ELECTION OF SPEAKER

Bryson of Hardin presented the name of Honorable Henry W. Burma of Butler county as candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives, preceding such nomination with the following remarks:

Mr. Speaker, the Lady of the House and Members of This General Assembly:

As I rise to speak it is with two fold pleasure, first, that I have been granted the privilege of presenting to this Fiftieth General Assembly the name of an old friend for Speaker of the House; secondly, that I can now speak without fear of questioning or interruption.

I wish at this time to present, for what I sincerely hope may be without any opposition, a man whose high qualifications are known to all of us, a man with all of the qualifications of a leader and speaker; one who has always been courteous to all whether he agreed with them or not; one who has given the same consideration to those who were opposing the measures which he was supporting as he gave to those who were supporting the measure; an upright, trustworthy man who has been fearless and courageous in the performance of all his duties. A man of wonderful disposition and exceptionally even temperament, one who can and will preside with dignity, and will rule on the matters coming to him with frankness, and fairness regardless of political or other affiliations of the persons presenting the same, in fact he has all the necessary qualifications of splendid presiding officer and speaker.

Members of the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa, it affords me great pleasure to present to you at this time the Honorable Henry W. Burma of Butler county, Iowa, for Speaker of this House.

Kruse of Floyd seconded the nomination of Mr. Burma for Speaker of the House, preceding his seconding with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER: I wish to concur in all the gentleman from Hardin has said. I have known Mr. Burma for many years and I know him to be a man among men and he is indeed a man after my own heart.

I deem it a great privilege and an honor to second the nomination of my friend and colleague, Henry W. Burma of Allison, Butler county, for Speaker of the House, Fiftieth General Assembly.

Johannes of Osceola seconded the nomination and moved that the Chief Clerk be authorized to cast the votes of all the members of the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, for the Honorable Henry W. Burma as Speaker of the House, preceding his nomination with the following remarks:

MR. TEMPORARY SPEAKER, LADY MEMBER, AND HOUSE MEMBERS:

We are gathered here today to open the Fiftieth General Assembly. You were elected by the voters in the November election to carry out their wishes for the ensuing session of the legislature by a decisive victory. On you members-elect of the majority party will fall the responsibility to carry out their wishes. Realizing this majority we, the minority, for whom I am honored to speak, join in pledging our united support to have this a successful session in that unity and harmony shall prevail.

I want to congratulate the members of the minority for their sportsmanship and good will to the majority party by an informal decision that we do not present a speaker.

I want to congratulate the majority party for their selection of Representative Henry Burma. I have known him for three sessions, have worked with him and found him fair and honest. I am confident that he will be fair and carry out the wishes and desires of the people and the voters whom we all represent.

This session, according to reports, would be a short one, but I feel that most of us realize conditions abroad and realize what could occur in the time we are in session here, and therefore could run the full length of 100 days. Let us all join in doing a good job for the state of Iowa and pass constructive legislation in the time that may be required to do so.

At this time I want to second the nomination of Representative Henry Burma of Butler county as Speaker of the House of Representatives and move that the Chief Clerk be authorized to cast the vote of all the members of the House of Representatives for the Honorable Henry W. Burma as Speaker of the House.

Motion prevailed.

In accordance with the above motion, the Chief Clerk cast the votes of all of the members of the House for Mr. Burma.

Honorable Henry W. Burma of Butler county, having received all of the votes cast for the office of Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, was declared elected to that office.

Wilson of Calhoun moved that a committee of two be named to escort the Speaker to the chair. Motion prevailed and the following committee was named: Wilson of Calhoun and Less of Du-buque.

Mr. Burma was escorted to the Speaker's station and upon being sworn, assumed the chair and made the following remarks:

MEMBERS OF THE FIFTIETH GENERAL ASSEMBLY: An experience like this never came to me before, and how I will get along with it remains to be seen. This is the first time I have stood in the Speaker's station as your presiding officer. I thank you for the confidence you have placed in me. I assume and expect the responsibilities that go with it. There never was a time when public officials were face to face with as great and grave responsibilities as we are today. Millions of people in the world are in trouble, and they are in trouble because greed, hate, selfishness, prejudice and misunderstanding have been permitted to run rampant in the world. It would be a splendid thing if we members of the Fiftieth General Assembly would resolve that greed, hate, selfishness, prejudice and misunderstanding shall not prevail here.

