SEC. 1361. Schedules returned. The assessor shall furnish to each person, partnership, corporation or association, except those otherwise assessed as provided by law, a blank known as “Assessment Roll—Form No. 2,” as provided in the preceding section, upon which such person, partnership, corporation or association shall enter and set out all moneys and credits of whatsoever kind or nature belonging to such person, partnership, corporation or association, and such liabilities as they claim should be deducted from the total of their moneys and credits. The assessor shall carry the aggregate moneys and credits of such persons, partnerships, corporations or associations to the regular schedule. The assessor shall return all schedules with the assessment books to the county auditor as is provided in this chapter, and the county auditor shall carefully keep all schedules known and described in this chapter as “Assessment Roll—Form No. 2,” for the period of five years from the time of filing of the same in his office. [27 G. A., ch. 30, § 4.]

SEC. 1365. Completion of assessment.

Failure of the assessor to attach to the assessment rolls his oath, as required by statute, renders the taxes based on such schedules void. Warfield-P-H. Co. v. Averill Groc. Co., 119-75.

SEC. 1370. Local board of review.

The statutory provisions as to the local board of review do not confer authority upon such tribunal to transfer property for assessment purposes from one school district to another. The determination of a question as to the locality within the township at which personal property shall be entered on the assessment rolls is left entirely to the assessor Independent School District v. Board of Review, 131-195.
SEC. 1371. Clerk—correction of assessments. The clerk or recorder of the township, city or town, as the case may be, shall be clerk of the board of review, and keep a record of its proceedings, and the assessor shall be present at its meeting and make upon the assessment rolls all corrections or additions directed by the board. At such meetings it shall be the duty of the assessor to read each and every taxpayer’s name and assessment on the assessment rolls, and, if the assessment is approved, pass to the next name. After checking the same, the board shall then take up the unchecked names in alphabetical order, and raise or lower the same as in their opinion will be just; checking off each taxpayer as the same is adjusted. [18 G. A., ch. 109, § 1; C., ‘73, § 831; R., § 740.] [27 G. A., ch. 33, § 1.]

The board of review in fixing the value of bank stock has the right to avail itself of any information within reach for the purpose of determining the real or market value of such stock. First Nat. Bank v. City Council, 112 N. W. 829.

SEC. 1372. Notice of assessment raised. In case the value of any specific property or the entire assessment of any person, partnership, corporation or association is raised, or new property is added by the board, the clerk shall give immediate notice thereof by mail to each at the postoffice address shown on the assessment rolls, and at the conclusion of the action of the board therein the clerk shall post an alphabetical list of those whose assessments are thus raised and added, in a conspicuous place in the office or place of meeting of the board, and enter upon the records a statement of the giving of the notice required. The board shall hold an adjourned meeting, with at least five days intervening after the posting of said notices, before final action with reference to the raising of assessments or the adding of property to the rolls is taken, and the posted notices shall state the time and place of holding such adjourned meeting, which time and place shall also be stated in the proceedings of the board. [18 G. A., ch. 109, § 3.] [27 G. A., ch. 30, § 5.]

Where the board of equalization increases the assessed value of a taxpayer’s property without posting notice of its intention to do so, such increase will be invalid. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Redmond, 120-601.

SEC. 1373. Complaint to board of review—appeal. Any person aggrieved by the action of the assessor in assessing his property may make oral or written complaint thereof to the board of review, which shall consist simply of a statement of the errors complained of, with such facts as may lead to their correction, and any person whose assessment has been raised or whose property has been added to the assessment rolls, as provided in the preceding section, shall make such complaint before the meeting of the board for final action with reference thereto, as provided in said section, and appeals may be taken from the action of the board with reference to such complaints to the district court of the county in which such board holds its sessions, within twenty days after its adjournment. Appeals shall be taken by a written notice to that effect to the chairman or presiding officer of the reviewing board, and served as an original notice. The court shall hear the appeal in equity and determine anew all questions arising before the board which relate to the liability of the property to assessment or the amount thereof, and its decision shall be certified by the clerk of the court to the county auditor, who shall correct the assessment books in his office accordingly. Any officer of a county, city, town, township or school district interested or a taxpayer thereof may in like manner make complaint before said board of review in respect to the assessment of any property in the township, city or town and an appeal from the action of the board of review in fixing the amount of assessment on any property concerning which such complaint is made, may be taken by any of such aforementioned officers. Such appeal is in addition to the appeal allowed to the person whose property is assessed and shall be taken in the name of the county, city, town, township or school district interested and tried in the same manner, except that the notice of appeal shall also be served upon the owner of the property concerning which the complaint is made and affected thereby or person required to return said property for assessment. Upon trial of any appeal from the action of the board of review fixing the amount of assessment upon any property concerning which complaint is made, the court may increase, decrease or affirm the amount of the assessment appealed from. [18 G. A., ch. 109, § 1; C., '73, § 831; R., § 740.] [32 G. A., ch. 60, § 1.]

Appeal—what questions: No appeal can be taken from the action of the assessing tribunal refusing to make an assessment. In re Assessment of Farmers' L. & T. Co., 129-588.

On all appeals from the action of the treasurer in assessing omitted property the matter stands before the district court in the same situation as before the treasurer and the court should determine whether or not the property owner was liable to assessment on the property with which the treasurer has assessed him. Schoonover v. Peteina, 126-261.

If the treasurer has attempted to assess the person complaining with moneys and credits as omitted from assessment, it is for the court to fix the amount of moneys and credits for which the complainant should have been assessed. Ibid.

If the court on appeal finds that no assessment should have been made the assessment by the treasurer should be set aside in toto, and if it appears that as to any items included in the treasurer's assessment the complainant was not liable to assessment then the court should reduce the assessment accordingly. Ibid.

The district court must have something before it to show what complaint was made to the board of review and what action was taken thereon, and the burden of proof is on the appellant to show that the decision of the board was erroneous. The taking of an appeal does not make an assessing tribunal out of the district court. Frost v. Board of Review, 114-103.

The court will presume that the board of review acted properly and upon sufficient evidence as to values, and the burden is upon the appealing taxpayer to overcome this presumption by evidence of injustice or inequity of the assessment as raised by the board of review. First Nat. Bank v. City Council, 112 N. W. 829.

It is the questions arising before the board which the district court is required to try on appeals from the board of equalization. Such objections may be raised in the most informal way, and may be quite indefinite and general in statement, and need not be reduced to writing, yet they must be in some manner brought to the attention of the tax tribunal. Gibson v. Cooley, 129-529.

The court on appeal may correct the assessment of property in accordance with the application made in the first instance to the board of equalization, but it cannot include property for assessment as to which no assessment has been made, and no question raised before the board of equalization. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 106-476.

The district court on appeal is authorized to determine only the correctness of the assessment with reference to the complaints made, and cannot increase the assessment of appellant. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Fonda, 114-728.

Courts have no authority either to make or correct assessments. Judy v. National State Bank, 133-252.

Until by final adjournment the board has placed it beyond its power to further review the assessment complained of, no right of appeal exists. Barz v. Board of Equalization, 133-583.

Effect of judgment: An adjudication of the court on an appeal from an assessment of land contracts for one year, it was decided that they were not assessable, held binding as an adjudication with reference to the assessment of the same contracts to the same person for a subsequent year. Defries v. McMeans, 121-540.

Procedure: The notice here contemplated must be served on the mayor, who is by law the presiding officer of the city council, unless another presiding officer has been appointed of record. Frost v. Board of Review, 113-547.

While jurisdiction is conferred by the service and filing of a proper appeal, a transcript of the proceedings of the board of review should be required not only that the proceedings upon which the appeal is passed may be clearly and fairly brought to the attention of the court, but that the court record may furnish a proper basis upon which to rest a decree. City Council v. National Loan & Inv. Co., 122-829. The notice need not recite the fact of the complaint by the appealing party to the board of review, but such facts should appear in the transcript. A mere allegation of that fact in a petition filed by the appellant and not denied by responsive pleading is not sufficient to show the jurisdiction of the court. Ibid.

While pleadings may properly be filed, the rules governing the making up of issues in equity actions in general, do not apply. Ibid.

Jurisdiction of an appeal to the district court is obtained by service of a notice. When a notice has been served, if the board of review neglects to send up the transcript, such neglect may result in a dismissal of the appeal if the appellant does not obtain the proper order or rule requiring the performance of that duty by the board. But the appellant may be allowed by the court to introduce a transcript during the progress of the trial. City Council of Marion v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 120-259.

There is nowhere any direction or suggestion requiring a bond on such appeal, and the court has no power to impose any such condition. Ibid.

The notice of appeal gives the district court jurisdiction, and whether or not after acquiring jurisdiction it has sufficient evidence before it upon which to act intelligently, must be determined from the proceedings, and a judgment entered as the result of such proceedings will not be void. German-American Sav. Bank v. Council, etc., 118-84.

If the appellant neglects to present a transcript of the proceedings and to docket the appeal, the appellee may cause the appeal to be docketed and dismissed under the provisions of Code § 3560. Stephens v. City Council, 132-490.

Other remedies—when allowable: After reversal in the supreme court of the finding of the district court relieving a taxpayer from taxes assessed against him, the reversal being on the ground that no sufficient complaint of the assessment was made before the board of review, the taxpayer cannot in the lower court interpose objections not thus made. City Council v. National Loan & Inv. Co., 130-511.

A national bank representing its stockholders is a party in interest as to the taxation of its stock and may appear before the board of review and make complaint of the assessment of such stock and prosecute an appeal from adverse decision. First National Bank of Independence v. Independence, 123-482.

Where a loan and trust company objects before the board of review to an assessment on its moneys and credits, it is not required to point out the manner in which its property should be assessed, and it may object on appeal from the action of the board of review to such assessment on moneys and credits although it might have been assessed on its corporate stock. Wahkonsa Inv. Co. v. Ft. Dodge, 125-148.

A prior contention with reference to assessments for other years that the company was assessable only as a savings bank did not estop it from objecting as to the year in question to an assessment on moneys and credits. Ibid.

Where the value fixed by the assessor is by mistake erroneously entered on the tax list, the property owner is not excluded from seeking other relief by failing to apply to the board of review for correction. Smith v. McQuiston, 108-363.

Irregularities and inequalities in assessment are to be complained of only by appeal to the board of review and from it to the district court. Carpenter v. Jones County, 130-494.

Where the board of review or the treasurer, in assessing property omitted from taxation, acts within the scope of the judicial or quasi-judicial power involved, such action is to be reviewed on appeal, and not in a proceeding for injunction, nor in an action to recover damages for an illegal act. Stevens v. Carroll, 130-463.

Injunction: The provision as to complaints to the board of review is broad enough to permit the correction of excessive assessments fraudulently made, and therefore one who complains that his property has been assessed too high on account of discriminations against him as a non-resident should ask relief by application to the board of review, and not by action in equity. The jurisdiction conferred upon the board is exclusive, unless otherwise expressed or clearly manifested. Crawford v. Polk County, 112-118.

If the tax is illegal, and not merely irregular, its enforcement may be restrained by injunction. Montis v. McQuiston, 107-651.

An excessive valuation can be corrected only on appeal, and not by an action to enjoin the collection of the tax. Lake City Elec. Light Co. v. McCravy, 132-824.

Equity will interfere by injunction to restrain the enforcement of a tax not supported by an assessment, but injunction will not lie to correct the error or wrong of an excessive assessment. Collins v. Keokuk, 118-30.

The fact that no appeal is authorized from an equalization board does not justify the interposition of the court by injunction to restrain the enforcement and levy of a tax based upon an assessment.

Certiorari: The board of review having properly acquired jurisdiction to determine the correctness of the assessment, its subsequent action in raising the assessment cannot be questioned by certiorari, on the ground that there was not sufficient evi-

SEC. 1373-a. Pending litigation. The provisions of this act shall not apply to pending litigation. [32 G. A., ch. 60, § 2.]

SEC. 1374. Withholding property from assessment—penalty.

In general: Although the language of this section does not expressly make it retroactive, yet as it refers to an existing condition, it may be applied to the collection of taxes on property omitted from taxation before the Code took effect. Galusha v. Wendt, 114-597; Beresheim v. Arnd, 117-83.

The act of the assessor in determining that property has been omitted, and ascertaining the tax due on account thereof is a substitute for the assessment by the duly constituted authorities. Ibid.

The act of the assessor for previous years in assessing only a portion of the moneys and credits of a taxpayer does not constitute such an adjudication as to preclude assessments for moneys and credits omitted where such omission resulted from the fraud of the officer or the failure of the taxpayer to return the full amount of his moneys and credits for taxation. Galusha v. Wendt, 114-597.

But the mere fact that it appears that subsequently the taxpayer had a larger amount of moneys and credits than had been returned for assessment for previous years will not in itself show liability for taxes on omitted property. Ibid.

No penalty can be enforced with reference to taxes which should have been assessed prior to the taking effect of the Code, nor can interest on such taxes be collected from the time when they should have been assessed. Ibid.

The fact that the penalty provided cannot be imposed in such case does not defeat the effect of the entire provision as to property previously omitted from taxation. Beresheim v. Arnd, 117-83.

The fact that the treasurer is authorized to determine the amount for which suit shall be brought in such case and that by Code, § 490, a commission on the money collected is allowed to the treasurer does not render the section unconstitutional as making the treasurer a judge in a matter in which he is interested. Under the provision as to treasurer’s compensation he is only collaterally and not directly interested in the result of the action. Ibid.

This section is not repealed by the en-

Discovery of omitted property by agents: A county may contract with agents to discover property omitted or concealed from taxation. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120-383.

The provisions of 28 G. A., chap. 50, limiting the percentage which may be allowed to an agent under such contract, do not affect the compensation for services previously rendered under a valid contract. Ibid.

The board of supervisors has the authority to employ persons to discover property which has been omitted from taxation, for the purpose of enabling the treasurer to bring action for the taxes due thereon. Disbrow v. Board of Supervisors, 119-338.

The property owner cannot in a suit by the county for taxes on omitted property raise the question as to the validity of the contract between the county and attorneys employed for the purpose of discovering omitted property. Galusha v. Wendt, 114-597.

Demand: While the notice of the action in which the treasurer seeks to recover taxes on omitted property is not the demand contemplated by this section, nevertheless an original notice in another action, indicating that payment of such taxes is demanded, which action is dismissed or otherwise disposed of, may constitute the demand contemplated. Bell v. Stevens, 116-451.

If such original notice is signed by the treasurer with words indicating that he acts in his official capacity, the court will take judicial notice that he was the treasurer of the county at the date when such notice was served. Ibid.

Further as to notice, listing and appeal, see Supp., § 1407-a., and notes.

Action: Aside from the provisions of this section, an action cannot be maintained to recover taxes upon omitted property. Judy v. National State Bank, 133-252.
If the petition follows the language of the statute with reference to the treasurer's knowledge as to omitted taxes, it is not vulnerable to attack on the ground that the allegation is by way of information and belief. Robinson v. Ferguson, 119-325.

Limitation: The fact that a time limit is fixed within which corrections by the treasurer may be made, while under Code § 1385, with reference to entry on tax lists of omitted property by the auditor no limit is fixed, indicates that the authority of the auditor is limited to the current tax lists. Mead's Estate v. Story County, 119-69.

The treasurer alone has power to demand taxes on omitted property within five years from the date at which the assessment should have been made. The power of the auditor, under Code, § 1385, is limited to the current tax list. Jewett v. Foote, 119-359; Mead's Estate v. Story County, 119-69.

The five-year limitation begins to run from the date when the assessment should by law be completed, and not from the date when the tax lists are by law to be transmitted from the auditor to the treasurer. Thornburg v. Cardell, 123-313.

The power of county boards of equalization is plainly limited to equalizing by adding to, or taking from, the aggregate valuation of townships, cities and towns as a whole, and not as to parts thereof. Such board has no authority to equalize among assessment districts which are embraced in the same city. The city board has ample power to remedy inequality as among assessment districts by raising or lowering the assessments throughout the city. Montis v. McQuiston, 107-561.

SEC. 1378. State board of review. The executive council shall constitute the state board of review, and shall meet at the seat of government on the second Monday of July in each year. The auditor of state shall lay valuation of townships, cities and towns as among assessment districts by raising or lowering the assessments throughout the state. Jewett v. Foote, 119-359; Mead's Estate v. Story County, 119-69.

The power of the state board of review is herein limited to the current tax list. Jewett v. Foote, 119-359; Mead's Estate v. Story County, 119-69.

The five-year limitation begins to run from the date when the assessment should by law be completed, and not from the date when the tax lists are by law to be transmitted from the auditor to the treasurer. Thornburg v. Cardell, 123-313.

The provisions of 28 G. A., chap. 50, are to be construed with reference to the language of this section, and therefore the five-year limitation of this section is applicable. Shearer v. Citizens' Bank, 123-313.

The five-year limitation against an assessment of property omitted from taxation commences to run from the time when the assessment of such property should have been made. Schoonover v. Petcina, 126-261.

The five-year limitation against the recovery of taxes on property omitted from assessment is to be computed from the completion of the work of the assessor. Thornburg v. Cardell, 123-313.

SEC. 1380-a. Repeal. Section thirteen hundred and eighty (1380) of the code is hereby repealed. [27 G. A., ch. 34, § 4.]

SEC. 1380-b. State levy. The executive council shall, in the year 1898, fix the rate per centum to be levied upon the valuation of the taxable property of the state necessary to yield for general state purposes approximately the sum of sixteen hundred thousand dollars ($1,600,000) and in the year 1899 shall fix the rate necessary to yield approximately fifteen hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000). [27 G. A., ch. 34, § 1.]

SEC. 1380-c. Same. In the year 1900 and each subsequent year the executive council shall fix the rate per centum to be levied upon the valuation of the taxable property of the state necessary to raise such amount for general state purposes as shall be designated by the general assembly, either by statute or joint resolution. [27 G. A., ch. 34, § 2.]

SEC. 1380-d. Council to certify to county auditor. The executive council shall certify the rate so fixed to the auditor of each county. [27 G. A., ch. 34, § 3.]
SEC. 1382. Certifying results to county auditor. The board shall keep a record of its proceedings, and finish its review and adjustment on or before the first Monday of August. The county auditor shall thereupon add to or deduct from the valuation of each kind or class of property in his county the required percentage, rejecting all fractions of fifty cents or less in the result, and counting all over fifty cents as one dollar. [C., '73, § 836; R., § 743; C., '51, § 183.] [32 G. A., ch. 5, § 3.]

SEC. 1382-a. Repeal—acts in conflict. That all statutes in conflict with any of the provisions of this act be, and are, hereby amended so as not to be in conflict with the provisions of this act. [32 G. A., ch. 5, § 3.]

SEC. 1383. Tax list. All taxes, except road-tax, [taxes] which are uniform throughout any township or school district shall be formed into a single tax, and entered upon the tax list in a single column, to be known as a consolidated tax, and each receipt shall show the percentage levied for each separate fund. Before the first day of January in each year, the county auditor shall transcribe the assessments of the several townships, towns or cities into a book, to be provided at the expense of the county for that purpose, to be known as the tax list, properly ruled and headed, with distinct columns in which shall be entered the names of taxpayers, descriptions of lands, number of acres and value, number of town lots and value, value of personal property and each description of tax, with a column for polls and one for payments, and shall complete the same by carrying out the totals and footings of columns. At the end of the list for each township, town or city he shall make an abstract thereof, and apportion the consolidated tax among the respective funds to which it belongs, according to the number of mills levied for each. [C., '73, §§ 837-9; R., §§ 745-6; C., '51, §§ 485-6.] [30 G. A., ch. 50, & 1.]

SEC. 1385. Errors corrected.

The auditor has authority to determine when a mistake on the tax list, not due to error of judgment on the part of the assessor, has been made, but when the determination of whether there is a mistake depends upon facts outside of the record, it is wise for the auditor to decline to act. Smith v. McQuiston, 108-363.

The extension of the application of this section by 28 G. A., chap 47, (Supp. §§ 1385-a—c), and the enactment of 28 G. A., chap. 50, (Supp. §§ 1407-a—e), which may be construed as relating to Code § 1385, do not amount to an implied repeal of Code § 1374. Lambe v. McCormick, 116-169.

The auditor can act with reference to omitted property only for the purpose of adding such property to the tax list for the current year. Thorburn v. Cardell, 123-313.

The county auditor has no duty or authority with respect to the collection of taxes on property withheld from assessment save of adding such omitted property to the tax list for the current year. Heath v. Albrook, 123-559.

The auditor's power to list omitted property under this section as amended by 28 G. A., chap. 47, (Supp. §§ 1385-a—c), is limited to the current tax list, and cannot be exercised without limitation as to the time. Mead's Estate v. Story County, 113-69; Jewett v. Foot, 113-359; Thorburn v. Cardell, 123-313.

SEC. 1385-a. Repeal. That section one thousand three hundred and eighty-five (1385) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof. [28 G. A., ch. 47, § 1.]

SEC. 1385-b. Errors—omitted property—how corrected. The auditor may correct any error in the assessment or tax list, and may assess and list for taxation any omitted property; but before assessing and listing for taxation any omitted property he shall notify by registered letter the person, firm, corporation, or administrator, or other person in whose name the property is taxed, to appear before him at his office within ten days.
from the time of said notice and show cause, if any there be, why such correction or assessment should not be made, and should such party feel aggrieved at the action of said auditor he shall have the right of appeal therefrom to the district court. And if such correction or assessment is made after the books have passed into the hands of the treasurer he shall be charged or credited therefor as the case may be. All expense incurred in the making of said correction or assessment shall be borne pro rata by the funds which are affected by said correction and the proceedings to be reported to the board of supervisors. [28 G. A., ch. 47, § 2.]

A mere notice by the auditor to the taxpayer with reference to omitted property is not such assessment as is contemplated by law. Judy v. National State Bank, 122-375.

The statutory provision authorizing the auditor to assess omitted property for taxation is not unconstitutional. Clark v. Horn, Auditor, 122-375.

SEC. 1385-c. Appeal. The appeal herein provided for shall be taken within ten days from the time of the final action of the auditor, by a written notice to that effect to the auditor, and served as an original notice. The court on appeal shall hear and determine the rights of the parties in the same manner as appeals from the board of review, as prescribed in section thirteen hundred and seventy-three (1373) of the code. [28 G. A., ch. 47, § 3.]

SEC. 1389. Treasurer to enter delinquent taxes.

Where the taxes have not been brought forward as required by statute a sale therefor is invalid and the owner should be permitted to redeem. Smith v. Callanan, 103-218.

Special assessments certified to the auditor by a city for collection if not brought forward on the treasurer's books as required with reference to general taxes, cease to be a lien upon the property. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City, 125-396.

SEC. 1389-a. Repeal—treasurer to keep record. Section thirteen hundred and eighty-nine (1389) of the code is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

The treasurer shall, after October 1st, and before December 31st, of each year, enter in a book to be kept in his office as a part of the records thereof, to be known as the delinquent personal tax list, all delinquent personal taxes of any preceding year. [28 G. A., ch. 48, § 1.]

SEC. 1389-b. What to contain. Such entry of tax on delinquent personal tax list shall give the names of delinquents alphabetically arranged, with amounts of tax and for what year or years, and where property was located when assessed. [28 G. A., ch. 48, § 2.]

Abbreviations in describing the location void. Watkins v. Couch, 111 N. W. 315.

SEC. 1389-c. Lien on real estate. Personal tax entered on delinquent personal tax list, as provided in sections one and two of this act, shall constitute a lien on any real estate owned or acquired by any such delinquent, and so remain until the same has been paid or legally cancelled, and taxes not so entered for each year shall cease to be a lien. [28 G. A., ch. 49, § 3.]

SEC. 1389-d. Entry of delinquent real estate taxes. The treasurer shall each year, upon receiving the tax list, enter upon the same in separate columns opposite each parcel of real estate on which the tax remains unpaid for any previous year, the amount of such unpaid tax, and unless such delinquent real estate tax is so brought forward and entered it shall cease to be a lien upon the real estate upon which the same was levied, and upon any other real estate of the owner. But to preserve such lien it shall only be necessary to enter such tax, as aforesaid, opposite any tract upon which it was a lien. Any sale for the whole or any part of such delinquent tax not so entered shall be invalid. [28 G. A., ch. 48, § 4.]

SEC. 1391. Repeal—delinquent taxes. That section thirteen hundred and ninety-one (1391) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“No penalty or interest shall be collected upon taxes remaining unpaid four years or more from the thirty-first day of December of the year in which the tax books containing the same were first placed in the hands of the county treasurer, and the board of supervisors at the January meeting may declare such tax unavailable, and when so declared by the board, the amount shall be credited to the treasurer by the auditor as unavailable and he shall apportion such tax among the funds to which it belongs. Any portion of such tax belonging to the state shall be reported by him in his semi-annual settlement sheets to the auditor of state as unavailable, whereupon the auditor of state shall credit the county with the amount so reported, but nothing in this act shall be construed to in any way release the county treasurer from any duty required of him in the collection of delinquent taxes, nor to release the payee from his liability for the same. Should any of such tax afterward be collected, the county treasurer shall distribute the net amount collected among the several funds the same as though it had never been declared unavailable, and the portion belonging to the state shall be credited back to the state and included in the treasurer's remittance of other state taxes to the treasurer of state and shall be reported by the county auditor in his semi-annual settlement sheets to the auditor of state, who shall recharge the same to the county.” [31 G. A., ch. 51.]

SEC. 1398. Assessment of omitted property.

Although the provisions of 28 G. A., chap. 50, (Supp. §§ 1407-a—e), may be construed as relating to this section, and those of 28 G. A., chap. 47, (Supp. §§ 1374. Lambe v. McCormick, 116-169.

SEC. 1400. Lien of taxes. Taxes upon real estate shall be a lien thereon against all persons except the state. Taxes due from any person upon personal property shall be a lien upon any and all real estate owned by such person or to which he may acquire title. As against a purchaser, such liens shall attach to real estate on and after the thirty-first day of December in each year. Taxes upon stocks of goods or merchandise shall be a lien thereon and shall continue a lien thereon when sold in bulk, and may be collected from the owner, purchaser or vendee. In all cases where buildings are assessed as personal property, the taxes shall be and remain a lien on said buildings from the date of levy until paid. [21 G. A., ch. 133; 20 G. A., ch. 194, § 1; C., '73, §§ 853, 865; R., § 759; C., '51, § 495.] [29 G. A., ch. 59, § 1.]

The lien provided for by this section attached, as to taxes already due on stocks of goods, on the day when the Code went into effect. Plymouth County v. Moore, 114-700.

The lien of a general tax has priority over a special tax not chargeable on the property at the time the lien for the general tax attaches and sale thereunder is made. Harrington v. Valley Sav. Bank, 119-312.

The particular time at which taxes attach as a lien against a stock of goods is not specifically designated by statute but inferentially it is when they become due. But a sale of the stock in bulk after assessment and before the levying of the tax will not pass the title free from the lien of such tax when duly levied. Larson v. Hamilton County, 123-485.

The purchaser of a stock of goods taken subject to the taxes assessed thereon, does not become personally liable for the payment of such taxes. Larson v. Hamilton County, 123-485.

Sale of goods at retail divests the lien of the taxes upon the stock and a subsequent payment of the tax by the purchaser of the stock to save other property from distraint is a voluntary payment which cannot be recovered from the vendor. The tax on a stock of goods is not a charge against the purchaser of such stock. Iowa Mercantile Co. v. Blair, 123-296.

As between vendor and vendee, the liability for taxes depends on the intent of the parties as to passing of title. The mere use of language indicating the passing of title at the time of execution of the contract is not controlling, but the usual test is the transfer of possession. Nunegesser v. Hart, 122-647.

The provision as to the date when the tax lien attaches between the seller and buyer does not affect the question as to which of the parties to a contract to convey shall pay the taxes accruing between the date of the contract and when the conveyance is to be made. In the absence of any controlling stipulation the vendor retaining possession, rents and profits, until the conveyance is due is under obligation to pay the accruing taxes until the conveyance is made. Clinton v. Shugart, 126-179.

SEC. 1400-a. Plats—when filed. That on or before the first day of August, A. D. 1904, each telephone or telegraph company owning or operating a telephone or telegraph line, any part of which lies within the state of Iowa, shall file with the several county auditors of the counties within which any part of its line is located, a map of all its lines within said county, except its line within any platted city or town, drawn to a scale of not less than one (1) inch to four (4) miles, on which the location of the line or lines of said company is correctly shown. The map of any line situated upon any highway or street which is the dividing line between taxing districts, shall show on which side of said street or highway said line is situated and shall locate all points at which said line may cross said street or highway. A statement showing the length of pole line in each taxing district, of each company shall be filed when no map of the pole lines of such company is required under the terms of this act. A telephone or telegraph company whose line is situated upon the right of way of a railway may file, in lieu of the map required to be filed by the provisions of this section, a certificate setting forth along what lines of railway said company’s telephone or telegraph line extends. On or before the first day of March, A. D. 1905, and annually thereafter, like maps, statements or certificates shall be filed with the several county auditors of counties in which any part of said lines may have been extended, constructed, relocated or taken down entirely, during the preceding calendar year, showing the correct location of all such new or relocated lines, and the location of any part abandoned or taken down, as the same existed on the thirty-first day of December preceding. Provided, county auditors of the several counties shall, upon application of any company, owning or operating a telephone or telegraph line in their respective counties, furnish a map or maps accurately showing the boundaries of all taxing districts in said county, and the public highways located within such taxing districts. [30 G. A., ch. 49, § 1.]

SEC. 1400-b. Failure or refusal to file. In the event of the failure or refusal of any telephone or telegraph company, owning or operating any telephone or telegraph line not situated upon the right of way of a railway, to file the map required under the provisions of section one (1) of this act, at the time and according to the conditions named, then the county auditor may cause the same to be prepared by the county surveyor and the cost thereof shall, in the first place, be audited and paid by the board of supervisors of the county, out of the county fund, and the amount thereof shall be by said board levied as a special tax against said company and the property of said company, which shall be collected in the same manner as county taxes and become a part of the county fund. [30 G. A., ch. 49, § 2.] SEC. 1400-c. Forest and fruit tree reservations. That on any tract of land in the state of Iowa the owner or owners may select a permanent forest reservation not less than two acres in continuous area, or a fruit tree reservation not less than one nor more than five acres in area, or both, and that upon compliance with the provisions of this act, such owner or owners shall be entitled to the benefits hereinafter set forth. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 1.]

SEC. 1400-d. Forest reservation. A forest reservation shall contain not less than two hundred growing forest trees on each acre. If the area selected is an original forest containing the required number of growing forest trees, it shall be accepted as a forest reservation under the provisions of this act. If the area selected is an original forest containing less than two hundred forest trees to the acre, or if it is an artificial grove, the owner or owners thereof shall have planted, cultivated and otherwise properly cared for the number of forest trees necessary to bring the total number of growing trees to not less than two hundred on each acre, during a period of not less than two years, before it can be accepted as a forest reservation within the meaning of this act, provided that no ground upon which any farm buildings stand shall be recognized as part of any such reservation. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 2.]

SEC. 1400-e. Annual removal of trees. Not more than one-fifth of the total number of trees in any forest reservation may be removed in any one year, excepting in cases where the trees die naturally. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 3.]

SEC. 1400-f. What considered forest trees. The ash, black cherry, black walnut, butternut, catalpa, coffee tree, the elms, hackberry, the hickories, honey locust, mulberry, the oaks, sugar maple, European larch and other coniferous trees, and all other forest trees introduced into the state for experimental purposes, shall be considered forest trees within the meaning of this act. In forest reservations which are artificial groves, the willows, box-elder, soft maple, cotton-wood, and other poplars, shall be included among forest trees for the purposes of this act when they are used as protecting borders not exceeding two rows in width around a forest reservation, or when they are used as nurse-trees for forest trees in such forest reservation, the number of such nurse-trees not to exceed one hundred on each acre; provided that only box-elder and soft maple shall be used as nurse-trees. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 4.]

SEC. 1400-g. Groves. The trees of a forest reservation shall be in groves not less than four rods wide. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 5.]

SEC. 1400-h. Fruit-tree reservation. A fruit-tree reservation shall contain not less than seventy fruit trees on each acre, growing under proper care, and may be claimed as such for a period of eight years after planting. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 6.]

SEC. 1400-i. What considered fruit-trees. The cultivated varieties of apples, crabs, plums, cherries, peaches and pears shall be considered fruit-trees within the meaning of this act. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 7.]

SEC. 1400-j. Replacing dead or removed trees. Whenever any tree or trees on a fruit-tree or forest reservation shall be removed or die, the owner or owners of such reservation shall, within one year, plant and care for other fruit or forest trees, in order that the number of such trees may not fall below that required by this act. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 8.]

SEC. 1400-k. Restraint of live stock. Cattle, horses, mules, sheep, goats and hogs shall not be permitted upon a fruit-tree or forest reservation. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 9.]
SEC. 1400-1. Taxable valuation. Forest reservations fulfilling the conditions of this act shall be assessed on a taxable valuation of one dollar per acre. Fruit-tree reservations shall be assessed on a taxable valuation of one dollar per acre for a period of eight years from the time of planting. In all other cases where trees are planted upon any tract of land, without regard to area, for forest, fruit, shade or ornamental purposes, or for windbreaks, the assessor shall not increase the valuation of such property because of such improvements. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 10.]

SEC. 1400-m. Penalty for violations. If the owner or owners of a fruit or forest reservation violate any provision of this act within the two years preceding the making of an assessment, the assessor shall not list any tract belonging to such owner or owners, as a reservation within the meaning of this act, for the ensuing two years. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 11.]

SEC. 1400-n. Duties of assessor. It shall be the duty of the assessor to secure the facts relative to fruit and forest reservations by taking the sworn statement, or affirmation, of the owner or owners making application under this act; and to make special report to the county auditor of all reservations made in the county under the provisions of this act. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 12.]

SEC. 1400-o. Duties of county auditor. It shall be the duty of the county auditor in every county to keep a record of all forest and fruit-tree reservations within his county; and to make report of the same to the secretary of the state horticultural society on or before November 15th of each year. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 13.]

SEC. 1400-p. State forestry commissioner. The secretary of the Iowa state horticultural society shall be state forestry commissioner, without salary. It shall be his duty to promote the objects of this act, and he shall have power to appoint deputies without salary for each county, or group of counties, who shall assist him, and who shall make an annual report to him of forestry matters and of the operations of this act, within their respective territories, for the use of the state horticultural society. [31 G. A., ch. 52, § 14.]

OF THE COLLECTION OF TAXES.

SECTION 1403. Payment—installments.

Where the land is taxed as one parcel, and the mortgage covers a portion only, the mortgagor does not acquire title as to the divest the owner of the balance of the tract of his title. Cone v. Wood, 198-260, and see notes to Sec. 1440.

The weight of authority is that the particular remedy provided by statute for the collection of taxes is exclusive, and held that an action in equity for the enforcement of the lien of the mulct tax against the premises on which a liquor nuisance was situated could not be maintained. Crawford County v. Laub, 110-355. So held also as to enforcement of personal property tax under § 1406. Plymouth County v. Moore, 114-700.

The payment and acceptance of a tax as assessed by the assessor does not operate as an estoppel to enforce against such taxpayer an additional assessment made by the board of review. City Council v. National Loan & Inv. Co., 130-511.

One who makes voluntary payment of taxes cannot recover them back on the ground that they were not legal. Oden- dall v. Rich, 112-182.

One whose title rests on forged instruments and is therefore invalid may recover of the true owner taxes paid by the true owner under the mistaken belief as to his ownership, if such belief is not the result of his own carelessness or want of knowledge of the law, and such property may be had in an action at law. Govern v. Russ, 125-188.
The provisions of this section as to the collection of personal property tax are exclusive of any other remedy, except as provided by statute, and a personal action cannot be maintained for such tax. Plymouth County v. Moore, 114-700.

SEC. 1407. Collectors—sheriff. Immediately after the taxes become delinquent, each county treasurer shall proceed to collect the same by distress and sale of the personal property of the delinquent taxpayers, and for this purpose he may appoint one or more collectors to assist him in collecting the same. Each collector appointed shall receive for his services and expenses the sum of five per cent., on the amount of all taxes collected and paid over by him, which percentage he shall collect from the delinquent, together with the whole amount of delinquent taxes and interest; and pay the same to the treasurer at the end of each month, and in the discharge of his duties as collector, should it become necessary to make the delinquent taxes by distress and sale, or should no collector be appointed, or should the collector fail to institute proceedings to collect said delinquent taxes, the treasurer shall place the same in the hands of the sheriff, or a constable, who shall proceed to collect the same, and either shall be entitled to receive the same compensation, in addition to the five per cent., as constables are entitled to receive for the sale of property on execution. [C., '73, § 859.] [31 G. A., ch. 53.]

The county cannot contract with the collector that he is to receive a larger sum than that specified, nor can he recover his statutory compensation after receiving under contract a larger percentage than authorized by law. Any amount paid under such contract in excess of the statutory compensation may be recovered back. Massie v. Harrison County, 129-277.

To support such a contract it is not competent to show that the collector agreed to compile a delinquent tax list, as the compilation of such list pertained to the duties of the treasurer's office. Ibid.

SEC. 1407-a. Discovery of property withheld from taxation—contract—notice—appeal. The board of supervisors of any county may contract in writing with any person to assist the proper officers in the discovery of property not listed and assessed as required by law. Before listing the property discovered, the treasurer shall give the person in whose name it is proposed to assess the same, or his agent, ten days' notice thereof by registered letter addressed to him at his usual place of residence, fixing the time and place where objection to such proposed listing and assessment may be made. An appeal may be taken to the district court from final action of the treasurer by serving written notice upon him and otherwise proceeding as provided in section thirteen hundred and seventy-three (1373) of the code. [28 G. A., ch. 50, § 1.]

In general: This act is not unconstitutional as embracing more than one subject-matter or subject-matter not embraced in the title. Beresheim v. Arnd, 117-83.
The provisions of this act are not to be construed as impliedly repealing Code § 1374. Lambe v. McCormick, 116-169.

What property: Before the county treasurer may act with reference to the enforcement of taxes for property wrongfully withheld from assessment, it must appear that the property withheld was subject to taxation in the county. Layman v. Iowa Telephone Co., 123-591.

Where a savings bank has been in fact assessed, the treasurer has no authority to make an additional assessment for the difference between the value of the stock as assessed and its real value. The statutory provision for assessment of omitted property by the assessor has no application to those cases where property, the subject of taxation, has been in fact entered on the assessment books and has not been withheld, overlooked, or for any other cause, not listed. German Sav. Bank v. Trowbridge, 124-514.

It is no defense to a proceeding to collect taxes on property omitted from taxation in the proper taxing district that it has been in fact taxed for the year in question in another county, but if it has been taxed in the same county, though in another district than that in which it should have been taxed, the county is estopped by receiving the tax actually imposed from insisting on further taxation. Snakenberger v. Stein, 126-650.

If the item of property charged to have been omitted has in fact been listed and the value fixed thereon by the proper officers, no recovery of taxes thereof can be had. Security Savings Bank v. Carroll, 128-230.

An assessment by the treasurer cannot be sustained except upon proof of the ownership of taxable property, and that it was withheld from taxation. Gibson v. Clark, 131-325.

Proof of ownership at a subsequent date is not proof of ownership as of the date when it is alleged the property was withheld from taxation. Ibid.

Where the assessor has made an assessment without fraud on his part, or concealment on the part of the property owner, and no steps have been taken to review such assessment in the manner provided by statute through the board of equalization, it becomes a finality, and the property thus assessed cannot be reassessed as omitted property for the same year, though the valuation by the assessor through mistake of law is inadequate. People's Savings Bank v. Layman, 134 Fed. 635.

Contracts: Prior to the enactment of this chapter the board of supervisors could make a valid agreement for services rendered or to be rendered in the discovery of omitted property, for a reasonable compensation. Reed v. Cunningham, 121-555.

Further as to contracts, see § 1374 and notes to that section in supplement.

While the board of supervisors may contract with an attorney to prosecute action against the owners of property omitted from assessment, it cannot contract with an attorney to render services in collecting such taxes for a percentage of the amount collected in addition to the amount which the county may pay under the provisions of this section. Heath v. Albright, 123-569.

Any amount paid to an attorney under such illegal contract may be recovered back. Ibid.

Notice: The treasurer must give notice to the owner of the proceeding by him to enforce payment of taxes on property omitted from assessment. Thornburg v. Cardell, 123-313.

Notice by the treasurer to the taxpayer to appear and show cause why he should not be assessed for omitted property is neither an assessment of such property nor a demand for payment of the taxes such as to render a subsequent voluntary payment of the taxes in pursuance of such notice and claim recoverable as having been illegally exacted. Kehe v. Blackhawk County, 125-549.

The agent of the county, sending out a notice as to the assessment by the treasurer of omitted property, is not liable in damages as for libel, although the property owner has not in fact been guilty of any fraud or perjury. O'Connell v. Shontz, 126-709.

Listing: A notice by the treasurer to the taxpayer is not an assessment of taxes against him on property claimed to have been omitted from taxation. Kehe v. Blackhawk County, 125-549.

Nor is the demand made by the treasurer for payment of taxes on omitted property such an assessment as is contemplated. Judy v. National State Bank, 133-252.

The county treasurer need not list omitted property for taxation on the day specified in the notice to the taxpayer, but may do so within a reasonable time thereafter. (Snakenberg v. Stein, 126-650.

The listing of the property and assessment of the tax by the treasurer is not a judgment, nor does it in any way affect the bar of the statute as to actions for the collection of taxes upon omitted property. It is simply a condition precedent to the right of action. Shearer v. Citizens' Bank, 129-564.

Where the person in possession of the personal property of a non-resident is notified to appear and show cause why the property in his possession should not be assessed, and he appears and denies that he has in possession or under his control as agent the property in question, the treasurer may assess the property to him as agent without specifying the name of the principal. Security Savings Bank v. Carroll, 131-805.

Procedure in assessment: The determination by the county treasurer that property has been omitted, and ascertain-ment of the amount of tax due thereon, is a substitute for the assessment required by general provisions of the statute, and the treasurer should make the fact of such determination appear of record in his office. But the entry may be made by another under his direction. In re Estate of Morgan, 125-247.

Appeal: No formal pleadings are necessary before the treasurer on objection to the assessment of omitted property nor on the appeal to the district court from such assessment, and the general allegation that items of moneys and credits scheduled and proposed to be listed and assessed are not items for which the complaining party is liable to assessment for the years specified is sufficient. Upon appeal the appealing party is entitled to have determined every question which the treasurer was called upon to determine with reference to liability of complainant to assessment on moneys and credits for years specified. Schoonover v. Peticina, 128-261.

The requirement for notice implies the right of the property owner to appear and make known his objections, and the duty of the treasurer to consider and pass upon the same. But it was not intended that the procedure be invested with all the formalities which pertain to an action in court. Gibson v. Cooley, 129-529.

On the appeal, however, the district court is called upon to determine only such objections as have been in some manner raised before the treasurer. Ibid.

The burden of proof is upon the person seeking to reverse or set aside the treasurer's assessment. Ibid.

The treasurer cannot appeal from his own action in refusing to make an assessment on omitted property on the application of persons acting under contract with the county to discover omitted property. In re Assessment of Farmers' L. & T. Co., 129-591.

Other remedy: An attempt at assessment by the treasurer of property not subject to assessment in the county is void and the owner is not required to resort to an appeal from the assessment, but may attack it collaterally. Layman v. Iowa Telephone Co., 123-591.

The threatened action of the treasurer in proceeding to assess omitted property is not to be enjoined before he has proceeded to act. The findings of the treasurer are not conclusive, but any error therein may be corrected on appeal. Security Savings Bank v. Carroll, 128-230.

SEC. 1407-b. Compensation. The total charges, fees, and expenses authorized under section one (1) of this act shall not exceed fifteen per cent. of the taxes paid into the county treasury. [28 G. A., ch. 50, § 2.]

SEC. 1407-c. Bond—approval. The person employed under the provisions of section one hereof shall give a bond in the penal sum of not less than three thousand dollars, with sureties to be approved by the board of supervisors, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract and observance of the provisions of law applicable to such employment. [28 G. A., ch. 50, § 3.]

SEC. 1407-d. Disposition of taxes recovered. After the deduction of the compensation hereinbefore provided for, the taxes recovered under this act shall be distributed among the several funds for that year in the same proportion as other taxes. [28 G. A., ch. 50, § 4.]

SEC. 1407-e. Existing contracts. All contracts heretofore made for the purpose specified in section one of this act are hereby declared to be valid and binding; in case the parties interested therein shall, within thirty days from the taking effect of this act, consent in writing to accept the said fifteen per cent. in lieu of all compensation, expenses, and other charges whatsoever provided for in said contracts, and give the bond above required. Unless such consent and bond are given, said contracts are hereby declared null and void. [28 G. A., ch. 50, § 5.]

SEC. 1409. Taxes certified to another county.

It is only when a taxpayer has removed from the county, leaving no property therein out of which the taxes can be made, that certification of his taxes to another county is authorized. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. v. Chapin, 118-411.

SEC. 1417. Refunding erroneous tax.

This section has reference to the county officers, and not to the recovery against a city of taxes collected by a county officer on certification from the city. Hawkeye L. & B. Co. v. Marion, 110-468.

Taxes voluntarily paid under a mistake of law cannot be recovered back. Ahlers v. Estherville, 130-272.

The taxpayer who voluntarily appears and without protest pays taxes on property which he is charged with having omitted or concealed in returning his property for taxation, cannot recover back the taxes thus paid on proof that he was not properly chargeable with reference thereto. Kehe v. Blackhawk County, 125-549.

After payment of taxes a portion of which are due and collectible, the taxpayer cannot maintain an action to recover back another portion erroneously assessed. Kehe v. Blackhawk County, 125-549.

One who, being a purchaser of goods, in order to prevent their seizure for alleged taxes, pays such taxes assessed to the seller, which are invalid, cannot recover the same from the seller. Warfield-P.-H. Co. v. Averill Groc. Co., 119-75.

The right of action for taxes subsequently paid by a tax purchaser on property as to which it is found that the sale is invalid is barred in five years from the time of payment of such taxes, and is not extended by the provisions of Code § 5448, with reference to an action based on fraud or mistake. Lonsdale v. Carroll County, 105-452.

The right to demand repayment of taxes illegally exacted arises at once, and the statute of limitations runs from the time of payment. The party making such payment cannot insist that the running of the statute be postponed until the legal character of the tax has been judicially determined. Sioux City & St. P. R. Co. v. O'Brien County, 118-582.

SEC. 1418. Tax sale—when and how made.

Irregularity, such as over assessment, will not render a tax void, nor authorize the interposition of a court of equity to restrain its enforcement. Collins v. Keokuk, 118-38.

SEC. 1419. Notice. Notice of the time and place of such sale shall be given by the treasurer, and shall contain a description of each separate tract to be sold as taken from the tax list, the amount of taxes for which it is liable delinquent for each year, and the amount of penalty, interest and costs thereon, the name of the owner, if known, or the person, if any, to whom it is taxed, by publication in some newspaper in the county, once each week, for three consecutive weeks, the last of which shall be at least one week before the day of sale, and by immediately posting a copy of the first publication thereof at the door of the court house, if there be one, if not, at the door of the place where the last term of district court was held. The compensation for such publication shall not exceed twenty cents for each description, and shall be paid by the county. The amount paid therefor shall be collected as a part of the costs of sale and paid into the county treasury. If the treasurer cannot procure the publication of the notice for the sum herein fixed, then the notice may be given by posting the same in four of the most public places in the county, to be selected by him, for four weeks, and filing a copy thereof with the auditor before the day of sale, with his verified statement thereon that it had been posted as and for the time therein required, and that he could not obtain a publication thereof at the legal rate. [20 G. A., ch. 194, § 3; C., '73, §§ 872-4, 3833; R., § 764; C., '51, § 498.]

The provision for posting notices of a tax sale “on the door of the county court house” held to be satisfied by a posting thereof on a bulletin board provided for such purposes at the courthouse door. Hoskins v. Iowa Land Co., 121-299.

SEC. 1421. Advertisement.

The term “advertisement” here used is meant to include both publication and posting, and irregularity in the posting will not affect the validity of the sale. Davis v. Magoun, 109-308.

The provision that no irregularity in firmity in the advertisement shall affect the legality of the sale is applicable to any irregularity as to the place or manner or posting the notice at the courthouse door. Hoskins v. Iowa Land Co., 121-299.

SEC. 1422. Offer for sale.

The sale of two lots in a lump is void. Hintrager v. McElhinney, 112-325.

SEC. 1423. Bid—purchaser.

It is of the highest importance to the owners that the bidders know from the description what is being offered for sale. In a particular case held that a description was not sufficient which described the property as eighteen acres “part of section,” etc., with no specification as to the exact boundaries or designation by which the particular part of the section could be identified. Armour v. Officer, 116-675.

SEC. 1425. Sale of property remaining unsold.

Under the provisions of this section, land which is subject to a lien for taxes and remains unsold for want of bidders, the treasurer may sell such land for a portion of the tax, but redemption from such sale can only be made by the payment of the full amount of the tax which is a lien on such property. (See Code § 1437.) Everson v. Woodbury County, 118-99.

The purchaser at a tax sale for taxes including special assessment for street improvements certified to the county auditor by the officers of the city, acquires title free from the lien of any installments of special assessments not certified or which have not been brought forward so as to continue to be a lien on the property. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City, 125-396.

The intention is that payment for each parcel or portion sold shall be made immediately upon the completion of the sale, and held that a third person paying the amount bid by the purchaser could not recover from the purchaser the amount of his bid. Sheldon v. Steele, 114-616.

It will not render the sale illegal that the treasurer allows the bidder to postpone payment of the bid until after the conclusion of the sale. Farmers’ L. & T. Co. v. Wall, 129-651.

SEC. 1432. Certificate of purchase. The treasurer shall prepare, sign, and deliver to the purchaser of any real estate sold for the non-payment of taxes a certificate of purchase, describing it as shown in the record of sales, giving the part of each tract or lot sold, the amount of each kind of tax, interest and costs for each tract or lot as described in such record, and that payment has been made therefor. If any person is the purchaser of more than one parcel, he may have the whole included in one certificate, but each parcel shall be separately described. And in case of loss of said certificate of purchase, the owner thereof, as appears on record, may, by filing an affidavit of such loss or destruction with the county treasurer, receive a duplicate thereof, which shall take the place of the original certificate and have the same force and effect in law and be subject to the same rules and regulations. [C., '73, § 887; R., § 777; C., '51, § 503.] [32 G. A., ch. 61, § 1.]

The certificates are intended to be delivered when the sale is completed, and if the money bid is not then paid, a new sale should be made, under the provisions of Code § 1426. Sheldon v. Steele, 114-616.

SEC. 1433. Repeal—assignment. Section one thousand four hundred thirty-three (1433) of the code is hereby repealed and the following is enacted in lieu thereof:

"The certificate of purchase shall be assignable by endorsement and entry in the register of tax sales in the office of county treasurer of the county from which said certificate issued, and when such assignment is so entered in the register of tax sales in the treasurer's office, it shall vest, in the assignee or his legal representatives, all the right and title of the assignor. The statement in the treasurer's deed of the fact of the assignment shall be presumptive evidence thereof." [32 G. A., ch. 61, § 2.]

No notation of the assignment of the certificate is necessary provided the person to whom the deed is made is in fact the holder of the certificate. McCash v. Penrod, 101-631.

The statutory presumption is that the grantee in the deed bought the land at the sale or succeeded to the rights of the bidder. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Wall, 129-651.

SEC. 1436. Redemption—how effected. Real estate sold under the provisions of this chapter may be redeemed at any time before the right of redemption is cut off, by the payment to the auditor, to be held by him subject to the order of the purchaser, of the amount for which the same was sold and eight per cent. of such amount added as a penalty, with eight per cent. interest per annum on the whole amount thus made from the day of sale, and the amount of all taxes, interest and costs paid by the purchaser or his assignee for any subsequent year or years, with a similar penalty added as before on the amount of the payment for each subsequent year, and eight per cent. per annum on the whole of such amount or amounts from the day or days of payment; but the penalty for non-payment of taxes of any subsequent year or years shall not attach, unless the same shall have remained unpaid until the first day of April after they become due and have become delinquent, nor shall said penalties apply to taxes voted in aid of the construction of any railroad. In redeeming from a sale of a leasehold interest in agricultural college land, the amount to be paid shall include any amount paid by the holder of the certificate as interest or principal due by the terms of the lease or otherwise to prevent a forfeiture thereof, as provided by law, and for which proper voucher shall have been filed with the auditor, with interest thereon at eight per cent. per annum from date of payment, which amount shall be paid by the auditor to the holder of the certificate, and the certificate of redemption shall show the amount so paid by the party redeeming. [19 G. A., ch. 45; C., '73, § 890; R., § 779; C., '51, § 505.] [27 G. A., ch. 35, § 1.]

The term owner as used in determining who may redeem from a tax sale is construed to include mortgagees, judgment creditors, and holders of contingent interests; and a lien holder thus having a right to redeem cannot by a purchase or taking an assignment of a certificate of purchase acquire title as against a senior lien holder. Lane v. Wright, 121-376.

A judgment creditor may redeem from tax sale the land on which his judgment is a lien. Swan v. Harvey, 117-58.
A mortgagee has the right to redeem the mortgaged property from tax sale. Busch v. Hall, 119-279.

Where one of several lien holders upon land sold at tax sale takes an assignment of the certificate of purchase, he is to be treated as having redeemed from such sale for the benefit of all the lien holders. Equity will not permit one lien holder to absorb the common security by purchase at a tax sale. Lane v. Wright, 121-376.

Where a person, entitled by decree to redeem from tax sale, deposited the money with the clerk, and moved to compel a conveyance, and was unsuccessful, and thereupon withdrew his money, and the tax title claimant by himself and grantee remained in possession for fifteen years, held that the right to redeem was thereby abandoned. Cooper v. Cook, 168-301.

The issuing of a deed before the expiration of the statutory period cannot affect the owner's rights, nor entitle him to redeem in equity from the tax sale, where he had not attempted to make statutory redemption within the time allowed him for doing so. It is not the execution or non-execution of the deed which fixes the time within which redemption must be made, but the completed service according to law, and the filing of the notice of the expiration of the right to redeem. Wood v. Coad, 120-111.

One who has voluntarily paid a tax, although under protest, cannot recover the amount thereof from one who has redeemed the property from tax sale. Anderson v. Cameron, 122-183.

One who by reason of his interest in the property is under obligation to pay the taxes cannot acquire title thereto by tax deed, nor take an assignment of the certificate of sale. Such a transaction amounts to a redemption. Blumenthal v. Culver, 116-326.

SEC. 1437. Redemption from sale for part of tax.

Terms of redemption: When land has been sold as provided in Code § 1425, for a portion only of the tax which is a lien thereof, the owner in making redemption must pay the full amount of the taxes legally due. Everson v. Woodbury County, 118-99.

SEC. 1439. Minors and lunatics.

Under this section, providing that real property of any minor or lunatic sold at tax sale may be redeemed within one year after disability is removed in the manner provided by Code § 1440, that is, by equitable action, held that the action by the heirs of an insane person whose real estate had been sold for taxes before his death, and who continued insane from the time of such sale until his death, might be commenced within one year after the death of such insane person, but that the commencement of the action was to be determined by the actual service of notice, as provided by Code § 3514, and not by the placing of the notice in the hands of the sheriff, with intent that it be immediately served, as provided by Code § 3450, relating to the sufficiency of the commencement of action for the purpose of avoiding the general bar of the statute of limitations. The one year provision in the section of the Code relating to redemption is not a limitation upon the action, but a condition of the exercise of the right. Hawley v. Griffin, 121-667.

Evidence in a particular case held sufficient to show that one whose lands had been sold for taxes was at the time insane, and that his heirs were therefore entitled to redeem the lands from such tax sale. Ibid.

SEC. 1440. Equitable action.

In general: Where proper notice of expiration of period for redemption has not been served, the property owner may have relief under this section, although the deed has in fact been issued. Hintrager v. McWhinney, 112-325; Swan v. Harvey, 117-58.

The action is deemed commenced when the notice is placed in the hands of the sheriff for service, the same rule being applicable as under the general statute of limitations. (See Code § 3450.) Smith v. Callanan, 103-218.

Ordinarily the owner whose land has been sold for taxes must make redemption within three years from the date of sale, and cannot insist on that right after the period has expired, even though no deed has been issued. Bitter v. Becks, 120-66.

But where, by reason of mistake of law, the owner supposed that he was entitled to redeem his homestead from tax sale on payment of the taxes on the homestead alone, although it had been sold for the entire taxes due by him on his property, and he had commenced an equitable action to secure such redemption, offering to pay the amount of taxes which should be found to be due on his homestead, held that he might be allowed, by order of court, to make redemption after the expiration of the statutory period, although the court found that such redemption could be made only on payment of the entire amount of taxes for which the property had been sold. Ibid. One who seeks to make equitable redemption must show that he was the owner of or had an interest in the property. Petersborough Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Sav. Bank, 110-519.

Where right to redeem from a tax deed has been decreed the time within which redemption may be made is a mere incident to the enforcement of the decree, and though the district court loses jurisdiction on appeal from such decree, it still has authority to extend the period of redemption. Swan v. Harvey, 123-192.

One who seeks to redeem in an equitable action on the ground that no proper notice of the expiration of the period of redemption has been given is not required to show payment of taxes. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Pond, 128-600.

Under the provision that when the real estate of a minor or lunatic is sold for taxes the same may be redeemed at any time within one year after removal of the disability in an action in equity brought for that purpose, the right to relief is a right granted to be exercised by bringing action within one year from the removal of the disability, and the action must be in fact commenced within the period prescribed. It is not enough that notice of such action be placed in the hands of the sheriff for service as provided by Code § 3450, which prescribes what shall be deemed the commencement of an action with reference to the general statute of limitations. Haxley v. Griffin, 121-667.

Amount to be paid: In an equitable action by a minor to redeem from a tax deed, if there is no showing as to the amount of taxes paid or of any other of the material items necessary to a computation of the sum to which the defendant is entitled, the case will be remanded to the trial court in order that these matters may be shown. Bemis v. Plato, 119-127.

In an action to redeem from the deed on the ground that the redemption notice was defective, the plaintiff should be required to pay the amount paid by the purchaser with penalty and interest on the total amount at 8 per cent. and may be allowed a reasonable time within which to make such payment. Bancroft v. Mann, 125-530.

Rents and profits: Where a property owner was found entitled to redeem in equity, held that the defendant should be charged with the rents received, and with interest on the amount received each year, and credited with the amount paid at the tax sale with interest and penalty, and with the amounts paid for subsequent taxes with interest, and also for amounts paid for repairs and care of the property with interest. Hinrager v. McElrinn, 112-325.

Where it appears that the rents and profits received by the person in possession are at least equal to the amount which should be paid in making redemption, a decree may be entered without compelling plaintiff to pay anything, and in a particular case held that as the case must be reversed it would be remanded with permission to the person in possession to present his claim for improvements to the lower court for allowance. Hall v. Cardell, 111-206.

Who may acquire title: Where the agent for the owner of land is not chargeable with the payment of taxes, he may, after his discharge as agent, acquire title to such land from one who has secured a tax title thereon. Bemis v. Plato, 119-127.

A person having such interest in land as entitles him to redeem from a tax sale cannot by taking a tax title eliminate the rights of others jointly interested with him in the property, as persons thus jointly interested may in equity redeem from a tax title thus acquired. First Congregational Church v. Terry, 130-513.

One who is under obligation to pay taxes upon the property or who has money of another in his possession for the purpose of paying such taxes cannot acquire a tax title as against other interested parties. Young v. Iowa Toilers' Protective Association, 106-447.

A mortgagee has the right to pay taxes and cannot by purchase at a tax sale defeat a senior mortgage nor acquire title against mortgagor. Cone v. Wood, 108-260.

A mortgagee alleging that a tax deed was fraudulently obtained through a transaction which amounted to a payment of the taxes by those under obligation to discharge the tax lien, may have the title acquired under such tax sale declared invalid as against him. Busch v. Hall, 119-279.

Concurrent owners: A tenant in common cannot acquire a valid tax title to property owned in common as against his co-tenant. Funson v. Bradt, 105-471.

A tenant in common cannot allow the property to go to tax sale and cut off his interest of his co-tenant by taking a tax...
deed, as between him and his co-tenant such acquisition of title constitutes a re-

A life tenant is charged with the duty of paying taxes on the property, and can not by collusively permitting the same to be sold and thereby acquiring a tax title either in his own name or in the name of another, cut off the rights of the re-titled to have a redemption in equity. First Congregational Church v. Terry, 130-513.

SEC. 1441. Notice of expiration of right of redemption. After two years and nine months from the date of sale, the holder of the certificate of purchase may cause to be served upon the person in possession of such real estate, and also upon the person in whose name the same is taxed, if such person resides in the county where the land is situated, in the manner provided for the service of original notices, a notice signed by him, his agent or attorney, stating the date of sale, the description of the property sold, the name of the purchaser, and that the right of redemption will expire and a deed for the land be made unless redemption is made within ninety days from the completed service thereof. Service may be made upon nonresidents of the county by publishing the same, once each week, for three consecutive weeks in some newspaper of said county, or by personal service thereof elsewhere in the same manner original notices may be served; but any such nonresident may in writing appoint a resident of the county in which said land is situated an agent, and file said appointment with the treasurer of said county, who shall forthwith record the same in a record kept in his office therefor, and index the same, after which personal service of said notice shall be made upon said agent. Service shall be complete only after an affidavit has been filed with the treasurer, showing the making of the service, the manner thereof, the time when and place where made, and under whose direction the same was made; such affidavit to be made by the holder of the certificate or by his agent or attorney, and in either of the latter cases stating that such affiant is the agent or attorney, as the case may be, of the holder of such certificate; which affidavit shall be filed by the treasurer and entered upon the sale book opposite the entry of the sale, and said record or affidavit shall be presumptive evidence of the completed service of said notice, and the right of redemption shall not expire until ninety days after service is complete. Any person knowingly and willfully swearing falsely to any fact or statement contained in said affidavit shall be guilty of perjury. The cost of serving the notice and affidavit of publication shall be added to the amount necessary to redeem. The fee for serving the notice shall be the same as for service of an original notice, including copy fee and mileage. The treasurer shall, upon the filing of proof of service and statement of costs, forthwith report the same in writing to the auditor, who shall enter it in the sale book against the proper tract of real estate. The holder of the certificate of sale or his agent may report in writing to the county auditor the amount of costs incurred in giving such notice, and the auditor shall enter the same in the sale book as aforesaid, and no redemption shall be complete until such costs are paid. [25 G. A., ch. 81; C., '73, § 894; R., § 781.] [30 G. A., ch. 2, § 8.]

Notice necessary: The title holder is entitled to have a tax deed set aside which had been issued without notice of the ex-

The provision as to notice to the owner is not applicable where the person owning the property at the time of the tax sale is deceased. In such case service of notice is to be made as though the property had been assessed and taxed to an unknown owner. Ibid.

The requirement for notice is limited to the person in possession of the premises, in whose name the property is assessed, or taxed, and proof of service upon the real owner is not sufficient. Ibid.

Unless the right of redemption be terminated by proper notice the issuance of a treasurer's deed is no obstacle to the exercise of the right, but it must be asserted by an action as provided in the preceding section. Swan v. Harvey, 117-58.

The authority of the treasurer to issue the deed is dependent on the service of redemption notice upon the person to whom the land is taxed and the person in possession, and in the absence of such notice the deed is void and the statutory limitation does not run in his favor. Ibid.

A notice of expiration of the time for redemption directed to a railway by the initials of its name, such railway being in possession of the property, held, not to be sufficient in the absence of evidence showing that the railway was commonly known and customarily referred to by such abbreviation. Ibid.

By publication: Where the land was taxed to M. K. G., and there was no such person in the county at the time for serving notice of expiration of the period of redemption, service by publication was held sufficient, although the premises were in the possession of K. G., who was a resident of the county. Hawkeye v. Loan & Brokerage Co. v. Gordon, 113-561.

Notice by publication to an owner who is a non-resident is sufficient where no one is in actual possession of the land at the time notice is given. McCash v. Penrod, 131-631.

The fact that the person in whose name the notice was given was stated as "Karney," an affidavit as to publication was in the name of "Carney," held not to be a fatal defect, it appearing that the names referred to the same person. Ibid.

By whom given: Notice of the expiration of the redemption period may properly be given by the lawful holder of the certificate without regard to who is the beneficial owner. Nugent v. Cook, 125-381.

Where it appears that the person to whom the property is taxed is dead, the proceedings are to be the same as though the owner was "unknown" and no notice is necessary. It is not necessary that the notice be given to the heirs or legal representatives of such person. Ibid.

SEC. 1442. Deed executed.

Where the description does not furnish the means for determining the boundary line of the tract covered, the deed is not valid. Tucker v. Carlson, 113-449.

The description must contain in itself sufficient facts when applied to identify the particular tract intended to be conveyed. Armour v. Officer, 116-675.

A deed issued to one who is in fact the owner of the certificate is valid, although such owner holds by assignment not recorded. McCash v. Penrod, 131-681.
SEC. 1444. Effect of deed—vests title.

What vests in purchaser: There is no privity between the holder of the fee and one who claims a tax title upon the land. The latter title is not derived from, but is antagonistic to the former. The holder of the tax title is not a privy in estate with the holder of the fee. Neither owes any duty to the other, nor is estopped from making any claim against the other. Pusey v. Durham, 165 U. S., 144.

A tax title is not derivative, but a new title in the nature of an independent grant from the sovereign, and the one who claims a tax title upon the land. The latter title is not derived from, but is antagonistic to the former. The holder of the tax title is not a privy in estate with the holder of the fee. The fact that a deed is issued is prima facie evidence of the giving of notice of expiration of the period of redemption. Young v. Iowa Toilers' Protective Association, 106-547.

A tax deed is at least prima facie evidence of the fact that the grantee named therein was the purchaser at the sale, or one who succeeded to his rights. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Wall, 129-651.

The holder of a tax deed regular upon its fact, makes out a prima facie case in an action to quiet title and the burden is upon the defendant to establish its invalidity. Even if the invalidity of the deed is shown, it may be sufficient basis for establishing title by adverse possession. McCash v. Penrod, 131-651.

SEC. 1445. Who may question.

One who attacks a tax deed does not make sufficient showing of title by the introduction of the record of foreclosure proceedings and the acquisition of title by him under such proceedings. The title required to be shown is such an one as that the party claiming thereunder might, if plaintiff, recover thereon. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City, 129-598.

Whether or not the plaintiff in an action attacking a tax deed must show that a subsequent sale of the land for taxes has been redeemed from, when the land was purchased at such sale by a stranger, quære. Ibid.

Where the landowner seeks by equitable action to redeem under the provisions of § 1440, he is not required to show title or any payment of taxes as required by this section. A judgment creditor entitled to redeem may maintain such action. Swan v. Harvey, 117-58; Roth v. Munzenmaier, 118-526; Busch v. Hall, 119-279.

The provisions of this section entitle the purchaser to recover only where the mistake or error is that of the treasurer, and not where it is due to the auditor, although the land may by reason of such mistake of the auditor not be subject to sale. Lonsdale v. Carroll County, 105-452.
the county treasurer collects certified by a city, this section does not authorize recovery from the city of the taxes improperly claimed and paid. To warrant an action against the city to recover back money on the ground of illegality of taxes or assessments collected by it, it must appear that the city had no authority to collect the tax, that the money sued for has been actually received by the city, and that the payment by the plaintiff was upon compulsion to prevent the immediate enforcement of the tax against his property. Hawkeye L. & B. Co. v. Marion, 110-468.

The wrongful act or mistake of the treasurer which will subject the county to an action for the recovery of taxes under this section is one which the person seeking recovery had no agency in bringing about. And where the bondsmen of one selling intoxicating liquor under the mulct law bought in the real property used for that purpose at a tax sale for the mulct tax, for which his bondsmen were liable, the sale being made at his request, held that he could not recover from the county the amount paid by him at such tax sale, which was afterwards set aside. Guedert v. Emmet County, 116-49.

Evidence in a particular case, showing but little competition at a tax sale, although quite a number of bidders were present, held not sufficient to prove fraud on the part of the purchaser. Gallacher v. Head, 108-588.

SEC. 1448. Limitation of actions.

The statute begins to run from the time the purchaser is entitled to a deed, but if the holder of the fee title makes a surrender to the holder of the tax title, by payment or rent before the five-year limit has expired, this will constitute such surrender of possession as to stop the running of the statute. Gallacher v. Head, 108-588.

The statute of limitations against the tax deed does not begin to run when the deed is issued without redemption notice being served on the person in whose name the land is taxed, and the same rule applies where the deed is invalid by reason of the failure to notify the person in possession. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Kelley, 105-106.

The five-years' limitation is only available to one who was the owner of the title at the time of the sale, and if such owner, attacking the tax deed, introduces no evidence of title whatever, he cannot recover. Gill v. Candler, 114-332.

The statute begins to run at the time when the tax sale purchaser might have obtained his deed, that is, three years from the date of sale. If no action is brought by such purchaser within five years thereafter, the tax title is extinguished. Roth v. Munzenmaier, 118-326.

As against an action to defeat a tax title in the hands of the agent of the owner of the property, the five year limitation is applicable. Bemis v. Plato, 119-127.

The provisions of this section limiting the action attacking a tax title to five years after the tax deed is executed and recorded, constitute a condition as to the right to maintain such action, and therefore the question whether the action is commenced in proper time is not to be determined by Code § 3450, which provides that with reference to the general statute of limitations an action is to be deemed commenced when the notice is placed in the hands of the sheriff for service, but by the provisions of Code § 3514, declaring that an action is commenced by service on the defendant. Hawley v. Griffen, 121-667.

Possession of land by the owner in order to bar an action under a tax title, need not be such as is required to make it adverse, hostile and exclusive, under the general statute of limitations. It is sufficient if it is such as would entitle the tax title owner to an action against the fee owner. Clark v. Sexton, 122-310.

If the tax deed is simply irregular, and not void, the tax title holder relying thereon in an action to quiet title is not subject to have his title attacked after five years. McCash v. Penrod, 131-631.

SEC. 1452-a. Actions authorized. In addition to all other remedies and proceedings now provided by law for the collection of taxes on personal property, the county treasurer is hereby authorized to bring or cause an ordinary suit at law to be commenced and prosecuted in his name for the use and benefit of the county for the collection of taxes from any person, persons, firm or corporation as shown by the tax list in his office, and the same shall be in all respects commenced, tried and prosecuted to final judgment the same as provided by the code for ordinary actions. [32 G. A., ch. 92, § 1.]

SEC. 1452-b. Statutes applicable—writ of attachment—damages. All the provisions of chapters one (1) and two (2) of title nineteen (19) of the code and acts amendatory thereto, are hereby made applicable to any proceedings instituted by a county treasurer under the provisions of section one (1) hereof, and a writ of attachment shall be issued upon the county treasurer complying with the provisions of said chapter, for taxes, whether due or not due, except that no bond shall be required from the treasurer or county in such cases, but the county shall be liable for damages, only, as provided by section thirty-eight hundred eighty-seven (3887) of the code.
[32 G. A., ch. 62, § 2.]

CHAPTER 3.
OF THE SECURITY OF THE REVENUE.

SECTION 1457.  Loaning or depositing public funds.  A county treasurer shall be liable to a like fine for loaning out, or in any manner using for private purposes, state, county or other funds in his hands, except that, when permitted by the board of supervisors by resolution entered of record, he may deposit such funds in any bank or banks in the state, to any amount fixed by such resolution; and the county may receive such rate of interest on the money so deposited as may be agreed upon by the treasurer, board of supervisors, and the bank; but before such deposit is made such bank shall file a bond with sureties, to be approved by the treasurer and the board of supervisors, in double the maximum amount permitted to be deposited, con­ tioned to hold the treasurer harmless from all loss by reason of such deposit or deposits.  Said bond shall be filed with the county auditor, and action may be brought thereon either by the treasurer or the county, as the board of supervisors may elect.  And the state treasurer shall be liable to a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars for a like misdemeanor.  But nothing done under the provisions of this section shall alter or affect the liability of the treasurer or the sureties of his official bonds.  [17 G. A., ch.
155;  C., '73, § 912; R., § 797.  ]  [27 G. A., ch. 36, § 1.]

The treasurer has no authority to collect taxes through a bank, and is primarily liable for loss of taxes thus collected by failure of the bank.  Under such circumstances, the bank holds the taxes thus collected as a trust fund for the county.
Page County v. Rose, 130-296.

SEC. 1460.  Repeal—statement of account.  That section fourteen hundred and sixty (1460) of the code, relating to the statement by the auditor of state of the county treasurer's account with the treasurer of state, be and the same is hereby repealed.  [32 G. A., ch. 63.]

SEC. 1461.  Settlement with county treasurer.

When a county treasurer is indicted upon the charge of receiving public money and failing to account therefor under the last provision found in Code § 4840, it must be alleged and proved that demand was made upon him by the person or officer entitled to receive the funds so de­

Where the balance in the hands of an outgoing county treasurer has been ascertained on the final settlement with the board of supervisors, his successor in office becomes the person entitled to receive the balance on hand, and is the only person who can make demand therefor, refusal of which will charge the outgoing officer with criminal liability for failure to account.

CHAPTER 4.
OF ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF COLLATERAL INHERITANCE TAX.

SECTION 1467.  Rate.  All property within the jurisdiction of this state, and any interest therein, whether belonging to the inhabitants of this state or not, and whether tangible or intangible, which shall pass by will or by the statutes of inheritance of this or any other state, or by deed, grant, sale or gift made or intended to take effect in possession or in enjoyment after the death of the grantor or donor, to any person in trust or otherwise, other than to or for the use of the father, mother, husband, wife, lineal descendant, adopted child, the lineal descendant of an adopted child of a decedent, step-child, or the lineal descendant of a step-child of a decedent, or to or for charitable, educational or religious societies or institutions, including hospitals, public libraries and public art galleries kept open to the free use of the public not less than three days of each week; within this state, shall be subject to a tax of five per centum of its value, above the sum of one thousand dollars, after the payment of all debts, for the use of the state; and all administrators, executors and trustees, and any such grantee under a conveyance, and any such donee under a gift, made during the grantor's or donor's life, shall be respectively liable for all such taxes to be paid by them, respectively, except as herein otherwise provided, with lawful interest as hereinafter set forth, until the same shall have been paid. The tax aforesaid shall be and remain a lien on such estate from the death of the decedent until paid. Whenever property, or any interest therein, shall pass to heirs, devisees, or other beneficiaries, as contemplated in the foregoing provisions, who are aliens, non-residents of the United States, the same shall be subject to a tax of twenty per centum (20%) of its true value, except where such foreign beneficiaries are brothers or sisters of the decedent owner, when the rate of tax to be assessed and collected therefrom shall be ten per centum (10%) of the value of the property or interest so passing. [26 G. A., ch. 28, § 1.] [30 G. A., ch. 51.]

A tax upon succession with an exemption of one thousand dollars is not unconstitutional. In re McGhee's Est., 105-9. The statute exempts from taxation one thousand dollars of the entire estate and not one thousand dollars of the share coming to each distributee. Ibid.

The valuation of the property is to be made by appraisement and not determined by the regular assessment. Such value is not the price which the property will command in the market. Ibid.

The expression, "within the sum of $1,000," is descriptive of an estate which is to be exempt from taxation, and not of a portion of the estate which is to be exempt. Herriott v. Bacon, 110-342; Gilbertson v. McAuley, 117-522.

The situs of the property, and not the testator's domicile, determines the liability of the property for the inheritance tax, and where a resident of Iowa died possessed of cattle in an adjoining state which passed under his will to collateral heirs, held that such cattle, or the proceeds thereof, were not liable to the tax. In re Weaver's Est., 110-328.

Where a son devised property to his mother, who died before the testator's death leaving as heirs a brother and sister of testator, held that the devised property passed directly from testator to his brother and sister as collateral heirs, and thus became subject to the collateral inheritance tax. In re Huletts Est., 121-423.

Property which passed to collateral heirs on the death of a testator, prior to the passage of the collateral inheritance tax law, is not subject to such a tax. Gilbertson v. Ballard, 125-420.

Choses in action held by a non-resident against residents of the state are not subject to collateral inheritance tax on the death of the former. Gilbertson v. Oliver, 129-568.

An order made in a probate proceeding on application of the state treasurer that the executor file an inventory of real property for the purpose of having a collateral inheritance tax assessed against it, held to be such intermediate order substantially affecting the merits or determining a right that the executor might appeal therefrom. In re Estate of Stone, 132-136.

The devisee of an interest in real property taking collaterally, and therefore subject to an inheritance tax may renounce the devise in favor of the direct heirs, and thus prevent the attaching of the obligation to pay such tax. Ibid.

Property of an estate not distributed prior to the taking effect of 27 G. A., chap. 37, held to be subject to the collateral inheritance tax. Montgomery v. Gilbertson, 111 N. W. 964.

SEC. 1467-a. Debts deducted. The term "debts" in the eleventh line of section fourteen hundred and sixty-seven (1467) of the code shall include, in addition to debts owing by decedent at the time of his death, the local or state taxes due from the estate prior to his death, and a reasonable sum for funeral expenses, court costs, including the costs of appraismemt made for the purpose of assessing the collateral inheritance tax, the statutory fees of executors, administrators, or trustees, and no other sum; but said debts shall not be deducted unless the same are approved and allowed, within fifteen months from the death of decedent, as established claims against the estate, unless otherwise ordered by the judge or court of the proper county. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 1.]

SEC. 1467-b. Property subject to tax. Except as to property passing to the persons, corporations, and societies exempted by section fourteen hundred and sixty-seven (1467) of the code from the collateral inheritance tax, and real property located outside of the state passing in fee from the decedent owner, the tax imposed under chapter four (4) of title seven (7) of the code shall hereafter be assessed against, and be collected from, property of every kind, which, at the death of the decedent owner, is subject to, or thereafter, for the purpose of distribution, is brought into this state and becomes subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this state for distribution purposes, or which was owned by any decedent domiciled within the state at the time of the death of such decedent, even though the property of said decedent so domiciled was situated outside of the state. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 2.]

SEC. 1467-c. Construction. In the construction of this statute, the words "collateral heirs" shall be held to mean all persons who are not excepted from the provisions of the collateral inheritance tax by section fourteen hundred and sixty-seven (1467) of the code, and this act, except section two (2) thereof, shall apply to all pending estates which are not closed, and the property subjected by this act to the said tax is liable to the provisions incorporated in chapter four (4) of title seven (7) of the code, as to the amount and lien thereof, and the manner of enforcement and collection thereof, except as herein specifically provided otherwise. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 12.]

SEC. 1467-d. Foreign estates and deduction of debts. Whenever any property belonging to a foreign estate, which estate, in whole or in part, is liable to pay a collateral inheritance tax in this state, the said tax shall be assessed upon the market value of said property remaining after the payment of such debts and expenses as are chargeable to the property under the laws of this state; in the event that the executor, administrator, or trustee of such foreign estate files with the clerk of the court having ancillary jurisdiction, and with the treasurer of state, duly certified statements exhibiting the true market value of the entire estate of the decedent owner, and the indebtedness for which the said estate has been adjudged liable, which statement shall be duly attested by the judge of the court having original jurisdiction, the beneficiaries of said estate shall then be entitled to have deducted such proportion of the said indebtedness of the decedent from the value of the property as the value of the property within this state bears to the value of the entire estate. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 8.]

SEC. 1467-e. Foreign estates and direct and collateral beneficiaries. Whenever any property, real or personal, within this state belongs to a foreign estate, and said foreign estate passes in part exempt from the collateral inheritance tax, and in part subject to said collateral inheritance tax, and it is within the authority or discretion of the foreign executor, administrator, or trustee administering the estate to dispose of the property, not specifically devised to direct heirs or devisees in the payment of the debts owing by decedent at the time of his death, or in the satisfaction of legacies, devise[e]s, or trusts given to direct and collateral legatees or devisees, or in payment of the distributive shares of any direct and collateral heirs, then the property within the jurisdiction of this state, belonging to such foreign estate, shall be subject to the collateral inheritance tax imposed by chapter four (4) of title seven (7) of the code, and the tax due thereon shall be assessed as provided in the next preceding section of this act, and with the same proviso respecting the deduction of the proportionate share of the indebtedness, as therein provided. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 4.]

The appraisement made of the personal property by the regularly appointed appraisers seems to be made the basis for the limitation of the tax on that kind of property. No notice to the heirs, legatees or devisees is provided for or required, and therefore this section as it originally stood was unconstitutional. The tax is a property tax, and not a tax on succession. But the provision for notice contained in 27 G. A., chap. 37, which is made retroactive, cures the defect as to estates not settled at the time the act was passed and a tax previously levied is rendered valid by said act. Ferry v. Campbell, 110-290.

Where title to the real property belonging to deceased had vested absolutely in heirs prior to the enactment of 27 G. A., chap. 37, heid that the legalizing act did not cure the defect in the law existing at the time inheritance was cast, and therefore did not render the tax valid as against the inheritance by the heirs. Herriott v. Potter, 115-648.

SEC. 1471-a. Valuation of life, term and deferred estates.

The value of any estate and property described in sections fourteen hundred and seventy (1470) and fourteen hundred and seventy-one (1471) of the code subject to the collateral inheritance tax shall be determined for the purpose of computing said tax by the rule or standards of mortality and of value commonly used in actuaries’ combined experience tables. The treasurer of state is directed to obtain and publish for the use of the courts and appraisers throughout the state tables showing the average expectancy of life, and the value of annuities or life and term estates, and the present worth or value of remainders and reversions. The taxable value of life or term, deferred or future, estates shall be computed at the rate of four per cent. interest. Whenever it is desired to remove the lien of the collateral inheritance tax on remainders, reversions, or deferred estates, parties owning the beneficial interest may pay at any time the said tax on the present worth of such interest determined according to the rules herein fixed. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 7.]

In an action for permanent personal injury, mortality tables, published in pursuance of this section, are admissible in evidence. Clark v. Van Vleck, 112 N. W. 648.

SEC. 1475-a. Surplus tax—how and when refunded. That when a court of competent jurisdiction has or may hereafter determine that property, upon which a collateral inheritance tax has been paid, is not subject to or liable for the payment of such tax, so much of such tax which has been overpaid to the treasurer of state, shall be returned or refunded to the executor or administrator of such estate, or to those entitled thereto, when a certified copy of the record of such court showing the fact of non-liability of such property to the payment of such tax has been filed with the executive council of the state, the executive council shall issue an order to the auditor of the state directing him to issue a warrant upon the treasurer of the state to refund such tax. [29 G. A., ch. 63, § 1.]

SEC. 1475-b. Notice of hearing. Such order of court shall not be given until fifteen days’ notice of the application therefor shall be given to the treasurer of state of the time and place of the hearing of such application, which notice shall be served in the same manner as provided for original notices. [29 G. A., ch. 63, § 2.]

SEC. 1476. Method of appraisement—notice—hearing—appeal. All appraisements of real estate subject to such tax shall be made and filed in the manner provided for appraisement of personal property. When such real estate is situated in another county, the same appraisers may serve, or others may be appointed. It shall be the duty of all appraisers appointed under the provisions of this chapter to forthwith give notice to the treasurer of state and other persons known to be interested in the property to be appraised, of the time and place at which they will appraise such property, which time shall not be less than ten days from the date of such notice. The notice shall be served in the same manner as is prescribed for the commencement of civil actions unless a different one is ordered by the court or judge, and the notice, with the proof of service thereof, shall be returned to the court with the appraisement. The treasurer of state, or any person interested in the estate appraised, may file exceptions to the appraisement, on the hearing of which, as an action in equity, either party may produce evidence competent or material to the matters therein involved. If, upon such hearing, the court finds the amount at which the property is appraised is its value on the market in the ordinary course of trade, and the appraisement was fairly and in good faith made, it shall approve such appraisement; but if it finds that the appraisement was made at a greater or less sum than the value of the property in the ordinary course of trade, or that the same was not fairly or in good faith made, it shall set aside the appraisement, appoint new appraisers and so proceed until a fair and good appraisement of the property is made at its value in the market in the ordinary course of trade. The treasurer of state, or any one interested in the property appraised may appeal to the supreme court from the order of the district court approving or setting aside any appraisement to which exceptions have been filed. Notice of appeal shall be served within thirty days from the date of the order appealed from, and the appeal shall be perfected in the time now provided for appeals in equitable actions. In case of appeal the appellant, if he is not the treasurer of state, shall give bond to be approved by the clerk of the court, to pay the tax, which bond shall provide that the said appellant and sureties shall pay the tax for which the property may be liable, with costs of the appeal. [28 G. A., ch. 28, § 10.] [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 1.]

SEC. 1476-a. Appraisements and relief therefrom. All estates, subject in whole or in part to the tax imposed upon collateral inheritances, shall be appraised for the purpose of computing said tax by the regular collateral inheritance tax appraisers, under the rules and regulations authorized to be made by section six (6) of chapter thirty-seven (37) of the laws of the twenty-seventh general assembly governing the district courts in the assessment of said tax; provided, that estates in some part liable for the payment of the inheritance tax need not be entirely appraised by the collateral inheritance appraisers where an appraisement of such part will be sufficient to determine the tax due the state, and estates liable for the collateral inheritance tax, which consist of money, book accounts, bank deposits, notes, mortgages, and bonds, need not be appraised by the collateral tax appraisers if the administrator, executor, or trustee, or the beneficiaries claiming such property, are willing to charge themselves and to pay the collateral inheritance tax upon the full face value of such properties, as may be shown in their inventories, together with the interest or earnings which may be due on said properties, but in all cases the relief of such personal property from appraisement for the collateral inheritance tax is dependent upon the consent of the treasurer of state, and the subsequent approval thereof by the judge of the proper court. In the event that the estate has been duly appraised under the ordinary statutes of inheritance, and such appraisement is accepted by the treasurer of state as satisfactory for the collateral inheritance tax, the district court or judge of the proper court may, upon proper application relieve the estate from the appraisement by the collateral inheritance tax appraisers; but, in order to obtain such relief, the administrator, executor, trustee, or other party interested must file an application in the office of the clerk of the court for such relief before said clerk issues a commission to the collateral inheritance tax appraisers. The district court or judge of the proper court may, upon application of the representatives of the estate or parties interested, relieve the estate of the appraisement for collateral tax purposes if it be shown to said court that the market value of the entire estate subject to tax will not exceed one thousand dollars, provided, that, prior to the application to said court or judge, the written consent of the treasurer of state to such relief is procured. In all cases where an estate is relieved from an appraisement for collateral inheritance tax purposes, the fact of such relief and the reasons therefor shall be duly noted in the decree or order of final settlement made by the court. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 5.]

SEC. 1476-b. Rules and regulations. The chief justice of the supreme court shall, prior to July first, 1898, appoint five of the district judges of the state to meet with him at Des Moines on a date to be by him fixed for the purpose of framing uniform rules and regulations, relative to the assessment and collection of the collateral inheritance tax, for the guidance of the district judges, officers of the court, executors and administrators. Said rules and regulations shall aim to give more publicity to the provisions of this chapter, and to secure the strict enforcement of the same, and when made shall form a part of and be published with the rules of the district courts of the state. [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 6.]

SEC. 1477-a. Real estate. In all cases where real estate has been subject to or liable for the payment of the tax provided in this chapter, or where any real estate has heretofore been appraised and the tax not yet paid and the notice required in section one of this act was not given, it shall be the duty of the proper court, immediately upon the taking effect of this act, to enforce such tax, or to set aside any appraisement heretofore made, and order a re-appraisement of the same to be made as in this act provided, anything in the law to the contrary notwithstanding. [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 2.]

SEC. 1477-b. Corporate stock. If a foreign executor, administrator or trustee shall assign or transfer any corporate stock or obligations in this state standing in the name of a decedent, or in trust for a decedent, liable to such tax, the tax shall be paid to the treasurer of state on or before the transfer thereof; otherwise the corporation permitting its stock to be so transferred shall be liable to pay such tax and it is the duty of the treasurer of state to enforce the payment thereof. [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 3.]

SEC. 1477-c. Securities and assets. No safe deposit company, trust company, bank or other institution, person or persons holding securities or assets of the decedent shall deliver or transfer the same to the executor or administrator or legal representative of said decedent unless notice of the time and place of such intended transfer be served upon the state treasurer at least five days prior to the transfer thereof, or unless the tax for which such securities or assets are liable under chapter four (4), title seven (7) of the code shall be first paid. It shall be lawful for, and the duty of, the treasurer of state to personally, or by any person by him duly authorized, to examine such securities or assets at the time of such delivery or transfer. Failure to serve such notice upon the treasurer of state or to allow such examination on the delivery of such securities or assets to such executor, administrator or legal representative before said tax is paid shall render such safe deposit company, trust company, bank or other institution, person or persons liable for the payment of the taxes due upon such securities or assets as provided in said chapter four (4). [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 4.]

SEC. 1477-d. County attorney—compensation. It shall be the duty of the county attorney of each county to report to the treasurer of state the death of all persons whose estates are liable to payment of the collateral inheritance tax, and the description of any property located in the county liable to such tax, and to perform such further legal services in the enforcement of said tax as he may be directed to do by the treasurer of state, but such attorney shall have no authority to receipt for or receive any of such tax. For reporting such estates or property the county attorney shall receive a compensation of ten (10) per cent. of the tax payable to the state, but not to exceed the sum of twenty ($20) dollars in any one estate; and for additional legal services performed under the direction of the treasurer of state he shall be paid a compensation of three (3) per cent. on the amount of all taxes collected from estates so reported by him, but in no event shall the amount thereof exceed the sum of one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars from any one estate. When the treasurer of state is satisfied that an estate reported by the county attorney is liable to the tax he shall so certify to the auditor of state, who shall issue his warrant on the treasurer of state in favor of said county attorney for the sum due for reporting said estate as herein provided, and all other compensation shall be paid said county attorney in like manner when the tax is collected and paid into the state treasury. [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 7.]

SEC. 1477-e. Regulations as to fees of county attorneys. In the event of uncertainty or of conflicting claims as to fees due county attorneys, under section seven (7) of chapter thirty-seven (37) of the laws of the twenty-seventh general assembly, the treasurer of state is empowered to determine the amount of fees, under the limitations of said section, to whom payable, and when the same are due, and as far as possible such determination shall be in accord with fixed rules made by the state treasurer. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 11.]

SEC. 1478-a. Reports to be filed with treasurer of state. Administrators, executors, and trustees of the estates subject to the collateral inheritance tax shall, when demanded by the treasurer of state, send to such treasurer certified copies of such parts of their reports as may be deemed [demanded] by the treasurer of state, and upon the refusal of said parties to comply with the demand of the treasurer of state, it is the duty of the clerk of the court to comply with such demand, and the expenses of making such copies and transcripts shall be charged against the estate, as are other costs in probate. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 9.]

SEC. 1478-b. Compromise settlements. Whenever an estate charged, or sought to be charged, with the collateral inheritance tax is of such a nature, or is so disposed, that the liability of the estate is doubtful, or the value thereof cannot, with reasonable certainty, be ascertained under the provisions of law, the treasurer of state may, with the written approval of the attorney-general, which approval shall set forth the reasons therefor, compromise with the beneficiaries or representatives of such estates, and compound the tax thereon; but said settlement must be approved by the district court or judge of the proper court, and after such approval the payment of the amount of the taxes so agreed upon shall discharge the lien against the property of the estate. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 8.]

SEC. 1478-c. Payment of costs. In any action where the state has been a party in enforcing the collection of the collateral inheritance tax, and a decision adverse to the state has been rendered, with an order that the state pay the costs it is the duty of the clerk of the court in which such action was pending to certify the amount of such costs to the treasurer of state, who shall, if said costs be correctly certified, and the case has been finally terminated, present the claim to the executive council to audit, and, said claim being allowed by said council, the auditor of state is directed to issue a warrant on the state treasurer in payment of such costs. [28 G. A., ch. 51, § 10.]

SEC. 1479-a. List of heirs. In all of the estates subject to the payment of the collateral inheritance tax it shall be the duty of the executor, administrator or trustee to furnish the clerk of the court a list of the heirs as required in section thirty-four hundred and twelve (3412) of the code and to state therein in a separate column the relationship which each heir, devisee or legatee bears to the decedent. The clerk of the court shall immediately forward a true copy of such list to the treasurer of state, and no final settlement of the account of any executor, administrator or trustee shall be accepted or allowed unless a strict compliance with the provisions of this section has been had by such person. [27 G. A., ch. 37, § 5.]

The duty imposed on the executor or administrator by the collateral inheritance tax law to file an inventory of real and personal property arises only when there is some property or interest passing under the will or by law which is subject to the payment of such tax. In re Estate of Stone, 132-136.

SEC. 1479-b. Date of filing inventories of personalty. Whenever, by reason of the complicated nature of an estate, or by reason of the confused condition of the decedent's affairs, it is impracticable for the executor, administrator, or trustee or beneficiary of said estate to file with the clerk of the court a full, complete, and itemized inventory of the personal assets belonging to the estate, within the time required by statute for filing inventories of the estates, the court may, upon the application of such representatives or parties in interest, extend the time for the filing of the collateral inheritance appraisement for a period not to exceed three months beyond the time fixed by law. TABLES FOR DETERMINING THE VALUATION OR PRESENT WORTH OF LIFE AND
TERM ESTATES OR ANNUITIES AND REMAINDERS OR REVERSIONARY INTER-ESTS COMPUTED AT FOUR PER CENT. PER ANNUM FOR THE USE OF THE COURTS OF IOWA IN THE ASSESSMENT OF THE COLLATERAL INHERITANCE TAX.

STATE OF IOWA,
TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
DES MOINES, JULY 15, 1900.

Section seven (7) of chapter fifty-one (51) of the acts of the twenty-eighth (28) general assembly provides:

"The treasurer of state is directed to obtain and publish for the use of the courts and appraisers throughout the state tables showing the average expectancy of life and the values of annuities of life and term estates, and the present worth or value of remainders and reversions. The taxable value of life or term, deferred or future estates shall be computed at the rate of 4 per cent. interest."

Pursuant to the foregoing provisions, the following tables for determining the taxable value, namely, the present worth, of life estates or annuities and remainders or reversionary interests are hereby published and promulgated for the use of the courts and appraisers of the state.

Table I gives the basis for valuing "Life Estates" or annuities, the proceeds of which the beneficiary enjoys during his or her life.

Table II relates to "Term Estates" or annuities terminable at a certain period, definitely stated in the provisions of the instrument creating the estate.

The tables printed herein are those used by the United States government in the assessment of the inheritance tax under the war revenue act of June 13, 1898, prepared for the internal revenue service under the direction of the government actuary, Mr. J. S. McCoy. They are based upon the "Actuaries or Combined Experience Tables," money being considered worth four (4) per cent. per annum. Both the tables and notes are reproduced from circulars No. 527, March, 1899, and No. 21,291, December, 1899, issued by the commissioner of internal revenue.

The treasurer of state is indebted to Honorable G. W. Wilson, commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, D. C., for permission to reprint and use the tables employed by the national government, and he desires here to acknowledge the courtesy and the very valuable favor rendered by him.

Treasurer of State of Iowa.

EXPLANATORY NOTES AND EXAMPLES.

The first column shows the age of the person under consideration.

The second column shows the corresponding "mean redemption period" and represents the time in years in which the present values of annuities and reversions certain will become equal, respectively, to the present value of annuities and reversions contingent on the duration of life. The "mean redemption period" is a mean between the last payment of the annuity and the payment of the reversion, averaging six months later than the former payment and six months earlier than the latter payment. (This period is ordinarily designated the expectancy of life during which a beneficiary will enjoy the life estate.)

The third column shows the present value of an annuity for life of one dollar per annum, the last payment being made at the end of the year prior to the one in which death occurs. The fourth column shows the present worth of one dollar payable at the end of the year in which death occurs.

A person dying bequeaths to his nephew, aged forty years, an annuity of one thousand dollars during life. What is the present value of the annuity?

Reference to the foregoing table shows that the present value of one dollar a year, payable at the end of each year during the life of a person aged forty years, is fifteen dollars nine cents two mills and ninety-five one-hundredths of a mill ($15.09295); therefore, the present value of one thousand dollars is one thousand times as much, or fifteen thousand and ninety-two dollars and ninety-five cents, the amount upon which tax accrues.

A person dying bequeaths to his sister, aged thirty-five years, a life interest in personal property amounting to fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), the estate to revert absolutely at her death to other collateral parties. Required the present value, at the date of death of the testator, of the life interest of the sister in the estate; also, required at the same date, the present value of the reversionary interest of said other parties in the estate.

At a net interest of four per cent. per annum, the assumed rate, the estate of $50,000.00 will realize an income or annuity of $2,000.00 per annum. The present value of the sum of $1.00, payable at the end of each year during the life of a person aged thirty-five years, is found by the table to be $16,14437, and the present value of an annuity of $2,000.00 for the same time would be two thousand times as much, or $32,288.74, the amount upon which tax accrues.

The reversion or present value of $1.00, due at the end of the year of death of a person aged thirty-five years, is found by the table to be $0.34060, and such value of $50,000.00 would be fifty thousand times as much, or $17,030.00, the amount upon which tax accrues.

EXAMPLE.

A man dies leaving personal property to the amount of $50,000.00. His niece is to have the income from it for 20 years, it then to revert to his youngest brother. What is the present worth of these legacies?

The income of $50,000.00 would be $2,000.00 per annum, assuming money at 4 per cent.

The present worth of an annuity of $2,000.00 for 20 years will be 2,000 times an annuity of $1.00 for 20 years. In the table opposite 20 we find the value of an annuity of $1.00 to be $13.59032, therefore the present worth of an annuity of $2,000.00 will be $27,180.64.

A reversion of $1.00 at the end of 20 years is shown by the table to be $0.456387, and a reversion of $50,000.00 will be 50,000 times as much, or $22,819.35.

STATE OF IOWA,
TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

Said rules and regulations shall aim to give more publicity to the provisions of this chapter, and to secure the strict enforcement of the same, and when made shall form a part of and be published with the rules of the district courts of the state.

Pursuant to the authority conferred in the above section, Judge H. E. Deemer, chief justice of the supreme court, directed Judges S. M. Weaver, of the Eleventh judicial district; L. E. Fellows, of the Thirteenth; H. M.

JOHN HERRIOTT,
Treasurer of State.

RULES AND REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF THE COLLATERAL INHERITANCE TAX.

RULE 1.

Lien book. The clerk of the district court in and for each county shall provide and keep a suitable book, substantially bound and suitably ruled, to be known as the Collateral Inheritance Tax and Lien Book, in which shall be kept a full and accurate record of all proceedings in cases where property is charged or sought to be charged with the payment of a collateral inheritance tax under the laws of this state, to be printed and ruled so as to show, upon one page:
1. The name, place of residence, and date of death of the decedent.
2. Whether the decedent died testate or intestate, and if testate, the record and page where the will was probated and recorded.
3. The name and postoffice address of the executor, administrator, trustee or grantee, with date of appointment or transfer.
4. The names, postoffice addresses and relationship, if known, of all the heirs, devisees and grantees.
5. The appraised valuation of the personal property.
6. The amount of inheritance tax due upon said personal property.
7. A record of payment with amount and date.
8. Date of filing objections and names of objectors.
9. Blank for index and reference to all proceedings, and for memorandum entries of the court or judge in relation thereto.

Upon the opposite page of such record shall be printed:
1. "Real estate derived from ...................... (naming decedent) which is subject to the lien prescribed by the statute for collateral inheritance tax."
2. A full and accurate description of such real estate, by forty acre or fractional tracts, or by lots, or other complete individual description.
3. The appraised valuation as reported by the appraisers,—with a reference to the record of their report,—as to each piece of such real estate.
4. The amount of the inheritance tax due upon each such piece.
5. A record of payments, with dates and amounts.
6. Date of filing objections, and names of objectors.
7. Blank for index and reference to all proceedings, and for memorandum entries of court or judge in relation thereto.

RULE 2.

Report by administrators, etc. Upon the appointment and qualifications of each executor, administrator and testamentary trustee, the clerk issuing the letters shall at the same time deliver to him a blank form upon which he shall be required to make detailed report of the following facts:
1. Name and last residence of decedent.
2. Date of death.
3. Whether or not he left a will.
4. Name and postoffice of executor, administrator or trustee.
§ 1479-b  COLLATERAL INHERITANCE TAX.  Title VII, Ch. 4.

5. Name and postoffice of surviving wife or husband, if any.
6. If testate, name and postoffice of each beneficiary under will.
7. Relationship of each beneficiary to the testator.
8. If intestate, name and postoffice of each heir at law.
9. Relationship of each heir at law to the decedent.
10. Inventory of all the real estate of the decedent, giving amount and description of each tract.

Within ten days after his qualification each executor, administrator and testamentary trustee shall make and return to the clerk, under oath, a full and detailed report as indicated in the preceding paragraph, and upon his failure so to do, the clerk shall forthwith report his delinquency to the district court if in session, or to a judge of said court if in vacation, for such order as may be necessary to enforce an observance of these rules.

If it appears from the inventory or report so filed, that the real estate, or any part of it, is subject to an inheritance tax it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator to cause the lien of the same to be entered upon the lien book in the office of the clerk of the court in each county where each particular tract of said real estate is situated.

Duties of the clerk. The clerk shall from time to time enter upon the collateral inheritance tax and lien book, the title of all estates subject to the inheritance tax, as shown by the inventories or lists of heirs filed in his office, or as reported to him by the county attorney or the treasurer of state, and shall enter in said book as against each estate or title at the appropriate place, all such information relating to the situation and condition of the estate as he may be able to obtain from the papers filed in his office, or from the county attorney or the treasurer of state, as may be necessary to the collection and enforcement of the tax. He shall also immediately index all liens entered upon the collateral inheritance tax and lien book in the book kept in his office for that purpose.

Should any estate, or the name of any grantee or grantees, be placed upon the book at the suggestion of the county attorney or the treasurer of state, in which the papers already on file in the clerk's office do not disclose that an inheritance tax is due or payable, the county attorney shall forthwith give to all parties in interest, such notice as the court or judge may prescribe, requiring them to appear on a day to be fixed by the said court or judge, and show cause why the property should not be appraised and subjected to said tax. If upon hearing at the time so fixed, the court is satisfied that any property of the decedent, or any property devised, granted or donated by him, is subject to the tax, the same proceedings shall be had as in other cases, so far as applicable.

Appointment of appraisers. At the first term of court in each county, after the publication of these rules, and annually thereafter, the court shall appoint three competent residents and freeholders of said county, to act as appraisers of all property within its jurisdiction, which is charged or sought to be charged with a collateral inheritance tax. Said appraisers shall serve for one year, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. They shall each take an oath to faithfully and impartially perform the duties of the office, but shall not be required to give bond. They shall be subject to removal at any time at the discretion of the court, and the court, or a judge thereof in vacation, may also, in its discretion, either before or after the appointment of the regular appraisers, appoint other appraisers. to act in any given case. Vacancies occurring otherwise than by expiration of term, shall be filled by the appointment of the court, or by a judge in vacation.

Duties of appraisers. When an estate is opened in which there is property which may be subject to the inheritance tax, the clerk shall forthwith issue a commission to the appraisers, who shall fix a time and place for appraisement, and if not practicable to serve the notice provided for by statute, they shall apply to the court or judge for an order as to notice, and upon service of such notice and the making of such appraisement, the said notice, return thereon and appraisement shall be filed with the clerk, and a copy of such appraisement shall be filed by the clerk with the treasurer of state.

Any person interested may, within twenty days thereafter, file objections to said appraisement or taxation, and the same shall then stand for trial and further proceedings as provided by statute. If upon such hearing the court finds that the property is not subject to the tax, the court shall upon expiration of time for appeal, when no appeal has been taken, order the clerk to enter upon the lien book a cancellation of any claim or lien for taxes.

Duty of county attorney. It shall be the duty of each county attorney to make examination from time to time of all reports filed with the clerk by administrators, executors, and trustees, pursuant to law or the provisions of these rules; also to make examination of all foreign wills offered for probate or recorded within his county, as well as of the records of deeds and conveyances in the recorder's office of said county, and if from such examination, or from information or knowledge coming to him from any other source, he finds or believes that any property within his county, or within the jurisdiction of the district court of said county, has since July 4, 1896, passed by will or by the intestate laws of this or any other state, or by deed, grant, sale, or gift made or intended to take effect, in possession or enjoyment after the death of the testator, donor or grantor, to any person other than to or for the use of the father, mother, husband, wife, lineal descendant, adopted child, the lineal descendant of an adopted child of a decedent, or to or for charitable, educational or religious societies, or institutions within this state, he shall make report thereof in writing to the clerk of the district court, embodying in such report, so far as he is able, all the facts mentioned in rule 2 of these rules, and cause the notice required by rule 3 hereof to be properly given and returned.

Any citizen of the state having knowledge of property liable to such tax, against which no proceeding for enforcing collection thereof is pending, may report the same to the county attorney, and it shall be the duty of such officer to investigate the case, and if he has reason to believe the information to be true, he shall forthwith institute such proceedings substantially as above indicated. He shall also advise and assist the clerk and appraisers in the discharge of their duties in cases of this nature, and see that notices required by law and these rules are properly made, served and returned.

Duty of court. On the first or second day of each regular term, the court shall require the clerk to present for its inspection, the inheritance tax and lien book hereinbefore provided for, together with all reports of administrators, executors and trustees which have been filed pursuant to these rules, since the last preceding term. The county attorney shall also attend and make report to the court concerning the progress of all cases pending for the collection of such taxes, together with any other facts, which, in his judgment, may aid the court in enforcing the general observance of the collateral inheritance tax law. If from information obtained from the records or reports, or from any other source, the court has reason to believe that there is property within its jurisdiction liable to the payment of an inheritance tax, against which proceedings for collection are not already pending, it shall enter an order of record, directing the county attorney to institute such proceedings forthwith.

RULE 8.

Record. In all cases entered upon the inheritance tax and lien book, the clerk shall make a complete record in the proper probate record, of all the proceedings, orders, reports, inventory, appraisements and all other matters and proceedings therein.

RULE 9.

Costs. In all cases where property is found to be liable to taxation under the inheritance tax law, all costs of the proceedings had for the assessment of such tax shall be chargeable to such property, and to discharge the lien upon such property all costs, as well as the taxes, must be paid. In all other cases the costs are to be paid as ordered by the court.

RULE 10.

Books and blanks. The book herein provided for, and all blanks to be used in carrying out the provisions of the law and of these rules, shall be in form to be approved by the chief justice of the supreme court, which form shall be furnished to the clerk of each county by the treasurer of state.

It shall be the duty of the state treasurer to give such publicity to these rules, and the provision of the statute regarding the collection of such tax, as may by him be deemed advisable and practicable.

RULE 11.

Construction. These rules are not to be construed as in any manner superseding any of the requirements of the statute governing the levy and collection of collateral inheritance taxes, or as relieving executors, administrators, trustees or officers of court, or any of them, from a strict observance of all the duties which such statute imposes upon them.

These rules shall be in full force and effect from and after the 4th day of July, 1898.

BE IT REMEMBERED, that the above and foregoing rules were adopted this 11th day of June, 1898, by the following: H. E. Deemer, chief justice of the supreme court of Iowa; S. M. Weaver, judge of the eleventh judicial district of Iowa; L. E. Fellows, judge of the thirteenth judicial district of Iowa; H. M. Towner, judge of the third judicial district of Iowa; Z. A. Church, judge of the sixteenth judicial district of Iowa; M. J. Wade, judge of the eighth judicial district of Iowa. Said district judges having been appointed by the said chief justice of the supreme court, pursuant to section six, chapter thirty-seven of the acts of the twenty-seventh general assembly of the state of Iowa.

Witness my hand the 11th day of June, 1898.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Iowa.

Attest: M. J. WADE, Secretary.

ROADS.

TITLE VIII.

OF ROADS, BRIDGES AND FERRIES, AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THISTLES.

CHAPTER 1.

OF THE ESTABLISHMENT, ALTERATION AND VACATION OF ROADS.

SECTION 1482. Jurisdiction over.

Jurisdiction: The board of supervisors is without jurisdiction to establish a highway within the limits of an incorporated town. Philbrick v. University Place, 106-352.

The action of the board of supervisors in vacating a portion of a highway cannot be questioned by mandamus against a road supervisor to compel him to remove obstructions from the portion of the highway vacated. Sullivan v. Robbins, 109-235.

The fact that the board vacates a portion of the highway, so as to leave the remainder less than forty feet in width is not such an irregularity as can be taken advantage of in a collateral proceeding. Ibid.

The right to the highway vests in the public generally, and but for statutory provisions, giving the board of supervisors power to establish, maintain and discontinue highways, such power would be in the state, which is the representative of the general public. Dickinson County v. Fouse, 112-21.

Dedication: The execution and filing with the county judge of an instrument giving or offering to give a right of way for a highway which was thereafter abandoned, held sufficient to show a dedication. Agne v. Seitsinger, 104-482.

No particular form is necessary for the dedication of land for a highway, the vital question as against the owner being whether the animus dedicandi may be inferred from the facts proven; and held that the signature of the owner to a petition to the board of supervisors to lay out a highway was admissible as tending to show an intent to dedicate, although the board of supervisors were without jurisdiction in the matter. Philbrick v. University Place, 106-352.

While it is well settled that the dedication of a highway or street must be accepted to be effectual, nevertheless the public or a city or town may be estopped by its conduct to open a street or highway which has been closed or occupied for many years by a private person under a claim of right. Uptagraff v. Smith, 106-385.

To establish a highway by prescription there must be a general uninterrupted public use under a claim of right, continued for the statutory period. The mere fact that neighbors and those owning adjoining lands were permitted to use the way for hauling wood and otherwise, is not sufficient to show a dedication to public use. Fairchild v. Stewart, 117-734.

Evidence in a particular case held not sufficient to show dedication of a highway. Fountain v. Keen, 116-406.

Adverse possession: Mere non-user will not operate to discontinue a legally established highway unless there has been such long-continued adverse possession or transfer of the land by purchase and sale as that justice demands the public should be estopped from asserting the right to open it up. Bradley v. Appanoose County, 106-105.

Where an adjacent owner fenced up the highway, claiming that it had been discontinued by reason of proceedings to relocate, and had exclusive possession by virtue of such acts, continued for ten years, held that the public was barred from asserting any rights thereto. Rector v. Christy, 114-471.

SEC. 1483. Repeal—width of roads. That section fourteen hundred and eighty-three (1483) of the code, be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Roads hereafter established, unless otherwise fixed by the board, shall be at least sixty-six feet wide, and in no case less than forty; within these limits they may be increased or diminished in width, altered in direction, or vacated, by pursuing the course prescribed in this chapter; provided, however, that said board may locate and establish consent roads, at its discretion, at a minimum width of not less than thirty feet. [32 G. A., ch. 64.]

Where there is no record as to the width of the highway established, it will be presumed that it is sixty-six feet in width. Biglow v. Ritter, 131-213.

A highway by prescription may be of less width than sixty-six feet, if the evidence shows the use to have been restricted to a less width. Haan v. Meester, 132-709.

SEC. 1487. Expediency.

Where the opening of a road will require the removal of buildings, the property owner having due notice may waive objection to the opening of the highway on that ground and claim compensation by way of damages. Stronsky v. Hickman, 116-651.

SEC. 1489. Survey made—commissioner sworn.

It is only when the precise location cannot be given otherwise in his report that the commissioner is bound to cause the line thereof to be surveyed and plainly marked. Palmer v. Clark, 114-558.

SEC. 1495. Notice served. Within twenty days after the day is fixed by the auditor as above provided, a notice shall be served on each owner of land lying in the proposed road, or abutting thereon, as shown by the transfer books in the auditor’s office, who resides in the county, in the manner provided for the service of original notices. If the owner of the land as thus shown does not reside in the county, similar notice shall be served upon any person who is in the actual occupancy of such land. In any case, notice shall be published, once each week, for four weeks in some newspaper printed in the county. The notice may be in the following form:

To all whom it may concern: The commissioner appointed to locate, vacate, or alter (as the case may be) a road commencing at . . . . . . in . . . . county, running thence (describe in general terms all the points as in the commissioner’s report, giving the names of the owners of the land through which the proposed road passes as they appear upon the transfer books of the auditor’s office) and terminating at . . . . . , has reported in favor of the establishment, vacation, or alteration thereof, and all objections thereto, or claims for damages, must be filed in the auditor’s office on or before noon of the . . . . day of . . . . , A. D . . . . , or such road will be established, vacated, or altered without reference thereto.

County Auditor.

The notice required by this section is for the purpose of giving the owners of land living or abutting on the road an opportunity to object to the establishment or vacation thereof, or to present their claims for damages. One who has signed a petition asking that action be taken cannot object for want of notice to him. Sullivan v. Robbins, 109-235.

Where the property owner has due notice he may interpose the objection that the opening of the highway will necessitate the removal of buildings, or he may waive that objection and demand compensation by way of damages. Stronsky v. Hickman, 116-651.

A notice to non-residents of the establishment of a highway which is such as might have been authorized by the legislature may be made sufficient by a legalizing act, although not sufficient under the statute in force when it was given. Fair v. Buss, 117-164.

A general order of the board of supervisors for the opening of highways along all section lines in the county with notice simply, “to whom it may concern” is insufficient and the subsequent abandonment of one of the highways claimed to have been thus established may be shown. Hatch v. Barnes, 124-251.

The board of supervisors has discretion in determining whether a highway shall be established, even where its establishment is asked by consent. Perry v. Board of Supervisors, 133-281.

The board having acquired jurisdiction to establish a highway, every presumption thereafter is in favor of the legality of its proceedings. Biglow v. Ritter, 151-213.

Where the establishment of a highway is ordered by the board of supervisors on condition that the costs and damages be paid by the petitioner, it does not become a legal highway until such conditions are complied with. Kirkhart v. Roberts, 123-137.

A highway established by an unauthorized general order for the establishment of highways along all county section lines

The statutory provisions as to highways relate to the streets of cities and towns so far as they are applicable. Newton v. Board of Supervisors, 112 N. W. 167.

The streets of a city or town plat are county highways and on the termination of the corporate capacity of the city or town pass completely under the control of the board of supervisors. Chrisman v. Omaha & Council Bluffs R. & B. Co., 125-133.

A highway cannot be considered as established by joint action of two boards of supervisors where the action of each board is independent in character and in fact separated from that of the other board by a considerable interval of time. Lamanisky v. Williams, 125-578.

While the statute does not expressly mention bridges in connection with the provisions for county line roads to be established by the joint action of the boards of supervisors of two adjoining counties, the provisions of such statute are equally applicable to the proceedings under Code § 424, to construct a bridge across an unnavigable stream which is the boundary line of the counties. Bremer County v. Walstead, 130-164.

The fact that the boards of supervisors of adjoining counties have each, by independent action, established highways in their respective counties which are continuous with each other, does not necessitate joint action of the two boards in the vacation of that portion of the continuous highway located in one county. Lamanisky v. Williams, 125-578.

The fact that the same petition for vacation was presented to the two boards does not preclude final action being taken by one board with reference to the portion of the highway located in its county, in case the independent action of such board would in itself be proper. Ibid.

SEC. 1513. Appeals—from what taken.

The appeal in a proceeding for the establishment of a highway is from the final decision of the board. While the damages are assessed in the first instance by the appraisers, the finding may be reviewed by the board, and the damages be increased or diminished. Henderson v. Calhoun County, 129-119.

Appeal does not lie from the order establishing a highway, but only from the award of damages. In re Application of Dugan, 129-241.

A notice of appeal will be liberally construed, and if it is sufficiently definite for a reasonably certain identification of the judgment, order or decision appealed from, it is good. Ibid.
§§ 1516-1528 WORKING ROADS. Title VIII, Ch. 2.

It is only upon a matter of damages in road cases. In re Bradley, 108-476.

The record of a second survey is not sufficient to establish a relocation of the highway where the surveyor does not make use of the field notes of the highway as originally established and the field notes attached to his survey do not purport to be those of a resurvey. Caulkins v. Ward, 127-609.

SEC. 1527-a. Purchase or condemnation of land. The board of supervisors at any regular meeting shall have the power to purchase or provide for the condemnation of, pay for out of the county bridge fund, enter upon and take any land necessary for the purpose of preventing the encroachment of a navigable or non-navigable stream on a public highway, and for the purpose of straightening or altering a public highway when any such stream has encroached thereon, or some other condition in the highway exists that would, in the judgment of the board, render it necessary or advisable to straighten or alter the same, and the proceedings for condemnation of land as contemplated in this act shall be in accordance with the provisions relating to taking private property for works of internal improvement. [32 G. A., ch. 65.]

SEC. 1527-b. Supervisors may grant use of highway—damages.
Upon application to the board of supervisors of any county by any municipality for permission to construct its water mains and lay its pipes in the public highway from such municipality to its reservoir, the said board may grant the same upon condition that it shall not in any manner interfere with the public travel. The applicant shall be responsible for all damages that may arise from such construction, or from the same not being kept in repair. [32 G. A., ch. 66.]

CHAPTER 2.
OF WORKING ROADS.

SECTION 1528. Powers and duties of trustees. The township trustees of each township shall meet on the first Monday in April, or as soon thereafter as the assessment book is received by the township clerk, and on the first Monday in November, in each year. At the April meeting, said trustees shall determine:

1. The rate of property tax to be levied for the succeeding year for roads, bridges, guideboards, plows, scrapers, tools, and machinery adapted to the construction and repair of roads, and for the payment of any indebtedness previously incurred for road purposes, and levy the same, which shall not be less than than one nor more than four mills on the dollar on the amount of the township assessment for that year, which, when collected, shall be expended under the direction and order of the township trustees;

2. The amount that will be allowed for a day's labor done by a man, and by a man and team, on the road. To certify to the board of supervisors the desire for an additional road tax, of not to exceed one mill, to be levied in whole or in part by the board of supervisors as hereinafter provided. At the November meeting, they shall settle with the township clerk and supervisors of roads. [26 G. A., ch. 43; 25 G. A., ch. 22; C., '73, §§ 969, 971; R., §§ 880, 891, 895; C., '51, § 568.] [29 G. A., ch. 53, § 3.] [29 G. A., ch. 64, § 1.]
There is no obligation on the part of the county to keep the highways in repair. Wilson v. Wapello County, 129-77.

The board of supervisors has no authority to purchase machinery out of the road tax with which to work the roads. Harrison County v. Ogden, 133-9.

The county is not estopped by the unauthorized acts of its officers incurring indebtedness payable out of such fund, nor in attempting to ratify unlawful obligations already entered into. Ibid.

SEC. 1530. County road fund—how levied and paid out. The board of supervisors of each county shall, at the time of levying taxes for other purposes, levy a tax of not more than one mill on the dollar of the assessed value of the taxable property in its county, including all taxable property in cities and incorporated towns, which shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes, and be known as the county road fund, and paid out only on the order of the board for the purchase of road tools or machinery or for work done on the roads of the county in such places as it shall determine. Provided that on written petition of a majority of the electors who are freeholders of any township in any county, the board of supervisors may levy an additional mill in said township, to be expended by said board of supervisors on roads in township where same is levied; but so much of the county road fund as arises from property within any city or incorporated town, except such pro rata share as may have been expended by the board for the purchase or road tools or machinery, shall be expended on the roads or streets within such city or town, or on the roads adjacent thereto, under the direction of the city or town council; and the county treasurer shall receive the same compensation for collecting this tax as he does for collecting corporation taxes. Moneys so collected shall not be transferable to any other fund nor used for any other purpose. The board of supervisors shall levy such an additional sum for the benefit of such townships as shall have certified a desire for such additional levy, as provided for in section fifteen hundred and twenty-eight of this chapter; but the amount for the general township fund and the county road fund shall not exceed in any year five mills on the dollar. [25 G. A., ch. 22; 20 G. A., ch. 200, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 65, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 56.] [32 G. A., ch. 67.]

This section contemplates the levying of such tax upon the property within city limits, as well as upon other property in the county, although the tax is not to be expended within the city limits. Chicago, R. I. & P. Co. v. Murphy, 106-43.

The part of the road fund collected within a city must be expended on the roads in and about the city as directed by the city council. Newton v. Board of Supervisors, 112 N. W. 187.

SEC. 1532-a. Repeal—consolidation of township into one road district. That section one thousand five hundred and thirty-two (1532) of the code be, and the same is, hereby repealed, and the following enacted as a substitute therefor: The board of township trustees of each civil township in this state, at its regular meeting in April, 1903, shall consolidate said township into one road district, and all road funds belonging to the road districts of said township shall at once become a general township road fund, out of which all claims for work done or material furnished for road purposes prior to the change, and unsettled, shall be paid. [20 G. A., ch. 200 §§ 4, 11.] [29 G. A., ch. 53, § 4.]

SEC. 1533. Duty of trustees—road superintendents. Where the one road district plan is adopted, the board of township trustees shall order and direct the expenditure of the road funds and labor belonging or owing to the township; may let, by contract, to the lowest responsible, competent bidder, any part or all of the work on the roads for the current year, or may appoint not to exceed four superintendents of roads, to oversee, subject to the direction of the board, all or any part of the work, but it shall not incur an indebtedness for such purposes unless the same has been or shall at the time be provided for by an authorized levy; and shall order the township road tax for the succeeding year paid in money and collected by the county treasurer. It shall cause both the property and poll road tax to be equitably and judiciously expended for road purposes in the entire road district; shall cause at least seventy-five per cent. of the township road tax locally assessed to be thus expended by the fifteenth day of July in each year; shall cause the noxious weeds growing in the roads to be cut twice a year, when necessary, and at such times as to prevent their seeding, and it may allow any land owner a reasonable compensation for the destruction thereof, when growing in the roads abutting upon his land. If a superintendent, or superintendents of roads be employed, it shall fix the term of office, which shall not exceed one year, and compensation, which shall not exceed three dollars a day; and no contract shall be made without reserving the right of the board to dispense with his services at its pleasure. [20
[30 G. A., ch. 64, § 2.]

[The amendment by the 30 G. A., chapter 50, and the amendment by 31 G. A., chapter 58, struck out the words "as other taxes" in line 10, except the amendment by 30 G. A.
ignored code supplement where the section appeared.]

The trustees are vested with authority to appoint the road superintendent and fix his compensation, and are prohibited by Code Supp., § 468-a from making contracts with him as individuals to furnish labor or material for the township. State v. York, 131-635.

Where the township trustees had executed a note for road machinery intended to bind the township, but so executed as to make them individually liable, held that they might by way of equitable defense ask a reformation of that instrument so as to make it correspond to the intention of the parties. Western Wheeler & Scraper Co. v. Stickleman, 122-396.

SEC. 1538. Compensation of trustees, treasurer and clerk. The trustees shall receive the same compensation per day for time necessarily spent in looking after the roads as they do for other township business; the county treasurer shall receive the same per cent. for collecting the road taxes here contemplated that he does for collecting corporation taxes. [20

SEC. 1540-a. Repeal—tax list. That section one thousand five hundred and forty (1540) of the code, is hereby repealed, and the following enacted as a substitute therefor:

"He shall, within four weeks after the trustees have levied the property road tax for the succeeding year, certify said levy to the county auditor, who shall enter it upon the tax books for collection by the county treasurer who shall collect in one installment and pay the same over to the clerk of the township entitled thereto. And he shall, not later than the fifteenth day of April, make out and deliver to the superintendent of roads a list of all persons required to pay road poll tax under the provisions of this act. To enable him to make out such list, the assessor shall furnish the clerk of said township, before the first day of April of each year, a complete copy of the assessment lists of said township for that year, which shall be the basis of such poll tax list. Provided, that the property road tax for the year 1903, shall be levied as heretofore, that it shall be paid in cash and shall be collected by the superintendent of roads appointed by the trustees or the township clerk, as the board of trustees shall determine and direct. Provided, further, that all delinquent road tax for the year 1903, shall be certified to the county auditor by the clerk of each township, for collection as provided by section one thousand five hundred and forty-two (1542) of the code, as amended by this act.” [C., '73, § 973; R., § 892.] [29 G. A., ch. 58, § 6.]

SEC. 1541-a. Repeal. That section one thousand five hundred and forty-one (1541) of the code be, and the same is hereby repealed. [29 G. A., ch. 58, § 2.]

SEC. 1542-a. Repeal—delinquent tax certified. That section fifteen hundred and forty-two (1542) of the code be repealed and the following enacted in lieu of the same:

Section 1542. He shall, on or before the second Monday of November of each year, make out a certified list of all property, including lands, town lots, personal property and property otherwise assessed, including assessments by the executive council on which the road tax has not been paid in full, and the amount of the tax charged on each separate assessment or parcel of said property, designating the district in which the same is situated and transmit the same to the county auditor, who shall enter the amount of tax on the lists the same as other taxes, and deliver the same to the county treasurer, charging him therewith which shall be collected in the same manner as county taxes are collected. In case the township clerk shall fail or neglect to make such return, he shall forfeit and pay to the township for road purposes a sum equal to the amount of tax on said property, which may be collected by an action on his bond. [29 G. A., ch. 64, § 3.]

[Section 1542 was first repealed by 29 G. A., chapter 64, section 3, which act was approved March 25, 1902, and took effect by publication March 27, 1902, while section 8 of chapter 53, acts of the 29 G. A., which took effect July 4, 1902, attempts to amend the original section 1542.]

SEC. 1545. Superintendent—qualification. Each road superintendent or contractor shall give bond in such sum and with such security as the township clerk may require (but in no case shall a township trustee sign such bond as surety), conditioned that he will faithfully and impartially perform all the duties required of him, and devote all moneys that may come into his hands by virtue of his office, according to law. [16 G. A., ch. 167; C., '73, §§ 977-8; R., §§ 881, 884.] [29 G. A., ch. 53, § 9.]

SEC. 1546-a. Repeal. That section one thousand five hundred and forty-six (1546) of the code, is hereby repealed. [29 G. A., ch. 53, § 10.]

SEC. 1550. Who to perform labor. The road supervisor shall require all able-bodied male residents of his district, between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five, to perform two days’ labor upon the roads, between the first days of April and October of each year. [C., '73, § 983.] [31 G. A., ch. 60.]

One who works on the highway, under the direction of the road supervisors, is not liable, in the absence of trespass, for any injury to adjoining land occasioned by surface water improperly deflected from its natural channel by the improvement of the highway. Mulvihill v. Thompson, 114-734.

SEC. 1551. Notice of time and place—receipts. The road supervisor shall give at least three days’ notice of the day or days and place to work the roads to all persons subject to work thereon, or who are charged with a road tax within his district, and all persons so notified must meet him at such time and place, with such tools, implements and teams as he may direct, and labor diligently under his direction for eight hours each day; and for such two days’ labor the supervisor shall give to him a certificate, which shall be evidence that he has performed such labor on the public roads, and exempt him from performing labor in payment of road poll tax in that or any other road district for the same year. [C., '73, § 984; R., §§ 886, 896; C., '51, § 588.] [29 G. A., ch. 53, § 11.]
SEC. 1553-a. Repeal. That section one thousand five hundred and fifty-three (1553) of the code be, and the same is, hereby repealed. [29 G.A., ch. 53, § 12.]

