudulently held by his co-tenant and to which the latter has acquired a tax deed, is not barred at the expiration of five years from the recording of the deed. Austin et al. v. Barrett, 44 Id., 488.

The fact that the owner of lands in this state resided in a state in rebellion, when the taxes accrued, does not excuse him from their payment. Finley v. Brown et al., 22 Id., 538.

If the sale for taxes is not simply irregular but absolutely void, it will not be protected by the statute of limitations. The owner of the land will not be charged with constructive notice of such sale. Nichols v. McLatchy, 43 Id., 189.

An action by the purchaser at a tax sale to recover possession of the property sold for delinquent taxes, is barred after the expiration of five years from the time when he became entitled to a deed. Hintrager v. Hennessy, 46 Id., 600.

Where a tax sale is void and the purchaser not being in possession of the land, he cannot avail himself of the statute of limitations against the former owner. Miller v. Corbin et al., 1 Id., 150.

An action to set aside a tax deed, by the original owner, will not be barred in five years from the time of the execution of the tax deed where the tax sale was void, or the taxes for which the land was sold had been paid. Patton v. Luther et al., 47 Id., 236.

The original owner of unoccupied lands, sold for taxes, who has remained in the constructive possession of the same until more than five years after the execution of a tax deed, void for the reason that the taxes had been paid, may maintain an action to quiet his title and remove the cloud created by the tax deed. Id.

Four years after the execution and recording of a tax deed, the holder of the patent title went into actual possession of the land, which was, up to that time, unoccupied prairie. After the expiration of five years from the recording of the tax deed the purchaser brought an action to recover the possession. Hold:

1. That the limitation provided in section 902 of the code commenced to operate upon the tax deed at the time of the recording thereof, and the bar to an action to recover possession thereunder became complete at the expiration of five years.

2. Both patent owner and tax purchaser are to be regarded as continually claiming title from the time the deed is recorded, and neither has any right under the statute not enjoyed by the other.

3. It is within the province of the legislature to provide that an action for the recovery of lands, held by the assent or sufferance of the owner, and not adversely, will be barred within a prescribed time, and section 902 of the code is an exercise of this power. Adams, J., dissenting. Barrett v. Love, 48 Id., 103.

The holder of a tax deed will be deemed to be in the possession of unoccupied land, and if such possession is uninterrupted during five years from the date of the execution and recording of the tax deed, the title acquired thereby becomes perfect and complete. Beck, Ch. J., and Rothenback, J., dissenting. Matogona Coal Co. v. Blair, 51 Id., 447.

Where the defendant claimed title under a tax deed recorded November 8, 1869, the plaintiff, claiming as owner of the patent title, went into possession of the land in 1875, prior to which it had been vacant and unoccupied. It was held that an action for its recovery by the owner of the patent title was barred by section 903 of the code, and that his possession was that of a mere trespasser. 51 Id., 1.
The holder of a tax deed may recover possession as against a stranger after the lapse of five years from the recording of the tax deed. Lockridge v. Daggett et al., 47 Id., 679.

The owner in possession of real property may maintain an action to quiet his title against the adverse claim of the holder of a tax title barred by the statute of limitations. Tabler v. Callanan, 49 Id., 362.

Where prairie land remains unoccupied for five years after the execution of a tax deed thereto, the possession is deemed to follow the tax title, and the holder thereof may maintain an action to protect such possession. Lewis v. Soule et al., 52 Id., 11. Following Moingona Coal Co. v. Blair, 51 Id., 447. Beck, Ch. J., and Rothrock, J., dissenting.

Where land remains unoccupied the title of a holder of a tax deed thereto becomes perfect at the expiration of five years from the date of its execution. Bullis v. Marsh, 56 Id., 747. Following Moingona Coal Co. v. Blair, 51 Id., 447.

The statute of limitations can be pleaded to an action for possession under a tax deed only by the true owner of the land, and his title pleaded must be one upon the strength of which he could recover if plaintiff in the action. Lockridge v. Daggett et al., 54 Id., 332.

The special limitation of five years, imposed by this section, applies only to actions between the holder of the tax deed and the owner of the land at the time of the sale, or those claiming through or under him. Actions between the former owner and other claimants are governed by the general statute of limitations. Id.

Where the time for redemption from tax sale expired, and a deed was executed prior to the taking effect of the code, an action on such deed is governed, as to the statute of limitations, by the provisions of the revision. Bailey v. Howard, 55 Id., 290.

The saving of timber and hay upon land by the owner of the patent title, under a claim of exclusive right, constitutes such acts of possession as will support the plea of the statute of limitations against the holder of a tax deed executed more than five years prior to the commencement of the action. Forey v. Bigelow et al., 56 Id., 381.

The possession of land by the holder of the patent title, necessary to bar an action to recover the same by one claiming under a tax title, need not be of the adverse, hostile and exclusive character required under the general statute of limitations; but any visible possession, which would enable the holder of the tax title to bring his action for the land, is sufficient. Executor of Griffith v. Carter, 64 Id., 193.

An action brought by the holder of a tax deed, more than five years after the deed was due, to recover the land from the former owner, who had taken possession thereof within five years after the tax deed was filed for record, but more than five years after it was due, was held barred by the statute under the doctrine announced in Executor of Griffith v. Carter, 64 Id., 193; Cassady v. Sopp, Id., 263.

One who relies upon the statute of limitations as in this section provided, to avoid the cancellation of an invalid tax deed, must show that the deed has been recorded, because, until recorded, the statute does not begin to run in its favor. Scroggs v. Garver, 69 Id., 680.

In December, 1876, plaintiff procured a tax deed for the land in controversy, which was invalid on account of defective proof of service of the notice required by statute. In December, 1883, plaintiff perfected his proof of service, and April 1st, 1884, procured another tax deed. April 15, 1884, defendant, who was the owner of the patent title, took possession of the land, which never before had been occupied. Plaintiff brings this action to recover the land and to quiet his tax title, and the defendant pleads the statute of limitations. Held, that since the defendant did not take possession until after plaintiff had obtained his valid deed, plaintiff's action, being brought within five years from the date of that deed being executed and recorded, was not barred by the statute.

Adams v. Griffin, 69 Id., 125.

Where notice of the expiration of the time of redemption from a tax sale was duly given, but the proof of the service of the notice, though made by the proper party, was defective only in not stating some of the facts required by the statute, held that the proof of service and the deed issued thereon were not void, but were sufficient after the lapse of five years, to enable the holder of the deed successfully to plead the statute of limitations (sec. 902) against the holder of the patent title in an action for the land. Trudock v. Bentley et al., 67 Id., 602.

A tax deed, reciting as proof of service of the notice of expiration of time of redemption, an affidavit of a newspaper publisher, showing the publication of such notice, is sufficient in form, although in fact the proper proof of service was not filed with the treasurer, to put in operation the special statute of limitations, as in this section, providing that no action for the recovery of land sold for taxes shall be brought unless within five years from the execution and recording of the treasurer's deed thereof. Bolin v. Francis et al., 54 N. W. R., 447.

Where the notice to redeem from tax sale is directed to a person other than the one to whom the land was taxed, it is no notice at all, and does not cut off the right of redemption as against one who takes a tax deed under the sale; and in such case the period of limitation provided in this section does not begin to run from the date of the tax deed. Clark v. Barrum et al., 71 Id., 245.

The statutory limitation of five years, provided in this section, usually begins to run against the holder of a tax title at the date when he is entitled to receive his deed; but that rule does not apply where his title, which the law presumes to be perfect, is not called in question within that time by any act of the owner of the patent title, because, until it is called in question, he has no occasion to bring an action to quiet his tax title. Francis v. Griffin, 72 Id., 23. See also, Moin-gona Coal Co. v. Blair, 51 Id., 447; Adams v. Griffin, 66 Id., 125; Griffith v. Carter, 64 Id., 193.

SEC. 908. [Acts of officers in fact valid.]-In all suits and controversies involving the question of title to real property held under and by virtue of a treasurer’s deed, all acts of assessors, treasurers, auditors, supervisors, and other officers de facto shall be deemed and construed to be of the same validity as acts of officers de jure.

That an assessor was not duly qualified when, acting as an officer de facto, he assessed property, does not invalidate such assessment, or affect the validity of a sale for taxes. Allen v. Armstrong, 16 Iowa, 508.

To support the acts of one on the ground that he is an officer de facto, they must have been done under color of the office whose duties should have been discharged by the person filling it.

At a general election the people of P township elected two assessors, one for the township, the other for the town of A, situated within such township. The assessor elected for the town, following a custom, assessed land outside of the town; held, that the assessment, so far as it included land outside of the town, was a nullity, and a sale for taxes under it was void. Id.

The acts of officers de facto are of the same validity as those of officers de jure. Peirce v.
Weare, 41 Id., 378.

In an action to enjoin the opening of a highway because not legally established, damages cannot be recovered for opening it without legal notice. Tharp v. Witham, 65 Id., 566.

Where notice of the expiration of the time for redemption from a tax sale was duly given by publication, but the proof of such service was not made, held, that the deed issued upon such insufficient proof was not void, even though it recited how the proof was made, but that it was sufficient after the lapse of five years, to enable the holder successfully to plead the statute of limitations against the holder of the patent title in an action to redeem the land. Bolin v. Francis et al., 72 Id., 619.

SEC. 904. [When assessed to wrong person.]-No sale of real property for taxes shall be considered invalid on account of the same having been charged in any other name than that of the rightful owner, if the said property be in other respects sufficiently described.

SEC. 905. [Certified copies of books evidence.]-The books and records belonging to the offices of the county auditor and county treasurer, or copies thereof, properly certified, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of any real property for taxes, the redemption thereof, or the payment of taxes thereon.

PEDDLERS.

SEC. 906. (As amended by ch. 62, 15th g. a.) [Amount of tax.]—A tax for state purposes shall be levied upon peddlers of merchandise not manufactured in this state, for a license to peddle throughout the state for one year as follows:

Upon each peddler of watches or jewelry, or either of them, thirty dollars; upon each peddler of clocks, fifty dollars; upon each peddler of dry goods, fancy articles, notions, or patent medicines, as follows: upon each peddler thereof, ten dol-

 [provided,-however, that nothing in this section shall apply to wholesale dealers in any of the above enum-ated articles who use wagons for the delivery of goods sold at wholesale prices and by the box or package.]

SEC. 907. [License: how obtained: penalty for selling without.]—Such license may be obtained from the auditor of the county upon paying the proper tax to the treasurer thereof, and may issue for a less period than one year for the proportionate amount of tax, and all such licenses shall state the date of the expiration of the same; and any person so peddling without a license, or after the expiration of his license, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and the person actually peddling is liable, whether he be the owner of the goods or not. Upon conviction of peddling without a license as aforesaid, the offender shall forfeit and pay to the county treasurer, in addition to the fine imposed upon him for the misdemeanor, double the amount of license for one year as fixed by section nine hundred and six of this chapter.

IN RELATION TO PUBLIC SHOWS.

An Act to regulate circuses and other public shows.

SECTION 1. [To exhibit outside any city or town, license must be obtained from county auditor.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa:

That before any person can exhibit any traveling show or circus, not prohibited by law, or show any natural or artificial curiosity, or exhibition of horsemanship in a circus or otherwise, for any price, gain, or reward, in any county, outside of the limits of any city or incorporated town, he shall obtain a license therefor from the county auditor upon the payment to the county treasurer of such sum as may be fixed by the board of supervisors, not exceeding one hundred dollars for each and every place in the county at which such show or circus may exhibit.

SEC. 2. [Fine for violation of section 1.]—If any person shall exhibit any show above contemplated without having first obtained such license, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished accordingly, and shall forfeit and pay double the amount fixed for such license, for the use and benefit of the school fund.

CHAPTER 3.

PROVISIONS FOR THE SECURITY OF THE REVENUE.

SECTION 908. [County responsible for state tax.]—Each county is responsible to the state for the full amount of tax levied for state purposes, excepting such amounts as are certified to be unavailable, double, or erroneous assessments, as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 909. [When treasurer is a defaulter.]—If any county treasurer prove to be a defaulter to any amount of state revenue, such amount shall be made up to the state within the next three coming years by additional levies, in such manner as to annual amounts as the board of supervisors may direct. In such cases the county can have recourse to the official bond of the treasurer for indemnity.

The bond of a county treasurer purporting to be executed "unto the county of Warren and state of Iowa," was held to be a bond given for the security of the county and not of the state. The State v. Henderson, 40 Iowa, 242.

The theory of the revenue law is opposed to the notion that a county treasurer's bond is intended, in part, for the security of the state, each county being responsible to the state for the state revenue. Id.

SEC. 910. [Interest on warrants: how receipted.]—When interest is due and is allowed by the treasurer of any county or the state treasurer, on the redemption of auditor's warrants, or county warrants the same shall be receipted on the warrants by the holder of the same, with the date of the payment, and no interest shall be allowed by the auditor of state or board of supervisors except such as is thus receipted.

SEC. 911. [Penalty of discounting warrants.]—If the state treasurer or any county treasurer discount auditor's warrants at less than the amount due thereon, either directly or indirectly, or through third persons, they shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, to be prosecuted as other fines.

SEC. 912. [Code, § 912 amended by ch. 155, 17th g. a.]—(County treasurers shall be liable to a like fine for loaning out, or in any manner using for private purposes, state, county or other funds in their hands, except that when permitted by the board of supervisors of their respective counties, by resolution entered of record, they may deposit any such funds in any bank or banks chartered by the laws of the state, or any national or private banks in this state, to any amount not exceeding an amount to be fixed by such resolution: providing, that before any such deposit is made the bank in which it is proposed to make the same shall first file a bond with sureties to be approved by the treasurer and the board of supervisors in double the maximum amount permitted to be deposited as aforesaid, and conditioned to hold the treasurer making the deposits of the county harmless from all loss by reason of such deposit or deposits. Said bond shall be filed with the county auditor, and an action may be brought thereon either by said treasurer or the county, as the board of supervisors may elect. And the state treasurer shall be liable to a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars for a like misdemeanor, to be prosecuted by the attorney-general in the name of the state. But nothing done under the provisions of this act shall alter or affect the liability of the treasurer or the securities on his official bond.)

See State v. Brandt, 41 Iowa, par. 7 of opinion, 612. County treasurers are prohibited from loaning out, or in any manner using for private purposes state or county funds in their hands, and depositing such funds in a bank on account, even where no interest is to be paid by the bank, is a loaning within the meaning of the statute, and the fact that the county does not provide a safe or suitable place where its money may be kept, will not release the treasurer from liability if he deposits in bank, where by reason of the failure of the bank, it is lost. Lowery v. Polk County, 51 Iowa, 50.

PAYMENTS BY COUNTY TREASURER.

SEC. 913. [Supervisors to settle with treasurer.]—At their regular meetings in January and June, of each year, the board of supervisors shall make a full and complete settlement with the county treasurer, and they shall make and certify to the auditor of state all credits to the treasurer for double or erroneous assessments, and unavailable taxes, also all dues for state revenue interest, or delinquent taxes, sales of land, peddlers' licenses, and other dues, if any; also the amounts collected for these several items, and revenues still delinquent, each year to itself. Said reports shall be forwarded by mail.

A county treasurer and his sureties are liable, on his official bond, for moneys received by him from tax payers, in partial payment of taxes. Warren County v. Ward et al., 21 Iowa, 84.

The sureties on a treasurer's bond are not liable for his delinquencies prior to the execution of the bond. Id.

A judgment against a treasurer and his sureties upon his first bond, for a breach in refusing to account for moneys received after its execution, and before the execution of a second bond, is no bar to an action on the second bond for a failure to account for moneys received after its execution, but during the same term of office. Id.

SEC. 914. (As amended by ch. 122, 17th g. a. and ch. 194, 20th g. a.) [When, and how payments made to treasurer of state: penalty for failure.]—The treasurer of each county shall, on or before the fifteenth day of each month, prepare a sworn statement of the amount of money in his hands on the first day of that month belonging to the state treasury, and forward the same by mail to the auditor of state, and he shall, each year, unless otherwise directed by the state auditor, pay into the state treasury, on or before the fifteenth day of [April] all the money due the state remaining in his hands on the first day of [April], and on or before the fifteenth day of [December], all the money due the state remaining in his hands on the [tenth] day of [December]; he shall also, at any time when directed by the auditor of state, forthwith pay into the state treasury, or to the treasurer of any county, any or all the money due the state and remaining in his hands. In case the treasurer of any county shall fail to prepare and forward the statement required in this section, he shall forfeit and pay for each and every failure a sum not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action brought in the name of the state auditor, against him and his bondsmen, in any court of record.

SECURITIY OF THE REVENUE.

SEC. 916. [Duty of auditor of state and supervisors.]—The state auditor shall make and transmit to each county auditor, on the first day of May of each year, a statement of the county treasurer's account with the state treasurer, which account shall be submitted by said auditor to the board of supervisors at their next meeting; and if they find the same to be incorrect in any particular, they shall forthwith certify the facts in relation to the same to the auditor of state.

SEC. 917. [Treasurer to settle with supervisors, etc.].—When a county treasurer goes out of office, he shall make a full and complete settlement with the board of supervisors, and deliver up all books, papers, moneys, and all other property appertaining to the office, to his successor, taking his receipt therefor. The board of supervisors shall make a statement, so far as state dues are concerned, to the auditor of state, showing all charges against the treasurer during his term of office, and all credits made, the delinquent taxes and other unfinished business charged over to his successor, showing to what year and to what account the amount so paid over belongs. They shall also see that the books of the treasurer are correctly balanced before passing into the possession and control of the treasurer elect.

The board of supervisors of a county may, under the general authority given them by sections 303 and 917 of the code, accept a promissory note in lieu of the official bond of a defaulting treasurer. Sec County v. Hobbs et al., 72 Id., 69.

SEC. 918. [State treasurer keeps funds separate: state and county to account.]—The state treasurer shall keep each distinct fund coming into his possession as public money, in a separate apartment of his safe, and, at each quarterly settlement with the state auditor, he shall count each fund in the presence of the auditor to see if the same agrees with the balance found on the books. The total amount acknowledged to belong to each fund shall be exhibited before the count. County treasurers shall account with such persons as the board of supervisors may direct in like manner, and a report of such accounting shall be made to the board at their next meeting, by the person so appointed by them.

SEC. 919. [Penalty for failure to perform duty.]—If any county auditor, or county treasurer, or other officer shall neglect or refuse to perform any act or duty specifically required of him by any provision of this title, such officer shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and indicted therefor; and, being found guilty, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, for the payment whereof his bondsmen shall also be liable; and he and his bondsmen shall also be liable to an action on his official bond for the damages sustained by any person through such neglect or refusal.
An Act authorizing the consolidation of the coupon fund in the state treasury, with the general revenue fund.

WHEREAS, There is now in the state treasury an unused balance of one hundred and fifty-one dollars and thirty-five cents, known as the coupon fund; and,

WHEREAS, There is no probability of the said fund and the same is being carried from year to year as a coupon fund, thus keeping open and unsettled an unnecessary account in the state treasurer's office; and,

WHEREAS, There is no authority in law for the transfer of said funds; therefore,

Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa:

SECTION 1. [Transferred to general revenue fund.]—That the said fund known as the coupon fund be and the same is hereby consolidated with the general revenue fund.

SEC. 2. [Auditor and treasurer to cover into general revenue fund.]—That the auditor and treasurer of state be and they are hereby authorized to cover the unpaid balance of said coupon fund into the general revenue fund, and that any outstanding coupons or warrants that may hereafter be drawn upon or presented for payment, and which are payable from said coupon fund, shall be paid out of and charged to the general revenue fund.

(Approved April 8, 1886.)

AUTHORIZING THE AUDITOR OF STATE TO PAY BACK TO COUNTIES ANY BALANCE DUE.

An Act to authorize the auditor of state to cause to be paid back to counties entitled thereto, any excess on revenue paid into the state treasury. (Additional to code, chapter 3, title VI: "Provisions for the security of the revenue.")

SECTION 1. [Duty of auditor.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the auditor of the state be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to draw his warrant on the state treasury, in favor of any county in this state for the amount of any excess in any fund or tax due the state from said county excepting the state taxes.

SEC. 2. [To forward warrant for any excess to county entitled.]—Whenever it shall appear from the books in his office, that there is a balance due any county, and in excess of any revenue due the state, except state taxes, it shall be his duty to draw his warrant for such excess, in favor of the county entitled thereto, and forward the said warrant by mail or otherwise, to the county auditor of the county to which said money belongs, and charge the amount so sent to the said county.

SEC. 3. [Duty of county auditor.]—The county auditor to whom said warrant is sent, shall immediately upon receipt thereof deliver the same to the county treasurer of his county and charge the amount of the warrant to said county treasurer in the same manner as any other fund is charged on the books of his office, and the county auditor shall also, on receipt of said warrant from the auditor of state, acknowledge receipt of the amount of said warrant to said state auditor.

An Act authorizing the establishment of a state depository in the city of Des Moines for the collection of drafts, checks and certificates of deposit received by the treasurer of state on account of state dues.

Section 1. [Treasurer of state with advice of executive council may designate bank as depository.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the treasurer of state, with the advice and approval of the executive council, may designate one or more banks in the city of Des Moines as a depository for the collection of any drafts, checks and certificates of deposit that may be received by him on account of any claims due the state.

Sec. 2. [Banks so designated shall give security.]—That the bank or banks designated as such depository shall be required to give security to the state, to be approved by the executive council, for the prompt collection of all drafts, checks, certificates of deposit, or coupons, that may be delivered to such depository by the treasurer of state for collection; and also for the safe keeping and prompt payment, on the treasurer's order, of the proceeds of all such collections; also, for the payment of all drafts that may be issued to said treasurer by such depository.

Sec. 3. [Treasurer may deposit drafts, etc., in bank.]—That the treasurer of state, on the receipt of any draft, check or certificate of deposit, on account of state dues, may place the same in such depository for collection, and it shall be the duty of such depository to collect the same without delay, and shall charge no greater per cent for such collection than the minimum per cent charged to other parties and notify the treasurer when collected. On the receipt of such notice, the treasurer shall issue his receipt to the party entitled thereto, as now required by law.

Sec. 4. [This act not to release state or county treasurer from any liability.]—That the provisions of this act shall in no way release the treasurer of state, or his bondsmen, or any county treasurer, or his bondsmen, from any liability now imposed by law.

Sec. 5. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

(Took effect March 25, 1876, by publication in newspapers.)
TITLE VII.
OF HIGHWAYS, FERRIES, AND BRIDGES.

CHAPTER 1.

OF ESTABLISHING HIGHWAYS.

SECTION 920. [Jurisdiction over.]—The board of supervisors has the general supervision over the highways in the county, with power to establish and change them as herein provided, and to see that the laws in relation to them are carried into effect.

The board of supervisors is invested with power to erect all bridges in the county which may be necessary, and which the public convenience may require; and may levy a tax for that purpose not exceeding three mills on the dollar. Bell v. Foutch, 21 Iowa, 119.

The board of supervisors have power, at their discretion, to establish and change highways, of which bridges erected by the public constitute a part; and where a bridge has fallen down which they refuse to rebuild, mandamus will not lie to compel them to do so. The State, ex rel. Houck, v. Morris et al., 43 Id., 192.

Where the county auditor has illegally established a highway forty feet wide, the board of supervisors has jurisdiction to vacate the same. The State v. Wagner, 45 Id., 482.

The board of supervisors is not authorized under this section to lay out a highway over land within the limits of a corporate town, even though said land be unplatted and used for agricultural purposes. The jurisdiction of highways within the corporation limits resides exclusively in the corporation. Gallaher v. Head et al., 33 N. W. R., 620.

SEC. 921. [Width.]—Highways hereafter established must be sixty-six feet in width, unless otherwise directed; but the board of supervisors may, for good reasons, fix a different width, not less than forty feet, and they may be increased or diminished within the limits aforesaid, altered in direction, or discontinued, by pursuing substantially the steps herein prescribed for opening a new highway.

The county auditor has no power to establish a highway of less than sixty-six feet in width, the power to establish such an one being vested in the board of supervisors alone, who may exercise it for good and sufficient reasons. The State v. Wagner, Id., 482; see also Patterson v. Vail, 43 Id., 145.

SEC. 922. [Petition.]—Any person desiring the establishment, vacation, or alteration of a highway, shall file, in the auditor's office of the proper county, a petition in substance as follows: To the board of supervisors of the county: The undersigned asks that a highway, commencing at , and running thence and terminating at , be established, vacated, or altered (as the case may be).

A petition which asks for "the appointment of a commissioner to open a road," instead of following the language of the statute and ask for "the establishment of a road," is a substantial compliance with the statute. So, also, a notice of the time when the application for the road will be made, using the same language, is sufficient. McCollister v. Shuey, 24 Iowa, 392.

Proceedings in the establishment of a road will not be annulled on certiorari unless it is shown that the inferior tribunal has exceeded its jurisdiction, or is otherwise acting illegally. Id.

While the language of this section allows unimportant deflections from the particular route or line designated in the petition and notice, these must be within the termini of the road asked to be established, and the commissioner has no power to extend the road beyond such termini, and a report establishing such extension, though approved by the county judge, was held null and void. The State v. Molly, 18 Id., 525.
Section 923. [Bond.]—Before filing such petition the auditor shall require the petitioner to file in his office a bond, with sureties to be approved by such auditor, conditioned that all expenses growing out of the application will be paid by the obligors in case the contemplated highway is not finally established, altered, or vacated, as asked in the petition.

This section is merely directory, and where a petition for a road was filed and a road established thereon without the filing of a bond, as the statute directs, it was held that the proceedings were valid and the road legally established. State v. Barlow, 61 Iowa, 572.

Section 924. [Auditor appoint commissioner. ]—If satisfied that the foregoing prerequisites have been complied with, the auditor shall appoint some suitable and disinterested elector of the county a commissioner to examine into the expediency of the proposed highway, alteration, or vacation thereof, and report accordingly.

As to the power of the board to delegate authority to the clerk, see The State v. Kimball, 23 Iowa, 531.

Duty of Commissioner.

Section 925. (As amended by ch. 50, 18th g. a.) [Not confined to matter of petition.]—The commissioner is not confined to the precise matter of the petition, but may inquire and determine whether that or any highway in the vicinity, answering the same purpose and in substance the same, be required; but such highway must not be established through any burying ground which is exempt from execution; nor through any garden, orchard, or ornamental ground contiguous to any dwelling house, nor so as to cause the removal of any building without the consent of the owner.

Section 926. [Convenience considered.]—In forming his judgment, he must take into consideration both the public and private convenience, and also the expense of the proposed highway.

Section 927. [Report. ]—After a general examination, if he shall not be in favor of establishing the proposed highway, he will so report, and no further proceedings shall be had thereon.

Under this section the adverse report of the commissioner appointed to examine into the expediency of establishing or vacating a highway puts an end to all proceedings in the matter; neither the auditor nor board of supervisors has jurisdiction to appoint another commissioner, and, upon a favorable report by him, to make the proposed location or change. Cook v. Trigg et al., 52 Iowa, 709. There would seem to be no reason why, after an adverse report by the commissioner, the board could not entertain a new petition or application for the road, or a change thereof.

Section 928. [To lay out highway.]—If he deems such establishment expedient, he may proceed at once to lay out the highway as hereinafter directed, and may report accordingly, if the circumstances of the case are such as to enable him to do so without pursuing the course pointed out in the next section.

Section 929. [Survey made.]—If the precise location of the highway cannot be otherwise given, he must cause the line of the highway to be accurately surveyed and plainly marked out.

Section 930. [Commissioner sworn.]—Any commissioner, other than the county surveyor, must be sworn to faithfully and impartially discharge his duty as such commissioner, and, after being thus qualified, he shall have power to swear the assistants employed to a faithful and impartial performance of their respective duties in laying out the highway described in his commission.

That the officer who administered the oath to the commissioner appointed by the board of supervisors to examine and report upon the proposed road was not empowered to administer oath will not defeat the action of the commissioner nor render the establishment of the road invalid. Woolsey v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 32 Iowa, 130.

Section 931. [Mile posts and stakes set up.]—Mile posts must be set up at the end of every mile and the distance marked thereon, and stakes must be set at each change of direction, on which shall be marked the bearing of the new course. Stakes must also be set at the crossing of fences and streams, and at intervals in the prairie not exceeding a quarter of a mile each; in the timber, the course must be indicated by trees suitably blazed.

SEC. 932. [Bearing trees: monuments.]—Bearing trees must, when convenient, be established at each angle and mile post, and the position of the highway relative to the corners of sections, the junction of streams, or any other natural or artificial monument, or conspicuous object, must, as far as convenient, be stated in the field notes and shown on the plat.

The provisions of sections 931 and 932, relating to fixing mile posts and other monuments, and the making of field notes and plat, are directory, and a failure to comply therewith will not render the proceeding invalid. McCollister v. Shuey, 24 Iowa, 362.

SEC. 933. [Plat and field notes.]—A correct plat of the highway, together with a copy of the field notes of the surveyor, if one has been employed, must be filed as part of the commissioner's report.

SEC. 934. [As amended by ch. 80, 19th g. a.)] [Report: day fixed for claiming damages.]—Within thirty days from the day of his appointment, the commissioner must file his report in the auditor's office, and if it be in favor of the establishment of the highway [shall report the number of bridges required, if any, and the probable cost thereof, on the proposed highway], the auditor must appoint a day, not less than sixty nor more than ninety days distant, when the matter will be acted upon; on or before which day, all objections to the establishment of the highway and claims for damages by reason of the establishment thereof, must be filed with the auditor.

The fact that the final action of the board of supervisors in respect to the establishment of the highway was had on a day subsequent to the one fixed by the board for such an action, will not be sufficient to invalidate the establishment of the road where there is no showing that the consideration of the case was not properly continued by the board from the day fixed to the day upon which final action was in fact had. Woolsey v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 32 Id., 130.

Where the time fixed for the final hearing in a proceeding to change a public road was less than sixty days from the report of the commissioner, while the petition, notice, and other steps were regular and in compliance with the statute, it was held, that the irregularity did not render the proceedings void, nor vulnerable to a collateral attack. The State v. Kinney, 39 Id., 226.

SEC. 935. [Auditor fix day for commissioner to begin.]—The time for the commissioner to commence the examination shall be fixed by the auditor, and if he fails to so commence, or to report as prescribed in the preceding section, the auditor may fix another day or extend the time for making such report, or may appoint another commissioner.

NOTICE—HIGHWAY ESTABLISHED.

SEC. 936. [As amended by ch. 109, 19th g. a.)] [Notice served on each land owner or published.]—Within twenty days after the day is fixed by the auditor as above provided, a notice shall be served on each owner or occupier of land lying in the proposed highway, or abutting thereon, as shown by the transfer books in the auditor's office, who resides in the county, in the manner provided for the service of original notice in actions at law; and such notice shall be published for four weeks in some newspaper printed in the county, if any such there be, which notice may be in the following form:

To all whom it may concern: The commissioner appointed to locate, vacate, or altar (as the case may be) a highway commencing at . . . . in . . . . . . . . . . county, running thence [giving the names of the owners of the land through which the proposed road passes as they appear on the transfer books of the auditor's office] (described in general terms all the points as in the commissioner's report) and terminating at . . . . has reported in favor of the establishment, vacation or alteration thereof, and all objections thereto or claims for damages must be filed in the auditor's office on or before noon of the.... day of... . A. D.... , or such highway will be established, vacated or altered without reference thereto.

The notice which is required to be given to each owner of land lying in or adjacent to a proposed highway must be served upon those who are shown by the transfer books in the auditor's office to be the absolute owners. One who claims to be the owner under a title bond, or other contract for conveyance, is not entitled to be personally served with notice. Wilson v. Hathaway, 42 Id., 173.

The legislature has the constitutional power to provide for the condemnation of the right of way for public highways upon notice by publication in newspapers, and by the posting of notices. Id. It is not necessary in order to give the county board of supervisors jurisdiction to establish a highway, that an affidavit of the publication of notice required by this section has been filed in the auditor's office. If the auditor is satisfied, as the next section provides, that such notice has been given, it is sufficient, unless it be shown by a preponderance of evidence that notice has in fact not been given. Pagels v. Oaks et al., 64 Id., 198. See The State v. Weimer, Id., 243.

Under section 936 of the code, notice of a proposed highway must be personally served upon the owner of the abutting land, as shown by the transfer books, when he resides in the county; but where the owner is a non-resident, the notice must be served upon the occupant of the land, if there be one. Alcott v. Acheson, 49 Id., 569.

Notice must be given of the pending of an application for the establishment of a highway to confer jurisdiction upon the board of supervisors, and unless it appear to have been given, jurisdiction will not be presumed. The State v. Anderson, 39 Id., 274, following The State v. Berry, 12 Id., 58.

Jurisdiction will be presumed where it appears from the record that the court establishing the road decided that sufficient notice had been given. McCollister v. Shuey et al., 24 Id., 392.

No presumption can be entertained in favor of the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors to establish a highway; and where defendant was indicted for obstructing an alleged highway over his land, but the record failed to show that any notice had been served upon him of the proceedings for the establishment of the highway, or that he had in any way waived such notice, and there was no evidence aliunde (if such evidence were competent) of such notice or waiver, held that the proceedings were without jurisdiction and void, and that a conviction under the indictment could not be sustained. The State v. Weimer, 64 Id., 243.

A highway was established over and across the defendant's railroad right of way without any notice to it, other than by publication. Defendant is a foreign corporation, but had agents in the county where the highway was established. Held that the notice by publication was sufficient under this section of the code. The State, ex rel. Patrick, v. The C., B. & Q. Ry Co., 63 Id., 135.

Sec. 937. [Auditor may establish highway.]-If no objections or claims for damages are filed on or before noon of the day fixed for filing the same, and the auditor is satisfied the provisions of the preceding section have been complied with, he shall proceed to establish such highway as recommended by the commissioner upon the payment of costs. If such costs are not paid within ten days, the auditor shall report his action in the premises to the board of supervisors at their next session, who may affirm the action of the auditor or establish such highway at the expense of the county.

While the county auditor is, by this section, authorized, in certain contingencies, to establish highways, he cannot establish one of forty feet in width. The State v. Wagner, 45 Iowa, 482, 484.

The filing of objections to the establishing of a highway or claims for damages, deprives the auditor of jurisdiction in the matter, which must stand continued until the next session of the board of supervisors. If mere claims for damages only are filed, their payment before the day set for final hearing by the auditor will not authorize him to proceed and establish the highway. Pusser v. Hershire, 52 Id., 508.

Sec. 938. [New notice given.]-If the auditor is satisfied the notice has not been served and published as provided in section nine hundred and thirty-six of this chapter, he shall appoint another day, and cause such notice to be served or published as provided in said section, and thereafter proceed as provided in the preceding section.

Sec. 939. [When referred to supervisors.]-If objections to the establishment of the highway or claims for damages are filed, the further hearing of the application shall stand continued to the next session of the board of supervisors, held after the commissioners appointed to assess damages have reported.

DAMAGES CLAIMED.

SEC. 940. [Appraisers appointed.]—When claims for damages are filed, and on the day appointed for filing the same, the auditor must appoint three suitable and disinterested electors of the county as appraisers to view the ground on a day fixed by him, and report upon the amount of damages sustained by the claimants; such report shall be made and filed in the auditor's office within thirty days after the day they are appointed.

The owner of land through which a road is finally established, will not, on appeal from the award of damages made by the appraisers, be allowed for removing and resetting a fence which he had erected in the track of the proposed road pending the application and after the award.

Holton v. Butler, 22 Iowa, 567.

One who is not injured by the vacation of a highway in any other sense than the public generally cannot maintain an action for damages therefor. Ellsworth v. Chickasaw County, 40 Id., 571.

An appeal lies from an order of the board of supervisors refusing to appoint appraisers to assess the damages of an applicant through whose premises the road is located, on the ground that such application was not made within the time allowed by law. Warner v. Doran, 30 Id., 521.

SEC. 941. [In writing.]—All claims for damages and objections to the establishment, vacation or alteration of the highway must be in writing, and the statements in the application for damages shall be considered denied in all the subsequent proceedings.

SEC. 942. [Appraisers notified.]—The auditor shall cause notice of their appointment to be given to each of the appraisers, fixing the hour at which they are to meet at the office of the auditor, or of some justice of the peace therein named.

SEC. 943. [Vacancies filled.]—If the appraisers are not all present within one hour of the time thus fixed, the auditor or justice, as the case may be, shall fill the vacancies by the appointment of others. The appraisers must be sworn to discharge their duty faithfully and impartially.

SEC. 944. [Time: final action postponed.]—Should the report not be filed in time, or should any other good cause for delay exist, the auditor may postpone the time for final action on the subject, and may, if expedient, appoint other commissioners.

SEC. 945. [Costs.]—Should no damage be awarded the applicant therefor, the whole of the costs growing out of his application shall be paid by him.

FINAL ACTION.

SEC. 946. [Testimony received: establish conditionally.]—When the time for final action arrives, the board of supervisors may hear testimony, receive petitions for and remonstrances against the establishment, vacation or alteration, as the case may be, of such highway, and establish, vacate or alter, or refuse to do so, as in their judgment, founded on the testimony, the public good may require. Said board may increase or diminish the damages allowed by the appraisers, and may make such establishment, vacation or alteration, conditioned upon the payment in whole or in part of the damages awarded, or expenses in relation thereto.

When damages are allowed, the road cannot be finally established until they are paid. Hor- ton v. Hoyt, 11 Iowa, 496, 497.

Sections 941 and 946, of the code, relate simply to the manner of recovery of damages, after they have been allowed. They do not determine when they are recoverable. Brady v. Shinkle, 40 Id., 576.

When the board of supervisors granted a change in a country road upon condition that the petitioners should "put it in good traveling condition," and after the new road was built, established the change; it was held that this did not render the county liable for injuries caused by a defect in a small bridge constructed as part of the road. Taylor v. Davis County, Id., 395.
The board is required to vacate and alter roads, or refuse to do so, as in their judgment the public good may require. Per Rothrock, J., in Mastelar v. Edgerton, 44 Id., 495.

But they cannot grant relief in case of mistake made in the location of a road by agreement of land owner. Id.

The board of supervisors in establishing a highway are required to determine whether it is likely to be of sufficient public utility to justify the county in incurring the expense of its establishment, and to this end must consider, not only the public necessity for it, but also the cost of its construction. Nelson et al. v. Goodykoontz et al., 47 Id., 32.

It was accordingly held in this case that where the board of supervisors had established a highway, and ordered the expense to be paid by the county, and had allowed claims for damages to property owners, who appealed from such allowance and recovered larger awards on appeal, the board of supervisors had the authority to reconsider its action establishing the road, upon the ground that it was not of sufficient public utility to justify the county in paying the damages assessed by the court. Id.

An order establishing a highway without directing compensation to the owner of the land taken, is not unconstitutional where such owner makes no claim for damages in the method pointed out by law. Abbott v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 36 Id., 354.

An order of the board of supervisors establishing a highway upon condition that the damages assessed by the appraisers be paid by the petitioners, may be appealed from by a land owner dissatisfied with the appraisal. McNichols v. Wilson et al., 43 Id., 385.

Nor will an order establishing a road on condition that payment of expenses be made by the applicants, be held defective because no time was fixed by the board for such payment. Id.

While a person through whose land a public highway is located is entitled to compensation under the constitutional clause guaranteeing compensation where private property is taken for public use, yet he is entitled to it only in the manner pointed out and provided by law, and if he fails to apply therefor or within the time prescribed by the statute, or applying his claim is rejected, and he takes no step by appeal or otherwise to reverse such order of disallowance, he cannot afterward resist the right of the public to open the road, upon the ground that the compensation guaranteed by the constitution has not been made to him. Dunlap v. Pulley, 28 Id., 578.

The establishment of a highway will not be deemed irregular because during the contest before the board of supervisors, one of the supervisors refused to be sworn as a witness unless the board required it, when the proposed evidence was merely cumulative, and a correct decision in no manner alone depended thereon. Brown v. Ellis, 26 Id., 35.

Nor will an order establishing a road on condition that payment of expenses be made by the applicants, be held defective because no time was fixed by the board for such payment. Id.

In the latter case, a day shall be fixed for the performance of the condition, which must be before the next session of the board, and if the same is not performed by the day thus fixed, the board shall, at such session, make some final and unconditional order in the premises.

Any order made or action taken in the establishment of a highway, shall be entered in the highway record, distinguishing between those made or taken by the auditor, and those by the board of supervisors.

Sec. 947. [Unconditional order.]—In the latter case, a day shall be fixed for the performance of the condition, which must be before the next session of the board, and if the same is not performed by the day thus fixed, the board shall, at such session, make some final and unconditional order in the premises.

Sec. 948. [Order entered of record.]—Any order made or action taken in the establishment of a highway, shall be entered in the highway record, distinguishing between those made or taken by the auditor, and those by the board of supervisors.

Sec. 949. (As amended by ch. 19, 15th g. a.) [Plat and field notes recorded.]

—After the highway has been finally established, the plat and field notes must be recorded by the auditor [and he shall certify the same to the township clerk, and the township clerk shall certify to and direct,] the supervisor of highways to have the same opened and worked, subject to the provisions of the next section.

When the board of supervisors establish a highway, it is the duty of the county auditor to notify the township clerk, whose duty it is to notify the highway supervisor to have the same opened and worked. Gallaher v. Head et al., 72 Iowa, 174.

Sec. 950. [Fences.]—A reasonable time must be allowed to enable the owners of land to erect the necessary fences adjoining the new highway; and when crops have been planted or sowed before the highway is finally established, the opening thereof shall be delayed until the crop is harvested.

Where an order was made that a highway be established when all legal claims for damages were paid, a person over whose land the road was located was held not liable to prosecution for obstructing the highway by permitting his fences to remain as they were before such order, until he had notice to remove his fence, or that the highway was fully established in compliance with the order. The State v. Ratcliff, 32 Iowa, 189.

Sec. 951. [Minors: insane persons.]—The rights and interests of minors and insane persons, in relation to the establishment, vacation, and alteration of highways, and all matters connected therewith, are under the control of their guardians.

Sec. 952. [Streets in villages.]—All public streets of towns or villages not incorporated, are a part of the highway; and all supervisors of highways, or persons having charge of the same, in the respective districts of such towns or villages, shall work the same as provided by law.

Sec. 953. [Cities or incorporated towns.]—Such portions of all highways as lie within the limits of any city or incorporated town, shall conform to the direction and grade, and be subject to all regulations of other streets in such town or city.

Sec. 954. Lands of state institutions.]—Highways or streets shall not be established or opened across the lands reserved by the state for its various institutions lying adjacent thereto, without the express consent of the general assembly.

IN TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

Sec. 955. [Supervisors to act in concert.]—The establishment, vacation or alteration of a highway, either along or across a county line, may be effected by the concurrent action of the respective boards of supervisors in the mode above prescribed; except that the auditor of neither county can make the final order in such case. The commissioners in such cases must act in concert, and the highway will not be deemed established, vacated or altered in either county until it is so in both.

Sec. 956. [Distinctions abolished: concurrent action required.]—Hereafter there shall be no distinction between highways heretofore known as state roads and county roads; both are alike subject to the provisions of this chapter.
Highways established by the concurrent action of the board of supervisors of two or more counties, can only be discontinued by the concurrent action of the board of supervisors of the several counties in which the same may be situated, but such highways shall be treated in all other respects as provided in this title.

CONSENT HIGHWAYS.

Sec. 957. [How established]—Highways may be established without the appointment of a commissioner, provided the written consent of all the owners of the land to be used for that purpose be first filed in the auditor's office; and if it is shown to the satisfaction of the board of supervisors, that the proposed highway is of sufficient public importance to be opened and worked by the public, they shall make an order establishing the same, from which time only shall it be regarded as a highway.

Highways may be established in this state by a dedication and prescription, and such highways are not rendered illegal by sections 957 and 967 of the code. Baldwin v. Herbst, 54 Iowa, 168.

Sec. 958. [When survey necessary.]—If a survey for the establishment of the highway named in the preceding section is necessary, the board of supervisors, before ordering such survey, may require the parties asking for the establishment of such highway to pay, or secure the payment of, the expenses of such survey.
SEC. 959. [From what taken: how perfected.]—Any applicant for damages claimed to be caused by the establishment of any highway, may appeal from the final decision of the board of supervisors to the circuit court of the county in which the land lies; but notice of such appeal must be served on the county auditor within twenty days after the decision is made. If the highway has been established on condition that the petitioners therefor pay the damages, such notice shall be served on the four persons first named in the petition for the highway, if there are that many who reside in the county.

The owner of the land affected by a highway may appeal from the assessment of the damages, although the order establishing the road is upon the condition that the damages shall be paid by the petitioners for the highway. McNichols v. Wilson et al., 42 Iowa, 385.

The claimant for damages for taking his land for a public highway may appeal, and have the question as to the amount of damages he is entitled to tried in court by a jury. And it is not necessary to the exercise of this right that he should have made a motion before the board of supervisors to set aside the report of the appraiser, or formerly claimed an appeal. Sigafous v. Talbot et al., 25 Iowa, 214; to the same effect is Prosser v. Wapello County, 15 Iowa, 327; Deaton v. Polk County, 9 Iowa, 594.

The opinions of witnesses as to the amount of damages sustained by a party are not admissible. No extension of the rule, allowing witnesses properly qualified to give opinions as to the value of property is allowable. Id.

Where a claimant of damages upon the establishment of a highway was awarded $50 by the appraisers, which the board of supervisors refused to allow, on the ground that the claimant was not the owner of the premises affected, from which order he appealed, it was held that the appeal was in effect from the final decision of the board refusing to allow plaintiff any damages, and that the court erred in dismissing the appeal. Vaucleave v. Clark et al., 37 Iowa, 184.

An appeal is the proper remedy in the case of damages for the establishment of a highway, and not certiorari. Spray & Barnes v. Thompson et al., 9 Iowa, 40; Deaton v. Polk County, 9 Iowa, 594.

Where a claimant for damages appeals from an order establishing a highway, in which his claims for damages were disallowed, and no damages paid him from the county treasury, the notice of appeal should be served on the county auditor, and the county should be regarded as defendant, since it may, in further proceedings, become liable for damages and costs; and in such case the petitioners ought not to be served with notice of the appeal. Raymond v. Clay County, 68 Iowa, 130.

SEC. 960. An appeal may also be taken by the petitioner for the highway as to amount of damages, if the establishment of the highway has been made conditional upon his paying the damages, by his serving notice of such appeal on the county auditor and applicant for damages within twenty days after the decision of the board of supervisors, and filing a bond in the office of such auditor, with sureties to be approved by him, conditioned for the payment of all costs occasioned by such appeal, unless the appellant fails to recover a more favorable judgment in the circuit court than was allowed him by such board.

Where damages are claimed by a person through whose land a road is established by the board of supervisors, such person may appeal and have the question as to the amount of damages he is entitled to tried by a jury. And it is not necessary to the exercise of this right that he should have made a motion before the board of supervisors to set aside the report of the appraiser, or formally claimed an appeal. Sigafous v. Talbot et al., 25 Iowa, 214.

The voluntary appearance of the appellee, who has not been served with the notice of appeal, for the purpose of moving to dismiss the appeal, does not constitute a waiver of the requirement of the statute. Id.

SEC. 981. [Transcript filed.]—In the cases contemplated in the two preceding sections, the auditor shall, within ten days after the notices aforesaid are served and filed in his office, make out and file in the office of the clerk of said court, a transcript of the papers on file in his office and proceedings of the board in relation to such damages. The claimant for damages shall be plaintiff, and the petitioner for the highway defendant, except the damages have been ordered paid out of the county treasury, in which case the county shall be defendant.
SEC. 962. [Proceedings in circuit court.]—The amount of damages the claimant is entitled to shall be ascertained by said circuit court in the same manner as in actions by ordinary proceedings, and the amount so ascertained shall be entered of record, but no judgment shall be rendered therefor. The amount thus ascertained shall be certified by the clerk to the board of supervisors, who shall, thereafter, proceed as if such amount had been by them allowed the claimant as damages.

SEC. 983. [Judgment for costs.]—If the appeal has been taken by the claimant, the petitioner for the highway, or the county, must pay the costs occasioned by the appeal; but the county shall pay only when the damages have been ordered to be paid out of the county treasury. If the petitioner for the highway appeals, he must pay the costs, unless the claimant recovers a less amount than was allowed him by the board, in which case the costs shall be paid by the claimant. Judgment shall be rendered in accordance with the foregoing provisions.

Where the owner of land appeals from the award of damages by the appraisers, he is entitled to a judgment for costs, notwithstanding the amount awarded him on the appeal was the same as that given him by the appraisers. Hanrahan v. Fox et al., 47 Iowa, 102.

A claimant for damages for the establishment of a highway upon his land, who appeals from the award made by the board of supervisors, must pay the clerk’s fee for docketing the appeal, although under this section the costs of the appeal must in the end be paid by the petitioner for the road. Scott v. Lasell et al., 71 Id., 180.

LOST FIELD NOTES.

SEC. 964. [Resurvey ordered.]—When by reason of the loss or destruction of the field notes of the original survey, or in cases of defective surveys or record, or in cases of such numerous alterations of any highway since the original survey, that its location cannot be accurately defined by the papers on file in the proper office, the board of supervisors of the proper county may, if they deem it necessary, cause such highway to be resurveyed, platted, and recorded as hereinafter provided.

Where a road was duly surveyed in 1852, and all the necessary and proper steps were taken for its establishment, but the clerk failed to file the field notes and plat, and no entry can be found declaring the establishment of the road, the board of supervisors has power, under this section, to order a new survey. But if there never had been any proceedings, there would be nothing upon which to base such an application or action. Blake v. Bailey, 20 Iowa, 124; see, also, McCollister v. Shuey, 21 Iowa, 363.

This section does not authorize the board of supervisors to cause a highway to be resurveyed, where the line of road, as originally surveyed and established, can be traced on the ground by the recorded field notes thereof. Blair v. Boesch et al., 59 Id., 554.

The resurvey of a highway, ordered under the provisions of section 964 of the code, will not constitute the establishment of one where none had been previously established. Carey v. Weitgenant, 52 Id., 660.

As to when a resurvey of a road is proper, where the papers have been lost, see Ackerson et al. v. Van Vleck et al., 72 Id., 57.

SEC. 965. [Plat and field notes filed: notice given.]—A copy of the field notes, together with a plat of any highway surveyed under the provisions of the preceding section, shall be filed in the office of the county auditor, and, thereupon, he shall give public notice by publication in some newspaper published within the county, or, if no paper is published in his county, by posting such notice in five of the most public places in the vicinity of such survey, that such survey has been made, and that at some term of the board of supervisors, not less than twenty days from the publication, they will, unless good cause be shown against so doing, approve of such survey and plat and order them to be recorded as in cases of the original establishment of a public highway.

SEC. 966. [Power of supervisors: record evidence.]—In case objection shall be made by any person claiming to be injured by the survey made, the board of supervisors shall have full power to hear and determine upon the matter, and may, if deemed advisable, order a change to be made in the survey. Upon the final determination of the board, or in case no objection be made at the term named in the notice of the survey, they shall approve of the same and cause the field notes and plat of the highway to be recorded as in case of the establishment or alteration of highways, and thereafter such records shall be received by all courts as concclusive proof of the establishment and existence of such highway, according to such survey and plat.

SEC. 967. [Highway plat book made.]—If the same has not been heretofore done in any other manner, the county auditor shall, within six months after this code takes effect, cause every highway in his county, the legal existence of which is shown by the records and files of his office, to be platted in a book to be obtained and kept for that purpose, and known as the "highway plat book." Each township shall be platted separately, on a scale of not less than four inches to the mile, and such auditor shall have all changes in or additions to the highways legally established, immediately entered upon said plat book, with appropriate references to the files in which the papers relating to the same may be found.

See Baldwin v. Herbst, 54 Iowa, 168, cited in note to section 957, ante.

SEC. 968. [Copy furnished township clerks.]—Within the time aforesaid, the auditor shall furnish to the township clerks a certified copy of said plat book, so far as the same relates to their respective townships, which shall be carefully preserved in the office of said clerks. The auditor shall notify said clerks of all changes made in the plat book relative to the highways, so far as the same relate to their townships respectively; on receipt of which said clerks shall immediately make corresponding changes on the maps in their respective offices.

(CHAP. 51, LAWS OF 1876.)

IN RELATION TO CONSTRUCTION OF CATTLE-WAYS.

An Act in relation to the construction of cattle-ways across the public highway.
(Additional to code, chapter 1, title VII: "Of highways.")

SECTION 1. [Board of supervisors may grant permission to construct across highway: proviso.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Upon application by any person to the board of supervisors of any County for permission to construct a cattle-way across, over or under any public highway, the board may grant the same; provided, said cattle-way shall not interfere with the travel upon such highway; but the person who applies for such cattle-way shall construct the same at his own expense, and be responsible for all damages that may arise from its construction, or from the same not being kept in good condition, and that the grade of the highway over the cattle-way shall not exceed one foot in ten.