I would like to say a few words to the new members. We were all new members at one time. The people who elected you had confidence in your ability, they want you to do the right thing. After your election you were given much advice and information about what you should do, and what you should not do. I was told, and I believe you were told, that you should look out for, and stay away from, certain members of the Legislature. I was here only a short time until I learned that the members of the Legislature are generally very high type and a very fine group of men, and no one needs to fear them. Another thing I was told, and I believe some of you were told the same thing, was to look out for the big city boys and the so called special interests. I soon learned the big city boys and the special interests were just as vitally interested in the welfare of Iowa, the nation and the world, as the rest of us. And last but not least I was to stay away from the lobbyists lest they take you in and gobble you up. I found most lobbyists are fine gentlemen, many of them are former members of this body and represent reliable firms in Iowa and other states. I am confident you new members will find that what I am telling you is true. We all know how to say yes and no, and know what it means. Let's stand on our own feet and not on the other fellow's. Let's fight hard and honorably for the things we believe are right, and when it's over let's be friends, for tomorrow we may be fighting together.

Speaker Burma in the chair.

The Chair wishes to name as a standing committee the members who were chosen at a pre-legislative caucus, to have prepared and presented to the legislature, prior to the convening of the legislature, bills of a collective nature and nonconversive bills. The committee have been doing splendid work, have given of their time, have paid their own expenses, so that the Fiftieth General Assembly would have some bills to consider when the Assembly convenes. I want to personally thank and commend the members of the committee for the very splendid and unselfish work they have done.

The following members were named to the special committee: Dvorak of Tama, Reed of Jefferson, Moyle of Jackson, Avery of Clay, Wichman of Poweshiek, Steinberg of Story, Heffner of Hamilton, Walter of Pottawattamie, Wormley of Plymouth, Noble of O'Brien, Doud of Van Buren, Swaner of Johnson and Tatum of Harrison.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

Fishbaugh of Page placed in nomination the Honorable A. H. Avery of Clay county as candidate for speaker pro tempore of the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, preceding his nomination with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE:

For almost a decade one of our members has served in this chamber. That is a long period for service here. During that time many have been the controversial measures, many have been the heated words in debate which have resounded against the walls of this noble chamber. Yet I call to witness the older members that not once has this member resorted to bitter words, never once has he allowed the venom of bad feeling to tincture his remarks. Rather, he is known to all the members of this House for his kindly, friendly disposition. He is learned, he is fair, he is courteous—in short, he is the embodiment of all the manly honor and virtues which we intend when we use the word “gentleman”.

It is my privilege this morning to name as a candidate for the office of Speaker pro tempore of this House a man who is an educator, who has served as mayor of his city, and whose civic virtues are known throughout the state; a man who is respected by his fellow citizens and who is regarded with affection by the members of this House. Most of us will not be able to raise any monuments or memorials to live after us, but by kindly act and noble deed we may be able to gain the remembrance of our friends. For as it was said by Lord Tennyson, "Kind words are more than coronets, and noble deeds than Saxon blood. An honest man's the noblest work of God." I say to you that the kindness, the charity, and the wisdom of this man have been written into the statutes of our state for all time.

Respected by his fellow citizens, regarded affectionately by his associates in this House, he richly deserves any honor we can pay him. I am happy, I am proud to nominate for the office of Speaker pro tempore of this House the gentleman from Clay, the Honorable A. H. Avery.

Poston of Wayne seconded the nomination and moved that the Chief Clerk be authorized to cast the votes of all of the members of the House of Representatives for the Honorable A. H. Avery as speaker pro tempore, preceding his seconding with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER:

I hasten to arise to second the nomination made by the gentleman from Page. The statements made by Earl Fishbaugh are true and with all of them I heartily concur.

I had the honor of serving in the Forty-ninth General Assembly with the nominee. I remember his sunny smile, his genial disposition, his sense of fairness, and know something of his ability, enhanced by the fact that he has served in many previous sessions of the Legislature.

I can recommend him to my fellow members as fair, judicial, and with the ability to make a splendid presiding officer. It is a privilege to second the nomination.