SEC. 1554. Report. The superintendent of the township shall report to the township clerk on the first Monday of April and November of each year, which report shall embrace the following items:
1. The names of all persons in his district required to perform labor on the public road, and the amount performed by each;
2. The names of all persons against whom actions have been brought, and the amount collected of each;
3. The names of all persons who have paid their property road tax in labor, and the amount paid by each;
4. The amount of all moneys coming into his hands by virtue of his office, and from what sources;
5. The manner in which moneys coming into his hands have been expended, and the amount, if any, in his possession;
6. The number of days he has been employed in the discharge of his duty;
7. The condition of the roads in his district, and such other items and suggestions as he may wish to make, which report shall be signed and sworn to by him, and filed by the township clerk in his office. Provided that when there is more than one occupant the superintendent may decide to which the preference shall be given. Reasonable compensation shall be allowed for such work, but in no case shall it exceed fifty cents per mile for each time same is dragged; and there shall not be expended therefor more than five dollars ($5) per mile for any mile on which said work is done during any one year. In crossing any bridge or culvert in the public road, or plank street-crossing in any city or town, four sound strong planks not less than twelve feet long, each one foot wide and two inches thick, shall be used, by placing and keeping continuously two of them under the wheels. A failure to comply with either of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days, or by a fine of not more than $100, and, in addition, all damages sustained may be recovered in a civil action against The violation of the statutory provision requiring that planks be placed under a steam engine crossing a bridge will not defeat recovery by the owner for injuries resulting from defects in the bridge for which the county is liable, if the failure to comply with the statute has not directly constituted to the injury. Tackett v. Taylor County, 123-149.

CHAPTER 2-A.

OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

SECTION 1571-a. Terms defined. The words and phrases used in this act shall, for the purposes of this act only, be construed as follows: 1, "Motor Vehicle" shall include all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power, excepting such motor vehicles as run only upon rails or tracks, provided that nothing herein contained shall apply to traction engines or road rollers; 2, "Closely built up portions," shall mean the territory of a city town or village contiguous to a public highway devoted to business or where for not less than one-fourth (1/4) of a mile the dwelling houses on such highway average not more than one hundred (100) feet apart. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 1.]

SEC. 1571-b. Statement—fees. Every owner of a motor vehicle shall, for every such vehicle owned by him, file in the office of the secretary of state a statement of his name and address, with a brief description of the vehicle to be registered, on a blank to be prepared and furnished by such secretary for that purpose. The filing and registration fee shall be five (5) dollars, payable to the secretary of state. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 2.] [32 G. A., ch. 68, § 1.]

SEC. 1571-c. Statement filed—registration number. The secretary of state shall thereupon file such statement in his office, register such motor vehicle in a book to be kept for that purpose, and assign it a number, beginning with the number one (1); and so on in the order of filing. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 3.]

SEC. 1571-d. Change of owner—re-registration. Every person acquiring a motor vehicle shall file a like statement with the secretary of state, accompanied by the fee required in section two (2) of this act, and such secretary of state shall, in like manner, file such statement, register such vehicle and assign it a number. If the vehicle has previously been registered, such fact and number assigned it shall be set forth in the statement, and the previous registration shall be canceled; but the number of such previous registration may be assigned under the new registration. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 4.] [32 G. A., ch. 68, § 2.]

SEC. 1571-e. Seal. The secretary of state shall forthwith on such registration, and without other fee, issue and deliver to the owner of such motor vehicle a seal of aluminum or other suitable metal, which shall be circular in form, not over two (2) inches in diameter, and have stamped therein the words “registered in the office of the secretary of state for the state of Iowa, under the motor vehicle law, No.” with the registration number inserted therein; which seal shall thereafter at all times be conspicuously displayed on the motor vehicle to which such number has been assigned. Every dealer in motor vehicles may have issued to him by the secretary of state, a dealer's number, to be registered as such, which number, and also the number displayed on the back of the motor vehicle as provided in section six of this chapter, shall be preceded by the capital letter “D”, which number may, be temporarily used upon any motor vehicle owned by said dealer, or kept and exhibited for sale by him, when demonstrating its use on the public streets or highways, and not in use for hire. Every motor vehicle kept for hire shall have a separate, individual, registered number the same as if kept by the owner for private use. Every dealer in motor vehicles is hereby required to apply to the secretary of state on or before the first day of July of each year for a dealer's number and a dealer's permit to use the same, the annual fee for which shall be ten (10) dollars, payable to the secretary of state when the number and permit are applied for; provided, however, that a dealer may if he chooses register each motor vehicle in his possession separately and individually, in which event he shall not be required to take out a dealer's number. The same number may be re-assigned to the same dealer, but shall not be transfer-able to any other person, firm or company. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 5.] [32 G.
A., ch. 68, § 3.]

SEC. 1571-f. Number displayed. Every motor vehicle shall also at time have the number assigned to it by the secretary of state displayed on the back of such motor vehicle in such a manner as to be plainly visible, the number to be in Arabic numerals, each not less than three (3) inches in height, and each stroke to be of a width not less than one-half (½) inch, and also as a part of such number the initial and terminal letters of the state's name, such letters to be not less than two (2) inches in height. [30
G. A., ch. 53, § 6.]

SEC. 1571-g. Non-resident owner. The provisions of sections two
(2) to five (5) inclusive shall not apply to motor vehicles owned and operated by non-residents of this state, provided the owners thereof have complied with any law requiring the registration of owners of motor vehicles in force in the state, territory or federal district of their residence, and the registration number showing the initial of such state, territory or federal district shall be displayed on such vehicle substantially as provided by section six (6) of this act. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 7.]

SEC. 1571-h. Regulations. No person shall operate a motor vehicle on a public highway at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the traffic and use of the highway, or so as to endanger the life or limb of any person, or in any event in the closely built up portions of a city, town or village, at a greater rate than one (1) mile in six (6) minutes, or elsewhere in a city, town or village at a greater rate than one (1) mile in four (4) minutes, or elsewhere outside of a city town or village at a greater average rate than twenty (20) miles per hour; subject, however, to the other provisions of this section. Upon approaching a crossing of intersecting public highways, or a bridge, or a sharp curve, or a steep descent, and also in traversing such crossing, bridge, curve or descent, a person operating a motor vehicle shall have it under control and operate it at a rate of speed less than hereinbefore specified, and in no event greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the traffic then on such highway and the safety of the public. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 8.]

The statute expressly authorizes the use of automobiles on the highways, and confers on the operators of such vehicles the same rights in the roads and streets as are accorded to the drivers of other vehicles. House v. Cramer, 112 N. W. 8.

But the operator of an automobile is liable for damages resulting from his negligence in not exercising care to avoid frightening horses. Ibid.

SEC. 1571-i. Caution — signals. Any person operating a motor vehicle shall, at request or on signal by putting up the hand, from a person riding or driving a restive horse or other draft or domestic animals, bring such motor vehicle immediately to a stop, and, if traveling in the opposite direction, remain stationery so long as may be reasonable to allow such horse or animals to pass, and, if traveling in the same direction, use reasonable caution in passing such horse or animal, and the operator and occupants of any motor vehicle shall render necessary assistance to the party having in charge said horse or other draft animal in so passing. [30 G. A., ch. 53, §

SEC. 1571-j. Brakes—signal bell or horn—lamps. Every motor vehicle while in use on a public highway shall be provided with good and efficient brakes, and also with a suitable bell, horn or other signal, and be so constructed as to exhibit, during the period from one (1) hour after sunset to one (1) hour before sunrise, one or more lamps showing white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction toward which such vehicle is proceeding, and also a red light visible in the reverse direction. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 10.]

SEC. 1571-k. Powers of cities and towns. Cities and towns shall have no power to pass, enforce or maintain any ordinance, rule or regulation requiring of any owner or operator of a motor vehicle any license or permit to use the public highways or excluding or prohibiting any motor vehicle whose owner has complied with section two (2) or section four (4) of this act from the free use of such highway, and all such ordinances, rules or regulations now in force are hereby declared to be of no validity or effect; provided that nothing in this act shall be construed as limiting the power of local authorities to make, enforce and maintain ordinances, rules or regulations, in addition to the provisions of this act, affecting motor vehicles which are offered to the public for hire. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 11.]

SEC. 1571-l. Penalties. The violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be deemed a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25) for the first offense, and punishable by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25) nor more than fifty dollars ($50), or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days in the county jail for a second or subsequent offense. [30 G. A., ch. 53, § 12.]
TITLE IX.

OF CORPORATIONS.

CHAPTER 1.

OF CORPORATIONS FOR PECUNIARY PROFIT.

SECTION 1609. Powers.

Par. 2. Name: To make notice to a corporation which is named only by the initials of its corporate name sufficient it must appear that at the time such notice was given the corporation was commonly known and customarily referred to by such abbreviations. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Kelley, 105-106.

Par. 5. Exemption of property: The provisions of the articles in a particular case held sufficient to exempt private property of the stockholders in a mutual insurance company from liability for debts of the corporation, although there was a provision by which such property should be liable for money advanced to creating a guaranty fund. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

Corporations may be legally organized whose articles do not exempt private property of its stockholders from liability for corporate debts. Berkson v. Anderson, 115-674.

Par. 6. Powers: The powers given by statute to corporations are not required to be enumerated in its articles, and an omission to claim any such powers in the articles would not leave the corporation without such powers. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 82 Fed. 124.

When the state courts have determined the extent of the powers and liabilities of corporations created under the state law, their decision is conclusive in the federal courts in cases involving no question of general or commercial law and no federal question. Ibid.

A trading corporation unless prohibited by its charter may buy and sell the stock of another corporation. Ibid.

The articles contain the terms of agreement between the company and its stockholders and are to be construed in accordance with the general laws relating to charter grants and legislative power. By accepting stock in the corporation, the stockholder assents to the terms and conditions found in the articles. Dempster Mfg. Co. v. Downs, 126-90.

A corporation may hold real or personal property in trust for any purpose that is not foreign to the business for which it was created, and a court of equity will enforce such trust. State v. Higby Co., 130-69.

Par. 7. By-laws: By-laws may be binding on a corporation, although informally adopted, if recognized and acted upon by it. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

One who becomes shareholder in a corporation thereby assents to the transaction of business expressly or impliedly authorized by its charter. Treer v. Lucas Prospecting Co., 124-107.

The corporation does not necessarily have all the powers which by statute are within the scope of corporate powers, but only such powers within the statutory scope as are given by the articles of incorporation. Ibid.

While as a general rule a corporation may not sell any part or all of its property for other than a cash consideration unless authorized by charter, yet where the company was authorized by its articles to purchase, sell and deal in corporate stocks of corporations authorized to conduct mining operations, but had not power to carry on business of mining, the power to exchange its property or sell it for stock in a corporation which should engage in the business of mining was clearly implied. Ibid.

A corporation is itself a franchise, and the different powers which may be exercised by the corporation are also franchises. Thus, the right given to a corporation to supply a city with water and of occupying the streets for that purpose, may be spoken of as a franchise. But such a privilege is not in the strict sense of the word a corporate franchise. Cedar Rapids Water Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 118-284.
SEC. 1610. Articles adopted and recorded—fees to state. Before commencing any business except their own organization, they must adopt articles of incorporation, which must be signed and acknowledged by the incorporators, recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county where the principal place of business is to be, in a book kept therefor, and the recorder must, within five days thereafter, indorse thereon the time when the same were filed, and the book and page where the record will be found. Said articles thus indorsed shall then be forwarded to the secretary of state, and be by him recorded in a book kept for that purpose. Such corporation shall pay to the secretary of state, before a certificate of incorporation is issued, a fee of twenty-five dollars, and, for all authorized stock in excess of ten thousand dollars, an additional fee of one dollar per thousand. Should any corporation increase its capital stock, it shall pay a fee to the secretary of state of one dollar for each one thousand dollars of such increase. The recording fee shall be paid in all cases. Farmers' mutual co-operative creamery associations and corporations organized for the manufacture of sugar from beets grown in the state of Iowa, shall be exempt from the payment of the incorporation fee provided herein. When articles of incorporation are presented to the secretary of state for the purpose of being filed, if he is satisfied that they are in proper form to meet the requirements of law, that their object is a lawful one and not against public policy, that their plan for doing business, if any be provided for, is honest and lawful, he shall file them; but if he is of the opinion that they are not in proper form to meet the requirements of law, or that their object is an unlawful one, or against public policy, or that their plan for doing business is dishonest or unlawful, he shall refuse to file them. Should a question of doubt arise as to the legality of the articles, he shall submit them to the attorney general whose duty it shall be to forthwith examine and return them with an opinion in writing touching the point or points concerning which inquiry has been made of him. If such opinion is in favor of the legality of the articles, and no other objections are apparent, they shall then, upon payment of the proper fee, be filed and otherwise dealt with as the law provides. If, however, such opinion be against their legality they shall not be filed. Upon the rejection of any articles of incorporation by the secretary of state, except for the reason that they have been held by the attorney general to be illegal they shall, if the person or persons presenting them so requested, be submitted to the executive council, which shall, as soon as practicable, consider the said articles and if the council determines that the articles are in proper form, of honest purpose, not against public policy, nor otherwise objectionable, it shall so advise the secretary of state in writing, whereupon he shall, upon the payment of the proper fees, file the same and proceed otherwise as the law directs; but if the council sustains the previous action of the secretary of state in rejecting said articles, such decision by the council shall be reported to the secretary of state in writing, and he shall then return said articles to the person or persons presenting them with such explanation as shall be proper in the case. Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing or modifying any statute now in force in respect to the approval of articles of incorporation relating to insurance companies, building and loan associations or investment companies. [26 G. A., ch. 98; 17 G. A., ch. 28; C., '73, § 1060; R., 1152; C., '51, § 675.] 27 G. A., ch. 40, §§ 1, 2. [27 G. A., ch. 41, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 66, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 70.]

It is not specifically required that the acknowledgment shall be in the same form as that required for conveyances of real property, and therefore, if the venue is given at the beginning of the certificate, and the officer taking the acknowledgment subscribes as “notary public,” without reciting that he is a notary public in and for the county named, the acknowledgment is sufficient, it being presumed that the officer acts only within the scope of his authority. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

The object of requiring the filing and recording of articles of incorporation is to give them the same publicity as nearly as may be as statutory charters, and their provisions are binding on all who deal with the stock of the corporation. Dempster Mfg. Co. v. Downs, 126-80.

It is doubtful whether an insurance company is required to recite the limit of indebtedness which it may incur by its policies of insurance. At any rate, if the amount of indebtedness is reasonably ascertainable the requirements of the statute have been complied with. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

A debt contracted in excess of the maximum limitation stated in the charter is not void, but is enforceable against it, corporation and parties holding under it, and gives rise only to a right of action on the part of the state because of the violation of statute, and perhaps also a liability on the officers of the corporation for the excessive debt so contracted. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 173 U. S., 109; S. C. 82 Fed. 124.

A mortgage given by a debtor corporation on its own property is not intended to be governed by the last sentence of this section (embodying a proviso added to § 1061 of the Code of '73 by chap. 22 of 20 G. A.). This sentence applies to the class and not the condition. It singles out this particular kind of corporation, and it is not meant to point out such a state of affairs which it was thought might exist with any corporation. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

The corporation having received the full benefit of the consideration for indebtedness contracted in excess of the limitation of its indebtedness, it cannot question the validity of indebtedness thus incurred. And it is immaterial that money borrowed in excess of the limitation of indebtedness is used for an ultra vires purpose. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co., 124-107.

SEC. 1612. Place of business—list of officers—notice or process—upon whom and how served.

If the corporation transacts business in this state, the articles shall fix its principal place of business, which must be in this state, and in charge of an agent of the corporation, at which place it shall keep its stock and transfer books and hold its meetings. The corporation shall annually, in January, file with the secretary of state a list of its officers and directors, and any change in the location of its place of business made by a vote of the stockholders. Provided that any corporation organized under the laws of this state that does not maintain an office in the county of its organization, or transact business in this state, shall file with the secretary of state a written instrument duly signed and sealed, authorizing the secretary of state to acknowledge service or [of] notice or process for and in behalf of such corporation in this state, and consent that service of notice or process may be made upon the secretary of state, and when so made shall be taken and held as valid as if served according to the laws of this state, and waiving all claim or right or error by reason of such acknowledgment of service. Such notice or process, with a copy thereof, may be mailed to the secretary of state at Des Moines, Iowa, in a registered letter addressed to him by his official title, and he shall immediately return such notice or process in a registered letter to the clerk of the court in which the suit is pending, addressed by his official title, and shall also forthwith mail such copy, with a copy of his acknowledgment of service written thereon, in a registered letter addressed to the corporation or person who shall be named or designated by the corporation in such written instrument. If any such corporation shall fail to file with the secretary of state the power and authority to acknowledge service as herein provided on or before July 1st, 1906, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to notify such corporation to file such power and authority within thirty days thereafter, and in case of failure to comply with such notice it shall be the duty of the attorney general of the state to proceed against such corporation to forfeit its charter and wind up its affairs. [81 G. A., ch. 64.]

SEC. 1613. Notice published—how—what to contain. A notice must be published once each week for four weeks in succession in some newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business, which must contain:

1. The name of the corporation and its principal place of business;
2. The general nature of the business to be transacted;
3. The amount of capital stock authorized, and the times and conditions on which it is to be paid in;
4. The time of the commencement and termination of the corporation;
5. By what officers or persons its affairs are to be conducted, and the times when and manner in which they will be elected;
6. The highest amount of indebtedness to which it is at any time to subject itself;
7. Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts.

Proof of such publication, by affidavit of the publisher of the newspaper in which it is made, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and shall be evidence of the fact. [C., '73, §§ 1062-3; R., §§ 1154-5; C., '51, §§ 677-8.]

As corporations may be legally organized in whose articles there is no limitation which exempts the individual property of its stockholders, the requirements that the notice make disclosure on this question is important, and where the publication is in an obscure newspaper, published at a place remote from that of the principal place of business, the requirements that the published notice make disclosure on this question is important.

SEC. 1613-a. Legalizing—defective publication. That each corporation heretofore incorporated under the laws of the state of Iowa which has caused notice of its incorporation to be published once each week for four consecutive weeks in some daily, semi-weekly or tri-weekly newspaper, instead of causing the same to be published in each issue of such newspaper for four consecutive weeks are hereby legalized and are declared legal incorporations the same as though the law had been complied with in all respects in regard to the publication of notice. [29 G. A., ch. 226, § 1.]

Where a renewal of the corporate franchise is authorized it may be effected by amendment of the articles as provided in this section. Lamb v. Dobson, 117-124

Aside from statute, stockholders of a de facto corporation cannot be held liable as partners on account of irregularities, omissions or mistakes in incorporating or organizing the corporation. The statute does not create a contract liability. Therefore, those dealing with a corporation having actual notice of the articles, and after publication of the notice required by statute, cannot hold the stockholders individually liable because of irregularity in the organization and publication. Seaton v. Grimm, 110-145.

Stockholders who participated in the organization of the company and became responsible to the same extent as other stockholders for failure to have notice published, cannot hold such other stockholders individually liable on the ground that there was not a proper publication of notice. Ibid.

"Organization and publicity" should be construed "organization or publicity." Ibid.

A subscriber to stock may disaffirm his contract on account of defects in the organization of the company, where it has been represented to him that the organization was legal and complete, and is not bound to go to the records or other sources of information before relying upon such

Whether one who buys stock in a defectively organized corporation incurs li-bility, in virtue of the statutory provision, for debts of the corporation incurred prior to the date of the purchase, is an open question in this state. Houts v. Sioux City Brass Works, 110 N. W. 166.

One who becomes a stockholder within the three months allowed for the publication of notice is liable for the debts incurred after he became a stockholder, if he has had knowledge of the facts connected with the organization of the corporation at the time he became a member or when the indebtedness was contracted. It is immaterial that he was not in any way responsible for the failure of the corporation to give proper notice of its organization. Clinton Novelty Iron Works v. Nei-ting, 111 N. W. 974.

SEC. 1618. Duration—renewal—certificate and articles to be recorded—fees—notice—proof filed. Corporations for the construction of any work of internal improvement, or for the transaction of the business of life insurance, may be formed to endure fifty years; those for other purposes, not to exceed twenty years; but in either case they may be renewed from time to time for the same or shorter periods, within three months before or after the time for the termination thereof, if a majority of the votes cast at any regular election, or special election called for that purpose, be in favor of such renewal, and if those wishing such renewal will purchase the stock of those opposed thereto at its real value. Within five days after the said action of the stockholders for the renewal of any corporation, a certificate, showing the proceedings resulting in such renewal, sworn to by the president and secretary of the corporation, or by such other officers as may be designated by the stockholders, together with the articles of incorporation, shall be filed for record in the office of the recorder of the county in which the principal place of business of said corporation is situated, and the same shall be recorded. Upon filing with the secretary of state the said certificate and articles of incorporation, within ten days after they are filed with the recorder, and upon the payment to the secretary of state of a fee of twenty-five ($25) dollars, and an additional fee of one ($1) dollar per thousand for all authorized stock in excess of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, the secretary of state shall record the said certificate and the said articles of incorporation in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, and shall issue a proper certificate for the renewal of the corporation. Within three months after the filing of the certificate and articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, the corporation so renewed shall publish a notice of renewal. Said notice shall be published, once each week, for four weeks in succession in a newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business of the corporation, and proof of publication filed in the office of the secretary of state, and shall contain the matters and things required to be published by section sixteen hundred and thirteen (1613) of the code, relating to original incorporations. [C., '73, § 1069; R., § 1158;
ch. 2, § 13.]

Where a corporation has re-incorporated with the same membership and for the purpose of carrying on the same business, and assuming the obligations of the old company, the new company is liable on the contracts of the old. Benesh v. Mill Own-

A corporation which took proper steps for renewal and tendered to the secretary of state the fees required at the time, held not subject to the provisions of the amending statute requiring higher fees in cases of renewal. Lamb v. Dobson, 117-124.

The renewal of a corporation may be made by an amendment of its articles as provided in Code § 1615. Ibid.

SEC. 1618-a. Renewal of corporate existence. The corporate existence of any state or savings bank may be renewed or extended, from time to time, for a period not longer than the time for which such banks may organize, by an affirmative vote of two-thirds (2-3) of the shareholders thereof, at a stockholders’ meeting held for that purpose, within three months before or after the time of the expiration of its charter as shown by its certificate of incorporation issued by the secretary of state. Such meeting shall be called upon a notice signed by at least two (2) of the officers of the bank and by a majority of its directors, specifying the object of the meeting, and the time and place thereof, published once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks before the time at which the same is to be held, in some newspaper in the county wherein the bank is located. If at such meeting the required vote is given, a certificate of the proceedings showing compliance with the foregoing provisions and the time to which the corporate period is to be continued, shall be signed and verified by the affidavit of the chairman and secretary of the meeting, certified to by a majority of the board of directors, and together with the articles of incorporation, as they exist at the date of the meeting, shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the proper county and filed, recorded and fees paid, as provided in section sixteen hundred eighteen (1618) of the code and shall be by the secretary of state certified to the auditor of state. When the meeting is held previous to the expiration of the charter of the bank, such amendments may be made to the articles of incorporation, subject to the provisions thereof, as may be deemed necessary and whether held before or after the extension of the corporate period, such changes may be made in the articles as are necessary to show the time to which the corporate period is extended and the names of the officers and directors at the time of the renewal or extension. When the above has been complied with, the auditor of state shall issue to such bank a certificate as provided in section eighteen hundred forty-three (1843) of the code, notice of which shall be published as required by the provisions of said section. [31 G. A., ch. 65.]

SEC. 1618-b. Fees—since when due. The fees herein provided shall be due from all corporations applying for a renewal since the first day of January, 1898. [28 G. A., ch. 56, § 2.]

SEC. 1619. Legislative control.

By express provision of the statute, building and loan associations are subject to legislative control. Wood v. Iowa Bldg. & Loan Assn., 126-464.

SEC. 1621. Diversion of funds.

It is only persons injured by the diversion of funds who are deemed to be defrauded thereby. One who is not a creditor at the time of the diversion is not injured thereby. Benge v. Eppard, 110-86.

SEC. 1624. By-laws posted.

The statutory requirements that the corporation shall keep posted a copy of its by-laws and a statement of the amount of capital stock and the amount of indebtedness, is primarily for the benefit of the public, to be enforced by mandamus at the suit of a party injured. Board- man v. Marshalltown Grocery Co., 105-445.

SEC. 1626. Transfer of shares.

A transfer of stock not made upon the books of the company as required by statute will not be effectual as against an attachment of such stock for debts of the person who appears from the books to be the owner. Knowledge on the part of the attaching creditor or the officer of the transfer of the stock will not defeat the lien of the attachment. Ottumwa Screen Co. v. Stodghill, 108-437; Perkins v. Lyons, 111-192.

A stipulation for an assignment of shares of stock, actually in the custody of the transferee, implies an obligation to have a formal and effectual transfer thereof made on the books of the corporation. First Nat. Bank v. Park, 117-552.

The holder of stock as collateral has authority to have proper entry of transfer of such stock made upon the company’s books. Ibid.

A person who is entitled to have shares of stock issued to him, or to have stock owned by him transferred on the books of the company, may maintain an action of mandamus to compel the proper issuance or transfer. Hair v. Burnell, 160 Fed. 280.

So long as the stock stands on the books in the name of the judgment debtor it can be levied on and sold, although the creditor has actual notice of a transfer thereof by the debtor. Ibid. The provisions of this section relating to transfer of stock as collateral security held not to be retrospective. Ibid.

One who has purchased stock which is subject to assessment to the corporation, is not liable for the payment of such assessment until the stock has been transferred to him, and any person who has without right paid for such stock and had it transferred to himself on the books of the company, and has made payment of such assessment, has no claim on the stock except for the repayment of the assessment. Loetscher v. Dillon, 119-202.

The transferee of shares of stock takes subject to any lien thereon created by the articles in favor of the corporation as against a prior holder and such lien attaches also to dividends declared during its existence. Dempster Mfg. Co., 126-80.

These provisions relate to corporations organized under the laws of the state and doing business in the state, and the books referred to are required to be kept within the state where they can be inspected. Perkins v. Lyons, 111-192.

In a particular case held that a pencil notation on the stub of the stock book, made long prior to a levy on the stock, although not dated, was sufficient to constitute a transfer. Ibid. The provisions of this section relating to transfer of stock as collateral security held not to be retrospective. Ibid.

A private individual cannot require that the books of the company be at all times kept open for public inspection. His right to inspect, if any, is personal. Neither can he have an order with reference to future inspection. Boardman v. Marshall-town Grocery Co., 105-445.

SEC. 1627. Amount paid in. No certificate or shares of stock shall be issued, delivered or transferred by any corporation, officer or agent thereof, or by the owner of such certificate or shares, without having indorsed on the face thereof what amount or portion of the par value has been paid to the corporation issuing the same, and whether such payment has been in money or property. Any person violating the provisions of this section, or knowingly making a false statement on such certificate, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and shall stand committed to the county jail until such fine and costs are paid. This section shall not apply to railway or quasi public corporations organized before the first day of October, 1897.

Failure to indorse on a certificate of stock the amount and manner of payment thereon will not render a contract in relation to such stock void, especially where it appears that full value in property was paid for the stock, and that such endorsement would not have altered the situation of the parties. French v. Northwestern Laundry, 132-81.

The fact that the charter of the corporation has expired will not show that it cannot be the owner of property. After the expiration of the term of the charter the corporation continues to live for the purpose of discharging its obligations and disposing of its property. State v. Fogerty, 105-82.

The corporate existence may continue after the period limited in the charter for the purpose of winding up the corporate affairs. Rogers v. Western Mut. Life Assn., 123-722.

The statute contemplates the continuance of the liability of stockholders until the business of the corporation is wound up at least so far as valid indebtedness has been contracted while the corporation has a legal existence. The liability of stockholders does not become that of partners after the expiration of the period

CORPORATIONS.

It is only corporations whose charters expire by limitation, or the voluntary act of the stockholders, which continue for the purpose of winding up their affairs. Corporations dissolved by action of court have no further legal existence, and cannot be represented by officers or agents.

A court of equity may wind up the affairs of a corporation whose charter has expired, if internal dissensions in the corporation make it necessary. This section only authorizes continuance of the business by the corporation managers for the amicable settlement of its affairs. But a corporation whose charter has not expired will not be dissolved at the suit of a stockholder, and it is error to direct a sale of its property in such suit. Stewart v. Pierce, 116-733.

SEC. 1631. Liability of stockholders.

Although a certificate of stock recites that it is fully paid, yet if it expressly declares that it is subject to assessment for purposes named such an assessment will be valid and can be enforced against the holder of the stock. Western Imp. Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 103-455.

Such stock is not fully paid up stock and the holder thereof is individually liable under statutory provisions, even if the articles of incorporation provide otherwise. Ibid.

The corporation may maintain an action against the stockholder for an assessment lawfully made and it is not necessary that it shall appear that the corporation is insolvent. Ibid.

Where a call for an assessment on stock does not specify the time, place or person to whom payment is to be made it will be presumed that the assessment is payable on demand at the place of business of the corporation and to the officer authorized to receive money due to it. Ibid.

When property is received by the corporation in payment of stock at an excessive valuation it is to be considered as constituting payment only to the extent of its real value and the owners of such stock are liable to creditors for the difference between the actual value of the property and the face value of the stock. Stout v. Hubbell, 104-499.

It is immaterial that the articles of incorporation show that certain shares of stock have been issued as fully paid up in exchange for property. Creditors have a right to presume in such case that the property received is of the actual value of the face of the stock, and if it is of less value the holder of such stock is liable to the creditors for the difference. Ibid.

The stockholder after the transfer of his stock remains liable for indebtedness of the corporation existing at the time of such transfer. White v. Green, 105-176; White v. Marquardt, 105-145.

One who in fact becomes a holder of stock incurs the liability of a stockholder for unpaid installments, although the transfer of the stock to him is not recorded in the books of the company; and upon a subsequent transfer of the stock by him effected by means of a transfer at his instance directly from the original holder to the last purchaser, he nevertheless remains liable in the same way that other holders of stock remain liable after transfer for liabilities of the corporation existing at the time of such transfer. White v. Marquardt, 105-145.

Indebtedness of the corporation not matured at the time of the transfer of stock is nevertheless a liability for which the stockholder remains liable to the extent of the unpaid installments of his stock. White v. Greene, 105-176.

Property may be accepted in exchange for stock, providing it is taken at its true value. The parties have the right in good faith to agree on the value of the property taken, but this should not be speculative or fictitious. State Trust Co. v. Turner et al., 111-664.

But a creditor of the corporation, who has become such with knowledge that stock, although issued as fully paid, has not in fact been paid for, cannot enforce his claim against the holders of such stock, nor can his assignee do so. Ibid.

In an action against a stockholder for an unpaid subscription, the burden is on the creditor seeking to enforce payment by the stockholder to prove that payment by the stockholder has not been made. Merrill v. Timbrell, 123-375.

In a proceeding by the auditor of state to wind up a bank and distribute its assets among the creditors, the receiver may have an order for the assessment of stockholders based on an estimate of the amount for which they will be liable under the statutory provision for double liability, and the stockholders may be compelled to pay such assessment before the assets of the bank are distributed, subject to the right to a return of any assets left undisposed of after the debts are all paid. State ex rel. v. Union Stock Yards State Bank, 103-549; and see Elson v. Wright, 112 N. W. 105.
SEC. 1633. Indemnity—contribution.

A stockholder who has been compelled to pay more than his just proportion of unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock may enforce contribution from the other stockholders who have not paid their just proportion, and this rule is applicable to a case where a stockholder has voluntarily paid more than his just proportion, but liability in this respect may be determined by the contract between the parties, and if the stockholders pays creditors, knowing that the other stockholders have an agreement by which their stock is to be treated as fully paid up, he cannot recover against them for contribution.

In an action brought by a corporation to protect its property from wrongful acts the defendant cannot set up want of legal organization as a defense. State Security Bank v. Hoskins, 130-339.

SEC. 1637. Foreign corporation—filing articles—process.

It is within the power of the state to prescribe the method by which corporations doing business within its jurisdiction may be brought into court and to designate the officer or agent of such corporation upon whom the process necessary to commence an action may be served. Green v. Equitable Mut. L. & End. Assn., 105-628.

The permit here required is not necessary to enable a foreign corporation to purchase property in this state and transport the same through the state. Ware Cattle Co. v. Anderson, 107-281.

The fact that statutory requirements as to foreign corporations have not been complied with by the corporation cannot be taken advantage of by one who has received the benefits of a contract with such corporation. Spinney v. Miller, 114-210.

The exception as to the doing business in the state by foreign corporations covers the transaction of receiving and accepting a note and mortgage for a valid consideration when such transaction is independent of and not connected with any form of business which the company is prohibited from transacting without a permit. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Cushman, 130-378.

A mortgagor who has received and retained the benefits of the transaction in which the mortgage is given cannot be heard to assert its invalidity on the ground that the mortgagor is a foreign corporation which has failed to comply with the statutes prescribing the terms upon which such corporations may do business in the state, the state alone being entitled to take advantage of the failure of the corporation to comply with the statute. Ibid.

It is no defense to a contract entered into by a foreign corporation that when the contract was made it did not have a permit to do business in the state. Iosea Lillooet Gold Mining Co. v. United States F. & G. Co., 146 Fed. 437.

In a direct action by the state to oust a foreign corporation from doing business therein without a permit, a judgment of ouster will not be awarded if the corporation complies with the law within a reasonable time. Ibid.

SEC. 1640. Dissolution—receiver.

From the time of entry of dissolution by the court in a proper case the corporation is dead, and cannot be represented by officers or agents. Therefore held that where the decree contained an order or dissolution, the corporation, without appealing from that portion of the decree, could not ask relief with reference to other orders in the same decree. State v. Fidelity L. & T. Co., 113-439.

SEC. 1641. Repeal—ownership of property. That section sixteen hundred and forty-one (1641) of the code be repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Corporations organized in any foreign country or corporations organized in this country, the stock of which is owned in whole or in part by non-resident aliens, shall have the same rights, powers and privileges with regard to the purchase and ownership of real estate in this state as are granted to non-resident aliens in section twenty-eight hundred and ninety (2890) of the code." [30 G. A., ch. 54.]

SEC. 1641-a. Right to vote stock. Every executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, shall represent the stock in his hands at all corporate meetings, and may vote the same as a stockholder; and every person who shall pledge his stock, in the absence of a written agreement to the contrary, may represent the same at all such meetings and vote accordingly. The owner of corporate stock levied upon by attachment or other proceeding, shall have the right to vote the same at all corporate meetings, until such time as that he shall have been divested of his title thereto by execution sale. But nothing contained in this section shall in any manner conflict with any provision in the articles of incorporation, or the by-laws of the corporation issuing the stock. [30 G. A., ch. 55.]

SEC. 1641-b. Capital stock—how issued—executive council to fix value. That from and after the passage of this act no corporation organized under the laws of the state of Iowa, except building and loan associations as defined and provided for in chapter thirteen (13), title (9) of the code, shall issue any capital stock or any certificate or certificates of shares of capital stock, or any substitute therefor, until the corporation has received the par value thereof. If it is proposed to pay for said capital stock in property or in any other thing than money, the corporation proposing the same must, before issuing capital stock in any form, apply to the executive council of the state of Iowa for leave so to do. Such application shall state the amount of capital stock proposed to be issued for a consideration other than money, and set forth specifically the property or other thing to be received in payment for such stock. Thereupon, it shall be the duty of the executive council to make investigation, under such rules as it may prescribe, and to ascertain the real value of the property or other thing which the corporation is to receive for the stock; and shall enter its finding, fixing the value at which the corporation may receive the same in payment for capital stock; and no corporation shall issue capital stock for the said property or thing in a greater amount than the value so fixed and determined by the executive council. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 1.]

SEC. 1641-c. Certificate filed with secretary of state. It shall be the duty of every corporation to file a certificate under oath with the secretary of state, within ten (10) days after the issuance of any capital stock, stating the date of issue, the amount issued, the sum received therefor, if payment be made in money, or the property or thing taken, if such be the method of payment. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 2.]

SEC. 1641-d. Cancellation of stock. The capital stock of any corporation issued in violation of the terms and provisions hereof shall be void, and in a suit brought by the attorney general on behalf of the state of Iowa, in any court having jurisdiction, a decree of cancellation shall be entered; and if the corporation has received any money or thing of value for the said stock, it shall remain the property of the corporation for the benefit of the remaining stockholders. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 3.]

SEC. 1641-e. Dissolution of corporation. Any corporation violating the provisions hereof shall, upon the application of the attorney general, in behalf of the state, made to any court of competent jurisdiction, be dissolved, its affairs wound up, and its assets distributed among the stockholders other than those who have received the stock so unlawfully issued. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 4.]

SEC. 1641-f. Penalty. Any officer, agent or representative of a corporation who violates any of the provisions hereof shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than two hundred (200) dollars nor more than one thousand (1,000) dollars, and be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than six (6) months. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 5.]

in making, publishing or posting, either generally or privately to the stockholders or other persons, any written report, exhibit, or statement of its affairs or pecuniary condition, or book or notice containing any material statement which is false, or any untrue or willfully or fraudulently exaggerated report, prospectus, account, statement of operations, values, business, profits, expenditures, or prospects, or any other paper or document intended to produce or give, or having a tendency to produce or give, the shares of stock in such corporation a greater value or a less apparent or market value than they really possess, is guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not to exceed one year, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six months or a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars. [32 G. A., ch. 72.]

SEC. 1641-h. Political contributions by corporations prohibited. It shall be unlawful for any corporation doing business within the state, or any officer, agent or representative thereof acting for such corporation, to give or contribute any money, property, labor or thing of value, directly or indirectly, to any member of any political committee, political party, or employee or representative thereof, or to any candidate for any public office or candidate for nomination to any public office or to the representative of such candidate, for campaign expenses or for any political purpose whatsoever, or to any person partnership or corporation for the purpose of influencing or causing such person, partnership or corporation to influence any elector of the state to vote for or against any candidate for public office or for nomination for public office or to any public officer for the purpose of influencing his official action, but nothing in this act shall be construed to restrain or abridge the liberty of the press or prohibit the consideration and discussion therein of candidacies, nominations, public officers or political questions. [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 1.]

SEC. 1641-i. Solicitation from corporations prohibited. It shall be unlawful for any member of any political committee, political party, or employee or representative thereof, or candidate for any office or the representative of such candidate, to solicit, request or knowingly receive from any corporation or any officer, agent or representative thereof, any money, property or thing of value belonging to such corporation, for campaign expenses or for any political purpose whatsoever. [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 2.]

SEC. 1641-j. Testimony—immunity from prosecution. No person, and no agent or officer of any corporation within the purview of this act shall be privileged from testifying in relation to any thing herein prohibited; and no person having so testified shall be liable to any prosecution or punishment for any offense concerning which he is required to give his testimony, provided that he shall not be exempted from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying. [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 3.]

SEC. 1641-k. Penalty. Any person convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than six months or more than one year and in the discretion of the court, by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1000.00). [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 4.]

CHAPTER 2.

OF CORPORATIONS NOT FOR PECUNIARY PROFIT.

SECTION 1642. Organization—purpose—name.

The secular acts of religious corporations are to be governed by the same principles of law as those applied to civil corporations. Moore v. First etc. Methodist Church, 117-33.

The law presumes that meetings of trustees of a religious corporation are regular and upon proper notice and that contracts made by them and under which they have accepted benefits are binding. \textit{Ibid.}

Corporations for religious purposes have no stock, and being without authority to levy assessments upon or enforce contributions from their members, the membership of an insolvent religious corporation may organize as a new corporation without becoming liable for the debts of the old in the absence of fraud and if no property of the old corporation is taken by the new. \textit{Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church}, 127-96.

A religious society seeking to effectuate its ideals of religious life through the common ownership and management of the property of its members may acquire and hold real property and establish and conduct industrial enterprises so long as its property is owned and managed and its enterprises are conducted and extended, simply to meet the needs of its members, and maintain them in a manner consistent with their religious faith, to which its total income and accumulation of property is devoted; and such a corporation will not be dissolved and its privileges forfeited on the ground that it has exceeded its corporate powers. \textit{State v. Amana Society}, 132-304.

The management of the property of such a corporation so that it shall yield a profit to be used in promoting its business is not prohibited, the power to acquire and make use of property being incidental to and in aid of the power conferred to accomplish the business appropriate to the execution of the purposes of the organization. \textit{Ibid.}

A mutual insurance company or association is a corporation for pecuniary profit, but under the provisions of Code Supplement § 1333-d it seems that there may be county mutual associations which are not corporations for pecuniary profit; the tax thus imposed is not a property tax, but a business or license tax. \textit{Iowa Mut. Tornado Assn. v. Gilbertson}, 129-658.

SEC. 1642-a. Change of name or amendments—how effected by corporations heretofore organized. Any corporation heretofore organized under chapter 2 of title IX of the code, for the maintenance of a hospital or home for destitute or unfortunate women or orphaned or abandoned children, and whose membership is made to depend on the payment of dues and is indefinite or uncertain for any reason, and which has not issued certificates of membership, may at any time change the name of such corporation or amend its articles of incorporation by a vote of at least three-fourths of its governing board of directors or trustees at a meeting called and held for that purpose, after giving four weeks' notice thereof by publication, made in the same manner as original notices, of the time, place and purpose of such meeting. [32 G. A., ch. 250, § 1.]

SEC. 1642-b. Change of name and amendments legalized. Any corporation so organized under chapter 2 of title IX of the code which shall have heretofore adopted articles of incorporation, or changed its name or amended its articles and some question has arisen as to whether such articles, change in name or amendment was adopted by a majority of the members of such corporation as required by section 1651 of the code, and such corporation shall have been engaged in the exercise of its corporate functions for the period of at least three years, such articles, change in name or amendment, shall be held and considered to have been duly adopted by a majority of all the members of such corporation, and are hereby legalized and made valid. [32 G. A., ch. 250, § 2.]

Under the statutory provision authorizing agricultural societies to award premiums, etc., such society has power to authorize trials of speed on its grounds and such lawful games or amusements as its officers and directors may in their discretion see fit to arrange for in furnishing amusement and entertainment as well as instruction to those attending. Therefore the directors of such society are not liable in their individual capacity for neglect to provide protection to spectators against dangers incident to the playing of such games as are authorized. Williams v. Dean, 111 N. W. 931.
SEC. 1659. List of awards. [C., '73, § 1110; R., § 1698.] [28 G. A., ch. 59, § 2.]

SEC. 1660. Appropriation from county—question submitted—notice—title in county—control. When a county agricultural society shall have produced in fee simple, free from incumbrance, land for fair grounds, not less than ten acres in extent, or hold and occupy such amount of land by virtue of a lease, and own and have thereon buildings and improvements worth at least two thousand dollars, the board of supervisors of the county may appropriate and pay to it a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars for every thousand inhabitants in the county, to be expended by it in fitting up or purchasing such fair grounds, but for no other purpose; but the aggregate amount so appropriated shall not exceed one thousand dollars to any one society. And said corporation is authorized to erect and maintain buildings and make such other improvements on said real estate as is necessary, but the county shall not be liable for such improvements, or the expenditures therefor. When any society fails to report, according to law, on or before the first day of November, that society shall not receive a warrant from the state auditor for that year, but the secretary of the state board of agriculture shall notify the county auditor of the county in which the society is located of such failure, and the board of supervisors may appoint a delegate to the annual meeting or state agriculture [agricultural] convention, said delegate to be a resident of said county. [27 G. A., ch. 43, § 1.] [28 G. A., ch. 59, § 1.]

SEC. 1672. Printing and distribution. [20 G. A., ch. 128; C., '73, § 1121.] [29 G. A., ch. 68, § 2.]

SEC. 1675. Farmers' institutes—state aid—appropriation. When forty or more farmers of a county organize a farmers' county institute, with a president, secretary, treasurer, and an executive committee of not less than three outside of such officers, and hold an institute, remaining in session not less than two days in each year, which institute may be adjourned from time to time and place to place in said county, the county auditor, upon proof of such organization and such institute having been held, together with an itemized statement, showing the manner in which the money herein appropriated has been expended, shall certify the same to the auditor of state, who shall remit to the treasurer of such county his warrant for not to exceed seventy-five dollars, and there is hereby appropriated, out of the moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum not to exceed seventy-five dollars annually for such institute work in each county. No officer of any such farmers' institute shall receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation from said state fund for services as such officer. [24 G. A., ch. 58, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 69, § 1.]

CHAPTER 4. OF INSURANCE OTHER THAN LIFE.

SECTION 1687. Name.

An insurance company, although authorized to do business by the auditor of state may be enjoined from using a name which is so similar to the name of a foreign insurance company authorized to do business in the state that it is calculated to deceive the public. Atlas Assurance Co. v. Atlas Assurance Co., 112 N. W. 232.

SEC. 1689. Kind of company. Every insurance company organized as provided in this chapter shall, if it be a mutual company, embody the word "mutual" in its title, which must appear upon the first page of every policy and renewal receipt; and every company doing business as a stock company shall, upon the face of its policies, express in some suitable manner that such policies are issued by a stock company. Provided that from and after July 4, 1906, no company shall be organized upon the mutual plan, under the provisions of this chapter, for the purpose of transacting the business specified in subdivisions one (1) and four (4) of section seventeen hundred and nine (1709) of the supplement to the code. [C., '73, § 1140.] [31 G. A., ch. 68.]

The provisions as to mutual benefit associations are distinct from those for the incorporation of mutual companies, and the statutory requirement that the word "mutual" shall be included in the name of the company organized under the later provisions has no application to such a society. Moore v. Union Fraternal Assn., 103-424.

SEC. 1690. Stock or mutual.

A mutual company cannot issue policies contrary appears. One contracting with the company is not bound to know at his peril whether the company has complied with the condition authorizing it to do a stock insurance business. Harris-Emery Co. v. Pitcairn, 122-595.

A company issuing a policy on the stock plan will be presumed to have authority to issue such a policy until the contrary states. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

A company issuing a policy on the stock plan will be presumed to have authority to issue such a policy until the contrary appears. One contracting with the company is not bound to know at his peril whether the company has complied with the condition authorizing it to do a stock insurance business. Harris-Emery Co. v. Pitcairn, 122-595.

SEC. 1698. Secretary and other officers—by-laws—records.

By-laws duly adopted, but not posted as required by law, are valid and controlling as to all persons informed of their existence, the posting being required for the sole purpose of imparting constructive notice, and if the existence of the by-laws is expressly recognized, the person who receives such certificate is bound thereby. Fee v. National Masonic Acc. Assn., 110-271.

While members of a mutual company may be bound by by-laws adopted after they become members, nevertheless the terms of a policy of insurance will be presumed to be governed by the by-laws in force when it is issued, and not to be affected by those subsequently adopted. Farmers' Mut. Hail Ins. Assn. v. Slattery, 115-410.

SEC. 1699. Funds invested.

While as between the state and the company the investment of its surplus in bank stock may be unauthorized, such a transaction entered into by the officers for the purpose of avoiding loss to the company may be so ratified by the directors in taking advantage of the benefits thereof as to estop the corporation from treating the transaction as "ultra vires." Fidelity Ins. Co. v. German Sav. Bank, 127-591.

SEC. 1706. Settlement of losses.

The authority of making assessments conferred on the directors is exclusive and cannot be exercised by other officers under the direction of such directors. Farmers' Milling Co. v. Mill Owners' Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 127-314.

SEC. 1709. Kinds of insurance—limitation of risk. Any company organized under this chapter or authorized to do business in this state may:

1. Insure houses, buildings, and all other kinds of property against loss or damage by fire or other casualty, and make all kinds of insurance on goods, merchandise, moneys and securities or other property in the course of transportation, whether on land or water, or any vessel or boat wherever the same may be; [31 G. A., ch. 72, § 2.]

The statutory provision authorizing insurance against "loss or damage by fire or other casualty" is sufficiently broad to cover such casualty as burglary. Ibid.

In ordinary usage, "casualty" is commonly applied to losses and injuries which happen suddenly and unexpectedly, not in the usual course of events, and without any design on the part of the person suffering the injury, although the result is brought about by the conscious or intended act of another. Ibid.

2. Insure the fidelity of persons holding places of private or public trust, or execute as surety any bond or other obligation required or permitted by law to be made, given or filed, except bonds required in criminal causes. None but stock companies shall engage in fidelity and surety business;

3. Insure the safe keeping of books, papers, moneys, stocks, bonds and all kinds of personal property, and receive them on deposit;

4. Insure horses, cattle and other live stock against loss or damage by accident, theft or any unknown or contingent event which may be the subject of legal insurance, and stock companies may insure horses and registered cattle against loss by death from disease or accident; [31 G. A., ch. 69.]

5. Insure the health of persons and against personal injuries, disablement or death resulting from traveling or general accidents by land or water, insure against loss or damage to property caused by the accidental discharge or leakage of water from automatic sprinkling systems, and insure employers against loss in consequence of accidents or casualties of any kind to employees or other persons, or to property resulting from any act of an employe, or any accident or casualty to persons or property, or both, occurring in or connected with the transaction of their business, or from the operation of any machinery connected therewith; [31 G. A., ch. 70, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 71, § 1.]

6. Insure against loss or injury to person or property, or both, growing out of explosion or rupture of steam boilers;

7. Any insurance company organized and incorporated on the stock or mutual plan may insure against loss or damage resulting from burglary or robbery, or attempt thereat. A mutual company organized under this subdivision shall not issue any policy to any person, firm, or corporation other than banks, bankers, loan companies, trust companies, and county treasurers. Provided, also, that companies organized to transact business as provided by this subdivision seven (7) may hold their annual meetings in the month of July, instead of January; [31 G. A., ch. 72, § 1.]

8. Insure or guarantee and indemnify merchants, traders and those engaged in business and giving credit from loss and damage by reason of giving and extending credit to their customers and those dealing with them, which business shall be known as credit insurance. SEC. 1710. Repeal—kinds of risks—limitations. That the law which appears as section seventeen hundred and ten (1710) of the supplement to the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

No company organized by either of the methods provided in this chapter, or authorized to do business in this state, shall issue policies of insurance for more than one (1) of the eight (8) purposes mentioned in the preceding section, or expose itself to loss on any one risk, or hazard, to an amount exceeding ten per cent. of its paid up capital, unless the excess shall be re-insured in some other good and reliable company except as in this section provided as follows: Any stock company organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of transacting the business specified in subdivision five (5) of the preceding section with one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars capital stock, seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars of which is paid up in cash, may in addition to insuring against the casualties specified in subdivision five (5), also insure against injury or loss to persons, or property, or both, growing out of explosion, or rupture, of steam boilers and insure plate glass against breakage from accident; and any stock company organized under the laws of any other state, or nation, and authorized under the laws of this state to transact the business specified in subdivision five (5) of the preceding section, may if it has a paid up capital of two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000) dollars, in addition to insuring against the casualties specified in subdivision five (5) of the preceding section, also insure against the casualties specified in subdivision six (6), or insure plate glass against breakage from accident, or if such company is possessed of a paid up capital of three hundred thousand ($300,000) dollars, it may, in addition to insuring against the casualties specified in subdivision five (5), also insure against the casualties specified in subdivision six (6), or also insure plate glass against breakage from accident, provided further, however, that any stock company now or hereafter authorized under the laws of this state to transact the business described in division two (2) or subdivision five (5) of the preceding section shall, in addition to such insurance, also be authorized to insure against loss, or damage, resulting from theft, larceny, burglary, robbery, or attempt thereof. The restrictions as to the amount of risk a company may assume, shall not apply to companies organized to guarantee the fidelity of persons in places of public or private trust, nor to companies that receive on deposit and guarantee the safe keeping of books, papers, moneys and other personal property. [31 G. A., ch. 70, § 2.][31 G. A., ch. 71, § 2.]

SEC. 1714. Annual statement.

The statement required as to the financial condition of an insurance company is intended not alone for the information of the auditor, to enable him to determine whether he should issue a certificate, but also by way of information to the public. The fact that such statement is required to be published indicates such legislative intention. Therefore not only one who contracts for insurance, but also one who becomes a purchaser of stock of the company, is entitled to rely upon such statements, and a purchaser of stock may recover damages against an officer of a company for an intentional false statement which has operated to his prejudice.

Warfield v. Clark, 118-69.

The provision that the statement shall show expenditures for the preceding year, and also the amount of losses paid during that time, how much subsequent to the date of the preceding statement, and the amount at which such losses were estimated in such statement, implies that some of the matters to be included in the statement are to be given by way of estimate. Ibid.

SEC. 1720-a. Repeal—auditor's report. That section seventeen hundred twenty (1720) of the code be repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"He shall cause the information contained in the statements required of the companies organized or doing business in the state to be arranged in detail, and prepare the same for printing, which report shall be made to the governor on or before the first day of May of each year." [28 G. A., ch. 62, § 1.]

SEC. 1722. Service of process.
It is the written consent of the corporation, and not the statute itself, which confers on the auditor power to acknowledge service. Greaves v. Posner, 111-651.

SEC. 1724. Certificate.
The power to exclude foreign corporations includes the right to preclude such corporations from continuing in business without complying with the provisions imposed by statute. Manchester Ins. Co. v. Herriott, 91 Fed. 711.

SEC. 1725. Agent to have certificate of authority.
It is only upon compliance with statutory requirements that foreign companies become entitled to do business within the state. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126-643.

Forfeitures are not favored and the provisions of this section are mandatory and must be strictly followed. McDonald v. Anchor Mut. Ins. Co., 116-371.

SEC. 1727. Forfeiture of policies.
Error in stating the amount of the short rate, as fixed by the auditor under the provisions of Code § 1729, will defeat the forfeiture. Ibid.

SEC. 1728. Cancellation of policy.
An association purporting to be organized under the provisions of § 1160 of the Code of 1878, but in fact exacting premium notes instead of assessments from its members, thereby subjected itself to the requirements of 18 G. A., chap. 210 (Code § 1727), as to giving notice of forfeiture on account of non-payment of such notes. Bradford v. Mut. Ins. Co., 112-495.

SEC. 1731. Examination—dissolution.
An insurance company may enforce assessments for the purpose of making good a depletion of its capital, without a requirement from the auditor of state directing such assessment. Iowa National Bank v. Cooper, 131-556.
SEC. 1737. Repeal—certificates of compliance—how published. That section seventeen hundred and thirty-seven (1737) of the code, be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The auditor of state shall annually, as soon as practicable after the first of March, publish in two newspapers of general circulation, a statement made up from the annual report of every insurance company of the character provided for in this chapter and doing business in this state whether organized under the laws of this or any other state, which statements shall contain a synopsis of the company's annual report and shall show that the company has in all respects complied with the laws of the state relating to insurance and is authorized to transact business in the state. One publication as above contemplated, shall be made at the seat of government, and in case of companies organized in this state and located elsewhere than in the city of Des Moines, the other shall be made in the county in which the home office of the company is located. The fee for each publication shall be six ($6.00) dollars, which shall be paid to the auditor of state of the time and in the manner provided for in section seventeen hundred and ninety-two (1792) supplement to the code and shall be by him paid to the papers making the publication upon receipt of a bill for same, together with an affidavit by the publisher or foreman showing that such publication has been properly made, the same to be filed within thirty days from the date of such publication." [31 G. A., ch. 73.]

The fact that the application is not embodied in or attached to the policy does not preclude proof of the terms of the application in a suit by the insured against members and officers of a mutual benefit association to compel the payment of the assessment, where such evidence is sought to be introduced for the purpose of showing that the assured knew that the company was conducted on the assessment plan. Moore v. Union Fraternal Aec. Assn., 103-424.

The purpose of the statutory provisions under which it is necessary to set the application out in or attach it to the policy is, that when the application is made a part of the contract a true copy must be attached to the policy, so that the writings composing the contract may all appear together and that the insured may be in possession of the evidence of what his contract is. Therefore, held, that the statute contemplates more than a mere substantial copy of the application and yet not a true likeness or fac-simile. The copy must be so exact and accurate as that upon comparison it can be said to be a true copy without resorting to construction. Johnson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 105-273.

Where a copy of an application attached to or incorporated in the policy is defective and incomplete, the company is precluded from proving the falsity of the representations in the application as a defense to an action on the policy. Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-841.

Where the copy of an application attached to the policy is totally defective and insufficient, the company cannot show misrepresentations or breach of conditions contained in such application. Corson v. Iowa Mut. Fire Ins. Assn., 115-485.

The provisions of this section are applicable to mutual companies, notwithstanding the provisions of Code § 1759. Ibid.

A premium note, non-payment of which will by the terms of the application render the policy void, must be set out as a part of the application under the provisions of this section. (Following Lewis v. Burlington Ins. Co., 71-97; s. c. 80-259.) Summers v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 116-593.

The examiners' report on an application for life insurance is not a part of the application or representation of the assured, and is not required to be included in the copy of the application. The same is true as to notes of instructions given for making the application and answers and notes and indorsements upon the back of the application made for mere convenience. Johnson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 105-273.

Where the copy of the application attached to the policy indicated that it had been signed, but did not show a copy of the signature, held, that it was not such copy as required by the statute, and the terms of the application could not be considered in an action on the policy. Seiler v. Economic L. Assn., 105-87.

It is the application or representations of the assured only that is required to be attached to or indorsed upon the policy. It is not necessary to indorse thereon provisions found in the by-laws of a mutual

Endorsement of a copy of the application upon the policy, or its attachment thereto, is a necessary foundation for pleading the falsity of statements made therein. Parker v. Des Moines L. Assn., 108-117.

The provisions of chap. 211, acts of 18 G. A., embodied in this section, held applicable to fraternal societies issuing certificates on lives of members. Stork v. Supreme Lodge K. of F., 113-724.

The statutory provision requiring insurance companies to attach a copy of the application to each policy of insurance is applicable to fidelity insurance companies. United States F. & G. Co. v. Egg Shippers' Strawboard & F. Co., 148 Fed. 353.

SEC. 1742. Evidence of value—proofs—action.

Evidence of value: The statute does not attempt to fix, as the measure of recovery in case of the destruction of buildings, any other than the actual value of the building at the time of loss. If, after the prima facie showing made by proof of the amount of insurance, the company shall offer evidence to show the actual value to be less, then the amount of recovery becomes a question for the jury, and the actual value is as the jury shall find it. The parties may, by contract, stipulate for the ascertainment of this actual value by appraisers as a condition precedent to the right of action. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 108-341.

Whether the latter part of this section is applicable in case of loss of personal property covered by the policy, quaere, Westenhaver v. German-American Ins. Co., 113-726.

Where a policy for $4000 was issued under an arrangement with the soliciting agent that total insurance to the extent of $7000 should be procured on the property, held that in an action on the $4000 policy the total amount of insurance contemplated was prima facie the value of the property insured. Wenoel v. Property Mutual Ins. Assn., 129-295.

Proofs of loss furnished to the company are only admissible in evidence in the first instance to establish the fact that they were so furnished. If a schedule attached to such proofs is referred to by a witness as furnishing a correct statement of the items of property destroyed and the value thereof, it may be introduced in evidence in connection with such testimony, but the two purposes should be kept distinct. Names v. Union Ins. Co., 104-612.

Under previous statutory provisions held that proofs of death in a particular case were not sufficient. Stephenson v. Bankers' Life Assn., 108-637.

SEC. 1742-a. Proofs of loss. In furnishing proofs of loss under any contract of insurance for damages or loss of personal property it shall only be necessary for the assured, within sixty days from the time the loss occurs, to give notice in writing to the company issuing such contract of insurance accompanied by an affidavit, stating the facts as to how the loss occurred, so far as same are within his knowledge, and the extent of the loss, any agreement or contract to the contrary notwithstanding. [29 G. A., ch. 73, § 1.]

The provisions of the policy relating to proofs of loss are superseded by the statutory provisions so far as they are inconsistent. American Cereal Co. v. Western Assur. Co., 148 Fed. 77.

SEC. 1743. Conditions. Any condition or stipulation in an application policy or contract of insurance, making the policy void before the loss occurs, shall not prevent recovery thereon by the insured, if it shall be shown by the plaintiff that the failure to observe such provision or the violation thereof did not contribute to the loss: provided, however, that any condition or stipulation referring to any other insurance, valid or invalid, or to vacancy of the insured premises or the title or ownership of the property insured, or to lien, or incumbrances thereon created by voluntary act of the insured and within his control, or to the suspension or forfeiture of the policy during default or failure to pay any written obligation given to the insurance company for the premium, or to the assignment or transfer of such policy of insurance before loss without the consent of the insurance company, or to the removal of the property in-
The provision has no application to the failure of the insured to comply with a condition precedent to the taking effect of the policy. Banco De Sonora v. Bankers' Mut. Casualty Co., 124-576.

A breach of warranty or condition constitutes, generally speaking, no defense, if it appears that such breach did not occasion or contribute to the loss; but the defense based on change in use or occupancy is good if such change makes the risk in fact more hazardous. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 127-748.

The burden is on the insured suing on the policy to show that change in use or occupancy in violation of the provisions of the policy did not contribute to the loss. Ibid.

The fact that the furniture in a dwelling house is insured after taking a policy on the house itself, does not in the absence of fraud or over-insurance constitute an increase of hazard as to the building. Ibid.

Breach of an agreement to keep a set of books in an iron safe will not defeat recovery for a loss under the policy unless it is pleaded and proven that such breach contributed to the loss. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 128-565.

A provision in the policy that the removal of the property shall be deemed an increase of the risk as a matter of law is void in view of the statutory provision that the breach of the condition as to removal shall not affect the validity of the policy unless it increases the risk. The burden is on the insured to show that the removal, in violation of the terms of the policy, did not cause or contribute to the loss, but the burden is on the company to show, as a matter of defense, that it increased the risk. Adams v. Atlas Mut. Ins. Co., 112 N. W. 651.

SEC. 1744. Notice and proof of loss—time of bringing action—provisions not affected by contract. The notice of loss and proof thereof required in section seventeen hundred and forty-two hereof, and the notice and proof of loss under oath in case of insurance on personal property, shall be given within sixty days from the time loss occurred, and no action for such loss shall be begun within forty days after such notice and proofs have been given to the company, nor shall the time within which action shall be brought be limited to less than one year from the time when a cause of action for the loss accrues. No provisions of any policy or contract to the contrary shall affect the provisions of this and the three preceding sections. [18 G. A., ch. 211, § 3.] [27 G. A., ch. 44, § 1.]

Proofs of loss: The statutory requirement as to notice and proofs of loss is all that can be made essential by the contract. A notice and affidavit are sufficient to constitute the proof required. The sufficiency of the document is not dependent on the intent, but on the contents. Parks v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 106-402.

This statute concerning proofs of loss supersedes the provisions of a policy of Stipulations in a policy that no officer or agent shall have power to waive any provision or condition of the policy, except such as by the terms of the policy may be subject of agreement endorsed thereon or added thereto, do not prevent waiver of proofs of loss by an officer or agent having general authority to do so. Such a stipulation relates to the conditions and provisions of the policy and not to the company's performance. Ibid., and Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

The provisions of 18 G. A., Chap. 211, Secs. 107-825, 110-423, are regarded unimportant, although certain proofs are required by the policy. Parsons v. A O. U. W., 108-526.

Waiver: Good faith requires that upon receipt of proofs of loss, if the company is not satisfied therewith, it should specify its objections thereto, to the end that the proofs may be perfected if possible, and if the company fails to specify the objections at a time when they might be remedied, it should not afterwards be heard to urge them. Dyer v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 106-107.

The action of the company in asking for an arbitration to determine the amount to be paid is a waiver of defects in the proofs or notice of loss known to the company before the arbitration took place. Dee & Sons Co. v. Key City F. Ins. Co., 104-167.

Notwithstanding a provision in the policy that none of its terms or conditions can be waived by any person except in writing by the secretary of the company, and that no agent has any authority to waive or modify any printed conditions of the policy, an adjusting agent having general authority to do so, relies on the company for duplicate invoices, which are prepared at considerable expense, the company waives the requirement. Parsons v. A O. U. W., 108-526.

Failure to object to the proofs of loss because not accompanied with affidavit, as required, amounts to a waiver of objection on this ground. Pringle v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 107-742.

Where the company refuses payment on the ground that the policy has been suspended in consequence of failure to pay an installment of premium, waiver of proofs of loss may be inferred. Pray v. Life Indemnity & Security Co., 104-114; Smith v. Continental Ins. Co., 108-382.

Unqualified refusal to pay constitutes a waiver on the part of the insurance company of proofs of death, where something purporting to be proofs of death has been received by the company and not objected to. Stephenson v. Bankers' Life Asen., 108-672.

The promise to the company to pay is as effective as the waiver of proofs, as a denial of liability and the promise of settlement is inconsistent with insistence on strict compliance with the conditions of the contract. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Telegrams from insured advising the company of the loss and giving it all information which the insured could be supposed to have may constitute sufficient proof of the loss and by failing to object for want of an affidavit to such proofs, the company waives the requirement. Nicholas v. Iowa Merch. Mut. Ins. Co., 125-262.

An agent having power to adjust a loss has authority to waive formal proofs of loss. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Where the adjuster requires the procurement of duplicate invoices, which are prepared at considerable expense, the company cannot afterwards object that the proofs of loss are not sufficient. If the conduct of the company is such as to induce the insured to rest, in good faith, under the well-founded belief of strict compliance, and that the conditions will not be insisted on, it cannot afterwards set up non-compliance of such conditions as a bar to recovery. Ibid. Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-641.

Time for bringing action: Where action is prematurely brought because of failure of insured to demand an appraisal he cannot cure the defect in his proceeding by subsequently demanding such appraisal and setting out the fact in the supplemental petition. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 102-613.

The statutory provision cannot be waived and an action brought in less than ninety days after notice of loss or a waiver of notice and proof is premature. Blood v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 103-728.

Although in the second action, it is claimed that the first action was not prematurely brought, this will not sustain the second action brought after the period of limitation under the policy has expired. Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 103-532.

Where the first action for a loss under a policy was prematurely brought and subsequently another action was brought after the time limited in the policy for bringing action, held, that the second action was not to be deemed a continuation of the first action under the provisions of Code § 3455. Harrison v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 67 Fed. 298.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, as to time of bringing action, were not applicable to associations organized under § 1160 of the Code of '73, but associations collecting premiums instead of assessments from members were not properly organized under that section, and therefore were subject to the provisions of said act of 18 G. A. Bradford v. Mutual Ins. Co., 112-495.

Where the policy limited the time of bringing action to six months next after the fire, held, that the six months commenced to run not from the time of the fire, but from the time when the loss became payable, that is, sixty days after the notice and proof of loss were furnished. Read v. State Ins. Co., 103-307.

The provision of this section as to time of bringing suit held applicable to a loss occurring prior to the taking effect of the Code, when the statute provided that suit should not be brought within ninety days. Such a statutory provision relates to the remedy, and is no part of the contract.

SEC. 1745. Forms of policies.

The provision of a policy for cancellation by the insured should not be construed as requiring repayment of premiums by the company before such cancellation can become effective. Parsons v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co., 123-532.

SEC. 1746. Other insurance—pro-rating.

A stipulation to include a void policy in determining the pro rata liability of the company cannot be enforced, and the fact that the company issuing the void policy may have treated it as valid, cannot affect the liability of the company issuing a subsequent policy. Gurnett v. Atlas Mut. Ins. Co., 124-547.

SEC. 1749. Advertisements—soliciting agents.

An agent instructed to procure insurance is liable to his principal for any loss resulting from procuring insurance in a company not authorized to do business in the state. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126-643.

SEC. 1750. Who deemed agent.

A soliciting agent with power to take and forward applications and receive money to be paid when the insurance is effected, does not have authority to bind the company by declarations as to the validity of the contract of insurance or as to the rights and liabilities of the company, when such declarations are not made while discharging his duties as agent in the transaction in question. Schoep v. Bankers' Alliance Ins. Co., 104-354.

An adjusting agent with authority to ascertain and settle losses has of necessity power to determine what proofs are satisfactory and to waive those which are regarded as unimportant. Brock v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 106-30.

An agent having the power to transact all the business within the apparent scope or usual extent of his employment in issuing policies may waive the conditions of a policy as to incumbrances, notwithstanding a provision in the policy denying such authority to the agent. Liquid Carbonic Acid Mfg. Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 126-225.

SEC. 1752. Fees. There shall be paid to the auditor of state for services required under the provisions of this chapter the following fees, which shall be accounted for by him in the same manner as other fees received in the discharge of the duties of his office:

1. For filing and examination of the first application of any company and accompanying articles of incorporation for organization in this state, and the issuing of the permission to do business, ten dollars;

2. For filing application of any foreign company for certificate to do business in this state, and the accompanying certified copy of charter or article of incorporation, twenty-five dollars;
§§ 1754-1758-a INSURANCE OTHER THAN LIFE. Title IX, Ch. 4.

3. For permission to foreign company to do business in this state, or certified copy thereof, two dollars;
4. For filing annual statement of a domestic company, and issuing the renewal of the permission required by law to authorize continuance in business, three dollars;
5. For filing annual statement of a foreign company, twenty dollars, and issuing renewal of permission, two dollars;
6. For certificate of authority to agent of foreign company, two dollars;
7. For each certificate of authority to agent of domestic company, fifty cents;
8. For every copy of any paper filed, the sum of twenty cents per folio, and for affixing the official seal to such copy and certifying the same, one dollar;
9. For each certificate for publication of foreign companies, two dollars, and for each certificate for publication of Iowa companies, fifty cents.

SEC. 1754. Combinations.

The statutory prohibition of combinations between fire insurance companies in relation to the rates of commissions or the manner of transacting business are not in violation of the state constitution prohibiting the granting of special privileges and immunities, and requiring general laws to be uniform in operation. But so far as such provisions make it unlawful for two or more companies to enter into any agreement as to the amount of commissions to be allowed agents, they are invalid as depriving the companies of the liberty of contract, secured by the federal constitution. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 Fed. 121. (As to the second point this case is reversed. Carroll v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 199 U. S., 401.)

SEC. 1758-a. Additions, riders and clauses permitted.

It shall be unlawful for any insurance company to issue any policy of fire insurance upon any property in this state other or different from the standard form of fire insurance policy herein set forth, except,

I. It may print in its policy its name, location, date of incorporation, amount of its paid up capital stock, (if a stock company), names of its officers and agents, the number and date of the policy, the amount (under dollar mark) for which it was issued, and if issued through an agent the words: “This policy shall not be valid until countersigned by the duly authorized agent of this company at ..................”

II. It may use in or upon its policy forms or slips of the description, location and specifications of the property insured, together with permits upon such conditions not in conflict with the provisions of law, as may be agreed upon, for the use or storage of electricity, gasoline, explosives, or other extra hazardous products or materials; for repairs or improvements; for the operation or ceasing to operate; and for the vacancy of the premises; and permits for hazards other than those specifically mentioned above; also a mortgagee’s or loss payable clause, and other permits or riders, not in conflict with law.

III. It may also by written or printed clause upon such conditions not in conflict with the provisions of law as may be agreed upon, provide that a policy shall cover any loss or damage caused by lightning, tornadoes, cyclones, hail or windstorms not exceeding the sum insured or the interest of the insured in the property; provided, if there shall be other valid insurance on such property, whereby the same is insured against loss by lightning, tornadoes, cyclones, hail or windstorms, said company shall be liable only pro rate with such other valid and collectible insurance for any such loss by lightning, tornadoes, cyclones, hail or windstorms.
IV. Any company incorporated in this state, or authorized to do business herein, shall print in its policy or attach thereto any provision which such company is required by law to insert in its policies or attach thereto, not included in the provisions of this policy, but such provisions shall be printed apart from the other conditions and agreements of this policy and under a separate title as follows: "Provisions required by law to be stated in the policy of insurance."

V. It shall print upon its policy issued in compliance with the preceding provisions of this act, the words: IOWA STANDARD FIRE INSURANCE POLICY. [32 G. A., ch. 76, § 1.]

SEC. 1758-b. Standard fire insurance policy—form. The policy shall be plainly printed, and no part thereof shall be in type smaller than brevier; the conditions thereof shall be printed in double column form with numbered lines, and such policy shall be in terms and conditions as follows:

I. In consideration of the stipulations herein named and of .......... dollars, does insure ............... for the term of ............... from the ...... day of ...... 19... at noon, (standard time), to the ...... day of ...... 19... at noon, (standard time), against all direct loss or damage by fire, except as hereinafter provided, to an amount not exceeding .......... dollars, to the following described property, while located and contained as described herein, and not elsewhere, to wit:

It is hereby agreed that the insured may obtain $ .......... additional insurance in companies authorized to do business in the state of Iowa.

II. This company shall not be liable beyond the actual cash value of the property covered by this policy at the time any loss or damage occurs, and said liability shall in no event exceed what it would cost the insured to repair or replace the property lost or damaged with material of like kind and quality. The sum for which this company is liable pursuant to this policy, shall be payable forty days after due notice and proofs of loss have been received by this company in accordance with law.

III. This policy shall be void if the insured has concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstance concerning this insurance or the subject thereof.

IV. Unless otherwise provided by agreement of this company this policy shall be void:
   (a) If the insured now has or shall hereafter procure any other contract of insurance valid or invalid on the property covered in whole or in part by this policy; or

   (c) If the building herein described, whether intended for occupancy by the owner or tenant be or become vacant or unoccupied and so remain for ten consecutive days; or
   (d) If the interest of the insured be other than unconditional and sole ownership; or
   (e) If the subject of insurance be a building on ground not owned by the insured; or
   (f) If any change other than by death of the insured whether by legal proceedings, judgment, voluntary act of the insured or otherwise, take place in the interest, title, possession or use of the subject of insurance, if such change in the possession or use makes the risk more hazardous; or § 1758-b  INSURANCE OTHER THAN LIFE.  Title IX, Ch. 4.

(g) If the subject of insurance or a part thereof (as to the part so encumbered) be or become encumbered by lien, mortgage or otherwise created by voluntary act of the insured or within his control; or

(h) If the property insured or any part thereof (as to the part so removed) be removed to any other building or location than that specified in the policy; or

(i) If this policy be assigned before loss.

V. Unless otherwise provided by agreement of this company, this policy shall be void:

(a) If the subject of insurance be a manufacturing establishment, and it be operated in whole or in part at night later than 10 o’clock; or

(b) If the hazard be increased by any means within the knowledge of the insured; or

(c) If mechanics be employed in building, altering or repairing the within described premises for more than fifteen days at any one time; or

(d) If illuminating gas or vapor be generated in any building covered hereby, or on any premises adjacent thereto for use upon the insured premises; or

OF STIPULATED PREMIUM AND ASSESSMENT LIFE INSURANCE ASSOCIATIONS.

SECTION 1784. Repeal—defined. That the law as it appears in section seventeen hundred and eighty-four (1784) of the supplement to the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Every corporation organized upon the assessment plan, for the purpose of insuring the lives of individuals or furnishing benefits to the widows, heirs, orphans or legatees of deceased members, or insuring the health of persons or furnishing accident indemnity, shall be styled an association, and any corporation doing business under this chapter which provides for the payment of policy claims, accumulation of a reserve or emergency fund, the expense of management and prosecution of the business, by payment of assessments as provided in its contracts, and wherein the liability of the insured to contribute to the payment of policy claims is not limited to a fixed amount, shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of life insurance upon the assessment plan, and shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter, and chapter eight, of title nine of the code." [31 G. A., ch. 75.]

The statutory provisions with reference to mutual benefit associations, held to be applicable to an association organized under such provisions, although it had not fully complied therewith. Crocker v. Hugon, 103-243.

Life insurance companies, except as otherwise specially provided, are incorporated under the general provision as to the formation of corporations. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

SEC. 1784-a. Repeal. That the law as it appears in sections seventeen hundred eighty-four-a (1784-a) to seventeen hundred eighty-four-o (1784-o) inclusive, supplement to the code be and the same are hereby repealed. [31 G. A., ch. 76.]

SEC. 1786. Name.

The provisions of Code § 1689 as to associations organized under this chapter, including the word "mutual" in the name of a mutual company has no application to associations organized under this chapter. Moore v. Union Frat. Acc. Assn., 103-424.

SEC. 1787. Conditions for commencing business.

Under the bond given by the president of an assessment life insurance company, the sureties are not liable to a receiver of the company for moneys wrongfully paid by him to one member which were collected for the benefit of another who has in turn been satisfied from funds subsequently collected or for money misappropriated after the expiration of the bond. Sherman v. Harbin, 124-643.

Any act of the president of the association contrary to his duty under its articles of incorporation, even though directed or acquiesced in by the board of directors, constitutes a breach of duty involving liability of the surety on his official bond if it results in loss to the association. Sherman v. Harbin, 125-174.

A new bond executed on re-election for another year is a new and independent undertaking and not a continuance of the bond for the previous year. Ibid.

Auditing the books of the company being no part of the duty of the president, he is not liable under his official bond for not discovering errors overlooked by the auditing committee. Ibid.

The act of the president in diverting the beneficiary fund to the payment of expenses in resisting claims renders him liable on his bond. Ibid.

SEC. 1788. Assessments. The articles and by-laws of each such association and its notices of assessment shall state the objects to which the money to be collected is to be devoted, and no part of the proceeds thereof shall be applied to any other purpose than as stated, and the excess, if any, beyond payment of the benefit, shall be set aside and applied only to like purposes, except that all sums collected for expenses and not used for that purpose may be transferred to the benefit, emergency or reserve fund. [21 G. A., ch. 65, § 6.] [30 G. A., ch. 60.]

While in the enforcement of a claim for a death loss against a mutual benefit association resort must be had in the first place to an action in mandamus to compel a levy of an assessment, yet, where the corporation fails to make the levy at a time when it would be effectual in furnishing the fund for the payment of the claim, and postpones it until long after, when by reason of decrease in the membership in the association it becomes ineffectual, the association may be held liable in damages. Christie v. Iowa L. Ins. Co., 111-177.

In such case interest from the time the

SEC. 1789. Insurable age—beneficiary—assignment of policy.

Age: An association is not precluded by the provisions of this section from assuming by consolidation the liability of another association to a member, although at the time of such consolidation the member is over the age when a valid certificate could have been issued. Cathcart v. Equitable Mut. L. Asn., 111-471.

A company whose articles do not prohibit the insurance of persons over the age specified by Code § 1789 cannot by its by-laws render a contract of insurance with a person within the statutory age ultra vires and void. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

Change of beneficiary: The provision as to change of beneficiaries relates to the certificate and not to the fund, and the word “assignment” as here used is equivalent to the word “endorsement.” A beneficiary who is substituted by the act of the person whose life the certificate is issued is not an assignee of the certificate. Shuman v. Supreme K. of H., 110-480.

Where the right to change the beneficiary is specifically provided for in the certificate, and the manner of doing so is pointed out, the method indicated must be adopted and if that method involves the issuance of a new certificate, the endorsement of a certificate without the observance of the formalities required will not give the endorsee a right to the proceeds as against the beneficiaries designated by the certificate itself. Shuman v. A. O. U. W., 110-642.

Where the benefit was made payable to the wife of the deceased, who was disqualified to collect it on account of having feloniously caused the death of her husband, held that her heirs had no interest in the benefit fund, because the amount payable was held in trust by the association for the estate of the deceased. Schmidt v. Northern Life Asn., 112-41.

The beneficiary named in such a certificate has no property right therein, but only an expectancy. If a beneficiary is designated who does not belong to the class of persons enumerated by statute, the insurance becomes payable to those who would have been entitled to it in the absence of any designation. Ibid.

Where the parties have agreed upon a mode by which a change of beneficiary may be effected, the change can be made in that mode only, unless by subsequent agreement, assented to by the association, a different mode is substituted. Modern Woodmen v. Little, 114-109.

The beneficiary in a fraternal or mutual benefit association has no vested interest, but is subject to provisions as to changing beneficiaries and when the member has done all in his power to effect the change and entitle him to a new certificate in favor of the proposed beneficiary equity will carry out his purpose, although the actual issuance and acceptance of the new certificate were prevented by the death of the member. Wandell v. Mystic Toilers, 130-639.

And it seems that if by action of the local officer the member is misled as to the steps necessary to be taken, the association will be estopped to question the sufficiency of the change. Ibid.

This section applies to foreign as well as domestic companies. Belknap v. Johnston, 114-265.

Where the certificate is a contract of insurance, made in another state, and change of beneficiary is made and completed in that state, according to its laws, it will be valid. Ibid.
The right to change beneficiary existing in such other state at the time the contract was made cannot be affected by subsequent legislation of such state. Ibid.

Assignment: Where it was provided that the certificate should not be assignable in payment of or security for any debt, held, that the assignment thereof as a security was invalid and the creditor acquired no rights thereunder. Crocker v. Hogin, 103-243.

Rights of beneficiary: Until the beneficiary is changed by law, he has an actual, subsisting interest in the policy which will pass to his administrator in case of his death, and as against such beneficiary, or his administrator, suicide on the part of the insured is not a defense in the absence of a provision to that effect in the policy. But fraud, in procuring a policy with the intent to commit suicide, will vitiate the entire contract, and defeat recovery. Parker v. Des Moines Life Assn., 108-117.

Under an ordinary life policy the beneficiary has a vested right which cannot be impaired without his consent. Haerter v. Mohr, 114-636.

SEC. 1794. Foreign companies. Any association organized under the laws of any other state to carry on the business of insuring the lives of persons, or of furnishing benefits to the widows, orphans, heirs or legatees of deceased members, or of paying accident indemnity, or surrender value of certificates of insurance, upon the stipulated premium plan or assessment plan, may be permitted to do business in the state by complying with the requirements hereinafter made, but not otherwise. It shall file with the auditor of state a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, duly certified by the proper officers of the state wherein it was organized, together with a copy of its by-laws, application and policy or certificate of membership. It shall also file with the auditor a statement, signed and verified by its president and secretary, which shall show the name and location of the association, its principal place of business, the names of its president, secretary and other principal officers, the number of certificates or policies in force, the aggregate amount insured thereby, the amount paid to beneficiaries in the event of death or accident, the amount paid on the last death loss and the date thereof, the amount of cash or other assets owned by the association and how invested, and any other information which the auditor may require. The statement, papers and proofs thus filed shall show that the death loss or surrender value of the certificate of insurance or accident indemnity is in the main provided for by assessments upon or contributions by surviving members of such association, and that it is legally organized, honestly managed, and that an ordinary assessment upon its members or other regular contributions to its mortuary fund are sufficient to pay its maximum certificate to the full limit named therein. Upon its complying with the provisions of this section, and of section eighteen hundred and eight, chapter eight, of this title, and the payment of twenty-five dollars, the auditor shall issue to it a certificate of authority to do business in this state, provided the same right is extended by the state in which said association is organized to associations of the same class in this state. When the auditor doubts the solvency of any foreign association, and the failure to pay the full limit named in its certificate or policy shall be such evidence of its insolvency as to require the auditor to investigate it, he shall for this or other good cause, at the expense of such association, cause an examination of its books, papers and business to be made, and if upon such examination he finds that the association is not financially sound, or is not paying its policies or certificates in full, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or if it shall fail to make the statement required by law, he may revoke its authority and prohibit it from doing business until it shall again comply with the provisions of this chapter. If the auditor appoints some one not receiving a regular salary in his office to make this examination, such examiner shall receive five dollars per day for his services in addition to his actual traveling and hotel expenses, to be paid by the association examined, or by the state on the approval of the executive council, if the association fails to pay the same.

The provisions of this section shall apply to fraternal beneficiary associations doing exclusively an accident insurance business, and upon compliance with the provisions of this chapter, and the provisions of chapter eight of title nine of the code, so far as the same are applicable, such associations may be authorized to transact business within this state. [21 G. A., ch. 65, § 13.] [32 G. A., ch. 82.]

SEC. 1798-a. Future organization or authorization prohibited—valuation of policies of existing associations. No life insurance company or association, other than fraternal beneficiary associations, which issues contracts, the performance of which is contingent upon the payment of assessments of call made upon its members, shall do business within this state except such companies or associations as are now authorized to do business within this state and which shall value their assessment policies or certificates of membership as yearly renewable term policies according to the standard of valuation of life insurance policies prescribed by the laws of this state. [32 G. A., ch. 83, § 1.]

SEC. 1798-b. Reincorporation as legal reserve company. Any existing domestic assessment company or association may, with the written consent of the auditor of state, upon a majority vote of its trustees or directors, amend its articles of incorporation and by-laws in such manner as to transform itself into a legal reserve or level premium company, and upon so doing and upon procuring from the auditor of state a certificate of authority, as prescribed by law, to transact business in this state as a legal reserve or level premium company, shall incur the obligations and enjoy the benefits thereof, the same as though originally thus incorporated, and such corporation, under its charter as thus amended, shall be a continuation of such original corporation, and the officers thereof shall serve through their respective terms as provided in the original charter, but their successors shall be elected and serve as in such amended articles provided; but such amendment or re-incorporation shall not affect existing suits, rights or contracts. Any assessment company re-incorporated to transact life insurance business, shall value its assessment policies or certificates as yearly renewable term policies according to the standard of valuation of life insurance policies prescribed by the laws of this state. [32 G. A., ch. 83, § 2.]

CHAPTER 8.

OF PROVISIONS APPLYING TO LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND ASSOCIATIONS.

SECTION 1805. Policy exempt from execution.

The execution of an ordinary life policy confers immediately a vested right upon and raises an irrevocable trust in favor of the party named as beneficiary, a right which cannot be impaired without the beneficiary's consent. Haerther v. Mohr, 114-636.

The purpose of this section being to provide that the money derived from life or accident insurance shall enure to the benefit of the widow, exempt from her antecedent debts, it follows that she may invest a part or the whole thereof in property which shall be necessary for the comfort and support of her family, without impairing this right of exemption. The exemption is not limited to the money itself. Cook v. Allee, 119-226.

In the absence of any contract or arrangement, the proceeds of life insurance are not exempt in the hands of the heir from the debts of such heir. O'Melia v. Hoffmeyer, 119-444.

Where a bankrupt holds a policy payable to himself, his heirs or legal representatives, the surrender value thereof will be a part of the assets of his estate in bankruptcy, under the provisions of the federal bankrupt law. In re Lange, 91 Fed. 361; in re Steele, 98 Fed. 78.

The provisions of the bankrupt law as to exemption of policies of life insurance are only applicable to cases where there is no exemption by the state law, but so far as such policies are exempt by the state law such exemption is recognized under the general provisions as to exempt property. Steele v. Bue, 104 Fed. 965.

SEC. 1806. Repeal—investment of funds. That the law which appears as section eighteen hundred and six (1806), supplement to the code, be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The funds required by law to be deposited with the auditor of state by any company or association contemplated in the two chapters preceding, and the funds or accumulations of any such company or association organized under the laws of this state held in trust for the purpose of fulfilling any contract in its policies or certificates, shall be invested in the following described securities and no other:

1. The bonds of the United States;
2. The bonds of this state or of any other state when such bonds are at or above par;
3. Bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of any county, city, town or school district within the state or any other state, drainage district bonds of this state, improvement certificates issued by any municipal corporation of this state such certificates being a first lien upon real estate within the corporate limits of the municipality issuing the same, where such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness are issued by authority of and according to law and bearing interest, and are approved by the executive council;
4. Bonds and mortgages and other interest bearing securities being first liens upon real estate within this state or any other state worth at least double the amount loaned thereon and secured thereby exclusive of improvements, or two and one-half times such amount including the improvements thereon, if such improvements are constructed of brick or stone; but no such improvements shall be considered in estimating the value unless the owner shall contract to keep the same insured in some reliable fire insurance company or companies authorized to do business in the state, during the life of the loan, in a sum at least double the excess of the loan above one-half the value of the ground exclusive of the improvements, the insurance to be made payable in case of loss to the company or association investing its funds, as its interests may appear at the time of loss; provided that before a company or association may invest any of its funds in such securities as are specified in this subdivision of this section in any state other than the state of Iowa it shall first obtain consent of the executive council so to do;
5. Loans upon its own policies, where the same have been in force at least two full years, in an amount not exceeding the net terminal reserve. If such loan is made, the company must describe in the note or contract taken, the amount of the loan, the name of the borrower, the number of the policy, and the terms of such note or contract shall make the amount loaned a lien against such policy and such note or contract shall be numbered, dated and signed, giving the postoffice address of the insured.
6. Any such real estate in this state as is necessary for its accommodation as a home office and in the erection of any building for such purposes, it may add thereto rooms for rent; provided that before any company or association shall invest any of its funds, in accordance with the provisions of this subdivision it shall first obtain the consent of the executive council, and provide[d] further that not to exceed ten per cent.
of the lawful reserve of such company or association shall be so invested. Any company or association so investing its funds may use the value of any such home office as a part of the deposit of legal reserve in which case it shall convey the same to the auditor of state by deed, such property to be held by him in trust for the benefit of the policy-holders or members of the company or association. The value thereof to be determined from time to time by the auditor of state.

All such securities shall be deposited with the auditor of state, subject to his approval, and shall remain with him until withdrawn in accordance with law. Any company or association receiving payments or partial payments on any securities deposited with the auditor of state shall notify him of such fact, giving the amount and date of payment, within thirty (30) days after such payment shall have been made. The officers of any company or association which fails to report the receipt of payments or partial payments as above provided, shall be liable to a fine in double the amount collected and not reported within the time and in the manner above specified. It shall be the duty of the company or association and of the officers thereof to withdraw from deposit any loans made in accordance with the provisions of subdivision five (5) of this section within fifteen (15) days after the date of the lapsing or termination of any policy of insurance upon which any such loan is made. Any association making deposit with the auditor of state as herein contemplated, shall at the time of making request for the withdrawal of any securities designate for what purpose the same are desired to be withdrawn. The auditor of state shall have authority to suspend or revoke the certificate of authority of any company or association failing to comply with any of the provisions of this section or for violating the same.” [31 G. A., ch. 77.]

SEC. 1811. Defenses to actions on policies—intoxication.

This provision has no application to mutual benefit associations. Knapp v. Brotherhood, 128-566.

SEC. 1812. Physician's certificate.

To defeat recovery on account of false statements as to the health of the applicant, the defendant must show, not only that the statements of the applicant were false and fraudulent, but that the examiner was deceived thereby. But the defendant is not estopped by the certificate of the medical examiner from setting up fraud on the part of the applicant in procuring such certificate on which the policy was issued. Welch v. Union Central L. Ins. Co., 108-224.

The purpose of this statutory provision, estopping the company from setting up misrepresentations as to the health of deceased where a medical examiner has passed on the fitness of the applicant, is to prevent recovery being defeated on any policy where the company has, by its agent, examined and passed upon the fitness of the applicant for insurance, and it is quite immaterial what representations have been made, or warranties given. The fraud or deceit referred to in the statute is that of procuring the report or certificate of the physician and not the policy. Weimer v. Economic L. Assn., 108-451. Unless the examiner is deceived by answers in the application, or in some other way, the company is not entitled to have the condition of health of the insured at the time of the issuance of the policy investigated. In the absence of fraud or deceit practiced on the medical examiner the company is estopped from questioning the truthfulness of the answers made by the insured in the application. Stewart v. Equitable Mut. L. Ins. Assn., 110-529.

Under this section the company is estopped from inquiring into the correctness of answers in the application, in the absence of an allegation that the medical examiner's report was procured through fraud or deceit. The fact that the statements in such application amount to warranties is immaterial. Nelson v. Nederland L. Ins. Co., 110-600.

The provisions of this section evidently relate to procedure, and not to the validity of the contract, and therefore control in an action on a policy issued in another state by a foreign insurance company. Ibid.
Where a physician reports in favor of the application, and it is not proven that such report was secured by fraud practiced upon the physician, the defendant is estopped from denying the truthfulness of the applicant's representations. Brown v. Modern Woodmen, 115-450.

The medical examiner or physician referred to in this section is the person who examines the applicant and determines his condition of health and reports whether he is a proper risk. Peterson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 115-668.

The provisions of this section apply to the person who represents the company in making an examination of applicants as to their physical condition, and not to the action of the medical director of the company in determining whether the risk shall be accepted. Wood v. Farmers' Life Assn., 121-44.

Proof of the falsity of the representations made in an application for life insurance is not alone sufficient to establish that such representations were fraudulently made. Ley v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 120-208.

The provisions with reference to the conclusiveness of a health certificate given by a medical examiner have no application to fraternal benefit societies. Smith v. Supreme Lodge, 123-676.

In an action on a fraternal benefit certificate evidence of fraud in the application consisting in false answers as to the conditions of the applicant's health is admissible to defeat recovery. Ibid.

SEC. 1813. Misrepresentation of age.

This provision held applicable to a contract of insurance in the Modern Woodmen, it not appearing that such organization was a fraternal beneficiary society as defined in Code § 1822, and therefore specially exempted from the general statutory provisions relating to life insurance. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 123-199.

SEC. 1819. Copy of application.

Whether the provision that a copy of the application must be attached to or endorsed upon the policy pertains solely to matters of remedy and procedure, and is therefore applicable in an action in this state upon a policy regardless of the place of contract, quaere; but held that the statute of Minnesota under which the policy was executed, though different in terms from the statutory provision in this state, should receive the same construction, and that evidence of fraudulent statements in the application not thus attached or endorsed was inadmissible. Rauen v. Prudential Ins. Co., 129-725.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, § 5, relating to proofs of loss, held applicable to mutual benefit associations, as well as fire insurance companies. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

SEC. 1820. Limitation of action.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, § 5, relating to proofs of loss, held applicable to mutual benefit associations, as well as fire insurance companies. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

SEC. 1820-a. Disbursements—vouchers—affidavit. No domestic life insurance company shall make any disbursement of one hundred dollars or more unless the same be evidenced by a voucher signed by or on behalf of the person, firm, or corporation receiving the money and correctly describing the consideration for the payment. If the expenditure be for both services and disbursements the voucher shall set forth the services rendered and an itemized statement of the disbursements made. When such voucher cannot be obtained the expenditure shall be evidenced by an affidavit of some officer or agent of said company describing the character and object of the expenditure and stating the reason for not obtaining such voucher. [32 G. A., ch. 84.]

SEC. 1820-b. Misrepresentations prohibited. No life insurance corporation doing business in this state and no officer, director or agent thereof shall issue, circulate, or use, or cause or permit to be issued, circulated, or used, any estimate, illustration, circular or statement of any sort misrepresenting the terms of any policy issued by it or the benefits or advantages promised thereby, or the dividends or share of surplus to be received thereon, or shall use any title of any policy or class of policies misrepresenting the true nature thereof. [32 G. A., ch. 85, § 1.]

SEC. 1820-c. — Penalty. Any person violating the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished accordingly. [32 G. A., ch. 85, § 2.]

CHAPTER 8-A.

OF EXAMINATION OF INSURANCE COMPANIES.

SECTION 1821-a. Examination authorized — at least biennially. The auditor of state may, at any time he may deem it advisable, make an examination of or inquire into the affairs of any insurance company authorized or seeking to be authorized to transact business within this state, provided that such examination shall not be less frequent than once during each biennial period. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 1.]

SEC. 1821-b. Companies to assist — administer oaths. When any company is being examined, the officers, employees or agents thereof shall produce for inspection all books, documents, papers or other information concerning the affairs of such company, and shall otherwise assist in such examination so far as they can do. The auditor of state, or his legally authorized representative in charge of the examination, shall have authority to administer oaths and take testimony bearing upon the affairs of any company under examination. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 2.]

SEC. 1821-c. Examiner — assistants — compensation — expenses — how paid. For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act, the auditor of state is hereby authorized to appoint an insurance examiner, who shall also be a competent actuary, who shall receive for his services a salary of three thousand dollars per year, and who, while conducting examinations, shall possess all the powers conferred upon the auditor of state for such purposes. Said examiner shall give bond to the state conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties, in the sum of five thousand dollars, which bond shall be filed with and approved by the auditor of state. The entire time of the examiner shall be under the control of the auditor of state, and shall be employed as he may direct. The auditor of state may, when in his judgment it is advisable, appoint assistants to aid in making examinations. Such assistants shall receive as compensation for their services not to exceed five dollars per day each. Said examiner and assistants shall receive no other or further compensation than as above provided, except that they and the auditor of state shall receive actual and necessary traveling, hotel and other expenses while engaged in conducting examinations away from their respective places of residence. Such expenses, together with the compensation of the assistants, shall be paid by the treasurer of state, upon warrants drawn by the auditor of state, bills for the same having first been approved by the executive council. Such bills shall be filed under oath of the party incurring the expense and shall be approved by the person in charge of the examination. The salary of the examiner shall be paid as are the salaries of other employees of the auditor's office. All bills for expenses of any examination, together with the compensation of the assistants, shall be charged to and paid by the companies examined, and upon failure or refusal of any company examined to pay such bill or bills, the same may be recovered in an action brought in the name of the state under the direction of the executive council, and the auditor may also revoke the certificate of authority of such company to transact business within this state. All fees collected under the provisions of this chapter shall be paid to the auditor of state and shall be by him turned into the state treasury as are other fees of his office. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 3.] [32 G. A., ch. 78.]

SEC. 1821-d. Revocation of certificate—publication of results of examination. If upon investigation or examination, it shall appear that any company is insolvent or in an unsound condition, or is doing an illegal or unauthorized business, or that it has refused or neglected for more than thirty days to pay final judgment rendered against it in the courts of this state, the auditor of state may suspend its authority to transact business within this state until it shall have complied in all respects with the laws applicable to such company or has paid such judgment, or he may revoke its certificate of authority to transact business within this state and having revoked the certificate of any company organized under the laws of this state, he shall at once report the same to the attorney-general, who shall apply to the district court or any judge thereof for the appointment of a receiver to close up the affairs of said company; provided that in the case of companies organized on the stock plan under the provisions of chapter four, title IX of the code, the above named officers shall proceed as provided in sections seventeen hundred thirty-one (1731) and seventeen hundred thirty-two (1732) of the code; and in case of companies organized under the provisions of chapter six, title IX of the code, said officers shall proceed as provided in sections seventeen hundred seventy-seven (1777) and seventeen hundred seventy-eight (1778) of the code, and no receiver shall be appointed for any company contemplated by this chapter except upon application of the attorney-general, unless five days' notice shall have been served upon the auditor of state and attorney-general, stating the time and place of the hearing of such application, at which time and place said officers shall have the right to appear and be heard as to such application and appointment. The results of any examination shall be published in one or more newspapers of the state or in pamphlet form, when in the opinion of the auditor of state the interests of the public require it. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 4.]

SEC. 1821-e. Transfer of stock pending examination. Any transfer of stock of any company, pending an investigation, shall not release the party making the transfer from any liability for losses that may have occurred previous to such transfer. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 5.]

SEC. 1821-f. Soliciting business after revocation of authority—penalty. Any officer, manager, agent or representative of any insurance company contemplated by this act, who, with knowledge that its certificate of authority has been suspended or revoked, or that it is insolvent, or is doing an unlawful or unauthorized business, solicits insurance for said company, or receives applications therefor, or does any other act or thing toward receiving or procuring any new business for said company, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to the penalties provided in section eighteen hundred fourteen (1814) of the code, and the provisions of said section are hereby extended to all companies contemplated by this act. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 6.]

SEC. 1821-g. Refusing to be examined—penalty. Should any company decline or refuse to submit to an examination as in this act provided, the auditor of state shall at once revoke its certificate of authority, and if such company is organized under the laws of this state, he shall report his action to the attorney-general, who shall at once apply to the district court or a judge thereof for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the company. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 7.]
SEC. 1821-h. Non-resident companies. Examination of insurance companies not located within this state shall only be made by order of the executive council, and at such time as it may direct. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 8.]

SEC. 1821-i. "Company" defined. The word "company" as used in this act shall mean all companies or associations organized under the provisions of chapters four, five, six, seven or eight of title nine of the code, except county mutuals, and all companies or associations admitted or seeking to be admitted to this state under the provisions of any of the chapters herein referred to. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 9.]

SEC. 1821-j. Repeal—acts in conflict. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. [30 G. A., ch. 56, § 10.]

CHAPTER 8-B.

OF CONSOLIDATION, RE-INSURANCE, PROPORTIONATE REPRESENTATION, LICENSING AGENTS AND USE OF PROXIES.

SECTION 1821-k. Agent must be licensed—auditor may revoke license. No person shall directly or indirectly, act within this state as agent or otherwise, in receiving or procuring applications for insurance, or in doing or transacting any kind of insurance business for any company or association, other than county mutuals or fraternal beneficiary associations, until he has procured from the auditor of state a license authorizing him to act for such company or association as agent which license shall terminate at the end of the insurance year for which such company or association is authorized to transact business. The auditor of state may, for good cause, decline to issue such license or may, for like cause, revoke the same. The fee charged for such agent's license shall be, for domestic companies, fifty cents, and for companies located outside the state, two dollars. [30 G. A., ch. 57, § 1.]

SEC. 1821-l. Acting without license—penalty. Any person acting as agent or otherwise representing any insurance company or association, in violation of the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a fine of twenty-five dollars for each day he shall so act. [30 G. A., ch. 57, § 2.]

SEC. 1821-m. "Company defined." The word "company" or "companies" when used in this act shall mean any company or association organized under the provisions of chapters four, five, six, seven or eight of title nine of the code, except county mutuals. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 1.]

SEC. 1821-n. Life companies. No company organized under the laws of this state to do the business of life insurance, either on the stock, mutual, stipulated premium or assessment plan, shall consolidate with any other company or re-insure its risks, or any part thereof, with any other company, or assume or re-insure the whole or any part of the risks of any other company, except as hereinafter provided. Provided that nothing contained in this chapter shall prevent any company as defined in section one (1) of this act from re-insuring a fractional part of any single risk. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 2.]

SEC. 1821-o. Submit plan to auditor of state—statement as to condition. When any such company shall propose to consolidate or enter into any re-insurance contract with any other company, it shall present its plan to the auditor of state, setting forth the terms of its proposed contract of consolidation or re-insurance, asking for the approval or any modification thereof, which the commission hereinafter provided for may approve. But if the commission shall deem it necessary in order to conserve the interests of the policy-holders that notice shall be given, it shall require the company or companies to notify, by mail, all of the members or policy-holders of the said company or companies of the pendency of such petition, and the time and place at which the same will be heard, the length of time of such notice to be determined by the commission. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 4.]

For the purpose of hearing and determining such petition, a commission consisting of the governor, auditor of state and attorney-general is hereby created. In the inability of the governor to act, the secretary of state may act in his stead. The commission may make such examination into the affairs and condition of any company or companies as it may deem proper, and shall have power to summon and compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses, and the production of books and papers before said commission and may administer oaths. When notice shall have been given as above provided, any policy-holder or stockholder of said company or companies shall have the right to appear before said commission and be heard with reference to said petition. Said commission, if satisfied that the interests of the policy-holders of said company or companies are properly protected and no reasonable objection of said petition exists, may authorize the proposed consolidation or re-insurance or may direct such modification thereof as may seem to it best for the interests of the policy-holders; and said commission may make such order and disposition of the assets of any such company thereafter remaining as shall be just and equitable. Such consolidation or re-insurance shall only be approved by the consent of all of the members of said commission, and it shall be the duty of said commission to guard the interests of the policy-holders of any such company or companies proposing consolidation or re-insurance. In case of companies organized on the assessment plan, the commission may require the plan of consolidation or re-insurance to be submitted to the membership of such company or companies to be voted upon. When submitted, it shall be at a meeting called for that purpose, thirty days' notice being given, and a two-thirds vote of all the members present and voting shall be necessary to an approval of any plan of consolidation or re-insurance, and no proxies shall, in any case, be voted. Any plan of consolidation or re-insurance submitted as herein contemplated, must first have been approved by the commission, and the result of said vote must be filed with the auditor of state and be by him determined before any consolidation or re-insurance shall be effected. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 5.]

SEC. 1821-r. Companies other than life—approval of plan. When any company or companies not named in section two of this act desire to consolidate or re-insure, it shall only be necessary for such company or companies to submit the plan of consolidation or re-insurance with any other information that may be required, to the auditor of state and the attorney-general and have the same by them approved. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 6.]

SEC. 1821-s. Consolidation with unauthorized companies prohibited. No company or companies as defined by section one of this act shall consolidate or re-insure with any other company or companies not authorized to transact business in this state. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 7.]
SEC. 1821-t. Expenses, how paid. All expenses and costs incident to proceedings under the provisions of this chapter, shall be paid by the company or companies bringing the petition. [30 G. A., ch. 58, § 8.]

[30 G. A., ch. 58, § 9.]

SEC. 1821-v. Proportionate representation. From and after the taking effect of this act, the holder or holders, jointly or severally, of not less than one-fifth but less than a majority of the shares of the capital stock of corporations organized on the stock plan under the laws of this state for transacting the business of life or fire insurance, shall be entitled to nominate to be elected or appointed, as the case may be, directors or other persons performing the functions of directors by whom, according to the articles of incorporation of such corporations its affairs are to be conducted. In the event such nomination shall be made, there shall be elected or appointed to the extent that the total number to be elected or appointed is divisible, such proportionate number from the persons so nominated as the shares of stock held by persons making such nominations bear to the whole number of shares issued; provided the holder or holders of the minority shares of stock shall only be entitled to one-fifth (1/5) (disregarding fractions) of the total number of directors to be elected for each one-fifth (1/5) of the entire capital stock of such corporation so held by them; and provided further that this act shall not be construed to prevent the holders of a majority of the stock of any such corporation from electing the majority of its directors. Vacancies occurring from time to time shall be filled so as to preserve and secure to such minority and majority stockholders proportionate representation as above provided. [32 G. A., ch. 74, § 1.]

SEC. 1821-z. Penalty. Any violation of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor and punishable accordingly. [32 G. A., ch. 77, § 3.]
CHAPTER 9.

OF FRATERNAL BENEFICIARY SOCIETIES, ORDERS OR ASSOCIATIONS.

SECTION 1822. Defined.

Unless it appears that an association engaged in the business of insurance is within the definition of fraternal beneficiary societies, it will be presumed to be within the general provisions relating to life insurance companies and associations. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

SEC. 1824. Insurable age—beneficiary.

The designation of a beneficiary in a certificate of fraternal insurance is not affected by the fact that such beneficiary has subsequently ceased to bear the relationship to the member required by the articles of the association with reference to the designation of such beneficiary. White v. Brotherhood of Am. Yeomen, 134-293; Schmidt v. Hauer, 111 N. W. 966.

Relationship by affinity is not created between the blood relatives on either side of the parties to the marriage relation, and a beneficiary is not a relative of the member within the statutory language as to who may be beneficiaries where their relationship is only by affinity through one who is deceased. Smith v. Supreme Tent, 127-115.

Relationship by affinity is not created between the blood relatives on either side of the parties to the marriage relation, and a beneficiary is not a relative of the member within the statutory language as to who may be beneficiaries where their relationship is only by affinity through one who is deceased. Smith v. Supreme Tent, 127-115.

SEC. 1825. Statutes applicable.

The statutes relating to life insurance companies are not applicable to mutual benefit associations except as specifically provided, and therefore held that the provisions of Code, § 1812, making the certificate of a medical examiner conclusive on the company as against all statements in the application, are not applicable to such associations. Smith v. Supreme Lodge, 123-676. The provisions of the general chapter relating to life insurance are not applicable to mutual benefit associations unless incorporated into the chapter relating to such associations. Knapp v. Brotherhood, 128-566.

SEC. 1832. Repeal—annual certificate—amount of insurance required. That the law which appears as section eighteen hundred and thirty-two (1832) of the supplement to the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Before any beneficiary society, order or association shall be authorized to commence business within this state, it shall submit to the auditor of state its by-laws or rules by which it is to be governed, and also its articles of incorporation which shall include its plan of business. The auditor of state shall thereupon submit its articles of incorporation to the attorney-general for examination, and if found by him to be in harmony with this title, chapter and with law, he shall so certify upon said articles and return them to the auditor of state. If the auditor of state shall approve the articles and also the by-laws or rules, he shall issue to the society, order or association a permit in writing, authorizing it to transact business within this state for a period of one year from the first day of April of the year of its issue, for which certificate and all proceedings in connection therewith, there shall be paid to the auditor of state a fee of twenty-five dollars, and for each annual renewal thereof a like fee shall be paid; provided, however, that before such certificate shall be issued, the fraternal society, order or association shall have actual bona fide applications upon the lives of at least five hundred (500) persons, residents of this state, for at least one thousand dollars of insurance each, and the auditor of state may require the presentation of such applications, signed by the applicants themselves. No renewal of certificate of authority shall be made to any society, order, or association whose membership, in good standing, or the amount of whose insurance in force shall be reduced below the above requirements. Societies, orders or associations not organized under the laws of this state, in addition to the requirements of the provisions of section eighteen hundred twenty-nine (1829) of the code, must also comply with all of the provisions of this chapter, except as to the residence of membership; provided, that no such society, order or association shall be authorized to transact business within this state unless it shall be shown to have actual members, in good standing, of at least one thousand, and at least one million dollars of insurance in force.” [30 G. A., ch. 62.]

SEC. 1833. Agents.

Mutual benefit associations are prohibited from employing paid agents, and therefore such an organization cannot after it is formed, ratify the act of a promoter in agreeing that an agent shall have a commission for procuring members for the organization. First National Bank v. Church Federation, 129-268.

Such a contract being expressly forbidden, the association is not estopped by taking advantage of the services of such agent from defending against his claim for compensation. Ibid.

The statute does not, however, prohibit others than the association from employing and paying an agent to procure members, and held that the promoter pretending to act as general superintendent of the organization was liable to the agent employed by him in the name of the association for compensation under the contract. Ibid.

SEC. 1839-a. “Association” defined. The term “association” when used in this act shall mean any society, order or association organized or authorized under the provisions of chapter nine of title nine of the code. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 1.]

SEC. 1839-b. Examination—assistants—compensation. The auditor of state may, at any time he may deem it advisable, either in person or by his legally appointed representative, make an examination of or inquire into the affairs of any fraternal beneficiary association authorized or seeking to be authorized to transact business within this state, provided the examination of associations organized under the laws of this state shall not be less frequent than once during each biennial period. To aid in making such examination, the auditor of state may appoint such assistants as may be necessary, each of whom shall receive as compensation for his services not to exceed five dollars per day. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 2.]

SEC. 1839-c. Officers to assist—examiner may administer oaths. When an association is being examined, the officers, agents or employees thereof shall produce for inspection all books, papers, documents or other information concerning the affairs of the association and shall otherwise assist in the examination. The auditor of state or examiner shall have authority to administer oaths, and may summon and may examine under oath any officer, employee, representative or agent of any association concerning its affairs or condition. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 3.]

SEC. 1839-d. Revocation or suspension of authority. If upon investigation or examination, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the auditor of state that any association is doing an illegal or unauthorized business, or is failing to fulfill its contracts with its members, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or if its membership or the amount of its insurance in force has been reduced below the legal requiremnt, or should any association decline or refuse to submit to an examination, the auditor of state may suspend or revoke its certificate of authority to transact business within this state, and having revoked the certificate of authority of any association organized under the laws of this state, he shall at once report the same to the attorney-general who shall apply to the district court or any judge thereof for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of such association. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 4.]

SEC. 1839-e. Expenses—how paid. In addition to the compensation of the assistants provided for in section two of this act, the auditor or examiner and assistants shall be entitled to actual and necessary traveling, hotel and other expenses while conducting examinations away from their respective places of residence, the same to be paid by the treasurer of state upon warrants drawn by the auditor of state, bills therefor having been filed under oath and approved by the executive council. Such expense and compensation shall, by the auditor of state, be charged to and collected from the associations examined and should any association neglect or refuse to pay the same, the auditor of state shall at once revoke its certificate of authority to transact business within this state. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 5.]

SEC. 1839-f. Soliciting new business—penalty. Any officer, manager, agent or representative of any association who with knowledge that its certificates of authority has been suspended or revoked or that it is doing an illegal, unauthorized or fraudulent business solicits insurance for said association or receives applications therefore, or does any other act or thing toward receiving or procuring any new business for said association, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and for every such act, on conviction thereof, shall pay a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, or be punished by both such fine and imprisonment. [30 G. A., ch. 61, § 6.]

SEC. 1839-g. Plan of consolidation or re-insurance—approval. When any fraternal beneficiary association shall propose to consolidate or enter into any re-insurance contract with any other association or organization, it shall present its proposed plan of consolidation or re-insurance, together with a statement of the condition of its affairs to the auditor of state for his approval. Should he approve the plan, the same shall be submitted by any association proposing to re-insure its risks or transfer its business, to its local lodges or organizations or to a regular or special meeting of its supreme lodge or governing body to be voted upon, such notice being given as the auditor of state may direct. If, in the judgment of the auditor of state, it is deemed advisable he may also require the plan to be in like manner submitted to the association proposing to accept or re-insure the risks of any other association. In case two or more associations propose to consolidate, the proposed plan of consolidation shall be submitted, as above provided, to all of the associations interested in such consolidation. In any of the above cases, a two-thirds vote of all of the members of each association present and voting shall be necessary to an approval of any plan of consolidation or re-insurance, and in no case shall proxies be voted. On presenting to the auditor of state satisfactory proof that the foregoing provisions have been complied with and that the required number of votes have been cast in favor of the proposed plan, he shall issue to the associations an order to the effect that the plan has been approved, and the same shall be in force and effect from and after the date of such order, and the auditor of state shall direct such distribution of the assets of any such association or associations as shall be just and equitable. [30 G. A., ch. 63, § 1.]

SEC. 1839-h. Expenses, how paid. All expenses or costs incident to proceedings under the provisions of this act shall be paid by the associations interested. [30 G. A., ch. 63, § 2.]
SEC. 1839-i. Penalty. Any officer, director or manager of any association violating or consenting to the violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. [30 G. A., ch. 63, § 3.]

SEC. 1839-j. Mortuary assessment rates. No fraternal beneficiary society not admitted to transact business within this state prior to the passage of this act, shall be incorporated or given a permit or certificate of authority to transact business within this state, unless it shall first show that the mortuary assessment rates provided for in whatever plan of business it has adopted, are not lower than is indicated as necessary by the following mortality table:

The articles of incorporation of a savings bank shall be signed and acknowledged by the corporators before some officer authorized to take acknowledgment of deeds, and give the corporate name, the object for which it is formed, the amount of capital, the time of its existence, which shall not exceed fifty years, the number of its directors, the name and postoffice address of each person or officer who shall manage its affairs until the first election, and the name of the city, town or village, and the county, in which the principal place of business is to be located. Such articles shall be filed and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county of the principal place of business, and in the office of the secretary of state. Notice of its incorporation shall be given by publication in some newspaper published in the county wherein the bank is located, once each week, for four consecutive weeks, which notice shall state, in substance, the matters required to be given in the articles of incorporation. [15 G. A., ch. 60, § 3.] [30 G. A., ch. 2, § 5.]

SEC. 1843. Capital. The paid up capital of any savings bank shall not be less than ten thousand dollars in cities, towns or villages having a population of ten thousand or less, nor less than fifty thousand dollars in cities having a greater population. The corporation may commence business when its first directors or officers named in its recorded articles of incorporation shall have furnished the auditor of state proof, under oath, that the required capital has been paid in and is held in good faith by said bank, and he has satisfied himself of such fact, for which purpose he may make a personal examination, or cause it to be made, at the expense of such bank, and he is also satisfied that the preceding sections of this chapter have been complied with, and has issued a certificate to that effect, naming therein its first board of directors, notice of which certificate shall be given by the publication thereof once each week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county where its articles are recorded, at the expense of such bank, and proof of such publication by the oath of the publisher or
SEC. 1844. Powers.

Under a previous statutory provision that a savings bank should not make a loan of money to any person in excess of a certain per cent. of its capital, held that such provision did not render loans in excess void, the prohibition being intended as a rule for the government of the bank. Benton County Sav. Bank v. Boddicker, 105-548.

SEC. 1845. Management—officers—meetings.

While the board of directors of a savings bank may elect a cashier to hold office during the pleasure of the board, it may also adopt the plan of electing or appointing the cashier annually, and if it does so, the surety on the cashier's bond is not liable for defalcation after the annual period for which the bond was given. Ida County Sav. Bank v. Seidensticker, 128-54.

The provision that the cashier may be dismissed at the pleasure of the board does not negative his appointment for a fixed term. Ibid.

Although the board has appointed a cashier to hold office at pleasure, it may make a new appointment of the same person as cashier for a definite period, which appointment will limit the liability of the surety on his original bond, although as a matter of fact he continues without interruption to occupy the position under the new arrangement and subsequent arrangements of the same character. Wapello State Bank v. Colton, 133-147.

The existence of a vacancy is not essential to the authority of the governing board to change the terms and conditions of the service of an officer already holding office which the board has authority to fill at pleasure. Ibid.

SEC. 1848. Deposits. Any savings bank organized under this chapter may receive on deposit money equal to twenty times the aggregate amount of its paid up capital and surplus, and no greater amount of deposits shall be received without a corresponding increase of the aggregate paid up capital and surplus, which capital and surplus shall be a guaranty fund for the better security of depositors, and invested in safe and available securities. The deposits so received shall be paid to such depositor or his representative, when requested, with such interest and under such regulations as the board of directors shall, from time to time, prescribe, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, which shall be printed and conspicuously exposed in the business office of the bank, in some place accessible and visible to all; and no alteration which may at any time be made in such rules and regulations shall affect the rights of depositors acquired previously thereto in respect to deposits or interest thereon. Savings banks may require sixty days' written notice of the withdrawal of savings deposits, but when there are sufficient funds on hand the officers thereof may, in their discretion, waive this requirement. They may close any account, upon such written notice as may be provided for in the by-laws, directing a depositor to withdraw his deposits, after which it shall cease to draw interest. But nothing in this chapter shall prevent such banks, in their discretion, issuing certificates of deposit payable upon demand. [15 G. A., ch. 60, § 7.] [28 G. A., ch. 67, §§ 2, 4.] [29 G. A., ch. 167, § 1.]

SEC. 1850. Investment of funds. Each savings bank shall invest its funds or capital, all moneys deposited therein and all its gains and profits, only as follows:

1. In bonds or interest bearing notes or certificates of the United States;
2. In bonds or evidences of debt of this state, bearing interest;
3. In bonds or warrants of any city, town, county, school district, or drainage district of this state, issued pursuant to the authority of law; but not exceeding twenty-five per cent. of the assets of the bank shall consist of such bonds or warrants;

4. In notes or bonds secured by mortgage or deed of trust upon unincumbered real estate in this state, worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon;

5. It may discount, purchase, sell and make loans upon commercial paper, notes, bills of exchange, drafts, or any other personal or public security, but shall not purchase, hold or make loans upon the shares of its capital stock;

6. In all cases of loans upon real estate, all the expenses of searches, examination and certificates of title, or the inspection of property, appraisals of value, and of drawing, perfecting and recording papers, shall be paid by such borrowers; if buildings are included in the valuation of real estate upon which a loan shall be made, they shall be insured by the mortgagor for at least two-thirds of their value, in some solvent company, and the loss, if any, under the policy of insurance shall be made payable to the bank or its assigns, as its interests may appear. When the mortgagor neglects to procure the insurance as above provided, the mortgagor may procure the same in the mortgagor's name for its benefit, and the premium so paid therefor shall be added to the mortgage debt. [15 G. A., ch. 60, § 9.]

The authority to sell, discount, purchase, and make loans on commercial paper, notes, etc., authorizes a savings bank to make a contract for the purchase of notes, notwithstanding the inhibition on contracting debt. Ubbinga v. Farmers' Sav. Bank, 108-221.

SEC. 1850-a. Surplus fund—how invested. The directors of any savings bank may set apart from its earnings, over and above expenses, any desired sum as a surplus fund, to be maintained as such, separate and apart from earnings usually carried and designated as undivided profits, and which surplus fund shall not be drawn upon for the payment of expenses or dividends, except that it may be made use of as a stock dividend for increasing the capital of the bank. Such surplus shall be invested in the same manner as the capital of the bank, as provided in section eighteen hundred and forty-eight (1848) of this chapter. The directors may transfer said surplus fund, or any part of the same, back to the undivided profits account, and make use of the same, when so transferred, for the payment of expenses and dividends when the deposits of the bank shall be less than ten times the capital, or capital and remaining surplus, and not otherwise. [28 G. A., ch. 67, § 1.]

SEC. 1852. Interest—dividends. No dividend shall be declared or paid to stockholders, save out of the undivided profits on hand after paying or setting apart sums sufficient for the payment of all expenses in operating the bank, and of interest to depositors according to the rate fixed therefor by the board of directors from time to time. The bank shall pay interest to the depositors, when due, upon presentation of deposit book or certificate. [15 G. A., ch. 60, § 11.] [28 G. A., ch. 67, § 3.]

SEC. 1855. Repeal—indebtedness. Section eighteen hundred and fifty-five (1855) of the code, be, and the same is hereby repealed. [32 G. A., ch. 90, § 1.]

SEC. 1855-a. Indebtedness. State and savings banks may contract indebtedness or liability for the following purposes only; for necessary expenses in managing and transacting their business, for deposits, and to pay depositors; provided, that in pursuance to an order of the board of directors previously adopted, other liabilities not in excess of amount equal to the capital stock may be incurred. [32 G. A., ch. 90, § 2.]

Sec. 1855-b. Repeal—acts in conflict. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed. [32 G. A., ch. 90, § 3.]

OF STATE BANKS.

SECTION 1864. Capital—certificate. No state bank shall be organized under the provisions of this chapter with a less amount of paid up capital than fifty thousand dollars, except in cities or towns having a population not exceeding three thousand, where such association may be organized with a paid up capital of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars. But no such association shall have the right to commence business until its officers or its stockholders shall have furnished to the auditor of state a sworn statement of the paid up capital, and, when the auditor of state is satisfied as to that fact, he shall issue to such association a certificate authorizing it to commence business, and it shall cause said certificate to be published in some newspaper printed in the city or town where the association is located, once each week, for at least four weeks, or, if no newspaper is published in such city or town, then in a newspaper published nearest thereto in the county. [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 6.]

Sec. 1866. Directors.

Acquiescence by a bank in a course of action by its president who is its managing officer, or any facts constituting a holding out of the president by the bank as having a right to act for it, lay a foundation for authority actual or inferred. Griffin v. Erskine, 131-444.

CHAPTER 12.
OF BANKS.

SECTION 1869. Repeal—pay of and loan to officers. That section eighteen hundred sixty-nine of the code be, and the same is, hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Officers of savings and state banks may receive for their services a reasonable compensation, to be fixed from time to time in the by-laws, or by vote of the board of directors, but no director, as such, shall be paid for his services. No officer or employe of the bank shall in any manner, directly or indirectly, use its funds or deposits, or any part thereof, except for the regular business transactions of the bank, and no loan shall be made by it to any of them except upon the express order of the board of directors, made in the absence of the applicant, duly entered in the records of the board proceedings, and only upon the same security as required of others. But the board of directors may, by resolution, duly entered in the records of the board proceedings, authorize loans to directors not holding any other office nor being an employe, not exceeding a maximum sum at any one time, which resolution shall be voted upon in the absence of such director and any such loan shall be upon the same security as required of others. Any such officer or employe of the bank violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of embezzlement and shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding ten years, or fined in a sum not less than the amount embezzled, or by both fine and imprisonment, but nothing in this act shall prevent or defeat the right to recover upon any note or notes given in violation of its provisions.” [32 G. A., ch. 91.]

lowing, “and shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding ten years, or fined in a sum not less than the amount embezzled, or by both fine and imprisonment.” The 32 G. A., by chapter 91, repealed the above section of the code and enacted a substitute without referring to the amendment by the 31 G. A., but incorporated the same in the above.]

This provision is intended to prohibit any loan to an officer unless that particular loan has been passed upon by the board of directors as provided. A blanket resolution of the directors will not render valid such subsequent loans. German Sav.
Bank v. Des Moines National Bank, 122-

Sec. 1870. Limit of liabilities. The total liabilities to any savings or state bank of any person, corporation, company or firm, for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a company or firm the liabilities of the several members thereof, shall at no time exceed twenty per cent. of the actually paid up capital of such bank; provided that they may loan not to exceed one-half of their capital stock to any person, corporation, company or firm on notes or bonds secured by mortgage or deed of trust upon unencumbered farm land in this state, worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon; but the discount of bona fide bills of exchange drawn against actually existing value, and the discount of commercial or business paper actually owned by the person or persons, corporation, company or firm negotiating the same, shall not be considered money so borrowed. [25 G. A., ch. 30, § 2; 15 G. A., ch. 60, § 18.] [29 G. A., ch. 76, § 1.]

Sec. 1871. Examinations. The board of directors of each savings and state bank shall, at its annual meeting, appoint from its members an examining committee of not less than two, which shall examine the condition of the bank, at least every quarter, and report the same in writing duly signed to the board, who shall cause said report to be recorded in the directors’ minute book of the bank. One of these examinations shall be made during the month of June, and another one during the month of December, in each year, and these two examinations, besides being recorded in the minute book of the bank, shall be reported to the state auditor on blanks to be supplied by him. And in case any bank refuses or neglects to so forward such report, the auditor shall be authorized to have such examination made by one of his regular examiners, and the bank shall be charged with and required to pay the reasonable expense of such examination.
Members of such examining committee shall receive for their services a reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the board at its annual meeting, but in no case shall such compensation exceed five dollars per day for each day’s actual service to each member. [25 G. A., ch. 30, § 4.] [31 G. A.,
ch. 80.]

Sec. 1872. Quarterly statements.

What is said in this section relating to deposits and exchange does not indicate that the section applies to corporations like investment companies not engaged in a general banking business. Williams v.
Lewis Investment Co., 110-635.
SEC. 1873. Examination by auditor. The auditor of state may, at any time he may see proper, make or cause to be made an examination of any savings or state bank, or he shall call upon it for a report of its condition upon any given day which has passed, as often as four times each year, which report shall contain the information under the preceding section, and the auditor shall cause it to be published in one regular issue in some daily, semi-weekly, tri-weekly or weekly newspaper in the city or town where such bank is located, or, if there be none in such city or town, then, in one regular issue of some daily, semi-weekly, tri-weekly or weekly newspaper printed in said county, and the expense of such publication shall be paid by the bank. [15 G. A., ch. 60, § 23; C., '73, § 1571.] [32 G. A., ch. 92.]