SEC. 2. [If owner of land fails to make repairs: duty of road supervisor.]—If the person on whose land such cattle-way is constructed fails to keep the same in good repair, then it shall be the duty of the road supervisor to make all repairs necessary and charge the same to the owner of the land upon which such cattle-way is constructed, and upon his refusal or failure to pay, the supervisor shall recover the same in an action brought in his own name in any court having competent jurisdiction; which money when collected, shall be expended for improving or repairing the public highway, in the road district where such cattle-way is constructed. Provided, That no person shall construct any cattle-way so as to obstruct the freedom of the public in watering at any running stream.

Approved March 15, 1876.

CHAPTER 2.

OF WORKING HIGHWAYS.

SECTION 969. [Power and duties of trustees.]—The township trustees of each township shall meet on the first Monday in April, or as soon thereafter as the assessment book is received by the township clerk, and on the first Monday in October in each year. At the April meeting said trustees shall determine:

1. Upon the amount of property tax to be levied for highways, bridges, guideboards, plows, scrapers, tools and machinery adapted to the construction and repair of highways, and for the payment of any indebtedness previously incurred for highway purposes, and levy the same, which shall not be less than one nor more than five mills on the dollar on the amount of the township assessment for that year;
2. Whether any portion of said tax shall be paid in labor, and, if so, what portion may be so paid;
3. Upon the amount that will be allowed for a day's labor done by a man, and by a man and team, on the highway;
4. At the October meeting, said trustees shall divide their respective townships into such number of highway districts as they may deem necessary for the public good, and, at said meeting, they shall settle with the township clerk and supervisors of highways.

The power of the township trustees to divide their townships into road districts extends only to so much of the townships as is not embraced within a city, and their power to levy a tax is co-extensive with the same territory. Marks v. The County of Woodbury, 47 Iowa, 452.

Mere irregularities in the levy of a road tax by the township trustees do not affect the validity of the tax or defeat its collection. The Iowa R. Land Co. v. Sac County, 39 Id., 124; The Same v. Carroll County, 41 Id., 151; The S. C. & S. P. R. Co. v. The County of Ossawalt, 45 Id., 169.

Taxes levied by a township for road purposes are, so far as the county is concerned, special in their character, and when they have been collected by the county treasurer and by him paid to the township clerk, they cannot be recovered back from the county, even though they have been illegally collected. Stone v. The County of Woodbury, 51 Id., 522.

Where the township trustees had set apart as a general township fund one-half of the taxes levied, which fund it was the duty of the road supervisor to collect and pay over to the township clerk, but which he expended for bridge materials, held a misappropriation of the funds for which he was liable on his official bond. Wells, Clerk, et al. v. Stoemback et al., 59 Iowa, 376.

This section confers on the township trustees the power to re-district their townships for highway purposes, and when by the exercise of such power a road supervisor, elected for a certain district, is made a resident of another district, he ceases to be a supervisor under sec. 781, par. 5 of code. Mauck v. Luck, 79 Iowa, 266.

SECTION 970. [General township fund: clerk to give bond: custody of implements.]—The trustees shall set apart such portion of the tax specified in the preceding section of this chapter as they may deem necessary for the purpose of purchasing the tools and machinery and paying for the guide-boards mentioned in said section, and the same shall constitute a general township fund; and such trustees shall require the township clerk to give bond in such sum as they deem proper, conditioned as the bonds of county officers, which bond, and the sureties thereon, shall be approved by said trustees. Said clerk shall take charge of and properly preserve and keep in repair such tools, implements, and machinery as may be purchased with said general township fund, and shall have authority to determine at what time the supervisors of the several districts may have the custody and use of the same or any part thereof, and shall be responsible for the safe keeping of the same, when not in the custody of some one of the supervisors for use in working the highways in his district, and shall receive such compensation as the trustees shall provide to be paid out of such fund.

Sec. 971. [Control of fund.]
—The trustees shall order and direct the expenditure of the general township fund.

The township trustees have no control over the road fund in the hands of the township clerk, except that part of it which may be set apart for general township purposes; the balance is to be expended in his discretion by the road supervisor, and he has a right to demand and receive it from the township clerk. Henderson v. Simpson, 45 Iowa, 519.

TOWNSHIP CLERK.

Sec. 972. [Furnish supervisor with plat.]
—The township clerk shall furnish each supervisor, to be by him transferred to his successor in office, with a copy of so much of the map or plat furnished such clerk by the auditor as relates to the highways in the district of such supervisor, and, from time to time, to mark thereon the changes in or additions to such highways as the same are certified to him by the auditor.

The map required by this section to be delivered by the township clerk to the road supervisor, confers no additional authority upon him. The map is in no sense to be considered as process or authority for his action. Mosier v. Vincent, 34 Iowa, 478.

Sec. 973. [And tax list: duty of county auditor.]
—The township clerk shall, within four weeks after the trustees have levied the property tax, make out a tax list for each highway district in his township, which list shall be in tabular form and in alphabetical order, having distinct columns for lands, town lots, and personal property, and carry out in a column the amount of the tax on each piece of land and town lot, and on the amount of personal property belonging to each individual; and he shall carry out the amount of tax, to be paid in money, due from each individual in a column by itself; which list shall contain the names of all persons required to perform two days' labor upon the highway as poll tax; and to enable the township clerk to make out such tax list the assessor shall furnish the township clerk of each township, on or before the first day of April of each year, a correct copy of the assessment list of said township for that year, which list shall be the basis of such tax list. The county auditor shall furnish the several township clerks of his county with printed blanks necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 974. [List: what to contain: authority to collect taxes.]
—The township clerk shall make an entry upon such tax list showing what it is for, what highway district, and for what year, and shall attach to the list his warrant under his hand, in general terms, requiring the supervisor of such district to collect the taxes therein charged as herein provided; and no informality in the above requirements shall render any proceedings for the collection of such taxes illegal. The clerk is hereby required to cause such lists to be delivered to the proper supervisors of his township within thirty days after the levy, and take receipts therefor; and such list shall be full and sufficient authority for the supervisor to collect all taxes therein charged against resident property-holders in his district.

Sec. 975. [When taxes have not been paid.]
—The township clerk shall, on or before the second Monday in October in each year, make out a certified list of all land, town lots, and personal property on which the highway tax has not been paid, and the amount of tax charged on each parcel of land, town lot, or personal property, designating the district in which the same is situated, and transmit the same to the auditor, who shall enter the amount of tax to each piece of land or town lot and person taxed for personal property in the column ruled for that purpose, the same as other taxes, and deliver the same to the county treasurer, charging him with the same, which shall be collected by such treasurer, in the same manner that county taxes are collected; and in case the township clerk shall fail or neglect to make such return, he shall forfeit and pay to the use of the township for highway purposes, a sum equal to the amount of tax on said land, which may be collected by suit on his official bond before any court having competent jurisdiction.

A court of equity will not relieve the owner of property from the payment of road taxes, on account of irregularities in the manner of their return to the proper officer. The Cedar Rapids & R. R'y Co. v. Carroll County, 41 Iowa., 153; The La. R. R Land Co. v. Sac County, Id., 152; The S. C. & St. P. R'y Co. v. The County of Osceola, 45 Id., 168.

SEC. 976. (As amended by ch. 45, 22d g. a.) The county treasurer shall, on the last Monday in [April] and [October] of each year, pay to the township clerk all the highway taxes belonging to his township which are at such times in his hands, taking the duplicate receipts of such clerk therefor, one of which shall be delivered by such treasurer, on or before the first Monday in [May] and [November] in each year, to the trustees.

An Act in relation to highway taxes.

Section 1. [Duty of county auditor.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That it shall be the duty of the auditor to provide a column which shall show the road district to which the highway taxes belong, as transmitted by the township clerks, according to section 975 of the code of 1873.

Sec. 2. [Duty of county treasurer.]—That it shall be the duty of the county treasurer, when he pays to township clerks highway taxes, according to section 976, to furnish, at each time and to each clerk, a statement showing the road district or districts to which it belongs.

Approved March 12, 1880.

Supervisor—Power, Duties.

Section 277. (As amended by ch. 167, 16th g. a.) [Where reside: who serve.]—The supervisor must reside in the district for which he is elected or appointed, and no person shall be required to serve as supervisor who is exempt from performing labor on the highway.

Sec. 978. Each supervisor shall be required to give bond in such sum and with such security as the township clerk may deem requisite, and conditioned that he will faithfully and impartially perform all the duties devolving upon him, and appropriate all moneys that may come into his hands by virtue of his office according to law, [and in case] of a vacancy occurring in any highway district within a township, the township [clerk] shall fill such vacancy by appointment.

Sec. 979. [Notice to: penalty for refusal to serve.]—The township clerk shall notify each supervisor within five days after his election or appointment, and if he shall fail to appear before said township clerk, unless prevented by sickness, within ten days, and give bond and take the oath of office, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars, and in case of his failing or refusing to pay the same, his successor in office shall collect the said amount by suit or otherwise, and apply the same to the repairing of highways in his district.

SEC. 980. [To post notices.]—The supervisor shall, within ten days after receiving the tax list specified in sections nine hundred and seventy-three and nine hundred and seventy-four, post up in three conspicuous places within his district, written notices of the amount of highway tax assessed to each tax payer in said district.

SEC. 981. [How tax expended.]—The supervisor shall cause all tax collected by him to be expended for the purpose specified in section nine hundred and sixty-nine of this code, on or before the first day of October of that year, except the portion set apart for a general township fund as provided in said section, which shall be by the supervisor paid over to the township clerk from time to time as collected, and his receipt taken therefor.

SEC. 982. [Of each district expended therein.]—The money tax levied upon the property in each district, except that portion set apart as a general township fund, whether collected by the supervisors or county treasurer, shall be expended for highway purposes in that district, and no part thereof shall be paid out or expended for the benefit of another district.

The destination of these funds is fixed by law, and there is no discretion to be exercised by the township trustees in regard thereto. Per Adams, J., in Henderson v. Simpson, 45 Iowa, 522.

SEC. 983. [Who to perform labor.]—The supervisors shall require all able-bodied male residents of his district between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five, to perform two days' labor upon the highway between the first day of April and September of each year.

SEC. 984. [Notice of time and place of working; receipts given.]—The supervisor shall give at least three days notice of the day or days and place designated to work the highways to all persons subject to work thereon, or who are charged with a highway tax within his district, and all persons so notified must meet said supervisor at such time and place with such tools, implements and teams as the supervisor may designate, and shall labor diligently under the direction of the supervisor for eight hours each day; and for such two days' labor performed, the supervisor shall give to the person a certificate, which certificate shall be evidence that such person has performed labor on the public highway, and shall exempt such person from performing labor in payment of highway poll tax in that or any other highway district for the same year. And the supervisor shall give any person who may perform labor in payment of his highway poll tax, if demanded, a receipt showing the amount of money earned by such labor, which shall be evidence of the payment of said tax to the amount specified in the receipt.

SEC. 985. (As substituted by ch. 21, 16th g. a.) [Penalty for failure to attend or work.]—(Each person liable to perform labor on the public highway as poll tax, who shall fail or neglect to attend, either in person or by satisfactory substitute, at the time and place appointed, with the designated tool, implement, or team, having had three days notice thereof, or, having attended, shall spend his time in idleness, or disobey the supervisor, or fail to furnish said supervisor, within five days thereafter, some satisfactory excuse for not so attending, shall forfeit and pay to said supervisor the sum of three dollars for each day's delinquency; and in case of failure to pay such forfeit within ten days, the supervisor shall recover the same by action in the name of the supervisors, and no property or wages belonging to said person shall be exempt to the defendant on execution. Said judgment to be obtained before any justice of the peace in the proper township, which money when collected shall be expended on public highways.)

SEC. 986. (As amended by ch. 200, 20th g. a.) [Compensation of road supervisor.]—(The supervisor shall be allowed the sum of two dollars per day for each day's labor, including the time necessarily spent in notifying the hands and making put his return, which sum shall be paid out of the highway fund, after deducting his two days' work. When there is no money in the hands of the clerk with which to pay the said supervisor, he shall be entitled to receive a certificate for the amount of labor performed, which certificate shall be received in payment of his own highway tax for any succeeding year.)

Sec. 987. [Supervisor to report: what contain.]—The supervisors of the several districts of each township shall report to the township clerk on the first Monday of April and October of each year, which report shall embrace the following items:
1. The names of all persons in his district required to perform labor on the public highway, and the amount performed by each;
2. The names of all persons against whom suits have been brought, as required by section nine hundred and eighty-five, and the amount collected of each;
3. The names of all persons who have paid their property highway tax in labor, and the amount paid by each;
4. The names of all persons who have paid their property tax in money, and the amount paid by each;
5. A correct list of all non-resident lands and town lots on which the highway tax has been paid, and the amount paid by each;
6. A correct list of all non-resident lands and town lots on which the highway tax has not been paid, and the amount of tax on each piece;
7. The amount of all moneys coming into his hands by virtue of his office, and from what sources;
8. The manner in which moneys coming into his hands by virtue of his office have been expended, and the amount, if any, in his possession;
9. The number of days he has been faithfully employed in the discharge of his duty;
10. The condition of the highways in his district, and such other items and suggestions as said supervisor may wish to make, which report shall be signed and sworn to by said supervisor and filed by the township clerk in his office.

Sec. 988. [Amount due for labor certified to auditor.]—If it appears from such report that any person has failed to perform the two days' labor required, or any part thereof, and that the supervisor has neglected to collect the amount in money required to be paid in case of such failure, the clerk shall add the amount required to be paid in case of such failure to such person's property tax and certify the same as required in section nine hundred and seventy-five, and the auditor shall enter the same on the proper tax list, and the treasurer shall collect the same as required in said section nine hundred and seventy-five.

Sec. 989. [As amended by ch. 87, 21st g. a.] [May not cut shade trees.]—(The supervisor is not permitted to cut down or injure any tree growing by the wayside which does not obstruct the highway, and which stands in front of any town lot, enclosure, or cultivated field, or any ground reserved for any public use, where such tree is intended to be preserved for shade or ornament, by the proprietor of the land, on or adjacent to which the tree is standing; and it shall not be lawful for the supervisor to enter upon any enclosed or unenclosed lands for the purpose of taking timber therefrom without first receiving permission from the owner or owners of said lands, (nor to destroy or injure the ingress or egress to any property, or to turn the natural drainage of the surface water to the injury of the adjoining owners.)

Where a highway or street in a city or town has been acquired by prescription, the fee remaining in the land owner, he has a right to all things connected therewith, such as trees upon, or mines and quarries under, the land over which the highway passes, subject only to the right of passage by the public, and the incidental right of repairing and keeping it in proper condition.

Overman v. May, 35 Iowa, 89.

In thus keeping the highway in repair the proper officer may use the stone within its limits in a reasonable and proper manner for that purpose. But this does not authorize him to quarry stone in the bed of the river spanned by a bridge, constituting part of the highway, to repair other streets. Id.

A road supervisor will not be enjoined at the instance of a land owner from removing trees standing in the highway adjacent to, and in front of, such owner's premises, unless such removal is demanded by the wants of the public travel. Bills v. Belknap, 36 Id., 583.

SEC. 990. (As amended by ch. 52, 17th g. a.) [Damages caused by unsafe bridge or highway.]—When notice in writing, that any bridge or any portion of the public highway is unsafe, the supervisors shall be liable for all damages resulting from the unsafe or impassable condition of the highway or bridge, after allowing a reasonable time for repairing the same. (And if there is in the district any bridge erected or maintained by the county, then, in that event, he shall, on such notice of the unsafe condition of such bridge, as soon as he reasonably can, obstruct passage on such bridge, and use strict diligence in notifying at least one member of the board of supervisors of his county in writing of the unsafe condition of such bridge; and if he fails so to obstruct and notify, he shall be liable for all damages growing out of the unsafe condition of such bridge, occurring between the time he is so notified and such time as he neglects in obstructing such passage; and any person who shall remove such obstruction shall be liable for all damages occurring to any person resulting from such removal. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve the county from liability for the defects of said bridge.)

SEC. 991. [Extraordinary repairs.]—For making such extraordinary repairs, the supervisor may call out any or all the able-bodied men of the district in which they are to be made, but not more than two days at a time without their consent, and persons so called out shall be entitled to receive a certificate from the supervisor, certifying the number of days of labor performed, which certificate shall be received in payment for highway tax for that or any succeeding year at the rate per day established for that year.

It is the duty of counties to construct and maintain in proper condition for public use “county bridges” within their limits, and they are liable for all injuries resulting from their negligent construction, or the failure to keep them in repair. Chandler v. Fremont Co., 42 Id., 65; Moreland v. Mitchell Co., 41 Id., 321.

County bridges are those which require in their construction an expenditure of money beyond the means at the disposal of the road districts, and those which have been constructed by the county. Id.

Where it appeared by the evidence that the entire cost of the bridge did not exceed seventy-five dollars, that to repair the defect therein would have cost about five dollars, and that the road district had ample means to construct and repair the bridge; held that the county was not liable. Chandler v. Fremont Co., supra.

It is the duty of the county in which a bridge is situated to make all repairs requiring an extraordinary expenditure of money; and this duty involves the corresponding liability for damages resulting from a neglect to make the same. Wilson & Gustin v. Jefferson County, 13 Iowa, 151.

This liability of the county exists only in respect to defects in bridges of the larger class, “county bridges” proper, which are built under their statutory power to make and repair bridges. The repair of roads and highways devolves upon the several road districts, and it is the supervisor, after notice in writing, and not the county, that is liable for injuries caused by the defective condition of the road or bridge. Barrett v. Brooks, 21 Id., 144; Bell v. Foutch, 119; Brown v. Jefferson Co., 16 Id., 339; Soper v. Henry Co., 25 Id., 264; McCullum v. Black Hawk Co., 21 Id., 409; Wilson & Gustin v. Jefferson Co., 13 Id., 181.

“County bridges,” to which county liability attaches, are such only as require for their erection an extraordinary expenditure of money—such bridges as cannot be constructed with the limited means under the control of the respective road districts of the county, or such as have been constructed by the county. Chandler v. Fremont County, 42 Id., 58.

Where an injury results from the negligent construction of a county bridge, or the failure to keep it in repair, the county is liable and cannot escape liability by showing, in a given case, that the injury occurred by reason of an unsound plank which the road supervisor might have replaced. Huston v. Iowa County, 43 Id., 496. See also Krause v. Davis County, 44 Id., 141, which holds the same doctrine.
SEC. 992. [Penalty.]—If any able bodied man, when duly summoned for any such purpose, fails to appear and labor diligently by himself or substitute, or send satisfactory excuse therefor, or to pay the value of such work in money at any time before suit is brought, he is liable to a fine of ten dollars, to be recovered by suit before any justice of the peace in the name of the supervisor, and for the use of the highway fund of the district.

A man who is not able-bodied does not come within the purview of this section, and is not liable to the penalty prescribed therein for a failure to appear when summoned by the road supervisors to perform labor on the roads. Martin v. Gadd, 31 Id., 75.

Nor will the failure of such person to make his condition known to the supervisor, nor the fact that he sent a substitute who was rejected for incompetency, change the rule. Id.

SEC. 993. [Obstructions moved. ]—The supervisor shall remove obstructions in the highways caused by fences or otherwise, but he must not throw down or remove fences which do not directly obstruct the travel upon the highway, until reasonable notice in writing, not exceeding six months, has been given to the owner of the land enclosed in part by such fence.

The supervisor has no right, under this and kindred sections, to throw down a fence projecting into the highway, though not directly obstructing the travel thereon, without first notifying the owner to remove the same, even where the fence is built after the establishment of the road. Mosher v. Vincent, 34 Id., 478.

If a road supervisor fails to remove obstructions in the highway, mandamus is the appropriate action for compelling him to perform his duty. Patterson v. Vail et al., 43 Id., 142.

Under section 993, a fence projecting into the highway, which does not obstruct public travel, cannot lawfully be removed by the road supervisor until notice, not exceeding six months in extent, has been given to the owner of the land enclosed thereby. Blackburn v. Powers, 40 Id., 681; Mosher v. Vincent, 34 Id., 478.

To obstruct a highway it is not necessary that it be rendered impassable, and trees which stand therein in such positions as to interfere with travel should be removed by the road supervisors. Patterson v. Vail et al., 43 Id., 142.

The owner of the fence is entitled to reasonable notice to remove it, and reasonable notice is such as would enable him to take it away without injury to the fence or crops enclosed. Id.

What constitutes a reasonable time for the removal of a fence, condemned by the road supervisor as a direct obstruction of public travel, is a question of fact for the determination of the jury. Mosher v. Vincent, 39 Id., 687; Blackburn v. Powers, 40 Id., 681.

SEC. 994. [Highway to be kept in good condition: boards. ]—The supervisors shall keep the highways in as good condition as the funds at his disposal will permit, and shall place guide-boards at cross-roads and at the forks of the highway in his district; said boards to be made out of good timber, the same to be well painted and lettered, and placed upon good substantial hard wood posts, to be set four feet in and to be at least eight feet above ground.

SEC. 995. [Canada thistles. ]—The supervisor of highways, when notified in writing that any Canada thistles are growing upon any vacant or non-resident lands or lots within his district, the owner, agent or lessee of which is unknown, shall cause the same to be destroyed and make return in writing to the board of supervisors of his county, with a bill for his expenses or charges therefor, which shall be audited and allowed by said board and paid from the county fund; and the amount so paid shall be entered up and levied against the lands or lots on which said thistles have been destroyed, and collected by the county treasurer the same as other taxes and returned to the county fund.

SEC. 996. [Supervisors settle with trustees. ]—The supervisors are required to meet the township trustees at the meeting on the first Monday in October in each year, at which time there shall be a settlement of the accounts of such supervisors connected with the highway fund, for putting up guide-boards and for any other services; and after payment of the supervisors, the trustees shall order such distribution of the fund in the hands of the township clerk as they may deem expedient for highway purposes, and the clerk shall pay the same out as ordered by the trustees.

The fund to be distributed under this section is such unexpended balance as there may be of the money originally set apart by the trustees as the general township fund; all the other money is to be expended by each supervisor in the road district where collected, and the fact of its coming into the hands of the clerk is a mere incident in its collection. Henderson v. Simpson, 45 Id., 522.

The township clerk and not the trustees, is the legal custodian of the funds of a road district, so far as road supervisors are required to account therefor; and the trustees cannot maintain an action upon the bond of the road supervisor because of his failure to account for such funds. Keller v. Bare et al., 62 Id., 468.

SEC. 997. [When no further orders to be issued.]—Should there be no money in the treasury on final settlement of the supervisors with the trustees, said trustees shall order the township clerk to issue orders for the amount due the supervisors. The orders so issued shall be numbered with the number of the district to which they belong, and shall be received the same as money in the payment of highway tax in the district to which they are issued.

The orders issued by direction of the township trustees in settlement with road supervisors, as provided in this section, may be drawn upon the township clerk, and when so drawn are payable out of the general township fund, and an action of mandamus may be maintained to enforce their payment. Tobin v. The Township of Emmetsburg et al., 52 Id., 81. [This action should have been entitled against the officers by name, and not against the township, as it is not a corporation.]

The township trustees have no authority to purchase tools and machinery for working highways, upon credit, to be paid for out of levies of future years, and in advance of the levying and setting apart of the tax must precede the purchase. Wells v. Grubb et al., 58 Id., 334.

SEC. 998. [Neglect to perform duty: penalty.]—Any supervisor failing or neglecting to perform the duties required by this chapter, shall forfeit and pay for the use of the highway fund of his district the sum of ten dollars; the township clerk shall, in case of such failure or neglect, commence suit in his name for the collection of the same, before any justice of the peace within the proper township.

SEC. 999. [Hedges may be planted in highway.]—Where any owner or occupant of land adjoining or abutting upon any highway may desire to plant a hedge upon the line of the same, he shall be allowed to build his fence upon such highway; but he shall not build the fence more than five feet within the outer line of said highway, and said fence may be built on both sides of all highways of fifty feet or more in width at the same time. Such owner or occupant shall not be allowed to occupy such highway as aforesaid for more than ten years, and not more than six months before such hedge shall be planted, and at the expiration of such time he shall remove such fence upon the order of the supervisor of the district where such highway is situated.

SEC. 1000. [Persons meeting to turn to right: penalty.]—Persons meeting each other on the public highways shall give one half of the same by turning to the right. All persons failing to observe the provisions of this section shall be liable to pay all damages resulting therefrom, together with a fine, not exceeding five dollars, which fine shall be appropriated to repairing the highways in the district where the violation occurred; but no prosecution shall be instituted except on complaint of the person wronged.
An Act to allow under-ground tile drain across public highway, and defining the duties of road supervisors relative to the same, and repeal section 1225, chapter 2, title 10, of the code of Iowa.

SECTION 1. [Drains across highways.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: When any water course or natural drain crosses any public highway in the state of Iowa, and the adjoining or abutting land owner wishes to cross said highway with an under-ground tile drain for an outlet, or to connect with another under-ground tile drain, they shall notify the road supervisor having supervision over that public highway to be crossed, in writing, specify the depth of the drain and size of tile to be used in crossing said highway, and give the road supervisor twenty days time to construct said under-ground tile drain.

SEC. 2. [Supervisor shall construct drain.]—When the road supervisor receive said written notice, he shall order said under-ground tile drain constructed across said highway, and pay for the tile and construction of the same out of any money or fund in his command.

SEC. 3. [In case of failure.]—If the supervisor fails to construct said under-ground tile drain within the twenty days time, then the abutting or adjoining land owner may go upon the highway and construct said under-ground tile drain across said highway, and he shall receive pay for constructing the same, including tile used in crossing said highway, out of any money or fund, belonging to such road district, provided he shall leave the highway in as good condition as it was before the drain was constructed.

SEC. 4. [Code, section 1225, repealed.]—That section 1225, chapter 2, title 10, of the code of Iowa, is hereby repealed.

Approved March 30, 1886.

(Chapter 200, Laws of 1884.)

IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAYS.

An Act to promote the improvement of highways. (Additional to code, title VII, chapter 2; and superseding section 986.)

SECTION 1. [One-mill tax authorized in each county.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the board of supervisors of each county may at the time of levying taxes for other purposes, levy a tax of not more than one mill on the dollar of the assessed value of the taxable property in their county, which tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes are collected and shall be known as the county road fund, and shall be paid out only on the order of the board of supervisors for work done on the highways of the county in such places as the board shall determine, and the county treasurer shall receive the same compensation for collecting this tax as he does for collecting corporation taxes; provided, that the amount levied by the board of township trustees under section 969 of the code, together with the amount thus levied, shall not be in excess of five (5) mills.

SEC. 2. The board of supervisors shall, at their regular meeting in April of each year, determine from the auditor's and treasurer's books, the amount of money collected and credited to said road tax fund. They shall, also, determine the manner in which said tax shall be expended, whether by contract or otherwise.

(SEC. 3. Substitute for section 986, as printed herein.)

SEC. 4. [Township trustees may consolidate road districts.]—The board of township trustees may, at their regular meeting in April, 1884, or at any regular April meeting thereafter, on petition of a majority of the voters of said township, consolidate the several road district(s) in the township into one highway district; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the trustees from again subdividing the township into subdistricts and returning to the present plan of road work, at any regular April meeting, after two years trial of the plan provided by this act.

SEC. 5. [Tax ordered paid in money.]—The trustees may order the township highway tax for the succeeding year paid in money and have the same collected by the county treasurer the same as other taxes.

SEC. 6. [When organized into one highway district.]—In all cases where the township shall have organized into one highway district, as contemplated in section 4 of this act, the board of township trustees shall order and direct the expenditure of all the highway funds and labor belonging or owing to the township; and to this end the trustees may let by contract to the lowest responsible bidder (should they deem him competent to the proper performance of such work) any part, or all of the work on the highways for that year, in the township, or they may appoint a township superintendent of highways, with one or more assistants, should they deem it best so to do, to superintend all or any part of such work, subject always to the direction of the township trustees; provided, only, the said trustees shall not incur any indebtedness for such purposes, unless the same has been, or shall at the time be, provided for by an authorized levy.

SEC. 7. [Expenditure of tax.]—The trustees shall cause both the property and poll road tax belonging to the township, to be equitably and judiciously expended for highway purposes in the township highway district, and shall cause the highways to be kept in as good condition as the means at their command will admit of.

SEC. 8. The trustees shall cause the noxious weeds growing on the highways in their township to be cut twice a year if deemed necessary to exterminate the same, and have them cut at such times as to prevent their growing to seed; and for this purpose, the trustees may allow any land owner a reasonable compensation for destroying such weeds on the highways abutting his lands, and have him credited for the same on his road tax for that year.

SEC. 9. [Trustees to fix term of office, and per diem of superintendent.]—The trustees shall fix the term of office and per diem of the superintendent of highways and his assistants, should such be employed; provided, the superintendent shall not be hired for more than one year at a time and his per diem shall not exceed three dollars; and that the contract shall be conditioned so that the trustees may dispense with his services at any time, when in their judgment it shall be for the best interests of the township so to do.

SEC. 10. [75 per cent of tax expended.]—The trustees shall cause at least seventy-five per cent of the township highway tax to be properly expended for highway purposes by the fifteenth day of July each year.

SEC. 11. [Funds of districts placed to credit of general township.]—In all cases where the one highway district plan shall be adopted, the highway funds belonging to the several road districts in the township, prior to the change, shall be placed to the credit of the general township highway fund, and all claims for work done or material furnished for road purposes, and unsettled for prior to the change, shall be paid out of such funds.

SEC. 12. [Who to qualify and give bond.]—The trustees shall require the township clerk, contractor, and superintendent, contemplated in this act, each to qualify, as other township officers, and to execute a bond with approved sureties, for twice the amount of money likely to come into their hands, respectively, by reason of this act.

Sec. 13. [Compensation of trustees.]—The trustees shall receive the same compensation per day for time necessarily spent in looking after the highways, as they do for other township business; the county treasurer shall receive the per cent for collecting the highway taxes contemplated in this act, that he does for collecting corporation taxes; and the township clerk shall receive two per cent of all the money coming into his hands by reason of this act, and by him paid out for road purposes.

Sec. 14. [Nine hours a day's work.]—Nine hours' faithful service for a man, or man and team, shall be required for a day's work on the road; provided, that except on extraordinary occasions no person shall be required to go more than three miles from his place of residence to work on the road; and for the purposes of this act, the residence of a man with a family shall be construed to be where his family reside(s), and for a single man it shall be at the place where he is at work.

Sec. 15. [Law as applies to contractors.]—The powers, duties and accountabilities imposed on highway supervisors, so far as consistent with this act, shall apply with equal force to contractors, superintendents and assistants contemplated in this act.

Sec. 16. [When system takes effect.]—In all cases where the one highway district for the township shall have been adopted, it shall be competent for the township trustees to designate when the same shall take effect as to the working of the roads.

Sec. 17. [Repealing.]—Sections four (4) to fifteen (15) inclusive, of this act shall apply and be in force only in such townships as adopt the one highway district plan provided for in this act.

Sec. 18. All acts and parts of acts so far as inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Approved April 14, 1884.

(CHAPTEK 88, LAWS OF 1880.)

TO AUTHORIZE USE OF SURPLUS BRIDGE FUND ON HIGHWAYS.

An Act to give county boards of supervisors the right to improve the highways in certain cases.

Section 1. [Counties may improve highways.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That whenever any county in this state is free from debt, and has a surplus in its bridge fund, after providing for the necessary repairs of bridges in its county, then the board of supervisors of such county may, out of such surplus, make improvements on the highways upon the petition of one-third of the resident freeholders of any township in said county; but in no case shall they be authorized to run the county in debt for such improvements of the highways, and whenever they shall make such improvements they shall let the work by contract to the lowest responsible bidder, after having advertised for proposals in some newspaper printed in the county, for not less than fourteen days previous to the letting of said contract.

Approved March 23, 1880.
CHAPTER 3.
OF FERRIES AND BRIDGES.

BRIDGES.

SECTION 1001. [Public; part highway.]—Bridges erected or maintained by the public, constitute parts of the highway, and must not be less than sixteen feet in width.

The board of supervisors have power at their discretion to establish and change highways, of which bridges erected by the public constitute a part, and when a bridge has fallen down, which they refuse to rebuild, mandamus will not lie to compel them to do so. The State, ex rel. Houck, v. Morris et al., 43 Iowa, 192.

When the county will be liable for injuries resulting from defects in bridges, see notes to section 991, ante.

A city is liable for personal injuries resulting from the defective condition of a bridge within its corporate limits. Rusch v. The City of Davenport, 6 Id., 443.

Where the board of supervisors had in their individual capacity consented to a change in a contract for the construction of a bridge, and after the bridge was completed appointed a committee to examine the same, with power to accept or reject it, held, that the appointment of the committee with the powers indicated, and a subsequent qualified acceptance by the board, did not amount to a ratification of the change in the contract. Mallory v. Montgomery County, 48 Id., 681.

If the contractor could neither compel the board of supervisors to accept the bridge, nor recover for constructing the same without their acceptance, it follows that when they made their acceptance conditional upon his taking one thousand dollars therefore, the limitation of his recovery to that amount could not be made to depend upon his receiving it in full satisfaction. Id.

That the board contracted for the construction of a bridge of less than the width provided by law would not affect the contractor's right of action on the contract. Id.

SECTION 1002. [Penalty for fast driving over.]—Any person riding or driving faster than a walk across any bridge maintained at the public charge, shall be subject to pay the following penalties: When the bridge is twenty-five feet in length, and does not exceed one hundred, the sum of one dollar for each offense; when it is over one hundred, and does not exceed two hundred feet in length, the sum of three dollars for each offense; where it is over two hundred, and does not exceed three hundred feet in length, the sum of five dollars for each offense; and the further additional sum of one dollar for each offense for every hundred feet in length in excess of three hundred, to be recovered by civil action in the name and for the county in which the bridge is situated. If the bridge is situated in more than one county, the action is maintainable in or by either.

TOLL BRIDGES.

SEC. 1003. [How established.]—The board of supervisors may grant license for the erection of toll bridges across any water course or other obstruction which justifies the establishment of such bridge, and which calls for an expenditure that cannot be met without serious inconvenience to the revenues of the county. In granting such licenses, preference shall be given to the owner of the land on which the bridge is proposed to be located, if he applies for the privilege, and is, in other respects, a competent person to erect such bridge.

SEC. 1004. [Supervisors grant license: right of way.]—When any corporation or individual shall obtain from the board of supervisors license for the construction of a toll bridge across any of the streams of this state, such corporation or individual may take and appropriate so much private property as shall be necessary for a right of way therefor and all approaches thereto, in such width as such corporation or individual may desire, not exceeding sixty feet.

SEC. 1005. [Damages assessed.]—If the owner of the property over which such way extends shall refuse to grant the same, and the damages therefor cannot be settled by agreement, all damages which the owner, or any person having an interest in or improvement upon the property to be taken, will sustain by reason of the appropriation of such property, shall be assessed, and the right of way taken on the application of either party under the provisions of chapter three of title ten of this code.

SEC. 1006. [Where extremities lie in different counties or states.]—Where the extremities of the bridge lie in different counties, a license must be procured from each of such counties, and if different rates of toll are fixed by the different boards of supervisors, each has power to fix the rates of travel which is going from its own county. A similar principle shall be observed where only one of the extremities of the bridge is within this state.

SEC. 1007. [Period for which licenses granted.]—Such licenses may be granted to continue for any period not exceeding fifty years, and the rate of toll may be fixed, in the first instance, in such a manner as to be unalterable within any stipulated period not exceeding ten years; after that time it shall be under the control of the board of supervisors.

SEC. 1008. [Other bridges or ferries.]—The board of supervisors is also authorized to stipulate in the license that no other bridge or ferry shall be permitted across the same obstruction within any distance not exceeding two miles of such bridge, and for a period not exceeding ten years; any violation of the terms of such stipulation is a nuisance, and he who causes it is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 1009. [Failure of duty.]—When it is made to appear to the board of supervisors, after ten days notice to the person licensed, that he fails substantially to perform his duties according to law, the board may revoke his license.

SEC. 1010. [Day or night: rate of toll.]—All toll bridges must be so regulated as to allow persons to pass at any hour of the night or day, but the board of supervisors may, in its discretion, in fixing the rates of toll, permit a greater amount to be collected during certain hours of the night time.

FERRIES.

SEC. 1011. [License: supervisors’ power to grant.]—The board of supervisors has power to grant such ferry licenses as may be needed within its county, for a period not exceeding ten years.

SEC. 1012. [Rates of ferries fixed by boards.]—The board may prescribe the rates of ferriage, as well as the hours of the day or night during which the ferry must be attended, both of which may, from time to time, be changed at the discretion of the board.

SEC. 1013. [Extent of privilege.]—In granting a ferry license, the board of supervisors has power to make the privilege granted exclusive, for a distance not exceeding one mile in either direction from said ferry, in which case no person shall keep a public ferry within the prescribed distance, unless, after twenty days notice to the person who has obtained such privilege, it is made to appear to the board that the public good requires both ferries, and a new license is issued for the second ferry accordingly. The notice herein required must be served personally on the owner, or on the person in charge of the ferry boat.

SEC. 1014. [Preference: to whom given.]—In granting a ferry license, preference must be given to the keeper of a previous ferry at the same point, and if it be a new ferry, preference shall be given to the owner of the land; but if there is no such, or if, after giving the same notice as is required by the last section, he fails to make application for such license, or if, in the opinion of the board, he is an improper person to receive the same, it may be conferred upon any other proper applicant.

The keeper of a ferry has no right, under this section, to a renewal of his franchise. The section is simply directory, pointing out him as the one better prepared to serve the public than others, but directing, also, that if, in the opinion of the supervisors, he is an improper person to be intrusted with the franchise, it may be conferred on any other proper applicant. Per Beck, J., in Lippencott v. Allander, 23 Iowa, 558. But see Same v. Same, 25 Id., 445, where it is held that an appeal will lie from the action of the board of supervisors revoking a ferry license.

A public ferry franchise can be conferred only by the government, and must be founded on grant, license or prescription. Ownership of the soil upon each side of the stream does not confer the right to establish thereon, without grant or license, a public ferry at which tolls are charged. The owner may establish a private ferry for the convenience of himself and family, and at which he may ferry for a compensation fixed by contract expressed or implied, when not forbidden by statute, and when this does not injure or affect any established public ferry. Prosser v. Wapello County, 18 Id., 327.

On establishing a ferry, preference should be given in awarding the franchise to the owner of the land on which it is established, if he is a proper person to receive and exercise the same. Id. The granting of a ferry franchise does not authorize the grantee thereof to use the land of another without his consent or without making compensation therefor. Id.

And on the application of the riparian owner, the licensee of the ferry will be enjoined from landing his boat on the land of such owner. Prosser v. Davis, Id., 367.

A ferry license is not vacated nor the franchise lost by the death of the party to whom it was granted, but passes to his representatives. Lippencott v. Allander, 27 Id., 460.

SEC. 1015. [Opposite shores in different counties.]—Where the opposite shores of the stream are in different counties, a license from either is sufficient, and the board of supervisors first exercising jurisdiction by granting a license, retains that jurisdiction during the term of such license.

SEC. 1016. [One shore within the state.]—Where one side of a river is within this state, the board of supervisors possesses the same power, so far as the shore of this state is concerned, as though the river lay wholly within this state.

SEC. 1017. [License not to issue until bond is filed.]—The board of supervisors, upon being satisfied that the requirements of this chapter have been complied with, and that a ferry is needed at such a place, and that the applicant is a suitable person to keep it, must grant the license, which, however, shall not issue until the applicant files a bond, with sureties to be approved by the board or auditor, in a penalty not less than one hundred dollars, with the condition that he will keep the ferry in proper condition for ferrying, and attend the same at all times fixed by the board for running the same, that he will neither demand nor take any illegal tolls, and that he will perform all other duties which are, or may be, enjoined on him by law, which bond shall be filed in the county auditor's office.

SEC. 1018. [United States express and mail.]—Every ferryman must transport the public expresses of the United States and of this state, and also the United States mail, at any hour of the day or night.

A public ferryman is a common carrier and subject to like duties and responsibilities. Slimmer v. Merry, 23 Iowa, 20.

The fact that a ferryman may be liable to a city, whose ferry license he has obtained, for a violation of its ordinances in not keeping his boats in running order, does not bar an action against him by an individual who has sustained damage therefrom. Id.

The rule which holds common carriers upon the high seas to a strict liability, applies with all its force, and with equal propriety, to carriers upon the inland waters of our country. Id.

While the exclusive power conferred upon a city to grant a ferry license does not authorize it to grant an exclusive license, yet such power is conferred when it is authorized to grant or refuse a license. B. & H. Co. Ferry Co. v. Davis, 48 Id., 133.

PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO BOTH FERRIES AND TOLL BRIDGES.

SEC. 1019. [License entered of record.]—All licenses for ferries and toll bridges must be entered upon the records of the board of supervisors, and shall contain the rates of toll allowed.

SEC. 1020. [Rates of toll: where posted.]—The rates of toll must be conspicuously posted up at each extremity of the bridge, or on the boat, door of the ferry house, or some other conspicuous place near the ferry.

SEC. 1021. [Failure to post: penalty for.]—The failure to have such list posted up as aforesaid justifies any person in refusing the payment of tolls, and where such failure is habitual, the property of the bridge or ferry is liable to pay twenty-five dollars, and the action therefor may be brought in the name of the county against such proprietor, or on the bond of the proprietor of the ferry; the amount recovered in either case to be paid into the county treasury.

SEC. 1022. [Notice of application to be posted before granting license.] Before a license can be granted for either a bridge or ferry, notice of the intended application therefor must be posted up in at least three public places on each side of the river, if both are within the state, and in the township and neighborhood in which the proposed bridge or ferry is to be erected or kept, at least twenty days prior to the making such application.

SEC. 1023. [Penalty for taking illegal toll.]—The taking of illegal toll by the grantees of any of the licenses herein contemplated, subjects the offender to the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every such offense, to be recovered by suit on the bond of such licensee, or against him individually, by the person who paid the illegal toll for his own benefit, or he may bring suit in the name of the county, in which case the proceeds shall go into the county treasury.

SEC. 1024. [Forfeiture.]—A failure in other respects to comply substantially with the terms fixed by the board, works a forfeiture of any of the licenses herein authorized, and also subjects the party guilty of such failure to damages for all the injury resulting therefrom, for which he is liable on his bond.

SEC. 1025. [Refusal to pay tolls: penalty.]—Any person who refuses to pay the regular tolls established and posted up in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, or who shall run through or pass around the toll gates with a view of avoiding the payment of just tolls or dues, forfeits the sum of five dollars for every offense, which, together with costs of suit, may be recovered by the person entitled to such toll by civil action; but nothing herein contained shall prevent a person from fording a stream across which a toll bridge or ferry has been constructed.

Sec. 1026. [Rules established.]

The proprietor of any bridge or ferry authorized by this chapter may establish rules for the regulation of passengers, travelers, teams and freight passing or traveling thereon, and may enforce those rules by penalties, not exceeding five dollars for any one offense, which penalties may be recovered by civil action in the name of the proprietor aforesaid; but such rules must be published by being conspicuously posted up before they can be thus enforced.

Sec. 1027. [Franchise sold.]

Any of the franchises contemplated in this chapter are subject to execution, and shall be sold as personal property, and be subject to the same rights and consequences, except that the purchaser may take immediate possession of the property.

Sec. 1028. [What goes with it.]

The sale of any such franchise carries with it all the material, implements, rights of way, and works of whatever kind, necessary for, or ordinarily used in, the exercise of such franchise.

Sec. 1029. [Free ferry established.]

Nothing in this chapter contained shall be so construed as to prevent any person, city, incorporated town, or village, from establishing a free ferry at any point where a license to keep a ferry has been granted under the provisions of this chapter; provided, that where said free ferry is established, said person or company shall pay a reasonable compensation to the persons owning said ferry for all boats, ropes, and other material, if the same be fit for use; and when said free ferry is established at a point at or near where a license has been granted to an individual, such individual shall be exonerated from any further obligation in relation to the ferry. Bond and security shall be given in like manner by the person or company establishing the free ferry as required in this chapter.

Sec. 1030. [Mill owners.]

Nothing in this chapter shall be so construed as to prevent owners of mills from crossing themselves or customers free of charge.

Railway and toll bridges.

Sec. 1031. [Supervisors to control location.]

Any railway or bridge company that now is, or hereafter may be, incorporated in pursuance of the laws of this state, or of the states of Wisconsin, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, or Dakota, is authorized to construct a railway bridge across the Mississippi, Missouri or Big Sioux rivers, connecting with the eastern or western terminus, as the case may be, of any railway abutting on the Iowa bank of either of said rivers, at such place as shall be designated therefor by the board of supervisors of the county wherein such abutting is to be made, and extending toward a point on the opposite bank that may be selected by such company.

Sec. 1032. [Plan to be approved.]

No bridge shall be built under the provisions of the preceding section, until the plan thereof has been submitted to and approved by the board of supervisors of the county in which the bridge is to be partly located.

Sec. 1033. [For teams and passengers: toll for.]

Any such company may, with the consent of said board of supervisors, construct such bridge with suitable highways and footways for teams and foot passengers, and charge such rates of toll therefor as may be approved by said board.

Sec. 1034. [Ferry established.]

Any such company may establish a ferry across said rivers at or near the termini of its road, for the sole purpose of crossing the freight and passengers of such highway, until the bridge is ready for use.

Sec. 1035. [Navigation.]

No bridge erected under the provision of this chapter shall be so located or constructed as to unnecessarily impede, injure, or obstruct the navigation of said rivers.
SEC. 1036. [Bonds and stock issued.]—Any such company may issue its bonds or obligations for an amount not exceeding the cost of such bridge, and of its road in the state, and may secure the payment thereof by a mortgage on the same, and may issue certificates of common and preferred stock; the preferred stock to be issued only on condition that the holders of the common stock give their written consent thereto.

SEC. 1037. [Resident director: process served on.]—Each company acting under the provisions of this chapter shall elect at least one director, who shall be a citizen of and reside in the state of Iowa, and such company shall be liable to be sued in any court of competent jurisdiction in this state, and service of the original notice on said resident director shall be sufficient notice to the company of the pendency of the action.

BRIDGES ON COUNTY LINE ROADS.

An Act to provide for the construction and maintenance of county bridges on county line roads, where site of bridge is wholly within one or the other county. Additional to code, chapter 3, title VII; "Ferries and bridges."

SECTION 1. [On county line road, bridge may be built wholly in one county.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That wherever a county line road intersects a stream of sufficient width to require a county bridge, and the point of intersection does not afford a suitable site for the construction of such bridge, and there is a good site for the erection of a bridge wholly within one or the other of said counties, at a reasonable distance from the county line, the boards of supervisors of the respective counties to be benefited by said bridge may make the necessary appropriations for the construction and maintenance of such bridge, the same as they might do if said bridge was located on county line.

Approved March 15, 1878.

(Chapter 147, Laws of 1884.)

SIDEWALKS ON HIGHWAYS.

An Act relating to sidewalks on highways. [Additional to code, chapter 7, title 7.]

SECTION 1. [Land owners may construct sidewalks.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That it shall be lawful for any owner of land adjoining or abutting on a public road or highway outside the limits of any city or town, to build and construct a sidewalk on and along said highway for his own use and for the use of the public traveling on foot; that said sidewalk shall not exceed four feet in width and shall be located along the side of the highway and may be constructed of any material suitable for a foot walk, provided, that said sidewalk shall not be so constructed as to interfere with the proper use and enjoyment of any lands or premises along which it passes, and provided further, that the persons building such walk shall keep the same in repair, and shall be liable for all injuries occasioned by his failure to keep the same in repair.

SEC. 2. [Penalty for injury of sidewalk.]—Any person who shall destroy, injure, or drive or ride upon a sidewalk, so constructed or heretofore constructed except at highway crossings, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than five dollars for each offense, and shall be liable to the party who has built or maintained said sidewalk for all damages.

Approved April 5, 1884.

TITLE VIII.

OF THE MILITIA.

CHAPTER 1.

MILITARY CODE.

(Chapter 1 of this title was repealed by chapter 125, laws of 1878, and that chapter was repealed by chapter 74, of the laws of 1880.)

(Chapter 74, Laws of 1880.)

An Act to provide a military code, and for the organization, government and support of the state militia, and to repeal chapter 15, laws of the seventeenth general assembly.

SECTION 1. [Honorable discharged soldiers exempt.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all able-bodied male citizens of the state, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who are not exempted from military duty according to the laws of the United States, shall constitute the military force of this state: Provided, that all persons who have served in the United States service, and have been honorably discharged therefrom, are exempt from duty under the military laws of this state; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit any person from becoming a member of any military organization, or holding any office in the militia of this state.

SEC. 2. [Duties of assessors in taking list of militia.]—Assessors in each township are required to make and return to the county auditor of their respective counties, at the time of making the annual assessment, a correct list of persons subject to military duty, which list may be revised and corrected by the board of supervisors, and the county auditor shall, in the month of June in each even numbered year, or at such other time as the governor may direct, certify to the adjutant-general a true copy of said list, and in each odd numbered year he shall certify to the number of names on said list.

SEC. 3. 3. To have a common seal, which it may alter at pleasure;
4. To render the interests of the stockholders transferable;
5. To exempt the private property of its members from liability for corporate debts, except as herein otherwise declared;
6. To make contracts, acquire and transfer property, possessing the same powers in such respects as private individuals now enjoy;
7. To establish by-laws, and make all rules and regulations deemed expedient for the management of their affairs in accordance with law.

The possession of the powers granted by sections 1058 and 1059, and the right to exercise all the incidental powers essential to a proper enjoyment of the powers specifically conferred, constitute the franchise of the corporation, which exists in virtue of contract between the state and the corporation, and may not be essentially abridged or impaired by the legislature. Per Day, J., in Rodedmacher v. The M. & St. P. R. R. Co., 41 Iowa, 801.

In a proceeding by a judgment creditor of a corporation to subject property of an individual stockholder to its payment, it is a sufficient defense that, by the articles of incorporation, the stockholders are not individually liable beyond the amount of unpaid stock subscribed by them, and that defendant’s subscription has been fully paid. Spence v. Garlock v. Iowa Valley Con. Co., 36 Id., 407.

A change in the name of a corporation can only be effected by changing the articles of incorporation, and of this change the best evidence is the articles themselves. The C. D. & M. R. R. Co. v. Keisel, 43 Id., 39.

The powers of a corporation organized under this chapter, for the purpose of effecting the objects of its creation, are as broad and comprehensive as those of an individual, except where the exercise of the asserted power is expressly prohibited. Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Id., 239-241, and cases cited in opinion of SBEVKRS, CH. J.

A corporation may make an oral or unwritten contract, the same as an individual. Baker v. Johnson County, 33 Id., 151; Merrick v. The Burlington & Warren Plank Road Co., 11 Id., 74.

For the purpose of carrying out the objects of the corporation, its powers are as extensive as those of an individual where they are not expressly limited, and it may borrow money and execute a mortgage on the corporate property. Thompson v. Lambert, and Weber v. Scott Co. Agr. Society, 44 Id., 239.
The legislature can in no manner control or interfere with the property of a private corporation.

A corporation organized under the general law of this state, and which was authorized by its articles of incorporation to "purchase and hold, sell or exchange, any real estate or other property deemed desirable in the transaction of its business," was held to have power to make a valid and binding contract for the purchase of shares of its own stock. The Iowa Lumber Co. v. Foster et al., 49 Id., 25.

SEC. 1060. As substituted by ch. 23, 17th g. a.) [Articles to be recorded.]

"[Previous to commencing any business, except that of their own organization, they must adopt articles of incorporation, which must be signed and acknowledged by the incorporators, and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county where the principal place of business is to be, in a book kept therefor; the recorder must record such articles as aforesaid, within five days after the same are filed in his office, and certify thereon the time when the same was filed in his office, and the book and page where the record thereof will be found. The said articles and certificate of recorder shall be then recorded in the office of the secretary of state, in a book kept for that purpose."

The filing of articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state is not essential to the validity of a corporation, nor will the failure to file them render the private property of stockholders liable for the debts of the corporation. First Nat. Bank of Davenport v. Davis, 43 Id., 424. DAY and ADAMS, JJ., contra.

SEC. 1061. As amended by ch. 57, 21st g. a.) [Highest amount of indebtedness fixed.]

"[Such articles of incorporation must fix the highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any one time to be subject, which must in no case, except in that of risks of insurance companies, exceed two-thirds of its capital stock. Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the debentures of bonds of any company, duly incorporated under the provisions of this chapter, the payment of which debentures or bonds shall be secured by an actual transfer of real estate securities for the benefit and protection of purchasers of said debentures or bonds, such securities to be at least equal in amount to the par value of such bonds or debentures, and to be first liens upon unencumbered real estate worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon."