I therefore move, Mr. Speaker, that the Chief Clerk be instructed to cast a unanimous ballot of the House for the gentleman's gentleman from Clay, Mr. A. H. Avery, for Speaker pro tempore.

Motion prevailed.

In accordance with the above motion, the Chief Clerk cast the votes of all the members of the House for Mr. Avery.

COMMITTEE FROM THE SENATE

A committee from the Senate appeared and notified the House that the Senate was duly organized and ready to receive any communications that the House might wish to transmit.

Orebaugh of Polk, chairman of the committee to notify the Governor that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communications it might desire to transmit, reported that the committee had performed its duty. Report accepted and the committee discharged.

Knowlton of Winneshiek, chairman of the committee to notify the Senate that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communications it might desire to transmit, reported that the committee had performed its duty. Report accepted and the committee discharged.

REPORT OF ACTIVITIES

IOWA INDUSTRIAL AND DEFENSE COMMISSION

Edw. A. Kimball, Chairman
Rodney Q. Selby, Executive Secretary

The Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission was created by Act of the Forty-ninth General Assembly in February, 1941. At that time the country was not at war and defense preparations were just getting under way nationally. The principal function of the Commission as then visualized by the Legislature, was to make available to the National Defense Program, Iowa's industrial and agricultural facilities; to point out to the national administration the desirability of Iowa as a location for defense production and to assist in every way possible in promoting the defense effort.

The Commission, appointed by the Governor pursuant to statutory.

direction, consisted of fifteen members representing varied interests in the state including labor, industry, agriculture, home and business.

The first undertaking of the Commission was to conduct a survey of the State's industrial facilities and to make this information available to governmental procurement agencies such as the Office of Production Management, the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission. The Commission undertook to assist manufacturers of the State in obtaining defense contracts. The Commission Secretary spent a large part of his time in Washington, D. C. and at various procurement districts, contacting government officials and acquainting them with the available facilities in Iowa.

As a result of this effort, directly and indirectly a large volume of Defense production work found its way to Iowa. Prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor the Commission kept a record of the volume of this work coming into the State. After the declaration of war, military censorship on contract awards made such a record impossible, but the records up to that time showed in excess of $200,000,000 of Defense business placed in Iowa. Since that time the rate of war production has been tremendously accelerated and conservative estimates of informed persons, which in the interests of security must be unofficial, place the total at several times this amount. The total amount of war production expenditures that have been allotted to Iowa in plant construction and operation, prime and sub contracts, is now approaching the billion dollar mark.

Three large ordnance plants have been located in Iowa, the Iowa Ordnance Plant at Burlington for heavy shell loading, the Des Moines Ordnance Plant for small arms ammunition manufacture and the Tank Arsenal at Bettendorf. At Waterloo, the John Deere Company has one of the largest contracts for the manufacture of tank transmissions. An Army Air Base has been located at Sioux City and the Navy has an aviation training field at Ottumwa. A glider school was stationed at Spencer. Clinton was selected as the site for a large Federal Hospital. The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps training headquarters were located at Fort Des Moines, and an air corps supply depot was placed on the Iowa State Fair Grounds. The Army Induction Center first operated at Fort Des Moines is now at Camp Dodge.

All of the State's washing machine manufacturers have been converted to war production. Almost every large manufacturer of every type now has gone over completely to war production and hundreds of small manufacturers are sub-contractors. Iowa's food processors, packers and cannery are contributing in large measure to feeding our own armed forces and those of our allies. Fifteen hemp processing plant sites have been selected in North Central Iowa to produce hemp for Navy cordage. Iowa farmers participate in this program by growing the hemp.

In the summer of 1941, the Commission persuaded the Office of Production Management to establish a Division of Defense Contract Service in Iowa and the Commission not only provided the office and clerical staff for this, but also obtained the services of an Industrial Engineer to head this work, without cost to the Federal Government. The Commission also obtained Priorities Analysts for the State on a similar basis. At the beginning of this year the Federal Government took over the increasing burden of operating these State Offices. This Defense Contract Service, later the Division of Contract Distribution under the War Production Board, was of great service to Iowa manufacturers and business men in assisting them to obtain war production business, and in obtaining for the government additional production facilities.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE

In the summer of 1941 the Commission, anticipating the need for Civilian Defense organization, suggested to the Governor that Defense Councils be established in every county in the State so that essential defense activities could be carried out efficiently in every section of the State by coordinated action. Defense Council Chairmen and members of County Councils were appointed in every one of the State's ninety-nine counties.