SEC. 1875. Repeal—examiners—fees. That the law as it appears in sections eighteen hundred and seventy-five (1875) and eighteen hundred and seventy-six (1876) of the code, be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The auditor of state may appoint not to exceed five bank examiners, to hold office at his pleasure, who shall give bond to the state, conditioned for the faithful discharge of their duties, in the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000), which shall be filed with and the sureties therein approved by said auditor. Said examiners shall receive as compensation for their services, a salary of eighteen hundred dollars each, per annum. The auditor of state and examiners shall be entitled to actual and necessary expenses incurred in the examination of banks, and loan and trust companies, which shall be audited by the executive council and paid by the treasurer of state upon warrants drawn by the auditor of state, but the total amount of such expenses and the salaries of examiners shall not in any one year, exceed the amount of fees collected from such banks and loan and trust companies. Each of such banks and loan and trust companies shall pay to the auditor of state annually before the first day of March, the following fees: which shall be by him turned into the state treasury as other fees of his office: those having a paid up capital of fifty thousand dollars or under, the sum of fifteen dollars; those possessing a paid up capital of more than fifty thousand and under one hundred thousand dollars, twenty dollars; those possessing a paid up capital of one hundred thousand and under two hundred thousand dollars, twenty-five dollars; and those possessing a paid up capital of two hundred thousand dollars or over, thirty dollars: provided, that, banks which have been examined between the first day of January, 1904, and the taking effect of this act, shall not be required to pay such fee for the year 1904, and banks which have not been so examined, shall pay such fee on or before the first day of September, nineteen hundred and four, provided that no bank examiner shall be assigned by the auditor of state to examine a bank or loan and trust company in a county in which he is interested in the business of banking or of a loan and trust company."

SEC. 1877. Proceedings against by state—receivers.

The receiver of an insolvent bank appointed under a proceeding brought by the auditor of state under statutory provisions may have an order on the stockholders for the payment of an assessment in such amount as appears to be necessary to meet the liabilities of the bank (under provisions as to double liability of stockholders) and the stockholder is bound to pay the amount of such assessment without waiting for the final distribution of the assets of the bank. In such case the time for collection of such assessment and the amount to be collected can best be left to the sound discretion of the court, the proceeding being one where the estate of the bank is in process of liquidation by direction of the auditor of state. State ex rel. v. Union Stock Yards State Bank, 103-549.
SEC. 1878. Assessments.

The proceeds of an assessment on stockholders should be applied ratably to the payment of the general creditors and of the depositors were not satisfied out of the assets of the bank as to which they are given preference. State v. Corning State Sav. Bank, 127-198.

On the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent bank depositors are preferred creditors and entitled to be paid in full as after deducting costs and expenses from the general assets of the bank. And they are also entitled to share ratably with all creditors in the distribution of the proceeds of a statutory assessment of the stockholders. State v. Corning State Sav. Bank, 127-198.

SEC. 1882. Liability of shareholders.

The statutory provision rendering stockholders liable to the extent of double the value of their stock for the debts of the bank is not an act authorizing the creation of corporations with banking powers, etc., without submission to the people within the constitutional prohibition. State ex rel. v. Union Stock Yards State Bank, 103-549.

Under the provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 208, incorporated into this section, but which as originally passed related to corporations in general, held that the liability provided for in case of buying and selling exchange, etc., applied to the banking business only, and not to an investment business, although the corporation carrying on the business had authority to receive deposits of money. Williams v. Lewis Investment Co., 110-635.

An assessment in a receivership proceeding is the proper method of enforcing the stockholder's liability, and to render such assessment valid and binding he must be made a party to the proceedings before the assessment. Elson v. Wright, 112 N. W. 105.

SEC. 1885. Penalty.

This section contemplates time deposits as well as deposits subject to check and therefore the issuance of a certificate of deposit for money paid in when the bank is insolvent is a criminal act. State v. Boomer, 103-106.

The insolvency of the bank may be proven by the testimony of experts familiar with the banking business. Ibid.

To authorize a conviction for receiving deposits for an insolvent bank, actual knowledge of the insolvency of the bank on the part of the officer receiving such deposits must be proven, and it is error to instruct that the defendant will be criminally liable if as a reasonable prudent man he ought to have known of the insolvency of the bank. State v. Dunning, 130-678.

These provisions are not applicable to an officer of a national bank. Easton v. Iowa, 188 U. S., 220, (reversing State v. Easton, 113-516).

SEC. 1889. Statement—doing business—loan and trust companies.

The president and cashier of every savings and state bank shall cause to be kept at all times a full and correct list of the names and residences of the officers, directors, examining committee, and of all the stockholders in the bank, and the number of shares held by each, in the office where its business is transacted. Said list shall be subject to the inspection of all the stockholders and creditors of the bank during business hours of each day in which business may be legally transacted. A copy of such list, verified by the oath of the president or cashier, shall be transmitted to the auditor of state within ten days after each annual meeting. No corporation shall engage in the banking business, receive deposits, and transact the business generally done by banks, unless it is subject to and organized under the provisions of this title, or of the banking laws of the state heretofore existing, except that loan and trust companies may receive time deposits subject to the same limitations as are now or may hereafter be prescribed for the receiving of deposits by state banks and issue drafts on their depositaries.

All such companies and all corporations now existing or hereafter organized under the provisions of chapter 1, title 9 of the code whose articles of incorporation authorize the acceptance and execution of trusts, and all corporations in whose name the word "trust" is incorporated and forms a part, shall have a full paid capital of not less than the amount of capital of saving [savings] banks, as provided in section 1843 of chapter 10 and shall be subject to examination, regulation and control by the auditor of state, like savings and state banks, and their stockholders shall be liable to the creditors of such companies as provided in section eighteen hundred and eighty-two of this chapter for stockholders in savings and state banks. Any corporation violating this section shall forfeit its charter at the suit of the attorney-general, and said corporation, its officers, directors and agents, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment of not less than two years in the penitentiary, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court; provided that loan and trust companies organized under the general incorporation laws of the state, which were engaged in the banking business prior to the first day of January, 1886, and have continued therein since said date, may, by the proper additions to their articles of incorporation, become state banks within the provisions of this title, without incorporating the word "state" in the names of such corporations. [28 G. A., ch. 68, § 1.] [30 G. A., ch. 65.]

The amendment by 30 G. A. refers to the code section, while the same section appeared in the supplement to the code. The words stricken, and for which other matter was inserted, appear in line 14 of the code, and line 17 of the supplement to the code.

CHAPTER 13.

OF BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

SECTION 1890. Defined.

The fundamental purpose of these associations is to assist members by small periodical payments to acquire homes. Home Sav. & Trust Co. v. Fidelity & Dep. Co., 115-394.

Comity between states does not require the courts of this state to enforce a contract or apply a remedy with reference to a foreign building and loan association which contravenes or nullifies the settled policy of this state with reference to such associations. Field v. Eastern Bldg. & L. Assn., 117-185.

Where the contract issued by a building and loan association was evidently intended to be construed by the stockholder to whom it was issued as providing for full payment of the par value of the stock after the payment of specific sums by way of dues for a fixed time, held that the contract would be so construed as against the association. Ibid.

Such a contract is not affected by subsequent amendments to the by-laws, which are made parts of the contract, in the absence of any provision authorizing a change of the terms of the contract by such amendments. Ibid.

Such an association although mutual in name may in the absence of statutory restrictions bind itself to make payment of the par value of its stock after fixed payment of dues have continued for a specified time. Ibid.

Under the articles of plaintiff association, held that a limitation in the number of payments which could be exacted was not a guarantee that such payments would mature the stock, and the member whose stock had then matured was held bound to pay interest and premiums thereafter on his loan. Le Mars Bldg. & Loan Assn. v. Burgess, 129-422.

SEC. 1893-a. Articles amended—maximum rate—appointment of receiver. The provisions of this act shall apply to all building and loan and savings and loan associations hereafter incorporated as well as those now incorporated under the laws of this state or doing business herein, and all such associations shall amend their articles of incorporation so as to conform to the provisions of this act. No such associations shall be authorized or empowered to collect or receive premiums and interest from a borrower.
at a greater rate than eight per cent, and in case of an amendment to the articles of incorporation so that a lower rate of interest or charge for the use of money loaned to the borrowing member is authorized than the rate of interest charged upon loans, to members who have theretofore borrowed, shall in like manner be reduced to the same rate as that permitted to borrowers after such amendments to the articles of incorporation, so that the interest charged under whatever name, whether charged as premium or interest to all members of the same association, shall be the same, all reductions of the rate of interest or premium charged to new borrowers shall be made and apply equally to those who have theretofore borrowed. In case any such association doing business in the state shall fail to amend its articles of incorporation in conformity herewith prior to July 15th, 1900, its authority to do business in this state shall be revoked by the executive council, and under the direction of the executive council application by the attorney-general shall be made to the proper court for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the association, and in such proceedings the amount due from the borrowing member on mortgages shall be ascertained in the manner provided in section 7 of this act, and the balance due on such mortgages shall be treated and considered as due within a reasonable time to be fixed by the court after the appointment of a receiver. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 10.]

SEC. 1894-a. Revocation of certificates. The executive council shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to revoke any certificate of authority given to any building and loan or savings and loan association whenever it appears to said council that said association is transacting business illegally, or is unjust and oppressive to its members or the public. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 11.]

SEC. 1898. Nature of business—statement. All building and loan or savings and loan associations, upon receiving the certificate from the auditor, shall have power, subject to the terms and conditions contained in their articles of incorporation and by-laws, to issue stock to members to be paid for in single, stated, or monthly payments, but not more than ten thousand dollars of stock, computed at par value, of any kind shall be issued to one person; to assess and collect from members such dues, membership fees, fines, premium, and interest on loans as may in the articles of incorporation and by-laws have been provided, and the same shall not be held to be usurious; to permit members, other than holders of guarantee stock, to withdraw all or a part of their stock deposits upon such terms and at such times as the articles of incorporation and by-laws may provide; to acquire, hold, encumber and convey such real estate and personal property as may be necessary for the transaction of their business; to make loans to members on such terms, conditions and securities as the articles of incorporation and by-laws provide; said loans to be made only on real estate security, or on the security of their own shares of stock, not to exceed ninety per cent. of the withdrawal value thereof. It shall be the duty of the secretary of every such association doing business in this state to prepare, on or before February fifteenth of each year, a duly verified statement, showing the book value and withdrawal value of a share of each class of stock in said association, for each monthly period up to January first preceding, and file the same with the auditor of state, which shall be preserved in his office. And the said association shall, on or before February fifteenth of each year, mail to each shareholder a written or printed copy of the same. In case of foreclosure, the borrower shall be charged with the full amount of the loan made to him, together with the dues, interest, premium and fines for which he is delinquent, and he shall be credited with the same value of his pledged shares as if he had voluntarily withdrawn the same. In event that judgment is obtained against a borrower from a building and loan association, no greater recovery shall be had than the net amount of principal actually received, with interest thereon at a rate not greater than twelve per cent per annum on the net amount of loan actually received by and paid to borrower, with statutory attorney fees; no evasion of this provision shall be had by means of any dues, membership fees, premiums, fines, forfeitures or other charges, any agreement to the contrary notwithstanding. [The provisions of said section shall apply to and govern all contracts between building and loan and savings and loan associations and their members, made and entered into prior to the taking effect of the code, and every such contract shall in all actions and proceedings be construed and enforced as in said section provided, and with the same force and effect as if made and entered into after the code took effect, anything in the statutes in force when such contracts were made to the contrary notwithstanding.] [26 G. A., ch. 85, § 9; C., '73, §§ 1185, 1186.] [27 G. A., ch. 48, § 1.]

Powers: While a building and loan association can only loan money on the security prescribed by statute, yet, as incident to the transaction of its business, it may make a loan on real property on the basis of a valuation fixed with reference to improvements to be made, and accept a bond as security that such improvements will be made in order that the value of the property shall be sufficient to sustain the loan. Home Sav. & Trust Co. v. Fidelity & Dep. Co., 115-394.

In the absence of express prohibition a building and loan association has the power to borrow money, such power being implied from the general nature of its business. Bohn v. Boone Bldg. & Loan Assn., 112 N. W. 199.

Therefore held that in accordance with its usual course of business the president and secretary of such association had authority to execute a note to the holder of matured stock for the amount he was entitled to thereon. Ibid.

Where a contract between a building and loan association and a borrowing member is void on the ground that it gives to the member a preference over other members, the association is only entitled to recover the amount actually loaned, with interest. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120-485.

A contract between a building and loan association and a borrowing member, by which it is agreed that the stock of the member shall mature and constitute a full satisfaction of the loan, after a specified number of payments of dues, premium, and interest, regardless of whether the profits of the association have been in fact such as to mature the stock, is invalid. Such a contract involves the appropriation to the benefit of the borrowing member of assets of the association contributed by other members, thus giving the borrowing member a preference to which he is not entitled. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120-485.

The legalizing act of 27 G. A., chap. 48, with reference to building and loan associations, does not validate a previous contract of such association with borrowing members which gives them a preference over other members in the distribution of the assets of the association. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120-485.

Settlement: Where the by-laws contain provisions for withdrawal of members and paying back contributions out of the loan fund, only a percentage of which could be used for such purpose, held, that the withdrawal member was not a preferred creditor as to the funds of the association after it had become insolvent, the percentage of the fund applicable to the payment of withdrawals having been exhausted. Rabbit v. Wilcozen, 103-35.

Where the association is insolvent and unable to pay each stockholder the book value of his shares, the borrowing shareholder is entitled only to credit for the withdrawal value of his shares, and not for the book value consisting of the amount of installments paid on the stock and the earnings thereof at the last dividend period. If a borrowing member is allowed for all the payments he has made and the earnings thereof, the loss of the association will fall upon the members who have not borrowed, and inequality between the two classes of members will result. An equitable distribution of the assets, if any, in excess of the liabilities should be effected, and the borrowing member should only be entitled to credit for the actual value of his shares. Wilcozen v. Smith, 107-555.

There is nothing in the statute authorizing a building and loan association to raise money on certificates in any other way than by issuing shares of stock, and the stockholders constitute its members. Tootle v. Singer, 118-533.

Therefore the holder of a certificate of stock is not a creditor of the association entitled to preference over other members in the winding up of its affairs. Ibid.

To the settlement of the affairs of an insolvent building and loan association a borrowing member whose stock has not matured is to be held for the amount of money actually received by him, with interest thereon and the premium actually paid by him for the loan, and less the interest on the monthly payments of interest made by him. This rule applies to cases where the affairs of the association are not so far settled as to ascertain the value of the stock. When the value of the stock can be determined, the borrower should then be entitled to credit for its value, in addition to the items mentioned. Hale v. Kline, 113-523.

Premiums form a part of the profit fund when paid, and go to the increase of value of shares. If the association is insolvent the borrower should be allowed his share of the profit fund, made up in part of the premiums, but no further credit on account of premiums paid. Briggs v. Iowa Sav. & L. Assn., 114-252.

The fact that interest is exacted monthly in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the bid was made by the secretary and the money obtained thereby. In such a transaction the contract is not usurious, no interest being charged on the premium bid. Hawkeye State Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Johnston, 106-218.

It is not unconstitutional to authorize building and loan associations to charge by way of interest or premium more than the lawful rate of interest. The profits inure to the benefit of the borrower with other stockholders. Iowa Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Heidt, 107-297.
In the absence of express statutory provision it is not lawful for the association to exact from the borrower a sum by way of premium which in addition to the interest contracted for renders the amount to be paid for the loan greater than lawful interest. But payment by the borrower of necessary expenses in making the loan in addition to legal interest will not constitute usury. Ibid. The association may deduct from the amount of the loan charges for making abstract, examination of the same and appraisement. If these charges are actually for amounts paid out it is immaterial that they are entered as expenses for making the loan. Ibid. The association may deduct a portion of the dues to cover the expense of management. Ibid. The statute authorizes penalties for the non-payment of dues and unless exorbitant they will not be unlawful. Ibid. It is not required that the premium be paid in advance. It may be made payable in monthly installments. But the premium provided for must be fixed and paid in good faith to secure the loan, and not as a mere device to evade the law against usury. If the sums nominally paid as premium and interest together exceed the loaned, and the monthly payments of premium and interest together exceed the highest rate of interest allowed by law, the loan is usurious. Wilcozen v. Smith, 107-555.

Under the provisions of § 1185 of the Code of '73, authorizing building and loan associations to levy, assess and collect from the members dues, fines, interest and premiums, which shall not be construed to make the loan usurious, held that even though it were necessary to avoid the usury law in such case that the association adopted a by-law authorizing the collection of such dues, interest and premiums, the existence of such by-law was sufficiently shown by the instrument evidencing the loan. Building Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Froelich, 110-244.

The burden is upon the borrower to show that there was in fact no bidding for the right of precedence in making the loan, which would serve as a basis for a premium. Ibid. To take a loan out of the general law as to usury on the ground that it is authorized as a contract with a building and loan association, it must appear that the lender is in fact such an association, and the mere form of the contract of loan will not evidence that fact. Hyland v. Phoenix Loan Assn., 118-401.

The curative act, removing the objection of usury to loans of building associations is valid as to contracts previously made, if the borrower continues to recognize the contract as valid after the change in the law. Iowa Sav. & L. Assn. v. Heidt, 107-297; Iowa Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Curtis, 107-594.

Loans made by a building and loan association to a member, which would otherwise be usurious, but which are legalized by 27 G. A., chap. 48, are valid, not only as to the member, but as to a third party who has become surety of the member for such loan. There is no illegality involved in accepting personal security for a loan to a member. Le Mars B. & L. Assn. v. McLain, 120-327.

Under the provisions of the legalizing act of 27 G. A., chap. 48, the computation of interest which is to be made in determining whether the contract with the building and loan association is usurious is to be on the principal sum without rests occasioned by the payment of interest, dues and premiums, and if the total amount of interest and premium paid and delinquent is larger than the principal sum with twelve per cent. interest thereon, then the statutory limit has been exceeded and the borrower is entitled to credit for the excess in addition to the withdrawal value of his stock. Bacon v. Iowa Sav. & Loan Assn., 121-449.

The borrower may be charged with such interest, dues and penalties as are provided for by his contract unless the total amount of the charge exceeds the net loan received by him with twelve per cent. per annum thereon. In such event he is not to be required to pay more than such net amount with twelve per cent. interest. In computing the amount paid by way of interest, dues and premiums, the borrower is not to be allowed interest on such sums paid as on partial payments. Iowa Dep. & Loan Co. v. Matthews, 126-743.

give the stockholder a preference, but if the corporation although insolvent, but before being put into the hands of a receiver, pays a portion of the withdrawal value the transferee of the stock is entitled to dividends on the balance in the same proportion as other stockholders, and the previous payment cannot be accounted as a dividend by the receiver. McKee v. Home Savings & Trust Co., 133-548.

SEC. 1898-a. Repeal. Chapter forty-eight (48) of the acts of the twenty-seventh general assembly, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 12.]

The repeal of the act of 27 G. A., does not render unlawful loans which, though unlawful when made, were rendered valid by such act of 27 G. A. Edworthy v. Iowa Sav. & Loan Assn., 114-220.

SEC. 1898-b. Loans, contracts and mortgages legalized. All loans, contracts, and mortgages which are affected by the repeal of said chapter forty-eight (48), acts of the twenty-seventh general assembly, are hereby legalized so far as to permit recovery to be had therefor for interest at the rate of eight (8) per cent. per annum, but at no greater rate, and nothing contained in such contracts shall be construed to be usurious so as to work a forfeiture of any penalty to the school fund. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 16.]

SEC. 1898-c. Forbidden stocks—rate of dividend. That no building and loan or savings and loan associations shall issue guaranty stock, fully paid stock, or single payment stock, or any stock of any other kind or name which shall receive fixed dividends, or is not subject to all the liabilities of all other classes of stock of said associations, except that it shall be lawful for such associations to issue fully paid stock upon the payment by the holder thereof of the par value of such stock upon which the dividends to be declared shall not exceed the sum named in said certificate of stock, but in no event shall the dividend exceed eight per cent. per annum nor the rate of dividend declared upon the other stock of said association, which said stock shall be subject to be called in and redeemed by the said association by giving the holder thirty days’ notice thereof. But such stock shall not be entitled to vote at any stockholders meeting. Any association having here-tofore issued stocks forbidden by this section must retire the same on or before January 1st, 1901, and the same may be retired either by paying the amount due thereon in cash or by the issuing of stock permitted to be issued by the provisions of this section. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 1.]

The holder of stock bearing a fixed dividend issued prior to the statute prohibiting the issuance of such stock, upon giving notice of its withdrawal for the purpose of retiring it, in conformity with the statute, is entitled to legal interest on the amount due from the time of such notice. Kellenberger v. Oskaloosa Nat. B. L. & I. Assn., 129-582.

SEC. 1898-d. Foreclosure of mortgage—costs. In case of foreclosure of any mortgage given by a shareholder of any such association, the mortgagor shall be charged with the rate of interest agreed upon, not however to exceed eight per cent. per annum, and shall be entitled to be credited, as of any anniversary of said mortgage, with the total amount of all payments made on the stock to the said association during the preceding year, and such payment on the stock shall be treated as a payment upon the mortgage, anything in the articles of incorporation or the by-laws of such association to the contrary notwithstanding. If such association shows affirmatively that losses have occurred during the period of the membership of such shareholder in excess of the amount of any fund accumulated from which to pay such losses, to such an extent that the value of the shares of stock have been impaired, then such associations shall be entitled to have entered as a part of the judgment of foreclosure the equitable contribution of said shareholder toward such losses. If, by the articles of incorporation, the withdrawal value of the stock of such mortgagor is greater than the amount paid thereon, together with eight per cent. interest then such withdrawal value shall be credited on the mortgages of the date to which such value is computed, in lieu of the credits of payment on stock as aforesaid, and judgment and decree shall be rendered for only the balance found due, provided, however, that on any mortgage executed between October 1, 1897, and the date of the taking effect of this act, the rate of interest may be computed at the rate therein named, but in no case at a greater rate than twelve per centum per annum on the net amount of the loan actually received by and paid to the borrower, and no evasion of this provision shall be had by means of any dues, premiums, membership fees, fines, forfeitures, or other charges, any agreement to the contrary notwithstanding. In any suit in which the recovery upon the mortgage shall be for a less amount than the amount demanded in the plaintiff's petition, all costs of suit, including attorney's fees, may in the discretion of the court be taxed to the plaintiff. Provided, further, that in case of foreclosure judgment and decree shall be entered for as much as would be due the association under the provisions of this act if suit had not been brought. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 6.]

The fact that on foreclosure of a mortgage the association claims a larger judgment than it is entitled to does not deprive it of the right to attorneys' fees as contemplated in the statute. Le Mars Bldg. & Loan Assn. v. Burgess, 129-422.

SEC. 1899-a. Loans—premium and interest. Such associations shall have power to loan money to their members at such rate as may be agreed upon, and may collect premiums and interest thereon, but in no case shall the amount of premium and interest paid exceed eight per cent. per annum, but nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the payment of such interest and premium monthly, or at such time as may be provided for in the articles of incorporation. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 4.]

SEC. 1900. Voting shares of stock.

The provision that no person shall vote more than ten per cent. of the outstanding shares of the association is applicable to the action of stockholders in adopting a proposition for voluntary liquidation under Code Supplement, § 1907-a. McKee v. Home Sav. & Trust Co., 122-731.

SEC. 1902-a. Expenditures and expenses—compensation of officers and agents. All expenditures and expenses for management and conducting the affairs of said associations, not including membership fees and charges for closing loans, shall be paid from the receipts of interest, premiums, and other sources of profit. Said associations may thus use for expenses in any one year a sum not in excess of the following percentages on their assets, as shown by the last annual report, to-wit: Associations with assets not in excess of $100,000, three per centum per annum; associations with assets in excess of $100,000, but less than $300,000, two and one-half per cent.; associations in excess of $300,000, and less than $500,000, two and a quarter per cent.; and associations with assets in excess of $500,000, two per cent.; but in no event shall the expenses of any association exceed $12,000 in any one year. No officer, employee, or agent of any association shall receive directly or indirectly any salary or other compensation, except for services actually rendered; and any compensation hereafter paid in violation of this section may be recovered by any shareholder or borrower.

within three years from the receipt of such illegal compensation from the person accepting the same, or from any officer knowingly consenting to the allowance thereof, in a suit which may be brought in the name of the association, or in the name of such shareholder or borrower. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 2.]

After the enactment of 28 G. A., chap. 69, it was not competent for a building and loan association to carry out a contract previously made by which an agent was entitled to a percentage of the gross expense fund received in the business of the association, inasmuch as no such expense fund could be provided by the association. Wood v. Iowa Bldg. & Loan Assn., 126-464.

SEC. 1903-a. Fines—terms of withdrawal. Any stockholder in arrears in payments may be fined in a sum not in excess of three cents per share of one hundred dollars each for the first month's delinquency and five cents per share of one hundred dollars each for each succeeding month's delinquency; but said penalty shall only be due and payable from the profits belonging to said delinquent. The terms of withdrawal of a member from such association shall be such that any withdrawing member shall receive a sum not less than he has paid into said association, unless losses have occurred to said association, during the time that said withdrawing member was a member, which exceed the amount of the profits, or any fund created with which to pay such losses, and in that case such withdrawing member shall be charged with his proportionate share of the excess of the losses over the profits, and no more. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 3.]

SEC. 1903-b. Withdrawal of non-borrowing members. The articles of incorporation of any building and loan or building and savings association may, by a three-fourths vote of the board of directors, provide that non-borrowing members shall withdraw their stock at book value in the order of its issue, beginning with the stock first issued, by giving the stockholders thereof thirty days notice. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 5.]

SEC. 1906-a. Detailed statement published. The auditor of state shall publish, in his report of building and loan and savings and loan associations, a detailed statement of the salaries and compensation paid, and to whom, giving the names of the officers and agents respectively receiving such salaries. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 13.]

SEC. 1907-a. Voluntary liquidation. Building and loan or saving and loan associations, by a vote of three-fourths of the shareholders of such associations, represented in person or by proxy, may go into voluntary liquidation upon such plan as shall be determined upon by the shareholders at their meeting. In case any such association resolves to go into voluntary liquidation, it shall have power, after crediting the mortgages given by the borrowing member with the full book value of the stock, to sell and assign such mortgage to a similar building and loan association, or to any other parties who will hold the same upon the terms under which such mortgage was given to the association. In that event the said mortgage shall be held to become due, if no other time can be agreed upon between the mortgagor and the association, within three years after the assignment thereof. In case the shareholders are unable to agree upon other plan and terms upon which the said association may wind up its affairs, the following plan shall be adopted. Interest shall be computed on the respective amounts paid in by the several shareholders from the date of such payments until the date that said association resolves to go into liquidation, and amount so found shall be the basis for distribution of the assets of the association. In the case of a borrowing member the amount thus found due him on stock, if there have been no losses so as to impair the capital, shall be credited on his mortgage and the balance of such mortgage shall be paid within one year.
together with interest at the rate therein agreed upon not to exceed 8 per cent., and upon the payments of the outstanding mortgages and the conversion of the assets into money the same shall be distributed pro rata among the stockholders according to the amount found due each as aforesaid. And any balance due the borrowing member, over and above the amount actually received as a credit on the mortgage, shall be paid to such members. In case, however, of an impairment of the capital by loss, the amount of such loss shall be estimated and apportioned to each member pro rata according to the amount found due such members in the manner aforesaid, and the borrowing members shall be entitled to receive a credit on their mortgages for the balance after the stock is charged with its pro rata share of the loss, and the balance due on such mortgages shall be paid within twelve months, and upon the final distribution any balance due such borrowing member shall be paid to him. But in the final distribution, before the final dividend is made, interest shall be allowed on the amount found due the non-borrowing member not to exceed six per cent. so as to equalize between the borrowing member who has received a credit on his mortgage and the non-borrowing member. Any plan other than that herein specified shall be submitted to the executive council for approval before the same is adopted. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 7.]

Where the proceedings for voluntary liquidation are not valid under the statutory provision on that subject a receiver may be appointed without regard to such proceedings. McKee v. Home Sav. & T. Co., 122-731.

SEC. 1907-b. Consolidation with other companies. Any building and loan or savings and loan association organized under the laws of this state shall have authority to consolidate its business and membership with one or more building and loan or savings and loan associations of the same class organized under the laws of this state and to transfer to such association or associations its entire assets subject to its existing liabilities, and upon the consolidation of such associations, if any one or more of said companies shall have heretofore issued guaranty stock, they may provide for the withdrawal and retirement of said guaranty stock, and the same may be withdrawn in accordance with the plan therein adopted. The plan of such consolidation, when approved by the board of directors of each of the associations, shall be reduced to writing and submitted to the executive council, and if they find that the plan is in conformity with the law, and equitable in all respects to the members of both associations, they shall attach thereto their certificate of approval. Such plan shall then be submitted to the members of both associations, either at the regular meetings or at special meetings called for that purpose, and, if approved by a vote of three-fourths of the shares of stock of each association, the same shall then be filed in the office of the auditor of state, who shall issue a certificate authorizing the consolidation. At such meetings the members may vote in person or by proxy or by written ballot mailed or otherwise delivered to the secretary at or before the time of meeting. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 8.]

SEC. 1907-c. Consolidation when in hands of receiver. In any case where a receiver has been appointed for any such association, its membership and business may in like manner be consolidated with, and its assets transferred to, another such association of the same class, but in such case the receiver shall act in place of the board of directors, and the plan must also be approved by the court by which the receiver was appointed. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 9.]
SEC. 1908. Foreign companies.

Prior to any specific provisions as to foreign associations, such an association might do business in the state upon complying with the law relating to foreign corporations generally. Tootle v. Singer, 118-533.

This section implies that foreign corporations are to be put upon an equality with domestic associations of the same character, upon condition only that they comply with the requirements peculiar to them, and held that the act of 27 G. A., chap. 48, legalizing usurious loans by building and loan associations, was applicable to foreign as well as domestic companies. Ibid.

SEC. 1908-a. Foreign companies. No building and loan or savings and loan association, incorporated under the laws of any other state or country, shall be authorized to do business in this state, whose articles of incorporation are not found by the executive council to be in substantial compliance with the laws of this state, and affording equal security and protection to the members thereof. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 14.]

SEC. 1915-a. Penalty. It shall be unlawful for any agent, solicitor, or other person to sell stock or solicit persons to subscribe for stock in any such association named in section 14 hereof, which has not been authorized to do business in this state, and any person convicted of so doing shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, and shall be committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid. [28 G. A., ch. 69, § 15.]

SEC. 1918. False statements.

An officer of a building and loan association may be prosecuted for embezzlement, under Code § 4942, relating to embezzlement in general, although he is guilty of a crime under the statutory provisions relating to such associations. State v. Ames, 119-980.

SEC. 1920-a. Unincorporated building and loan associations—extending provisions of other sections to include what. All unincorporated organizations, associations, societies, partnerships or individuals conducting and carrying on a business, the purpose of which is to create a fund derived from periodical payments by members of such organizations, associations, societies, or other persons, upon contracts or otherwise, as well as from fines, forfeitures, incidental fees and payment of premiums and interest, which fund is to be loaned or advanced to members of the organization, association, society or to the persons making such periodical payments, for the purpose of enabling them to acquire the ownership or free possession of real estate, or personal property or to construct buildings, or any or all of such purposes, shall be deemed building and loan associations; and the provisions of chapter thirteen (13) of title nine (9) of the code, and chapter sixty-nine (69) of the acts of the twenty-eighth general assembly of the state of Iowa, shall apply to all such building and loan associations so far as the same can be made applicable to unincorporated organizations, associations, societies, partnerships or individuals. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 1.]

The statute imposing different conditions on the building and loan business when conducted by an unincorporated association from those imposed upon the business when conducted by a corporation is not unconstitutional. Brady v. Matter, 125-158.
SEC. 1920-b. Sworn statements—deposit of securities. Every such unincorporated organization, association, society, partnership or individual, conducting and carrying on the business defined in section one (1) hereof, shall, before transacting any business in this state, submit to the executive council a full and complete sworn statement of the resources and liabilities of such organization, association, society, partnership or individual, and of the proposed plan or method of doing business; and no such unincorporated building and loan association shall be permitted to carry on its business within this state unless it shall first deposit with the auditor of state at least fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) of first mortgages and negotiable notes in the same amount secured thereby upon real estate in the state of Iowa, bearing interest at a rate not less than five per cent. per annum, which said mortgages shall in no case exceed one-half the actual value of the real estate upon which they are taken; and the auditor of state shall have power and authority to require that such further amount of such securities shall be deposited with him as in his judgment may thereafter be necessary to protect the members of such building and loan association, or the persons making periodical payments thereto. The notes, mortgages and securities so deposited with the auditor of state shall, with all interest and accumulations thereon, be held in trust by him for the purpose of fulfilling and carrying out all contracts made by such building and loan association with the members thereof, and with the persons making periodical payments thereto. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 2.]

SEC. 1920-c. Approval—certificate. If the executive council approves the plan or method of business of any such building and loan association, it shall endorse its approval upon the statement of the resources and liabilities and plan of business presented to it, and such statement shall thereupon be filed in the office of the auditor of state, who shall issue a certificate to such building and loan association to transact business within the state of Iowa, if such association has deposited with him the mortgages and securities required by the provisions of section two (2) hereof. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 3.]

SEC. 1920-d. Officers to give bonds—approval. Every officer of such building and loan association who signs or endorses checks or handles any of the funds or securities thereof, shall give such bond or fidelity insurance for the faithful performance of his duty in such sum as the auditor of state may require, and no such officer shall be deemed qualified to enter upon the duties of his office until his bond is approved by, and deposited with, the auditor of state. And any such bond may be increased or additional sureties required by the auditor of state whenever in his judgment it becomes necessary to protect the interest of the association or its members, or persons making periodical payments of money thereto. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 4.]

SEC. 1920-e. Examination. The auditor of state may at any time he may see proper make, or cause to be made, an examination of any such building and loan association, or he may call upon it for a report of its condition upon any given day which has passed, as often as four times each year, which report shall contain the information hereinafter required. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 5.]

SEC. 1920-f. Expense of examination. The expense of making such examination shall be paid by the building and loan association, and if made by the auditor in person he shall be paid his necessary expenses only; if made by an examiner designated by the auditor, he shall receive ten dollars ($10) a day for the time employed by him and his necessary expenses. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 6.]
SEC. 1920-g. Annual reports. On or before the first day of February of each year every such building and loan association shall file with the auditor of state its annual report in writing for the year ending on the thirty-first day of December preceding, giving a complete statement in detail of all of its receipts from all sources, and all disbursements made, during such year, arranged and itemized as may be required by the auditor of state. Such report shall also show the number of members or persons making periodical payments to such association, the number and amount of loans made to such persons, the interest received therefrom, the number and amounts of mortgages, contracts or other securities held by the association, the actual cash value of the real estate securing such mortgages or contracts, the salary paid to each of its officers during the preceding year, the assets and liabilities of the association at the end of the year, and any other matters which in the judgment of the auditor of state may be required to give him full information as to the business transacted by such building and loan association. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 7.]

SEC. 1920-h. Failure or refusal to furnish reports. If any such building and loan association shall fail or refuse to furnish to the auditor of state the report required in the preceding section, the officers or persons conducting the business of such building and loan association shall forfeit the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25) for each day that such report is withheld, and the auditor of state may maintain an action, jointly or severally, against them in the name of the state to recover such penalty, and the same shall be paid in to the state treasury when recovered by him. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 8.]

SEC. 1920-i. Penalties. If any officer or agent of any such building and loan association, or any person conducting the business thereof, shall knowingly and wilfully swear falsely to any statement in regard to any matter in this act required to be made under oath, he shall be guilty of perjury and punished accordingly. And if any officer, agent or employe of any such association, or any person transacting the business thereof, shall issue, utter or offer to utter, any warrant, check, order, or promise to pay of such association, or shall sign, transfer, cancel or surrender any note, bond, draft, mortgage, or other evidence of indebtedness belonging to such association, or shall demand, collect or receive any money from any member or other person in the name of such association without being authorized so to do; or if any such officer, agent or employe of such association, or any person transacting the business thereof, shall embezzle, convert to his own use, or shall use or pledge for his own benefit or purpose, any moneys, securities, credits or other property belonging to the association, or shall knowingly solicit, transact, or attempt to transact any business for any such association which has not procured and does not hold the certificate of authority from the auditor of state to transact business in this state as provided herein; or shall knowingly make, or cause to be made, any false entries in the books of the association, or shall, with intent to deceive any person making an examination of such association, as herein provided, exhibit to the person making the examination any false entry, paper or statement, he shall be fined in a sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), or imprisoned in the penitentiary not exceeding ten (10) years, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 9.]

SEC. 1920-j. Revocation of certificate—receiver. If any such building and loan association, holding a certificate of authority to transact business within this state issued by the auditor as herein provided, shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or shall fail to deposit with the auditor of state such further amount of mortgages or securities as he may require under section two (2) hereof, the auditor of state shall at once revoke such certificate and notify the executive council of the revocation thereof; and under the direction of the executive council, application shall be made by the attorney-general to the proper court for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the association; and in such proceedings the amount due from the borrowing members or persons making periodical payments upon contracts or mortgages given by them, shall be ascertained in the manner provided in section seven (7) of chapter sixty-nine (69) of the acts of the twenty-eighth general assembly; and the amounts owing upon such mortgages or contracts from members of the association or persons making periodical payments thereto, shall be treated and considered as due and payable within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the court after the appointment of a receiver. [29 G. A., ch. 77, § 10.]

CHAPTER 13-A.

OF THE REGULATION OF CERTAIN PERSONS, FIRMS, COMPANIES, PARTNER­SHIPS, ASSOCIATIONS OR CORPORATIONS.

SEC. 1920-k. Terms defined. The term “association” when used in this act shall mean any person, firm, company, partnership, association or corporation, other than building and loan associations and insurance companies and associations, which issue stocks on the partial payment or installment plan. The term “issue” shall mean issue, sell, place, engage in or otherwise dispose of or handle. The term “stock” shall mean certificates, memberships, shares, bonds, contracts, debentures, stocks, tontine contracts, or other investment securities or agreements of any kind or character issued upon the partial payment or installment plan. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 1.]

SEC. 1920-1. Certificate—how obtained. No association contemplated by this act shall issue any stock until it shall have procured from the auditor of state a certificate of authority authorizing it to engage in such business. To procure such certificate of authority it shall be necessary for such association to file with the auditor of state a statement, under oath, showing the name and location of such association, the name and postoffice address of its officers, the date of organization, and if incorporated a copy of its articles of incorporation, also, a copy of its by-laws or rules by which it is to be governed, the form of its certificates, stocks or contracts, all printed matter issued by it, together with a detailed statement of its financial condition and such other information concerning its affairs or plan of business as the auditor of state may require. The same shall be, by the auditor of state laid before the executive council for consideration. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 2.]

SEC. 1920-m. Executive council to approve plan. If the executive council is satisfied that the business is not in violation of law or of public policy, and is safe, reliable and entitled to public confidence, and if it shall approve the form of certificate of stock or contract, it shall direct the auditor of state to issue to such association a certificate of authority authorizing it to transact business within this state until the first day of March next succeeding the date of such authorization. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 3.]

SEC. 1920-n. Existing companies. Every such association at present transacting, within this state, the business contemplated by this act, shall be subject to all the provisions hereof, and shall within sixty days from the taking effect of the same, comply with all of its requirements. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 4.]

SEC. 1920-o. To report annually. During the month of January of each year, every association transacting the business contemplated by this act, shall file with the auditor of state a statement showing its condition on the 31st day of December preceding. Said statement shall be in such form as shall be prescribed by the auditor of state. If it appears from such statement that such association is doing a safe business and is solvent, the auditor of state may renew its certificate of authority authorizing it to transact business within the state until the first day of March of the following year. If at any time it shall appear that such association is doing an unsafe business or is insolvent the auditor of state may revoke its certificate of authority to transact business within the state until the first day of March of the following year. If at any time it shall appear that such association is doing an unsafe business or is insolvent the auditor of state may revoke its certificate of authority to transact business and having revoked the certificate of authority of an association organized under the laws of this state, he shall report his action to the attorney-general who shall at once apply to the district court or a judge thereof for the appointment of a receiver to close up the affairs of such association, and an injunction may issue in the same proceeding enjoining and restraining the association from transacting business in this state. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 5.]

SEC. 1920-p. Deposit of bonds or securities. Before any association shall be authorized to transact business contemplated by this chapter, it shall deposit with the auditor of state a bond approved by the executive council, guaranteeing the faithful performance of all contracts entered into by such association or securities of the kind designated in subdivisions one, two, three, four and five of section eighteen hundred and six of the code, as amended by chapter sixty-six (66), acts of the twenty-eighth general assembly, or such other securities as shall be approved by the executive council in the amount of twenty-five thousand dollars, which amount shall remain in possession of the auditor of state until the end of the calendar year in which the association shall first be authorized to transact business. At the end of such calendar year, such association shall deposit with the auditor of state securities of the kind above provided in an amount equal to all its liabilities to persons residing within this state and shall keep such deposit at all times equal to such liability; provided that at no time shall such deposit be reduced below twenty-five thousand dollars except at such time as such association shall be by law closing out its business and its liabilities shall have been reduced below twenty-five thousand dollars. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 6.]

SEC. 1920-q. Unauthorized companies—penalty. Any member or representative of any association who shall attempt to issue or sell any stock as contemplated by this act or to transact any business whatsoever in the name of or on behalf of such association, not authorized to do business within this state, or which has failed or refused to comply with the provisions of this act, or has violated any of its provisions shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed one year, or by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 7.]

SEC. 1920-r. Fee for annual certificate. Such association shall pay to the auditor of state for its certificate of authority to transact business, a fee of twenty-five dollars, and for each annual renewal thereof at the time of filing the annual statement ten dollars, which fee shall be by the auditor of state turned into the state treasury as are other fees of his office. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 8.]

SEC. 1920-s. Examination. Every such association doing business within this state, shall be subject to examination in the same manner as is provided for the examination of insurance companies and shall pay the same fees and costs therefor, and shall so far as is consistent with the plan of business, be subject to the same restrictions and regulations. Such examinations shall be full and complete and in making the same the auditor of state or examiner shall have full access to and may demand the production of all books, securities, papers, moneys, etc., of the association under examination, and may administer oaths, summon and compel the attendance and testimony of any persons connected with such association. If upon such examination, it shall appear that such association does not conduct its business in accordance with law, or if it permits forfeiture of payments by persons holding its stock, after three years from the issuance of said stock or provides for the payment of its expenses other than from earnings, or that any profits, advantage or compensation of any form or description is given to any member or investor over any other member or investor of the same class, or if beneficiaries are selected or determined or advantages given one over another by any form of chance, lottery or hazard, or if certificates of stock are by their terms or by any other provision to be redeemed in numerical order or by any arbitrary order or precedence, without reference the amount previously paid thereon by the holder thereof, or that the affairs are in an unsound condition, or if such association refuses such examination to be made, the auditor of state may revoke its certificate or [of] authority to do business in this state, and having revoked the certificate of authority of an association organized under the laws of this state, he shall report the same to the attorney-general, who shall proceed as provided in section five (5) hereof. [30 G. A., ch. 66, § 9.]
OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

CHAPTER 2.
OF LEVEES, DRAINS, DITCHES AND WATERCOURSES.

SECTION 1939. Supervisors to Locate.

The power of a board of supervisors to construct ditches and drains under these provisions is not restricted in terms or by necessary inference to territory outside of towns and cities. The presumption must be exercised that the board will have due consideration for the interests of the public within as well as without the limits of such municipal corporation. Aldrick v. Paine, 106-461.

SEC. 1940. Proceedings—bond—survey—notice. A petition signed by a majority of the persons resident in the county, owning land abutting upon such proposed improvement, shall be first filed in the office of the county auditor, setting forth the necessity for the same, the starting point, route and terminus, together with a bond, with sufficient sureties to be approved by him, conditioned to pay all costs and expenses incurred in case the supervisors refuse to grant the prayer of the petition. The auditor shall thereupon place a copy of the petition in the hands of the county surveyor or a competent engineer, who shall make a survey of the proposed improvement, and return a plat and profile thereof to the auditor; which return shall set forth a full and detailed description thereof, its availability, necessity and probable cost, with a description of each tract of land owned by different persons, through or abutting upon which the improvement is proposed to be located, how it will be affected thereby, and its situation and elevation as compared with that of adjoining lands, with such other facts as he may deem material. The auditor shall immediately thereafter cause notice in writing to be served on the owner of each tract of land, through or abutting upon which the proposed improvement is to be located, who is a resident of the county, of the pendency and prayer of said petition, and the session of the board of supervisors at which the same will be heard, which notice shall be served ten days prior to said session in the same manner that original notices are required to be served. In case any such owner is a non-resident of the county, such notice as to him shall be published, once each week, for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the county, proof thereof being made by affidavits as in case of legal notices published in newspapers, which proof shall be filed with the board. [19 G. A., ch. 44, § 2; C., '73, § 1208.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 15.]

Under § 1208 of the Code of '73 which used the word "adjacent" in describing the owners who are required to petition for a ditch, held, the term applied to owners of land abutting on the improvement, and not the owners of all the land within the congressional subdivision through which it runs. Wormley v. Board of Supervisors, 108-232.

In a proceeding to enjoin the issuance of bonds for the construction of a ditch, the contractor is a necessary party. Tod v. Crisman, 123-693.

Constitutionality: The unconstitutionality of the provision for taxing lands in the vicinity of the ditch without notice to the owner thereof, renders the entire provision for assessment for such ditches invalid. Smith v. Peterson, 123-672.

The provisions of these sections do not contemplate notice to a landowner whose land does not abut upon the ditch that he may be assessed therefor, and as he is not afforded an opportunity for a hearing the statute is unconstitutional as to such owner. Beebe v. Magoun, 122-94.

A statute which provides for notice to the property owner at some stage of the proceedings, before the assessment is made, is not open to constitutional objection simply because it does not provide for a new or additional notice of each successive step leading up to the assessment. Ross v. Board of Supervisors, 128-427.

No one is entitled to raise the objection of want of notice of the proceedings except the party entitled to notice. Ibid.

The landowner is not entitled to notice of the hearing as to the extent of the drainage district, and as to whether his land shall be included therein. Ibid.

SEC. 1941. Location—damage.

Even though the notice is not in the language of the statute, if it is not so defective that it can be said there is no notice, the action of the board in holding it to be sufficient cannot be collaterally assailed. Oliver v. Monona County, 117-43.

No express finding that the ditch is necessary or would tend to the public health, convenience or welfare is required. A finding by the board that all the requirements of the law have been fully complied with is sufficient, there being no requirement that a finding as to the necessity for the ditch shall be made of record. Ibid.

The validity of the establishment of a ditch is not affected by the fact that claims for damages are not made and allowed before such location. The objection is not jurisdictional. Ibid.

A landowner who has made claim for damages which has been passed on by the board of supervisors cannot afterwards enjoin the prosecution of the work because the damages allowed are not sufficient. Ibid.

SEC. 1942. Claim for damages.

If in the construction of a county drain or ditch through the limits of a city or town injury will result to the streets or an additional burden of expense be cast upon the corporation, there would seem to be no reason why damages might not be claimed by such corporation as well as by the individual owners through whose land the ditch extends. Aldrich v. Paine, 106-461.

SEC. 1944. Letting work—payment. The auditor shall cause notice to be given of the time and place of letting, the kind and approximate amount of work to be done on each section, and the time fixed for its completion, by publication, once each week, for four (4) consecutive weeks in some newspaper printed in said county, and shall let it upon each separate section to the lowest bidder therefor, who shall be required to execute a bond, with sufficient sureties, in an amount equal to ten per cent. of the estimated cost of the work so let, or deposit such amount in cash with the auditor, as security for the performance of his contract. The engineer in charge of the construction shall furnish the contractor monthly estimates of the amount of work done on each section, and upon the filing of the same with the auditor, he shall draw a warrant in favor of the contractor for eighty per cent. of the value of the work done, according to the estimate; and when said improvement is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge, and so certified by him to the auditor, he shall draw a warrant in favor of said contractor upon the levee or drainage fund for the balance due, as provided in the following section. If any person to whom any portion of said work has been let shall fail to perform the same as, and in the time, specified in his contract, the cash deposited by him shall be forfeited to, or the penalty named in the bond may be recovered in an action thereon by the county auditor, for the benefit of the levee or drainage district, on said contract, as liquidated damages, and it shall be relet by the auditor in the manner hereinafore provided. [19 G. A., ch. 44, § 6; 18 G. A., ch. 85, § 8; 16 G. A., ch. 140, § 1; C. '73, § 1212.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 16.]
One who claims to be the lowest bidder cannot maintain an action of mandamus to compel the board to award the contract to him. Vincent v. Ellis, 116-609. The statutory provision as to forfeiture of cash deposit and recovery of a penalty does not deprive the board of supervisors of their right to treat the whole contract as forfeited on default of the contractor to perform, and institute new proceedings for the construction of a different ditch. The board is not bound under such circumstances to allow the county auditor to re-let the work under the former proceedings. Brown v. Board of Supervisors, 129-533.

SEC. 1946. Assessment of costs and damages. When any levee, ditch, drain, or change of direction of any water course shall have been located and established, as provided in this chapter, or when it shall be necessary to cause the same to be repaired or reopened, the auditor shall appoint three persons, one of whom shall be a competent civil engineer, and two who shall be resident freeholders of the county, not living within the township or townships where the improvement is or is to be located, and not interested therein or in a like question, nor related to any party whose land is affected thereby, who shall within twenty days after such appointment personally inspect and classify as “dry,” “low,” “wet,” or “swamp” all the land benefited by the location and construction of the improvement, or the repairing or reopening of the same, and shall make an equitable apportionment of the cost, expenses, cost of construction, fees, and damages assessed for the construction of any such improvement, or of repairing or reopening the same, and make report thereof in writing to the board of supervisors and file the same with the county auditor who shall immediately thereafter fix a time for hearing objections thereto before the board of supervisors, and cause to be served upon the owner of each tract of land or lot described in said report as shown by the transfer books in the auditor’s office notice in writing of the filing and pendency of said report, the amount of special assessment apportioned to such owner, the day set for hearing the same, and that all objections thereto must be made in writing and filed with the county auditor on or before noon of the day set for such hearing, which notice as to residents of the county shall be served not less than ten days prior to the day set for such hearing in the same manner that original notices are required to be served and as to non-residents of the county such notice shall be served by publishing the same one [once] each week for two consecutive weeks the last publication not less than ten days prior to the day set for hearing in some newspaper published in the county and by serving the same upon the person or persons in the actual occupancy of the property not less than ten days prior to the day set for such hearing. When the day set for hearing has arrived the board of supervisors shall proceed to hear and determine all objections made and filed to said report, and may increase, diminish, annul or affirm the apportionment made in said report or any part thereof as may appear to the board to be just and equitable which apportionment shall be assessed among the owners of the land along or in the vicinity of such improvement and to be benefited thereby, in proportion to the benefit to each of them, and levied upon the lands of the owners so benefited in said proportions, and collected in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected for county purposes; which fund so collected shall be kept separate from other county funds, and shall be paid out only for purposes properly connected with the improvement, on the order of the county auditor, on claims properly certified by the engineer in charge of the improvement as in this chapter provided, or on the order of the board of supervisors. The engineer shall receive for each day’s service, while so engaged, five dollars, and the other commissioners shall receive each two dollars per day, to be paid out of the funds so collected. In order to prevent or repair a break in any levee in time of high water, any member of the board of supervisors may at once employ the necessary labor to repair the levee or prevent a break thereof, and the necessary and reasonable expense therefore shall be audited by the board of supervisors and paid from the levee fund. [21 G. A., ch. 139; 19 G. A., ch. 44, § 7; 16 G. A., ch. 140, § 4; C., '73, § 1214.] [29 G. A., ch. 78, § 1.] [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 1.]

[The amendment by the 30 G. A. ignored section 1946 as it appeared in the code supplement, but amended 1946 of the code. Section 1946 of the code was amended by the 29 G. A. by adding matter to the end of the section, and the amendment by the 30 G. A. has been shown as amending the section as it appears in the code supplement.]

These statutory provisions practically authorize the creation of a drainage district and the assessment of the expenses for the improvement upon all the property coming within the general benefit involved in the promotion of the public health, convenience and welfare. It is not the proximity of the parcels of land in question to the ditch or the benefit to the parcels from the construction thereof which is the basis of the assessment, but all the parcels within the drainage district are to be assessed uniformly with the expense in accordance with their general character. The owner is entitled to notice with reference to whether his land is included within the drainage district and this is sufficient to charge him with notice of the subsequent proceedings. Oliver v. Monona County, 117-43. The funds derived from a special assessment for the construction of a ditch do not belong to the county. Yockey v. Woodbury County, 130-412.

Sec. 1946-b. Re-assessment and relevy. Where the assessment and levy on account of any ditch, drain or water course has been made by the board of supervisors of any county under the provisions of said section one thousand nine hundred and forty-six (1946) of the code without notice or legal notice to the owner of the land affected thereby and the whole or any part thereof remains unpaid, the board of supervisors shall have the authority to recall the assessment or levy thus made without notice and proceed anew as provided in section one (1) hereof to apportionment and levy of the cost of the improvement has not yet been made as well as to proceedings instituted hereafter. [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 2.]

Sec. 1946-b. Re-assessment and relevy. Where the assessment and levy on account of any ditch, drain or water course has been made by the board of supervisors of any county under the provisions of said section one thousand nine hundred and forty-six (1946) of the code without notice or legal notice to the owner of the land affected thereby and the whole or any part thereof remains unpaid, the board of supervisors shall have the authority to recall the assessment or levy thus made without notice and proceed anew as provided in section one (1) hereof to apportionment and levy of the cost of such improvement among the owners and upon the land benefited thereby, taking as a basis the original apportionment, and report of the commissioners upon which the board had theretofore acted, and the new assessment and levy made upon notice and hearing in such cases shall be certified by the county auditor to the county treasurer, re-entered upon the tax list and collected as other taxes for county purposes, and all payments made under the prior assessment, and levy shall be credited upon the new assessment and levy. [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 3.]
SEC. 1946-c. Completion and payment of work already begun. When any levee, ditch, drain, water course or change of water course shall have been heretofore established by any of the boards of supervisors of this state and contract or contracts let therefor, and the improvement wholly or partly constructed or drainage bonds issued on account thereof and the proceedings or tax therefor have been or shall be for any cause found invalid and the board of supervisors has found or shall find that such improvement will be conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare, such board is authorized to provide for the completion of the work and the payment therefor, and for the payment of the work already done and of the drainage bonds issued and to that end shall recall the tax theretofore levied and shall reascertain the cost and expense of such improvement, and after notice and hearing as provided in this act shall assess and levy the same upon the lands benefited thereby, and the said board and the other county officers shall proceed as provided by section three (3) and the other provisions of this act. Such re-assessment and re levy of taxes shall be in proportion to and not in excess of benefits, and all taxes theretofore paid upon such improvement shall be credited as provided in section three (3) of this act. [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 4.]

SEC. 1946-d. Drainage bonds. Section one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three (1953) of the code shall be construed to apply to and authorize the issuance of drainage bonds in proceedings heretofore or hereafter instituted under section one thousand nine hundred and forty (1940) of the code. [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 5.]

SEC. 1946-e. Future levies. Such assessment shall fix the proportion for all future levies on account of such improvement or the repair or reopening thereof, and may be levied in one year or apportioned among a series of years, and drainage bonds issued therefor as provided by section one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three (1953) of the code, and appeals may be taken as provided by section one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven (1947) of the code. [30 G. A., ch. 67, § 6.]

SEC. 1947. Appeals. The provision of this section that it shall not be competent to show that the lands assessed were not benefited by the improvements pertains exclusively to the remedy, and is applicable, although the statutory provision in force when the tax was levied authorized the property owner to show that his property was not benefited by the improvements. Allerton v. Monona County, 111-560; Oliver v. Monona County, 117-43.

The landowner being given opportunity to appear before the board of supervisors and make objection that his land as reported by the commissioner is not in fact benefited by the improvement, is concluded by the finding of the board, and such provision is not unconstitutional. Ross v. Board of Supervisors, 129-427.

On an appeal to the district court from an order of the board of supervisors refusing to order the construction of a ditch on an application therefor there is no right to a jury trial. In re Bradley, 108-476.

The petitioners for the establishment of a public ditch being required to contribute to the expense of establishing it, are entitled to notice of appeal from the award of damages taken by a claimant for such damages. Henderson v. Calhoun County, 129-119.

The board of supervisors has no authority to direct the dismissal of an appeal from its action in fixing the assessment upon lands. The county or board of supervisors if properly a party to the appeal in any sense is such party only in a nominal or representative capacity and the real parties in interest have the right to control the proceedings. Temple v. Hamilton, 112 N. W. 174.

The board is given the authority to pass upon the necessity of the improvement and determine its public character and fix the boundaries of the district, which power is legislative rather than judicial; the court should on appeal be reluctant to interfere with the exercise of discretion in the part of the board. Temple v. Hamilton, 112 N. W. 174.
SEC. 1948. Nuisance. Any ditch, drain or water course which is now or may hereafter be constructed so as to prevent the surplus and overflow waters from the adjacent land from entering the same, is hereby declared a nuisance, and the same may be abated as such; and the diverting, obstructing, impeding, or filling up of such ditches, drains, or water courses, or breaking down of such levees in any manner by any person, without legal authority, or obstructing or in any manner diverting any part of the site thereof to private use, is hereby declared a nuisance, criminally punishable as such. [21 G. A., ch. 139; 19 G. A., ch. 44, § 7; 16 G. A., ch. 140, § 4; C., '73, §§ 1214, 1216.] [29 G. A., ch. 78, § 2.]

SEC. 1951. Levees, ditches or drains in public highway—highway along levee. Levees, ditches, drains and embankments may be located and constructed within the limits of public highways, on either or both sides of and along the same, to be so built as not materially to interfere with the public travel thereon, by taxation and assessment under the provisions of this chapter, and, when constructed, shall be under the control of the board of supervisors of the county in which they are situated; and it shall have power to grant a right of way thereon to any railway that will maintain them while used by it, subject to any claim for damages against the company in any condemnation proceedings which may be instituted, and the damages awarded, paid, or secured to be paid before possession shall be given, but the county shall not be required on account thereof or otherwise to keep up such improvements at its expense. The board of supervisors shall have power to establish public highways along and upon any levee built under the provisions of this chapter, provided that when so used the same shall be worked as other highways and so as to at all times maintain its condition as a levee. [20 G. A., ch. 186, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 78, § 3.]

Where a petition is apparently sufficient as to the number of signers the action of the board of supervisors in entertaining jurisdiction of the proceeding cannot be collaterally assailed. Oliver v. Monona County, 117-43.

The essential facts which must be alleged and established before the improvement can be ordered, are, that the body or district of land is subject to overflow, or is too wet for cultivation, and that the public health, convenience or welfare will be promoted by the proposed work. The duty of hearing and determining this question is committed in the first instance to the board of supervisors, and until the truth of both of these propositions has been established to the satisfaction of such board, the order for the location and construction of the improvement cannot right-fully be made. If the supervisors fail to find facts without which the order for the drain or ditch could not be made, they have no jurisdiction to proceed. In re Bradley, 117-472.

While it is required by Code § 1940 that the petitioners in an application for a ditch, to be constructed at the public expense, shall give a bond to pay all costs and expenses incurred in case the board of supervisors refuse to grant the prayer of the petition, nevertheless, in an appeal in such a proceeding the court may tax the costs against the successful party. Ibid.

A property owner who has knowledge of the proceedings and allows the public improvement to proceed without objection cannot afterwards question the validity of the tax on account of irregularity. Thompson v. Mitchell, 133-527.

SEC. 1968. Compensation. Any person or corporation who by machinery, such as engines or pumps, or by making drains or adit levels, or in any other way, shall rid any lead or zinc bearing mineral lands or lead or zinc mines of water, thereby enabling the miners and the owners of mineral interest in said lands to make them productive and available for mining purposes, shall receive one-tenth of all the lead and zinc mineral taken from said lands as compensation for said drainage. [C., ’73, § 1229.] [31 G. A., ch. 82, § 1.]

lands, shall jointly and severally set apart and deliver from time to time, when demanded, the said one-tenth part of the mineral taken from said lands to the person or corporation entitled thereto, and the owners of the mineral interest therein shall allow the party entitled to such compensation and his agents at all times to descend into and examine said mines, and to enter any building occupied for mining purposes upon any of said lands, and examine and weigh the mineral taken therefrom. [C., '73, § 1230.] [31 G. A., ch. 82, § 2.]

SEC. 1971. Notice to smelters. The person or corporation entitled to said drainage compensation may at any time leave with any smelter of lead or zinc mineral in this state a written notice, stating that said person or corporation claims of the persons named in said notice the amount to which said person or corporation may be entitled, which notice shall have the effect of notices in garnishment, and also authorize the said smelter to retain, for the use of the person entitled thereto, the one-tenth part of the mineral taken from said land and received from the person named in said notice. The payment or delivery of the one-tenth part of the mineral taken from any of said lands by any one of the persons whose duty it is hereby made to pay or deliver the same, shall discharge the parties liable jointly with him, except liability to contribute among themselves. [C., '73, § 1232.] [31 G. A., ch. 82, § 3.]

SEC. 1972. Right of way. Any person or corporation engaged as aforesaid in draining such mines and lead or zinc bearing mineral lands, when he or they shall find it necessary for the prosecution of their work, shall have the right of way upon, over or under the surface of such mineral lands, and the contiguous and neighboring lands, for the purpose of conveying the water from said mineral lands by troughs, pipes, ditches, water races or tunnels, and the right to construct and use shafts and airholes in and upon the same, doing as little injury as possible in making said improvements. [C., '73, § 1233.] [31 G. A., ch. 82, § 4.]

SEC. 1976. Repeal — proceedings. That section nineteen hundred seventy-six (1976) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Proceedings as contemplated by the preceding section may be begun by filing with the county auditor a petition asking the board of supervisors to form a levee or a drainage district, for any one or all of the purposes specified in section nineteen hundred and seventy-five (1975) hereof. Said petition shall be signed by one or more owners of lands lying within the limits of such proposed district; the general limits of said district shall be given therein, and a plat of the proposed district shall be filed with said petition. There shall be filed with said petition a bond, with sureties approved by the county auditor, conditioned for the payment of all costs and expenses incurred, in case the board of supervisors shall refuse to grant the prayer or the petition. [31 G. A., ch. 83, § 1.]

SEC. 1977. Commission. At their next regular session held after the filing of such petition, or at a special session called for the purpose, the board of supervisors shall, if the foregoing provisions have been complied with, appoint a commission of three disinterested freeholders of the county, one of whom shall be, if practicable, a competent civil engineer or surveyor. This commission shall, after being duly sworn, proceed to examine the lands within such proposed district, lay out the work required, and make an estimate of the probable cost of the same. They shall make a full report to the board of supervisors, and may recommend that such district be formed as prayed, or that it be enlarged or diminished, as in their judgment will best subserve the general good and promote the general welfare. [26 G. A., ch. 46, § 3.] [31 G. A., ch. 83, § 2.]"
SEC. 1979. Repeal—hearing. That section nineteen hundred and seventy-nine (1979) of the code be repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"At the time named, or at such other time to which the board of supervisors may adjourn the matter, they shall proceed with the hearing, at which any interested parties may appear, either in person or by counsel, and be heard, and may file written pleadings. The board shall hear and determine the matter, and if they determine against the formation of such district, they shall dismiss the proceedings at the cost of the petitioners. If they shall decide to form such levee or drainage district, they shall proceed to fix the boundaries of the same, and their finding shall be entered upon their records. The finding and the report of the commissioners shall be competent evidence at the hearing above provided for, but shall not be conclusive." [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 8.]

SEC. 1981. Work carried on—land condemned. After entering the order as provided in section nineteen hundred and seventy-nine hereof, unless further proceedings are suspended as provided in section nineteen hundred and eighty hereof, the board of supervisors shall proceed and adopt such plan or system as in their judgment is proper and best under all the circumstances, and cause the work to be done, causing such ditches to be dug, channels opened, embankments erected, fills made, and such other work done as in their judgment will most efficiently promote the general good and the public welfare. They shall have power, in the manner now provided by law, chapter four of title ten, of this code, to condemn any land which they deem it necessary to take or use in the prosecution of such work, including any that may be required to aid the United States in completing such levee, the costs and expenses of which shall be paid out of the drainage fund pertaining to such district as hereinafter provided. In the doing of this work the board of supervisors shall have power to employ such help and assistance as they deem necessary, and to fix compensation for the same. All the work to be done which shall involve an estimated expenditure of five hundred dollars or over shall be let by contract, after advertising the same, once each week, for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county, to the lowest bidder who shall furnish satisfactory security for the performance of the contract; provided, however, that the board of supervisors may reject all bids, and do the work themselves whenever in their judgment, the work can be so done at a substantial saving. [26 G. A., ch. 46, § 7.][31 G. A., ch. 9, § 17.]

SEC. 1982. Repeal—costs assessed. That section nineteen hundred and eighty-two (1982) of the code be repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"If said district is established, the entire costs and expenses incurred under this chapter shall be assessed against and collected from the lands lying within such district, by the levy of a rate upon the assessable value of the land within such district, sufficient to raise the required sum, provided that where the proposed improvement is for drainage only the board may, in their discretion, classify the land within such district and graduate the tax thereon, as provided in chapter sixty-eight (68) of the laws of the thirtieth general assembly. When the board decides to make such classification, they shall proceed in the manner set forth in section twelve (12) of said chapter sixty-eight (68), and the commissioners shall each be allowed three dollars per day." [31 G. A., ch. 88, § 4.]

SEC. 1984. Repeal—annual installments. That section nineteen hundred and eighty-four (1984) of the code be repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:
"If the proposed improvement is the maintenance of a levy, the amount collected in any one year shall not exceed fifty mills on the dollar of the assessment valuation, which said assessment shall be levied at a level rate on the assessable value of the said lands, easements and railroads within the district. If the amount necessary to pay for the improvement, under section nineteen hundred and eighty-two (1982) hereof, exceed said sum, it shall be levied and collected in annual installments. For all other improvements, the board shall levy a rate sufficient to pay for the same, and may, at their discretion, make the same payable in annual installments of ten or less." [31 G. A., ch. 83, § 5.] [32 G. A., ch. 93, § 1.]

SEC. 1985. Bonds. If the entire amount required under this chapter cannot be collected in one year, the board of supervisors of such county shall have the power to issue drainage bonds for all which cannot thus be provided for in one year, in substantially the manner and form as provided in section nineteen hundred and fifty-three, chapter two, title ten, of this code, such issue to be determined upon by them before the levy, and an amount sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds shall be estimated and included in the assessment. If the amount of money required for the improvement under the provisions of this chapter cannot be collected in one year, or if the board of supervisors in their discretion deem it advisable that the taxes shall be paid in installments, or in case it becomes necessary to expend an extraordinary sum for the preservation of the levee in case of an emergency, the board of supervisors of the county shall have the power to issue bonds for all which cannot thus be provided for in one year substantially as provided in section twenty-eight (28) of chapter sixty-eight (68) of the laws of the thirtieth general assembly and acts amendatory thereto, and all acts and proceedings in relation thereto shall conform therewith, except that bonds issued in anticipation of taxes for the maintenance of a levee shall not exceed five years’ taxes and shall be due in six years from the date of issue. [26 G. A., ch. 46, § 11.] [32 G. A., ch. 93, § 3.]

SEC. 1985-a. Claim for repairs. Whenever a levee or drainage district is organized, the board or boards of supervisors, as the case may be, shall have power and authority to audit and allow claims for money and labor expended in the preservation of said levee prior to and since the organization of the said district; all sums so allowed to be payable from the levee or drainage fund. The said board or boards shall also have full power and authority to make an equitable adjustment of and credit for any taxes paid for repairing the levee where the same has been heretofore levied and collected in any manner by said board or boards of supervisors under any prior proceedings. [32 G. A., ch. 93, § 4.]

SEC. 1986. Cost of maintaining. The board of supervisors shall have the right and power to keep up and maintain any such levee, ditches, drains, or system of drainage, either in whole or in part, as may be in their judgment be required, and to levy the expense thereof upon the real estate within such drainage district as herein provided for, and collect and expend the same: provided, however, that no such work which shall impose a tax exceeding fifty mills on the dollar on the assessable value of the lands within the district shall be authorized by them, unless the same is first petitioned for and authorized in substantially the manner required by this chapter for the inauguration of new work. [26 G. A., ch. 46, § 12.] [31 G. A., ch. 83, § 6.] [32 G. A., ch. 93, § 2.]

OF LEVEES, DITCHES, DRAINS AND WATER COURSES.

SECTION 1989-a1. Board of supervisors to establish drainage district. The board of supervisors of any county shall have jurisdiction, power and authority at any regular, special or adjourned session, to establish a drainage district or districts, and to locate and establish levees, and cause to be constructed as hereinafter provided any levee, ditch, drain or water course, or to straighten, widen, deepen or change any natural water course, in such county, whenever the same will be of public utility or conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare, and the drainage of surface waters from agricultural lands shall be considered a public benefit and conducive to the public health, convenience, utility and welfare. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 1.]

By the term, agricultural lands, which is used in the provision for special assessments for public ditches, the legislature meant to designate generally those various and well-known bodies of land lying within the state which, owing to surface conditions, habitually collect and retain surface waters to such an extent as to presently unfit them for agricultural purposes. Sisson v. Board of Supervisors, 128-442.

SEC. 1989-a2. Proceedings—bond—survey. Whenever a petition signed by one or more of the landowners whose lands will be affected by, or assessed for the expenses of, the proposed improvement, shall be filed in the office of the county auditor setting forth that any body or district of land in the county, described by metes and bounds, or otherwise, as to convey any [an] intelligible description of such lands, is subject to overflow or too wet for cultivation, and that the public benefit or utility, or the public health, convenience of [or] welfare will be promoted by draining, ditching, tiling or leveeing the same, or by changing a natural water course, and setting forth therein the starting point, route and terminus and lateral branches, if necessary, of the proposed improvement, and there is filed therewith a bond, in amount and with sureties to be approved by the county auditor and conditioned for the payment of all costs and expenses incurred in the proceedings in case the supervisors do not grant the prayer of said petition, the board shall at its first session thereafter, regular, special or adjourned, appoint a disinterested and competent engineer and place a copy of the petition in his hands and he shall proceed to examine the lands described in said petition and any other lands which would be benefited by said improvement or necessary in the carrying out of said improvement, and survey and locate such drain or drains, ditch or ditches, improvement or improvements, as may be practicable and feasible to carry out the purposes of the petition and which will be of public benefit or utility or conducive to public health, convenience or welfare. He shall make return of his proceedings to the county auditor, which returns shall set forth the starting point, the route, the terminus or termini of the said ditch or ditches, drain or drains, or other improvements, together with a plat and profile showing the ditches, drains or other improvements, and the course and length of the drain or drains through each tract of land and the elevation of all lakes, ponds and deep depressions in said district, and the boundary of the proposed district, and the description of each tract of land therein and names of the owners thereof as shown by the transfer books in the auditor's office, together with the probable cost, and such other facts and recommendations as he may deem material. The board of supervisors may at any time recall the appointment of any engineer made under the provisions of this act, if deemed advisable to do so, and select another to act in his place. That the ditches or drains herein provided for shall be surveyed and located along the general course of the natural streams and water courses or in the general course of natural drainage of the lands of said district, having due regard for straightening and shortening of such natural streams, water courses and course of natural drainage. Whenever any such ditch or drain crosses any railroad right of way it shall be located at the place of the natural water way across such right of way unless said railroad company shall have provided another place in the construction of the road bed for the flow of the water; and if located at the place provided by the railroad company, such company shall be estopped from afterwards objecting to such location on the ground that it is not at the place of the natural water way. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 2.] [31 G. A., ch. 84, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 94, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 95, § 1.]

SEC. 1989-a3. Notice of hearing—approval of plan—fees and mileage for serving notice. Upon the filing of the return of the engineer, if the same recommends the establishment of the levee or drainage district, the board of supervisors shall then examine the return of the engineer, and if the plan seems to be expedient and meets the approval of the board of supervisors, they shall direct the auditor to cause a notice to be given, as hereinafter provided. But if it does not appear to be expedient and is not approved, the board of supervisors are hereby authorized to direct said engineer, or another engineer selected by them, to report another plan. When the plan, if any, shall have been finally adopted by the board of supervisors, they shall order the auditor immediately thereafter to cause notice in writing to be served upon the owner of each tract of land or lot within the proposed levee or drainage district, as shown by the transfer books of the auditor's office, and also upon the person in actual occupancy of any lands or lots, and upon each lien holder or incumbrancer of any land through which or abutting upon which the proposed improvement extends as shown by the county records, of the pendency and prayer of said petition, the favorable report thereon by the engineer, the day set for hearing the same before the board of supervisors and all claims for damages must be filed in the auditor's office not less than five days before the day set for hearing upon the petition, which notice, as to residence as to the county, shall be served not less than twenty days prior to the day set for such hearing, in the manner that original notices are required to be served. Provided, however, no notice shall be served by the auditor upon any of the persons hereinbefore described who shall file with said auditor a statement in writing signed by said party entering his appearance at said hearing and waiving any additional notice. The officer or person serving said notice shall receive five cents per mile for the distance actually traveled and not exceeding five dollars per day of eight hours for making said services. In case any such owner, lien holder or incumbrancer is a non-resident of the county, such notice as to him shall be published once each week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county, the last of which publications shall be not less than twenty days prior to the day set for hearing upon the petition proof of such service to be made by affidavit of the publisher and filed with the county auditor. If at the date set for hearing before the board of supervisors, it should appear that any person entitled to notice, as provided in this section, should not have been served with notice for the time, or in the manner, as provided herein, the board may postpone said hearing and set another time for the same, and notice of such day of hearing may be served on such omitted parties in the manner and for the same length of time, as provided for in this section, and by fixing said new day for hearing and by adjourning said proceedings to said time, the said board of supervisors shall not be held to have lost jurisdiction of the subject matter of said proceeding, nor of any parties so previously served with notice. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 3.] [31 G. A.,
ch. 85, § 2.] [32 G. A., ch. 94, § 2.]

[Section 2, chapter 94, 32 G. A., amends section 3, chapter 68, 30 G. A., by inserting matters after the word “served” in line 15. This section was amended by section 2, chapter 85, 31 G. A., and after such amendment the word “served” appeared in line 22, where change has been made.]

as compensation for or on account of the construction of such improvement shall file such claim in the office of the county auditor at least five days prior to the day on which the petition has been set for hearing, and on failure to file such claim at the time specified, shall be held to have waived his rights thereto. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 4.]

SEC. 1989-a5. Location—damages. The board of supervisors at the session set for the hearing on said petition, which session may be regular, special or adjourned, shall thereupon proceed to hear and determine the sufficiency of the petition in form and manner [mature], which petition may be amended as to form and substance at any time before final action theereon, and, if deemed necessary, the board may view the premises and if they shall find that such levee or drainage districts would not be for the public benefit or utility nor conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare, they shall dismiss the proceedings; but, if they shall find such improvement conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare or to the public benefit or utility and no claim shall have been filed for damages as provided in section four hereof, they may if deemed advisable locate and establish the same in accordance with the recommendations of the engineer, or they may refuse to establish the same as they may deem best; and at said hearing, the board may order the said engineer or a new engineer appointed by them if deemed advisable, to make further examination and report to said board as to said proposed improvement, and if they determine that further examination and report shall be made, or if any claims have been filed for damages, as provided in section four hereof, then the board of supervisors shall proceed no further than to determine the necessity of the levee or drainage districts and further proceedings shall be continued to an adjourned, regular or special session, the date of which shall be fixed at the time of the adjournment; and the county auditor shall appoint three appraisers to assess such damages who shall be disinterested freeholders of the county and not related to any party interested in the proposed improvement nor themselves interested in a like improvement; and the engineer appointed by the board of supervisors shall accompany said appraisers and furnish such information as may be called for by the appraisers concerning the survey of said improvement. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 5.] [31 G. A.,
ch. 84, § 2.] [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 3.]

The authority to pass upon the necessity of the improvement, determine its public character and fix the boundaries of the district, is legislative rather than judicial in its nature and is intrusted, primarily at least, to the board of supervisors. The court should on appeal be very reluctant to interfere with the action of the board and should set aside its order on the ground that the ditch is not a work of public character or its cost a greater burden than the land benefited should bear only where the evidence is so clear as torender that conclusion unavoidable.

SEC. 1989-a6. Assessment of damages—appeal. The appraisers appointed to assess damages shall proceed to view the premises and determine and fix the amount of damages to which each claimant is entitled and shall, at least five days before the date fixed by the board to hear and determine the same, file with the county auditor reports in writing showing the amount of damages sustained by each claimant. Should the report not be filed in time or should any good cause for delay exist the board may postpone the time of final action on the subject and, if necessary, the auditor may appoint other appraisers. When the time for final action shall have arrived, and after the filing of the report of the appraisers, said board shall consider the amount of damages awarded in their final determination in regard to establishing such levee or drainage district, and if in their opinion the cost of construction and the amount of damages awarded is not excessive and a greater burden than should be properly borne by the land benefited by the improvement, they shall locate and establish the same, and they shall thereupon appoint said engineer, or if deemed advisable, may appoint a new engineer as a commissioner, who shall make a permanent survey of said ditch as so located, showing the levels and elevations of each forty acre tract of land and shall file a report of the same with the county auditor together with a plat and profile thereof and shall thereupon proceed to determine the amount of damages sustained by each claimant, and may hear evidence in respect thereto and may increase or diminish the amount awarded in respect thereto, and any party aggrieved may appeal from the finding of the board in establishing or refusing to establish the improvement district or from its finding in the allowance of damages to the district court by filing notice with the county auditor at any time within ten days after such finding, at the same time filing a bond with the county auditor, approved by him, and conditioned to pay all costs and expenses of the appeal unless the finding of the district court shall be more favorable to the appellant or appellants than the finding of the board, which appeal shall be tried in the district court as an ordinary proceeding, except that when the appeal is from the order of the board in establishing or refusing to establish the levee or drainage district, it shall be tried in equity and the appearance term shall be the trial term.

If the appeal is from the amount of damages allowed, the amount ascertained in the district court shall be entered of record, but no judgment shall be rendered therefor. The amount thus ascertained shall be certified by the clerk of said court to the board of supervisors, who shall proceed as if such amount had been by it allowed the claimant as damages. If the appeal is from the action of the board in establishing or refusing to establish said drainage district, the court shall enter such order as may be proper in the premises, and the clerk of said court shall certify the same to the board of supervisors, who shall proceed thereafter in said matter in accordance with the order of the court. How the costs shall be distributed among the litigants and against whom the same shall be taxed shall rest in the discretion of the trial court. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 6.] [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 4.] [32 G. A., ch. 94, § 3.]

The county cannot appeal from the action of the district court in setting aside an order of the board of supervisors for the reassessment of the expenses of constructing the ditch. Yockey v. Woodbury County, 130-412.

SEC. 1989-a7. Damages, by whom paid—engineer. The amount of damages finally determined by the board in favor of any claimant or claimants shall be required to be paid in the first instance by the parties benefited by the said levee or drainage district, or secured to be paid upon such terms and conditions as the county auditor may deem just and proper, and after such damages shall have been paid or secured as aforesaid, the board shall divide said improvement into suitable sections, numbering the same consecutively from the source or beginning of the improvement downward towards its outlet and prescribe the time within which the improvement shall be completed and appoint a competent engineer to have charge of the work of construction thereof, who shall be required before entering upon the work to give a bond to the county for the use and benefit of the levee or drainage district to be approved by the auditor in such sum as the board may fix, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 7.]

The provision that the damages are to be secured to be paid upon such terms and conditions as the county auditor may deem just and proper does not render the statute unconstitutional. Sisson v. Board of Supervisors, 128-442.

SEC. 1989-a8. Letting work. The board shall cause notice to be given by publication, once each week, for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the county wherein such improvement is located and such additional publication elsewhere as they may direct, of the time and place of letting the work of construction of said improvement, and in such notice they shall specify the approximate amount of work to be done in each section and the time fixed for the commencement and completion thereof and they shall award contract or contracts for each section of the work to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders therefor, or to the lowest responsible bidder considering the same as a whole, exercising their own discretion as to letting said work as a whole or in sections and reserving the right to reject any and all bids and re-advertise the letting of the work. Each person bidding for such work shall deposit in cash or certified check a sum equal to ten per centum of the amount of the bid, not in any event however to exceed ten thousand dollars, said deposit to be returned to him if his bid is not successful, and if successful to be retained as a guarantee only of his good faith in entering on said contract. The successful bidder shall be required to execute a bond with sufficient sureties in favor of the county for the use and benefit of the levee or drainage district in an amount equal to twenty-five per centum of the estimated cost of the work so let, or he may deposit such amount in cash with the auditor as security for the performance of his contract and upon the execution of such bond, or the making of such deposit, the deposit originally made with his bid shall be returned to him. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 8.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 30.] [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 5.]

SEC. 1989-a9. Payment. The engineer in charge of the construction shall furnish the contractor monthly estimates of the amount of work done on each section and upon filing the same with the auditor, he shall draw a warrant in favor of such contractor, or deliver to him improvement certificates, as the case may be, for eighty per centum of the value of the work done according to the estimate, and when said improvement is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge thereof and so certified by him to the board and approved by it, the auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of said contractor upon the levee or drainage fund, or deliver to him improvement certificates, as the case may be, for the balance due. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 9.]

SEC. 1989-a10. Failure to perform work—penalty. If any person to whom any portion of said work shall have been let shall fail to perform the same according to the terms specified in his contract, then the cash deposited by him shall be forfeited to the county, or recovery may be had in an action on the bond by the county, for the benefit of the levee or drainage district, for the damages sustained and the work shall be relet by the board in the manner hereinbefore provided. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 10.]
SEC. 1989-a11. Changes in dimensions. If, after said contract shall have been let and the work begun, it shall become apparent to the engineer in charge that the dimensions of the levee, ditch or drain should be enlarged, deepened or otherwise changed for the better service thereof of the lands benefited, then the engineer shall report such fact to the supervisors, explaining to them the necessity for such change, and the board may by resolution authorize such change in the dimensions of said improvement as the engineer shall recommend, provided that all persons whose lands shall be taken or who may be damaged by the said change, shall first have been given like notices and like proceedings had as hereinbefore provided for the establishment of the levee or drainage district. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 11.]

SEC. 1989-a12. Assessment of costs and damages. When the levee or drainage district or other improvement herein provided for shall have been located and established as provided for in this act, or when it shall be necessary to cause the same to be repaired, enlarged, reopened or cleared from any obstruction therein, unless such repairs, reopening or clearing of obstructions can be paid for as hereinafter provided, the board shall appoint three commissioners, one of whom shall be a competent civil engineer and two of whom shall be resident freeholders of the county, not living within the levee or drainage district and not interested therein or in a like question, nor related to any party whose land is affected thereby; and they shall within twenty days after such appointment personally inspect and classify all the lands benefited by the location and construction of such levee or drainage district, or the repairing or reopening of the same, in tracts of forty acres or less according to the legal or recognized subdivisions in a graduated scale of benefits, to be numbered according to the benefit to be received by the proposed improvement; and they shall make an equitable apportionment of the costs, expenses, costs of construction, fees and damages assessed for the construction of any such improvement, or the repairing or reopening of the same, and make report thereof in writing to the board of supervisors. In making the said estimate the lands receiving the greatest benefit shall be marked on a scale of one hundred and those benefited in a less degree shall be marked with such percentage of one hundred as the benefit received bears in proportion thereto. This classification when finally established shall remain as a basis for all future assessments connected with the objects of said levee or drainage district, unless the board, for good cause, shall authorize a revision thereof. In the report of the appraisers so appointed, they shall specify each tract of land by proper description and the ownership thereof as the same appears on the transfer books in the auditor’s office, and the auditor shall cause notice to be served upon each person whose name appears as owner and also upon the person or persons in actual occupancy of any such land in the time and manner provided for the establishment of a levee or drainage district, which notice shall state the amount of special assessments apportioned to such owner, upon each tract or lot, the day set for hearing the same before the board of supervisors and that all objections thereto must be made in writing and filed with the county auditor on or before noon of the day set for such hearing. When the day set for hearing shall have arrived, the board of supervisors shall proceed to hear and determine all objections made and filed to said report and may increase, diminish, annul or affirm the apportionment made in said report or in any part thereof as may appear to the board to be just and equitable; but in no case shall it be competent to show that the lands assessed would not be benefited by the improvement, and when such hearing shall have been had the board shall assess such apportionment so fixed by it upon the lands within such levee or drainage district. If the first assessment made by the board of supervisors for the original cost or for repairs of any improvement as provided in this act is insufficient, the board may make an additional assessment and levy in the same ratio as the first for either purpose. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 12.]

The statutory provision for notice in proceedings for the assessment of property on account of the benefits derived from the construction of public ditches is not open to the constitutional objection that it authorizes the levying of special assessments upon property in an amount greater than the benefit received, as provision is made therein for the determination of such benefits as a limitation upon the assessment. Sisson v. Board of Supervisors, 128-442.

SEC. 1989-a13. Levy and collection of tax. In estimating the benefits as to the lands not traversed by said improvement they shall not consider what benefits such lands will receive after some other improvements shall have been constructed, but only the benefits which will be received by reason of the construction of the improvement in question as it affords an outlet for the drainage of such lands. Said tax shall be levied upon the lands of the owners so benefited in the ratio aforesaid and collected in the same manner as other taxes for county purposes, and the funds so collected shall be kept as a separate fund and shall be paid out only for purposes properly connected with such improvement on the order of the board of supervisors. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 13.]

SEC. 1989-a14. Appeal — "Drainage Record" — employment of counsel. An appeal may be taken to the district court from the order of the board fixing the assessment of benefits upon the lands in the same manner and time as herein provided for appeals from the assessment of damages. The appeal herein provided for shall be tried in the district court as an action in equity and the appearance term shall be the trial term; and when several appeals are taken and pending in the district court by land owners of the same drainage district whose lands have been assessed by the board, the court may, in its discretion, order the consolidation of such cases, and try the same as one cause of action. When any appeal is taken from any order of the board made in any drainage proceeding coming before it for action, it shall be the duty of the board to employ counsel to represent the interests of the drainage district affected by said appeal on the trial thereof in the appellate courts and the expense thereof shall be paid out of the drainage fund of such district. The board shall provide a book to be known as the "Drainage Record" and the county auditor shall keep a full and complete record therein of all proceedings in each case and upon an appeal being taken shall make a full and complete transcript thereof and transmit the same to the clerk of the district court on or before the first day of the term to which the appeal shall be taken. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 14.] [32 G. A., ch. 95, § 2.]

SEC. 1989-a15. Nuisance. Any ditch, drain or water course which is now or may hereafter be constructed so as to prevent the surface and overflow waters from the adjacent lands from entering the same is hereby declared a nuisance and may be abated as such; and any person or corporation diverting, obstructing, impeding or filling up any such ditch, drain or water course or breaking down any levee established under the provisions of this act without legal authority, shall be deemed guilty of a nuisance and criminally punished as such. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 15.]

SEC. 1989-a16. Subsequent proceedings. In any proceedings heretofore or hereafter had for the establishment of a ditch, drain, levee or the changing of a natural water course, or the establishment of a levee or drainage district where an engineer has been appointed and has made a complete survey, return and plat thereof and for any reason the improvement has been abandoned and the proceedings dismissed and afterwards proceedings are instituted for the establishment of a levee or drainage district, or the changing [of] a natural water course, for the benefit or reclamation of the same territory surveyed in said former proceedings a part thereof, or the same with territory additional thereto, the engineer shall use the return, plat and profile made in said former proceedings, or so much thereof, as may be applicable. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 16.]

Where proceedings with reference to a public ditch were abandoned at the instance of the contractor, on account of doubt as to the constitutionality of the statute under which they were instituted, held that he was not entitled to do the work under new proceedings involving the construction of a ditch of a different character. Brown v. Board of Supervisors, 129-533.

SEC. 1989-a17. Relevy. Where proceedings have been had for the establishment of a ditch, drain, levee, change of natural water course or the establishment of a drainage district under the law as heretofore existing and such improvement has been established and constructed and taxes levied upon the land benefited thereby, or upon any portion thereof for the cost of such improvement, and where the levy so made cannot for any reason be enforced, the board shall proceed as to all lands benefited by said improvement in the same manner as if the appraisement and apportionment of benefits had never been made; and they shall proceed in the manner hereinafter provided, using as a basis the entire cost of such improvement, and in taxing up said benefits account shall be taken of the amount of tax, if any, that has been paid by those benefited and credit therefor shall be given accordingly. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 17.]

SEC. 1989-a18. Establishment and construction across railroad right of way. That sections eighteen (18) and nineteen (19) of said chapter be amended to read as follows:

"Whenever the board of supervisors shall have established any levee, or drainage district, or change of any natural water course and the levee, ditch, drain or water course as surveyed and located crosses the right of way of any railroad company, the county auditor shall immediately cause to be served upon such railroad company, in the manner provided for the service of original notices, a notice in writing stating the nature of the improvement to be constructed, the place where it will cross the right of way of such company, and the full requirements for its complete construction across such right of way as shown by the plans, specifications, plat and profile of the engineer appointed by the board, and directing such company to construct such improvement according to said plans and specifications at the place designated, across its right of way, and to build and construct or re-build and re-construct the necessary culvert or bridge where any ditch, drain or water course crosses its right of way, so as not to obstruct, impede or interfere with the free flow of the water therein, within thirty days from the time of the service of such notice upon it; and upon receiving said notice it shall be the duty of such railroad company to construct the improvement across its right of way according to the plans and specifications furnished in said notice and to build and construct or re-build and re-construct the necessary culvert or bridge above mentioned and complete the same within the time specified in said notice; if such railroad company shall fail, neglect or refuse to do so within the time fixed in said notice the auditor shall cause the same to be done under the supervision of the engineer in charge of the improvement and such railroad company shall be liable for the cost thereof to be collected by the county in any court having jurisdiction; and the cost of constructing the improvement across the right of way of such company, not including the cost of building and constructing or re-building and re-constructing any necessary culvert or bridge, shall be considered as an element of such company's damages by the appraisers thereof; and the cost of building and constructing or re-building and re-constructing any necessary culvert or bridge shall be borne by such railroad company without reimbursement therefor. The commissioners to assess benefits shall fix and determine the benefits to the property of the railroad company within the levee or drainage district and make return thereof with their regular return. Such special assessment shall be a debt due personally from the railroad company, and unless the same is paid by the railroad company as special assessment, it may be collected in the name of the county in any court having jurisdiction." [30 G. A., ch. 68, §§ 18, 19.]

SEC. 1989-a19. Construction across highway. Where the board of supervisors shall have established any levee, drainage district or change of any natural water course, and when such levee, ditch, drain or change of any natural water course crosses any public highway, the actual cost of constructing the same across such highway shall be paid by the township trustees from the road fund of such township; and whenever the making of such improvement across any highway necessitates the building of a bridge over the same, the board of supervisors shall build and construct the same and pay all costs and expenses thereof out of the county bridge fund. Whenever any highway within the levee or drainage district will be beneficially affected by the construction of any improvement or improvements in such district, it shall be the duty of the commissioners appointed to classify and assess benefits to determine and return in their report the amount of the benefit to such highway, and notice shall be served upon the clerk of the township in which said highway is located as provided in case of an individual property owner. At the time fixed for hearing upon such report the board of supervisors shall fix and determine the amount to be apportioned to the road district on account of such benefit; and the amount so fixed shall be paid to the county for the use and benefit of the levee or drainage district, from the road fund of such township or from the county road fund, or partly from each of said funds as the board may determine. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 20.]

SEC. 1989-a20. Construction on or along highway. Whenever a levee or drainage district shall have been established by the board and it shall become necessary or desirable that the levee, ditch, drain or improvement should be located and constructed within the limits of any public highway, on either or both sides and along the same, it shall be so built as not materially to interfere with the public travel thereon; and the board of supervisors shall have power and authority to lay out and establish public highways along and upon any levee or embankment along any ditch or drain built under the provisions of this act, provided that when so established the same shall be worked as other highways and so as not to impair the levee, ditch or drain. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 21.]

SEC. 1989-a21. Control—repairs. Whenever any levee or drainage district shall have been established and the improvement constructed as in this act provided, the same shall at all times be under the control and supervision of the board of supervisors and it shall be the duty of the board to keep the same in repair and for that purpose they may cause the same to be enlarged, reopened, deepened, widened, straightened or lengthened for a better outlet, and they may change or enlarge the same or cause all or any part thereof to be converted into a closed drain when considered for the best interests of the public rights affected thereby. The cost of such repairs or change shall be paid by the board from the drainage fund of said levee or drainage district, or by assessing and levying the cost of such change or repair upon the lands in the same proportion that the original expenses and cost of construction were levied and assessed, except where additional right of way is required or additional lands affected thereby, in either of which cases the board shall proceed as hereinbefore provided; provided, however, that if the repair is made necessary by the act or negligence of the owner of any land through which such improvement is constructed or by the act, or the negligence of his agent or employe, or if the same is filled and obstructed by the cattle, hogs or other stock of such owner, employe or agent, then the cost thereof shall be assessed and levied against the lands of such owner alone. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 22.]

SEC. 1989-a22. Outlet for lateral drains. The owner of any land, lot or premises that have been assessed for the payment of the cost of the location and construction of any ditch, drain or water course as hereinbefore provided, shall have the right to use the ditch, drain or water course as an outlet for lateral drains from said land, lot or premises. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 23.]

SEC. 1989-a23. Sub-drainage districts. If any person who owns land within the drainage district which has been assessed for benefits and which is separated from the ditch, drain or water course for which it has been assessed, by the land of another or others, shall desire to ditch or drain his said land across the land of such other or others into such ditch, drain or water course and shall be unable to agree with such other or others on the terms and conditions on which he may enter upon their lands and construct such drain or ditch, he may proceed in the manner in this section provided, and the ditch or drain which he shall construct or cause to be constructed shall be considered to be conducive to the public health, welfare, convenience and utility to promote which said drainage district was established. He may file his petition with the county auditor asking the board to establish a sub-district within the limits of the original district for the purpose of securing more complete drainage, describing the lands to be affected thereby by metes and bounds or otherwise so as to convey an intelligible description of such lands; and the bond and all other proceedings shall be the same as herein provided for the establishment, formation and construction of original districts and improvement thereof, including the assessment of damages and the assessment of benefits and when established and constructed, it shall be and become a part of the drainage system of such drainage district and be under the control and supervision of the board of supervisors. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 24.]

SEC. 1989-a24. Enlargement of water course or stream. When two or more districts shall have their outlet or discharge into the same natural water course or stream and it shall become necessary to deepen or enlarge said natural water course or stream, each district shall be assessed for the cost of such work in the same ratio to such total cost as the discharge of waters of such district bears to the combined discharge of waters of the several districts emptying into said natural water course or stream; but no district shall be liable to contribute for any improvement or costs and expenses incurred in improving said natural water course or stream above the point of discharge of the waters of such district into the same. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 25.]

SEC. 1989-a25. New levee or drainage districts. If any levee, drainage district or improvement heretofore established, either by legal proceedings or by private parties, or which may hereafter be established, shall prove insufficient to protect or drain all of the lands necessarily tributary thereto, the board of supervisors, upon petition therefor as for the establishment of an original levee or drainage district, shall have the power and authority to establish a new levee or drainage district covering and including such old district or improvement, together with any additional lands deemed necessary; and whenever a new district shall be established as contemplated in this section and the new improvement shall extend into or along the former improvement, the commissioners of classification and benefits shall take into consideration the value of such old improvement in the construction of the new improvement and credit the same to the parties owning the old improvement as their interests may appear. [30 G. A., ch.
68, § 26.] [31 G. A., ch. 85, § 6.]

assessment for benefits made by the commissioners appointed for that purpose, as corrected and approved by the board of supervisors, shall be levied at one time by the board against the property so benefited, and when levied and certified shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer. If the owner of any parcel of land, lot or premises against which any such levy shall have been made and certified, which is embraced in any certificate provided for in this section, shall within thirty days from the date of such assessment promise and agree in writing endorsed upon such certificate, or in a separate agreement, that in consideration of having the right to pay his assessment in installments, he will not make any objection of illegality or irregularity as to the assessment of benefits, or levy of such tax upon and against his property, but will pay said assessment with interest thereon at such rate not exceeding six per centum per annum as shall be prescribed by resolution of the board, such tax so levied against the land, lot or premises of such owner shall be payable in ten equal installments, the first of which with interest on the whole assessment shall mature and be payable on the date of such assessment, and the others with interest on the whole amount unpaid annually thereafter at the same time and in the same manner as the March semi-annual payment of ordinary taxes; but where no such terms and agreement in writing shall be made by the owner of any land, lot or premises then the whole of said special assessment, so levied upon and against the property of such owner, shall mature at one time and be due and payable with interest from the date of such assessment, and shall be colclected at the next succeeding March semi-annual payment of ordinary taxes. All of such tax with interest shall become delinquent on the first day of March next after its maturity and shall bear the same interest with the same penalties as ordinary taxes. And the board may provide by resolution for the issuance of improvement certificates, payable to bearer or to the contractors who have constructed the said improvement or completed part thereof within the meaning of this act in payment or part payment therefor, each of which certificates shall state the amount of one or more assessments or part thereof made against the property designating it and the owners thereof liable to assessments for the cost of same, and said certificate may be negotiated. Such certificates shall transfer to the bearer, con-tactor or assigns all right and interest in and to the tax in every such assessment, or part thereof, described therein and shall authorize such bearer, contractor or assignee to collect and receive every assessment embraced in said certificate, by or through any of the methods provided by law for their collection, as the same mature. Such certificates shall bear interest not to exceed six per centum per annum, payable annually, and shall be paid by the taxpayer to the county treasurer who shall receipt for the same and cause the amount paid to be applied to the payment of the certificate issued therefor. Provided, that any person shall have the right to pay the full amount of the tax so levied against his property, together with in-interest thereon to date of payment at any time he desires to do so, even before the maturity of any certificates issued therefor. No certificate shall be issued or negotiated for the use of the drainage district for less than par value with accrued interest up to the delivery or transfer thereof. Should the costs of such work exceed the amount of benefits assessed and certificates issued, a new apportionment and levy of tax may be made and other certificates issued in like manner. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 27.]

The provision for the privilege of payment in installments upon waiver of objections does not impose a penalty for refusal to waive objections, and it does not constitute a denial of the equal protection of the law. Sisson v. Board of Supervisors, 128-442.

SEC. 1989-a27. Drainage bonds. If the board of supervisors shall determine that the estimated cost of reclamation and improvement of such district of land is greater than should be levied in a single year upon the lands benefited, instead of issuing improvement certificates as provided in the preceding section, it may fix the amount that shall be levied and col-glected each year and may issue drainage bonds of the county, bearing not more than six per centum annual interest and payable semi-annually in the proportions and at the times when such taxes shall have been collected, and may devote the same at par, with accrued interest, to the payment of the work as it progresses or may sell the same at not less than par, with accrued interest, and devote the proceeds to such payment; and if in the sale of said bonds a premium is received, such premium shall be credited to the drainage fund, and should the cost of such work exceed the estimate, a new apportionment of the tax may be made and other bonds issued and sold in like manner, but in no case shall the bonds run longer than fifteen years. Any property owner may pay the full amount of the benefit assessed against his property before such bonds are issued and receive a receipt in full therefor. Such payment shall be made to the county treasurer, and it shall be the duty of the county auditor to certify to the treasurer the amount of any such assessment when requested to do so, and the treasurer shall enter the same upon the tax lists in his hands in a separate place provided therefor, and shall furnish the auditor with duplicate re-cceipts given for all assessments so paid in full. The terms and times of payment of the bonds so issued shall be fixed by the board. Said bonds shall be issued for the benefit of the district numbered thereon and each district shall be numbered by the board of supervisors and recorded by the auditor, said record showing specifically the lands embraced in said district and upon which the tax has not been previously paid in full. In no case shall the amount of bonds exceed the benefits assessed. Each bond issued shall show expressly upon its face that it is to be paid only by a tax assessed, levied and collected on the lands within the district so designated and numbered, and for the benefit of which district such bond is issued; nor shall any tax be levied or collected for the payment of said bond or bonds, or the interest thereon, on any property outside the district so num-84, § 3.]

Owners of land which requires combined drainage may provide for the establishment of a drainage district or location and construction of drains, ditches and water courses upon their own lands by mutual agreement in writing duly signed, acknowledged and filed with the county auditor; such agreement may include the location, the character of the work to be done, the adjustment of the damages, the classification of the lands to be benefited thereby, the amount of taxes or special assessments to be levied, when the same shall be levied, or so many of these or other provisions as may be agreed upon, and to such extent shall be as valid and binding as though performed in the mode and manner provided for in this act. Upon the filing of the agreement with the county auditor, the board of supervisors shall at the next session thereafter establish such drainage district, and locate the ditch, drain or water course provided for in said mutual agreement according to the terms thereof, and shall thereafter have full and complete jurisdiction of the parties and subject-matter, and order such procedure under the provisions of this act as may be required or necessary to carry out the object, purpose and intent of such agreement and to complete and construct the desired improvement and shall retain jurisdiction of the same as fully as in other cases made and provided for in this act. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 29.]

SEC. 1989-a29. Establishment through two or more counties. When the desired levy [levee] or drainage district extends into or through two or more counties and embraces land in two or more counties, the petition of one or more owners of land to be affected or benefited by such improvement shall be presented to the county auditor of each county into or through which said levy [levee] or drainage district will extend, accompanied by a bond to be filed with the county auditor of each of the said counties at the time of filing such petition, conditioned as provided when the district is wholly within one county, in an amount and with sureties satisfactory to, and approved by, the board of supervisors. Upon the presentation of such petition and the approval of such bond, the board of supervisors of each of said counties shall appoint a commissioner, and the commissioners of the several counties thus appointed shall meet within ten days thereafter and appoint a competent engineer, and such commissioners and engineer shall together make a survey of the entire lands embraced in the district, and shall determine what improvement or improvements in the way of levees, drains, ditches or changing of natural water courses are necessary for the reclamation of the lands described in the said petition; the engineer shall make a plat of all of the lands of said district, showing thereon the proposed improvements, the elevations and levels of said lands, so far as he may deem necessary, and a profile of said levee, drains, ditches or changes in any natural water course and shall file a copy in the auditor's office of each of said counties together with a full return of said commissioners and engineer, explaining the situation, describing the lands, the improvements, what effect said improvements will have upon the lands of said district, the course and length of any levee, drain, ditch or change of any natural water course through each tract of land, the estimated cost of the same, the dimensions of said improvement together with the names of the owners of all lands included within said district, as shown by the transfer books in the auditor's office, and which in their opinion will be affected or benefited thereby, together with such other facts and recommendations as to them shall seem advisable, and especially whether or not in their judgment such levee or drainage district should be established. Immediately upon the filing of such return, plat and profile, if such recommends the establishment of the levee or drainage district, each county auditor of said counties shall cause the owners of the lands, as shown by the transfer books in the auditor's office, and also the person in actual occupancy of any lots or lands in the district and also each lien holder or incumbrancer, as shown by the county records, of any land through or abutting upon which the proposed improvement extends, to be notified of the time and place where the boards of the several counties will meet in joint session for the consideration of said petition and return. Such notice shall be the same and served in the same time and manner as provided in this act when the levee or drainage district is wholly within one county. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 30.]

SEC. 1989-a30. Claims for damages—where filed. Any person claiming damages as compensation for, or on account of, the construction of such improvement shall file his claim in writing therefor in the office of the county auditor of the county in which his land is situated, at least five days prior to the time at which the petition has been set for hearing, and on failure to file such claims at the time specified shall be held to have waived his right thereto. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 31.]

SEC. 1989-a31. Hearing—appraisers. At the time set for hearing such petition the boards of the several counties shall meet at the place designated in said notice and sit jointly in considering the petition and proceed in the same manner as provided in section five of this act, except that if it becomes necessary to appoint appraisers, the boards of supervisors acting jointly shall appoint one appraiser from each county, and if said levee or drainage district extends into or through only two counties then the two appraisers shall choose a third, each of whom shall have like qualifications as provided where the improvement is wholly within one county and they shall then proceed in the same manner and make the same return as provided in section six of this act, except that a copy thereof shall be filed in the auditor's office of each of the several counties. After the filing of the report of such appraisers the further proceedings of the board[s] of supervisors acting jointly shall be the same, as in this act provided where the levee or drainage district is wholly within one county so far as applicable except as herein otherwise provided. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 32.]

SEC. 1989-a32. Assessment of costs and damages—improvement certificates—bonds. If the boards of supervisors, acting jointly, shall establish the levee or drainage district, they shall appoint a commission, one of whom shall be selected from each county and in addition thereto a competent engineer, each of whom shall have the same qualifications as provided where the district is wholly within one county; and said commission shall within twenty days go upon and view the premises and classify the same as hereinbefore provided where the district is wholly within one county, and in addition thereto shall make and [an] equitable apportionment of the costs, expenses, costs of construction, fees and damages assessed for the construction of such improvement or of the repairing or reopening the same, and make report thereof as provided where the improvement is wholly within one county, except a copy of said report shall be filed with each of the several county auditors. Immediately upon the filing of such report the several county auditors, acting jointly, shall cause notice to be served of the time when and the place where the boards of supervisors will meet and consider such report, which notice shall be the same and served in the same time and manner and all proceedings thereon shall be the same as provided where the district is wholly within one county, except after the amount to be assessed and levied against the several parcels or tracts of land shall have been apportioned and finally determined, the several boards of supervisors acting separately, and within their own counties, shall proceed to levy and collect the taxes thus apportioned in the same manner as provided where the district is wholly within one county, and they may issue improvement certificates or may sell bonds for the full amount of the benefits apportioned to such county. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 33.]

SEC. 1989-a33. Letting work. If the boards of supervisors, acting jointly, shall establish such levee or drainage district, the auditors of the several counties shall immediately thereafter, acting jointly, cause notice to be given of the time and place of the meeting of the boards for letting the contract or contracts for the construction of the improvement. The notices, bond and all other proceedings in relation to letting the contract or contracts shall be the same as in this act provided where the district is wholly within one county, except that the several boards shall act jointly. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 34.]

SEC. 1989-a34. Supervising engineer—contractor, how paid. At the time of establishing the levee or drainage district the boards of supervisors shall appoint a competent engineer to have charge of the construction of the work, and they shall fix his compensation therefor, and he shall before entering upon and taking charge of said work give bond to the counties for the use and benefit of the levee or drainage district, approved by the boards of supervisors in such sum as they may direct, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties. The engineer in charge of the work shall furnish the contractor monthly estimates of the amount of work done on each section and the amount due from each county, a duplicate of which shall be filed with the auditor of each of the several counties. Upon the filing of such statement each auditor shall draw a warrant or deliver to him improvement certificates, as the case may be, in favor of the contractor for eighty per centum of the amount due from his respective county. When said improvement is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer in charge and accepted by the boards of supervisors, the engineer shall certify such fact to the several county auditors and each county auditor shall draw a warrant in favor of the contractor, or deliver to him improvement certificates, for the balance due from his respective county. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 35.]

SEC. 1989-a35. Appeals. Any person or persons aggrieved shall have the right to appeal in the same time and in the same manner as provided when the district is wholly in one county, except that if the appeal is taken from the action of the boards in establishing the levee or drainage district, such appeal may be taken to the district court of either county in which the district or some part thereof is located. If said appeal is from the award of damages or assessment of benefits the appeal shall be taken to the district court of the county in which the land affected is located. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 36.]

SEC. 1989-a36. District court to establish—when. Whenever the establishment of a levee or drainage district, extending into or through two or more counties, if petitioned for as hereinbefore provided and one or more of such boards of supervisors neglect, fail or refuse to take action thereon, the petition or petitioners may cause notice in writing to be served upon the chairman of such board or boards, demanding that action be taken upon the prayer of the petition within twenty days from and after the service of such notice; and if such board or boards shall neglect, fail or refuse to take action thereon within the time named, or if such action is taken and the boards of supervisors cannot agree as to the proper determination thereof, the petitioner or petitioners may cause such proceedings to be transferred to the district court of either of the counties into or through which such proposed district, or some part thereof, extends by serving notice upon the auditors of the several counties within ten days after the expiration of the time fixed by the notice, served upon the chairman of the board or boards, or within ten days after the failure of such boards to agree. Upon such notice being given the auditors shall, acting jointly, prepare and certify to the clerk of the district court a full and complete transcript of all proceedings had in such case, on or before the first day of the next succeeding term of said court. The clerk of the dis-tric t court shall thereupon docket the case and the same shall be tried as in equity and the appearance term shall be the trial term, and the court shall enter judgment and decree dismissing the case or establishing such levee or drainage district and may by proper orders and writs enforce its judgment and decree. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 37.]

SEC. 1989-a37. Special sessions of boards of supervisors. Whenever the district is located in two or more counties, the boards of supervisors shall have power and authority to adjourn from time to time and meet in special session and in all cases shall have the same jurisdiction, power and authority as provided where the improvement is wholly within one county, and all proceedings shall be the same so far as applicable and not herein otherwise provided. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 38.]

SEC. 1989-a38. Cities and towns included. The board of supervisors shall have the same power, right and authority to establish a levee or drainage district that includes the whole or any part of any incorporated town or city, including cities acting under special charter, as they have to establish districts as hereinafore provided, and they shall have the same power, right and authority with respect to the assessment of damages and benefits within such towns or cities as they have in other cases provided for in this act, and like notice to such city or town with respect to the establishment of such district and the apportionment and assessment of damages and benefits shall be given as is required by this act to be given to owners of property damaged or benefited by the establishment or construction of such improvement. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 39.]

SEC. 1989-a39. Outlet in another state. Whenever a drainage dis-tric t is established in any county in this state and no practicable or feasible outlet can be obtained except through the lands of an adjoining state, the board of supervisors of such county shall have power and authority to purchase a right of way for such outlet in such adjoining state and pay for the same out of the funds of such district. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 40.]

SEC. 1989-a40. Watchmen. Whenever a levee has been established, or shall hereafter be established, and constructed in any county, the board of supervisors shall be empowered and authorized to employ one or more persons whose duty it shall be to watch such levee and make repairs thereon in case of emergency or cause the same to be made. And such employe shall file with the county auditor an itemized bill for services rendered, and cost and expense incurred in watching or repairing such levee, and the same shall be audited and allowed by the board as other claims and demands and the amount or amounts so allowed shall be paid by the county from the funds belonging to such levee district. If there are no funds on hand belonging to such district, the same shall be paid in the first instance by the county from the general fund and the board shall proceed to assess and levy a tax upon the lands in such district, which assessment and levy shall be apportioned to each tract of land in the same ratio that the original cost thereof was apportioned, and when collected the auditor shall draw a warrant thereon in favor of the county for the sum or sums so paid from the county funds. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 41.]

SEC. 1989-a41. Fees and expenses. Any engineer employed under the provisions of this act shall receive such compensation per diem as shall be fixed and determined by the board of supervisors. Appraisers of damages and commissioners to assess benefits, other than the engineer, shall receive three dollars per day each, and all other fees and costs required under the provisions of this act shall be the same as provided by law for like services in other cases. Such costs and expenses shall be paid by the order of the board of supervisors out of the county treasury from the levee or drainage funds collected for that purpose upon warrants drawn by the county auditor. And the amount of fees for publication of all notices required to be published by the provisions of this act shall be fixed by the board of supervisors not exceeding thirty-three and one-third cents for each ten lines of brevier type, or its equivalent. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 42.]

SEC. 1989-a42. County auditor—compensation—Drainage record. Whenever a levy or drainage district or districts shall be petitioned for or established in any county, the board of supervisors shall allow the county auditor such compensation or furnish such additional help, as shall be just and reasonable, to be paid by the county; and the county auditor shall be the custodian of all papers and records pertaining to the levee or drainage matter in his county and shall keep the book known as the “Drainage Record” and shall record therein all of the proceedings of the board of supervisors pertaining to the subject of levees or drainage, as well as the papers required to be issued or filed by the county auditor in such proceedings. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 43.]

SEC. 1989-a43. Draining of highways. Whenever the township trustees of any township or townships shall desire to drain any highway within or under the jurisdiction of such trustees, and it becomes necessary to cross the lands of a private owner or owners to obtain a proper outlet and the trustees cannot agree with the owner or owners of such land as to how, where and upon what terms such drain may be constructed, such trustees may file in the office of the county auditor a petition describing the highway to be drained and the lands necessary to be crossed to obtain a proper outlet, the starting point, route and terminus of the desired drain, as near as may be, and asking the establishment of such drain. Upon the filing of such petition the county auditor shall appoint a commissioner, who shall be a competent engineer, and place a copy of the petition in his hands and he shall proceed to survey the proposed ditch or drain along the route described in the petition, or other route if found more practicable or feasible, and shall return a plat and profile thereof to the county auditor, and his return shall set forth a full and detailed description thereof, its size, dimensions, whether it will require a covered or open drain, its availability, necessity and probable cost, with a description of each tract of land or lot owned by different persons through which or abutting upon which the drain is proposed to be located and such other facts and recommendations as he may deem material; and he shall also apportion among the several townships, if more than one, the ratio of the cost of construction and expenses that shall be borne by each township. After the filing of such report the further proceedings shall be the same as provided in title eight (VIII), chapter one (1) of the code in relation to the establishment of highways, except that the costs, expenses and damages shall be paid by the township trustees from the road fund of such township or townships, or from the county road fund, or partly from each of said funds, as the board of supervisors may determine. If the board of supervisors shall establish such drain, the same shall be constructed by the board of supervisors in the same manner that other county work is done, and the cost thereof shall be paid from the road fund of such township or townships, or from the county road fund, or partly from each of said funds, as the board of supervisors may direct, or the township trustees having jurisdiction over said highway shall have the right, if they deem advisable, to petition for the establishment of a drainage district including therein said highway, and said petition shall be considered and acted upon and proceedings had thereunder in all respects the same as provided where petition is signed by one or more of the land owners whose lands would be affected by or assessed for the expenses of the proposed improvements. [30 G. A., ch. 68,
§ 44.] [31 G. A., ch. 84, § 5.]

SEC. 1989-a44. Inspection. The board of supervisors of any county in or through which an improvement of the character provided for in this act extends, or shall extend, shall cause a competent engineer to inspect such improvement whenever they may deem it necessary, and he shall make report to such board of the condition of the improvement together with such recommendation as he deems necessary. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 45.]

SEC. 1989-a45. Tax, a lien upon premises. The tax provided for in this act, when levied, shall be a lien upon all premises upon which the same is assessed to the same extent and in the same manner as taxes levied for county and state purposes. [30 G. A., ch. 68, § 46.]

SEC. 1989-a46. Defects in proceedings. The provisions of this act shall be liberally construed to promote the leveeing, ditching, draining and reclamation of wet, overflow or agricultural lands; the collection of the assessments shall not be defeated, where the proper notices have been given, by reason of any defect in the proceedings occurring prior to the order of the board of supervisors locating and establishing the levee, ditch, drain or change of natural water course provided for in this act, but such order or orders shall be conclusive and final that all prior proceedings were regular and according to law unless they were appealed from. But if upon appeal the court shall deem it just and proper to release any person or modify his assessment or liability, it shall in no manner affect the rights or liability of any person other than the appellant; and the failure to appeal from the order of the board of supervisors of which complaint is made shall be a waiver of any illegality in the proceedings and the remedies provided for in this act shall exclude all other remedies. [30 G. A., ch. 68, §

SEC. 1989-a47. Additional to statutes. The provisions of this act shall be construed as and independent procedure additional to chapter two
(2) title ten (X) of the code and supplement, relating to the location, establishment and construction of levees, drains, ditches and water courses and shall not be held to repeal any of such provisions. [30 G. A., ch. 68,

ever a petition is filed with the county auditor of any county within the state, as contemplated in chapter sixty-eight (68) acts of the thirtieth (30th) general assembly of Iowa for the establishment of a drainage district in any county or counties within the state, the board of supervisors of said county (or counties if there be more than one) are hereby authorized to pay all necessary preliminary expenses in connection with said drainage district, out of the general county fund of said county, or if there be more than one county from the general county fund of each of the counties included in said district in such proportion as the work done or expense created in each county bears to the whole amount of work done or expense created, said amounts to be determined by the engineer in charge of the work, and they shall replace the same to the credit of the county fund of said county or counties as their interests may appear as soon as possible after the drainage district is established, or if said district be not established, then said amounts shall be paid from the proceeds of the bond deposited with the county auditor for that purpose, as provided for in chapter sixty-eight (68) acts of the thirtieth general assembly of Iowa. [31 G. A.,
ch. 86.]
SEC. 1989-a49. Pumping stations. The board of supervisors of any county or counties in the state in which a drainage or levee district has been or may hereafter be organized as provided in this act may provide as a part of said drainage system for the establishment and maintenance of a pumping station or stations, when and where the same may be necessary to secure a proper outlet for the drainage of the land comprising the said district and the cost of construction and maintenance of said pumping station or stations shall be levied upon and collected from the lands in the drainage or levee district in the same manner as provided for in the construction and maintenance of ditches or drains or levees in this act. [32 G. A., ch. 94, § 5.]

SEC. 1989-a50. Proceedings under petitions heretofore filed. Whenever any petition has heretofore been filed and any action thereon has been taken by the board of supervisors that is not final, it shall not be necessary that a new petition shall be filed in order to obtain the benefits of this act, but the board of supervisors are hereby empowered to proceed with the improvement from the point at which legal proceedings thereon were stopped. [32 G. A., ch. 94, § 6.]

SEC. 1989-a51. Statute applicable. That the measure of damages for locating, establishing and constructing a levee, ditch, drain or water course across the right of way of any railroad company provided for in section three (3) of this act shall be construed to apply to all cases and proceedings now pending involving such question; and the provisions of this act shall also be applicable to chapter two (2) title ten (10) of the code. [32 G. A., ch. 95, § 4.]

SEC. 1989-a52. Pumping stations. The board of supervisors of any county or counties in the state in which a drainage district has been or may hereafter be organized in the manner provided in chapter two (2) of title ten (10) of the code may provide for the establishment and maintenance of a pumping station when and where the same shall be necessary to secure a proper outlet for the lands comprising the district, and the costs of construction and maintenance of such pumping station or plant shall be levied upon and collected from the lands in the drainage district in the same manner as provided for the construction and maintenance of ditches as provided in title ten (10) chapter two (2) of the code, and code supplement—except the petition referred to shall require the signature[s] of fifty (50) per cent. of the land owners of such district. [30 G. A., ch. 69.]

SEC. 1989-a53. Owners may drain. Owners of land may drain the same in the general course of natural drainage, by constructing open or covered drains; discharging the same into any natural water course, or into any natural depression, whereby the water will be carried into some natural water course, and when such drainage is wholly upon the owner's land he shall not be liable in damages therefor to any person or persons or corporation. Nothing in this act shall, in any manner, be construed to affect the rights or liabilities of proprietors in respect to running waters or streams. [30 G. A., ch. 70.]

The owner may conduct surface water by means of tile drains upon his own land into the natural and usual channel which nature has provided for its discharge upon his neighbor's land without being liable in damages. This was the rule before the adoption of this statute. Dorr v. Simmerson, 127-551.

In an injunction case to restrain the establishment by a land owner of a system of tile drainage on his own land at the complaint of an adjoining owner, it must appear that the defendant is about to materially and unduly increase the flow of water to plaintiff's imminent damage. Wirds v. Vierkandt, 131-125.

Where a ditch is by agreement of adjoining owners constructed along a natural water course, connecting with an outlet, the upper owner's rights are not limited to the drainage of the particular area from which the ditch of itself conducts surface water, but he may construct lateral tile drains so as to drain lands not otherwise affected. Neuhring v. Schmidt, 130-401.

One may lawfully tile a natural water course which passes over his land onto that of another where the effect is not to cast a greater quantity of water or to carry the water in a different manner upon the land of his neighbor. Hull v. Harker, 130-190.

A natural water course is not necessarily a channel with banks, but if the surface water uniformly flows in a given course within reasonable limits, the line of its flow is a water course. Ibid.

The statute as to private drainage and tiling is merely declaratory of the rule at common law, that the owner of land may tile drain it in the general course of natural drainage, discharging the water collected into one natural water course or natural depression by which the water will be carried into some natural water course. Pohlman v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 131-89.

Where a land owner constructs a ditch through his land for drainage purposes, in conjunction with another owner, and acquiesces in its use, it becomes a water course to which the owner of the adjoining land may conduct his surface water. Sheker v. Machovec, 110 N. W. 1055.

CHAPTER 4.

OF TAKING PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR WORKS OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT.

SECTION 1995. By railway—limit of.

When property has been devoted to public use it cannot be taken and applied to another conflicting public use by the exercise of the power of eminent domain, unless by authority of the legislature expressly given or necessarily implied. But held that land owned by a steamboat company and used for a landing was not so devoted to a public use, the steamboat company having no power to condemn land for public use for such purposes and therefore not being authorized to hold for such purposes exempt from the right of condemnation for purposes authorized by statute. Diamond Jo Line Steamers v. Davenport, 114-432.

Held further that the fact that the steamboat company had only an undivided interest in the property would indicate that it was not held absolutely and as of right to a public use. Ibid.

A railroad company undertaking to exercise the privilege of eminent domain is precluded from questioning the constitutionality of the conditions provided by statute for the exercise of such privilege. Gano v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 114-713.

A railroad company is not bound to acquire a right of way of any particular width, nor to lay its main track in the center of that which is acquired. While ordinarily it is to be presumed to have obtained a right of way of the maximum width, and to have intended to have its track in the center, this is a mere n\textsuperscript{e}k\textsuperscript{e} presumption, casting the burden of proof on any one asserting the contrary, but subject to be overcome by evidence rebutting the inference. Hence, exclusive possession exercised by an abutting property owner to within less than 50 feet of the center of the railway track may be shown as against the claim of the railroad company to the full width of the right of way. Cedar Rapids Canning Co. v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 120-724.

A railroad cannot acquire by condemnation a strip to exceed one hundred feet in width. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 116-681.

As the statute does not provide for nor require a preliminary survey or location until the condemnation proceedings are commenced, the company is a trespasser in entering upon land for the purpose of making such preliminary survey, and acquires no rights thereby. Ibid.

While the statute contemplates the condemnation only of a right of way one hundred feet in width, yet an additional strip acquired by purchase for use in connection with the right of way constitutes a portion thereof, and the duty of providing a private crossing to the land owner whose property is intersected by the right of way is not changed. Mattice v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 130-749.

SEC. 1998. Additional depot grounds. Any railway corporation owning or operating or constructing a railway shall have power to condemn lands for necessary additional depot grounds or yards, for additional or new right of way for constructing double track, reducing or straightening curves, changing grades, shortening or re-locating portions of the line, for excavations, embankments, or places for depositing waste earth in the same manner as is provided by law for the condemnation of the right of way. Before any proceedings shall be instituted therefor, the company shall apply to the railway commissioners, who shall give notice to the land owner, and examine into the matter, and report by certificate, to the clerk of the district court in the county in which the land is situated, the amount and description of the additional lands necessary for such purposes, present and prospective, of such company; whereupon the company shall have the power to condemn the lands so certified by the commissioners. [20 G. A., ch. 190, § 1.] [28 G. A., ch. 70, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 79, § 1.]

The right of way which may be taken for railroad purposes is limited to one hundred feet, whether acquired by condemnation or by purchase. Additional right of way for depot grounds can be acquired only by application to the railroad commissioners who shall, after a hearing, certify to the district court the amount and description of additional land necessary for that purpose. Crandall v. Des Moines N. W. R. Co., 103-684.

Measure of damages: In condemnation proceedings the damages are to be as sesst for all, and when once assessed they include all the injuries which may result for all time to come from the construction and operation of the road in a reasonable and proper manner. Hulman v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 113-591.

Additional tracks and sidetracks, as they may become necessary, may be constructed without the payment of additional damages for right of way. Ibid. Many of the considerations that tend to affect the value of town property are prospective only, but they may nevertheless be taken into account. Therefore, where land was condemned for depot purposes, held, that its prospective increased value on account of the location of the depot in that locality might be considered. Snouffer v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 105-631.

Where a lessee seeks compensation he should be allowed the difference between the value of the annual use of the premises before the taking of the right of way and what it was worth afterward. Werthman v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co., 125-135.

The damages to be assessed in condemnation proceedings do not include injuries which may result from the negligence or improper construction of the railroad. Guinn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co., 125-301.

In such a proceeding damages resulting from causing water to flow upon the premises of the owner from lands of another owner by the improper construction of ditches are not to be taken into account. Ibid. It is not to be assumed that where the right of way is maintained through the premises of an owner the private way to which he will be entitled, will be a grade crossing. It must be assumed that it will be an adequate crossing. Ibid. It is not competent to show in evidence the amount which the company has paid to other owners per acre for rights of way over their land. Simons v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co., 128-139.

Damages are not to be predicated on any particular form of crossing, the requirement of the statute being that the company shall furnish an adequate crossing. Ibid. Nor should the jury be told that they may take into account every element of annoyance and disadvantage resulting from the construction of the railroad which would influence an intending purchaser in making an estimate of the market value of the property. Ibid.

Interest is to be awarded from the time the railway takes possession of the right of way. Guinn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co., 131-680.

The allowance of interest from the time of the construction of the road, antedating the institution of condemnation proceedings, is erroneous. Clark v. Webash R. Co., 132-11.

Entire premises: The damages allowed on condemnation of a portion of the owner's premises should include damage to the entire premises resulting from the construction of the improvement which involves the taking of his land. Haggard v. Independent School Dist., 113-490.

Two tracts connected by a right of way may constitute one farm, damage to the whole of which is to be considered in proceedings to condemn a right of way across one portion. Westbrook v. Muscatine, N. & S. R. Co., 115-106.

In the assessment of damages it is error to limit the witnesses to a consideration of any special use for the land. The owner is entitled to have his farm valued as a whole, and his damages assessed on that basis. Lough v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 116-81.
When separate tracts, one only of which is crossed by a right of way, is adapted to one use, and both are especially valuable because of adaptability to that use and are both injuriously affected by the appropriation, they should be treated as constituting one property in assessing the damages. Hoyt v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 117-296.

Whether the owner of separate parcels is entitled to have them treated as one tract is usually a question for the jury. But where the tracts are entirely independent, not contiguous, and there is no evidence that damage to the part actually taken affects the part not touched the court should direct the jury to consider only that tract over which the right of way is taken. Ibid.

The fact that the railroad company in condemnation proceedings described only one of two tracts which are occupied together as a farm does not deprive the owner of the right to have the damages to the entire farm estimated in the proceeding. Cook v. Boon Suburban Elec. R., 117-129-37.

Although a tract belonging to one owner may have been platted, it does not follow that there should be a separate assessment as to each subdivision, where there is no physical evidence of the plat, and no improvements made with reference thereto. Gray v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 129-68.

Trespass by company: Where the railroad company entering without right upon land continues to occupy the same after title has been conveyed to another owner, such occupancy may be treated as a continuing trespass, for which the grantee may recover damages from the time of acquiring title. But the grantee is not entitled to recover for the damages suffered by his grantor. Clark v. Wabash R. Co., 133-11.