NOTICE PUBLISHED.

SEC. 1062. As substituted by ch. 23, 17th g. a.) [For what time.]

A notice must also be published, for four weeks in succession, in some newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business.

SEC. 1063. Such notice must contain:

1. The name of the corporation and its principal place of transacting business;
2. The general nature of the business to be transacted;
3. The amount of capital stock authorized, and the times and conditions on which it is to be paid in;
4. The time of the commencement and termination of the corporation;
5. By what officers or persons the affairs of the corporation are to be conducted, and the times at which they will be elected;
6. The highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself;
7. Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts.

SEC. 1064. As substituted by ch. 23, 17th g. a.) [When it may commence business.]

The corporation may commence business as soon as "the articles are filed in the office of the recorder of deeds, and their doings shall be valid if the publication in a newspaper is made, and articles recorded in the office of the secretary of state within three months from such filing in the recorder's office."

SEC. 1065. As amended by ch. 88, 22d g. a.) [Change of articles.]

That any of the provisions of the articles of incorporation may be changed at any annual meeting of the stockholders or special meeting called for that purpose; but said changes shall not be valid unless recorded and published as the original articles are required to be; and said changes in the articles need only be signed and acknowledged by the officers of said corporation.

Sec. 1066. [Dissolution.]—No corporation can be dissolved prior to the period fixed in the articles of incorporation, except by unanimous consent, unless a different rule has been adopted in their articles.

Sec. 1067. [Notice of.]—The same period of newspaper publication must precede any premature dissolution of a corporation as is required at its creation.

Sec. 1068. [Individual property made liable.]—A failure to comply substantially with the foregoing requisitions in relation to organization and publicity, renders the individual property of the stockholders liable for the corporate debts. But this section shall not be deemed applicable to railway corporations and corporations, and stockholders in railway companies shall be liable only for the amount of stock held by them in said companies.

A failure to comply with the requirements of sections 1161 and 1163 of the revision, was held not to render the private property of the stockholders liable for the debts of the corporation as contemplated in section 1166 of the revision (section 1063 of the code). McKellar v. Stout, 14 Iowa, 359.

The Davenport Railway Construction Company, organized for the purpose of furnishing materials for building and equipping railways, is a railway corporation within the meaning of the statute, exempting stockholders from liability beyond the amount of their stock. First Nat. Bank of Davenport v. Davies, 43 Id., 424; Langan & Noble v. The I. & N. Const. Co., 49 Id., 317, 324.

The word "and" in section 1068 of the code should read as "or," and stockholders of a corporation are held liable where there is a failure to comply substantially with the requirements of the statute with respect to organization or publicity. Eisfield v. Kenworth et al., 50 Id., 389.

The failure to publish a notice of incorporation is a failure subjecting the stockholders of the corporation to individual liability. Id.

Stockholders in a corporation which has failed to comply with the requirements of the law necessary to render their property exempt from the corporate debts are primarily liable for such debts, and may be sued without the property of the organization being first exhausted. Marshall v. Harris et al., 55 Id., 182.

DURATION.

Sec. 1069. [How renewed.]—Corporations for the construction of any work of internal improvement, or for the business of life insurance, may be formed to endure fifty years; those formed for other purposes cannot exceed twenty years in duration; but in either case they may be renewed, from time to time, for periods not greater respectively than was at first permissible, if three-fourths of the votes cast at any regular election for that purpose be in favor of such renewal, and if those wishing a renewal will purchase the stock of those opposed to the renewal at its fair current value.

By this section, the duration of a corporation, organized for any other purpose than the construction of works of internal improvement, cannot exceed twenty years. After the lapse of that time from its organization, it must expire by limitation of law, although its articles provide for a longer duration. Per Day, J., in Union Agricultural & Stock Association v. Neill, 51 Iowa, 95.

Whether the provisions of this section limiting the life of corporations for pecuniary profit apply to religious corporations, quære? Byers et al. v. McCartney et al., 62 Iowa, 339.

Sec. 1070. [For agricultural, horticultural, and cemetery purposes.]—Corporations for agricultural and horticultural purposes, and cemetery associations, may be formed to endure any length of time that may be provided in the articles of incorporation; but the general assembly may, at any session, fix a time when all such corporations shall be dissolved. Such corporations shall not own to exceed nine sections of land, and the improvements and necessary personal property for the proper management thereof; and the articles of incorporation shall provide a mode by which any member may, at any time, withdraw therefrom, and also the mode of determining the amount to be received by such member upon withdrawal and for the payment thereof to such member, subject only to the rights of the creditors of such corporation.

FRAUD, CONSEQUENCES OF.

Sec. 1071. [Penalty for.]—Intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or in deceiving the public or individuals in relation to their means or their liabilities, shall subject those guilty thereof to fine and imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who has sustained injury from such fraud, may also recover damages therefor against those guilty of participating in such fraud.

In an action for damages under this section against an officer or stockholder of a corporation, for failure to comply with the articles of incorporation, it must be averred and shown what particular article defendant has failed to comply with, wherein he failed to comply, and that such failure was with intent to defraud. White v. Hosford, 37 Iowa, 596.

So, also, if it is claimed that the defendants intended to deceive the public or individuals in relation to the means and liabilities of the corporation, the particular act or acts done in this respect must be alleged. In either case it must appear that the plaintiff has sustained damages by reason of the fraudulent acts complained of. Id.

Fraud must be established to authorize the recovery of damages against members of a corporation under this section of the code; it does not give a right of action for negligence or mismanagement. Hoffman v. Dickey et al., 54 Id., 135.

In order to hold a stockholder of a corporation liable for intentional fraud, sufficient to show an intention to deceive, there must have been some act fraudulently done with that intent. Miller v. Bradish, 69 Id., 278.

In an action for damages on account of false representations inducing the purchase of corporate stock, where the defendants are alleged to be officers of the corporation, held, that the presumption of innocence which obtains in criminal and penal cases does not obtain in defendant's favor, and that a preponderance of the evidence is all that is required to justify a recovery. Fayville et al. v. Shehan et al., 68 Id., 241.

Sec. 1072. [Diversion of funds deemed a fraud.]—The diversion of the funds of the corporation to other objects than those mentioned in their articles and in the notices published as aforesaid, if any person be thereby injured, and the payment of dividends which leave insufficient funds to meet the liabilities of the corporation, shall be deemed such frauds as will subject those therein concerned to the penalties of the preceding section, and such dividends, or their equivalent, in the hands of individual stock-holders shall be subject to said liabilities.

The funds contemplated in sections 1071 and 1072 must be proved in order to make the stockholders of an impecunious corporation individually liable. Fraud will not be presumed. Spence & Garlick v. Iowa Valley Construction Co., 36 Iowa, 407, 411.

The officers of a corporation are chargeable with fraud if they shall receive in payment for stock property at a valuation known to be in excess of its real value, and thereon shall issue paid-up certificates of stock. Osgood & Moss v. King, 42 Id., 478.

Where money borrowed by a corporation is misappropriated by the officers, the lender, in the absence of any participation in the fraud, will not be affected thereby, and such misappropriation constitutes no defense to an action for the recovery of the money loaned, either on behalf of the corporation or a stockholder. Thompson v. Lambert, 44 Id., 239.

If the stockholders or any of them shall have been cognizant of such misapplication of the funds borrowed by the corporation, and shall have participated in any advantages resulting therefrom, they will be estopped from afterward setting up such misapplication as a defense in an action by the lender against the corporation to recover his money. Id.

It is the duty of the stockholders to take immediate steps, upon learning of the misapplication of corporate funds, to prevent it, and if, with knowledge of the illegal act, they remain silent and permit it to be carried into effect, they are bound thereby. Id.

The doctrine of ultra vires will be applied to the contracts of private corporations only when such contracts remain wholly executory. Id.

The word "funds" as used in this section, includes all the resources of a corporation, and not merely the cash on hand. So that the statute is not violated by the payment of dividends when the cash on hand is not sufficient to meet liabilities, if the entire resources of the corporation are sufficient for that purpose. Miller v. Bradish, 69 Id., 278.
The word "liability," as used in this section, means existing indebtedness, the payment of which can be enforced, and does not include the capital stock of the corporation. Id.

SEC. 1073. [Insurance companies.]—Dividends by insurance companies, made in good faith before their knowledge of the happening of actual losses, are not intended to be prevented or punished by the provisions of the preceding section.

SEC. 1074. [Forfeiture of.]—Either such failure, or the practice of fraud in the manner hereinbefore mentioned, shall cause a forfeiture of all the privileges hereby conferred, and the courts may proceed to wind up the business of the corporation by an information in the manner prescribed by law.

SEC. 1075. [Penalty for keeping false books.]—The intentional keeping of false books or accounts by any corporation, whereby any one is injured, is a misdemeanor on the part of those concerned therein, and any person shall be presumed to be concerned therein whose duty it was to see that the books and accounts were correctly kept.

SEC. 1076. [By-laws posted.]—A copy of the by-laws of the corporation, with the name of all its officers appended thereto, must be posted in the principal places of business, and be subject to public inspection.

SEC. 1077. [Amount of capital stock and indebtedness posted.]—A statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital actually paid in, and the amount of the indebtedness in a general way, must also be kept posted up in a like manner; which statement must be corrected as often as any material change takes place in relation to any part of the subject matter of such statement.

See McKeller v. Stout, cited in note to section 1068, ante.

A failure to comply with the requirements of sections 1076 and 1077 of the code does not render the private property of the stockholders liable for the debts of the corporation. Langan & Noble v. The I. & M. Const. Co. et al., 49 Id., 317. Nor are they so liable for a failure to comply with the provisions of section 1078, respecting the manner of keeping the books of the corporation. Id.

SEC. 1078. [Transfer of shares: when valid.]—The transfer of shares is not valid, except as between the parties thereto, until it is regularly entered on the books of the company, so as to show the name of the person by, and to whom transferred, the numbers or other designation of the shares and the date of the transfer; but such transfer shall not in any way exempt the person making it from any liability of said corporation created prior thereto. The books of the company must be so kept as to show intelligibly the original stockholders, their respective interests, the amount paid on their shares, and all transfers thereof; and such books, or a correct copy thereof, so far as the items mentioned in this section are concerned, shall be subject to the inspection of any person desiring the same.

This section is intended as a protection to the corporation, and is designed to apply only where the sale and transfer of the stock in some way conflicts with the corporate interest. It has no application to a case of a garnishment of the company in an action against a stockholder by a third party. Mooer v. Walker et al., 46 Iowa, 164 (169).

A by-law of a corporation which provides that transfer of stock shall not be valid unless approved by the board of directors, while it may be enforced as a reasonable regulation for the protection of the corporation against the transfer of stock to irresponsible persons, cannot be made available to defeat the rights of third persons. The F. & M. Bank, etc. v. Wasson, 48 Id., 336.

The directors of a corporation have no power to issue stock for less than its par value, or with an understanding that the unpaid balance shall not be called for; and to do so is a fraud upon the law, the other stockholders and the creditors of the company, and the transaction will not be sustained, but the persons so securing the stock will be liable for the unpaid balance in an action by a creditor of the corporation, under §§ 1082 and 1084 of the code. And it is not necessary to such liability that the holder of the stock so issued should have subscribed for the same, for his acceptance of the stock, with knowledge of the facts, is sufficient to create the liability. Nor is the rule different where the corporation is insolvent, and its stock of, at most, doubtful value, and the stock is issued to a creditor in settlement of a demand which it had no other means of paying. Accordingly, in this case, where a railway company was indebted to a construction company in the sum of $70,000, which it was unable to pay, and, in satisfaction of the debt, it issued to the construction company certificates of stock of the face value of $350,000, which shares were distributed among the members of the construction company, held that such members were stockholders, the same as if they had subscribed for the stock and paid 20 per cent thereon, and that they were liable, under the statute, to a creditor of the corporation, to the extent of the unpaid 80 per cent of the par value of the stock,—the $70,000 debt, paid by the stock issued, being only 20 per cent of the par value of the $350,000 of stock so issued. Jackson v. Traer et al., 64 Id., 469.

A transfer of corporate stock is not valid as against attaching creditors of the assignor without notice, unless the transfer is entered on the books of the company, as provided in this section of the code. The Fort Madison Lumber Co. v. Batavian Bank et al., 71 Id., 270.

SEC. 1079. [Forfeiture of franchise by non-user.—]—Any corporation organized in accordance with the provisions of this chapter shall cease to exist by the non-user of its franchises for two years at any one time, but such body shall not forfeit its franchises by reason of its omission to elect officers, or to hold meetings at any time prescribed by the articles of incorporation or by-laws, provided such act be done within two years of the time appointed therefor.

SEC. 1080. [Expiration of.—]—Corporations, whose charters expire by their own limitation, or the voluntary act of the stockholders, may, nevertheless, continue to act for the purpose of winding up their concerns.

The sale of a railroad by a corporation might amount to a voluntary dissolution, yet it would survive to the extent of its rights, and obligations growing out of the voting of a tax in aid of the road could be enforced. The Muscatine Western R. R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa, 33.

A dissolution by the voluntary act of its stockholders does not take away the power of a corporation to act in closing up its affairs, nor the right of a creditor to relief in equity, at least from the inevitable consequences of such dissolution. Muscatine Turn Verein v. Funk et al., 18 Id., 469.

SEC. 1081. [May create sinking fund.—]—For the purpose of repairs, rebuilding, or enlarging, or to meet contingencies, or for the purpose of a sinking fund, the corporation may establish a fund which they may loan, and in relation to which they may take the proper securities.

PRIVATE PROPERTY LIABLE FOR CORPORATION DEBTS.

SEC. 1082. [Individual liability.—]—Neither anything in this chapter contained, nor any provisions in the articles of incorporation, shall exempt the stockholders from individual liability to the amount of the unpaid installments on the stock owned by them, or transferred by them for the purpose of defrauding creditors, and execution against the company may, to that extent, be levied upon the private property of any such individual.

Under this section stockholders are individually liable for the corporate debts to the amount of their unpaid installments on stock owned by them, and an execution against the corporation to the extent of such unpaid installments may be levied upon their private property. Per Baldwin, Ch. J., in Bailey v. Dubuque W. R. R. Co., 13 Iowa, 98.

Where the subscriber to the capital stock of a corporation is sought to be held liable on a judgment against the corporation to the amount of his unpaid subscription under this section, he cannot set off against the judgment what the corporation may owe him for services, rent of property, etc. Singer, Munick & Co. v. Green, 61 Id., 94.

The right of action which sections 1082, 1083, 1084 of the code give to the creditor of a corporation against a stockholder, to the extent of the unpaid balance due upon stock, accrues whenever it is clear that the corporation has no property from which the claim may be collected, and not from the time judgment is recovered against the corporation. Such judgment is not necessary for the beginning of an action against the stockholder, though it may be necessary as evidence in such action to determine the measure of recovery. Reed and Adams, JJ., dissenting. First Nat. Bank v. Greene, 64 Id., 445. See also Jackson v. Traer et al., Id., 470.

The directors of a corporation have no power to issue stock for less than its par value, or with an understanding that the unpaid balance shall not be called for; and to do so is a fraud upon the law, the other stockholders, and the creditors of the corporation, and the transactions will not be sustained, but the persons so securing the stock will be liable for the unpaid balance in an action.
by a creditor of the corporation under sections 1082 and 1084 of the code. Jackson v. Trear et al., 64 Id., 409.

Where a corporation was organized for the manufacture of a patented article, and the amount of the capital stock $10,000, all of which was taken by defendants in exchange for their interest in the patent, which proved to be worthless, held that defendants were personally liable to the creditors of the corporation to the extent of the stock so taken by them severally, under sections 1082 and 1084 of the code. Christholm Bros. v. Forney et al.; Canterbury v. Same; Morse & Co. v. Same, 65 Id., 388.

SEC. 1083. [For corporate debts.—] In none of the cases contemplated in this chapter can the private property of the stockholders be levied upon for the payment of corporate debts, while corporate property can be found with which to satisfy the same; but it will be sufficient proof that no property can be found, if an execution has issued on a judgment against the corporation, and a demand has been thereon made of some one of the last acting officers of the body for property on which to levy, and if he neglects to point out any such property.

SEC. 1084. [How enforced.—] Before any stockholder can be charged with the payment of a judgment rendered by a corporate debt, an action shall be brought against him, in any stage of which he may point out corporate property subject to levy; and upon his satisfying the court of the existence of such property, by affidavit or otherwise, the cause may be continued, or execution against him stayed, until the property can be levied upon and sold, and the court may subsequently render judgment for any balance which there may be after disposing of the corporate property; but, if a demand of property has been made as contemplated in the preceding section, the costs of said action shall, in any event, be paid by the company or the defendant therein, but he shall not be permitted to controvert the validity of the judgment rendered against the corporation, unless it was rendered through fraud and collusion.

Before a stockholder can be charged with the payment of a judgment rendered against the corporation of which he is a stockholder, a proceeding by ordinary action must be instituted against him, and his liability determined therein. Bayliss v. Swift et al., 40 Iowa, 648.

After judgment has been rendered against the stockholder for the amount of his liability, an execution issued against the corporation may, to the extent of the stockholder’s liability, be levied upon his private property. Id.

Unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock of a corporation constitute a trust fund for the benefit of creditors, and the officers of the corporation cannot, by any agreement or arrangement with the stockholders, release them from the obligation of payment, to the prejudice of creditors. Osgood & Moss v. King, 42 Id., 478. See The County of Wapello v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 44 Id., 601.

It is competent for the court, under section 1084, to render judgment against the delinquent subscriber to the capital stock of a corporation in an action founded upon a judgment against the corporation. Singer, Nimick & Co. v. Given, 61 Id., 94.

SEC. 1085. [Stockholder may sue corporation.—] When the private property of a stockholder is taken for a corporate debt, he may maintain an action against the corporation for indemnity, and against any of the other stockholders for contribution.

SEC. 1086. [Franchise sold on execution.—] The franchise of a corporation may be levied upon under execution and sold, but the corporation shall not become thereby dissolved, and no dissolution of the original corporation shall affect the franchise, and the purchaser becomes vested with all the powers of the corporation therefor. Such franchise shall be sold without appraisement.

SEC. 1087. [Books produced.—] In any proceeding by or against a corporation, or against a stockholder, to charge his private property or the dividends received by him, the court is invested with power to compel the officers to produce the books of the corporation, on the motion of either party, upon a proper cause being shown for that purpose.

SEC. 1088. [Single person may incorporate.—] A single individual may entitle himself to all the advantages of this chapter, provided he complies substantially with all its requirements, omitting those which from the nature of the case are inapplicable.
Sec. 1089. [Want of legal organization can not be set up.]—No body of men acting as a corporation under the provisions of this chapter shall be permitted to set up the want of a legal organization as a defense to an action against them as a corporation; nor shall any person sued on a contract made with such a corporation, or sued for an injury to its property, or a wrong done to its interest, be permitted to set up a want of such legal organization in his defense.

An action brought by a corporation cannot be defeated on the ground that its officers were not legally elected. The corporation still exists notwithstanding the illegal election. Carrothers v. The M. Mineral Spring Co. et al., 61 Iowa, 691.

A bequest is included within the proper definition of the term "contract," and when the will is admitted to probate, it is to be regarded as a contract of record. It follows, therefore, under this section, that when a corporation seeks to enforce a bequest in a will duly admitted to probate, its claims cannot be resisted on the grounds that it was not legally organized; and it makes no difference that the corporation is defendant in the action, and is seeking to maintain the bequest against the assaults of the plaintiffs, who are urging against the validity of the bequest the want of legal organization in the corporation. Quinn et al. v. Shields et al., 62 Id., 129.

Whether the provisions of this section, which is found in chapter one, under the title, "Corporations," and which treats of corporations for pecuniary profit, are applicable also to a body of men acting as a religious corporation, treated of under chapter two of said title, quies. Kirkpatrick v. The U. F. Church of Keota, 63 Id., 372.

Sec. 1090. [Legislative control of.]—The articles of incorporation, by-laws, rules and regulations of corporations hereafter organized under the provisions of this title, or whose organization may be adopted or amended hereunder, shall, at all times, be subject to legislative control, and may be, at any time, altered, abridged, or set aside by law, and every franchise obtained, used or enjoyed by such corporation, may be regulated, withheld, or be subject to conditions imposed upon the enjoyment thereof, whenever the general assembly shall deem necessary for the public good.

Every state has the power to reserve control over its own corporations—those created under its laws. Iowa has done this by this section to a certain extent, but this does not prevent foreign corporations from transacting all ordinary business in this state, nor does it indicate that the statute should be so construed as to prevent them, under proper regulation, from condemning private property. Dodge v. The City of Council Bluffs, 57 Iowa, 590, 595.

(C)orporations for pECUNIARY pROFIT LEGALIZED.

An act to legalize corporations for pecuniary profit, organized under the provisions of chapter 52, of the revision of 1860, as amended by chapter 172, of the acts of the thirteenth general assembly.

SECTION 1. [Failing to have articles filed in time prescribed by law.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the acts, proceedings, doings and contracts of all incorporations for pecuniary profit, organized under the provisions of chapter fifty-two of the revision, as amended by chapter one hundred and seventy-two of the acts of the thirteenth general assembly, which have organized since the taking effect of said chapter one hundred and seventy-two, which have failed to have their articles of incorporation filed in the office of the secretary of state within three months from the time such articles were filed in the office of the recorder of deeds, are hereby legalized and made valid in all respects the same as if such articles had been filed as provided in said chapter 172; provided, such articles shall have been filed in the office of the secretary of state prior to the passage of this act.
SEC. 2. [Not to relieve against prior contracts.]-That nothing in this act shall be construed so as to relieve such corporation[s] from the fulfillment of all contracts made prior to the taking effect of this act, or to relieve individual members thereof from liability to the amount of unpaid installments on stock owned by them, or transferred by them for the purpose of defrauding creditors.

An Act to relieve corporations engaged in manufacturing, from double taxation in certain cases.

SECTION 1. [Corporations for pecuniary profit to list as individuals.]-Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That corporations organized under the laws of this state for pecuniary profit, and engaged in manufacturing, as defined by section 816 of the code, and which have their capital represented by shares of stock, shall, through their principal accounting offices, list their real estate, personal property, and moneys and credits, in the same manner as is required of individuals; and their machinery used in their manufacturing establishments shall, for the purpose of this act, be regarded as real estate.

SEC. 2. [Capital stock exempt from taxation.]-The owners of capital stock of manufacturing companies, as herein provided for, having listed their property as above directed, shall be exempt from assessment and taxation.

Approved March 17, 1880.

An Act requiring foreign corporations to file their articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, and imposing certain conditions upon such corporations transacting business in this state.

SECTION 1. [Corporations for pecuniary profit must file articles.]-Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That hereafter any corporation for pecuniary profit other than for carrying on mercantile or manufacturing business organized under the laws of any other state or of any territory of the United States or of any foreign country desiring to transact its business, or to continue in the transaction of its business in this state, shall be and hereby is required, on and after September [first] A. D. 1886, to file with the secretary of state a certified copy of its articles of incorporation duly attested, accompanied by a resolution of its board of directors or stockholders, authorizing the filing thereof, and also authorizing service of process to be made upon any of its officers or agents in this state engaged in transacting its business, and requesting the issuance to such corporation of a permit to transact business in this state. Said application to contain a stipulation that said permit shall be subject to each of the provisions of this act. And thereupon the secretary of state shall issue such corporation a permit in such form as he may prescribe for the general transaction of the business of such corporation. And upon the receipt of such permit such corporation shall be permitted and authorized to conduct and carry on its business in this state. Provided that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prevent any foreign corporations from buying, selling, and otherwise dealing in notes, bonds, mortgages, and other securities, or from enforcing the collection of the same, in the federal courts, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as is now authorized by law.

Sec. 2. [Compliance with this act necessary to secure corporate privileges.]—No foreign corporation which has not in good faith complied with the provisions of this act, and taken out a permit, shall hereafter be authorized to exercise the power of eminent domain or exercise any of the rights and privileges conferred upon corporations until they have so complied herewith and taken out such permit.

Sec. 3. [Removal of cause to another state voids corporate permit.]—Any foreign corporation sued or impleaded in any of the courts of this state upon any contract made or executed in this state or to be performed in this state, or for any act or omission, public or private, arising, originating, or happening in the state, who shall remove any such cause from such state court into any of the federal courts held or sitting in this state, for the cause that such corporation is a non-resident of this state or a resident of another state than that of the adverse party, or of local prejudice against such corporation, shall thereupon forfeit and render null and void any permit issued or authority granted to such corporation to transact business in this state; such forfeiture to be determined from the record of removal, and to date from the date of filing of the application on which such removal is affected, and whenever any corporation shall thus forfeit its said permit no new permit shall be issued to it for the space of three months, unless the executive council shall for satisfactory reasons cause it to be issued sooner.

Sec. 4. [Penalty for non-compliance with this act.]—Any foreign corporation that shall carry on its business and transact the same on and after September 1, 1886, in the state of Iowa, by its officers, agents, or otherwise, without having complied with this statute and taken out, and having a valid permit, shall forfeit and pay to the state for each and every day in which such business is transacted and carried on the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) to be recovered by suit in any court having jurisdiction. And any agent, officer or employee who shall knowingly act or transact such business for such corporation when it has no valid permit as provided herein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each offense shall be fined not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100) or imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed thirty days and pay all costs of prosecution.

Sec. 5. [Repealing clause.]—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed; provided, that nothing contained in this act shall relieve any company, corporation, association or partnership from the performance of any duty or obligation now enjoined upon them or required of them or either of them by the laws now in force.

Approved April 6, 1886.

The foregoing chapter 76, laws of 1886, requiring all foreign corporations for pecuniary profit, desiring to do business in Iowa, excepting those mentioned in the act, to become domesticated in the state, and to submit to the jurisdiction of the state courts to the exclusion of the federal courts, is not, when applied to foreign railway corporations, repugnant to section 10, of article 1, of the constitution of the United States, or to section 8, article 1 thereof, which gives to congress the power to regulate commerce among the states, nor to the fourteenth amendment of that constitution, or to section 21, of article 1 of the constitution of Iowa, nor is it void as an attempt to interfere with the provision of the United States constitution respecting the jurisdiction of the national courts. Goodrell v. Kreichbaum, Sheriff; Wingate v. Painter, Sheriff; and Barron v. Burnside, Sheriff, 70 Iowa, 362.

These cases were, on appeal to the supreme court of the United States, reversed, that court holding the statute to be in conflict with the constitution of the United States.

When the body corporate consists of the trustees, directors or managers of any benevolent, charitable, literary, scientific, religious or missionary institution, which is or may be established in this state, and which is or may be under the patronage, control, direction or supervision of any synod, conference, association or other ecclesiastical body in such state, established agreeably to the laws thereof, such ecclesiastical body may nominate and appoint such trustees, directors or managers, according to usages of the appointing body, and may fill any vacancy which may occur among such trustees, directors or managers; and when any such institution may be under the patronage, control, direction or supervision of two or more of such synods, conferences, associations or other ecclesiastical bodies, such bodies may severally nominate and appoint such proportion of such trustees, directors or managers as shall be agreed upon by those bodies immediately concerned. And any vacancy occurring among such appointees last named, shall be filled by the synod, conference, association or body having appointed the last incumbent.

In an action against a county upon a contract for the construction of a county bridge, the fact that the board of supervisors entered into the contract for the construction of a bridge of less than the width prescribed by statute will not affect plaintiff's right of action. Mallory v. Montgomery County, 48 Iowa, 681.

SEC. 1102. [Existing societies may reincorporate.]—The trustees, directors or stockholders of any existing benevolent, charitable, scientific, missionary or religious corporation, may, by conforming to the requirements of section ten hundred and ninety-five of this chapter, reincorporate themselves, or continue their existing corporate powers, and all the property and effects of such existing corporation shall vest in and belong to the incorporation so reincorporated or continued.

Sec. 3. [Record.] The change or amendment of the articles of incorporation shall be recorded by the recorder of deeds as the original articles of incorporation are required to be, and the recorder shall make upon the margin of such record a reference to the book and page of the record of such original articles of incorporation; and from and after the date of such act of recording such change or amendment, shall be in full force and effect as the original articles of incorporation so amended.

Sec. 4. [Rights and powers of corporations continued.]—The corporation by its new name or with such amended articles of incorporation or certificate shall be entitled to all the rights, powers, immunities and franchises that it possessed before such change or amendment, and shall be liable upon all contracts, obligations, liabilities entered into, incurred, or binding on such corporation by or under the old name or articles of incorporation to the same extent and manner as though no such change or amendment had been made.

Home for the Friendless.

An Act to confer certain powers upon any home for the friendless incorporated under the laws of Iowa, in relation to the control and disposition of minor children who become inmates thereof.

Section 1. [Shall have authority to receive and dispose of minors.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That any home for the friendless, incorporated under the laws of this state, shall have authority to receive, control and dispose of minor children, under the following provisions: In case of the death or legal incapacity of a father, or in case of his abandoning or neglecting to provide for his children, the mother shall be considered their legal guardian for the purpose of making surrender of them to the charge and custody of such corporation; and in all cases where the person or persons legally authorized to act as the guardian or guardians of any child, are not known, the mayor of the town or city where such "home" is located, may, in his discretion, surrender such child to said "home."

Sec. 2. [If parents are drunkards, etc., etc.].—In case it shall be shown to any judge of a court of record, or to the mayor, or to any justice of the peace within such city or town, that the father of any child is dead, or has abandoned his family, or is an habitual drunkard, or imprisoned for crime, and the mother of such child is an habitual drunkard, or is in prison for crime, or is an inmate of a house of ill-fame, or is dead, or has abandoned her family, or that the parents of any child have abandoned or neglected to provide for it, then such judge, mayor or justice of the peace may, if he thinks the welfare of the child requires it, surrender such child to said "home."

Sec. 3. [Upon complaint child may be sent to "home."]—Whenever complaint shall be made to the judge of any court of record, or to the mayor, or any justice of the peace in the city or town where said "home" is located, that any girl under the age of 14 years, or boy under the age of 12 years, is abandoned by, or is sustaining relations to his or her parents or guardians, mentioned or contemplated in section two hereof, it shall be the duty of such judge, mayor or justice to issue a warrant for the arrest of such child, and if on testimony satisfactory to said judge, mayor or justice, it shall appear that such child has no parents, or is abandoned by its parents or guardians, as contemplated in section two of this act, the said mayor, judge or justice may, if he believes the best interest of the child requires it, surrender such child to the care of said "home."

The right of appeal, within twenty days, to the district or circuit court, from the judgment of any mayor or justice of the peace shall be secured; and in any hearing before a court of record the party charged may have a trial by jury as is provided by law.

Sec. 4. [Habeas corpus.].—Upon hearing of any habeas corpus for the custody of any child, it appears that such child has been surrendered to said "home," under the provisions of this act, such surrender shall be taken by all courts of justice as presumptive that such child was legally and properly surrendered to said "home."
and that said "home" was entitled to the custody and guardianship of such child under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 5. ["Home" shall be legal guardian.].—Such home for the friendless shall be the legal guardian of the persons of all children that shall be surrendered to it under the provisions of this act, and shall have and exercise all the right and authority of the parents of such children, under the provision of chapters 6 and 7, title 15 of the code of Iowa, and amendments thereto, regulating the apprenticing and adoption of children.

Sec. 6. [Religious instruction.].—If religious instruction is given any child while an inmate of such home, it shall be in the religious faith of the parents of such child, if the same be known; and when any home shall dispose of the custody of any child, it shall be to some person and of the same religious faith as its parents, unless the parent or former guardian consent otherwise.

Sec. 1118. [District and county societies.]—Such society shall encourage the organization of district and county societies and give them representation therein, and in every proper way further the fruit and tree-growing interests of the state.

CHAPTER 4.
OF INSURANCE COMPANIES.

SECTION 1122. [How formed: notice: certificate: attorney-general.]—When any number of persons associate themselves together for the purpose of forming an insurance company, or for any other purpose than life insurance, under the provisions of chapter one of this title, they shall publish a notice of such intention, once in each week for four weeks, in some public newspaper in the county in which such insurance company is proposed to be located; and they shall also make a certificate, under their hands, specifying the name assumed by such company, and by which it shall be known, the object for which said company shall be formed, the amount of its capital stock, and the place where the principal office of said company shall be located; which certificate shall be acknowledged before and certified by some notary public, or clerk of a court of record, and forwarded to the auditor of state, who shall submit the same to the attorney-general for examination, and if it shall be found by the attorney-general to be in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and not in conflict with the constitution and laws of the United States, and of this state, he shall make a certificate of the fact and return it to the auditor of state, who shall reject the name or title applied for by any company when he shall deem the same too similar to any one already appropriated by any other company, or likely to mislead the public.

SEC. 1123. [Approval of certificate: the same recorded: powers.]—When the certificate of said company shall have received the approval of the attorney-general and auditor of state, the company shall cause the same to be recorded as required by law for recording articles of incorporation; and said persons, when incorporated, and having in all respects complied with the provisions of this chapter, are hereby authorized to carry on the business of insurance as named in such certificate of incorporation, and by the name and style provided therein, and shall be deemed a body corporate with succession; they and their associates, successors and assigns, to have the same general corporate powers, and be subject to all the obligations and restrictions of said chapter one of this title, except as may be herein otherwise provided.

CAPITAL REQUIRED.

SEC. 1124. [Amounts: shares: notes, etc.]—No joint stock company shall be incorporated under the provisions of this chapter with a smaller capital than fifty thousand dollars, or a larger one than one million dollars, as may be specified in the certificate of incorporation, which stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, of which capital not less than twenty-five per cent, and in no case less than twenty-five thousand dollars, shall be paid up in cash. The balance of the capital of said company may consist of the bonds or notes of the stockholders; nor shall any company, on the plan of mutual insurance, commence business in this state until agreements have been entered into for insurance with at least two hundred applicants, the premiums upon which shall amount to not less than twenty-five thousand dollars; of which at least five thousand dollars shall have been paid in actual cash, and for the remainder of which, notes of solvent parties, founded upon actual application for insurance made in good faith, shall have been received. No one of the notes received as aforesaid, shall amount to more than five hundred dollars; and no two thereof shall be given for the same risk, or made by the same person or firm, except where the whole amount of such notes does not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars; nor shall any note be regarded or represented as capital stock, unless a policy be issued upon the same within thirty days after the organization of the company taking the same, upon a risk that shall be for no shorter period than twelve months. Each of said notes shall be payable, in whole or in part, at any time when the directors shall deem the same requisite for the payment of losses by fire or inland navigation, and such incidental expenses as may be necessary for transacting the business of said company. And no note shall be accepted as part of such capital stock, unless the same shall be accompanied by a certificate of a justice of the peace, notary public or clerk of the district court of the county in which the person executing such note shall reside, that the person making the same is, in his opinion, pecuniarily good and responsible for the same, in property not exempt from execution by the laws of their state; and no such note shall be surrendered while the policy for which it was given continues in force.

SEC. 1125. [Subscription books opened.]—Having published the notice, and filed the publisher's affidavit of the publication thereof with the auditor of state, together with the certificate required by section eleven hundred and twenty-two of this chapter, the persons named in the certificate of incorporation, or a majority of them, shall be commissioners to open books for the subscription of stock to the company, at such times and places as to them may seem convenient and proper, and shall keep the same open until the full amount specified in the certificate is subscribed; or, in case the business of said company is proposed to be conducted on the plan of mutual insurance, then to open books to receive propositions and enter into agreements in the manner and to the extent specified in section eleven hundred and twenty-four of this chapter.

DIRECTORS—OFFICERS.

SEC. 1126. [Election of and number.]—The affairs of any company organized under the provisions of this chapter shall be managed by not more than twenty-one, nor by less than five directors, all of whom shall be stockholders. Within thirty days after the subscription books shall have been filled, a majority of the subscribers shall hold a meeting for the election of directors—each share entitling the holder thereof to one vote; and the directors then elected shall continue in office until their successors have been duly chosen and have accepted the trust.

SEC. 1127. [Annual meeting of.]—The annual meetings for the election of directors shall be holden during the month of January, at such time as the by-laws of the company may direct; provided, however, that if for any cause the stockholders shall fail to elect at any annual meeting, then they may hold a special meeting some day subsequent thereto for that purpose, by giving thirty days' notice thereof in some newspaper in general circulation in the county in which the principal office of the company shall be located, and the directors chosen at any such annual or special meeting shall continue in office until the next annual meeting, and until their successors, duly elected, shall have accepted.

SEC. 1128. [Elect a president and fill all vacancies.]—The directors shall choose, by ballot, a president from their own number, and shall fill all vacancies which shall arise in the board or in the presidency thereof; and the board of directors thus constituted, or a majority of them, when convened at the office of the company, shall be competent to exercise all the powers vested in them by this chapter.

SEC. 1129. [Appoint officers and establish by-laws.]—The directors of any such company shall have power to appoint a secretary, and any other officers or agents necessary for transacting the business of the company, paying such salaries and taking such securities as they may deem reasonable; they may ordain and establish such by-laws and regulations, not inconsistent with this chapter, or with the constitution and laws of the United States, and of this state, as shall appear to them necessary for regulating and conducting the business of the company; and they shall keep full and correct entries of their transactions, which shall, at all times, be open to the inspection of the stockholders, and to the inspection of persons invested by law with the right thereof.

INVESTMENTS—EXAMINATION—INSURANCE.

SEC. 1130. [Funds invested: security for loans required.]—It shall be lawful for any insurance company organized under this chapter to invest its capital and the funds accumulated in the course of its business, or any part thereof, in bonds and mortgages on unencumbered real estate within the state of Iowa, worth double the sum loaned thereon, exclusive of buildings, unless such buildings are insured in some responsible company, and the policy transferred to said company, and also in stocks of this state, or stocks or treasury notes of the United States—in the stocks or bonds of any county or incorporated city in this state authorized to be issued by the legislature of this state; and to lend the same, or any part thereof, on the security of such stock or bonds, or treasury notes, or upon bonds and mortgages as aforesaid and not otherwise; and to change and reinvest the same in like securities as occasion may, from time to time, require; but any surplus money over and above the paid up capital stock of any such company organized under this chapter, or incorporated under any law of this state, may be invested in or loaned upon the pledge of the public stock or bonds of the United States, or any one of the states, or the stocks, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness of any solvent, dividend-paying institutions incorporated under the laws of the United States, except their own stock; if the current market value of such stock, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness, shall be at all times, during the continuance of such loans, at least ten per cent more than the sum loaned thereon.

SEC. 1131. [Assets examined by auditor: officers to certify under oath.]—Upon receiving notification that the requirements of the preceding sections have been complied with, the auditor of state shall make an examination, or cause one to be made by some disinterested person officially appointed by him for that purpose; and if it shall be found that the capital herein required of the company named, according to the nature of the business proposed to be transacted by such company, has been paid in and is possessed by it in money, or in such stock, notes, bonds, and mortgages as are required by sections eleven hundred and twenty-four and eleven hundred and thirty of this chapter, then he shall so certify; and if the examination be made by any other than the auditor, then the finding shall be certified under oath, or, if it is proposed to be a mutual insurance company, such certificate shall be to the effect that it has received and is in actual possession of the capital, premiums, or actual engagements of insurance or other securities, as the case may be, to the extent and value required by sections eleven hundred and twenty-four and eleven hundred and thirty of this chapter. The name and residence of the maker of each premium note forming part of the capital of any such proposed mutual insurance company, and the amount of such note, shall be returned to the auditor. The corporators or officers of any such company, or proposed company, shall be required to certify, under oath, to the auditor of state, that the capital exhibited to the person making the examination directed in this section, was, actually and in good faith, the property of the company so examined. The certificates above contemplated shall be filed in the office of said auditor, who shall thereupon deliver to such company a certified copy of the same, with his written permission for them to commence the business proposed in their written certificate of incorporation, which, being recorded by the recorder of the county in which the company is to be located, in a book prepared by him for that purpose, shall be their authority to commence business and issue policies; and such certified copy of said certificates may be used in evidence for or against said company with the same effect as the originals.

Sec. 1132. [Kinds of insurance.]—It shall be lawful for any company organized under this chapter, or doing business in this state:
1. To insure houses, buildings and all other kinds of property against loss or damage by fire or other casualty, and to make all kinds of insurance on goods, merchandise, or other property in the course of transportation, whether on land or on water, or any vessel or boat, wherever the same may be;
2. [Health and accident.]—To make insurance on the health of individuals, and against the personal injury, disablement and death, resulting from traveling, or general accidents by land or water;
3. [Fidelity of persons.]—To insure the fidelity of persons holding places of private or public trust;
4. [Personal property.]—To receive on deposit and insure the safe keeping of books, papers, moneys, stocks, bonds and all kinds of personal property;
5. [Live stock.]—To insure horses, cattle and other live stock against loss, or damage by accident, theft or any unknown or contingent event whatever which may be the subject of legal insurance; to lend money on bottomry or respondentia, and to cause itself to be insured against any loss or risk it may have incurred in the course of its business, and upon the interest which it may have in any property, by means of any loan which it may have made on mortgage, bottomry or respondentia, and generally to do and perform all other matters and things proper to promote these objects.

[Confined to one kind of insurance.]—But no company shall be organized to issue policies of insurance for more than one of the above five mentioned purposes, and no company that shall have been organized for either one of said purposes, shall issue policies of insurance for any other; and no company organized under this chapter, or transacting business in this state, shall expose itself to loss on any one risk or hazard to an amount exceeding ten per cent on its paid up capital, unless the excess shall be reinsured by the same in some other good and reliable company. But the restrictions as to the amount of risk any company shall assume, shall not apply to any companies organized to guarantee the fidelity of persons in places of public or private trust, nor to companies that receive on deposit and guarantee the safe keeping of books, papers, moneys and other personal property.

Sec. 1133. [Policies of.]—All policies or contracts of insurance made or entered into by the company, may be made either with or without the seal of said company; but said policies shall be subscribed by the president, or such other officer as may be designated by the directors for that purpose, and shall be attested by the secretary thereof.

Sec. 1134. [Transfer of stock.]—Transfers of stock may be made by any stockholder, or his legal representative, subject to such restrictions as the directors shall establish in their by-laws, except as hereinafter provided.

CAPITAL INCREASED—REAL ESTATE.

Sec. 1135. [How.]—Whenever any company organized under this chapter, with less than the maximum capital limited in section eleven hundred and twenty-four hereof, shall, in the opinion of the directors thereof, require an increased amount of capital, they shall, if authorized by the holders of a majority of the stock to do so, file with the auditor of state a certificate setting forth the amount of such desired increase, not exceeding said maximum, and thereafter such company shall be entitled to have the increased amount of capital fixed by said certificate, and the examination of securities composing the capital stock thus increased, shall be made in the same manner as provided in section eleven hundred and thirty-one of this chapter for the capital stock first paid in.

Sec. 1136. [Dividends: amount of reservation: forfeiture of charter.]—The directors, trustees, or managers of any insurance company organized under this chapter, or incorporated under any law of this state, shall not make any dividends, except from the surplus profit arising from their business; and, in estimating such profits, there shall be reserved therefrom a sum equal to forty per cent of the amount received as premiums on unexpired risks and policies, which amount, so reserved, is hereby declared to be unearned premiums; and there shall also be reserved all sums due the corporation on bond and mortgages, bonds, stocks, and book account, of which no part of the principal or interest thereon has been paid during the year preceding such estimate of profits, and upon which suit for foreclosure or collection has not been commenced, or which, after judgment has been obtained thereon, shall have remained more than two years unsatisfied, and on which interest shall not have been paid; and in case of any such judgment, the interest due or accrued thereon and remaining unpaid, shall also be reserved. Any dividends made contrary to these provisions shall subject the company making it to a forfeiture of their charter.

Sec. 1137. [May own real estate.]—No company organized under this chapter shall purchase, hold, or convey any real estate, save for the purposes and in the manner herein set forth:

1. [For accommodation of business.]—Such as shall be requisite for its convenient accommodation in the transaction of its business;

2. [Mortgaged as security.]—Such as shall have been mortgaged to it in good faith by way of security for loans previously contracted, or for money due;

3. [When taken in satisfaction of debts.]—Such as shall have been conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the legitimate business of the company, or for money due;

4. [When purchased to secure debt.]—Such as shall have been purchased at sales upon judgments, decrees, or mortgages obtained or made for such debt; and it shall not be lawful for any such company to purchase, hold, or convey real estate in any other case, or for any other purpose, or acquired in any other manner, except that it may convey real estate which shall be found in the course of its business not necessary for its convenient accommodation in the transaction thereof; and all such last mentioned real estate shall be sold and conveyed within three years after the same has been deemed by the auditor of state unnecessary for such accommodation, unless the company shall procure a certificate from the said auditor, that the interest of said company will materially suffer by a forced sale, in which event the sale may be postponed for such a period as the said auditor may direct in such certificate.

DEPOSIT NOTES—LOSSES—POLICY.

Sec. 1138. [Mutual companies: notes given at organization of and subsequently.]—All notes deposited with any mutual insurance company at the time of its organization, as provided in section eleven hundred and twenty-four hereof, shall remain as security for all losses and claims until the accumulation of the profits invested, as required by section eleven hundred and thirty of this chapter, shall equal the amount of cash capital required to be possessed by stock companies organized under this chapter, the liability of each note decreasing proportionately as the profits are accumulating, but any note which may have been deposited with any mutual insurance company subsequent to its organization, in addition to the cash premiums on any insurances effected with such company, may at the expiration of the time of such insurance, or upon the cancellation by the company of the policy, be relinquished and given up to the maker thereof, or his legal representatives, upon his paying his proportion of losses and expenses which may have accrued thereon during such term. The directors or trustees of any such company shall have the right to determine the amount of the note to be given, in addition to the cash premium, by any person insured in such company, and every person effecting insurance in any mutual company, and also his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, continuing to be so insured, shall thereby become members of said company during the period of insurance, and shall be bound to pay for losses and such necessary expenses as aforesaid, accruing to said company in proportion to his or their deposit note. But any person insured in any mutual company, except in the case of notes required by this chapter to be deposited at the time of its organization, may at any time return his policy for cancellation, and, upon payment of the amount due at such time upon his premium note, shall be discharged from further liability thereon.

Sec. 1139. [Settlement of losses: to what extent members are liable.]—The directors shall, as often as they deem necessary, after receiving notice of any loss or damage, settle and determine the sums to be paid by the several members thereof as their respective portion of such loss, and publish the same in such manner as they may deem proper, or the by-laws shall have prescribed; but the sum to be paid by each member shall always be in proportion to the original amount of his deposit note, and shall be paid to the officers of the company within thirty days after the publication of said notice; and if any member shall, for the space of thirty days after personal demand, or by letter, for payment shall have been made, neglect or refuse to pay the sum assessed upon him as his proportion of any loss aforesaid, the directors may sue for and recover the whole amount of his deposit note, with costs of suit; but execution shall issue for assessments and costs as they accrue only, and every such execution shall be accompanied by a list of losses for which the assessment was made. If the whole amount of deposit notes shall be insufficient to pay the loss occasioned, the sufferers insured by said company shall receive, toward making good their respective losses, a proportionate share of the whole amount of said notes, according to the sums to them respectively insured; but no member shall ever be required to pay for any loss more than the whole amount of his deposit note.

Sec. 1140. [Policies to show whether it is a mutual or stock company.]—Every insurance company hereafter organized as provided in this chapter, shall, if it be a mutual company, embody the word “mutual” in its title, which shall appear on the first page of every policy and renewal receipt; and every company doing business as a cash stock company shall, upon the face of its policies, express in some suitable manner that such policies were issued by stock companies.

FOREIGN COMPANIES—CAPITAL REQUIRED.

SEC. 1144. (As amended by ch. 145, 21st g. a.) [Amount: prerequisites to insuring.]—No insurance company, association, or partnership, organized or associated for any of the purposes specified in this chapter, incorporated by, or organized under, the laws of any other state or any foreign government, shall, directly or indirectly, take risks or transact any business of insurance in this state, unless possessed of two hundred thousand dollars of actual paid up capital, exclusive of any assets of any such company deposited in any other states or territories for the special benefit or security of the insured therein; [Provided, that the foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply to foreign mutual hail insurance companies issuing policies for a term of one year or less. Provided, further, that foreign companies organized to insure plate glass exclusively, shall not be required to have a greater capital than one hundred thousand dollars]; and any such company, desiring to transact any business as aforesaid, by an agent or agents in this state, shall file with the auditor of state a written instrument, duly signed and sealed, authorizing any agent or agents of such company in this state to acknowledge service of process for and in behalf of such company in this state, consenting that service of process, original, mean, or final, upon any such agent or agents, shall be taken and held as valid as if served upon the company according to the laws of this or any other state, and waiving all claim or right of error, by reason of such acknowledgment or service; and also a certified copy of their charter or deed of settlement, together with a statement, under oath, of the president or vice-president, or other chief officer, and the secretary of the company for which they may act; stating the name of the company and the place where located, the amount of its capital, with a detailed statement of the facts and items required from companies organized under the laws of this state, as per section eleven hundred and forty-one hereof; also a copy of the last annual report, if any, made under any law of the state by which said company was incorporated; and no agent shall be allowed to transact business for any company whose capital is impaired by liabilities as stated in section eleven hundred and forty-one of this chapter, to the extent of twenty per cent thereof, while such deficiency shall continue. Service of the original notice, in an action against an insurance company, may, under this section, be made upon any authorized agent of the company, and the fact that service was made upon an agent in another county than that in which the loss occurred does not constitute "fraud practiced by the successful party" authorizing a vacation of the judgment. The N. Ins. Co. v. Rodecker et al., 47 Iowa, 102.

An Act to prevent the making and publication of false or deceptive statements in relation to the business of fire insurance. [Additional to code, title IX, chapter 4.]

Section 1. [Unlawful for any company or agent to make false statement of assets.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa:

It shall not be lawful for any company, corporation, association, individual or individuals, now transacting, or now or hereafter authorized, under any existing or future laws of this state, to transact the business of fire insurance within this state, to state or represent, either by advertisement in any newspaper, magazine, or periodical, or by any sign, circular, card, policy of insurance, or certificate of renewal thereof, or otherwise, any funds or assets to be in possession of any such company, corporation, association, individual or individuals, not actually possessed by such company, corporation, association, individual or individuals and available for the payment of losses by fire, and held for the protection of holders of policies of fire insurance.

Sec. 2. [Publication of financial standing shall truly exhibit capital, etc.]—Every advertisement or public announcement, and every sign, circular, or card hereafter made or issued by any company, corporation, association, individual or individuals, or any officer, agent, manager or legal representative thereof, now, or hereafter authorized by any existing or future laws of this state, to transact the business of fire insurance within this state, which shall purport to make known the financial standing of any such company, corporation, association, individual or individuals, shall exhibit the capital actually paid in, in cash, and the amount of net surplus of assets over all liabilities of such company, corporation, association, individual or individuals actually available for the payment of losses by fire and held for the protection of holders of their policies of fire insurance, and shall also exhibit the amount of net surplus of assets over all liabilities in the United States actually available for the payment of losses by fire and held in the United States for the protection of holders of their policies of fire insurance in the United States, including in such liabilities the fund reserved for re-insurance of outstanding risks; and shall correspond with the verified statement made by the company, corporation, association, individual or individuals making or issuing the same to the insurance department of this state next preceding the making or issuing the same. The provisions of this section shall not apply to companies, corporations or associations organized and doing business under the laws of this state.

SEC. 3. [Nothing herein to prevent publication of amount of capital in policy.]—Nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit any insurance company or association from publishing in any policy or certificate of renewal thereof a single item showing the amount of their capital as set forth in their charter, act of incorporation, deed of settlement or articles of association under which they are authorized to transact the business of insurance.

SEC. 4. [Penalty for violating provisions of this act.]—Any violation of any provision of this act shall, for the first offense, subject the company, corporation, association, individual or individuals guilty of such violation, to a penalty of five hundred dollars, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the state, with costs and expenses of such prosecution by the district-attorney of any county in which the company, corporation, association, individual or individuals shall be located or may transact business, or in any county where such offense may be committed, and such penalty when recovered shall be paid into the treasury of such county for the benefit of the school fund of said county. Every subsequent violation shall subject the company, corporation, association, individual or individuals guilty of such violation to a penalty of not less than one thousand dollars, which shall be sued for, recovered and disposed of in like manner as for the first offense. Approved March 25, 1878.

RISKS—AGENTS.

SEC. 1145. [Certificate required before risks taken.]—No agent shall act for any insurance company referred to herein, directly or indirectly, in taking risks or transacting business of insurance in this state, without procuring from the auditor of state a certificate of authority, stating that said company had complied with all the requisitions of this chapter.