When war was declared in December 1941, Iowa was ready to enter the serious program of civilian mobilization, not alone for protective defense but also for participation in the essential activities of the total war effort.

Immediately after the declaration of war, it became necessary to put into effect a rigid rationing of automobile tires and automobiles themselves. The Federal Government had no agencies organized to undertake this tremendous job. They needed an organization extending into every county, city and village and it must be one that could function immediately, patriotically and unselfishly in a coordinated effort. The State's Civilian Defense Councils were just such an organization.

The Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission through its County Defense Councils set up rationing boards, instructed personnel in complicated regulations and put the first rationing program into effect in less than two weeks time, without one cent of federal funds and entirely with volunteer help throughout the State.

The Commission obtained the services of a State Rationing Administrator who worked without compensation, and continued to provide space and clerical help until the Office of Price Administration was able to establish Regional and State offices which could take over the administration of the program. Defense Councils are still the backbone of the rationing programs.

The Salvage program is almost a duplication of the foregoing. The State Defense Commission found voluntary personnel to head the State-wide program for the War Production Board and the County Defense Councils provided the organization at the action level. As soon as able, the War Production Board established State headquarters and paid personnel for administration, but the County Defense Councils are still the basis of the field organization.

Since the early spring of 1942, the Commission has devoted a large part of its time to perfecting the Protective Defense organization in the State. Civilian Defense consists of two fields of activity, Protective and Non-Protective. The two divisions as outlined by the National Office of Civilian Defense are the United States Citizens Defense Corps and the United States Citizens Service Corps.

The Defense Corps encompasses all protective defense activities and the Service Corps directs all the non-protective activities which are essential to the war effort.

The protection of life and property of the citizenry in the event of armed attack is considered by the Commission as its most important responsibility and it has therefore stressed the importance of the organization of adequate Defense Corps in every community as well as on the State level.

A standard pattern for Protective Defense organization has been prescribed by the Office of Civilian Defense and this pattern has been followed by the State in setting up its administrative organization. It consists of six divisions; Fire, Police, Wardens, Emergency Medical Service, Emergency Utility Service and Public Works. Heads of existing State Departments were utilized by the Commission wherever possible to head up its Protective Defense organization on the State level. An organization chart illustrating this set up is appended to this report.

The Air Raid Warden's division was the only division that did not have a counterpart in peace time State Government and to head this division Captain Alex Miller, liaison officer of the Iowa State Guard, assigned to the Commission as an assistant to the Executive Secretary, was chosen. He was also placed in charge of Protective Defense training activity in the field. D. C. Faber, Director of the Engineering Extension Department of Iowa State College, was named Chairman of the committee selected to operate the Instructors Training School at Iowa State College. Other members of this committee were R. J. Laird, State Adjutant of the American Legion and Paul Durrie, Director of Adult Education in the Des Moines school system. Protective Defense requires wide-spread training of large groups of people. The skills to be taught are quite technical in many respects. It is a tremendous educational job. Detailed report on the results of this training program are given in the division of this report which covers the Air Raid Wardens Division of the Defense organization and the training program under Captain Miller.

The functions and activities of each Protective Defense division are covered separately herein.

WARDENS DIVISION

Captain Alex H. Miller is chief of this division but his responsibility in supervising training activities extends to all Corps. The report on training activity follows:

Federal School. The Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army conducted a War Department Civilian Protection School at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, College Station, Texas. The following representatives from Iowa attended the school: Professor Lindon J. Murphy of Iowa State College; George R. Call, member of the Commission from Sioux City; Professor Earl S. Baird of Iowa State College and Captain Alex M. Miller, Liaison Officer between the Iowa State Guard and the Commission.

State Schools. After the above named representatives from the State completed their instruction at Texas A & M, a State Civilian Protection School was held at Ames, Iowa. By reason of his commission as Major in the United States Army, George R. Call was assigned to duty in Washington, D. C., and did not participate in the school at Ames. The other three representatives from Iowa who attended the War Department School assisted in the instruction at the State School at Ames. Four sessions were held, each lasting six days, on the following dates: May 18 to 23, May 25 to 30, June 15 to 20 and August 10 to 15. All ninety-nine counties of the State sent representatives to the schools and 195 representatives from the counties completed the course of instruction there provided. Iowa was the only State in the 7th Defense Region to train instructors in all Corps from every county.