Obstructing water course: A railroad company constructing its road across a stream is not liable for negligence in failing to provide for a flood which is not only extraordinary, but unprecedented, and which could not reasonably have been foreseen, but it should anticipate and make provision for such floods as may occur in the ordinary course of nature, and will be liable in damages to a property owner whose property is injured by its failing to do so. Houghtaling v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 117-540.

It is immaterial that in the construction of an adequate culvert the company acted upon the advice of its engineers, who were shown to have been competent and skillful. Ibid.

The company is liable for damages resulting from the clogging of a culvert by debris carried down by a stream during a freshet, so far as such damage is the result of a flood not extraordinary and unprecedented, and which could not reasonably have been anticipated. Ibid. An exception in a conveyance of a right of way does not cover an additional right granted to the railroad company to discharge surface water upon the land. Earhart v. Cowles, 122-194.

A railroad company procuring a right of way by condemnation does not have the right to divert the surface water or a stream to the damage of the land owner from whose land the right of way has been taken, and such unlawful obstruction may be enjoined. Albright v. Cedar Rapids & I. C. R. & L. Co., 133-644.

Proceedings: The proceedings before the commissioners appointed by law to appraise the land are not a suit at law, but in the nature of an inquest to ascertain its value. No hearing is had and no evidence is introduced. The commissioners merely inspect the land, determine upon the amount of damages which will be occasioned by the appropriation, and make a written report to the sheriff. To this extent the proceeding is in no respect a suit, but when an appeal from the finding is taken to the district court, the proceeding is adversary and is in the nature of a suit, which may be removed to the federal court under the removal acts. Myers v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 118-312.

While no formal pleadings are required in condemnation proceedings, yet if the defendant undertakes to plead formally, and files a written answer, the ordinary rules of pleading should prevail and no affirmative defense not pleaded can be relied on. Mason v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 131-463.

Where the company is in possession of the right of way sought to be condemned, and the description given in the notice is sufficient to direct the sheriff and jury to the premises, and the award contains a correct description, there can be no objection that the notice of the proceedings was insufficient as to the description of the property to be condemned. Gray v. Iowa Central R. Co., 129-68.

Abandonment of proceedings: While a company may abandon the condemnation proceedings after the award of damages is made, and thereby escape the payment of the award, it cannot simply abandon the award and continue the proceedings, or institute other proceedings for another award as to the same property. Robertson v. Hartenbauer, 129-410.

Abandonment of road: When a railroad company enters upon the land of another, builds a roadbed, places ties and rails thereon, these as a general rule, in the absence of abandonment to the owner, belong to the company constructing the same or to its grantees or assignees, and the land owner cannot in condemnation proceedings, although instituted subsequently to the construction of the road, have the value thereof included in his award. \textit{Van Huisen v. Omaha B. \& T. R. Co.}, 118-366.

Payment to sheriff: Nothing short of actual payment, or its equivalent, to the owner of the damages assessed constitutes compensation for property wrested from him under the power of eminent domain. Payment of the damages to the sheriff is not effectual where the sheriff becomes insolvent and the property owner is unable to secure the money paid. \textit{Burns v. Chicago, & M. & D. M. R. Co.}, 110-366.

The deposit with the sheriff of the amount of the award is intended as security for the land owner where the company takes immediate possession of the land and the land owner has such an interest in the deposit when made that he may hold the officer liable for its safe keeping. \textit{Bannister v. McIntire}, 112-600.

It is not necessary that all the condemnations of the same right of way be before the same jury. \textit{Gray v. Iowa Central R. Co.}, 129-68.

Where a particular tract included among those as to which damages are to be assessed is overlooked or lost sight of by the sheriff and jury in making up the awards, a subsequent proceeding to assess the damages for such tract is not barred. \textit{Mason v. Iowa Central R. Co.}, 131-468.

SEC. 2003. Notice published. Said notice shall be published in some newspaper in the county, if there is one, if not, then in a newspaper published in the nearest county through which the proposed railway is to be run, once each week, for at least eight successive weeks prior to the day fixed for the appraisement at the instance of the corporation. [C., ’73, § 1248.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 26.]

The provisions of this section allowing attorney’s fees in such proceedings is not unconstitutional. \textit{Gano v. Minneapolis \& St. L. R. Co.}, 114-713; \textit{Lough v. Minneapolis \& St. L. R. Co.}, 116-31; \textit{Clark v. Wabash R. Co.}, 132-11.

The provision as to attorney’s fees does not apply unless on the trial the award is at least equal to that allowed by the commissioners. \textit{Wormley v. Mason City \& Ft. D. R. Co.}, 129-684.

The right of appeal furnishes an adequate remedy for any errors or irregularities in the proceeding. \textit{Gray v. Iowa Central R. Co.}, 129-68.

It is not error to strike from the files an answer of the appellee questioning the jurisdiction of the court over the appellee, where the facts alleged do not show want of jurisdiction. \textit{Simons v. Mason City \& Ft. D. R. Co.}, 128-139.

Where the land owner alone appeals from the award, the company is the defendant in such sense as to be entitled to remove the case to the federal court without regard to which party made the application for the appointment of commissioners. \textit{Kirby v. Chicago \& N. W. R. Co.}, 106 Fed. 551.

An appeal by the land owner from the assessment of damages by the commissioners in a condemnation proceeding is in effect an action by the land owner against the corporation for the value of the property taken, and may be removed to the federal court on account of diversity of citizenship of the parties. \textit{Myers v. Chicago \& N. W. R. Co.}, 118-312.

An appeal from the finding of the sheriff’s jury is such an action as may be removed to the federal court, on account of diversity of citizenship, although the land owner is the appellant and as a non-resident asks the removal. \textit{Mason City \& Ft. D. R. Co. v. Boynton}, 204 U. S. 570.

Where in a single proceeding the jury pass on the question as to the damage to be allowed to the owner and his tenant separately, either may appeal without joining the other or serving notice upon the other. An award to one would in no manner affect or prejudice the right of the other. \textit{Simons v. Mason City \& Ft. D. R. Co.}, 128-139.
While it may not be proper in examining the jurors on voir dire to disclose the amount of the award by the sheriff's jury, there will not be a reversal on that ground where it does not appear that any of the jurors to whom such suggestion was made acted on the final trial of the case. Simons v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co., 128-139.

Where the company served notice of appeal and afterwards the land owner also served notice and filed a transcript without paying the filing fee and the company thereafter caused the land owner's appeal to be docketed and asked an affirmance of the judgment, the property owner to his remedy against the sheriff for the recovery of money thus paid. Burns v. Chicago, Ft. M. & D. M. R. Co., 110-385.

Payment to the sheriff does not limit the property owner to his remedy against the sheriff for the recovery of money thus paid. The court should not on appeal render judgment against the company for the damages found where the property has not been appropriated. Haggard v. Independent Sch. Dist., 113-486.

Where the right of the company to land taken for right of way is lost by non-user the land does not revert to the original owner from whom it was taken, but to the present owner of the tracts of land from which it was taken. Smith v. Hall v. Wabash R. Co., 113-561.

Where a right of way is acquired by a fee simple deed and subsequently the separated tracks of the parcel of land through which the right-of-way is thus conveyed by description, excluding the right of way, such subsequent conveyance does not cover any right of reversion of the right of way. Watkins v. La. Cent. R. Co., 132-11.

Where the owner of land conveys a right of way passing through his premises and afterwards conveys the two parcels expressly excluding the right of way by description from the conveyance, the grantee of the respective parcels are not entitled to damages on the taking of such right of way by another railroad, after abandonment by non-user for eight years. Spencer v. Wabash R. Co., 132-129.

In a conveyance of land, a portion of which has been taken for railroad right of way, the portion thus taken may be excepted from the grant so that upon abandonment of the right of way the title thereto does not revert to the grantee of the balance of the tracts, but to the original grantor. Hall v. Wabash R. Co., 133-714.

It is not necessary to constitute such forfeiture. Morgan v. Des Moines U. R. Co., 113-561.

By agreement a land owner may be entitled to enforce a forfeiture of the railroad right of way in case of abandonment although the length of time of non-user contemplated by the statute has not expired. Gill v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 117-278.

Use of the right of way over the owner's land which is merely colorable and not for ordinary railroad purposes will not prevent such forfeiture. Ibid.

It is not necessary to constitute such abandonment that the entire line of which the right of way in question forms a part shall have been abandoned. Ibid.

SEC. 2016. Condemning abandoned right of way.

After the lapse of eight years of non-user, the right of way ceases to exist as such, and is to be again acquired by exercise of the power of eminent domain in the same manner as rights of way are obtained in the first instance. And in such case the provision that parties who have previously received compensation, which has not been refunded, shall not be permitted to recover the second time, has no application. Remey v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 116-133; Gray v. Iowa Central R. Co., 129-68.

As to the question involved in the case of Remey v. Iowa Central R. Co., 116-133, the judges of the court on a subsequent consideration in another case were equally divided in opinion. Clark v. Wabash R. Co., 192-11.
SEC. 2017. Raising or lowering highways.

A railroad company may cross streets in the occupation of a right of way acquired over private property without the consent of abutting property owners, if in crossing such streets its track is not laid in front of the property of such abutting owners. Morgan v. Des Moines U. R. Co., 113-361. Land devoted to the use of a railroad is devoted to public use and a common highway may be used by a railroad company without further compensation to adjoining owners. Burlington Gas Light Co. v. Mattice v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 130-749. The fact that the railway has acquired the occupation of a right of way acquired of the property of such abutting owners. [32 G. A., ch. 96.]

SEC. 2020. Crossing railways, canals, etc.

Where the right of one road to cross another has been acquired under existing statutes, the legislature cannot, by a subsequent statute, impose as a condition to the continued use of such crossing the burden of paying the entire cost of putting in and operating an interlocking system.

SEC. 2022. Private crossings. When any person owns land on both sides of any railway, the corporations owning the same shall, when requested so to do, make and keep in good repair a sufficient causeway or other adequate means of crossing the same and one cattle-guard on each side thereof connected by cross fences to the right of way fence on each side of the right of way, at such reasonable place as may be designated by the owner. [C, 73, § 1268.

The fact that an under passageway is contracted in width after it has been occupied and used for a long period does not entitle the property owner to damages if such passageway is left of sufficient width to fulfill the objects for which it was originally provided. Oliver v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 111-221. A land owner cannot acquire a right to a crossing by adverse possession so as to preclude change thereof by the company. Schrimper v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 116-35.

An undercrossing, constructed in pursuance of the statute, and not by contract with the owner, may be changed by the company to a grade crossing when no peculiar damage results to the owner by the change and the expense of maintaining the undercrossing would be unreasonable. Ibid.

In condemnation proceedings it is proper for the jury to take into account the fact that an adequate crossing over the track is required by statute to be constructed, and that if only an underground crossing would be adequate, such a crossing will be given. Lough v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 116-31.

The duty of determining the kind of crossings is imposed on the company with the limitation that they be adequate, and in determining the damages in a condemnation proceeding it is not to be assumed that the crossing will be a grade crossing.

SEC. 2017. Raising or lowering highways.

The statute clearly contemplates such a crossing as shall connect the several parts of the owner's land without requiring him to go to the public highway, and consent to the construction of a way by which he may reach the public highway is not a waiver of his right to a private crossing. Herrstrom v. Newton & N. W. R. Co., 129-507.

Where a grade crossing is impracticable, the fact that an overhead crossing would involve considerable expense will not constitute a sufficient reason for not requiring the company to construct such overhead crossing. Ibid.

The railroad company is not excused from providing a private crossing by the fact that the land owner may pass from one tract of his land to another separated by the railway by means of an adjoining public highway. The statute evidently contemplates more convenient access than is usually afforded by a public highway, even though one side of the land may abut thereon. Mattice v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 130-749. The fact that the railway has acquired

Under the evidence in a particular case held that the railroad took its grant of right of way subject to existing easements in favor of the public. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Council Bluffs, 109-425.

And held that, having recognized and adopted a dedication of highways to the public by the original proprietor, a mere non-use by the public of such highways would not defeat the same. Ibid.
a strip of land for its use adjoining its right of way of full width does not excuse it from furnishing a private crossing. Ibid.

The railroad company is required to build and maintain cattle guards within a reasonable time after having been properly requested. The request must be of some officer or agent of the company, acting within the scope of his duties, such duties including the management or control of the putting in of cattle guards, or of ordering them to be put in. McGill v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 113-358.

Where a private crossing was constructed over three adjacent parallel lines of railroad which was protected by gates at each end of the passageway, held that failure of one of the companies to maintain an inside gate between its own right of way and that of another company would not render it liable for an injury to an animal coming upon its right of way. Fowbel v. Wabash R. Co., 125-215.

The obstruction of a private crossing is prohibited by the provisions of Code § 5078, relating to obstructions of either public or private ways, and a tenant in possession may recover damages to his use of the premises by reason of such obstruction. Morrison v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 117-587.

SEC. 2024-a. State to condemn. Whenever in the opinion of the governor of the state, the public interest requires the laying or construction of any drain, sewer or aqueduct, and the acquisition of an easement therefor, upon or across private property, or the taking of any real estate for the making or construction of any drain, sewer or aqueduct, or for rifle ranges, exercise, drill or parade grounds, yards, walls, buildings or other improvements or conveniences for the use or benefit of any fort, arsenal, military post or other institution of the United States, upon or across private property, the same proceedings may be had in the name of the state as are provided for the taking of private property for works of internal improvement by chapter 4, title X, of the code, and the proceedings shall be conducted by the county attorney of the county in which the land is situated, whenever directed by the governor, or he may appoint some other person for that purpose. [29 G. A., ch. 83, § 1.]

SEC. 2024-b. Damages certified—how paid—conveyance of title. When the amount of the damages is finally determined, the sheriff or clerk, as the case may be, shall certify the amount thereof to the governor who shall, by an order endorsed thereon, direct the payment of the same, including all costs and expenses incurred, and the auditor of state shall issue a warrant on the treasury for the amount, which shall be paid out of such money as may have been deposited in the treasury by the United States, or by any person or persons for and on its behalf, and when paid to the sheriff or person entitled thereto, the governor and auditor of state are hereby authorized and instructed to convey the easement or real estate so taken and all of the rights of the state so acquired therein, to the United States, by good and sufficient deed of conveyance executed for, on behalf of and in the name of the state of Iowa, and thereupon the United States, through its proper officer or agent, may enter upon the premises and construct the desired work. [29 G. A., ch. 83, § 2.]

SEC. 2024-c. United States may purchase or condemn. That where the United States of America has undertaken or may hereafter undertake to improve any river, stream, or water-course, forming a part of the boundary line of this state, or within this state, or to utilize any river, stream, or water-course, for any purpose, deemed advisable, the said United States may purchase, or condemn land and private property, in accordance with the provisions of chapter four (4) title ten (10) of the code, for taking private property. [29 G. A., ch. 80, § 1.]

SEC. 2024-d. Additional grounds for buildings. Whenever, in the opinion of the executive council of the state, public interest requires the taking of real estate as a site for any state building, or as additional grounds for any existing state building, or for any other state purpose, the state may take and hold, under its right of eminent domain, so much real estate as is necessary for the purpose for which the same is taken; and proceedings may be instituted in the name of the state of Iowa for the condemnation of such real estate under the provisions of chapter four (4) of title ten (X) of the code, which proceedings shall be conducted by some person appointed by the governor of the state. [30 G. A., ch. 71, § 1.]

SEC. 2024-e. Damages—how paid. When the amount of damages is determined, the sheriff or clerk, as the case may be, shall certify the amount thereof to the executive council which shall, by an order endorsed upon the certificate, direct the payment of the same, and the auditor of state shall, upon receipt of such order, issue a warrant on the treasury for the amount, which warrant shall be paid out of any money appropriated by the general assembly for that purpose, or out of any money received from the sale of other property, the proceeds of which may have been authorized by law to be used for the purpose of the purchase of real estate for state use; and when the amount of such damages is paid to the sheriff, the clerk, or the person entitled thereto, the state, through its proper officer or agent, may enter upon the possession of the real estate taken, and use and occupy the same for state purposes. [30 G. A., ch. 71, § 2.]

SEC. 2024-f. Court houses—jails—condemnation proceedings authorized. Whenever the interest of any county requires real estate for the erection of court houses or jails by a county, such county may take and hold such real estate for the purpose for which same is taken, by condemnation proceedings. Such proceedings shall be instituted pursuant to a resolution of the board of supervisors of a county, and shall be instituted and prosecuted in the name of the county seeking such condemnation by the county attorney for such county under the provisions of chapter four
(4) of title ten (X) of the code. [30 G. A., ch. 72, § 1.]

SEC. 2024-g. Damages—how paid. In cases where such condemnation is sought by a county, the sheriff or clerk, as the case may be, shall, when the amount of the damages is determined, certify the amount thereof to the board of supervisors and such board may direct payment thereof by resolution, and the county auditor shall thereupon issue his warrant therefor upon the proper fund of such county. In any case when the amount of the damages is paid to the sheriff or clerk, or the person entitled thereto, and the time for appeal has expired or final judgment entered upon appeal, the county may enter into possession of the real estate taken, through its proper officers or agents, and use and occupy the same for the purpose taken. [30 G. A., ch. 72, § 2.]

SEC. 2024-h. Appeals. No county condemning or seeking to condemn land under the provisions of this act, shall be entitled to the possession of the lands condemned or sought to be condemned until the time for appeal to the district or supreme court from such condemnation has expired, or final judgment rendered on appeal, and in all appeals from the award of the sheriff’s jury in such proceedings, the court shall have jurisdiction to pass upon the public necessity for the condemnation of such real este, and shall determine the same without the intervention of a jury, and may make such order with reference thereto as it may deem proper within its discretion, and may modify, enlarge or diminish the area of grounds sought to be condemned, but all questions as to amount of damages shall be determined by ordinary proceedings as in other cases of condemnation.
[30 G. A., ch. 72, § 3.]

SEC. 2024-i. Counties and townships. The board of supervisors of any county and the township trustees of any township are hereby authorized and empowered within their respective limits, and without the limits of any city or town to procure, purchase or condemn, enter upon and take any lands for the purpose of obtaining gravel or other suitable material with which to improve the roads and highways of such county or township, including a sufficient roadway to such land by the most reasonable route, and pay for the same out of the county or township road funds. [30 G. A., ch. 73, § 1.]

SEC. 2024-j. Cities and towns. Cities and towns including cities under special charter are hereby authorized and empowered within or without their limits to procure, purchase or condemn, enter upon and take any lands for the purpose of obtaining gravel, stone or other suitable material with which to improve the streets and alleys of such city or town, including a suitable roadway thereto by the most reasonable route, and pay for the same from the general fund, grading fund, or from the highway or poll taxes of such city or town, or partly from each of said funds. [30 G. A., ch. 73, § 2.]

SEC. 2024-k. Condemnation proceedings. Proceedings for condemnation of land as contemplated in this act shall be in accordance with the provisions relating to taking private property for works of internal improvements. [30 G. A., ch. 73, § 3.]

SEC. 2024-l. Reversion of lands. When lands that have been condemned and taken under this act, and not used for the purpose herein specified for the period of five consecutive years, such lands shall then revert to the owner or owners of the tract from which it was taken. [30 G. A., ch. 73, § 4.]

SEC. 2026. Repeal—interurban or street railway over highways.

That section two thousand and twenty-six (2026) of the supplement to the code, and chapter eighty-seven (87) of the acts of the thirty-first general assembly be and the same are hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"Any interurban or street railway, may for the purpose of constructing or extending its line locate, build and operate its road by any power other than steam, over and along any portion of the public road, beyond the limits of any city or town, which is one hundred feet or more wide. It shall as soon as practicable put the road in as good repair as it was before its use for such railway. Boards of supervisors are authorized to accept for road purposes conveyances of land adjoining any such road or part thereof sufficient to increase the same to the width of one hundred feet; but in any county in which such company desires to operate its line of railway over a road not less than sixty feet in width, for a distance not over two miles, beyond the limits of a city or town, the board of supervisors may grant the right to it to operate its line over said road, not exceeding two miles, under such rules and regulations as said board may prescribe, and may also from time to time make such further reasonable regulations as may be necessary. Where an interurban railway desires to operate its lines along or upon a public highway beyond the limits of any city or town, and in the opinion of the board of supervisors of the county in which such highway is located, it is impracticable or inexpedient to increase the width thereof to one hundred feet, such board of supervisors may permit such interurban railway company to construct and operate its railway along and upon such highway, under such restrictions and regulations as the board may deem advisable; but no such railway shall construct or operate its line along or upon such highway until a written statement of consent of two-thirds of the residents owning property abutting upon such highway shall have been obtained and filed with the auditor of the county in which the highway is located; but no such written consent signed by any abutting land owner shall be construed to waive any claim for damages he may have on account of the location and construction of such railway upon and along the highway in front of the premises unless expressly so stated therein, and no such written consent shall have the effect to deprive any other abutting land owner of his right to recover damages therefor. And in all cases the location, construction and operation of such interurban railway shall be subject to the provisions of section two thousand twenty-seven (2027) of the code. [32 G. A., ch. 97.]

The provisions of the act from which this section is derived related entirely to street railways and a street railway which is thus extended beyond the city limits along the public highway to a neighboring city or town does not become subject to taxation under the provisions relating to taxation of railroads. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 106-476.

SEC. 2028. Ways to lands which have none. Any person, corporation or copartnership owning or leasing any land not having a public or private way thereto, may have a public way to any railway station, street or highway established over the land of another, not exceeding forty feet in width, to be located on a division line or immediately adjacent thereto; but if a railway is to be constructed thereon, as provided in section two thousand thirty-one (2031) the same may be located wherever necessary and practicable, but not exceeding one hundred feet in width, and not interfering with buildings, orchards, gardens or cemeteries; and when the same shall be constructed it shall, when passing through inclosed land, be fenced on both sides by the person or corporation causing it to be established. [25 G. A., ch. 18; 15 G. A., ch. 34, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 82, § 1.]

One whose property is not reached by a public highway may have an outlet to the highway established at his expense. Perry v. Board of Supervisors, 133-281.

One who petitions for the establishment of a public way cannot be defeated by a showing that proceedings to establish a public highway along the same line have been defeated, where it does not appear that the party asking the establishment of the way was a party to the proceeding for establishing the highway. Kirkhart v. Roberts, 123-137.

The provisions relating to the establishment of rights of way to mines are to be construed together and it is only on a public way, such as is authorized to be located under this section, that a railway may be established under § 2031. Morrison v. Thistle Coal Co., 119-705.

The right of way for a railway thus established is a public way, even though it is not maintained so as to be available for use by the traveler otherwise than by use of railway cars. Ibid.

The requirement of this section, before its amendment by 29 G. A., chapter 82, that such right of way, not exceeding forty feet in width, may be located on a division line or immediately adjacent thereto, did not render it improper where, by reason of making a reasonably convenient curve, it was necessary to construct a portion of the track more than forty feet from a division line. Ibid.

CHAPTER 4-A.

OF INTERURBAN RAILWAYS.

SECTION 2033-a. Interurban railway defined. Any railway operated upon the streets of a city or town by electric or other power than steam, which extends beyond the corporate limits of such city or town to another city, town or village, or any railway operated by electric or other power than steam, extending from one city, town or village to another city, town or village, shall be known as an interurban railway, and shall be a work of internal improvement. [29 G. A., ch. 81, § 1.]

The provision that the portion of an interurban railway system within the corporate limits of a city shall be subject to municipality regulation does not destroy

SEC. 2033-b. What statutes apply. The words railway, railway company, railway corporation, railroad, railroad company, and railroad corporation, as used in the code and acts of the general assembly, now in force or hereafter enacted, are hereby declared to apply to and include all interurban railways, and all companies or corporations constructing, owning or operating such interurban street railways, and all provisions of the code and acts of the general assembly, now in force or hereafter enacted, affecting railways, railway companies, railway corporations, railroads, railroad companies and railroad corporations, are hereby declared to affect and apply to all interurban railways, and to all interurban railway companies or railway corporations constructing, owning or operating such interurban railways. [29 G. A., ch. 81, § 2.]

SEC. 2033-c. When a street railway. Any interurban railway shall within the corporate limits of any city or town, or of any city acting under a special charter, upon such streets as it shall use for transporting passengers, mail, baggage, and such parcels, packages, and freight as it may carry in its passenger or combination baggage cars only, be deemed a street railway, and be subject to the laws governing street railways. [29 G. A., ch. 81, § 3.]

An interurban line which includes a city street car system may be taxed by the executive council as a unit. Waterloo & C. F. R. T. Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 131-237; Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Cummins, 125-430.

An interurban railway, so far as it is operated within the limits of a city, does not come within the terms of Code § 2071, declaring that a railway company is liable to an employee for injuries resulting from the negligence of a co-employee. McLeod v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 125-270.

SEC. 2033-d. Powers of cities and towns. Cities and towns and cities acting under special charters, shall have power to authorize or forbid the construction of such railways upon, or over, or along the streets, alleys and public grounds within their limits and to prescribe the conditions and regulations under which said railways shall be constructed and operated within said limits. But the right to operate as a street railway under section three (3) of this act shall not be granted for a period exceeding twenty-five (25) years. Nothing herein shall impair the obligation of contracts of such city or town heretofore made. This act shall not in any manner affect sections seven hundred and seventy-five (775) and seven hundred and seventy-six (776) of the code, which shall be applicable to interurban railways. [29 G. A., ch. 81, § 4.]

SEC. 2033-e. Grade-crossings — duties of employees — penalty. Wherever the tracks of an interurban railway cross the tracks of any steam railway at grade the steam railway shall have the right of way and not be compelled to stop its trains and the interurban railway company operating said line shall cause its cars to come to a full stop not nearer than ten (10) feet nor further than fifty (50) feet from such crossing, and before proceeding to cross said steam railway tracks shall cause some person in its employ first to cross said track ahead of said car or cars and ascertain if the way is clear and free from danger for the passage of said interurban cars, and said interurban cars shall not proceed to cross until signalled to do so by such person employed as aforesaid, or said way is clear. for such passage over said tracks. Every person in charge of any interurban car or cars, who wilfully fails to comply with the provisions hereof and fails to bring the car or cars which he has in charge to stop, or causes the same to cross said steam railway tracks before the way is clear or he is signalled to do so, shall be subject to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00) or imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed twelve (12) months in the discretion of the court. No steam railway shall obstruct the free passage of the cars of an intersecting interurban railway at such crossing. [29 G. A.,
ch. 81, § 6.]

SEC. 2033-f. Automobile railway—statutes applicable. Any system of railway operating cars within the state of Iowa over or upon any track other than steel or iron shall be known as an automobile railway, and shall be a work of internal improvement. The words “railway”, “railway company”, “railway corporation”, “railroad”, “railroad company” or “railroad corporation”, as used in the code and acts of the general assembly now in force or hereafter enacted, are hereby declared to apply to, and include, automobile railways, and all companies or corporations owning or operating such automobile railways, and all provisions of the code and acts of the general assembly now in force or hereafter enacted affecting railways, railway companies, railway corporations, railroads, railroad companies or railroad corporations, are hereby declared to affect and apply in full force and effect to all automobile railways and to all automobile railway companies owning or operating such automobile railways. [32 G. A.,
ch. 98.]

OF THE CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF RAILWAYS.

SECTION 2036. May join or consolidate.

A lease of railroad property for a long period of time is not void under the statutory provision against the creation of per-

OF THE PURCHASE OR CONTROL OF RAILROADS IN OTHER STATES.

SEC. 2038-a. Powers in other states. That any railroad corporation organized under and by virtue of the laws of this state and owning and operating a railroad therein shall be authorized and empowered to exercise in any other state or territory of the United States in which it may control or operate a connecting line or lines of railway the powers and privileges conferred upon it by its articles of incorporation and all powers, privileges and franchises conferred upon railroad corporations under and by virtue of the laws of Iowa or of such other state or territory, for the purposes set forth in section two hereof. [29 G. A., ch. 84, § 1.]

SEC. 2038-b. May purchase, lease, control or operate. That any railroad corporation so organized under the laws of Iowa and owning and operating a railroad therein may lease, purchase, or otherwise acquire and own, control or operate any connecting extension of its said railroad not parallel or competing therewith, in any other state or territory of the United States, and to that end may purchase and control the stock, bonds or securities of any such extension if not contrary to the laws of such other state or territory. [29 G. A., ch. 84, § 2.]
SEC. 2039. Duties and liabilities of lessees.

A special assessment on railway property for improvement of abutting streets cannot be collected directly from the lessee where the lessee has not undertaken to pay such assessment. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Ottumwa, 112-300. A construction company operating engines and cars over a temporary track in the construction of a railroad is engaged in the operation of a railroad within the provisions of Code § 2071, providing that every corporation operating a railway shall be liable to its employes for all damages sustained in consequence of the negligence of co-employes. Mace v. Boeker, 127-721.

SEC. 2041. Bonds—mortgages.

By statute the company has express authority to mortgage after-acquired property, and by that statutory provision, when the power to mortgage exists, the right to incumber after-acquired property is necessarily included. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

SEC. 2042. After-acquired property.

The statute expressly authorizes any corporation organized under the state law for the purpose of constructing and operating a railway, to mortgage its franchise and all its property, whether acquired before or after the execution of the mortgage. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 82 Fed. 124.

SEC. 2043. Execution of mortgages.

A railroad company is in many respects purely a private corporation, and it may bind itself by an ultra vires mortgage, which is not against public policy, by accepting and retaining the benefits thereof. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

SEC. 2051. Conditional sale or lease of equipment or rolling stock.

In any contract for the sale of railroad or street railway equipment or rolling stock or power house, electric or other equipment of street or interurban railways or of electric light and power companies or of steam heating companies, such equipment including engines, boilers, generators, switch boards, transformers, motors and other machinery and appliances, it may be agreed that the title thereto, although possession thereof be delivered immediately or at any time or times subsequently, shall not vest in the purchaser until the purchase price shall be fully paid, or that the seller shall have and retain a lien thereon for the unpaid purchase money. In any contract for the leasing or hiring of such property, it may be stipulated for a conditional sale thereof at the termination of such contract, and that the rentals or amounts to be received under such contract may, as paid, be applied and treated as purchase money, and that the title to the property shall not vest in the lessee or bailee until the purchase price shall have been paid in full, and until the terms of the contract shall have been fully performed, notwithstanding delivery to and possession by such lessee or bailee; but no such contract shall be valid as against any subsequent judgment creditor, or subsequent bona fide purchaser for value without notice, unless:

1. The same shall be evidenced by an instrument executed by the parties and acknowledged by the vendee, or lessee, or bailee, as the case may be, in the same manner as deeds are acknowledged or proved;

2. Such instrument shall be filed for record in the office of the secretary of state;

3. Each locomotive engine, stationary engine, boiler, switch board, transformer, motor, other piece of machinery or appliance or car sold, leased or hired as aforesaid shall have the name of the vendor, lessor or bailor plainly marked on each side thereof, followed by the word "owner," "lessor" or "bailor," as the case may be. [25 G. A., ch. 28, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 99.]
SEC. 2052. Recording. The contracts herein authorized shall be recorded by the secretary of state in a book of records to be kept for that purpose, and, on payment in full of the purchase money and the performance of the terms and conditions stipulated in any such contract, a declaration in writing to that effect may be made by the vendor, lessor or bailor, or his or its assignee, which declaration may be made on the margin of the record of the contract, duly attested, or it may be made by a separate instrument, to be acknowledged by the vendor, lessor or bailor, or his or its assignee, and recorded as aforesaid. For such services the secretary of state shall be entitled to a fee of ten cents per hundred words for recording each of the contracts and each of said declarations but in no case shall the fee be less than one dollar and a fee of one dollar for noting such declaration on the margin of the record. [25 G. A., ch. 28, § 2.] [31 G. A., ch. 88.]

SEC. 2054. Cattle-guards—crossings—signs.

The statute absolutely requires railroad companies to construct specified crossings wherever their road crosses public streets or highways and makes them absolutely liable for failure to do so. The provision for notice when there has been such failure and for the construction thereof by the municipal or other authorities is for the protection and accommodation of the public only and does not affect or lessen the duties or liability of the delinquent company. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123-443.

An approach to a crossing situated on the company's right of way is a part of the crossing which the company is bound to construct. Ibid.

The duty to erect a crossing necessarily implies a duty to maintain it. Ibid.

In an action for personal injuries resulting from a defect in such crossing or approach the burden of proof is on the defendant to show contributory negligence upon the part of the plaintiff. Ibid.

The company may be held liable for not taking precautions at highway crossings for the protection of those in the rightful use of the highway. Oliver v. Iowa Central R. Co., 123-217.

But a person sui juris voluntarily and unnecessarily placing himself in a position of known danger cannot recover from the railroad company for injuries received, although the company has been negligent in not taking steps to protect him from danger. Ibid.

In the absence of some controlling reason to the contrary, highways are to be improved so that the travel shall pass along the middle line of the land appropriated therefor and a railroad company cannot complain of the assumption that it constructed its crossing at the place thus fixed by legal presumption. The statute requires cattle guards and fences to be placed along the line of the highway. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121-471.

In an action to recover damages resulting to an employe by reason of a defective cattle-guard, a plea of contributory negligence may be quite different from an allegation in the petition that plaintiff was free from contributory negligence. Ford v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 106-85.

Where an animal had gone upon the right of way over a defective cattle-guard and had afterwards escaped across such guard to the highway and was there killed, held, that it did not necessarily appear that it was not killed by reason of the defective cattle-guard and the the company might be liable. Riley v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 104-235.

SEC. 2055. Failure to fence—liability for stock killed—speed at depots.

Failure to provide fences and cattle-guards: The fact that the railroad company allows a portion of its right of way to remain open for use of the public as a highway does not relieve it from liability for stock killed on such portion of its right of way where it does not appear that the dedication of such portion of the right of way to the public has been accepted by it. Sarver v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 104-59.

The fact that fencing would involve a cattle-guard at the place where a spur track leaves the main track does not constitute an excuse for not maintaining a fence at such place. Kingsbury v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 104-63.

The issue under a general denial in an action to recover for injuries to stock on a right of way raises simply the question whether the company has the right to fence its right of way at the point involved, and not the question whether it has a legal excuse for not so doing. Ibid.

There is no liability for a failure to fence unless the injury is caused thereby. Norman v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 110-283.

Upon proof of the failure of the railroad company to fence its track at the point where an animal comes upon the right of way from adjoining premises and is killed a \emph{prima facie} case is made out for the recovery of damages for the killing of the animal, and to escape such liability the company attempting to relieve itself from the duty of maintaining a fence on account of an arrangement with the adjoining property owner by which such fence is to be maintained by him, has the burden of proof. The voluntary construction of some kind of a fence by the adjoining land owner will not excuse the company from erecting such fence as is required by law. \emph{Craig v. Wabash R. Co.,} 121-471.

It is the track, and not the right of way, which is required to be fenced, and where the track was laid on a bridge, and the right of way under the bridge was left unfenced, and cattle passed through from an adjoining field under the bridge onto the highway, and were killed at the highway crossing, held that the railroad company was not liable by reason of the want of a fence. \emph{Capwin v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co.,} 113-175.

Defective fence or cattle-guard: The finding in a particular case that stock got on the right of way through a defective gate held sufficiently supported by evidence indicating that the gate was liable to come open by reason of the action of the wind. \emph{Huss v. Chicago G. W. R. Co.,} 113-243.

Failure to repair upon notice or within a reasonable time is a failure to fence within the statutory provision. \emph{Daily v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co.,} 121-254.

Although a proper fence is maintained at the boundary of the right of way, yet if there is another fence nearer the track, leaving a lane between the two fences to which stock have access from the highway or adjoining the fence next to the track is such fence as that the stock getting upon the track by reason of defects in such fence. \emph{Ibid.}

Animals coming into this open way from adjoining premises are running at large within the meaning of the statute, and the company is liable in damages if such animals get upon the track by reason of defect in the fence adjoining the track and are killed. \emph{Ibid.}

The company being charged with the duty of maintaining proper and sufficient gates at private crossings is bound to use ordinary care and prudence in the construction of such gates, but is not charged with an absolute liability for the results of defects therein. It will not be liable for the results of the defective condition arising from use or decay unless it has actual notice of the defects or in the exercise of reasonable care should have had notice and a sufficient time has elapsed within which to make repairs. Notice may be inferred from lapse of time and the question of notice and the reasonable time for repair or reconstruction are for the jury. \emph{Wirstlin v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co.,} 123-248.

The owner of stock can recover for injury thereto on the right of way only upon proof of want of repair in the fence, where that is complained of, and that the condition was known to the defendant or had existed for such length of time that knowledge should be imputed to it. \emph{Klay v. Chicago, & M. & St. P. R. Co.,} 126-671.

Under a notice claiming damages on account of the killing of an animal going upon the track because of a defective fence, plaintiff may recover on proof that the accident occurred by reason of a defective cattle-guard. \emph{Boyer v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co.,} 123-248.

To relieve the company from liability for the killing of an animal coming upon the right of way across a cattle-guard, it must appear that the guard was reasonably sufficient for the purpose intended. \emph{Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co.,} 124-248.

Where a cattle-guard is defective by reason of being filled up with sand and gravel so that animals may readily pass over the same from the highway to the portion of the right of way which is fenced, the company is liable for killing such animals on the fenced portion of the right of way after they have passed thereon from the highway. \emph{Pothast v. Chicago G. W. R. Co.,} 110-458.

Where an animal gets upon a right of way over a cattle-guard which is defective by reason of being filled up with snow, an action for the death of the animal falls within the provisions of this section. \emph{Paul v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co.,} 120-224.

Evidence in a particular case held sufficient to sustain a verdict against a railroad company for killing of stock by reason of a defective fence. \emph{Kling v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co.,} 115-133.

\textbf{Negligence:}\hspace{1em} Where the track is enclosed for a long distance each way from the place of accident and train men have no reason to expect that stock will be on the right of way at such place, there is no duty owed to the owner of the stock until their presence is discovered, and then the company owes only the duty of using ordinary care to avoid injury to such stock. \emph{Mears v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co.,} 103-203.

Where a gate at a crossing is such as is commonly in use and is in good order, and the railroad company is not negligent in keeping it closed, it will not be liable for stock killed on the right of way going thereon through such gate, unless it is negligent in the operation of its trains with reference to such stock. \emph{Ibid.}\n
The liability of the railroad company for stock coming upon the right of way on account of a failure to fence does not de-depend on the negligence of the employees operating the train. Mikesell v. Wabash R. Co., 119 N. W. 201.

If an animal comes upon the right of way through a defective fence and becoming frightened by the operation of a hand car from which it attempts to escape is injured at a cattle-guard, the company is liable. Ibid.

In an action based on negligent killing of cattle at a crossing, it is sufficient to allege the failure to give the warning signals and to stop the train after the cattle were observed or should have been discovered in the exercise of reasonable care. It is not necessary to state the causes of the failure of duty and charge the same as independent matters of negligence. Barnard v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 135-185.

Negligence of owner: The mere fact that the owner knows that a gate separating his premises from the right of way is broken down will not as a matter of law preclude his recovery for killing of his animals which go upon the right of way through such gate. Contributory negligence alone will not defeat the owner's recovery. Enix v. Iowa Central R. Co., 114-508.

Contributory negligence of the owner of the stock does not defeat recovery if the animals are killed through the negligence of the company. Barnard v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 135-185.

Evidence, burden of proof: In an action for killing a horse which had passed through a right of way gate upon the track, and that the evidence was sufficient to justify the submission to the jury of the question as to how the gate became open. Titus v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 128-194.

If it appears that a right of way gate has been opened by stock so that an animal gets upon the right of way and is injured, it is then for the jury to determine whether the gate was sufficient in its construction and fastening. Ibid.

Proof of changes in such gate made by the railway company after the accident is inadmissible. Ibid.

If the fence through which stock go upon the right of way is not such as is required by the statute, the company is liable in double damages for the injury. Ibid.

In an action for the killing of an animal coming on the right of way through a gate, evidence is admissible tending to show the general construction of the gate, manner of use, the material of which it was constructed, and the kind of fastening used, in order that the jury may determine whether or not the company was negligent in its construction. But the company is not to be charged with any other negligence in that respect than that related in the petition. Wilellin v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 124-170.

In an action to recover damages for killing of stock, which it is claimed came upon the enclosed portion of the right of way over a cattle-guard from a highway crossing, it is competent to show that the cattle-guard was out of order and ineffective. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122-32.

It appearing that an animal has got upon the track through a defective fence and been killed, throws upon the company the burden of proving freedom from negligence. Daily v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 121-254.

Where the question was as to whether a gate in the right of way fence was sufficient, it was held error to permit a witness to testify that he did not think such gate was sufficient. Collins v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 122-281.

Under the evidence in a particular case held that the jury was justified in finding that the animal killed was struck upon the right of way and not upon the highway. Klay v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 126-671.

Speed at depot grounds: Liability for injury to stock on account of operating trains on the depot grounds at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour where no fence is built, is limited to stock running at large and is not applicable to stock driven by and under the control of the owner or his servant. Streuer v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 106-137.

Measure of damages: One who has stock killed on the right of way as the result of a defective cattle-guard over which the animals have come upon the right of way, may recover the value of the animals, and is not limited to the average value of such stock in general. The evidence, where the action was for the killing of a brood mare it was held competent to show the number of her foals as tending to show a special value for breeding qualities. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124-245.

In proving the value of a mare killed on the right of way evidence is competent to show that she was with foal. Boyer v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 123-248.

Notice: The mis-naming of the defendant in a notice with reference to the killing of stock by designating it as a "railway" instead of a "railroad" company is immaterial, actual notice having been served on the defendant. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122-32.

It is not essential that the jurat to the affidavit shall state that it was sworn to in the presence of or before the notary who verifies the fact by his certificate. That fact is presumed from the official statement that the affidavit was sworn to which statement is made over the notary's official seal, and is signed by him as a notary public. Ibid.
Double damages: Where the notice and affidavit were sufficient to put the railroad company upon inquiry, which, if diligently pursued, would have led to a discovery of the facts concerning plaintiff's claim, held that that was sufficient, although there was a discrepancy between them. Brammer v. Wabash R. Co., 112-375.

The liability for double damages is provided for only if the stock is running at large when killed, and not if at that time it is in the charge of or under the control of the owner. Morris v. Chicago, G. W. R. Co., 133-28.

The company having failed to pay in accordance with a notice and affidavit of loss and it appearing that the action is properly maintainable for double damages, the court may give judgment for twice the value of the animal as found by the jury; or if the jury renders a verdict, which upon inquiry the court finds to have been for the value of the animal only, the jury may be allowed to correct their verdict accordingly. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124-248.

A concession by counsel for plaintiff during the progress of the trial that there is no right to recover double damages is not binding on the court in rendering judgment, the facts necessary to entitle the plaintiff to recover double damages having been established. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122-32.

The last reference in the notes to this section in the original Code is erroneous. It should be Schurr v. Omaha & St. L. R. Co., 91-418.

It is only the willful act of the owner which will defeat his recovery for animals passing through a defective gate or fence and killed on the right of way by the operation of trains. Claus v. Chicago, G. W. R. Co., 111 N. W. 15.

SEC. 2056. Damages by fire.

Ordinary care: The statute does not make a railroad company absolutely liable for fires set out by it. Ordinary and reasonable care on the part of the company is all that is required. But ordinary care demands the use of the best known and most appropriate appliances for preventing the escape of fire. German Ins. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 128-366.

Presumption; burden of proof: The fact that fire is set out by sparks from an engine creates a presumption of negligence on the part of the railroad company which may be overcome by proof that it was not guilty of negligence. Swanson v. Keokuk & W. R. Co., 116-304; Krejci v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 117-344.

The provision of this section throwing the burden of escape from the company of loss due to fires is not applicable to fires set out by section men on the right of way. Connors v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 111-384.

Presumption of negligence: From the provisions of this section the escape of sparks from a locomotive is not in itself proof of negligence in its operation, and where an employe claimed to be injured by reasons of sparks and cinders striking him in the eye, held that proof of the accident was not in itself evidence of negligence on the part of the company. Durée v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 118-640.

Before the enactment of the fire statute it had uniformly been held in this state that negligence of the company would not be presumed from proof of the setting out of fire alone. But it was also held that the setting out of two or more fires by the same engine would constitute some evidence of negligence. And where the evidence indicated that the fires might have been set out by reason of the negligent use of slack coal in the engine, held that there was enough evidence on the subject of negligence to take the case to the jury. Glanz v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 119-640.

The fact of a fire caused by the operation of a railroad company having been shown, a presumption of negligence on the part of the company follows without further proof. Kennedy v. Iowa State Ins. Co., 119-29.

But the company may contract for exemptions from liability for its negligence in causing fires to property, permitted by it to be located upon its right of way. Ibid.

Measure of damages: Where one's meadow has been destroyed he is entitled to recover its value, which may be ascertained by finding what it would cost to reproduce or restore it. The rule is different as to the destruction of trees. Bradley v. Iowa Central R. Co., 111-562.

Where land has been appropriated to a particular purpose as by converting it into an orchard or a meadow, or planting it to a crop which is already growing, the loss occasioned by a fire destroying the meadow or orchard or crop is to be determined with reference to such existing condition. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122-32.

When trees, shrubs or meadow are destroyed the measure of damages is at least the difference in value between the land as it was before the injury and its value afterward and the loss of rental value on account of the loss. Krejci v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 117-344.

The rule of damages for the destruction of a hedge is the difference in value of the entire farm of plaintiff before and after its destruction, and the value of the hedge may be taken into account in determining

In such case plaintiff is entitled to recover the value of the grass destroyed, as well as the expense of restoring the meadow. Ibid.

Evidence: In case of the destruction of a meadow, the value of the meadow burned may be determined by comparison with the condition of the remainder of the meadow at the time of the trial. Ibid.

In an action to recover damages for injury to a meadow by fire, evidence as to the effect of fire on another meadow under substantially similar circumstances is admissible. Proximity of the two meadows is not important, the competency of the evidence depending on similarity of the conditions. Castner v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 126-581.

In an action to recover damages for loss of property by fire set out by a railroad engine, evidence of witnesses that they had seen engines of the defendant throw sparks to a greater distance from the track than the place where the fire in question started is competent as bearing on the question whether the fire could have been occasioned by sparks from an engine. Black v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 122-32.

On the question whether the fire was set by sparks from defendant's locomotive, witnesses may testify that within a few minutes after the passing of a locomotive the fire was discovered. Ibid.

Liability for personal injuries from fire: Where it appeared that the wife of the owner of farm buildings had been injured by being burned while attempting to protect the premises against fire, and had been made ill by overexertion in so doing, held that the railroad company being chargeable with negligence in setting out such fire, was liable, regardless of statutory provisions. Glanz v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 119-611.

The provisions of this section as to liability for damages resulting from fires set out apply only to injuries to property, and not to injuries to the person. Durvee v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 118-640.

SEC. 2057. Repeal—fences required. That section two thousand and fifty-seven (2057) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“All railway corporations owning or operating a line of railway within the state shall construct, maintain, and keep in repair a suitable fence of posts and barb wire, or woven wire, or both combined, or posts and boards, or any other fence which the fence viewers shall determine to be equivalent thereto, on each side of the track thereof, so connected with cattle guards at all public road crossings as to prevent cattle, horses, sheep, swine, and other live stock from getting on the railroad tracks. Such tracks shall be fenced within six months after the completion of the same or any part thereof. Such fence, when of barb wire, shall be of five wires; when of barb wire and woven wire, it shall consist of three barb wires above and woven wire not less than twenty-four inches wide at the bottom, or it may consist entirely of woven wire, in which event the woven wire shall be not less than fifty inches wide; all of the above to be securely fastened to posts not more than twenty feet apart, the top of such fences to be not less than fifty-four inches high; or such fences may consist of five boards, securely nailed to posts set not more than eight feet apart, and to be not less than fifty-four inches high, provided, however, that, where such fences are constructed entirely of barb wire, in addition to the above, on the written request of any person owning land abutting such right of way who has constructed, and is maintaining around his said land, or any part thereof, a hog tight fence on all sides thereof except along such right of way, such railroad corporations shall reinforce such right of way fence with such additional barb or woven wire as is necessary to make it hog tight. Fences repaired or rebuilt shall conform to the foregoing provisions. Nothing in this or the following sections shall be construed to compel a railway company operating a third class line to fence its roads through the land of any farmer or other person who by written agreement with such company waives the fencing thereof.” [32 G. A., ch. 100.]

The purpose of specifying what shall be a sufficient fence is to fix absolutely the liability of the company for injury to animals going upon the right of way through... a fence, unless it complies with the requirements of statute. Titus v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 128-194.

The railroad company erecting and maintaining gates at private crossings must construct them with an efficiency corresponding to the requirements as to a fence. Claus v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 111 N. W. 15.

If, the railroad company having constructed a proper gate, the owner leaves it open and his animals enter on the right of way, the company is not liable; but if the gate is not such as is required his act in leaving it open will not relieve the company from liability for animals passing through such open gate upon the right of way and injured by the operation of trains. Ibid.

SEC. 2063. Proposed crossing.

Where a railroad about to be constructed is to cross one already constructed, the former must bear the expense of interlocking. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, G. & N. W. R. Co., 114-502.

The right to use a crossing already established cannot be made to depend upon payment of the entire cost of an interlocking system. Manhattan Trust Co. v. Sioux City & N. B. Co., 81 Fed. 50.

Where one railroad company is bound to pay the expense of an interlocking system, the other company is bound to contribute to the expense of the maintenance thereof. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Gowrie & N. W. R. Co., 123-543.

SEC. 2064. Apportionment of costs.

The provisions of this section as to apportionment relate only to the costs of the proceedings, and not to the expense of the interlocking device. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, G. & N. W. R. Co., 114-502.

SEC. 2066. Sale or lease of railroad property—joint arrangement.

A railway may contract with connecting lines to carry beyond its line, subject only to the qualification that under such agreement, arbitrary rates cannot be fixed which are discriminatory in their nature. Bras v. McConnell, 114-401.

SEC. 2071. Liability for negligence or wrongs of employes. Every corporation operating a railway shall be liable for all damages sustained by any person, including employes of such corporation, in consequence of the neglect of the agents, or by any mismanagement of the engineers or other employes thereof, and in consequence of the wilful wrongs, whether of commission or omission, of such agents, engineers or other employes, when such wrongs are in any manner connected with the use and operation of any railway on or about which they shall be employed, and no contract which restricts such liability shall be legal or binding. Nor shall any contract of insurance, relief, benefit, or indemnity in case of injury or death, entered into prior to the injury, between the person so injured and such corporation, or any other person or association acting for such corporation, nor shall the acceptance of any such insurance, relief, benefit, or indemnity by the person injured, his widow, heirs, or legal representatives after the injury, from such corporation, person, or association, constitute any bar or defense to any cause of action brought under the provisions of this section, but nothing contained herein shall be construed to prevent or invalidate any settlement for damages between the parties subsequent to injuries received. [C., '73, § 1307.] [27 G. A., ch. 49, § 1.]

In general: The company is not liable to an employe for an injury done by a co-employe when it would not have been liable to a third person injured by a like act. Kincaide v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry., 107-682.

This section makes no pretense of fixing the degree of negligence which will entitle an injured person to recover. It does not render the company liable to a trespasser for injuries received, unless due to wilful wrong or gross negligence. Earl v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Co., 109-14.

This provision applies only to companies operating commercial railroads and not to street railway companies. McLeod v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 125-270.

This statutory provision does not render the company liable to the surviving husband or wife for such negligence causing the instant death of the other. Major v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 115-309;

Negligence: The provisions of this section do not alter the character of the relation between the railroad company and a person injured, nor the rule of evidence appropriate to such relation upon an issue as to negligence. In such an action the fact of the happening of the accident through which an employe is injured is not evidence of negligence on the part of the defendant, or its employes, to sustain the burden of proof resting on the plaintiff. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. O'Brien, 122-488.

Operation of the railroad: One employed in the construction of a bridge is engaged in the operation of the road in such sense as that the company will be liable for injuries to him caused by negligence of the foreman in allowing a train to go upon the incomplete bridge, the foreman having been provided with a flag for the purpose of enabling him to control the operation of trains over such bridge. Keating v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 103-282.

The peculiarity of the railroad business which distinguishes it from any other is the movement of vehicles or machinery of great weight on the track by steam or other power, and the dangers incident to such movement are those the statute was intended to guard against. If, then, the injury is received by an employe whose work exposes him to the hazards of moving trains, cars, engines, or machinery on the track, and is caused by the negligence of a co-employe in the actual movement thereof, or in any manner directly connected therewith, the statute applies and recovery may be had. Beyond this the statute affords no protection. Alesson v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 106-54.

Therefore, held, that an employe in a railroad coal house, who was injured by the negligence of an employe in showing back a plank over which coal had been carried to fill a tender of a live locomotive, was so engaged in the operation of the railroad as to be entitled to recovery for negligence of the co-employe. Ibid.

An employe engaged in an occupation in connection with the business of the road, having nothing to do with the movement of trains, yet involving the performance of duties which bring him into a situation where he is exposed to the perils and hazards arising from such occupation or movement, is within the provisions of this section. Williams v. Iowa Central R. Co., 101-270.

In determining whether an employe is engaged in such employment as to bring him within these provisions the test is, does the duty of the employe, no matter what his designation, require him to perform services which expose him to the hazards peculiar to the business of operating a railway? And held that a car repairer injured by a moving engine when actually employed at his work in the railroad yards was within the statutory provision. Hughes v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 128-207.

An employe operating a hand car is engaged in the operation of the road. Larson v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 91-81.

The statute contemplates such injuries only as are caused by the negligent acts of employes engaged in the movement of the engines, cars and machinery on the track, or directly connected therewith. Therefore, held, that the handling of a derrick in coaling an engine was not within the contemplation of the statute. Reddington v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 108-96.

A railroad is only operated, within the meaning of the law, by moving trains, cars, engines, or machinery on the track. Connors v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 111-384.

This section held applicable to injuries sustained by a car cleaner working in a standing car on a side track, which was run into by an engine by reason of the negligence of a hostler in charge of such engine. Jensen v. Omaha & St. L. R. Co., 115-404.

Where an employe was assisting in transferring railroad rails from one car to another by means of power furnished by the operation of a locomotive engine, held that he was so engaged in the hazardous business of operating trains on a railroad as to be entitled to recover for injuries received through the negligence of a co-employe. Stebbins v. Crooked Creek R. & C. Co., 116-513.

The operation of an engine and cars over a temporary track in the construction of a railroad is the operating of a railway within the statutory provisions, rendering every corporation operating a railway liable to its employes for damages sustained in consequence of the negligence of other employes. Mace v. Bondker, 127-721.

The ordinary work of a section hand which is wholly disconnected with the operation and control of cars or trains operated on the track is not an employment connected with the use and operation of the road within the statutory provision. Dunn v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 130-580.

Assumption of risk: The provisions of this section do not affect the rule as to assumption of risk. Chicago, G. W. R. Co. v. Grotty, 141 Fed., 913.

One engaging in the hazardous business of operating trains on a railroad does not assume the risk of the negligence of the train dispatcher. Phinney v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 122-488.

Contractual limitation of liability: The so-called Temple Amendment (added to this section by 27 G. A., chap. 49 and constituting the last sentence of this section as printed above) prohibiting any defense on account of a contract between a railroad company and its employees in the nature of a contract for insurance or relief in case of accident, made prior to the injury, is constitutional. Such a contract constitutes a limitation of liability such as is prohibited by the statute. McGuire v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 181-340.

SEC. 2072. Signals at road crossings.

In general: A railroad company cannot be excused for failure to comply with the provisions of this section on the ground that compliance would amount to an interference with interstate commerce. Willfong v. Omaha & St. L. R. Co., 116-546.

The statutory requirement that the whistle be blown on approaching a highway crossing does not apply to the street crossings within the city limits in the absence of some ordinance or resolution on the part of the city; but the requirement that the bell shall be rung is applicable to street crossings, and if they are less than sixty rods apart, the bell should be rung continuously from the time the duty begins until all such crossings are passed. Golivaux v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 125-652.

Where there is no ordinance requiring the blowing of the whistle within city or town limits it may be omitted. Pratt v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 107-287.

The signals required of the railroad company on approaching a highway crossing are not only intended for the benefit of those who are on or about to cross the track, but also for the benefit of those who may be near the track in such position as to be placed in peril. Mitchell v. Union Terminal R. Co., 122-257.

Negligence: The requirements of state statutes and city ordinances are not the sole standards for determining whether due care has been observed by the railroad company to guard against accidents at a crossing. Kowalski v. Chicago, G. W. R. Co., 84 Fed. 586.

Failure to give signals as required by law will be presumed, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, to have been the proximate cause of injury at a highway crossing. Kuehl v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 126-638.

Even though there is no duty to keep a flagman at a crossing, the fact of the failure to do so may be taken into consideration on the question of alleged negligence in running the train at a high and dangerous rate of speed at such crossings. Golivaux v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 123-652.

The railroad company does not necessarily discharge its whole legal duty with reference to the safety of persons about to cross a track at a public crossing, or as to the safety of the property under their control, by sounding the whistle and ringing the bell. If by reason of a curve in the track, high banks, or other obstructions, there is peculiar danger to such persons or their property, the common law obligation to exercise care may require the taking of further precautions. Kinyon v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 118-349.

The mere fact of great speed will not in itself constitute negligence, but if, by reason of natural or artificial obstructions, or a curve in the track, the crossing is of peculiar or extraordinary danger, the operation of the railway must be conducted with reference to that fact. Ibid.

Contributory negligence: The mere fact that the person approaching the crossing may have heard the train at the distance from the crossing at which the signal should have been given, will not of itself justify the court in saying as a matter of law that there was no negligence on the part of the company, or that there was contributory negligence on plaintiff's part in connection with the accident happening at such crossing. Ibid.

One about to cross a railroad track at a highway crossing has the right to place some degree of reliance upon the presumption that the trainmen will do their duty and sound the usual signal of warning in approaching the crossing. The question of contributory negligence in such cases is for the jury. Mitchell v. Union Terminal R. Co., 122-237.

It will not necessarily constitute contributory negligence that a person at a highway crossing seeing danger of a collision with his team imminent, attempts to control the team as to prevent injury. Ibid.

It is usually a question for the jury whether one whose animals are injured at a highway crossing by a train was guilty of contributory negligence with reference thereto. Kuehl v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 126-638.

Before there can be a recovery on account of negligence of the railway company in failing to give statutory signals, or for running at an exceedingly high rate of speed at a highway crossing, it must be shown that the person suffering injury from such negligence did not contribute to the injury by negligence on his own part, and he cannot in all cases rely upon the railway company to give the signals required by statute. A person possessing the ordinary powers of seeing and hearing cannot, without negligence on his part, knowingly approach a railway crossing and fail to discover an approaching train which he can readily see or hear within sufficient length of time to enable him, with reasonable effort, to avoid danger. Crawford v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 109-233.

Injuries to stock: The statutory signals are intended for the protection, as far as possible, of animals as well as men, and a failure to give such signals when approaching a crossing makes the company absolutely liable for injuries to stock on the crossing, provided it appears that if such signals had been given they would have prevented the animals going on the track or frightened them away from the approaching train. Hayeill v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 112-738; McGill v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 113-558.

It is for the jury to determine whether the signals were given as required, and if not, whether the failure to give them was the cause of the injury to the animals. Ibid.

Private crossings: The statute does not require the sounding of the engine whistle on approaching a private crossing. The term, "any road crossing," as used, designates a highway crossing. Nichols v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 125-236.

There is no common law duty to give signals on approaching private crossings. The omission to give such signal might constitute negligence as by reason of peculiar or extraordinary circumstances where ordinary prudence would require an alarm or signal to be given by an approaching train. Ibid.

SEC. 2073. Stopping at railway crossings.

This section is as to the forfeiture provided penal in character. The offense denounced is the omission of the engineer to stop the train as required, and the liability of the company is for the commission of the offense on the part of the engineer. There is no liability on the part of the company unless the engineer has been at fault, and the company may have the advantage of any excuse that would be available to the engineer. The burden of proof is not sustained by evidence of the fact alone that the train was not stopped at the crossing. State v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 122-22.

This section is not unconstitutional as imposing a penalty on a railway company for an offense of its employe. The requirement is only that the company secure obedience by its employes to the requirements of the statute. Ibid.

Where the company whose track is crossed by the track of another company does not demand the installation of an interlocking system as authorized by Code § 2063, it must comply with statutory requirement for the stopping of its trains approaching such crossings. If it does insist on the installation of an interlocking system by the other company, it must thereafter bear its share of the expense of maintaining such interlocking system. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Gowrie & N. W. R. Co., 123-345.

Evidence: Testimony of witnesses that they did not hear the crossing whistles sounded does not even create a conflict with positive evidence that the signals were given at the whistling posts. Payne v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 108-188.

If the person injured at the crossing would not have heard the signals if given, then the omission to give them will not render the company liable. Ibid.

Positive evidence that the signal at a railroad crossing is not given is not to be discredited because in conflict with evidence of other witnesses that such signals were given. Kinyon v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 118-349.

Testimony of witnesses in a situation to hear and likely to have heard a crossing signal, if one had been given, that they did not hear any such signal, is not to be ignored and treated as of no weight because opposed to the testimony of witnesses who say that the signal was actually given, or that they heard such signal. The testimony of the witnesses who were in a situation to hear and likely to hear a signal, if given, is not to be treated as merely negative evidence. Selensky v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 120-113.

Evidence of persons in a situation to hear and whose attention was not diverted that they did not hear a signal which other witnesses testified to having heard, is not merely negative evidence. Mackellar v. Omaha & St. L. R. Co., 111-547.

As between witnesses who are in an equally advantageous position as to hearing sounds and signals, those who testify that they did not hear are entitled to the same credit as those who testify that they did hear, and the former should not be discredited by an instruction that, as compared with other witnesses, their testimony is negative. Stanley v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 119-526.
SEC. 2074. Contract or rule limiting liability.

A contract between an express company and its servant, exempting the express company from liability for injuries to the servant, and authorizing it to contract for like exemption from liability with a railroad company, and the corresponding contract between the express company and the railroad company, exempting the latter from liability for injuries to servants of the express company, are invalid. O'Brien v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 116 Fed. 502.

As a railroad company may absolutely refuse to check as baggage of a passenger which that is merchandise, it may, notwithstanding the provisions of this section, make any regulations in regard to the waiver of such condition which it sees fit to adopt. Weber Co. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co., 113-188.

A railroad company contracting for the carriage of goods beyond the end of its line may, in the contract with reference to such carriage, limit its liability, notwithstanding the provisions of this section. Hartley v. St. Louis, K. & N. W. R. Co., 115-612.

It may be stipulated that stock is to be in charge of the shipper or his agent while in transit, free transportation being furnished to such person, and that the shipper assumes the duty of loading and unloading, attending to, feeding and watering such stock at his own expense and risk. In case damage results from lack of care in these respects on the part of the shipper or his agent the company will not be liable unless the loss is due to the failure of the company to discharge duties not assumed and undertaken by the shipper. Grieve v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 104-659.

SEC. 2074-a. Repeal—action against joint carriers. That chapter seventy-four (74) of the laws of the thirtieth general assembly be, and the same is hereby, repealed and there is hereby enacted as a substitute therefor the following:

That in all cases where a railway company bills property to a point beyond the terminus of its own railway and provides by contract that it shall not be liable for the destruction of, or damage to, such property beyond the terminus of its own railway and the said property is damaged or destroyed between the place of shipment and place of destination to which it was billed, the initial carrier and the connecting carrier or carriers if more than one, over whose line, or lines, of railway the property shall have been carried between the place of shipment and said place of destination, may be joined as defendants in one action, brought in any county from or into which shipment shall be made, or suit may be brought in any county through which shipment shall be made and service of original notice may be made on any of said carriers in any county of the state, where the carrier to be served has a station agent, by serving such notice on such station agent. [31 G. A., ch. 89, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 101.]
SEC. 2074-b. Liability of joint carriers. On proof being made by the owner of the property shipped, that the same has been destroyed or damaged in transit between the said place of shipment and the place of destination, the liability of a common carrier shall attach to all the defendants and judgment shall be entered accordingly against them all unless one or more of the defendants shall prove that it was not, or they were not, liable, in which case judgment shall go only against the remaining defendant or defendants. [31 G. A., ch. 89, § 2.]

SEC. 2075. Lien of judgment.

A pending right of action against a railroad, which is not reduced to judgment before the sale of the property under mortgage foreclosure, is not preserved by this section. Winter v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 111-342.

SEC. 2076. Repeal—classification of railroads. That section two thousand seventy-six (2076) of the code is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“All railroads of the state shall be classified in accordance with the gross amount of their several annual earnings within the state, per mile, for the preceding year, as follows: Class ‘A’ shall include those whose gross annual earnings per mile shall be four thousand dollars or more; class ‘B’ shall include those whose gross annual earnings per mile shall be three thousand dollars or any sum in excess thereof less than four thousand dollars; class ‘C’ shall include those whose gross annual earnings per mile shall be less than three thousand dollars. In determining the classification of any railroad, the entire railroad property owned or operated by any company shall be considered as a single railroad, and the aggregate gross earnings of the entire railroad within the state shall be divided by the entire mileage owned or operated within the state, to ascertain the gross earnings per mile of such railroad.” [32 G. A., ch. 102, § 1.]

SEC. 2077. Repeal—passenger rates. That section two thousand seventy-seven (2077) of the code is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“All railroad corporations according to their classifications as herein prescribed shall be limited to compensation per mile for the transportation of any person with ordinary baggage not exceeding one hundred and fifty pounds in weight as follows: Class ‘A,’ two cents; class ‘B,’ two and one-half cents; class ‘C,’ three cents; and for children twelve years of age or under one-half the rate above prescribed, provided, however, that every railroad corporation shall be entitled to charge a fare of not to exceed ten (10) cents for the transportation of each passenger with ordinary baggage for any distance not exceeding five miles. A charge of ten cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid upon the cars, if a ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train, except in those cases where a minimum of ten (10) cents is charged for a distance of less than five miles as above provided.” [32 G. A., ch. 102, § 2.]

Plaintiff suing for wrongful ejection from a train for the refusal to pay ten cents additional on account of not having a ticket has the burden of alleging facts to show that he could not have procured a ticket within a reasonable time before the departure of the train upon which he took passage. Bowsher v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 113-16.

SEC. 2077-a. Bulletins posted. It shall be the duty of all railway companies on all lines of railway operated by them, to keep posted in the waiting room of each passenger station, a bulletin plainly showing the time of arrival and departure at such station of all trains carrying passengers. [29 G. A., ch. 87, § 1.]

SEC. 2078. Repeal—classification of railways. The law as it appears in code section two thousand and seventy-eight (2078) is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The executive council shall at its regular meeting on the second Monday in July in each year classify the different railways, as provided by section two thousand and seventy-six (2076) of the code, from information as to gross earnings obtained from the annual reports of railways made to the executive council for assessment and taxation, if it shall be satisfied of the correctness of same, or from information obtained by said executive council from any other source, and, when there shall be any change in classification, shall issue a certificate to any corporation or corporations affected by such change, certifying the class to which they are respectively assigned; any change of rates by any corporation pursuant to any change of classification shall take effect and be in force from and after the date of such certificate." [30 G. A., ch. 75.]

SEC. 2079. Automatic couplers and brakes—on new or repaired cars.

It is not negligence per se not to equip engines and tenders with the latest coupling device, in the absence of any statutory provision as to automatic couplers on engines and tenders. Bryce v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 119-274.

The test to be applied in determining the sufficiency of the automatic coupler as complying with the statutory requirement is whether the person operating the coupler is required to go between the ends of the cars; and this test applies to the act of coupling as well as to that of uncoupling. The use of a coupler not complying with these conditions constitutes actionable negligence. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Voelker, 129 Fed. 522.

The statutory provision being for the protection of the lives and limbs of persons, is to be so construed as to prevent the mischief, and advance the remedy so far as the words fairly permit. Ibid.

SEC. 2080. Automatic couplers. After January 1st, 1898, no corporation, company or person, operating a railroad, or any transportation company using or leasing cars, shall have upon any railroad in this state any car that is not equipped with such safety automatic coupler: Provided that the board of railroad commissioners shall have power upon a showing which it shall deem reasonable, to extend the time within which any such corporations shall be required to comply with the provisions of this section; but no such extension shall be made beyond January 1st, 1900. [23 G. A., ch. 18, § 2.] [27 G. A., ch. 50, § 1.]

SEC. 2083-a. Exempt from liability. That no corporation, company or person shall be liable to any prosecution in any court of this state for any fines or penalties incurred under the provisions of section two thousand and eighty-three (2083) of the code in so far as the same relates to the operation of cars not equipped with safety automatic couplers only, as provided by section twenty hundred and eighty (2080) of the code, from the first day of January, 1898, up to and including the time of taking effect of this act; and every such corporation, company, or person shall be, and is hereby, released from all criminal prosecution, penalties, fines, and forfeitures for failure to have cars equipped with such safety automatic couplers during such period. [27 G. A., ch. 51, § 1.]

SEC. 2083-b. Pending litigation. This act shall in no manner affect pending litigation. [27 G. A., ch. 51, § 2.]

TAXES IN AID OF RAILROADS.

SEC. 2084. May be voted. Taxes not exceeding five per cent. on the assessed value of any township, town or city may be voted to aid any railway company, trolley or electric railway which is or may become incorporated under the laws of the state, to aid in the construction of a projected railroad or any trolley or electric railway within the state, as hereinafter provided. [25 G. A., ch. 27; 24 G. A., ch. 18; 20 G. A., ch. 159, § 2.] [29 G. A., ch. 85, § 1.]

SEC. 2085. Petition—notice—submission—certificate—levy—collection. When a petition is presented to the trustees of any township or the council of any town or city, signed by a majority of the resident freehold taxpayers of such township, town or city, asking that the question of aiding any railroad company incorporated under the laws of the state in the construction of a projected railroad within it be submitted to the voters thereof, it shall be the duty of the trustees or council, as the case may be, immediately to give notice of a special election, by publication in some newspaper printed in said township, town or city, if any there be, and, if not, then in some newspaper published in the county, and also by posting copies of said notice in five public places in such township, town or city at least ten days before such election, which shall state the time and place of holding the same, the name of the company, and the line of the road proposed to be aided, the rate per cent. of the tax to be levied, whether one-half thereof shall be collected the first year and one-half the following year, or whether the whole is to be collected in one year, the amount of work required to be done and when and where the same shall be done, to what point said railroad shall be fully completed, and any other conditions which shall be performed before such tax or any part thereof shall become due; and in no case shall such tax become due until such railroad is fully completed according to the conditions in said notice. The trustees or council, as the case may be, shall cause to be prepared the form of the proposition to be submitted. The proposition shall be printed and placed upon the ballots and the election shall be conducted in the same manner as provided with respect to like or similar propositions in the chapter on elections; and if a majority of the votes polled be for the adoption of the proposition, then the clerk of the township, city or town, or the clerk of election, shall forthwith certify to the county auditor the result thereof, the rate per cent. of tax voted, the year or years during which the same is to be collected, the name of the company to which voted, and the time, terms and conditions upon which the same, when collected, is to be paid under the conditions and stipulations in said notice, together with an exact copy of the notice under which the election was held, which the county auditor shall at once cause to be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds; the expense thereof, and of publishing the notice, and all the expenses of the election, shall be paid by the railway company to which it is proposed to vote the tax. When such certificate has been made and recorded, the board of supervisors of the county shall, at the time of levying the ordinary tax next following, levy such taxes as are voted under the provisions hereof, as shown by said certificate, and cause the same to be placed on the tax lists of the proper township, town or city, indicating in their order thereupon when and in what proportion the same are to be collected, and upon what conditions the same are to be paid to the railway company, a certified copy of which order shall accompany the tax lists. The taxes shall be collected at the same time or times specified in the order, and in the same manner, and subject to the same laws after they are collectible, as other taxes, or as may be stated in the petition and notices for the election, except as otherwise provided. [20 G. A., ch. 159, § 3.] [29 G. A., ch. 85, § 2.]

SEC. 2086. Notice—conditions—limit of tax. The stipulations and conditions in the notices prescribed in this chapter must conform to those set forth in the petition asking for the election; and the aggregate amount of tax voted in any city, town or township shall not exceed five per cent. of the assessed value of the property therein, respectively. The right to vote taxes within the limits herein provided shall exist after the expiration of ten (10) years from the exercise to the limit of the right herein granted.

Nothing herein shall authorize a tax of five per centum within such period named to steam railroads and also five per centum within such period to interurban railways. [25 G. A., ch. 27; 24 G. A., ch. 18; 20 G. A., ch. 159, § 4.] [29 G. A., ch. 86, § 1.]

SEC. 2087. Money paid out—certificates. The moneys collected under the provisions of this chapter shall be paid out by the county treasurer to the treasurer of the railway company for whom the same was voted, upon the orders of the president or managing director thereof, at any time after the trustees of such township or council of such town or city voting the same, or a majority thereof, shall have certified to the county treasurer that the conditions required of the railway company and set forth in the notice for the special election have been complied with, which certificate said township trustees or council of such town or city shall make when conditions have been sufficiently complied with to entitle the railway company thereto, or when the conditions are fully complied with on the part of the railway company; but if the costs and expenses of holding the election and of recording the certificates have not been paid, then the treasurer shall first deduct from the moneys collected the amount thereof, and pay same to the parties entitled thereto. [20 G. A., ch. 159, § 5.]

SEC. 2088. Certificates of taxes exchangeable for stock or bonds. The county treasurer when required shall, in addition to a tax receipt, issue to each taxpayer, on the payment of any taxes voted under the provisions of this chapter, a certificate showing the amount of tax paid, the name of the railway company entitled thereto, and when the same was paid; and he may charge twenty-five cents for each certificate issued. Said certificates shall be assignable, and, when presented by any person holding the legal title thereto to the president, managing director, treasurer or secretary of the railroad company receiving the taxes paid, as shown by such certificates, in sums of one hundred dollars or more of taxes, it shall issue or cause to be issued to said person the amount of stock of the company desiring the benefit from said taxes, to the amount of said certificate or certificates, and if the taxes paid as shown by said certificate or certificates amount in the aggregate to more or less than any certain number of shares of stock, then the holder thereof shall be entitled to receive the full number of shares of stock covered by said certificates, and may make up in money the balance of any share when the certificates held by him are not equal to one full share of such stock, which stock for such purpose shall be estimated at par. When it shall be proposed in the petition and notice calling an election to issue first mortgage bonds not exceeding the sum of eight thousand dollars per mile for a railroad of three feet gauge, and not exceeding the sum of eighteen thousand and five hundred dollars per mile for the ordinary four feet eight and one-half inch gauge in lieu of stock, it shall be lawful to issue bonds of the denomination of one hundred dollars in the same manner as is provided for the issue of stock, and in such case the petition and notice shall state the amount of bonds per mile to be issued, the rate of interest, and the time of payment of the interest and principal thereof. [23 G. A., ch. 19, § 1; 20 G. A., ch. 159, § 6.]

Where there is no prohibition of the issuance of bonds the stockholder cannot complain that the bonds of the company have been issued prior to the delivery to him of the stock to which he has become entitled. Whitney v. Chicago, A. & N. R. Co., 133-508.

SEC. 2089. Liability of directors. The board of directors of any railway company receiving taxes voted in aid thereof under the provisions of this chapter or any member thereof, who shall vote to bond, mortgage or in any manner incumber said road to an amount exceeding the sum of eight thousand dollars per mile for a railroad of three feet gauge, or exceeding the sum of eighteen thousand five hundred dollars per mile for the ordinary four feet eight and one-half inch gauge, not including in either case any debt for ordinary operating expenses, shall be liable to the stockholders or either of them for double the amount, estimated at its par value, of the stock by him held, if the same should be rendered of less value or lost thereby. [23 G. A., ch. 19, § 2; 20 G. A., ch. 159, § 7.]

SEC. 2090. Forfeiture of tax. Should the taxes voted in aid of any railroad under the provisions of this chapter remain in the county treasury for more than one year after the same have been collected, the right to them by the railroad company shall be forfeited, and the persons who paid the same entitled to receive back from the county treasurer their pro rata shares thereof remaining, and in all cases where any taxes have been voted or levied upon the real or personal property in any township, town or city to aid in the construction of any railroad, and the road in aid of which they were voted or levied has not been built, completed or operated into or through such township, town or city, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of the county where said taxes have been voted and levied and still remain on the tax books to give the railroad company in aid of which the tax was voted at least thirty days' notice in writing, to be served like original notices, of their intention to cancel such taxes, and thereupon to cause the same to be cancelled and stricken from the tax books of the county, which cancellation shall remove all liens created by the levy thereof. In all cases where the railroad company to whom taxes have been voted neglects or refuses to receive such taxes, or to require or permit the same to be collected and certificates therefor to be issued, for the period of one year after they become due and collectible, and in all cases where taxes have been voted in aid of any railroad, and the conditions upon which the same were voted have not in fact been complied with, and the time in which said conditions were to be fulfilled has expired, the same shall be forfeited, and the county officers of the county in which they have been levied and entered upon the tax books shall enter cancellation thereof upon the proper records; and in all cases where any taxes to aid in the construction of any railroad may be voted upon the inducement or promise offered on the part of said railroad company, or any duly authorized agent thereof, for any rebates or exemptions from said tax or any part thereof, or any agreed price to be paid for the stock that may be issued in lieu of said tax, or a division of said tax, or any portion or percentage thereof, with any of the voters or taxpayers as an inducement to procure said tax to be voted, all taxes so procured to be voted shall be void. [20 G. A., ch. 159, § 8.]
SEC. 2091. Taxes paid in labor or supplies. Nothing contained in this chapter shall preclude any taxpayer who may contract with a railroad company for which taxes may be voted to pay his tax, or any part thereof, in labor upon the line of said railroad, or in material for its construction, or supplies furnished or money paid for the construction thereof, in pursuance of the terms and conditions stipulated in the notices of election, in lieu of a payment to the county treasurer. Upon presenting to the county treasurer a receipt from such railroad company or its duly authorized agent, specifying the amount of such payment, the same shall be credited by the treasurer on his tax, with the same effect as though paid to him in money, and when such receipts have been presented and credited they shall have the same validity in his settlement with the board of supervisors as the orders from the railroad company provided for in this chapter. Laborers shall have a lien upon any tax voted in aid of a railroad company for the amount due them for labor performed in the construction of said railroad. [Same, § 9.]

The lien here provided for in favor of laborers is not a mechanic’s lien, nor is it a common law lien. Neither possession nor filing of a statement or claim is essen-

SEC. 2091-a. What statutes apply. All of the provisions of sections two thousand and eighty-four, two thousand and eighty-five, two thousand and eighty-six, two thousand and eighty-seven, two thousand and eighty-eight, two thousand and eighty-nine, two thousand and ninety, and two thousand and ninety-one of the code are hereby made applicable to trolley or electric railways. And wherever the word “railroad” appears in any of said sections the same shall be held to include trolley or electric railroad; and wherever the words “railroad company” or “railway company” appear in said sections the same shall be held to include trolley railway company, and electric railway company. Provided, that no stock shall be issued by any such company except upon payment therefor of the full par value thereof in cash or its equivalent. [29 G. A., ch. 85, § 2.]

SEC. 2093. Notice. A public notice to all whom it may concern of the time of filing such petition, the object thereof, and the term of court at which the application will be made for authority to make the change, and requiring all persons desiring the repayment of money or return of property, as in this chapter provided, to appear and present their claims therefor, must be published in a newspaper printed in each county in which the change is to be made, once each week, for a period of ten successive weeks before the term of court at which the application is to be heard. The court may order any additional notice or publication that it may think proper. [16 G. A., ch. 118, § 2.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 7.]

SEC. 2100. Powers.

The corporation provided for in this section is not a railroad company. But a railroad company may, irrespective of this section, construct a union depot, and in so doing it does not lose any of the powers possessed by it under the general law. Morgan v. Des Moines U. R. Co., 113-561.

A railroad company may purchase and own such right of way as it sees fit, and use it in connection with the operation of a union depot without securing the consent of the railroad commission. Ibid.

SEC. 2110-a. Hours of service limited—exceptions. It shall be unlawful for any railway company within the state of Iowa, or any of its officers or agents to require or permit any employe engaged in or connected with the movement of any rolling stock, engine or train, to remain on duty more than sixteen (16) consecutive hours, or to require or permit any such employe who has been on duty sixteen (16) consecutive hours to perform any further service without having at least ten hours for rest, or to require or permit any such employe to be on duty at any time to exceed sixteen (16) hours in any consecutive twenty-four (24) hours; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to work performed in the protection of life or property in cases of accident, wreck, or other unavoidable casualty, or prevent train crews from taking a passenger train, or freight train loaded exclusively with live stock or perishable freight, to the next nearest division point upon such railroad; and provided further that it shall not apply to that time necessary for the trainmen to reach a resting place when an accident, wreck, washout, snow blockade or other unavoidable cause has delayed their train; and provided further that this section shall not apply to employes of sleeping car companies. [32 G. A., ch. 103, § 1.]

SEC. 2110-b. Penalty—investigation—prosecutions. Any superintendent, train master, train dispatcher, yard master or other official of any railroad in the state of Iowa, violating any of the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than five hundred dollars ($500) for each offense. It shall be the duty of the board of railroad commissioners to receive written statements of violations of this act and when so requested to hold the same without disclosure of the name of the person making such statement, and to investigate each and every complaint filed alleging such violation. The board in making such investigation shall have the power to administer oaths, interrogate witnesses, take testimony, and require the production of books and papers, and must file a report of such investigation in writing with a full statement of its finding to the governor. In all cases of violation of this act, the board of railroad commissioners, through the attorney general, must at once begin the prosecution of all parties against whom evidence of violation is found; but this act shall not be construed to prevent any other person from beginning prosecution for violation hereof.
[32 G. A., ch. 103, § 2.]

SEC. 2110-c. Street railways to furnish, terminal facilities—com-pen.sation. That all persons, firms or corporations now or hereafter owning or operating electric street railways in any city (including cities or-organized under special charter) or town of this state, are hereby authorized and required to permit the use for interurban business only but not for local street railway business, of such of their terminals, tracks, poles and wires as are located in the streets, alleys and public places of said cities and towns, and such portions of their tracks, poles and wires as may cross property owned by said street railway companies in such cities and towns, by the passenger and combination baggage cars of interurban railway companies, for the transportation of passengers, mail, express and baggage; and said street railways shall furnish to said interurban railways, electric power for the operation of their cars and the transaction of their said business in said cities and towns, as to said tracks so furnished; but said street railways shall not be required to furnish electric power except during such hours as their street railway cars may be in operation; nor shall they be required to furnish such power where they have not power houses and machinery sufficient therefor; and they shall have the prefereence in the use of their own tracks and power so that their own cars shall not be delayed in transit; nor shall they be required to furnish car houses or car barns or access thereto. Said interurban railways shall pay a reasonable compensation for the privileges and power that may be furnished them as above mentioned under this act. If an agreement for the use of the facilities so furnished and the compensation for the same cannot be made between the interested parties the question as to the amount of such compensation and the conditions under which said facilities shall be furnished, used and operated, shall be heard and determined by the board of railroad commissioners of the state of Iowa, on petition to the said board by either party to the controversy, ten days' notice in writing of such petition being served upon the opposite party; and any order entered by said board of railroad commissioners, or court upon appeal, shall be subject to modification or review from time to time, upon notice being given as herein provided. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 1.]

SEC. 2110-d. Appeal to district court—commissioner—report—hearing. Each party to the proceeding shall have the right to appeal to the district court of the county where the street railway in question is located from any order made by the board of railroad commissioners under this act, which appeal shall be taken within twenty days from the date of the order appealed from, and shall be perfected by serving a notice of appeal upon the other parties to such proceeding and filing the same with the secretary of the board of railroad commissioners, and by filing within twenty days from the date of such order, a petition in the said district court, stating the facts and asking the court to determine the matter in controversy. The court, or a judge thereof, if the petition is filed in vacation, shall thereupon appoint a commissioner to examine into the necessity of such proceeding, and report the facts and his recommendation in such time as the court or judge may direct, and as soon as possible thereafter the court or judge shall appoint a time and place for the hearing of such petition. The proceedings shall be in equity and subject to all the rules of equity practice, except that the court shall require the issues to be made up at the first term after the petition is filed and give the proceeding precedence over other civil business and try the same thereat if possible. The action shall be triable de novo upon said appeal, except that the question of compensation for the tracks, poles, wires, terminals and power to be furnished shall first be tried to a jury in the same manner and with the same effect as jury trials in ordinary proceedings, and the jury shall assess, separately, compensation for power to be furnished, on such basis as the court shall direct. No such appeal shall suspend the order appealed from if the interurban railway company on whose behalf said order is made shall file such bond for the payment of damages and costs as the district court to which such appeal is taken, or a judge thereof, may order and require. In all cases payment of the compensation awarded shall be made or secured to be made as the board of railroad commissioners or court may order and require before the interurban company desiring the use of the same shall be entitled thereto. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 2.]

SEC. 2110-e. Power furnished outside of city or town. Street railroad companies desiring so to do shall be authorized to furnish to interurban railway companies, power for the operation of the cars of interurban railway companies outside of cities and towns, but no street railroad company shall be required to furnish such power. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 3.]

SEC. 2110-f. Applicable to interurban railways operating street railways. This shall not apply to those portions of the terminals, tracks, poles and wires of interurban railway companies which are located in the streets, alleys and public places of cities and towns and which are used by such companies for the transaction of a local street railway business; and where an interurban railway company has heretofore built tracks in a city or town used for street railway purposes it may acquire the use of such tracks, poles and wires as may be necessary to complete a terminal loop for the cars operated on such tracks and for the use of its interurban cars only, under the provisions of this act. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 4.]

SEC. 2110-g. Repeal acts in conflict. All acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 5.]

SEC. 2110-h. Saving clause. The provisions of this act shall not affect any pending litigation. [32 G. A., ch. 104, § 6.]

SEC. 2110-i. Destruction of weeds—written notice. It shall be the duty of every corporation owning or operating a railroad in this state on written notice from the owner, lessee or occupant of any land abutting upon its right of way to cut and burn, or otherwise destroy once each year during the month of July, all cockle burrs, burdock weeds, quack grass and thistles on its right of way adjacent to said land. [32 G. A., ch. 105, § 1.]

SEC. 2110-j. Penalty. Any failure to comply with the provisions of this act shall be deemed as a misdemeanor and shall be punished accord­ torneys in the respective counties to enforce the provisions of this act.

CHAPTER 6.

OF THE BOARD OF RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

SECTION 2113. Repeal—powers and duties. That section twenty-one hundred thirteen (2113) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"It shall from time to time carefully examine into and inspect the condition of each railroad, its equipment, and the manner of its conduct and management with regard to the public safety and convenience in the state; make semi-annual examination of its bridges, and report the condition thereof to the company to which they belong; and if found by it unsafe it shall immediately notify the railroad company whose duty it is to put the same in repair, which shall be done by it within ten days after receiving such notice. If any corporation fails to perform this duty the board may forbid and prevent it from running trains over the same while unsafe.
And should any railroad or transportation company in this state fail to provide proper shelter for its patrons at stations where two or more tracks are operated, or fail, or refuse to connect by proper switches or tracks with the tracks or lines of other railroad or transportation companies the board may require such railroad or transportation company to provide the same in such manner and upon such conditions as it may determine. When, in the judgment of the board, any railway corporation fails in any respect to comply with the terms of its charter or articles of incorporation or the laws of the state; or when in its judgment any repairs are necessary upon its road; or any addition to its rolling stock, or addition to or change in its stations or station houses, or change in its rates of fare for transporting freight or passengers, or change in the mode of operating its road or conducting its business, is reasonable and expedient in order to promote the security, convenience, and accommodation of the public, the board shall serve a notice upon such corporation, in the manner provided for the service of an original notice in a civil action, which notice shall be signed by its secretary, of the improvements and changes which it finds to be proper; and a report of such proceedings shall be included in its annual report to the governor as provided in the next section; but nothing in this section shall be so construed as relieving any railroad company from its present responsibility or liability for damage to person or property." [32 G. A., ch. 106.]

SEC. 2116. Duty of railroad to transport. Every railway corporation shall, when within its power to do so, and upon reasonable notice, furnish suitable cars to any and all persons who may apply therefor, for the transportation of any and all kinds of freight, and receive and transport such freight with all reasonable dispatch, and provide and keep suitable facilities for the receiving and handling thereof at any depot on the line of its road; and shall also receive and transport in like manner the empty or loaded cars furnished by any connecting road, to be delivered at any station or stations on the line of its road, to be loaded or discharged or reloaded and returned to the road so connecting; and for compensation it shall not demand or receive any greater sum than is accepted by it from any other connecting railroad for a similar service. In any suit or action in court brought against a railroad corporation for the purpose of enforcing rights arising under the provisions of this section, the burden of proving that the provisions of this section have been complied with by such railroad corporation, shall be upon such railroad corporation. [17 G. A., ch. 77, § 10.] [32 G. A., ch. 107.]

SEC. 2118. Cumulative.
The powers given the railroad commissioners to enforce performance by railroads of the duties imposed upon them by the statute as to private crossings and the like matters, do not exclude other remedies. Swinney v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 123-219.

SEC. 2119. Orders of commissioners enforced.
The authority given to the railroad commissioners to enforce the duties imposed by law on railroad companies does not exclude the remedy by mandamus to compel a railroad company to construct a private crossing where the lands of one owner are separated by the railroad right of way and track. Swinney v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 123-219.

SEC. 2120-a. Investigation of interstate freight rates. It is hereby made the duty of the board of railroad commissioners to exercise constant diligence in informing themselves of the rates, charges, rules, and practices of common carriers engaged in the transportation of freight from points in this state to points beyond its limits, and from points in other statesto points in this state, also in territory wholly outside this state; and whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the board of railroad commissioners either from their own investigation or by complaint made to them in any manner whatsoever that the rates charged by any common carrier on interstate business are unjust or unreasonable, or that such rates, rules or practices discriminate unjustly against the citizens, industries or interests of this state, or place any of the citizens, industries or interests of this state at an unreasonable disadvantage as compared with those of other states, or are levied or laid in violation of the act to regulate commerce, or in conflict with the rulings, orders or regulations of the interstate commerce commission, it shall be the duty of the board of railroad commissioners to immediately call the attention of the officials of railroads operating in this state to the fact and to urge upon them the propriety of changing such rate or rates, rules or practices. [32 G. A., ch. 108, § 1.]
SEC. 2120-b. Appeal to interstate commerce commission—prosecutions. Whenever such rates, rules or practices are not changed or adjusted so as to remove or remedy such discrimination within a reasonable time, it shall be the duty of the board of railroad commissioners, whenever it can legally be done, to present the facts involved in such discrimination to the interstate commerce commission and appeal to it for relief and thereafter, if deemed necessary, by said board of railroad commissioners, they shall prosecute any charge or charges growing out of any such discrimination at the expense of the state, before said interstate commerce commission. [32 G. A., ch. 108, § 2.]

SEC. 2120-c. Attorney general to assist. In all work devolving upon the railroad commission they shall receive, upon application, the services of the attorney general of this state, and he shall also represent them, whenever called upon to do so, before the interstate commerce commission. [32 G. A., ch. 108, § 3.]

SEC. 2120-d. Railroad commissioners to have supervision. The railroad commissioners of this state shall have general supervision over any and all wires for transmitting electric current or any other wire whatsoever crossing under or over any track of a railroad in this state. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 1.]

SEC. 2120-e. Regulations. Within thirty (30) days from the taking effect of this act said railroad commissioners shall make regulations prescribing the manner in which such wires shall cross such railroad tracks in this state. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 2.]

SEC. 2120-f. Wires must be strung in manner prescribed. It shall hereafter be unlawful for any corporation or person to place or string any such wire for transmitting electric current or any wire whatsoever across any track of a railroad in this state except in such manner as may be prescribed by the railroad commissioners as provided by this act. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 3.]

SEC. 2120-g. Examination of wires already strung. The board of railroad commissioners shall, as soon as possible after the taking effect of this act, either by personal examination or otherwise, obtain information where the tracks or railroads are crossed by wires strung over said tracks, contrary to or not in compliance with the rules prescribed by the railroad commissioners as contemplated by this act, and shall order such change or changes to be made by the persons or corporations owning or operating such wires as it may deem necessary to make the same comply with said rules and within such reasonable time as it may prescribe. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 4.]

SEC. 2120-h. Minimum height. In case such wires cross over said track, in no case shall said board of railroad commissioners prescribe a less height than twenty-two (22) feet above the top of the rails of any railroad track for any wire. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 5.]

SEC. 2120-i. Wires across railroad right of way at highways. The board of railroad commissioners are hereby authorized to provide for and regulate the crossing of wires over and across railroad rights of way at highways and other places within the state. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 6.]

SEC. 2120-j. Penalty—enforcement. Any person or corporation who string or maintain any wire across any railroad track in this state at a different height or in a different manner from that prescribed by the said board of railroad commissioners shall forfeit and pay to the state of Iowa the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) for each separate period of ten days during which such wire is so maintained, said forfeiture to be recoverred in a civil action brought in any court of competent jurisdiction in the name of the state of Iowa, by the attorney-general, or by the county attorney of the county in which such wire is situated, at the request of the said board of railroad commissioners, and it is hereby made the duty of the said attorney general and county attorney to bring such action forthwith upon being so requested. [32 G. A., ch. 109, § 7.]

SEC. 2120-k. Railroad commissioners to investigate accidents—report. That upon the occurrence of any serious accident upon any railroad within this state, which shall result in personal injury, or loss of life, the corporation operating the road upon which the accident occurred shall give immediate notice thereof to the board of railroad commissioners whose duty it shall be, if they deem it necessary, to investigate the same, and promptly report to the governor the extent of the personal injuries, or loss of life, and whether the same was the result of mismanagement or neglect of the corporation on whose line the injury or loss of life occurred. Provided, that such report shall not be evidence or referred to in any case in any court. [32 G. A., ch. 110.]

SEC. 2121. Salaries. The board shall keep an office in the capitol at the seat of government, and each commissioner shall receive a salary of twenty-two hundred dollars a year. The secretary of the board shall receive a salary of eighteen hundred dollars a year. [17 G. A., ch. 77, § 6.]

|CHAPTER 7. OF THE REGULATION OF CARRIERS BY RAILWAY. |

SECTION 2124. Unjust discrimination.

The provision of 22 G. A., chap. 28, in relation to unjust discriminations and the punishment therefor, held applicable to cases wherein railway companies voluntarily fixed joint rates, irrespective of provisions of 23 G. A., chap. 17 (Code §§ 2152-2157), relating to the fixing of schedules of joint rates by the railroad commissioners. Blair v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 109-369.

SEC. 2128-a. Common carriers to redeem tickets. It shall be the duty of every railroad company, corporation, person or persons acting as common carriers of passengers in the state of Iowa, to provide for the redemption, at the place of purchase and at the general passenger agent's office of said carrier of the whole or any integral part of any passenger ticket or tickets that such carrier may have sold, as the purchaser or owner has not used for passage or received transportation for which such ticket should have been surrendered; and said carrier shall there redeem the same at a rate which shall equal the difference between the price paid for the whole ticket and the cost of a ticket between the points for which said ticket has been actually used, and no carrier shall limit the time in which redemption shall be made to less than ten days from date of sale at the place of purchase and six months from date of sale at general passenger agent's office. [28 G. A., ch. 71, § 1.]

The requirement of the statute is that provision shall be made for the redemption of tickets which means that the person or persons in charge of the ticket window and authorized to sell tickets shall be prepared to make redemption when called upon to do so. The statute is not satisfied by the mere appointment of one person who may or may not have his station at the window where the ticket business is transacted, as the one through whom redemption must be made. Rohrig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 139-380.

Unless the company adopts some regulation limiting the time for redemption of tickets, provided for by 28 G. A., chap. 71, demand therefor may be made at any time within the period of the general

The company is afforded time in which to investigate, but must at its peril discharge the statutory obligation if found to exist, within the period fixed, and the holder of a ticket is not bound to apply a second time within ten days to have his ticket redeemed. Ibid.

Formal tender of the tickets is not essential, provided the agent has notice that the ticket holder presents them for redemption, and refuses at the time to accept them for that purpose. Ibid.

The remedy provided by the statute is for those purchasing tickets of passage in good faith and for actual use. One who purchases them for the purpose of subsequently presenting them for redemption and collecting the penalty in case the redemption is refused, is not entitled to relief. Ibid.

SEC. 2128-b. Notice posted. No railroad company, corporation, person or persons doing business in the state of Iowa, as common carrier of passengers, whose rate of fare is regulated by statute of this state, shall sell or issue to any person, at the maximum rate allowed by law, any ticket or tickets bearing any condition of limitation as to the time of use, or as to transferability, without first providing for the redemption of said ticket, as directed by the preceding section hereof, and also having notice of such provision and privilege of redemption conspicuously posted at each place where sales of tickets are made by such common carriers in this state. A failure to provide for the redemption of such ticket or to give notice as above provided shall make all conditions and limitations as to time of use or transferability of no force or effect. [28 G. A., ch. 71, § 2.]

SEC. 2128-c. Penalty. Any railroad company, corporation, person or persons, who as common carriers shall sell or issue tickets as set forth in the preceding sections, and shall refuse or neglect to redeem the same, as by said sections provided, within ten days of date of demand, shall forfeit and pay to the owner of such ticket the purchase price of said ticket, and the further sum of one hundred dollars. [28 G. A., ch. 71, § 3.]

SEC. 2128-d. Mileage books. Nothing in this act shall prohibit the sale of mileage books or tickets, at less than the maximum rates allowed by law, bearing reasonable conditions of limitation, as to the right of use for passage. [28 G. A., ch. 71, § 4.]

The penalty of treble damages authorized in case recovery is had for unlawful discrimination in rates should not be increased by allowing interest on the damages thus awarded. Blair v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 109-369.

While it is the duty of the carrier to provide proper facilities for the interchange of traffic between such carrier and a connecting carrier, or for the forwarding of goods over other lines, the carrier will not be liable in treble damages unless it appears that its failure was the result of undue preferences or unlawful combinations. The statutory provision is penal in character and is to be strictly construed. Clark v. American Express Co., 130-254.

When joint rates are established between all the points on two or more lines of road, if within the state, extortion and discrimination are prohibited. Blair v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 109-369.

When two or more companies enter into an agreement for joint rates, which agreement covers all stations upon the line in any given state, they virtually create a new and independent line, and become subject to the law preventing unjust discrimination and unreasonable exaction. Blair v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 109-369.

SEC. 2153. Repeal—joint rates over connecting lines. That section two thousand one hundred and fifty-three of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:
“Every owner or consignor of freight to be transported by railway from any point within this state to any other point within this state shall have the right to require that the same shall be transported over two or more connecting lines of railway, to be transferred at the connecting point or points without change of car or cars if in carload lots, and with or without change of car or cars if in less than carload lots, whenever the distance from the place of shipment to destination, both being within this state, is less over two or more connecting lines of railway than it is over a single line of railway, or where the initial line does not reach the place of destination; and it shall be the duty, upon the request of any such owner or consignor of freight, made to the initial company, of such railway companies whose lines so connect, to transport the freight without change of car or cars if the shipment be in a carload lot or lots, and with change of car or cars if it be in less than carload lots, from the place of shipment to destination, whenever the distance from the place of shipment to destination, both being within this state, is less than the distance over a single line, or when the initial line does not reach the point of destination, for a reasonable joint through rate. This section shall apply to interurban railways and their connection with ordinary steam railways.” [32 G. A., ch. 111, § 1.]

SEC. 2155. Repeal—schedule of joint rates. Section two thousand one hundred and fifty-five of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“The board of railroad commissioners shall, within ten days after this act takes effect, notify in writing every railway company owning or operating a railway within this state that it will, upon a day named in such notice, which day shall not be more than thirty days after giving said notice, take up for investigation the subject of establishing joint through rates, as herein provided, between the railway lines in this state. It shall also give a similar notice, directed “To whom it may concern,” and so publish the same that it will have general circulation throughout the state. All corporations, partnerships and persons interested in the subject may present themselves at the hearing and be heard, under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe. At the end of the investigation, which shall be carried on with all due diligence, the said board of railroad commissioners shall make and publish a schedule of joint through railway rates for such traffic and on such routes as in its judgment the fair and reasonable conduct of business requires shall be done by carriage over two or more lines of railway, and will promote the interests of the people of this state. In the making thereof, and in changing, revising or adding to the same, the board shall be governed as nearly as may be by the preceding sections of this chapter, and shall take into consideration, among other things, the rates established for shipments within this state for like distances over single lines, the rates charged by the railway companies operating such connecting lines for joint inter-state shipments, and the increased cost, if any, of a joint through shipment as compared with a shipment over a single line for like distances. In establishing such rates for shipments in less than carload lots, in cases where at the connecting point or points in the line of shipment the connecting railways have not and are not required to have a common station or stopping place for loading or unloading freight, the board shall make such lawful regulations as in its judgment will be fair and just respecting the transportation of such freight from the usual unloading place of one railway to the usual loading place of the other. The joint through rates thus established shall be promulgated by mailing a printed copy thereof to each railway company affected thereby, and shall go into effect within ten days after they are so promulgated; and from and after that time an official printed schedule thereof shall be prima facie evidence, in all the courts of this state, that the rates therein fixed are just and reasonable for the joint transportation of such freight between the points and over the lines described therein. The said board shall deliver a printed copy of said schedule to any person making application therefor. The share of any railway company of any joint through rate shall not be construed to fix the charge that it may make for transportation for a similar distance over any part of its line for any single rate shipment or the share of any other joint rate. The board, upon such reasonable notice as it may prescribe, may, upon its own motion or upon the application of any person, firm or corporation interested therein, revise, change or add to any joint through rates fixed or promulgated hereunder; and any such revised, changed or added joint rates shall have the same force and effect as the rate or rates originally established. The said board is empowered to authorize, upon proper hearing, any railway company whose line connects the point of shipment with the point of destination but requires a longer haul than the joint haul over which a joint rate has been established, to charge the joint rate without affecting the charge upon any other part of its line, except that the charge for a like kind of property must not be greater for a shorter than for a longer distance over its railroad, all of the shorter haul being included within the longer. This section shall apply to interurban railways and their connection with ordinary steam railways.” [32 G. A., ch. 111, § 2.]

SEC. 2157-a. Transportation—conditions. On and after May 1, 1904, common carriers of live stock, in car load lots, upon receiving, in this state, for shipment one or more car loads of horses or mules or two or more car loads of other live stock, shall upon demand of the owner of such animals offered for shipment, issue to such owner, or the actual agent or employe of such owner, without other consideration transportation from the place of receiving such shipment to the place of destination, and return, such transportation to be limited to one person for each shipment, as is above set out. When a single shipment aggregates six cars or more, such owner shall be entitled, on demand, as is above provided, to transportation for one additional person, such additional person to be an actual agent or employe of such owner, and such common carrier shall in like manner and under similar conditions issue transportation for one person to destination of shipment only to the shipper of one car load of cattle, hogs or sheep. The return transportation herein provided for is to be delivered, upon demand, at the office of the carrier at the place of destination, upon proper identification of the person so entitled to same, and shall be good for transportation if presented within forty-eight hours from the time of the delivery of such shipment at place of destination. [30 G. A., ch. 76, § 1.]

SEC. 2157-b. Penalty. Any common carrier violating the above provisions shall forfeit and pay to the owner of any shipment, as is above provided, three times the amount of the regular fare expended by such owner for himself, or his agent, in going from point of shipment to point of destination, and return, of a shipment of stock as herein provided. [30 G. A., ch. 76, § 2.]

SEC. 2157-c. Trespasser. Any person other than the owner, his agent or employe, as is described in section 1 hereof, attempting to use, or using, the transportation therein provided for, shall be considered a trespasser upon the trains or premises of such common carrier. [30 G. A., ch. 76, § 3.]

SEC. 2157-d. Water closets in cabooses. That the cabooses or cars attached to such stock trains, and in which the holders of such transportation are required to ride when accompanying such live stock to market, shall be provided with suitable water closets for the use of such persons while in transit, provided that the provisions of this section shall not go into effect until January 1, 1905, and that all such railroads shall be allowed until said time to comply with the requirements of this section. [30 G. A., ch. 76, § 4.]

SEC. 2157-e. Penalty. Any railroad in this state engaged in the transportation of live stock, and failing or refusing to comply with the requirements of the foregoing section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each day's negligence or refusal to comply therewith; and all moneys so collected as fines shall be paid into the public school funds of the state. [30 G. A., ch. 76, § 5.]

SEC. 2157-f. Issuance or acceptance of free passes—what prohibited. No common carrier of passengers shall, directly or indirectly, issue, furnish or give any free ticket, free pass or free transportation for the carriage or passage of any person within this state except as permitted in the second section hereof. Nor shall any common carrier, in the sale of tickets for transportation at reduced rates, discriminate between persons purchasing the same, except the persons described in the second section of this act. Nor shall any person accept or use any free ticket, free pass or free transportation except the persons described in said section. The words "free ticket," "free pass," "free transportation" as used in this act shall include any ticket, pass, contract, permit or transportation issued, furnished or given to any person, by any common carrier of passengers, for carriage or passage, for any other consideration than money paid in the usual way at the rate, fare or charge open to all who desire to purchase. [32 G. A., ch. 112, § 1.]

SEC. 2157-g. What permitted. The persons to whom free tickets, free passes, free transportation and discriminating reduced rates may be issued, furnished, or given are the following, to-wit: (a) the officers, agents, employees, attorneys, physicians, and surgeons, of such common carriers of passengers whose chief and principal occupation is to render service to common carriers of passengers; (b) to the families of the persons included in sub-division "a" hereof; (c) the general officers of any such common carrier; (d) employees on sleeping cars, express cars, and linemen of telegraph and telephone companies, railway mail service employees, postoffice inspectors, customs inspectors and immigration inspectors, newsboys on trains, baggage agents; (e) persons injured in wrecks and physicians and nurses attending such persons; (f) passengers traveling with the object of providing relief in cases of railroad accident, general epidemic, pestilence, or other calamitous visitation; (g) necessary caretakers of live stock, vegetables and fruit, including return transportation to forwarding station; (h) the officers, agents or regularly accredited representatives of labor organizations, composed wholly of employees of railway companies; (i) inmates of homes for the reform or rescue of the vicious or unfortunate, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge, and boards of managers, including officers, and superintendents of such homes; (j) superannuated and pensioned employees and members of their families and widows of such members; (k) employees crippled and disabled in the service of a common carrier of passengers; (l) policemen and firemen of any city wearing the insignia of their office within the limits of such city; (m) ministers of religion, traveling secretaries of Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, inmates of hospitals and charitable and eleemosynary institutions, and persons exclusively engaged in charitable and eleemosynary work; (n) indigent, destitute and homeless persons, while being transported by charitable societies or hospitals, and necessary agents, employees in such transportation; (o) school children to and from public or parochial schools; (p) the state fish and game warden, and his car and necessary assistants therewith, when engaged in the performance of official duties.

In any prosecution under this act if it is claimed that a free ticket, free pass or other transportation was wrongfully issued or given to physicians or surgeons, attorneys, agents, employees, it shall be incumbent upon the defendant to prove the character of the service rendered, or to be rendered.
The provisions of this act shall not be construed to prohibit the interchange of passes for the persons to whom free tickets, free passes, or free transportation may be furnished or given under the provisions of this section.
Nothing in this act shall operate to repeal the provisions of section two thousand one hundred fifty (2150) of the code so far as said section refers to the members of the national guard, nor shall it operate to repeal section two thousand one hundred fifty-one (2151) of the code. Nothing in this act shall be construed to invalidate any existing contract between a street railway company and a city where a condition of a franchise grant requires the furnishing of transportation to policemen, firemen, and city officers, while in the performance of official duties. [32 G. A., ch. 112, § 2.]

SEC. 2157-h. Testimony—immunity from prosecution. No person, within the purview of this act shall be privileged from testifying in relation to anything herein prohibited, but no person having so testified shall be liable to any prosecution or punishment for any offense concerning which he was required to give his testimony. [32 G. A., ch. 112, § 3.]

SEC. 2157-i. Penalty. Any common carrier, its officer, agent or representative, violating any of the provisions of this act shall be fined in a sum not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) for each offense, or in the discretion of the court shall be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty (30) and not

CHAPTER 8.

OF TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE LINES.

SECTION 2158. Right of way.

Under § 1324, Code of 1873, as amended by 19 G. A., chap. 104, providing that any person or company may construct a telephone line along the public highways of the state, held that the term “public highways” as used included city streets, and that a telephone company might occupy such streets without the city’s consent.

SEC. 2163. Liable for mistakes.

A telegraph company being engaged in a public employment may be liable in tort for breach of its obligations arising under a contract Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122-379.

Whether a telegraph company has used reasonable diligence as to the delivery of a message confided to it is to be determined upon the consideration of all the facts of the case, including improper or defective address, and is for the jury. Hurlburt v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 123-295.

Negligence being shown, damages for mental pain and anguish resulting from failure to deliver may be recovered. Ibid.

The statutory provision as to the liability of a telegraph company does not create a right of action in the addressee of a death message to recover damages for negligent delay in the delivery where none existed before, and therefore held that such provision was ineffectiv to sustain a recovery of damages for mental anguish by the addressee unaccompanied by any physical injury. Rowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 149 Fed. 550.

Negligent delay in delivering a telegram containing an enquiry as to the price of land, but no proposition to buy which if accepted would have constituted a contract of sale, will not authorize recovery of damages for the delay based on loss of the sale. Bennett v. Western Union Tel. Co., 129-607.

In an action against a telegraph company for damages resulting from negligent delay in transmitting a proposition for the exchange of real estate, held that as the proposition was made by mail and did not contemplate a response by telegram, it was for the jury to say whether the unreasonable delay in the acceptance of the contract through a telegraphic response was the cause of the loss of the benefits of the bargain. Lucas v. Western Union Tel. Co., 131-669.

One who acts in response to a telegram apparently addressed to a person of a different name, cannot recover damages against the telegraph company for injuries resulting to him by reason of the fact that the telegram was not intended for him, although the telegram has been delivered to him by the company. Bowyer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 130-324.

SEC. 2164. Negligence presumed—notice of claim.

The burden is upon the company to prove that mistake or delay in the transmission or delivery of a message is not due to its own negligence. Cowan v. Western Union Tel. Co., 122-379.

It is error to admit in evidence a notice in writing of a claim for damages, where there is no allegation in the pleadings as to such notice. Heald v. Western Union Tel. Co., 129-326.

Failure to allege notice is a good ground for motion in arrest of judgment in an action on a claim as to which notice is required. Ibid. The objection that notice of a claim against a telegraph company for damages due to negligence was not given within sixty days, as required by statute, may be raised for the first time in a motion in arrest of judgment. Free v. Western Union Tel. Co., 110 N. W. 143.

CHAPTER 9.

OF EXPRESS COMPANIES.

SECTION 2165. Repeal. That sections 2165 and 2166 of the code be and the same are hereby repealed. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 1.]

The provisions of Code § 2074 prohibiting contracts limiting the liability of a carrier are applicable to express companies. McMillan v. American Express Co., 129-236.

SEC. 2165-a. Subject to regulations. All express companies operating and doing business in this state are declared to be common carriers, and it shall be the duty of every such express company or common carrier to transport all property, parcels, money, merchandise, packages, and other things of value which may be offered to them for transportation, at a reasonable charge or rate therefor; and all laws so far as applicable, now in force or hereafter enacted, regulating the transportation of property by railroad companies, shall apply with equal force and effect to express companies. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 2.]

SEC. 2165-c. Schedule of rates for each company — prima facie evidence. Within six months from the taking effect of this act it shall be the duty of said railroad commissioners, and they are hereby directed, to prepare and make for each express company doing business in this state a schedule of reasonable maximum charges of rates for transporting property, money, parcels, merchandise, packages, and other things carried by such express company or companies between points wholly within the state of Iowa; and in all actions brought against such common carriers wherein there are involved the charges thereof for the transportation of any property, or any unjust discrimination in relation thereto, the schedules or reasonable maximum rates of charges so made by the railroad commissioners shall be taken as prima facie evidence in all courts that the rates fixed therein are reasonable and just maximum rates of charges for which said schedules have been prepared. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 4.]

SEC. 2165-d. Printed schedules posted and displayed. It shall be the duty of every such company or common carrier engaged in transporting property, money, parcels, merchandise, packages and other things, to print in clear and legible type the schedules of rates for transportation of such property, money, parcels, merchandise, packages, and other things, so made by such railroad commissioners, and shall post in each of its offices or places of business where patrons visit for the purpose of making and receiving shipments, and keep displayed in each office or place of business within convenient access, and for the inspection and use of the public during customary business hours such printed schedule of rates of charges and any amendments thereto, and shall also post and display in similar manner any special rules and regulations which may be promulgated by them or said railroad commissioners for the information of their patrons. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 5.]

SEC. 2165-e. Excessive compensation—penalty. It shall be unlawful for any express company or common carrier to charge, demand, collect or receive a greater compensation for such transportation of property, or for any service in connection therewith between the points named in such schedules than the rates and charges which are specified in the schedules made by said railroad commissioners and in effect at the time. Any such express company or common carrier, any officer, representative, or agent or any express company, or carrier, who knowingly violates the provisions of this act shall forfeit to the state of Iowa the sum of five hundred dollars for each offense, to be recovered as by law provided. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 6.]

SEC. 2165-f. Refusal to transport—liable for damages—penalty. Each and every express company or carrier by express, as herein defined, doing business within the state of Iowa, shall at all convenient times during the hours of business accept and receive for prompt transportation and shipment destined to points on their own line, or to points on the lines of other express companies operating within the state, or for points beyond said state, all property, parcels, money, merchandise, packages and other things of value which may be offered to them, or either of them, for transportation by the public, and any express company or other common carrier refusing to transport goods as above provided taking the same in the order presented, shall be liable to the party injured for damages sustained by reason of its refusal, and in addition thereto shall be liable to a penalty of not less than five (5) nor more than five hundred (500) dollars, to be recovered in each case by the owner of the goods in any court having jurisdiction in the county where the wrong is done, or where the common carrier resides or has an agent, and each case of refusal shall be construed as a separate offense under this act. [32 G. A., ch. 116, § 7.]

SECTION 2216. Who liable to maintain.

The obligation to support children being under these sections primarily upon their father and mother, and secondarily upon their grandfather, in the absence of inability of nearer relatives, held that the grandfather was not bound for their support, although the evidence showed that their father had abandoned his wife and had no property subject to execution, where there was no showing that he was absent or unable to provide for his children. Johnson County v. Stratton, 111-421.

SEC. 2217. Same.

The grandparent is not liable for the support of his grandchildren where it appears that the parents are capable of furnishing such support. Monroe County v. Abegglen, 129-53.

The fact that the father of such children has secured a divorce from their mother, the daughter of the grandparent who is sought to be charged with such support, and has subsequently remarried and become encumbered with another family, is no reason why the support of his children should be thrown upon the grandparent. Ibid.

SEC. 2234. Application for relief—action of supervisors.

If the board of supervisors has in fact employed a competent and efficient physician to care for the poor, the township trustees are not authorized to employ another simply because they believe the county physician is inattentive, neglectful or incompetent. Lacy v. Kosnuth County, 106-16.

A certificate from the township trustees attached to the account of a physician presented to the board of supervisors is properly admissible in evidence. Ibid.

Where a physician is employed by the board of health to attend upon a person infected with contagious disease he is entitled to compensation from the county if the infected person is a poor person, notwithstanding the employment by the county of another physician to attend generally upon the poor. Ibid.

Where it appeared that the board of supervisors had employed a physician but the case in question was not one which would come within his care under his contract of employment, held that the claim of another physician for services rendered in such case was properly allowed. Taylor v. Woodbury County, 106-502.

SEC. 2235. Payment of claims.

The physician may claim for services performed by another physician under his direction. Taylor v. Woodbury County, 106-502.

Even though the services for which claim is made was originally rendered without proper legal sanction, yet the giving of the certificate contemplated in this section cures any such defect in the claim. Ibid.
SEC. 2244. Admission to poor house—labor.

Although persons admitted to the poor house may be required to perform such labor as may be suited to their age and strength, the proceeds of which are to be appropriated to the use of the poor house, nevertheless the board of supervisors may make a contract with reference to the labor of an insane inmate by which his services are to be accepted in full payment for his board and lodging, and his estate relieved from liability therefor. Marshall County v. Lippincott, 111 N. W. 801.

SEC. 2250. Illegitimates.

The putative father of an illegitimate child being chargeable for its support, the child may recover civil damages for injuries resulting from sale of intoxicating liquors to the father. Goulding v. Phillips, 124-496.

SEC. 2252. “Poor person” defined.

The provisions as to the support of poor persons are to be construed as contemplate only those who having no property are unable because of physical or mental disability to earn a living by labor. Monroe County v. Abegglen, 129-53.

CHAPTER 2.

Upon appeal it shall be the duty of the county attorney to prosecute the action on behalf of the informant without additional compensation. [18 G. A., ch. 152, §§ 1, 2.] [29 G. A., ch. 92, § 1.]

SEC. 2270. Settlement in another county. If the legal settlement of a person committed cannot for a time be ascertained, and is afterwards found, the notices required shall then be given. If in either of the above cases the auditor of the county in which it is alleged that the patient has a legal settlement shall find adversely to the decision of the commissioners of the county from which the patient was committed, and said commissioners are unwilling to accept his findings, they shall, through the auditor of their county, forthwith apply to the district court through proper legal proceedings for a determination of the case. Any county whose officials shall fail either in cases now in dispute or disputes which may hereafter arise to apply to the district court as herein provided, within six months from the date of the receipt of notice from the auditor of the county in which it is claimed the patient has a legal settlement shall be liable for the maintenance of said patient. If, upon hearing, the court shall find that the patient has no legal settlement in either of the counties in dispute, the board of control shall at once be notified by the auditor of the county from which the patient was committed, in accordance with the provisions of section one (1) chapter ninety-two (92) acts of the thirty-first general assembly and the proceedings thereafter with reference to said patient shall be as provided in said section. The residence of any person found insane who is an inmate of any state institution shall be that existing at the time of admission therein. [24 G. A., ch. 24, § 2; C., '73, § 1402.] [32 G. A., ch. 118.]

SEC. 2279. Insane prisoners—inquiry—confinement.

In case of apparent necessity the patient may be taken into custody and restrained by the local authorities until he is taken by the representative of the hospital. All actual and necessary expenses incurred in the capture, restraint and return to the hospital of the patient shall be paid on itemized vouchers sworn to by the claimants.
and approved by the superintendent and the board of control of state institutions from any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated." [31 G. A., ch. 93.]

SEC. 2291-a. Repeal—amount allowed for care of patients. That section twenty-two hundred and ninety-one (2291) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed. [29 G. A., ch. 157, § 1.]

Said sum shall be placed to the credit of the hospital entitled thereto upon certificate of the board of control of state institutions, based upon reports of the superintendent, and paid from the state treasury, as provided by chapter one hundred eighteen (118) of the acts of the twenty-seventh general assembly and acts amendatory thereof, and the certificate of the board shall be competent evidence of the amount due for the time therein stated. The amount credited a hospital for any month shall be based on the average number of patients in the hospital for the preceding month. When the average number of patients in the hospital at Cherokee shall be more than six hundred, the monthly sum shall not exceed fourteen dollars, and when such number shall be more than seven hundred fifty patients the monthly sum shall not exceed thirteen dollars, and when such number shall be more than nine hundred patients the monthly sum shall not exceed twelve dollars. [29 G. A., ch. 157, § 3.]

SEC. 2297. Estates of patients liable.

The wife does not become liable to the county for the support of her husband as a patient in the insane hospital. Blackhawk County v. Scott, 111-190.

The state has no common law right of recovery against the estate of one who has received the benefits of treatment as an insane person in the hospitals of the state, and there is no statutory provision creating a liability which may be enforced by the state against the patient or his property. State v. Colligan, 128-536.

The estate of an insane person cannot be taxed with the costs of the hearing on the question of insanity and commitment under such hearing. In re Estate of Westlake, 125-314.

In defense to an action to recover from the estate of an insane person the expense of maintaining him by the county, it may be shown that under an agreement with the board of supervisors he rendered services on the poor farm for an agreed compensation in full payment for his board and lodging. Marshall County v. Lippincott, 111 N. W. 801.

A father is liable to the county for the care and support of his minor son at the hospital for the insane. The statutory provision does not impose a tax nor is it open to objection that it authorizes the taking of private property without just compensation. Guthrie County v. Conrad, 133-171.

The question of the insanity of the person for whose support recovery is sought against his parent may be litigated in the action. Ibid.

The fact that the insane person is placed in the hospital without the consent of those liable for his support will not relieve them from the statutory liability. Ibid.

SEC. 2308. County insane fund. The board of supervisors, when levying taxes for general purposes, shall include therein a tax of one and one-half mill or less, as may be necessary, for the purpose of raising a fund for the support of such insane persons as are cared for and supported by the county in the insane ward of the county poor-house, or elsewhere outside of any state hospital for the insane, which shall be known as the county insane fund, and shall be used for no other purpose than the support of such insane persons.  [27 G. A., ch. 55, § 1.]

SEC. 2308-a. Costs and expenses—how paid. That in all cases where the commissioners of insanity of a county find to be insane a person who does not have a legal settlement within that county, the costs and expenses of the arrest, care, investigation and commitment of such person authorized by law, including the costs of appeal if an appeal be taken and the person is found to be insane on appeal, shall be paid in the first instance by the county in which such person is so found to be insane. If such person is found to have a legal settlement in another county of this state, such costs and expenses shall be audited and paid by the supervisors of that county in the manner provided for the payment of other claims. so returned shall be detained and treated during the full term of his commitment. [29 G. A., ch. 93, § 3.]

mitment and treatment of such persons so committed under the provisions of this act shall be borne and paid in the same manner and out of the same fund as the expenses of insane patients are borne and paid, and the

The board of control of state institutions shall have the same power and control over said hospital as is now given it with reference to the several institutions mentioned in chapter one hundred and eighteen (118) of the acts of the twenty-seventh general assembly and all amendments thereto, and said act and amendments shall apply to and govern said hospital in every respect in so far as they are not in conflict with the provisions of this act. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 3.]

The superintendent shall in such cases grant applications for admission in the order in which they are received. When the board of control is of the opinion that the necessity for such restriction has ceased to exist it may discontinue it and give notice thereof as was required to establish it, and when such notice is given the restriction shall cease. In case said application be voluntarily or involuntarily made and the said judge shall determine that the accused is a proper person to be committed to said hospital, he shall make on order committing him thereto; otherwise he shall be discharged. The term of detention and treatment shall be until the patient is cured and not exceeding three years. Provided that before a person shall be committed to a state hospital for inebriates satisfactory evidence shall be submitted to the trial court or judge showing that the person committed is not of bad repute or of bad character apart from his or her habit for which the commitment is made and that there is reasonable ground for believing that the person if committed will be cured of such habit, and provided further, that the board of control of state institutions may discharge any person committed to a state hospital under the provisions of this act on the recommendation of the superintendent when satisfied that such person will not receive substantial benefit from further hospital treatment. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 7.] [32 G. A., ch. 119.]

SEC. 2310-a13. Formal trial. If the accused shall not voluntarily apply for commitment and shall prior to the beginning of the hearing before the judge, demand a formal trial, the judge shall continue the hearing to the next term of the district court, or if the court shall be in session the case shall be transferred to it, and in either case the cause shall be docketed and tried as a civil case, and all papers used before the judge shall be filed with the clerk of the court; pending such hearing the judge may make such order in relation to the custody, restraint or control of the accused as he shall deem necessary. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 8.]

SEC. 2310-a14. Warrant of commitment. If on a formal trial the accusation is proven the judge of the court shall impose sentence of detention, as provided in section seven (7) hereof, and the clerk of the court shall issue a warrant of commitment in accordance therewith to said hospital. If the truth of the charge is not established he shall be discharged. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 9.]

All costs and expenses incurred in the arrest of the accused and other costs incurred in any hearing before the judge, and all costs and expenses of trial, and the costs and expenses incurred in taking the accused to the hospital, shall be taxed up on the proceeding or trial as the case may be and be made a matter of record in the proper books of the office of the clerk of the district court of the county where the accused resided and shall be paid by the county and may, if he be committed, be recovered by it of the accused. Provided, however, that so much of the monthly sum as exceeds fifteen dollars ($15) shall be paid by the state from any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated and shall not be charged to any county or person. Provided, that until the average number of patients in said hospital shall exceed two hundred per month, it shall be credited by the auditor of state and the treasurer of state with not to exceed the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per month, which may be drawn as above provided. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 11.]

SEC. 2310-a17. Rules and regulations—blanks. The superintendent of said hospital, subject to the approval of the board of control, shall prepare rules and regulations for the government of said hospital and its inmates, and said board of control shall cause to be prepared a blank form of warrant or order of commitment which shall contain such printed questions as may tend to bring out the previous history, condition and treatment of the accused, which blanks shall be furnished to the district judges and to the clerks of the district court. The judge when he investigates the charge and the clerk of the court when the case is tried, shall, so far as they are able, fill out said blanks. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 12.]

SEC. 2310-a18. Patients to labor—treatment. Patients received at said hospital shall be required to labor if in the opinion of the superintendent it is for their physical and mental welfare, and the method of treatment shall be that which is deemed best to eliminate the effects of the alcohol or narcotic drug and to build up the system physically and mentally and which will tend to strengthen the moral character of the patient and enable him to resist the temptation to drink or use narcotic drugs. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 13.]

SEC. 2310-a19. Conditions of parole. Any patient whom the superintendent believes to be cured may be paroled, conditioned on said patient’s signing a written pledge agreeing to refrain from the use of all intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and from the use of morphine and cocaine or other narcotic drugs during the term of his commitment and shall avoid frequenting places and the association of people tending to lead him back to his old habits of inebriety. And said paroled patient must make written reports to the superintendent of said hospital at the beginning of each month on blanks to be furnished the clerk of the district court for that purpose, to the effect that he has not during the month past in any respect violated any of the terms and conditions of his parole, which reports must be investigated and approved by the clerk of the district court of the county in which the patient resides, who may demand from said paroled patient satisfactory evidence as to the truth of the statement. If, at any time, a patient on parole shall fail to make said report, or shall fail in any respect to fulfill all of the conditions upon which said parole was granted, he may without any further proceeding whatever and on the written order of the superintendent of said hospital be taken and returned to the hospital, there to be detained and treated as provided herein. Said patient so violating his parole may be returned by any peace officer, or by any officer or person whom the superintendent of the hospital may direct so to do, and in every such case all of the expenses of such taking and return of such patient shall be paid by said hospital and shall be certified by the superintendent thereof to the auditor of state and the amount thereof shall be by him and by the treasurer of state credited to the support fund of said hospital and shall be drawn by said hospital as other funds are drawn. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 14.]