SEC. 1146. [Make annual statements.]—The statements and evidences of investments required of foreign companies as above, shall be renewed, annually, in such manner and form as required hereby and as said auditor may direct, with any additional statement of the amount of losses incurred or premiums received in this state during the preceding period, so long as such agency continues. And said auditor, on being satisfied that the capital, securities and investments remain secure, as hereinbefore provided, shall furnish a renewal of his certificate as aforesaid. All notes taken for policies of insurance in any company doing business in this state, shall state upon their face that they have been taken for insurance, and shall not be collectible unless the company and its agents have fully complied with the laws of this state relative to insurance.
Where a promissory note, on its face negotiable, was given for insurance, but not so expressed upon its face, and was transferred for value before maturity, it was held collectible in the hands of an innocent holder. Cook v. Weirman, 51 Iowa, 561.

SEC. 1147. [Conform to provisions of this chapter: penalty for failure.]

—Every insurance company organized under the laws of, or doing business in, this state, shall conform to all the provisions of this chapter applicable thereto, and, when necessary, any existing company shall change its charter and by-laws, so as to conform hereto, by a vote of a majority of its board of directors; and any president, secretary, or other officer of any company organized under the laws of Iowa, or any officer or person doing, or attempting to do business in this state for any insurance company organized without this state, failing to comply with any of the requirements of this chapter, or violating any of the provisions thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned in the county jail for a period not less than thirty days nor more than six months. A failure to comply with the provisions of this section, which was taken from chapter 138, laws of 1868, will not prevent an insurance company from indemnifying itself by re-insurance for risks already assumed. The Davenport Fire Insurance Co. v. Moore, 50 Iowa, 619.

SEC. 1148. [Advertisements: what to contain.]

—Every agent of any insurance company shall, in all advertisements of such agency, publish the location of the company, giving the name of the city, town or village in which the company is located, and the state or government under the laws of which it is organized. The term agent, used in the foregoing sections, shall include any other person who shall, in any manner, directly or indirectly, transact the insurance business of any insurance company not incorporated by the laws of this state. The provisions of the foregoing sections relative to foreign companies, shall apply to all such companies, partnerships, associations, or individuals, whether incorporated or not.

EXAMINATION BY AUDITOR.

SEC. 1149. [Auditor may appoint examiners: their powers: proceedings when assets are impaired.]

—The auditor of state shall, whenever he deems it expedient so to do, appoint one or more persons, not officers, agents, or stockholders of any insurance company doing business in this state, to examine into the affairs and condition of any insurance company incorporated or doing business in this state, or to make such examination himself; and the officers or agents of such company or companies shall cause their books to be opened for the inspection of the auditor or the person or persons so appointed, and otherwise facilitate such examination so far as may be in their power so to do; and for the purpose of arriving at the truth in such case, the auditor, or the person or persons so appointed by him, shall have power to examine, under oath, the officers or agents of any company, or others, if necessary, relative to the business and condition of said company; and whenever the auditor shall deem it best for the interest of the public so to do, he shall publish the result of such investigation in one or more papers of this state; and whenever it shall appear to the auditor, from such examination, that the assets and funds of any company incorporated in this state are reduced or impaired by the liabilities of said company, as described under the head of liabilities in the statement required by this chapter, more than twenty per cent below the paid-up capital stock required hereby, he may direct the officers thereof to require the stockholders to pay in the amount of such deficiency, within such a period as he may designate in such requisition, or he shall communicate the fact to the attorney-general, who shall apply to the district or circuit court, or, if in vacation, to one of the judges thereof, for an order requiring said company to show cause why their business should not be closed; and the court, or judge, as the case may be, shall thereupon proceed to hear the allegations and proofs of the respective parties; and in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of said court, or judge, that the assets and funds of said company are not sufficient, as aforesaid, or that the interest of the public requires it, the said court, or judge, shall decree a dissolution of said company and a distribution of its effects. The said court, or judge, shall have power to refer the application of the attorney-general to a referee, to inquire into and report upon the facts stated therein.

Sec. 1150. [Requisition on stockholders: liability of directors.]—Any company receiving the aforesaid requisition from the auditor, shall forthwith call upon its stockholders for such amounts as will make its paid up capital equal to the amount fixed by this chapter, or the charter of said company; and in case any stockholder shall refuse or neglect to pay the amount so called for, after notice personally given, or by advertisement in such time and manner as said auditor shall approve, it shall be lawful for the said company to require the return of the original certificate of stock held by such stockholder, and in lieu thereof to issue new certificates for such number of shares as said stockholder may be entitled to in the proportion that the ascertained value of the funds of the said company may be found to bear to the original capital of the said company; the value of such shares for which new certificates shall be issued to be ascertained under the direction of said auditor, the company paying for the fractional parts of shares; and it shall be lawful for the directors of such company to create new stock and dispose of the same, and to issue new certificates therefore, to an amount sufficient to make up the original capital of the company. And in the event of any additional losses accruing upon new risks, taken after the expiration of the period limited by the said auditor in the aforesaid requisition for the filling up of the deficiency in the capital of such company, and before said deficiency shall have been made up, the directors shall be individually liable to the extent thereof.

Sec. 1151. [Examination and proceedings in case of mutual companies.]—If, upon such examination, it shall appear to the auditor that the assets of any company, chartered upon the plan of mutual insurance under this chapter, are insufficient to justify the continuance of such company in business, he shall proceed in relation to such company in the same manner as herein required in regard to joint stock companies; and the trustees or directors of such company are made personally liable for any losses which may be sustained upon risks taken after the expiration of the period limited by the auditor for filling up the deficiency in the capital, and before such deficiency shall have been made up. Any transfer of the stock of any company organized under this chapter, made during the pending of any investigation required above, shall not release the party making the transfer from his liability for losses which may have accrued previous to such transfer.

Sec. 1152. [Revocation of certificate.]—The auditor of state shall be authorized to examine into the condition and affairs of any insurance company, as provided for in this chapter, doing business in this state, not organized under the laws of this state, or cause such examination to be made by some person or persons appointed by him, having no interest in any insurance company; and, whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of said auditor that the affairs of any such company are in an unsound condition, he shall revoke the certificate granted in behalf of such company, and shall cause a notification thereof to be published in some newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Des Moines, and the agent or agents of such company are, after such notice, required to discontinue the issuing of any new policy, or the renewal of any previously issued.
FEES.

SEC. 1153. [Amount of.]—There shall be paid by every company doing business in this state, except companies organized under the laws of the state, the following fees:
   Upon filing declaration, or certified copy of charter, twenty-five dollars.
   Upon filing the annual statement, twenty dollars.
   For each certificate of authority, and certified copy thereof, two dollars.
   For every copy of any paper filed in the department, the sum of twenty cents per folio, and for affixing the official seal to such copy, and certifying the same, one dollar.
   For valuing policies of life insurance companies, ten dollars per million of insurance or any fraction thereof.
   For official examinations of companies under this act, the actual expense incurred.
   And companies organized under the law of this state, shall pay the following fees:
   For filing and examination of the first application of any company, and the issuing of the certificate of license thereon, ten dollars;
   For filing each annual statement, and issuing the renewal of license required by law, three dollars;
   For each certificate of authority to its agents, fifty cents.

A city possessing the power to license insurance companies may properly graduate the amount thereof in proportion to the income of the different companies, but the annual premiums, which are in the nature of income, are not subject to taxation, by the city, as personal property. City of Burlington v. Putnam Ins. Co., 31 Iowa, 102; see also City of Dubuque v. The N. W. M. Life Ins. Co., 29 Id., 9.

SEC. 1154. [Laws of other states.]—When, by the laws of any other state, any taxes, fines, penalties, license fees, deposits of moneys or of securities, or other obligations or prohibitions, are imposed, or would be imposed, on insurance companies of this state, doing, or that might seek to do, business in such other state, or upon their agents therein, so long as such laws continue in force, the same obligations and prohibitions, of whatever kind, shall be imposed upon all insurance companies of such other state doing business within this state, or upon their agents here.

SEC. 1155. [Certificate of auditor to be published annually.]—Every insurance company of the kind provided for in this chapter, doing business in this state, organized under the laws of this state or any other state or country, shall publish, annually, in two newspapers of general circulation, one of which shall be published at the capital of this state, and in case of any company organized in the state of Iowa, one of which shall be published in the county where the principal office is located, a certificate from the auditor of state that such company has, in all respects, complied with the laws of this state relating to insurance. Said certificate shall also contain a statement, under the oath of the president or secretary, of such insurance company, of the actual amount of paid-up capital, the aggregate amount of assets and liabilities at the date of such certificate, together with the aggregate income and expenditures of such company for the year preceding the date of such certificate.

SEC. 1156. (As amended by ch. 37, laws 16th g. a.) [Company to pay expenses.]—The necessary expenditure of any examination made, or ordered to be made, by the auditor of state, under this chapter, shall be certified to him and paid on his requisition, by the company which is the subject of such examination. [In case of the refusal by any company to pay the requisition of the auditor of state for the necessary expenses, it shall be the duty of the auditor to suspend such company from doing business in this state until said expenses are paid; if not so paid, the same may be audited and allowed by the executive council, and paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

STATEMENTS PUBLISHED.

SEC. 1157. [Auditor to furnish printed forms.].—The auditor of state shall cause to be prepared and furnished to each company organized under the laws of this state, and to the attorney or agent of each company incorporated by other states and foreign governments, who may apply for the same, printed forms of statements required by this chapter, and he may, from time to time, make such changes in the forms of these statements as shall seem to him best adapted to elicit from the companies a true exhibit of their condition, in respect to the several points hereinbefore enumerated.

SEC. 1158. (As substituted by ch. 164, 16th g. a.) [Auditor to make and publish report.].—The auditor of state shall cause the information contained in the statements required of the companies organized or doing business in this state to be arranged in a tabular form, and prepare the same in a single document for printing, which report shall be made on or before the first day of May of each year, and three thousand copies shall be printed for the use of the auditor, who shall furnish a copy to each member of the general assembly and one to each newspaper printed in the state.

SEC. 1159. [Must be stock or mutual.].—No company organized upon the mutual plan, shall do business or take risks upon the stock plan; neither shall a company organized as a stock company, do business upon the plan of a mutual insurance company.

SEC. 1160. (As amended by ch. 11, 20th g. a., and ch. 93, 22d g. a.) [Mutual associations: number and powers limited.].—Nothing in this chapter shall be so construed as to prevent any number of persons from making mutual pledges and giving valid obligations to each other for their own insurance from loss by fire or death, [or loss or damage by tornadoes, lightning, hail storms, cyclones or wind storms], but such association of persons shall in no case insure any property not owned by one of their number, [except such school houses or church buildings as the said companies deem proper to insure within the territory where they do business], and no life except that of their own numbers, nor shall the provisions of this chapter be applicable to such associations or companies. Each fire insurance company organized under the provisions of this chapter shall report in January of each year to the auditor of state, which report shall show the following facts:

1. Name of company;
2. Place of doing business;
3. Names of president and secretary;
4. Address of secretary;
5. Date of commencing business;
6. Amount of risks in force at the beginning of the year;
7. Amount of risks written during the year;
8. Amount of risks canceled during the year;
9. Amount of risks in force at the end of the year;
10. Amount of losses paid during the year;
11. Amount of other expenses;
12. Total expenses during the year.

These reports to be tabulated by the auditor of state, and published by him in his annual report on insurance, and one copy shall by him be sent to each company reporting as above. But no foreign life insurance company, aid society, or association for the insurance of the lives of its members and doing business on the assessment plan, shall be allowed to do business in this state unless it has a guaranteed capital of not less than one hundred thousand dollars in the state in which it is organized, and such companies shall pay the same fees for annual reports as are now paid by stock companies.

[Fees.]-And such companies organized under this section shall pay the same fees for annual reports as are now paid by stock companies, but such associations or companies shall receive no premiums nor make any dividends; but the word premiums herein shall not be construed to mean policy and survey fees, nor the necessary expenses of such companies.]

Mutual aid associations, organized under this section for the insurance of their own members exclusively, from loss by death, sickness or accident, need not comply with chapter 5 of title 9 of the code, relating to life insurance companies properly so called. The word “every,” in section 1161, was held to be limited to stock and mutual companies in the sections following in that chapter. The State, ex rel. Auditor, v. Iowa Mutual Aid Association, 59 Iowa, 123.

The avowed and actual purposes of the Ancient Order of United Workmen considered by the court, and held to be an insurance company within the meaning of section 1160 of the code, and inasmuch as the supreme lodge of said order is a corporation of the state of Kentucky, and has not a guaranteed capital of $100,000 in this state as required by said section, and held further, that it is not authorized to transact business within this state, and that its mandate to the grand lodge of this state to raise a fund to relieve overburdened jurisdictions in other states, was not binding upon the grand lodge of this state.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

An Act to require fire insurance companies doing business in this state to cancel policies in certain cases. (Additional to code, chapter 4, title IX: “Of insurance companies.”)

SECTION 1. [Duty of auditor of state.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the auditor of state shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to examine the form of all policy contracts hereafter issued, or proposed to be issued, by any fire insurance company, association, or corporation authorized by law, or that may hereafter apply to be authorized to transact the business of fire insurance in this state, and the auditor shall refuse to authorize any such company, association, or corporation to do business in this state, and shall not renew the authority or certificates of any such company, association, or corporation authorized to do business in this state, whenever the form of policy, contract, issued or proposed to be issued by any such company, association, or corporation does not provide for the cancellation of the same at the request of the insured upon equitable terms, and in case of any violation of this act, it shall be the duty of the auditor to revoke the authority of such company to do business within this state. The provisions of this act shall not apply until January 1, 1879, to any company now holding a certificate of authority from the auditor to do business in this state.

Approved March 15, 1878.

(Chapter 210, Laws of 1880.)

TO REGULATE FIRE INSURANCE.

An Act to secure policy holders in fire insurance companies from unjust forfeitures of policies.

SECTION 1. [Non-forfeiture of policy where premium note given.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in every instance where a fire insurance company or association doing business in this state shall hereafter take a note or contract for the premium on any insurance policy, or shall hereafter take a premium note or contract which, by its terms or by any agreement or rule of the company or association, is assessable for the premium due on the policy for which it was given, such insurance company or association shall not declare such policy forfeited or suspended for non-payment of such note or contract, except as hereinafter provided, anything in the policy or application to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sec. 2. [Company must give notice of premium due.]—Within thirty days prior to, or at any time after the maturity of any note or contract, whether assessable or where the time of payment is fixed in the contract, given for the premium on any policy of insurance, such company or association may serve a notice in writing upon the insured that his note or an installment thereof is due, or to become due, stating the amount which will be due on the note or contract, and also the amount required to pay the customary short rates, including the expense of taking the risk up to the time the policy will be suspended under the notice in order to cancel the policy, and that unless payment is made within thirty days his policy will be suspended. Such notice may be served either personally or by registered letter addressed to the assured at his postoffice address named in or on the policy, and no policy of insurance shall be suspended for non-payment of such amount until thirty days after such notice has been served.

Sec. 3. [Assured may have policy canceled.]—The assured may, at any time after the maturity of the note, contract or installment, pay to the insurance company or association the customary short rates, including the expense of taking the risk and the cost of suit, in case suit has been commenced or judgment rendered on the note or contract, and upon such payment, if he so elect, his said policy shall be canceled, and any note or contract, or any judgment rendered thereon, shall be canceled and shall be actually void in whomsoever hands the same may be; provided, that the assured may, at any time before cancellation of the policy, pay to the insurance company or association the full amount due upon any note or contract, and from the date of such payment the policy shall be revived, and shall be in full force and effect; provided, such payment is made during the time stated in the policy and before a loss occurs. And provided further, that where any insurance company or association shall bring suit upon such note or contract and shall collect the same, from the time of such collection the policy shall be revived and be in full force from the time of such collection; provided, such collection is made during the time stated in the policy and before a loss occurs. The provisions of this act shall apply to and govern all contracts and policies of insurance contemplated in this chapter, anything in the application or policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

Approved March 31, 1880.

Before a fire insurance company can suspend a policy on account of non-payment of a premium note, it must, under this chapter, not only give thirty days notice to the assured of its intention to suspend in case payment is not made, but must also notify him of the amount required to pay the customary short rates, including the expense of taking the risk up to the time of the proposed suspension, and the assured does not waive the failure to give such notice by applying for an extension of time on the note. Boyd v. The Cedar Rapids Ins. Co., 70 Iowa, 325.

(Chapter 211, Laws of 1880.)

RELATING TO FIRE INSURANCE.

An Act relating to insurance and fire insurance companies.

Section 1. [Person soliciting insurance is agent of company.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Any person who shall hereafter solicit insurance or procure applications therefor, shall be held to be the soliciting agent of the insurance company or association issuing a policy on such application, or on a renewal thereof, anything in the application or policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

Where an agent of an insurance company had authority to solicit risks and issue policies, sent his clerk to solicit a risk and take an application, and the clerk knew that there was other insurance on the property, but the agent, ignorant of the other insurance, issued a policy thereon, and collected the premium, held, that the company was bound by the knowledge of the agent's clerk, who for the purpose of that policy must be regarded as the company's soliciting agent, and that it could not defeat an action on the policy on the ground of prior insurance, which, under the terms of the policy, would otherwise have rendered it void. Bennett v. The Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 70 Iowa, 600.

SEC. 2. [Copy of application attached to policy.]—All insurance companies or associations shall, upon the issue or renewal of any policy, attach to such policy or endorse thereon a true copy of any application or representations of the assured, which, by the terms of such policy, are made a part thereof, or of the contract of insurance, or referred to therein, or which may in any manner affect the validity of such policy. The omission so to do shall not render the policy invalid, but if any company or association neglects to comply with the requirements of this section, it shall forever be precluded from pleading, alleging or proving such application or representations, or any part thereof, or the falsity thereof, or any parts thereof, in any action upon such policy; and the plaintiff in any such action shall not be required in order to recover against such company or association, either to plead or prove such application or representations, but may do so at his option.

Under this provision of the statute, it is incompetent, in defense to an action on a policy of insurance, to plead or prove statements made by the assured in his application, where such statements are not reduced to writing, and a copy thereof attached to or indorsed upon the policy. Ellis v. The Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 64 Iowa, 507.

SEC. 3. [Amount stated in policy prima facie of value of property.]—In any suit or action brought in any court in this state on any policy of insurance against the company or association issuing the policy sued upon, in case of the loss of any building so insured, the amount stated in the policy shall be received as prima facie evidence of the insurable value of the property at the date of the policy; provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the insurance company or association from showing the actual value at the date of the policy and any depreciation in the value thereof before the loss occurred; provided, further, such insurance company or association shall be liable for the actual value of the property insured at the date of the loss, unless such value exceeds the amount stated in the policy, and in order to maintain his action on the policy, it shall only be necessary for the assured to prove the loss of the building insured and that he has given the company or association notice in writing of such loss, accompanied by an affidavit stating the facts as to how the loss occurred, so far as they are within his knowledge, and the extent of the loss; which notice shall be given within sixty days from the time the loss occurred; provided, further, that no action shall be begun within ninety days after notice of such loss has been given; all the provisions of this chapter shall apply to and govern all contracts and policies of insurance contemplated in this chapter, anything in the policy or contract to the contrary notwithstanding.

Approved March 31, 1880.

Under chapter 211, laws of 1880, an action cannot be commenced upon a policy of fire insurance within ninety days after notice of loss has been given, even though the company may before that time declare absolutely that they will not pay the loss; the effect of the statute being to declare that the loss is not due until the expiration of that time. Quinn v. The Capital Insurance Co., 71 Iowa, 615.
CHAPTER 5.

OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

SECTION 1161. [Conditions.]—Every company formed for the purpose of insuring the lives of individuals, whether organized under the laws of this state or of any other state, or foreign country, shall, before issuing any policies on lives within this state, comply with the conditions and restrictions of this chapter.

SEC. 1162. [Stock companies: capital: amount to be paid up.]-Joint stock companies, organized under the laws of this state, shall have not less than one hundred thousand dollars of capital stock subscribed, twenty-five per cent of which shall be paid up and invested in stocks of the United States, or of this state, or in bonds and mortgages upon unencumbered real estate in the state of Iowa, worth, exclusive of improvements, at least double the sum loaned thereon, which said securities shall be deposited with the auditor of state, and upon said deposit, and satisfactory evidence to the auditor that the capital stock is all subscribed in good faith, he shall issue to said company the certificate hereinafter provided for. But no part of the twenty-five per cent aforesaid shall be loaned to any stockholder or officer of the company; the remainder of such stock shall be paid in such time as the directors or trustees of the company may direct, and the same shall be secured by the notes of the stockholders of said company. No note shall be accepted as part of such capital stock unless the same shall be accompanied by a certificate of a justice of the peace, notary public, or clerk of the district court of the county in which the person executing such note shall reside, that the person making the same is, in his opinion, pecuniarily good and responsible for the same in property not exempt from execution by the laws of this state.

SEC. 1163. [Mutual companies: application for insurance: conditions.]—Companies organized under the laws of this state upon the mutual plan, shall, before issuing any policies, have actual applications on at least two hundred and fifty individual lives, for an average amount of one thousand dollars each, a list of which applications, giving the name, age, residence, amount of insurance and annual premium of each applicant, shall be filed with the auditor of state, and a deposit made with said auditor of an amount equal to three-fifths of the whole annual premium on said applications, either in cash or the securities required by the foregoing section, and, on compliance with said provisions, the auditor shall issue to said mutual company the certificate hereinafter prescribed.

AGENTS—RISKS.

SEC. 1164. [Foreign companies: prerequisites to insurance.]—No person shall act within this state as agent, or otherwise, in receiving or procuring applications for insurance, or in any manner to aid in transacting the business of insurance referred to in section eleven hundred and sixty-one hereof, for any company or association incorporated by, or organized under, the laws of any state or government, unless such company is possessed of the amount of actual capital required of any company in this state, and the same is invested in stocks or treasury notes of the United States, or this state, or of interest paying bonds of the state in which said company is located, or where said deposits are made, or in bonds and mortgages on unencumbered real estate within the state where such company is located, but all mortgages deposited by any company under this section shall be upon unencumbered real estate worth double the amount loaned thereon; which stock and securities shall be deposited with the auditor, controller, or chief financial officer of the state by whose laws said company is incorporated, or some other state, and the auditor of this state furnished with a certificate of such auditor, controller, or chief financial officer aforesaid, under his hand and official seal, that he, as such auditor, controller, or chief financial officer of such state, holds in trust and on deposit, for the benefit of all the policy holders of such company, the security before mentioned, which certificate shall embrace the items of security so held, and that he is satisfied that such securities are worth one hundred thousand dollars; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to invalidate the agency of any company incorporated in another state, by reason of such company having from time to time exchanged the securities so deposited with the auditor, controller, or chief financial officer of the state in which such company is located, for other stock or securities authorized by this chapter, or by reason of such company having drawn its interest and dividends from time to time, for such stocks and securities.

SEC. 1165. [Must appoint agent upon whom legal process can be served. ]—Such company shall also appoint an attorney or agent in each county in this state, in which the company has an agency, on whom process of law can be served, and such company shall file with the auditor of state a certified copy of the charter or articles of incorporation of said company, and also a certified copy of the certificate of appointment of such agent, or agents, which appointment shall continue until another agent or attorney be substituted. And in case any such insurance corporation shall cease to transact business in this state according to the laws thereof, the agents last designated, or acting as such for such corporation, shall be deemed to continue agents for such corporation for the purpose of serving process for commencing actions upon any policy or liability issued or contracted while such corporation transacted business in this state; and service of such process for the causes aforesaid upon any such agent, shall be deemed a valid personal service upon such corporation; and such company shall also file a statement of its condition and affairs in the office of the auditor of state, in the same form and manner required for the annual statements of similar companies organized under the laws of this state.

SEC. 1166. (As substituted by ch. 2, § 1, 15th g. a.) [Must obtain auditor's certificate before risks taken. ]—No agent shall act for any company referred to in the foregoing section, directly or indirectly, in taking risks, collecting premiums, or in any manner transacting the business of life insurance in this state without procuring from said auditor a certificate of authority, stating that the foregoing requirements have been complied with, and setting forth the name of the attorney for each company, a certified copy of which certificate shall be filed in the county recorder's office of the county where the agency is to be established, and shall be the authority of such company and agent to commence business in this state, and such company, or its agent or attorney, shall, annually, by the first terminating on the 31st day of December preceding, in the same manner and form

EXAMINATION BY AUDITOR.

SEC. 1172. [When insolvent to procure injunction: certificates from other states received.]—The auditor may at any time make a personal examination of the books, papers and securities of any life insurance company doing business in this state, or may authorize or empower any other suitable person to make such examination, and for the purpose of securing a full and true exhibit of its affairs, he, or the person selected by him to make such examination, shall have power to examine, under oath, any officer or agent of said company, or others if necessary, relative to its business and management. If, upon such examination, the auditor is of opinion that the company is insolvent, or that its condition is such as to render its further proceedings hazardous to the public or to the holders of its policies, he shall communicate the facts to the attorney-general, who shall at once apply to a judge of the supreme or district court to issue an injunction, restraining such company from transacting further business, except the payment of losses already ascertained and due, until a full hearing can be had. It shall be discretionary with the judge, either to issue the injunction forthwith or to give notice to the company, and cause a hearing to be had as in ordinary proceedings for an injunction. Upon the final hearing of the cause, he may dissolve or modify the injunction, or make it perpetual, and, if made perpetual, shall also decree what disposition shall be made of the deposit of the company in the hands of the auditor, subject to the provisions of the following section.

SEC. 1173. [When securities vest in state for benefit of insured.]—The securities of a defaulting or insolvent company, on deposit with the auditor of state, shall vest in the state for the benefit of the policies on which such deposits were made, and the proceeds of the same shall, upon the order of the court, be divided among the holders of said policies in the proportions of the last annual valuation of the same, or applied to the purchase of re-insurance for the benefit of the policy-holders.

SEC. 1174. [Change of securities.]—Companies shall have the right at any time to change their securities on deposit, by substituting for those withdrawn a like amount in other securities of the character provided for in this chapter, and whenever the annual valuation of policies outstanding and in force against any company is less than the amount of security then on deposit with the auditor, said company shall have the right to withdraw such excess; but twenty-five thousand dollars shall remain on deposit.

SEC. 1175. [Interest collected.]—The auditor shall permit companies, having on deposit with him stock or bonds as security, to collect the interest accruing on such deposits, delivering to their authorized agents, respectively, the coupons or other evidences of interest as the same become due, but upon default by any company to deposit additional security as called for by the auditor, or pending any proceedings to close up or enjoin it, he shall collect the interest as it becomes due, and add the same to the securities in his hands belonging to such company.

SEC. 1176. (CHAP. 55, LAWS OF 1876.)

RELATING TO LIFE INSURANCE.

An Act relating to life insurance and to prevent injustice to the assured. [Additional to the code, chapter 5, title IX: of life insurance companies.]

SECTION 1. [In suits where defendant pleads habitual intoxication of assured: sufficient reply.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: In all suits now or hereafter pending in any court of this state on policies of life insurance, wherein the defendant seeks to avoid liability upon the alleged ground of the intemperate habits or habitual intoxication of the assured, it shall be a sufficient reply for the plaintiff to show that such habits or habitual intoxication of the assured was generally known in the community or neighborhood where the agent of the defendant resided or did business, if thereafter the company continued to receive the premiums falling due on such policy.

SEC. 2. [Company estopped by examining physician's certificate.]—In case where the medical examiner, or the physician acting as such, of any life insurance company doing business in this state, shall issue a certificate of health or declare the applicant a fit subject for insurance under the rules and regulations of such company, the company shall be thereby estopped from setting up in defense of suit on such policy, that the assured was not in the condition of health required by the policy, at the time of issuing such policy, except where the same is procured by or through fraud or deceit of the assured.

Sec. 3. [If age of assured has been misstated.]—That in all cases where it shall appear that the age of the person insured has been misstated in the proposal, declaration or other instrument upon which any policy of life insurance has been founded or issued, then in such case, the person or company issuing such policy, shall, upon the discovery of such misstatement, be permitted to demand and collect the difference of premium, if any, which would be due and payable on account of the true age of the assured, from year to year, according to the rate of premium of such person or company upon which such policy was issued; or such person or company so issuing the policy may, after the decease of the assured, deduct from the amount payable by such policy, the difference of premium, if any, which would so have been payable from year to year, by reason of any difference of age at time of issuance of such policy; and no other defense or deduction by such person or company issuing such policy, shall be permitted after the death of the person assured, on account of such misstatement of age of assured, notwithstanding any warranty of such statement of age by terms of policy or otherwise, except when it is shown by the person or company insuring, that the policy was procured by fraud in fact.

TO REGULATE MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATIONS.

An Act to regulate the organization and operation of mutual benefit associations.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Every corporation or association organized under the laws of this state upon the mutual assessment co-operative or natural premium plan, for the purpose of insuring the lives of individuals, or of furnishing benefits to the widows, heirs, orphans or legatees, of deceased members, or of paying endowments or accident indemnity, shall, before commencing business, comply with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 2. [Articles of incorporation.]—The articles of incorporation of such organizations shall show the plan of business, and shall be submitted to the auditor of state and attorney-general, and if such articles are found to comply with the provisions of this act they shall approve the same. When said articles are thus approved, they shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds, in the county where such organization is located and of the the secretary of state, and a notice published as provided for under the general incorporation law of the state of Iowa. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the incorporation of such companies already duly incorporated and operating under the laws of Iowa.

Sec. 3. [Name.]—No corporation or association organized under this act shall take any name in use by any other organization or so closely resembling such name as to mislead the public as to its identity.

Sec. 4. Each association organized under this act shall, before issuing any policy or certificate of membership, if said association has not membership sufficient to pay the full amount of the certificate or policy on an assessment it shall cause the application for insurance to have printed in red ink in a conspicuous manner along the margin of said application the words, "It is understood and agreed that the amount to be paid, when the certificate or policy issued upon this application becomes a claim, shall be dependent upon the amount collected from an assessment made to meet such claim," and they must have actual applications upon at least two hundred and fifty individual lives for at least one thousand dollars each, and shall file, with the auditor of state, satisfactory proof that the president, secretary and treasurer of said corporation or association have each given a good and sufficient bond for five thousand dollars, for the faithful discharge of their duties as such officers; sworn copies of which bonds shall be filed with the auditor of state, also a list of said applications giving the name, age, and residence of each applicant and the amount of insurance applied for by each, together with the annual dues and the proposed assessments thereon, which statement shall be verified under oath by the president and secretary of the association.

Sec. 5. [Agent's certificate.]-No person shall act within this state as agent or otherwise in receiving or procuring applications for insurance for any assessment association (except for the purpose of taking applications for organization), unless the corporation or association for which he is acting has received a certificate from the auditor of state as provided in this act, authorizing said corporation or association to transact business in this state, nor as general or traveling agent or traveling solicitor, until he shall have received from said auditor a certificate in substance the same as that provided for in section 18 of this act, and certifying that said corporation or association has complied with the provisions of this act, and that said general traveling agent or traveling solicitor is authorized to act as such.

Sec. 6. [Assessments.]-The by-laws of any such corporation or association, and its notices of assessment, shall state the object or objects for which the money to be collected is intended, and no part of the proceeds of such assessment shall be applied to any other purpose than is stated in said notices and by-laws, and the excess beyond payment of the benefit provided for in such assessment shall be set aside and applied only to such purposes as said by-laws and notices specify.

Sec. 7. [Insurable age.]—No corporation or association organized or operating under this act, shall issue any certificate of membership or policy to any person under the age of fifteen years, nor over the age of sixty-five years, nor unless the beneficiary under said certificate shall be the husband, wife, relative, legal representative, heir or legatee of such insured member, nor shall any such certificate be assigned, except an endowment certificate, and any certificate issued or assignment made in violation of this section shall be void. Any member of any corporation, association or society operating under this act shall have the right at any time, with the consent of such corporation, association or society, to make a change in his beneficiary without requiring the consent of such beneficiary.

Sec. 8. [Report to auditor of state.]-The business year of each Iowa corporation or association organized or operating under this act shall close on the thirty-first day of December each year, and such corporation or association shall, within sixty days thereafter prepare under oath of its president and secretary and file in the office of the auditor of state a detailed statement of its assets, liabilities, receipts from each assessment and all other sources, expenditures, salaries of officers, number of contributing members, death losses paid and amount paid on each death loss, death losses reported but not paid, and answer such other interrogatories as the auditor (who shall furnish blanks for that purpose) may require, in order to ascertain its true financial condition, and shall pay upon filing each annual statement the sum of ten dollars. The auditor shall publish said annual statement in detail in his annual report, and for the purpose of verifying such statement the auditor may make, or cause to be made, an examination of the affairs of any Iowa association doing business under this act, at the expense of the association, which expense shall not exceed the necessary hotel and traveling expenses of the auditor or clerk. If the auditor appoints some person not employed in his office to make the examination, he shall, in addition to actual expenses, be allowed not to exceed five dollars per day for the time actually employed. If the said auditor shall deem it necessary for the security of the funds of the association, he may require the official bonds of the officers to be increased to an amount not to exceed double the sum for which they are accountable, and he may require supplemental reports from any such association at such time and in such form as he may direct.

SEC. 9. [Trust funds.]—Any corporation or association accumulating any moneys to be held in trust for the purpose of the fulfillment of its policy or certificate, contract, or otherwise, shall invest such accumulations in bonds or treasury notes of the United States, or of this or other states, or in interest-bearing bonds of any municipal corporation in Iowa, or in notes secured by mortgage on unencumbered real estate in the state of Iowa, not to exceed forty per cent of the appraised value thereof exclusive of improvements, and shall deposit such securities with the auditor of state, who shall furnish such corporation or association with a certificate, under his seal of office, of such deposit, showing the purpose of such deposit and to what fund the same is to be applied when paid out, and also showing the aggregate liabilities of such corporation or association at the date of issuance of such certificate; provided, however, that such corporation or association may invest, in real estate in Iowa, such a portion of said accumulation as is necessary for its accommodation in the transaction of its business to be owned by said corporation or association, and in the erection of any building for such purpose may add thereto rooms for rental.

SEC. 10. [Change of securities.]—Such association may have the right at any time to change its securities on deposit by substituting for those withdrawn a like amount in other securities of the character provided for in this act.

SEC. 11. [Withdrawal of securities.]—The auditor shall permit corporations or associations having a deposit with him of such securities to withdraw the same upon filing with him by the president and secretary of such corporations and associations, satisfactory proof that they are to be used for the purpose for which they were originally deposited in his office.

SEC. 12. [Collection of interest on securities.]—The auditor shall permit corporations or associations having on deposit with him such stocks and bonds, notes or other securities, to collect and retain the interest accruing on such deposits, delivering to them respectively the evidence of interest as the same becomes due, but on default of any corporation or association to make or enforce such collection, he may collect such interest and add the same to the securities in his possession belonging to such corporation or association, less the expense of such collection.

SEC. 13. [Foreign companies.]—Any foreign corporation or association organized under the laws of any other state to carry on the business of insuring the lives of individuals or of furnishing benefits to the widows, orphans, heirs or legateses of deceased members, or of paying accident indemnity, or surrender value of certificate of insurance upon the mutual assessment plan, may be licensed by the auditor to do business in this state by complying with the following conditions, to-wit: Said corporation shall file with the auditor of state a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation duly certified by the proper officers of the state wherein organized, together with a copy of its by-laws, application, and policy or certificate of membership. It shall also file with said auditor a sworn statement, signed and verified by its president and secretary, which statement shall contain the name and location of the said corporation or association, its principal place of business, the name of its president, secretary and other principal officers, the number of certificates or policies in force, the aggregate amount insured thereby, the amount paid to beneficiaries in event of death or accident, the amount collected of each member on each assessment, and the purpose for which assessments are made and the authority under which they are made; the amount paid on the last death loss and the date thereof, the amount of cash or other assets owned by the company and association and how invested; and any information which the auditor may require. All said statements and papers thus filed shall show that death or surrender value of certificate of insurance or accident indemnity is in the main provided for by assessments upon or contributions by surviving members of such corporation or association, and shall show to the satisfaction of said auditor that said corporation or association is legally organized and honestly managed, and that an ordinary assessment upon its members or other regular contribution to its mortuary fund is sufficient to pay its maximum certificate to the full limit named therein. Such foreign corporation or association shall also designate to the said auditor an attorney or agent residing in this state on whom service of process or original notice may be made; and in the event of a failure to appoint or designate such attorney, such service may be made upon the auditor who shall at once notify said company by mailing a copy of said notice to the secretary of said corporation or association, directed to his last known post office address. Any action commenced in this state by service upon such attorney or auditor may be commenced in the county of the plaintiff's residence, regardless of the residence of said attorney or auditor, and every corporation or association coming into this state shall file with the auditor of state a contract or agreement that it will not transfer any action commenced against it in any court of this state to the United States courts, which contract shall contain the provision that if such transfer is made to the United States courts, the certificate of authority issued by said auditor to do business shall be revoked or cancelled, and it shall be the duty of the auditor to promptly revoke the certificate of such corporation or association as soon as such transfer is made;
and such corporation or association shall not be permitted to do business again within the state. Upon complying with the provisions of this section and upon payment of twenty-five dollars, the auditor shall issue to such foreign corporation or association a certificate of authority to do business in this state, provided the same right is extended, by the state in which said corporation is organized, to similar corporations or associations organized in this state. After any such foreign corporation or association shall have been licensed to do business in this state, it shall make, before the first day of March of each year, to the auditor, on blanks furnished by him, the same detailed statement as provided in section 8 of this act, which statement shall be published in the annual report of the auditor, and shall also pay to the auditor, on filing such statement, a fee of twenty dollars. Whenever the auditor of this state shall have reason to doubt the solvency of any such foreign corporation or association and the failure to pay the full limit named in its certificate or policy shall be such evidence that it is not solvent and to require the auditor to investigate, he must for this or other good cause, at the expense of such corporation or association, cause an examination of its books and papers to be made, and publish and distribute his report as provided in section 8 of this act, and if in his judgment such examination establishes the fact that such corporation or association is not financially sound and is not paying its policies to the full limit named therein, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or if it should fail to make the statement required by this act, he may revoke the authority of such corporation or association and prohibit it from doing business in this state until it can again comply with the provisions of this act. If the auditor appoints some one not receiving a regular salary in his office to make the examination provided for in this section he shall be entitled to receive five dollars per day for his service in addition to his actual traveling and hotel expenses, to be paid by the association examined or by the state on approval of the executive council, if the association fails to pay the same.

Sec. 14. [Penalty for non-compliance.]—Any foreign corporation or association doing business in this state that shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this act after the space of ninety days after it takes effect, shall be deemed and be held to be doing business unlawfully, and any officer or agent of such corporation or association who shall do business in this state, or assist in, or knowingly permit the same in violation of the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months, or both, in the discretion of the court. It shall be the duty of the county attorney to prosecute any violation of this section when sufficient evidence is pre­

Sec. 15. [Penalty for agents acting for unauthorized company.]—Any solicitor or agent taking or soliciting applications for insurance within this state, for any corporation or association doing business on the mutual assessment or natural premium plan, after ninety days from the taking effect of this act without the certificate herein provided for, or shall take applications when the assessments will not pay the certificate or policy in full, without having the application form comply with the requirements of section four (4) of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense, together with the costs of prosecution, including attorney’s fee, and shall stand committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid. And the county attorney in each county shall prosecute parties charged with a violation of this section.

Sec. 16. [Proceedings in case of Iowa companies violating this law.]—Whenever any Iowa corporation or association shall fail to make its annual statement to the auditor on or before the first day of March, or is conducting its business fraudulently or not in compliance with this act, or is not carrying out its contracts with its members in good faith, then it shall be the duty of the auditor to promptly communicate the fact to the attorney-general, who shall at once commence action before the district or circuit court of the county in which said organization is located or any judge thereof, citing the officers to appear before said court or judge, and if upon a hearing of said cause, it is found to be [for] the best interests of the holders of the certificates of membership in said corporation, said court or judge shall have the power to remove any officer or officers of said corporation and appoint others in their place until the next annual election. If it is found to the interests of said holders of certificates that the affairs of said corporation be wound up, said court or judge shall so direct, and for that purpose may appoint a receiver, who shall regard all proper claims for death benefit as preferred claims.
Said receiver may also, upon the approval of the court or judge, transfer the members of said association who consent thereto to some solvent Iowa assessment or natural premium association, or divide the surplus accumulated in proportion to the share due each certificate in force at the time.

Sec. 17. [Fees.]—The auditor shall receive from each foreign corporation or association doing business in this state for each certificate issued to its agents or solicitor, as provided in this act, the sum of two dollars, and from each corporation or association organized under the laws of this state the sum of fifty cents.
Any other fees to be paid to said auditor not provided for in this act shall be the same as provided for in the general insurance laws of this state, in relation to life insurance companies. All fees collected by the auditor by this act shall be accounted for and paid into the state treasury in the same manner as provided in section 3778, code of 1873.

Sec. 18. [Form of certificate.]—On compliance with this act by any corporation or association the auditor shall issue a certificate setting forth: First—The corporate name of the association. Second—Its principal place of business.
Third—The number of certificates of policies in force at the date of its last report. Fourth—The sum of money which an ordinary assessment for payment of a single certificate or policy would produce in each class. Fifth—The amount paid on its last death loss as evidenced by proof on file in his office and the date of such payment. Sixth—The amount of securities deposited in his office, and for what purpose deposited.

_Seventh_—That it has fully complied with the provisions of this act, and is authorized to transact business for a period of one year from April first of the year of its issue, which certificate shall be published by said association for four weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published at the principal place of business of said association.

_SEC. 19. [Penalty for fraud in procuring insurance.]—Any agent, physician, or other person, who shall knowingly and by means of concealment or false or fraudulent statements assist in securing from any such organization, or assessment association, a policy or certificate of membership on the life of any person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or undergo an imprisonment of not more than one year in the county jail, or both, in the discretion of the court._

_SEC. 20. [Definition of assessment company.]—Any corporation or association doing business in this state which provides in the main for the payment of death losses or accident indemnity by any assessment upon its members or upon the natural premium plan, shall for the purpose of this act, be deemed a mutual benefit association, and shall not be subject to the general insurance laws of this state, regulating life insurance.  No corporation operating upon the assessment plan, promising benefits upon any other event than that of death or disability resulting from accident to the member, shall be permitted to do business in this state. But this shall not prevent any assessment life association or organization authorized by this act from providing for an equitable surrender value paid up policy or endowment upon the cancellation of any policy or certificate, provided the terms and conditions thereof are set forth in said policy or certificate of membership, and provided that such endowment or surrender value shall in the main be accumulated during the term of such policy or certificate. This act shall not relieve any corporation or assessment association, now doing business in this state, from the fulfillment of any contract heretofore entered into with its members under its policies or certificates of membership, nor shall any member be released hereby from his or her part of said contract.

_SEC. 21. [Benevolent societies exempted.]—Nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to any secret fraternal society nor any association organized solely for benevolent purposes and composed wholly of members of any one occupation, guild, profession, or religious denomination, provided that any such society or organization named above in this section, shall, by complying with the provisions of this act, be entitled to all the privileges and be amenable to the obligations of this act.

_SEC. 22. [Live-stock companies.]—The provisions of this act shall be applied to all assessment or co-operative live-stock insurance companies or associations, now existing or hereafter organized in this or other states, so far as the same can be made to apply, and the auditor of state shall have the same power and authority in regard to such companies or associations as in regard to mutual benefit associations.

_SEC. 23. [Repealing clause.]—All acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act are hereby repealed, provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to affect insurance companies known as fixed or level premium companies, having a mathematical annual reserve.

_Became a law without the governor's approval April 2, 1886._
CHAPTER 6.

OF MUTUAL BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

SECTION 1184. [How formed.]—Any number of persons, not less than five, may associate themselves and become incorporated as provided in chapter 1 of this title, for the purpose of raising moneys to be loaned to the members of the corporation, and to other persons, and for use in buying lots or houses, or in building or repairing houses or other purposes.

Sec. 1185. [Powers.]—Such corporation shall be authorized and empowered to levy, assess, and collect from its members such sums of money, by rates of stated dues, fines, interest on loans advanced, and premiums bid by members for the right of precedence in taking loans, as the corporation by its by-laws shall adopt; also to acquire, hold, encumber, and convey all such real estate and personal property as may be legitimately pledged to it on such loans, or may otherwise be transferred to it in due course of its business; and the dues, fines, and premiums so paid by members, in addition to the legal rate of interest on loans taken by them, shall not be construed to make the loans so taken usurious; but no person shall hold more than twenty shares in any such association.

Sec. 1186. [Similar societies heretofore organized.]—When mutual loan societies, or other associations heretofore organized under the laws of this state, with objects similar to those contemplated in the preceding sections, and permitting not more than twenty shares of their stock to be owned by any one member, have loaned, or shall hereafter loan, their capital or funds, or any part thereof, to their members, and have taken, or shall take, notes or obligations therefor, secured by mortgages, or otherwise, in accordance with the terms of their articles of incorporation and by-laws, such notes, obligations, and securities shall not be construed or held to be usurious by reason of any dues, fines, or premiums so paid by members, in addition to a rate of interest not exceeding ten per centum per annum, payable annually, or at any less period, notwithstanding.

This section does not authorize building associations to receive a greater sum per annum for interest upon their loans than ten per cent of the amount actually loaned. Where a note, bearing interest, was executed by a borrower to such association, including not only the amount actually loaned to him, but also the premium paid for the loan, it was held usurious. Hawkeye Benefit & L. A. v. Blackburn et al., 48 Iowa, 385.

This section does not authorize the taking of interest on premiums by building associations, and where such interest is contracted for, which renders the total interest charge greater than the legal rate on the sum actually received by the borrower, it constitutes usury. The Burlington Mutual Loan Association v. Hendes et. al., 55 Id., 424.

Sec. 1187. [Earnings to pay expenses and purchase real estate.]—So much of the earnings of such corporations as may be necessary, not exceeding ten per cent per annum, may be set apart to defray the current expenses of said association, and for the purchase of such real estate as may be necessary for the convenient transaction of its business, and the residue of said earnings shall be transferred to the credit of the shareholders, and when said shares are fully paid, then to be paid ratably to the shareholders.
TITLE X.
OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

CHAPTER 1.
OF MILL DAMS AND RACES.

SECTION 1188. [Owner of land to file petition.]—Any person who owns land on one or both sides of a water course, who desires to erect or heighten any dam thereon, or construct or enlarge a race therefrom, for the purpose of propelling any mill or machinery to be erected on such stream by the water thereof, may file a petition in the office of the clerk of the district or circuit court of the county in which such mill or machinery is to be erected.

The fact that a petition, filed under this section, does not show that the mill is designed to grind grain for toll, does not affect the right of the petitioner to proceed under this chapter. The statute authorizes the erection of mills and other machinery, without limitation as to the purpose for which they will be used. Per Beck, Ch. J., in Burnham v. Thompson, 35 Iowa, 421, 425.

This chapter is not unconstitutional. Burnham v. Thompson, 35 Id., 421.

An appeal lies to the supreme court from an order overruling a motion to set aside the verdict and quash the writ in a proceeding ad quod damnum. Id.

When the first writ is quashed, another may thereupon be granted without notice thereof to the opposite party. Id.

The provisions of the statute apply, and the writ may properly issue, after the work has been commenced and is unfinished, as well as before its commencement; and damages arising after the filing of the petition in such case are allowable. Id.

It was said, arguendo, by Miller, J., in Stewart v. the Board of Supervisors, etc., 30 Id., 29, that "it has been the law of this state for more than a quarter of a century that any private citizen who will erect a mill to grind grain for toll, may erect a dam and have a writ ad quod damnum for the condemnation of the land overflowed, as for a public purpose"; citing laws of 1843, ch. 142; Id. of 1856, ch. 93 (revision, sec. 1294). Id. of 1856, ch. 119; and, further, that "the validity of these statutes, and that the purposes were public ones, within the meaning of the constitution, although, in the language of sec. 1278 of the revision, it be 'for private profit,' has been too often and too uniformly recognized to be now disputed"; citing Gammell v. Potter, 6 Iowa, 548; Lummery v. Braddy, 8 Id., 33; Coe v. Essex Mill, 6 Pick., 94; Boston v. Newman, 12 Id., 467.

While the owner of premises may lawfully erect a mill dam across an unnavigable stream, yet if it be so erected or maintained as to become prejudicial to the health or comfort of others, it thereby becomes a nuisance. The State v. Close, 35 Iowa, 570.

It was held under chapter 92 of the laws of 1854-55, that the mill owner alone could commence and prosecute proceedings under the act, and that the land owner injured by the erection of the dam was left to his common law remedy or to a proceeding in equity. Hunting et al. v. Curtis, 10 Id., 152.

Under section 1188, et seq., one owning land four miles distant from the dam in a straight line and six miles by the course of the stream, and three-quarters of a mile from the bank of the stream, was held not within the statute as to who shall be defendant under this and following sections, and such owner could not, after fifteen years from the issuance of license, proceed in equity to abate a dam as a nuisance, and to recover damages for alleged injuries to his land caused by overflow and seeping. Wilson v. Hawthorn, 72 Id., 451.

Sec. 1189. [What to contain.]—Such petition shall describe with reasonable certainty the locality where such mill or machinery is to be erected, together with that of such dam or race, and also of the lands that will be overflowed or otherwise affected thereby, and the names of the owners thereof. The person filing the petition shall be known as plaintiff and the owners of the land as defendants.
This section leaves out the direction as to notice required by section 1265 of the revision, under which it was held, that the service of notice there required was not a prerequisite to the filing of the petition, but that the notice might be given after the petition had been filed. Hoag v. Den­ton, 20 Iowa, 118.

SEC. 1190. [Order to issue for a jury: notice of served on defendants.]
The clerk shall thereupon issue an order, to which shall be attached a copy of the petition, directed to the sheriff, commanding him to summon a jury composed of twelve disinterested electors of his county to meet on a day fixed in said order upon the lands therein described, which order, including the copy of the petition, shall be served on the defendants in the same manner and for the same length of time previous to the day fixed in the order as is required for the service of original notices. If any of said defendants are non-residents of the state, they may be served by publication as original notices in like cases are required to be served. And if any defendant is a minor or insane person who has no guardian, the clerk, at the time of issuing the order, may appoint a guardian to defend for him by indorsement on such order.

SEC. 1191. [When lands are in another county.]—If any of the lands are situate in a county other than that in which the petition is required to be filed, the proceedings herein referred to may take place to the same extent and in the same manner as if such lands were situated in the county where the petition is filed.

SEC. 1192. [Jury to appraise damages.]—The jury shall be sworn to impartially and to the best of their skill and judgment view the lands described in the petition, and ascertain and appraise the damages each of the defendants will sustain by reason of such lands being overflowed or otherwise injuriously affected by the dam or race, or the heightening or enlarging the same, and whether the dwelling-house, outhouse, orchard or garden of any defendant will be so affected, and if so, whether the same has been placed there for that purpose.

SEC. 1193. [Hear witnesses and report finding.]—The jury may, in addition to examining the premises, hear and examine witnesses. They shall report their findings in writing and attach the same to the order, which shall be returned by the sheriff to the clerk, and if it appears therefrom that the dwelling-house, outhouse, orchard or garden of any defendant will be injuriously affected, and that the same was placed on the premises for that purpose, such fact shall not be considered any bar or hindrance to the construction or building of the race or dam.

SEC. 1194. (As amended by ch. 22, 15th g. a.) [Appeal.]—Either party may appeal from such assessment of damages to the court where the proceedings are pending within thirty days after the assessment is made, in the manner, and the proceedings on such appeal shall be, as provided in chapter four of this title.

SEC. 1195. [Cause shown.]—When said report is filed, the clerk shall issue an order directed to the defendants, requiring them to appear at the next term of the court and show cause, if any they have, why a license should not be granted to construct the dam or race, which order shall be served in the same manner as hereinafter directed.

When a second writ issues, no further notice is necessary. It will be presumed that the defendant has been brought into court upon the order required in section 1195. Burnham v. Thomp­son, 35 Iowa, 426.

SEC. 1196. [Objections filed: pleadings: amendment of: another jury.]—On or before the day fixed in the order for the defendants to show cause, they may file any objections to the prior proceedings or to granting the license they see proper. The petition and objections filed thereto shall constitute the pleadings, and the same may be amended upon such terms as the court deems just, and if the proceedings of the jury are found informal or defective in substance, the court may order a new jury to be impaneled upon such terms as to notice as it may direct. The return of the sheriff may be amended at any stage of the proceedings in accordance with the facts.
SEC. 1197. [Written testimony.]—Testimony may be taken to be introduced on final hearing before the court, in the same manner that testimony is taken in equitable actions triable on written testimony.

SEC. 1198. [License granted.]—If it shall appear to the court that neither the dwelling house, outhouse, garden or orchard of any defendant will be overflowed or injuriously affected, and the court shall judge it reasonable for the public benefit, license shall be granted to construct such dam or race, on the plaintiff paying to the proper parties the damages found by the jury and decreed by the court.