Local Defense Schools. In order to fully appreciate the training courses conducted in the various counties of the state, it is important to bear in mind the varying density of population throughout the state. The following table shows the distribution of the population:

Population	Counties	Accumulative
10,000 to 15,000	25
15,000 to 20,000	35	60
20,000 to 25,000	15	75
25,000 to 30,000	6	81
30,000 to 35,000	4	85
35,000 to 40,000	2	87
40,000 to 45,000	5	92
63,000	Dubuque
66,000	Pottawattamie
79,000	Black Hawk
84,000	Scott
89,000	Linn
103,000	Woodbury
195,000	Polk	99

The primary responsibility for promoting local instruction in the counties was assigned to Captain Miller. Able assistance was extended to him by Major Joseph H. Pirsch of the Regional Office of Civilian Defense at Omaha. A short summary of the training programs in the various counties follows.

Polk. The training program in Polk County was under the direction of Paul H. Durrie, who attended the State School at Ames, until his induction in the Army in September. The organization of the Defense Corps in Des Moines has been under the direction of Coordinator Fred Keating and Commander Harry H. Polk. The strength of the Protective Corps numbers over 4,000 members.

Woodbury. The organization and instruction of the Corps in Sioux City has been under the direction of Fred P. Johannsen, Chief Air Raid Warden, and Coordinator, who attended the school at Ames. The strength of the Corps number about 2,000 members. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller has visited Sioux City in assisting in the organization and instruction of the Corps.

Linn. Six representatives from Linn County attended the Schools at Ames. Instruction of the program has been under the direction of H. E. Kepler. The Civilian Defense Office has been under the management of Robert J. Vlach. Thirteen thousand workers have volunteered and more than 2,000 have been trained in the Protective Corps.

Scott. County Chairman Joseph Kimmel and Commander R. J. Clausen and Ray Beumann, who attended the school at Ames, have directed the training program in Davenport. Over 2,000 have been trained and the organization has been very effective. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have made visits to Davenport to assist in the organization of the Corps.

Black Hawk. Five representatives from Waterloo attended the school at Ames. Sheriff Wagner, the County Chairman, has organized a corps of auxiliary police throughout the county. The instruction of the public generally has been retarded in the county by reason of some misunderstandings between the division of authority between the Sheriff and the Mayor of Waterloo. Mr. Selby, Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have made visits to Waterloo and an understanding has been reached by the parties concerned. The development of the Protective Corps in the County should proceed at an accelerated pace.

Pottawattamie. The instruction of the Corps in Council Bluffs has been under the direction of Ray F. Myers who attended the War Department School at Purdue University. About a thousand members have been trained and the Corps have performed efficiently in the several blackout tests held.

Dubuque. The training program in Dubuque has been under the direction of Henry Bregman who attended the school at Ames. The organization of the Corps has been under the direction of Commander Charles G. Kretschmer. The strength of the Corps number about 3,000 and they have performed brilliantly in the blackout tests.

Forty thousand to forty-five thousand. The five counties in this group are Wapello, Clinton, Cerro Gordo, Webster and Lee. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have made frequent visits to Ottumwa and assisted in the organization and training of the Corps. The training program has been under the direction of J. F. Van Antwerp and the organization of the Corps has been under the direction of Commander Weston M. Cain. Very satisfactory results have been obtained. The training program in Clinton has been under the direction of B. C. Fowler who attended the school at Ames. Very satisfactory results have been obtained. The organization of the Corps at Mason City has been under the direction of John F. Wagner. After a slow start, satisfactory progress is now being made. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have visited Fort Dodge and assisted in the training of the Webster County Corps. Thomas J. Crinningan, who attended the school at Ames, has been in charge of the training program and has trained over 500 members of the Corps. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have visited Fort Madison and Keokuk in Lee County. The organization of the Corps in Fort Madison is under the direction of Mayor L. C. Burton and Commander R. L. Schneider.