SEC. 2310-a20. Misdemeanor. Any patient in said hospital who shall without due authority leave the hospital, including its grounds and any other place to which he may be permitted to go, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction be punishable by imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty nor more than ninety days, and the district court of the county in which the institution is situated as well as the district court of any county in which the patient may be found shall have jurisdiction in such cases. The board of supervisors of the county in which such prosecution is had shall certify to the board of control of state institutions an itemized statement of the costs of prosecution and maintenance incurred by the county wherein such prosecution is had, which certificate shall be indorsed by the trial judge stating that the amount, as shown by said certificate is correct. On receipt of such certificate, the said board of control shall order a warrant issued in favor of the treasurer of the county wherein such prosecution is had, for the amount of the costs and expenses so incurred, which shall be payable out of the support or contingent fund of said

SEC. 2310-a21. Refusal to work. Any patient in said hospital who, shall be required to work as hereinbefore provided, and who shall refuse so to do, or who shall violate any of the rules and regulations of the hospital, shall be subject to punishment therefor and shall not be paroled. [30 G. A.,
ch. 80, § 16.]

SEC. 2310-a22. Commitment of females. Females who are dipsomaniacs, inebriates, or addicted to the excessive use of morphine, cocaine, or other narcotic drugs, may be committed to a state hospital for the insane to be designated by the board of control, for treatment, and all the provisions of this act, so far as applicable and except as modified by this section, shall apply in such cases and also to the cases of such females as may remain in the hospital for inebriates connected with any state hospital.
[30 G. A., ch. 80, § 17.]

SEC. 2310-a23. Transfer of patients—appropriation. When the hospital for inebriates is open for the reception of patients the board of control shall cause to be transferred to it all male persons then in the inebriate hospitals connected with the insane hospitals of the state, and for the purpose of covering the expense of said transfer there is hereby appropriated the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any funds in the state treasury not otherwise disposed of. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 18.]

SEC. 2310-a24. Penalties. Any person who shall furnish any patient of said hospital for inebriates, or any patient who has been or may here­

SEC. 2310-a25. Per capita support for first month. For the pur­ of said opening and on the basis of a population of three hundred inmates at twenty dollars ($20.00) per capita per month for the necessary supplies to operate the hospital for the first month, and the aggregate of said per capita shall be credited to said institution by the auditor of state and treasurer of state and may be drawn against as provided in chapter 118 of the

To carry out the purposes of this act and provide for the purchase of the

SEC. 2310-a27. Repeal—acts in conflict. Section three thousand two hundred twenty-one (3221) of the code and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall in any way interfere with the execution of any commitment heretofore made under chapter ninety-three (93) of the acts of the twenty-ninth general assembly; and provided, further, that commitments may continue to be made under such act up to the time the hospitals for inebriates provided for herein shall be formally declared ready for the reception of patients. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 22.]

SEC. 2310-a28. Insane patients—expenses. Whenever any person committed to and received in the hospital for inebriates shall become insane, it shall be the duty of the superintendent to file, or cause to be filed, with the commissioners of insanity of Marion county, Iowa, an information charging the said patient with insanity and the said insane commission shall proceed to inquire into the sanity of said patient as provided in title XII, chapter two (2) of the code. In the event that said person shall be judged insane, he shall be transferred to the hospital for the insane, where he shall be detained until such time as that he shall be discharged by the superintendent of the insane hospital, when he shall be returned to the hospital for inebriates, where he shall remain under the terms of the original commitment. All the expense incident to the commitment of said patient to the state hospital for the insane, including the expense of the hearing before the commissioners of insanity of Marion county, and the expense of returning said patient to the hospital for inebriates, shall in the first instance be paid by said hospital for inebriates, and an itemized statement thereof shall be certified by said superintendent to the auditor of state, and said auditor of state and treasurer of state shall credit said hospital with the amount of said expense, which may be drawn by said hospital in the same manner as other funds to its credit in the treasury of the state are drawn, and the auditor of state is authorized to collect said sum from the county where the patient has his legal residence. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 23.]

SEC. 2310-a29. Physical condition of patients. Whenever the physical condition of any patient shall become such that, in the judgment of the superintendent, further confinement will prove injurious to the health of said patient, the state board of control may parole him, under proper conditions and restrictions, for such period of time as it may deem advisable. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 24.]

SEC. 2310-a30. Escape—expenses. In case of the escape of any patient from the hospital, all necessary expense incurred in the recapture and recommitment of such patient, shall be paid by the state. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 25.]

SEC. 2310-a31. Subject to prosecution. Whenever any person shall have been committed to the state hospital for inebriates under the provisions of this act, he shall still be subject to prosecution for any public offense committed against the penal statutes of the state and he shall, at all times, be subject to arrest notwithstanding such commitment. Such person shall, when discharged be returned to said hospital at the expense of the county in which said prosecution was pending and concluded. [30 G. A., ch. 80, § 26.]

SEC. 2310-a32. Traveling expenses of paroled or discharged pathens. That when an inebriate person is paroled or discharged from the state hospital for inebriates at Knoxville or from any state hospital money for the necessary traveling expenses from the hospital to the place of commitment, the superintendent of the hospital with the approval of the board of control of state institutions may furnish said patient with transportation to the place where he or she was committed or to any other point he or she may select which is not more distant from the hospital than the place of commitment. [31 G. A., ch. 97.]

CHAPTER 3.
OF DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

SECTION 2311. Meaning of terms.
The owner of an animal within the terms of this section may be one having less than an absolute or unqualified title.

SEC. 2312. Male animals running at large.
The owner of a bull, turning him loose on his own field, with knowledge or notice that the partition fence separating his field from a field of an adjoining owner is insufficient to restrain him, cannot complain that the animal is taken up by the adjoining owner as running at large. Con-Tender of the damages cannot be made until the constable has taken possession of the animal and estimated the damages done. Ibid.

One who has been damaged by a bull which has escaped from the custody of its owner, is not limited to a proceeding by distraint; but having distrained the animal to prevent further damage, he may surrender him to the owner and recover

SEC. 2313. Distraint damage feasant—recovery.
Where an animal passes from the premises of the owner to the premises of an adjoining owner, through a defective fence, the latter may restrain him for

By distraining a bull which the owner improperly allows to get beyond his control, such distraint being only for the purpose of preventing further damage, the person who thus distrains does not waive the right to sue for damages and elect to rely upon proceedings under the distraint.
He may surrender the animal to the owner and afterwards recover in an action such damages as he has suffered. Burleigh v.
Hines, 124-199.

SEC. 2314. What animals not permitted to run at large.
The damages for which animals are dis-trained must be assessed by the township trustees on notice given as required in Animals which have escaped from the owner’s close and are under the control of no one are running at large within the statutory provision with reference to trespasses by such animals. Foster v. Bussey, 132-640.

SEC. 2316. Apportionment of damages.

Where separate trespasses are committed by the stock of different owners, the damage from each trespass are to be considered as distinct as separate, and there is no occasion to apportion the aggregate damages from such trespasses against the different owners in proportion to the number of animals belonging to each engaged in the trespass. Foster v. Bussey, 132-640.

SEC. 2317. Assessment of damages—sale.

The damages for which animals running at large may be distrained under Code § 2314, must be assessed by the township trustees on notice given to them by the person making distraint. Holaman v. Marsh, 116-483.

One who distrains trespassing animals is entitled to compensation for their keeping although by reason of defective township organization there are no trustees competent to assess the damages. Robinson v. Halley, 124-443.

SEC. 2318. Assessment made—appeal.

The fact that there were no trustees of the township wherein stock was distrained to appraise the damage, does not affect the rights of recovery thereof. The owner of the trespassing stock which is distrained by an adjoining land owner should bear the burden of the keeping of the animals, rather than an innocent party. Robinson v. Halley, 124-443.

SEC. 2340. Dogs killed. It shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog caught in the act of worrying, maiming or killing any sheep or lamb, or other domestic animal, or any dog attacking or attempting to bite any person, and the owner shall be liable to the party injured for all damages done, except when the party is doing an unlawful act. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any damage done by a dog affected with hydrophobia. [25 G. A., ch. 84; C., '73, § 1845.] [30 G. A., ch. 81.]

Prior to the amendment of this section the owner of one dog was only liable for the portion of damage done by his own dog acting in concert with others in inflicting an injury by killing stock. Anderson v. Halverson, 126-125.

The fact that a dog is harbored on the premises, title to which is in the wife, will not render the wife liable for injuries committed by such dog, the husband being presumed to be the head of the family and responsible for such injury. Burch v. Lowary, 131-719.

In an action under this section for injury inflicted by a dog, the only defense available to the dog’s master is the doing of an unlawful act at the time of the attack by the person injured. Van Bergen v. Eulberg, 111-139.

The unlawful act of the person injured that will defeat liability of the owner of the dog must be one that directly contributes to the injury sustained. Beckler v. Merringer, 131-614.

Mere negligence of the party injured is not sufficient to defeat his recovery for the injury, and the burden is not on the plaintiff to show freedom from contributory negligence, but it is on the defendant to show that the plaintiff was guilty of some unlawful act. Ibid.

Permitting an animal to run at large in the public highway is not such unlawful act as will defeat the action of the owner of such animal against the owner of a dog causing injury to it. Ibid.

Where a horse is frightened in the highway by a dog, and as a consequence, after running some distance is injured by coming into collision with a barbed wire fence, the owner of the dog is liable for the injuries which are the proximate result, although there is an intervening cause contributing to the injury, if it is not the efficient cause thereof. Ibid.

Plaintiff having left his horse and buggy in defendant’s livery stable went to the buggy at a seasonable hour and in a proper manner to get some article therefrom and was bitten by defendant’s dog. Held, that plaintiff not being a trespasser was entitled to recover, whether defendant’s employees knew of his presence at the place or not. Shultz v. Griffith, 103-150.

Negligence by the injured party, whether of omission or commission, does not exempt the owner of a dog from liability for injuries committed by such dog unless the negligence amounts to an unlawful act. Ibid.

Persons who have possession of and harbor dogs are liable therefor as owners under the statutory provision making owners liable for injuries committed by dogs except when the party injured is doing unlawful acts. Ibid.

While this section was evidently intended to do away with the necessity of proving scienter, still the plaintiff is not precluded from proving those facts which would have been necessary to a right of action at common law. Sanders v. O'Callaghan, 111-574.

At common law a person was not entitled to keep a vicious dog on his premises for the purpose of keeping off trespassers, provided they came there in the daytime and on some innocent mission. Ibid.

In an action for damages on account of injuries received from a vicious dog, plaintiff must show freedom from contributory negligence. Ibid.

SEC. 2341. Repeal. That chapter ninety-eight (98) of the acts of the thirty-first general assembly be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof: [32 G. A., ch. 120, § 1.]

SEC. 2341-a. Registration of pedigree—fee. Any owner or keeper of any stallion kept for public service, or any owner or keeper of any stallion kept for sale, exchange, or transfer, who represents such animal to be pure bred, shall cause the same to be registered in some stud book recognized by the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., for the registration of pedigrees, and obtain a certificate of registration of such animal. He shall then forward the same to the secretary of the state board of agriculture of the state of Iowa, whose duty it shall be to examine and pass upon the correctness and genuineness of such certificate filed for enrollment. In making such examination said secretary shall use as his standard the stud books recognized by the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., and shall accept as pure bred, any animal registered in any such stud book. And if such registration is found to be correct and genuine, he shall issue a certificate under the seal of the department of agriculture, which certificate shall set forth the name, sex, age, and color of the animal, also the volume and page of the stud book in which said animal is registered. For each enrollment and certificate he shall receive the sum of one dollar, which shall accompany the certificate of registration when forwarded for enrollment. [32 G. A., ch. 20, § 2.]

SEC. 2341-b. Posting certificate of registration. Any owner or keeper of a stallion for public service who represents or holds such animal as pure bred, shall place a copy of the certificate of the state board of agriculture on the door or stall of the stable where such animal is usually kept. [32 G. A., ch. 120, § 3.]

SEC. 2341-c. Grade stallion. Any owner or keeper of a stallion kept for public service, for which a state certificate has not been issued, must advertise said horse or horses by having printed handbills, or posters, not less than five by seven inches in size, and said bills or posters must have printed thereon immediately preceding or above the name of the stallion the words "grade stallion," in type not smaller than one inch in height, said bills or posters to be posted in a conspicuous manner at all places where the stallion or stallions are kept for public service. [32 G. A., ch. 120, § 4.]

SEC. 2341-d. Transfer of certificate—fee. If the owner of any registered animal shall sell, exchange or transfer the same, and file certificate, accompanying the same with a fee of fifty cents, with the secretary of the state board of agriculture, who shall, upon receipt of the original state certificate, properly transferred, and the required fee, issue a new certificate to the then new owned of the animal. And all fees provided by this act shall go into the treasury of the department of agriculture. [32 G. A., ch. 120, § 5.]

SEC. 2341-e. Publishing false pedigrees—penalty. Any person who shall fraudulently represent any animal, horse, cattle, sheep or swine to be pure bred, or any person who shall post or publish or cause to be posted or published any false pedigree or certificate, or shall use any stallion for public service, or sell, exchange or transfer any stallion, representing such animal to be pure bred, without first having such animal registered, and obtaining the certificate of the state board of agriculture as hereinbefore provided, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding thirty days or by both such fine and imprisonment. [32 G. A., ch. 120, § 6.]

SEC. 2348. Bounties.

While the board may require other evidence than the verified statement of the claimant that the animals had been destroyed, it is not intended to invest the board with the discretion to pay or not if the essential facts are established to its satisfaction, and on the refusal of the board to pay in a proper case action may be maintained against the county. Bourrett v. Palo Alto County, 104-350.

SEC. 2348-a. Amount of bounty. There shall be paid from the general fund of the county a bounty not exceeding ten cents for each pocket gopher caught and killed within the county, provided that the person entitled to such bounty shall make, as hereinafter provided, proof of destruction of such animal within thirty days after the same was destroyed. [32 G. A., ch. 121, § 1.]

SEC. 2348-b. Proofs required. The person catching and killing any such animal shall remove and present to the officers, before whom he makes his proof, both front feet and claws of each animal for which he claims the bounty, and the person claiming the bounty shall furnish written proof, under oath, that each animal for which he claims the bounty was caught and killed within the county against which he presents the claim for bounty, and the board of supervisors may require in addition to the above any other and further proof which it deems necessary and reasonable to show that each animal for which the bounty is claimed was caught and killed within the county against which the claim is presented. [32 G. A., ch. 121, § 2.]

SEC. 2348-c. To whom presented. The claws and other proofs required may be presented to the county auditor; and the board of supervisors of each county may appoint registrars or other officers in other parts of the county to whom claws of the animal caught and other proofs of the killing may be presented. [32 G. A., ch. 121, § 3.]

CHAPTER 4. OF FENCES.

SECTION 2355. Partition fences.

The rights and duties of adjacent owners of land with respect to partition fences is purely statutory, and as the statute prior to the enactment of the present Code recognized a hedge fence as a proper form of partition fence and did not specify the height nor required trimming, the owner maintaining such partition fence was not liable to adjoining owners for damage due to the height and untrimmed condition of such hedge. Kinney v. Kinney, 104-703.

One of the adjoining owners cannot by injunction compel the other owner to take out and destroy a division hedge on the ground that it has become a nuisance, such a hedge being considered common property of the two owners. Harndon v. Stultz, 124-440.

The rule as to partition fences has no reference to the boundary which is the thread of a non-navigable stream and on which it is impracticable to erect any fence. In such case the bed of the stream must necessarily be regarded as unenclosed land, and the duty to fence devolves on neither one of the adjoining owners. Foster v. Bussey, 132-640.

The sufficiency of a partition fence is of no consequence in determining the liability for damage committed by a bull which the owner does not restrain as required by Code, § 2312. Burleigh v. Hines, 124-199.

SEC. 2356. Powers of fence viewers.

Fence viewers have no power to decide as to a disputed line, either by measurements of their own or by accepting a disputed survey of another. Boyd v. Schoop, 107-10.

But two modes of dividing partition fences are recognized by statute, one by written agreement and the other by order of fence viewers. If neither of these methods has been followed, the mere fact that a portion of the partition fence has been erected for the owner of the premises by a tenant does not give rise to liability to the adjoining owner for injuries caused by stock escaping through such defective fence. In the absence of division either of the adjoining owners has the right to build such portions of fence as he may see fit and the duty of maintaining every portion of it rests on both alike. DeMers v. Rohan, 126-488.

SEC. 2359. Service of notice. The notice by the fence viewers provided for in this chapter may be served upon any owner nonresident of the county where his land is situated, by publication thereof, once each week, for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper printed in the county in which the land is situated, proof of which shall be made as in case of an original notice and filed with the fence viewers, and a copy delivered to the occupant of said land, or to any agent of the owner in charge of the same. [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 1.]

SEC. 2360. Orders—notice.

The action of the fence viewers is not illegal because their findings are put in writing in another township, provided they are duly recorded by the clerk in the proper township. Miles v. Tomlison, 110-322.

SEC. 2361. Division recorded.

In providing for a written agreement as to partitioning the fence and specifying the circumstances under which such agreement will be binding, the intention to exclude any other form of partition by mutual act is manifest. DeMers v. Rohan, 126-488.

SEC. 2367. Lawful fence defined.

One whose close is surrounded by a lawful fence is entitled to damages against the owner of the animals which have escaped from his premises and being at large have broken through such lawful fence. DeMers v. Rohan, 126-488.

SEC. 2369. Appeal.

The correctness of the findings of the fence viewers is to be determined on appeal, and not on certiorari. Miles v. Tomlinson, 110-322.

An appeal from the order or decision of the fence viewers is effected by the filing of a bond as in the case of an appeal from a judgment of a justice of the peace. Hahn v. Lumpa Estate, 131-722.

CHAPTER 5.

OF LOST GOODS.

SECTION 2372. Advertisement—title vests—sale. In all cases where the appraisement of any such property shall not exceed the sum of twenty dollars, the taker-up shall advertise the same on the door of the courthouse, and in three other of the most public places in the county, within five days after the appraisement, and if no person shall appear to claim and prove such property within six months of the time of taking up, it shall vest in the taker-up; but if the value thereof shall exceed the sum of twenty dollars, the county auditor, within five days from the time of the reception of the justice's certificate at his office, shall cause an advertisement to be posted on the door of the court-house, and at three other of the most public places in the county, and also a notice to be published once each week, for three weeks successively in some public newspaper printed in this state; and if such property be not claimed or proved within ninety days after the advertisement of the same, as aforesaid, the taker-up shall deliver the same to the sheriff of the county wherein it was taken up, who shall thereupon proceed to sell it at public auction to the highest bidder for ready money, having first given ten days' notice of the time and place of sale; and the proceeds of all such sales, after deducting the costs and other necessary expenses, shall be paid into the county treasury. [C., '73, § 1513; R., § 1507.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 18.]

SEC. 2374. Disposition of property unclaimed. In all cases where such lost goods, money, bank notes or other things shall not exceed the sum of ten dollars in value, the finder shall forthwith advertise the same on the door of the court house and in three other of the most public places in the county where the same was found; and if no person shall appear to claim and prove such money, goods, bank notes or other things within twelve months from the time of such advertisement, the right to such property, when the same shall consist in goods, money or bank notes, shall be vested in the finder; but if the value thereof shall exceed the sum of ten dollars, the county auditor, within five days from the receipt of the justice's certificate, shall cause to be posted upon the court house door, and in three of the most public places in the county, a notice thereof, which shall also be published, once each week, for three weeks successively in some public newspaper printed at the county seat; and if the said goods, money, bank notes or other things be not reclaimed within six months after the finding, the finder, if the same shall consist in money or bank notes, shall deliver the same to the county treasurer, after deducting the necessary expenses hereinafter provided for; if in bills, notes of hand, patents, deeds, mortgages, or other instruments of value, the same shall be delivered to the county auditor to be preserved in his office for the benefit of the owner when an applicant shall prove his title thereto; if in goods or merchandise, the same shall be delivered to the sheriff of the county, who shall thereupon proceed to sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder for ready money, having first given ten days' notice of the time and place of such sale; and the proceeds of such sale, after deducting the costs and other expenses, shall be paid into the county treasury. [C., '73, §§ 1510, 1515, R., § 1509.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 19.]

CHAPTER 6.

OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

SECTION 2382. Manufacture, sale or keeping for sale prohibited. No one, by himself, clerk, servant, employee or agent, shall, for himself or any person else, directly or indirectly, or upon any pretense, or by any device, manufacture, sell, exchange, barter, dispense, give in consideration of the purchase of any property or of any services or in evasion of the statute, or keep for sale, any intoxicating liquor, which term shall be construed to mean alcohol, ale, wine, beer, spirituous, vinous and malt liquor, and all intoxicating liquor whatever, except as provided in this chapter, or solicit, take, or accept any order for the purchase, sale, shipment, or delivery of any such liquor, or aid in the delivery and distribution of any intoxicating liquor so ordered or shipped, or own, keep, or be in any way concerned, engaged or employed in owning or keeping any intoxicating liquor with intent to violate any provision of this chapter, or authorize or permit the same to be done; and any clerk, servant, employe or agent engaged or aiding in any violation of this chapter shall be charged and convicted as principal. Provided, that nothing herein shall prohibit traveling salesmen soliciting orders for the purchase, sale, and shipment of intoxicating liquors, from persons legally authorized to sell or dispense the same. [23 G. A., ch. 38, § 2; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 1; 20 G. A., ch. 8, § 1; 20 G. A., ch. 143, §§ 10, 11; 17 G. A., ch. 119, § 4; C., '73, §§ 1523, 1540-2, 1551-5; R., §§ 1559, 1562, 1581, 1587; C., '51, §§ 829-31.] [28 G. A., ch 74, §§ 1, 2.]

Proof that a liquor used as a beverage contains alcohol is sufficient to establish its character as intoxicating liquor, however much the alcohol may be diluted or however weak its intoxicating effect as a beverage may be. State v. Colvin, 127-635.

Proof of the sale of beer is prima facie evidence of the sale of an intoxicating liquor and the burden is on the person charged with such sale to show, if he can, that the liquor so sold was not intoxicating. State v. Spiers, 103-711.

The fact that the seller is not aware of the intoxicating character of the liquor sold is no defense. Wilson v. Cory, 114-208.

Violation by an agent of the conditions of the mulct law will render the principal liable to the penalties of the prohibitory law. Hawks v. Fellows, 108-153.

Sale of alcohol without a permit is unlawful even though it is to be used for scientific purposes. In re Application of Henery, 124-358.

The statute provides against every possible scheme that may be devised for the purpose of evading the provisions of the law prohibiting the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors, and an acquittal in a prosecution for unlawfully selling or keeping for sale is a bar to a subsequent proceeding for the seizure and destruction of the same liquors as kept for unlawful sale. State v. Cobb, 123-626.

The gift of liquor which is prohibited by the statute is a gift resorted to for the purpose of avoiding the law by a subterfuge or by an indirect dealing intended to conceal unlawful sales, and held that the giving of a drink of liquor from samples by a traveling salesman of a foreign dealer for the purpose of testing the quality of the liquor was not within the prohibition of the statute. State v. Bernstein, 129-320.

Where an insured building is described as used for saloon purposes, the fact that the occupant does not conduct his saloon in strict compliance with the law does not vitiate the policy. Petty v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co., 111-358.

The provisions of 28 G. A., chap. 74, amending this section so as to make criminal the soliciting of orders in the state for sales of liquors outside the state to be shipped into the state, is unconstitutional as an interference with interstate commerce. State v. Hanaphy, 117-15.

Where a dealer in cigarettes brought into the state packages thereof which were opened by him and contents consisting of small packages containing ten each were exposed for sale and sold, held, that such small packages were not original packages within the meaning of the law as to interstate commerce, and that the seller was punishable under the anti-cigarette law. (Code §§ 5006, 5007.) The court considers the case of State v. Coons, 82-400, relating to sales of intoxicating liquors in original packages, and overrules it in so far as it is inconsistent with this case. McGregor v. Cone, 104-468. But see State v. McGregor, 76 Fed. 396.

SEC. 2384. Nuisance—penalty—abatement—attorney’s fee.

While it is not necessary, in order to warrant an injunction, that actual sales must be shown at the time injunction is to be granted, yet there must be some evidence of the existence of the nuisance at that time. If no nuisance exists when the action is brought, plaintiff is not entitled to a decree. Sharp v. Arnold, 108-203.

It is the use of the plan in which the inhibited acts are done, rather than the doing of the acts, which constitutes the offense of nuisance here described. Therefore, held that where blank bills of lading for intoxicating liquors were sent to a banker, and persons desirous of purchasing liquors were in the habit of paying the banker for such bills of lading, thereby procuring the liquors from the freight degras, held that such banker was properly convicted for maintaining a nuisance. The use of the building or place for the prohibited purpose renders it a nuisance, although the party charged owns neither the liquors or the place. State v. Snyder, 108-205.

The sale of alcohol even though for scientific purposes without a permit is unlawful and constitutes a nuisance. In re Application of Henery, 124-358.

In an action for abatement of liquor nuisance and for injunction, evidence of illegal sales after the commencement of the action is competent, the charge being of a continuing offense. Hall v. Coffin, 108-466.

Either the selling in violation of law or the keeping with intent to sell renders the place where the liquors are sold or kept for sale a nuisance. State v. Thompson, 130-227.

The discovery of liquor on the premises is presumptive evidence of keeping for illegal sale. State v. Thompsoon, 130-227.

The finding of intoxicating liquors in the possession of one not legally authorized to sell is presumptive evidence that such liquors are kept for illegal sale. State v. Stevens, 119-675.

SEC. 2385. Permits.

If the liquor sold by the permit holder is so compounded with other substances as to lose its distinctive character as an intoxicant, and to be no longer desirable for use as a stimulating beverage, and is in fact a medicine, then the permit holder is not guilty of violating the law in making a sale without a written request. State v. Gregory, 110-624.

The written requests on which sales are made are admissible in evidence in a prosecution against the seller, and if such requests are defective, the seller is liable. The permit holder should refuse to make a sale on a written request unless he has reason to believe the statements made therein are true, and in no case should he make such sale unless he knows the person applying therefor is not a minor, intoxicated, or in the habit of using intoxicating liquors as a beverage. When proper requests have been made the question of the seller’s good faith in making the sale is for the jury. Ibid.

The keeping for sale by druggists of tonics or other preparations containing a small percentage of alcohol is not a violation of a druggist’s permit if it appears that such preparations are not capable of being used as beverages. In re Application of Henery, 124-358.

In stating the purpose for which liquor is required in the request provided for by Code § 2394, the purchaser must state a purpose authorized by this section. State v. Swalium, 111-37.

SEC. 2386. Pharmacists—manufacturers of proprietary medicines. If any such registered pharmacist or manufacturer of proprietary medicines shall sell, barter, give, exchange, dispose of or use intoxicating liquors in any manner or for any purpose other than authorized in the preceding section, he shall be liable to all the penalties and proceedings provided for in this chapter, and upon proof of such violation by a registered pharmacist, the clerk of the district or superior court shall transmit to the commissioners of pharmacy a certified copy of the record thereof within ten days after its entry, and upon receipt of such certified copy said commissioner may strike his name from the list of registered pharmacists and cancel his certificate. The commissioners of pharmacy are empowered to make such further rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, with respect to the purchase, keeping and use of intoxicating liquors by registered pharmacists and manufacturers of proprietary medicines, as they shall think proper to prevent abuses of the privilege, and shall revoke the certificate of registration of any pharmacist for repeated violation of this chapter. Said commissioners are authorized to draw from the state treasury an amount not exceeding fifty per cent. of the clear proceeds of all fees collected and paid into the treasury of any county on account of violations of the provisions of this chapter or the chapter regulating the practice of pharmacy, prosecuted by the commissioners, the amounts so drawn to be used solely in prosecutions instituted by them for failure to comply with the provisions of such chapters. The court or clerk thereof, before whom any prosecution is instituted or prosecuted by the commissioners of pharmacy, shall certify to the auditor of state all such cases, and the amount of fees imposed and collected therein. The expenses thus incurred by the commission shall be audited by the executive council, and the amount thereof shall be drawn from time to time upon the warrants of the state auditor. [23 G. A., ch. 35, §§ 13, 17; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 18.] [27 G. A., ch. 56, § 1.]

SEC. 2387. Application for permit.

A decree entered by consent will bar one who has been enjoined from the selling of intoxicating liquors from receiving a permit under the provisions of the statute. In re Thoma, 117-275.

A judgment finding defendant guilty of violating his liquor permit whether entered by confession or in settlement of criminal or civil proceedings for such violation renders him ineligible to receive another permit within two years. In re Application of Wilhelm, 124-389.

A sale of alcohol without a permit, although to be used only for scientific purposes is unlawful and a sufficient ground for refusing the issuance of a permit on application within six months after such unlawful sale. In re Application of Henery, 124-358.

A drug store in which soda water and ice cream are sold is not a restaurant within the language of the statute prohibiting the issuance of permits for the sale of intoxicating liquors to the keepers of restaurants. Ibid.

Where the applicant has voluntarily surrendered his permit in consequence of an action for its revocation being brought, his application for a new permit should be denied unless he alleges and proves that he has not knowingly been engaged in the unlawful sale of liquor within two years next before making the application. In re Application of Smith, 125-128.

A particular description of the place in the petition for a permit and in the notice of the application therefor is absolutely necessary to give the court jurisdiction to hear the application and grant the permit. Muncey v. Collins, 132-50.

SEC. 2388. Notice. Notice of an application for a permit must be published, once each week, for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper regularly published and printed in the English language, and of general circulation in the township, town or city where the applicant proposes to conduct the business, or, if none be regularly published therein, then in one of the papers selected by the board of supervisors for the publication of its proceedings, the last publication of which shall be not less than ten nor more than twenty days before the first day of the term at which the hearing is to be had. This notice shall state the name of the applicant, with the firm name, if any, under which he is doing business, the purpose of the application, the particular location of the place where the proposed business is to be carried on, and that the required petition is or will be on file in the clerk's office of the court (naming it) at least ten days before the first day of the term (naming it) when the application will be made.
A copy of such notice shall be served upon the county attorney in the same manner and for the same length of time as is required of original notices in said courts. [23 G. A., ch. 35, § 3; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 2. | 30 G. A., ch. 2, § 7.]

SEC. 2389. Hearing—remonstrances.

Permits are not granted as a matter of course, and the requirement of the statutory provisions as to particularity of description in the petition and notice as to the place where the privilege is to be exercised is for the purpose of advising the court and public and those who may desire to resist the application as to the exact location where the business is to be conducted. Such description is therefore essential.

In an action to restrain the defendant from selling intoxicating liquors under a permit not sufficiently describing the place where sales were authorized to be made, the defendant is not entitled to have the decree of the court giving him a permit to sell amended so as to make the permit sufficient. Ibid.

The statute is not mandatory with reference to the term of court at which the application for a permit to sell intoxicating liquors shall be passed upon. While it is provided that on the filing of a remonstrance, the court shall fix a day in the term for the trial, and all applications shall be tried at the first term after completed service has been made of the required notice, if the business of the court shall allow, nevertheless the court may, in the exercise of its discretion, postpone the hearing to the next term, like other business. Cos v. Burnham, 120-43.

Any citizen of the county wherein the application is made, may file a remonstrance or objection to granting the permit, and when a remonstrance is thus filed a trial is to be had and the issue is to be determined by the court. In re Application of Smith, 126-128.

A remonstrant becomes in effect a party to the proceeding and may appeal from a decision granting the permit. Ibid.

The question whether the public necessities or conveniences require the granting of a permit is addressed to the discretion and judgment of the trial court. In re Application of Henery, 124-358.

Sales made elsewhere than in the place specified in the permit, while the permit holder continues in business in such place, will undoubtedly constitute a breach of his bond. But where the permit holder has ceased to conduct business in the authorized locality and is making sales in another building not covered by the permit, although corresponding in general to the description of the permit, the surety will not be liable. Carter v. Nicol, 116-519.
SEC. 2392. Permit issued. Upon taking said oath and filing said bond, the clerk of the court granting the same shall issue a permit to the applicant, authorizing him to keep and sell intoxicating liquors as in this chapter provided. The permit so issued shall specify the building, give the street and number or location in which intoxicating liquors may be sold by virtue of the same, and the length of time the same shall be in force, unless sooner revoked. Provided that upon the expiration of the lease or destruction of the building where such business is conducted, or for other good and sufficient cause shown, consent in writing of the bondsmen having been obtained therefor, or a new bond given, the district court of the county which granted said permit, or a judge of said court, may change the place specified in said permit to some other place in the same city, town, or township upon motion therefor. A copy of said motion, and notice of the time when and the place where the same will be heard, shall be given to the county attorney of the county where said place is situated, at least five days before said hearing. [23 G. A., ch. 35, §§ 5, 16.; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 7.] [27 G. A., ch. 57, § 1.]

A liquor license or privilege is not a property right which cannot be revoked without due process of law. McConkie v. Remley, 119-512.

The permit is a trust reposed in the holder, granted after being shown worthy, and may be revoked. An order granting a permit confers no property right and amounts to no more than a mere privilege to sell under certain conditions. McCoy v. Clark, 104-491.

Where the permit holder keeps for sale or sells contrary to law he may be enjoined for maintaining a nuisance. Ibid.

Where a permit holder takes orders at various places and delivers liquor in pursuance of such orders, and receives payment on delivery, the sales are to be deemed made at such places, and not at the place for which the permit is had. Carter v. Bartel, 110-211.

SEC. 2393. Record—costs. The clerk of the court granting the permit shall preserve as a part of the record and files in his office all petitions and other papers except bonds pertaining to the granting or revocation of permits, and keep suitable books in which bonds and permits shall be recorded. The books shall be furnished by the county like other public records. Whether said permit be granted or refused, the applicant shall pay the costs incurred in the case, and, when granted, he shall make payment before any permit issue, except the court may tax the cost of any witnesses summoned by private persons resisting said application, and the fees for serving such subpoenas, to such persons, when it is shown that such witnesses were summoned maliciously, or without probable cause to believe their evidence material. The fees in such cases shall be as provided in actions at law in the district court. [23 G. A., ch. 35, § 9; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 10.] [28 G. A., ch. 75, § 2.]

SEC. 2394. Requests to purchase.

The seller must believe the statements under the application to be true; he must know the applicant, or have him identified; and he must know or obtain proof that such applicant is not in the habit of using intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The law is violated by sale to persons in the habit of using liquor as a beverage, although the seller is ignorant of such habit. The seller sells at his peril. Harlan v. Richmond, 108-161.

If the applicant makes the purchase for another he must give the street and number of the user, and in such case is only required to state his own residence generally, but if he is to use the liquor himself he must describe his residence with the same particularity required when he purchases for another, that is, if his residence is in a numbered city he must give his own street and number. The purchaser must not be allowed to avoid these requirements of the law, even though by oversight, forgetfulness or mistake. State v. Swallum, 129-52.

The purchaser must specify in his request the exact purpose and use for which the liquor is required, which must be a use which is lawful under Code §2385. Ibid.

SEC. 2397. Returns by permit holders.

Where there was a violation of the law as to sale of intoxicating liquors, which consisted in a failure of a permit holder to make proper returns of sales, and an injunction was sought to restrain the permit holder from selling, held that, as it appeared that the permit holder had gone out of business, and was not intending to make further sales, the injunction was properly denied. Redley v. Greiser, 117-679.

SEC. 2399. Illegal sales by permit holder—evidence.

Although sales by a permit holder are only made on signed applications for such liquor to be used for medicine, yet if the seller has knowledge that the purchaser is a minor, or is in the habit of using liquor as a beverage, the sale is unlawful. State v. Skillicorn, 104-97.

The seller of intoxicating liquors is bound to know at his peril whether a person to whom he sells is within the prohibited class. Where a large number of sales appear to have been regularly made to the same person, and the character and habits of sobriety of persons to whom such sales were made were shown to be such as to bring them within the prohibited class, held, that a presumption of illegal sales would arise. Hall v. Coffin, 108-466.

The good faith of the seller is immaterial in determining whether the requests for liquor which are required to be preserved and returned by the permit holder may be introduced in evidence as against him. State v. Mulhern, 130-46.

Returns of sales made by the permit holder to the county auditor cannot be considered unless introduced in evidence and made a part of the record in the case. State v. Hallstad, 132-139.

Sales on written request, not containing the statements required by statute, are unlawful. State v. Harris, 122-78.

Where a sale would be illegal but for the identification required by statute, it cannot be transformed into a legal sale by proof that upon some former occasion a sale had been made to such purchaser which was legal because preceded by a proper identification and statement. State v. Mulhern, 130-46.

The question of good faith in making sales under a permit only arises when proper requests have been made. Prohibition is the rule, and permission to sell is the exception, and he who claims the right to sell must bring himself within the exception. State v. Gregory, 110-624.

SEC. 2400. Revocation of permit. Permits shall be deemed trusts reposed in the recipients, and may be revoked upon sufficient showing by order of a court or judge. Complaint may be presented at any time to the district or superior court, or a judge thereof, which shall be in writing and signed and sworn to by three citizens of the county in which the permit was granted. A copy of the complaint shall, with a notice in writing of the time and place of hearing, be served on the accused five days before the hearing, and if the complaint is sufficient, and the accused appear and deny the same, the court or judge shall proceed without delay, unless continued for cause, to hear and determine the controversy. If continued or appealed at the instance of the permit holder, his permit may, in the discretion of the court, be suspended during the controversy. The complainant and accused may be heard in person or by counsel, or both, and proofs may be offered by the parties; and if it shall appear upon such hearing that the accused has in any way abused the trust, or that liquors are sold by the accused or his employees in violation of law, or dispensed unlawfully, or he has in any proceeding, civil or criminal, within the last two years, been adjudged guilty of violating any of the provisions of this chapter, the court or judge shall revoke and set aside the permit; the papers and order in such case shall be immediately returned to and filed by the clerk of the court, and, if heard by a judge, the order shall be entered of record as if made in court; and if in this or any other proceeding, civil or criminal, it shall be adjudged by the court or judge that any registered pharmacist, proprietor or clerk has been guilty of violating any provision of this chapter, such adjudication may be by the commissioners of pharmacy regarded as sufficient, if repeated, to work a forfeiture of his certificate of registration. It shall be the duty of the clerk to forward to the commissioners of pharmacy transcripts of such judgments or orders without charge therefor, and as soon as practicable after final judgment or order has been made and entered. [23 G. A., ch. 35, § 7; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 8.] [27 G. A., ch. 38, § 1.]

SEC. 2401. How business conducted — partner — clerks — physicians. A permit holder may employ not more than two registered pharmacists as clerks to sell intoxicating liquors in conformity to the permit and the law; but in such cases the acts of clerks in conducting the business shall be considered the acts of the permit holder, who shall be liable therefor as if he had personally done them, and in making returns, the verification of such requests as may have been received, attested and filled by the clerk must be made by such clerk, and the clerk who transacted any of the business under the permit must join in the general oath required of the employer, so far as relates to his own connection therewith. If for any cause a registered pharmacist who holds a permit shall cease to hold a valid and subsisting certificate of registration or renewal thereof, his permit shall be forfeited and be null and void. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent licensed physicians from in good faith dispensing liquors as medicines to patients actually sick and under their treatment. In case a permit holder shall die, his personal or legal representative may continue the business, subject to the provisions thereof, through the agency of any reputable registered pharmacist, upon the approval of the court granting such permit, or the clerk thereof, and the giving of a bond as hereinbefore provided. A partner who is a registered pharmacist, not holding a permit, shall have the same rights and be subject to the same restrictions as clerks; and for whose acts the permit holder shall be held responsible the same in all respects as for his clerks. [23 G. A., ch. 35, §§ 2, 15; 22 G. A., ch. 71, § 16.] 28 G. A., ch. 76, § 1.]

Illegal sales of liquor made by a clerk although without authority may render the principal liable for nuisance. State v. O'Malley, 132-696.

The fact of settling a civil suit for injuries resulting from liquor furnished to a patient by a physician cannot be shown in a prosecution for illegal sale of such liquor. State v. Campbell, 129-154.

SEC. 2402. Intoxication punished.

To justify an arrest without a warrant on a charge of being intoxicated, it must be found that the person arrested was in fact in a state of intoxication. Snyder v. Thompson, 112 N. W. 239.

SEC. 2403. Repeal—sale or gift of intoxicating liquors—what prohibited. The law as it appears in section twenty-four hundred three (2403) of the code, and section twenty-four hundred three (2403) of the supplement to the code, is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"No person by himself, agent or otherwise, shall in any manner procure for, or sell or give any intoxicating liquors to any minor for any purpose, except upon written order of his parent, guardian, or family physician, or give to or in any manner procure for or sell the same to any intoxicated person, or to one in the habit of becoming intoxicated." [32 G. A., ch. 122, § 1.]

The statute absolutely prohibits the sale of liquor to a minor for any purpose whatever, and the seller is bound at his peril to know whether the person to whom he sells is within the prohibited class. Fielding v. La Grange, 104-530.

Proof that the purchaser was in fact under the age of majority makes out a prima facie case of sale to a minor, although there is no evidence that he had not attained his majority by marriage as provided in Code § 3188. State v. Mulhern, 130-46.

The penalty herein provided for is not covered by the bond required under Code § 2448, Par. 5, of one who carries on the business of selling under the mulct law, nor that provided for in Code § 2422, as to bonds required of permit holders. Headington v. Smith, 113-107.

Liability for illegal sale to minors and intoxicated persons cannot be enforced against the surety on a bond purporting to be executed in pursuance of the provisions of the mulct law, when it appears that the mulct law was not in force in the locality where the business was carried on. Gorman v. Williams, 117-560.

SEC. 2403-a. Penalty. Any person violating any of the provisions of section one hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof be fined in a sum not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than two hundred dollars, and costs of prosecution, and shall stand committed to the county jail until such fine and costs are paid. [32 G. A., ch. 122, § 2.]

SEC. 2405. Action to abate nuisance—Injunction—contempt.

A temporary injunction may be granted against a person holding a permit to sell intoxicating liquors for keeping for sale or selling the same in his pharmacy contrary to law. McCoy v. Clark, 104-491.

The granting of a temporary writ as a matter of course follows the continuance of an application for the temporary writ, but not a general continuance of the action. Powers v. Winters, 106-751.

An injunction may properly be granted against the premises on which the nuisance is maintained and the owner thereof. Carter v. Bartel, 110-211.

Where a case is made for an injunction it is error to refuse a preliminary writ. One who has been engaged in the traffic of intoxicating liquors in violation of law cannot avoid an injunction by simply making a profession of change of heart. Donnelly v. Smith, 128-257.

A partner and the partnership are liable for damages for the illegal and unauthorized sale of intoxicating liquors by which a wife is deprived of support which her husband should give her. Mathre v. Story City Drug Co., 130-111.

Where liquor is sold to an intoxicated person, and his death is caused by drinking the same, the administrator of the estate cannot recover damages for his death against the person selling the liquor in violation of this section. Bissell v. Starzinger, 112-266.

The action to recover the penalty provided for sales to minors or habitual drunkards, may be brought in the county of defendant's residence, irrespective of the place of sale. Carrier v. Bernstein, 104-572.

Such an action cannot be joined with an action by a wife to recover damages for sales of liquor to her husband. Ibid.

The provisions of the mulct law do not relieve one who sells under its provisions from liability for sales to minors or habitual drunkards. Ibid.

It is error to refuse a temporary injunction on the application of a citizen where it appears that the defendant operating under the mulct law is maintaining a place for the sale of liquor otherwise than in strict compliance with the provisions of the mulct law. State v. Roney, 133-416.

The notice of an application for a temporary injunction in vacation must show the name of the judge to whom the application will be made, and the specific place at which the application will be made. The original notice of the beginning of the action in which a temporary and also a permanent injunction will be asked is not sufficient. Beck v. Vaughn, 111 N. W. 994.

If the notice is not given as required, the preliminary injunction will be void for want of jurisdiction, and its enforcement may be enjoined. Ibid.
Permanent injunction: A decree of injunction should not be entered for the closing of a building and making the costs and attorney's fees in the action a lien thereon where it appears that the illegal sales in the building have been without the knowledge or consent of the owner and were for a very short time. Merrifield v. Swift, 103-167.

An injunction cannot be granted against a person to restrain him from selling liquor independent of the place where it is sold. State v. Frahm, 109-101.

Where a permanent injunction has already been granted against the members of a firm, another decree for an injunction against them as individuals should not be granted. Carter v. Bartel, 110-211.

An injunction may properly be granted against the premises on which the nuisance is maintained and the owner thereof. Ibid. Where it appears that defendant has in good faith abandoned the business before the trial and sold his interest in the premises on which the crime is charged to have been carried on, no injunction should be granted. Patterson v. Nicol, 115-283.

Where an injunction was sought to restrain a permit holder from making further sales, on the ground that he had violated the provisions of the law with reference to sales by such person, and it appeared that the defendant had gone out of business and had no intention of making further sales, held that the injunction was properly refused. Redley v. Greiner, 117-679.

A showing that on the eve of the trial the defendant has abandoned the business is not sufficient to warrant the court in refusing to grant an injunction, and in such case the court may properly tax costs and attorney's fees to such defendant. Drummond v. Richland City Drug Co., 129-206.

Primarily a suit under this section has for its object the termination of the unlawful use of the particular premises, and the resulting consequence of restraining one found guilty from establishing a nuisance elsewhere is only incidental. Therefore, if the action is abated under the provisions of Code § 2410 by the giving of bond no judgment can be rendered which will have effect as to a nuisance subsequently established on the premises. Morris v. Lowry, 113-544; Morris v. Connolly, 113-545.

One who is enjoined from the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor may, without violating such injunction, make sales in compliance with the provisions of the mulct law. Landt v. Remley, 113-555.

A prior injunction will not bar a second action to enjoin for the same nuisance where it appears that the prior injunction was secured through the fraud of the defendant. Cameron v. Tucker, 104-211.

A prior injunction against the owner of premises will not bar a second action for an injunction against such owner and sureties on his bond given under the provisions as to the mulct tax. Ibid.

An injunction restraining defendant from illegally selling liquors in a certain building is not void by reason of the recital therein that defendant was not the owner of the premises during the time of the previous sales and that subsequently the premises have been sold and possession thereof given to another, it appearing that such change of possession did not take place until after the temporary writ had been issued and served. Ohlrogg v. District Court, 126-247.

The general allegation that defendant has established and is keeping, using and maintaining a certain building described as a place for the sale of intoxicating liquors in violation of law, and as a place for keeping intoxicating liquors with intent to sell the same in violation of law, is sufficient in an action to enjoin the nuisance. But if it appears that the defendant is entitled to keep and sell intoxicating liquors by virtue of a permit, then the petition should further recite facts which render the keeping and sale of liquor by such person unlawful. Abrams v. Sandholm, 119-583.

Where it appears that the defendant is still engaged in the business and that the owner has taken no steps to abate the nuisance, the latter cannot complain of the granting of an injunction. McCracken v. Miller, 129-623.

The good faith of the person instituting the proceedings cannot be inquired into, nor the authority of the attorney purporting to represent him, where he has appeared as a witness and accepted responsibility for the action. Rizer v. Tapper, 133-628.

SEC. 2406. How brought and tried—evidence—attorney’s fee—investigation by county attorney—report. Actions to enjoin nuisances may be brought in the name of the state by the county attorney, who shall prosecute the same to judgment, or any citizen of the proper county may institute and maintain such a proceeding in his name. The action when brought shall be triable at the first term of court after due and timely service of notice of the commencement thereof has been given; and in such action evidence of the general reputation of the place described in the petition shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the existence of such nuisance. If the plaintiff is successful in the action, an attorney’s fee of twenty-five dollars shall be taxed as costs in his favor.

Such action, when brought by a citizen, shall not be dismissed upon the motion of either the plaintiff or defendant until the county attorney shall have been notified in writing of the filing of such motion, and until such county attorney shall have made a personal investigation of the place of business sought to be enjoined, and of all matters set forth in said motion for dismissal, and shall have filed, in writing, a report of his findings in said cause, and his recommendation in reference to the disposition of the same. If any such action shall remain upon the docket for two terms of court, without trial, it shall be the duty of the judge of such court to order the plaintiff and his attorney or attorneys of record, to appear in open court for examination as to the reasons why such cause has not been brought on for trial; and it shall be the duty of the county attorney to conduct such examination, if the judge shall so order. Whenever the court shall have reason to believe that any action commenced under this section has not been brought or prosecuted in good faith said court shall direct the grand jury to investigate all the facts and circumstances connected with the bringing and prosecution of the same. [21 G. A., ch. 66, § 1.] [30 G. A., ch. 82.]

This section fixes the amount of the attorney’s fee which is to be allowed in such cases under the general provisions of Code § 2429. Carter v. Bartel, 110-211.

An additional attorney’s fee may be taxed against the defendant on an appeal to the supreme court in which he is unsuccessful. Drummond v. Richland City Drug Co., 133-266.

The limitation of this section as to the amount of the fee does not apply to the allowance of an attorney fee under § 2429 providing for the allowance of such fee in proceedings to punish for contempt. Lingelbach v. Hobson, 130-488.

If the suit for an injunction is instituted by a citizen, he is free to employ any attorney he may choose, and he may prosecute a proceeding for contempt in violating the injunction when secured without the interposition of the county attorney. Brennan v. Roberts, 125-615.

Where the action is brought in the name of the state, it must be brought by the county attorney. The defendant is not bound to respond in such an action brought by an attorney other than the county attorney. Belk v. Vaughn, 111 N. W. 994.

The judge may issue a temporary writ of injunction in vacation on the petition of the state or citizens of the county under this section, as well as on the petition of a citizen of the county under Code § 2405. Young v. Preston, 131-292.

The mere fact of the possession of liquor is evidence of keeping for illegal sale where it does not appear that the defendant is entitled to sell by virtue of a permit or some other lawful authority. Abrams v. Sandholm, 119-583.

One who consents to the prosecution of an injunction suit in his name and testifies that he is the plaintiff in such proceeding cannot deny the authority of the attorney by whom the proceeding is prosecuted, and attorney fees may be taxed in favor of such attorney. Plank v. Hertha, 132-213.

SEC. 2407. Violation of injunction.

It is no defense that accused has acted in good faith upon the advice of counsel in regard to selling liquor in violation of the injunction. State v. Stevenson, 104-50.

It is immaterial that the judge calls the defendant to answer for contempt by notice or citation rather than by warrant of arrest, if the defendant actually appears and submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court for the purposes of the case. State v. Thompson, 130-227.

A decree enjoining a party from selling liquor is self-executing and its violation is a contempt, though no formal writ of injunction has issued and been served on such defendant. Bartel v. Hobson, 107-644.

Where the defendant who is enjoined is represented in the case by attorney when the decree is rendered, he is chargeable with notice of the decree. Hawks v. Fellows, 108-133.

Violation by an agent of an injunction will subject the principal to punishment for contempt. Ibid.

Where it appeared that one charged with contempt in violating an injunction had not complied with the conditions of the mulct law, held that an order discharging him in a proceeding for contempt was improper, and on certiorari it was annulled. Jones v. Byington, 128-397.

Whether the provisions of Code § 5337 as to withdrawal of a plea of guilty in a criminal prosecution is applicable to proceedings to punish for violation of a liquor injunction or not, it is too late to withdraw such plea after the judgment of the court has been pronounced, although it is not yet entered of record. Beatty v. Roberts, 125-619.

This section requires the setting out of the alleged facts constituting the violation of the injunction, but an information reciting the issuance of an injunction, the knowledge thereof, and the selling and keeping for sale of liquor in violation of its terms, is sufficient. It was not intended to require the setting out of the evidence upon which the proceeding must finally be determined. McGlasson v. Scott, 112-289.

SEC. 2408. Abatement.

The existence of a nuisance being established, a decree, as provided in this section, must be given, unless action has been abated by the owner giving bond, and paying costs before order of abatement, as provided in Code § 2410. Such abatement should have the effect of closing the building referred to against all uses, unless sooner released by proceedings under that section. McCoy v. Clark, 109-464.

SEC. 2410. Abatement by owner. If the owner appears and pays all costs of the proceeding, and files a bond with sureties to be approved by the clerk in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court, or, in vacation, by the clerk, auditor and treasurer of the county, conditioned that he will immediately abate said nuisance and prevent the same from being established or kept therein within a period of one year thereafter, the court, or, in vacation, the judge, may, if satisfied of his good faith, order the premises closed under the order of abatement to be delivered to said owner, and said order of abatement cancelled so far as the same may relate to said property; and if the proceeding be an action in equity, and said bond be given and costs therein paid before judgment and order of abatement, the action shall be thereby abated as to said building only. The release of the property under the provisions of this section shall not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty or liability to which it may be subject by law. [21 G. A., ch. 66, § 7.] [29 G. A., ch. 94, § 1.]

The giving of a bond abates the action, and not simply the nuisance, and therefore in such a case no judgment can be rendered. Morris v. Lowry, 113-544; Morris v. Connolly, 113-545.

SEC. 2412. Prepayment of fees not required—costs taxed to plaintiff.

One who procures a temporary injunction without complying with the statutory provisions with reference thereto so that the proceeding is void, is liable for costs in an action instituted against him, and others, to enjoin the enforcement of the decree. Beck v. Vaughn. 111 N. W. 994.

SEC. 2413. Search warrant—seizure.

While the information should state the name of the owner or keeper of the intoxicating liquor so that in case of seizure notice thereof may be given to him, yet the determination as to who owned or kept it is important only when the owner or keeper resists unsuccessfully a judgment of forfeiture, and it becomes necessary.
In an action to recover damages for the sale of intoxicating liquors, the person injured is not required to establish all the elements of an injury actionable at common law. And held that the wife of one who committed suicide while intoxicated by reason of unlawful sales of liquor to him by a permit holder might recover damages without showing that her husband would not have committed suicide had the defendant not sold him the liquor. It is sufficient in such case to show that the act was committed while the husband was in fact intoxicated with liquor unlawfully sold to him by defendant. Bistline v. Ney, 111 N. W. 422.

The measure of damages in an action for loss to a wife by reason of causing the intoxication of her husband is dependent on what the husband had in fact done for the support of the wife prior to the wrong acts of defendant in selling him intoxicating liquors. Bellison v. Apland, 115 N. W. 422.

It is error to instruct the jury that the defendant in such a case is liable for all damages sustained by plaintiff on account of the intoxication of her husband where it appears that the husband procured intoxicating liquors elsewhere, which he drank, and which contributed to his botted condition during the time complained of. Ibid.

Evidence of former suits of the same character by the wife against other defendants is admissible on the question of plaintiff's good faith in bringing the action. Ibid.

An action by a wife for damages for the sale of intoxicating liquor to her husband cannot be joined with an action to recover a penalty for sale to minors or intoxicated persons. Carrier v. Bernstein, 104-572.

In an action to recover damages for permanent injuries received by the husband by reason of the intoxication complained of, he may be permitted as a witness to exhibit to the jury his physical condition. Faivre v. Manderscheid, 117-724.

A joint action may be maintained against different persons who contributed to the intoxicated condition causing injury to the husband, although the defendants were conducting separate places of business and did not act in concert. Ibid.

A wife, suing for injuries sustained by reason of the sale of intoxicating liquors by defendant to her husband, is not limited to the recovery of damages resulting from habitual intoxication, but may recover for damages resulting from specific intoxications, so far as defendant may have contributed thereto. League v. Ehmske, 120-464.

The fact that by reason of habitual intoxication the husband was not furnishing support to his wife prior to the time of the sales to his husband by the defendant, will not defeat the liability of the defendant for continuance of such condition by reason of sales made by him. Ibid.

A seiler who by his acts contributes to a condition of habitual intoxication, cannot escape liability for specific injuries due to a particular fit of intoxication, not caused by liquor sold by him. Ibid.

Although the language of Code § 2418 differs slightly from that of section 1557 of the Code of '73, nevertheless, one who is entitled to sell liquors by reason of the mulct law, but who sells without compliance with the conditions of the law, is liable in civil damages to a wife who is injured by reason of such sales to her husband. Ibid.

In an action to recover damages for the death of a person caused by the sale of intoxicating liquors to him, life tables showing his expectancy of life are admissible in evidence. Knott v. Peterson, 120-494.

The fact that the husband, for whose death, due to the defendant's wrongful act in selling him intoxicating liquors, the wife seeks recovery, has on account of the habits of intoxication failed to support his wife prior to his death is not to be taken into account in measuring the amount of her recovery. Ibid.
In an action for damages resulting from the sale of intoxicating liquors to plaintiff's husband, held that testimony tending to show that the husband was addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors six or seven years prior to the time involved in the action was incompetent as a part of plaintiff's case. Mathre v. Deven-dorf, 190-107.

It is not competent for the defendant to show by way of defense that the plaintiff has instituted a suit against another for damages for sales of liquors to her husband within the same period of time covered by the petition in the case on trial. Ibid.

The wife is entitled to recover in such cases for only such damages as she has suffered by reason of defendant's act. Ibid.

The jury should not be permitted to give double damages by means of allowance for impaired ability to secure or hold remunerative employment in addition to damages to plaintiff's support or means of support. Ibid.

It is competent to show that the intoxication of the plaintiff's husband prevented him from securing or holding a permanent position of employment. Mathre v. Story City Drug Co., 130-111.

Ordinarily a firm or a partner will not be liable for the wilful or negligent tort of a partner acting beyond the scope of his authority; but an exception to this rule exists where the damage claimed is for unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors. Ibid.

In an action by a child for damages on account of sale of liquor to a parent, evidence of the number of children, even though immaterial, will not be prejudicial. Shull v. Arle, 113-170.

Under this section both principal and agent are liable, but the principal is liable for an authorized sale made by the agent. Ibid.

Damages may be recovered in behalf of an illegitimate child who has been recognized by the parent. Goulding v. Phillips, 124-496.

The bondsmen of one who purports to sell in compliance with the conditions of the mulct law, but has not filed the requisite consent of adjoining property owners, are liable for damages provided for under this section. Breeding v. Jordan, 115-696.

SEC. 2419. Transportation to one not holding permit.

The crime described in this section may be charged in the language of the statute. State v. Reilly, 108-755.

An individual engaged in illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors, if not a carrier, falls within the designation of "other persons" under the language of this section. Ibid.

Notwithstanding the so-called Wilson law, the statutory provisions as to transportation of liquors into the state have no application to carriers transporting such liquors into the state from another state. Rhode v. Iowa, 170 U. S. 412.

Although by arrangement between the seller of intoxicating liquors in one state and the buyer thereof in another, the goods may be shipped C. O. D. by the seller without subjeecting them to the provisions of the law of the state to which they are shipped, with reference to the sale of intoxicating Liquors (American Express Co. v. Iowa, 196 U. S. 133, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep., 182, overruling 118 Iowa, 447), yet the legal effect of such transaction as to the time when title to the liquor passes from the seller to the buyer may be controlled by evidence as to the intention of the parties. Hamilton v. Schlitz Brewing Co., 129-172.

The transportation and delivery of a C. O. D. package of liquor by an express company does not render the company liable for damages resulting from the sale thereof. Chambers v. Adams Express Co., 128-154.

An express company receiving liquors from a consignor outside of the state, to be transported to a consignee in the state and delivered to him on payment of the purchase price and charges of transportation, the shipment having been made in pursuance of an order of the consignee, accepted by the consignor, acts as the agent of the consignor in the transportation of liquors and as the agent of the consignor in the collection of the charges, and cannot be deemed the seller nor an agent of the seller of the liquors, in violation of federal or state law. United States v. Adams Exp. Co., 119 Fed. 240.

Where the real owner of property has an opportunity to make defense in the action he is bound by the judgment declaring a lien on such property. State v. Mauser, 105-86.

Where defendant has been convicted of maintaining a liquor nuisance, the government may remit the fine, but cannot remit the costs nor suspend their execution. Ibid.

The bond here provided for does not cover the penalty authorized by Code § 2403 in case of sales to minors. Headington v. Smith, 113-107.

Authority to sell under the provisions

Title XII, Ch. 6. INTOXICATING LIQUORS. §§ 2419-2422 of the mulct law is not the same as that given to a permit holder. Ibid.

SEC. 2423. Payments—contracts—negotiable paper.

In general: An action under this section to recover back payments made for intoxicating liquors is an action for the enforcement of a statutory penalty, and cannot therefore be removed to the federal courts. 116-176.

The premises on which a liquor nuisance is maintained are liable to a judgment for a fine imposed for the illegal keeping of liquors, although constituting the homestead of the seller. Jasper County v. Sparham, 135-464.

One who takes the property by conveyance prior to the enforcement of the fine takes it subject to the judgment. Ibid.
The indictment for a liquor nuisance need not specifically describe the premises on which the judgment will become a lien, but the property may be identified by evidence when it is sought to enforce the lien against it. Ibid.

As to payments for liquors unlawfully sold in this state, the obligation to repay exists from the time the payment is made, and only demand is necessary to maintain an action on the claim, and therefore such a claim may be introduced by way of counter claim, under the provisions of Code § 3570, although at the time the original action is brought no demand has yet been made. Ibid.

An order given for liquor subject to approval in another state becomes binding upon such approval and the shipment of the liquor in response thereto and the payment of the purchase price may be burg, 130-220.

Where the sale of intoxicating liquors actually takes place in another state, no recovery may be had for payments made therefor. Hamilton v. Schlitz Brewing Co., 129-172.

Prohibition being the rule, the burden is upon one seeking to recover payment for intoxicating liquors sold to show that the sales, if made in this state, were lawful.
But if it appears that the sale was made in another state it will not be presumed to have been unlawful. Westheimer v.
Habineck, 131-643.

If sold in another state and shipped to this state for delivery, to the purchaser, the liquors while in the hands of the carrrier and still subject to the control and direction of the seller do not become subject to the police regulations of the state.
Ibid.

When the buyer accepts liquors shipped to him on his order, given to the seller in another state, his liability is on the contract of sale thus made in the state where the seller resides, even though in the meantime he has countermanded the order. His acceptance is to be deemed a waiver of the countermand, rather than as giving rise to an action on implied contract. Gross
v. Feehan, 110-183.

A contract between a principal in another state and an agent in this state to sell intoxicating liquor in original packages prior to the passage of the act of congress subjecting the traffic in intoxicating liquors brought into the state to the regulations of the state, was not unlawful.
A note and mortgage given to secure payment for the interest of a party engaged in the business of illegally handling intoxicating liquor cannot be enforced. Singer v. McNamara, 111 N. M. 925.

SEC. 2424. Requisites of indictment or information—testimony of purchaser.

Under the special statutory provisions as to prosecutions for liquor nuisances, it is not necessary in the indictment to allege that the liquors kept by the defendant were sold or kept in violation of law. State v. Brown, 100 N. W. 1011.

SEC. 2425. Several counts—second conviction.

A prosecution under this section is within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, although the aggregate of the fines imposed may be in excess of $10, but this is because more than one offense may be charged in the information, the penalty for each offense being within the constitutional limitation. State v. Babcock, 112-250.

SEC. 2427. Evidence of illegal selling or keeping—license.

The presumption which arises from the finding of liquor on the premises of defendant is that the liquor is kept by some one for illegal sale, and in a prosecution for forfeiture of such liquor the burden is on defendant claiming to be the owner of the liquor to show not only that he did not keep the liquor for illegal sale, but that it was not kept by any one for that purpose. State v. Intoxicating Liquors, 109-145.

The possession of a federal license to sell liquor is presumptive evidence of the selling and keeping for sale. McCracken v. Miller, 129-623.

The discovery of liquor on the premises is presumptive evidence of keeping for illegal sale, but does not tend to prove the act of selling in violation of law. State v. Thompson, 130-227.

SEC. 2429. Attorney’s fees.

The provisions of this section as to the amount of the attorney’s fees are limited by those of Code § 2406 and the cases provided for in that section. Carter v. Bartel, 110-211.

Under this section the limitation of § 2406 as to the amount of the fees to be allowed in an action to enjoin a nuisance is not applicable. Lingelbach v. Hobson, 130-488.

The statute authorizes the taxation of attorney’s fees as a part of the costs and also allows ten per cent. for collecting the penalty imposed. Brennan v. Roberts, 125-615.

SEC. 2431. Evasions.

Statutes designed to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors are to be construed and interpreted by the rules having application to statutes generally, save as modified by the provisions of this section, that it shall be the duty of courts and jurors to construe the general chapter relating to the subject of intoxicating liquors so as to prevent evasion. Ooz v. Burnham, 120-45.

MULCT TAX.

SEC. 2432. Payment of—lien.

The mulct tax is not payable by a registered pharmacist who has a permit for the sale of intoxicating liquors, although he sells in violation of his permit. In re Assignment of Shonkwiler, 104-67.

Where at the time the mulct tax law went into effect certain premises were already leased under terms by which the lessor could terminate the lease in the case of illegal sale of liquor on the premises, and the lessor had knowledge of illegal sales and did not take steps to terminate the lease, held, that the premises were subject to the tax. In re Smith, 104-199.

No notice to the lot owner of the assessment and levy of the mulct tax is necessary. It is a tax to be assessed and levied by virtue of a general law upon certain persons and property coming within the provisions of the act. The statute contemplated that the person liable to the tax shall appear and pay the same without notice. Ibid.

The mulct tax is to be assessed against every person, other than registered pharmacists holding permits, who is engaged in selling or in keeping with intent to sell intoxicating liquors, and upon the real property and the owner thereof, in or upon which such liquors are sold or kept with intent to sell. The tax is to be assessed regardless of the fact that no petition of consent has been secured or permission to sell granted. The petition and permission are important only in determining whether prosecution under the prohibitory law is barred; they have no relation to the taxing provision. Ibid.

The mulct tax may properly be levied against the owner of the premises who, by the use of ordinary care and diligence, might have known of the unlawful sales of liquor thereon. David v. Hardin County, 104-204.

Under provisions of prior statutes requiring a levy of the mulct tax annually by the board of supervisors, held that where sales were continued for more than six months of the year there could not be any abatement of the full amount of the annual tax. Hubbell v. Polk County, 106-618.

The assessment of the prior statute as to time of making the levy held directory only and that a levy in December instead of in September was valid. Ibid.

Although the tax is payable in quarterly installments, the liability therefor attaches at the beginning of each annual period. Kane v. Grady, 123-260.

It is the property used in connection with the business, and this alone, which is liable for the tax. If a man has divided his property in good faith, so that a part is not used in connection with the business, such part is not liable for the tax, whether it be a part of the same plat lot, or a distinct or separate portion of the same block of buildings. It does not follow that because, for the purpose of a general assessment, property has been treated as one tract, the entire tract is subject to mulct tax. Lucas County v. Leonard, 107-593.

SEC. 2433. Return by assessor. In the months of December, March, June, and September of each year, and before the twentieth day of each of said months, the assessor of each township, town or city, or assessment district thereof, shall return to the county auditor a list of persons who are, or since the last quarterly return have been, engaged in carrying on within said township, town, city or assessment district the business of selling or keeping for sale intoxicating liquors, or maintaining any place where such liquors are sold or kept for sale, and also a description of the real property wherein or whereon such business is carried on or such place is maintained, with the name of the occupant or tenant and owner or agent. At least five (5) days before the assessor makes the return above contemplated to the county auditor he shall give to the person found in possession of each place which he intends to list, or is required to list, and to the tenant occupant and owner of such place a notice in writing that he intends to return such list to the county auditor charging the property itself and the owner of the property therein described and the person who owns or conducts the business with the mulct tax. But if any one of the persons to whom the assessor is herein required to give notice does not reside within the assessor's assessment district it shall be sufficient for the assessor to mail, at least five days before he makes such return to the auditor, a copy of such notice to such person at his last known post-office address; and if there is any one whose post-office address cannot be ascertained by the assessor it shall be sufficient as to such person for the assessor to post a copy of such notice in some conspicuous place on the front of the property about to be listed as liable to the tax. Service of notice on any agent having general charge of the property or on any agent renting or collecting rent on the property so used or having authority to rent or collect rent on such property, or on any member of the owner's family over fourteen (14) years of age shall be equivalent to notice to the owner of such property. The assessor shall give notice in each case in such one of the ways above provided as the circumstances of the case require, and he shall show in his return to the auditor that he has given notice and the manner of the service. The return signed by the assessor shall in all cases be admissible in evidence without further proof, and such return shall have the same force and effect as the oath of the assessor. The burden of proof shall in all cases be upon the party claiming that notice was not given. The county auditor shall furnish to the several assessors of his county, printed blanks upon which to give the notice contemplated in this amendment. Any assessor wilfully failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall pay a fine of fifty dollars and costs for each offense. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 2.] [29 G. A., ch. 95, § 1.]

SEC. 2435. Statement by citizens. Should the assessor for any reason fail to perform his duty, any three citizens of the county can, by verified statement on information and belief, addressed to the county auditor, procure the listing of names and places as above provided, with the same force and effect as if done by the assessor. At least five (5) days before listing the property or names with the county auditor as contemplated in code section twenty-four hundred thirty-five (2435) such citizens shall give notice in writing of their intention so to do to the same parties and in the same manner as required of the assessor in section one (1) of this amendment, and proof of the service of notice shall be made by the affidavit of one or more of the citizens making the return, which affidavit shall be returned to and filed with the auditor with the list of names and property sought to be charged; and the return and affidavit of the citizens so filed with the county auditor shall be admissible in evidence in the same way and with the same force and effect as the return of the assessor. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 3.] [29 G. A., ch. 95, § 2.]

SEC. 2436. Quarterly installments—lien—penalty.

Under previous statutory provisions levy of the tax by the board of supervisors was essential. Smithberg v. Archer, 108-215. Where one sells liquor after the beginning of a period for which taxes are to be paid he becomes liable for the entire amount of the tax, and evidence of subsequent abandonment of the business before the expiration of the period is immaterial. State v. Miller, 114-396.

A surety on the bond who pays the tax is not subrogated to the county's rights under this section: Knoll v. Marshall County, 114-647.

The liquor seller is liable for the full tax for the quarter in which he commences business and the liability of his surety is the same. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126-539.

SEC. 2437. List certified to treasurer—mulct tax account. On the last day of December, of March, of June, and of September in each year, the county auditor shall certify to the county treasurer a complete list of the names of persons returned to him by the assessors, or entered on the sworn statements made to him by citizens as aforesaid, together with a description in each case of the real property wherein or whereon the business is carried on or the place maintained, and the name of the occupant or tenant, and the owner or agent of such property, and the county auditor shall keep in his office in books to be provided for that purpose an account to be known as the "Mulct Tax Account" in which memoranda of all moneys which may come into his hands and those of the county treasurer, from the mulct tax, shall be entered; and the county treasurer shall keep a like account and record of all mulct tax coming into his hands. Settlement of such accounts shall be made with the board of supervisors at the January and June sessions of the board, which settlement shall be published with the proceedings of the board. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 10.] [30 G. A., ch. 83, § 1.]

The mulct tax is made a lien only on the real property wherein or whereon the business is conducted. O'Banion v. DeGarmo, 121-139.

The notice by citizens of the county of an application to the auditor to have places listed as subject to mulct tax, which have been omitted by the assessor, must be notice in writing, proof of the service of which is to be made by the affidavit of one of the citizens making the application, and proof of service of such notice by a constable is insufficient. National Loan & Inv. Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 111 N. W., 1008.

SEC. 2438. Entry of tax—payments made to county treasurer. The county treasurer shall thereupon enter upon a book known as the "mulct tax book" a quarterly installment of the mulct tax, as due and payable by the person carrying on such business or keeping such place, and as a lien and charge upon and against the real property wherein or whereon such business is carried on or such place maintained. All payments of mulct tax shall be made to the county treasurer upon a certificate from the county auditor showing the amount due. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 10.] [30 G. A., ch. 83, § 2.]

SEC. 2439. When delinquent—sales for—redemption—title in the county. After the expiration of one month from the date when such tax becomes due and payable, if not paid, it shall be delinquent and collectible by the treasurer in the same method as that in which other delinquent taxes are collectible, and all the provisions as to the collection of other delinquent taxes shall apply. Tax sales for such delinquent taxes shall also be made on the first Monday in June of each year, in the same manner and to the same effect as on the first Monday in December, and all the provisions of law as to tax sales in December shall apply to such sales in June. When real estate offered at tax sale under this section shall be passed for want of bid covering amount of tax due thereon, it shall be advertised and sold by the treasurer at next semi-annual tax sale. The treasurer shall appoint, prior to such sale, three appraisers who shall appraise the value of any and all property to be offered at such sale, taking into account any superior, valid lien thereon, and file a separate appraisement for each parcel; and the cost thereof shall be added to the penalty. If at the sale an amount less than the tax and penalty and less than the appraisement is offered, the property shall be sold to the county; at the appraised value, if it is less than the tax and penalty; or at the tax and penalty, if they are less than the appraised value. The provisions of sections fourteen hundred and thirty-six (1436), fourteen hundred and thirty-seven (1437), and fourteen hundred and thirty-eight (1438) of the code shall apply to the redemption; but the supervisors may allow redemption for any amount deemed advantageous to the county; and in default thereof after notice to redeem as provided by section fourteen hundred and forty-one (1441) of the code, the treasurer shall execute a deed to the county, without fee, and such deed shall have, so far as applicable, all the effect as provided by section fourteen hundred and forty-four (1444) of the code as to vesting in the county all the right, title, interest and estate of the former owner in and to the land conveyed. On redemption or on final sale of the property the proceeds shall be applied as provided by section twenty-four hundred and forty-five (2445) of the code. While thus acquiring title the county, to protect its interest, may bid in the property at ordinary tax sale and acquire title under the same terms and conditions as other tax sale purchasers. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 12, 13.] [31 G. A., ch. 99.]

A suit in equity cannot be maintained against the owner of the land on which the nuisance is situated to enforce the pay- ments of the tax. Crawford County v. Laub, 110-355.

SEC. 2441. Application for remission.

The board of supervisors in considering an application for remission of the mulct tax has no power to determine the question of priority as against a mortgage of the premises, nor can the district court on appeal from the action of the board of supervisors consider such question. David v. Hardin County, 104-204.

The word "year" as used in 25 G. A., chap. 62, with reference to the mulct tax, has reference to a calendar year; and therefore where the tax was not payable in advance because the case was not one where consent to the sale could be given, and the property was not shown to be subject to assessment until near the end of the calendar year, held that the board of supervisors at its January meeting could only levy such tax on the premises for the remainder of the preceding calendar year. Ibid.

But where the place had been used for more than six months of the calendar year for sale of liquor and the board at its September meeting levied a tax of six hundred dollars against the property, held, that under the statute the owner was not entitled to a remission of any portion of the tax on the ground that the premises had thus been used for less than one year. Engelthaler v. Linn County, 104-293.

Notice of the proceedings against the property need not be given to the property owner, nor is the fact that the owner did not know of the sale of liquor on his premises controlling, and Code §§ 2433 et seq. are not unconstitutional in this respect. Newton v. McKay, 130-596.

The mulct tax is imposed upon all except permit holders who carry on the business of selling or keeping for sale intoxicating liquors. Payment of the tax does not in itself constitute a bar to proceedings for the unlawful sale of liquors. It is not therefore a license. The legislature may impose a tax without legalizing the business taxed. Ibid.

The statutory provisions as to the assessment and collection of the mulct tax do not involve notice of the assessment or levy of the tax. Notwithstanding the omission of any provision for such notice, the statute is not unconstitutional. Hodge v. Muscatine County, 121-482.

Such statute confers no right but imposes an impediment to the transaction of the business. It is a tax on that business levied to meet the burdens imposed on the general public by what is thought to be the result of the conduct of such business. Ibid.

As the property owner may apply to the board of supervisors for remission of the tax, notice to the property owner of the imposition of such tax by the board is not essential to its validity. Hodge v. Muscatine County, 196 U.S. 276.

SEC. 2445. Tax divided and apportioned.

The county treasurer is not entitled to a collection fee under Code § 490 for the portion of the regular mulct tax which is to be paid to the city, but may collect...
such fee as to any additional mulct tax imposed by the city and collected by him.
Waverly v. Bremer County, 126-98.
The full amount of the tax is recoverable by the county, one half the amount recovered being for the use of the city or town in which the business is conducted.
O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126-539.

SEC. 2447. Effect of payment.

The business of selling intoxicating liquor in compliance with the provisions of the mulct law is lawful, and a note given by one partner in such business to another for the purchase of the interest of the latter in such business is valid. Phillips
v. Gifford, 104-458.

A condition in such note that it shall be void "if the payor is obliged to abandon his present business on account of a change of the liquor law by the next legislature," held to be a valid condition. Ibid.

A person operating under the mulct law is engaged in a lawful occupation. State
v. Miller, 114-396; Iowa City v. McInerney, 114-586.

The statute confers no right but imposes an impediment to the transaction of the business. It is a tax on that business levied to meet the burdens imposed on the general public by what is thought to be the result of the conduct of such business.
Hodge v. Muscatine County, 121-482.

The mulct tax is imposed upon all except permit holders, who carry on the business of selling or keeping for sale intoxicating liquors. Payment of the tax does not in itself constitute a bar to proceedings for the unlawful sale of liquors. It is not therefore a license. The legislature may impose a tax without legalizing the business taxed. Newton v. McKay, 130-596.

The provisions of the mulct law do not relieve the parties selling in accordance therewith from liability to a wife for damages by reason of sales to her husband or from the penalty provided for sales, to minors or habitual drunkards. Carrier

Notwithstanding a mistake of law on the part of one carrying on a business under the supposed protection of the mulct law, he renders himself liable to the penalties of the prohibitory law if he violate the conditions under which he is authorized to conduct the business. State v. Gifford, 111-648.

One who sells in compliance with the mulct law does not violate a previous injunction restraining him from making further unlawful sales, but if he attempts to act under the mulct law without complying with its provisions he violates such injunction. Landt v. Remley, 113-555.

Prohibition is still the rule in this state, and freedom from the penalties imposed by the liquor law for the sale of intoxicants the exception, and he who would bring himself within the exception must prove compliance with all the conditions imposed to secure immunity. Schuneman

SEC. 2448. When a bar—conditions. In any city, including cities acting under special charters, of five thousand or more inhabitants, no proceedings shall be maintained against any person who has paid the last preceding quarterly assessment of mulct tax, nor against any premises as a nuisance on account of the selling or keeping for sale therein or thereon, by such person, of such liquors, provided the following conditions are complied with; and in any city of over twenty-five hundred and less than five thousand inhabitants, when a written statement of consent that intoxicating liquors may be sold in such city, signed by eighty per cent. of the voters residing in such city, voting therein at the last preceding election, as shown by the poll list of said election, shall have been filed with the county auditor, and shall by the board of supervisors at a regular meeting, or at a special meeting called for that purpose, have been held sufficient, and its findings entered of record, which statement when thus found sufficient, shall be effectual for the purpose herein contemplated until revoked, said city shall come within the provisions of this section:

1. Statement of consent—action of supervisors. A written statement of general consent that intoxicating liquors may be sold in such city, signed by a majority of the voters residing in such city, voting therein at the last preceding election, as shown by the poll list of said election, shall have been filed with the county auditor and shall, by the board of supervisors, at a regular meeting, have been held sufficient, and its finding entered of record, which statement when thus found sufficient, shall be effectual for the purpose herein contemplated, until revoked, as hereinafter provided.

2. Resolution of council—consent of property owners—officers barred—limits. The person appearing to pay the tax shall file with the county auditor a certified copy of a resolution regularly adopted by the city council, consenting to such sales by him, and a written statement of consent from all the resident freeholders owning property within fifty feet of the building where said business is carried on. But in no case shall said business be conducted by any person holding any township, town, city or county office, or within three hundred feet of any church building, schoolhouse, or cemetery, nor within one-half mile of the place where any agricultural fair is being held.

3. Bond. He shall file with the county auditor, to be approved by the clerk of the district court, a bond to the county, in the sum of three thou­sand dollars, conditioned upon the faithful observance of all the provisions of this chapter relating to the mulct tax, and for the payment of all damages that may result from the sale of intoxicating liquors upon the premises occupied by the obligor. Said bond shall be signed by himself as principal, and by two sureties who shall qualify each in double the amount of the bond, and neither of whom shall be surety on any other like bond, pro­vided that any surety company, authorized to do business in this state, under the laws thereof may become sole surety on any and all bonds re­quired under this section.

4. Place of sale. Said selling or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquors shall be carried on in a single room having but one entrance or exit, and that opening upon a public business street. The bar where liquors are furnished shall be in plain view of the street, unobstructed by screens, blinds, painted windows or any other device. There shall be no chairs, benches, nor any other furniture in front of the bar, and only such behind the bar as is necessary for the attendants. A list of names of all persons employed about the place shall be filed with the county auditor, and no persons shall be permitted behind the bar except those whose names are so listed.

5. Conduct. The place shall be conducted in a quiet, orderly manner.

6. Gaming and amusements. There shall be no gambling or gaming with cards, dice, billiards or any other device, nor any music, dancing or other form of amusement or entertainment, either in the room where said business is carried on or in any adjoining room or building controlled by the person, partnership or corporation carrying on said business.

7. Obscene pictures. There shall be no obscene or impure decorations, inscriptions, placards or any such thing in the place.

8. Females. No female shall be employed in the place.

9. Opening and closing. The place shall not be open nor any sales be made earlier than five a. m. nor later than 10 p. m. on any day. It shall not be open at all, nor shall any sales be made, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, nor on any election day or legal holiday, nor on the evening of such days.

10. Minors, drunkards, intoxicated persons. No minor, drunkard or intoxicated person shall be allowed in the room, and no sales of intoxicating liquors shall be made to any minor, drunkard or intoxicated person, or knowingly to any person who has taken any of the so-called “cures for drunkenness.”

11. Written notice not to sell. No sale of intoxicating liquors shall be made to any person whose wife, husband, parent, child, brother, sister, guardian, ward over fourteen years of age, or employer, shall by written notice forbid such sales.
12. Payment of tax. If the name of a person desiring to carry on the business of selling or keeping for sale intoxicating liquors, or maintaining a place where such liquors are sold or kept for sale, has not been entered by the auditor on the list of such persons as hereinbefore provided for, or if the property wherein or whereon such business is to be conducted has not likewise been entered by the auditor on such list, then the name of such person and the description of such property shall be entered upon such list by the treasurer, and a quarterly installment of tax shall be paid as though the name of such person and the description of such property had been duly entered upon such list at the last preceding quarterly assessment for such purpose. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 17; 18 G. A., ch. 82; 18 G. A., ch. 147; 17 G. A., ch. 119, § 2; C., '73, § 1114.] [29 G. A., ch. 96, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 100.]

[The amendment by the 31G. A. ignored code supplement where same appeared. The change has been to the code supplement.]

Conditions; burden of proof: As against a charge of violating an injunction in selling intoxicating liquors the defendant claiming to act in compliance with the mulct law has the burden of showing performance of all the conditions which are in their nature conditions precedent, but it is for the complaining party to show violations of the law involving matters of conduct only, as that sales are made to minors or on Sunday. Jones v. Byington, 128-397.

The seller who relies on compliance with the mulct law as a defense against liability for civil damages in an action by the wife for sale of liquor to her husband, has the burden of alleging and proving full and complete compliance with the conditions imposed by the mulct law. League v. Ehmke, 120-464.

In an indictment for maintaining a place for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, it is not necessary to negative the right of defendant to sell under the mulct law. If defendant claims that his act was lawful because in compliance with the provisions of the mulct law, he must prove not only that he has complied with the provisions as to securing the consent of the proper authorities, but also that he has conducted his place in accordance with the provisions of this and other paragraphs relating to the method of conducting such business. State v. Donahue, 120-154.

Par. 1. Statement of consent: Under 25 G. A., chap. 62, the authority to determine whether the petition of consent was sufficient was vested in the city council, and its action in granting permission to sell was not conclusive. State v. Pressman, 108-449.

In determining the sufficiency of the signatures to the petition the poll books and registration lists are the best evidence of who cast ballots at the last election. Ibid.

One who acts under the mulct law, in relying on the sufficiency of a petition of consent, does so at his peril, and if the statement of consent is insufficient he may be punished for illegal selling. Bartel v. Hobson, 107-644.

The Official Register of the state is, by Code § 177, made conclusive evidence as to the number of inhabitants in the city. In re Sale of Intoxicating Liquors, 108-368.

The poll list is made the only and exclusive evidence as to who voted in the particular localities. Porter v. Butterfield, 116-725; Wilson v. Bohstedt, 110 N. W. 898.

A statement of consent filed before the present Code went into effect is not effectual under its provisions to suspend the penalties of the prohibitory law. The privilege to sell acquired under such a statement of consent does not constitute a right which is protected as against the repeal of prior statutes resulting from the adoption of the Code. West v. Bishop, 110-410.

The board of supervisors is made a special tribunal for the determination of the sufficiency of the statement of consent, not only as to the county at large, but also as to each and every subdivision thereof, and its findings can only be questioned on appeal. Parol evidence is inadmissible, in the absence of a finding by the board as to the sufficiency of the statement of consent, to show the requisite number of signers for any town within the county. Schuneman v. Sherman, 118-230.

One who sells liquor does so at his peril, and cannot rely on parol evidence that the statement of consent, not approved by the board of supervisors, was in fact sufficient as applied to the locality in which he sells. Ibid.

One who voluntarily pays a mulct tax without ascertaining whether the required general statement of consent has been filed cannot recover back the tax paid on the theory that it was paid under a mistake of fact, if it appears that the statement of consent was not sufficient. Ahlers v. Estherville, 130-272.
A statement of consent filed prior to the taking effect of the Code not being effective after the time when the Code took effect, held that taxes paid in reliance on such statement were paid under mistake of law and could not be recovered back. Ibid.

Par. 2; Resolution of council: Where the application is for permission to a firm to sell intoxicating liquors under the mulct law, the authority given by the council to such firm is not available to one member of the firm to whom the business is transferred. State v. Zermuehlen, 110-1.

Consent of property owners: The filing of a statement of consent by adjoining property owners is a condition precedent to the right to sell under the mulct law, and sales made before such statement of consent is filed is unlawful. Land t v. Remley, 113-555.

Where property within fifty feet of the building where the business is carried on is owned by a partnership, the consent of each partner is essential. Close v. O'Brien, 112 N. W. 800.

The purchaser of property from an owner who has consented to the maintenance of a saloon within fifty feet of his property does not take the property subject to the consent previously given by his grantor, and a new statement of consent by the purchaser must be filed by the saloon keeper at the beginning of the next tax year. Conway v. District Court, 132-510.

The consent of an adjoining property owner cannot be withdrawn during the year for which the annual tax is payable although it is paid in quarterly installments, but such withdrawal may be effectual as to the next annual payment. Kane v. Grady, 128-280.

If the room in which sales of liquor are made is less than fifty feet from the premises of a property owner who does not consent, the occupant cannot by constructing a board partition which is fifty feet from such premises leaving an unoccupied space between such partition and the wall of the room render the consent of such property owner unnecessary. McC oll v. Rally, 127-633.

An agreement to pay a property owner a sum of money in consideration of his giving consent that a saloon may be established within fifty feet of his property, is against public policy and void. Greer v. Severson, 119-84.

The consent of neighboring property owners required by the statute is not intended to be the subject of barter and sale. Ibid.

Par. 3; Bond: The bond here provided for does not cover the payment of assessments required by city ordinance, under Code § 2455. Ottumwa v. Hodge, 112-430.

Nor does the bond cover the penalty specified by Code § 2403 for sales to minors. Headington v. Smith, 115-107.

The sureties on the bond are liable for sales which are unlawful under Code § 2418, although the seller, purporting to act under the provisions of the mulct law, has failed to file the requisite consent of adjoining property owners. Breeding v. Jordan, 115-566.

Where the bondsman bought in at tax sale the property of his principal, the sale being at his instigation and for taxes for which he was liable, he could not recover the amount paid from the county upon the setting aside of the sale as invalid. Guedert v. Emmet County, 116-40.

Where a bond was given in supposed compliance with the mulct law, but it appeared that at the time the provisions of the mulct law were not in force in the city where the business was carried on, held that no liability under such bond for illegal sales to minors and intoxicated persons, under the provisions of Code § 2403, could be enforced against the surety on such bond. Gorman v. Williams, 117-560.

The surety on the bond who pays the amount of the tax is not subrogated to any lien of the county against the property for the payment of such tax. Knoll v. Marshall County, 114-647.

While the surety on the bond may recover from the principal the amount which he is required to pay, he is not subrogated to the remedy of the county against the principal and the county may proceed at its election to enforce the bond or punish the principal for illegal selling. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126-539.

A bond given to enable a dealer to do business under the mulct law is effectual as a common law obligation although it does not strictly conform to the statutory requirement. Ibid.

The county may elect to collect the mulct tax by action on the bond or to prosecute the principal for illegal sales made by him after failure to pay the tax, and the tax is due and payable whether the principal complies with the law or not. By resorting to one remedy the county does not necessarily waive the other. Ibid.

It is not necessary in the bond to describe the premises on which the business is to be conducted. Ibid.

Interest may be recovered in an action on the bond on account of the delinquency of the principal in paying the tax. Ibid.

The surety on the bond of a liquor seller, selling in accordance with the provisions of the mulct law, is liable under a judgment rendered against his principal in a civil action to recover damages in favor of one who is injured by such sale. Knott v. Peterson, 125-404.

An action on his bond given by one who sells liquor under the mulct law must be confined to sales made on the premises described in the bond. O'Banion v. DeGarmo, 121-139.

Par. 4. Place of sale: The keeping of a place for the sale of intoxicating liquors, as authorized by the mulct law, does not warrant the peddling of such liquors in other parts of the city, either at wholesale or at retail. Cameron v. Fellows, 109-534.

Compliance with the mulct law will not authorize the maintenance of a cold storage warehouse wherein intoxicating liquors are kept for sale, and the filling of orders from such warehouse by delivery to purchasers at different places about the city. Carter v. Miller Brewing Co., 111-457.

The statutory provision as to one entrance is violated where, in addition to the front door of the room has a door leading into another room or shed, where liquor is stored. State v. Buessamus, 108-11.

Where there was a door connecting the place where liquor were sold with a cellar which was used as a store-room for such liquor, which cellar had an outside entrance, the room in which the sales were made having also an outside entrance, held that the use of the room and the cellar together constituted a violation of the provisions of this section. Powers v. Klett, 111-577.

It is a violation of the law to have a single room in which the main room to be used for a store-room, or to so use a cellar connected with the main room having also an entrance from the street. Garret v. Bishop, 113-23.

The maintenance of a cold storage warehouse separate and removed from the saloon in which the business of selling liquor under the mulct law is prosecuted by the defendant is a violation of the requirement that the business shall be carried on in a single room having but one entrance or exit. Bell v. Hamm, 127-543.

It is a violation of the law to carry on the business in two rooms, one a bar room proper, the other a basement room underneath in which liquors are kept, the two being connected by a flight of stairs, with egress from the basement room to other rooms in the building and through them into a side street. Jones v. Byington, 120-397.

It is not a violation of the provision requiring the business to be carried on in a single room, having but one entrance or exit, and that opening upon a public street, that there is within the room used as a place for selling liquor an icebox or cooling room, in which beer and other liquor intended for sale are kept, if such cooling room is not a room which could be resorted to for the purpose of concealment while buying or drinking intoxicating liquor. State v. Donahue, 120-154.

There is no exception in the statute to the requirement that the room in which the liquors are sold shall have but one entrance or exit, and an additional doorway may not be maintained, even for the convenience of the proprietor or his employees. State v. Gifford, 111-648.

One who conducts the business of selling intoxicating liquors under the mulct law in a place having a back door which may be used for purposes of entrance and exit, aside from the principal entrance, should be enjoined. State v. Roney, 133-416.

Under the evidence in a particular case held that a place from which the sale of intoxicating liquors was made was not a single room, having but one entrance or exit, and that opening upon a business street. Bartel v. Hobson, 107-644.

A liquor dealer having paid but one tax under the mulct law has no right to keep for sale, and sell, intoxicating liquors from two wholly separate and independent rooms in the same building. Thomas v. Arte, 122-588.

The location of a saloon in the basement of a building with the bar so situated that it is not in the plain view of pedestrians using the street or sidewalk in the ordinary manner is not in compliance with the statute. McColl v. Rally, 127-633.

A basement saloon so constructed that the only entrance is through a long hall after descending from the street does not have an opening upon a public street in the sense required by the statute. Ibid.

Where there were curtains in the window and a sign painted thereon, and flower jars, none of which obstructed the full view of the interior of the premises from the sidewalk in front, held that there was no violation of the mulct law as to the condition of the premises. Lingeibach v. Hobson, 130-488.

Par. 9. Opening and closing: The act of keeping a saloon open on election day is punishable by reason of this provision, and the city council cannot provide for the punishment of the same act, either under Code § 2455, or under the general powers given by Code § 680. Iowa City v. McInvenery, 114-586.

The provision that sale shall not be made on legal holidays forbids the sale on the 4th of July or on any other of the days specified in Code § 3053, as holidays with relation to the protesting and dishonor of negotiable instruments. Brennan v. Roberts, 125-615.

Keeping the place open for any length of time after ten o'clock and for any purpose, even though it be the cleaning of the place or the counting of the money after door is closed and customers are excluded will constitute a violation of the law. Lingeibach v. Hobson, 130-488.
Par. 10. Minors, etc.: It is a violation of the provision that no minor shall be allowed in the room that the proprietor allows his own minor son to be in the room and behind the bar. Jones v. Byington, 128-397.

SEC. 2449. Cities under five thousand and towns.

Where the petition of consent was presented after the taking effect of the Code, held that it was immaterial that some of the signatures to the petition had been affixed thereto before the Code took effect. Cameron v. Fellows, 109-534.

In determining whether the percentage of signers is sufficient the statement of consent is to be compared with the poll books of the general election preceding the time when the petition is filed. Ibid.

But one general petition of consent for the county may be canvassed by the board of supervisors, and in acting on that petition the board may determine with reference to particular towns whether the number of signers to the general petition who reside in that town, and in the township in which it is located, constitutes the required proportion of voters in such town and township. But the board has no authority to canvass a subsequent petition with reference to a particular town not found on the canvass of the general petition to be one in which sales of liquor may be made. Meyer v. Hobson, 116-349.

To authorize the sale of liquors in a town, there should be a finding by the board of supervisors in connection with their canvass of the statement of consent, that there are the requisite number of signers in such town, and in making such determination the board may hear evidence. Therefore in an action in which the right to sell liquors in such town is involved the finding of the board of supervisors on the sufficiency of the number of signers in the town is the only evidence which may be considered. If there is no finding as to the town by the board, then there is no right to sell. Hill v. Gleisner, 112-397.

The board of supervisors canvassing a statement of consent for the sale of intoxicating liquors in the county and making no specific finding that the majority of voters in a certain town in the county had signed the petition cannot long after correct its records so as to make the finding sufficient to legalize the selling of liquor in such town. Brickley v. Westphal, 111 N. W. 829.

SEC. 2450. Sufficiency of statement—finding—appeal. All statements of general consent, filed with the county auditor, as provided in the two preceding sections, shall be publicly canvassed by the board of supervisors, at a regular meeting, at least ten clear days notice of such intended canvass having been previously published by the county auditor in the official newspapers of the county, and its finding as to the result in the city having over five thousand inhabitants, or the county, as the case may be, and the various towns and townships therein, shall be entered of record. And such finding shall be effectual for the purpose herein contemplated until revoked as herein provided. If the board shall find the statement sufficient, any citizen of the county may, within thirty days thereafter, upon filing a sufficient bond for the costs, file with the clerk of the district court a general denial as to the statement of general consent, or any part thereof, whereupon the county attorney shall cause notice thereof to be served upon the person or persons filing said statement of consent with the county auditor, and said party shall within ten days file with said clerk a bond conditioned to pay the costs of the hearing in the district court, in a sum to be fixed by the clerk of said court. If such bond be filed, then the auditor shall certify the statement of consent and all papers and records to the district court, where the matter shall be tried de novo, the county attorney appearing for the state, but if no bond be filed, then the order of the board of supervisors finding the statement of general consent sufficient shall be considered and treated as set aside and null and void. The costs in all cases of appeal shall be taxed against the losing party. Should the board of supervisors find the statement of general consent insufficient, any party aggrieved may appeal therefrom to the district court by filing, within thirty days thereafter, with the clerk of said court a sufficient bond for the costs. Upon the filing and approval of said bond, the auditor shall certify the statement of consent and all papers and records to the district court, where the matter shall be tried de novo. All costs shall be taxed against the appellant, whether the finding of the board is sustained or reversed, and in such actions the county attorney shall appear and defend the finding of the board. Only one statement of general consent from any county, city or town, or city or town acting under special charter, therein entitled to file the same, shall be canvassed by the board of supervisors in any one year. When said petition of general consent is found sufficient by the board of supervisors or the city council, as the case may be, it shall, unless revoked under section twenty-four hundred and fifty-one (2451) of the code, be in force and effect for the period of five years only; and all petitions and statements of general consent in force and effect previous to the first day of July, nineteen hundred and six (1906) shall, unless revoked under section twenty-four hundred and fifty-one (2451) of the code, be and become null and void on and after five years from July 1, 1906. [31 G. A., ch. 101.]

Where the record of the findings of the board as to the number of signers shows the number of voters and the number of signers in each of the election precincts, it is sufficient, although the aggregate for each township is not footed up. Cameron v. Fellows, 109-534.

The statute requires the county attorney to appear against the statement in all proceedings before the district court upon appeal. Green v. Smith, 111-183.

The proceeding here contemplated is a special proceeding, and there is no right to a trial by jury in the district court. Ibid.

No right vests until the statement of consent has been adjudged sufficient, and one who has signed the general statement may, before action is taken thereon, withdraw his consent and by proper written notice and request to the board annul his former act in affixing his signature. Ibid.

The sufficiency of the statement of consent may be passed upon by the board of supervisors at an adjourned meeting provided for at a regular meeting of the board. Butterfield v. Treichler, 113-328.

Notice of the hearing should be given ten clear days before the hearing, it is not necessary that notice be given ten days before the first day of the regular session of the board. Ibid.

The poll lists do not show in what towns the voters resided, and therefore in determining the result of the statement of consent with reference to the number of voters signing, resident in the various towns and townships in the county, the board of supervisors and the court on appeal can receive testimony. Porter v. Butterfield, 116-725.

The appeal is to be tried by the court without a jury, and it is error to submit the case in a case to the jury in such a case. Ibid.

The costs on appeal are to be taxed against the losing party. Ibid.

The "general denial as to the statement of general consent" contemplated by the statute as the basis of an appeal from the action of the board in approving the statement of consent is not a technical pleading, but a general exception or objection. Stokesb. v. Kott, 129-45.

Service of notice by the county attorney of such general denial upon the person or persons filing the statement of consent is not jurisdictional. Ibid.

Such notice may be served upon the person who files the statement with the auditor, although in doing so he acts as attorney or agent for others. Ibid.

The appeal is not made dependent upon the action or consent of the county attorney, and the objecting citizen or citizens may be represented on the appeal by other counsel than the county attorney, who is required to appear only as the representative of the public. Ibid.

A pleading by the objector in the district court describing himself as a citizen of the county is a sufficient allegation that he is such citizen. Ibid.

Where legal proceedings to test the validity of the action of the board of supervisors in approving a statement of consent has been commenced within the period during which the poll books are directed to be preserved, they may be subsequently properly introduced in evidence, although the time for their destruction in the ordinary course has passed. Reed v. Juenkeimer, 118-610.

Such a proceeding is to be tried before the district court de novo, and the burden is upon the petitioners to show that the statement of consent is sufficient. Ibid.

The statement of consent is a public record and the fact that it is temporarily out of the keeping of its legal custodian will not in absence of proof of alteration, prevent its admission in evidence on the trial of an appeal from the action of the supervisors. Wilson v. Bohstedt, 110 N. W. 898.

In a proceeding for review notice to the person or persons filing the statement of consent is all that is required. No notice to persons who have acted or may intend

SEC. 2451. Forfeiture or revocation. Whenever any of the conditions of the third preceding section shall be violated, or whenever the council of the city or town or city acting under special charter shall by a majority vote direct it, or whenever there shall be filed with the county auditor a verified petition, signed by a majority of the voters of the said city, town, or city acting under special charter, or county, as the case may be, as shown by the last general election, requesting it, then the bar to proceedings as provided in the second and third preceding sections shall cease to operate, and the persons engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be liable to all of the penalties provided in this chapter. [25 G. A., ch. 62, § 19.] [28 G. A., ch. 78, § 1.]

This section does not provide for any action by the board of supervisors with reference to a petition to remove the bar to the enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law which has been declared by the board in determining the sufficiency of the general petition of consent in the county. Meyer v. Hobson, 115-349.

The board of supervisors is neither permitted nor required to pass upon the sufficiency of the revocation. The filing thereof ipso facto removes the bar. McCorkie v. Remley, 119-512.

There is no provision for the revocation of the consent of an adjoining property owner. No revocation of consent will be effective during the annual period for which consent has been given but it may be effective as to the succeeding annual period. Kane v. Grady, 123-260.

The sureties on the bond may be liable for unlawful sales, although the seller, purporting to act under the mulct law, has not filed the required consent of the adjoining property owners. Breeding v. Jordan, 115-560.

SEC. 2452. False signatures—time of signing.

The provision of Code § 2452 that every general statement of consent shall be accompanied by the affidavit of some reputable person, showing that said person personally witnessed the signing of each name appearing thereon, and making any false statement contained in said affidavit punishable as perjury, does not impose
The requirement that the signatures to the general statement shall show the voting precinct of the signers is not applicable to a written withdrawal of signatures by those who have already signed. Dye v. Augur, 110 N. W. 323.

SEC. 2455. Additional taxes and regulations.

The bond required by Code § 2448, Par. 3, does not cover payments required to be made by the city ordinance. Ottumwa v. Hodge, 112-430.

A city has no authority to provide by ordinance for the punishment of the act of keeping a saloon open on election day, as prohibited in Code § 2448. Such provision would be inconsistent with the criminal laws of the state. Iowa City v. McInerneny, 114-586.

The mulct tax required to be paid by one selling intoxicating liquors under the mulct law is a tax. Ahlers v. Estherville, 130-272.

SEC. 2461-a. "Bootlegger" defined. Any person who shall, by himself, or his employe, servant or agent, for himself or any person, company or corporation, keep or carry around on his person, or in a vehicle, or leave in a place for another to secure, any intoxicating liquor as herein defined, with intent to sell or dispose of the same by gift or otherwise, in violation of law, shall be termed a bootlegger. [30 G. A., ch. 84, § 1.]

SEC. 2461-b. Penalty. Every such bootlegger may be restrained by injunction from doing or continuing to do any of the acts prohibited by law, and all the proceedings for injunctions, temporary and permanent, and for fines and costs for violation of same, as defined by law, shall be applicable to such person, company or corporation, and the fact that an offender has no known or permanent place of business or base of supplies, or quits the business after the commencement of an action shall not prevent a temporary or permanent injunction, as the case may be, from issuing. [30 G. A., ch. 84, § 2.]

SEC. 2461-c. Annual mulct tax—quarterly installments. Every person, partnership or corporation that shall engage in the business of holding intoxicating liquors in store and collecting for the owner thereof the purchase price of said liquors from those to whom they have been conditionally sold or from those not authorized by law to sell the same, shall pay to the treasurer of the county where the business is carried on an annual mulct tax of six hundred dollars in quarterly installments on the first day of January, of April, of July, and of October; and such tax shall be paid for each separate office or place where such business is carried on, and all the provisions of the law relating to the levying, collecting and enforcing of what is known as the mulct tax shall apply and govern in the levying and collecting of the tax herein provided for so far as applicable. [32 G. A., ch. 123, § 1.]

SEC. 2461-d. First quarter payable in advance. No person, partnership or corporation shall engage in the business described in section one of this act without first paying the tax herein required for the quarter during which such business is carried on; and when the tax is so paid it shall go into the general fund of the county collecting the same. [32 G. A., ch. 123, § 2.]

SEC. 2461-e. Sale of intoxicants near military reservations—penalty. No person shall open, maintain or conduct any shop or other place for the sale of wine, beer or any other intoxicating liquors, or sell the same at any place within a distance of one mile from any permanent military post or reservation established by the United States within the state of Iowa; and any person violating the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine not to exceed fifty dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not to exceed thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [32 G. A., ch. 124.]

CHAPTER 7.
OF FIRE COMPANIES.

SECTION 2467. Removal of fire apparatus. No person shall remove any engine or other apparatus for the extinguishment of fire from the house or other place where it is kept or deposited, except in time of fire or alarm thereof, unless authorized so to do by the president, director or foreman of the company to whom the same shall belong. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00), or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty (30) days. [C., '73, § 1565; R., § 1767.] [32 G. A., ch. 125, § 1.]

SEC. 2468. False alarms. No person or persons shall cause or give a false alarm of fire, by setting fire to any combustible material, or by crying or sounding an alarm, or by any other means, without cause. Any person violating the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.) or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty (30) days.
[C., '73, § 1566; R., § 1768.] [32 G. A., ch. 125, § 2.]

CHAPTER 8.
OF THE BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

SECTION 2469. Commissioner. The bureau of labor statistics shall be under the control of a commissioner, biennially appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the executive council, whose term of office shall commence on the first day of April in each odd-numbered year and continue for two years, and until his successor is appointed and qualified. He may be removed for cause by the governor, with the advice of the executive council, record thereof being made in his office; any vacancy shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.
He shall give bonds in the sum of two thousand dollars with sureties to be approved by the governor, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and take the oath prescribed by law. He shall have an office in the capitol, safely keep all records, papers, documents, correspondence, and other property pertaining to or coming into his hands by virtue of his office, and deliver the same to his successor, except as hereinafter provided. Provided, however, that the term of office of the labor commissioner which shall commence on the first day of April, 1906, shall expire on the 31st day of March, 1907. [20 G. A., ch. 132, §§ 1-4.] [31 G.
A., ch. 102, § 1.]

SEC. 2470. Duties—report. The duties of said commissioner shall be to collect, assort, systematize and present in biennial reports to the governor statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the state, especially in its relations to the commercial, social, educational and sanitary conditions of the laboring classes, the means of escape from, and the protection of life and health in factories, the employment of children, the number of hours of labor exacted from them and from women, and to the permanent prosperity of the mechanical, manufacturing and productive industries of the state; and he shall, as fully as practicable, collect such information and reliable reports from each county in the state, the amount and condition of the mechanical and manufacturing interests, the value and location of the various manufacturing and coal productions of the state, also sites offering natural or acquired advantages for the profitable location and operation of different branches of industry; he shall, by correspondence with interested parties in other parts of the United States, impart to them such information as may tend to induce the location of mechanical and producing plants within the state, together with such other information as shall tend to increase the productions, and consequent employment of producers; and in said biennial report he shall give a statement of the business of the bureau since the last regular report, and shall compile and publish therein such information as may be considered of value to the industrial interests of the state, the number of laborers and mechanics employed, the number of apprentices in each trade, with the nativity of such laborers, mechanics' and apprentices' wages earned, the savings from the same, with age and sex of laborers employed, the number and character of accidents, the sanitary condition of institutions where labor is employed, the restrictions, if any, which are put upon apprentices when indentured, the proportion of married laborers and mechanics who live in rented houses, with the average annual rental, and the value of property owned by laborers and mechanics; and he shall include in such report what progress has been made with schools now in operation for the instruction of students in the mechanic arts, and what systems have been found most practical, with details thereof. Such report shall not contain more than six hundred printed pages, and shall be of the number, and distributed in the manner, provided by law. He shall make a report to the governor during the year 1906, and biennially thereafter. The report for the year 1906 shall cover the period only from the date of his last preceding biennial report. [20 G. A., ch. 132, § 5.] [29 G. A., ch. 97, § 1.]

SEC. 2471. Power to secure evidence—witness fees—how paid. The commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics shall have the power to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and take testimony in all matters relating to the duties herein required by said bureau, said testimony to be taken in some suitable place in the vicinity to which testimony is applicable. Witnesses subpoenaed and testifying before the commissioner of the bureau shall be paid the same fees as witnesses before a justice's court, such payment to be made out of the general funds of the state on voucher by the commissioner, but such expense for witnesses shall not exceed one hundred dollars annually. Any person duly subpoenaed under the provisions of this section, who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to attend or testify at the time and place named in the subpoena, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars and costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days: provided, however, that no witness shall be compelled to go outside the county in which he resides to testify. [26 G. A., ch. 86, § 2; 20 G. A., ch. 132, § 6.] [29 G. A., ch. 97, § 2.]

SEC. 2472. Right to enter premises—violation or neglect—written notice—prosecution. The commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics shall have the power, upon the complaint of two or more persons, or upon his failure to otherwise obtain information in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, to enter any factory or mill, workshop, mine, store, business house, public or private work, when the same is open or in operation, upon a request being made in writing, for the purpose of gathering facts and statistics such as are contemplated by this chapter, and to examine into the methods of protection from danger to employes, and the sanitary conditions in and around such buildings and places, and make a record thereof. If the commissioner shall learn of any violation of, or neglect to comply with the law in respect to the employment of children, or in respect to fire escapes, or the safety of employes, or for the preservation of health, he shall give written notice to the owner or person in charge of such factory or building, of such offense or neglect, and if the same is not remedied within sixty days after service of such notice, such officer shall give the county attorney of the county in which such factory or building is situated, written notice of the facts, whereupon that officer shall immediately institute the proper proceedings against the person guilty of such offense or neglect. And any owner or occupant of such factory or mill, workshop, mine, store, business house, public or private work, or any agent or employe of such owner or occupant, who shall refuse to allow any officer or employe of said bureau to so enter, or who shall hinder him, or in any way deter him from collecting information, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding one hundred dollars and costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days. [26 G. A., ch. 86, § 3.][29 G. A., ch. 97, § 3.]

Statements of the labor commissioner not appear that the commissioner has with reference to an examination of machinery cannot be shown for the purpose of negativing defects therein where it does not appear that the commissioner has made any examination. Brusseau v. Lower Brick Co., 133-245.

SEC. 2477. Repeal—compensation and expenses. That section twenty-four hundred and seventy-seven (2477) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics shall receive a salary of eighteen hundred dollars per annum and shall be allowed a deputy at a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per annum payable monthly; he shall also be allowed one factory inspector at a salary of one hundred dollars per month, one office clerk at a salary to be fixed by the committee on retrenchment and reform. The appointment by the commissioner of such factory inspector shall be subject to the approval of the executive council. Said commissioner shall be allowed necessary postage, stationery and office expenses; the said salaries and expenses shall be paid as the salaries and expenses of other state officers are provided for. The commissioner or any officer or employe of the bureau of labor statistics shall be allowed, in addition to his salary, his actual and necessary traveling expenses while in the performance of his duties, said expenses to be audited by the executive council and paid out of the general fund of the state upon a voucher verified by the commissioner or his deputy; but the total of the expense for the officers and employes of said bureau, other than the salaries of the commissioner, his deputy, the factory inspector and clerk, shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per annum." [30 G. A., ch. 85.] [32 G. A., chs. 126, 127.]

SEC. 2477-a. Child labor in factories, mills, etc.—age limitation. No person under fourteen years of age shall be employed with or without wages or compensation in any mine, manufacturing establishment, factory,

SECTION 2479-a. Repeal by striking out—board of examiners. That chapter nine (9), title twelve (12) of the code be and the same is hereby amended by striking out section twenty-four hundred and seventy-nine (2479) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

The executive council shall appoint a board of five examiners consisting of two practical miners and two mine operators, all holding certificates of competency as mine foremen, and one mining engineer, each of whom shall have had at least five years actual experience in his profession immediately preceding his appointment, who shall hold office for a term of two years. The members of said board shall qualify by taking oath to perform the duties devolving upon them fairly, faithfully and impartially, without fear or favor, uninfluenced by personal or political considerations. No member of said board shall be interested in or connected with any school, scheme, plan or device having for its object the preparation, education or instruction of persons in the knowledge required of applicants for certificates of competency. Any member of said board shall be summarily removed from office by the executive council, upon due notice and hearing, for violation of the law, misfeasance or malfeasance in the performance of his duties, or for other sufficient cause, and his successor shall thereupon be appointed by the said executive council for the unexpired term. [29 G. A., ch. 98, § 1.]

[30 G. A., ch. 86.]

SEC. 2482. Inspection districts—powers and duties of inspector. The governor shall divide the state into three inspection districts, and assign one inspector to each district, who shall devote his entire time to his work, and, before entering thereon, procure, to be paid for by and to belong to the state, all instruments necessary for the discharge of his duties, including a complete set of standards, balances and other means of adjustment in testing any and all apparatus used in weighing, and shall examine, test and adjust, as often as occasion demands, all scales, beams and other apparatus used in weighing coal at the mines. He shall examine all the mines in his district as often as the time will permit, which examination shall be made at least once in every six (6) months of all mines having an average output of fifty tons or more of coal per day, keep a record of the inspections made, showing date, the condition in which the mine is found, the extent and manner in which the laws relating to the government of mines and their operation are observed and obeyed, the progress made in improvements for the better security to health and life, number of accidents happening and their character, the number employed, and such other and further matters as may be of public interest and connected with the mining industries of the state.

He shall have the right at all reasonable times, by night or by day, to enter any mine in his district, or any district to which he may be sent by the governor for the purpose of ascertaining its condition, and the manner of its operation, by making personal examination and inquiry in relation thereto, but not so as to unnecessarily obstruct or impede the working of the mines; and to this end the mine owner or person in charge shall furnish such mine inspector all assistance in his power, and forthwith, upon the happening of any accident to any miner in or about the mine by reason of the working thereof which causes loss of life, shall report the same, by mail or otherwise, to the mine inspector and the coroner of the county. Each inspector shall have and maintain, at some suitable place in his district, to be approved by the governor, an office, and shall reside in the district and remain therein, unless otherwise engaged in the conduct of his official duties. [22 G. A., ch. 54, § 2; 21 G. A., ch. 140, §§ 1, 2, 6; 20 G. A., ch. 21, §§ 1, 2, 6.]

SEC. 2483. General office—report to governor—compensation. The three inspectors shall maintain a general office in the capitol, and keep therein all records, correspondence, documents, apparatus or other property pertaining to their office; they shall meet in said office biennially on or before August fifteenth preceding the regular session of the general assembly, and make report to the governor of their official doings, including therein all matters which by this chapter are specially committed to their charge, adding such suggestion as to needed future legislation as in their opinion may be important. Each inspector shall receive for his services the sum of eighteen hundred dollars per annum and actual traveling expenses, not exceeding seven hundred and fifty dollars yearly, the traveling expenses to be paid quarterly upon an itemized statement duly verified and audited by the state auditor. [22 G. A., ch. 52, § 1; 21 G. A., ch. 140, §§ 3, 4; 20 G. A., ch. 21, §§ 3, 4.]

SEC. 2485. Maps of mines—surveys—double damages.

The statute authorizing the recovery of double damages occasioned by the removal of coal from the land of an owner without his authority is not unconstitutional. Mier v. Phillips Fuel Co., 130-570.

Evidence in a particular case considered and held sufficient to show such trespass as a basis for the recovery of double damages; but held that evidence as to removal of coal from adjoining land was irrelevant and should not have been admitted. Ibid.

SEC. 2488. Ventilation. The owner or person in charge of any mine shall provide and maintain, whether the mine be operated by shaft, slope or drift, an amount of ventilation of not less than one hundred cubic feet of air per minute for each person, nor less than five hundred cubic feet of air per minute for each mule or horse employed therein, which shall be so circulated throughout the mines as to dilute, render harmless and expel all noxious and poisonous gases in all working parts of the same; [But in no case shall the air current be a greater distance than sixty feet from the working face, except when making cross cuts in entries for an air-course; then in that case the distance shall not be greater than seventy feet, provided, however, that the district mine inspector may in writing grant permission to go beyond the limit herein mentioned when the conditions are such in a special case as to require it. When the air current is carried to the working face of the rooms, in double-room mining, such air current shall be treated as that contemplated in this act.] to do this, artificial means by exhaust-steam, forcing-fans, furnaces, or other contrivances of sufficient capacity and power, shall be kept in operation. If a furnace is used, it shall be so constructed, by lining the up-cast for a sufficient distance with combustible material, that fire cannot be communicated to any part of the works. When the mine inspector shall find the air insufficient, or the men working under unsafe conditions, he shall at once give notice to the mine owner or his agent or person in charge, and upon failure to make the necessary changes within a reasonable time, to be fixed by him, he may order the men out, to remain out until the mine is put in proper condition. [22 G. A., ch. 56, § 3; 20 G. A., ch. 21, § 10.] [27 G. A., ch. 59, § 1.]

Failure of a mine owner to so far remove or dilute noxious gases as to render the mine a safe place for the miners to work will render him liable. Mosgrove v. Zimbleman Coal Co., 110-169.

SEC. 2489. Safety appliances—competent engineers—boys not employed.

Whether a roof which is in a dangerous condition should be propped by the miner or by the mine owner is to be determined by the jury with reference to whether it is the roof of a room under the charge of the miner, or of an entry for the safety of which the mine owner is responsible. Taylor v. Star Coal Co., 110-40. The requirement that safety gates shall be maintained at the entrance to a mine shaft contemplates the guarding of the shaft opening so as to prevent involuntary entrance and not an absolute and complete covering of the shaft. Jacobson v. Smith, 123-263.

An employe engaged at work on top of the cage in a mine shaft cannot complain of the negligence of the mine owner in not providing the cage with a cover. Ibid.

The superintendent of a mine having the authority to provide an engineer as a substitute for the regular engineer in charge of the hoisting machinery and power, held that the superintendent himself attempting to operate such machinery and power in the absence of the engineer rendered the employer liable for damages from his own incompetency to discharge such duty. Beresford v. American Coal Co., 124-34.

RELATING TO EXAMINATION OF MINE FOREMEN, PIT BOSSES AND HOISTING ENGINEERS.

SEC. 2489-a. Certificate of competency. That from and after January 1st, 1901, it shall be unlawful for any person to discharge, or attempt to discharge, any of the duties of mine foreman, pit boss, or hoisting engineer at any coal mine, whose daily output is in excess of twenty-five tons, unless he shall hold a certificate of competency for such position as provided in this act. But in case of the discharge, resignation, or disability of any person lawfully performing such duties the owner, agent, operator, or managing officer of said mine shall have a reasonable time within which to secure the services of a certificated person to take the place of the one so discharged, resigned, or disabled; and during such time a competent and capable person, whether certificated as provided in this act or not, may be temporarily employed to perform such services. [28 G. A., ch. 82, § 1.]

The owner or agent shall, where the miner is by contract to be paid by the ton or other quantity, unless otherwise agreed upon in writing, weigh the coal before screening, and the miner shall be credited at the rate of eighty pounds to the bushel and two thousand pounds to the ton, but no payment shall be demanded for sulphur, rock, slate, black-jack, dirt or other impurities which may be loaded or found with the coal. Each inspector shall be a resident of the state, and not interested directly or indirectly in the manufacture or sale of products of petroleum. His term of office shall begin on the first day of July in each odd-numbered year. He shall give bond to the state in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties, with sureties who shall, in addition to the usual justification, make oath, entered on the bond, that they are not directly or indirectly interested in the manufacture or sale of products of petroleum for illuminating purposes, which bond shall be for the benefit of all persons injured through the failure of the inspector to perform his duties, and shall be filed with, and the sureties thereon approved by, the secretary of state. Provided however, that the term of office of the inspectors appointed during the year 1906 shall expire on the 30th day of June, 1907. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 105, § 1.]

SEC. 2504. Regulations. The state board of health shall make rules and regulations for the inspection of petroleum products, for the government of inspectors, and prescribe the instruments and apparatus to be used. Such rules and regulations shall be approved by the governor, and, when so approved, shall be binding upon all inspectors.[30 G. A., ch. 87, § 2.]

SEC. 2505. Inspection—branding—fees—supplies. Each inspector shall be furnished, at reasonable expense to the state, with the necessary supplies, instruments and apparatus for testing, and shall promptly make inspection, and test and brand all illuminating oils kept for sale, and for such purpose may enter upon the premises of any person. He shall reject all oils for illuminating purposes which will emit a combustible vapor at a temperature of 105 degrees, standard Fahrenheit thermometer, closed test, not less than one-half pint of oil to be used in the flash test. If upon test and examination the oil shall meet the requirements, he shall brand over his official signature and date the barrel or package holding the same, "approved, flash test... degrees", inserting in the blank the number. Should it fail to meet the requirements, it shall be branded under his official signature and date, “rejected for illuminating purposes.” All inspections shall be made within the state, and paid for by the person for whom the inspection is made, at the rate of ten cents per barrel, fifty-five gallons for this purpose constituting a barrel, which charge shall be a lien upon the oil inspected, and be collected by the inspector, reported and paid to the secretary of state, on or before the fifteenth day of each month. For the purposes of this act, gasoline, benzine and naphtha shall be deemed illuminating oil. No gasoline shall be sold, given away or delivered to any person in this state until the package, cask, barrel or vessel containing the same has been plainly marked "gasoline" in such manner as the executive council may prescribe. There shall be no refund nor rebate of charges made or paid for inspection, except upon a duly verified certificate of the owner that the goods, for which such rebate is asked, have been disposed of outside of the state. Said certificate to be in such form as shall be prescribed by the secretary of state and shall be delivered to the inspector and attached to his monthly report. The expense of inspection shall be deducted from any rebate or refund so granted. Any person, firm, corporation or agent violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished accordingly. All necessary supplies, labels, instruments and apparatus as contemplated in this chapter, shall be purchased by the executive council, and shall be furnished to inspectors as needed by them, upon requisition therefor, made to the chief inspector, approved by him and forwarded to the executive council. Every person who receives products of petroleum for sale which have not been inspected as provided in this chapter, shall, within five days after the receipt thereof, notify the inspector of that inspection district that the same is in his possession; and to neglect so to do shall be deemed a misdemeanor. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 3.]

The failure of the seller to label a vessel containing gasoline sold to a customer, as required by this section, held to constitute negligence per se so as to render the seller liable for injuries sustained by an infant daughter of the purchaser in using the gasoline to start a fire, under the belief that it was the ordinary form of coal oil. Ives v. Welden, 114-476.

SEC. 2506. Record and report—reports from companies, agents, etc. Each inspector shall keep an accurate record of all oils inspected and branded, the number of gallons, the number and kind of barrels or packages, the date and number of gallons approved, the number rejected, the name of the person for whom inspection was made, and the amount of money received therefor, the necessary traveling expenses incurred, and the expenses incurred in prosecution, which record at all reasonable times shall be open to public inspection. A copy of this record duly verified under oath for the preceding month shall be filed with the secretary of state on or before the fifteenth day of each month, who shall examine said report and if found correct endorse his approval thereon, and certify the same to the executive council, and when approved by said council, the auditor of state shall issue his warrant upon the treasurer of state for the amount so approved and due the several inspectors, and no item of expense shall be allowed and paid not shown in such reports. It shall be the duty of all persons, firms or corporations, officers or agents thereof within the state, receiving any of the products of petroleum subject to inspection, to file with the secretary of state on or before the tenth day of each month, a certificate duly verified, in such form as shall be approved by the secretary of state, to receive any of the products of petroleum subject to inspection, to file with the secretary of state on or before the tenth day of each month, a certificate duly verified, in such form as shall be approved by the secretary of state, to cover the month preceding the one in which said report is made. Such report shall show the number of tanks or barrels, and if in tanks the tank number, of each product inspected for such person, firm, corporation, officer or agent, the amount of fees paid for such inspection, to whom paid, and, that the amounts so stated are all the products received by him or them which are subject to inspection during such period. For any failure to make the reports contemplated in this section the person, firm, corporation, officer, agent or employee shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 4.]
SEC. 2507. Compensation of inspectors—expenses. Each inspector shall be allowed as full compensation for his services all fees and commissions earned and collected by him up to fifty dollars per month, and twenty-five per cent of any sum collected in any one month in excess of fifty dollars, but in no case shall his compensation exceed one hundred dollars per month, except that the chief inspector shall be allowed twenty-five per cent of any sum collected by him in any one month in excess of fifty dollars, up to and not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars. Inspectors shall also be allowed such other sums necessarily and actually expended in the discharge of their official duties; and for necessary expenses incurred for prosecution of violation of the provisions of this chapter, and for necessary help in branding barrels. All money collected each month by inspectors, shall, on or before the fifteenth day of the following month, be paid to the secretary of state, and by him accounted for as other fees of his office. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 5.]

Where an oil inspector dies after having rendered services for part of a month and his successor completes the service for that month, each is entitled to the maximum salary for that part of a month during which he has served. State v. Dyer, 106-640.

SEC. 2508. Penalties—damages. If any person, company or corporation, or agent thereof, shall sell, or attempt to sell, any product of petroleum for illuminating purposes which has not been inspected and branded as in this chapter provided, or shall falsely brand any barrel or package containing such petroleum product, or shall refill with products of petroleum barrels or packages having the inspector's brand thereon, without erasing such brand and having the contents thereof inspected, and the barrel or package rebranded, or shall purchase, sell or dispose of any empty barrel or package without thoroughly removing the inspection brand, or shall knowingly or negligently sell or cause to be sold, or shall use or cause to be used, any product of petroleum mentioned in this chapter not inspected and tested, except as otherwise authorized herein; or if any person shall adulterate with any substance for the purpose of sale or use any product of petroleum to be used for illuminating purposes in such a manner as to render it dangerous, or shall sell or offer for sale, or use any product of petroleum for illuminating purposes, which will emit a combustible vapor at a temperature of less than 105 degrees, standard Fahrenheit thermometer, closed test, except as otherwise provided in this section for illuminating railway cars, boats and public conveyance, and except when the oils from which said gas or vapor is generated in closed reservoirs outside the building to be lighted thereby, and except the lighter products of petroleum when used in such lamps or apparatus which, having been submitted to the state board of health and having been examined and tested by said board shall be found to be safe for the use of the public and for street light by street lamps, shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or if any common carrier shall carry in any railway passenger, baggage, mail, or express car, street railway car, boat, stage coach, omnibus, or other means of public conveyance, or use or burn therein any oil or fluid, whether composed wholly or in part of petroleum or its products, which will ignite and burn at a temperature of 300 degrees Fahrenheit thermometer, open test, for lighting any lamp, vessel, or fixture of any kind, or boat or street railway car, stage coach or other means of public conveyance; or if any inspector shall falsely brand any package or barrel, or shall practice any fraud or deceit in office, or be guilty of any official misconduct or culpable negligence to the injury of another, or shall deal or have any pecuniary interest, directly or indirectly in any oils or fluids sold for illuminating purposes while holding such office, he or such person, company, corporation or agent shall be fined not less than fifty dollars and shall be liable in a civil action for all damages which may be sustained on account thereof, and each such inspector shall be fined in a sum not less than ten dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding six months, or be punished by both fine and imprisonment. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 6.]

The exception of the proviso in this section as to the “Welsbach Hydrocarbon Incandescent Lamp” is unconstitutional as attempting to confer a special privilege, but the whole section is not invalid on that account, as the exception is not necessary to the completeness of the general statutory provision which had been in force prior to the attempt to incorporate the exception. State v. Santee, 111-1.