SEC. 1199. [Forfeiture of.]—If the plaintiff does not begin within one year thereafter to construct said dam or race, and finish and have in operation the mill and machinery in three years thereafter, and afterward keep it in good repair for the accommodation of the public, or in case said dam, race, mill or machinery be destroyed, he shall not begin to repair or rebuild it within one year, and finish it in three years, then said license shall be forfeited.

SEC. 1200. [Continuance.]—If the order shall not be executed by the sheriff on the day therein mentioned, he may, from time to time, appoint another day, notice thereof being given to the parties interested, as hereinbefore provided; and if inquest cannot be completed in one day, the sheriff shall adjourn the jury, from day to day, until its completion.

SEC. 1201. [No bar to action.]—No proceeding under this chapter shall bar an action which could have been maintained if this chapter had not been enacted, unless the prosecution or action was actually foreseen and estimated upon the inquest. But a proceeding under this chapter may be pleaded in bar of an action brought to recover damages subsequently sustained by raising the dam, although the jury allowed no damages in the proceeding under which the license was obtained. Watson v. Van Meter, 43 Iowa, 76.

SEC. 1202. [New party made.]—Any owner of land affected by any proceedings under this chapter, who has not been made party by reason of want of notice, or from any other cause, may be made party thereto by proper proceedings at any time thereafter.

SEC. 1203. [Costs.]—Costs and fees under this chapter shall be the same as in other cases for like services, and shall be paid by the plaintiff.

SEC. 1204. [Repair of injured banks or race by owner of machinery.]—Where the water backed up by any dam belonging to any mill or machinery is about to break through or over the banks of the stream or race, or to wash a channel, so as to turn the water of such stream or race, or any part thereof, out of its ordinary channel, whereby such mills or machinery will be injured or affected, the owner or occupier of such mill or machinery, if he do not own such banks, or the lands lying contiguous thereto, may, if necessary, enter thereon, and erect and keep in repair such embankments and other works as shall be necessary to prevent such water from breaking through or over the banks of such stream or race, or washing a channel as aforesaid, such owner or occupier committing thereon no unnecessary waste or damage, and being liable to pay any damages which the owner of the lands may actually sustain by the erection and repair aforesaid.

SEC. 1205. [Penalty for injuring embankment.]—If any person shall injure, destroy or remove any such embankment, or other works, the owner or occupier of such mill or machinery may recover of such person all damages he may sustain by reason of such injury, destruction or removal.

SEC. 1206. [Utilizing fall below dam.]—Any person owning and using a water-power for the purpose of propelling machinery, shall have the right to acquire, maintain and utilize the fall below such power for the purpose of improving the same, in like manner and to the same extent as provided in this chapter for the erection or heightening of mill dams. After such right has been acquired, the shall be considered part and parcel of said water-power or privilege, and the deepening or excavating of the stream or tail race as herein contemplated shall in no way affect any rights relating to such water-power acquired by the owner thereof prior thereto.

CHAPTER 2.

OF DRAINS, DITCHES AND WATER-COURSES.

SECTION 1207. (As amended by sec. 1, ch. 140, 16th g. a., and ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Supervisors to locate.]—The board of supervisors of any county having a population of (five) thousand inhabitants, as shown by the last preceding census, may locate and cause to be constructed (levees,) ditches or drains, or change the direction of any water-course in such county, whenever the same will be conduci to the public health, convenience or welfare.

The statute authorizing counties to construct ditches where they may be needed, and assess the cost upon adjacent lands benefited thereby, is not in conflict with the constitution. Hatch et al. v. Pottawattamie County et al., 43 Iowa, 442.

This statute is based upon considerations of public good and not on private advantage, and the supervisors can order the work only after a petition is presented, signed, by a majority of the persons residing in the county and owning land adjacent to the proposed improvement. Patterson et al. v. Baumer, Id., 477 (see section 1208, ante, p. 312).

SEC. 1208. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Procedings: bond filed: survey made: notice given.]—A petition signed by a majority of persons resident in the county, owning land adjacent to such improvement, shall be first filed in the office of the county auditor, setting forth the necessity of the same, the starting point, route and termini. A bond shall be filed in said office with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the auditor, and conditioned to pay all costs and expenses incurred in case the supervisors refuse to grant the prayer of the petition. The auditor shall thereupon place a copy of said petition in the hands of the county surveyor, or a competent engineer, who shall take with him the necessary assistants and proceed to make a survey of the proposed (levee,) ditch, drain or change in the direction of the water-course, and return a plat and profile of the same to the auditor; such return shall set forth a full and detailed description of the proposed improvement, its availability, necessity and probable cost, with a descrip­tion of each tract of land owned by different persons through which the proposed improvement is to be located, how it will be affected thereby, and its situation and level as compared with that of adjoining lands, together with such other facts as he may deem material. The county auditor shall immediately thereafter cause notice in writing to be served on the owner of each tract of land along the route of the proposed (levee,) ditch, drain or change in the direction of such water-course, who is a resident of the county, of the pendency and prayer of said petition, and the session of the board of supervisors at which the same will be heard, which notice shall be served ten days prior to said session, in the same manner that original notices are required to be served. In case any such owner is a non-resident of the county, such notice shall be published for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the county.

The petition of the character, and signed by the residents interested in the improvements, as prescribed in section 1208 of the code, is a jurisdictional matter and unless the requirements of this and the following section are complied with the supervisors can gain no jurisdiction to act in the premises. Richman et al. v. The Board of Supervisors, etc., 70 Iowa, 637.

Unless the petition for the establishment of a ditch be signed by a majority of persons residing in the county, and owning lands adjacent to the proposed improvement as provided by section 1208 of the code, the board of supervisors acquire no jurisdiction in the matter, and any special tax levied by them to pay the cost of constructing the ditch is illegal. Shaw et al. v. Board of Supervisors of Johnson Co., 34 N. W. R., 298; Sheppard v. Board of Supervisors, 33 Id., 770.
SEC. 1209. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Supervisors to view premises.]-The supervisors, at the session set for the hearing of said petition, shall, if they find the preceding section to have been complied with, proceed to hear and determine said petition; and if they deem it necessary shall view the premises, and, if they find such (levee,) ditch, drain or change in the direction of the water-course to be necessary, and that the same will be conducive to the public health, convenience, or welfare, and no application shall have been made for compensation as provided in the next section, shall proceed to locate and establish such (levee,) ditch, drain or water-course, on the route specified in the plat and return of said county surveyor or engineer. But, if any application for compensation has been made, further proceedings shall be adjourned to the next regular session; and the county auditor shall forthwith proceed to appoint appraisers to assess and determine the damages and compensation of such claimant, who shall proceed in the manner as provided by law for the assessment of damages in the opening of highways; and the compensation so found and assessed in favor of said claimant shall be paid, in the first instance, by the parties benefited by such improvement, or secured to be paid upon such terms and conditions as the county auditor may deem just and proper; and the said supervisors shall, at the next regular session after such compensation shall have been assessed and paid, or secured as aforesaid, proceed to locate and establish such (levee,) ditch, drain or water-course, as hereinbefore provided.

SEC. 1210. (As amended by section 2, ch. 140, 16th g. a., and ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [When and how claimed.]-Any person claiming compensation for land required for the purpose of constructing any such (levee,) ditch, drain, or water-course (or for damages sustained by the change of direction of any such water-course) shall make his application in writing therefor to the county supervisors on or before the first day of the session at which the petition has been set for hearing, and on failure to make such application, shall be deemed and held to have waived his, her, or their right to such compensation.

SEC. 1211. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Supervisors to divide the work.]-Said supervisors, whenever they shall have established any such (levee,) ditch, drain, or water-course, shall divide the same into suitable sections, not less in number than the number of owners of land through which the same may be located, and shall also prescribe the time within which work upon each section shall be completed.

SEC. 1212. [Auditor to let the work, etc.]—The county auditor shall cause notice to be given of the time and place of letting, and of the kind and amount of work to be done upon each section, and the time fixed for its completion, by publication for thirty days in some newspaper printed and of general circulation in said county, and shall let the work upon the sections respectively to the lowest bidder therefor; and the person or persons taking such work at such letting (shall be paid in the following manner: that the engineer in charge of the construction of the (levee,) ditch, drain, or shall furnish the contractors monthly estimates of the amount of work done on each section; that upon the filing of such estimates with the county auditor, the auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of the contractor for eighty per cent of the value of the work done according to the estimate; and when such (levee,) ditch or drain is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge, and when he so certifies the same to the county auditor, then the auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of said contractor upon the (levee or) drainage fund for the balance due the contractor as provided in the following section. If any person to whom any portion of said work shall be let as aforesaid, shall fail to perform said work, the same shall be re-let by the county auditor, in the manner hereinbefore provided.
SEC. 1213. (As amended by sec. 3, ch. 140, 16th g. a.) [Costs and fees: how paid.]—The auditor and surveyor, or engineers shall be allowed such fees for services under the preceding sections of this chapter as the supervisors shall in each case deem reasonable and allow; and all other fees and costs accruing under the preceding sections shall be the same as provided by law for like services in other cases; and all costs, expenses, and cost of construction, fees and compensation for property appropriated (or damages sustained by the change of direction of such water-course,) which shall accrue and be assessed and determined, shall be paid out of the county treasury, from the fund collected for that purpose, on the order of the county auditor.

The payment for the ditching in the first instance out of the general fund is not such a violation of law as will enable persons assessed with taxes therefor to evade its payment. Patterson v. Baumer, 43 Iowa, 477.

SEC. 1214. (As amended by ch. 139, 21st g. a.) [Equitable apportionment made of expenses, costs and fees.]—(Whenever any such ditch, drain or change in the direction of any water course, shall have been located and established, as provided in the preceding section, or when it shall be necessary to cause any such ditches, drains or water courses to be reopened and repaired, the auditor shall commission and appoint six disinterested freeholders of the county, not interested in the like question, who shall, within twenty days after such appointment, personally inspect and classify as "dry," "low," "wet" or "swamp," all the land benefited by the location and construction of such ditch, drain or water course, or the repairing or reopening of the same and shall make an equitable apportionment of the cost, expenses, costs of construction, fees and compensation for property appropriated or damages sustained by the construction of any such ditch, drain, change of direction of such water course or of repairing and reopening the same, and make report thereof in writing to the board of supervisors, which apportionment shall accrue and be assessed among the owners of the land benefited by the location, construction or the reopening and repairing of such ditch, drain or water course, in proportion to the benefit of each of them through along the line, or in the vicinity of whose lands the same may be located, constructed or reopened and repaired respectively, and the same may be levied upon the lands of the owner so benefited, in said proportions and collected in the same manner that other taxes are levied and collected for county purposes, and the amounts so assessed and collected shall be paid out of the county treasury, from the funds collected for that purpose on the order of the county auditor, and said commissioners shall receive for each day's service, when so engaged, two dollars, to be paid out of the funds so collected. Any such ditch, drain or water course, which is now or may hereafter be constructed, so as to prevent the surplus and overflow waters from the adjacent land from entering the same, is hereby declared a nuisance and the same may be abated as provided in title 20, chapter 5, of the code of Iowa, and diverting, obstructing, impeding or filling up of such drains, ditches, or water courses in any manner by any persons, without legal authority, is hereby declared a nuisance, and any person convicted of such crime shall be punished as provided in title 24, chapter 15 of the code, for the punishment of nuisances. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed so as to prohibit any land owner from appealing from the order of the board in assessing his land, for any of the purposes mentioned in this section, to the circuit court of the county, in the same manner that appeals are taken in the location of highways, nor shall the same be construed so as to prohibit the maintenance of an action for the recovery of any taxes erroneously or wrongfully assessed, for any of the purposes mentioned in this section, and in order to show that such assessment was erroneous or wrongful, it shall be necessary to prove that such lands so assessed were not benefited by the location, construction or maintenance of such ditch, drain or water course.)
Where a ditch was constructed by the county under chapter 2, title 10 of the code, and warrants had been drawn on the ditch fund, and payment thereof was refused, when presented to the county treasurer, because the board of supervisors had not raised a fund by the levy of a tax as contemplated by section 1214 of the code as it was prior to its amendments by chapter 139, laws of 1886, the holder of the warrants was held entitled to a judgment against the county for the amount thereof, and to the enforcement of payment by the levy of a tax in obedience to the provisions of the statutes. And it is not necessary to the recovery of such judgment that a request be made of the supervisors to raise a fund by the levy of the proper tax, and that such request be denied. Mills County National Bank v. Mills County, 67 Iowa, 697.

In a proceeding under this section to assess the cost of constructing a ditch on the lands along the line, and in the vicinity of the ditch, the board of supervisors has the power to determine what lands are in the vicinity of the ditch and subject to assessment; and from their determination in the matter there is no appeal. Lambert v. Mills County, 58 Id., 666.

SEC. 1215. [Record kept.]—The auditor shall keep a full and complete record of all proceedings had in each case.

SEC. 1216. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Appeal.]—[The petitioners, or any of them, or the applicant for compensation for land taken, or for damages sustained by reason of the change of the direction of any water-course, may appeal from the order locating and establishing such (levee,) ditch or drain, or changing the directions of such water-course, or refusing so to do, and from the amount allowed as damages by pursuing the same method provided for appeals from assessment of damages in the location of highways, and the auditor shall make out transcripts as provided in appeals taken from the assessment of damages in case of highways].

DRAINAGE OF SWAMP OR MARSH LAND.

SEC. 1217. [Application for, made by petition to township trustees.]—Any person owning any swamp, marsh or wet land, desiring to drain the same by cutting a ditch through the land of others, and who is unable to agree upon the terms thereof with such other persons, may make application in writing to the township trustees of the township where such swamp or marsh land is situated, with a description of such land, the commencement and termini of the proposed ditch; and a description of the land belonging to others, with their names, through which it will pass. Such petition shall be filed by the township clerk.

SEC. 1218. [Meeting of trustees: notice thereof given: land owners.]—When the application is filed the clerk shall notify the trustees, who shall immediately determine upon the time and place they will meet to consider the application, and shall cause the applicant and all persons owning land through which said ditch is to pass, who are residents of the county, to be notified of the time and place of said meeting, which notice shall be served ten days previous to such day in the same manner as original notices, and if any of such owners of land are non-residents of the county, said notice shall be served on them by posting up copies thereof in three public places in the township; satisfactory proof by affidavit of such posting, and places where posted, shall be furnished said trustees and filed with the clerk.

SEC. 1219. [Hearing: adjournment of.]—Upon the day fixed for the hearing, the trustees, if satisfied that the requirements of the preceding section have been complied with, may proceed to hear and determine the matter of the application, or they may adjourn the same to a future day, and, if necessary, may cause another notice to be served in the manner above required. But such adjournment shall not be for a longer period than twenty days.

SEC. 1220. [Trustees determine course, width, and depth of ditch: record of made.]—If the trustees are satisfied from a personal examination of the premises, or from evidence of witnesses, that such swamp or marsh lands are a source of disease, that the public health will be promoted by draining the same, that such ditch is necessary for the proper cultivation of such lands, that the permanent value thereof will be increased thereby, and that it is necessary, in order to drain said lands, that such ditch should pass through the lands of others, they shall determine the direction, depth, and width of such ditch, as near as may be, and, if necessary, may employ the county surveyor to assist them, and after such examination, or hearing such evidence, said trustees may order or refuse the construction of said ditch. All the findings and doings of the trustees shall be reduced to writing, and entered of record by the clerk.

A ditch can only be legally established under section 1220 of the code, by a written record showing the action of the trustees, and that the ditch was necessary for the public health. *Hull

SEC. 1221. [Costs: by whom paid: bond required.]—The applicant shall pay all costs of the proceedings before the trustees, and they may require, before fixing the day of meeting as above provided, such applicant to give bond with sureties to be approved by the township clerk, conditioned to pay all such costs and expenses.

SEC. 1222. [Trustees to assess damages to land owner.]—If the trustees are satisfied the ditch will damage the land of any person, other than the applicant for the ditch, through which it has been located, they shall assess the amount to be paid the owner, and after payment, or tender of the same, to the person entitled thereto within thirty days after the same is assessed or ascertained on appeal in the circuit court, or, in case no damages are assessed, the applicant may enter upon the land through which the ditch passes, with the necessary implements to accomplish the work.

SEC. 1223. [Appeal: how taken.]—The applicant, or any person through whose land the ditch is located, may appeal from so much order or action of the trustees as relates to the assessment of damages to the circuit court, in the same manner as to bond, the conditions thereof, notice of appeal, and the time within which it is to be taken, as is provided by law in cases of appeals from the assessment of damages on the location of highways. The township clerk shall approve the bond and make out a transcript of the proceedings before the trustees within ten days after the bond is filed and approved, and file the same with the clerk.

SEC. 1224. [Trial of: in district court.]—On the trial of such appeal, the person claiming damages shall be plaintiff and the applicant defendant, and if the appeal is taken by any person other than the applicant, judgment shall be rendered by the court for the amount found due such person as damages, which may be enforced as are other judgments; and if the appeal is taken by the applicant, no judgment shall be rendered for the amount found due any person as damages, but the amount thereof shall be certified to the township clerk, and the same shall thereafter be regarded as if the same had been assessed by the trustees at the time so certified. The court shall make such disposition of the costs as is required in similar cases in appeals from the assessment of damages on the location of highways. But the payment or acceptance of the damages assessed by the trustees shall bar the right to appeal.

Where an appeal from proceedings condemning the right of way for a railway was brought to the notice of the sheriff, and he directed his deputy to accept service of the notice of appeal for him, and it was accepted in due form in writing, to which the deputy signed the sheriff's name, Waltmeyer v. The Wis., Iowa & Neb. Ry Co., 64 Iowa, 638.

SEC. 1225. If said drain shall cross a highway, it shall be bridged or covered at the expense of the applicant.

SEC. 1226. [Ditch repaired.]—If the ditch becomes out of repair the applicant, or any one interested therein, may make application in writing to the township trustees for leave to repair the same, whereupon such trustees shall make such orders in relation thereto as they deem proper, and may empower such applicant or other interested person to enter upon the land of another for the purpose of repairing such ditch.

Sec. 1227. [Penalty for obstructing.]—Any person who shall dam up, obstruct, or in any way injure any ditch or ditches so opened, shall be liable to the person owning or possessing the swamp, marsh, or other low lands for the draining of which such ditch or ditches shall have been opened, double the damages that shall be assessed by the jury for such injury, and in case of a second or other subsequent offense by the same person, treble such damages.

DRAINAGE OF COAL LANDS.

Sec. 1228. [How done: damages assessed.]—Any person, or corporation, owning or possessing any land underlaid with coal, who is unable to mine such coal by reason of the accumulation of water in such mine, may drain the same through, over, or under the surface of land belonging to another person, and if such person or corporation and the owner of the land cannot agree as to the amount of damages that will be sustained by such owner, the parties may proceed to have the necessary right of way condemned and the damages assessed under the provisions of chapter four of this title.

DRAINAGE OF LEAD MINES.

Sec. 1229. [Compensation for.]—Any person, or corporation, who by machinery, such as engines or pumps, or by making drains or adit levels, or in any other way, shall rid any lead-bearing mineral lands or lead mines of water, thereby enabling the miners and the owners of mineral interest in said lands to make them productive and available for mining purposes, shall be entitled to receive one-tenth of all the lead mineral taken from said lands as compensation for said drainage.

This section of the code is not in conflict with the state constitution. It is identical in principle with statutes regulating party walls and partition fences, and provides only that one should compensate another for outlays lawfully made by which he himself is benefited. The act of building the adit is lawful, because it tends to promote the public interest, and is productive of public good. Ahern v. The Dubuque Lead and Level Mining Co. et al., 43 Iowa, 140.

Sec. 1230. [To be set apart: miners to allow examination of mines.]—The owners of the mineral interest in said lands, and persons mining upon and taking lead mineral from said lands, shall jointly and severally set apart and deliver from time to time, when demanded, the said one-tenth part of said mineral taken from said lands to the person or corporation entitled thereto as compensation for drainage. The owners of the mineral interest in said lands shall allow the party entitled to such compensation, and his agents, at any and all times to descend into and examine said mines, and to enter any building occupied for mining purposes upon any of said lands and examine and weigh the mineral taken therefrom.

Sec. 1231. [Penalty.]—Upon the failure or refusal of any owner of the mineral interest in said lands, or of any person taking the mineral therefrom, to comply with the provisions of the preceding section, the person or corporation entitled to said compensation for drainage may sue for and recover the value of said mineral in any court of competent jurisdiction. And upon the hearing of any such case, if it shall appear that the defendant obstructed the plaintiff in the exercise of the right to examine the said mines, and to weigh said mineral, or concealed or secretly carried away any mineral taken from said lands, the court shall render judgment for double the amount proved to be due from such defendant.

Sec. 1232. [Notice to smelters: effect of.]—The person or corporation entitled to said drainage compensation, may, at any time, leave with any smelter of lead mineral in this state, a written notice stating that said person, or corporation, claim of the persons named in said notice the amount to which said person or corporation may be entitled, which notice shall have the effect of notices in garnishment, and also authorize the said smelter to retain, for the use of the persons entitled thereto, the one-tenth part of the mineral taken from said land and received from the person named in said notice; the payment or delivery of the one-tenth part of the mineral taken from any of said lands by any one of the persons whose duty it is made hereby to pay or deliver the same, shall discharge the parties liable jointly with him except their liability to contribute among themselves.

SEC. 1233. [Right of way.]—Any person, or corporation, engaged as aforesaid, in draining such mines and lead bearing mineral lands, whenever he or they shall deem it necessary for the prosecution of their work, shall have the right of way upon, over, or under the surface of such mineral lands and the contiguous and neighboring lands, for the purpose of conveying the water from said mineral lands by troughs, pipes, ditches, water races, or tunnels, and the right to construct and use shafts and air holes in and upon the same, doing as little injury as possible in making said improvements.

SEC. 1234. [Damages for.]—If the said person, or corporation, engaged in draining as aforesaid, and the owner of any land upon which said right of way may be deemed necessary, cannot agree as to the amount of damages which will be sustained by the owner by reason thereof, the parties may proceed to have the same assessed under the provisions of chapter four of this title.

SEC. 1235. [Consent of owners required.]—The foregoing provisions shall not be construed to require the owners of the mineral interest in any of said lands to take mineral therefrom, or to authorize any other person to take the mineral from said lands without the consent of the said owners.

CONSTRUCTION OF DRAINS THROUGH TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

An Act to provide for opening drains to be constructed through two or more adjoining counties, amendatory of chapter 2, title X, of the code.

SECTION 1. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a. Code, ch. 2, title 10, amended.) [Board of supervisors shall appoint commissioners to locate.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That chapter 2, of title 10, of the code, be amended as follows: In all cases when it becomes necessary to construct a [levee or] drain through two or more contiguous counties or parts of counties, and a petition for such [levee or] drain has been presented to the board of supervisors of the counties through which such [levee or] drain is to be constructed, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of each of such counties to appoint a commissioner to act with the commissioner or commissioners of such other counties in locating such [levee or] drain.

SEC. 2. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Duty of commissioners.]—It shall be the duty of the commissioners appointed under section 1 of this act, to meet within twenty days after the appointment of the last commissioner by such board of supervisors, and at once locate such [levee or] drain through their respective counties.

Approved March 25, 1878.

The first section of this act does not dispense with the necessity of a petition signed by a majority of the persons in interest, in order to give the supervisors jurisdiction to construct a levee where it extends into two counties. Richman et al. v. Board of Supervisors, 70 Iowa, 627.
CONSTRUCTION OF DRAINS THROUGH TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

An Act to amend chapter 121, acts of seventeenth general assembly, section 1212, code of 1873, relating to drains of two or more counties.

SECTION 1. [Amendment to ch. 121, 17th g. a.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That chapter 121 of the acts of the seventeenth general assembly be amended by adding thereto the following sections:

SEC. 2. [Engineer appointed.]—That said commissioners shall appoint a competent engineer, who shall have charge of the construction of said (levee,) ditch, drain, or change in said water-course.

SEC. 3. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Duration of commission.]—That said commission shall continue until the drain, (levee) or ditch are fully completed. They shall, in connection with the engineer in charge, proceed to make a survey of the proposed (levee,) ditch, drain, or change of water-course, and return a plat and profile of the same to the county auditor of each county through which the same may pass. Such return shall set forth a full and detailed description of the proposed improvement, its availability, necessity, and probable cost, with a description of each tract of land owned by different persons through which the proposed improvement is to be located, or which may be benefited by reason of its construction, how it will be affected thereby, and its situation and level as compared with that of adjoining lands, together with such facts as they may deem material. The county auditor and the board of supervisors of each county shall then proceed in the same manner as though the (levee,) ditch, or drain was all located in one county, as provided by sections 1208, 1209, code of 1873.

SEC. 4. [Party aggrieved may appeal to district court.]—That any person aggrieved by the action of the board of supervisors of any county in locating said (levee,) ditch or drain, or in fixing the number of acres of land benefited by reason of the construction of such (levee,) ditch or drain, shall have the right of appeal to the circuit court of the county in which such person's land may be situated, by serving notice thereof to the first four petitioners within twenty days after such action of the board of supervisors.

SEC. 5. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Ditches and drains in two or more counties.]—That when a (levee,) ditch or drain has been located in two or more counties the land benefited by the (levee,) ditch or drain shall be proportionally taxed, as provided in section 1214, code of 1873, the same as though the (levee or) drain and land were all in one county.

SEC. 6. [Transfer of funds.]—That when a greater amount of money is collected by the county treasurer of a county through which such (levee,) ditch or drain may pass than is needed for the work actually done in that county, and if in any county there should be more work done than the equitable tax in that county will pay for, then the boards of supervisors of the several counties shall confer together and ascertain where the excess and deficiency exists, and the county where the excess exists shall transfer the excess to the county or counties where the deficit exists.

SEC. 7. (As amended by ch. 44, 19th g. a.) [Additional levies.]—That if the levy first made by the several boards of supervisors should be insufficient to pay for the construction of the (levee,) ditch or drain, then the several boards may make an additional levy in the same ratio as the first was made.

SEC. 8. [Amendment of.]—That section 1212, code of 1873, be amended by striking out the following words, commencing after the word "letting" in seventh line: "shall, on completion thereof to the satisfaction of the county supervisors, be paid for such work out of the county treasury, upon the order of the county auditor," and that the following be inserted in lieu thereof: "shall be paid in the following manner: That the engineer in charge of the construction of the ditch or drain shall furnish the contractors monthly estimates of the amount of work done on each section; that upon the filing of such estimates with the county auditor, the auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of the contractor for eighty per cent of the value of the work done, according to the estimate; and when said ditch or drain is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge, and when he so certifies the same to the county auditor, then the auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of said contractor upon the 'drainage fund' for the balance due to the contractor."

Approved March 22, 1876.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers, March 26, 1880).

(CHAPTER 186, LAWS OF 1884.)

DRAINS, LEVEES, AND CHANGES IN WATER COURSES.

An Act in relation to ditches, drains, levees, embankments, and changes in water courses, and amendatory to chapter 2, title X, of the code.

SECTION 1. [Ditches or drains in public highway.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Ditches or drains may be located and constructed within the limits of any public highway, and on either or both sides thereof, and levees or embankments upon and along the same; provided, they are so constructed as not to prevent public travel thereon. The engineer or commissioner appointed to locate ditches, drains, levees, or embankments, may recommend the establishment of a public highway upon and along the route of the same, and the board of supervisors may establish the same on such recommendations in the same manner as on the report of the highway commissioner. All levees built by taxation under the drainage laws shall be under the control of the board of supervisors of the county in which they are situated, and the board shall have the power to grant the right of way thereon to any railway company that will maintain the same while used for railway purposes: provided, the steps for condemnation and payment therefor, contained in chapter 4, title 10, of the code, shall first be taken by said company; provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed so as to require such ditches or levees to be kept up at the expense of the county.

SEC. 2. [100 voters petition on overflowed lands.]—Whenever the petition of one hundred legal voters of the county, setting forth that any body or district of land in said county, described by metes and bounds or otherwise, is subject to overflow, or too wet for cultivation; and that in the opinion of petitioners the public health, convenience, or welfare, will be promoted by draining or leveeing the same, and also a bond, conditioned as required by section 1208 of the code, shall be filed with the county auditor, he shall appoint a competent engineer or commissioner, who shall proceed to examine said district of lands, and if he deem it advisable to survey and locate such ditches, drains, levees, embankments and changes in the direction of water courses as may be necessary for the reclamation of such lands or any part thereof, and he shall make substantially the same report and the same proceedings shall be had as now provided by law for the location and construction of ditches, drains, and changes in water courses, and two or more counties may unite in such work of reclamation in the manner provided by law.

SEC. 3. Board of supervisors to determine levy.]—If the board of supervisors shall be of the opinion that the estimated cost of reclamation of such district of lands is greater than should be levied and collected in a single year from the lands benefited, they may determine what proportion of the same should be levied and collected in each year, and they may issue drainage bonds of the county bearing not more than eight per cent annual interest, and payable in the proportion and at the times when such taxes so apportioned will have been collected and may devote the same at par to the payment of such work as it progresses, or may sell the same at not less than par, and devote the proceeds to such payment; and should the cost of such work exceed the estimate, a new apportionment of taxes may be made, and other bonds issued and used in like manner; but in no case shall any such bonds run longer than fifteen years, and at least ten per cent in amount of those issued on the first estimate shall be payable annually. The board of supervisors may divide the land to be benefited into drainage districts which shall be accurately described and numbered, and such drainage bonds shall be in sums of not less than fifty dollars each, and shall be numbered consecutively and issued as other county bonds are, and shall specify that they are drainage bonds, and designate by its number the drainage district on account of which they are issued. And in no case shall the amount of bonds issued exceed fifty per cent of the value of the lands in such drainage districts shown by the last assessment for taxation.

Sec. 4. [Tax to pay bond, etc.]—It shall be the duty of the board of supervisors to levy each year on the lands benefited, a tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds and so much of the principal as falls due in the succeeding year, and such tax shall be collected in the same manner as other county taxes, and shall be carried to the credit of the drainage district on account of which the bonds are issued, and shall be used to pay the principal and interest of said bonds as the same falls due; provided, that any surplus may be devoted to payment of works of reclamation in said districts or repairs thereof. (Took effect by publication in newspapers.)

DRAINAGE.

An Act to repeal chapter 188, laws of the twentieth (20th) general assembly and to enact a substitute therefor relating to drainage.

Section 1. [Repeal.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That chapter 188, laws of the twentieth general assembly, be repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof: that whenever any person who is the owner of any swamp, wet or marsh land, which on account of its condition may endanger the public health, or is not for that reason in a proper condition for cultivation, shall desire to construct any tile or other underground drain through the land of another, and shall be unable to agree with the owner or owners of such land as to the same, he may file with the clerk of the township where said land is situated an application therefor, giving a description of the land or lands through which he may desire to construct the same, and the township clerk shall forthwith notify the township trustees of said township of said application, who shall fix a time and place for the hearing of same, which time shall not be more than twenty days distant, and they shall cause said clerk to notify the applicant and land owner of the time and place of said hearing at least ten days before the time fixed for the hearing of same, which notice shall be in writing, signed by said clerk, and shall be served on said applicant and land owner, if within the county, and, if not, then upon his agent for said land, if within the county, in the same manner as is now provided by law for the service of original notices; and in case that neither said party nor his agent are residents within said county, then the same shall be served by posting written notices in three public places in said township, one of which shall be upon said land at least fifteen days before said hearing.

Sec. 2. [Powers of trustees.]-That upon the day fixed for hearing, if said trustees are satisfied that the provisions of the prior section have been complied with, they may proceed to hear and determine the same, and shall have power to adjourn from time to time until same is completed; provided, that no adjournment shall be for more than fifteen days.

Sec. 3. [Trustees may direct construction.]-The said trustees may fix the point or points of entrance and exit or outlet of said tile or other underground drain on said land, the general course of same through said land, the size and depth of same, when the same shall be constructed, how kept in repair, what connections may be made with same, what compensation, if any, shall be made therefore, and any other question arising in connection with same; and they shall reduce their findings to writing, which shall be filed with the clerk of said township, who shall record it in full in his book of records of said township, and said finding and decision shall be final unless appealed therefrom as hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 4. [Disagreement of owners.]-Wherever any water course or natural drainage line crosses the boundary line between two adjoining land owners, and both parties desire to drain the land along such water course or natural drainage line, but are unable to agree upon the conditions as to the junction or connection of the lines of tile or other drainage at the boundary line aforesaid, then and in such case the township trustees shall have full authority to hear and determine all questions arising relative thereto between such land owners and to render such judgment thereupon as shall to them seem just.

Sec. 5. [Drains along highways.]-Any person shall have the right to go upon any public highway to construct an outlet to a drain provided he shall leave the highway in as good condition as it was before the drain was constructed, to be determined by the supervisor of highways in the district where the work is done.

Sec. 6. [Railroads crossing lands.]-That whenever any railroad crosses the land of any person or persons, who desire to drain their land for any of the purposes set forth in section one (1) of this act, the party or parties desiring such drain or drains shall notify the railroad company by leaving a written notice with the nearest station agent, stating in such notice the starting point, route or termination of such drain or drains, and if the railroad company refuse or neglect for the space of thirty days to dig across their right of way a drain of equal depth and size of the one dug by the party who wishes to drain his land, then the party who desires to drain the land may proceed to dig such drain and the railroad company shall be liable for the cost of the construction of such drain, to be collected in any court having jurisdiction.

Sec. 7. [Appeal to district court.]-Either party may appeal to the district court of the county from all of the findings of the township trustees, within ten days after the findings have been filed with the clerk, and the party appealing shall cause a notice in writing of the taking of said appeal to be served upon the opposite party for the same time and in the same manner as now provided by law for service of original notice in the district court; and if the appellant is the party petitioning for the drain, he must furnish a bond conditioned to pay all the costs of appeal assessed against him, said bond to be approved by the township clerk; and the matter shall be tried de novo in said court; provided, that if the appellant does not recover a more favorable finding or judgment, in the district court than he did before the trustees, he shall pay all the costs of the appeal.

Sec. 8. [Township clerk.]-In case of appeal the township clerk shall certify to the district court a transcript of the proceeding before said trustees, which shall be filed in said court with the appeal bond, the party appealing paying for said transcript and the docketing of appeal as in other cases, and upon appeal the party claiming damages shall be plaintiff and the applicant defendant.

SEC. 9. [Costs. ]—The applicant shall pay the costs of the trustees' clerk and services of notices on the hearing before the trustees, and shall pay all damages awarded before entering on the construction of said tile or other drain through the lands of the other.

SEC. 10. In case any dispute shall arise as to the repair of any tile, or other underground drain, the same shall be determined by said trustees in same manner as in the original construction of same.

Approved April 9, 1888.

CHAPTER 3.

OF WATER-POWER IMPROVEMENTS.

SECTION 1236. [Powers of corporations organized for. ]—There is granted to any corporation hereafter organized in accordance with law, for the purpose of utilizing and improving any water-power within this state, or in the stream lying upon the borders thereof, the right to take and hold so much real estate as may be necessary for the location, construction, and convenient use of its canals, conduits, mains and water-ways, or other means employed in the utilization of such water-power, and for the construction of such buildings and their appurtenances as may be required for the purpose aforesaid. Such corporation may also take, remove and use for the construction and repair of its said canals, water-ways, buildings and appurtenances, any earth, gravel, stone, timber, or other materials, on or from the land so taken. Compensation shall be made for the land and materials so taken and used such by corporation, to the owner, in compliance with and in the manner provided in chapter four of this title.

SEC. 1237. [Same: consent of cities required. ]—Such corporations may use, raise, or lower any highway for the purpose of having their said canals, water-ways, mains and pipes pass over, along or under the same; and in such case shall put such highway, as soon as may be, in good repair and condition, for the safe and convenient use of the public. And such corporation may construct and carry their canals, conduits, water-ways, mains, or water-pipes across, over, or under any railway, canal, stream, or water course, when it shall be necessary for the construction or operation of the same, but shall do so in such manner as not to impede the travel, transportation, or navigation upon, or other proper use of, such railway, canal or stream. But the powers conferred in this section can only be exercised in cities and towns with the consent and under the control of the city council or trustees of said municipal corporation.

SEC. 1238. [Right of way over lands belonging to public granted. ]—Such corporations are authorized to pass over, occupy, and enjoy, any of the school, university, and saline, or other lands of this state, whereof the fee, or any use, easement, or servitude therein is in the public, making compensation therefor. But no more of such land shall be taken than is required for the necessary use and convenience of such corporations.

SEC. 1239. [Powers enumerated. ]—Such corporations, in addition to other powers, shall have the following: To borrow money for the purpose of constructing, renewing, or repairing their works, and to make, execute and deliver contracts, bonds, notes, bills, mortgages, deeds of trust, and other conveyance, charging or incumbering their property, including all and singular their franchises, or any part or parcel thereof; to erect, maintain, and operate canals, conduits, mains, waterways, mills, factories, and other buildings and machinery, including waterways, sluices, and conduits, for the purpose of carrying waste water off from said premises to the stream from which the same was taken, or other convenient place; to let, lease, or sell, and convey any portion of their water supply, and any of the buildings, mills, or factories, or machinery aforesaid, for such sums, rents, tolls and rates, as shall be agreed upon between the parties; and to lay down, maintain, and operate, such water mains, conduits, leads and service pipes as shall be necessary to supply any building, village, town, or city, with water; and the grantee of any such corporations, or purchaser of the said property franchise, rights, and privileges, under and by virtue of any judicial sale, shall take and hold the same as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as the same were held and enjoyed by such corporations.

SEC. 1240. [Must commence in two and complete in five years: legislative control of corporations retained.]-Such corporation shall take, hold, and enjoy the privilege of utilizing and improving the water power, and the rights, powers, and privileges aforesaid, which shall be specifically mentioned and described in its articles of incorporation; provided, it shall proceed in good faith to make the improvements and employ the powers in its said articles of incorporation mentioned, and shall, within two years from the date of its organization, provide the necessary capital, complete the preliminary surveys, and actually commence the work of improving and utilizing the water power and furnishing the supply of water so mentioned in its articles of incorporation; and said water works and canals shall be completed within five years from the time when said corporation has been organized; and, provided further, that the rights, powers, and privileges conferred by this chapter shall be at all times subject to legislative control.

CHAPTER 4.

TAKING PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR WORKS OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT.

SECTION 1241. (As amended by ch. 126, 17th g. a.) [By railway: limit of.]—Any railway corporation organized in this state [or chartered by or organized under the laws of the United States or any state or territory,] may take and hold, under the provisions of this chapter, so much real estate as may be necessary for the location, construction and convenient use of its railway, and may also take and remove, and use for the construction and repair of said railway and its appurtenances, any earth, gravel, stone, timber, or other materials, on or from the land so taken; the land so taken otherwise than by the consent of the owners, shall not exceed one hundred feet in width, except for wood and water stations, unless where greater width is necessary for excavation, embankment, or depositing waste earth. Under the statute a railroad company may take and hold so much land for their right of way, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, as shall be necessary for the location, construction and convenient use of its road, irrespective of whether such location be near a public highway or not, by paying the damages when private property is taken. Per Miller, Ch. J., in The C. B. & St. P. R. Co. v. Spafford, 41 Iowa, 292, 296.

A foreign corporation has no power to acquire or possess land for a railroad right of way in this state, and cannot therefore be made a party to a proceeding for the assessment of damages appropriated for that purpose. Holbert v. The St. L., K. C. & N. R. Co., 45 Id., 23.

Where a foreign corporation is using, by sufferance, the line of a domestic corporation, a land owner is entitled to an injunction restraining it from the use of that portion of the line running through his land until he shall have been compensated for the appropriation of the same for right of way. Id.

In procuring the right of way, railroad companies do not thereby acquire the right to divert a stream of water from its natural channel to the injury of the land owner. Stodghill v. The C., B. & Q. R. Co., 43 Id., 29.
While a railroad company cannot condemn more than one hundred feet in width for right of way, it is not necessary that it should locate its track in the middle of the land condemned. Stark v. The S. C. & P. R. Co., 43 Id., 501.

The fact that the company owns land adjacent to that which it seeks to condemn will not restrict its right of condemnation. Id.

Where landings belonging to one party were enclosed in common with those of another at the time the railroad was constructed through it, and subsequently a division fence was constructed and the company notified to construct a cattle guard thereat, which it failed to do, held, 1. that the company was liable for injury done to the crops upon the land of the plaintiff by cattle entering from the railway; and, 2. that the measure of damages was the actual value of the crops destroyed. Donald v. The St. L., K. C. & N. R'y Co., 44 Id., 158.

In an action against a railway company for damages for killing stock, wherein it is alleged that a gate was not provided with proper fastenings, it was held that the jury should have been allowed to consider whether or not the company was negligent in the construction of the gate. Hammond v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 43 Id., 168.

The company would not be released from liability by ignorance of the defect in the gate, if in the exercise of reasonable care it would have acquired knowledge of it. Id.

A defect in the original construction of the gate would be presumed to be known by the defendant, and plaintiff would not be required to give notice to the defendant of its existence, nor to repair it, even though it could be done at small expense. Id.

Where a lane leading from the highway to plaintiff's residence crossed the track of the railroad, and at each end of the lane were gates, which, with the enclosing fences, were maintained by him, his cow having been killed by the cars on a private crossing, it was held that the company was justified in assuming that he preferred the open crossing, and that he could not recover for the killing of the cow. Tyson v. The K. & D. M. R. Co., 43 Id., 207.

The restriction as to what is "necessary" in this section, applies to the quantity of land to be taken for right of way, and not to the quantity of earth, gravel, stone, timber, etc., which may be removed from the land condemned. But the railroad company may not wantonly destroy timber, or use earth, etc., for other purposes than those provided in the statute. Winklemans v. The Des Moines & N. W. R'y Co., 62 Id., 12.

The interest acquired by a railroad company taken as a right of way over real property under this section, is to occupy and use the surface of the land taken for the purpose of its railway, and to appropriate and use so much of the earth or other material upon the land as may be necessary for the construction and repair of its road. The owner of the land is not divested of the title. Holdingsworth v. The Des Moines & St. Louis R'y Co., 63 Id., 444.

Where the owner of real property granted to a railroad corporation "the right of way over and through the land for all purposes connected with the construction, use and occupation of its railway," it was held that the grantee had the legal right to dig a well on such right of way, and to use the water supplied by percolation for railway purposes, although such use may materially diminish the supply of water in a spring upon the grantor's land. Hongen v. The M. & St. Paul Railway Co., 30 Id., 556.

The provisions of the statute in respect to the appropriation of the right of way for railroad companies, applies as well to railways operated by animal power as those operated by steam. The City of Clinton v. The C. & L. Horse Railway Co., 57 Id., 61.

The interest in timber standing upon land taken by a railroad company for a right of way, remains in the owner of the soil; and the company have the right to take and remove only so much thereof as may be necessary for the construction and repair of the road and its appurtenances. Preston v. The D. & P. Railway Co., 11 Id., 15.

The statute limits the amount of land which may be taken by a railway company under condemnation proceedings, to 100 feet in width, except: First, on account of wood and water stations; second, where a greater width is necessary for excavation, embankment, or depositing waste earth. Johnson v. C. M. & St. P. R. Co. et al., 53 Id., 537, 542.

Plaintiff conveyed by quit claim deed a "right of way" over certain land. "For all purposes connected with the construction, use and occupation of said railway." Held that the deed did not confer upon the defendant the right to take sand from the right of way to construct a round house, because such use of the land was not included in the purpose for which the land was granted, as shown by the terms of the deed. On the other hand, it was held, that as the deed granted an easement only, for certain well defined purposes, the plaintiff might take sand from the right of way, so long as he did not interfere with the use of the land by the defendant as were contemplated in the deed. Vernallia v. The C. M. & St. Paul R'y Co., 69 Iowa, 806.

Sec. 1222. [Dams constructed to obtain water: limitation on right.]—It may, also, take and hold additional real estate at its water station, for the purpose of constructing dams and forming reservoirs of water to supply its engines. Such real estate shall, if the owner requests it, be set apart in a square or rectangular shape, including all the overflowed land, by the commissioners as hereafter provided; but the owner of the land shall not be deprived of access to the water or the use thereof in common with the company on his own land. And the dwelling-house, out-house, orchards, and gardens of any person shall not be overflowed or otherwise injuriously affected by any proceeding under this section.

SEC. 1243. [Pipes laid down and kept in repair; damages caused recovered by suit.]—Any such railway corporation may lay down pipes through any land adjoining the track of the railway, not to a greater distance than three-fourths of a mile therefrom, unless by consent of the owners of the land through which the pipes may pass beyond that distance, and maintain and repair such pipes, and thereby conduct water for the supply of its engines from any running stream; and shall, without unnecessary delay, after laying down or repairing such pipes, cover the same so as to restore the surface of the land through which they may pass to its natural grade; and shall, as soon as practicable, replace any fence that it may be necessary to open in laying down or repairing such pipes; and the owner of the land through which the same may be laid shall have a right to use the land through which such pipes pass in any manner so as not to interfere therewith; said pipes shall not be laid to any spring, nor be used so as to injuriously withdraw the water from any farm; provided, that such corporation shall be liable to the owner of any such lands for any damages occasioned by laying down, regulating, keeping open, or repairing such pipes, such damages to be recoverable from time to time as they may accrue in any ordinary action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

MANNER OF CONDEMNATION.

SEC. 1244. [Sheriff to summon jury on demand of either party.]—If the owner of any real estate, necessary to be taken for either of the purposes mentioned in the three preceding sections, refuse to grant the right of way, or other necessary interest in said real estate required for such purposes, or, if the owner and the corporation cannot agree upon the compensation to be paid for the same, the sheriff of the county in which said real estate may be situated shall, upon the application of either party, appoint six disinterested freeholders of said county, not interested in a like question, who shall inspect said real estate and assess the damages which said owner will sustain by the appropriation of his land for the use of said corporation, and make report in writing to the sheriff of said county, and if said corporation shall, at any time before it enters upon said real estate for the purpose of constructing said railway, pay to said sheriff for the use of said owner, the sum so assessed and returned to him as aforesaid, it may construct and maintain its railway over and across such premises.

The proceedings under the statute for the condemnation of lands to the use of railroads, simply fix the price at which, upon actual payment, the company may take the right of way. A judgment assessing the amount of damages passes no title to the company before payment, and does not bind it to accept the lands and pay the amount assessed. Gear v. The Dubuque & S. C. R. R. Co., 20 Iowa, 523.

And where, in such a proceeding, a judgment is entered in the usual form of a judgment in an action for debt, it will be construed to have no greater force or effect than it would have if entered conformably to the statute authorizing the proceeding. Id.

In a proceeding to appropriate land for the right of way of a railroad already constructed, evidence of damages resulting from defective construction, or the like, is not admissible. While such damages may furnish a cause of action to recover the same in a suit therefor, they are not to be considered in assessing the compensation to be allowed the owner for the right of way. King v. The Iowa Midland R. R. Co., 34 Id., 458.

Nor, for the same reason, could the failure of the company for a time to erect cattle-guards be considered in estimating damages in such a proceeding. Id.

In a proceeding of this kind on appeal, the propriety of sending the jury to view the real estate in controversy rests in the sound discretion of the court, and where it refuses to do so, its action will not be disturbed where no abuse of discretion appears. Id.

An agreement in writing, executed by a land owner, to give a right of way to a railroad company upon its compliance with a certain condition, the agreement being placed in the hands of a third party, not an agent of the company, who returned it to the land owner after the company had failed of compliance, did not entitle it to the right of way without compensation. Hibbs v. The C. & S. W. R. R. Co., 39 Id., 940; see, also, Conner v. The B. & S. W. R. R. Co., 41 Id., 419.

A railroad company which enters upon land and appropriates a right of way without proceedings to condemn, or contract with the owner, or tendering him compensation therefor, is a mere trespasser, and acquires no right to hold the land. Id.

An injunction will be granted to restrain the company and its lessees from operating the road, after an award of damages under the statute, until they are paid. Id.

Where a railroad company entered upon and appropriated land for right of way, without proceedings to condemn, and assessed damages or grant for the owner, it was held in a proceeding subsequently instituted under the statute by the company to assess the damages, that the measure thereof was the value of the land at the time of its appropriation, with interest from that time. Daniels v. The C. I. & N. R. R. Co., 41 Id., 52.

A railway company appropriated a right of way without compensating the owner thereof, although damages were assessed: held, that ejectment would lie, but that execution for possession should not issue until the company had been granted a reasonable time, fixed by the court, in which to pay the assessed damages and interest thereon from the date of assessment, at the rate of six per centum. Conner v. The B. & S. W. R. R. Co., 41 Id., 419.

In such a proceeding, the evidence of the price at which the right of way was purchased through adjoining lands is not admissible, unless it be first shown that there is a uniformity of character of the lands thus brought in question. Id.

While the remedy provided by the statute for the assessment of damages sustained by a land owner in the taking of land for railroad right of way is exclusive of all other remedies for that purpose, it is not exclusive of an action of ejectment if his property has been taken by the railroad company without payment or tender of compensation. Daniels v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 35 Id., 129.

A dedication of land for a railroad right of way cannot be established by mere occupancy alone. It must be shown that the occupancy or use was with the knowledge and acquiescence of the land owner for the full period fixed by the statute for the limitation of real actions. Id.; see, also, Onstott v. Murray, 22 Id., 451; Manderbach v. The City of Dubuque, 23 Id., 73.

Knowledge of such use by an agent of the land owner, having merely a general oversight of the land, without any authority to sell or convey, would not be sufficient. Id.

A railroad company may abandon land condemned as a right of way under the statute, and such abandonment causes the land to revert to the original owner, but gives the company no claim to the damages that may have been awarded and paid into the hands of the sheriff. Hastings v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 33 Id., 316.

When a railroad company abandons land condemned to its use for a right of way, all of its interest in the land disappears, and the abandonment is a good defense to any claim for additional damages upon appeal from the award of the sheriff's jury. Id.

Where certain lots in a town, owned and used with other lots for purposes connected with the same business, but separated therefrom by streets and alleys, are appropriated for the right of way of a railroad, the jury, in estimating damages therefor to the owner, should not consider all the lots thus used and separated as an entirety in respect to the business for which they were used, and allow damages accordingly. They should, in such case, estimate the value of the lots taken before the appropriation, then their value afterward, and the difference would be the measure of damages. Pratt v. The C. D. & N. R. R. Co., 34 Id., 353.

As incertaining the depreciation in value of the premises, the immediate, and not the remote or contingent, consequences of the appropriation must alone be considered. Id. So, also, injuries that may result from unauthorized or unlawful acts, for which the company is liable in an action, are not to be considered. Id.

By the terms "just compensation," in the eighteenth section of the first article of the constitution of 1846, are meant that the persons whose property is taken shall receive a fair equivalent, and be made whole. Soter v. The B. & M. P. Plank Road Co., 1 Id., 866; Henry v. The Dubuque & P. R. R. Co., 2 Id., 288.

In ascertaining what that compensation shall be, the fair market value of the premises over which the proposed improvement is to pass, should be first ascertained, and then the like value of the premises in the condition in which they will be after the land for the improvement has been taken, irrespective of the benefit which may result from the improvement, and the difference will be the measure of compensation. Henry v. The D. & P. R. R. Co., 2 Id., 288.

A sheriff's jury has no jurisdiction in proceedings to condemn right of way for a railroad, unless the owner refuses to grant the right of way, or the parties are unable to agree upon the compensation therefor; therefore, where the owner had conveyed the right of way to the railway company, though by a deed which he was seeking to have set aside in equity, since the deed until set aside vested the title prims facie in the railway company, the proceedings of the sheriff's jury called out on motion of the owner, were without authority, and were properly set aside on certiorari. The C., B. & St. Louis R'y Co. v. Bently et al., 62 Id., 446.

Plaintiff's grantor had executed a deed to the defendant for the right of way in question and had agreed to accept in payment thereof a sum to be fixed by G. Defendant took possession of the land but failed to have G. fix the compensation. Held that the case was within the provisions of section 1244 of the code, and that plaintiff was entitled to have the compensation assessed by commissioners as therein provided. Corbin v. The Wis., Iowa & Neb. R'y Co., 66 Id., 269.

Where the land was fenced, and by taking the right of way it is thrown open, and left in a manner unfenced, this fact should be taken into consideration in arriving at the depreciated value of the remaining premises. Id.

The term "damages," in the statute, has relation to the provision of the constitution under which the property is taken, and is precisely synonymous with the phrase "just compensation" there used. Fleming v. The C. D. & M. R. R. Co., 34 Id., 333.

The right of way conferred by the statute upon a railroad company is the right of way peculiar to a railroad, and contemplates all that is necessary for the construction and maintenance of a railroad over the premises. Id.

The title to the timber standing on land taken for the right of way of a railroad, remains in the owner of the soil, and the company may take and remove only so much thereof as may be necessary for the construction and repair of the road and its appurtenances. Preston v. The Dubuque & P. R. R. Co., 11 Id., 15.