Thirty-five thousand to forty thousand. Des Moines County and Marshall County compose this group. Mr. Selby, Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have visited Burlington and assisted in the organization of the Corps in Des Moines County. In Marshall County, Captain Miller has assisted in the instruction. Chief Hemphill of Marshalltown has trained an excellent group of auxiliary firemen.

Thirty thousand to thirty-five thousand. This group consists of Johnson, Story, Jasper and Muscatine Counties. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have visited Iowa City to observe the excellent organization perfected by Commander Rollin M. Perkins who attended the school at Ames. Captain Miller has assisted in the instruction of classes in Ames and Nevada and the Story County Corps are now well organized under Coordinator Kenneth W. Kinsey who attended the school at Ames and Commander Earl S. Baird who assisted in the instruction of the School at Ames. Captain Miller has assisted in the instruction of the Corps at Newton. Rev. A. A. Burr, who attended the school at Ames, has conducted classes in all of the towns in Jasper County. The instruction program in Muscatine has been under the direction of Lindley B. Hoopes who attended the school at Ames. The County of Muscatine is well organized.

Twenty-five thousand to thirty thousand. This group consists of the six counties: Fayette, Boone, Marion, Sioux, Mahaska and Kossuth. Captain Miller has assisted in the instruction in classes in West Union, Knoxville, Oskaloosa and Algona. The instruction program in Boone has been under the direction of Fire Chief E. B. Kolb who attended the school at Ames. The instruction in Sioux County has been under the direction of Ben M. Nymeyer who attended the school at Ames.

Twenty thousand to twenty-five thousand. Visitations have been made to all the fifteen counties in this group. Captain Miller has conducted classes in Adel and Perry in Dallas County. In this group, Corps have been well organized in the counties of Crawford, Clayton, Hardin, Tama and Washington by graduates from the schools at Ames.

Fifteen thousand to twenty thousand. In this group Captain Miller has visited and assisted in the organization of Defense Corps in the following counties: Bremer, Buena Vista, Calhoun, Chickasaw, Guthrie, Hamilton and Henry.

Ten thousand to fifteen thousand. In this group Captain Miller has visited and assisted in the organization of Corps in Grundy, Louisa, Monroe and Worth Counties. Major Pirsch has visited the counties in the northwestern corner of the state such as Emmet, Osceola, and Lyon.

Ordnance Plants. The two ordnance plants in Iowa have organized Protective Corps among their employees. Major Pirsch and Captain Miller have both visited these plants and assisted in the organization. The Iowa Ordnance Plant at Burlington sent six employees to the schools at Ames. These men have conducted classes during working hours at the plant and will continue to conduct classes as the personnel is depleted by trained employees leaving the plant. The Des Moines Ordnance Plant at Ankeny has depended upon the Polk County schools conducted in Des Moines to train their personnel. This has reduced the cost of their instruction.

Industrial Plant Protection. Industrial plants of the State, particularly those engaged in war production were also invited to send men to the State Training School so that they could set up plant protection organizations within their own factories. Twenty such instructors were graduated from the school.

Bomb Reconnaissance Schools. The United States Army has conducted three schools in Iowa training Bomb Reconnaissance agents. The sessions were held at Cedar Rapids, Ames and Sioux City under the direction of Lieutenant-Colonel William F. Bruett of the Regional Office in Omaha, assisted by Lieutenant C. W. Hawker of the Ordnance Corps. About 50 men attended each session. A large percentage of those in attendance were officers of the Iowa State Guard.

Fire Defense Schools. To provide leadership and assistance which will enable fire departments throughout the State to adequately meet the wartime challenge of protection against fire, three representatives from Iowa, Mr. Lindon J. Murphy of Iowa State College, Chief H. F. Hemphill and Chief Elmer E. McCallum, attended the Fire Defense Training School conducted by the Office of Civilian Defense at Stillwater, Oklahoma, on November 9 to 20. Upon return to Iowa, they have started a series of schools to be held in the various sections of the state. Captain Miller attended the opening sessions of the schools held at Eldora and Fort Dodge to explain the general situation in Iowa.