SEC. 2508-a. Duties of state board of health—examination of lamps and apparatus. The state board of health shall examine the particular design, mechanism, and workmanship of such lamps or apparatus as shall be presented to such board, and test said lamps or apparatus, and, if it shall find any lamp or apparatus to be safe, said board shall enter the findings of the board upon the records of the proceedings of said board. The board shall have power, in case it comes to the notice of the board that any lamp or apparatus which it has heretofore approved as safe, because either of change of design, the use of unsuitable material, or poor workmanship in the construction of such lamps or apparatus, or for any other cause, is unsafe as then manufactured, and dangerous to public safety to cancel its approval of such lamp or apparatus, and after such cancellation of the approval of said lamp or apparatus, it shall be unlawful to sell or use the same, and no lamps or apparatus manufactured or sold after such disapproval shall be used in burning the lighter products of petroleum for illuminating purposes. The state board of health shall notify by registered letter the several inspectors of any approval or disapproval by them of any lamp or apparatus submitted to them for examination. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 7.]

SEC. 2509. Removal of inspectors. It shall be the duty of the governor to remove from office any inspector who is incompetent or unfaithful in the discharge of his official duty, or, having knowledge of the violation of any of the provisions of this chapter, shall neglect or refuse to prosecute the offender. In July of each year each inspector shall file with the secretary of the executive council an inventory of all instruments and apparatus belonging to the state, in his possession, or that of his deputy or helper, which shall be fully accounted for in such manner as may be prescribed by the executive council. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 8.]

SEC. 2509-a. Biennial report. The secretary of state shall make and deliver to the governor a report, for the fiscal year ending on the thirtieth day of June in each even-numbered year, of all inspections made, the receipts and expenditures therefor, and such other items as are by this chapter required to be made of record. Provided, however, he shall make and deliver report to the governor for the fiscal year ending on the 30th day of June, 1906, which report shall cover the period only from the date of his last biennial report. [30 G. A., ch. 87, § 9.] [31 G. A., ch. 105, § 2.]

He shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars annually to be paid out of the state treasury. He shall have charge and management of the state fish hatcheries, which shall be used in stocking the waters of the state with fish native to the country and to the extent of the means provided by the state. He shall impartially and equitably distribute all fry raised by or furnished to the state, or for it through other sources, in the streams and lakes of the state; shall faithfully and impartially enforce obedience of the provisions of this chapter, and shall make a biennial report to the governor of his doings, together with such information upon the subject of the culture of fish and the protection of game in the country as he may think proper, accompanied with an itemized statement monthly to the executive council under oath of all moneys expended and for what purpose, and of the number and varieties of fish distributed, and in what waters. And abate and destroy any and all of the same without warrant or process and no liability shall be incurred to the owner or any other person for such seizure and destruction and said warden or his regularly constituted deputies or other peace officers as hereinbefore named shall be released from all liability to any person or persons whomsoever for any breach or committed or property seized or destroyed under or by virtue of this section. [23 G. A., ch. 34, § 12; 17 G. A., ch. 80, §§ 1, 4.] [27 G. A., ch. 64, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 103, § 1.]

SEC. 2540. Fishing—what permitted. Between the first days of November and March, no one shall take from the waters of the state any salmon or trout, nor between the fifteenth day of November and the fifteenth day of May any bass, pike, croppies, pickerel, or catfish, or other game fish, nor shall any one person take of said fish from the waters of the state in any one day more than forty (40) of any or all of said kinds of fish, nor shall any one fish for or by any means catch any fish in any stream, which has been stocked with breeding trout one or two years old, within one year from the date of the stocking thereof, if notice of such fact is by the authority of the warden posted where a public road crosses such stream; nor shall any one at any time take from the waters of the state any fish, except minnows for bait, unless by hook and line; but any person may, between the fifteenth day of May and the fifteenth day of November, use not more than one trot line in streams only, and extending not more than half-way across; nor shall any one place, erect or cause to be placed or erected, any trot line, seine, net, trap, dam or other device or contrivance in the water in such a manner as to hinder or obstruct the free passage of fish, up, down or through the same for the purpose of catching them, except as provided in the next section; nor have, erect or use, while fishing on or through the ice, any house, shed or other protection against the weather, or have or use any stove or other means for creating artificial heat. No person shall, at any time, kill, destroy, have in possession or under control, for any purpose whatever, any bass, catfish, wall-eyed pike, or trout less than six (6) inches in length, except for the purpose of returning the same to the water from which they were taken, as soon as they are taken therefrom, with as little injury to the fish as possible. A., ch. 92, §§ 1, 2.] [30 G. A., ch. 93.]

Fish and game are so related to the public welfare that they have, time out of mind, been the subjects of legal control, and their preservation has ever been a matter of legislative concern. Statutes relating to the preservation of fish and game are an abridgment of otherwise legal rights of the owners of the soil in taking fish and game thereon. State v. Beardsey, 108-396; State v. Meek, 112-338. Several counts charging illegal seining of fish may be embraced in a single information before a justice of the peace, and the fact that the aggregate fine which may be imposed under such information exceeds $100 does not deprive the court of jurisdiction. State v. Denhardt, 129-135.

[29 G. A., ch. 103, § 5.]

SEC. 2546. Taking by warden—written permits. The warden may take from any of the public waters of the state, at any time and in any manner, any fish for the purpose of propagating or re-stocking other waters, or exchanging with fish commissioners or wardens of other states. Provided, further, that the warden may, upon proper application in writing, made upon blanks furnished by said warden, issue to whomsoever he may see fit, written permits, upon blank forms to be furnished by said warden, suspending for a specified period specified portions of this chapter relating to fishing and authorizing the person to whom said permit is issued, to take from certain designated lakes of the state, having an area of not less than two (2) square miles, buffalo, carp, quillbacks, redhorse, suckers and gar, as in said permit named, in any quantities and for all purposes; provided, however, that no such permit holder shall be authorized to exercise the rights granted in said permit, except in the presence and under the supervision of the warden or one or more of his regularly constituted deputies, without expense to the state, and provided that seining shall not be permitted between the first day of December and the fifteenth day of June. [23 G. A., ch. 34, § 2.] [29 G. A., ch. 103, § 6.] [30 G. A., ch. 94.]
The warden has no authority to take, or empower others to take, fish from the pub-be held to apply to fishing in the Mississippi or Missouri rivers, nor to so much of the Des Moines river as forms the boundary line between this state and Missouri, nor to forbid the erection of dams across the waters of

CHAPTER 16.
OF THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

SECTION 2564. Appointment—meetings—officers—districts—vacancies—how filled. The state board of health shall consist of the attorney-general and the state veterinary surgeon, who shall be members by virtue of their offices, one civil engineer and seven physicians, to be appointed by the governor, each to serve for a term of seven years and until his successor is appointed; vacancies to be filled by the governor for the unexpired term. But no one of the seven physicians hereafter appointed shall be an officer or member of the faculty of any medical school, and the governor shall have the power to remove any member of said board for good cause shown. It shall meet semi-annually in July and January and at such other times as it may decide upon, such meetings to be held at the seat of government; suitable rooms, office supplies and furniture except postage and stationery, therefor to be provided by the custodian of the capitol. At the meeting held in July a president from their number, and a secretary who shall be a physician not of their number, shall be elected, and the latter have an office in the capitol. For the purposes contemplated in this section the state shall be divided into health districts, numbered and consisting respectively of the counties named as follows:

District No. 1. Allamakee, Butler, Bremer, Black Hawk, Buchanan, Chickasaw, Clayton, Delaware, Fayette, Floyd, Grundy, Howard, Mitchell, Winneshiek.

District No. 2. Benton, Cedar, Clinton, Dubuque, Iowa, Jones, Jackson, Johnson, Linn, Muscatine, Scott.

District No. 4. Cerro Gordo, Calhoun, Emmet, Franklin, Hancock, Humboldt, Hamilton, Hardin, Kossuth, Palo Alto, Pocahontas, Webster, Winnebago, Worth, Wright.

District No. 6. Audubon, Adair, Cass, Crawford, Carroll, Greene, Guthrie, Harrison, Monona, Pottawattamie, Shelby.

District No. 7. Boone, Dallas, Jasper, Marshall, Madison, Marion, Polk, Story, Tama, Poweshiek, Warren.

When vacancies occur in the state board of health, it shall be the duty of the governor to appoint to membership on the board physicians residing in the various health districts, until seven such districts are represented on the board. After which time the annual appointment shall be made from the physicians residing in the district not represented on the board the preceding year. [26 G. A., ch. 91; 20 G. A., ch. 173; 18 G. A., ch. 151, §§ 1, 9, 10, 12.] [27 G. A., ch. 67, § 1.] [28 G. A., ch. 88, § 1.] [30 G. A., ch. 97.]

[The amendment by 30 G. A., chap. 97, to the above section, ignored the same section as it appeared in the supplement to the code. The change is shown here as having been made to the code supplement. The amendment effected a change in the times of meetings of state board of health.]

SEC. 2565. Powers—regulations—reports.

In a prosecution for violation of the regulations of the state board of health, the rules of the board may be established by certification of its secretary. Pierce v. Doolittle, 130-333.
SEC. 2567. Clerk of court to keep registry. The clerk of the court in each county shall keep a book in which shall be recorded all marriages and divorces occurring within the county, together with such data respecting the same as shall be required by the state board of health, and shall report to the secretary of the state board of health on or before the first day of August in each year such data respecting such marriages for the year ending June thirtieth (30th) immediately preceding. The clerk of the district court of each county shall keep a book in which shall be recorded all births and deaths occurring within the county as shown by the returns filed in his office by the assessor, as provided in section twenty-five hundred and sixty-six; and on or before the first day of June in each year shall furnish to the secretary of the state board of health a report of such births and deaths. [19 G. A., ch. 140; 18 G. A., ch. 151, § 3] [31 G. A., ch. 110, §§ 1, 2.]

[Section 2567, which was amended by 31 G. A., chap.110, was repealed by section 9 of chap. 108, 31 G. A. Section 6 of chapter 108 took the place of section 2567. The repealing act was approved at a later date than the amending act.]

SEC. 2568. Local board of health—quarantine.

The physician appointed as a health officer by a local board of health becomes simply an officer to assist in the administration of the law and the enforcement of the regulations of the board and is not required to treat the sick in his professional capacity. If called into service by the board of health to treat persons infected with contagious disease he is entitled to compensation, although the county may have had a contract with another physician to treat all the paupers of the county. The fact that the patient is a pauper is material in determining who shall pay the bill and not with reference to who shall perform the services. Lacy v. Kossuth County, 106-16.

A certificate of the board of health attached to a physician's claim against the county for compensation for services in treating a person infected with contagious disease is admissible in evidence as a part of the claim for such compensation. Ibid.

There is nothing to prevent a member of a city council from acting as physician under the employment of the board of health appointed by the mayor of the city. Dewitt v. Mille County, 126-169.

It being made the duty of local boards of health to establish such relations as are necessary for the protection of the public health, and to proclaim and establish quarantine against infectious or contagious diseases, the members of such board are not individually liable for loss sustained by an individual on account of the establishment of a quarantine. Beeks v. Dickinson County, 131-244.

The provision that the mayor may declare a quarantine in case of infectious or contagious diseases, upon written notice given by any practicing physician of the existence of such disease, makes the written notice by such physician necessary before a quarantine against an individual can be declared, and in the absence of such notice there can be no punishment for violation of such quarantine. State v. Kirby, 120-26.

Expense of disinfecting premises is not chargeable to the county. Schmidt v. Muscatine County, 120-287.

Beyond the boundaries of the city the board of health of the city has no power or authority, and it cannot establish a smallpox pest house in an adjoining township. Warner v. Stebbins, 111-86.

SEC. 2570. Care of infected person.

This section does not enlarge the territorial limits of the jurisdiction of the city board of health, as specified in Code, § 2568, nor authorize a transfer of patients having contagious diseases to the jurisdiction of the board of health of an adjoining township. Warner v. Stebbins, 111-86.

A physician employed by the local board of health to treat cases of contagious diseases is entitled to recover by way of compensation from the county for such treatment given by him as is reasonable under the circumstances. Bay v. Monroe County, 121-302.

Where it is made to appear that smallpox or other disease dangerous to the public health exists, the board of health has power to make provision for the care of the patients, and may provide nursing and medical attendance, which will be charged to the patients or those liable for his support, if able to pay; but if unable to pay it is to be at the expense of the county. A physician seeking to enforce a claim for such services against a county must show that the person to whom such services were rendered are unable to pay.
the expense thereof. Walker v. Boone County, 123-5.

Before amendment of this section by 29 G. A., chapter 105, the liability of the county for the services of a physician employed by a local board of health to attend a person afflicted with a contagious disease as allowed by the board of health was absolute if the patient or those liable for his support were unable to pay. And held that the acceptance of a portion of the claim as allowed by the board of supervisors did not defeat recovery for the balance. Resner v. Carroll County, 126-423.

While the statute as to local boards of health provides for the care of infected persons and for the payment of the expenses incurred on account thereof, it neither expressly or by implication provides for compensation to one who is injured by the establishment of a quarantine. Beeks v. Dickinson County, 131-244.

SEC. 2570-a. Repeal—care of infected person—expenses. That section two thousand five hundred and seventy-a (2570-a) of the supplement to the code and chapter ninety-eight (98) acts of the thirtieth general assembly be, and the same are hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

When any person shall be sick or infected with smallpox or other infectious or contagious disease dangerous to the public health, whether a resident or otherwise, the local board of health shall make such provisions as are best calculated to protect the inhabitants therefrom, and may remove such person to a separate house, or to a pest house, or detention or other hospital, and shall provide needful assistance, nurses, medical attendance and supplies. If in the judgment of said board such person cannot be removed, then he shall be cared for at the place where he resides in the same manner as above provided. In case of the removal of more than one person to the same house, or to any pest house, or detention or other hospital, said board shall provide needful assistance, nurses, medical supplies and attendance necessary for their proper care. All bills for expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this section, and in establishing, maintaining, or raising a quarantine, including disinfection and the building and furnishing of any pest house, detention or other hospital, shall be filed with the clerk of the local board of health, which board shall examine the same and act thereon at its next regular meeting after the same have been filed with the clerk and shall certify the amount allowed by it thereon to the county auditor, and the board of county supervisors shall act upon said bills as thus certified at its first regular meeting thereafter. The local board of health shall allow an amount on such bills as shall be reasonable, and the certificate of the local board of health shall be prima facie evidence of the correctness of said bills, but the board of supervisors may revise the amounts so allowed and fix the same. The expenses paid under the provisions of this section shall in no case exceed the reasonable value of the property furnished or services rendered and the county shall not advance such expenses until the same shall have been audited and allowed by the board of supervisors; and the said board of supervisors, shall, at the time it levies the general taxes, levy on the property of the city, town or township, from which such expenses were certified, a sufficient tax to reimburse the county to the extent of one-third of the amount paid by it under the provisions of this act. It is further provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent any person quarantined, as herein provided, from employing at his own expense, the physician or nurse of his choice. The forcible removal of sick or infected persons, as herein provided, shall be effected by an application made to any civil magistrate, in the manner provided for the removal and abatement of nuisances, who shall issue the warrant as directed in such cases, to remove such person or persons to the place designated by the local board of health, or to take possession of the condemned or infected houses or lodgings and such officer shall receive a reasonable compensation for such services, to be determined and allowed by said local board. [31 G. A., ch. 111.]

The expense of fitting up a permanent detention hospital is to be paid by the county, and not by the persons who are detained and treated there. Kurtz v. Polk County, 109 N. W. 612.

SEC. 2570-a1. Saving clause. That nothing in this act shall in any manner affect pending litigation. [31 G. A., ch. 111, § 2.]

SEC. 2570-b. Repeal. That the law as it appears in section twenty-five hundred and seventy-b (2570-b) of the supplement to the code be and the same is hereby repealed. [30 G. A., ch. 98, § 2.] [31 G. A., ch. 111.]

[Section 2570-b was repealed by section 2, chap. 98, 30 G. A., and chap. 98, 30 G. A., was repealed by chap. 111, 31 G. A.]

SEC. 2571. Meetings of local board—regulations—reports—expenses—tax. All expenses incurred in the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter, when not otherwise provided, shall be paid by the town, city or township; in either case all claims to be presented and audited as other demands. In the case of townships, the trustees shall certify the amount required to pay such expenses to the board of supervisors of the county, and it shall advance the same, and, at the time it levies the general taxes, shall levy on the property of such township a sufficient tax to reimburse the county, which, when collected, shall be paid to and belong to the county. [22 G. A., ch. 65; 18 G. A., ch. 151, §§ 15, 24; C., '73, §§ 416, 420.]

SEC. 2572. Regulations of state board. Local boards of health shall obey and enforce the rules and regulations of the state board; and peace and police officers within their respective jurisdictions, when called upon to do so by the local boards, shall execute the orders of such board. If any local board of health shall refuse or neglect to enforce the rules and regulations of the state board of health, the state board of health may enforce its rules and regulations within the territorial jurisdiction of such local board, and for that purpose shall have and may exercise all of the powers given by statute to local boards of health; and the peace and police officers of the state, when called upon by the state board of health to enforce its rules and regulations, shall execute the orders of such board. Each applicant shall, upon obtaining an order for examination, receive from the secretary a confidential number which he shall place upon his work when completed, so that the board, in passing thereon, shall not know by whom it was prepared. All matters connected therewith shall be filed with the secretary and preserved for five years as a part of the records of the board, during which time they shall be open to public inspection. If the examination is satisfactory to five members of the board, it shall issue its certificate, under its seal, signed by its president, secretary, and not less than three other members, who may, in the absence of the others, act as an examining board, and the different schools of medicine represented in the board of health shall be represented in said number. The certificate, while in force, shall confer upon the holder the right to practice medicine, surgery and obstetrics, and be conclusive evidence thereof. In all examinations made or proceedings had pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, any member of the board may administer oaths and take testimony in any manner authorized by law. Any one failing in his examination shall be entitled to a second one, within three months thereafter, without further fee. If any person shall by notice in writing apply to the secretary of the board for an examination or re-examination, and it fails or neglects for three months thereafter to give him the same, he may, notwithstanding any provision of this chapter, practice medicine until the next regular meeting of the board.
without the required certificate. [22 G. A., ch. 66; 21 G. A., ch. 104, §§ 1-3.]

When the question of license arises collateral in a civil action between the physician and one who employs him, due qualification under the statute will be presumed and the burden will be upon him who denies such license. Lacy v. Kossuth County, 106-16.
All who hold themselves out to heal the sick regardless of the particular school according to which they practice, are to be examined in anatomy, physiology, general chemistry, pathology, surgery and obstetrics. State v. Heath, 125-585.
Magnetic healers, so called, come within the provision of the statute requiring a physician to procure a license. Ibid.

SEC. 2578. Repeal—refusal of certificate or revocation for cause. That section two thousand five hundred and seventy-eight (2578) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following is enacted in lieu thereof:

"The board of medical examiners may refuse to grant a certificate to any person otherwise qualified and shall revoke any certificate issued by it to any physician, who is not of good moral character, or who solicits professional patronage by agents, or who profits by the acts of those representing themselves to be his agents, or who is guilty of fraudulent representations as to his skill and ability, or who is guilty of gross unprofessional conduct, or for incompetency, or for habitual intoxication or drug habit; or if the certificate has been granted upon false and fraudulent statements as to graduation or length of practice, the board of medical examiners shall, to safeguard the public health, revoke the certificate in the manner hereinafter set forth." [32 G. A., ch. 141, § 1.]

The state board of examiners may revoke a certificate on account of "incompetency." The person whose right is involved should in such case be given a fair opportunity to meet the charges and evidence against him, but it is not necessary that the evidence be strictly confined to that which would be admissible in a court. Affidavits may be considered. Traer v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 106-559.

SEC. 2578-a. Revocation of certificate—procedure. Before the revocation of any certificate issued by the state medical examiners the licentiate shall have been afforded an opportunity for a hearing before the board. At least twenty (20) days prior to the date set for such a hearing, the secretary of the state board of medical examiners shall cause written notice to be personally served upon the defendant in the manner prescribed for the serving of original notice in civil actions. Said notice shall contain a statement of the charges and the date and place set for the hearing before the board. If the party thus notified fails to appear, either in person or by counsel at the time and place designated in said notice, the board shall, after receiving satisfactory evidence of the truth of the charges and the proper issuance of notice, revoke said certificate. If the licentiate appear either in person or by counsel, the board shall proceed with the hearing as herein provided. The board may receive and consider affidavits and oral statements and shall cause stenographic reports of the oral testimony to be taken which, together with all other papers pertaining thereto, shall be preserved for two years. If five members of the board, present at the hearing, are satisfied that the licentiate is guilty of any of the offenses charged, the license shall be revoked. After the revocation of a certificate the holder thereof shall not practice medicine, surgery or obstetrics in this state, for such times as the state board of health may determine. [32 G. A., ch. 141, § 2.]

SEC. 2578-b. Appeal. Any person aggrieved by any ruling or order entered under the provisions of this act shall have the right of an appeal to the district court in the county in which the alleged offense was committed.
mitted, upon giving notice to the board of medical examiners of such appeal within twenty days after the entry of such ruling, order, or judgment. [32 G. A., ch. 141, § 3.]

SEC. 2579. Who deemed practitioner.

These statutory directions as to qualifications for the practice of medicine are not unconstitutional on the ground that they grant to some citizens or classes of citizens privileges or immunities which on the same terms are not equally granted to all. The statute merely establishes a rule of evidence by which qualifications to practice medicine shall be ascertained. State v. Bair, 112-466.

Those who are to be deemed as practicing medicine under the statutory provisions requiring a license to practice are of three classes: (1) those professing to be physicians, surgeons or obstetricians and assume the duties incident thereto; (2) those who make a practice of prescribing or do prescribe and furnish medicine and, (3) those who publicly profess to heal. State v. Heath, 125-585.

It is proper to charge in the indictment as contemporaneous acts which together considered constitute the practice of medicine without a license, that the defendant professed to cure and heal diseases. State v. Wilhite, 132-226.

The statute prohibiting the practice of medicine without a license is not unconstitutional. Ibid.

The design of the law is not to render any mode of treatment whatsoever unlawful, but that every one before he shall undertake to prevent, cure or alleviate disease and pain as an occupation, shall have some knowledge of the nature of disease, its origin, its anatomical and physiological features, its causative relations, and of the preparation and action of drugs. Ibid.

In an indictment for practicing without a license, it is not necessary to allege specifically the time, place or circumstances of such unlawful practicing, nor is it necessary to allege that the prescribing of medicine or the practicing charged was for or upon human beings as distinguished from domestic animals. State v. Kendig, 133-164.

It is not necessary in the indictment to negative the exceptions contained in the statute. Ibid.

SEC. 2580. Penalties.

The practice of medicine is not a right but a privilege upon which the state may impose such license tax as it sees fit. State v. Edmunds, 127-333.

One, who publicly announces his skill in the art of healing under circumstances indicating an intention to treat the sick, is guilty of a violation of the statute if without a certificate and not within the statutory exceptions, although he has not actually undertaken to render his services in any particular case. State v. Heath, 125-585.

SEC. 2581. Itinerant physician. Every physician practicing medicine, surgery or obstetrics, or professing or attempting to treat, cure or heal diseases, ailments or injuries by any medicine, appliance or method, who, by himself, agent or employe goes from place to place, or from house to house, or by circulars, letters or advertisements solicits persons to meet him for professional treatment at places other than his office at the place of his residence, shall be considered an itinerant physician; and any such itinerant physician shall, in addition to the certificate elsewhere provided for in this chapter, procure from the state board of medical examiners a license as an itinerant, for which he shall pay to the treasurer of state, for the use of the state of Iowa, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars per annum. Upon payment of this sum, the secretary shall issue to the applicant therefor a license to practice within the state, as an itinerant physician, for one year from the date thereof. The board may, for satisfactory reasons, refuse to issue such license, or may cancel such license upon satisfactory evidence of incompetency or gross immorality. Any person practicing medicine as an itinerant physician, as herein defined, without having procured such license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon con-

A conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than three hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, and costs, and shall be committed to the county jail until such fine is paid: provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any physician otherwise legally qualified from attending patients in any part of the state to whom he may be called in the regular course of business, or in consultation with other physicians. [29 G. A., ch. 109, § 1.]

An indictment for practicing as a non-licensed itinerant physician by professing to cure by dieting patients and prescribing exercises and furnishing eye glasses is sufficient. State v. Edmunds, 127-333.

The words "medicine, appliance or method" used in this section are not to be limited to a medicine or drug or something administered as such. Ibid.

SEC. 2582. Examination and diploma required—registration—fee.
From and after January 1, 1899, all persons beginning the practice of medicine in the state of Iowa must submit to an examination as set forth in this chapter, and, in addition thereto, shall present diplomas from medical colleges recognized as in good standing by the state board of medical examiners, and all persons receiving their diplomas subsequent to January 1, 1899, shall present evidence of having attended four full courses of study of not less than twenty-six weeks each, no two of which shall have been given in any one year. The state board of medical examiners shall examine the graduates of the medical departments of the state university of Iowa and of such other medical colleges in this state as are recognized by said board of medical examiners as being in good and legal standing at the annual medical commencement and at the location of said state university and other medical colleges respectively:

(a) A certificate of registration showing that an examination has been made by the proper board of any state, on which an average grade of not less than seventy-five (75) per cent. was awarded, the holder thereof having been at the time of said examination the legal possessor of a diploma from a medical college in good standing in this state, may be accepted in lieu of an examination, as evidence of qualification. But in case the scope of said examination was less than that prescribed by this state, the applicant may be required to submit to a supplemental examination in such subjects as have not been covered.

(b) A certificate of registration or license, issued by the proper board of any state, may be accepted as evidence of qualification for registration in this state, provided the holder thereof has been at the time of said examination the legal possessor of a diploma from a medical college in good standing in this state, and that the date thereof was prior to the legal requirement of the examination test in this state. The fee for such examination shall be fifty dollars. [28 G. A., ch. 89, § 2.] [30 G. A., ch. 102, § 1.]

SEC. 2582-a. Restrictions. If, by the laws of any state or the rulings or decisions of the appropriate officers or boards thereof, any burden, obligation, requirement, disqualification or disability is put upon physicians registered in this state or holding diplomas from medical colleges in this state, which are in good standing therein, affecting the right of said physicians to be registered or admitted to practice in said state, then the same or like burdens, obligations, requirements, disqualification or disability shall be put upon the registration in this state of physicians registered in said state, or holding diplomas from medical colleges situated therein. [30 G. A., ch. 102, § 2.]

SEC. 2583. Fees—compensation—expenses of board. Each member of the board of examiners shall receive, out of the fund created by the payment of fees by applicants for examination or certificates, the sum of eight dollars for each day, and necessary traveling expenses, for the time he is actually engaged in the discharge of his duties as a member of the board, and the secretary shall receive a sum not to exceed twenty-five ($25.00) dollars per month and his necessary expenses incurred for services which cannot be performed at the capitol. All printing, postage, and other contingent office expenses necessarily incurred under the provisions of this chapter shall be paid from said fund. Any balance of said funds remaining shall be turned over to the state treasurer for the use of the school fund. [22 G. A., ch. 66; 21 G. A., ch. 104, § 6.] [27 G. A., ch. 68, § 1.]

The fee for said examination, which shall accompany the application, shall be ten dollars ($10) and the examination shall be conducted in the same manner, and at the same place and on the same date that physicians are examined as prescribed by section twenty-five hundred and seventy-six (2576) of the code. The same general average shall be required as in cases of physicians; provided that osteopaths who are graduates of legally incorporated schools of osteopathy as above recognized, and who are at the time of the passage of this act engaged in the practice of osteopathy in Iowa, shall be entitled to receive a certificate upon the payment of the prescribed fee without such examination. Upon passing a satisfactory examination as above prescribed the said board of medical examiners shall issue a certificate to the applicant therefor, signed by the president and secretary of said board, which certificate shall authorize the holder thereof to practice osteopathy in the state of Iowa. This certificate when issued shall be registered with the recorder of the county in which the holder thereof resides and for which he shall pay a fee of fifty cents (50c). And the holder thereof shall not be subject to the provisions of section two thousand five hundred eighty (2580) of the code. [29 G. A., ch. 158, § 1.]

SEC. 2583-b. Drugs—major or operative surgery. The certificate provided for in the foregoing section shall not authorize the holder thereof to prescribe or use drugs in his practice, nor to perform major or operative surgery. [29 G. A., ch. 158, § 2.]

SEC. 2583-c. Revocation of certificate. The board of medical examiners may refuse to grant a certificate to any person otherwise qualified, who is not of good moral character. For like cause, or for incompetency, or habitual intoxication, or upon satisfactory evidence by affidavit or otherwise that a certificate has been granted upon false and fraudulent statements as to graduation or length of practice, the said board may revoke a certificate by an affirmative vote of at least five (5) members of the board, which number shall include one or more members of the different schools of medicine represented in said board. After the revocation of a certificate, the holder thereof shall not practice osteopathy, surgery, or obstetrics in the state. [29 G. A., ch. 158, § 3.]

SEC. 2583-d. Fraudulent diploma—false representation—penalties. [29 G. A., ch. 158, § 4.]

SEC. 2583-e. Itinerant osteopath—license. Upon payment of this sum, the secretary shall issue to the applicant therefor a license to practice within the state, as an itinerant osteopath, for one year from the date thereof. A pharmacist selling liquor so com-its distinctive character as an intoxicant, and to be no longer desirable for use as a stimulating beverage, and in fact a medicine, does not violate the prohibitory law, in such cases to take written requests. State v. Gregory, 110-624.

as it may select and in such manner as it may determine, shall conduct an examination for all persons desiring to engage in and conduct business as vision of a registered pharmacist in a drug store or pharmacy in which physicians' prescriptions are compounded. Provided, however, that graduates of reputable pharmaceutical schools and colleges whose entrance and graduation requirements are equivalent to those prescribed by the American Conference of Pharmaceutical Faculties, for the year 1905, and whose as hereinafter defined. Applicants who are graduates of a junior course, consisting of not less than thirty-six (36) weeks in pharmaceutical schools and colleges whose course consists of or is equivalent to the requirements above specified, shall be allowed one year's credit on store experience. If such applicant passes the required examination, he shall be granted a certificate of registration. Pharmacists thus registered shall have the sole right to keep and sell all medicines and poisons, except intoxicating

SEC. 2589-d. Examination and registration fees. Each person furnished a certificate under this act shall be charged a fee of five dollars ($5.00) which shall be in full for all services, and in case the examination of said person shall prove defective or unsatisfactory and his name be not registered, he shall be permitted to present himself for re-examination within any period not exceeding twelve (12) months next thereafter, and no charge shall be made for re-examination. The said commissioners are authorized to administer oaths pertaining to their said office and take a certificate of acknowledgment of instruments in writing. After registration, an annual fee of one dollar ($1.00) for renewal certificate shall be paid on or before the 22nd day of March by all pharmacists and assistants who continue in business, and the conduct of such business without such renewal shall be a misdemeanor. Provided that nothing in this act shall prevent the sale thereof to a wholesale or retail dealer in drugs, nor to a registered physician or veterinarian or licensed dentist. [However, nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the sale thereof to a wholesale or retail dealer in drugs nor registered physician, or licensed dentist for use in the practice of his profession.] [29 G. SEC. 2727-a44. Contingent fund. The board of control may permit a contingent fund, not to exceed in any institution two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00), to remain in the hands of the managing officer of such institution, from which expenditures may be made in case of actual emergency requiring immediate action to prevent loss or danger to the institution or to the inmates thereof. A full, minute, and itemized statement of every expenditure made during the month from such fund, shall be submitted by the proper officer of said institution to the board under such rules and regulations as may be by said board established. If necessary, the board shall make proper requisition upon the auditor of state for a warrant on the state treasurer to secure the said contingent fund for each institution. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 43.]

SEC. 2727-a45. Blanks and forms. The board of control shall formulate and furnish to each institution proper blanks and forms for all statements and accounts necessary to furnish the information required of such institution. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 44.]

SEC. 2727-a46. Duties of institution officers. The stewards of the hospitals for the insane, the clerks of the prisons, and the proper officer of the other institutions who shall be designated by the board, shall have charge of and be accountable for all the supplies and stores of such institution, and shall be charged therewith at their invoice value, and shall in conjunction with the chief executive officer of each institution, make or direct all purchases for such institution as may be ordered by the board, under the estimates as hereinafore provided. Such officer shall issue all the stores upon requisition approved by the superintendent or other officer designated by the board, which shall be his voucher therefor. He shall present monthly to the board of control an abstract of all expenditures, together with the accounts and pay-rolls for the preceding month, and shall examine and register all goods delivered, according to their amount and quality, and if found to correspond with the samples, and in good order, and correct in charge, he shall certify the bills as herein provided. He shall quarterly take an account of the subsistence supplies and stock in his possession and under his control, and transmit a copy of such invoice, duly verified, to the board; and at the close of the biennial period he shall make a consolidated report of all purchases, and all other transactions of his department, to the state board. If it shall appear that there is any shortage in the stores of the institution, the board shall appoint a committee from its number to investigate the cause thereof, and if it shall appear that the said shortage resulted from unavoidable loss, without the negligence of such steward, clerk or other designated officer shall be credited therewith; otherwise, he shall be charged with the amount thereof, and shall be required to pay the same into the state treasury within sixty days after the determination of the loss. If default shall be made in said payment, he shall forfeit his office, and suit shall be instituted upon his official bond to recover the same. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 45.]

SEC. 2727-a47. Purchase of supplies from one institution for use of another. Without complying with the provisions of chapter one hundred and eighteen (118) of the laws of the twenty-seventh general assembly, requiring estimates to be made, the board of control is empowered to direct the purchase of materials, or any articles of supply, for any institution subject to its management, from any other institution under its control, which purchase shall be made at the reasonable market value of the commodity so purchased, the value thereof to be ascertained and fixed by the said board, and payments therefor shall be made as between institutions in the manner provided by law for payments for supplies. [28 G. A., ch. 143, § 1.]

SEC. 2727-a48. Rules—additional duties. The board of control is authorized to make its own rules for the proper execution of its powers, and may require the performance of additional duties by the officers of the several institutions, so as to fully enforce the requirements, intents and purposes of this enactment, and particularly so much thereof as relates to the making of the estimates and furnishing proper proofs of the expenditures or use of all stocks of subsistence and supplies. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 46.]

SEC. 2727-a49. Contracts. Contracts may be entered into under the direction of the board of control by the proper officers of one or more of the institutions for staples and other articles of supplies, as may be found feasible by the board for the institutions to purchase in bulk for use or consumption for periods longer than thirty days. Such contracts shall not, however, be made except in conformity with the provisions of this act relating to estimates. If thought advisable, such contracts may be executed by the representative of one institution, who may be designated by the board to act for other institutions. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 47.]

SEC. 2727-a50. Purchase of supplies. It shall be the duty of the board to make specific rules and regulations respecting the manner in which supplies shall be purchased and contracts made for the several institutions, so as to insure the competition and publicity necessary to secure the economical management of each institution. Jobbers, or others desirous of selling supplies to an institution shall, by filing with the chief executive officer of such institution, or with the secretary of the board, a memorandum showing their address and business, be afforded an opportunity to compete for the furnishing of the supplies under such limitations and rules as the board may prescribe. In purchasing all supplies, local dealers shall have the preference, when such can be given without loss to the state. When samples are furnished the same shall be properly marked and preserved for six months after purchase of such merchandise. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 48.]

SEC. 2727-a51. Letting of contracts — labor of inmates utilized. Contracts for the erection, repairs or improvements of buildings, grounds, or properties of the institutions under charge of this board, and for which appropriations have been or may be made by the legislature, must be let for the whole or for any part of the work to be performed, by the chief executive officer of the institution, subject, however, to the same rules and regulations as herein provided for the furnishing of estimates by said institution to, and the approval and revision thereof by the board of control. If the cost of the erection or betterment is not in excess of three hundred dollars ($300) the board may permit the management of the institution to construct the same by day's labor, without contracting the work. All plans or specifications for the said erections, repairs and improvements, shall be prepared by the architect of the board, under the board's direction. The board shall determine to what extent and for what length of time, and by what means advertisements are to be inserted in newspapers for proposals for the said erections, repairs or improvements. The board shall be awarded by the management of the institution to the lowest responsible bidder, subject to the provisions of this act, and the approval of the board, prior to the execution of the contract. The management of the board has the right to reject any and all bids, and to re-advertise, upon the approval of the board. A preliminary deposit of money or certified check upon a solvent bank in such amount as the board may prescribe shall be required as an evidence of good faith, upon all proposals for the construction of said buildings, repairs and improvements, which deposit or certified check shall be held by the management of the institution under the direction of the board. The provision of this section which requires all work to be let by contract, shall not be mandatory as to the labor on the construction work at the penitentiaries, but the board shall establish such rules, and enforce the provisions of this act so that the construction work at the penitentiaries shall be performed in a manner agreeable thereto, with the strictest accountability exacted in the consumption of all supplies for construction purposes, and in the expenditure of the public moneys. On proper representations the board is authorized to so construct the erections, betterments and improvements at other institutions that the work of inmates may be utilized, if it is found to be advantageous to the state, and a substantial saving made, but the attempt to use such labor shall not permit a substantial departure from the requirements of this section; and in no case shall any expenditure be made except on estimates submitted to and approved by the board, as provided herein. No payment shall be authorized for construction purposes until satisfactory proof has been furnished to the board of control, by the proper officer or supervising architect, that the contract has been complied with by the parties; and all payments shall be made in a manner similar to that in which the current expenses of the several institutions are paid. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 49.]

SEC. 2727-a52. Cherokee commission abolished. The members of the building commission authorized to construct the hospital for the insane at Cherokee shall be relieved from such duty, and the commission abolished on July 1, 1898. Before said last named day the said commission shall surrender to the board of control all plans, specifications, books, records and other properties belonging to or in the possession of the said commission, or any member thereof. The said board shall succeed to and be vested with all the powers of the said building commission, and all duties thereof will be performed by said board, and all legislation affecting the powers, duties or obligations of said building commission shall, so far as applicable, apply with equal force to the said board of control. The said board shall call upon any of the superintendents of the hospitals for the insane for such information or service as the board shall deem proper; and the said superintendents shall respond to such call for the compensation provided in the act relating to the building commission of the hospital for the insane at Cherokee. All outstanding obligations of said commission shall be executed and performed by the board of control, but this shall not prevent said board from selecting all its agents or employees in the work of construction, which shall be executed in a manner agreeable to and pursuant to the provisions of this act. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 50.]

SEC. 2727-a53. Educational institutions. 2. If appropriations have been drawn from the state treasury in accordance with law and so expended.

It shall be the duty of said board to investigate the manner in which all contracts for the educational institutions have been let, and to ascertain whether or not the matters in charge of such officials are conducted in an economical and business-like manner; and to report the result of such investigation to the governor with the other reports to be filed with that officer. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 53.]

Estimates of cost, etc. And when any one of the three last above named educational institutions shall ask appropriations for any buildings or betterments, said institution or institutions shall first have prepared by the architect provided for in this act estimates of the cost, plans and specifications of said buildings or betterments, and submit the same to the following general assembly. [27 G. A., ch. 118, § 54.]

It shall be the duty of said board of control as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, and at least twice annually thereafter, by one or more of its members or by some competent and disinterested person, whom the board shall appoint, to visit every private and county institution wherein insane persons are kept. Said visitor shall carefully examine into the capacity of said institutions for the care of insane patients, the number kept therein, and their sex, the arrangement of buildings and the method of their construction, their adaptation for the purposes intended, their condition as to sewerage, ventilation, light, heat, cleanliness, means of water supply, fire escapes and fire protection, the care of patients, their food, clothing, medical attendance, and treatment, their employment, if any, the number, kind, and sex of employes, their duties and salaries, including nurses, attendants, and night watches, the cost to the state or county maintaining patients, which shall in all cases be kept separate and distinct from the cost of keeping papers, and such other information which the said board shall deem proper. The person making the visit above provided for shall see all patients in the institutions and shall give each an opportunity to converse with him out of the hearing of any officer or employe of the institution, and shall fully investigate and inquire into any complaint by making inquiry from the persons in charge of said institution, and others, and report the result thereof in writing to said board; but said board, before acting on said report adversely to the institution, shall give the persons in charge thereof a copy of such report and an opportunity to be heard thereon. [28 G. A., ch. 144, § 3.]

As soon as all private and county institutions in which insane persons may be kept shall have been visited and reports thereon received, the board of control shall adopt reasonable rules and regulations touching the care and treatment of, and make orders in relation to, such insane patients as may be kept in said institutions, which rules and regulations shall not interfere with the medical treatment given to private patients by competent physicians. Copies of such rules and regulations, when adopted, shall be mailed to the chief executive officer of each private institution, and to the clerk of the district court, the chairman of the board of supervisors, and the officer in charge of the institution in all counties having county institutions caring for insane persons. And whenever said board shall find any patient in a state hospital, who shall have become chronic, or likely to do as well in a county or private institution as in the state hospital, it may order the county to which the keeping of said patient is chargeable to remove him or her to some county or private institution in the state which shall have complied with the rules of said board relative to the keeping of insane patients; but in no case shall

The board of trustees shall fix reasonable tuition for such pupils. If such pupils are residents of the county the school corporation from which they attend shall pay their tuition out of its contingent fund. The principal of such high school shall report to the said board of trustees under oath, at the close of each term the names and number of pupils attending such school during said term, from what school corporation they attended, and the amount of tuition, if any, paid by each, the same to be included in the annual report of the secretary of the board of trustees to the board of supervisors, provided for in section twenty-seven hundred and thirty-one (2731) of the code. The management of school affairs is left to the discretion of the board of directors, and such discretion will not be interfered with by the courts so far as it is exercised within the scope of the powers conferred upon the board. Kinzer v. Independent Sch. Dist., 129-441.

SEC. 2745-a. Duty of board of school directors—fence. It shall be the duty of all boards of school directors in school districts where the schoolhouse site adjoins the cultivated or improved lands of another to build and maintain a lawful fence between said site and cultivated or improved lands. [27 G. A., ch. 88, § 1.]

SEC. 2745-b. Rights of owner of adjoining lands. The owner of lands adjoining any schoolhouse site shall have the right to connect the fence on his lands with the fences around any schoolhouse site, but he shall not be liable to contribute to the maintenance of the fence around said site. [27 G. A., ch. 88, § 2.]

SEC. 2746. Annual meeting of corporation.

By reason of the provisions of this section as to giving notice of propositions to be submitted to and determined by the voters at school meetings, and Code § 2749, that the board may, or under certain conditions shall, provide in the notice for the annual meeting for submitting any proposition authorized by law to the voters, notice of the proposition to be submitted at such meeting is essential to the validity of their adoption, the statutory provision as to notice being construed as mandatory. Goerd v. Trumm, 118-207.

The board may provide in the notice of a school meeting for the submission of the question as to voting a schoolhouse tax. Kinney v. Howard, 133-94.

Unless there has been a valid order of the board of directors for the submission of a proposition, the adoption thereof by the electors is of no validity, even though notice of the submission of the proposition has been given. McNees v. School Township, 133-120.

The law presumes that the officer charged with the posting of the notices has performed his duty. Calahan v. Handsaker, 133-922.

SEC. 2747. Electors.

Women are expressly authorized to vote on the proposition whether a tax shall be levied for the erection of a schoolhouse. Kinney v. Howard, 133-94.
SEC. 2749. Powers of electors.

Irregularity in recording the acts of the electors will not prevent such action being recognized and taken into account in a court of equity. Locker v. Keeler, 110-707.

It is not necessary that the ballot contain a recital of every preliminary step necessary to render the election valid. Calahan v. Handsaker, 133-622.

No specific form of ballot is prescribed; all that is necessary is that the ballot fairly and intelligently present the question that is to be voted upon. A substantial compliance with the statute is sufficient. Ibid.

Where the ballot prepared and used by the electors was in the form of the Australian ballot, with reference to the submission of propositions, and not in strict conformity with the statutory provision as to submission of propositions at school elections, held that the irregularity would not defeat the result of the election. McNee v. School Township, 133-120.

This provision does not take away the power previously existing in the board of directors to change the schoolhouse site without such vote. James v. Gettinger, 123-199.

SEC. 2750. Special meeting. The board of directors may call a special meeting of the voters of any school corporation by giving notice in the same manner as for the annual meeting, which shall have the powers given to a regular meeting with reference to the sale of school property and the application to be made of the proceeds, and to vote a schoolhouse tax for the purchase of a site and the construction of a necessary schoolhouse, and for obtaining roads thereto. [24 G. A., ch. 21; 18 G. A., ch. 84.] [28 G. A., ch. 104, § 1.]

SEC. 2751. Subdistrict meeting.

The failure to make a record of an election at an annual school meeting will not deprive the officer selected of his right to office. The statute does not declare that the record shall be the sole and exclusive evidence, and if the record be not kept as required, or if it does not contain evidence of the fact sought to be proved, parol evidence is admissible. State v. Cahill, 131-155.

SEC. 2752. Number of directors. The board of directors of a school township shall be composed of one director from each sub-district. But when there is an even number of sub-districts another member shall be elected at large by all the voters of the school township. When the school township is not divided into sub-districts, a board of three directors shall be elected at large, on the second Monday in March, by all the voters of the school township. [15 G. A., ch. 27; C., '73, §§ 1720-1; R., §§ 2031, 2035, 2075-6; C., '51, §§ 1112, 1721.] [27 G. A., ch. 92, § 1.]

SEC. 2754. Elections to independent districts—tie vote.—At the annual meeting in all independent districts members of the board shall be chosen by ballot. If any district including all or part of a city of the first class, or a city under special charter, the board shall consist of seven members, three of whom shall be chosen on the second Monday in March, 1898, two on the second Monday in March, 1899, and two on the second Monday in March, 1900. In all other independent city, town, or village districts, and in all rural independent districts where the board now consists of six members, the board shall consist of five members, one of whom shall be chosen on the second Monday in March, 1898, two on the second Monday in March, 1899, and two on the second Monday in March, 1900. In all independent city, town, or village districts where the board now consists of three members such board shall hereafter consist of five members, three of whom shall be elected on the second Monday in March, 1898, one for one year, one for two years, and one for three years. In all other rural independent districts the board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be chosen on the second Monday in March, 1898, and one each year thereafter. In districts composed in whole or in part of cities or towns, a treasurer shall be chosen in like manner, whose term shall begin on the first day of July, unless that date falls on Sunday, in which case on the day following and continue for two years, or until his successor is elected and qualified. The term of office of the incumbent treasurer in said district shall expire on the third Monday in March, 1898. In such districts the polls must remain open not less than five hours, and in rural independent districts and school townships not less than two hours. In each case the polls shall open at one o'clock p. m., except as provided in section twenty-seven hundred and fifty-six of this chapter. A tie vote for any elective school office shall be publicly determined by lot forthwith, under the direction of the judges. [22 G. A., ch. 51; 18 G. A., ch. 7, § 2; C., 73, §§ 1789, 1808.] [27 G. A., ch. 91, § 2.] [27 G. A., ch. 93, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 2.]

A deviation from the statutory provision appears that no one was thereby deprived of the opportunity to cast his ballot. District Tp. v. Independent Dist., 112-321.

SEC. 2755. Election precincts—register of voters—notice. Each school corporation having five thousand or more inhabitants may be divided into such number of precincts as the board of directors shall determine, in each of which a poll shall be held at a convenient place, fixed by the board of directors, for the reception of the ballots of voters residing in such precinct. A separate register of the voters of each precinct shall be prepared by the board from the register of the electors of any city included within such school corporation, and for that purpose a copy of such register of electors shall be furnished by the clerk of the city to the board of directors. Before each annual meeting these registers shall be revised and corrected by comparison with the last register of elections of such cities, and shall have the same force and effect at school meetings held under this section, in respect to the reception of votes thereat, as the register of election has by law at general elections. The board of directors of such school corporation, on or before the last Monday preceding such election shall appoint two suitable persons to be registrars in each of the election precincts of such school corporation for the registration of voters therein, who shall have the same qualifications as registrars appointed for general elections and shall qualify in the same manner, and receive the same compensation to be paid by the school corporation. The registrars shall meet on the day of election at the voting place in the precinct in which they have been appointed and shall hold continuous session from nine o'clock in the forenoon until seven o'clock in the afternoon. Any person claiming to be a voter, and who is not already registered in the proper precinct, may appear before them in the election precinct where he claims he is entitled to vote and make and subscribe under oath a statement in the registry book, which oath and statement shall be of the same general character, as that prescribed by section one thousand and seventy-seven (1077) of the code, and shall thereupon be granted a certificate of registration. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit women from voting at all elections at which they are entitled to vote. The secretary must post a notice of the meeting in a public place in each precinct at least ten days before the meeting, and by publication once each week for two consecutive weeks preceding the same in some newspaper, published in the corporation, such notice to state the time, respective voting precincts and the polling place in each precinct, and also to specify what questions authorized by law, in addition to the election of director or directors, shall be voted upon and determined by the voters of the several precincts. [18 G. A., ch. 3, §§ 1-4.] [28 G. A., ch. 105, § 1.] [29 G. A., ch. 125, §§ 1-2.] [31 G. A., ch. 9, § 3.]

[The amendment by the 31 G. A., chap. 9, § 3, ignored the code supplement where the same section is found. The amendment was by inserting matter in line 17 of the code section, while the same words, after which the matter should be inserted, appears in line 32 of the code supplement, where the change has been made.]

SEC. 2757. Repeal—meetings of directors—election of officers. That section twenty-seven hundred fifty-seven (2757) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The board of directors of all independent city, town and village corporations shall organize on the third Monday in March, and those of all other school corporations on the first day of July, unless that date falls on Sunday, in which case the day following. Such organization shall be effected by the election of a president from the members of the board, who shall be entitled to vote as a member. Such special meetings may be held as may be determined by the board, or called by the president, or by the secretary upon the written request of a majority of the members of the board, upon notice specifying the time and place, delivered to each member in person, but attendance shall be a waiver of notice. Such meetings shall be held at any place within the civil township in which the corporation is situated. On the first day of July, unless that date falls on Sunday, in which case on the day following, the board of all independent city, town and village corporations and the retiring board in all other school corporations shall meet, examine the books of, and settle with the secretary and treasurer for the year ending on the thirtieth day of June preceding, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before it. On the same day the board of each independent city, town and village corporation, except as provided in section twenty-seven hundred fifty-four (2754) of this chapter, and the new board of every other school corporation, shall elect from outside the board a secretary and treasurer, but in independent districts no teacher or other employe of the board shall be eligible as secretary. All officers shall be elected by ballot and the vote shall be recorded by the secretary. Should the secretary or treasurer fail to report as provided in sections twenty-seven hundred sixty-five (2765) and twenty-seven sixty-nine (2769) of this chapter, it shall be the duty of the new board to take any action necessary to secure a proper settlement." [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 3.]

SEC. 2758. Qualification of directors—vacancies. Any member of the board may administer the oath of qualification to any member elect, and to the president of the board. Each director elected in March, 1906, or at any regular election thereafter, shall qualify on or before the date for the organization of the board of the corporation in which he was elected by taking an oath to support the constitution of the United States and that of the state of Iowa, and that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office; and shall hold the office for the term to which he is elected, and until a successor is elected and qualified. In case of a vacancy, the office shall be filled by appointment by the board until the next annual meeting. In all rural school corporations, the term of office of directors whose terms expire on the third Monday in March, 1906, is hereby extended to July 1st, 1906. [C., '73, §§ 1752, 1790; R., §§ 2032, 2079; C., '51, §§ 1113, 1120.]

SEC. 2759. President—employment of counsel.

The president has no authority to represent that at the time of settlement with the treasurer the funds called for by his accounts were produced, counted and found to be correct. Independent Sch. Dist. v. Myles, 109-541.

SEC. 2761. Duties of secretary.

Informality in the records kept by the secretary of the action of the board will not defeat subsequent proceedings based on such action if in fact taken. Kinney v. Howard, 133-94.

He shall countersign all warrants and drafts upon the county treasurer drawn or signed by the president; draw each order on the treasurer, specify the fund on which it is drawn and the use for which the money is appropriated; countersign and keep a register of the same, showing the number, date, to whom drawn, the fund upon which it is drawn, the purpose and the amount; and at each regular annual meeting furnish the board with a copy of the same. [19 G. A., ch. 46; C., '73, §§ 1739, 1782; R., §§ 2039, 2061; C., '51, §§ 1122-3.]

SEC. 2763. Repeal. That section twenty-seven hundred and sixty-three (2763) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof. [31 G. A., ch. 138, § 1.]

The auditor in apportioning school taxes has no authority to review the school census reported to him by the secretaries of school townships, and cannot be restrained by injunction from acting on the census as thus reported because of the misconduct of a district secretary in taking the census of his township. Judson v. Agar, 111 N. W. 943.

SEC. 2767. Certifying tax.

Whenever an order cannot be paid in full out of the fund upon which it is drawn, partial payment may be made. All school orders shall draw lawful interest after being presented to the treasurer and by him indorsed as not paid for want of funds. [C., '73, §§ 1747-50; R., §§ 2048-50; C., '51, §§ 1138-40.]

Officers are presumed, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, to have properly discharged their duties, and the treasurer's book of account is rightly received in evidence in an action against the sureties on his bond to show the true statements of his account at the time such report was rendered. Independent Sch. Dist. v. Hubbard, 110-58.

[24 G. A., ch. 19; C., '73, §§ 1730, 1738; R., §§ 2037-8.]

SEC. 2772. Temporary officers—course of study—regulations.

The board has power to make rules and regulations as to the conduct of pupils, and a court will interfere with the making and enforcement of such rules only where the board has plainly exceeded its authority. Kinzer v. Independent School Dist., 129-441.

But a rule may be so far unreasonable or beyond the exercise of discretion that the courts can say it is made without authority. Ibid.

The general character of the school and the conduct of its pupils as affecting the efficiency of the work to be done in the school room and the discipline of the school are matters to be taken into account by the school board in making rules for the government of the school. While the board has no concern with the individual conduct of the pupils wholly outside of the school rooms and school grounds, while they are presumed to be under the control of their parents, yet the conduct of pupils which directly relates to and affects the management of the school and its efficiency is within the scope of proper regulation. Ibid.

Therefore held that a rule prohibiting the playing of football by pupils under the auspices of the school, or in a team purporting to represent the school was valid. Ibid.

SEC. 2773. School-house site—division of district—length of school. It may fix the site for each school-house, taking into consideration the geographical position, number and convenience of the scholars, provide for the fencing of school-house sites, determine the number of schools to be taught, divide the corporation into such wards or other divisions for school purposes as may be proper, determine the particular school which each child shall attend, and designate the period each school shall be held beyond the time required by law. Every school shall be free of tuition to all actual residents between the ages of five and twenty-one years, and each school regularly established shall continue for at least twenty-four weeks of five school days each, in each school year commencing the first of July, unless the county superintendent shall authorize the board to shorten this period in any one or more schools, when in his judgment there are sufficient reasons for so doing. No school shall be in session during the time of holding a teachers' institute except by written permission of the county superintendent. [19 G. A., ch. 172, § 21; 17 G. A., ch. 54; 15 G. A., ch. '57; C., '73, §§ 1724, 1727, 1769; R., §§ 2023, 2037.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 8.]

The directors of a school township have power to change the site of a school-house without a vote of the electors. James v. Gettinger, 123-199.

The matter of the relocation of the school-house site is for the determination of the school board, subject to appeal to the county superintendent, and the action of the board cannot be questioned by injunction. Kinney v. Howard, 133-94.

SEC. 2774. Renting room.

The remedy against a school board for failing to provide school accommodations

SEC. 2778. Contracts—election of teachers—employment of teachers in sub-districts. The board shall carry into effect any instruction from the annual meeting upon matters within the control of the voters, and shall elect all teachers and make all contracts necessary or proper for exercising the powers granted and performing the duties required by law. But the board may authorize any sub-director to employ teachers for the schools in his sub-district. Contracts with teachers must be in writing, and shall state the length of time the school is to be taught, the compensation per week of five days or month of four weeks, and such other matters as may be agreed upon, signed by the president and teacher, and filed with the secretary before the teacher commences to teach under such contract. [22 G. A., ch. 60; C., '73, §§ 1723, 1757; R., §§ 2037, 2055.] [28 G. A., ch. 107, § 1.]

In general: Under this section as amended by 28 G. A., chap. 107, the board of directors is authorized to carry into effect instructions from the annual meeting upon matters which are within the control of the voters, and have properly been submitted to them for action. The recording of the action of the electors is immaterial. Kinney v. Howard, 133-94.

A court of equity will not, at the suit of a resident taxpayer of a school district, brought against its officers, enforce repayment of money expended under an executed contract of which the school district retains the benefit, although the contract is invalid, there being no claim that the officers acted corruptly or fraudulently, or paid an unreasonable amount. Kopy v. Independent Dist., 117-694.

Where the directors sign a contract in behalf of the district, although not in pursuance of any action of the board, they are not individually liable. Hanna v. Wright, 116-275.

Where directors individually signed a contract for apparatus purporting to bind the board of directors and not indicating an assumption of personal liability, held that they were not individually liable thereon and that the school district having through the board of directors accepted and received the benefit of the apparatus was bound by the contract. Johnson v. School Corporation, 117-319.

It is the vote of the directors which is binding on the district, and not the record thereof. And where no record of the action of the directors was made it may be

A contract or order given by members of the board of directors acting individually is not binding on the district, but such a contract may be ratified by the acceptance, retention and use by the school district of the property thus contracted or paid for. Richards v. School Township, 132-612.

Where contracts made by a board of directors with persons occupying a judiciary or official relation to the school corporation have been carried out, a taxpayer will not be allowed to maintain a suit in the name of the corporation against the contractor to recover the money paid to him under such contract, the benefits of which are retained by the school corporation. Kagy v. Independent Dist., 117-694.

Contracts with teachers: The rules and regulations of the district fixing the time for opening the schools are part of the contract. Burkhead v. Independent Sch. Dist., 107-29.

Such a contract cannot be made for a longer time than one year. Ibid.

Where a teacher offered by way of tender of resignation to renounce his contract, but this offer was not accepted by the board of directors until after they were notified of its withdrawal, held that a discharge of the teacher, not in accordance with the provisions of Code § 2782 was not authorized. Also held that the fact that the teacher after such unauthorized discharge drew the balance of pay due him and delivered the key of the schoolhouse on demand of the board did not show an abandonment of the contract. Curttright v. Independent Sch. Dist., 111-20.

SEC. 2779. Erection or repair of school-house.

The board of directors may delegate to a committee the ministerial duty of carrying out a contract for the erection of a schoolhouse, but the duty of selecting the site, adopting the plans and awarding the contract cannot thus be delegated. Kinney v. Howard, 133-84.

Upon refusal of the lowest bidder to enter into a contract for the construction of a school-house the board cannot disregard all the bids submitted and enter into a contract with a non-bidder and hold the lowest bidder liable under his deposit for the difference between his proposition and the price fixed in such subsequent contract. Cedar Rapids Lumber Co. v. Fisher, 129-332.

A telegram to one whose bid was found to be the lowest, advising him that his was the lowest bid, held not to be such acceptance of his bid as to render the contract binding upon him. Ibid.

SEC. 2780. Allowances of claims—settlements—compensation of officers.

Claims against the school district must be audited and allowed by the board of directors and not by the president, and until such claim has been presented to the board and the board has had an opportunity to act upon it, no suit can be maintained. Pierson v. Independent Sch. Dist., 106-696.

SEC. 2782. Visiting schools—regulations—discharge of teachers—expulsion of scholars.

Where the validity of a teacher's contract is in question he is not limited to an appeal, but may sue in the courts. Burkhead v. Independent Sch. Dist., 107-29.

While a teacher who has been discharged cannot sue for breach of contract on the ground that the discharge is wrongful without first appealing to the county superintendent, yet, where such an appeal has been taken, and decided in the teacher's favor, the action for the wrongful discharge may be maintained, although the decision of the county superintendent was not on the merits. Jackson v. Independent Sch. Dist., 110-313.

Where a teacher tendered his resignation, which was not accepted by the board until after it was withdrawn, held that the discharge of the teacher, which was not in accordance with the provisions of this section, was not authorized. Curttright v. Independent Sch. Dist., 111-20.

Where the action of the board in discharging a teacher was reversed on appeal to the county superintendent on the ground that the teacher had been given no notice, or opportunity to be heard, held that the teacher might be tried on new charges, with due notice and a time fixed for the hearing, without reinstating such teacher in charge of the school, and that such action of the directors would not be enjoined. White v. Wohlenberg, 119-236.

The hearing having by reason of a temporary injunction been postponed until a time when the teacher's contract had expired, held that on dissolution of the temporary injunction the hearing to be had would relate back to the time when the further action of the board had been prevented by such temporary injunction. Ibid.

The board has authority to expel pupils who violate the reasonable regulations made for the government of the conduct of such pupils, in matters within the jurisdiction of the board. Kinzer v. Independent School District, 129-441.
SEC. 2783. Use of contingent fund—free text-books. It may provide and pay out of the contingent fund to insure school property such sum as may be necessary, and may purchase dictionaries, library books, including books for the purpose of teaching vocal music, maps, charts and apparatus for the use of the schools thereof to an amount not exceeding twenty-five dollars in any one year for each schoolroom under its charge; and may furnish school books to indigent children when they are likely to be deprived of the proper benefits of the school unless so aided; and shall, when directed by a vote of the district, purchase and loan books to scholars, and shall provide by levy of contingent fund therefor. [26 G. A., ch. 37; 25 G. A., ch. 34; 21 G. A., ch. 107; 19 G. A., ch. 149, § 1; C., '73, § 1729.] [30 G. A., ch. 115.]

Under this section, which differs from the corresponding section of the Code of '73, the board of directors may contract an indebtedness for books, payable out of the contingent fund, although no funds are on hand at the time from which the indebtedness may be paid. Hanna v. Wright, 116-275; Johnson v. School Corporation, 117-319.

The school board may charge the contingent fund beyond the appropriated money on hand to an extent not exceeding $25 for each school room under its control, and in an action against the school district for an indebtedness thus contracted, the burden is on the district to show that the indebtedness was contracted in excess of the amount which the school board might contract for that purpose. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. School Township, 118-540.

SEC. 2785. Duties of directors—contracts. The board of directors of a school township may authorize the director of each subdistrict, subject to its regulations, to make contracts for the purchase of fuel, the repairing or furnishing of school-houses, and all other matters necessary for the convenience and prosperity of the schools in his subdistrict. Such contracts shall be binding upon the school township only when approved by the president of the board, and must be reported to the board. Each director shall, between the first and fifteenth days of June in each year, prepare a list of the heads of families in his subdistrict, the number and sex of all children of school age, and by the twentieth day of said month report this list to the secretary of the school township, who shall make full record thereof. The powers specified in this section cannot be exercised by individual directors of independent districts. [C., '73, §§ 1753-5; R., §§ 2052-3; C., 51, §§ 1124, 1142.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 9.]

SEC. 2791. Attaching territory to adjoining corporation. In a particular case held that what was done by the superintendent and the board of directors was sufficient to make an effectual change of the boundary attempted, notwithstanding some irregularities in the way in which it was done. Newlon v. Independent Dist., 109-169.

Under statutory provisions prior to the present Code, hold that boundaries of independent districts might be changed under the same provisions as applied to the change of boundaries of district townships. Ibid.

Where it appears that the change has been made on grounds which are sufficient to authorize such change it will be presumed, until the contrary is shown, that the proceedings were regular and the grounds sufficient. Ibid.

SEC. 2792. Restoration. Where a property owner has acquiesced in the attempted change of boundary, and recognized it as valid, he cannot afterwards, nor can his grantee, question its validity. Ibid.

Where no natural obstacles exist there is nothing on which the county superintendent may base an order, and an action of his with reference to change of boundaries is without jurisdiction. School Tp. v. Independent Dist., 110-30.

By virtue of the provisions of this section it is possible that an independent district may be reduced in size to less than four sections of land. Rural Ind. School Dist. v. New Ind. School Dist., 120-119.

This provision has no application to the severance of a portion of the territory originally included in such testimony. Williams v. Core, 124-213.
SEC. 2793. Boundary lines changed. That section twenty-seven hundred ninety-three (2793) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

"The boundary lines of contiguous school corporations in the same county may be changed by the concurrent action of the respective boards of directors at their regular meetings in July, or at special meetings thereafter, called for that purpose. The corporation from which territory is detached shall, after the change, contain not less than four government sections of land, and its boundary lines must conform to the lines of congressional divisions of land. In the same manner, the boundary lines of contiguous school corporations in the same county may be so changed that one corporation shall be included in and consolidated with the other as a single corporation." [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 10.]

SEC. 2793-a. Corporation limits changed. When the boundary line between a school township and an independent city or town district is not also the line between civil townships, such boundary may be changed at any time by the concurrence of the boards of directors; but in no case shall a forty-acre tract of land, by the government survey, be divided; and such sub-divisions shall be excluded or included as entire forties. The boundaries of the school township or the independent district may in the same manner be extended to the line between civil townships, even though by such change one of the districts shall be included within and consolidated with the other as a single district. When the corporate limits of any city or town are extended outside the existing independent district or districts, the boundaries of said independent district or districts shall be also correspondingly extended. But in no case shall the boundaries of an independent district be affected by the reduction of the corporate limits of a city or town. [27 G. A., ch. 89, § 1.]

Property brought into a school district by annexation after the voting and certification of a schoolhouse tax, but before the levy of such tax, is subject to the tax, although the owner was not a resident of the district at the time the election was held. Grout v. Illingworth, 131-281.

SEC. 2794. Formation of independent district. Upon the written petition of any ten voters of a city, town or village of over one hundred residents, to the board of the school corporation in which the portion of the town plat having the largest number of voters is situated, such board shall establish the boundaries of a proposed independent district, including therein all of the city, town or village, and also such contiguous territory as is authorized by a written petition of a majority of the resident electors of the contiguous territory proposed to be included in said district, in not smaller sub-divisions than entire forties of land, in the same or any adjoining school corporations, as may best subserve the convenience of the people for school purposes, and shall give the same notices of a meeting as required in other cases, at which meeting all voters upon the territory included within the contemplated independent district shall be allowed to vote by ballot for or against such separate organization. When it is proposed to include territory outside the town, city or village, the voters residing upon such outside territory shall be entitled to vote separately upon the proposition for the formation of such new district, by presenting a petition of at least twenty-five per cent. of the voters residing upon such outside territory, and if a majority of the votes so cast is against including such outside territory, then the proposed independent district shall not be formed. [19 G. A., ch 118, § 1; 18 G. A., ch. 139; C., '73, §§ 1800-1; R., §§ 2097, 2105.] [29 G. A., ch. 126, § 1.]
A written petition of ten voters is essential before the board acquires jurisdiction to act. The territory with reference to which there is no petition cannot be included, but the proposed district need not necessarily contain all the territory for which the petition is presented. Munn v. School Tp., 110-652.

The desirability or necessity for the independent district is for the determination of the electors. The board is to say whether the village contains one hundred residents, and whether the requisite number of electors have signed the respective petitions, and having so found, no option is left, save to fix the boundaries of the proposed district and order the election. Ibid.

On appeal from the action of the board to the county superintendent, the latter determines the question de novo, and may enter such order as ought to have been entered by the board. Ibid.

Although the language of this section before its amendment by 29 G. A., chap. 126, and the enactment of 27 G. A., chap. 89, did not in specific language authorize the formation of an independent district co-extensive with the territory of a city or town out of territory in part belonging to a school township, and in part to an independent district, nevertheless the manifest purpose of the legislature was to authorize such action. Rural Ind. School Dist. v. New Ind. School Dist., 120-119.

Although, under the language of sections of the Code relating to the division of independent districts, it is provided in some cases that such districts shall not be reduced to a size less than four sections of land, nevertheless there is no provision in the Code that an independent district cannot exist containing less than that amount of territory Rural Ind. School Dist. v. New Ind. School Dist., 120-119.

While the assent of the voters, outside of the corporate limits, to the annexation of territory to an independent district embracing a city or town is to be separately ascertained, yet when the acquiescence of the majority of the outside voters is given and acted upon a portion of such voters cannot have their land severed from the independent district by proceedings in accordance with Code § 2792. Williams v. Core, 124-213.

Where a petition is presented to the proper board for the formation of an independent district to correspond with a town plat, an independent district may be formed which includes territory therefore a part of a school township, and it is not essential that the board of directors of the township out of which the new district is formed shall concur in the formation thereof. School Township v. Independent School Dist., 112 N. W. 5.

SEC. 2794-a. Consolidation—how effected. When a written description describing the boundaries of contiguous territory containing not less than sixteen (16) government sections within one or more counties is signed by one-third of the electors residing on such territory and approved by the county superintendent, if one county and by the superintendents of each if more than one county and by the state superintendent if the county superintendents do not agree, and filed with the board of the school corporation in which the portion of the proposed district having the largest number of voters is situated, requesting the establishment of a consolidated independent district, it shall be the duty of said board within ten days to call an election in the proposed consolidated independent district, for which they shall give the same notices as are required in sections twenty-seven hundred and forty-six (2746) of the code and twenty-seven hundred and fifty (2750) of the supplement to the code, at which meeting all voters residing in the proposed independent district shall be allowed to vote by ballot for or against such separate organization. If a majority of votes cast at such election shall be in favor of such independent organization, the organization of the proposed corporation shall be completed by the election of a board of directors as provided in section twenty-seven hundred and ninety-five (2795) of the code, said board to organize on the first day of July following unless that day falls on a Sunday, in which case on the day following. All taxes previously certified shall be void so far as the property within the limits of the consolidated independent district is concerned, and all taxes necessary for the new corporation shall be certified and levied as provided in section twenty-seven hundred and ninety-six (2796) of the code, but no school corporation from which territory is taken shall, after the change, contain less than four government sections, which territory shall be contiguous and so situated as to form a suitable corporation. When it is proposed to include in such district a town, city or village, the voters residing upon the territory outside of the town, city or village shall be entitled to vote separately upon the proposition for the formation of such new district by presenting a petition of at least twenty-five per cent. of the voters residing upon such outside territory, and if a majority of the votes so cast is against including such outside territory, then the proposed independent district shall not be formed. [31 G. A., ch. 141.]

SEC. 2796. Taxes certified and levied.

This section relates to perfecting an organization already determined upon by the elected officers, and is directory only. Munn v. School Tp., 110-652.

SEC. 2797. Rural independent districts.

Suit against the new districts on indebtedness of the old district must be brought in equity. Fairfield v. Rural Ind. School Dist., 111 Fed. 108.

If the new districts have by agreement divided and apportioned between them the indebtedness of the old district, then an action against them may be at law. Fairfield v. Rural Ind. School Dist., 111 Fed. 153.

SEC. 2799. Uniting independent district.

The invalidity of the petition and notice cannot be urged by electors who were present and voted upon the proposition for consolidation. Molyneaux v. Molyneaux, 130-100.

The elections in the different districts with reference to the consolidation need not be held on the same day and at the same time. If any such requirement is contemplated by the statute it is directory merely. Ibid.

SEC. 2800. Rural independent districts united into school township.

A township which has been divided into rural independent districts may be erected into a school township by a vote of the electors, to be taken upon the written request of one-third of the legal voters residing in such civil township. Upon presentation of such written request to the township trustees, they shall call a meeting of the electors at the usual place or places of holding the township election, upon giving at least ten days' notice thereof by posting three written notices in each rural independent district in the township, and by publication in a newspaper, if one be published in such township, at which meeting the said electors shall vote by ballot for or against a school township organization. If a majority of the votes cast at such election be in favor of such organization, each rural independent district shall become a subdistrict of the school township, and shall organize as such on the first Monday in March following by the election of a director, notice of which shall be given as in other cases by the secretary of each of the rural independent districts, and the directors so elected shall organize as a board of directors of the school township on the first day of July following, unless that date falls on Sunday, in which case on the day following. [16 G. A., ch. 155; C., '73, §§ 1815-20.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 11.]

SEC. 2801. Division of school township into subdistricts.

The board of any school township may by a vote of a majority of all the members thereof, at the regular meeting in July, or at any special meeting called thereafter for that purpose, divide the school township into subdistricts such as justice, equity and the interests of the people require, and may make such alterations of the boundaries of subdistricts heretofore formed as may be deemed necessary, and shall designate such subdistricts and all subsequent alterations in a distinct and legible manner upon a plat of the school township provided for that purpose, and shall cause a written description of the same to be recorded in the records of the school township, a copy of which shall be delivered by the secretary to the county auditor, who shall record the same in his office. The boundaries of subdistricts shall conform to the lines of congressional divisions of land, and the formation or alteration of subdistricts as contemplated in this section shall not take effect until the first Monday in March thereafter, at which time a director shall be elected for any subdistrict newly formed. [21 G. A., ch. 124; 16 G. A., ch. 109; C., '73, §§ 1725, 1738, 1796; R., § 2038.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 12.]

SEC. 2802. Repeal—changes of boundaries—division of assets and liabilities. That section twenty-eight hundred and two (2802) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

“When any changes are made in the boundaries of any school corporations the new corporation shall elect a board of directors in accordance with the new boundaries, and such new boards shall organize as provided in section twenty-seven hundred and fifty-seven (2757) of this chapter. The boards of directors in office at the time the changes are made in the boundaries of the school corporations, shall continue to act until the boards of directors representing the newly formed districts have been duly organized, whereupon the new boards shall make an equitable division of all assets and liabilities of the corporations affected; and, if they cannot agree, the matters upon which they differ shall be decided by disinterested arbitrators, one selected by each board having an interest therein, and if the number thus selected is even then one shall be added by the county superintendent, and the decision of the arbitrators shall be made in writing, either party having the right to appeal therefrom to the district court.” [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 13.]

In making the division of assets and liabilities here contemplated the arbitrators are limited to those existing between the parties at the time the division is made. Independent Dist. v. District Tp., 107-73.

In a suit by the holder of bonds of a district which has ceased to exist by reason of subdivision of its territory into new districts, a court of equity may enforce payment by the new districts in accordance with an equitable apportionment of the liability on the basis of taxable property and population. Gamble v. Rural Ind. School Dist., 146 Fed. 113.

A district which is created from another district is liable for its proportion of the indebtedness of the parent district regardless of whether such indebtedness is in excess of the constitutional limitation of indebtedness which the new district might create. Taylor v. School Dist., 97 Fed. 753.

The holder of bonds against the original district may maintain an action in equity against the new districts created out of the original district to enforce the payment of his bonds. Everett v. Independent Sch. Dist., 109 Fed. 697.

SEC. 2803. Attending school in another corporation.

SEC. 2804. School age—nonresidents.

The fact question as to the residence of the pupil who is required to pay tuition on that question cannot be reviewed in an action of mandamus. The remedy is by appeal to the county superintendent. Preston v. Board of Education, 124-355.

SEC. 2806. School taxes—transportation fund. The board of each school corporation shall at its regular meeting in July, or at a special meeting called for that purpose between the time designated for such regular meeting and the third Monday in August, estimate the amount required for the contingent fund, not exceeding five dollars for each person of school age, but each school corporation may estimate not exceeding seventy-five dollars for each school thereof, and such additional sum as may be necessary not exceeding five dollars for each person of school age for transporting children to and from school; and also such additional sum as may be authorized in the chapter on uniformity of text-books; also such sum as may be required for the teachers' fund, which, including the amount received from the semi-annual apportionment, shall not exceed fifteen dollars for each person of school age therein, but each corporation may estimate not exceeding two hundred and seventy dollars, including such apportionment, for each regular school therein. No tax shall be estimated by the board after the third Monday in August, in each year. School corporations containing territory in adjoining counties may vote and estimate all taxes for school purposes in mills. The board shall apportion any tax voted by the annual meeting for school house fund among the several subdistricts in such a manner as justice and equity may require, taking as the basis of such apportionment the respective amounts previously levied upon said subdistricts for the use of such fund. [15 G. A., ch. 67, § 1; C., '73, §§ 1738, 1777-8, 1780; R., §§ 2033-4, 2037-44, 2088.] [28 G. A., ch. 108, § 1.] [31 G. A., ch. 136, § 14.]

Grout v. Illingworth, 131-281.

SEC. 2808. Apportionment. He shall immediately notify the county treasurer of such apportionment and of the amount due thereby to each corporation. The county treasurer shall thereupon give notice to the president of each corporation, and shall pay out such apportionment moneys in the same manner that he is authorized to pay other school moneys to the treasurers of the several school districts. [C., '73, §§ 1781-2, 1841; R., §§ 1966, 2060.] [27 G. A., ch. 94, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 151, § 3.]

[The amendment by 32 G. A. was by adding matter after the word “fund” in the fourth line. The word “fund” only occurs in line three and the change has been made there.]

An action by one independent district against another to recover money collected as taxes on property in the plaintiff district and erroneously paid by the county treasurer to the defendant is one for money had and received, and the statute of limitations will commence to run at the time of payment and not from the discovery of the mistake. Independent School District v. Independent School District, 123-455.

SEC. 2818. Appeal to county superintendent.

Independent Sch. Dist.*, 111-20.

The right of appeal to the county superintendent does not exclude the courts from considering on an application for mandamus whether in the matter complained of the board acted within the scope of its powers as defined by statute. Kinzer v. Independent School Dist., 129-441.

The action of a school board in determining that a pupil is a non-resident and therefore must pay tuition, cannot be reviewed by mandamus, but only by appeal to the county superintendent. Preston v. Board of Education, 124-355.

The permanent school fund shall be loaned out by the county auditor, as it comes into the hands of the county treasurer, in sums of three thousand dollars or less to one person or company, in case it is found impracticable to keep the whole amount of funds loaned in sums of five hundred dollars or less to one person or company. In the event it can be kept loaned out in sums of five hundred dollars or less to one person or company, then no loan shall exceed five hundred dollars, nor shall a loan of said fund be made to or be carried by the county auditor, treasurer or member of the board of supervisors. Each loan shall be made for at least one and not more than five years, evidenced by promissory notes bearing not less than five per cent. per annum, payable annually, and delinquent interest to draw the same rate, to be secured by a mortgage on un-

If the title is found to be perfect, and the lands unincumbered, he shall certify this fact and submit the application and all the papers connected therewith to the board of supervisors at its next meeting, regular or called, at which meeting the loan shall be approved or disapproved. If the application is accepted, the auditor shall complete the contract by taking a note payable to the county, and a mortgage upon the lands securing the same, and certify the same to the treasurer, who shall pay over to the borrower the amount named in the note, less a fee of two dollars to be paid to the auditor for his services in addition to his salary. The board may reject the application for any good cause. And if it shall happen that a loan is made upon real estate which is in fact incumbered other than for taxes, the board of supervisors may, when necessary for the safety of the loan, appropriate out of any school fund on hand, if such incumbrance does not exceed one-half of the real value of the lands, so much as may be needed to take up and purchase the same, and may also at any meeting, by resolution, assign without recourse, upon payment of the amount due, any school fund note and mortgage to one holding a subsequent lien upon the mortgaged real estate. Such lands shall be appraised, advertised and sold in the manner provided for the appraisement, advertisement and sale of the sixteenth section or lands selected in lieu thereof. When a resale is made the county auditor shall notify the auditor of state, who shall thereupon charge the county with the full amount of the resale, except that when the lands are sold for more than the unpaid portion of the principal, the excess shall be applied to reimburse the county for the costs of foreclosure and the interest paid by the county to the state by reason of default of payment of same by the makers of the notes, previous to the time when the right of redemption has expired, not, however, to exceed three years."
Any excess over and above the amount of the unpaid portion of the principal, costs of foreclosure and interest on the principal as above provided, shall inure to the state and be credited to the permanent school fund account. If the lands shall be sold for a less amount than the unpaid portion of the principal, the loss shall be sustained by the county and the board of supervisors shall at once order the amount of such loss transferred from the general fund of the county to the permanent school fund account. County auditors shall, on or before the first day of January of each year, report to the auditor of state the amount of all sales and resales made during the year previous, of the sixteenth section, five hundred thousand acres grant, escheat estates, and lands taken under foreclosure of school fund mortgages, and the auditor of state shall charge the same to the counties with interest from the date of such sale or resale to January first, at the rate of four and one-half per cent. per annum. All interest collected above the four and one-half per cent charged by the state shall be transferred to the general county fund. If any county fails or refuses to collect the amount of interest due the state, the deficiency shall be paid to the state from the general county fund. Any county delinquent in the payment of interest due the state shall be charged one per cent per month on the amount delinquent until paid. County auditors shall, upon the first day of January of each year, report to the auditor of state the amount of rents collected during the preceding year on unsold school lands and lands taken under foreclosure of school fund mortgages then in the hands of the county treasurer, and the auditor of state shall include the amount so reported in his semi-annual apportionment of interest.” [32 G. A., ch. 151, § 1.]

SEC. 2900-a17. Notice—action to determine title and value—patent. When any person, company or corporation so in possession of any such lands shall give to the secretary of state written notice of his or its claim, or whenever the executive council shall deem it advisable, it shall be the duty of the attorney general to bring an action in equity, in the district court of the county in which said lands are situated, against the party in possession thereof to determine the title of the state to such lands, and the value thereof, exclusive of improvements made thereon by the occupant or by his or its grantors or predecessors in interest. If the person, company or corporation in possession of such land shall, after the court has determined the value thereof as herein provided, tender to the secretary of state the amount adjudged to be the value of said lands, exclusive of improvements made thereon by the occupant or by his or its grantors or predecessors in interest, a deed or patent of such land shall be executed by the governor, attested by the secretary of state, and delivered to the person, company or corporation making such tender, as provided by law. If the person, company or corporation so in possession shall fail to pay to the state the amount so adjudged within six months after the final determination of the action so brought by the state, then said lands shall be subject to the other provisions of this act. [31 G. A., ch. 212, § 16.]

SEC. 2900-a18. Applications under former law—deposit money refunded. All applications for the purchase of any such lands, filed under the provisions of chapter one hundred and eighty-five (185) of the acts of the thirtieth general assembly, shall, if the applicants so desire, stand as applications under this act, and such land shall, unless the same fall within the provisions of sections fifteen (15) and sixteen (16) hereof, be appraised and sold as herein provided. If the land described in any application is covered by the provisions of sections fifteen (15) and sixteen (16) of this act, and notice thereof is given to the secretary of state as provided in section sixteen (16) hereof, no deed or patent of such land, or any part thereof, shall be executed or issued until the title thereto shall have been established by the court as herein provided. If the party making such application, or his assignee, does not desire to prosecute his application, or if he does not purchase the land under this act, then all of the money deposited by him with the secretary of state under the provisions of chapter one hundred and eighty-five (185) of the acts of the thirtieth general assembly, shall be repaid to said applicant by the secretary of state; and if any part of the money so deposited has been expended by the secretary of state, then the amount so expended shall be certified by the secretary of state to the auditor of state, who shall draw his warrant upon the general fund in favor of the person entitled thereto. [31 G. A., ch. 212, § 17.]

CHAPTER 2-B.
OF MEANDERED LAKES AND LAKE BEDS.

SECTION 2900-a19. Survey and sale authorized—canals. The executive council of the state is hereby authorized and empowered to survey the meandered lakes and lake beds within this state, and sell the same as hereinafter provided, and to determine what lakes shall be maintained as the property of the state and what meandered lake beds belonging to the state may be drained, improved, demised or sold, and to grant authority to construct, equip and maintain canals between any of such lakes so maintained, where the public convenience requires it, said grant to be for such time and upon such terms as it may determine. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 1.] [32 G. A., ch. 196.]

SEC. 2900-a20. Signed statements—survey—report. Upon the presentation to the executive council of a statement signed by not less than fifty (50) freeholders, twenty of whom shall be actual residents of the township or townships in which said lake or lake beds are situated, of any county that any meandered lake or lake bed in such county is detrimental to the public health or the general welfare of the citizens of the county, and that it is unwise to maintain such meandered lake or lake bed as a permanent body of water, and that the interest of the state will be subserved by draining and improving such lake bed, the governor shall, within thirty (30) days after the receipt of such statement, appoint a competent engineer who shall at once examine the situation and condition of such lake or lake bed, make a survey and plat thereof, and ascertain whether its location is such that it can be drained and improved, and make a full report to the executive council of the area and depth of water in the lake and of its general physical condition, which report shall be accompanied by his plat, field notes and profile of his survey. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 2.]

SEC. 2900-a21. Hearing—commissioner—notice. Upon receipt of the report of the engineer, the executive council shall determine whether such lake or lake bed shall be maintained and preserved as the property of the state, or whether the same shall be drained, improved and the land included within the meander lines thereof sold in the manner hereinafter specified; and to that end they may hear evidence upon any question involved in such determination at such time and place within the county, or within the counties if more than one, as may be fixed by the council, and may appoint a commissioner to take evidence in the county or counties, if more than one, in which the lake or lake bed is located, or at such other place or places within the state as may be directed by the executive council; and notice of the time and place of hearing by the council or by such commissioner shall be published once each week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper within the county, or in a newspaper within each of the counties if more than one, where the lake or lake bed is located, the last publication being at least ten (10) days prior to the day fixed for such hearing. The compensation of such commissioner shall be fixed by the executive council, which compensation and the cost of the publication of such notice shall be paid from the state treasury upon the order of the council. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 3.]

SEC. 2900-a22. Preservation or sale—drainage. If the executive council shall determine that such lake or lake bed ought not to be drained, demised or sold, the same shall be kept and maintained as the property of the state for the benefit of the general public. If the executive council shall determine that it is to the interest of the state and the general public that the lake or lake bed, as to which the statement is presented, be drained, improved, demised or sold, it may permit the same to be drained under the provisions of the drainage law of the state, and the land included within the meander lines of such lake, which belongs to the state, shall bear its just proportion of the expense of draining such lake and shall be assessed for such expense in the same manner as the lands of private individuals are permitted to be assessed under the drainage laws of the state. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 4.]

SEC. 2900-a23. Power to sell and convey—deed or patent. When ever the executive council shall determine that any lake or lake bed within the state should be drained, improved, demised or sold, it shall have the right, either before or after such lake or lake bed is drained, to sell and convey by deed or patent the land lying within the meander lines of such lake or lake bed and which belongs to the state; and express authority is hereby given to the executive council to make such sale or sales for and in behalf of the state and to execute and deliver to the purchaser of such land the necessary deed or patent to insure to him title thereto, which deed or patent shall be executed by the governor in behalf of the state, and have the seal of the state attached thereto. But no sale of any of the lands composing any of the lake beds of the state shall be made by the executive council until a complete survey thereof has been made and the same sub-divided to correspond with the government sub-divisions of public land. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 5.]

SEC. 2900-a24. Appraisement. After such lake or lake bed has been surveyed and the land composing the same sub-divided as hereinbefore required, and a plat of such survey filed with the secretary of state, and the county auditor of the county in which said lake or lake bed is situated, the lands belonging to the state which lie within the meander lines of the original government survey, and composing the lake beds, shall be appraised by a commission appointed by the governor, consisting of three (3) disinterested freeholders of the state, one of whom shall be a resident of the county in which the land is situated, who shall examine and appraise said land, and return a written report of such appraisement to the governor, which report shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 6.]

SEC. 2900-a25. Sale—abutting land owners—grantee of county deemed bona fide purchaser—conveyance to counties—when. After the report of the appraisers has been received and filed in the office of the secretary of state, the executive council shall offer the land belonging to the state and composing such lake bed, and included in such survey and appraisement, for sale, and the persons owning lands abutting upon such lake bed and contiguous to lands owned by the state therein, shall have the first right to purchase the lands offered for sale by the state, in an amount sufficient to make the lands owned by them which abut upon the lake or lake bed and are contiguous to lands of the state, conform to the smallest government sub-divisions of public lands, at the price fixed by the appraisers. All other lands included in such survey and composing the lake bed belonging to the state, which may be sold under the provisions hereof, shall be sold for the highest price obtainable; but no sale of any of said land shall be made at less than the appraised value thereof. Provided, however, that in any case where it is made to appear to the executive council by a duly certified copy of the deed, certified to by the recorder of deeds and the county auditor of the county in which the lake or lake bed is situated, and by the sworn statement of the present owner, that the board of supervisors of the county in which such lake or lake bed is situated has heretofore, in good faith, sold and conveyed by deed, any lake or lake bed in such deed named, specified and described, to a bona fide purchaser who has paid to the county the reasonable value of such lake or lake bed, and who has heretofore paid taxes or made valuable improvements in such lake bed; then and in such case the governor shall execute, or cause to be executed, to the county in which such lake or lake bed is situated, a deed or patent, under the seal of the state, conveying to said county all the right, title and interest of the state of Iowa in and to such lake or lake bed, and the title so conveyed shall enure to the grantee of such lake or lake bed, holding the same under title derived from the county in which such lake or lake bed is situated, in the manner in this section provided. Any person or corporation to whom any county of this state has heretofore conveyed or attempted to convey any lake or lake bed in aid of, or because of the construction of any work of internal improvement, and which improvement was in fact constructed, shall be considered a bona fide purchaser who has paid to the county the reasonable value of such lake or lake bed within the meaning of this section, although in describing the said lake or lake bed in such conveyance apt words of description were not used and the said lake or lake bed was described as an unsurveyed portion or a numbered section of land, this amendment shall be operative notwithstanding any proceedings heretofore had under this chapter, provided an actual sale of said lake or lake bed involved, has not been made by the executive council prior to the passage of this act. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 7.] [32 G. A., ch. 197.]

SEC. 2900-a26. Cash sales—expenses. All sales of land under this act, except as otherwise provided in section seven of this act, shall be for cash, and the purchase price thereof shall be paid to the secretary of state and by him paid over to the state treasurer. All expenses of the survey of the lakes and lake beds herein provided for and the appraisement thereof, and all assessments made against the lands belonging to the state for draining such lakes or lake beds, shall be audited by the executive council and by it certified to the auditor of state and paid out of the general fund of the state treasury upon the warrant of the auditor of state. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 8.]

SEC. 2900-a27. Net proceeds. After deducting all costs and expenses connected with the survey, appraisement, drainage and sale of said lands, the net proceeds derived from the sale thereof shall be transmitted by the treasurer of state to the county treasurer of the county in which the land is situated, and the county treasurer to whom such proceeds are transmitted shall execute his receipt in duplicate for the same to the treasurer of state, and one of such receipts shall be filed in the office of the county auditor in the county where the land is located. The money received by the county treasurer shall be placed to the credit of the county road fund and expended under the direction of the board of supervisors in the same manner as other road funds. [30 G. A., ch. 186, § 9.]

CHAPTER 2-C.

OF ISLANDS IN THE WATERS OF THE STATE.

SECTION 2900-a28. Sale or lease authorized. That the executive council of the state be, and it is hereby, authorized and empowered to sell, convey, lease or demise any of the islands belonging to the state which are within the meandered banks of rivers in the state, and to execute and deliver a patent or lease thereof. Provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to islands in the Mississippi or Missouri rivers. [30 G. A., ch. 187, § 1.]

SEC. 2900-a29. Survey—appraisement—sale advertised—written bids. Before a sale of any island is made under the provisions of section one (1) hereof, the executive council shall cause a survey and plat of such islands to be made, showing its location and area, and the plat and notes of such survey shall be filed with the secretary of state. The land composing the island shall then be appraised by a commission appointed by the governor, consisting of three (3) disinterested freeholders of the state, who shall report their appraisement to the executive council. The sale of the island shall then be advertised once each week for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the island is located, and proof of such publication filed with the executive council. The sale shall be made upon written bids addressed to the executive council of the state, and the advertisement shall fix the time when such bids will be received and opened. All bids shall be opened by the executive council at the time fixed, and the island may thereupon be sold to the highest bidder and at not less than its appraised value. [30 G. A., ch. 187, § 2.]

SEC. 2900-a30. Lease—written bids. If it shall be deemed expedient to lease any such island, a lease thereof may be made upon written bids addressed to the executive council, and the island proposed to be leased shall be surveyed and platted, and notice of the leasing thereof and of the receiving and opening of bids shall be published, in the manner provided in section two (2) hereof, but no appraisement shall be necessary. Upon the opening of the bids received by the executive council it may make a lease of such island to the highest bidder for such term as is deemed advisable. [30 G. A., ch. 187, § 3.]

SEC. 2900-a31. Sales and leases for cash—expenses. All sales and leases must be for cash, and the money received therefor shall be paid into the state treasury. All expenses incurred in making the survey, plat, appraisement, sale or lease of any such island shall be certified by the executive council to the auditor of state, who shall draw his warrant upon the state treasury for the amount, and the same shall be paid from the general fund. [30 G. A., ch. 187, § 4.]

SEC. 2900-a32. Patent or lease. When any sale or lease of any island belonging to the state is made by the executive council as herein provided, the governor shall execute and deliver to the purchaser or lessee a patent or a lease thereof, as the case may be, duly attested by the seal of the state of Iowa. [30 G. A., ch. 187, § 5.]

CHAPTER 3.

OF PERPETUITIES AND GIFTS.

SECTION 2901. Disposition of property.

A restraint on alienation in violation of the statutory provision is invalid; but the language relied on as imposing such condition will be so construed if possible as to make it consistent with the grant. Hubbird v. Goin, 137 Fed. 822.

SEC. 2904-a. Acceptance of gifts, devises, or bequests authorized. Gifts, devises or bequests of property, real or personal, made to any state institution for purposes not inconsistent with the objects of such institution, may be accepted by its governing board, and such board may exercise such powers with reference to the management, sale, disposition, investment or control of property so given, devised or bequeathed, as may be deemed essential to its preservation and the purposes for which the gift, devise or bequest was made. [31 G. A., ch. 144.]

CHAPTER 4.

OF THE TRANSFER OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

SECTION 2905. Conditional sales—recording.

Where a cash register was sold with a condition that the title should not pass to the purchaser until payment therefor was made, and there was no recorded instrument evidencing such sale, held that an attachment levied on the register and other property of the purchaser took priority over the title of the seller. National Cash Register Co. v. Broeksmit, 103-271.

A reservation of the title to the property by the vendor without recording is not valid as against a subsequent mortgagee without notice, although the subsequent mortgage is not recorded. Union Bank v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 105-135.

Prior to the enactment of this statutory provision, it was held that an innocent purchaser of the property from one in possession under a contract for conditional sale acquired no title thereto as against the original owner, unless the transaction was fraudulent. And under the statute, if the instrument is duly acknowledged and recorded, the purchaser acquires no title as against the original vendor, although the vendee has made an absolute contract to pay for the property, and has given notes for part of the purchase price. National Cash Register Co. v. Zangs, 127-710.

The instrument should be signed by the vendor or lessor; this is the plain provision of the statute. National Cash Register Co. v. Schwab, 111-603.

This section refers to sales which are to take effect on a condition to be performed by the vendee, and not to those conditioned on performance of some agreement by the vendor. Davis Gasoline Engine Works Co. v. McHugh, 115-415.

A conditional sale, such as is referred to in this section, involves delivery to the vendee as owner with reservation to the vendor of the title only for the purpose of security. Where the contract provides that there shall be no delivery until payment, the mere fact that the agent of the seller gives possession to the buyer for a temporary purpose does not bring the case within the provisions of the statute. *Posession of immediate actual delivery the question of whether, if a one of them might have acquired therein by purchase from or seizure or sale under judicial process against him if bankruptcy proceedings had not ensued. In re Smith, 132 Fed. 301.

SEC. 2906. Sales or mortgages—recording.

 Change of possession: It is the retention of actual possession by the vendor or mortgagor without the recording act, the assignee in bankruptcy may assert the claims of such creditor against the mortgagor. The provisions of the bankrupt act preserve for the equal benefit of all the creditors of the bankrupt the same rights in and to property held by him that any one of them might have acquired therein by purchase from or seizure or sale under judicial process against him if bankruptcy proceedings had not ensued. In re Smith, 132 Fed. 301.

Possession in third person: This section does not apply where the property at the time of sale or mortgage is not in the possession of the vendor or mortgagor; possession may be taken by symbolical delivery, as by the turning over of the key to the premises where the property is kept. Frank v. Lutf, 110-267.

Where the mortgagor of household goods, who resided in another state, the mortgage not being recorded, rented a room in the place in this state, where he intended to reside, and stored the goods therein, held that the goods were in her possession and therefore subject to attachment by an officer levying execution thereon under a judgment against her, and not in the possession of the person from whom the room was rented so as to render recording unnecessary. Young v. Evans, 118-144.

Fraud: Under the circumstances of a particular case, held that mortgagees used reasonable dispatch in causing their mortgages to be filed for record and that therefore they were not guilty of fraud, although the mortgages were not recorded before credit was extended to the mortgagor. Spencer Co. v. Papach, 103-513.

Withholding from record does not alone render the mortgage fraudulent, nor is it fraudulent to provide in the mortgage that the mortgagor shall retain possession, sell at retail, and keep up the stock. Ward v. Parker, 128-124.

The taking of a mortgage upon property worth much more than the amount of the debt secured does not of itself render the mortgage void. Ibid. 105-136.

The act of a creditor in withholding from record a chattel mortgage securing his debt, by agreement with the mortgagor, until the bankruptcy of the latter, while it may render the mortgage invalid as a lien against subsequent creditors without notice, does not of itself affect his right to prove his debt in bankruptcy nor subordinate it to the claims of subsequent creditors. In re Ewald, 153 Fed. 168.

Innocent purchaser: A mortgagee under a mortgage to secure a pre-existing debt is not protected Flannigan v. Allhouse, 56-515; Meyer v. Evans, 66-179.

Where the mortgagee on the execution of the mortgage to secure an antecedent debt grants an extension of time on the debt secured he becomes entitled to protection under the recording laws. Union Bank v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 105-136.

A person cannot unlawfully seize the mortgaged property and then transform himself into an innocent purchaser thereof by an ex parte cancellation of a debt due him from the owner. Iowa Loan Co. v. Kimball Piano Co., 124-150.

Existing creditors: Failure to record a mortgage will not render it invalid as to a creditor whose claim antedates the giving of the mortgage. Garner v. Fry, 104-515.

A mortgagee whose mortgage is not recorded until after the death of the mortgagor is presumed to the claims of the prior creditors, and the administrator of the mortgagor in the interest of such creditors whose claims have been filed with him, may subject the property to the payment of such claims in priority to the lien of the mortgagee. Blackman v. Baxter, 125-118.

Actual notice: Notice to an agent, even though by information brought to his knowledge before the beginning of his agency, will be presumed to have been retained for a reasonable time. McClelland v. Saul, 113-208.

Priority in recording is not material. The question under the recording act is whether the mortgage prior in time is recorded before rights of others without notice thereof have accrued. Nicholson v. Aney, 127-278.

An attaching creditor taking with actual notice is not protected against an unrecorded mortgage. Notice is sufficient if such as to put a reasonable man upon inquiry who would certainly lead to the knowledge or discovery of the rights of the mortgagee. Aultman & Taylor Mach. Co. v. Kennedy, 114-444.

The burden is on the party claiming as against an unrecorded chattel mortgage to show that he took without notice. Diemer v. Guernsey, 112-393.

One who takes a mortgage from one in possession acquires priority over a vendee of the property under a prior sale which is not recorded, in the absence of actual notice of such sale. Martin v. Lesan, 129-573.

The burden is upon the vendee in such case to show actual notice to the mortgagee. Ibid.

A creditor whose claim antedates the execution of the mortgage must obtain a lien as by attachment or other levy upon the mortgaged property before notice actual or constructive of the mortgage in order to be protected against it on account of failure to record. Murphy v. Murphy, 128-124.

A mortgagee accepting his mortgage with knowledge of a condition imposed for the benefit of other mortgagees is bound by such condition, and cannot question the validity of the prior mortgage. First National Bank v. Reid, 122-280.

Description: A defective description may be cured by a subsequent delivery of the property to the mortgagee as against persons who have not acquired any right or interest before such delivery. Kelley v. Andrews, 102-119.

Where the chattel mortgage described several mares "and all increase of said mares" and the increase of the increase, held, that such description included future increase of the animals described and not merely the increase in existence at the time of the execution of the mortgage. Hopkins Fine Stock Co. v. Reid, 106-78.

In determining whether particular articles are covered by a chattel mortgage on a stock of goods under the head of furniture and fixtures, the situation of the particular and all the surrounding circumstances may be considered in determining the intent. Brody v. Chittenden, 106-524.

In such case held that jewelers might be asked as witnesses to state whether regulators were regarded by the trade as part of the stock or as fixtures or as tools. Ibid.

The term "furniture" used in a chattel mortgage of a stock of jewelry may cover implements and instruments used in the business. Ibid.

For the purpose of sufficiently describing certain animals to be selected from a large number, it is not sufficient to allege merely characteristics common to the animals to be described and others, and if the essential distinction, such as a peculiar mark or brand, is not established, the description is not sufficient. * Packers' National Bank v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 122-503.

Therefore held that a general description accompanied with the designation of a particular brand was not sufficient to constitute notice, it appearing that the brand had not been placed upon the animals at the time when it was important for the purchaser to know which animals were covered by such mortgage. Ibid.

No sufficient description is afforded by the sweeping statement to the effect that the instrument is intended as a conveyance to the mortgagee of all the property that the mortgagor has, or all that he ever expects to have, and the record of such conveyance does not impart notice to a purchaser of the property. * Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Stockdale, 121-748.*

The description of property in a chattel mortgage to be sufficient as against third persons having constructive notice only must be such as the property can be identified by reference to the instrument itself, aided by such inquiries as may be indicated or directed thereby. Ibid.

Where there is no statement as to possession, ownership or location of the property, but only an enumeration of items, the description is insufficient to impart constructive notice. Iowa Lumber Co. v. Cassidy, 107-564.

Where the mortgage named certain items of property, and indicated by its provisions that the mortgagor was the owner of an interest in the property, and that it was located in the county where it was recorded, held that the description was sufficient to impart record notice. Preston v. Casd., 109-445.

In order that the record of a chattel mortgage be constructive notice the description of the property must be sufficiently definite so that one examining the record may be able from such description to ascertain the property with reasonable certainty. Westinghouse Co. v. McGrath, 131-226.

Are held that a description which gave only the location of the property as within the county and the name of the owner of the property and its general character, but did not specify the particular location nor the possession of such property was not sufficient. Ibid.

The description in a chattel mortgage of "25 acres of corn hereafter to be grown in Franklin county" held not to be sufficient as against a purchaser without actual notice. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Stockdale, 121-748.

A description in a chattel mortgage of "one hundred and one yearlings and two-year-olds, branded with the letter F on left hip," held sufficient to warrant the introduction of parol evidence to show that the description was used with reference to certain animals intended by the parties to be covered by the mortgage. Frick v. Fritz, 115-438.

Whether or not the instrument on its face contains sufficient description to identify any property is always a question for the court; but whether or not, being sufficient in law, it is sufficient to cover the property in dispute where extrinsic evidence shows some mistake in the description is a question for the jury under proper instructions. Livingston v. Stevens, 122-62.

Whether certain property, corresponding to the description in the mortgage, was intended to be included is for the jury, while it is for the court to say whether the description is sufficient to impart notice of such an intention to third persons. Chipman v. Weinig, 112-702.

The whole description should be considered in determining whether or not a third person aided by the inquiry which the instrument itself suggests would be enabled to identify the property. It is error for the court to instruct that a defect or inaccuracy in the description is immaterial. * Packers' National Bank v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 114-621.*

Priority: Where sale of machinery was made to a tenant on condition that it should be set up on the premises, and a chattel mortgage given for the purchase price when accepted, held that the chattel mortgage took priority over the landlord's lien, although not recorded until some days after the machinery was set up and accepted. Davis Gasoline Engine Co. v. McHugh, 115-415.

The rights of a chattel mortgagee without notice of a prior unrecorded mortgage are superior to those of the holder of the prior mortgage, although possession thereunder was taken before the recording of the subsequent mortgage, and the prior mortgagees will not be given preference on the ground that he was a creditor. Sheets v. Poff, 123-714.

Books of account: No record is required of the assignment of books of account which are turned over to the assignee. Preston v. Peterson, 107-244.

Where possession in such case was delivered to the assignee, held that subsequent possession by the assignor for a temporary purpose would not render the sale invalid for want of recording. Ibid.

A contract with reference to a stock of goods which did not provide for any lien thereon or transfer of title thereto, held not to be within the terms of the recording law. Clement v. Swanson, 110-106.

Waiver of lien: Parol evidence is competent to establish as against the mortgagee in favor of the purchaser of the mortgaged property a system or course of dealing authorized by the mortgagee inconsistent with the provisions of the mortgage, and waiving the mortgagee's lien. Livingston v. Stevens, 122-62; Livingston v. Heck, 122-74.

The assignee of an unrecorded mortgage cannot maintain an action for conversion against one claiming under the mortgagor through a sale made in good faith with consent of the mortgagee and without notice actual or constructive of the assignment. Farmer v. Bank of Graettinger, 123-469.

Residence: The residence of the mortgagor where the chattel mortgage is to be recorded may be different from his legal domicile. Therefore held that a mortgage given by a railroad contractor on property in his possession in a county where he was at work, and in which he actually resided with his family while engaged in performing his contract, was properly recorded in such county, although his residence there was only for a temporary purpose. In re Brannock, 131 Fed. 819.

Recording in another state: Recording of a chattel mortgage in North Dakota, where the mortgagor resides, held to be of no effect with reference to property covered by the mortgage situated in this state. Aultman & Taylor Mach. Co. v. Kennedy, 114-444.

As a general rule the law of the place where the property is situated at the time of the transfer governs the validity of the mortgage under the recording acts. Ibid.

Claiming as mortgagee: A mortgage on one of three teams of horses, any one of which might be claimed as exempt from execution, is valid without the joinder of the wife therein. The acts of the husband in executing the mortgage constitute an election to claim one of the other teams rather than the team mortgaged as exempt. Grover v. Younie, 110-446.

A chattel mortgage on exempt property is not valid unless signed both by the owner and his wife. Nicholson v. Aney, 127-278.

Conceding that a mortgage of exempt property signed by the husband alone may afterwards be ratified and confirmed by the wife, such ratification will not relate back to the prejudice of intervening creditors, lien holders or purchasers. Nicholson v. Aney, 127-278.

Whether an assignment of wages exempt from execution for a debt of the assignor must be in writing concurred in and signed by the wife of the assignor under the provision of Code § 2906 requiring encumbrances of exempt personal property to be so executed, quaere. Peterson v. Ball, 121-544.

An assignment of exempt earnings without the wife's consent is not prohibited by the requirement that she shall join in chattel mortgage of exempt property. Dowling v. Wood, 125-244.

OF REAL ESTATE.

SECTION 2912. Who deemed seized.

The owner of real property is presumed to be in possession thereof until adverse possession has been taken by another. Britt v. Gordon, 132-431.

SEC. 2913. Estate in fee simple.

A fee may be created without the use of the word "heirs," and where a conveyance was made to the wife without limitation in the granting clause, but with a subsequent condition that the property was for her sole use and that she was not to have the privilege of deeding or mortgaging it, held that the granting clause vested in the wife a fee title, and that the condition was void as a restraint upon alienation. Teany v. Mains, 113-53.

SEC. 2914. Conveyance passes—grantor's interest.

A remainderman who has a possibility coupled with an interest which may at some future time ripen into an estate, has such interest as will support a conveyance by him to another. McDonald v. Bayard Sav. Bank, 123-413.
SEC. 2915. After-acquired interest.

SEC. 2916. Property in adverse possession of another.

Possession is not essential to the validity of a lease. Beck v. Minnesota & Western Grain Co., 131-62.

SEC. 2917. Future estates.

An estate may be created, to begin in the future, and the grant of such an estate, while it passes no present title, does pass a present interest. Lewis v. Curtitt, 130-423.

While estates may be created to commence at a future day, the title is and must be in some one at all times. Wales v. Sammis, 120-293.

Estate may be created by devise to commence at a future day, and a vested remainder may be supported by an estate for years. Shafer v. Tereso, 133-342.

SEC. 2918. Declarations of trust.

In the absence of documentary evidence of an express trust it cannot be established. Hoon v. Hoon, 126-391.

Deeds which recite consideration as paid cannot be shown by parol to create a trust in favor of the grantor as against the grantee. Byerly v. Sherman, 126-447.

A deed reciting a consideration in hand paid cannot by parol evidence be converted into an instrument creating a trust. Willis v. Robertson, 121-380.

The requirement that an express trust must be evidenced in writing has no reference to trusts in personal property. In re Estate of Fisher, 128-18.

A trust of personal property may be established by parol. Merrit v. Torrance, 129-310.

An agreement by a mortgagee taking title to the property at foreclosure sale that he will reconvey on payment of the amount due under the mortgage amounts to the creation of an express trust which cannot be established by parol. Donaldson v. Empire Loan & Inv. Co., 130-467.

An agreement to take title by sheriff's deed by way of security for an indebtedness is not an agreement for an express trust which must be in writing but it gives rise to a resulting or constructive trust. McElroy v. Allfree, 131-112.

Resulting trust: The theory of a resulting trust is that he who supplies the purchase money intends it to be for his own benefit and not for that of another and that the conveyance is taken in the name of another as a matter of convenience or arrangement between them. If two or more advance the price and the deed is taken in the name of one only, a trust will result in favor of the other for a share proportionate to the part of the price paid. Payment to raise a trust pro tanto must be for an aliquot part of the property. The burden being on the party alleging the trust to clearly establish it, the evidence must show that payment for an aliquot part was intended. Culp v. Price, 107-133.

A father paying the purchase price of land, the title being taken in his son's name, has a resulting trust therein unless the money paid is by way of advancement. But before the legal title will be disturbed the resulting trust must be established by clear and satisfactory evidence, and the presumption that the law raises that the conveyance is by way of advancement must be overcome by proof to the contrary intention. Ibid.

The father's testimony as to his intention is competent in such a case as are also his declarations made at the time. The fact that the son has already been provided for and that the father and other children are left unprovided for may also be taken into account. Ibid.

Evidence that the consideration for a conveyance was to be furnished after it was delivered will not show a resulting trust. Burkhardt v. Burkhardt, 107-369.

Where the trustee or other fiduciary buys property in his own name, but with trust funds, a resulting trust arises under the operation or construction of law. Williams v. Williams, 108-91.

Constructive trusts: An express agreement creating a trust cannot be proven by parol evidence, and the breach of an express promise to hold title for another will not constitute fraud on which a court of equity will build up a constructive trust. Andrew v. Andrew, 114-524.

An express trust in real estate cannot be established by parol evidence, and the breach of an express trust created by parol as to real estate will not of itself constitute fraud on which a court of equity will build up a constructive trust. Heddleston v. Stoner, 128-525.

Mere breach of an express promise or refusal on the part of an alleged trustee to execute the trust reposed in him, however reprehensible, will not be sufficient to remove the bar of the statute and allow a trust in reality to be established by parol evidence. Newsis v. Topfer, 121-433.

But this rule does not apply where it is made to appear that fraud has entered into the transaction. Ibid.

While an express trust cannot be established by oral evidence it is competent to show fraud in a conveyance by taking advantage of confidential relations existing between members of a family so as to give rise to a constructive trust. Gregory v. Bowlsby, 126-588.

Testamentary transactions: This provision appears to relate to transactions other than those of a testamentary nature. Moran v. Moran, 104-216.

Parol evidence is admissible to affix a trust to an unconditional devise only where it shows that the devisee by fraud induced the testator to make the devise on the representation that the devisee would take in trust for another who was the real object of the bounty. Ibid.

SEC. 2919. Conveyances by married women.

This section does not authorize the execution by the wife to the husband of a power of attorney, authorizing him to convey her contingent dower interest in his property. Sawyer v. Biggart, 114-489.

The wife may control or contract with reference to her property in the same manner as other persons, and held that a quitclaim by the wife to the grantee of her husband claiming under a deed in which the wife did not join was effectual to cut off the wife's contingent right of dower. Fowler v. Chadima, 111 N. W. 808.

SEC. 2922. Title and possession of mortgagor.

Lawful possession of the premises by the mortgagee can only be obtained by the consent, express or implied, of the mortgagor who is deemed to hold the legal title. Boggs v. Douglass, 105-344.

The grantor in a conveyance which is found to be a mortgage is entitled to possession and ownership of the crops until the expiration of the statutory period for redemption, after a decree determining the nature of his rights. Harrington v. Foley, 108-287.

In this state a mortgage does not create an estate, but simply a lien or charge upon the land to secure the debt. Adams v. Holden, 111-54.

SEC. 2923. Tenancy in common.

Conveyances or devises to two or more create a tenancy in common unless a contrary intent is expressed. Gilmore v. Jenkins, 129-686.

A conveyance to two or more gives rise to a tenancy in common and not to a general tenancy. Anderson v. Acheson, 132-744.

One of several tenants in common can maintain an action of forcible entry and detainer against a lessee. The possession of one tenant is presumed to be in support of the common title of all. Willis v. Weeks, 129-525.

SEC. 2924. Vendor's lien.

The mere taking of a note for the purchase price does not waive the vendor's lien. In order to so operate it must be shown by a clear preponderance of the evidence that such was the express agreement of the vendor. Zook v. Thompson, 111-463.

The vendor executing a voluntary conveyance without any agreement for a consideration, is not entitled to a vendor's lien for the purchase price. Ostenson v. Severson, 126-197.

This section has no reference to one who takes property subject to a vendor's lien. Owen v. Higgins, 113-735.

SEC. 2924-a. Rule in Shelley's case abolished. The rule or principle of the common law known as the "rule in Shelley's case" is hereby abolished and is declared not to be a part of the law of this state. [32 G. A., ch. 159, § 1.]

SEC. 2924-b. Estate not enlarged. No express devise, bequest or conveyance of an estate for life or other limited estate in real or personal prop-property shall be enlarged or construed to pass any greater estate to the devisee, legatee, or grantee thereof by reason of any devise, bequest or conveyance to the heirs, heirs of the body, children, or issue of such devisee, legatee or grantee, provided that the passage of this act shall not in any manner or under any circumstances be so construed as to impair or affect the vested rights of any person in or to any lands or estates acquired prior to the taking effect hereof. [32 G. A., ch. 159, § 2.]

CHAPTER 6.
OF THE CONVEYANCE OF REAL ESTATE.

SECTION 2925. Recording.

Effect of recording: An instrument which is not in fact signed by the grantor nor acknowledged by him is not properly or lawfully recorded and imparts no notice and no one has a right to rely upon the fact that he apparently signed such instrument. Sherod v. Eywall, 104-253.

In searching the records of titles the searcher should go back of the day and hour at which the evidence of title in the holder in question was filed for record and examine the title with reference to any conveyance and incumbrance by such holder after the date of the conveyance under which he holds title. Higgins v. Downis, 104-605.

Therefore, the searcher of title is charged with notice of an incumbrance recorded on the same day as and prior to the record of the conveyance by which title was acquired by the person executing such incumbrance, provided the incumbrance was executed after the actual execution of the conveyance. Ibid.

The law takes no notice of fractions of days with reference to the execution of deeds and mortgages where the order of their execution does not appear. Ibid.

Subsequent purchasers: An attaching creditor is not a subsequent purchaser for value. An unrecorded deed or other instrument creating a lien will take precedence over a subsequent attachment and a purchaser at judicial sale is bound to take notice of all instruments recorded up to the date of the same. Rea v. Wilson, 112-517.

Even though an unrecorded mortgage by mistake does not describe the land intended to be covered thereby, still the judgment lien is not entitled to priority over the unrecorded mortgage. Such priority accrues only in favor of the purchaser at judicial sale without notice of the mortgage. Ibid.

An attaching creditor is not a purchaser, but takes only the interest which his debtor had in the land at the time of attachment. Consequently an unrecorded deed or prior equity takes precedence over his attachment. But a purchaser at judicial or sheriff's sale, whether he be the judgment creditor or a stranger, is a purchaser, and is generally protected from prior unrecorded deeds or equities. Bush v. Herring, 113-158.

A pre-existing indebtedness is a valuable consideration for the execution of a mortgage as between the parties and all others having no equitable interest in the property at the time of its execution. Ibid.

While the recording of a deed is not essential as against an attaching creditor, its delivery is. Parlin, O. & M. Co. v. Martin, 111-640.

An execution purchaser of an heir's interest in realty does not acquire priority over the right existing against the heir to deduct advancements from such interest. Pinckney v. Collo, 114-441.

A subsequent purchaser is not bound to look beyond the property index for information as to conveyances, and if the index shows none, there is no constructive notice. Koch v. West, 118-468.

One who pays money for a sheriff's certificate of sale becomes a purchaser entitled to protection under the recording acts. Ibid.

Inadequacy of consideration alone is not sufficient to defeat the claim of one who is otherwise entitled to protection as a purchaser. Ibid.

The term "subsequent purchasers" is used to describe purchasers claiming under a common grantor. One who has commenced an action affecting the title is not, by reason of the provision of Code § 3543 relating to lis pendens, entitled to protection as a subsequent purchaser as against an unrecorded deed. Noyes v. Crawford, 118-15.

A judgment creditor is not a purchaser under the recording act. Foster v. Haight, 131-58.

The assignee of an ordinary judgment stands, as a rule, in no better position than his assignor with reference to unrecorded instruments. But an assignee of a mortgage which has gone to foreclosure may stand in a better position. Raymond v. Whitehouse, 119-13.

For valuable consideration: A mortgagee in a mortgage executed to secure a pre-existing debt is not a bona-fide purchaser entitled to priority of lien over a prior unrecorded mortgage on the property. Smith v. Moore, 112-60.

The mere fact of failure to record can only be taken advantage of by a creditor who has changed position or extended credit on the strength of apparent ownership in the grantor. Atkinson v. McNider, 130-281.

Without notice: Although one who takes by quit-claim deed is not an innocent purchaser, and is charged with notice of equities, yet one who takes from such purchaser by warranty deed for value is not affected by outstanding equities of which he had no notice. Hannah v. Seidentopf, 113-658.

The burden of proof is upon the purchaser claiming in hostility to an unrecorded deed to show that he was a purchaser for value without notice. Ibid.

Possession by a tenant is notice, not only of his own rights, but of the rights of the landlord. Ibid.

SEC. 2926. Acknowledgment.

The unsupported testimony of the person whose acknowledgment is duly certified by a proper officer, that no such acknowledgment was made, is not sufficient to overcome the presumption in favor of the certificate. Swett v. Large, 122-267.

SEC. 2930. Entries of transfers—or transcript. Whenever a deed of unconditional conveyance of real estate or transcript as provided in section four thousand two hundred and fifty-nine (4259) is presented, the auditor shall enter in the index book, in alphabetical order, the name of the grantee, and opposite thereto the number of the page of the transfer book on which such transfer is made; and upon the transfer book he shall enter in the proper columns the name of the grantee, the grantor, date and character of the instrument, the description of the real estate, and the number or letter of the plat on which the same is marked. [C., '73, § 1951.]

SEC. 2935. Repeal—indexes. That section twenty-nine hundred and thirty-five (2935) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and the following enacted in lieu thereof:

The recorder must keep index books, the pages of which are so divided as to show in parallel columns:

1. Each grantor;
2. Each grantee;
3. The time when the instrument was filed;
4. The date of the instrument;
5. The nature of the instrument;
6. The book and page where the record thereof may be found;
7. The description of the real estate conveyed;

Separate index books shall be kept for mortgages and satisfactions or releases of same; one for those containing descriptions of lots, and one for... those containing lands; and separate books for other conveyances of real estate; one for lots, and one for lands. Also he shall keep an index book for powers of attorney and affidavits as provided for in section twenty-nine hundred fifty-seven (2957) of the code. All of above indexes to be arranged alphabetically in accordance with section twenty-nine hundred thirty-seven (2937) and indexed inversely in name of grantee, and in case of affidavits each and every affidavit filed for record shall be indexed in appropriately ruled columns as follows:

[32 G. A., ch. 158.]

A subsequent purchaser is not bound to look beyond the property index for information as to conveyances, and if the index shows none, there is no constructive notice. Koch v. West, 118-468.

SEC. 2938. How recorded.

In matters relating to the record of title one may rely upon the public records as written, and the doctrine of idem sonans is not applicable where the initial letters which govern the indexing are not the same; but that doctrine may be relied upon to overcome a difference of spelling in other portions of the name. Boyd v. Boyd, 128-699.

SEC. 2941. Town lots. The recorder shall index and record all deeds, mortgages and other instruments affecting lots in cities, towns or villages, the plats whereof are recorded, in separate books from those in which other conveyances of real estate are recorded. Where any instrument contains a description of both land, and lots in cities, towns or villages, the plats whereof are recorded, he shall record such instruments in but one record and charge but one fee, but shall index in both land and town lot indexes. [C., '73, § 1947; R., § 2241.] [31 G. A., ch. 145.]

SEC. 2942. Acknowledgment of conveyances or incumbrances. The acknowledgment of any deed, conveyance or other instrument in writing by which real estate in this state shall be conveyed or incumbered, if made within this state, must be before some court having a seal, or some judge or clerk thereof, or some county auditor or his deputy, or justice of the peace within the county, or notary public within the county of his appointment or in an adjoining county in which he has filed with the clerk of the district court a certified copy of his certificate of appointment. And each of the officers above named is authorized to take and certify acknowledgements of all written instruments, authorized or required by law to be acknowledged. [25 G. A., ch. 52; 22 G. A., ch. 99; C., '73, §§ 277, 1955; R., §§ 201, 2226; C., '51, § 1217.] [27 G. A., ch. 96, § 1.]

What sufficient: Under statutory provisions prior to the present Code an acknowledgment by a deputy clerk of the district court was valid. Hilsper v. Claude, 169-159.

One having an interest, direct or contingent, in a conveyance, or its subject-matter, cannot take and certify an acknowledgment and the record of an instrument so acknowledged does not impart notice to third persons of the mortgagee's interest thereunder. But the mere fact that one is an officer of a corporation, or an agent of a co-partnership, does not disqualify him from taking an acknowledgment of an instrument made to his principal. Bardeley v. German-American Bank, 118-216.

Neither party to the conveyance can take his own acknowledgment of it before himself so as to entitle it to be recorded. Blackman v. Henderson, 116-578.

It is not competent for the cashier of a private bank as a notary public to acknowledge a mortgage executed to the bank. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Stoekdale, 121-748.

The authentication of the notary's seal to the certificate of acknowledgment is just as essential as his signature, and when the certificate lacks this the instrument cannot properly be recorded. Koch v. West, 118-468.

Legalizing acts: In a legalizing act declaring valid instruments defectively acknowledged, but duly recorded, held that the words "duly recorded" meant "actually recorded." Bresser v. Saarman, 112-720.

Such a legalizing act, relating in general to the recording of instruments defectively acknowledged, held applicable to an instrument of adoption. Ibid.

An act legalizing the recording of conveyances defectively acknowledged is not effective as against a purchaser in good faith without notice before the taking effect of the act. Blackman v. Henderson, 116-578.

Defects in the acknowledgment are cured by a subsequent legalizing act. Therefore held that a city plat defectively acknowledged became effectual upon the action of a subsequent legalizing act and that from the time the legalizing act took effect the plat was acknowledged and recorded as required by law. Parrriott v. Hampton, 111 N. W. 440.

LEGALIZING ACTS.

[For table of legalizing acts see front of volume.]

SEC. 2942-a. Acknowledgments legalized. That the acknowledgments of all deeds, mortgages, or other instruments in writing heretofore taken or certified, and which instruments have been recorded in the recorder's office of any county of this state, including acknowledgments of instruments made by any private or other corporation, or to which such corporation was a party, or under which such corporation was a beneficiary, and which have been acknowledged before or certified by any notary public who was at the time of such acknowledgment or certifying a stockholder or officer in such corporation, be and the same are hereby declared to be legal and valid official acts of such notaries public, and to entitle such instruments to be recorded, anything in the laws of the state of Iowa in regard to acknowledgments to the contrary notwithstanding. [26 G. A., extra sess., ch. 23, § 1.]

SEC. 2942-b. Saving clause. This act shall not affect the rights of parties in any action or suit now pending in any court of this state. [26 G. A., extra sess., ch. 23, § 2.]

SEC. 2942-c. Legal and valid. That all acknowledgments of instruments, in writing, taken and certified according to the provisions and form prescribed by the code of 1873, which were taken and certified after the twenty-ninth day of September, 1897, and prior to the passage of this act, by officers having authority under the provisions of the code of 1873 to take and certify acknowledgments, are here declared to be legal and valid, and of the same force and effect as though the same were taken and certified according to the form and provisions of the code; and as though the officers taking and certifying the same were authorized to take and certify acknowledgments. [27 G. A., ch. 165, § 1.]

When one pays a valuable consideration for a sheriff's certificate of sale he acquires such vested right as to protect him against an instrument defectively recorded, notwithstanding a legalizing act subsequently passed. Koch v. West, 118-468.

SEC. 2942-d. Acknowledgments by interested stockholders. That all deeds and conveyances of lands within this state heretofore executed but which have been acknowledged or proved according to and in compliance with the laws of this state before a notary public or other official authorized by law to take acknowledgments who was, at the time of such acknowledgment, an officer or stockholder of a corporation interested in any such deed or conveyance, or otherwise interested therein, are, if otherwise valid, hereby declared effectual and valid in law to all intents and purposes as though acknowledged or proved before an officer not interested therein; and if heretofore recorded in the respective counties in which such lands may be, the records thereof are hereby confirmed and declared effectual and valid in law to all intents and purposes as though said deeds and conveyances, so acknowledged or proved and recorded, had (prior to being recorded) been acknowledged or proved before an officer having no interest therein. [27 G. A., ch. 166, § 1.]

SEC. 2942-e. Acknowledgments defective in form—legalized. That the acknowledgments of all deeds, mortgages or other instruments in writing, taken and certified previous to the passage of this act, and which have been duly recorded in the proper counties in this state, and which are defective only in the form of the certificate of the officer taking the same, or by reason of such acknowledgment having been made before an official not qualified to take the same, but who was at the time qualified to take acknowledgments generally, be and are hereby declared to be as legal and valid for all purposes as if the form of the certificate had been made in accordance with law, and the official taking such acknowledgments duly qualified therefor. [29 G. A., ch. 249, § 1.]

SEC. 2942-f. Legalizing conveyances under power of attorney to husband or wife. No conveyance of real estate heretofore made, wherein the husband or wife conveyed or contracted to convey the inchoate right of dower to the other spouse, acting as the attorney in fact, by virtue of a power of attorney executed by such spouse, such power of attorney not having been executed as a part of a contract of separation, shall be held invalid as contravening the provisions of section three thousand one hundred and fifty-four (3154) of the code, but all such conveyances are hereby

SEC. 2942-g. Acknowledgments heretofore taken legalized. That the acknowledgments of all deeds, mortgages, or other instruments in writing heretofore taken or certified, and which instruments have been recorded in the recorder's office of any county of this state, including acknowledgments of instruments made by any private or other corporation, or to which such corporation was a party, or under which such corporation was a beneficiary, and which have been acknowledged before or certified by any notary public who was at the time of such acknowledgment or certifying a stockholder or officer in such corporation, be and the same are hereby declared to be legal and valid official acts of such notaries public, and to title such instruments to be recorded, anything in the laws of the state of Iowa in regard to acknowledgments to the contrary notwithstanding. [31
G. A., ch. 146, § 1.]
SEC. 2942-h. Acknowledgments without seal legalized. All deeds, mortgages, or other instruments in writing, for the conveyance of lands which have heretofore been made and executed, and the officer taking the acknowledgment has not affixed his seal to the acknowledgment, such acknowledgment shall, nevertheless, be good and valid in law and equity, anything in any law heretofore passed to the contrary notwithstanding. [31 G. A., ch. 146, § 2.]