The word "construction," as used in the statute, implies not only the making of the road-bed, but also its preparation and readiness for use in a safe and convenient manner. Id.

In Kuchenman et al. v. The C. C. & D. R'y Co., 45 Iowa, 333, Justices Adams and Rothrock concurred in holding that where the fee of a street or highway is in the adjacent proprietor, he is entitled to recover damages from a railway company for its occupation of the street, and such damages are to be assessed like damages for the appropriation of the right of way. Justice Beck went farther than this, holding that the owner of adjacent property is entitled to recover damages from a railway company for its occupancy of the street with its track, without reference to whether the fee of the street be in the lot owner or not. Chief Justice Severs and Justice Day held that when a railway is constructed on a street of a city in a careful and proper manner, the owner of abutting property cannot recover consequential damages for the appropriation of the right of way, wholer he owns the fee or not to the center of the street.

As to the measure of damages, Justices Adams, Rothrock and Beck held that the adjacent proprietor is not limited in his recovery to the actual value of the land taken, but may recover all such damages as result proximately from the use for which it is taken. Justices Adams and Rothrock, however, held that he is limited to the recovery of damages for the use of his own land, which extends only to the middle of the street, and cannot recover for the entire depreciation in the value of his property, caused by the location of a railway half upon his land and half upon the land of the opposite owner, while Justice Beck held that the abutting owner may recover for all the injury he has suffered by the construction of the railroad in the street, although only one-half of it be upon his land.

A right of way for a railroad is an incumbrance for which a grantee may recover under a covenant against incumbrance, though he had full knowledge of the incumbrance at the time he accepted the deed. Van Wagner v. Van Nosstrand, 19 Id., 422; followed in Barlow v. McKinley, 24 Id., 69.

Prior to the amendment of this section by chapter 126, laws of 1878, a foreign corporation could not acquire or possess land for a right of way in this state. Holbert v. St. L., K. C. & N. R'y Co., 45 Id., 29.

In actions to recover damages for injuries by reason of the improper construction of a railroad on a street adjacent thereto, the measure of damages is the difference between the rental value of the property with the road as constructed, and the rental value if the road had been properly constructed.

The following question was held not erroneous: "How much less in value was the farm immediately after taking the land for the right of way, and in consequence thereof, than it was immediately before, not taking into account any supposed benefits to result from the building of defendant's railroad." Harrison v. The Iowa Midland R. Co., 36 Id., 323.

SEC. 1245. [Jury to assess all damages in county: notice of meeting.]—The application to the sheriff shall be in writing, and the freeholders appointed shall be the commissioners to assess all damages to the owners of real estate in said county, and said corporation, or the owner of any land therein, may, at any time after their appointment, have the damages assessed in the manner herein prescribed by giving the other party five days notice thereof in writing, specifying therein the day and hour when such commissioners will view the premises, which shall be served in the same manner as original notices.
The statute expressly provides that either party may institute this proceeding. Hibbs v. The C. & S. W. R. Co., 39 Iowa, 340.

A land owner may institute proceedings to recover compensation for the right of way after the railroad is completed. Id.

The mortgagee of real property is an owner in such a sense that he is entitled to notice of the assessment of damages for railroad right of way over the property mortgaged. The proceeding to condemn the right of way, with notice to the mortgagor alone, will not defeat the paramount title of the mortgagee. Severn v. The B., C. R. & M. R'y Co., 38 Iowa, 463.

In such case, the decree of foreclosure of the mortgage should direct the sale of the property, subject to the right of way, or, if that does not satisfy the debt, then the sale of the right of way, with the lot or independent of it, as shall be most advantageous. Id.

Sec. 1246. [Minor or insane owner.]—If the owner of any lands is a minor, insane or other person under guardianship, the guardian of such minor, insane or other person, may, under the direction of the circuit judge, agree and settle with said corporation for all damages by reason of the taking of such lands for any of the purposes aforesaid, and may give valid conveyances of such land.

Sec. 1247. [Notice to non-resident owner.]—If the owner of such lands is a non-resident of the county in which the same are situate, no demand of the right of way, or other purpose for which such lands are desired, shall be necessary, except the publication of a notice which may be in the following form:

Notice.—For the appropriation of lands for railway purposes. To (here name each person whose land is to be taken or affected) and all other persons having any interest in, or owning any of the following real estate (here describe the land by its congressional numbers in tracts not exceeding one-sixteenth of a section, or, if the land consist of lots in a town or city, by the numbers of the lot and block). You are hereby notified that the ....... has located its railway over the above described real estate, and desires the right of way over the same, to consist of a strip or belt of land ....... feet in width, through the center of which the center line of said railway will run, together with such other land as may be necessary for bermes, waste banks and borrowing pits, and for wood and water stations (or desires the same for the purposes mentioned in sections twelve hundred and forty-two and twelve hundred and forty-three of this chapter, as the case may be), and unless you proceed to have the damages to the same appraised on or before ....... day of ....... A.D., ....... (which time must be at least four weeks after the first publication of the notice), said company will proceed to have the same appraised on the ....... day of ....... (which must be at least eight weeks after the first publication of the notice), at which time you can appear before the appraisers that may be selected.

By ............ attorney, or .......... agent.

This section requires that a notice of publication for the condemnation of the right of way for a railway must be addressed by name to the person whose land is taken or affected, and an owner not so named will not be bound by a notice addressed to "all other persons having any interest in or owning any portion" of the land. Birge v. The C., M. & St. P. R'y Co., 65 Id., 440.

Sec. 1248. [Notice published.]—Said notice shall be published in some newspaper in the county, if there be one; if there be none, then in the newspaper published in the nearest county through which the proposed railway is to run, for at least eight successive weeks prior to the day fixed for the appraisement at the instance of the corporation.

Sec. 1249. [Appraisement: how made and returned.]—At the time fixed in either aforesaid notices, the appraisement may be made and returned in tracts larger than forty acres, and all the lands appearing of record to belong to one person and lying in one tract, may be included in one appraisement and return, unless the agent or attorney of the corporation, or the commissioner, has actual knowledge that the tract does not belong wholly to the person in whose name it appears of record; and in case of such knowledge, the appraisement shall be made of the different parcels, as they are known to be owned.

Where two contiguous lots are improved together as one property, and it is sought to appropriate one of them for railroad right of way, the owner is entitled to have his damages assessed for the injury to the property as a whole and not only for the lot actually appropriated; and in such case although notice of condemnation named the one lot only, it was competent for the commissioners, under this section, to find that the two lots constituted but one property, and to assess the damages accordingly. Cummins v. The Des Moines & St. Louis R'y Co., 63 Id., 397.

Payment by a railway company to the sheriff of the damages awarded by the commissioners under the statute for the right of way over another's land, is not payment to the land-owner, and, where the sheriff fails to pay the amount to the land-owner, the failure must be imputed to the company whose agent he is rather than the agent of the land-owner, and in such case the land-owner may recover the possession of the land for non-payment. White v. The Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific R'y Co., 64 Id., 281.

SEC. 1250. [Where dwelling house, garden, or orchard is affected.]—If it appears from the finding of the commissioners that the dwelling-house, outhouse, orchard or garden, of the owner of any land taken will be overflowed or otherwise injuriously affected by any dam or reservoir to be constructed under section twelve hundred and forty-two of this chapter, such dam shall not be erected until the question of such overflowing or other injury has been determined upon appeal in favor of the corporation.

SEC. 1251. [Talesmen.]—In case of the death, absence, neglect or refusal, of any of said freeholders to act as commissioners as aforesaid, the sheriff shall summon other freeholders to complete the panel.

SEC. 1252. [Costs: how paid.]—The corporation shall pay all the costs of the assessment made by the commissioners and those occasioned by the appeal, unless on the trial thereof a less amount of damages is awarded than was allowed by the commissioners.

Where the corporation seeking to condemn land, under chapter 4 of title X of the code, appeals from the assessment of the commissioners and the amount allowed to the land owners, on appeal, is less than that awarded by the commissioners, the court may, under the general rules of law, direct a part of the costs to be taxed to the corporation, notwithstanding the provisions of this section. Jones et al. v. The M. County Coal Co., 47 Id., 85.

SEC. 1253. [Commissioner's report may be recorded.]—The report of the commissioners, where the same has not been appealed from, and the amount of damages assessed and costs have been deposited with the sheriff, or, if an appeal is taken and the amount of damages assessed on the trial thereof has been paid to the sheriff, may be recorded in the record of deeds in the county where the land is situate, and such record shall be presumptive evidence of title in the corporation to the property so taken, and shall constitute constructive notice of the rights of such corporation therein.

APPEALS.

SEC. 1254. [How taken.]—Either party may appeal from such assessment of damages to the circuit court within thirty days after the assessment is made, by giving the adverse party, or, if such party is the corporation, its agent or attorney, and the sheriff, notice in writing that such appeal has been taken; the sheriff shall thereupon file a certified copy of so much of the appraisement as applies to the part appealed from, and said court shall thereupon take jurisdiction thereof and try and dispose of the same as in actions by ordinary proceedings. The land owner shall be plaintiff and the corporation defendant.

See Hobbs v. The C. & S. W. R. Co., 39 Iowa, 340. The failure of the officer to file the papers until the first day of the next term after an appeal is taken affords no sufficient ground for dismissing the appeal. Id.

Where a party appeals from the assessment of damages in a right of way case, he is in court for all substantial purposes; and if he does not appear and urge his right to a new assessment, and the verdict of the jury is affirmed, he cannot object to the proceedings in the appellate court.
on the ground of a want of notice. In such cases the appeal brings the cause to the circuit court upon its merits, and it is immaterial whether the appellant had notice.

Bosland v. The M. & M. R. Co., 8 Id., 148.

Where an appeal from proceedings condemning right of way for a railway was brought to the notice of the sheriff, and he directed his deputy to accept service of the notice of appeal for him, and it was accepted in due form in writing, to which the deputy signed the sheriff's name, held that there was a sufficient service of the notice upon the sheriff to sustain the appeal. Walliney v. The Wisconsin, Iowa & Nebraska R'y Co., 64 Id., 688.

From an assessment of damages made by a sheriff's jury for right of way purposes, either party may appeal. The Cedar Rapids, Iowa Falls & N. W. R'y Co. v. Whelan et al., Id., 695.

An appeal from an award of damages for right of way by the sheriff's jury may be taken by serving the opposite party or his attorney with a notice of appeal, and it is not essential that service be also made on the sheriff, nor is it requisite that the report of the jury be filed in the appellate court. The notice of appeal constitutes presumptive evidence that an assessment has been made. Hahn v. The C., O. & St. J. R. Co., 43 Id., 333.

In a proceeding to obtain the right of way for a railroad when the owner appeals to the circuit court from the award of damages made by the sheriff's jury, the company may abandon the proposed route, and upon the payment of full costs, for this or any other reason, dismiss the proceedings. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Sater, Id., 421; Hunting v. Waterman v. Curtis, Id., 10 Id., 152; Harris v. Laird, 25 Id., 143.

In the absence of statutory direction as to the manner of taking an appeal from the assessment of damages for a right of way, it seems that any act usually required in cases of appeal from one tribunal to another is sufficient. It was accordingly held that notice of appeal to the opposite party is sufficient. But if one should be held necessary, the omission to file it would not operate to dismiss the appeal, as in such case the court could require one to be filed. Robertson v. The E. R'y and Coal Co., 27 Id., 245.

The time for taking an appeal from an award of damages for a railroad right of way begins to run not from the day when the premises are viewed by the jury, but from the time the assessment is actually made, reduced to writing and made public, or in some legitimate manner brought to the knowledge of the parties interested. Jamison v. The B. & M.R'y Co., 68 Id., 670.

SEC. 1255. [Not to delay work if amount assessed is deposited with sheriff.]—An appeal shall not delay the prosecution of the work upon said railway, if said corporation pays or deposits with the sheriff the amount assessed by the commissioners; said sheriff shall not pay such deposit over to the person entitled thereto after the sevice of notice of appeal, but shall retain the same until the determination thereof.

An injunction will be granted to restrain a railroad company from operating its road, after an award of damages under the statute until the damages are paid. Henry v. The D. & P. R. Co., 29 Id., 66; Richards v. The D. M. R. R. Co., 19 Id., 207; Hubbs v. The C. & S. W. R. Co., 39 Id., 340; Conger v. The B. & S. W. R. Co., 41 Id., 415; Holbert v. St. L., K. C. & N. R. Co., 45 Id., 23, 27.

Where the damages for a railroad right of way are assessed jointly to two persons as owners of the land, an appeal cannot be taken and prosecuted by one of them without uniting the other therein, or making him a party thereto, by notice or otherwise. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Hurst, 39 Id., 754.

Upon appeal from assessment of damages by the sheriff's jury, the cause is to be heard upon its merits and not upon exceptions taken to the sheriff's jury as to their competency. The M. & M. R. Co. v. Rosseau, 8 Id., 374; The B. & M. R. R. Co. v. Sinnamon, 9 Id., 283.

Where damages for a right of way for a railway have been assessed by a sheriff's jury, and the amount so assessed deposited with the sheriff, and the railroad company appeals from the assessment, the right of the land owner to receive the amount so assessed and deposited is suspended until the appeal is heard. Peterson v. Ferreby, Sheriff, 30 Id., 327.

Where the land owner, after his damages have been assessed and deposited with the sheriff, accepts or receives the amount thus assessed and deposited, he cannot appeal from the assessment. A party cannot accept the benefits of an adjudication and afterwards appeal therefrom. The M. & M. R. Co. v. Buington, 14 Id., 572.

SEC. 1256. [When barred.]—An acceptance by the land owner of the damages awarded by the commissioners shall bar his right to appeal.

SEC. 1257. [Trial of: judgment.]—On the trial of an appeal, no judgment shall be rendered except for costs; the amount of damages shall be ascertained and entered of record, and, if no money has been paid or deposited with the sheriff, the corporation shall pay the amount so ascertained, or deposit the same with the sheriff before entering upon the premises.

A judgment, entered in the usual form of a judgment in an action of debt, in a proceeding to assess the damages to lands for the right of way of a railroad, will be construed to have no greater effect than it would have if entered conformably to the statute authorizing it. Gear v. The D. & S. C. R. Co., 20 Iowa, 523.

The proceedings for the condemnation of lands for the right of way of a railroad, in effect simply fix the price at which, upon actual payment, the railroad company may take the right of way. The judgment assessing the amount of damages passes no title to the company before payment, and does not bind it to accept the lands and pay the amount assessed. Id.

SEC. 1258. [Same.]-If, on the trial of the appeal, the damages awarded by the commissioners are increased, the corporation shall pay or deposit with the sheriff the whole amount of damages awarded before entering on, or, in any manner whatever, using or controlling the premises. And said sheriff, upon being furnished with a certified copy of such assessment, may remove said corporation, its agents, servants or contractors, from said premises unless the amount of the assessment is forthwith paid or deposited with him.

Where defendant had procured the condemnation of a right of way and had deposited the award with the sheriff and taken an appeal to the circuit court, where the amount of damages was increased, held that on an appeal to the supreme court it was necessary for the defendant, in order to hold possession of the right of way pending such appeal, to deposit the additional damages also with the sheriff, and that the filing of a supersedeas bond did not relieve it of that duty. Such deposit not being made, plaintiff had the right to remove the defendant from the land as provided in this section. Downing v. The Des Moines & N. W. R'y Co., 63 Iowa, 177.

SEC. 1259. [Same.]-If the amount of the damages awarded by the commissioners is decreased on the trial of the appeal, the amount assessed on the trial of such appeal only shall be paid the land owners.

NON-USER.

SEC. 1260. (As substituted by ch. 15, 18th g. a.) [By railway corporations of right of way.]—(In any case where a railway, constructed in whole or in part, has ceased to be operated or used for more than five years, or in any case where the construction of a railway has been commenced by any corporation or person, and work on the same has ceased, and has not been in good faith resumed for more than five years, and the same remains unfinished, or where any portion of such railway has not been operated for four years last past, and the rails and rolling stock have been wholly removed therefrom, it shall be deemed or taken that the corporation or person thus in default has abandoned all right and privilege over so much as remains unfinished, or from which the rails and rolling stock have been wholly removed, as aforesaid, in favor of any other corporation or person which may enter on such abandoned work, as provided in section 1261 of the code: provided, however, that if said road-bed or right of way, or any part thereof, shall not be used or operated for a period of eight years, or in any case where the construction of a railway has been commenced by any corporation or person, and work on the same has ceased and has not been in good faith resumed by any corporation or person for a period of eight years, the land and the title thereto shall revert to the owner of the section, subdivision, tract or lot from which it was taken: and provided further, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any railroad having a portion of its track laid with a wooden rail).

Where a railroad corporation proceeds under the statute to condemn and pay for a right of way, it acquires an easement in the land condemned. In theory of law the assessment thus acquired is so acquired to the public use, and it is, therefore, competent for the legislature to provide for its transfer to another corporation upon the failure of the one for which it was first condemned to construct its road for a prescribed period, and compensation being made to the latter. Noll v. The Dubuque B. & M. R. Co., 32 Iowa, 66.

An easement acquired by express grant instead of by prescription is not lost by mere non-user, where the owner of the servient estate does no act which prevents the use. Id. See also, Bar-

This section, prior to its amendment by chapter 15 of the laws of 1850, was held not in conflict with the state constitution. The C. I. R. Co. v. M. & A. R. Co., 57 Id., 249. It was also held in the same case that it clearly contemplated that there might be an abandonment of a part of a

Where a right of way for a railroad has been regularly condemned as against the owner of the land, and the award has been paid to the sheriff, and the owner neither appeals nor accepts the award, and the company fails to use the right of way for so long a time as to incur a forfeiture under sections 1260 and 1261 of the code, as amended, but afterwards builds its road thereon, the owner cannot maintain proceedings under the statutes for a second award of damages; for the first award is still in the hands of the sheriff for the benefit of the owner, and the statute plainly provides that notwithstanding an abandonment, he shall not be entitled to be paid twice for the

SEC. 1261. [How right of way may be condemned.]—In every such case of abandonment, any other corporation may enter upon such abandoned work, or any part thereof, and acquire the right of way over the same and the right to any unfinished work or grading found thereon and the title thereto, by proceeding in the manner provided, and conforming in all particulars as near as may be to the provisions of this chapter; but parties who have previously received compensation in any form for the right of way on the line of such abandoned railway, which has not been refunded by them, shall not be permitted to recover the second time, but the value of such road-bed and right of way, excluding the work done thereon, when taken for a new company, shall be assessed to the former company or its legal representative.

Where a railroad company has acquired and paid for right of way, but has abandoned it, a second company may acquire it by condemnation, but, unless the land owner has refunded the compensation received by him from the first company, he is not entitled to the compensation awarded upon the condemnation by the second company, but such compensation is to be awarded to the first company, or its legal representatives. The Dubuque & Dakota R'y Co. v. Biedl, Sheriff, et al., 64 Iowa, 635.

A right of way for a railway is only an easement, though it be conveyed by deed, and the existence of such easement is not a breach of covenant as to title in a warranty deed, subsequently made, conveying the land. Brown v. Young, 69 Id., 625.

CROSSING HIGHWAYS.

SEC. 1262. (As amended by ch. 122, 19th g. a.) [By railways: rights and duties of.]—Any such corporation may raise or lower any turnpike, plank road, or other highway, for the purpose of having its railway (cross) over or under the same; and in such cases said corporation shall put such highway, as soon as may be, in as good repair and condition as before such alteration.

Under the right of way act of 1858 it was held that the legislature had conferred upon railroad companies the right to construct their roads over and upon the common highways and upon the streets of cities and towns, the consent of the council of the city or town through which the road passes being obtained, and that railroads constructed upon streets under such authority cannot be considered public nuisances. Milburn v. The City of Cedar Rapids et al., 12 Iowa, 246.

In The City of Clinton v. The C. R. & M. R. R. Co., 24 Id., 455, it was held that where the fee of the streets in a city is vested in the corporation in trust for the public, the legislature may authorize them to be used by a railroad company without the consent of the city.

It was fully settled prior to the code of 1873 that a railroad company had a right under section 1321 of the revision, to proceed by condemnation against the owner of the land, and that the owner could not sue in an ordinance of the city of Des Moines "that the right to build and operate a railroad bridge on Market street over and across the Des Moines river in the city of Des Moines, is hereby granted to the D. V. R. Co., provided said company build or cause to be built a railroad bridge across said river within five years," it was held, that the right to build and operate the bridge being certain, it carried with it all the incidental rights and powers necessary to the efficacious enjoyment thereof, including the right to construct necessary and suitable approaches to the bridge, and that the construction of the bridge and approaches being thus authorized, the railroad company was not liable for consequential damages resulting therefrom to the lot owner in front of whose property an embankment had been thrown up in the proper construction of the bridge and approaches. * * *

In a case arising in Muscatine, where the city had granted the right of way for the construction of a railroad upon one of its streets, it was held that the owner of adjacent property has an interest in the street, entitling him to maintain an action against a railroad company for such a careless or unlawful appropriation thereof, or the location of its track thereon, as shall be injurious to his property. * * *

The same doctrine is held in Park v. The City of Dubuque and The Central Iowa R. Co., 47 Id., 376, and similar cases. * * *

What is to be considered as a part of a highway crossing of a railroad track, under certain circumstances, determined in Beatty v. The Central Iowa R. Co., 47 Id., 307. An incorporated street railway has the same rights in respect to right of way as steam railways. * * *

A railroad has the right, under section 1262 of the code, subject to proper equitable control and police regulation, to pass over a street of a city without the consent of the city authorities. * * *

An indictment cannot be aided by intendment, nor omissions therein supplied by construction; and where the acts charged may, under certain circumstances, be lawful, and these circumstances are not negatived, the indictment is insufficient, even though it be alleged that the acts charged were willfully and unlawfully done. * * *

A railway has the right, under section 1262 of the code, subject to proper equitable control and police regulation, to pass over a street of a city without the consent of the city authorities. * * *

The power conferred upon railroad companies by section 1262 of the code, to occupy the streets of cities with their tracks, as herebefore construed by the supreme court in the cases above cited, is now by implication withdrawn by chapter 47, laws of 1874, amending that section. Stanley v. The City of Davenport, 54 Id., 463. * * *

The power conferred upon railroad companies by section 1262 of the code, to occupy the streets of cities with their tracks, as herebefore construed by the supreme court in the cases above cited, is now by implication withdrawn by chapter 47, laws of 1874, amending that section. Stanley v. The City of Davenport, 54 Id., 463. * * *

If the supervisor, trustees, city council, or other person having jurisdiction over such highway require further or different repairs or alterations made thereon, or, if the same, in their opinion, is unsafe, they shall give notice thereof in writing to any agent or officer of the corporation, and if the parties are unable to agree respecting the same, either may apply by petition, setting out the facts, to the circuit court, or judge thereof, and such court or judge shall cause reasonable notice to be given the adverse party of the application; the petition shall be filed in the clerk's office, and may be answered as in other cases. * * *

Where a railway crosses a city street below grade, and a bridge and approaches are erected by the incorporated city to carry the travel upon the street above the track of the railway, it is the duty of the company to keep both the bridge and the approaches in a safe condition. ***
SEC. 1264. [Temporary ways.]—Every such corporation, when employed in raising or lowering any highway, or in making any other alteration by means of which the same may be obstructed, shall provide and keep in good order suitable temporary ways to enable travelers to avoid or pass such obstructions.

SEC. 1265. [Crossings so constructed as not to impede travel.]—Any such corporation may construct and carry its railway across, over, or under any railway, canal, or water-course, when it may be necessary in the construction of the same; and in such cases said corporation shall so construct its crossings as not unnecessarily to impede the travel, transportation, or navigation upon the railway, canal, or stream so crossed; said corporation shall be liable for the damages occasioned by any corporation or party injured by reason of said crossing.

Although a railroad company is authorized by law to construct its road over and across a public highway, yet it is not authorized to obstruct the same, but must, where the railroad crosses the highway, put it in good condition, and the company is liable in damages for neglecting to do so. Fleming v. The C., D. & M. R. Co., 34 Iowa, 353, 359.

SEC. 1266. [Bridges.]—Every such corporation shall maintain and keep in good repair all bridges, with their abutments, which it may construct for the purpose of enabling its railway to pass over or under any turnpike, highway, canal, water-course, or other way.

SEC. 1267. [Damages.]—Every such corporation shall be liable for all damages sustained by any person in consequence of any neglect of the provisions of this chapter.

The provisions of this section do not extend the liability of railroad companies to acts of those not their servants or agents. Callahan v. The B. & M.R. R. Co., 23 Iowa, 562.

SEC. 1268. [Cattle guards.] When any person owns land on both sides of any railway, the corporation owning the same shall, when requested so to do, make and keep in good repair one cattle guard and one causeway or other adequate means of crossing the same, at such reasonable place as may be designated by the owner.

Where a railroad company has provided a private crossing, and supplied the necessary gates and bars, it is held only to the reasonable exercise of reasonable diligence and care to keep them closed; and it is not responsible for any injury sustained by a third party, which is caused by the negligence of the person for whose benefit the crossing is made. Henderson v. The C., R.I. & P. R. Co., 39 Iowa, 220.

Where a railroad intervenes between one's residence and the highway, he is entitled to an adequate means of crossing the same. Gray v. The B. & M.R. R. Co., 37 Id., 119.

Where a railroad track crosses a farm between the farm-house and the common highway, the owner of the farm is entitled to an open crossing under this section of the code, and the railroad company may be required to make it under its provisions when it is the only "adequate means" of crossing which can be afforded the land owner. The duty to construct such a crossing is imposed by the statute and its performance may be enforced by mandamus. And the place designated by the land owner is prima facie the most convenient for him, and will be deemed a reasonable place unless rendered unreasonable by difficulty of construction, or some other fact. Boggs v. The C., B. & Q. R. Co., 54 Id., 435.

As to what constitutes an adequate crossing within the meaning of this section is a question of fact, largely depending on the nature and position of the crossing and other circumstances of the case. Id.

The conduct of a land owner through whose land a railway passes, in forcibly opening the gates at a crossing which have been closed by the company, sufficiently indicates to the company his requirement that it should comply with the provisions of this section. Henderson v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 43 Id., 639.

When the company has provided a private crossing and supplied the necessary gates, it is held only to the exercise of reasonable care to keep them closed, and it is not responsible for any injury to a third party, caused by the negligence of the person for whose benefit the crossing is provided. Id.

A railroad company whose road runs through the land of a person owning land on both sides of the road is only required to provide a crossing for such owner when he shall require it for his accommodation. Henderson v. The C., R.I. & P. R. R. Co., 48 Id., 216, 220.

As to third persons it is the duty of railroad companies not only to fence their roads, but to keep the gates at private crossings in repair and closed; but where a railroad is properly fenced and the company uses the necessary care and caution in keeping it in good condition, and it is thrown and left down or open by the act of a third person, without the fault of the company, the liability for the injury is upon the party thus throwing down or leaving open the fence, and not upon the railroad company. Russell v. Hanley, 20 Id., 219. To the same effect is Perry v. The Dubuque Southwestern R'y Co., 36 Id., 102.

While a railway company is not obliged to construct farm crossings, and the necessary gates, fences and cattle guards pertaining thereto, unless requested so to do by the owner of the farm, yet, where it does construct them, whether by request or not, it is bound to keep them in sufficient repair to accomplish the purpose for which they were intended. Miller v. The C., R. I. & P. R'y Co., 66 Id., 546.

This section gives the owner of land on both sides of a railway the right to designate the place where the company shall make the crossing provided in the statute; the only limitation being that the place selected by him shall be a reasonable one. Van Vrankin v. The W., I. & Neb. R'y Co., 68 Id., 576.

SEC. 1269. [Right of way granted other works of internal improvement.]-When any corporation or person desires to construct a canal, turnpike, graded, macadamized, or plank road, or a bridge, as a work of public utility, although for private profit, such corporation or person may take such private property as may be deemed necessary for the right of way, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, by pursuing the course prescribed in this chapter, all the provisions of which are made applicable in similar cases.

SEC. 1270. [Cities and towns.]-Cities and incorporated towns may exercise the powers herein conferred for the purpose of taking private property for streets, alleys, and market house sites.

STATE MAY CONDEMN.

SEC. 1271. (Repealed and substituted by ch. 75, 16th g. a.) [How done and for what purpose.]-Whenever, in the opinion of the governor, the public interest requires the taking of any real estate for the making or construction of any drains, sewers, yards, walls, buildings, or other improvements or conveniences for the use or benefit of the penitentiary, hospitals for the insane, or any other institutions of the state, upon or across lands being private property, the same proceedings may be had in the name of the state as provided in this chapter, and for that purpose the state shall be considered a person, and the proceedings shall be conducted by the district attorney of the district in which the land is situated, whenever directed by the governor, or the governor may appoint some other person for that purpose.

SEC. 1272. [Damages: how certified and paid.]-Whenever the amount of the damages contemplated in the preceding section is finally determined, the sheriff or clerk, as the case may be, shall certify the amount thereof to the governor, who shall, by an order indorsed thereon, direct the payment of the same, and the auditor of state shall issue a warrant on the treasury for the amount, which shall be paid with any money not otherwise appropriated. When the money is paid to the sheriff or person entitled thereto, the state, through its proper agent or officer, may enter on the premises and construct the desired work.

ESTABLISHMENT OF PUBLIC WAYS TO MINES AND STONE QUARRIES.

An Act authorizing the establishment of public ways to lands having stone and mineral thereon. [Additional to code, title IX, chapter 4, relating to “taking private property for works of internal improvement.”]

SECTION 1. [Quarry or mine owners may have public way established.]

—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That any person, copartnership, joint stock association, or corporation, owning, leasing, or possessing any lands having thereon or thereunder any coal, stone, lead, or other mineral, may have established over the land of another a public way from any stone quarry, coal, lead, or other mine, to any railway or highway, not exceeding (except by the consent of the owner of the land to be taken) fifty feet in width. When said road shall be constructed it shall, when passing through inclosed lands, be fenced on both sides by the person or corporation causing said road to be established.

Sec. 2. [Proceedings to condemn right of way.]—If the owner of any real estate necessary to be taken for the purposes mentioned in this act, refuse to grant the right of way, or if such owner and the person, partnership, joint stock association, or corporation seeking to have such way established, cannot agree upon the compensation to be paid for the same, the sheriff of the county in which said real estate may be situated shall, upon the application of either party, appoint six disinterested freeholders of the county, not interested in a like question, who shall inspect said real estate, and assess the damage which said owner will sustain by the appropriation of said land for such public way, and make and report in writing to the sheriff of said county, and if the applicant for such public way shall at any time before entering upon said real estate, for the purpose of constructing such way, pay to said sheriff, for the use of said owner, the sum so assessed and returned to him, as aforesaid, said highway may be at once constructed and maintained over and across said premises.

Sec. 3. [Payment of awarded.]—In proceeding under this act, the application to the sheriff, the duty of commissioners, the time and manner of assessing the damages, the giving of notice thereof to residents and non-residents, the power of guardians to settle and convey, the making and returning of appraisement, the selection of talesmen, the payment of the costs of assessment, the report of the commissioners, the recording thereof, the right of appeal, the proceedings relating thereto, the result of non-user, the rights and duties as to other highways, are and shall be the same as provided in the sections of the code numbered twelve hundred and forty-five to and including twelve hundred and sixty-eight, and the provisions of all of said sections, so far as applicable, are declared to be a part of this act, except that the report of the commissioners, and record thereof, shall confer no title to the applicant for the land taken for the highway, but shall be presumptive evidence of the establishment of such way.

Sec. 4. [Persons condemning may establish railway.]—Any owner, lessee, or possessor of lands having coal, stone, lead, or other mineral thereon, who has paid the damages assessed for highways established under this act, may construct, use, and maintain a railway on such way, for the purpose of reaching and operating any quarry or mine on such land and of transporting the products thereof to market. In the giving of the notices required by this act, the applicant shall state whether a railway is to be constructed and maintained on the way sought to be established; and if it be so stated the jury shall consider the fact in the assessment of damages.

While any individual or corporation owning coal lands or stone quarries may condemn a right of way thereto over the lands of another under this chapter of the statute, yet the way so condemned must be a public one, and if a road be constructed thereon its use must be open to the owners of other mines and quarries upon the payment of proper compensation therefor.

Jones et. al. v. The Mahaska County Coal Co., 47 Iowa, 35.

Whereby the corporation seeking to condemn the right of way appeals from the assessment of the commissioner, and the amount allowed to the land owners on appeal is less than that awarded by the commissioners, the court may, under the general rules of law, direct a part of the costs of the appeal to be taxed to the corporation, notwithstanding the provisions of section 1252 of the code.

Id.

A road or way established under this chapter over the land of another to connect a mine or quarry with a railroad or highway is a public way, and not the private way of the mine owner, and therefore the act is not in conflict with the constitution of the United States or of this state, which prohibits the taking of private property for private use. Phillips v. Watson, 63 Id., 28.

The owner of land over which a public way is established, under chapter 34, acts of 1874, from a mine to a railroad or highway, must be presumed to be compensated for his damages by an award of the commissioners, from which he does not appeal, and thereafter his right to use the way thus established is no greater than that of any other citizen; and the fact that he is thus cut off from utilizing mineral lands of his own, is no ground for the interference of equity by injunction to restrain the use of the way for the purpose for which it was established. Id.

RELATING TO RIPARIAN OWNERS.

An Act in relation to riparian owners on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

SECTION 1. [Land owners upon the Mississippi and Missouri may erect piers, cribs, booms, etc., when.]

—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all owners and lessees of lands, or lots, situate upon the Iowa banks of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, upon which property there is now, or may hereafter be carried on any business which is in any way connected with the navigation of said rivers, or to which the said navigation is a proper or convenient adjunct, are hereby authorized to construct and maintain, in front of their said property, piers, cribs, booms and other proper and convenient erections and devices for the use of their respective pursuits and the protection and harbor of rafts, logs, floats, and other water crafts: provided, that the same present no material or unreasonable obstruction to the navigation of the stream, or to a similar use of adjoining property.

SEC. 2. [Owners to receive compensation for railroad right of way.]—It shall not be lawful for any person or corporation to construct or operate any railroad or other obstruction between such lots or lands and either of said rivers, or upon the shore or margin thereof, unless the injury and damage to such owner occasioned thereby shall be first ascertained and compensated in the manner provided by chapter 4, title X. of the code.

Approved March 18, 1874.

Prior to this act the owners of lands lying along the Mississippi river was held to have no private right in the waters thereof, or in the shore between high and low water mark, and could not recover damages for being deprived of access to the stream by reason of the construction of a railroad along the banks between such marks. Tomlin v. The Dubuque & Miss. R. Co. 32 Iowa, 106. See, also, McManus v. Carmichael, 3 Id., 1, Beck, J., dissenting.

To entitle riparian owner to damages for the appropriation by a railway company of land upon the banks of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers under this chapter, it is not necessary that he should have erected a crib or pier in front of his property. Renwick et al. v. The D. & N. W. R. Co., 49 Id., 664.

It was competent for the state to provide, as it did in the above act, that a railway company should not appropriate land for its own uses, between high and low water mark without making compensation to riparian owner. Id.

The fact that the railroad company appropriated a right of way over an embankment, between the mainland and a crib which the plaintiff had no right to erect, would not deprive him of the right to damages for the right of way appropriated. Id.

The grant of authority to the railroad corporation, by the city of Davenport, to construct its road over the premises in question, held, not to impair the right of the riparian owner to damages. Id.

(Chapter 181, Laws of 1880.)

An Act defining the rights and liabilities of hotel, inn and eating-house keepers.

SECTION 1. [Hotel and inn-keepers keeping safes may require guests to deposit valuables therein.]

—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the
That all keepers of hotels, inns and eating-houses who shall keep therein a good and sufficient vault or iron safe for the deposit of moneys, jewels and other valuables, and also provide a safe and commodious place therein for the baggage, clothing and other property belonging to their guests and patrons, and shall keep posted up in a conspicuous place in the office or other public room, and in the guests' apartments therein, printed notices stating that such places for safe deposit are so provided for the use and accommodation of the inmates thereof, shall not be held liable for the loss of any money, jewels, valuables, baggage or other property not deposited with them for safe keeping, unless such loss shall occur through the fault or negligence of such landlord, keeper or their agents, servants or employees. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall apply to such reasonable amount of money nor to such jewels, baggage, valuables or other property as is usual, fit and proper for any such guests to have and retain in their apartments or about their persons.

Sec. 2. [Inn-keepers' lien on baggage, etc., of guests.]—That all hotel, inn or eating-house keepers shall have a lien upon, and may take and retain possession of, all baggage and other property belonging to or under control of their guests which may be in such hotel, inn or eating-house, for the value of their accommodations and keep, and for all money paid for or advanced to, and for such extras and other things as shall be furnished such guest, and such property so retained shall not be exempt from attachment or execution to the amount of the proper and reasonable charges of such hotel, inn or eating-house keeper against such guest and the cost of enforcing the lien thereon.

Approved March 26, 1880.

CHAPTER 5.

OF RAILROADS.

ORGANIZATION.

Sec. 1273. [Change of corporate name: how made and effect of.]—Any corporation organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of constructing and operating a railway, may, with the assent of two-thirds of all the stockholders in interest, change the corporate name thereof. But no change in the name of any such corporation shall be deemed complete until the president and secretary thereof shall file in the office of the secretary of state a statement under oath, showing the assent of the stockholders to such change, and the new name adopted, and a certified copy of the proceedings had by the corporation and stockholders in relation thereto as the same appears in the records thereof; from the time of such filing, the corporation by its new name shall be entitled to all the rights, powers, and franchises that it possessed under the old name, and by the new name shall be liable upon all contracts and obligations of every kind and description entered into by or binding upon such corporation by or under its old name to the same extent and manner as if no change in the name of such corporation had been made.

Sec. 1274. [Record made by secretary of state.]—The secretary of state shall immediately record in the proper book in his office the matters filed in the preceding section, and make intelligible references to the record of the articles of incorporation as originally recorded.

Sec. 1275. [May intersect, join, merge and consolidate.]—Any such corporation may join, intersect, and unite its railway with the railway of any other corporation at such point on the boundary line of this state as may be agreed upon by such corporations. And with the assent of three-fourths in interest of all the stockholders, may, by purchase or sale, or otherwise, merge and consolidate the stock, property, franchises, and liabilities of such corporations, making the same one joint stock corporation upon such terms as may be agreed upon not in conflict with the laws of this state.

SEC. 1276. [May connect and make contracts with reference thereto.]—Any such corporation which has or may construct its railway so as to meet or connect with any other railway in an adjoining state at the boundary line of this state, shall have power to make such contracts and agreements with the corporations controlling such railways in an adjoining state, for the transportation of freight and passengers, or for the use of its railway by such foreign corporation, as the board of directors may see proper.

SEC. 1277. [Extension of into other states.]—Any such corporation organized for the purpose of constructing a railway from a point within the state, may construct or extend the same into or through any other state under such regulations as may be prescribed by the laws of such state; and the rights and privileges of such corporation over said extension in the construction and use thereof, and in controlling and applying the assets, shall be the same as if its railway was constructed wholly within this state.

SEC. 1278. [Duties and liabilities apply to lessees.]—All the duties and liabilities imposed upon corporations owning or operating railways by this chapter, shall apply to all lessees or other persons owning or operating such railways as fully as if they were expressly named herein, and any action which might be brought, or penalty enforced, against any such corporation by virtue of any provision of this chapter, may be brought or enforced against such lessees or other persons.

A railroad company cannot escape liability for an accident occurring while its road is being operated in the corporate name, even though in fact it may have been leased and was at the time controlled by another party. Sections 1278 and 1307, making lessees liable to the same extent as the corporations themselves, provide merely a cumulative remedy and do not release the lessors. Bower v. The B. & S. W. R. Co., 42 Iowa, 545.

The requirement of the statute that every railroad shall construct cattle-guards wherever its track enters or leaves any improved land, applies equally to the lessee of the corporation owning the road. Downing v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 43 Id., 96.

Where two different railroad companies operate trains on the same road, one being the owner and the other the lessee of the road, each is liable only for stock injured or killed by its own trains by reason of the road being non-fenced, and not for that injured or killed by the trains of the other. Stephens v. The D. & St. P. R. Co., 36 Id., 327; Cary v. The Iowa Midland R'y Co., 37 Id., 344.

That in such case, by the terms of the lease, the lessor had the right to fix the time table, and that the lessee's trains were operated in subordination thereto, and that the lessee was obliged to keep up repairs and fences, would not change the above rule or liability for injuring or killing stock. Id.

A receiver who is operating a railroad under the appointment and direction of a court is included in the terms “persons owning or operating railways,” in the contemplation of sections 1278 and 1307, and such receiver, or rather the property in his hands, is liable for the claims of employees for injuries received through the negligence of co-employees. Sloan v. The Central Iowa R'y Co., 62 Id., 728.

SEC. 1279. [Officers of, to reside in the state.]—The offices of secretary and treasurer, or assistant treasurer and general superintendent, of every railway corporation organized under the laws of this state, shall be kept where the principal place of business of such corporation is to be, in which offices the original record, stock, and transfer books, and all the original papers and vouchers of such corporation shall be kept; and such treasurer or assistant treasurer shall keep a record of the financial condition of the corporation, which may be inspected at all reasonable hours by any stockholder, or any committee appointed by the general assembly. Such corporation may keep in any other state a transfer office, in which may be kept a duplicate transfer book; but no transfer of shares of stock shall be legal or binding until the same is entered in the transfer book kept in this state. The secretary and treasurer, or assistant treasurer and general superintendent aforesaid, shall reside in this state.

SEC. 1280. [Annual report to be laid before general assembly.]—Every such corporation shall, annually, under the oath of the president, in the month of January, make a full report of the condition of its affairs to the secretary of state, and shall have the same published in some newspaper printed in the place of its general business office, showing the amount of the capital stock of such corporation, and the amount paid thereon, the amount of bonds issued, and how secured, and all other indebtedness; the length of such railway when completed, and how much is built and in use; the number of acres of land donated or granted to them, by whom, and what disposition has been made of said grants or donations; the gross amount of receipts and how disbursed; the net amount of profit and the dividends made, with such other facts as may be necessary to a full statement of the affairs and condition of such corporation, and the secretary of state shall present the said report to the general assembly.

SEC. 1281. [Courts may compel report to be filed.]—In case any such corporation shall neglect to make such report as required in the preceding section, any stockholder may file his petition in the district or circuit court in the county where the principal business office is kept, stating that said report has not been made, and praying that an order may issue against the corporation commanding it to make said report; said petition shall be under oath and filed at least ten days before the next term of the district or circuit court in said county, and notice thereof shall be given such corporation for the same length of time, and in the same manner as is now required to be given in other suits in the district or circuit court, and upon the filing of such petition, the clerk shall issue such order and make the same returnable at the next term of the district or circuit court in said county, and costs shall be recoverable by either party as in ordinary actions.

SEC. 1282. [Same: examination ordered.]—If it appears such report has not been filed, the court shall, during the term, appoint three disinterested and competent persons near the place of the general business office of the corporation as an investigating committee, who shall examine into its affairs and report at as early a day as practicable its condition in manner and form, as prescribed in section twelve hundred and eighty of this chapter; one copy of said report to be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county where the proceedings are had, and one copy to be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The compensation for the services of such committee shall be paid by the corporation thus investigated, but it shall not exceed three dollars per day and mileage at the rate of ten cents per mile, counting one way.

ON STOCK AND DEBTS.

SEC. 1283. [May issue bonds, borrow money, and execute mortgages.]—Any such corporation shall have power to issue its bonds for the construction and equipment of its railway, in sums not less than fifty dollars, payable to bearer or otherwise, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding ten per cent per annum, and make the same convertible into stock, and may sell the same at such rates or prices as is deemed proper; if such bonds are sold below the par value thereof they shall, nevertheless, be valid and binding, and no plea of usury shall be allowed such corporation in any action or proceeding brought to enforce the collection of said bonds; such corporation may also secure the payment of said bonds by executing mortgages or deeds of trust of the whole or any part of its property and franchises.
Sec. 1284. [Mortgages may cover after acquired property.]—Said mortgages or deeds of trust may, by their terms, include and cover, not only the property of the corporation making them at the time of their date, but property both real and personal which may thereafter be acquired, and shall be as valid and effective for that purpose as if the property were in possession at the time of the execution thereof.

Sec. 1285. [How executed, recorded, and effect of.]—Said mortgages or deeds of trust shall be executed in such manner as the articles of incorporation or by-laws of the corporation may provide, and shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of each county through which the railway of the corporation may run, or in which any property mortgaged or conveyed by such deeds of trust may be situated, and shall be notice to all the world of the rights of all parties under the same, and for this purpose, and to secure the rights of mortgagees or parties interested under deeds of trust so executed and recorded, the rolling stock and personal property of the company properly belonging to the road and appertaining thereto, shall be deemed a part of the road, and said mortgages and deeds so recorded shall have the same effect both as to notice and otherwise, as to the personal, as to the real estate covered by them.

Sec. 1286. [May issue preferred stock.]—Any such corporation, with the assent of two-thirds of all the stockholders in interest, may issue, in payment of debts, preferred stock, not exceeding ten thousand dollars for each mile of railway constructed, which stock shall be entitled to such dividends as the directors of the corporation may determine, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, if the same is earned in any one year after the payment of all interest on the bonds of the corporation before any dividend is made to the common stock.

Sec. 1287. [Mortgages and preferred stock convertible into common stock.]—Such preferred stock, and any income or mortgage bond of the corporation, shall, at the option of the holder, be convertible into common stock in such manner and on such terms as the board of directors thereof may prescribe; but the aggregate amount of the common and preferred stock shall not exceed the total amount of stock which the corporation may be by law, or the articles of incorporation thereof, authorized to issue.

An Act authorizing railway corporations to issue preferred stock for its bonded indebtedness. [Amendatory of code, title X, chapter 5 "of railways."

Section 1. [Railway corporations may issue preferred stock to pay bonded debt.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That any railway corporation which has no surplus, after paying its running expenses, with which to pay the interest on its bonded indebtedness, with the assent of its bondholders, in addition to the right conferred by section 1286 of the code, may, with the assent of two-thirds of its stockholders, issue its preferred [stock], at par, to an amount equal to and not exceeding its bonded indebtedness, in exchange for its said bonded indebtedness. The said stock shall be entitled to such dividends from its net profits as the directors of the corporation may determine, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, if the same is earned in any one year, after the payment of all interest on the indebtedness of the corporation, before any dividend is made to the common stock.

CHAP. 5.

OF THE TRACK.

SEC. 1288. [Cattle guards: crossings: signs at: penalty. — Every corporation constructing or operating a railway, shall make proper cattle guards where the same enters or leaves any improved or fenced land, and construct at all points where such railway crosses any public highway, good, sufficient and safe crossings and cattle guards, and erect at such points at a sufficient elevation from such highway to admit of free passage of vehicles of every kind, a sign, with large and distinct letters placed thereon, to give notice of the proximity of the railway and warn persons of the necessity of looking out for the cars; and any railway company neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of this section, shall be liable for all damages sustained by reason of such neglect and refusal, and in order for the injured party to recover it shall only be necessary for him to prove such neglect or refusal.

Under the revision the omission of a railroad company to erect a sign-board at a highway crossing to warn persons approaching as required in this section, does not render the company absolutely liable for injuries to persons or property while attempting to cross the track at such point. Evidence of omission merely establishes the negligence of the company, and, if it appears that the plaintiff’s negligence contributed to the injury, he cannot recover. Dodge v. C. R. & M. R. Co., 59 Iowa, 707. But under this section of the code it has been held that the failure or refusal of the company to erect the required sign-board renders it absolutely liable for an injury occurring at a highway crossing. Payne v. The C, R. I. & P. R. R. Co., 44 Id., 236.

It has since been held that the failure to erect a sign at a crossing renders a railroad company liable only for damages sustained by the neglect or refusal to erect the sign, and does not release a party seeking to recover from the necessity of due care on his part. Lang v. The Holiday Creek R. and Coal Mining Co., 49 Id., 469.

Every corporation, owning or operating a railway is required to construct crossings at all points where its road intersects a public highway, and it is liable for all injuries resulting from a neglect of this duty. Farley v. The C. R. I. & P. R. Co., 42 Id., 234.

So, also, railways are required to repair and keep in safe condition for travel, the crossings which the statute requires them to construct, although this requirement does not relieve the road districts of the duty of maintaining the highway in good condition. Id.

The embankment which is constructed as a necessary approach to the railway track, is, in legal contemplation, a part of the crossing. Id.

Any railway company claiming to be exempt from the provisions of the statute imposing this duty, has the burden to establish by affirmative proof the facts upon which such exemption is based. Id.

In an action against a railroad company for injuries resulting from a defective cattle-guard, evidence that another cattle-guard, constructed like the one in controversy, had proved sufficient, was properly rejected. Downing v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 43 Id., 95.

While it is the duty of the injured party to use all reasonable care to protect his property, he would not be allowed to go upon the railway to repair the cattle-guard, or be required to fence the road. Id.

The statute requires railroad companies to construct cattle-guards wherever their tracks enter or leave any improved land, and they are liable for injuries resulting from a failure to do so. Id.

And this is so where the railroad passes through fences dividing the lands of the same owner, as well as those constituting the boundaries between different owners. Smith v. C. C. & D. R. Co., 35 Id., 518.

The rights of a party injured at a railway crossing of a public highway were determined by the statute in force at the time of the injury, and he can derive no advantage from a subsequent statute enlarging the liability of a railroad company, though enacted prior to the commencement of this action. Payne v. The C., R. I. & P. R'y Co., 44 Id., 236.

The rights of a traveler upon the highway and a railroad company are equal at a crossing, but a traveler approaching a crossing must yield the right of way to the train drawing near. Black v. B., C. R. & Min. R. Co., 38 Id., 515.

A statute will not be so construed as to create or authorize the recovery of a penalty, unless the intention to do so be clear. Consequently the latter clause of this section, making the operation of railroad trains upon depot grounds at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour negligence, being susceptible of a different construction, will not be construed to authorize the recovery of double damages for injuries to stock caused by a violation of the statute. Miller v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 59 Id., 707.

This section, which requires railroad corporations to make proper cattle-guards where their roads...
enter or leave any improved or fenced lands, applies to lands which are improved or enclosed after the construction of the railroad as well as those improved or enclosed before. Hibbett v. The Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific R'y Co., 61 Id., 467.

A cattle-guard is not an essential portion of a fence, within the meaning of the statute providing for the recovery of double damages for injuries to stock in cases where railroad companies neglect to maintain fences; but, under section 1288 of the code, a company is liable for single damages only where stock is injured by reason of negligence in keeping a cattle-guard in repair. Morarity v. The Central Iowa R'y Co., 64 Id., 697.

Under the provisions of this section a railroad company must maintain a cattle-guard wherever its road enters or leaves "fenced land," whether the fenced land be the land of another or its own right of way. Robinson v. The C, R. I. & P. R'y Co., 67 Id., 292.

SEC. 1289. [Liability for stock killed where road is not fenced.]—Any corporation operating a railway, that fails to fence the same against live stock running at large at all points where such right to fence exists, shall be liable to the owner of any such stock injured or killed by reason of the want of such fence for the value of the property or damage caused, unless the same was occasioned by the willful act of the owner or his agent. And, in order to recover, it shall only be necessary for the owner to prove the injury or destruction of his property; and if such corporation neglects to pay the value of or damages done to any such stock within thirty days after notice in writing, accompanied by an affidavit of such injury or destruction, has been served on any officer, station or ticket-agent employed in the management of the business of the corporation in the county where the injury complained of was committed, such owner shall be entitled to recover double the value of the stock killed or damages caused thereto; provided, that no law of this state, nor any local or police regulations of any county, township, city, or town, regulating the restraint of domestic animals, or, in relation to the fences of farmers or land owners, shall be applicable to railway tracks, unless so specifically stated in the law or regulation. The operating of trains upon depot grounds necessarily used by the company and public, where no such fence is built, at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour, shall be deemed negligence and render the company liable under this section.

[Liable for fires set out.]—And provided further, that any corporation operating a railway shall be liable for all damages by fire that is set out or caused by operating of any such railway, and such damage may be recovered by the party damaged in the same manner as set forth in this section in regard to stock, except to double damages.

This section is not inconsistent with section 6, article 1, of the state constitution. The legislature has the power to fix the consequences attending the failure of a railroad company to pay the simple or actual value of property destroyed or injured as contemplated in the statute. Jones v. The C. & U. R. Co., 16 Iowa, 6.