SEC. 2942-i. Saving clause. This act shall not affect the rights of parties in any action or suit now pending in any court of this state. [31 G. A., ch. 196, § 3.]

SEC. 2942-j. Certain conveyances of real estate legalized. In all cases where, prior to the year eighteen hundred seventy (1870), an executor, administrator, or guardian, duly appointed, qualified and acting as such in another state without being appointed and qualified in the state of Iowa, conveyed in such trust capacity, real estate lying in this state, and such conveyance has been of record since prior to the first day of January, eighteen hundred seventy one (1871) in the county where the real estate so conveyed is located, such conveyance shall not be held void or insufficient by reason of the fact that it does not appear in such conveyance, or of record otherwise in the state of Iowa, that said executor, administrator or guardian was duly appointed and qualified as such in the state of Iowa, or that due and legal notice of all proceedings with reference thereto was served upon all interested or necessary parties, or that such executor, administrator or guardian was duly authorized by any order of court in Iowa, or in the state in which such administrator, executor, or guardian was acting, to make and execute such conveyance, or that no bond therefor was given, or no report thereof made, or the sale of such real estate approved by the proper court, and all such conveyances, deficient or irregular in any of the particulars above enumerated, are hereby declared valid and legal. [32 G. A., ch. 248.]

WHEREAS, Certain mayors, under section six hundred ninety-one (691) of the code of 1897, have taken the acknowledgments of written instruments and administered oaths in proceedings not connected with the administration of their offices, and;

WHEREAS, Certain notaries public, whose commissions expired July 4th, 1906, and who continued to act as such notaries public and who have since qualified as notaries public, desire to have their acts as such notaries public legalized. Now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa:

SEC. 2942-k. Legalized. All acknowledgments and taking of affidavits made by the mayors and notaries public, as described in the preamble hereof, be and the same are hereby legalized and made of full effect, the same as though said mayors and notaries public had been originally empowered to take said acknowledgments and administer said oaths. [32 G. A., ch. 249.]

SEC. 2943. Out of state. When made out of the state but within the United States, it shall be before a judge of some court of record, or officer holding the seal thereof, or some commissioner appointed by the governor of this state to take the acknowledgment of deeds, or some notary public or justice of the peace; and when made before a judge, or justice of the peace, a certificate, under the official seal of the clerk or other proper certifying officer of a court of record of the county or district, or of the secretary of state of the state or territory, within which such acknowledgment was taken, under the seal of his office, of the official character of said judge, or justice, and of the genuineness of his signature, shall accompany said certificate of acknowledgment. [C., '73, § 1956; R., § 2245.] [27 G. A., ch. 97, § 1.]
SEC. 2943-a. Notarial seals of nonresidents. That the notarial seal which purports to have been affixed to any instrument in writing, by any notary public residing elsewhere than in the state of Iowa, shall be prima facie evidence that the words thereon engraved conform to the requirements of the law of the place where such certificate purports to have been made. [28 G. A., ch. 118, § 1.]

SEC. 2948. Certificate of acknowledgment.

The requirement of this section as to stating the full title of the person before whom the acknowledgment is made is not applicable to acknowledgments of other instruments with reference to which there is no such specific requirement and in the acknowledgment of articles of incorporation it is sufficient that the venue is stated at the beginning of the certificate, and the notary subscribes as a "notary public," without specifically reciting that he is a notary public in and for said county, it being presumed that an officer acts only within the limits of his authority. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

The fact that the certificate of acknowledgment is left blank as to the name of the party who makes the acknowledgment does not render such certificate invalid. Tennis v. Gifford, 133-372.

The statutory provision authorizing the recording of affidavits explaining defects in a chain of title does not enable one claiming title by adverse possession to make out a title of record on which an abstract showing good title can be founded. Fagan v. Hook, 105 N. W. 155.

SEC. 2958. Forms of conveyances.

In the absence of warranty or of fraud inducing the conveyance there is no liability of the grantor for failure of title. Harrison v. Palo Alto County, 104-383.

CHAPTER 7.
OF OCCUPYING CLAIMANTS.

SECTION 2964. Proceedings.

This section has no application where the action is purely personal, seeking only a money judgment and not attempting to disturb either title to or possession of real property. Central Trust Co. v. Hubinger, 87 Fed. 3.

SEC. 2967. Color of title.

One who acquires title to real property in consideration of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, in violation of Code § 2423, and whose title is declared void on that account, cannot assert the rights of an occupying claimant with reference to improvements placed by him upon the premises. Lindt v. Uihlein, 116-48.

The statutory provisions as to occupying claimants furnish a special remedy, and one who seeks to avail himself of those provisions must bring himself within the statute and pursue the course indicated. Ibid.

The proceeding contemplated does not involve recovery of a personal judgment against the land owner, but is in the nature of the assertion of a lien on the property by the party in possession, accompanied by the right to retain such possession until the lien is satisfied. Ibid.

CHAPTER 8.
OF THE HOMESTEAD.

SECTION 2972. Exempt.

In general: Statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of homestead rights. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Eyre, 107-13; Edmonds v. Davis, 122-561.
Application of property to the payment of debts should be so made as to preserve, so far as possible, the homestead of the debtor. Shaffer v. Chernyk, 130-686.

In what property: A leasehold interest may be sufficient to support a homestead right. White v. Danforth, 122-403; In re Estate of King, 132-216.

A homestead right may exist as to property held by an equitable title as effectually as though it were held by a legal title. Foster v. Rice, 126-190.

An existing homestead right is not lost and a new one created by a conveyance absolute in form, but which is in fact a mortgage only. Ibid.

Matured crops raised on the homestead are not within the statutory exemption. (Affirming S. C., 142 Fed. 620.) In re Sullivan, 148 Fed. 814.

Evidence in a particular case held not sufficient to show that certain property claimed as a homestead was exempt because the money used in its purchase was obtained from the sale of a former homestead. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Carroll, 109-564.

Purchase money: The homestead is not exempt from a claim for the purchase money. Clifton Land Co. v. Davenport, 130-94.

Disposal of homestead: The owner may dispose of the homestead without regency by an equitable title as to which the homestead is exempt. Dettmer v. Behrens, 106-585.

Rights of spouse: Both husband and wife are entitled to live upon and enjoy the homestead. But so long as the wife of the owner chooses to live elsewhere, she is not entitled to any benefit from it and the owner is entitled to have the full right to farm and cultivate it so long as he continues to live upon and occupy it as a homestead. Ehrck v. Ehrck, 106-614.

Failure to make the wife a party defendant in proceedings to foreclose a mortgage executed prior to the marriage will not entitle the wife to relief in an independent action. Her rights in the homestead are not in any way superior to the lien of such a mortgage. Brownell v. Wells, 109-230.

The husband is presumed to be the head of the family, and the homestead premises to be under his control, although the legal title is in the wife. Burch v. Lowary, 131-719.

Trustee in bankruptcy: A trustee in bankruptcy may maintain an action to require the setting off of the homestead of the bankrupt and subjecting the remainder of his property to the payment of claims of creditors. Duffield v. Doeh, 124-286.

An insolvent debtor cannot use non-exempt assets for the purchase of a homestead, and thus put it beyond the reach of the trustee in bankruptcy. Clarke v. Sherman, 128-553.

SEC. 2973. Family defined.

After the death of both the father and mother, the children or any number of them continuing to reside on the homestead property as members of the same family constitute a family, entitled to the homestead exemption. In re Rafferty, 112 Fed. 512.

To constitute one or more persons with another living together in the same house a family, it must appear that they are being supported by that other in whole or in part, and are dependent upon him therefor, and that he is under a natural or moral obligation to render such support. But the fact that the person thus dependent for support is an adult son does not prevent his being a member of the family of his mother. Sheehy v. Scott, 128-551.

The homestead statutes should be liberally construed, but to entitle the occupancy by a widow or widower to the homestead protection there must be a natural or moral obligation of support and a condition of dependence and actual support between such occupant and some person or persons residing with him or her on his premises. Therefore, held that a widower occupying premises and having residing with him an adult daughter was entitled to a homestead in such premises. Fox. v. Waterloo Nat. Bank, 126-481.

Under the provision as it stood in the Code of '73, which did not include the provision as to a party to whom the homestead is adjudged in a decree of divorce, held that such person did not have the homestead right while continuing to occupy the premises after the divorce is founded. In re Pope, 98 Fed. 722.

Where a married woman, after her adjudication as a bankrupt, was granted a divorce and awarded the homestead and the custody of a child, held that the homestead could not be subjected to the payment of her debts in the bankruptcy proceeding. In re Le Claire, 124 Fed. 654.

The provision that the divorced husband or wife to whom the homestead is awarded in the decree is entitled to retain it as exempt during continual personal occupancy was first inserted in the Code of 1897; whether it is retroactive, quære. Foz v. Waterloo Nat. Bank, 125-481.

The primary object of the exemption is the protection of the family, and as a general rule, when the family ceases to exist the exemption also ceases. Therefore,

SEC. 2974. Conveyance or incumbrance.

In general: The homestead right is a favorite of the law, and the purpose of the statute is to require the utmost solemnity in the matter of its alienation. The homestead character of the premises so that conveyance thereof can only be made by joint action of husband and wife. Hostetler v. Eddy, 128-401.

As by Code § 3157 conveyances between husband and wife are authorized, such a conveyance by one to the other of the homestead will be valid, although not executed by both. Beedy v. Finney, 118-276.

It seems that a sale by the husband alone of the free title to the homestead, in which he reserves the right to use and occupy the property during the life of himself and wife, is valid as well as binding. Allbright v. Hannah, 109-98.

An agreement by the holder of the title as to the disposition to be made of the property after the homestead right in the premises has terminated is valid without the joinder of the wife. Reilly v. Reilly, 110 N. W. 445.

The owner of the homestead may grant an easement therein without joinder by the husband or wife of such owner. Stokes v. Maxson, 113-122.

One who has acquired a homestead in premises for which he has a contract of purchase cannot transfer his rights under such contract without joinder of his wife in a joint written instrument and a subsequent acceptance of a lease of the property from one purchasing the legal title thereto subject to the contract will not enlarge the rights of creditors nor constitute an abandonment of the homestead. Duffield v. Dosh, 124-286.

Conveyance void: Failure of the wife to join in a conveyance of the homestead renders the conveyance invalid for any purpose. Goodwin v. Goodwin, 113-319.

Where persons living together as husband and wife under a claimed marriage which is invalid because the pretended husband has a former wife living undivorced, of which fact the pretended wife has no knowledge, a conveyance by the pretended husband of premises owned by him and used by the two as a home will not be invalid on account of failure of the pretended wife to join thereto. Ibid.

A mortgage on the homestead in which the wife does not join is void, and the purchaser of the premises under foreclosure of such mortgage acquires no right thereto. Way v. Scott, 118-197.

Contract to convey: Where, under a contract by the husband having the legal title to convey the homestead, possession is given to the purchaser such contract is binding upon the wife upon the theory that by giving possession to the purchaser there is an abandonment of the homestead right. But in the absence of such delivery of possession as to constitute an abandonment, the contract of the husband without the assent of the wife is of no validity and the contract cannot be ratified so as to constitute an effective conveyance save by the execution of a joint instrument in substantial compliance with the statute. Alvis v. Alvis, 123-546.

To constitute a valid conveyance there must be the concurrence of each with the knowledge of the other. Ibid.

The husband and wife must join in the execution of an instrument containing a granting clause applicable to each. It is not sufficient that one of them signs and acknowledges an instrument purporting to convey only the title of the other. Ibid.

A parol agreement to convey is not binding even though based upon good consideration and the payment of the consideration does not operate to create a trust in the homestead property in favor of the person making payment. Ibid.

A contract to convey a homestead in which the wife does not join is void as to both husband and wife, and no action for specific performance or for damages will lie against either. Hostetler v. Eddy, 128-401.

No action for damages for breach of contract to convey a homestead, the wife not having joined in such contract, can be
SEC. 2976. Liable for debts antedating purchase—by written contract.

Debts prior to acquisition: Where it is claimed that the homestead is liable for money borrowed to be used in paying therefor, it is not enough to show that the borrowed money was so used, but in order to confer a right to the lien it must also appear that it was a part of the contract that this should be done. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Carroll, 109-564.

To render the homestead liable for money borrowed to pay the purchase price it must appear that the indebtedness was incurred at the time the homestead right attached. Ibid.

Where at the time the homestead was taken possession of the indebtedness which was subsequently attempted to be enforced against it had not been incurred, held that the homestead was not liable to such indebtedness. Ibid.

Debts previously contracted debt for which a homestead may be sold on execution is one which has become a fixed obligation enforceable prior to the acquisition of the homestead. Anderson v. Kyle, 126-650.

In a particular case, held, that the evidence did not show that a note was executed in renewal of a prior note antedating the homestead so as to make the indebtedness a claim against the homestead. In re Gardner's Estate, 103-738.

The owner may make expenditures on the homestead and improvements thereto necessary to its preservation and suitableness for homestead occupation, and the maintained as against the husband. Wheelock v. Countryman, 133-289.

A contract to convey the homestead is void if not signed by both husband and wife. Caldwell v. Drummond, 127-134.

Where husband and wife join in a contract to convey the homestead, and the wife agrees that upon the performance of the contract she will execute a conveyance and relinquishing her statutory rights in and to the land, the contract may be enforced as against her. Cone v. Cone, 118-458.

Foreclosure may be had of a bond for a deed joined, she cannot do so after the execution by the husband, and she then united with her husband in the execution of a deed in pursuance of the terms of the contract, held that there was such ratification of the contract by the wife that a suit for specific performance could be based thereon. Epperly v. Ferguson, 118-47.

While the wife may ratify a sale of the homestead by her husband, in which she has not joined, she cannot do so after the rights of third parties have intervened and her ratification would prejudice such rights. Stickley v. Widle, 122-400.

If the wife joins in a contract to convey the homestead after its execution by the husband and before the time for performance by delivery of a deed, and joins with her husband in executing the deed, which is tendered in performance of the contract, the vendee cannot rely upon the invalidity of the contract as excusing performance on his part. Ketterick v. Eastwood, 130-498.

Estoppel: The husband or wife of the owner may by conduct be estopped from setting up a homestead right as against one taking possession and making improvements under an oral contract of which the husband or wife has knowledge. Eastwood v. Crane, 125-707.

Other property included: A deed covering other property together with the homestead may be valid as to the property not included in the homestead. Pryne v. Pryme, 116-82.

Where the owner of premises, a portion of which is used as a homestead, contracts to sell a part thereof, not including the improvements, and leaving enough property in extent and value to constitute the full homestead exemption, such contract is not invalid because of the failure of the husband or wife to join therein, though the portion sold might have been included in the homestead, had the owner elected to sell and convey the entire premises, the owner may select the homestead without the consent of the husband or wife. Hall v. Gottschall, 114-147.

Prior to the adoption of the provision it was held that a contract by the husband to convey land including the homestead could not be specifically enforced in the whole or in part. Ormsby v. Graham, 123-209.

Under the last clause of this section, which is first found in the present Code, the vendee under a contract to convey premises including a homestead may enforce his contract as to the portion not embraced in the homestead, the price to be paid being abated by deduction of the value of the portion embraced in the homestead. Townsend v. Blanchard, 117-36.
expenditures therefor are protected as a part of the homestead right, even as against indebtedness contracted before the making of the improvements, though after the acquisition of the homestead. Ebersole v. Mott, 112-536.

The homestead law has always received liberal construction in favor of the homestead occupant out of consideration of public policy and the very humane and beneficent purpose that inspired the enactment of the law. Ibid.

As against a judgment on a note dated subsequent to the acquisition of the homestead, the homestead is prima facie exempt. And where it was contended that the note was executed for a debt previously existing, by reason of conversion by the owner of the homestead of money belonging to the payee of the note, held that the burden was on the payee of the note not only to show conversion, but that it occurred before the acquisition of the homestead. Walker v. Walker, 117-609.

Where husband and wife occupied as a homestead property acquired by the husband with pension money and conveyed to the wife at his direction, held that the title in the wife was subject to sale for her antecedent debts. Whinery v. McLeod, 127-11.

As the homestead is liable for pre-existing debts, an insolvent debtor cannot use non-exempt property for the acquisition of a homestead which will be preserved to him in bankruptcy proceedings. Clarke v. Sherman, 128-353.

Exhausting other property: It is not necessary to provide in a decree of foreclosure that the other real property covered by the lien shall be exhausted before resorting to the homestead. The statutes relating to homesteads make ample provision for the protection of homestead rights from sale on execution until other property of the judgment debtor is exhausted. Kilmer v. Gallaher, 107-876.

One who buys premises not constituting the homestead and assumes the payment of a mortgage covering such premises and also the homestead cannot afterwards enforce the mortgage as against the homestead. Moore v. Olive, 114-650.

The homestead is only secondarily liable for incumbrances to which it is subject with other property. Bissell v. Bissell, 120-127.

Where the entire property to be sold by the sheriff is included within the homestead, there is no occasion for setting off or reserving from the sale, any portion as constituting the homestead; and if the property is subject to execution sale, a sale in gross may be proper. Edinger v. Bain, 125-609.

Lien of judgments: A judgment becoming a lien upon premises before the occupancy of such premises as a homestead may be enforced and the grantee does not have priority over the judgment lien. Therme v. Bethenoid, 108-897.

SEC. 2977. What constitutes.

Separate tracts: The homestead must embrace the house used as a home, and none other can be selected, but if there are two so used, either may be retained. Edinger v. Bain, 125-609.

Under the provisions of the Code of '73, a homestead might consist of lots or tracts not contiguous, but in such case it must be shown that such lots or tracts were habitually and in good faith used as a part of the same homestead. Kelley v. Williams, 110-153.

While the homestead may consist of one or more contiguous lots or tracts, yet by changing the actual place of residence to other premises a lot which had previously been a part of the homestead by contiguity may cease to be homestead property. White v. Deramus, 59-109.

The homestead may be selected at any time before judicial sale, and no portion of the tract from which it may be selected is to be regarded as relinquished from the homestead rights, so long as the ownership and occupancy of the person claiming a homestead continues. Lutz v. Ristine, 112 N. W. 818.

The homestead right is purely statutory, and for the benefit of the family; and it may be waived or abandoned. The right of occupancy as a homestead does not affect the legal title, and when such right ceases by the death of the occupant, title descends to the issue of the owner, unless otherwise directed by will. Reily v. Reily, 110 N. W., 445.

The question of the existence of a homestead right does not rest merely in intention. It arises from the fact of occupancy as a home, and ends only with abandonment in fact. Hostetter v. Eddy, 128-401.

An intention by the occupant of premises formed before his marriage to abandon the same as his residence is immaterial with reference to a homestead right arising on subsequent marriage. Hostetter v. Eddy, 128-401.

One who conveys his homestead loses the homestead right although he afterwards acquires title to the property. Jasper County v. Sparham, 125-464.

While there may be a homestead right in premises held under a contract to convey, yet where husband and wife consented that the vendor should treat the contract as forfeited by reason of provisions there- in for forfeiture on non-payment of the purchase price, and the husband accepted a lease of the premises under which hus- band and wife continued to occupy, held, that the homestead right under the con- tract was abandoned. Anderson v. Cos- man, 108-266.

Whether absence from the homestead shall be deemed an abandonment, or to have been with animus revertendi, depends on the facts of each particular case. Wapello County v. Brady, 118-482.

Occupancy of other property which could be claimed as a homestead is a strong circumstance tending to show an abandonment of the previous homestead. Ibid.

The owner of the homestead cannot have the option of choosing between two homes when either is seized by creditors. One or the other must be shown to have had that character prior to such seizure. Ibid.

When only verbal evidence of the animus revertendi is relied upon, the temptation opened to the witnesses interested is such as to call for careful scrutiny. Ibid.

After selecting and occupying a new homestead, the owner cannot claim the old homestead as exempt while being held for exchange or sale. Stickley v. Widle, 122-400.

When a person removes from his home- stead for a temporary cause with the defi- nite and settled purpose of returning, and that purpose is continuously held in good faith, there is no abandonment of the homestead right. Maguire v. Hanson, 105- 215.

To constitute a homestead it is not suffi- cient that the claim is supported by the cultivation and use of the property. Actual occupation of the premises as a home for the owner and his family is required excepting in a few cases, as where a tem- porary absence from the home for author- ized purposes will not affect its homestead character, or where the proceeds of one homestead are invested in property to be used for another homestead, in which case a reasonable time is allowed in which to make a change. But a mere intent to erect upon a lot or tract of land a house to be occupied as a home at some indefinite time, is not sufficient to give the prop- erty the homestead character. Ibid.

Where there is no dwelling house to be occupied, the premises cannot constitute a homestead. Blue v. Heilprin, 106-608.

Where the homestead was abandoned by the owner without intention to return thereto, and two days later he made a conveyance of the premises, held, that the purchaser did not acquire the property free from debts which would have attached to it had it not been a homestead. Cham- bers v. Jackson, 106-6.

Removal from the homestead with inten- tion to return only in a contingency which the owner wishes to avoid, as for instance if he intends “to go back to the place pro- vided he cannot sell it,” will constitute an abandonment. Conway v. Nichols, 106- 358.

Where the evidence shows an intent to return, the period of absence alone being conditional, there is no abandonment. Rand Lumber Co. v. Atkins, 116-242.

A temporary removal from the prem- ises with the intent of returning does not constitute an abandonment of the home- stead. Lutz v. Ristine, 112 N. W., 818.

A temporary removal from the home- stead and renting it to third parties will not be deemed an abandonment if the party having the homestead right intends to return and resume the occupancy thereof. In re Pope, 98 Fed., 722.

Although the husband who has a legal title to the homestead abandons it, never- theless the wife is entitled to the same right therein, until cut off by proper pro- ceedings, and the fact that she is in an insane asylum will not deprive her of such homestead right. Wase v. Scott, 118-197.

Where the homestead character of the land is established, the burden of proof to show that it is liable for debts by reason of abandonment is upon the person mak- ing such claim. Robinson v. Charlton, 104-296.

Use: Where it appears that a room is used as a place of residence the owner should not be deprived of his statutory exemption because in the prosecution of his ordinary business the front windows and a portion of the room are devoted to that business. Edmonds v. Davis, 122- 561.

Mere intention to occupy as a homestead in the future does not impress premises with the character of a homestead. White v. Danforth, 122-403.

SEC. 2978. Extent—dwelling—appurtenances—value. If within a city or town plat, it must not exceed one-half acre in extent, otherwise it must not contain in the aggregate more than forty acres, but if, in either case, its value is less than five hundred dollars, it may be enlarged until it reaches that amount. It must not embrace more than one dwelling house, or any other buildings except such as are properly appurtenant thereto, but a shop or other building situated thereon, actually used and occupied by the owner in the prosecution of his ordinary business, and not exceeding three hundred dollars in value, is appurtenant thereto. [C., '73, §§ 1996-7; R., §§ 2884-5; C., '51, §§ 1252-3.]

So far as this section restricts the extent of a homestead within a town plat, it is not applicable to homesteads already existing. Sayers v. Childers, 112-677.

The homestead is limited to one-half acre only when within a city or town plat. The fact that it is within the corporate limits of a city, if not within a platted portion thereof, does not bring it within such limitation as to extent. Foster v. Rice, 126-190.

To limit the homestead to one-half acre, under the provisions of § 1996, Code of '73, differing in language from this section, it was necessary that it lie not only within the limits of the municipality, but within a platted portion thereof, and that such limitation did not apply where a tract of land not within the municipality was platted, and then the municipality was extended to include it. Parrott v. Thiel, 117-392.

SEC. 2979. Selecting—platting—notice to plat and record. The owner, husband or wife, may select the homestead and cause it to be platted, but a failure to do so shall not render the same liable when it otherwise would not be, and a selection by the owner shall control. When selected, it shall be marked off by permanent, visible monuments, and the description thereof shall give the direction and distance of the starting point from some corner of the dwelling, which description, with the plat, shall be filed and recorded by the recorder of the proper county in the homestead book, which shall be, as nearly as may be, in the form of the record books for deeds, with an index kept in the same manner. Should the homestead not be platted and recorded at the time levy is made upon real property in which a homestead is included the officer having the execution shall give notice in writing to said owner, and the husband or wife of such owner, if found within the county to plat and record the same within ten days after service thereof; after which time said officer shall cause said homestead to be platted and recorded as above, and the expense thereof shall be added to the costs in the case. [C., '73, §§ 1998-9; R., §§ 2286-7; C., '51, §§ 1254-5.]

Where a tract of eighty acres was occupied as a homestead, and a contract to convey forty acres of it was made to a son-in-law of the owner on condition that he should build a house and live thereon, which he did, held, that such contract constituted an election to regard the other forty acres of the tract as a homestead and was an abandonment of any homestead right in the tract referred to. Allbright v. Hannah, 103-98.

The selection of the homestead by the owner must control. Ehrck v. Ehrck, 106-614.

The owner may select the homestead without the consent of the husband or wife, and by a conveyance, incumbrance or contract may limit the selection by excluding from the homestead a portion of premises which might be included therein, but not necessary to its existence to the full extent allowed by law. Hall v. Gottzsche, 114-147.

Where the owners gave notice to the sheriff as to the portion of the premises claimed as a homestead and he offers the portion not included before selling the whole, the sale is not void, although the sheriff does not plat the homestead as here required. Ackerman v. Hendricks, 117-106.

Where the portions of the premises not included within the homestead were offered in forty acre tracts without bids being made, held that the sheriff was not bound to offer the entire portion of the premises not included within the homestead before proceeding to sell the entire premises. Ibid.
An execution sale of any portion of the premises which the owner might have claimed as his homestead is not valid without a platting of the homestead either by the owner or the officer making the sale. Lutz v. Ristine, 112 N. W. 818.

SEC. 2981. Changes.

The proceeds of the homestead, held by the owner for the purpose of investment in another homestead, are exempt to him under the bankrupt law. In re Johnson, 118 Fed. 312.

The proceeds of a homestead are only exempt for a reasonable time, during which they are held for the purpose of investing them in another homestead, and held that where one had sold his homestead in another state and brought the proceeds with him to this state in the shape of notes and mortgages, not being entitled under the circumstances to acquire a homestead in this state, the proceeds of the former homestead were subject to the claims of creditors. Campbell v. Campbell, 129-317.

What will be a reasonable time during which the homestead may be held for the purpose of exchanging it or selling it and investing the proceeds in another home, must depend on the facts of each particular case. Robinson v. Charleton, 104-296.

The owner of the homestead may convert it into money and hold the proceeds etc. for the purpose of procuring a new homestead, and with such proceeds may procure other property to be conveyed to his wife, although exceeding in extent that which he might retain as a homestead. The homestead being exempt from claims of creditors, no fraud upon creditors is committed if it is exchanged for other property which is taken in the name of the wife. Richards v. Orr, 118-724.

The proceeds of a homestead are only exempt for a reasonable time, during which they are held for the purpose of exchanging it or selling it and investing the proceeds in another home, and with such proceeds may procure other property to be conveyed to his wife, although exceeding in extent that which he might retain as a homestead. The homestead being exempt from claims of creditors, no fraud upon creditors is committed if it is exchanged for other property which is taken in the name of the wife. Richards v. Orr, 118-724.

The property acquired for a new homestead will not be exempt from antecedent debts except to the extent in value of the old homestead. Ibid.

A lot purchased with money previously realized by the execution of a mortgage on the homestead is not exempt under this section. Boettger v. Galloway, 115-353.

Creditors are not prejudiced by the exchange of a homestead which is exempt from their claims for another homestead of greater value, being entitled to subject the new homestead to the extent of the increased value to the payment of the owner's debts. Shaffer v. Chernyk, 130-686.

The creditors are not entitled to subject the homestead to the extent to which it has been improved after the creation of the owner's obligations to them where such improvement does not result in substantial increase in value, but consists only in rendering the premises more convenient and suitable for homestead occupation. Ibid.

Where the widow claims one-third of the proceeds of her husband's estate sold for the purpose of paying debts, she cannot hold it as exempt for investment in a new homestead even though the property sold includes the homestead of her husband. Edinger v. Bain, 125-391.

One who selects a new homestead, retaining the old homestead for purpose of exchange or sale, thereby abandons the homestead exemption as to such old homestead. Stickley v. Wilde, 122-400.

SEC. 2985. Occupancy by surviving spouse—descent.

Election by widow: Where it does not appear that the widow has elected to take a homestead right in lieu of dower, the presumption is that she takes the dower right. Peebles v. Bunting, 103-439.

The fact that the widow continues to reside upon a portion of the land belonging to her husband does not constitute an election to occupy the homestead for life in lieu of dower, where it does not appear that the premises occupied by her constituted the homestead of her deceased husband. Ibid.

If the widow elects to take one-third in fee she cannot assert any homestead right in the portion thus set apart to her. Edinger v. Bain, 125-391.

The right to the distributive share is primary, and an election is necessary in order to retain the homestead for life. Wold v. Berkholtz, 105-370.

Continuance in possession for more than ten years, but under an arrangement by which the wife was asserting her right to a distributive share and not a claim to the homestead, held not sufficient to show an election of the homestead right. Ibid.

The primary right of the surviving distributive share and unless she does something which in law amounts to an election to take the homestead in lieu thereof, the court will award her the distributive share provided by statute. Occupancy for less than a year before commencing proceedings to recover her distributive share held not to bar her right. In re Estate of Lund, 107-264.
The answer of the widow setting up the homestead character of the premises in another case in which she was not called upon to make an election between occupancy of the homestead and a distributive share held not to bar her right to the distributive share. The mere contention of the widow that she has elected to take the distributive share is not to be deemed a made election for the purpose of determining whether she has elected to take the homestead, or the portion of it so included descends to the heirs free from the debts of the owner. Porter v. Perkins, 125-55.

The right of heirs to inherit the homestead free from liability for the debts of the ancestor is not dependent on any homestead right in them. If the widow continues to occupy the homestead for life the debts of the deceased owner cannot be enforced against it either as to her or as to the heirs. But if she takes a one-third in fee, so far as this one-third does not include the homestead, or a portion of it, the homestead or the portion of it so included descends to the heirs free from the debts of the owner. Porter v. Perkins, 125-55.

Any attempted change in boundary by the surviving husband or wife after the death of the owner will not affect the interest of the heirs therein and is thus declared to be exempt from liability for debts of the owner. Ibid.

An existing obligation of the heir is an indebtedness in such sense that the heir takes the homestead exempt therefrom, Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Eyre, 107-13.

Where the testator devised all his property to his widow for life, with the stipulation that after her death whatever remained should be divided among his children, held that the share of the proceeds of the homestead received by each child was not exempt from execution under this section. First Nat. Bank v. Willie, 115-77.

The proceeds of a voluntary sale by an heir of his interest in his ancestor's homestead, in the absence of a showing of intention to reinvest such proceeds in another homestead, are not exempt from execution for his debts. Kim v. Stephens, 121-347.

The homestead exemption being in derogation of common law, does not inure to the benefit of the heirs to whom the homestead descends, except as provided by statute. Beatty v. Wardell, 130-651.

Devises of the homestead taking otherwise than in accordance with the law of descent do not hold the homestead exempt from their antecedent debts. Rice v. Burkhardt, 130-520.

Estoppel: Adjudication in a proceeding to which the wife is a party, that the property in which she claims an interest did not constitute a homestead, will estop her from asserting a homestead right in her interest therein. Atlee v. Bullard, 123-274.

On the death of those entitled to occupy the premises as a homestead, the title descends to the issue of the owner according to the statutory rules of descent unless otherwise directed by will, and the owner may make such disposition of the title, subject to the right of occupancy as a homestead, as he sees fit. Reilly v. Reilly, 110 N. W. 445.
CHAPTER 9.

OF LANDLORD AND TENANT.

SECTION 2988. Apportionment of rent.

This section relates to an apportionment of rent between the executor and the reversioner pro rata as to time and with reference to rent not accrued, that is, not due at the time of the death of the life tenant. Guadgel v. Southerland, 117-509.

SEC. 2991. Tenant at will—notice to quit.

One in possession with the assent of the owner, in the absence of further proof, is presumed to be a tenant at will. Fischer v. Johnston, 106-181.

Where a tenant continues to occupy the premises with the assent of the landlord, such occupancy will be deemed to have been under the terms and conditions of the lease creating the tenancy. Kennedy v. Iowa State Ins. Co., 119-29.

A tenant holding over after the expiration of his term is presumed to do so as tenant at will, and not under a covenant for renewal, unless the circumstances indicate an affirmative election to renew, rather than to hold as tenant at will. Andrews v. Marshall Creamery Co., 118-595.

The thirty days' notice in writing to terminate a tenancy at will is not required where the tenant does not occupy the premises with the assent of the landlord after the termination of the written lease. McClelland v. Wiggins, 109-673.

SEC. 2992. Landlord's lien.

Rent payable: When no time for payment of rent is fixed, it is not payable until the end of the term. Ingram v. Dutley, 123-188.

Nature and extent: The lien attaches to crops grown upon the leased premises, whether they are exempt from execution or not. The provision that the lien does not apply to property exempt from execution relates only to "any other personal property of the tenant which has been used on the premises during the term." Hipley v. Price, 104-282.

The lien commences as soon as the property intended to be kept on the premises as a part of the business of the tenant is brought thereon, and attaches to the property so brought as security for the payment of the rent for the entire term. Des Moines Nat. Bank v. Council Bluffs Sav. Bank, 150 Fed. 500.

Where the tenant, who subsequently became a bankrupt, retained possession after the termination of the lease under a contract to purchase, held that the landlord thereafter had no lien on the tenant's personal property for subsequently accruing rent on non-performance of the contract of sale, which was enforceable against the bankrupt's assets. Ibid.

While at common law a tenancy from year to year might be implied from a holding over under a written lease, which had expired, held that the provision of this section as to termination of a tenancy at will is applicable in such case, and while the tenant was bound to make payments according to the provisions of the written lease, the landlord did not have a lien for a longer time than that required for the termination of the tenancy by notice. German State Bank v. Herron, 111-25.

Under an executed contract of sale entitling the purchaser to possession, a notice to quit to a tenant in possession may properly be given by the purchaser. Willis v. Weeks, 129-525.

The parties to a tenancy may by mutual consent terminate the same at pleasure, and consent may be implied from conduct. If the lessor, with knowledge of the assignment of the lease, so deals with the parties that his consent to the assignment may properly be implied, it is sufficient to terminate the liability of the assignor. Brayton v. Boomer, 151-28.
renting of the premises for the time covered by the lease, and if he attempts to do, such a way as it is impracticable to determine what amount is due for the leased premises, he forfeits his entire lien. First Nat. Bank v. Flynn, 117-493.

The landlord has no right to the possession of the tenant's property under his lien until some part of the rent is actually due. Hitman v. Brigham, 117-70.

The lien for rent under an occupancy at will resulting from possession after the termination of a written lease attaches only for the length of time necessary to end a tenancy by notice, and not for an entire year, although the tenant has been holding over for more than a year, and the landlord's lien in such case is therefore inferior to a chattel mortgage executed on the tenant's property after the termination of the written lease and prior to the accrual of the rent for which the landlord's lien is claimed. German State Bank v. Herron, 111-25.

The landlord having a lien on the tenant's property may sue for its conversion. Church v. Bloom, 117-309.

The landlord will not be estopped from asserting his lien as against a purchaser from the tenant by reason of having previously failed to object to similar sales during the existence of prior leases, at least without knowledge of such previous sales being brought home to him. Ibid.

The landlord following the proceeds of the property on which he has a lien is confined to his remedy against the person receiving such proceeds and cannot recover for conversion as against one for whose benefit as surety such proceeds have been used. Overholser v. Christensen, 130-179.

The landlord may by his conduct estop himself by relying on his lien as against a purchaser from the tenant, but to constitute such estoppel it must appear that the purchaser has by payment, or otherwise, put himself in such a position as to suffer damage or injury from the action of the landlord in attempting to enforce his lien. Gardner v. Roach, 111-413.

The individual property of one member of a firm, which property is used and kept on the leased premises, is not subject to a landlord's lien for rent due from the firm. The lien and the remedy given the landlord are purely statutory, and the landlord must avail himself of them just as they are given. Ward v. Walker, 111-611.

Creditors claiming a lien upon a stock of goods of the tenant by a bill of sale and who do not take possession of the stock under such sale, are not personally liable to the landlord for rent as to which he has a lien on such stock. Hartwig v. Ives, 131-501.

Priority: A purchaser from the tenant of property used on the premises during the term takes subject to the lien of the landlord and cannot claim protection as a purchaser without notice. Hays v. Berry, 104-455.

One purchasing products of the farm from a subtenant takes subject to the landlord's lien against the original tenant. Beck v. Minnesota & Western Grain Co., 131-62.

Demand by the landlord against such purchaser is necessary before maintaining action against him for conversion. But such demand may be made by an agent. Ibid.

The period within which suit must be brought to enforce the landlord's lien as against a purchaser from the subtenant is to be determined by the terms of the landlord's contract with the original tenant. Ibid.

Where, in a proceeding to enforce a landlord's lien by attachment, employees of the tenant properly file their claims, under the provisions of Code § 4022, such claims take priority over the landlord's lien. Stuart v. Twining, 112-154.

Where exempt property covered by a chattel mortgage was left on the premises by the tenant at the end of his term, held, that the landlord acquired no lien thereon as against the mortgagee. Bacon v. Carr, 112-193.

A valid mortgage on personal property of a tenant, executed before the commencement of the term, creates a lien superior to that of the landlord. Gaemick v. Steffensen, 112-688.

Where a chattel mortgage on the property of the tenant is foreclosed, the landlord's lien may be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale. Dowie v. Christen, 116-364.

Where machinery was sold to the tenant and set up on the premises under an agreement that a chattel mortgage should be executed for the purchase price when the machinery was set up and accepted, held that such chattel mortgage took priority over the landlord's lien. Davis Gasoline Engine Co. v. McHugh, 115-415.

A purchase money mortgage given by a tenant as a part of the transaction for purchase by him of property taken onto the leased premises, is a prior lien to the landlord's claim for future accruing rent. Arnold v. Hewitt, 128-671.

Injunction: A landlord is entitled to an injunction to restrain the removal from the premises of property thereon to the prejudice of his lien, without a showing that the tenant is insolvent. Wallin v. Murphy, 117-640.

Attachment: Where rent has accrued, the landlord may resort to his remedy by attachment, following the procedure prescribed for ordinary attachments, and is not liable for wrongfully suing out an attachment, even though by reason of a counter claim, which is subsequently pleaded, no judgment for rent is secured. Smeaton v. Cole, 120-368.

In an action to enforce the landlord's lien by attachment the tenant cannot interpose by way of counterclaim, a claim for wrongful and malicious suing out of attachment. Ingram v. Dailey, 123-188.

The remedy by attachment is not compulsory. The landlord does not owe the tenant the duty of enforcing his lien against any specific portion of the property subject thereto nor does he deprive himself of the right to enforce his lien against property on which there is a junior incumbrance by omitting to enforce it against property not subject to such incumbrance. The doctrine of marshaling assets has no application in such case. Citizens Savings Bank v. Woods, 111 N. W. 929.

Waiver: If the landlord takes a mortgage on the property as a security for rent and other indebtedness, he waives his statutory lien for rent, and will not be entitled to enforce such lien against the property in the hands of the tenants trustee in bankruptcy. In re Wolf, 98 Fed. 74.

But the fact that there is a stipulation in the lease giving the landlord a lien in the nature of a mortgage upon exempt property of the tenant as security for the rent will not constitute a waiver of the statutory lien. Ladner v. Batsley, 105-674.

While the landlord may enforce his lien as against a purchaser from the tenant without notice, yet this right may be waived by an agent having apparent authority to represent him with reference to his interest in the property. Fishbaugh v. Sypuangle, 118-337.

No consideration for such waiver is necessary to support it as to a third party who acts in reliance thereon. Ibid.

SEC. 2993. Attachment.

The landlord's lien gives a right to the landlord to resort to appropriate proceedings to the property of the tenant subject to such lien to satisfy his demand for rent due, but the landlord is not bound to resort to an attachment for the preservation or enforcement of his lien. Staber v. Collins, 124-543.

No attachment can issue for the enforcement of the landlord's lien for rent not due. Gray v. Bremer, 122-110.

Where the landlord has several distinct causes of action against his tenant, only one of which is for rent, and he has blended his claims into one, he thereby waives the right to attachment. Ladner v. Batsley, 105-674.

While another action cannot be joined in a petition to enforce a landlord's lien for rent, yet where the tenant interposes a counter-claim, plaintiff may in reply set up other demands against the tenant which could not have been joined with the original cause of action. Hillsly v. Grayson, 105-685.

A counterclaim for wrongful and malicious suing out of a landlord's attachment cannot be interposed in the action in which the attachment is sought. Ingram v. Dailey, 123-188.

One who takes a mortgage on chattel property which is subject to a landlord's lien may take possession of the property under his mortgage so long as the landlord has not proceeded to enforce his lien by attachment of the property, but such attachment entitles the landlord to possession as against such mortgagee and he may under the attachment proceedings seize the property although the mortgagee has taken possession under the mortgage. Brody v. Cohen, 106-309.

An allegation that the sale of property by a tenant was fraudulent is immaterial, inasmuch as even a bona fide sale would not defeat the lien of the landlord's attachment. The landlord is not entitled to remedy by landlord's attachment as to property not subject to the landlord's lien. Hillman v. Brigham, 110-220.

Actual damages suffered by reason of the levy of a landlord's writ of attachment sued out when nothing is owing as rent, may be recovered as against the landlord suing out the attachment. Sgler v. Murphy, 107-128.

CHAPTER 10.

OF WALLS IN COMMON.

SECTION 2994. Resting wall on neighbor's land.

The terms "wall in common" and "party wall" are used synonymously, and neither term is of particular value in determining the meaning of the statutes relating to party walls. The words "party wall" may mean a wall of which the adjoining owners are tenants in common, and the words "wall in common" may mean a wall.
possessed in severalty by such owners. Primarily either term means a wall for the common benefit and convenience of both tenements which it separates. Lederer v. Colonial Investment Co., 130-157.

The statutory provisions as a whole are not to be construed so as to entitle either of the adjoining owners to extend his joists or timbers into the common wall beyond its center. Ibid.

Where the entire party wall erected by one owner is covered by and contributes to the support of a building subsequently erected by the adjoining owner, the latter is bound to pay for his share of the wall erected by the former. Monroe Lodge v. Albia State Bank, 112-487.

Where the first owner builds his wall of the material and dimensions required by the statute, and sufficient to carry his own and a similar building that may be erected by the adjoining proprietor, he is entitled to compensation for the share of the wall so erected, even though a cheaper wall would have been sufficient for the purpose of the adjoining owner. Ibid.

The fact that the wall stands on the boundary line between owners is of itself sufficient to put all parties on enquiry as to the rights of the respective owners, and neither is required to notify the grantee of the other that he claims an interest in the wall. Howell v. Goss, 128-569.

SEC. 2995. Contribution by adjoining owner.

It is one-half of the appraised value of the wall at the time the adjoining proprietor uses it that is to be charged to him, not its value to him, but its value as a common wall. Ordinarily such value is arrived at by ascertaining the reasonable cost of the wall, and deducting for any depreciation that may have occurred before the same is used by the contiguous owner. Monroe Lodge v. Albia State Bank, 112-487.

SEC. 2997. Repairs—expense apportioned.

Where the wall is torn down and rebuilt by one of the owners, not because of its defective condition, but in order to extend it to a greater height, the other owner is not bound to contribute to the expense unless he makes use of the additional height to his own advantage. Howell v. Goss, 128-569.

SEC. 2998. Beams, joists and flues.

The right to build a wall in part upon adjoining property and the right of the adjoining owner to make it a wall in common by paying a portion of the value thereof are both acquired by statute and cannot be controlled by contract. If the adjoining owner does not request flues to be constructed for his use he cannot insist upon using the flues which the builder of the wall has provided for his own use. Koolbeck v. Baughn, 126-194.

Neither owner has the right to so weaken the wall as to render it insufficient or unsafe for the other’s use. Lederer v. Colonial Investment Co., 130-157.

SEC. 2999. Height of wall—rebuilding.

Neither of the adjoining owners has a right to extend his joists or timbers beyond the center line of the common wall. Lederer v. Colonial Investment Co., 130-157.

Where only one of the joint owners desires to add to the height of his building, and to do this it is necessary to rebuild and enlarge the existing wall, he must do this at his own expense; but if the other joint owner subsequently desires to use the added portion of the new wall he must pay his fair proportion of the entire cost of raising and repairing. Howell v. Goss, 128-569.

SEC. 3000. Paying for share of adjoining wall.

An adjoining proprietor may make a wall built entirely on the other party’s lands a wall in common, by complying with the statutory provisions. Lederer v. Colonial Investment Co., 130-157.
§§ 3001-3004 EASEMENTS IN REAL ESTATE. Title XIV, Ch. 11.

SEC. 3001. Openings—fixtures.

The adjoining owner who subsequently asserts the right to use the party wall on payment of a portion of the cost, cannot make use of the flues which were not constructed at his request and the use of which will be detrimental to the owner who first constructed the wall. Koolbeck v. Baughn, 126-194.

CHAPTER 11.

OF EASEMENTS IN REAL ESTATE.

SECTION 3004. Adverse possession—use.

This section relates to titles by prescription, and not to those by dedication. Hanger v. Des Moines, 169-480.

The adverse possession of an easement cannot be predicated on proof merely of use. It must be established by evidence independent of use that the party claimed the easement as a right. Brown v. Peck, 125-624.

The fact of adverse possession must be established by evidence distinct from and independent of the use of the easement, and it must also appear that the person against whom the claim is made had express notice thereof. Friday v. Henah, 113-425.

The mere use of a right of way over another's land with knowledge thereof on the part of the latter, but without claim of right or title is insufficient to establish a right of way by prescription. McBride v. Bair, 112 N. W. 169.

The provision of this section does not prevent parol evidence of an intent by the grantor to create an easement and knowledge of such intent by the grantee. O'Reagan v. Duggan, 117-612.

The provisions of this section are not applicable to cases where dedication is claimed, and the use of the property may be shown as indicating such dedication. Dodge v. Hart, 113-685.
SECTION 3016. Repeal—bushel by weight. That section three thousand and sixteen (3016) of the supplement to the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted as a substitute therefor:

CHAPTER 2.
OF MONEY OF ACCOUNT AND INTEREST.

SECTION 3038. Rate of interest.

In the absence of contract to the contrary, money becoming due bears interest at the legal rate. Kellenberger v. Oska-boosa Nat. B., L. & I. Ass'n, 129-562.

A judgment may provide for interest on costs and attorney's fees as well as on the principal sum for which the judgment is rendered. Hoyt v. Beach, 104-257.

In recovering judgment under a policy of accident insurance providing for the payment of a fixed sum in the event of a specified loss, and also a weekly indemnity during disability, held, that judgment should not include any allowance of interest on the amount which it should be found the company was liable to pay. Hart v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n, 105-717.

Where treble damages are allowed to be recovered by way of penalty they should not be increased by adding interest on the amount of the recovery. Blair v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 109-369.

Where a claim is for unliquidated damages, interest may be taken into account as an element of damage in arriving at the sum which will be a just and lawful

Interest does not accrue on a continuous open account without any settlement or balance being ascertained. McFarland v. McCormick, 114-368.
The receipt of a bank pass book, showing balance due, without objection to charges therein, amounts to an account stated. Schoonover v. Osborne, 108-453.

In an action on an administrator's bond the sureties are liable for interest from the time the administrator fails to account in accordance with the order of the court. Ellyson v. Lord, 124-125.

SEC. 3039. On judgments and decrees.
The rate of interest named in a contract not applicable to interest thus allowed after the maturity of the contract in the absence of express agreement. Rew v. Independent School District, 125-28.

SEC. 3040. Illegal rate prohibited.

Where the agent of the lender, under the authority of his principal, receives for the benefit of the principal commission in addition to the lawful rate of interest, the contract is usurious. McNeely v. Ford, 103-508.

Whether or not the contract is usurious does not depend upon the form the transaction is made to assume. Courts always look beyond the mere form and search diligently for the substance and intent, and where the lender was to have the legal rate of interest for the money loaned, and in addition thereto one-half the discount which the borrower was able to secure on paying another debt by the use of the money borrowed, held that the contract was usurious. Weaver v. Burnett, 110-567.

Where renewal notes are given for the same debt, usury in the first or any intermediate note may be pleaded as against the last note. Polk County Sav. Bank v. Harding, 113-511.

Where on the renewal of a loan there is no perfect agreement or suggestion of any kind that the transaction is to be a settlement or composition of the borrower's claim for usury, but the net result of the transaction is to perpetuate the usurious nature of the contract, the right of the borrower to plead usury is not cut off. Hyland v. Phoenix Loan Ass'n, 118-401.

SEC. 3041. Usury—penalty.
The defense of usury is personal to the debtor and cannot be maintained by a stranger to the contract. Pardoe v. Iowa State Nat. Bank, 106-345.

Accordingly held that the right of action given against a national bank to recover usury paid and the penalty thereon (U. S. Rev. Stat. §§ 5197, 5198) was not available except to a party who had personally or out of his own means paid usurious interest. Ibid.
The plea of usury cannot be interposed by one who is neither a party to the contract nor authorized by the debtor to avail himself of such plea. Bacon v. Iowa Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 121-449.

SEC. 3042. Assignee.
The assignee whose right is saved to plead usury under this section is one who takes in good faith and holds with no knowledge of the taint. Spinney v. Miller, 114-219.

The defense of usury can be pleaded only by the borrower. Therefore the creditors of a bankrupt cannot set up the defense of usury against the claim of another creditor. In re Worth, 130 Fed. 927.
The defense of usury is as available to the debtor's trustee in bankruptcy as to the debtor himself. In re Stern, 144 Fed. 956.

Interest which has not been paid but only contracted for (covered for instance by notes not yet paid) cannot be recovered. Talbot v. First Nat. Bank, 106-361.

Interest which has not been paid but only contracted for (covered for instance by notes not yet paid) cannot be recovered. Talbot v. First Nat. Bank, 106-361.

SEC. 3043. Promissory notes negotiable.
The assignment of a negotiable instrument not transferable by delivery does not make the assignee a holder in due course who is entitled to take free from defenses available against the assignor. Hecker v. Boylan, 126-162.
SEC. 3044. Assignment of non-negotiable instruments.
The assignee gains no better rights by reason of the assignment than his assignor had at the time the assignment was made. Miller Brewing Co. v. Hansen, 104-307.

SEC. 3046. When assignment prohibited.
This section does not apply where plaintiff is in possession of the note on which suit is brought and the burden is upon him to show that it was transferred by the indorser while the owner thereof with intent to transfer title. Moehn v. Moehn, 105-710.

One who purchases a note and mortgage after maturity takes the same subject to all defenses or counter-claims of the mortgagee held against the mortgagee existing before notice of the transfer. While it is a general rule that the assignee of a mortgage securing paper overdue takes subject to all equities between the original parties, this rule does not apply to latent equities of third parties. Gibson v. McIntire, 110-417.

A verbal assignment of a chose in action is valid. Seymour v. Aultman, 109-297.
A certificate of a mutual benefit association cannot be transferred to a creditor so as to give him a right to the benefit fund if it is expressly provided in the certificate that it shall be non-assignable. Crocker v. Higin, 103-243.

The assignee is subject to all defenses which would have been available against the assignor. Thomsen v. De Goey, 133-278.

SEC. 3047. Open account assignable.
An open account of sums of money due on contract may be assigned, and the assignee will have a right of action thereon in his own name, subject to such defenses and counter-claims as are allowed against the instruments mentioned in the preceding section, before notice of such assignment is given to the debtor in writing by the assignee. But no sale or assignment, by the head of a family, of wages, whether the same be exempt from execution or not, shall be of any validity whatever unless the same be evidenced by a written instrument and if married unless the husband and wife, sign and acknowledge the same joint instrument before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments; and assignments of wages shall have priority and precedence in the order in which notice in writing of such assignments shall be given to the employer, and not otherwise. [20 G. A., ch. 183, § 2; C., ’73, § 2087; R., § 1799; C., ’51, § 952.] [31 G. A., ch. 148.]

These provisions are not applicable to the assignment of a chose in action. See Code §§ 3443 and 3461. Peterson v. Ball, 121-544.

SEC. 3049. Blank indorsement by one not a party.
A note bearing a blank endorsement by one not a party is notice to any one discounting it that the endorser is presumably an accommodation endorser, without consideration, and hence a mere guarantor. This presumption can, however, be rebutted. Lyon v. First Nat. Bank, 85 Fed. 120.

SEC. 3051. What entitled to grace.
Under Code § 3051 grace was allowed only on negotiable paper. Kilmer v. Gallaher, 118-596.

SEC. 3053. Holidays.
Sunday or any other day mentioned by this section as a holiday should not be excluded in estimating the three days within which a motion for new trial is to be filed. German Sav. Bank v. Cady, 114-228.
The days enumerated in this section as holidays with reference to presentation and dishonor of negotiable paper are also holidays within the provisions of Code § 2448, par. 9, forbidding sales of intoxicating liquors to be made on any legal holiday. See also Code § 3541, relating to appearance in an action. Brennan v. Roberts, 125-615.
SEC. 3054. Notice of protest.

Although the statute permits notice by mail to endorsers, the law requires presentation and demand in person, and letters written to the maker before the day of maturity demanding payment will not constitute sufficient demand to hold an indorser. Closs v. Miracle, 103-198.

SEC. 3056. When demand necessary.

This provision has no reference to the question as to admissibility of parol evidence to fix the time for performance of such contract. Ingram v. Dailey, 123-188.

In an action for failure to deliver property in compliance with a contract providing for payment to be made in property, demand for the property must be proved. Newburn v. Hyde, 132-88.

SEC. 3060-a. Sections of code repealed. The following enumerated sections of title fifteen (15) chapter three (3) of the code are hereby repealed: Sections three thousand and forty-three (3043), three thousand and forty-five (3045), three thousand and forty-nine (3049), three thousand and fifty (3050), three thousand and fifty-one (3051), three thousand and fifty-two (3052), three thousand and fifty-four (3054), and three thousand and fifty-five (3055). [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 197.]

CHAPTER 3-A.

OF NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

FORM AND INTERPRETATION.

SECTION 3060-a1. Form of negotiable instrument. An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements:
1. It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer.
2. Must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money.
3. Must be payable on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time.
4. Must be payable to the order of a specified person or to bearer; and,
5. Where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 1.]

(1) Other states: The writing may be in pencil. Brown v. Butchers' Bank, 6 Hill, 443.

(2) See section 3060-a3. May designate particular kind of money, see section 3060-a6, subdivision 5.

(Code section 3045, which permitted the instrument to be made payable in money or labor, is repealed.)

(3) As to when it is payable on demand, see section 3060-a7. When at a future time, see section 3060-a4.

(4) As to when it is payable to order, see section 3060-a8.

(5) See section 3060-a126.

SEC. 3060-a2. Certainty as to sum—what constitutes. The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning of this act although it is to be paid:
§§ 3060-a3-3060-a4 NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. Title XV, Ch. 3-A.

1. With interest; or
2. By stated installments; or
3. By stated installments, with a provision that upon default in payment of any installment, the whole shall become due; or
4. With exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or
5. With costs of collection or an attorney’s fee, in case payment shall not be made at maturity. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 2.]

(4) Iowa: This changes the rule in Iowa. Culbertson v. Nelson, 93-187.
(5) Iowa: See Bank v. Marsh, 89-273; Sperry v. Horr, 32-184. Amount is not rendered uncertain by stipulation that it may be reduced by showing overcharge. Green v. Austin, 7-521.
Other states: The rule adopted by the act is sustained by a great weight of authority outside of the decisions of this state. For some of them, supporting the rule, see Bank v. Sutton Mfg. Co., 6 U. S., App., 312, 331; Dorsey v. Wolff, 142 Ill., 589; Stone- man v. Fyle, 35 Ind., 103; Heard v. Dubuque Bk., 8 Neb., 10; Stark v. Olson, 44 Neb., 646.
For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 21.

SEC. 3060-a3. When promise is unconditional. An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning of this act, though coupled with:
1. An indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or
2. A statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument.
But an order or promise to pay out of a particular fund is not unconditional. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 3.]

(1) For authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 22.
(2) Iowa: Changes the rule in Iowa, Charlton v. Reed, 61-166; Knepper v. Chase, 7-145. See Miller v. Poage, 50-96.
Other states: In Mott v. Havana Nat. Bk., 22 Hun., 354, it is held, that the clause “in part payment for a portable engine, which engine shall be and remain the property of the owner of this note, until the amount hereby secured is paid,” did not destroy its negotiable character. The same as to a note containing provision “given in consideration of a certain patent right.” Hereth v. Meyer, 33 Ind., 511.
For additional citation of authorities, see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 22.

SEC. 3060-a4. Determinable future time—what constitutes. An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning of this act, which is expressed to be payable:
1. At a fixed period after date or sight; or
2. On or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or
3. On or before a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event, which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain.
An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 4.]

(2) Other states: See Mattison v. Marks, 31 Mich., 421; Buchanan v. Wren (Tex.), 30 S. W., 1077; Albertson v. Laughlin, 173 Pa. St., 525.
(3) Iowa: A note is not negotiable if made to mature when convenient. Works v. Hershey, 35-940; or at the option of the maker, Woodbury v. Roberts, 58-348.
Other states: A note payable in a certain number of days after the death of the maker, or upon demand after the death of the maker, is a good promissory note, because the event is sure to happen. Carnwright v. Gray, 127 N. Y., 92; Hegeman v. Moon, 131 N. Y., 462; Shaw v. Camp, 160 Ill., 425. But one payable when, or in a certain number of days after “A shall become of age,” is not negotiable, because uncertain as to whether A will live so long. Goss v. Nelson, 1 Burr, 226. Likewise one payable when a certain ship shall arrive. Coolidge v. Ruggles, 15 Mass., 397.
For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 23.

Iowa: No time of payment being specified, it is presumptively payable on demand. Bank v. Price, 52-570.

SEC. 3060-a5. Additional provisions not affecting negotiability. An instrument which contains an order or promise to do an act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which:

1. Authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or
2. Authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or
3. Waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of the obligor; or
4. Gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money.

But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 5.]

Iowa: Coupling mortgage with a negotiable note, authorizing mortgagee to take possession of chattel, but not to sell until after maturity of note, does not destroy negotiability. Bank v. Taylor, 67-572; distinguishing Smith v. Marlin, 59-645, holding provision by which debt was liable to be diminished before maturity, destroyed negotiability.

Other states: A mere statement that collateral security has been deposited for the performance of the promise contained in the note does not affect its negotiability. Wine v. Charlon, 4 A. & E., 486; Fancourt v. Thorne, 9 Q. B., 312. And so with a provision authorizing sale of collateral if note be dishonored. Perry v. Bigelow, 128 Mass., 129; Towne v. Rice, 122 Mass., 67; Biegler v. Merchants’ L. & T. C., 62 Ill. App., 560. The contrary is held as to this clause “given as collateral security with agreement.” Costello v. Crowell, 127 Mass., 293.

Iowa: Provision authorizing attorney to confess judgment is illegal and no part of note, and therefore does not destroy negotiability. Tolman v. Janson, 106-455.

This provision meets the requirements of some of the states where judgment notes are in use.

For authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 24.

Other states: This provision is designed to meet the practice in some states of inserting waiver of the benefits of homestead and exemption laws. See Zimmerman v. Anderson, 67 Pa. St., 421.

Other states: If the obligation to the maker to pay in money is certain, the right of the holder to elect to take payment in something other than money will not destroy its negotiable character. Hodges v. Shuler, 22 N. Y., 114.

SEC. 3060-a6. Omissions — seal — particular money. The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that:

1. It is not dated; or
2. Does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or
3. Does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or
4. Bears a seal; or
5. Designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made.

But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 6.]

Other states: See section 3060-a36. True date may be shown by parol evidence between the immediate parties. Bigge v. Piper, 86 Tenn., 589.

Other states: “Value received” not necessary. Daniel on Neg. Insts., section 108.

See sections 3060-a3; 3060-a23; and 3060-a77.
(4) Iowa: See Temple v. Hayes, Morris, 9.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 25, note (d).

(5) Iowa: Note made payable in property destroys negotiability. McCartney v. Smalley, 11-85. So with one payable in currency. Rindschff v. Barrett, 11-172; otherwise if shown that money was intended and so understood. Haddock v. Wood, 46-433; see Culbertson v. Nelson, 93-187.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 25, note (e).

A check payable in current funds is not a negotiable instrument. Dille v. White, 132-327.

SEC. 3060-a7. When payable on demand. An instrument is payable on demand:

1. Where it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight, or on presentation; or
2. In which no time for payment is expressed.

Where an instrument is issued, accepted or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing it, payable on demand. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 7.]

(1) For the distinctions between instruments payable on demand and those payable at sight, see Daniel on Neg. Insts., sections 617 and 619, and authorities there cited.

See notes to Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), Sec. 26, note (a).

(2) Iowa: A negotiable note transferred by indorsement after maturity is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing, payable on demand and must be presented to all the makers in person, or at their usual places of residence or business within a reasonable time after transfer, and notice of non-payment immediately given to bind the indorser. Graul v. Strutzle, 53-712; McKewer v. Kirtland, 33-348; Pryor v. Bowman, 38-92; Blake v. McMillen, 33-150; Bank v. Orvis, 40-332; Closs & Michelson v. Miracle, 103-198.

A draft or bill in which no time of payment is mentioned is, under the statutes, drawn payable on demand just as effectually as though the words “payable on demand” had been incorporated into it. Blank v. Price, 52-570.

Other states: As bearing on the text see Messmore v. Morrison, 172 Pa. St., 300; James v. Brown, 11 Ohio St., 601; Libby v. Mekelborg, 28 Minn., 38; Roberts v. Snow, 28 Neb., 425.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 26, note (b).

For other authorities relating to instruments issued, accepted or indorsed after maturity see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 26, note (c).

SEC. 3060-a8. When payable to order. The instrument is payable to order where it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of:

1. A payee who is not maker, drawer or drawee; or
2. The drawer or maker; or
3. The drawee; or
4. Two or more payees jointly; or
5. One or some of several payees; or
6. The holder of an office for the time being.

Where the instrument is payable to order, the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 8.]
Other states: The first clause of this section states the rule of the law merchant requiring the word order, or other word of similar import to render the instrument negotiable. Smith v. Kendall, 6 T. R., 123; Carnwright v. Gray, 127 N. Y., 92.

(2) See section 3060-a124. A note payable to the order of the maker requires the maker's indorsement to complete the same.

(5) For illustrations see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 27, note (a).

Other states: A note payable to certain persons as trustees of an incorporated association, or their successors in office, is negotiable. Davis v. Gore, 6 N. Y., 124. If the identity of the payee can be ascertained with certainty it is, though not designated by name. United States v. White, 2 Hill, 59; Blackman v. Lehman, 3 Ala., 547.

SEC. 3060-a9. When payable to bearer. The instrument is payable to bearer:

1. When it is expressed to be so payable; or
2. When it is payable to a person named therein or bearer; or
3. When it is payable to the order of a fictitious or non-existing person, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or
4. When the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or
5. When the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 9.]

See section 3060-a30.

(3) For a discussion and a criticism of the authorities bearing upon this division of the section by Mr. Crawford, the author of the original negotiable instruments law, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 28, note (b).

SEC. 3060-a10. Terms—when sufficient. The negotiable instrument need not follow the language of this act, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements thereof. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 10.]

Other states: It is not necessary that the instrument be written in the English language but it may be in a foreign language. Debbeian v. Gala, 64 Md. 262, 265; and may be in pencil as well as ink. Brown v. Butchers' Bank, 6 Hill, 443. For rule governing construction of ambiguous instruments, see section 3060-a17.

SEC. 3060-a11. Date—presumption as to. When the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement, as the case may be. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 11.]

Other states: Mistake in date may be shown between the immediate parties. Cowen v. Altman, 71 N. Y., 441. Where date is an impossible one, the law will adopt the nearest date. If dated Sept. 31, true date will be deemed to be Sept. 30. Wagner v. Kenner, 2 Rob. (La.), 120.

SEC. 3060-a12. Ante-dated and post-dated. The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is ante-dated or post-dated, provided this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 12.]

Other states: A post-dated bill or check may be negotiated before the day of its date. Browner v. McCordale, 8 Wend., 478.
For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 31.

SEC. 3060-a13. When date may be inserted. When an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him, the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 13.]

Other states: See the following sections; also see Redlich v. Doll, 54 N. Y., 233. For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 32, note (b).

SEC. 3060-a14. Blanks—when may be filled. Where the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has a prima facie authority to complete it by filling up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument when completed may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion, it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. But if any such instrument, after completion, is negotiated to a holder in due course it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 14.]

Other states: The leading authority upon the right of a person in possession to fill blanks when necessary to complete the instrument in a material particular is Russell v. Langstaffe, 2 Doug., 514. See Androscoggin Bank v. Kimball, 10 Cush., 373. If blank space is left for name of payee holder may fill with his own name. Boyd v. McCann, 10 Md., 118. The authority to complete the instrument, however, will not authorize the insertion of matter not essential to its completeness. Weyerhauser v. Dunn, 100 N. Y., 150.

The rule contained in the second clause of the section operates only where the instruction has been delivered; see the following section. As to rights of bona fide holder for value of such an instrument filled up contrary to agreement, see Redlich v. Doll, 54 N. Y., 234, 238.

For other authorities and a discussion of the rules adopted by this section, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 32, notes (a), (b) and (c).

Where one person signs a note in blank and delivers it to another for a specific purpose and the person to whom it is delivered with authority to fill the blanks for a specified amount fills out the blanks for an unauthorized amount and uses the instrument for an unauthorized purpose, the person whose name is inserted as payee is not a holder in due course and cannot recover against the original signer. Vander Ploeg v. Van Zunk, 112 N. W. 597.

SEC. 3060-a15. Incomplete instrument not delivered. Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated, without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder, as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 15.]

Iowa: Delivery to payee by third party without authority is not binding. Ware v. Smith, 62-159; but delivery by third party in violation of agreement is not a defense as against an innocent purchaser. Graff v. Logue, 61-704.

Other states: The instrument must be complete and perfect when issued, or else authority reposed in some one to supply the part required to complete it afterwards. Sedgwick v. McKim, 53 N. Y., 307, 313; Davis Sewing Mach. Co. v. Best, 105 N. Y., 59-67.
SEC. 3060-a16. Delivery—when effectual—when presumed. Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties, and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery, in order to be effectual, must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing, accepting or indorsing, as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course, a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him so as to make them liable to him, is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in the possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 16.]

Iowa: An alteration made after execution, before delivery without knowledge of surety, discharges surety from liability upon the note. Marsh v. Griffin, 42-403.

Other states: Delivery according to the purpose and intent of the parties is essential to its existence. Burson v. Huntington, 21 Mich., 416.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 35, notes (c) and (d).

SEC. 3060-a17. Construction where instrument is ambiguous. Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous, or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply:

1. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, references may be had to the figures to fix the amount.

2. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest, without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof.

3. Where the instrument is not dated, it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued.

4. Where there is conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument, the written provisions prevail.

5. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or a note, the holder may treat it as either, at his election.

6. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser.

7. Where an instrument containing the words “I promise to pay,” is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 17.]

(1) Iowa: No recovery at law can be had on a note which fails to state, in the body of it, the amount for which it is given. Marginal figures are no part of it, but a mere memorandum. Hollen v. Davis, 59-444.

Other states: Marginal figures are regarded as mere memoranda and no part of the instrument. Smith v. Smith, 1 R. L., 386.

(2) Other states: Knisley v. Sampson, 100 Ill., 54.

(4) Other states: But this rule does not permit of the rejection of any of the printed matter which, by any reasonable construction, may be reconciled with the written part. Miller v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 90 N. Y., 430.

(6) For rule as to irregular indorsers, see section 3060-a64.
(7) Other states: Monson v. Drakeley, 40 Conn., 559; Dart v. Sherwood, 7 Wis., 523.

SEC. 3060-a18. Liability of person signing in trade or assumed name. No person is liable on the instrument whose signature does not appear thereon, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. But one who signs in a trade or assumed name will be liable to the same extent as if he had signed in his own name. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 18.]

Other states: Presumption is that party takes instrument on the credit of the parties whose names appear thereon. Briggs v. Partridge, 64 N. Y., 363. A person may become a party to a bill or note by any mark or designation he chooses to adopt; provided it be used as a substitute for his name and he intends to be bound by it. DeWitt v. Walton, 9 N. Y., 574. See Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 37, where other authorities are cited.

SEC. 3060-a19. Signature by agent—authority—how shown. The signature of any party may be made by a duly authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose; and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 19.]

See Conroe v. Case, 74 Wis., 85. As to ratification of unauthorized signature see Bartlett v. Tucker, 104, Mass., 336; Paul v. Berry, 78 Ill., 158; Bank v. Marine Bank, 16 Wis., 120.

SEC. 3060-a20. Liability of person signing as agent, etc. Where the instrument contains, or a person adds to his signature, words indicating that he signs for or on behalf of the principal, or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized; but the mere addition of the words describing him as an agent, or as filling a representative character without disclosing his principal, does not exempt him from personal liability. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 20.]

Iowa: For the rule in Iowa in cases where the makers attempt to sign in representative capacity, merely adding, however, after their own signature, the words “President,” “Secretary,” “Trustee,” etc., see the following cases: Wing v. Glack, 4-73; Am. Ins. Co. v. Stratton, 59-697; Scrapper Co. v. Tuttle, 61-423; Lewis v. Tilton, 64-220; Hefner v. Brownell, 70-591; McCandless v. Belle Plaine Canning Co., 78-162; Lee v. Piccard, 85-639; Matthews v. Dubuque Mattress Co., 87-246; Day v. Ramsdell, 90-731; Savings Bank & Trust Co. v. Swan, 100-718.

Other states: But if the principal is plainly disclosed in the body of the instrument, one signing in a representative capacity, or as agent, is not personally liable. Whitney v. Inhabitants of Stow, 11 Mass., 308; Haskell v. Cornish, 13 Cal., 45; Little v. Bailey, 87 Ill., 239. And this would seem to be the rule adopted by this section of the act.

See Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 39, and notes thereto. See also Neg. Insts. Law, by Selover, section 24, and authorities cited.

Mr. Crawford, the author of the original draft of the act, in a note to section 39 of his work, says:

“In the original draft submitted to the Conference of Commissioners on Uniformity of Laws this section read as follows: ‘Where a person adds to his signature words indicating that he signs for or on behalf of a principal, or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument; but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent, or as filling a representative character, does not exempt him from personal liability. In determining whether a signature is that of the principal or of the agent by whose hand it is written, that construction is to be adopted which is most favorable to the validity of the instrument.’ This is the English rule, and was the rule in New York prior to the statute. Under that rule a person signing for or on behalf of a principal was not liable on the instrument, notwithstanding he had no authority to bind his principal. There was an implied warranty on his part that he possessed such authority, and if he did not he became liable upon such warranty for the damages resulting from the breach. Miller v. Reynolds, 92 Hun, 400. But no action could be maintained against him on the instrument when by its terms it did not purport to bind him. And his liability upon the implied warranty did not accompany the transfer of the instrument, unless the claim founded upon the warranty was also assigned to the person to whom the instrument was transferred. (Id.) The effect of the section, as it now stands, is to permit the holder to sue the agent on the instrument, if he was not duly authorized to sign the same on behalf of the principal.”

SEC. 3060-a21. Signature by “procuration”—effect of. A signature by “procuration” operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent in so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 21.]

See notes to section 40, Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.).

SEC. 3060-a22. Effect of indorsement by infant or corporation. The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation or by an infant passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation or infant may occur no liability thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 22.]

For authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 41, notes (a) and (b).

SEC. 3060-a23. Forged signature—effect of. Where a signature is forged or made without the authority of the person whose signature it purports to be, it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument, or to give a discharge therefor, or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto, can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party against whom it is sought to enforce such right is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 23.]

In the absence of an estoppel or of an adoption or ratification of the signature, no rights can be acquired by a bona fide or other holder under a forged signature, against the person whose name is forged. Mersman v. Werges, 3 Fed, 378; Butler v. Carne, 37 Wis., 61; Bank v. Adams, 91 Ind., 250; Bank v. Crafts, 4 Allen, 447; Wellington v. Jackson, 121 Mass., 157.

CONSIDERATION OF NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

SEC. 3060-a24. Presumption of consideration. Every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and every person whose signature appears thereon to have become a party thereto for value. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 24.]

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 50, note (a).

See also Neg. Inst. Law by Selover, sections 87, 117, 145, 150 and 179, and authorities there cited.

SEC. 3060-a25. Consideration—what constitutes. Value is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing debt constitutes value, and is deemed such, whether the instrument is payable on demand or at a future time. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 25.]

Iowa: An antecedent indebtedness is a sufficient consideration and a bona fide holder for value before maturity, of such a note is protected against latent equities. Robinson v. Lair, 31-9.

Other states: Railroad Co. v. Nat. Bank, 109 U. S., 14; Swift v. Tyson, 16 Pet., 1. These cases support the rule that a bona fide holder taking a negotiable instrument in payment of, or as security for an antecedent debt, is a holder for a valuable consideration, entitled to protection against all the equities between the antecedent parties. See also Bank v. Morse, 163 Mass., 381; Roberts v. Hall, 37 Conn., 265; Harold v. Kays, 64 Mich., 439; Spencer v. Sloan, 108 Ind., 183.

For other authorities and a discussion of the rule adopted by the act, giving the states in which the rule is changed, see notes to section 51 of Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.).

SEC. 3060-a26. What constitutes holder for value. Where value has at any time been given for the instrument, the holder is deemed a holder for value in respect to all parties who became such prior to that time. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 26.]

In a note to the section of the New York act, the author of the act says: "If a party be a bona fide holder for value of a bill before its acceptance, it is not essential to his right to enforce it against a subsequent acceptor, that an additional consideration should proceed from him to the drawee. The bill itself implies a representation by the drawer that the drawee is already in receipt of funds to pay, and his contract is that the drawee shall accept and pay according to the terms of the draft. The drawee can, of course, upon presentment, refuse to accept, and in that event, the only recourse of the holder is against the prior parties thereto; but in case the drawee does accept the bill, he becomes primarily liable for its payment, not only to the indorsees, but also to the drawer himself." Citing Heuertematte v. Morris, 101 N. Y., 70.

SEC. 3060-a27. When lien on instrument constitutes holder for value. Where the holder has a lien on the instrument, arising either from contract or by implication of law, he is deemed a holder for value to the extent of his lien. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 27.]

Other states: Continental Nat. Bk. v. Bell, 125 N. Y., 38, 42; Rogers v. Squires, 98 N. Y., 48.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 53.

SEC. 3060-a28. Effect of want of consideration. Absence of failure of consideration is a matter of defense as against any person not a holder in due course, and partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto, whether the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount or otherwise. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 28.]

[The New York act contains the word "or" in place of the-word "of" in first line.]

Other states: While the note itself is prima facie evidence of consideration, still as between the immediate parties, it is competent to show want of failure thereof. Corless v. Howe, 11 Gray, 123; Breneman v. Furnies, 90 Pa. St., 186. But burden of proof is on party alleging. Jennings v. Stafford, 1 Cush., 108. Failure of consideration does not affect the negotiability of the instrument. Dingman v. Ameink, 77 Pa., St., 114. The defense of want of consideration is governed by the lex loci. Herdic v. Roessler, 109 N. Y., 127, 133, 134. As to the matter of defense for partial failure of consideration, see Black v. Riguway, 121 Mass., 80.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 54, notes (a), (b) and (c).

As to when one is a holder in due course, see sections 3060-a26 to 3060-a29.

SEC. 3060-a29. Liability of accommodation party. An accommodation party is one who has signed the instrument as maker, drawer, acceptor, or indorser, without receiving value therefor, and for the purpose of lending his name to some other person. Such a person is liable on the instrument to a holder for value, notwithstanding such holder at the time of taking the instrument knew him to be only an accommodation party. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 29.]

Other states: The maker of an accommodation note lends his credit without instructions as to the manner of its use. Lenheim v. Wilnarding, 55 Pa. St., 73. He cannot set up want of consideration. Carpenter v. Bank, 106 Pa. St., 170-172. In respect to third persons, he is held to the character which he has assumed. Stephen v. Bank, 88 Pa. St., 157, 182-83. A mutual exchange of notes will not make them accommodation notes. Rice v. Grange, 131 N. Y., 146; Woman v. Frost, 52 N. Y., 422. But he may retract his indorsement, if he is an accommodation indorser at any time before the paper is negotiated. Berkeley v. Tinsley, 88 Va., 1001, 1004. The provision of the statute probably does not apply to corporations, which as a general rule are without power to bind themselves as accommodation parties. Bank v. Atkinson, 55 Fed. 465; Bank v. Bank, 13 N. Y., 309; Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass., 57.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 55, notes (a) and (b).

NEGOTIATION.

SEC. 3060-a30. What constitutes negotiation. An instrument is negotiated when it is transferred from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof if payable to bearer, if payable to order, it is negotiated by the indorsement of the holder, completed by delivery. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 30.]

Iowa: A note made payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery and needs no indorsement. Elliott v. Corbin, 4-564; Shelton v. Sherfey, 3 G. Gr., 108. A note payable to J. S. or order, and endorsed by payee to S. T. or bearer, becomes, in the hands of subsequent holders, the same as a note payable to bearer. (Id.) A note payable to order can not be transferred by mere delivery, but should be endorsed by the payee or sued in his name, or the name of his legal representative. Dawson v. Jewett, 4 G. Gr., 157. See Pearson v. Cummings, 28-344. A provision that a note is negotiable and payable at a certain place designated, does not affect its negotiability, nor prevent its negotiability elsewhere. Schoharie Co. Bk. v. Beward, 51-257. Wrongful, unauthorized indorsement confers no rights upon transferee. Thorpe Bros. & Co. v. Dickey, 51-676.

As to what instruments are payable to bearer, see section 3060-a9. As to what instruments are payable to order, see section 3060-a8.

Other states: Indorsement is usually made by writing name on the back of the instrument, but the place is not essential. Haines v. Dubois, 29 N. J. Law, 259. Indorsement alone without delivery conveys no title. Dann v. Norris, 24 Conn., 337; Middleton v. Griffith, 57 N. J. Law, 442.

For citation of other authorities, see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 60.

SEC. 3060-a31. Indorsement—how made. The indorsement must be written on the instrument itself or upon a paper attached thereto. The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 31.]

Iowa: The assignee of a promissory note, under a transfer made in the body of a separate instrument, executed for an independent purpose, is not the holder of a legal title, discharged of prior equities, within the meaning of the law merchant. Franklin v. Twogood, 18-518. The assignees of negotiable paper to be protected against equities existing between the original parties, must have acquired it by indorsement before maturity. A transfer, except by indorsement, even before maturity, carries no such consequences. Grimm v. Warner et al., 45-106. The prevailing rule in this state is, that indorsements of negotiable paper shall be made thereon under the hand of the indorser. Bettis v. Bristol, 56-41. An assignee, as distinguished from an indorsee, acquires no greater rights than the assignor had. Johnson v. Walker et al., 60-315.

Other states: Crosby v. Roub, 16 Wis., 616; Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick., 68; French v. Turner, 15 Ind., 59.

For citation of other authorities, see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 61, notes (a) and (b).

SEC. 3060-a32. Indorsement—must be of entire instrument. The indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable, or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorses severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument. But where the instrument has been paid in part, it may be indorsed as to the residue. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 32.]

Iowa: Prior to the act, an assignee of a note might sue in his own name, although only part of the amount was assigned to him. Cochran v. Glover, Morris, 151.

SEC. 3060-a33. Kinds of indorsement. An indorsement may be either in blank or special; and it may also be either restrictive or qualified, or conditional. [29 G. A., ch. 130, & 33.]

Other states: As to what is a special indorsement, see Rice v. Stearns, 3 Mass., 225; Reamer v. Bell, 79 Pa. St., 292. A blank indorsement may be converted into a special or full indorsement by the holder. See sec. 3060-a35. As to what are restrictive indorsements, see Power v. Finney, 4 Call, 411; White v. Nat. Bank, 102 U. S., 658; Hook v. Pratt, 78 N. Y., 371.

SEC. 3060-a34. Special indorsement—indorsement in blank. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer, and may be negotiated by delivery. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 34.]

SEC. 3060-a35. Blank indorsement—how changed to special indorsement. The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 35.]

Iowa: The holder of a note indorsed in blank may fill up the blank indorsement to himself, and thus recover as indorsee thereunder. Leland v. Parriott, 35-454; it then becomes a contract duly signed by the indorser. Bernard v. Barry, 1 G. Gr., 388; but the indorser of a note in blank cannot be bound by a contract of guaranty written over his indorsement. Belden v. Hann, 61-42.

Other states: Beekwith v. Angelí, 6 Conn., 317.

SEC. 3060-a36. When indorsement restrictive. An indorsement is restrictive which either:
1. Prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or
2. Constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or
3. Vests the title in the indorsee in trust for or to the use of some other person. But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 36.]

For other authorities, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 66.

SEC. 3060-a37. Effect of restrictive indorsement—rights of indorsee. A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right:
1. To receive payment of the instrument.
2. To bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring.
3. To transfer his rights as such indorsee, where the form of the indorsement authorizes him to do so.

But all subsequent indorsee acquire only the title of the first indorsee under the restrictive indorsement. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 37.]

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 67.

SEC. 3060-a38. Qualified indorsement. A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser's signature the words “without recourse” or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 38.]

Iowa: But an indorsement without recourse, as when transferred by delivery only, makes the transferrer liable upon implied warranty only to the extent, that the paper so transferred is genuine and not forged or fictitious; that it is of the kind or description which it purports to be; that the transferrer has done nothing and will do nothing to prevent its collection; that the parties to the instrument are sui juris, and capable of contracting; that it has not been paid, and that he has practiced no fraud upon the transferee in the matter of said transfer. Watson v. Chesire, 18-202; Allen v. Pegram, 18-163; Miller v. Dugan, 36-433; but such indorser is liable if he knew at the time of transfer that the note was worthless. Brown v. Zachary, 102-433.

Other states: An indorsement may be qualified by adding the words “without recourse” or similar words. Grant v. Fleming, 46 Pa. St., 140. A qualified indorsement, however, does not put the transferee on inquiry as to the equities between the original parties. Bisbing v. Graham, 14 Pa. St., 14.

See Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), section 68.

SEC. 3060-a39. Conditional indorsement. Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition, and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the conditions have been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated, will hold the same, or the proceeds thereof, subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 39.]

For note discussing this section and authorities, see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 69.

SEC. 3060-a40. Indorsement of instrument payable to bearer. Where an instrument, payable to bearer, is indorsed specially, it may nevertheless be further negotiated by delivery, but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as to make title through his indorsement. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 40.]

[The New York act does not contain the word “to” before the word “make” in line three.]

See Daniel on Negotiable Instruments, sec. 663-a696.

SEC. 3060-a41. Indorsement where payable to two or more persons. Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsers who are not partners, all must indorse unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 41.]

Other states: Ryhiner v. Feickert, 92 Ill., 305. A partner may indorse for the firm. Childress v. Emory, 8 Wheat., 642.

SEC. 3060-a42. Effect of instrument drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier. Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person, as “Cashier” or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation, it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer; and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation, or the indorsement of the officer. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 42.]

Other states: The rule stated in the text is supported by the following authorities. Bank v. Muskingum Bank, 29 N. Y., 619; Bank v. Hall, 44 N. Y., 395; Folger v. Chase, 18 Pick., 63. The extension of the rule to fiscal officers was deemed wise by the Commissioners. See statement of Mr. Crawford in his work, Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 72.

In an action on a certificate of deposit made payable to the cashier of the bank issuing the certificate named as such and endorsed by him as cashier to the plain-tiff, parol evidence is admissible to show that such person was the cashier of the defendant bank when such endorsement was made, and that he was acting in that capacity in transferring the certificate. Johnson v. Buffalo Center State Bank, 112 N. W. 165.

In such an action it is not competent for the defendant to show that the cashier was making use of his official title and authority in his own individual interest. Ibid.

The fact that the certificate thus issued and endorsed bore eight per cent. interest and that the plaintiff to whom it was endorsed transferred it instead of presenting it for payment, held insufficient to impute notice that it was not negoti-ated in the regular course of business. Ibid.

Where an instrument is drawn or endorsed to a person as cashier or president of a bank it is prima facie payable to the bank, and may be negotiated by either the endorsement of the bank or the endorsement of the officer. Griffin v. Erskine, 131-444.

SEC. 3060-a43. Indorsement where name is misspelled, et cetera. Where the names [name] of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled, he may indorse the instrument as therein described adding, if he thinks fit, his proper signature. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 43.]

Other states: Thus one who, while carrying on business on his own account in the name of a company, receives a note payable to the order of the company in the course of such business, may transfer the note by indorsing it in his own name. Bryant v. Eastman, 7 Cush., 111.

SEC. 3060-a44. Indorsement in representative capacity. Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity, he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 44.]

Other states: As to liability of executors and administrators, who accept or indorse, see Schmittler v. Simon, 101 N. Y., 554.

SEC. 3060-a45. Time of indorsement—presumption. Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 45.]

Other states: Mason v. Noonan, 7 Wis., 609. See sec. 3060-a52.

See also Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 75.

SEC. 3060-a46. Place of indorsement—presumption. Except where the contrary appears every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 46.]

Other states: An indorsement in Massachusetts of a note executed and payable in New York, is a Massachusetts' contract and governed by the law of that state. Glidden v. Chamberlain, 167 Mass., 486.

SEC. 3060-a47. Continuation of negotiable character. An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 47.]

Other states: The law is well settled that a note or bill negotiable in form, is negotiable as well after as before it becomes due. Nat. Bk. v. Texas, 20 Wall., 72; French v. Jarvis, 29 Conn., 347. But by indorsement after maturity, the instrument becomes according to legal effect, payable on demand, so far as the indorser is concerned; and presentment for payment must be made within a reasonable time, and due notice of dishonor given the indorser. Berry v. Robinson, 9 Johns, 121; Van Hoosen v. Van Alstyne, 3 Wend., 79; Patterson v. Todd, 18 Pa. St., 426.

Other authorities are cited in Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 77. See sections 3060-a119 to 3060-a125.

SEC. 3060-a48. Striking out indorsement. The owner may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out, and all indorsers subsequent to him, are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 48.]
Title XV, Ch. 3-A. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. §§ 3060-a49-3060-a52

Iowa: The holder of a negotiable note is presumed to have the beneficial interest in it and being the payee, may strike out any indorsement on it. Gordon v. Pitt, 3-385; the possession of a note by plaintiff, the payee thereof, is presumed to be rightful, and the erasure of an indorsement thereon will be deemed to have been made by due authority. Goddard v. Cunningham, 6-400; to the same effect. Palmer v. State, Bank, 19-112. See also 15-380.

Other states: The holder may strike out all intervening indorsements, and aver that the first blank indorser indorsed immediately to himself. Byles on Bills, 149; Preston v. Mann, 25 Conn., 127. This may be done at the trial and after the plaintiff has finished his case. Vanarsdale v. Hax, 107 Fed. 878.

Other authorities are cited in Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 78.

SEC. 3060-a49. Transfer without indorsement—effect of. Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferee had therein, and the transferee acquires, in addition, the right to have the indorsement of the transferer. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 49.]

Iowa: A transferrer by delivery for value of a note impliedly warrants it to have received no material alteration prior to such transfer. Snyder v. Reno, 38-329; see Miller v. Dugan, 36-433.

SEC. 3060-a50. When prior party may negotiate instrument. Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party, such party may, subject to the provisions of this act, reissue and further negotiate the same, but he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 50.]

Iowa: The signer of a note as security, who subsequently takes it up may reissue the note as often as he takes it up. Wilkerson v. Daniels, 1 G. Gr., 180; an accommodation note, having once been discounted and taken up by accommodated party, does not become void, but may be transferred to a third party before maturity, discharged of equities existing between original parties, notwithstanding second indorser's knowledge of its character, and that it has once been indorsed and taken up. Washington Bank v. Crum, 15-53.

RIGHTS OF HOLDER.

SEC. 3060-a51. Right of holder to sue—payment. The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 51.]

Other states: This rule holds good even when restrictively indorsed. See section 3060-a37. Where plaintiff is the payee the production of the paper is sufficient. Williams v. Holt, 170 Mass., 381.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 90.

SEC. 3060-a52. What constitutes a holder in due course. A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions:

1. That the instrument is complete and regular upon its face.
2. That he became the holder of it before it was overdue, and without notice that it had been previously dishonored, if such was the fact.
3. That he took it in good faith and for value.
4. That at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 52.]

(1) Other states: To determine the character of an indorsee as a bona fide holder for value without notice, the point of time at which he parts with his money, is the important fact. If the paper was then on its face irregular—out of the usual course of business—the effect of that knowledge on the indorsee could not be prevented by subsequently putting it in regular shape. Loose v. Bissell, 76 Pa. St., 459, 462.

As to incomplete instruments and authority to fill up blanks therein see section 3060-a14, supra.

(2) Iowa: A transfer by indorsement is presumed to have been for a valuable consideration and before maturity. Rea v. Owen, 37-262; an assignee of a note and mortgage who takes, without notice, subsequent to an agreement for extension, and subsequent to the original date of maturity, takes it "after due" in such sense that he acquires no right which his assignor, could not have claimed and enforced. Duncan v. Posen, 79-558.

Other states: Marsh v. Marshall, 53 Pa. St., 396. A promissory note matures when, by its terms, the principal becomes due; and one who purchases it in good faith, for value, before maturity, is within the protection of the law merchant, although interest is overdue at the time of such purchase. Kelly v. Whitney, 45 Wis., 110. But see Hart v. Stickney, 41 Wis., 650; Newell v. Gregg, 51 Barb., 253. But a note payable in installments is overdue when the first installment is overdue and unpaid, and one who takes it afterwards, takes it subject to all equities between the original parties. Vinton v. King, 4 Allen, 562. A transfer upon the day of maturity is before the instrument is overdue; for the principal debtor has the whole of that day in which to pay. Continental Nat. Bank v. Townsend, 87 N. Y., 8. But see Sargent v. Southgate, 5 Pick., 312; Pine v. Smith, 11 Gray, 38. A check deposited with a bank on the day of its date cannot be considered overdue when so deposited. Bank v. Manson, 168 Mass., 425.

(3) Iowa: A holder of a note as collateral security for an antecedent indebtedness, and with no extension of time, is not a holder for value. Noteboom v. Watkins, 16-550; one who receives a bona fide holder, with no present equivalency in law for a pre-existing debt without giving any new consideration, or incurring any additional responsibility. Bank v. Hall, 106-540. See Johnson v. Barney, 1-531; Stotts v. Byers, 17-303. That a promissory note was obtained by fraud will not affect the right of a bona fide holder thereof, to whom it was indorsed before maturity, nor that such holder purchased it for a considerably less amount than its face. Sully v. Goldsmith, 82-397.

(4) Iowa: A bona fide holder of a note made payable to a fictitious payee may recover of the maker. Lane v. Krekle, 22-399. One not a bona fide holder for value before maturity but merely holding for the payee and not in his own right, is not protected. Bank v. McNulty, 36-229; nor is an assignee in insolvency. Roberts v. Corbin, 26-315; and one who holds under a transfer made in the body of a separate instrument executed for an independent purpose is not the holder of a legal title discharged of prior equities, within the meaning of the law merchant. Franklin v. Truegood, 18-515. But the holder of a note under purchase at judicial sale and without a notice is a bona fide purchaser. Allison & Crane v. King, 21-302.

Other states: As to what constitutes notice, see sec. 3060-a56, infra.

For other authorities under each of these propositions, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 91.

One whose name is inserted in a blank instrument as payee without authority of the original signer is not a holder in due course. A holder in due course is one to whom the instrument is transferred after it has become effectual as a negotiable instrument. Vander Ploeg v. Van Zouh, 112 N. W. 807.

SEC. 3060-a53. When person not deemed holder in due course. Where an instrument payable on demand is negotiated an unreasonable length of time after its issue, the holder is not deemed a holder in due course. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 53.]

Other states: As to what constitutes reasonable time, see section 3060-a193. No absolute measure can be fixed. A day or two. Field v. Nickerson, 13 Mass., 131, 137; seven days. Thornton v. McKen, 6 Mass., 428; and even a month. Ranger v. Corey, 1 Metc., 309, is not too long; while eight months, Bank v. Jenness, 2 Metc., 288; Ayres v. Hutches, 4 Mass., 370; three months and a half, Stevens v. Brice, 21 Pick., 193; and even two months and a half, Loose v. Durkin, 7 J. R., 70, have been deemed sufficient to discredit a note.

SEC. 3060-a54. Notice before full amount paid. Where the transferee receives notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same before he has paid the full amount... agreed to be paid therefor, he will be deemed a holder in due course only to the extent of the amount theretofore paid by him. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 54.]

Other states: Dresser v. Missouri, etc., R. R. Construction Co., 93 U. S., 93.

SEC. 3060-a55. When title defective. The title of a person who negotiates an instrument is defective within the meaning of this act when he obtained the instrument, or any signature thereto, by fraud, duress, or force and fear, or other unlawful means, or for an illegal consideration, or when he negotiated it in breach of faith, or under such circumstances as amount to a fraud. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 55.]

Other states: Commercial paper executed under duress is void, even though there may be some consideration to support it. Magoon v. Reber, 76 Wis., 392. The fraud in putting the paper in circulation must be a fraud against the defendant. Kinney v. Kraus; 28 Wis., 183.

For other authorities see note to Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 94.

SEC. 3060-a56. What constitutes notice of defect. To constitute notice of an infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same, the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect, or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 56.]

Iowa: Certain facts held not to constitute notice of infirmity. Pond v. Agricultural Works, 58-596; the rule stated to be that, the circumstances coming to the knowledge of the purchaser before the purchase must be such as to require that he shall in good faith, inquire as to the validity of the note, and it is only where the failure to inquire evinces actual bad faith, that such notice is sufficient. Merrill v. Hole, 85-86; Cook v. Weirman, 51-561; Lake v. Reed, 29-258. Circumstances and inference therefrom may be sufficient to charge purchaser with notice. Trustees, etc., v. Hill, 12-482; Hoffman v. Leibfarth, 51-711. See Hawkins v. Wilson, 71-762. Knowledge of the transferrer is not imputable or chargeable to the purchaser. Stutzman v. Payne, 23-17.

Other states: In a note to the corresponding section Mr. Crawford says: "The holder is not bound at his peril to be on the alert for circumstances which might possibly excite the suspicion of wary vigilance; he does not owe to the party who puts the paper afloat the duty of active inquiry in order to avert the imputation of bad faith. The rights of the holder are to be determined by the simple test of honesty and good faith, and not by a speculative issue as to his diligence or negligence. The holder's rights cannot be defeated without proof of actual notice of the defect in title or bad faith or both of the circumstances. Though he may have been negligent in taking the paper, and omitted precautions which a prudent man would have taken, nevertheless, unless he acted malafide, his title, according to settled doctrine, will prevail. Cheever v. Pittsburgh, Shenango & Lake Erie R. R. Co., 150 N. Y., 59, 65; American Exchange Nat. Bk. v. New York Belting, etc., Co., 148 N.Y., 765; Knox v. Eden Musee Am. Co., 148 N. Y., 454; Canajoharie Nat. Bk. v. Diefendorf, 123 N. Y., 202; Vosburgh v. Diefendorf, 119 N. Y., 357; Jarvis v. Manhattan Beach Co., 148 N. Y., 652; Murray v. Lardner, 2 Wall., 110; Swift v. Smith, 102 U. S., 442; Belmont v. Hoge, 35 N. Y., 65; Welsh v. Sage, 47 N. Y., 143; Bank v. Young, 41 N. J. Eq., 531; Bank v. Bank, 48 N. J. Law, 513; Phelan v. Moss, 67 Pa. St., 59; Moorehead v. Gilmore, 77 Pa. St., 118; Bank v. Morgan, 165 Pa. St., 199. While gross carelessness will not, as a matter of law, defeat title in purchaser for value, it may constitute evidence of bad faith. Bank v. Diefendorf, 123 N. Y., 191. The payment of value is a circumstance to be taken into account with other facts in determining the good faith of the purchaser, but it is not conclusive. Cunningham v. Scott, 90 Hun., 410, 411. The mere fact that the holder for value of a promissory note made by a third party receives it from a person engaged in the note brokerage business, as collateral security for a loan to such broker, is not sufficient to raise a doubt as to the authority of the broker to so deal with the note. Bank v. New York Belting & Packing Co., 148 N.Y., 698. And a bank has a right to assume as to notes offered to it, whether for discount or as collateral security, by a customer who has an account with it, and who is in the habit of borrowing money from it, that the customer is acting in good faith, and within his lawful rights. (Id.)
The fraudulent misappropriation by the broker of the proceeds of the discount is not sufficient to put the holder to the proof of his bona fide. Sloan v. The Union Banking Co., 87 Pa. St., 470.

One who receives the notes of a corporation from one of its officers in payment of, or as security for, a personal debt of such officer, does so at his peril. Prima facie, the act is unlawful, and, unless actually authorized, the purchaser will be deemed to have taken them with notice of the rights of the corporation. Wilson v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., 120 N. Y., 145, 150. And where the maker of a note which is payable to his order and purports to be indorsed by a corporation, procures it to be discounted for his own benefit, this of itself, if unexplained, is not noticed that the indorsement is not made in the usual course of business, but is for the accommodation of the maker. Bank v. German-Am. Mut. Warehousing & Security Co., 116 N. Y., 281.

SEC. 3060-a57. Rights of holder in due course. A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defect of title of prior parties, and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 57.]

Iowa: That defendants were accommodation makers is no defense to an action by an indorsee, though received by plaintiff with knowledge of that fact, if note was taken in good faith for value in the usual course of business. Winters v. Home Ins. Co., 30-172; nor is the rule changed by the fact that it was negotiated by one of the makers, the real debtor instead of the payee. Id. In the absence of statutes permitting same, fraud cannot be set up against a note in the set up against a note in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Temple v. Hays & Hendershot, Morris, 9; Lake v. Reed, 29-258; Lehman v. Press, 106-389; Wright, Dryden & Co. v. Flynn, 33-159. Duress not a defense against a bona fide holder for value. Veatch v. Thomson, 15-380. Latent infirmities no defense against bona fide holder. Gage v. Sharp, 24-15. County bonds issued without authority are invalid in hands of purchaser. Hall v. Argalla v. County of Marshall, 12-142. Forgery, in its execution, renders paper invalid even in the hands of an innocent holder for value before maturity. Caulkins v. Whieler, 29-495; First Nat Bk. v. Zeins, 93-140.

Other states: In a case construing this section of the Negotiable Instruments Law it has been held that under this law a bona fide holder may enforce a promissory note against the maker even though the note was given for a gambling debt, and that this statute has repealed the English statutes which were formerly in force in the District of Columbia. In the opinion, Alvey, C. J., says: "We know, moreover, that the great and leading object of the act, not only with congress, but also with the large number of the principal commercial states of the Union that have adopted it, has been to establish a uniform system of law to govern negotiable instruments wherever they might circulate or be negotiated. It was not only uniformity of rules and principles that was designed, but to embody in a codified form, as fully as possible, all the law upon the subject, to avoid conflict of decisions, and the effect of mere local laws and usages that have heretofore prevailed. The great object sought to be accomplished by the enactment of the statute, to free the negotiable instrument, as far as possible, from all latent or local infirmities that would otherwise inhere in it to the prejudice and disappointment of innocent holders as against all parties to the instrument professionally bound thereby. This clearly could not be effected so long as the instrument was rendered absolutely null and void by local statutes, as against the original maker or acceptor, as is the case by the operation, indeed, by the express provision, of the statutes of Charles and Anna." Wirt v. Stubplefield, 17 App. Cas. D. C, 283.

See Cromwell v. County of Sac, 96 U. S., 60.

For other authorities see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 96.

SEC. 3060-a58. When subject to original defenses. In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course, a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were non-negotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course, and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument, has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 58.]

Mr. Crawford says in a note to section 97 of his work: "It was not deemed expedient to make provision as to what equities the transferee will be subject to; for the matter may be affected by the statutes of the various states relating to set-off and counterclaim. In an act designed to be uniform in the various states, no more can be done than fix the rights of holders in due course. On the question whether only such equities may be asserted as attach to the bill, or whether equities arising out of collateral matters may also be asserted, the decisions are conflicting. In England it was decided in Burroughs v. Moss, 10 Barn. & Cress., 558, that the indorsee of an overdue bill is liable to such equities only as attach on the bill or note itself, and not to claims arising out of collateral matters, such as general set-off is. This is a leading case, and has since been uniformly followed in that country."

Other states: See also Long v. Rhawn, 75 Pa. St., 128; Young v. Shriner, 80 Pa. St., 469; Robinson v. Lymon, 10 Conn., 31. A person to whom the instrument is transferred as a gift, takes it subject to all the equities then existing between the original parties, but not subject to those which arise thereafter. Bank v. Wood, 128 N. Y., 33; Baxter v. Little, 6 Met., 7.

SEC. 3060-a59. Who deemed holder in due course. Every holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. But the last mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 59.]

Other states: The presumption is that the indorsee of negotiable paper receives it bona fide and for value. Gray's Admr. v. Bank, 29 Pa. St., 365. The holder may make out his title by presumption until it is impeached by evidence showing that the paper had a fraudulent or illegal inception. This being done, however, it devolves upon him to show the circumstances under which it came into his possession, and that he has acted in good faith. Canajoharie Nat. Bk. v. Diefendorf, 123 N. Y., 191; Joy v. Diefendorf, 130 N. Y., 6; Sullivan v. Langley, 120 Mass., 437; Bank v. Iron Works, 159 Mass., 158; Hutchinson v. Boggs & Kirk, 28 Pa. St., 294; and other authorities cited in Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 98.

One claiming to be the holder in due course and protected against the defense of fraud in the execution of the instrument has the burden of proving that he acquired title as such holder in due course, i. e., in good faith and for value, without notice. Keegan v. Rock, 128-39.

LIABILITIES OF PARTIES.

SEC. 3060-a60. Liability of maker. The maker of a negotiable instrument by making it engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 60.]

Other states: The fact that the holder had other collateral securities for the same debt more than sufficient to cover it, from which, however, the debt had not been realized, is not a ground of defense on the part of the maker. Lord v. Bank, 20 Pa. St., 384.

SEC. 3060-a61. Liability of drawer. The drawer by drawing the instrument admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse, and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted or paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored, and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder, or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negativing or limiting his own liability to the holder. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 61.]

Other states: The transmission of a draft by mail by payee and its loss is not discovered for six months, discharges drawer. Bank v. Farnsworth (N. D.), 72 N. W. 901. But a knowledge of the facts and a new promise to pay by drawer waives his right to a discharge. Id.

SEC. 3060-a62. Liability of acceptor. The acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance, and admits:
1. The existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature, and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and
2. The existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 62.]

(1) Other states: The discounting of a bill by the drawee who has not accepted it is neither payment nor a promise to pay according to its tenor and effect, but puts him in the position of an indorsee for value with the right of action against drawer and indorser. Swope v. Ross, 40 Pa. St., 186; Bank v. Bank, 46 N. Y., 77; Bank v. Bank, 59 N. Y., 67; Bank v. Bank, 10 Wheat., 333.

Numerous other authorities are cited by Mr. Crawford in his work on the Negotiable Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 112.

SEC. 3060-a63. When person deemed indorser. A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as maker, drawer or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 63.]

See section 3060-a17, subdiv. 6, supra.

SEC. 3060-a64. Liability of irregular indorser. Where a person, not otherwise a party to an instrument, places thereon his signature in blank before delivery, he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules:
1. If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person, he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties.
2. If the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer.
3. If he signs for the accommodation of the payee, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 64.]

Other states: This section is intended to cover irregular indorsements. The decisions upon this subject are very conflicting. In some jurisdictions the person placing his signature on the back of a note before the payee has indorsed it, was deemed a joint maker. Good v. Martin, 95 U. S., 93. In other jurisdictions he was regarded as a guarantor and in still others an indorser.

For a discussion of the question and citation of additional authorities, see Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 114.

SEC. 3060-a65. Warranty where negotiation by delivery, et cetera. Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by qualified indorsement, warrants:
1. That the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be.
2. That he has a good title to it.
3. That all prior parties had capacity to contract.
4. That he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless.

But when the negotiation is by delivery only, the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee. The provisions of subdivision three of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities, other than bills and notes. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 65.]

Other states: This, of course, refers only to the implied warranty. An express warranty may be so framed as to exclude all other warranties which would otherwise be implied by the law. Giffert v. West, 37 Wis., 216. See the following section.
As to implied warranty as to the identity of the thing sold, see Meyer v. Richards, 163 U. S., 385.

(3) Other states: One who indorses a promissory note purporting to be executed by a firm, thereby impliedly contracts that the note was made by the firm in whose name it is executed, and he cannot dispute the fact in an action upon the indorsement. Dalrymple v. Hillenbrand, 62 N. Y., 5. And a second indorser cannot dispute the legal capacity of the payee to indorse on the ground that she was a married woman. Bank v. Caverly, 7 Gray, 216, 217. And one indorsing a note of a corporation admits its capacity to execute the note. Glidden v. Chamberlin, 167 Mass., 486.

(4) Other states: As to implied warranty that the note is unpaid, see Daskman v. Ullman, 74 Wis., 474. And an instrument void for usury transferred without indorsement or representation as to its legality, action cannot be sustained against the vendor without alleging and proving scienter. Littauer v. Goldman, 72 N. Y., 506; Meyer v. Richards, 163 U. S., 338. Otis v. Cullom, 92 U. S., 448, is an action against the vendor of municipal bonds payable to bearer, afterward held void because the legislature had no power to pass the acts under which they were issued. It was held no recovery could be had in the absence of an express warranty.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 115.

The statutory provision as to the warranty implied in negotiating an instrument by delivery or qualified indorsement has no application where the question is as to whether the instrument has been accepted in satisfaction of an indebtedness. Dille v. White, 132-327.

SEC. 3060-a66. Liability of general indorser. Every indorser who indorses without qualification, warrants to all subsequent holders in due course:

1. That matters and things mentioned in subdivisions one, two and three of the next preceding section; and

2. That the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting. And, in addition, he engages that on due presentment, it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored, and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder, or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 66.]

(2) Other states: Parol evidence of an agreement which would vary the legal liability of the indorser under his indorsement is inadmissible. Eaton v. McMahon, 42 Wis., 484. And while there has been some conflict in the decisions, the sounder doctrine puts all indorsements on substantially the same footing. The contract by bank indorsement is fixed by law, and should not be rendered uncertain by parol, any more than when written out in full. Charles v. Denis, 42 Wis., 56, 58. This is the rule adopted in the statute, which makes the indorser's obligation absolute.

Other authorities are to be found in note to sec. 116, Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.).

SEC. 3060-a67. Liability of indorser where paper negotiable by delivery. Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 67.]

Other states: The holder of paper payable to bearer and indorsed may sue upon it as bearer or indorsee at his election. Daniel on Neg. Insta., sec. 663-a; 3 Kent's Comm., 44.

In some states a note payable to a designated payee or bearer cannot be negotiated except by the indorsement of such person. See Garvin v. Wiswell, 83 I11., 218; Blackman v. Lehman, 63 Ala., 547.

SEC. 3060-a68. Order in which indorsers are liable. As respects one another, indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse: but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 68.]

Other states: This rule is general and applies to accommodation indorsers as well as to others. Such indorsements impart, not a joint, but a several and successive liability, each indorser being responsible to all who succeed him. Easterly v. Barber, 66 N. Y., 433; Kelley v. Borroughs, 102 N. Y., 93; McCarty v. Roots, 21 How. (U. S.), 432; Shaw v. Knox, 98 Mass., 214; Howe v. Merrill, 15 Cush., 88; Russ v. Sadler, 197 Pa. St., 51.

See Crawford’s Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 118.

SEC. 3060-a69. Liability of agent or broker. Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement, he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section sixty-five of this act, unless he discloses the name of his principal, and the fact that he is acting only as agent. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 69.]

PRESENTMENT FOR PAYMENT.

SEC. 3060-a70. Effect of want of demand on principal debtor. Presentment for payment is not necessary in order to charge the person primarily on the instrument; but if the instrument is, by its terms, payable at a special place, and he is able and willing to pay it there at maturity, such ability and willingness are equivalent to a tender of payment upon his part. But, except as herein otherwise provided, presentment for payment is necessary in order to charge the drawer and indorsers. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 70.]

Iowa: The failure of the plaintiff to demand payment at the specified place will not excuse the defendant or maker from providing for its payment. Myers v. Byington, 34-205; Games v. Manning, 2 G. Gr., 251; Barker v. Brink, 4 G. Gr., 59. To charge an indorser presentment, demand and notice must be given and shown by affirmative proof. Bank of Red Oak v. Orvis, 40-332. If there are joint makers, presentment and demand must be made upon all. Id. In absence of notice of dishonor, the institution of suit against makers is not sufficient to charge indorser. Kaster & Skinner v. Hock, Musser & Co., 11-536. In case of transfer after maturity, demand and notice must be given within reasonable time to charge indorser. Jones v. Middleton, 29-188; Pryor v. Bow- man, 38-92.

Other states: As to there being no necessity for presentment to charge person primarily liable, see Howard v. Boorman, 17 Wis., 459; Hills v. Place, 48 N. Y., 520.

The rule adopted generally in the United States is that where a note is made payable at a particular bank or place, or a bill of exchange is drawn or accepted payable in like manner, it is not necessary in order to recover of the maker or acceptor to aver or prove presentment or demand of payment at such place on the day the instrument became due or afterward. The only consequence of a failure to make such presentment is that the maker or acceptor if he was ready at the time and place to make the payment, may plead the matter in bar of damages and costs. Parker v. Stroud, 98 N. Y., 379, 384; Cox v. Nat. Bk., 100 U. S., 713.

A draft drawn in another state, by one residing there, upon a party residing in this state, legal questions in reference to presentation and demand are to be determined by the laws of this state. Sylvester v. Crohan, 138 N. Y., 494; Bank v. Laemb, 84 N. Y., 367.

SEC. 3060-a71. Presentment where instrument is not payable on demand. Where the instrument is not payable on demand, presentment must be made on the day it falls due. Where it is payable on demand, presentment must be made within a reasonable time after its issue, except that in the case of a bill of exchange, presentment for payment will be sufficient if made within a reasonable time after the last negotiation thereof. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 71.]

Iowa: Protest and notice of dishonor given on the day following expiration of days of grace too late to charge indorser. Barker & Griffith v. Webster & Wells, 10-
593. A presentment for payment before the last day of grace is premature, the note not being due until then.

Edgar v. Greer, 8-394.

As to date of maturity, see sec. 3060-a85.

For citation of authorities under this section, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 131.

While the court may sometimes determine the reasonableness or unreasonableness of delay in presentment of a negotiable instrument as a matter of law, the question is ordinarily one of fact. If the drawer knows that the payee desires to make use of the draft for a particular purpose involving some delay in presentation for payment, he cannot complain of the delay reasonably contemplated. West Branch State Bank v. Haines, 112 N. W. 552.

Where the draft passes through the hands of several endorsees, no one of whom is guilty of unreasonable delay, the fact that it is not presented within the time allowed for presentation by the original payee does not defeat recovery against the drawer. Ibid.

Where a bank check has been transferred, demand of payment is within a reasonable time if made through an intermediate bank, according to a general custom with reference to the collection of checks on small banks through other banks. Plover Savings Bank v. Moodie, 110 N. W. 29; 113 N. W.—.

SEC. 3060-a72. What constitutes a sufficient presentment. Presentment for payment, to be sufficient, must be made:

1. By the holder, or by some person authorized to receive payment on his behalf.
2. At a reasonable hour on a business day.
3. At a proper place as herein defined.
4. To the person primarily liable on the instrument, or if he is absent or inaccessible, to any person found at the place where the presentment is made. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 72.]

Other states: As to when possession of a negotiable instrument is sufficient evidence of a right to present and demand payment, see Shedd v. Brett, 1 Pick., 401. And payment to such person will always be valid unless he is known to the payee to have acquired possession wrongfully. Daniel on Neg. Insts., sec. 574.

(2) Other states: Except in cases where the instrument is payable at a bank, the holder has the whole day in which to present the same, the only limitation being that he must present it at a reasonable hour, and this may depend upon the circumstances of the case. Bank v. Burton, 58 N. Y., 430; Farnsworth v. Allen, 4 Gray, 453.

(3) See the following section.

(4) Iowa: Presentment for payment must be made to all the makers in person or at their usual places of residence or business. Graul v. Strutz, 53-712; Closz & Mickelson v. Miracle, 103-198.

SEC. 3060-a73. Place of presentment. Presentment for payment is made at the proper place:

1. Where a place of payment is specified in the instrument and it is there presented.
2. Where no place of payment is specified and the address of the person to make payment is given in the instrument and it is there presented.
3. Where no place of payment is specified and no address is given and the instrument is presented at the usual place of business or residence of the person to make payment.
4. In any other case if presented to the person to make payment wherever he can be found, or if presented at his last known place of business or residence. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 73.]

(3) Iowa: A demand made at a maker's residence, if he has no place of business, when he is not at home, is sufficient. Bank v. Orvis, 42-691.

Other states: Gates v. Beecher, 60 N. Y., 518, 522. Presentment at the maker's usual place of business during business hours, there being no one there to answer, is a sufficient demand to charge the indorser. Baumgardner v. Reeves, 35 Pa. St., 250;
Wallace v. Crilly, 46 Wis., 577. When addressed to the drawee at a particular house and accepted generally by him, see Pierce v. Struthers, 27 Pa. St., 249, 254; Struthers v. Blake et al., 30 Pa. St., 139.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 133.

SEC. 3060-a74. Instrument must be exhibited. The instrument must be exhibited to the person from whom payment is demanded, and when it is paid must be delivered up to the party paying it. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 74.]

SEC. 3060-a75. Presentment where instrument payable at bank. Where the instrument is payable at a bank, presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 75.]

SEC. 3060-a76. Presentment where principal debtor is dead. Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative, if such there be, and if with the exercise of reasonable diligence he can be found. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 76.]

SEC. 3060-a77. Presentment to persons liable as partners. Where the persons primarily liable on the instrument are liable as partners, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment may be made to any one of them, even though there has been a dissolution of the firm. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 77.]

SEC. 3060-a78. Presentment to joint debtors. Where there are several persons, not partners, primarily liable on the instrument, and no place of payment is specified, presentment must be made to them all. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 78.]

Iowa: That presentment and demand must be made upon all the makers, see Bank v. Orvis, 46-522; Graul v. Strutzal, 53-712; Closs v. Miracle, 103-196. Other states: Gates v. Beecher, 60 N. Y., 518; Arnold v. Dresser, 8 Allen, 435. In some cases this might be impracticable, but such cases are covered by section 3060-a82, infra.

SEC. 3060-a79. When presentment not required to charge the drawer. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge the drawer where he has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will pay the instrument. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 79.]

Other states: Presentment is not dispensed with merely because the drawer has no funds in the hands of the drawee. Life Ins. Co. v. Pendleton, 112 U. S., 708; Dickens v. Beal, 10 Pet., 572.

Presentment for payment is not required to charge the drawer where he has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will pay the draft. West Branch State Bank v. Haines, 112 N. W., 552.

SEC. 3060-a80. When presentment not required to charge the indorser. Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge an indorser where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation, and he has no reason to expect that the instrument will be paid if presented. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 80.]

SEC. 3060-a81. When delay in making the presentment is excused. Delay in making presentment for payment is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder, and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, presentment must be made with reasonable diligence. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 81.]

Other states: Windham Bk. v. Norton, 22 Conn., 213. In case of sickness of holder see Wilson v. Senier, 14 Wis., 380. If the facts are not disputed, the question of due diligence is one of law for the court; otherwise for the jury. Belden v. Lamb, 17 Conn., 451.

SEC. 3060-a82. When presentment may be dispensed with. Presentment for payment is dispensed with:

1. Where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment as required by this act cannot be made.
2. Where the drawer is a fictitious person.
3. By waiver of presentment, express or implied. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 82.]

(1) Iowa: Demand of payment is unnecessary to charge indorser if the maker of the note has removed from the state before its maturity. Whitely v. Allen, 56-224. When the state dispenses with demand, notice of that fact and the fact of non-payment must still be given the indorser in order to charge him. Leonard v. Olson, 99-162. Mere insolvency of maker will not excuse demand on him in order to charge indorser. (Id.)

(3) Iowa: A promise to pay after maturity by an indorser with knowledge that note has not been presented and protested, will operate as a waiver of these requirements. Hughes v. Bowen, 15-446; Campbell v. Varney, 12-18; Lomax v. Smyth & Co., 50-223. Certain facts considered and held not to be a waiver of demand. Freeman v. O'Brien, 38-406. Written promises to pay if maker does not made by indorser after maturity and with knowledge of protest for non-payment, amounts to waiver and renders him liable. Davis v. Miller, 88-114. An indorser in blank is bound, however, by waiver of presentation, protest and notice of non-payment contained in the body of the note, distinguishing. Davis v. Miller, supra.

Other states: Burden is on plaintiff to show due diligence. Eaton v. McMahon, 42 Wis., 484. It is the holder's duty to give the notary information as to the residence of the drawer or indorser. Smith v. Fisher, 24 Pa. St., 222. Presentment is not dispensed with by the insolvency of the maker or drawee. Reinke v. Wright (Wis.), 67 N. W., 737; Bensonhurst v. Wilby, 45 Ohio St., 340. As to when waiver may be made, see Power v. Mitchell, 7 Wis., 161. Waiver may result from implication and usage or from any understanding between the parties which is of a character to satisfy the mind that a waiver is intended. Cady v. Bradshaw, 116 N. Y., 188-191.

For a citation of other authorities, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 142.

SEC. 3060-a83. When instrument is dishonored by non-payment. The instrument is dishonored by non-payment when:
1. It is duly presented for payment and payment is refused or cannot be obtained; or
2. Presentment is excused and the instrument is overdue and unpaid. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 83.]

SEC. 3060-a84. Liability of person secondarily liable, when instrument is dishonored. Subject to the provisions of this act, when the instrument is dishonored by non-payment, an immediate right of recourse to all parties secondarily liable thereon, accrues to the holder. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 84.]

Other states: The indorser's liability having been fixed by demand and notice of dishonor, he becomes an independent and principal debtor and does not stand in the capacity of a mere surety. First Nat. Bk. v. Wood, 71 N. Y., 405, 411.
Other authorities are cited in Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 144.

SEC. 3060-a85. Time of maturity. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday, or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before twelve o'clock noon on Saturday, when that entire day is not a holiday. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 85.]

SEC. 3060-a86. Time—how computed. Where the instrument is payable at a fixed period after date, after sight, or after the happening of a specified event, the time of payment is determined by excluding the day from which the time is to begin to run, and by including the date of payment. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 86.]

SEC. 3060-a87. Rule where instrument payable at bank. Where the instrument is made payable at a bank it is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for the account of the principal debtor thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 87.]

Other states: There has been some conflict in the decisions as to the authority to pay a note or acceptance made payable there. The rule adopted in the statute is the one sustained by the weight of authority; and is also the rule which is most convenient in practice. It is supported by the following decisions: Bank v. Bank, 46 N. Y., 82; Bank v. Hughes, 17 Wend., 94; Bank v. Henninger, 100 Pa., 496; Bedford Bk. v. Acorn, 125 Ind., 582.
The authorities holding the contrary are cited in Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 147.

SEC. 3060-a88. What constitutes payment in due course. Payment is made in due course when it is made at or after maturity of the instrument to the holder thereof in good faith and without notice that his title is defective. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 88.]

Other states: Payment before the day of maturity is a defence which binds only the party receiving payment and those who stand in his shoes. Watson v. Wyman, 181 Mass., 96, 99.
For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 148.

NOTICE OF DISHONOR.

SEC. 3060-a89. To whom notice of dishonor must be given. Except as herein otherwise provided, when a negotiable instrument has been dishonored by non-acceptance or non-payment, notice of dishonor must be given to the drawer and to each indorser, and any drawer or indorser to whom such notice is not given is discharged. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 89.]
Iowa: Where there are several indorsers of a note, the holder may elect to hold any one or all of the prior indorsers. To hold all liable he must give all notice of protest; otherwise it is only necessary to give those whom he wishes to hold notice. Likewise an indorser thus notified, in order to charge his prior indorsers must them notice; but when an indorser receives notice of non-payment and protest either from a subsequent indorser, or from the holder of the note, it inures to the benefit of all subsequent indorsees. Hamilton v. Veach, 19-419.

Other states: That this rule does not apply to guarantors, see Brown v. Curtis, 2 N. Y., 225; Allen v. Rightmere, 20 Johns., 365; Roberts v. Hawkins, 70 Mich., 566.

SEC. 3060-a90. By whom given. The notice may be given by or on behalf of the holder, or by or on behalf of any party to the instrument who might be compelled to pay it to the holder, and who, upon taking it up, would have a right to reimbursement from the party to whom the notice is given. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 90.]

Iowa: Notices of protest to several indorsers residing in the same town may be mailed to one, and will be sufficient to charge them all with notice, provided the party to whom they are sent shall again mail to the proper parties. Van Brunt & Sons v. Vaughn, 47-145. See First Nat. Bk. v. Farneman, 95-161.

SEC. 3060-a91. Notice given by agent. Notice of dishonor may be given by an agent either in his own name or in the name of any party entitled to give notice, whether that party be his principal or not. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 91.]

An agent in giving notice represents and acts on behalf of his principal, and this, though he may be a notary acting in his official character. Lawrence v. Miller, 16 N. Y., 225, 229.

SEC. 3060-a92. Effect of notice given on behalf of holder. Where notice is given by or on behalf of the holder, it inures for the benefit of all subsequent holders and all prior parties who have a right of recourse against the party to whom it is given. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 92.]

Other states: A holder is not bound to give notice to any one but his immediate indorser. West River Bank v. Taylor, 34 N. Y., 128, 131; Linn v. Horton, 17 Wis., 150, 153.

SEC. 3060-a93. Effect where notice is given by party entitled thereto. Where notice is given by or on behalf of a party entitled to give notice, it inures for the benefit of the holder and all parties subsequent to the party to whom the notice is given. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 93.]

SEC. 3060-a94. When agent may give notice. Where the instrument has been dishonored in the hands of an agent, he may either himself give notice to the parties liable thereon, or he may give notice to his principal. If he gives notice to his principal, he must do so within the same time as if he were the holder, and the principal, upon receipt of such notice, has himself the same time for giving notice as if the agent had been an independent holder. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 94.]

Other states: Rosson v. Carroll, 90 Tenn., 90.

SEC. 3060-a95. When notice is sufficient. A written notice need not be signed, and an insufficient written notice may be supplemented and validated by verbal communication. A misdescription of the instrument does not vitiate unless the party to whom the notice is given is in fact misled thereby. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 95.]

SEC. 3060-a96. Form of notice. The notice may be in writing or merely oral and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the instrument and indicate that it has been dishonored by non-acceptance or non-payment. It may in all cases be given by delivering it personally or through the mails. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 96.]

Iowa: Notice of non-payment may be verbal as well as in writing. First Nat. Bk. v. Ryerson, 23-508. Certificate of notary which fails to show that the residences of the several parties were at the places where the notices were addressed to them, held sufficient. Fuller & Warren v. Dingman, 41-506. Certificate of protest considered and held sufficient. Jones v. Berryhill, 25-289.

Other states: Brewster v. Arnold, 1 Wis., 264. A notice which omits an essential feature of the note or misdescribes it, is an imperfect one, but not necessarily invalid. It is invalid only where it fails to give that particular information which it would have given but for its particular imperfection; and even in case the notice in itself be defective, if, from evidence aliunde of the attendant circumstances, it is apparent that the indorser was not deceived or misled as to the identity of the dishonored instrument, he will be charged. Hodges v. Schuyler, 22 N. Y., 114; Artisans' Bk. v. Backer, 30 N. Y., 106; Gill v. Palmer, 29 Conn., 57. To render the notice defective it must fail to convey sufficient knowledge to disclose the identity of the particular instrument dishonored. Mills v. Bank of U. S., 11 Wheat., 431; Bank of Alexandria v. Swaim, 9 Pet., 33.

For numerous other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 187.

SEC. 3060-a97. To whom notice may be given. Notice of dishonor may be given either to the party himself or to his agent in that behalf. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 97.]

SEC. 3060-a98. Notice where party is dead. Where any party is dead, and his death is known to the party giving notice, the notice must be given to a personal representative, if there be one, and if with reasonable diligence, he can be found. If there be no personal representative, notice may be sent to the last residence at last place of business of the deceased. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 98.]

SEC. 3060-a99. Notice to partners. Where the parties to be notified are partners, notice to any one partner is notice to the firm, even though there has been a dissolution. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 99.]

Other states: Where partners give a promissory note with one of them as maker and the other as indorser, the latter is not liable on his indorsement unless he be duly notified of the dishonor of the note. Folsom v. Boyd, 28 Pa. St., 476; Hubbard v. Matthews, 54 N. Y., 40, 50.

SEC. 3060-a100. Notice to persons jointly liable. Notice to joint parties who are not partners must be given to each of them, unless one of them has authority to receive such notice for the others. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 100.]

Other states: Shepard v. Hawley, 1 Conn., 387; Boyd v. Orton, 16 Wis., 495.

For distinction between parties who are partners and joint parties who are not partners, see Gates v. Beecher, 60 N. Y., 518, 526.
SEC. 3060-a101. Notice to bankrupt. Where a party has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent, or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, notice may be given either to the party himself or to his trustee or assignee. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 101.]

SEC. 3060-a102. Time within which notice must be given. Notice may be given as soon as the instrument is dishonored, and unless delay is excused as hereinafter provided, must be given within the times fixed by this act. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 102.]

Other states: That the holder need not wait until the close of business hours, but may send notice at once, see Bank of Alexandria v. Swan, 9 Pet., 33; Lena v. Robert, 2 Wheat., 373; Whitwell v. Brigham, 19 Pick., 117.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 173.

SEC. 3060-a103. Where parties reside in same place. Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in the same place, notice must be given within the following times:

1. If given at the place of business of the person to receive notice, it must be given before the close of business hours on the day following.
2. If given at his residence, it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following.
3. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the post-office in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 103.]