Under this section of the statute if a railroad company fails to fence its road, where it has the right to do so, it is liable for stock injured or killed by reason of the want of such fence, unless the injury is occasioned by the willful act of the owner. Russell v. Hanley, 20 Id., 219; Jones v. The G. & C. U. R. Co., 16 Id., 6; McCool v. The Same, 17 Id., 461; Koons v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 25 Id., 493; Spence v. The Same, 25 Id., 133; Stewart v. The Same, 27 Id., 222; Holphren v. The G. & R. I.B. Co., 29 Id., 430; Andre v. The G. & N. W. R'y Co., 30 Id., 161; Soward v. The Same, 34 Id., 551; Stewart v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 32 Id., 561; Davis v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 40 Id., 292; McCormick v. The Same, 41 Id., 183; Davis v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 26 Id., 549; Brandt v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 1st Id., 114; Treadway v. The S. C. & St. P. R. Co., 43 Id., 527.

As to third persons, it is the duty of railroad companies not only to fence their roads but to keep gates at private crossings in repair and closed; but where a road is properly fenced and the company uses the necessary care and caution in keeping it up or in good condition, and it is thrown and left down or open by the act of a third person, without the fault of the company, the liability for the injury is upon the party thus throwing down or leaving open the fence, and not upon the railroad company. Russell v. Hanley, 20 Id., 219.

The company will be liable for stock killed or injured on its track by reason of its failure to keep the fences in repair which it has erected along the line of its road, but before such liability will attach, the company must have knowledge, either actual or implied, that the fence was out of repair, and a reasonable time thereafter to put it in proper condition. This rule applies where gates or bars have been left open by third person. Aylesworth v. The C., R. I. & P. R.

This section is not a penal statute, nor is the double damages therein provided for a statute penalty within the meaning of the statute of limitations (code, sec. 2529, sub. 1), and the action is, therefore, not barred in two years, but may be brought at any time within five years from the time of the injury. Koons v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 23 Id., 493.

Under this section, a railroad company is liable for swine killed upon its track, while running at large, at a point where it has the right to fence its road and neglects to do so, although swine may be prohibited from running at large by vote of the electors of the county where the injury occurs, unless the injury was caused by the willful act of the owner or his agent. Spence v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 25 Id., 139; Stewart v. Same, 27 Id., 283.

So also, the company will be liable under similar circumstances for the killing of a bull while running at large. The permitting a bull to run at large by the owner does not constitute a willful act within the meaning of the statute, relieving the company from liability. Stewart v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 32 Id., 551. But, sec. Pearson v. The M. & St. P. R. Co., 45 Id., 497.

This section on, in so far as it provides that if a railroad company fails to fence its road against live stock running at large at all points where it has the right to fence, it shall be absolutely liable for stock killed or injured, does not extend or apply to depot grounds; and, in the absence of negligence, the company will not be liable for injuries to stock thereon. Davis v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 26 Id., 549.

The absolute liability of the company does not attach at all places where it has the abstract right to fence, but only where, in the particular case, it is fit, proper and suitable that a fence should be built. Id. To the same effect are Packard v. The Illinois Central R. Co., 30 Id., 474.; Durand v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 25 Id., 559; Comstock v. The D. V. R. Co., 32 Id., 376; Smith v. The C. R. I. & P. R. Co., 31 Id., 506; Lotto v. The B., C. R. & M. R. Co., 35 Id., 250.

The company is not absolutely liable for stock injured or killed upon street or highway crossings, but only where it fails to exercise ordinary and reasonable care. Davis v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 26 Id., 549; Rogers v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 45 Id., 558.

In order for a railroad company to protect itself from absolute liability for injuries to stock on highway crossings, its fences should be built to, and its cattle guards erected at, the crossing. Andre v. The C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 30 Id., 107.

Where the outer line of a railroad and that of a highway running parallel with each other, intersected several hundred feet before the highway crossed the track of the railroad, the company were held liable for stock killed on the track between cattle guards which were erected at the points where the right of way of the railroad and the highway intersected and where the highway crossed the track and to which the company had erected fences. Id.

A railroad company has the same right to fence its track over land which lies within the corporate limits of a city or town, but outside of or beyond streets or alleys, or other public highways, as if the corporation did not exist, unless, possibly, such right may be controlled by municipal ordinance; and where a railroad company fails to fence its track at such place, it becomes liable to the owner of any stock injured or killed by reason of the want of such fence. Couye v. The C. M. & St. P. R. R. Co., 62 Id., 518; Gilman v. The Sioux City P. & R. Co., Id., 300.

Under the last clause of this section the fact of an injury resulting from fire caused by sparks escaping from an engine, is prima facie evidence of negligence, which the defendant must rebut. Id.

A team of horses which are harnessed to a wagon, and which have escaped from the control of their owner, is included under the term "live stock running at large," as used in this section, and a railway company whose train ran upon and injured a team so running at large, at a place where it had the right to fence its track, is liable to the owner for damages. Suman v. C. M. & St. P. R. Co., 60 Id., 450.

Where the plaintiff's horse was at large in the night time on the premises of another, in violation of the night herd law, which was then in force in the county, and was killed by the defendant's train, without fault or negligence of defendant, at a point where it had the right to fence, but did not, held that defendant was liable, under section 1289 of the code, for the value of the horse, in the absence of any showing that the plaintiff, by any willful act, contributed to the injury. Company Spence v. C. & N. W. R. R. Co., 25 Id., 139; Krebs v. The Minn. & St. Louis R. R. Co., 64 Id., 670.

A railroad company is not liable for injury to domestic animals which get upon its track by breaking through a fence which is reasonably sufficient to turn live stock. Schallenbarger v. The C. & I. & P. R. Co., 66 Id., 15.

A steer, with eighty other cattle, were being herded by a boy. He left them for an indefinite period, went home, and another boy returned, and without noticing the steer in question, which had separated from the rest, drove the cattle hurriedly across the defendant's railroad track to avoid an approaching train, leaving the steer behind. Held that the steer was "running at large" within the meaning of section 1289 of the code, providing for the liability of railroad

Section 1289 of the code, raises a prima facie presumption of negligence, upon proof of an injury by a railroad company in the operation of its road, and this presumption is one of liability which cannot be overcome except by proof that the company was not guilty of negligence in the matters which were the immediate cause of the injury. Engle v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R'y Co., 37 N. W. R., 6.

In an action under this section for killing a horse, it was shown that the horse, which fell from off a bridge on defendant's railroad, was seen lying dead in the evening of August 1st, had not been seen by a passer-by at three o'clock p.m. of the same day; that on the evening of August 1st a train stopped near the bridge, and that the horse was exceedingly timid about a railroad track; held insufficient to show that the horse was driven onto the bridge by a train as an act of the defendant which, in connection with the want of a fence, was the cause of the injury. Asbouch v. C. B. & Q. R'y Co., 37 N. W. R., 182.

A railroad company is not absolutely liable under this section for stock killed at the crossing of a road, used and traveled by the public as a highway, though the route thus traveled was in fact outside of the survey or line of the highway as legally established. Sprow v. The C. & N. W. R. Co., 33 Iowa, 386.

Where stock has been injured through the negligence of a railroad company it is the duty of the company to take proper care of the injured animals, and, failing to do so, the owner is justifiable in taking proper care of them, for which he may recover a reasonable compensation from the company. Finch v. The Central R. Co., 42 Id., 303.

That the owner of stock permits it to run at large in the vicinity of a railway crossing which he knows to be dangerous, does not constitute negligence which will defeat his recovery for injuries to his stock caused by the negligence of the railway company. Kuhn v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 42 Id., 420.

The owner of stock has the right to expect that the railway company will exercise ordinary care to prevent injury to his property, both in the construction of its crossings and in the operation of its trains; and it is proper for the jury to be instructed that if a crossing is more than ordinarily dangerous they should consider that circumstance in determining whether the company used reasonable care in the operation of its train when the injury occurred. Id.

In an action to recover damages for killing stock, the objection that the petition fails to set out the notice served upon the railroad company should be raised by demurrer, and if not so raised, will be regarded as waived. McKinley v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 47 Id., 76.

Under section 1289 above, railway companies are liable for all stock killed or injured on depot grounds by trains running at a greater rate of speed than eight miles an hour. Monahan v. The Keokuk & Des M. Ry Co., 45 Id., 523.

This provision, however, imposes no restriction upon the rate of speed of trains outside of the limits of depot grounds, and the liability of a railway company for stock killed just beyond such limits is not affected by the fact that the train was running faster than eight miles an hour. Id. In the absence of statutory limitation upon the rate or speed of railway trains, no conceivable rate is evidence of negligence per se. McKinley v. The C., B. & Q. R. Co., 40 Id., 205.

The provision of this section limiting the speed of trains on depot grounds is a new provision in the law, enacted as part of the code, and has no application to cases arising prior to the taking effect of the code. Id.

A railroad company is not liable under this section for cattle killed on its track unless they are running at large at the time of the injury. Smith v. The C., R. I. & P. R'y Co., 34 Id., 96.

They are "running at large" within the meaning of the statute when they have escaped from the enclosure of their owner, through which the road runs, by reason of the company failing to maintain a sufficient barrier about its road at that point. Hightman v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 28 Id., 491; Eremose v. Dubuque & S. W. R'y Co., 22 Id., 523; Swift v. The N. Mo. R. Co., 29 Id., 243; Hammond v. C. & N. W. R'y Co., 43 Id., 163.

But if cattle, while being driven, in charge of the owner or his servant, escape or run on the track and are injured, the company is not liable. They are not "running at large" within the meaning of the provision of the statute. Smith v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 34 Id., 96.

In an action for damages against a railway company for injuries to growing crops in consequence of a failure to construct cattle guards, the measure of recovery is the market value of the crops when matured, less the expense of fitting them for market, and diminished by whatever the value of the portion saved, if any, may be. Smith v. The C. C. & D. R. Co., 38 Id., 518.

And in such case the owner will be entitled to recover a reasonable compensation for time and labor necessarily expended in efforts to save his crops from destruction; and he is not bound to exercise extraordinary diligence to save his crops, even though that might be successful; whether he is negligent or not in this respect is a question of fact for the jury. Id.

The owner of land adjacent to a railroad, who has agreed with the railroad company to erect and maintain fences between his property and the railroad, cannot recover for injuries to stock caused by the want of fence or defects therein. Semble, that his tenants would likewise be estopped to claim indemnity for losses thus resulting. Warren v. The B. & D. M. R. Co., 41 Id., 484.

Such a contract between the land owner and the company does not release the latter from its liability to other persons than such owner, although it may look to him for indemnity for losses caused by his failure to construct or repair the fence. Id.

But a railroad company is not authorized to diminish the speed of a train for the sake of avoiding injury to stock, if by so doing it augments the danger to passengers. There is no such thing as a "reasonable" increase of damage to passengers. Sandham v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 35 Id., 59.

To render a railroad company liable for double the value of stock killed on its track under this section, it must be served with a written notice of the killing or injury, accompanied by the original affidavit therein provided for. The leaving of a copy of the affidavit with the notice is not a compliance with the statute. McNaught v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 30 Id., 336; Cole v. The Same, 35 Id., 334.

It is not essential to the recovery of double damages that the affidavit be made by the owner of the stock injured. It may be made by any one cognizant of the fact. Henderson v. The St. L. R. C. & N. R. Co., 35 Id., 387.

Prior to the code of 1873, to render a railroad company liable for damages on account of fire resulting from sparks emitted from one of its engines, the negligence of the company in the premises must be shown either directly or by circumstances tending to establish it, such as the absence of a spark arrester, the use of an excessive amount of steam, and unlawful rate of speed, or the like. The mere fact that the fire was caused by the sparks does not make a prima facie case against the company. Gandy v. The C. & N. W. R. Co., 39 Id., 420; Garrett v. The Same, 36 Id., 121.

But, as in the nature of the case, the plaintiff must labor under difficulties in making proof of negligence, it may be established by circumstances bearing more or less directly on the case, which might not be satisfactory in other cases free from difficulty and open to clearer proofs. Id.

The decision in Kese v. The C. & N. W. R. Co., 30 Id., is not applicable to the subject, since the enactment of the code.

The proviso of section 1289, rendering railway companies absolutely liable for all damages by fire, caused by the operation of their roads, is not in conflict with the state constitution. Rodemacker v. The Mil. & St. Paul R'y Co., 41 Id., 297.

It will not, in an action for such damages, be presumed that injuries by fire to fences and timber a mile from the railway were considered in estimating the damages for the right of way. Id.

The service of a written notice is not necessary to the validity of a claim for damages for losses by fire; such notice is only necessary when double damages are sought to be recovered. Id.

This section providing that railway companies "shall be liable for all damage that is set out or caused by the operation" of their roads, does not create any absolute liability, but makes the fact of an injury so occurring only prima facie evidence of negligence, which may be rebutted by proof of freedom from negligence. Small v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 50 Iowa, 338. Back, Cat. J., and Dat., dissenting. Approved and followed in Stossen v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 51 Id., 294.

Proof of service of notice on the station agent of the railroad company is, under this section, sufficient service. Id.

Where a horse was struck by an engine and his leg broken, thus rendering him valueless and useless, and was afterwards killed by the employes of the company; held, evidence of such fact were competent. Id.

The double damages authorized by this section are not in the nature of a fine or penalty, but are simply the measure of damages fixed by the statute for a private wrong, and as such do not render the provisions unconstitutional. Mackie v. Central R'y of Iowa, 54 Id., 540.

A statute will not be so construed as to create or authorize the recovery of a penalty, unless the intention to do so be clear; consequently the latter clause of this section, making the operation of railroad trains upon depot grounds at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour negligent, being susceptible of a different construction, will not be construed to authorize the recovery of double damages for injuries to stock caused by violation of the statute. Miller v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 59 Id., 707.

Where an occupant of land traversed by a railway allows his swine to run at large on the land, and they go upon the railroad at a point where the company has the right to fence, but does not, and are killed by a passing train, he may recover of the company under this section, without proving that they were killed by the negligence of servants of the company. Lee v. The Minneapolis & St. Louis R'y Co., 65 Id., 131.

If a railway company desires to protect itself from the liability for injury to stock running at large, it must fence its track against live stock, which includes swine. Id.
The moving of trains over a railway for whatever purpose is "operating a railway" within the meaning of this section of the code, and renders the company liable for stock killed or injured on account of a failure to fence the track. It is not essential to such liability that the road be completed and open to traffic; nor can the company claim exemption for any time, after it begins the movement of trains, on the ground that it should have a reasonable time after the construction of the road within which to build fences. Glandon v. The C., M. & St. P. R'y Co., 68 Id., 457.

The notice and affidavit of the killing of stock by a railway company, required by this section in order to the recovery of double damages, may be served by simply delivering them to the proper officer or agent of the company without reading them. Brener v. The C., M. & St. P. R'y Co., 1d., 590.

Although a horse may be "crazy," if he gets upon the track of a railroad on account of the want of a fence, where the right to fence exists, and, for want of intelligence, runs a head of the engine on the track, when he might escape on either side, and so runs into a bridge and is killed, without being struck by the engine, the company is liable, notwithstanding the horse's want of intelligence and manner of death. Liston v. The Central Iowa R'y Co., 70 Id., 714.

In an action under this section, when the injury is claimed to have been caused by the improper and insecure fastening of a gate in defendant's fence, the question of the sufficiency of such fastening is for the jury, and their verdict in favor of the plaintiff cannot be held unsupported by evidence when it appears that the gate swung towards the right of way, and the hook that held it closed was bent at such an angle that, by a slight pressure against the gate it would be thrown out of the staple. Payne v. Kansas City, St. Joe & C. B. R'y Co., 79 Id., 214.

This section applies to cases where the fence is insufficient as well as where there is no fence at all, and the rule was applied to a case where the stock got upon the track through a defective gate in defendant's fence. Id.

A right of action against a railway company for killing stock may be assigned, and the assignee, by serving the notice required by this section of the code for the purpose of recovering double damages, will be entitled to recover such damages upon the same showing as the original owner of the stock. Everett v. Central Iowa R'y Co., 35 N. W. R., 609.

A majority of the supreme court held, in Blanford v. The Mian. & St. Louis R'y Co., 71 Iowa, 310, that a railroad corporation does not have the right to fence its track in cities and towns where it is intersected by streets and alleys; and that it is immaterial whether the track crosses a lot or block for a greater or less distance, or whether the lot or block is owned by one or many persons. Breck and Ried, JJ., dissenting.

When damage is done by fire from a railroad locomotive, negligence is presumed under this section of the code, and in an action to recover for such damage it is not necessary to allege that the company was negligent. Bose v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 12 Id., 625.

Sec. 1290. [Railway crossings near shore of Mississippi river.]—Whenever it becomes necessary in the construction of any railway to cross any other railway near the shore of the Mississippi river, each shall be so constructed and maintained at the point of crossing that the respective road-beds thereof shall be above high water in such river. But where such crossings occur within the limits of cities containing six thousand inhabitants, as shown by the last preceding census, the city council of such cities may establish the grade at such crossings.

Sec. 1291. [Terms and conditions on which change may be made.]—In all cases where taxes have been voted under chapter forty-eight, of twelfth general assembly, or chapter one hundred and two, of thirteenth general assembly, to aid in the construction of any railway, or where said tax has been transferred under chapter eighty-one, of the fourteenth general assembly, and said tax has been voted or transferred under any condition or contract with the railway company, which the township may desire to have changed or modified, said township is hereby authorized upon agreement of its trustees with the railway company constructing said proposed railway, to submit to a vote of the electors of the township, the question whether the conditions or contract under which said tax was voted or transferred shall be changed or modified, and said trustees, upon petition of one-third of the legal voters of the township, as shown by the vote cast at the last general election, asking such change or modification, shall order an election, submitting the agreement to the electors, at a special election called therefor, said election to be conducted in all respects as to notice and manner of holding as the election at which the tax was originally voted.
SEC. 1292. (As substituted by ch. 18, 15th g. a.) [Cars of other roads drawn over.]—(Any railway corporation operating a railway in this state, intersecting or crossing any other line of railway, of the same gauge, operated by any other company, shall, by means of a Y, or other suitable or proper means, be made to connect with such other railway so intersected or crossed, and railway companies where railroads shall be so connected shall draw over their respective roads the cars of such connecting railway; and also those of any other railway or railways connected with said roads made to connect as aforesaid, and also the cars of all transportation companies or persons, at reasonable terms, and for a compensation not exceeding their ordinary rates.)

SEC. 1293. (As substituted by ch. 18, 15th g. a.) [Commissioners appointed to fix rates: how done.]—(When such corporations are unable to agree upon terms of connection and rates of transportation, either, or any person interested in having such construction made, may make application to the district or circuit court in any county in which said connection may be desired or located, or to the judge of said courts, if in vacation, after ten days’ notice in writing to the companies. After hearing the parties, or on default, the said judge shall appoint three disinterested persons, being presidents or superintendents of railways, or experts in railway business, without regard to their place of residence, as commissioners, to determine the terms of connection, and rules and regulations necessary thereto, Provided, that the rates so fixed by the said commission for freights offered or transported in the cars of the company offering the same, shall in no case exceed the local rates per mile fixed by law or set forth in the carrying company’s freight tariff, prepared and made public in accordance with the laws of the state.)

SEC. 1294. [Testimony taken by: report of: confirmation.]—Said commissioners shall meet at such time and place as may be ordered by said court or judge, and shall hear the parties and any testimony brought before them, and make and sign their report, prescribing the things to be done. Such report made by them, or a majority of them, shall, within such time as ordered by said court or judge, be returned to and filed in said court, to be confirmed thereby; and, when so confirmed, shall be binding upon the parties until another report shall be made upon a new application, which cannot be made within two years after such confirmation.

SEC. 1295. [Duty, power, and compensation of commissioners.]—Said commissioners shall have such compensation as shall be deemed reasonable by the court, and shall be governed by the same rules and have the same power in compelling the attendance of witnesses, and shall themselves be sworn, as is now provided in cases of referees in civil actions at law in the district court, and exceptions may be taken to their report in the same manner; and such exceptions shall have the same effect, and the proceedings upon their report shall be the same as on reports of referees in cases referred from said court, and the costs shall be paid by the parties in such proportion as to the court may seem equitable and just.

SEC. 1296. [Penalty.]—If the officers of, or any person in the employ of said corporation, refuse to comply with the terms of such confirmed report, they may be punished as for a contempt of said court.

SEC. 1297. [Parallel railways cannot pool earnings: penalty.]—It shall be unlawful for any railway company to make any contract, or enter into any stipulation with any other railway company running in the same general direction, by which either company shall, directly or indirectly, agree to divide in any manner or proportion the joint earnings upon the whole or any part of the freight transported over such roads, and any violation of this provision shall render the railway company violating the same liable to a penalty of five thousand dollars for each month for which such earnings are divided, to be recovered for the use of the permanent school fund in the name of the state.

Sec. 1298. [Drawback.]—Contracts between any such corporations operating a railway, allowing a drawback of not exceeding fifteen per cent on the gross earnings of the railway on business coming from or going to any other railway, shall be legal and binding.

Sec. 1299. [Same: on roads partially constructed.]—Any such corporation owning and operating a railway partially constructed, may, for the purpose of inducing the investment of capital in the extension or completion of its railway, contract with the party furnishing such means, or the trustees who may represent them, allowing a drawback not exceeding twenty per cent of the gross earnings of all business coming from and going to any part of the extension or portion to be aided or completed with the money or means thus obtained; or such railway company may lease of the trustees or said parties, the portion to be built with means thus furnished, subject to the same rights and liabilities as are provided in the next section.

Sec. 1300. [Sale, lease or joint running arrangements.]—Any such corporation may sell or lease its railway property and franchises to, or may make joint running arrangements with, any corporation owning or operating any connecting railway, and the corporation operating the railway of another shall, in all respects, be liable in the same manner and extent as though such railway belonged to it, subject to the laws of this state.

A railroad company which, as the lessee of another company owning the road, has the exclusive right to run, operate and control the road as its own during a term of fifty years, and exercise the right of maintaining a fence along the line, was held liable under section 6, of chapter 109, of the laws of 1863, for stock killed by reason of its failure to fence the road operated by it. Stewart v.
The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 27 Iowa, 282.

So where two railroad companies operate trains on the same track, one being the owner and the other a lessee, each is liable for stock killed or injured by its own trains. Clary v. The Iowa M.
R. Co., 37 Id., 344; Stevens v. The D. & St. P. R'y Co., 36 Id., 337.

That by the terms of the lease the lessee had the right to fix the time table, and that the trains of the lessee were operated in subordination thereto, and the lessee was obliged to keep up repairs and fences, would not change the rule. Id.

But a railroad company cannot escape liability for injuries occurring while its road is being operated in the corporate name, even though in fact it may have been leased, and was at the time

Where a railroad company in the operation of its trains set out fire, destroying property, it canot escape liability therefor by showing that the fire originated on the right of way, by reason of combustible matter thereon, and that the road and right of way belonged to another corporation, and that defendant simply had a right by contract to run trains over the road. Slossen v. B., C.
R. & N. R'y Co., 60 Id., 215.

The liability of railway corporations for double damages for stock killed or injured on their roads is not limited to the failure to fence the road, but extends also to a failure to maintain a sufficient

Sec. 1301. [Mortgaged.]—Any contract, lease or benefit derived therefrom, contemplated in either of the three preceding sections, may be mortgaged for the purpose of securing construction bonds in the same manner as other property of the corporation.

Sec. 1302. [Change of ownership or name: rights and remedies.]—Where any railway company shall be organized under a corporate name, and shall have made contracts for payments to it upon delivery of stock in such company, and shall, subsequent to such contracts, have changed their corporate name, or when the real ownership in the property, rights, powers and franchises has passed legally or equitably into any other company, no such contracts shall be enforced in law or equity until tender or delivery of stock in such last named corporation or company.
SEC. 1303. [Report to general assembly made.]—When any railway has been completed and opened for use, the corporation constructing the same shall report to the next general assembly, under oath, the total cost thereof, specifying the amount expended for construction, engines, cars, depots and other buildings, and the amount of all other expenses, together with the length of the railway, the number of planes, with their inclination to the mile, the greatest curvature, the average width of grade, and the number of ties per mile.

SEC. 1304. [Maximum rates to be annually fixed and posted up: penalty. — In the month of June in each year, every corporation operating a railway in this state shall fix its maximum rates of fare for passengers and freight, for transportation of timber, wood and coal, per ton, cord or thousand feet per mile; also its fare and freight per mile for transporting merchandise and articles of the first, second, third and fourth classes of freight; and, on the first day of July following, shall put up at all the stations and depots on its railway, a printed copy of such fare and freight, and cause a copy to remain posted during the year. For willfully neglecting so to do, or for willfully receiving higher rates of fare or freight than those posted, the company shall forfeit and pay to the state of Iowa, for the use of the school fund, not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, to be recovered in any civil action in the name of the state; and it is hereby made the duty of the several district attorneys within their respective districts to sue for and recover all sums forfeited as aforesaid; and such corporation shall also forfeit and pay to the person injured double the amount of compensation or charge illegally taken, to be recovered by such person in a civil action.

SEC. 1305. [Maximum passenger fare.]—For the transportation of passengers, no railway company shall charge to exceed three and one-half cents per mile per passenger.

SEC. 1306. [Rights reserved.]—All contracts, stipulations and conditions regarding the right of controlling and regulating the charges for freight and passengers upon railways, heretofore made in granting land or other property or voting taxes to aid in the construction of, or franchises to, railway corporations, are expressly reserved, continued and perpetuated in full force and effect, to be exercised by the general assembly, whenever the public good or the public necessity requires such exercise thereof.

SEC. 1307. [Liable for injuries done employees: contracts restricting void.]—Every corporation operating a railway shall be liable for all damages sustained by any person, including employees of such corporation, in consequence of the neglect of agents, or by any mismanagement of the engineers or other employees of the corporation, and in consequence of the willful wrongs, whether of commission or omission of such agents, engineers or other employees, when such wrongs are in any manner connected with the use and operation of any railway, on or about which they shall be employed, and no contract which restricts such liability shall be legal or binding.

Under the statute prior to the passage of chapter 169, laws of 1862, it was held, in harmony with the current of common law authority, that the principal is not liable for damages sustained by an employee from the negligence of a co-employee in the same general service; and that the 14th section of the act entitled “an act to grant to railroad companies the right of way,” approved January 13, 1853, did not change the general rule on the subject. Sullivan v. The M. & M. B'y Co., 42 Iowa, 421.

After the act of 1862 took effect it was held, that while the seventh section thereof gave an employee of a railroad company a right to recover for injuries caused by the negligence of a co-employee, the liability was nevertheless measured by a different standard and rule as to negligence from what it is in case of injuries to passengers. While extraordinary care and caution are required with respect to passengers, ordinary care only is due to the employe. Hunt v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 26 Id., 363, Wright, J., dissenting, and holding that under the statute the same rule applied to both.
A person employed by a railroad company as a private detective, and who, while walking upon the railroad track in the discharge of his duty, and without fault on his part, is injured by the negligence of an engineer of a passing train, may maintain an action against the company under this section. Pyne v. The C., B. & Q. R. Co., 54 Id., 223.

A paper shown to be similar to an affidavit of the killing of stock served on a railroad company, but not a copy, is not admissible to prove the contents of the affidavit. Kysor v. K. C., St. J. & C. P R. Co., 56 Id., 237.

To entitle an employee of a railroad company to recover of the company for personal injuries inflicted through the negligence of a co-employee, it must be shown that his employment was connected with the operation of the railway. Smith v. The B. C. R. & N. Ry Co., 59 Id., 73, citing the following: Schroeder v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 41 Id., 344; Same Case, 47 Id., 375; Deppe v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 36 Id., 52. See also Francisen v. The Same, 1 Id., 272.

An employee of a railroad company cannot recover from the company for injuries sustained through the negligence of a co-employee, where he has also been guilty of contributory negligence producing the injury. Hohen v. The B. & M. R. R. Co., 20 Id., 562; McAunich v. The M. & M. R. Co., 38 Id., 338; Kroy v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 32 Id., 357; Nelson v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 38 Id., 564.

The rule is settled in this state that in an action for injuries resulting from negligence, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that the injury happened without contributory negligence on his part; yet this may be inferred from circumstances, without direct proof. Nelson v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 38 Id., 564.

As to the scope of the term employe used in the statute it must be limited to those employees engaged in the hazardous business of operating a railroad. Deppe v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 36 Id., 52; Francisen v. The Same, Id., 372; Schroeder v. The Same, 41 Id., 344; McAunich v. The M. & M. R. Co., 20 Id., 388.

Nevertheless, one who is employed in connection with a dirt train, and who was injured while loading a car by the falling of an impending bank is within the term. Francisen v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., supra.

A person employed as a section hand whose duty it is, with others, to keep a certain distance of the railroad track in repair, and to go with them on the track in a hand car for that purpose, is an employe within this section of the statute. Francisen v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 36 Id., 272.

This provision of the statute was held to be not in conflict with the constitution in McAunich v. The M. & M. R. Co., 20 Id., 338.

Where the deceased was the conductor and superior officer of the train, and directed the line of conduct by which resulted his death, his personal representatives will be estopped from recovering against the company on the ground of negligence on the part of its employes. Dewey v. The C. & N. W. Ry Co., 31 Id., 373.

Where an employe of a railway company is killed through the negligence of a co-employe, a right of action accrues under this section to the representatives of the deceased. Philo v. The III. Cent. R. Co., 33 Id., 47.

The bare fact that an employe is directed by his superior in charge to perform an act at a time and under such circumstances as that a person would reasonably apprehend danger therefrom, would not justify his disobedience of such order; hence to assume such position of danger in obedience to such direction, is not, of itself, negligence. Francisen v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 38 Id., 372.

The giving of signals of an approaching train at a crossing, by blowing the whistle or ringing the bell is not required under the statute or any rule of law. Spencer v. The Ill. Cent. R. Co., 29 Id., 55; Arts v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 34 Id., 153.

But see chapter 194, laws of 1884, making it the duty of the company to do so at least 60 rods before reaching a highway crossing, post, p.

And where such signals are required by statute, the omission to give them will not render the company absolutely liable, unless injury results from such omission alone, without the negligence of the party injured. Id.

Nor on the other hand will the absence of such statutory requirement excuse the company from giving such signals under all circumstances. Id.

When it is the duty of a person in crossing the track of a railway to use all reasonable precautions to ascertain whether a train is approaching, he is not, as a matter of law, bound to stop his team and look and listen before attempting to cross. He may have satisfactory and sufficient evidence to justify him in attempting to cross, without this. Spencer v. The Ill. Cent. R. Co., 29 Id., 56.

A person going upon the track of a railroad for the purpose of walking thereon, is bound to exercise ordinary precaution in looking out for the approach of the cars, and to use his senses to that end. His failure to do so constitutes negligence on his part as matter of law. Carlina v. C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 37 Id., 316.

While an employe would have no right of action for injuries received in such case, since he was employed and paid for assuming such a position of danger, yet if the danger was created by reason of the prior negligence of co-employees, or if, by reason of their negligence, the injury was caused to him, he may recover. 1d.

It is the duty of railroad companies to provide their cars with such appliances as are calculated and reasonably necessary to insure the safety of their employees. Greenlief v. The Ill. Cen. R. Co., 29 Id., 14; Cooper v. The Cen. R. Co., 44 Id., 134.

If the car in question was wanting in the appliances reasonably necessary for the safety of employees at the time of its construction, and so continued when put and used on the road, it would not be necessary to show any further knowledge thereof on the part of defendant in order to fix its liability. 1d.

If the defect was known to the employe, or might have been known by the use of ordinary care, and there was no inducement used for him to remain, by promises to remove the danger by remedying the defect, it would seem that he thereby assumes the risk and would not be entitled to recover for injuries resulting therefrom. 1d.

If at one time the car was supplied with these appliances and they were afterwards removed by accident or otherwise, an employe cannot recover on account of the defects without showing that the company or its agents had notice thereof, or might have known it by the use of ordinary diligence. 1d.

Though an employe knew of the defects in the appliances of a car, his right to recover for injuries resulting therefrom would not be defeated if he was at the time acting under the immediate order of a superior. 1d.

The rule is now recognized in this state, that if the employe knows that another employe is habitually negligent, or that the materials with which he works are defective, and he continues his work without objection and without being induced by his employer to believe that a change will be made, he will be deemed to have assumed the risk and cannot recover for an injury resulting therefrom. 1d.

The plaintiff's negligence will not enable the defendant to escape liability if the act which caused the injury was done by defendant after it discovered the plaintiff's negligence, and if the defendant could have avoided the injury by the exercise of reasonable care. Morris v. The C., B. & Q. R. R. Co., 45 Id., 29.

When a person knowingly about to cross a railroad track approaches it from a point where he may have an unobstructed view of the railroad, and know of the approach of a train a sufficient time to clearly avoid any injury from it, he cannot, as a matter of law, recover, although the railroad company was also guilty of negligence. O'Keefe v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 52 Id., 467; Carlin v. Same, 37 Id., 316; Donaldson v. The M. & M. R. Co., 18 Id., 280; Balcom v. The D. & S. C. R. Co., 21 Id., 102;
An employe of a railroad company, who is foreman of a crew, with power to direct the men under him in their work, and to hire and discharge them at will, is a co-employe with the men under him, in contemplation of this section, and may recover of the company for injuries received in the course of his employment by reason of the negligence of the men in his crew. Houser v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 61 Id., 230.

It was held that one whose duty it was to wipe the defendant's engines, and do other work about the round-house, and to open the doors of the round-house so as to allow the engines to pass in and out, and while endeavoring to shut the doors, was injured by the carelessness of his co-employes, who were at the time engaged with him in the same effort, cannot recover of the company for such injury under this section, because the injury was not in any manner connected with the use and operation of the railway, as contemplated in this section. Malone v. The B., C. R. & N. R'y Co., 61 Id., 326.

A railroad company is liable for negligence of its agents toward passengers while they are executing what they suppose to be the orders of the company, toward passengers while they are executing what they suppose to be the orders of the company, though their conduct is in violation of the rules of the road. McDaniel v. C. & N. W. R. Co., 44 Id., 375.

Where a railroad company undertook to transport a lot of cattle for the owner, who was to take care of them, in a car which proved to be defective, by reason of which the cattle had to be changed to another car, which the owner of the cattle had no opportunity to provide with bedding, whereby some of the cattle got down and were injured, it was held, that the company was liable for the loss thus sustained. McDaniel v. C. & N. W. R. Co., 44 Id., 412.

If the employees of a railway company, engaged in the operation of the road or in the running of the trains, commit an assault upon a citizen who is not a passenger upon the train or in any manner connected with the company, it is not liable for such assault. Porter v. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co., 41 Id., 338.

Prior to the act of April 18, 1872, being chapter 65 of the laws of that year, which is embodied in section 1307 of the code, it was held, that a railroad company was not liable for stock killed or injured on its track in consequence of the wilful act of the engineer. Decamp v. The M. & M. R. Co., 12 Id., 345. Followed in Cooke v. The Ill. Cent. R. Co., 30 Id., 202.

It is now, however, held, that a railway company is liable for the malicious and criminal acts of its agents toward passengers while they are executing what they suppose to be the orders of the company, even though the orders do not in fact contemplate such acts. McKinley v. The C. & N. W. R. Co., 44 Id., 310.

The decision in the above case does not seem to be based upon the provisions of section 1307 of the code, as no reference is made thereto in the opinion, but it clearly overrules the prior cases on the same question.

A railroad company is chargeable with negligence if any of its employes whose duty it was to observe the condition of a bridge, or keep it in repair, had actual or implied notice of the defects therein, or in the exercise of reasonable diligence would have known them, and failed to make the necessary repairs. Locke v. The S. C. & P. R. Co., 46 Id., 109.

A railroad company is held only to the exercise of ordinary diligence to prevent injury to its employes. Id.

In an action against a railway company for negligence, in killing plaintiff's intestate, when the evidence shows contributory negligence on the part of the deceased, the court may direct a verdict for defendant. Starry v. The D. S. W. R. Co., 51 Id., 419.

Under this section a railroad company is liable for the tort of a brakeman committed in removing a trespasser from a train whether the wrongful act be merely one of negligence, or a willful and criminal wrong. Marion v. The C., R. I. & P. R'y Co., 64 Id., 565.

This section is not in conflict with the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, because it subjects railroad corporations to liabilities and penalties to which other corporations and persons are not subjected. Buckley v. The Central R'y of Iowa, 64 Id., 604; following McAunich v. The M. & M. R'y Co., 20 Id., 338.

A car repairer, whose duties were to repair cars on the track, but had nothing to do with the cars in motion, except to ride on a passenger or freight train to and from his work, held not engaged in the operation of a railway within the meaning of this section, and cannot recover for an injury received in the discharge of his duty through the negligence of a co-employe. Foley v. The C., R. I. & P. Co., 64 Id., 644; Deppe v. The Same, 36 Id., 52, distinguished.

An employe of a railway company whose duty it was to wipe engines, open and shut the doors of an engine house, and remove snow from the turn-table and connecting tracks, is not, by reason of such duties, in any proper sense employed in the operation of the railroad, within the meaning of this section of the code, and for an injury received while performing such duties, through the negligence of a co-employe, he cannot recover against the company, under this section of the code, notwithstanding he may have other duties to perform which do pertain to the operation of the road. Malone v. The B., C. R. & N. R'y Co., 45 Id., 417.

Where the plaintiff was a member of a construction gang on the defendant's railway, and his duties required him to ride upon, and work upon and about, defendant's cars and tracks, but he was injured by the negligence of a co-employee, in throwing a heavy stone upon his hand while engaged in placing stones under the ends of ties, held that such injury was not in any manner connected with the use or operation of the railway as contemplated in section 1307 of the code, and that the defendant was not liable therefor. Matson v. The C., R.I. & P. R'y Co., 65 Id., 32.

Railroad companies are liable to employees for injuries received through the negligence of co-employees only when "it is in any manner connected with the use and operation of any railway on or about which they shall be employed." But one whose sole duty it is to elevate coal to a platform convenient for delivering it to the tenders of engines, is not employed in the use and operation of a railroad—not being in any way concerned with the moving and operation of trains. Struble v. The B. C. R. & St. P. R'y Co., 70 Id., 555.

Where the plaintiff, a section hand in the employment of the defendant, a railroad company, was directed to get upon a loaded moving train by the conductor and others in charge of the train, to go to another place and unload it, and in attempting to do so was thrown down and received personal injuries, held that such injuries occurred in the "use and operation" of the train, within the meaning of this section of the statute. Rayburn v. The Central Iowa R'y Co., 35 N. W. R., 606.

An employee of a railroad whose duty it is to assist in loading and unloading gravel cars, and to perform any other service, as required in and about the work in hand, and to ride back and forth on the cars between the gravel pit and the places where the gravel is placed on the track, is a person employed in the operation of a railroad within the meaning of this section of the code, which gives to such employees a remedy for injuries caused by the negligence of co-employees. Handelwo v. The B. C. R. & N. R'y Co., 72 Iowa, 709.

SEC. 1308. [Liability cannot be lessened, etc.]—No contract, receipt, rule or regulation shall exempt any corporation engaged in transporting persons or property by railway from liability of a common carrier of passengers, which would exist had no contract, receipt, rule or regulation, been made or entered into.

When a railroad company undertook to transport cattle from Clinton, Iowa, to Chicago, Illinois, under a contract containing a stipulation restricting the common law liability of the company as a common carrier, this stipulation was held void under chapter 113, laws of the tenth general assembly, and that the company was liable as a common carrier, the same as if no such stipulation had been inserted in the contract. McDaniel v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 24 Iowa, 412.

Under sections 1307 and 1308 of the code, railroad companies are liable for all damages caused by the negligence of their agents or employees, and no special contract will exempt them from such liability. The provisions of the statute are general, applying equally to passengers and servants of the company. Rose v. The D. V. R. Co., 39 Id., 246.

The rule is the same where the passenger is riding on a free pass as upon a purchased ticket. The payment of fare is not necessary to create the relation of common carrier and passenger. Id.

The measure of damages, in an action against the company, where the injury has resulted in the death of a passenger through the negligence of the company, is the sum which will compensate the estate for the pecuniary loss sustained by the death. Id.

Where it appeared that the deceased was twenty-four years of age, without family, of temperate and industrious habits, and whose annual net earnings were found to be $263, a verdict of ten thousand dollars was held to be excessive; judgment affirmed upon a remittitur of five thousand dollars being entered. Brock, J., dissenting.

Where a contract for transportation of freight limited the carrier's liability to common law, in consideration of which the shipper received special rates and a pass over the road, it was held that no contract was void within this section of the code. Brush v. The S. A. & D. R. Co., 43 Id., 554.

To the same effect is McCoy v. The K. & D. M. R. Co., 44 Id., 421.

The acceptance by a railroad company of goods consigned to a point beyond the terminus of its road creates a prima facie liability to transport to and deliver the goods at that point, which, however, may be modified by proof of a different usage known to the shipper at the time of making the consignment. Mullen v. The Ill. Cent. R'y Co., 36 Id., 181.

A regulation of a railroad company to the effect that no valuable live stock shall be received for shipment until a contract is signed by the owner releasing the company from all liability for injury to such stock in shipment above the value of ordinary stock, is void under this section of the code. McCune v. The B., C. R. & N. R. Co., 52 Id., 606.

It is immaterial in case of the carriage of goods by a common carrier, who is deemed an insurer of the goods, that the owner's agent accompanies the goods under a provision in a contract exempting the carrier from liability, and which is void under this section of the code. Hart v. The C. & N. W. R'y Co., 69 Id., 485.
A contract between a railway company and a shipper of horses, limiting the liability of the company for the horses to an amount less than their actual value, is invalid. Id.

This section, 1309 of the code, whereby all contracts by which carriers seek to limit their liability as such are declared to be invalid, is not repugnant to the constitution of the United States as being a regulation of commerce between the states, when the contract relates to the shipment of goods from this to another state. Id.

Sec. 1309. [Judgment against: when a lien.]—A judgment against any railway corporation for any injury to any person or property, shall be a lien within the county where recovered on the property of such corporation, and such lien shall be prior and superior to the lien of any mortgage or trust deed executed since the fourth day of July, A. D. 1862.

Under the provisions of this section a judgment for a personal injury sustained after the recording of a mortgage upon a railroad will be a lien prior and superior to the lien of the mortgage, and of this the purchaser of railroad bonds must take notice, but this section cannot be extended to embrace claims for personal injuries, not reduced to judgment, though actions therefor be pending on such claims, and the purchaser of a railroad takes the same free from such claims.

The B., C. R. & N. R. Co. v. Ferry, 43 Iowa, 458.

The case followed in White v. K. & D. M. R'y Co., 52 Id., 97.

Section 1309 of the code, which provides that a judgment against any railway corporation for any injury to any person or property shall be a lien on the company's property, prior and superior to the lien of any mortgage or trust deed executed since the fourth day of July, 1862, held not repugnant to section 6, article 1, or section 12, article 8 of the constitution of Iowa, nor to the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, as being special legislation.

Sec. 1310. [Provisions in relation to railways terminating at or near Council Bluffs.]—All railway corporations that have been or may hereafter be organized, under the laws of this state, that operate or may hereafter operate a line of railway in this state terminating at or near the city of Council Bluffs, and making a connection with any railway, which either by its charter or otherwise, extends to a point on the boundary or within the limits of this state, be, and they are hereby prohibited from making any transfer of freights, passengers, or express matters to or with any other railway corporation at or near such terminus—either by delivering or receiving the same—at any other place than in this state, at or near the said point at which the said railway extending to the boundary of this state terminates.

Sections 1310-1316, inclusive, of the code, wherein they require railroad companies connecting with the Union Pacific Railway to transfer their freight, passengers and express matter at Council Bluffs, is in conflict with the acts of congress, approved, respectively, July 1, 1862, and June 15, 1866, and cannot, therefore, be enforced. The City of Council Bluffs v. The K. C. St. J. & C. B. R. Co., 45 Iowa, 338.

The term "transfer," as employed in section 1310, refers to the act of removing freight, passengers and express matter, and is intended to cover the removal of cars, with their burdens, from one railroad to another, as well as the change of their burdens from the cars of one company into those of another. Id.

Any regulation of the transportation of goods in transit from one state to another, upon railroads, operates as a regulation of commerce, and a state statute prescribing such regulation is unconstitutional and void. Id.

While the legislature of the state may regulate the time and manner of making transfers of the subjects of commerce transported by railway carriage, between points within its own limits, it cannot impose any burden upon transportation between points lying in different states. Id.

Sec. 1311. [Transfer of freights and passengers prohibited at any place out of the state.]—Every railway corporation which, by its charter or otherwise, has its terminus at any point on the boundary or within the limits of this state, or which has authority to bridge or ferry the Missouri river for the purpose of having a continuous line of its railway and for connecting with other railroads in this state, is hereby prohibited from making any transfer of freights, passengers, or express matters to or with any other railroad corporation, either by delivering or receiving the same at any other place than in this state, at or near its legal terminus; and every such corporation extending to the boundary or within this state, or having authority to bridge or ferry said Missouri river, shall erect and maintain at or near its legal terminus within the limits of this state, all its depots, stations, and other buildings necessary for such transfer.

Sec. 1312. [Contracts with municipal corporations enforced.]—Every railway corporation which has heretofore made, or which shall hereafter make, any contract with any municipal corporation in this state, is hereby prohibited from, in any manner, violating any of the provisions of such contract; and every railway corporation which has heretofore made, or which shall hereafter make, any contract with any municipal corporation in this state, is hereby required to perform each and all of the provisions of any and every such contract, specifically as agreed therein. In every case in which any such municipal corporation has complied with its obligations relating to such contract at any stage of the progress of its fulfillment, so far as it has agreed to do, such municipal corporation shall not be required to furnish any further tender or guarantee of compliance on its part in order to secure its rights in the courts; but in case anything remains to be done by such municipal corporation under such contract, after the completion of the same on the part of the railway corporation contracting therewith, then it shall, after the enforced compliance on the part of such corporation as hereinafter provided, be required to fully comply on its part.

Sec. 1313. [Penalty for failure to comply.]—In case of a refusal of any railway corporation to comply with the provisions of section thirteen hundred and ten of this chapter, or its failure to perform the duties required in the preceding section, or their doing or having done any act at variance with such performance or duties, then the municipal corporation affected thereby, or with which the contract in that particular case was made, may, in an action by mandamus, in any court of record in the county in which such municipal corporation is situate, proceed against such corporation so failing or refusing, and such corporation shall, on proper proof, be required by such court to perform all the duties required by this and the three preceding sections, and said law pertaining to mandamus shall apply in such a case with the same force that it does in all other cases, except as it is herein enlarged.

Sec. 1314. [Proceedings to enforce contracts.]—In case any municipal corporation affected as before stated, or with which any such contract has been made, should not desire to seek the remedy given in the last preceding section, it may proceed in equity by the action of specific performance, in any court in the county in which such municipal corporation is situate, and in case such court should find that a contract had been made, it shall, by decree, require such company so violating or offering to violate its contract, or failing or refusing to perform the provisions thereof, to specifically perform the same.

Sec. 1315. [Injunction.]—Any court or judge in this state to whom application shall be made, shall, at the suit of any municipal corporation as aforesaid, restrain by injunction the violation of any provisions of the five preceding sections of this chapter, or of the provisions of any contract as aforesaid; and in such proceeding it shall not be necessary for such municipal corporation to give bond.

Sec. 1316. [Remedies not exclusive.]—The remedies provided for in the two preceding sections shall not be construed to be exclusive, and any order, judgment, or decree made by any court in pursuance of any provisions of the six preceding sections, shall be enforced in the usual manner.

See notes to section 1310, ante.
An Act to establish reasonable maximum rates of charges for the transportation of freight and passengers on the different railroads of this state. (Amendatory of code, title X, chapter 5: "Of railways.")

SEC. 1. [Classification of railroads.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all railroad corporations organized or doing business in this state, their trustees, receivers or lessees, under the laws or authority thereof, shall be limited in their maximum charges to the rates of compensation for the transportation of passengers and freight, which are herein prescribed. All railroads in this state shall be classified according to the gross amount of their respective annual earnings within the state, per mile, for the preceding year as follows: Class “A” shall include all railroads whose gross annual earnings, per mile, shall be four thousand ($4,000) or more. Class “B” shall include all railroads whose gross annual earnings, per mile, shall be three thousand dollars ($3,000) or any sum in excess thereof less than four thousand ($4,000). Class “C” shall include all railroads whose gross annual earnings, per mile, shall be less than three thousand dollars ($3,000).

SEC. 2. [Maximum rates of fare.]—All railroad corporations, according to their classifications as herein prescribed, shall be limited to compensation per mile for the transportation of any person, with ordinary baggage, not exceeding one hundred pounds in weight as follows: Class “A” three cents; class “B” three and one-half cents; class “C” four cents: Provided, that no such corporation shall charge, demand or receive any greater compensation per mile for the transportation of children twelve years of age or under, than half the rates above prescribed: And provided, also, a charge of ten cents may be added to the fare of any passenger, when the same is paid upon the cars, if a ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train.

(All of the sections of this chapter except one, two and seven are repealed by chapter 77, laws of 1878).

SEC. 7. [To make annual statement of receipts to governor.]—It shall be the duty of each railroad corporation operating a railroad in this state during the month of January, 1875, and each and every year thereafter, to make and return to the governor a statement of its gross receipts on its entire road within this state for the year preceding and ending with the 31st day of December. Said statement shall be sworn to by the president and superintendent of the road in this state, and shall contain a detailed statement of the entire receipts for transporting freight and passengers, and all other sources of income of the road. A failure to comply with the provisions of this section shall subject the corporation so failing to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, for each and every day after such report is due until it is made; to be recovered in an action in the name of the state of Iowa, for the benefit of the school fund. If the executive council shall, on examination, be satisfied of the correctness of said return, it shall be their duty to classify the different railroads in this state as hereinbefore provided, and the governor, when there shall be any change in classification, shall issue a certificate to any corporation or corporations affected by such change, certifying to them the class to which they are respectively assigned. And any change of rates made by any railroad corporation pursuant to any change of classification, shall take effect and be in force from and after the 4th day of July following such changes. The reports from the railroad corporations of this state for the year 1873, made pursuant to the provisions of section 1280 of the code, shall determine the classification of each road for the year ending July 3, 1875.

It was held erroneous to charge that if the conductor received and retained the fare tendered by the passenger he was not justified in expelling such passenger for a refusal to pay the additional sum demanded. Hoffbauer v. The D. & N. W. R'y Co., 59 Iowa, 342.

After the train had been stopped for the expulsion of a passenger who had thus refused to pay the fare demanded under the regulations of the company, he could not, by a tender of the amount demanded, reimpose upon the railroad company the obligation of the contract he had violated by his refusal to pay in the first instance, and he was rightfully ejected, notwithstanding such tender. Id.

Where the agent of a railway company, in violation of this chapter, collected for himself, as a shipper of goods, a rate of freight in excess of that provided by law, and paid the same over to the company, he was, equally with the company, a violator of the law, and, therefore, held not entitled to receive from the company the penalty provided in this act for such illegal charges. To be "equally guilty" in such case does not imply the same degree of guilt, nor guilt subjecting the wrong doers to the same punishment, but only that both should be in fact partakers of the guilt. Steeer v. The Ill. Cent. R'y Co., 62 Id., 371.

Where a passenger, having sufficient opportunity, neglected to purchase a ticket, it was held erroneous to instruct the jury that the reasonableness of the regulation of the company making an additional charge in such cases was a question of fact for their determination. Hoffbauer v. The D. & N. W. R'y Co., 52 Id., 342.

An action under this section to recover the penalty therein provided, is an action to recover a statute penalty, and the limitation for the recovery of statute penalties applies thereto. Herriman v. The B., C. R. & N. R. Co., 57 Id., 187.

Where a statute imposes two distinct, not alternative, penalties for the same act, the enforcement of one will be no bar to the enforcement of the other. Id.

(Chapter 77, Laws of 1878.)

ESTABLISHING A BOARD OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

An Act to repeal chapter 68, acts of the fifteenth general assembly, and provide for the establishment of a board of railroad commissioners, and defining their duties and term of office.

SECTION 1. [Repealed.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That chapter 68, of the acts of the fifteenth general assembly, excepting sections one, two and seven thereof, be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following be enacted:

Section two of this act was repealed by chapter 29, laws of 1888.

SEC. 3. [Duties of commissioners.]—Said commissioners shall have the general supervision of all railroads in the state operated by steam, and shall inquire into any neglect or violation of the laws of this state by any railroad corporation doing business therein, or by the officers, agents or employes thereof, and shall also from time to time carefully examine and inspect the condition of each railroad in the state, and of its equipment, and the manner of its conduct and management, with reference to the public safety and convenience, and for the purpose of keeping the several railroad companies advised as to the safety of their bridges, shall make a semi-annual examination of the same, and report their condition to the said companies.

And if any bridge shall be deemed unsafe by the commissioners, they shall notify the railroad company immediately, and it shall be the duty of said railroad company to repair and put in good order within ten days after receiving said notice, said bridge, and in default thereof, said commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to stop and prevent said railroad company from running or passing its trains over said bridge, while in its unsafe condition.