The fixed rules of the negotiable instruments act relating to notice of dishonor are not applicable to presentment of a bank check. Plover Savings Bank v. Moodie, 110 N. W. 29; for payment of a bank check. Plover

SEC. 3060-a104. Where parties reside in different places. Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places, the notice must be given within the following times:

1. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the post-office in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter.
2. If given otherwise than through the post-office, then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail, if it had been deposited in the post-office within the time specified in the last sub-division. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 104.]

Other states: Stephenson v. Dickson, 24 Pa. St., 148; Whitwell v. Johnson, 17 Mass., 449. In Smith v. Pollon, 57 N. Y., 590, 597, it is said: "From a careful examination of all these authorities and many others it is clear that the law is not precisely settled. It appears that at first it was supposed to be necessary that notice of dishonor should be given by the next post after dishonor, on the same day if there was one. That rule was found inconveniently stringent, and then it was held that when the parties lived in different places between which there was a mail, the notice could be posted on the next day after the dishonor, or notice of dishonor. Some of them hold that when there are several mails on the next day, it is sufficient to send the notice by any post of that day. Other authorities lay down the rule, in general terms, that the notice must be posted by the first practical and convenient mail of the next day; and that rule seems to be supported by the most authority in this state. What is a practical and convenient mail depends upon circumstances. It may be controlled by the usages of business and the customs of the people at the place of mailing, and the condition, situation and business engagements of the person required to give the notice. The rule should have a reason-

Shall application in every case, and whether sufficient diligence has been used to mail the notice, the facts being undisputed, is a question of law."

SEC. 3060-a105. When sender deemed to have given due notice. Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the post-office, the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 105.]

SEC. 3060-a106. Deposit in post-office—what constitutes. Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the post-office when deposited in any branch post-office or in any letter box under the control of the post-office department. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 106.]

SEC. 3060-a107. Notice to subsequent party—time of. Where a party receives notice of dishonor, he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 107.]

SEC. 3060-a108. Where notice must be sent. Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he is not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows:

1. Either to the post-office nearest to his place of residence, or to the post-office where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or
2. If he lives in one place, and have his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or
3. If he is sojourning in another place, notice may be sent to the place where he is sojourning. But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified in this act, it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with the requirements of this section. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 108.]

[The New York act contains the word "has" in place of the word "is" in line three.]

Other states: That notice must be sent to the address given, see Bartlett v. Robinson, 39 N. Y., 187.

(1) Iowa: A notice of presentment, non-payment and protest to charge indorser, must be sent him at his proper post-office, and when sent to wrong post-office, held insufficient. Northwestern Coal Co. v. Bowman & Co., 69-150; but where notice is addressed to indorser at his former post-office, but which had been discontinued and business transferred to another, held sufficient. Bank v. Owen, 23-185.

For citation of other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law, (2 Ed.), sec. 179.

SEC. 3060-a109. Waiver of notice. Notice of dishonor may be waived, either before the time of giving notice has arrived, or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be expressed or implied. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 109.]

Other states: See Ross v. Hurd, 71 N. Y., 14, 18; Lowe v. Howard, 10 Cush., 159.

But it must appear that the indorser had knowledge of the fact that the holder was in default. Thornton v. Wynn, 12 Wheat., 183; Schierl v. Baumei, 75 Wis., 75. And in Massachusetts it is held that knowledge on the part of the indorser, that demand upon the maker has not been made, is material, and must be proved, notwithstanding the fact that he knew that the note had not been paid and that notice of non-payment had not been given, and was aware that he was discharged from all liability. Parks v. Smith, 155 Mass., 26, 33.

For a citation of other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 180.

SEC. 3060-a110. Whom affected by waiver. Where the waiver is embodied in the instrument itself, it is binding upon all parties; but where it is written above the signature of an indorser, it binds him only. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 110.]

SEC. 3060-a111. Waiver of protest. A waiver of protest, whether in the case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of a presentment and notice of dishonor. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 111.]

Other states: Annville Nat. Bk. v. Ketterring, 106 Pa. St., 531; Brewster v. Arnold, 1 Wis., 264. In construing an allegation in a pleading that the instrument was duly protested, it will not be held to comprehend an averment that notice of dishonor was given to the indorser. Cook v. Warren, 88 N. Y., 37.

SEC. 3060-a112. When notice is dispensed with. Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it cannot be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 112.]

For citation of authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 183.

SEC. 3060-a113. Delay in giving notice—howexcused. Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, notice must be given with reasonable diligence. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 113.]

Other states: Martin v. Ingersoll, 8 Pick., 1.

SEC. 3060-a114. When notice need not be given to drawer. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases:

1. Where the drawer and drawee are the same person.
2. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract.
3. Where the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment.
4. Where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument.
5. Where the drawer has countermanded payment. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 114.]

1. Other states: Where all members of the firm are members of the house which drew the bill, notice is not required to render the firm liable. West Branch Bk. v. Fulmer, 3 Pa., St., 389.

§§ 3060-all5-3060-all9 NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. Title XV, Ch. 3-A.

SEC. 3060-all5. When notice need not be given to indorser. Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases:
1. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument.
2. Where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment.
3. Where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 115.]

(2) Other states: In re Swift, 106 Fed., 65, is a case arising under this statute.

SEC. 3060-all6. Notice of non-payment where acceptance refused. Where due notice of dishonor by non-acceptance has been given, notice of a subsequent dishonor by non-payment is not necessary, unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 116.]

SEC. 3060-all7. Effect of omission to give notice of non-acceptance. An omission to give notice of dishonor by non-acceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 117.]

SEC. 3060-all8. When protest need not be made—when must be made. Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for non-acceptance or non-payment as the case may be; but protest is not required, except in the case of foreign bills of exchange. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 118.]

(1) Iowa: Unless the specified place of payment be at a bank, a deposit of money at such place to meet the note will not be a payment, the holder not being required to make presentment at that place. Callanan et al. v. Williams, et al., 71-363; Englert v. White, 93-97; Klindt v. Higgins, 95-529; Baumgartner v. Peterson, 93-372.

The rule is probably otherwise where the specified place of payment is at a bank. Bank v. Ingerson, 105-349. Payment to payee, who is a trustee, before maturity, with knowledge of assignment, is not a satisfaction of the indebtedness, and such payment will not protect the maker. Livermore v. Maxwell, 87-705. Payment to an agent not in possession of the instrument is done at the peril of the payor; so, too, is payment before maturity, the paper remaining outstanding. Security Co. v. Graybeal, 85-535; U. S. Bank v. Burson et al., 90-191. Where note is payable at a specified place, maker can only exonerate himself from payment of interest by showing that he had funds at the place for the discharge of the note. Robinson v. Lair, 31-9. Presumption of ownership arises from the possession of a note after maturity. Graff v. Adams et al., 100-481; Stoddard v. Burton, supra; Stoddard v. Burton, supra.

DISCHARGE OF NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

SEC. 3060-all9. Instrument — how discharged. A negotiable instrument is discharged:
1. By payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor.
2. By payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation.
3. By the intentional cancellation thereof by the holder.
4. By any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money.
5. When the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 119.]

(1) Other states: Possession of a bill by the acceptor after it has been in circulation, is prima facie evidence that it has been paid by him. Baring v. Clark, 19 Pick., 220. So the possession of a promissory note by the maker. Bank v. Harris, 7 Wash., 139; Madison Square Bk. v. Pierce, 137 N. Y., 444.
For citation of other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 200.

SEC. 3060-a120. When persons secondarily liable on—discharged.
A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged:
1. By an act which discharges the instrument.
2. By the intentional cancellation of his signature by the holder.
3. By the discharge of a prior party.
4. By the valid tender of payment made by a prior party.
5. By a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder's right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved.
6. By an agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment, or to postpone the holder's right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable, or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 120.]

(3) Other states: Shutts v. Fingar, 100 N. Y., 539; Couch v. Waring, 9 Conn., 261;
(5) Other states: By an express reservation of the holder's rights against the drawer or indorser, their rights against the maker or acceptor are reserved by implication. Gloucester Bk. v. Worcester, 10 Pick., 328; Tombeckbe Bk. v. Stratton, 7 Wend., 429.
(6) For authorities under this head see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law
(2 Ed.), sec. 201.

SEC. 3060-a121. Right of party who discharges instrument.
Where the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon, it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements, and again negotiate the instrument, except:
1. Where it is payable to the order of a third person, and has been paid by the drawer; and
2. Where it was made or accepted for accommodation, and has been paid by the party accommodated. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 121.]

(2) Iowa: Maker is not released by extension given to the indorser or the taking of security from the indorser. Whiting v. Western Stage Co., 20, 554.
For a citation of authorities to this section see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law

SEC. 3060-a122. Renunciation by holder. The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument before, at or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument. But a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, §
122.]

SEC. 3060-a123. Cancellation—unintentional—burden of proof. A cancellation made unintentionally, or under a mistake, or without the authority of the holder, is inoperative; but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been cancelled, the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally, or under a mistake or without authority. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 123.]
SEC. 3060-a124. Alteration of instrument—effect of. Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon, it is avoided, except as against a party who has himself made, authorized or assented to the alteration and subsequent indorsers. But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder if due course, not a party to the alteration, he may enforce payment thereon according to its original tenor. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 124.]

Iowa: The severance of one portion of a contract, which leaves one portion in the form of a negotiable promissory note, signed by one of the parties, constitutes such a material alteration that recovery cannot be had on the note, even in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value before maturity, unless the maker is chargeable with gross negligence in its execution. Scofield v. Ford, 56-370. Proof of material alteration since acceptance by drawee casts the burden upon the holder, of showing purchase in good faith without notice of alteration. Smith v. Eals, 81-235; Conger v. Crabtree, 88-536. See Nat. Bk. v. Zeima, 93-140.

Other states: See Jeffries v. Rosenfeld (Mass.), 61 N. E., 49, where the effect of this provision was discussed, but not decided. The burden of explaining an apparent alteration is upon the party producing the paper. Town of Solon v. Williamsburgh Savings Bk., 114 N. Y., 122, 135; Simpson v. Davis, 119 Mass., 269; Gettysburg Nat. Bk. v. Chisolm, 169 Pa. St., 564.

For other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 206.

SEC. 3060-a125. What constitutes a material alteration. Any alteration which changes:
1. The date.
2. The sum payable, either for principal or interest.
3. The time or place of payment.
4. The number or the relations of the parties.
5. The medium or currency in which payment is to be made.
Or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect, is a material alteration. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 125.]

BILLS OF EXCHANGE—FORM AND INTERPRETATION.

SEC. 3060-a126. Bill of exchange defined. A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time, a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 126.]

Other states: Jarvis v. Wilson, 46 Conn., 191.

SEC. 3060-a127. Bill not an assignment of funds in hands of drawee. A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 127.]

Other states: Harris v. Clark, 3 N. Y., 93; Mansevile v. Welch, 5 Wheat, 286; Brill v. Tuttle, 81 N. Y., 454; Throop Grain Cleaner Co. v. Smith, 110 N. Y., 83.

SEC. 3060-a128. Bill addressed to more than one drawee. A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not; but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or in succession. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 128.]

SEC. 3060-al29. Inland and foreign bills of exchange. An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is, or on its face purports to be, both drawn and payable within this state. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill, the holder may treat it as an inland bill. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 129.]

SEC. 3060-al30. When bill may be treated as promissory note. Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person, or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument at his option either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 130.]

See section 3060-a17.

SEC. 3060-al31. Referee in case of need. The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need, that is to say, in case the bill is dishonored by non-acceptance or non-payment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not, as he may see fit. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 131.]

The usual form is: “In case of need, apply to Messrs. C. and D. at E.” Chitty on Bills, 165.

SEC. 3060-al32. Acceptance of bills of exchange—acceptance—how made—et cetera. The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 132.] [31 G. A., ch. 149.]

Iowa: A conditional acceptance cannot be held to charge an indorsee of the bill before maturity with equities arising out of original transaction between drawer and acceptor. Merritt v. Nihart, 11-57. Evidence tending to show either an express or implied promise of acceptance held admissible. Smith v. Clark & Whiting, 12-32.

Other states: This contract is regarded as a new contract. Superior City v. Ripley, 138 U.S., 93. The usual mode of making an acceptance is by writing the word “accepted” and subscribing the drawee’s name. Byles on Bills, 190. Acceptance by telegraph may be made by the party and such an acceptance is within the terms of the statute requiring acceptances to be in writing. North Atchison Bk. v. Garretson, 51 Fed., 167. But to require the acceptance to be on the instrument itself would preclude the giving of an acceptance by telegraph.

SEC. 3060-al33. Holder entitled to acceptance on face of bill. The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill, and if such request is refused, may treat the bill as dishonored. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 133.]

SEC. 3060-al34. Acceptance by separate instrument. Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself, it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 134.]

SEC. 3060-al35. Promise to accept—when equivalent to acceptance. An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 135.]
Other states: An absolute authority to draw is equivalent to an unconditional promise to pay. Ruiz v. Renauld, 100 N. Y., 256; Merchants Bk. v. Griswold, 72 N. Y., 472, 479. At common law an oral promise was sufficient. Scudder v. Union Nat. Bk., 91 U. S., 406.

For a citation of other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 223.

SEC. 3060-a136. Time allowed drawee to accept. The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentation in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill; but the acceptance, if given, dates as of the day of presentation. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 136.]

SEC. 3060-a137. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill. Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same, or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or non-accepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 137.]

Other states: Matteson v. Moulton, 79 N. Y., 627.

SEC. 3060-a138. Acceptance of incomplete bill. A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawee, or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to accept, or by non-payment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by non-acceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentment. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 138.]

SEC. 3060-a139. Kinds of acceptance. An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 139.]

SEC. 3060-a140. What constitutes a general acceptance. An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only and not elsewhere. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 140.]

Other states: Wallace v. McConnell, 13 Pet., 136. See note to section 3060-a70.

SEC. 3060-a141. Qualified acceptance. An acceptance is qualified, which is:
1. Conditional, that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated.
2. Partial, that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn.
3. Local, that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place.
4. Qualified as to time.
5. The acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 141.]

(1) Other states: Such an acceptance does not become due until the happening of the contingency upon which the bill is accepted. Brockway v. Allen, 17 Wend., 40; Newhall v. Clark, 3 Cush., 376.

SEC. 3060-a142. Rights of parties to qualified acceptance. The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance, he may treat the bill as dishonored by non-acceptance. Where a qualified acceptance is taken, the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill, unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance, or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notices of a qualified acceptance, he must, within a reasonable time, express his dissent to the holder, or he will be deemed to have assented thereto. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 142.]

Other states: Walker v. N. Y. St. Bk., 9 N. Y., 582.

PRESENTMENT OF BILLS OF EXCHANGE FOR ACCEPTANCE.

SEC. 3060-a143. When presentment for acceptance must be made. Presentment of acceptance must be made:
1. Where the bill is payable after sight, or in any other case where presentment for acceptance is necessary in order to fix the maturity of the instrument; or
2. Where the bill expressly stipulates that it shall be presented for acceptance; or
3. Where the bill is drawn payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee.

In no other case is presentment for acceptance necessary in order to render any party to the bill liable. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 143.]

Other states: Allen v. Suydam, 17 Wend., 368. A bill payable at a fixed period from its date may be presented for acceptance at any time. Bacheller v. Priest, 12 Pick., 399; Oxford Bk. v. Davis, 4 Cush., 188.

SEC. 3060-a144. When failure to present releases drawer and indorser. Except as herein otherwise provided, the holder of a bill which is required by the next preceding section to be presented for acceptance must either present it for acceptance or negotiate it within a reasonable time. If he fail to do so, the drawer and all indorsers are discharged. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 144.]

Other states: Robinson v. Ames, 20 Johns., 146; Prescott Bk. v. Coverly, 7 Gray, 217; Walsh v. Dort, 23 Wis., 334.

SEC. 3060-a145. Presentment—how made. Presentment for acceptance must be made by or on behalf of the holder at a reasonable hour, on a business day and before the bill is overdue, to the drawer or some person authorized to accept or refuse acceptance on his behalf; and:
1. Where a bill is addressed to two or more drawees who are not partners, presentment must be made to them all, unless one has authority to accept or refuse acceptance for all, in which case presentment may be made to him only.
2. Where the drawee is dead, presentment may be made to his personal representative.
3. Where the drawee has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, presentment may be made to him or to his trustee or assignee. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 145.]

The holder may require agent to show authority. Daniel on Neg. Insts., sec. 487.

SEC. 3060-a146. On what days presentment may be made. A bill may be presented for acceptance on any day on which negotiable instruments may be presented for payment under the provisions of sections seventy-two and eighty-five of this act. When Saturday is not otherwise a holiday, presentment for acceptance may be made before twelve o'clock noon on that day. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 146.]

SEC. 3060-a147. Presentment where time is insufficient. Where the holder of a bill drawn payable elsewhere than at the place of business or the residence of the drawee has not time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to present the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment on the day that it falls due, the delay caused by presenting the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment is excused and does not discharge the drawers and indorsers. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 147.]

SEC. 3060-a148. Where presentment is excused. Presentment for acceptance is excused and a bill may be treated as dishonored by non­ acceptance, in either of the following cases:
1. Where the drawee is dead, or has absconded, or is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract by bill.
2. Where after the exercise of reasonable diligence, presentment cannot be made.
3. Where although presentment has been irregular, acceptance has been refused on some ground. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 148.]

SEC. 3060-a149. When dishonored by non-acceptance. A bill is dishonored by non-acceptance:
1. When it is duly presented for acceptance and such an acceptance as is prescribed by this act is refused or cannot be obtained; or
2. When a presentment for acceptance is excused and the bill is not accepted. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 149.]

SEC. 3060-a150. Duty of holder where bill is not accepted. Where a bill is duly presented for acceptance and is not accepted within the prescribed time, the person presenting it must treat the bill as dishonored by non-acceptance or he loses the right of recourse against the drawer and indorsers. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 150.]

SEC. 3060-a151. Rights of holders where bill is not accepted.
When a bill is dishonored by non-acceptance, an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers accrues to the holder and no presentment for payment is necessary. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 151.]

SEC. 3060-a152. Protest of bills of exchange—in what cases protest necessary. Where a foreign bill, appearing on its face to be such is dishonored by non-acceptance, it must be duly protested for non-acceptance, and where such a bill which has not previously been dishonored by non­ acceptance is dishonored by non-payment, it must be duly protested for non­ payment. If it is not so protested the drawer and indorsers are discharged.
Where a bill does not appear on its face to be a foreign bill, protest thereof, in a case of dishonor, is unnecessary. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 152.]

Other states: Commercial Bank v. Varnum, 49 N. Y., 269, 275; Dennistoun v. Stuart, 17 How. (U. S.), 806; Bank v. Hussey, 12 Pick., 483. See Byles on Bills, 256.

SEC. 3060-a153. Protest—how made. The protest must be annexed to the bill, or must contain a copy thereof, and must be under the hand and seal of the notary making it, and must specify:
1. The time and place of presentment.
2. The fact that presentment was made and the manner thereof.
3. The cause or reason for protesting the bill.
4. The demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor could not be found. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 153.]

Iowa: The certificate or protest is only evidence of notice when it recites that notice was given. Sather v. Rogers, 10-231; Thorp v. Craig, 10-461.
It is only evidence of the facts therein recited, and where it shows that the notice was directed to the indorser at a particular place it will not be presumed that such place was the residence of such indorser. Bradshaw v. Hedge, 10-402.
But a certificate of protest stating that the notary notified the indorsers is sufficient although it does not show that the residence of the several parties are at the places to which the notices were addressed. Fuller v. Dingham, 41-506.

It is not necessary to annex to, or set out in, the notary's certificate, the notice referred to therein, nor need the certificate, in words, formally refer to the seal. Jones v. Berryhill, 25-289.

If the certificate states that notices of protest properly addressed were deposited in the post-office, it will be presumed that the postage was prepaid. Brooks v. Day, 11-46.

When the certificate of protest states that the notary notified the proper parties in a certain manner, the credit due the certificate will generate the presumption that the mode adopted accomplished the result certified to, unless it affirmatively appear that the method adopted could not have done so; but if the notary only certifies as to the steps taken, then, to make out a prima facie case, it must further appear that such steps would effectuate notice. Wamsley v. Rivers, 34-463.

The fact that the certificate is dated at a time subsequent to that of the dishonor and protest will not render it incompetent. Chatham Bank v. Allison, 15-357.

The protest of a notary is not receivable without his seal, but such defect may be cured by the affixing of the seal by the notary at the trial. Rindskoff v. Malone, 9-540.

The certificate of a notary public as to the protest of a bill or note is not admissible against defendant in a criminal case, as he is entitled to be confronted with the witnesses against him. State v. Reidel, 26-430.

Other states: Signature of notary may be printed. Bank of Cooperstown v. Woods, 28 N. Y., 561.

(1) Other states: Duckert v. Von Lilienthal, 11 Wis., 56.

(4) Other states: Notarial certificate of protest is competent without further proof. Porter v. Juddon, 1 Gray, 175; Pierce v. Inadaeth, 106 U. S., 546. And the different states of the Union are deemed foreign to each other so that the notarial certificate of protest under seal is good on mere production. Townsley v. Sumrall, 2 Pet., 170; Halliday v. McDougall, 20 Wend., 81; Johnson v. Brown, 154 Mass., 105, 106. For a citation of other authorities see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law, (2 Ed.), sec. 261.

SEC. 3060-a154. Protest—by whom made. Protest may be made by:

1. A notary public; or

2. By any reputable resident of the place where the bill is dishonored, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 154.]

SEC. 3060-a155. Protest—when to be made. When a bill is protested, such protest must be made on the day of its dishonor, unless delay is excused as herein provided. When a bill has been duly noted, the protest may be subsequently extended as of the date of the noting. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 155.]

See Byles on Bills, 257.

SEC. 3060-a156. Protest—where made. A bill must be protested at the place where it is dishonored, except that when a bill drawn payable at the place of business or residence of some person other than the drawee, has been dishonored by non-acceptance, it must be protested for non-payment at the place where it is expressed to be payable; and no other presentment for payment to, or demand on, the drawee is necessary. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 156.]

See Daniel on Neg. Insts., sec. 935; and Byles on Bills, 257.

SEC. 3060-a157. Protest—both for non-acceptance and non-payment. A bill which has been protested for non-acceptance may be subsequently protested for non-payment. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 157.]

See Daniel on Neg. Insts., sec. 1464.

SEC. 3060-a158. Protest before maturity where acceptor insolvent. Where the acceptor has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, before the bill matures, the holder may cause the bill to be protested for better security against the drawer and indorsers. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 158.]

SEC. 3060-a159. Where protest dispensed with. Protest is dispensed with by any circumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. Delay in noting or protesting is excused when delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, the bill must be noted or protested with reasonable diligence. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 159.]

SEC. 3060-a160. Protest where bill is lost, et cetera. Where a bill is lost or destroyed, or is wrongfully detained from the person entitled to hold it, protest may be made on a copy or written particulars thereof. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 160.]

ACCEPTANCE OF BILLS OF EXCHANGE FOR HONOR.

SEC. 3060-a161. When bill may be accepted for honor. Where a bill of exchange has been protested for dishonor by non-acceptance, or protested for better security, and is not overdue, any person not being a party already liable thereon, may, with the consent of the holder, intervene and accept the bill supra protest for the honor of the party liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account the bill is drawn. The acceptance for honor may be for part only of the sum for which the bill is drawn, and where there has been an acceptance for honor for one party, there may be a further acceptance by a different person for the honor of another party. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 161.]

See Byles on Bills, 262-266.

SEC. 3060-a162. Acceptance for honor—how made. An acceptance for honor supra protest must be in writing and indicate that it is an acceptance for honor, and must be signed by the acceptor for honor. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 162.]

SEC. 3060-a163. When deemed to be an acceptance for honor of the drawer. Where an acceptance for honor does not expressly state for whose honor it is made, it is deemed to be an acceptance for the honor of the drawer. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 163.]

SEC. 3060-a164. Liability of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor is liable to the holder and to all parties to the bill subsequent to the party for whose honor he has accepted. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 164.]

Other states: Baring v. Clark, 19 Pick., 220.

SEC. 3060-a165. Agreement of acceptor for honor. The acceptor for honor by such acceptance engages that he will on due presentment pay the bill according to the terms of his acceptance, provided it shall not have been paid by the drawee, and provided also that it shall have been duly presented for payment and protested for non-payment and notice of dishonor given to him. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 165.]

SEC. 3060-a166. Maturity of bill payable after sight—accepted for honor. When a bill payable after sight is accepted for honor its maturity is calculated from the date of the noting for non-acceptance and not from the date of the acceptance for honor. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 166.]

SEC. 3060-a167. Protest of bill accepted for honor, et cetera. Where a dishonored bill has been accepted for honor supra protest or contains a reference in case of need, it must be protested for non-payment before it is presented for payment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 167.]

SEC. 3060-a168. Presentment for payment to acceptor for honor—how made. Presentment for payment to the acceptor for honor must be made as follows:
1. If it is to be presented in the place where the protest for non-payment was made, it must be presented not later than the day following its maturity.
2. If it is to be presented in some other place than the place where it was protested, then it must be forwarded within the time specified in section 104. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 168.]

See Byles on Bills, 263.

SEC. 3060-a169. When delay in making presentment is excused. The provisions of section eighty-one apply where there is delay in making presentment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 169.]

SEC. 3060-a170. Dishonor of bill by acceptor for honor. When the bill is dishonored by the acceptor for honor it must be protested for non-payment by him. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 170.]

PAYMENT OF BILLS OF EXCHANGE FOR HONOR.

SEC. 3060-a171. Who may make payment for honor. Where a bill has been protested for non-payment, any person may intervene and pay it supra protest for the honor of any person liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account it was drawn. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 171.]

SEC. 3060-a172. Payment for honor—how made. The payment for honor supra protest in order to operate as such and not as a mere voluntary payment must be attested by a notarial act of honor which may be appended to the protest or form an extension to it. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 172.]

SEC. 3060-a173. Declaration before payment for honor. The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor or by his agent in that behalf declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 173.]

SEC. 3060-a174. Preference of parties offering to pay for honor. Where two or more persons offer to pay a bill for the honor of different parties, the person whose payment will discharge most parties to the bill is to be given the preference. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 174.]

SEC. 3060-a175. Effect on subsequent parties where bill is paid for honor. Where a bill has been paid for honor all parties subsequent to the party for whose honor it is paid are discharged, but the payer for honor is subrogated for, and succeeds to, both the rights and duties of the holder as regards the party for whose honor he pays and all parties liable to the latter. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 175.]

See Daniel on Neg. Insts., sec. 1255.

SEC. 3060-a176. Where holder refuses to receive payment supra protest. Where the holder of a bill refuses to receive payment supra protest, he loses his right of recourse against any party who would have been discharged by such payment. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 176.]

SEC. 3060-a177. Rights of payer for honor. The payer for honor on paying to the holder the amount of the bill and the notarial expenses incidental to its dishonor, is entitled to receive both the bill itself and the protest. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 177.]

BILLS IN A SET.

SEC. 3060-a178. Bills in sets constitute one bill. Where a bill is drawn in a set, each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 178.]

SEC. 3060-a179. Rights of holders where different parts are negotiated. Where two or more parts of a set are negotitated to different holders in due course, the holder whose title first accrues is as between such holders the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 179.]

Other states: Walsh v. Blatchley, 6 Wis., 422. Byles on Bills, 389.

SEC. 3060-a180. Liability of holder who indorses two or more parts of a set to different persons. Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed, as if such parts were separate bills. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 180.]

See Byles on Bills, 389.

SEC. 3060-a181. Acceptance of bills drawn in sets. The acceptance may be written on any part and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 181.]

Other states: Downes & Co. v. Church, 13 Pet., 205; Walsh v. Blatchley, 6 Wis., 422.

SEC. 3060-a182. Payment by acceptor of bills drawn in sets. When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 182.]

See Byles on Bills, 389.

SEC. 3060-a183. Effect of discharging one of a set. Except as herein otherwise provided where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise, the whole bill is discharged. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 183.]

PROMISSORY NOTES AND CHECKS.

SEC. 3060-a184. Promissory note defined. A negotiable promissory note within the meaning of this act is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another, signed by the maker engaging to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time, a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. Where a note is drawn to the maker's own order, it is not complete until indorsed by him. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 184.]
Title XV, Ch. 3-A. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. §§ 3060-al85-3060-al89

SEC. 3060-al85. Check defined. A check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank payable on demand. Except as herein otherwise provided, the provisions of this act [are] applicable to a bill of exchange payable on demand apply to a check. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 185.]

[The word "are" enclosed in brackets, appears in the enrolled bill, as passed, but it does not appear in the original act as adopted in the other states.]

Other states: One of the characteristics which distinguishes a check from a bill of exchange is that a check is always drawn on a bank or banker. Harris v. Clark, 3 N. Y., 93, 115; Bull v. Bank of Kasson, 123 U. S., 105; Rogers v. Durant, 140 U. S., 298; Ridgeley Bk. v. Patton, 100 Ill., 484; Harrison v. Nicollet Nat. Bk., 41 Minn., 489.

That a draft upon a bank not payable immediately is a bill of exchange, see Bowen v. Newell, 8 N. Y., 190; Harrison v. Nicollet Nat. Bk., 1 Minn., 488.

For other authorities, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 321.

An ordinary bank check is classed as a Plover Savings Bank v. Moodie, 110 N. bill of exchange, payable on demand. W. 29; 113 N. W.—.

SEC. 3060-al86. Within what time a check must be presented. A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue, or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 186.]

[For instances of unreasonable delay, see Gifford v. Hardell, 88 Wis., 538; First Nat. Bk. v. Miller, 43 Neb., 791; Grange v. Reigh, 33 Wis., 532; Western Wheel Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb., 105; Holmes v. Roe, 62 Mich., 199. For a discussion of the question as to whether or not the death of the drawer operates as a revocation of the authority to pay a check, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 322.]

Although the specific provision as to presentment of checks for payment excludes the more general provision with regard to presentment of bills of exchange payable on demand, yet the provisions in other sections of the negotiable instruments act with reference to reasonable time, making it dependent to some extent on usage, are applicable also to the presentment of checks. Plover Savings Bank v. Moodie, 110 N. W. 29; 113 N. W.—.

SEC. 3060-al87. Certification of check—effect of. Where a check is certified by the bank on which it is drawn, the certification is equivalent to an acceptance. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 187.]

[For the citation of numerous other authorities supporting the rule adopted by the text, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 325.]

SEC. 3060-al88. Effect where the holder of check procures it to be certified. Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified, the drawer and all indorsers are discharged from liability thereon. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 188.]

SEC. 3060-al89. When check operates as an assignment. A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder, unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 189.]

For the citation of numerous other authorities supporting the rule adopted by the text, see Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 325.]

The holder of an unaccepted check may bring action thereon in his own name against the bank (following earlier cases, but not referring to this section.) Bloom v. Winthrop State Bank, 121-101.

See Crawford's Annotated Neg. Inst. Law (2 Ed.), sec. 3.

SEC. 3060-a193. Reasonable time—what constitutes. In determining what is a "reasonable time" or an "unreasonable time" regard is to be had to the nature of the instrument, the usage of trade or business (if any) with respect to such instruments, and the facts of the particular case. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 193.]

The usage of trade or business with respect to the presentation of bank checks for payment is to be taken into account in determining whether such presentation is within a reasonable time. Plover Savings Bank v. Moodie, 110 N. W. 29; 113 N. W.—.

SEC. 3060-a194. Time—how computed—when last day falls on holiday. When the day, or last day, for doing an act herein required or permitted to be done falls on Sunday or on a holiday, the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 194.]

Other states: Prescott Bk. v. Coverly, 7 Gray, 217.

[Section 197 of the act is section 3060-a, supra. As the entire section relates only to the repeal of certain sections of the code, relating to bills and notes, it was deemed best to insert it in advance of the other sections of the act.]

SEC. 3060-a198. Days of grace—demand made on. A demand made on any one of the three days following the day of maturity of the instrument, except on Sunday or a holiday, shall be as effectual as though made on the day on which demand may be made under the provisions of this act, and the provisions of this act as to notice of non-payment, non-acceptance, and as to protest shall be applicable with reference to such demand as though the demand were made in accordance with the terms of this act; but the provisions of this section shall not be construed as authorizing demand on any day after the third day from that on which the instrument falls due according to its face. [29 G. A., ch. 130, § 198.]

SEC. 3060-a199. Indemnifying bond to protect payer. That whenever a note, bond, bill of exchange, certificate of deposit, check or other evidence of indebtedness shall have been lost, stolen or destroyed, and the owner thereof desires payment to be made by the person, firm or corporation issuing the same he shall execute and deliver if demanded to such person, firm or corporation, a good and sufficient bond agreeing to indemnify and save harmless the payer thereof. [31 G. A., ch. 150, § 1.]

SEC. 3060-a200. Indemnifying bond to protect defendants. When an action is brought on a lost note, bond, bill of exchange, draft, certificate of deposit, or other evidence of indebtedness, upon demand of any defendant therein, a good and sufficient bond shall be given to indemnify and save harmless the defendants in said cause. [31 G. A., ch. 150, § 2.]

CHAPTER 4.
OF TENDER.

SECTION 3061. Offer in writing.

A tender in writing is as effectual as an actual personal tender. Shay v. Callanan, 124-370. Where a sufficient tender is made to authorize the rescission of a contract such right to rescission is not lost by a failure to keep the tender good as required by the statutory provision relating to written tenders. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & Western Tel. Co., 127-350.

SEC. 3062. When not accepted.

While an offer of performance in general terms may be sufficient in equity, yet if the party making such tender specifies the exact sum offered he is bound to specify a sum sufficient to discharge the obligation of which performance is tendered. Wood v. Howland, 127-394.

Where a party attempts to rescind a contract made by his agent, which he claims to have been without authority, he must offer to return any money received by the agent in pursuance of such contract and such offer to return must be made to the opposite party in person; and it is not sufficient to notify him that it is held subject to his order at another place. National Imp. & Const. Co. v. Maiken, 103-118.

A tender which is kept good relieves the debtor from liability to pay interest on the amount so tendered. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Commercial State Bank, 104-682.

Where one party proposes to pay to the other the amount of a claim, and is advised by the latter that it will not be accepted, such offer amounts to a tender, although the money is not at the time produced, if the person making the offer could and would have produced it had the other party been willing to accept. Stecker v. Standley, 107-694.

Tender in a law action must be kept good by deposit of the money in court. West v. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co., 117-147.

SEC. 3063. Receipt—objection.

The provision that the person to whom a tender is made must at the time make any objections which he may have to the money, etc., tendered, refers to the character or kind of money and not to the amount, and does not prevent him from afterwards insisting that the amount was not sufficient. McWhirter v. Crawford, 104-550.

One who makes a tender may not couple it with a demand for a receipt in full for the claim. West v. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co., 117-147.

A tender by transmitting a draft for the amount is as effectual as a personal tender in currency, if no objection is made thereto. Shay v. Callanan, 124-370.

CHAPTER 5.

OF SURETIES.

SECTION 3064. May require creditor to sue.

In the absence of any special statute requiring a creditor to proceed against the principal debtor or any act of the creditor releasing the lien held by him, the surety is not relieved by a failure of the creditor to enforce his claim against the debtor. Whitehouse v. American Surety Co., 117-328.

CHAPTER 6.

OF PRIVATE SEALS.

SECTION 3068. Abolished.

Notwithstanding the statutory provision abolishing the effect of a sealed instrument at common law, a release under seal of one joint tortfeasor is a release as to all; but parol testimony is permissible to show that the release was of one not in fact liable, and did not constitute a satisfaction of the liability. Ryan v. Becker, 111 N. W. 426.

SEC. 3069. Consideration implied.

The statutory provision that contracts in writing, signed by the parties to be bound, import a consideration was enacted for the purpose of giving to instruments in writing the same effect as instruments under seal had under the common law, and not to supply proof that the contract was based upon a particular consideration. No particular consideration is presumed, and where a wife sues her husband under a contract made during coverture, which would be valid only so far as it affected her separate property, the burden is upon the wife to show that the contract was with reference to such separate property. Heacock v. Heacock, 108-540.

Under the provisions of this section the burden is upon the defendant in an action on a promissory note to show that the note was without consideration. Luke v. Koenen, 120-103.

Where an agreement is reduced to writing, the writing of itself imports a consideration. Cone v. Cone, 118-458.

The provision that all contracts in writing signed by the party to be bound shall import a consideration, has no application to a case where the consideration is recited in the instrument and it is shown that the consideration thus recited does not exist. An express consideration clear-
Title XV, Ch. 7. ASSIGNMENTS FOR CREDITORS. §§ 3070-3071

SEC. 3070. Failure of—fraud.

While a consideration is presumed in a written contract, it is competent to show that in fact the instrument was without consideration, and parol evidence is competent for that purpose. Want or failure in whole or in part, of the consideration of a written contract may be shown as a defense, entire or partial as the case may be, except in the case of negotiable paper. Beaty v. Carr, 109-185.

Want or failure in whole or in part of the consideration of a written instrument may be shown as a defense, total or partial, as the case may be. Oakland Cemetery Ass'n v. Lakins, 126-121.

Want or failure of consideration in whole or in part may be shown by parol, but must be pleaded. Mosnat v. Uchtyil, 129-274.

As against the express recital of consideration in a written instrument, parol evidence is not admissible to show a different consideration from that expressed. Ibid.

Under the statutory provision that if in an action on negotiable paper by a holder for value before maturity and in good faith, it appears that the instrument was procured by fraud upon the maker, the holder shall recover as against the maker no greater sum than he has paid therefor, held that a purchaser of negotiable school bonds acquiring the same after maturity and after the statutory provision had taken effect, from one who became the holder thereof before maturity in good faith and for value, and before the taking effect of the statute, was not subject to the statutory limitation as to the amount of recovery. (Reversing S. C., 132 Fed. 514.) Gamble v. Rural Ind. School Dist., 146 Fed. 113.

An assignee of a note, although not a good faith holder in the usual course of business, may recover whatever his assignor would have been entitled to under a suit upon the note. Arnd v. Aylesworth, 111 N. W. 407.

CHAPTER 7.

OF ASSIGNMENTS FOR CREDITORS.

SECTION 3071. Must be without preferences.

What valid: Where a general assignment is made, and as a part of the same transaction, and for the purpose of giving a preference, a mortgage is executed by the same party, the assignment and mortgage will both be void. Groetzinger v. Wyman, 105-574.

Mortgages made to the creditors, not with the intention of disposing of the mortgagee's business, but in the hope of being able to continue the business, do not constitute an assignment and therefore are not necessarily fraudulent because of preferences thereby given. Ibid.

A debtor has a legal right to prefer some creditors to others, if he sees fit. Steineke v. Yetzer, 108-512.

In a particular case held chattel mortgages executed separately and prior to the time of making a general assignment and without intention at the time to make such assignment, were valid. Diemer v. Guernsey, 112-393.

A chattel mortgage given by an insolvent to secure one creditor in preference to others, is not rendered invalid by a failure to record it, unless the withholding it from record was by reason of agreement, or resulted in some prejudice to other creditors. Deland v. Miller & Cheney Bank, 119-368.

An insolvent corporation may make payment of its debts or give property in security thereof, just as a natural person may do, and may prefer one of its creditors over another. First Nat. Bank v. Garretson, 107-196.

Intention: One who takes a mortgage in good faith to secure a valid indebtedness is not affected by the intention of the debtor to make an assignment. Ibid; Manton v. Sieberling, 107-534; Groetzinger v. Wyman, 105-574.

One who takes security from an insolvent for a debt, with knowledge of the insolvency, is not to be deprived of the advantage thus secured, unless he took such security with intent to hinder, delay or defraud other creditors. Deland v. Miller & Cheney Bank, 119-368.

A mortgagor who takes a mortgage without knowledge of an intent to make an assignment for the benefit of creditors is protected. Mills v. Miller, 109-688.
The burden is on the creditor attacking the mortgage to show that at the time it was executed there was also an intent to make a general assignment. Ibid.

Several mortgages are not to be taken together as constituting a general assignment where they do not include all the property of the debtor. Ibid.

Where a mortgage is executed in pursuance of a prior agreement to give security, and comes to the knowledge of the mortgagee before the assignee under the assignment has accepted the trust, the mortgage will be valid. Ibid.

Aside from the provisions of the national bankruptcy law a creditor acting in good faith can take security from his debtor even though he knows there are other creditors and that the effect of his action will be to defeat them. But under the bankrupt law knowledge of such fact will render the preference fraudulent. Boudinot v. Hamann, 117-22.

Partial assignments: The statutory provision as to assignment for benefit of creditors does not prevent partial assignments with preferences or sales of mortgages of any or all of the party's property in payment or security of indebtedness. Rothschild v. Hasbrouck, 72 Fed. 813.

Conditions: As an assignment would be subject to all prior valid liens, it is not invalidated by a provision that it is subject to a particular lien described, and such a provision does not estop the assignee from asserting the fraudulent character of the lien thus recognized. Ringen Stove Co. v. Bowens, 109-175.

Partial assignments: The statutory provision as to assignment for benefit of creditors is not suspended by the enactment of the national bankrupt act. In re Scholtz, 106 Fed. 834.

SEC. 3072. How made—inventory—effect—recording.

The purchaser from an assignee cannot claim title to property which never passed through the hands of the assignor, and which was not intended to be covered by the instrument of assignment. Gevers v. Farmer, 109-468.

Where an assignment was made by one partner, and the other partner was within reach so that he might be consulted, held that the assignment did not become effective until confirmed by such other partner. Mills v. Miller, 109-688.

Where the assignee took possession of notes and book accounts belonging to the debtor firm, and was garnished therefor under an attachment issued at the suit of creditors, before the assignment which had been executed by one partner only had become valid by confirmation by the other partner, held that the garnishment took priority over the assignment. Mills v. Miller, 109-688.

The assignee stands in the shoes of the insolvent as to liability with reference to contracts made by him. In re Assignment of Jee,, 129-139.

The assignee acquires no better title to the property than the assignor had, and one who has sold goods to the insolvent, retaining title until the goods have been paid for, may by intervention in the assignment proceeding assert his title to the goods as against the assignee. In re Assignment of Wise, 121-359.

The inventory is not conclusive as to the property passing by the assignment. Turrill v. McCarthy, 114-681.

SEC. 3074. Notice. The assignee shall forthwith give notice of such assignment by publication in some newspaper in the county, which shall be continued, once each week, at least six weeks, and forthwith send a notice by mail to each creditor of whom he shall be informed, directed to his usual place of residence, requiring him to present to him within three months thereafter his claims under oath. [C., '73, § 2119; R., § 1829.] [30 G. A., ch. 2, § 8.]

SEC. 3075. Claims filed.

Where the creditor having security files his claim with the assignee, he is entitled to dividends only on that portion of his claim which is not satisfied by resorting to the security. He is subject to the equitable rule that where one creditor has security on two funds, on one of which other creditors have security, the former must first exhaust the fund on which he has an exclusive claim before resorting to that which is subject to the claims of other creditors. Therefore, where a creditor having security on property of the insolvent received payment on his claim from the proceeds of such property, held that he could only participate in dividends on the basis of the balance of his claim. Doolittle v. Smith, 104-403.
It is optional with the mortgagee whether he will enforce his lien against the property or file his claim with the assignee, but if he chooses the latter remedy he cannot thereafter foreclose his mortgage and is deemed to have waived his right to do so. Garner v. Fry, 104-515.

SEC. 3077. Claims contested.

Where the assignee seeks to enforce a claim belonging to the insolvent estate the debtor may set off any claim he has against the estate. Little v. Sturgis, 127-298.

A creditor who has filed his claim and received a dividend thereon may afterwards proceed to enforce payment of the balance against the debtor by judgment or other lawful means. Ibid.

SEC. 3078. Priority of taxes.

The assignee for the benefit of creditors cannot complain of a tax regularly levied on the insolvent's property on the ground that the insolvent failed to claim an offset for indebtedness. Carpenter v. Jones County, 130-494.

SEC. 3080. Settlement.

Where an assignee does not include in his report a considerable amount of money received from the sale of goods under the assignment, and there is a discrepancy between the inventory and the property accounted for, he should not be discharged until such discrepancy in his account is adjusted. A creditor entitled to share in the distribution of the proceeds of the estate may file exceptions to the assignee's report and be heard thereon. In re Assignment of Mansfield, 113-104.

The mere failure of the assignee to keep a complete and satisfactory system of accounts does not necessarily debar him from being allowed a reasonable compensation for his services. Merrit v. Torrance, 129-310.

SEC. 3084. Sale of property.

The order of sale should be entered of record, but a deed executed by the assignee without notice or order of court is not absolutely void, but will at least pass the naked legal title. Bristol Sav. Bank v. Judd, 116-26.

The assignee has the same rights and remedies relating to the estate as were possessed by the assignor, and may maintain action on an attachment bond given in favor of the assignor, either by original suit or by intervention in an action already brought against the assignor. Ringen Stove Co. v. Bowers, 109-175.

CHAPTER 8.

SECTION 3089. Who may have lien.

Under contract with owner: Material furnished for improvements on land under a contract with one who is not the owner thereof and a bare licensee, does not entitle the person furnishing the material under such contract to a lien on the land nor upon the improvements, which became the property of the owner of the land when made. Hoag v. Hay, 103-291.

Where a party is led to believe that one has a title or interest to which a mechanic's lien will attach, and he has no such title, but obtains it while the contract is being performed, the lien attaches thereto. Floete v. Brown, 104-154.

An owner of a limited estate erecting buildings on the land in pursuance of his interest therein has such an interest that a mechanic's lien may attach thereto. Smith v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., 106-225.

Where premises were sold with an agreement on the part of the grantor to make improvements thereon which were subsequently made under a contract with him, held that the person making such improvements had not a mechanic's lien on the premises as against the grantee. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Goode, 106-568.

An equitable title to real property held by contract for a deed is a title to which a mechanic's lien will attach. Sheppard v. Messenger, 107-717.

The statutory definition of the term "owner" (see Code § 3096) extends it so as to include persons who would not ordinarily be held to come within its meaning. The term includes a vendee who acts as agent of the vendor, in a certain sense, in putting improvements on the premises. Janes v. Osborne, 105-409.

A property owner who contracts with the builder to furnish labor and material at reasonable prices for making certain improvements constitutes the builder his agent and authorizes him to contract for labor and material for such owner. Miller v. Stotts, 130-530.

Improvements on wife's land: Where a wife knows that improvements are being placed on her property under a contract with her husband, but protests against such improvements, her property is not subject to lien therefor. James v. Dalbey, 107-463.

For what improvements or materials: Where a lien is claimed under a contract involving matters for which a lien is not allowed, and it is not possible to determine under the contract what amount is due for matters for which a lien may be had, no lien whatever can be established. Peatman v. Centerville Light, H. & P. Co., 105-1.

SEC. 3090. Extent of lien—leasehold interest.

Consent of the landlord that the tenant shall erect a building on the leased premises does not subject the landlord to the lien for material furnished. Oregon Lumber Co. v. Beckleen, 130-42.

A well, designed, sunk and completed for permanent use on the premises, is an improvement for which a mechanic’s lien may be had. Hoppes v. Baie, 105-648.

Lumber furnished, not merely for the purposes of replacing worn out parts of a building, but for the improvement of the building, will furnish the basis for a mechanic's lien. National L. Ins. Co. v. Ayres, 111-200.

It is the furnishing of material for a building which entitles a party to a lien and its actual use in the construction thereof need not be shown. Frudden Lumber Co. v. Kinnan, 117-93.

It seems that by agreement charges for drayage may be a proper item in the account on which a lien is asked. Page v. Grant, 127-249.

Material furnished to supply the loss of other material under a contract, has been incorporated into the building and before the building has been accepted by the owner is properly included in the statement for a lien. Nancolas v. Hitaffer, 112 N. W. 382.

Subcontractor: The subcontractor must have furnished material for the particular building in order to entitle him to a lien therein, but it is not necessary that the material shall have been actually used in the building. Hobson v. Townsend, 126-459.

SEC. 3092. Filing statement.

What statement sufficient: Where materials are furnished from time to time under separate and distinct contracts, the charges therefor cannot be treated as items of a continuous open running account and as furnished under an entire contract. Hoag v. Hay, 105-291.

For what items of materials and labor furnished and performed. Oregon Lumber Co. v. Beckleen, 130-42.

A well, designed, sunk and completed for permanent use on the premises, is an improvement for which a mechanic’s lien may be had. Hoppes v. Baie, 105-648.

Lumber furnished, not merely for the purposes of replacing worn out parts of a building, but for the improvement of the building, will furnish the basis for a mechanic’s lien. National L. Ins. Co. v. Ayres, 111-200.

It is the furnishing of material for a building which entitles a party to a lien and its actual use in the construction thereof need not be shown. Frudden Lumber Co. v. Kinnan, 117-93.

It seems that by agreement charges for drayage may be a proper item in the account on which a lien is asked. Page v. Grant, 127-249.

Material furnished to supply the loss of other material under a contract, has been incorporated into the building and before the building has been accepted by the owner is properly included in the statement for a lien. Nancolas v. Hitaffer, 112 N. W. 382.

Subcontractor: The subcontractor must have furnished material for the particular building in order to entitle him to a lien therein, but it is not necessary that the material shall have been actually used in the building. Hobson v. Townsend, 126-459.

An unintentional mistake in the statement which has caused no injury to any one will not defeat a mechanic's lien. St. Croix Lumber Co. v. Davis, 105-27.

The fact that the statement as filed is for a greater sum than due will not defeat the right to a lien where such discrepancy is the result of an honest mistake which is not prejudicial. Simonson Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Citizens' State Bank, 105-264.

In the absence of any showing of bad faith it should not be held that the matter included in the statement of one or more items for which no lien can be had operates to invalidate an otherwise enforceable lien. Palmer v. McGinness, 127-119.

The fact that items are included in the statement for which a lien cannot properly be claimed will not defeat the right to a lien unless it be shown that the claimant was knowingly attempting by false charges to subject the property to an improper burden. Nancolas v. Hitaffer, 112 N. W. 382.

Where the statement shows the essential facts, the lien will not be defeated by want of technical accuracy as to the time when the labor was performed or the material furnished. Johnson v. Otto, 105-605.

Where the statement for a mechanic’s lien shows that a lien is claimed, and is sufficiently definite as to the items for which the claim is made, it will not be defeated by indefiniteness as to the dates of items of materials and labor furnished and performed. Eggert v. Snake, 122-652.

If the statement as a whole is just and true, the fact that the whole or part of the bill contracted for is furnished at an agreed price for a lot of items and it so shows instead of giving the price of each one separately, will not defeat the lien. Queal v. Stradley, 117-748.

As against the owner the filing of an insufficient statement or the failure to file

The omission from the statement of credits to which the owner is entitled, if unintentional and without any purpose to defraud, will not defeat the lien. Ewing v. Stockwell, 106-26.

An honest mistake in making up the account will not deprive the claimant of the lien. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Thomas, 106-420.

Delay of the subcontractor to file statement of his lien cannot affect his right to priority over the lien of another subcontractor whose statement is not filed and notice thereof given until after the filing of the statement of the first subcontractor. Lindsay & Phelps Co. v. Zoeckler, 128-558.

The fact that the contractor gives an order to one subcontractor on the owner for the amount of his bill does not operate as an equitable assignment of the contractor's claim which is to be treated as a payment in determining the amount in the hand of the owner when the statement of another subcontractor is filed. Ibid.

Material furnished for necessary repairs while the building is still in the process of construction and not accepted by the owner is proper to be included in the statement of the lien and in determining the date of the last item for the purpose of ascertaining whether the statement is filed within the statutory period. Naucolas v. Hitaffer, 112 N. W. 382.

Application of payments: Change in the application of payments will not be permitted to be made between the owner and the contractor when the effect will be to prejudice the interest of the subcontractor. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Thomas, 106-420.

Verification: A statement not verified does not impart notice of a claim; and held that a verification signed in a firm name was not sufficient. McGillivary v. Case, 107-17.

The verification of a statement before the deputy clerk is sufficient without the official seal of the clerk being attached where it is filed in the office of the clerk. Wheelock v. Hull, 124-782.

Failure to file: The filing of the statement is not essential to the creation of the mechanic's lien, but only to preserve it against purchasers or incumbrancers in good faith without notice, whose rights accrued after the expiration of the time fixed for filing the statement. Peatman v. Centerville Light, H. & P. Co., 105-1.

One claiming under a mortgage executed after expiration of the time for filing statement is not chargeable with notice of the claim. McGillivary v. Case, 107-17.

Where the improvements were such that any person examining the building within the ninety days allowed for filing a lien would have been aware of them, held that they furnished sufficient foundation for a mechanic's lien. National L. Ins. Co. v. Agres. 111-206.

Where lumber was furnished on two distinct occasions for successive improvements, held that the material man could not assert a claim for the first lot of lumber furnished under his lien for the second, which was furnished more than ninety days after the first improvement. Ibid.

Until something is done looking towards the establishment of the lien, an assignment of the debt does not operate as a transfer of such lien. Kent v. Muscatine, N. & S. R. Co., 115-383.

A conveyance of the premises expressly subject to any claim for a mechanic's lien does not defeat the right to such lien. Eggert v. Snoke, 122-582.

SEC. 3093. Notice by sub-contractor—lien discharged.

Liability of owner: An owner who agrees with the contractor to pay subcontractors and material men becomes personally liable to them for material used in the building. Shorthill Co. v. Bartlett, 151-259.

After the contractor abandons the work and compels the owner to complete the job the latter may pay for the work done out of any balance remaining due to the contractor, and the contractor cannot by giving an order on the owner create a claim against the owner upon the balance remaining out of the contract price which the owner is entitled to use in completing the contract. Page v. Grant, 127-249.

Where the owner makes payments to the contractor without regard to the terms of his contract and without withholding amounts which he is authorized to withhold by the terms of the contract, he renders himself liable to persons who furnish materials for the carrying out of the contract. Quaal v. Stradley, 117-748.

Actual notice to owner: Where the owner has knowledge of the claims of a subcontractor, he should hold back from the principal contractor enough to pay the subcontractor's claim. Simonson Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Citizens' State Bank, 105-264.

The absconding of the principal contractor will not prevent the subcontractor from enforcing his claims against the property. A personal judgment against the principal contractor is not essential to the enforcement of such lien. The proceedings may properly be in rem, where no personal judgment is sought. Ibid.
Where the owner knew that the subcontractor was furnishing the material and knew that his bill therefor had not been paid, held, that the owner could not by settlement with the contractor cut off the rights of the subcontractor, especially where the payment was made in disregard of the terms of the contract. _Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Thomas_, 106-154.

But a subcontractor is not entitled to enforce his lien so far as payment has been made by the owner upon the strength of his statements and agreements. Under such circumstances the subcontractor is estopped from insisting upon repayment of the amount so paid. _Ibid._

Where a subcontractor perfects his lien within the time required by law, and the owner has knowledge that the subcontractor is furnishing material for which he has not been paid, the owner is not justified in paying other subcontractors until the time has expired for the filing of liens. _Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Adams_, 107-672.

Payments made to the contractor in accordance with the terms of the contract will not constitute a defense against the claims of a subcontractor if the owner was aware of the existence of the subcontractor's claims at the time of making such payment. _Chicago Lumber Co. v. Garmer_, 132-282.

Whether knowledge of the architect will constitute notice to the owner of the existence of subcontractor's claims depends upon the terms of the contract. _Ibid._

The owner knowing that a subcontractor or materialman is furnishing material and labor for the building which is necessary for its completion, is bound to withhold payments from the contractors until the claims for material and labor are determined. But if the subcontractor fails to present a lien and accepts an order on the owner, he abandons his claim against the property so far as it is necessary to satisfy the claims of other lien holders. _Wheelock v. Hull_, 124-752.

The owner is not justified in paying the principal contractor even in strict accordance with the terms of the contract, if he has knowledge that subcontractors are furnishing material for the building which has not been paid for. _Page v. Grant_, 127-249.

The owner cannot with knowledge that material or labor has been furnished by a subcontractor make settlement with the contractor and pay out reserve funds held in his hands to meet other claims for which no lien has been filed. _Nancolas v. Hitaffer_, 112 N. W. 382.

The owner cannot use such reserve funds in completing the building after it has collapsed on account of his own fault with reference to the plans and specifications so as not to defeat the claims of a sub-contractor for material and labor furnished before such collapse. _Ibid._

If the owner after due notice still holds in his hands money enough out of the contract price to complete the building and pay the claim of the subcontractor he cannot disregard such claim and pay to the contractor the amount due him under his contract. _Frudenn Lumber Co. v. Kinman_, 117-93.

Where the owner is fully informed of the nature of the sub-contractor's claim, by the bringing of suit, and is still indebted to the principal contractor beyond the amount of the subcontractor's claim, the failure of the subcontractor to file a claim is immaterial. _Johnson v. Des Moines, I. F. & N. R. Co._, 129-281.

Owner's estopped: Where the owner had stated to the subcontractor before the furnishing of material that nothing was to be paid to the contractor on the building until its completion, held that the owner was thereby estopped, in an action by the subcontractor to enforce his lien, to say that the contract was otherwise than as he had stated as to payments. _Rath v. Ory_, 119-511.

Service of notice: An objection that the notice is not such as contemplated by the statute does not raise a question as to the service of such notice. _Page v. Grant_, 127-249.

Priority: It is not necessary for the subcontractor to file a statement of his lien in order to preserve his claim as against an order given by the contractor to another subcontractor upon the owner. _Lindsey & Phelps Co. v. Zryskier_, 125-655.

For what material: The burden is upon the subcontractor before he can avail himself of the benefits of the provisions in his favor to show that the labor or material furnished by him was actually for the improvement against which the lien is claimed. And if as to that matter he is deceived by the contractor without the fault of the owner, he is not entitled to a lien as against the owner. _Hobson v. Townsend_, 136-453.

A subcontractor has a lien for material furnished for a building although as a matter of fact it is not used in the construction of such building but for another structure. _Page v. Grant_, 127-249.

The subcontractor's lien attaches to money due the contractor for extras, although the amount provided for under the contract as originally made has been fully paid. _Skope v. Mitchell_, 118-766.

The subcontractor's lien may properly cover material supplied to the contractor to supply other material lost or destroyed during the construction of the building. _Nancolas v. Hitaffer_, 112 N. W. 382.

Waiver of lien: The giving to a subcontractor of an order for the amount of his claim, which is received by him, and the acceptance of such order by the drawee, amounting to only a recognition of a state­ment of the amount due, held not to de­prive a subcontractor of his right to a lien. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

Terms of contract: The subcontractor is bound to know the terms of the contract between the principal contractor and the owner, whether they are written or oral, and if the owner complies with the terms of such contract in good faith, and without knowledge or notice, which would require him to make inquiries as to the claims of the subcontractor, he will not be required to make a second payment. Iowa Stone Co. v. Crissman. 112-122

SEC. 3094. Sub-contractor's claim after thirty days.

A subcontractor failing to file his claim for a lien until after the expiration of thirty days is entitled only to such lien as to the amount unpaid on the contract when his statement is filed, without regard to the knowledge on the part of the owner before paying the contractor that material and labor have been furnished by the sub­contractor. Empire Portland Cement Co. v. Payne, 128-730.

A subcontractor's claim, though not filed within the time specified by statute, takes priority over the claims of another sub­contractor subsequently filed. Lindsay & Phelps Co. v. Zoeckler, 128-558.

SEC. 3095. Priority.

Lien covers entire property: The right to a mechanic's lien for work done upon a railroad dates from the beginning of the improvement, and is against the whole road. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

A railroad depot may be an integral part of the construction of the road. Ibid.

Leasehold interest: A lessee taking his lease after the time when a statement should be filed and when no statement is already filed, and without actual notice of the mechanic's lien, has priority thereto, and the assignee of such lessee is entitled to the same priority, even though at the time of taking the assignment he has no­notice of the lien. Floete v. Brown, 104-154.

Judgment under a mechanic's lien will take priority over a landlord's lien for rent, and such judgment gives to the judgment creditor a lien for the premises, held, that a mechanic's lien for such improvements took priority over the vendor's lien for the purchase price. Janes v. Osborne, 108-409.

A mechanic's lien holder does not have priority over the claims of laborers under Code § 4019, even though the mechanic's lien antedates the laborers' claim. Haw v. Burch, 110-234.

The provision as to priority of the sub­contractor over a garnishment of the owner­ner has no application to a materialman's claim against a public corporation under Code § 3102. Swearingen Lumber Co. v. Washington School Township, 125-283.

Lien upon improvements: Under prior statutes held that the holder of a me­chanic's lien for material furnished for an independent building project has priority as to such building over a prior mortgage on the premises on which the building was erect­ed, provided that it should be found by the court that the building could be removed without material injury to the security of an earlier lien holder; but where no such finding was made the land must be sold and the proceeds applied first in payment of prior incumbrances. Tower v. Moore, 104-345.

Where the building or other improve­ment becomes a part of the real estate so that it may not be seperately sold and removed, prior mortgagees or lien holders are entitled to priority over subsequent lien holders for improvements or inde­pendent structures to the extent of such prior liens. Leach v. Minick, 106-437.

SEC. 3096. Definition of "owner."

The statute extends the definition of the term "owner" so as to include persons whose relation to the property is such that they would not ordinarily be held to come within the meaning of the term. Janes v. Osborne, 108-409. And see notes to Code §§ 4089 in this Supplement.

The term "owner" within the language of the mechanics' liens law is applicable to one having less than an absolute and unqualified title to the property.

SEC. 3098. Action to enforce lien.

It is not necessary to introduce any proof of the making and filing of the statement for lien of a subcontractor as against the contractor where the latter has admitted the filing of such statement and set out a copy thereof as a part of his pleading. The statement itself, however, is the best evidence.

In an action to enforce the lien of a subcontractor for an unliquidated demand, the principal contractor is a necessary party. Ibid.

SEC. 3099. Demand for bringing suit—assignment.

A mechanic's lien may be assigned prior to the filing of the statement. Peatman v. Centerville Light, H, & P. Co., 105-1.

But until something is done looking to the establishment of the lien, an assignment of the debt does not transfer any lien. Kent v. Muscatine, N. & S. R. Co., 115-383.

Where one furnishes money to be applied in payment of the purchase price of the property by taking up mechanic's liens of record thereon, under an express agreement that said liens are not to be canceled by the holders thereof, but to be assigned and held for the benefit of the purchaser, he is entitled to subrogation to the claims of the mechanic's lien holders. National L. Ins. Co. v. Ayres, 111-200.

SEC. 3102. Public buildings or bridges—claim of subcontractor.

Where a school district in making a contract for the erection of a schoolhouse reserved the right to withhold payments from the principal contractor so long as the subcontractors were unpaid, held that as against the assignees of the contractor the district might maintain an action for distribution of the fund due the contractor among the subcontractors in proportion to their claims. Independent Sch. Dist. v. Mardis, 106-295.

Under such contract held that the claims which might be satisfied out of the fund were not limited to those which might be established under this section (20 G. A., ch. 179.) Ibid.

A claim for money borrowed from a contractor and used in payment for labor and material is not a claim to be protected under such contract. Ibid.

In the case of a county building the public officer to whom the claim should be submitted is the auditor and not the chairman of the building committee of the board of supervisors. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Thomas, 106-420.

Under the evidence in a particular case held that a subcontractor might have relief under this statute, although, as to prior work he was given security by the assignment of certificates which he had surrendered. Iowa Brick Co. v. Des Moines, 111-272.

The statutory provision in behalf of subcontractors furnishing material or labor in payment of the purchase price of the property by taking up mechanic's liens of record thereon, under an express agreement that said liens are not to be canceled by the holders thereof, but to be assigned and held for the benefit of the purchaser, he is entitled to subrogation to the claims of the mechanic's lien holders. National L. Ins. Co. v. Ayres, 111-200.
tion the contract which has been violated by the contractor cannot be effectual for the benefit of the subcontractor. Ibid.

A subcontractor furnishing material for a public building acquires no lien on the building or on the money which becomes due from the public corporation to the contractor. But such subcontractor having served notice of his claim upon the corporation may sue on the contractor's bond given to relieve the corporation from liability as to the distribution of the money due the contractor, and such action may be maintained in the county where the contract was to be performed, although the contractor and the securities on his bond are residents of another county. Thompson v. Stephens, 131-51.

No liens or claims can be asserted against a school district for material and labor furnished by a subcontractor in its construction, and a bond in which the contractor obligates himself to deliver such schoolhouse free from liens or claims of any kind and to discharge any liens or claims against the building or which may be claimed against the district does not render the bondsman liable for subcontractor's claims. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School District, 121-663.

This statute does not create a lien in favor of a laborer or materialman upon the funds due to the principal contractor nor is any lien created on the building or improvement itself. Whitehouse v. American Surety Co., 117-328.

Therefore a laborer or materialman who is protected by a bond given by the contractor to the public corporation to secure it against the claims of such persons does not release the surety on such bond by failing to pursue his remedy against the fund due the contractor in the hands of the corporation. Ibid; Read v. American Surety Co., 117-10.

A contractor's bond given to secure a public corporation against claims by materialmen and laborers enures to the benefit of those who furnish material and labor in carrying out such contract. Hipwell v. National Surety Co., 130-656.

Subcontractors are not bound to perfect their claims against funds in the hands of the officers of the public corporation, but may rely directly on the security afforded by the bond. Ibid.

An assignee of the contract takes subject to the obligation of the contractor's bond to discharge the claim for such material and labor. Ibid.

Garnishment of a public corporation for funds due the contractor which is effected prior to service of a notice of a claim for material furnished is a good defense to recovery against the corporation on such claim. The claim of the materialman against the corporation is personal and is not a lien on the property. Swearingen Lumber Co. v. Washington School Township, 15-283.

The municipal corporation, against which a claim is made for labor performed or material furnished for the contractor is entitled to protection so far as it has relied upon the provisions of the contract made for its benefit and acted in accordance therewith. Until a claim is filed the corporation owes no duty to the subcontractors and the provisions of the mechanics lien law for the benefit of such persons are not applicable. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist., 125-227.

If the corporation has in good faith paid out money on certificates of work done, the correctness of such certificates can only be impeached for fraud or mistake, and even in such case no liability of the corporation would attach in favor of the subcontractor unless it appears that the actual cost of the work was in fact less than the amount given in the certificate on which the corporation has acted. Ibid.

Under a provision in the contract that on abandonment of the work by the contractor the corporation may take possession of all materials on the ground and apply them to finishing the work, the corporation is not bound to pay the materialman for materials furnished by him to the contractor and which have thus been appropriated. Ibid.

In an action by a materialman to enforce a claim against a corporation to which the contractor is a party, the materialman is entitled to a judgment against the contractor for any indebtedness due. Ibid.

SEC. 3104. Release of claim.

A bond given by the contractor to hold the public corporation harmless from claims of subcontractors may be sued on by a subcontractor entitled to a lien in the county in which the work is done, although the contractor and his sureties are residents of another county. Thompson v. Stephens, 131-51.

SEC. 3105. Liens of miners.

The lien of a miner provided for by this section is not limited to property of the operator of the mine which might be removed, or to improvements which he has made, but extends to the premises on which the mine is situated, and which have been leased for mining purposes, to the extent at least that the value of the property has been increased by the improvements made thereon by the mining lessee. Mitchell v. Burwell, 110-10. The lessor cannot deduct from the value of such improvements, as a claim prior to that of the laborer, the amount due to such lessor for royalties. Ibid.

CHAPTER 9.
OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIP.

SECTION 3106. Authorized.

A contract by which a person contributed a specified sum to the common stock of a business, without any right to share in the profits, nor any responsibility for the losses, but with an agreement to have a per cent. of the sum invested payable annually and in any event, held not to constitute such a person either a general or a limited partner. Richardson v. Carlton, 109-515.

SEC. 3109. Publication. Upon filing the certificate and affidavit, a notice containing all the facts set out in the certificate shall be published, once each week, for six weeks in two newspapers in the senatorial district in which the business is to be conducted, to be designated by the clerk of the court of the county in which such certificate is filed, proof of which publication may be made by the publishers in the same manner as original notices in ordinary actions, and filed with said clerk, which, when thus made, shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein contained. If the required publication is not made, the partnership shall be general. [19 G. A., ch. 8; C., '73, §§ 2155-6; R., §§ 1882-3.] [30 G. A., ch. 2, § 9.]

CHAPTER 10.
OF WAREHOUSEMEN, CARRIERS, HOTEL KEEPERS, LIVERY STABLE KEEPERS, AND HERDERS.

SECTION 3127. Damages.

This section refers to a wilful departure from duty by the warehouseman, and not to a mere failure to observe legal requirements in attempting to enforce his lien. Jeffries v. Snyder, 110-359.

SEC. 3129. Repeal. Section thirty-one hundred and twenty-nine (3129) of the code is hereby repealed. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 60.]

SEC. 3130. Unclaimed property—lien for charges.

The warehouseman is not obliged to take any steps towards selling the goods, but if he does it is imperative that he observe the statutory requirements. The procedure provided for is not a privilege, but a duty of the warehouseman in case he undertakes to sell stored property. Jeffries v. Snyder, 110-359.

SEC. 3131. Sale—notice. If the property remains unclaimed and the charges unpaid, the person in possession, if the probable value does not exceed one hundred dollars, shall advertise the same for fourteen days, by posting notices in five of the most public places in the city or locality where said property is held, giving such description as will indicate what is to be sold; if the goods exceed the probable value of one hundred dollars, the length of notice shall be four weeks, and there shall be a publication thereof, once each week, for the same length of time in some newspaper of
Title XV, Ch. 10. • WAREHOUSEMEN, CARRIERS, ETC. §§ 3137-3138

It is for the jury to say whether the value of the goods exceeds $100, and if so, whether the warehouseman knew this fact, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known it, and whether the notices required were posted according to law and actual notice was given to the owner. Jeffries v. Snyder, 110-369.

SEC. 3137. Liens of livery stable keepers, etc.

The agister's lien does not take priority over the lien of a prior recorded chattel mortgage, unless the mortgagee has con-

SEC. 3138. Hotel and innkeepers—liability—lien. Keepers of hotels, inns and eating houses and steamboat owners, who shall provide and keep therein a good and sufficient vault or safe for the deposit of money, jewels and other valuables, and shall provide a safe and commodious place for the baggage, clothing and other property belonging to their guests and patrons, and keep posted up in a conspicuous place in the office or other public room, and in the guests' apartments therein, printed notices, stating that such places for safe deposit are provided for the use and accommodation of the inmates thereof, shall not be liable for the loss of any money, jewels, valuables, baggage or other property not deposited with them, unless such loss shall occur through the fault or negligence of such landlord or keeper, or steamboat owner, his agent, servant or employe, but nothing herein contained shall apply to such reasonable amount of money, nor to such jewels, baggage, valuables or other property as is usual, fit and proper for any such guests to have and retain in their apartments or about their persons. Hotel, inn or eating house keepers shall have a lien upon, and may take and retain possession of, all baggage and other property belonging to or under the control of their guests, which may be in such hotel, inn or eating house, for the value of their accommodations and keep, and for all money paid for or advanced to, and for such extras and other things as shall be furnished, such guest, and such property so retained shall not be exempt from attachment or execution to the amount of the reasonable charges of such hotel, inn or eating house keeper, against such guest, and the costs of enforcing the lien thereon. [18 G. A., ch. 181.] [28 G. A., ch. 120, §§ 1, 2.]

This section gives to the inkeeper a lien, not only upon the property in fact belonging to the guest and brought by him to the hotel or inn, but likewise upon property placed therein which was under the guest's control. Therefore, held, that the inkeeper's lien attached to sample goods carried by a traveling salesman, though the inkeeper had knowledge when receiving the salesman that the goods belonged to his employer. CHAPTER 10-A.

OF WAREHOUSEMEN AND WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS.

SECTION 3138-a1. Persons who may issue receipts. Warehouse receipts may be issued by any warehouseman. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 1.]

SEC. 3138-a2. Form of receipts—essential terms. Warehouse receipts need not be in any particular form, but every such receipt must embody within its written or printed terms—
   (a) The location of the warehouse where the goods are stored,
   (b) The date of issue of the receipt,
   (c) The consecutive number of the receipt,
   (d) A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order,
   (e) The rate of storage charges,
   (f) A description of the goods or of the packages containing them,
   (g) The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent,
   (h) If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership, and
   (i) A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damages caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 2.]

SEC. 3138-a3. Form of receipts—what terms may be inserted. A warehouseman may insert in a receipt, issued by him, any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—
   (a) Be contrary to the provisions of this act,
   (b) In anywise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safe-keeping of the goods entrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 3.]

SEC. 3138-a4. Definition of non-negotiable receipt. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a non-negotiable receipt. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 4.]

SEC. 3138-a5. Definition of negotiable receipt. A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt is a negotiable receipt. No provision shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is non-negotiable. Such provisions, if inserted, shall be void. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 5.]

SEC. 3138-a6. Duplicate receipts must be so marked. When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 6.]
SEC. 3138-a7. Failure to mark "not negotiable." A non-negotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it "non-negotiable," or "not negotiable." In case of the warehouseman's failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable, may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable. This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 7.]

SEC. 3138-a8. Obligation of warehouseman to deliver. A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

(a) An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien,
(b) An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt, and
(c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman.

In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 8.]

SEC. 3138-a9. Justification of warehouseman delivering. A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

(a) The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent,
(b) A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods, or who has written authority from the person so entitled either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper, or
(c) A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 9.]

SEC. 3138-a10. Warehouseman's liability for misdelivery. Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (b) and (c) of the preceding section and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions he shall be so liable, if prior to such delivery he had either—

(a) Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or
(b) Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 10.]

SEC. 3138-a11. Negotiable receipt must be cancelled when goods delivered. Except as provided in section thirty-six (36), where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 11.]

SEC. 3138-al2. Negotiable receipt must be cancelled or marked when part of goods delivered. Except as provided in section thirty-six (36), where a warehouseman delivers part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel such receipt, or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 12.]

SEC. 3138-al3. Altered receipts. The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was—

(a) Immaterial,
(b) Authorized, or
(c) Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt, as they were before alteration. Material and fraudulent alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 13.]

SEC. 3138-al4. Lost or destroyed receipts. Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties to be approved by the court to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense, which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs and counsel fees. The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section, shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 14.]

SEC. 3138-al5. Effect of duplicate receipt. A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 15.]

SEC. 3138-al6. Warehouseman cannot set up title in himself. No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 16.]

SEC. 3138-a17. Interpleader of adverse claimants. If more than one person claims the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for non-delivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 17.]

SEC. 3138-a18. Warehouseman has reasonable time to determine validity of claims. If some one other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him or to adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 18.]

SEC. 3138-a19. Adverse title is no defense, except as above provided. Except as provided in the two preceding sections and in sections nine (9) and thirty-six (36), no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 19.]

SEC. 3138-a20. Liability for non-existence or misdescription of goods. A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the non-existence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them, or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 20.]

SEC. 3138-a21. Liability for care of goods. A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise, but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 21.]

SEC. 3138-a22. Goods must be kept separate. Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and re-delivery of the goods deposited. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 22.]

SEC. 3138-a23. Fungible goods may be commingled, if warehouseman authorized. If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common, and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 23.]
SEC. 3138-a24. Liability of warehouseman to depositors of commingled goods. The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and re-delivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 24.]

SEC. 3138-a25. Attachment or levy upon goods for which a negotiable receipt has been issued. If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishing or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman, or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 25.]

SEC. 3138-a26. Creditors' remedies to reach negotiable receipts. A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 26.]

SEC. 3138-a27. What claims are included in warehouseman's lien. Subject to the provisions of section thirty (30), a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, coopering and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice, and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 27.]

SEC. 3138-a28. Against what property lien may be enforced. Subject to the provisions of section thirty (30), a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

(a) Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, and

(b) Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person has been so entrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 28.]

SEC. 3138-a29. How lien may be lost. A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

(a) By surrendering possession thereof, or

(b) By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 29.]

SEC. 3138-a30. Negotiable receipt must state charges for which lien is claimed. If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms of section twenty-seven (27), although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 30.]

SEC. 3138-a31. Warehouseman need not deliver until lien is satisfied. A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 31.]

SEC. 3138-a32. Warehouseman’s lien does not preclude other remedies. Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor, for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 32.]

SEC. 3138-a33. Satisfaction of lien by sale. A warehouseman’s lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—

(a) An itemized statement of the warehouseman’s claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due,

(b) A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists,

(c) A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered, or from the time when the notice should reach its destination, according to the due course of post, if the notice is sent by mail, and

(d) A statement that unless the claim is paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein. From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods. At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 33.]

SEC. 3138-a34. Perishable and hazardous goods. If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability, or explosive nature, will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods and to remove them from the warehouse, and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman, after a reasonable effort, is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in a lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof. The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of the preceding section. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 34.]

SEC. 3138-a35. Other methods of enforcing liens. The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman’s claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 35.]

SEC. 3138-a36. Effect of sale. After the goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman’s lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor, or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 36.]

SEC. 3138-a37. Negotiation of negotiable receipts by delivery. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery—

(a) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer, or

(b) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where, by the terms of a negotiable receipt, the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 37.]

SEC. 3138-a38. Negotiation of negotiable receipts by indorsement. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are, by the terms of the receipt, deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. [32 G. A., ch 160, § 38.]

SEC. 3138-a39. Transfer of receipts. A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee. A non-negotiable receipt can not be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 39.]

SEC. 3138-a40. Who may negotiate a receipt. A negotiable receipt may be negotiated—
(a) By the owner thereof, or
(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted by the owner, if, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 40.]

SEC. 3138-a41. Rights of persons to whom receipt has been negotiated. A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated requires [acquires] thereby—
(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and
(b) The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 41.]

SEC. 3138-a42. Rights of persons to whom receipt has been transferred. A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor. If the receipt is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt. Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferor or by a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 42.]

SEC. 3138-a43. Transfer of negotiable receipt without indorsement. Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 43.]

SEC. 3138-a44. Warranties on sale of receipt. A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—
(a) That the receipt is genuine,
(b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it,
(c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt, and
(d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods, and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 44.]

SEC. 3138-a45. Indorser not a grantor. The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the ware­houseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 45.]

SEC. 3138-a46. No warranty implied from accepting payment of debt. A mortgagee, pledgee or holder for security of a receipt who, in good faith, demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quality or quantity of the goods therein described. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 46.]

SEC. 3138-a47. When negotiation not impaired by fraud, mistake or duress. The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to entrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake, or duress. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 47.]

SEC. 3138-a48. Subsequent negotiation. Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 48.]

SEC. 3138-a49. Negotiation defeats vendor's lien. Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancel­lation. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 49.]

SEC. 3138-a50. Issue of receipt for goods not received. A ware­houseman or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of felony, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 50.]

SEC. 3138-a51. Issue of receipt containing false statement. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods, knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a misde­meanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 51.]

SEC. 3138-a52. Issue of duplicate receipts not so marked. A ware­houseman, or any officer, agent or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods, knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncancelled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word “duplicate,” except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings as provided for in section fourteen (14), shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 52.]

SEC. 3138-a53. Issue for warehouseman’s goods of receipts which do not state that fact. Where there are deposited with or held by a ware­houseman goods of which he is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, such warehouseman, or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership, issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 53.]

SEC. 3138-a54. Delivery of goods without obtaining negotiable receipt. A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a ware­houseman who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt, the negotiating of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods, is outstanding and uncancelled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, shall, except in the cases provided for in sections fourteen (14) and thirty-six (36), be found guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars (1,000.00), or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 54.]

SEC. 3138-a55. Negotiation of receipt for mortgaged goods. Any person who deposits goods to which he has no title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 55.]

SEC. 3138-a56. When rules of common law still applicable. In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall govern. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 56.]

SEC. 3138-a57. Interpretation shall give effect to purpose of uniformity. This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. [32 G. A., ch. 160, § 57.]

TITLE XVI.
OF THE DOMESTIC RELATIONS.

CHAPTER 1.
OF MARRIAGE.

SECTION 3139. Contract.

No particular form or ceremony is necessary. All that is required is that the minds of the parties meet in mutual consent; but neither the intention to marry nor consent to such marriage can be inferred from cohabitation alone. Brisbin v. Huntington, 128-166.

SEC. 3145. Who may solemnize.

Although the mayor of a city may not have the authority to perform the marriage ceremony outside the limits of his jurisdiction, a marriage solemnized by him without the consent of the parties beyond his jurisdiction is valid under Code § 3147. State v. McKay, 122-658.

The law will presume a legal marriage in the absence of other evidence where it is shown that the parties have held themselves out to the world as husband and wife and have lived and cohabited together as such. State v. Rocker, 130-239.

When the relation is once shown to exist it will be presumed to have continued in the absence of evidence of a dissolution by death or divorce. Ibid.

Record evidence of marriage is not necessary, and it may be proved by any kind of evidence, whether direct or circumstantial. Casley v. Mitchell, 121-96.

A parish register is competent evidence of a marriage. Ibid.

Proof of the last marriage alone makes out a prima facie case as to its validity, and to overcome such prima facie case proof of a former marriage is required, and also evidence from which it may be concluded that it had not been dissolved by death or divorce. In re Estate of Calton, 129-542.

SEC. 3147. Forfeiture.

A marriage solemnized by one of the officers named in Code § 3145, but outside of his jurisdiction, will be valid under the provisions of this section. State v. McKay, 122-658.

SEC. 3150. Issue legitimatized.

Only by the subsequent marriage of the parents can an illegitimate child ever become legitimate. Such recognition of an illegitimate child as will enable him to inherit does not render him legitimate. Brisbin v. Huntington, 128-166.

CHAPTER 2.
OF HUSBAND AND WIFE.

SECTION 3153. Property rights of married women.

Although the family resides on premises owned by the wife and occupied as a homestead, the husband is presumed to be the head of the family. Burch v. Lowary, 131-719.
SEC. 3154. Interest of either spouse in other's property.

Husband and wife cannot enter into written contracts with each other in reference to the disposition of their property unless in pursuance of and in accordance with a valid contract entered into before marriage. Fraser v. Andrews, 112 N. W. 92.

The contingent interest of the wife in her husband's property cannot be made the subject of contract as between them. Shariff v. Hay, 52-609.

A contract by the husband to pay the wife a consideration for joining in a conveyance to cut off her dower right is invalid in view of the provisions of this section. Miller v. Miller, 104-186.

A contract between the wife and the husband for the payment to the wife of a share of the proceeds of property sold, on condition that she will join in the conveyance of the property for the purpose of releasing her dower interest, is not valid. Garner v. Fry, 104-515.

But if a portion of the proceeds is immediately given to the wife it will be valid as a gift and may be afterward properly treated as her property. Ibid.

Either party may elect whether he or she will join in a conveyance, but cannot use the right for purposes of speculation or oppression. Ibid.

A contract between husband and wife as to the interest of the husband in the wife's property on her decease, is invalid, not only as to real property, but also as to personalty. Poole v. Burnham, 105-620.

Such contract is invalid as to property subsequently acquired. Ibid.

While the wife cannot convey her contingent right of dower to her husband, she may by quitclaim to her husband's grantee cut off her contingent rights in the property. Fowler v. Chadima, 111 N. W. 808.

A power of attorney given by a wife to her husband, authorizing him to relinquish her right of dower in the husband's real property, is of no validity. Sawyer v. Biggart, 114-489.

Nor will the wife be bound by ratification of a conveyance to which her name is signed by the husband under such power of attorney. Ibid.

The provision that neither husband nor wife has such an interest in the property of the other that it can be the subject of contract between them is in effect a statute of descent and distribution, and an agreement of the wife upon separation to release for a consideration all interest in her husband's property is void, and will not preclude her from claiming her distributive share, although the agreement, made in another jurisdiction, was valid and enforceable where made. Caruth v. Caruth, 128-121.

This provision renders any contract invalid by which the wife releases to the husband her interest in his land, but it has no application to a property interest which husband or wife may have in the land of the other based upon contracts with third persons, or derived from sources other than the marriage relation. Baird v. Connell, 121-278.

Separation agreements are generally regarded as invalid so far as they relate to the future; but they have often been recognized and enforced so far as they relate to maintenance or other collateral engagements. Ibid.

An agreement of separation will be considered as rescinded if the parties afterward cohabit as husband and wife; but such an agreement is only thus rescinded in so far as the consideration therefor consists in the arrangement that they shall live apart; there may be other conditions based on independent considerations which are not annulled by the resumption of conjugal relations. Ibid.

A contract between husband and wife as to the interest which the wife shall have in the husband's property, made in consideration of the abandonment by the wife of meritorious proceedings for divorce and the resumption of marital relations, is valid. Fisher v. Knott, 110-486.

An antenuptial contract by which the prospective wife's inchoate distributive share in the husband's estate is surrendered will be valid. Therefore a postnuptial contract between the husband and wife with reference to the effect which shall be given to such antenuptial contract as to the interest which the wife shall acquire in the husband's property is valid. Ibid.

The courts will rigidly scrutinize a contract apparently unjust or unreasonable in its terms, and especially where it operates to deprive a wife of her interest in the husband's estate without provision for her in the event she survive him. In such a case the burden is upon the husband or those representing him to show that the contract was fairly procured in order to have it upheld. Ibid.

A contract between husband and wife in settlement of a suit for separate maintenance, by which she relinquishes all claims to his estate, except as provided for in such contract, is not effectual to defeat the wife's contingent right of dower in the husband's property subsequently conveyed. Newberry v. Newberry, 114-704.

SEC. 3155. Remedy by one against the other.

An agreement by the husband for a consideration proceeding from his wife's property, rents that he would reimburse the wife to the extent of the money and property which were advanced to him by her parents, gives to the wife a valid claim against her husband in satisfaction of which he may transfer property to her free from claims of his creditors. Clark v. Ford, 126-460.

A wife may maintain an action against her husband on a note for money loaned by her to him out of her separate estate. In re Estate of Deener, 126-701.

The time within which such an action may be maintained by the wife is governed by the general provisions of the statute of limitations. Ibid.

The money thus received by the husband cannot be regarded as held by him in trust in the absence of a showing of such agreement on his part. Ibid.

A contract by the husband and wife by which it is agreed that the wife shall have a one-half interest in all property, real and personal, thereafter coming into their possession in consideration for money advanced to the husband from the wife's separate estate, may be enforced by her. McElhaney v. McElhaney, 125-279.

The legal fiction of the oneness of husband and wife has not been entirely effaced. All disabilities which the common law imposed upon husband and wife by reason of the marriage status still exist, except in so far as they have been modified or changed by express statutory enactment. Heacock v. Heacock, 108-540.

Therefore, held that a wife cannot sue a husband on his personal contract made during coverture. Ibid.

As express authority is given for a suit by the wife against her husband to recover her property, or any right growing out of the same, she might sue her husband with reference to property rights arising out of a partnership entered into between them. Hoaglin v. Henderson, 119-720.

SEC. 3157. Conveyance to each other valid.

A postnuptial contract with reference to the wife's inchoate distributive share of the husband's estate which she would have been entitled to but for an antenuptial contract releasing such interest, may be valid. The hands of the husband and wife are not to be tied up forever by an understanding entered into before learning fully of the mutual trust and confidence engendered by and essential to well being "in the marriage relation. Fisher v. Koontz, 110-498.

A conveyance, transfer or lien, executed by either husband or wife to or in favor of the other, is valid as to any interest which the one may have in the property of the other based upon contracts with third persons or derived from sources other than the marriage relation. Baird v. Connell, 121-278.

Conveyances between husband and wife will be valid, although the premises constitute the homestead, notwithstanding the general provisions of Code § 2974 requiring that both join in a conveyance or incumbrance of the homestead. Bready v. Finney, 118-276.

The wife cannot by conveyance to her husband extinguish her contingent right of dower in his property. See notes in this supplement to Code § 3154.

SEC. 3161. Attorney in fact.

The wife cannot give the husband a power of attorney to dispose of her contingent dower interest in his property. Sawyer v. Biggart, 114-489.

SEC. 3162. Wages of wife—actions by.

In an action by a married woman for damages resulting from personal injuries, no recovery should be allowed for her loss of time in the absence of evidence that she had any business or employment apart from her husband. Denton v. Ordway, 108-487.

The husband is entitled to the services and earnings of his wife when she is not engaged in business on her own account, and in such case she cannot recover in her own name under implied contract for services rendered to a third person in furnishing him board and lodging. McClintic v. McClintic, 111-615.

But she may recover for board furnished under an express contract. Lindsey v. Lindsey, 116-480.

Where by consent of the husband the wife keeps boarders on her own account, and receives the board money and invests the fund thus accumulated in property in her own name, such property is exempt from any claim on the part of her husband's creditors. Ehlers v. Blumer, 129-168.

SEC. 3164. Contracts of wife.

A husband may contribute by his labor and sagacity to the accumulation of property in the name of his wife, without rendering such property subject to his debts. Deere v. Bonne, 108-281.

This provision as to suits by or against a wife on contracts made by or with her has reference to contracts with persons other than her husband, and does not authorize a suit by a wife against the husband on a contract entered into between them during coverture, not relating to her separate property. Heacock v. Heacock, 108-540.

Common law rules with reference to the oneness of husband and wife still so far exist that any capacity of a married woman to contract is regarded as exceptional, and the grounds therefore must be both alleged and proved by one seeking to recover. Ibid.

The wife, although not engaged in an occupation independent of her husband, may contract for furnishing board and maintain an action in her own name on such contract. Lindsey v. Lindsey, 116-480.

A married woman having authority in this state to acquire, own and dispose of property, and to make contracts and incur liabilities, may enter into a valid contract of partnership with her husband. Hoaglin v. Henderson, 119-720.

SEC. 3165. Family expenses.

A diamond shirt stud worn by the husband for personal use and adornment is an expense of the family for which the wife may be liable. Neasham v. McNair, 103-695.

The cost of feed for a horse used by the husband in his business and not by the family does not constitute a family expense chargeable to the wife. Generally speaking, the thing for which the expense is incurred which may be charged to the wife must be used or kept for use in the family. Martin v. Vertres, 130-175.

The wife does not become liable under this section for the support of her husband in an insane hospital, under the provisions of Code § 2297. Blackhawk County v. Scott, 111-190.

A creditor who has obtained judgment against the husband for family expenses may, in an equitable action, subject the property of the wife to the payment thereof without first recovering judgment at law against her. Boss v. Jordan, 118-204.

SEC. 3166. Removal from homestead—custody of children.

The wife is entitled to necessaries after being driven from the home by her husband, regardless of the cause of the expulsion. Baker v. Oughton, 130-35.

When the husband seeks to secure the return of his wife after she has left home on the ground of alleged improper conduct, the offer of reconciliation must be unconditional. Ibid.

SEC. 3167. Repeal—insanity of either spouse—conveyance of property. That section three thousand one hundred and sixty-seven (3167) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and there is hereby enacted in lieu thereof the following:

"Where either the husband or wife is insane and incapable of executing a deed or mortgage relinquishing, conveying or incumbering his or her right to the real property of the other the other may petition the district court of the county of his or her residence or the county where the real estate to be conveyed or incumbered is situated, setting forth the facts and praying for an order authorizing the applicant or some other person to execute a deed or mortgage and relinquish or incumber the interest of the insane person in said real estate." [30 G. A., ch. 119, § 1.]

SEC. 3169. Repeal—decree. That section three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine (3169) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed and there is hereby enacted in lieu thereof the following:
"Upon the hearing of the petition the court, if satisfied that it is made in good faith by the petitioner and he is a proper person to exercise the power and make the conveyance or mortgage and it is necessary and proper, shall enter a decree authorizing the execution of the conveyance or mortgage for and in the name of such husband or wife by such person as the court may appoint." [30 G. A., ch. 119, § 2.]

CHAPTER 3.
OF DIVORCE, ANNULING MARRIAGES AND ALIMONY.

SECTION 3171. Jurisdiction.

Where a decree of divorce was rendered on a notice by publication which gave the name of defendant with a spelling not the same, nor indicating the same pronunciation as that of defendant's true name, held, that there was no presumption in favor of the validity of such decree. Hubner v. Reickhoff, 103-368.

Mere length of time during which a person has lived in a particular locality is not controlling in determining the length of residence. Intention is the controlling consideration. Sylvester v. Sylvester, 109-401.

The general rule that the domicile of the husband is the domicile of the wife does not apply in proceedings for divorce. Ibid.

A decree procured by one not in good faith a resident of this state is of no validity. Roe v. McCaughan, 113-274.

SEC. 3173. Verification—evidence—hearing.

The court should be prompt to denounce collusion between parties in an action to secure a decree of divorce, but in a particular case held that the evidence did not show such collusion as to authorize the court to refuse to hear a case submitted on petition and cross-petition. Blinn v. Blinn, 113-83.

The testimony of the complaining party with reference to the grounds of divorce must be corroborated by other evidence. Shors v. Shors, 133-22.

Where the husband procured a decree of divorce from his wife by fraud, held that after his death the wife might maintain an action to set the decree aside in order to be entitled as his widow to draw a pension from the federal government. Lawrence v. Nelson, 113-277.

In a case involving property rights, the presumption arising from a pretended marriage will not be sufficient to overthrow the presumption of the continuing validity of a former marriage, in the absence of any other evidence of a divorce. Goodwin v. Goodwin, 113-319.

A divorce will not be presumed in order to sustain the validity of a subsequent marriage where the evidence affirmatively shows no record of such proceeding in the county in which it should have been instituted, and no grounds therefor. In re Estate of Colton, 129-542.

SEC. 3174. Causes.

Adultery. A husband cannot have a divorce on account of the adultery of the wife with a third person who has such connection at the instigation of the husband for the purpose of securing evidence with a view to a divorce. May v. May, 108-1.

Under the evidence in a particular case, held that although the husband had declared his preference for the society of another woman to that of his wife, there was no evidence of illicit relations such as to sustain a divorce on the ground of adultery. Craig v. Craig, 129-192.
DIVORCE AND ALIMONY. Title XVI, Ch. 3.

As to sufficiency of evidence in particular cases to establish adultery see Biser v. Biser, 110-248; Wells v. Wells, 116-59.

Desertion: Four elements are essential to constitute such desertion as will be sufficient ground for a divorce: (1), the cessation of the marriage relation; (2), the intent to desert; (3), the continuance of the desertion during the statutory period; and (4), the absence of consent or misconduct of the deserted party. Separation does not constitute desertion unless accompanied with the intent to cease to live together as husband and wife, and on the part of the spouse charged with desertion such intent must be shown to have been wrongful, i. e., in disregard of the marital obligations. Kupa v. Kupa, 132-191.

The husband cannot accept the departure of his wife from the home as a desertion and demand a divorce on that ground when he refuses to invite her to return, makes no effort to induce her to resume her place in his house and rejects her overtures for reconciliation. Even though she be originally in fault in leaving him, he cannot shut the door against her return and then make her continued absence the ground of a charge of desertion. McElhaney v. McElhaney, 125-333.

A cessation of intercourse alone will not authorize a divorce. There must be an abandonment of all marital duties and complete separation to constitute desertion under the statute. Pfannebecker v. Pfannebecker, 133-425.

Under the evidence in a particular case held that desertion as a ground of divorce in an action by the wife against her husband was sufficiently established. Walker v. Walker, 127-77.

Habitual drunkenness: Occasional acts of intoxication are not sufficient to make one an habitual drunkard. There must be an involuntary tendency to become intoxicated as often as the temptation is presented, which comes from a fixed habit acquired from frequent and excessive indulgence. Biser v. Biser, 110-248.

Inhuman treatment: Divorce will only be granted on statutory grounds; and cruel and inhuman treatment will be a sufficient ground only where it is such as to endanger life. Whether a particular act or course of mistreatment is cruel and inhuman, and if so whether it is such as to endanger life, must be determined from the facts of each case, such as the temperament, disposition and mental and physical condition of the complaining party. Blair v. Blair, 106-269.

There may be cruel and inhuman treatment which will be a ground for divorce, although the life of the wife has not been imperiled by physical acts of violence. Berry v. Berry, 115-543.

Inhuman treatment which would warrant a divorce must be such as to endanger life, and it must be treatment which has not been provoked or caused by the fault of the complaining party. Shors v. Shors, 133-22.

Cruelty provoked by the wrongful acts or unreasonable conduct of the wife will not entitle her to a divorce. May v. May, 105-1.

A divorce on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment may be granted to the wife on account of conduct of the husband such as would tend to break down her nervous system and permanently impair her health. Shook v. Shook, 114-592.

Unfounded charges by the husband against the wife of lewdness, unchastity and adultery may constitute such inhuman treatment as to endanger the life, although no physical injury be inflicted. Treatment which affects the mind to such a degree as to endanger health or endanger life is a cause for divorce. Shors v. Shors, 133-22.

Repeated false assertions by a husband in the presence of his family and to others that his wife is unchaste are calculated to impair her health and endanger life and may justify a divorce. Turner v. Turner, 122-113.

Accusations of infidelity by the wife against the husband do not in themselves constitute such cruel and inhuman treatment as to be likely to impair the health of the husband, and do not therefore constitute grounds for divorce. Pfannebecker v. Pfannebecker, 133-425.

Statements by the husband to the wife that he has lost his affection for her and prefers another woman to her may constitute such cruel and inhuman treatment as to authorize a divorce. Craig v. Craig, 129-192.

Where the evidence discloses a long continued course of ill treatment, even though with slight physical violence which would be likely to impair health and imperil the life of the wife, she is entitled to a divorce. Hulinger v. Hulinger, 133-269.

Incompatibility of temper is no ground for divorce; and while the courts cannot compel husband and wife to live together, they can make it so difficult to obtain a divorce as to encourage another effort at observance of the matrimonial vows. Olson v. Olson, 130-353.

As to sufficiency of evidence in particular cases to show such cruel and inhuman treatment as to authorize the granting of a divorce see Schafer v. Schafer, 106-492; Sylvestor v. Sylvestor, 109-401; Wells v. Wells, 116-59; Luick v. Luick, 132-302.

Condonation: The wife, by continuing to live and cohabit with the husband condones any previous acts of his which would have entitled her to a divorce. May v. May, 108-1.
A condonation based on the condition of future good conduct is destroyed as a ground of defense if the improper conduct which has been condoned is subsequently repeated. Shors v. Shors, 133-22.
Condonation is always conditional on the fact that the party forgiven will thereafter abstain from the commission of like offenses, and when the condition is broken the original cause of complaint revives. Craig v. Craig, 129-102.
Contract to procure: A contract having for its object the securing of the dissolution of the marriage contract as to one of the parties is against public policy and void, and one who renders services under such a contract cannot recover under quantum meruit. Barrgrover v. Pettigrew, 128-533.

SEC. 3177. Maintenance during litigation.
The statute does not expressly or by implication provide that temporary alimony shall be allowed only after answer. Hamilton v. Hamilton, 129-628.
The appearance of the defendant to object to the granting of temporary alimony constitutes an appearance to the action giving the court jurisdiction. Ibid.
After a trial on the merits and a judgment denying plaintiff a divorce, the court has no power to make an allowance to plaintiff of temporary alimony. Wald v. Wald, 124-183.
An allowance of suit money for appeal to the supreme court should be made on application to that court, and not by the district court after the case has been appealed. Shors v. Shors, 133-22.

SEC. 3180. Alimony—custody of children—changes.
Allowance of alimony: The court is not limited to a fixed allowance or proportion of the estate of the defendant which shall be given to the injured party as permanent alimony or for separate maintenance; such sum should be allowed by the court as is just in the light of all the facts before it. Goldie v. Goldie, 123-175.
An alternative decree giving to the successful plaintiff an option of receiving a lump sum less the aggregate of the sum paid by way of annual payments, on failure or refusal of the defendant to make the annual payments provided for, is not necessarily erroneous. Ibid.
Under our practice the property rights of the husband and wife in the property owned by each are ascertained in a divorce proceeding, and final distribution is made in order that the parties may forever remain independent of each other, and in making the allowance of alimony the court must estimate the property of both parties and adjudicate the claims that each has against the other. But the interests of either in the property of the other depending not on the marriage relation, but on contracts with third persons, or acquisition from sources other than the marriage relation are not necessarily involved. Baird v. Connell, 121-278.
The defendant should not be deprived of his right to defend the action because of his failure to comply with an order for the payment of temporary alimony, where there is no other showing than that on which the allowance of temporary alimony was made. Hancock v. Hancock, 109 N. W. 1009.
The rules as to allowance of suit money are the same in a proceeding for separate maintenance as in a suit for divorce. Ibid.
An attorney's lien does not attach to an allowance for suit money. Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 112 N. W. 796.

Where the evidence was found not sufficient to sustain a decree for divorce, held that an allowance to the husband of plaintiff of alimony to the extent of one-third of the property of the wife was erroneous. McDonald v. McDonald, 117-397.
Attorney's fees: In a decree for a divorce allowing the recovery of a specific sum against the defendant by way of alimony, the defendant appealing may be required in the supreme court on affirmation of decree to pay an additional sum by way of attorney's fees in the supreme court. Goldie v. Goldie, 133-175.
In an action for divorce by the wife in which alimony is allowed to her, the money or property thus given is subject to the lien of her attorney for fees. Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 112 N. W. 796.
In such case the wife cannot defeat the lien of her attorneys on an allegation of their negligence in not securing larger allowance in her favor, without showing such negligence on their part as would release from her primary liability to them for the payment of their fees. Ibid.

Custody and support of children:
Where the wife, suing for divorce and alimony, was denied divorce but given the custody of a child and an allowance for its support, held that such allowance was without authority, as there appeared to be no reason why the child should not remain with and receive support from the father. Garrett v. Garrett, 114-439.

Where the wife, suing for divorce, is given the custody of the children it is not improper to award such alimony as will enable her to properly clothe, maintain and educate them. Walker v. Walker, 127-77.

In determining the reasonableness of a decree providing that the divorced husband may have the custody of the child only at stated periods, and with their consent, it is proper to take into account their dislike for the father. Hullinger v. Hullinger, 132-260.

Effect of decree: A divorce and decree of alimony against the father does not terminate his obligation as a parent to further contribute to the support of his child. Foote v. De Poy, 126-366.

Subsequent change: A decree requiring the defendant to contribute to the support of the minor children, the custody of whom is awarded to the plaintiff, may be set aside to require a larger payment on a showing of increased financial ability of the defendant and increased necessities in support of the children on the part of the plaintiff. Ostheimer v. Ostheimer, 125-523.

The original decree is conclusive upon the parties as to their then circumstances, and the power to make changes in the decree is not a power to grant a new trial, or retry the cause, but only to adapt the decree to the newer circumstances of the parties. Ferguson v. Ferguson, 111-188.

The original decree is conclusive upon the parties upon the facts and circumstances then existing or which might have been proved. Fraud and false swearing in procuring the original decree is not sufficient ground for modification thereof, there being no evidence of change in the conditions or circumstances affecting the parties, unless the fraud be such as to require the setting aside of the original decree on that ground. Graves v. Graves, 132-199.

An order respecting the custody of children made in a decree of divorce is conclusive until it is subsequently made to appear that by reason of some changed circumstances or conditions the enforcement of the order would result in positive wrong or injustice. Crockett v. Crockett, 132-888.

Setting aside decree: Where it appears that the testimony on which a decree for alimony in a proceeding for divorce is rendered on service by publication was false and untrue it should be set aside. Klaes v. Klaes, 103-689.

And held, that an attorney who was to receive a share of the judgment in such a case for his services was not an innocent purchaser, of property awarded to the plaintiff in such a decree except to the extent to which he has actually made advances of money for expenses. Ibid.

Enforcement: The wife, suing for divorce, may resort to proper proceedings to subject to the payment of her alimony property of the husband in which she has an inchoate right of dower and to prevent a conveyance by him in fraud of her rights. Walker v. Walker, 127-77.

Defendant a non-resident: Where alimony has been awarded in a suit for a divorce against a non-resident an ex parte divorce fraudulently obtained by such non-resident in another jurisdiction will not bar the alimony awarded. Goldie v. Goldie, 123-176.

On service by publication: While a decree for alimony in a divorce proceeding where service is by publication only is not binding on defendant as a personal judgment, it may be enforced as to his property within the state. Rea v. Rea, 125-241.

As to a non-resident served by publication and not appearing a judgment for alimony and costs is without validity. Johnson v. Matthews, 124-255.

Such a void judgment cannot be vitalized by an order confirming it in a proceeding to subject property of the defendant to the satisfaction thereof. Ibid.

SEC. 3181. Forfeiture of rights. When a divorce is decreed the guilty party forfeits all rights acquired by marriage. In every case in which a divorce is decreed, neither party shall marry again within a year from the date of the filing of said decree unless permission to do so is granted by the court in such decree; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the persons divorced from re-marrying each other. Any person marrying contrary to the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished accordingly. [C., '73, § 2230; C., '51, § 1486.] [32 G. A., ch. 161.]

The guilty party forfeits all rights acquired by marriage, and this applies to the contingent dower interest in land conveyed either before or after divorce. Pollock v. Milburn, 112-528.
SECTION 3188. Majority.

A male becomes an adult at the age of twenty-one years, but the meaning of the term adult is to be determined by the laws of the country with reference to which that term is used. Banco De Sonora v. Bankers' Mut. Casualty Co., 124-576.

Although a minor attains his majority by marriage, nevertheless in a prosecution for sale of liquor to a minor, proof that he had not attained the age of majority is sufficient prima facie to establish such unlawful sale, without proof that he had not attained majority by marriage. State v. Mulhern, 130-46.

SEC. 3189. Contracts—disaffirmance.

A minor may relieve himself from legal liability under his contract by a timely disaffirmance and a return or offer to return of the consideration received, and such disaffirmance relieves him from liability upon a note given by him in connection with such contract, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Seeley v. Seeley-Howe-LeVan Co., 128-294.

Such disaffirmance does not, however, release the obligation of the surety on such contract. Ibid.

The minor may disaffirm before he attains the age of majority, but he is only required by statute to restore the money or property which he has received by virtue of the contract, which remains within his control after attaining majority. Beickler v. Guenther, 121-419.

Where a minor elects to disaffirm a contract for the purchase of land he is entitled to recover the purchase price less the amount owing on the contract, with interest from the time of payment to the time of trial. Ibid.

SEC. 3190. Misrepresentations—engaging in business.

If a minor engages in business as a merchant, and parties subsequently assume that he is of full age and deal with him in that belief, no inquiry or representation being made as to his minority, he becomes absolutely liable for the debts contracted in such business, and he may be adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition, though still an infant. In re Brice, 93 Fed. 942.

There is a secondary liability of a minor for necessaries furnished to him, such as physicians' services, notwithstanding the primary liability of his parents therefor. Andrews v. Chicago G. W. R. Co., 129-162.

A minor is only permitted to contract for necessaries because otherwise he might suffer for want of them, and he is not bound by the terms of an express contract for necessaries, but only for their reasonable value. Therefore the minor may disaffirm an unexecuted contract for necessaries. Wallin v. Highland Park Co., 127-131.

A minor cannot be held liable for breach of promise, but may be held for seduction. Wise v. Schloesser, 111-16.

Although a minor cannot make a valid contract of marriage, nevertheless a promise of marriage by the defendant, a minor, may be shown in an action to recover damages for seduction. Hawk v. Harris, 112-543.

CHAPTER 5.

OF THE GUARDIANSHIP OF PERSONS AND PROPERTY.

SECTION 3192. Natural guardian.

Natural guardian: Parents are the natural guardians of their minor children, and as such may accept the delivery of deeds made to them where the deeds are beneficial in their nature. Hall v. Cardell, 111-206.

On the death of the parents, the grandfather or grandmother when next of kin succeeds to the natural guardianship and cannot be deprived of the rights incident thereto by a deed of adoption approved in an ex parte proceeding by the clerk of

An acceptance by a collateral relative of the custody of the child in pursuance of the request of the deceased parent and a reasonable observance of the duty assumed by such acceptance are circumstances of much weight as between claimants otherwise equal in right as to the custody of the child, but are not in all circumstances controlling factors in the situation. Ibid.

A judgment rendered against a minor without appointment of or defense by a guardian is not void, but at most irregular. Reints v. Engle, 130-726. And see notes to §3482.

Custody of child: The parent's right to the custody of the child, while recognized and allowed strong weight, is not absolute, and will not be enforced against the serious interest of the child. The child's vital welfare, present and future, is not sacrificed to the parent's claim. Hadley v. Forrest, 112-125.

The right of the parent to the custody of his child should be denied with much hesitancy, and only upon satisfactory proof of a legal surrender thereof or unequivocal showing that the interest of the child demands such interposition by the court. Dunkin v. Seifert, 123-64.

The fact that one who has had the custody of a child is better able to give it the comforts and luxuries of life than the father who is surrendering or abandoning his legal right will not be a controlling consideration as against the claim of the father for its custody. Ibid.

While the best interest of the child should always be accepted as a matter of controlling importance in determining the right to its custody, yet this question is a relative one and can never be wholly divorced from the question of the rights and interests of the parents or those standing in loco parentis. The affection of the child for one who has had its custody will not necessarily outweigh other considerations in determining the right to future custody. Miller v. Miller, 123-165.

The parent may lawfully be deprived of the custody of his minor child and still be liable for its support. Guthrie County v. Conrad, 133-171.

One who takes and raises a child to whom he has no relationship and can never be wholly divorced from the question of the rights and interests of the parents or those standing in loco parentis. The affection of the child for one who has had its custody will not necessarily outweigh other considerations in determining the right to future custody. Ibid.

The parent may confer upon some other person the legal right to the custody of a minor child, but such an arrangement contemplating permanent custody will not be binding unless this is the intention of the parent. Miller v. Miller, 123-165.

The parent does not permanently forfeit his right to regain the custody of his child by an arrangement under which the child is to live with and be cared for by another for an annual consideration. The rights of the parent are not to be interfered with except under imperative necessity, for the welfare of the child, growing out of gross misconduct of the parent. Van Auken v. Wieman, 128-476.

Habeas corpus: In a habeas corpus proceeding brought by one claiming to be the guardian against one claiming to be the parent by adoption, the court may enquire not only into the legality of the adoption, but also to the best interests of the child. But the custody of the adopted parent when found to be legal, will not be interfered with unless the best interests of the child require it. Smiley v. McIntosh, 129-327.

The issues in a habeas corpus proceeding for the custody of a child are not triable de novo on appeal, and if there is evidence to support the finding of the trial court, the supreme court will not reverse. Dunkin v. Seifert, 123-84.

Services: Clothing furnished by the father to a minor child remains the property of the father, and he may recover for injury thereto. He may also recover for any loss of services or for medical attendance occasioned directly by the wrongful acts of another with reference to the child. Shoemaker v. Jackson, 129-488.

Emancipation: The father's emancipa-tion of his minor son may be in writing or parol, and may be proven by circumstantial evidence or implied from conduct. The mere fact that the son continues to make his home with the father and to assist him is not controlling in determining the question of emancipation. Bristor v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 129-479.

Emancipation means the voluntary freeing of the child so that he may manage and control his own time and affairs. Guthrie County v. Conrad, 138-171.

Where a son during infancy was allowed to manage his business in his own name, and to pay over his earnings to his mother, there was sufficient evidence of an emancipation by the father. Jacobs v. Jacobs, 130-10.

A mutual understanding between parent and child is sufficient to constitute emancipation, and such understanding may arise by implication from the acts and conduct of the parties. Kubic v. Zemke, 105-269.

If, however, the parent still claims the right to the child’s services during minority, whether he exercises the right to have them or not, there is no such emancipation as to free the parent from the obligation the law creates to pay the necessary support furnished to the child by a third party. Ibid.

SEC. 3193. Surviving parent guardian of the person.

The right of the guardian to the custody of the ward may be interfered with by the court in the interests of the ward at least to the extent of making some other temporary disposition of such custody than that which would result from the fact of appointment alone. Smith v. Haas, 132-493.

The appointment of another guardian on the tender of resignation of an existing guardian amounts to an acceptance of such resignation, and the failure of the guardian appointed to qualify does not restore the previous guardianship. Smiley v. McIntosh, 129-337.

SEC. 3197. Bond and oath.

A court of equity has jurisdiction to set aside a settlement and release of the guardian and his sureties on account of fraud in procuring the settlement. Witt v. Day, 112-110.

Under the circumstances of a particular case held that the bondsmen in making settlement with the ward after attaining majority, had not exercised the good faith required, and that the settlement should be set aside. Ibid.

SEC. 3198. Removal—new bond.

In a proceeding to determine the right of a guardian to the custody of the ward, the court may remove such guardian as an unfit person, and substitute another in his place. Smith v. Haas, 132-493.

SEC. 3200. Duties.

Powers: The guardian cannot excuse an unauthorized act on the ground that it was under the advice of a judge given orally outside of court. In re Guardianship of Kimble, 127-865.

The signing of a contract by the guardian for the ward under the direction of the probate court makes the contract as binding and conclusive with reference to the ward as though the ward had been an adult and executed such contract in person. In re Harker’s Estate, 113-584.

A guardian cannot loan the money of his ward, lease his land or invest his funds without an order of court. Such transactions are invalid, or at least voidable, until approved. Easton v. Somerville, 111-164.

Without direction of court, the guardian has no authority to loan his ward’s money, and should keep the money and property of the ward separate from his own, and make investment thereof under the court’s direction, as guardian only, and not in his own name. McIntire v. Bailey, 133-418.

While guardians are authorized to employ counsel for their wards, such employment must be under order of court entered on the record. In re Manning Estate, 111 N. W. 409.

On death of ward: After the death of the ward, the guardian still holds funds in his hands for the ward’s administrator, and not for his heirs, and cannot be examined as garnishee by judgment creditors of such heirs. Pugh v. Jones, 112 N. W. 225.

Allowance for support: While in general a parent, or one standing in loco parentis to the ward, is not entitled to an allowance out of the ward’s estate for support of the child, yet there may be circumstances under which such allowance is proper. In re Carter, 120-215.

While application for such allowance should be made to the probate court before any indebtedness therefor is contracted, yet, even though such application is not made until after the support has been furnished, if the claim therefor is reasonable and just, it may be allowed and payment ordered, the propriety of the allowance being passed upon when it is asked, and when such allowance is made the action of the probate court will be presumed to be correct, and will be sustained unless fraud is shown. Ibid.

But in a particular case held that the circumstances showed fraud and collusion on the part of the guardian in furnishing an allowance to the parent for the guardian’s own personal advantage. Ibid.

Settlement: The court cannot in a guardianship proceeding settle the estate of the deceased ward, nor determine who is entitled to the proceeds of such estate, the heirs of the deceased ward not being parties to the proceeding. Nor is it competent to compel the heirs to become parties to a settlement of the guardianship. In re Guardianship of Lindsay, 132-119.

It is no defense to a guardian in a proceeding to require a settlement of his deceased ward’s estate that by agreement of heirs or other persons having an interest in the estate the guardian is entitled to the proceeds of such estate. Ibid.

A settlement between the guardian and the ward made out of court should be closely scanned, and approval thereof should be withheld where it is made to appear that such settlement is clearly against the interest of the ward. In re Guardianship of Holecker, 94 N. W. 486.

One who accepts the trust incident to guardianship should be held responsible for a fair and faithful exercise of his trust. Ibid.

The burden is upon the guardian claiming a settlement with the ward after becoming of age out of court to establish the fact of such settlement. Robb’s Estate v. Robb, 111 N. W. 803.

The fact that the guardian has in a voluntary petition in bankruptcy stated indebtedness to his ward as among his liabilities does not estop him when called upon to account as guardian from denying the correctness of such statement with the explanation that the discharge of liability prior to bankruptcy had been questioned by the ward so as to give rise to an obligation of contingent liability. Ibid.

Defend the facts of a particular case held that there was such admission by the guardian of receipt of money of the ward as to render him liable to account therefor. In re Gray, 132-144.

Under the provisions of the statute the guardian is not relieved from liability for loss of funds invested, unless he acts under the direction of the court in making such investment. Van Rees v. Wittenburg, 112-20.

Settlements by a guardian with his ward out of court are not favored, and one who relies on such settlement must clearly show that he made full disclosure of everything, and that the ward knew and understood that he was making a full and final settlement. Every reasonable intendment is to be made in favor of the ward. Ibid.

In the absence of any actual accounting or settlement, the guardian is not discharged by a written release from the ward, and a discharge pursuant to such release is not an adjudication. Such discharge may be set aside without proof of actual fraud. Ellis v. Soper, 111-631.

While the mother as guardian may not be bound in all events to support the child out of her own means, in the absence of an allowance by the court from the property of the ward in her hands, nevertheless, where she has ample means she should not be allowed to encroach on the estate of the child, though she may set off the support of her child as against a claim for an accounting for interest. Ibid.

Defense by: Although the defense for a minor child is made in the trial court by a guardian ad litem, the court has authority to appoint a general guardian and direct that he prosecute the appeal in behalf of the minor. In re Estate of Strang, 131-585.

Claims against ward: One who has acquired a lien on the property of the ward by attachment proceedings is not by the subsequent appointment of a guardian compelled to look to the probate court for the enforcement of his rights. Hawks v. Harris, 112-543.

Action by guardian: A guardian suing to set aside a conveyance made by his ward has the burden of proving the ward’s legal incapacity. But where the transaction complained of has taken place between persons standing in confidential relations, it will be closely scanned and the burden is on the party claiming the advantage of such transaction to show bona fide. Reese v. Shute, 153-681.

SEC. 3201. Breach of bond—new guardian.

A failure to account to the ward when he reaches his majority is a breach of obligation under the guardian’s bond, and a right of action then accrues to the ward, and the statute of limitation begins to run. The running of the statute cannot be postponed by failure of the ward to make demand for an accounting. Ackerman v. Hilpert, 108-247.

Where a guardian makes final report and his liability is adjudicated, such adjudication is binding on his sureties, and they are not entitled to relief on the ground that the guardian, under mistake as to his duties and liabilities, has made a report showing a greater liability than that actually existing. Steiner v. Lenz, 110-49.

SEC. 3203. Account.

The accounting contemplated by the statute is not for the purpose of adjudicating the correctness of the accounts, but to indicate to the court and those interested, the condition of the estate, its liabilities and resources, the propriety of orders for which application may be made and generally the care given and required to best serve the interests of the ward. Such reports are ex parte and when approved are not to be given greater affect than prima facie evidence of the accuracy of the account as stated. In re Guardianship of Kimble, 127-665.

The report of the guardian should show that funds of the ward invested by direction of the court have been invested in his name as guardian and not in his own name, and the requirement as to annual reports should be construed as mandatory, although any reasonable explanation for failure to comply may be accepted by the court, provided the delay in making report is not unreasonable. McIntire v. Bailey, 133-418.

It may be a sufficient ground for removal that a feeling of hostility between the guardian and his ward has arisen and such a situation exists that the guardian cannot properly represe the interests of the ward. Ibid.

SEC. 3204. Penalty.

On the failure of the guardian to comply with the statutory requirements as to investment of his ward's funds and report thereof he should be removed, even though his bond is sufficient and the estate has not suffered loss. McIntire v. Bailey, 133-418.

A guardian should be allowed reasonable attorney's fees actually paid out in defending a claim against his ward's estate. In re Guardianship of Kimble, 127-665.

SEC. 3205. Compensation.

Where the guardian does not do his full duty in notifying his ward of their right to moneys in his hands, and wrongfully mixes the trust fund with his own, he may be charged with interest thereon at six per cent, with annual rents. Blakeney v. Wyland, 115-607.

A guardian should be allowed reasonable attorney's fees actually paid out in In such case it is the duty of the guardian ad litem to make defense for the ward and, in submitting the case to the court to raise every question involving the rights of the person under disability. Ibid.

A guardian who has had an allowance for the care of a ward, cannot after the ward's death recover from the estate additional compensation for the same services. Gibson v. Wild, 124-152.

SEC. 3206. Property sold.

Where notice has been served upon the ward and guardian ad litem appointed to act in his behalf an order for the sale of the property is binding. In re Guardianship of Kimble, 127-665.

SEC. 3219. Guardians of drunkards, spendthrifts and lunatics.

The proceeding for the appointment of a guardian is an adversary proceeding and not a proceeding in rem. The petitioner is plaintiff, and the person against whom the proceeding is instituted is defendant. A jury trial may be had, and an appeal is authorized. Brown v. Lambe, 119-404.

Jurisdiction in guardianship cases is not made to depend upon a strict construction of the word "inhabitant," as found in the statute. The proceeding may be instituted as to one living or being at the time within the state, regardless of his legal residence. Ibid.

Where the court had acquired jurisdiction in a guardianship proceeding by reason of the domicile within the county of the insane ward, there is no right during the continuance of the insanity of the ward to have the jurisdiction of the guardianship transferred to another county. McIntire v. Bailey, 133-418.

It seems that a person is of unsound mind when so weak and infirm mentally as not to be capable of exercising the judgment necessarily required in the management of his ordinary affairs. Garretson v. Hubbard, 110-7.

Where the person for whom it is sought to have a guardian of property appointed is not shown to be incapable of intelligently managing his property, the fact that it appears that he is a sexual pervert and may commit wrongs such as to render him liable to respond in damages will not be ground for appointing a guardian. Schick v. Stuhr, 120-396.

In determining the question as to whether a guardian should be appointed for a person of unsound mind, the ultimate question as to the extent of the capacity of the one for whom guardianship is sought is for the jurv. McGibbons v. McGibbons, 119-140.

Where it was made a condition by a divorced wife of the dismissal of a proceeding brought by her against her former husband to have a guardian appointed for him on the ground of insanity that he should settle property on their child, held that such settlement was invalid whether he was in fact insane or was by duress compelled in escaping an unwarranted proceeding for the appointment of a guardian to make a settlement. Foote v. De Poy, 126-366.

Under the facts in a particular case held

SEC. 3221. Repeal—order of court—power of guardian.

SEC. 3225. Real estate sold—allowance to family. Whenever the sale or mortgage of the real estate of such ward is necessary for his support or for the support of his family or the payment of his debts, or will be for the interest of the estate or his children, the guardian may sell or mortgage the same under like proceedings as required by law to authorize the sale of real estate by the guardian of the minor. The court shall, if necessary, set off to the wife and minor children of the insane person, or to either, sufficient of his property, of such kind as it shall deem appropriate, to support them during the period such person is insane. [26 G. A., ch. 54; 22 G. A., ch. 70; C., '73, § 2276; R., § 1453.] [29 G. A., ch. 131, § 1.]

SEC. 3227. When estate is insolvent.

Any control which the probate court acquires over property of the ward by the appointment of the guardian is subject to an attachment on such property already levied in another proceeding. Hawk v. Harris, 112-543.

CHAPTER 6.

OF MASTER AND APPRENTICE.

SECTION 3229. Indenture.

The parents of a minor have no right to bind him out as an apprentice save during the years of minority. Walton v. Atchison, T. & F. R. Co., 131-423.

SEC. 3241. Complaint against apprentice.

Where the relation of master and servant continues after the majority of the apprentice, the question as to rightful discharge of the servant by the master is not determined by the statutory provisions relating to apprenticeship. Walton v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 131-423.

The parents of a minor have no right to bind him out as an apprentice save during the years of minority. Ibid.

Where the relation of master and servant continues after majority of the apprentice, the master has the right to discharge for breach of conditions in the contract of apprenticeship. Ibid.

SEC. 3246. Binding out by order of court.

In the absence of extreme neglect of a natural and legal duty courts will always be slow in refusing recognition to the paramount right of the parent or one who is by nature in loco parentis. Holmes v. Derrig, 127-825.
CHAPTER 7.

OF ADOPTION.

SECTION 3252. Instrument acknowledged and recorded.

A parent may confer upon some other person the legal right to the custody of a minor child although such person does not become the adopted parent; but there must be such intent on the part of the parent as well as an assumption of obligation on the part of the person to whom custody is thus given, and it will be presumed that such surrender of custody is intended to be temporary unless the contrary is made to appear by proof clear, definite and certain. Miller v. Miller, 125-165.

A deed of adoption approved by the clerk of the court on application of a collateral relative in an ex parte proceeding, is not binding as against the grandparents of the child with whom it was left on the death of its parents. Holmes v. Derrig, 127-625.

Where the father of a child joined in executing an instrument of adoption at a time when there was no appointed guardian for the child, held that such instrument of adoption was effectual although there had been a previous guardianship. The adopting parent should not be deprived of the custody of the child in a habeas corpus proceeding unless it appears that the best interests of the child require that its custody be given to some other person. Smiley v. McIntosh, 129-337.

Statutes of adoption are in derogation of the common law and are to be strictly construed. Bresser v. Saarman, 112-720.

The recital that the natural parent fully and voluntarily consents to the adoption of the children by husband and wife named as adopting parents is effectual. Ibid.

Where the acknowledgment of an instrument of adoption was by a justice of the peace of another state, without the genuineness of his signature being shown by an accompanying certificate, and the instrument thus defectively acknowledged was recorded, held that the recording thereof was legalized by a subsequent statute curing defects in the recording of instruments defectively acknowledged. Ibid.

The instrument of adoption must show the consent of the parent to the adoption and contain a statement that the child is given to the person adopting as his own child. Hopkins v. Antrobus, 120-21.

To render the instrument of adoption effectual, there must be substantial compliance with all the requirements of the statute on the subject. Ibid.

An agreement to adopt, although not executed in conformity with requirements of the statute, may constitute a binding obligation on the part of the adopting parent to confer upon the child attempted to be adopted the rights of inheritance. Chehak v. Battles, 138-107.

The surrender of the custody of the child by its parents to the adopting parents is a sufficient consideration to support an agreement to confer the rights of inheritance. Ibid.

Indexing an instrument for the adoption of a minor under the name of the adopting parents, and also that of the adopted child is sufficient. Indexing is not essential to the validity of the instrument, and the omission of the recorder to index it exactly as provided in the statute will not render it invalid. Hilpire v. Claude, 109-159.

The adoption of a child operates like the subsequent birth of a legitimate child to revoke a will previously executed. It appears to be the legislative intention to place adopted children upon the same level as children of lawful birth. Hilpire v. Claude, 109-159.

CHAPTER 8-A.

OF THE CARE OF FRIENDLESS CHILDREN AND THE ESTABLISHMENT, REGULATION AND VISITATION OF HOMES FOR.

SECTION 3260-a. Repeal. That chapter eight (8) of title sixteen (16) of the code be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following enacted in lieu thereof. [29 G. A., ch. 133, § 1.]
SEC. 3260-b. Powers of societies. Any society legally incorporated under the laws of the state of Iowa for the purpose of receiving, caring for, placing out for adoption, or in any way improving the condition of abandoned, abused, ill-treated, friendless, or orphan children, may receive, control and dispose of such minor children under the provisions of this act; and such corporation shall be the legal guardian of the persons of all children so surrendered to it, and may exercise all the rights and authority of the parents of such children in regulating the apprenticing and adoption thereof. [29 G. A., ch. 133, § 2.]

An appeal may be taken to the district court from the order of a magistrate at any time within twenty (20) days thereafter, in the same manner as appeals are taken from judgments in justice courts, except that no bond shall be required to stay proceedings.