[Shall notify railroad company of any repairs or changes deemed expedient.]—Whenever, in the judgment of the railroad commissioners, it shall... appear that any railroad corporation fails, in any respect or particular, to comply with the terms of its charter or the laws of the state, or whenever in their judgment any repairs are necessary upon its road, or any addition to its rolling stock, or any addition to or change of its stations or station houses, or any change in its rates of fare for transporting freight or passengers, or any change in the mode of operating its road and conducting its business is reasonable and expedient in order to promote the security, convenience and accommodation of the public, said railroad commissioners shall inform such railroad corporation of the improvements and changes which they adjudge to be proper, by a notice thereof in writing to be served by leaving a copy thereof, certified by the commissioners’ clerk, with any station agent, clerk, treasurer or any director of said corporation, and a report of the proceedings shall be included in the annual report of the commissioners to the legislature.

[Railroads not relieved of liability.]—Nothing in this section shall be construed as relieving any railroad company from their present responsibility or liability for damage to person or property.

Sec. 4. [Report of commissioners.].—The said railroad commissioners shall, on or before the first Monday in December in each year, make a report to the governor of their doings for the preceding year, containing such facts, statements and explanations as will disclose the working of the system of railroad transportation in this state, and its relation to the general business and prosperity of the citizens of the state, and such suggestions and recommendations in respect thereto as may to them seem appropriate. Said report shall also contain as to every railroad corporation doing business in this state:

First. The amount of its capital stock.
Second. The amount of its preferred stock, if any, and the condition of its preferment.
Third. The amount of its funded debt and the rate of interest.
Fourth. The amount of its floating debt.
Fifth. The cost and actual present cash value of its road and equipment, including permanent way, buildings and rolling stock, all real estate used exclusvively in operating the road, and all fixtures and conveniences for transacting its business.

with a schedule of the same, not including lands granted in aid of its construction.
Seventh. The number of acres originally granted in aid of construction of its road by the United States or by this state.
Eighth. Number of acres of such land remaining unsold.
Ninth. A list of its officers and directors, with their respective places of residence.
Tenth. Such statistics of the road and of its transportation business for the year as may, in the judgment of the commissioners, be necessary and proper for the information of the general assembly, or as may be required by the governor.
Such report shall exhibit and refer to the condition of such corporation on the first day of July of each year, and the details of its transportation business transacted during the year ending June 30th.
Eleventh. The average amount of tonnage that can be carried over each road in the state with an engine of given power.

Sec. 5. [Report of railroad companies.]—To enable said commissioners to make such a report, the president or managing officer of each railroad corporation doing business in this state, shall annually make to the said commissioners, on the 15th day of the month of September, such returns, in the form which they may prescribe, as will afford the information required for their said official report; such returns shall be verified by the oath of the officer making them; and any railroad corporation whose return shall not be made as herein prescribed by the 15th day of September, shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every day after the 16th day of September that such return shall be willfully delayed or refused.

SEC. 6. [Salary of commissioners.]—The said commissioners shall hold their office in the capitol, or at some other suitable place in the city of Des Moines. They shall each receive a salary of three thousand dollars per annum, to be paid as the salaries of other state officers are paid, and shall be provided at the expense of the state with necessary office furniture and stationery, and they shall have authority to appoint a secretary, who shall receive a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per annum.

SEC. 7. [Shall be sworn and give bond.]—Said commissioners and secretary shall be sworn to the due and faithful performance of the duties of their respective offices before entering upon the discharge of the same, as prescribed in section 676 of the code, and no person in the employ of any railroad corporation, or holding stock in any railroad corporation, shall be employed as secretary.

[Bonds.]—Each of said commissioners shall enter into bonds, with security to be approved by the executive council, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties.

SEC. 8. [Repealed by chapter 29, laws of 1888.]

SEC. 9. [Powers in examining records of railroad companies.]—The said commissioners shall have power, in the discharge of the duties of their office, to examine any of the books, papers, or documents of any such corporation, or to examine under oath or otherwise any officer, director, agent, or employee of any such corporation; they are empowered to issue subpenas and administer oaths in the same manner and with the same power to enforce obedience thereto in the performance of their said duties as belong and pertain to courts of law in this state; and any person who may willfully obstruct said commissioners in the performance of their duties, or who may refuse to give any information within his possession that may be required by said commissioners within the line of their duty, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable, on conviction thereof, to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, in the discretion of the court, the cost of such subpenas and investigation to be first paid by the state on the certificate of said commissioners.

SEC. 10. [Duties of railroads in certain cases.]—It shall be the duty of any railroad corporation, when within their power to do so, and upon reasonable notice, to furnish suitable cars to any and all persons who may apply therefor, for the transportation of any and all kinds of freight, and to receive and transport such freight with all reasonable dispatch, and to provide and keep suitable facilities for the receiving and handling the same at any depot on the line of its road; and also to receive and transport in like manner, the empty or loaded cars furnished by any connecting road, to be delivered at any station or stations on the line of its road, to be loaded or discharged, or re-loaded and returned to the road so connecting; and for compensation it shall not demand or receive any greater sum than is accepted by it from any other connecting railroad for a similar service.

SEC. 11. [Roads shall not discriminate in rates.]—No railroad corporation shall charge, demand, or receive from any person, company, or corporation, for the transportation of persons or property, or for any other service, a greater sum than it shall at the same time charge, demand, or receive from any other person, company, or corporation for a like service from the same place, or upon like condition and under similar circumstances, and all concession of rates, drawbacks, and contracts for special rates, shall be open to and allowed all persons, companies and corporations alike, at the same rate per ton per mile by car load upon like condition and under similar circumstances, unless by reason of the extra cost of transportation per car load from a different point the same would be unreasonable and inequitable, and shall charge no more for transporting freight from any point on its line than a fair and just proportion of the price it charges for the same kind of freight transported from any other point.

SEC. 12. [No railroad company shall charge unreasonable rates.]—No railroad company shall charge, demand, or receive from any person, company, or corporation any unreasonable price for the transportation of persons or property, or for the handling or storing of freight, or for the use of its cars, or for any privilege or service afforded by it in the transaction of its business as a railroad corporation.

SEC. 13. [Penalty for violation of provisions of this act]—Any railroad corporation which shall violate any of the provisions of this act, as to the extortion or unjust discrimination, shall forfeit for every such offense to the person, company or corporation aggrieved thereby, three times the actual damages sustained or overcharges paid by the said party aggrieved, together with the cost of suit, and a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court, and if an appeal be taken from the judgment or any part thereof, it shall be the duty of the appellate court to include in the judgment an additional reasonable attorney's fee for services in the appellate court or courts, to be recovered in a civil action therefor. And in all cases where complaint shall be made, in accordance with the provisions of section 15, hereinafter provided, that an unreasonable charge is made, the commissioners shall require a modified charge for the service rendered, such as they shall deem to be reasonable, and all cases of a failure to comply with the recommendation of the commissioners shall be embodied in the report of the commissioners to the legislature; and the same shall apply to any unjust discrimination, extortion, or overcharge by said company, or other violation of law.

This section providing a penalty for the violation of any of the provisions of the act "as to extortion or unjust discrimination" is, like all other penal statutes, to be strictly construed, and must be limited to extortion and discrimination in making charges; and the penalty of treble damages cannot be recovered for a failure or refusal to furnish cars or transportation as required by section 10 of the act. Bond v. The Wabash, St. L. & P. R'y Co., 67 Iowa, 712.

SEC. 14. [Investigation in case of accident.]—Upon the occurrence of any serious accident upon a railroad which shall result in personal injury, or loss of life, the corporation operating the road upon which the accident occurred shall give immediate notice thereof to the commissioners whose duty it shall be, if they deem it necessary, to investigate the same, and promptly report to the governor the extent of the personal injuries, or loss of life, and whether the same was the result of the mismanagement or neglect of the corporation on whose line the injury or loss of life occurred.

Provided, That such report shall not be evidence or referred to in any case in any court.

SEC. 15. [Examination of rates by commissioners on complaint of mayor, etc.]—It shall be the duty of said commissioners upon the complaint and application of the mayor and aldermen of any city or the mayor and council of any incorporated town, or the trustees of any township, to make an examination of the rate of passenger fare or freight tariff charged by any railroad company, and of the condition or operation of any railroad, any part of whose location lies within the limits of such city, town or township, and if twenty-five or more legal voters in any city or township shall, by petition in writing, request the mayor and aldermen of such city or the trustees of such township to make the said complaint and application, and the mayor and aldermen, or the trustees, refuse or decline to comply with the prayer of the petition, they shall state the reason for such non-compliance in writing upon the petition, and return the same to the petitioners; and the petitioners may thereupon, within ten days from the date of such refusal and return, present such petition to said commissioners, and said commissioners shall, if upon due inquiry and hearing of the petitioners they think the public good demands the examination, proceed to make it in the same manner as if called upon by the mayor and aldermen of any city, or the trustees of any township. Before proceeding to make such examination, in accordance with such application or petition, said commissioners shall give to the petitioners and the corporation reasonable notice, in writing, of the time and place of entering upon the same. If, upon such an examination, it shall appear to said commissioners that the complaint alleged by the applicants or petitioners is well founded, they shall so adjudge, and shall inform the corporation operating such railroad of their adjudication within ten days, and shall also report their doings to the governor, as provided in the fourth section of this act.

SEC. 16. [Phrases "railroad" and "railroad corporation."—In the construction of this act, the phrase railroad shall be construed to include all railroads and railways operated by steam, and whether operated by the corporation owning them, or by other corporations, or otherwise. The phrase railroad corporation shall be construed to mean the corporation which constructs, maintains or operates a railroad operated by steam power.

SEC. 17. [Not to hinder any suit against railroad company.]—Nothing in this act shall be construed to estop or hinder any persons or corporations from bringing suit against any railroad company for any violation of any of the laws of this state for the government of railroads.

SEC. 18. [Repealing clause.]—All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers March 26, 1878.)

CHAPTER 133, LAWS OF 1884.)

GIVING RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS INCREASED POWER.

An Act authorizing actions against railroad companies, to be brought in the name of the state, upon recommendation of the board of railroad commissioners.

[Additional to code, chapter 10, title V.]

SECTION 1. [Circuit and district court to enforce decrees of railroad commissioners.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The circuit and district courts of this state shall have power to enforce, by proper decrees, injunctions and orders, the rulings, and orders and regulations affecting public right, made or to be made by the board of railroad commissioners, such as are now, or may hereafter be, authorized to be made by them for the future direction and observance of the railroads in this state. The proceedings therefor shall be by equitable action in the name of the state of Iowa, and shall be instituted by the attorney-general, whenever advised by the board of railroad commissioners that any railway corporation, or person operating a line of road in this state, is violating and refusing to comply with any rule, order or regulation made by such board of railroad commissioners applicable to such railroad or person. It shall be the duty of the court in which any such cause shall be pending, to require the issue to be made up at the first term of the court to which such cause is brought, which shall be the trial term, and to give the same precedence over other civil business. If the court shall find that such rule, regulation, or order is reasonable and just, and that in refusing compliance therewith said railway company is failing and omitting the performance of any public duty or obligation, the court shall decree a mandatory and perpetual injunction compelling obedience to, and compliance with such rule, order, or regulation by said railroad company, or other person, its officers, agents, servants and employes, and may grant such other relief as may be deemed just and proper. All violations of such decree shall render the company, persons, officers, agents, servants and employes who are in any manner instrumental in such violations, guilty of contempt of court, and the court may punish such contempt by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars for each offense, and may imprison the person guilty of contempt until he shall sufficiently purge himself therefrom. And such decree shall continue and remain in effect and be enforced until the rule, order or regulation shall be modified or vacated by the board of railroad commissioners.

SEC. 2. Whenever a decree shall be entered against a railroad company or person under section 1, the court shall render judgment for costs, including a reasonable attorney’s fee for counsel representing the state in said case, and said judgment shall be enforced by execution.

Approved April 3, 1884.

A state has no authority to regulate the charges which a railway company may make for carrying goods from a point without the state to a point within, or vice versa; and an order of the railroad commissioners of this state designed to regulate such charges is void, as being in conflict with section 8, of article 1, of the constitution of the United States. The State v. The Chicago & N. W. R’y Co., 70 Iowa, 162. See also, Carton v. Ills. Central R’y Co., 59 Id., 148; and Illinois v. Wabash, St. L. & P. R’y Co., 7 Sup. Ct. R., 4.

An Act providing for change in name of railway stations in certain cases and prescribing penalties for non-compliance therewith.

SECTION 1. [Name may be changed.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in all cases where any railway company shall fail or refuse to make the name of a railway station conform to the name of the incorporated town within the limits of which it is situated, the railway commissioners of the state upon hearing and after notice thereof may order a change in the name of the said station to effect such uniformity in name. Said notice may be served upon the same persons and in the same manner as provided for service upon said railway company of original notice, at least ten days before the date named for hearing.

SEC. 2. [Notice to be given.]—When the railway commissioners shall order a change in the name of a railway station in pursuance of the provisions of section one of this act, said commission shall give the company upon whose line the said station is located notice of such order, and if the said order be not complied with within thirty days from the date of service of such notice it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to notify the attorney-general of the facts in the case, who, upon such notice, shall proceed in the courts of the state to compel the enforcement of said order.

SEC. 3. [Failure to comply.]—A failure to comply with the order of the railway commissioners within thirty days from service of such notice, shall constitute a misdemeanor for which said railway company shall be subject to a fine of one thousand dollars and non-compliance for each thirty days thereafter shall constitute a separate and distinct offense, subject to a fine of one thousand dollars.

Approved March 24, 1888.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers March 27, 1888.)

OF ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION.

SEC. 1317. [Executive council to assess.]—On the first Monday in March in each year the executive council shall assess all the property of each railway corporation in this state, excepting the lands, lots and other real estate belonging thereto not used in the operation of any railway.

The bridge across the Mississippi river at Davenport being owned exclusively by the United States, and although used by the C., R. I. & P. R. Co., which company paid half the cost thereof, is not taxable either wholly or in part to the company, and the city of Davenport has no power to levy any tax thereon. The C., R. I. & P. R. Co. v. The City of Davenport, 51 Iowa, 451.

This section, providing for the assessment of railway property every year, while real estate is assessed only every alternate year, is not repugnant to section 6 of article 1 of the constitution of the U. S., as a discrimination against railways. The Central Iowa R'y v. The Board of Supervisors et al., 67 Id., 199.

SEC. 1318. [Officers to furnish statement: what it shall contain.]-The president, vice-president, or general superintendent, and such other officers as such council may designate of any corporation operating any railway in this state, shall furnish said council on or before the fifteenth day of February in each year, a statement signed and sworn to by one of such officers, showing in detail for the year ending on January the first preceding:

1. The whole number of miles owned, operated or leased in the state by such corporation making the return, and the value thereof per mile, with a detailed statement of all property of every kind, and the value, located in each county in the state;

2. Also a detailed statement of the number and the value thereof of engines, passenger, mail, express, baggage, freight and other cars, or property used in operating or repairing such railway in this state; and on railways which are part of lines extending beyond the limits of this state, the return shall show the actual amount of rolling stock in use on the corporation’s line in the state during the year for which return is made.

The return shall show the amount of rolling stock, the gross earnings of the entire railway, and the gross earnings of the same in this state, and all property designated in the next section, and such other facts as such council may, in writing, require. If such officers fail to make such statement, said council shall proceed to assess the property of the corporation so failing, adding thirty per cent to the assessable value thereof.

SEC. 1319. [How assessment made and value ascertained.]-The said property shall be valued at its true cash value, and such assessment shall be made upon the entire railway within the state, and shall include the right of way, roadbed, bridges, culverts, rolling-stock, depots, station-grounds, shops, buildings, gravel beds, and all other property, real and personal, exclusively used in the operation of such railway. In assessing said railway and its equipments, said council shall take into consideration the gross earnings per mile for the year ending January the first, preceding, and any and all other matters necessary to enable said council to make a just and equitable assessment of said railway property. If a part of any railway is without this state, then, in estimating the value of its rolling-stock and movable property, they shall take into consideration the proportion which the business of that part of the railway lying within the state bears to the business of the railway without the state; such valuation shall be in the same ratio as that of the property of individuals.

SEC. 1320. (As amended by ch. 153, 16th g. a.)—[Statement sent auditor of each county.]-On or before the (twenty-fifth day of March) in each year, said council shall transmit to the county auditor of each county through which any railway may run, a statement showing the length of the main track of such railway within the county, and the assessed value per mile of the same as fixed by a pro rata distribution per mile of the assessed value of the whole property named in the preceding section. Said statement shall be entered on the proper record of the county.
SEC. 1321. [Duty of auditor, board of supervisors, and county treasurer.]—At the first meeting of the board of supervisors held after said statement is received by the county auditor, they shall make, and cause the same to be entered in proper record, an order, stating and declaring the length of the main track, and the assessed value of such railway lying in each city, town, township or lesser taxing district in their county though which said railway runs, as fixed by the executive council, which shall constitute the taxable value of said property for taxable purposes, and the taxes on said property when collected by the county treasurer shall be paid over to the person or corporations entitled thereto as other taxes, and the county auditor shall transmit a copy of said order to the city council or trustees of such city, incorporated town or township.

SEC. 1322. [Taxes levied.]—All such railway property shall be taxable upon said assessment at the same rates, by the same officers, and for the same purposes as the property of individuals within such counties, cities, towns, townships and lesser taxing districts.

SEC. 1323. [Shall not apply.]—The provisions of this chapter in relation to transporting of passengers, shall not apply to any railway in this state until the gross earnings of the preceding year, reckoning from the first day of January of each year, shall equal or exceed the sum of four thousand dollars per mile average for all the miles of road operated during the whole of that preceding year.

TAXATION OF SLEEPING AND DINING CARS.

An Act to tax sleeping and dining cars, amending section 1318, chapter five, title ten of the code.

SECTION 1. [Company shall return number of cars used.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in addition to the matters required to be contained in the statement provided for in section 1318 of the code, such statement shall show the number of sleeping and dining cars not owned by such corporation, but used by it in operating its railway in this state during each month of the year for which the return is made, and also the number of miles each month that said cars have been run or operated on such railway within the state, and the total number of miles that said cars have been run or operated each month within and without the state.

SEC. 2. [Executive council shall assess the same.]—The executive council shall, at the time of the assessment of other railway property for taxation, assess for taxation the average number of cars so used by such corporation each month, and the assessed value of said cars shall bear the same proportion to the entire value thereof, that the monthly average number of miles that such cars have been run or operated with the state shall bear to the monthly average number of miles that such cars have been used or operated within and without the state; such valuation shall be in the same ratio as that of the property of individuals.

SEC. 3. [Manner of assessment.]—The executive council shall, as provided by sections 1318 and 1319 of the code, first assess the value of the property of the corporation using sleeping and dining cars not owned by such corporation, and shall then add to such valuation, the amount of the assessed valuation of said sleeping and dining cars, made as hereinbefore provided, and such aggregate amount shall constitute and be considered the assessed value of the property of such corporation for the purposes of taxation.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS AT RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

An Act to prevent accidents at railway crossings.

SECTION 1. [Trains shall be brought to a full stop at crossings.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: All trains run upon any railroad in this state which intersects or crosses or is intersected or crossed by any other railroad upon the same level, shall be brought to a full stop, at a distance not less than two hundred feet, nor more than eight hundred feet, from the point of intersection or crossing of such road, before such intersection or crossing is passed by any such train.

SEC. 2. [Penalty: $100 for school fund.]—Every engineer violating the provisions of the preceding section shall for each offense forfeit one hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action in the name of the state of Iowa, for the benefit of the school fund, and the corporation on whose road such offense is committed shall forfeit for each offense so committed the sum of two hundred dollars, to be recovered in like manner.

sounded at least sixty rods before a highway crossing is reached, and after the sounding of the whistle the bell shall be rung continuously until the crossing is passed, provided, that at street crossings within the limits of incorporated cities or towns the sounding of the whistle may be omitted, unless required by the council of any such city or town, and the company shall also be liable for all damages which shall be sustained by any person by reason of such neglect.

Sec. 2. Every officer or employe of any railway company who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be punished by fine, not exceeding one hundred dollars, for each offense.

Approved March 29, 1884.

(Chapter 118, Laws of 1876.)

RELATING TO THE RELOCATION OF RAILROADS.

An Act to authorize the relocation of railroads.

Section 1. [Railroad company shall file petition, etc.]-Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: Any railroad company desiring to change or remove the line of its road, after the same has been permanently located and constructed, may for that purpose file a petition in the district or circuit court in any one of the counties wherein the change or removal is proposed to be made, describing with convenient accuracy that portion of its line of road which said company seeks to have changed or removed, and asking the court to grant the right or authority to make such change or removal. To this suit, all trustees, mortgagees, or other lien holders, and all townships, cities, and counties which have aided by taxation to build the road, must be made defendants by service of original notice, in the time and manner as provided by law for the service of original notices.

Sec. 2. [Notice given.]-In addition to the foregoing notice, a public notice to all whom it may concern, of the time of filing such petition, and of the object thereof and of the term of court at which the application for authority to make the change will be made, and requiring all persons desiring the repayment of money or the return of property, as in this act contemplated, to appear at such court and make good their claim therefor, must be published in a newspaper printed in each county wherein the change is to be made for a period of ten successive weeks before the term of court at which the application is to be made. The court may order any additional notice or publication that it may deem proper.

Sec. 3. [Before change can be made company must repay moneys, etc.]-But no railroad company shall be allowed to change or remove the line of its road after its permanent location and construction, without repaying to the proper parties all moneys, and restoring all property, or its value, which were given or donated to the company building the same, exclusively in consideration of the said railroads being located and constructed on such line, nor without first procuring the proper consent of all parties having liens upon said railroad; and also of any township, city, or county that has by taxation or by the issuing of bonds contributed money to aid in the construction thereof; provided, that the consent of such township, city, or county shall be necessary with reference only to the change to be made within its own territorial limits.

Sec. 4. [Court shall make order.]-If the court is satisfied that due and proper notice has been given, and that the consent of the proper parties, as herein contemplated, has been duly obtained, it shall order and adjudge in favor of all persons who have appeared and established their claims thereto, the repayment of all moneys, the return of all property, or its value, which were given or donated to the company exclusively in consideration of the roads being located on the line from which it is proposed to make the removal, and shall declare and adjudge all persons not so appearing and establishing their claims as aforesaid, forever thereafter debarred and estopped from setting up or asserting the same. The court may, if the public interest demand it, make an order authorizing the railroad company to change or remove the location of its road, as asked for in the petition, but such order must be on the condition that all claims for the repayment of money, or the return of property, which may be allowed by the court, as herein provided, shall be first paid or satisfied.

Sec. 5. [Effect of removal on liens, etc.]—All mortgage liens or other incumbrances on the line of road which the company is authorized by the court to change, shall be and remain valid liens and incumbrances on the line of road to which the change is made, and shall take priority of all other liens and incumbrances upon such new line of road.

Sec. 6. [Trustees to appear for their respective townships.]—For the purpose of this act, the trustees of each township shall be served with notice, and shall be authorized to represent and act for their respective townships; provided, that no vested right of any person or persons, living on and along the line of any railroad removed under the provisions of this act, shall be defeated or affected by this act; and provided, further, that the provisions of this act shall apply only to such railroads as were constructed prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six.

Sec. 7. [Cuts to be filled and banks leveled upon removal.]—That when any railroad company shall take up their track and relocate the same under the provisions of this act, shall fill up the cuts and level down the banks, or cause the same to be done, within two years from the time of taking up such track.
Approved March 15, 1876.

(Chapter 152, Laws of 1878.)

Relocation of Railroads.

An Act to exempt certain railroads from the operation of section 7, of chapter 118, of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly.

Section 1. [Section 7, chapter 118, 16th g. a., not to apply to certain railroads.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That the provisions of section seven (7), of chapter 118, of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly, shall not apply to any railroad which has its initial point at any town upon the Mississippi river, and which had, in the year 1859, sixty-three miles and no more of completed track from such initial point, and provided that the exemption from the provisions of this section shall only apply a distance of sixty-three miles from the initial point of any such railroad.
Approved March 25, 1878.
(Took effect by publication in newspapers, April 5, 1878.)
An act to provide for the condemnation of real estate for channels and ditches, for the drainage and better protection of the right of way and road bed of railroads.

SECTION 1. [Railroad companies may straighten streams.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That in all cases where any railroad corporation, organized under the laws of this state or any other state, owning or operating a line of railroad within this state would have the right at this time, by procuring the right of way from the land owner to dig a channel or cut a ditch in such a manner as to change and straighten the course of a stream too frequently crossed by its road, or to protect the right of way and road bed, or promote the safety and convenience of the operation of the road, such railroad company may condemn the right of way as provided in the next section.

SEC. 2. [How compensation ascertained.]—Any such railroad corporation desiring the right of way for any of the purposes contemplated in the preceding section, where its officers and the land owner cannot agree upon the compensation to be paid him, or when he refuses to grant the right of way, may cause to be condemned of land belonging to such person a strip or belt of such reasonable width as may be necessary for the channel or ditch so desired, by pursuing in all respects, as near as may be, and so far as applicable, the provisions of law for the condemnation of real estate for right of way for said railroads, as provided in sections 1241, 1242, 1243, 1244, 1245, 1246, 1247, 1248, 1249, 1250, 1251, 1252 and 1253, of the code of 1873.

SEC. 3. [Either party may appeal.]—Either party may appeal from such assessment in the manner provided for appeals from the assessment of the sheriff's jury in the condemnation of real estate for right of way for railroads, and sections 1254, 1255, 1256, 1257, 1258 and 1259 of the code shall be applicable to such appeals.

SEC. 4. [Intent of act.]—The true intent of this act is, not to create in favor of a railroad corporation any additional right to divert a water course from its natural channel, but simply to give the right to condemn the land necessary for the right of way in all cases where by conveyance to the railroad corporation it would have the right to dig such channels or ditches.

[Proviso.]—Provided, That nothing herein shall permit any railroad company to turn the channel of any stream off of any cultivated, or pasture or meadow lands, where said stream only touches said lands at one point, unless it be by the consent of the owner of said land.

(Took effect by publication in newspapers, April 6, 1880.)

A railroad corporation may, under this chapter, condemn land for a right of way for a channel and change the course of a stream, where the safety of the traveling public will be promoted thereby. For such object the land would be taken for a public use, authorizing the exercise of the power of eminent domain, and for that purpose the statute is not in conflict with the constitution. Reusch v. The C., B. & Q. R. Co.; Long v. Same, 57 Iowa, 687.
An Act to repeal chapter 123 of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly, and chapters 87 and 173, of the laws of the seventeenth general assembly, and chapter 192 of the laws of the eighteenth general assembly, and chapter 102 of the laws of the nineteenth general assembly, in relation to taxes in aid of railroads, and to enact a substitute therefor.

Section 1. [Chapter 102, 19th g. a., amended.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That chapter 123 of the laws of the sixteenth general assembly, and chapters 87 and 173 of the laws of the seventeenth general assembly, and chapter 192 of the laws of the eighteenth general assembly, and chapter 102 of the laws of the nineteenth general assembly, be and the same are hereby repealed, and the following is enacted instead thereof.

Sec. 2. [Taxes not to exceed five per centum may be voted.]—That taxes not to exceed five per centum on the assessed value of any township, incorporated town or city, may be voted to aid any railroad company which is or may become incorporated under the laws of the state of Iowa, to aid in the construction of a projected railroad within this state, as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 3. [Duties of trustees or council.]—Whenever a petition shall be pre­ presented to the council or trustees of any incorporated town or city, or the trustees of any township, signed by a majority of the resident freehold taxpayers of such township, incorporated city or town, asking that the question of aiding any railroad company incorporated under the laws of the state of Iowa in the construction of a projected railroad within this state be submitted to the voters thereof, it shall be the duty of the trustees or council of such incorporated town or city, or trustees of such township, to immediately give notice of a special election by publication in some newspaper published in said incorporated town, city or township, if any be published therein, and if not then in some newspaper published in the county, if any such there be, and also by posting copies of said notice in five public places in such township, incorporated city or town at least ten days before said election, which notice shall specify the time and place of holding said election, the name of the company and the line of the road proposed to be aided, the rate per centum of the tax to be levied, whether one-half of said tax shall be collected the first year and one-half the following year, or the whole thereof be collected in one year, the amount of work required to be done and when and where the same shall be done, to what point said railroad shall be fully completed, and any other conditions which shall be performed before such tax or any part thereof shall become due, collectible and payable, and in no case shall such tax become due, collectible or payable until such railroad is fully completed according to the conditions in said notice; at such election the question of taxation shall be submitted; the form of the ballots shall be “for taxation” and “against taxation,” and if a majority of the votes polled be “for taxation” then the recorder of the incorporated town, city or township clerk or clerk of election shall forthwith certify to the county auditor the result of said election, the rate per centum of tax thus voted, the year or years during which the same is to be collected, the name of the company to which voted, and the time, terms and conditions upon which the same when collected is to be paid to the railroad company under the conditions and stipulations in said notice, together with an exact copy of the notice under which the election was held, which the county auditor shall at once cause to be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, and the expense thereof and of publishing said notices and all the expenses of said election shall be paid by the railroad company to which it is proposed to vote said tax. When such certificates shall have been made and recorded the board of supervisors of the county shall, at the time of levying the ordinary taxes next following, levy such taxes as are voted under the provisions of this act as shown by said certificate, and cause the same to be placed on the tax lists of the proper township, incorporated city or town, indicating in their order thereupon when and in what proportion the same are to be collected and upon what conditions the same are to be paid to the railroad company, a certified copy of which order shall accompany the tax list. Said taxes shall be collected at the time or times specified in said order in the same manner and subject to the same laws after they are collectible as other taxes or as may be stated in the petition and notices for the election.

SEC. 4. [Notice must conform to petition.]—The stipulations and conditions contained in the said notices must conform to those set forth in the petition asking the election, and the aggregate amount of tax to be voted or levied under the provisions of this act in any township, incorporated town or city shall not exceed five per centum of the assessed value of the property therein respectively.

SEC. 5. [Money to be paid out: how and when.]—The moneys collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid out by the county treasurer to the treasurer of the railroad company for whom the same was voted upon the orders of the president or managing director thereof at any time after the trustees of such township or trustees or council of such incorporated town or city voting said tax, or a majority of them, shall have certified to the county treasurer that the conditions required of the railroad company and set forth in the notice for the special election at which the tax was voted have been complied with, and said township trustees, or trustees or council of such incorporated town or city shall make said certificate, when the said conditions have been complied with sufficiently to entitle the said railroad company to the amount of such orders, or when the said conditions are fully complied with and performed on the part of the railroad company, but if the costs and expenses of holding said election and of recording said certificates shall not have been paid by the railroad company, then the county treasurer shall first deduct from the moneys so collected the amount of said costs and expenses and pay the same over to the parties entitled thereto.

SEC. 6. [Treasurer to issue certificate to taxpayer.]—It shall be the duty of the county treasurer, when required in addition to a tax receipt, to issue to each taxpayer, on the payment of any taxes voted under the provisions of this act, a certificate showing the amount of tax so paid, the name of the railroad company entitled thereto and when the same was paid, and the treasurer shall be entitled to charge and receive the sum of twenty-five cents for each certificate so issued. Said certificates are hereby made assignable, and when presented by any person holding the legal title thereto to the president, managing director, treasurer or secretary of the railroad company receiving the taxes paid as shown by such certificate in amount showing the sum of one hundred dollars or more of taxes to have been paid for said railroad company, said railroad company shall issue or cause to be issued to said person the amount of stock of the company desiring the benefit from said taxes to the amount of said certificate or certificates, and if the taxes paid as shown by said certificate or certificates amount in the aggregate to more or less than any certain number of shares of said stock, then the holder of said certificates shall be entitled to receive the full number of shares of stock covered by said certificates and may make up and tender in money the balance of any share of said stock when the certificates held by him are not equal in amount to one full share of such stock, the stock for such purpose to be estimated at its par value. Whenever it shall be proposed in the petition and notice calling said election to issue first mortgages, bonds not exceeding the sum of eight thousand dollars per mile for a railroad of three feet gauge, and not exceeding the sum of sixteen thousand dollars per mile for the ordinary four feet eight and one-half inch gauge, in lieu of stock as herein provided, it shall be lawful to issue said bonds of the denomination of one hundred dollars in the same manner as is provided for the issue of stock, and in such case the petition and notice shall state the amount of bonds per mile to be issued, the rate of interest, and the time of payment of the interest and principal of said bonds.

Sec. 7. [Board of directors liable to stockholders.]—The board of directors of any railroad company receiving taxes voted in aid thereof under the provisions of this act, or those members thereof, or either of them, who shall vote to bond, mortgage, or in any manner encumber said road to an amount exceeding the sum of eight thousand dollars per mile for a railroad of three feet gauge or exceeding the sum of sixteen thousand dollars per mile for the ordinary four feet eight and one-half inch gauge, not including in either case any debt for ordinary operating expenses, shall be liable to the stockholders or either of them for double the amount estimated of its par value of the stock by him or her held if the same should be rendered of less value or lost thereby.

Sec. 8. [Taxes remaining in county treasury more than one year forfeited.]—Should the taxes voted in aid of any railroad under the provisions of this act remain in the county treasury for more than one year after the same have been collected, the right to them by the railroad company shall be considered forfeited, and the persons who paid the said taxes shall be entitled to receive back from the county treasurer their pro rata shares thereof remaining, and in all such cases where any taxes have been voted or levied upon the real or personal property in any township, city or town in any county in this state to aid in the construction of any railroad as hereinafter provided, and the railroad in aid of which said taxes were voted or levied has not been built or completed or operated into or through such township, city or town, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of the county where said taxes have been voted and levied and still remain on the tax books, to give the railroad company to which the tax was voted at least thirty days' notice in writing, to be served like original notices, of their intention to abate and cancel such taxes, and thereupon to cause the same to be canceled and stricken from the tax books of the county, which cancellation shall remove all liens created by the levy of said taxes, but the foregoing provisions shall in no manner affect any actions which may now be pending for the recovery of any taxes heretofore voted in aid of any railroads, and in all cases where the railroad company to whom any taxes may have been or may hereafter be voted, neglects or refuses to receive such taxes or to require or permit the same to be collected and certificates therefor to be issued for the period of one year after such taxes become due and collectible, and in all cases where any taxes have been heretofore voted in aid of any railroad, and the conditions upon which the same were voted have not in fact been complied with and the time in which said conditions were to be fulfilled has expired, all such taxes are hereby declared forfeited and canceled and the county officers of the county in which any such taxes shall have been levied and entered upon the tax books shall enter cancellation thereof upon the proper county records, and in all cases where any taxes to aid in the construction of any railroad may hereafter be voted upon, the inducement or promise offered on the part of said railroad company or any duly authorized agent thereof, for any rebate or exemption from said tax or any part thereof, or any agreed price to be paid for the stock that may be issued in lieu of said tax or a division of said tax or any portion or percentage thereof, with any of the voters or tax-payers, as an inducement to procure said tax to be voted, all such taxes so procured to be voted are and shall be absolutely void.
Sec. 9. [Contract of tax payer valid.]—Nothing contained in this act shall preclude any tax-payers who may contract with a railroad company for which taxes shall have been or may hereafter be voted under the provisions of this act to pay his taxes thus voted or any part thereof in labor upon the line of said railroad or in material for its construction or supplies furnished or money paid for the construction, of the road in pursuance of the terms and conditions stipulated in the notice of election, in lieu of a payment to the county treasurer, upon presenting to the county treasurer a receipt from said railroad company or its duly authorized agent specifying the amount of such payment, the same shall be credited by the county treasurer on his tax in aid of said railroad with the effect in all respects as though the same was paid in money to the said county treasurer, and when such receipts have been presented and thus credited by the county treasurer they shall have the same force and validity in his settlement with the board of supervisors as the orders from the railroad company provided for in section four of this act, and provided laborers shall have lien upon said tax so voted in aid of a railroad company for the amount due them for labor performed in the construction of said railroad.

Approved April 5, 1884.

Took effect by publication in newspapers.

Chapter 123, laws of 1876, as amended by chapter 173, laws of 1878, providing for the taxation of cities, towns and townships in aid of the construction of railways, held to be constitutional upon the authority of Stewart v. The Board of Supervisors, 30 Id., 9, and other late cases. The Chicago, M. & St. P. R'y Co. v. Shea, County Treasurer, et al., 67 Id., 723.

The aggregate amount of tax that can be lawfully voted by a township or incorporated city or town in aid of railroads, under this chapter, is five per centum of the assessed value of the property therein, and when that amount has been once voted, levied and collected, the power conferred by this act is exhausted. Dumphy v. Supervisors of Humboldt County, 58 Id., 273.

After township trustees have passed upon the sufficiency of a petition presented to them calling for an election to decide the question of levying a tax in aid of the construction of a railroad, and the election has been ordered, and the tax voted and levied, the validity of such tax cannot be assailed on the ground that the petition was not signed by one-third of the resident tax-payers. Bryan v. Varga et al., 37 Iowa, 78.

The trustees having jurisdiction to decide that question, their decision cannot be collaterally assailed, but like any other judicial determination remains conclusive until reversed or set aside by writ or error, certiorari or other direct proceedings provided for that purpose by law. Id.

Under chapter 48, laws of 1868, it was held that while it was the duty of the county treasurer to collect and pay into the treasury a tax voted in aid of a railroad, yet the company cannot enforce this duty by mandamus until it shows itself fully entitled to the tax by presenting to the treasurer an order of the president or managing director, accompanied by certified estimates of the engineer showing that an amount equal to the tax has been expended by the company within the county. Harwood et al. v. Case, 57 Id., 692.

Nor can the treasurer be compelled to pay over a portion of the tax upon the presentation of an order, accompanied by a certificate of the engineer that an amount has been expended by the company equal to the amount of the order. Id. But see Cassady v. Levey et al., 49 Id., 523.

Where on the question of voting a tax in aid of a railroad, the form of ballots prescribed by the trustees was, "For Taxation" or "Against Taxation," and certain electors cast ballots bearing the words "Against Taxation for benefit of railroad companies or any other monopolies to the indefinite of the poor man"; held, that such ballots should be counted the same as if they had been in the form prescribed by the trustees. Cattell v. Lovery et al., 45 Id., 478.

A tax to aid in the construction of a railroad was voted in the township of K, to be expended in that and two other townships specified. Double the amount of the tax was expended by the company in constructing the road through the township of K, but nothing was expended in either of the other townships; held, that the three townships should be regarded as a unit, and that the tax was not forfeited by the failure to expend any part of it in either of the other townships specified. Merrill v. Welsher et al., 50 Id., 61.

See also Bonnifield v. Bidwell, 32 Id., 149.

A county acquires a beneficial interest in taxes voted in aid of a railroad and paid to the county treasurer, and cannot be held responsible for their repayment when forfeited by the railroad company. The claim of the tax-payer for the recovery of such taxes is against the fund in the hands of the treasurer, and not against the county, and no order of the board of supervisors is necessary to authorize their repayment. Barnes v. The County of Marshall, 56 Id., 20.

The aggregate amount of tax that can be lawfully voted by a township, city or incorporated town in aid of railroads, under chapter 123, laws of 1876, held to be five per centum of the assessed value of the property therein, and when that amount has been once voted, levied and collected, the power conferred by the statute is exhausted. Dumphy v. The Board of Supervisors of Humboldt Co., 68 Id., 276.

Where a tax was voted in aid of a proposed railroad, but the statute under which it was voted was repealed by the above chapter before the levy was made, and the company in whose favor the tax was voted had not, prior to the repeal, expended any money in reliance upon the tax in constructing the road, and never did construct it, but transferred it by a perpetual lease to another company which did construct it, but there was no assignment or transfer of the tax to such other company, and it did not appear that such company constructed the road relying upon the tax, held that the collection of the tax was properly enjoined. Barthel v. Meader et al., 72 Id., 125.

abutting upon the streets or alleys upon which such railway track is proposed to be located, or such depot is proposed to be erected, has been ascertained and compensation made in the manner provided for taking private property for works of internal improvement in chapter four of title ten of the code, subject to the provisions of section 404 of the code.

Sec. 4. [Railroads not released from liability for damages.]—Nothing in this act contained, or in the articles of incorporation or by-laws of the corporation herein provided for, shall in any manner release the railroad companies using such union depots, tracks or appurtenances from the same liability for all damages by injuries to persons, stock, baggage or freight, or for the loss of baggage or freight, in or about said union depot grounds, as if said depot, tracks and appurtenances wholly belonged to and were operated by said railroad companies using the same.

The fact that such lands are claimed by more than one such company or corporation shall in no way affect the liability of such lands to taxation for the past that were not taxable prior to the passage of this act.

Sec. 3. (Sec. 2.) [Evidence.]—Parol evidence shall be admissible to prove when said lands were earned.

Sec. 4. (Sec. 3.) [Repealing clause.]—All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Approved March 20, 1884.
An Act regulating the sale and transfer of grain in elevators and other places of storage.

Section 1. [Grain dealers required to file declaration.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: That all persons owning and dealing in corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, and other grain, who may desire to sell, transfer, assign, pledge or hypothecate the same, or any part thereof, by issuing elevator or warehouse receipts, or certificates, are hereby required to file with the recorder of deeds, in the county where any such grain is stored, a written declaration, setting forth the name and residence of such person; that such person designs to own, keep or control a warehouse, elevator, crib, or other place for the storage and keeping of grain, an accurate description of the place and locality where the same is to be kept, owned or controlled, and of the elevator, warehouse, crib, or other place, the dimensions and quality thereof, and the names of any other persons than the one making the declaration, having any interest in the land or structure; such declaration shall be duly acknowledged and filed for record in the same manner as instruments for the conveyance of personal property.

Section 2. [License given to deal in grain.]—Any person owning, keeping or controlling any such elevator, warehouse, crib, or other place for the storage of grain, and who has filed the declaration as provided in section 1 hereof, may execute and issue bills, certificates, or warehouse receipts, for any grain that may actually be in said elevator, warehouse, crib, or other place described in his said declaration, or for any part or quantity thereof, and may hereby sell, convey, assign, transfer, pledge, or encumber said grain, or any part or quantity thereof. But such bill, certificate, or warehouse receipt, shall have written or printed on it a statement that the one issuing it has complied with section 1 hereof, with the book and page in the recorder's office where the same is recorded, the name and address of the party issuing it, and to whom issued, the location and description of the premises and elevator, warehouse, crib, or other place where the grain is stored, the date of issuance, and the quantity of grain and its kind, and shall be signed by the person issuing it; and bills, certificates and receipts issued in the manner and form aforesaid, shall operate and have the effect to transfer the title to the grain described in them, and vest the same in the holders thereof, and the holders thereof may sell, assign, transfer or otherwise dispose of the same in like manner, without the purchaser, assignee, or holder being required to have the same recorded, or give notice to protect himself against existing creditors or subsequent purchasers, as required in other cases where property is left to the possession of the vendor.

Section 3. [Record of sales and transfers to be kept.]—Every person making the declaration and issuing receipts and certificates for grain as herein contemplated, shall keep a regular well bound book, wherein shall be kept and entered, at the date of issuance thereof, a full account of each and every receipt or certificate, with the date of issuance, number, name of person to whom issued, the quantity and kind of grain covered by such; and such book shall be subject to the inspection and examination of each and every person holding any such receipt or certificate, his agent or attorney. Any person wrongfully altering, changing, or willfully destroying any such book, shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year; and any person issuing any receipt or certificate, without entering and preserving in such book the required memorandum, shall be fined, upon conviction, not to exceed one hundred dollars for each certificate so issued, and be liable for all damages sustained in consequence of such omission.

Sec. 4. [For issuing receipt on grain fraudulently.]—Any person who shall knowingly issue any such receipt or certificate for grain, when the grain described is not actually in the elevator, warehouse, crib, or other place mentioned therein, or shall knowingly, with intent to defraud, issue a second receipt or certificate for grain, for which, or part of which, any former receipt or receipts, certificate or certificates, are outstanding, uncancelled and valid and subsisting, shall, besides being liable for all damages caused by such second such issue, be guilty of felony, and for each offense be fined not to exceed one thousand dollars, and imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years.

Sec. 5. [Removal of grain on which receipt is outstanding.]—Any person owning, possessing or controlling any elevator, warehouse, crib or other place for storing grain, as provided in this act, who shall sell or remove, or knowingly permit to be removed therefrom, any grain for which any receipt or certificate has been issued and is outstanding, held by any other person than the person issuing the same, and any person knowingly receiving, or helping to remove the same, shall be guilty of grand larceny, and punished as provided by statute, and such grain so removed shall be deemed and regarded as stolen property, and may be pursued and recovered, or its value recovered by the owner and holder of said receipt or certificate.

TO REGULATE RAILROADS AND OTHER COMMON CARRIERS.

An Act to regulate railroad corporations and other common carriers in this state, and to increase the powers and further define the duties of the board of railroad commissioners, in relation to the same, and to prevent and punish extortion and unjust discrimination in the rates charged for the transportation of passengers and freights on railroads in this state, and to prescribe a mode of procedure and rules of evidence in relation thereto, and to repeal section 11 of chapter 77 of the acts of the seventeenth general assembly in relation to the board of railroad commissioners and all laws in force in direct conflict with the provisions of this act.

Section 1. [Application of the provisions of this act.]—Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa: The provisions of this act shall apply to the transportation of passengers and property, and to receiving, delivering, storage and handling of property wholly within this state, and shall apply to all railroad corporations and railway companies, express companies, car companies, sleeping-car companies, freight or freight line companies and to any common carrier or carriers engaged in this state in the transportation of passengers or property by railroad therein, and shall also be held to apply to shipments of property made from any point within the state to any point within the state, whether the transportation of the same shall be wholly within this state or partly within this state and an adjoining state or states. The term "railroad" as used in this act shall include all bridges and ferries used or operated in connection with any railroad and also all the road in use by any corporation, receiver, trustee or other person operating a railroad whether owned or operated under contract, agreement, lease or otherwise, and the term "transportation" shall include all instrumentalities of shipment or carriage, and the term "railroad corporation" contained in this act shall be deemed and taken to mean all corporations, companies or individuals now owning or operating, or which may hereafter own or operate any railroad in whole or in part in this state; and the provisions of this act shall apply to all persons, firms and companies and to all associations of persons whether incorporated or otherwise, that shall do business as common carriers upon any of the lines of railway in this state (street railways excepted) the same as to railroad corporations herein mentioned.

SEC. 2. [Unjust discrimination defined.]—All charges made for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property in this state, as aforesaid, or in connection therewith, or for the receiving, delivering, storage or handling of such property shall be reasonable and just; and every unjust and unreasonable charge for such service is prohibited and declared to be unlawful.

SEC. 3. [Penalty.]—That if any common carrier subject to the provisions of this act shall, directly or indirectly, by any special rate, rebate, drawback or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person or persons a greater or less compensation for any service rendered, or to be rendered, in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of this act, than it charges, demands, collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic, such common carrier shall be deemed guilty of unjust discrimination, which is hereby prohibited and declared to be unlawful; this section, however, is not to be construed as prohibiting a less rate per 100 pounds in a car-load lot than is charged, collected or received for the same kind of freight in less than a car-load lot.

SEC. 4. [Preference or advantage not to be given.]—That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, to make or give any preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic, in any respect whatsoever, or to subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic to any prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any common carrier from giving preference as to time of shipment of live stock, un cured meats or other perishable property. All common carriers subject to the provisions of this act shall, according to their respective powers, afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines, and for the receiving, forwarding and switching of cars, and the receiving, forwarding and delivering of passengers and property to and from their several lines, and to and from other lines and places connected therewith; and shall not discriminate in their accommodations, rates and charges between such connecting lines. And any common carrier may be required to switch and transfer cars for another for the purpose of being loaded or unloaded, upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the board of railroad commissioners.

SEC. 5. [No greater charge to be made for a short than a long haul.]—That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, to charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of passengers or of a like kind of property for a shorter than for a longer distance over its railroad, all or any portion of the shorter haul being included within the longer. And said common carrier shall charge no more for transporting freight to or from any point on its railroad than a fair and just rate as compared with the price it charges for the same kind of freight transportation to or from any other point.

SEC. 6. [Freight pooling forbidden.]—That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, to enter into any contract, agreement or combination with any other common carrier or carriers for the pooling of freight of different and competing railroads, or divide between them the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads, or any portion thereof; and in any case of an agreement for the pooling of freights as aforesaid, each day of its continuance shall be deemed a separate offense.

Sec. 7. [Schedules of rates and fare kept for inspection.]—That every common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, shall print and keep for public inspection, schedules showing the rates and fares and charges for the transportation of passengers and property which any such common carrier has established, and which are in force at the time upon its railroad as defined by the first section of this act. The schedules printed as aforesaid by any such common carrier, shall plainly state the places upon its railroads between which property and passengers will be carried, and shall contain the classification of freight in force upon such railroad, and shall also state separately any terminal charges and any rules or regulations which in any wise change, affect or determine any part of the aggregate of such aforesaid rates and fares and charges. Such schedules shall be plainly printed in large type of at least the size of ordinary pica, and a copy for the use of the public shall be kept in every freight office and passenger station, on such railroad, where it can be conveniently inspected, and such common carrier shall keep a printed notice posted in every such freight office and passenger station, indicating where therein such schedules can be found. No advance shall be made in the rates, fares and charges which have been established as aforesaid by any common carrier in compliance with the requirements of this section, except after ten days' public notice, which shall plainly state the changes proposed to be made in the schedules then in force, and the time when the increased rates, fares or charges will go into effect; and the proposed changes shall be shown by printing new schedules, or shall be plainly indicated upon the schedules in force at the time and kept for public inspection. Reduction in such published rates, fares or charges may be made without previous public notice, but whenever any such reduction is made, notice of the same shall immediately be publicly posted, and the changes made shall immediately be made public by printing new schedules, or shall immediately be plainly indicated upon the schedules at the time in force and kept for public inspection. And when any such common carrier shall have established and published its rates, fares and charges, in compliance with the provisions of this section, it shall be unlawful for such common carrier to charge, demand, collect or receive from any person or persons a greater or less compensation for the transportation of passengers or property, or for any services in connection therewith than is specified in such published schedule of rates, fares and charges as may be in force. Every common carrier subject to the provisions of this act shall file with the board of railroad commissioners of the state, copies of its schedules of rates, fares and charges which have been established and published in compliance with the requirements of this section, and shall promptly notify said commissioners of all changes made in the same. Every such common carrier shall also file with said commissioners copies of all contracts, agreements or arrangements with other common carriers in relation to any traffic affected by the provisions of this act to which it may be a party. And in cases where passengers and freight pass over continuous lines or routes in this state operated by more than one common carrier, and the several common carriers operating such lines or routes have established joint tariffs of rates or fares or charges for such continuous lines or routes, copies of such joint tariffs shall also, in like manner, be filed with said commissioners. Such joint rates, fares and charges on such continuous lines so filed as aforesaid, shall be made public by such common carriers, when directed by said commissioners, in so far as may in the judgment of the commissioners be deemed practicable; and said commissioners shall from time to time prescribe the measures of publicity which shall be given to such rates, fares and charges, or to such part of them as they may deem it practicable for such common carriers to publish, and the places in which they shall be published; but no common carrier, party to any such joint tariff, shall be liable for the failure of any other common carrier party thereto, to observe and adhere to the rates, fares or charges thus made and published. If any such common carrier shall neglect or refuse to file or publish its schedules or tariffs of rates, fares and charges as provided in this section, or any part of the same, such common carriers shall, in addition to other penalties herein prescribed, be subjected to a writ of mandamus to be issued by any district court of this state in the judicial district wherein the principal office of said common carrier is situated, or wherein such offense may be committed. And if such common carrier be a foreign corporation, then such writ may be issued by any district court in the judicial district where such common carrier accepts traffic and has an agent to perform such service, to compel compliance with the aforesaid provisions of this section, and such writ shall issue in the name of the state of Iowa, at the relation or upon the petition of the said board of railroad commissioners of this state; and failure to comply with its requirements shall be punishable as for a contempt; and shall make said corporation liable to a penalty of five hundred dollars ($500.00) for each day's failure to comply, and when any such writ of mandamus shall be so applied for by said commissioners, no bond shall be required of them by any court or judge, in which or before whom such application may be made.

Sec. 8. [Combinations against continuous transit.]—That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier subject to the provisions of this act to enter into any combination, contract or agreement, expressed or implied, to prevent by change of time schedules, carriage in different cars, or by other means or devices, the carriage of freights from being continuous from the place of shipment to the place of destination in this state; and no break of bulk, stoppage or interruption made by such common carrier shall prevent the carriage of freights from being and being treated as one continuous carriage from the place of shipment to the place of destination, unless such break, stoppage or interruption was made in good faith for some necessary purpose and without any intent to avoid or unnecessarily interrupt such continuous carriage or to evade any of the provisions of this act.