Blackout Tests. As a test of the efficiency of the local Defense Corps, many blackout tests were held throughout the state. Some of the tests were for a portion of a city, some embraced a whole city and many embraced a whole county. These tests culminated with the participation by the entire state in the nine-state Regional Blackout test Monday evening, December 14, 1942, from 10:00 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. During the Regional test, the Civil Air Patrol had about fifty planes in the air observing the effectiveness of the blackout in various portions of the state. The test was very successful and exceeded all expectations.

Visual Aids. The Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission purchased sixteen millimeter sound films covering fifteen subjects. These films were distributed throughout the state to aid in the instruction in the Civilian Defense Schools. Over 400 independent bookings of the films were made in the last six months.

State Guard Assistance. Five officers of the Iowa State Guard attended the State School at Ames. These officers volunteered their services as instructors and made trips throughout the state conducting classes in the Civilian Defense Schools.

POLICE DIVISION

Karl Fischer, Commissioner of Public Safety, is head of the Emergency Police Division.

The functions of this division are coordination of traffic control; Highway Patrol; guarding of special defense points; interchange of men and mutual aid between counties and the maintenance of communications.

Auxiliary police in the individual Defense Corps are coordinated with existing law enforcement bodies both county and municipal, and auxiliary police are trained in duties of their job. In the event of armed attack, during blackouts and similar disasters, many thousands of volunteer policemen have to be utilized to handle traffic, guard against sabotage and looting.

In training Iowa's volunteer auxiliary police, a special manual was printed by the State Defense Commission. This manual was prepared by Rollin Perkins of the College of Law of the University of Iowa. Mr. Perkins is also Commander of the Citizens Defense Corps in Iowa City.

FIRE DIVISION

One of the most essential parts of Protective Defense organization is the Corps of auxiliary firemen. Thousands of volunteer auxiliary firemen have been recruited and trained throughout the state, in every city and town. John Strohm, State Fire Marshal, was appointed head of the Fire Defense Division of the State's Protective Defense organization.

His office made a survey of all fire departments for information as to the amount and type of fire equipment in each department.

Forms were sent to the Fire Chief in each county seat town with a request that they call a meeting of all fire chiefs in the county. Meetings were called and every fire chief was given information as to the fire equipment in his neighboring town on which he can depend in an emergency.

A total of 675 fire departments in the state were contacted.

Mr. Strohm's department also made a survey of the fire departments to ascertain just how many of them answer rural fire alarms. This survey shows that better than 50 per cent of the fire departments in Iowa answer rural fire alarms.

This division has taken an active part in fire defense schools at the Iowa State College and throughout the state. One representative from this office took the complete basic training course at the Iowa State College, and has assisted in putting on a fire defense demonstration in 50 fire defense meetings, in addition to 25 demonstrations on the use and care of gas masks.

Twenty-five thousand adults and children have been reached through these meetings, and 163 showings have been given of fire defense pictures, "Fighting the Fire Bomb", "London Fire Raids", "The Warning", and several other similar films.

In addition to this work, the office has had a part in the organization and instruction of Rural Fire Protective Defense work, sponsored by the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, under the direction of Professor R. K. Bliss and Harold Beatty, and meetings have been held in 46 Iowa towns.

The Farm Fire Prevention Committee, including the Chairman of the Civilian Defense organization in each county, county agents, local insurance agents, both stock and mutual companies, have had fire prevention meetings in 88 counties in Iowa.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICE

The functions of the division of Emergency Medical Service are to care for the wounded; to establish first aid posts, casualty stations and emergency hospitals; survey equipment and coordinate a system of mutual assistance between counties. The Emergency Medical Service under the direct supervision of Thos. A. Burcham, M. D., Chief, is governed by a Medical Advisory Council, the personnel of which is listed herewith:

Thos. A. Burcham, M. D., Chief, 1104 Bankers Trust Building, Des Moines, Iowa.

Walter L. Bierring, M.D., Commissioner, State Department of Health, Des Moines, Iowa.

Edward M. Myers, M. D., Representative, State Board of Health, Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Alma E. Hartz, R. N., Nurse Deputy, State Department of Health, Des Moines, Iowa.

Robert E. Neff, Hospital Representative, Administrator, University Hospitals, Iowa City, Iowa.

Mrs. Carl W. Reed, Representative, Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission, Cresco, Iowa.

Emergency Medical Service has now been organized in each County in Iowa by the appointment of a physician who serves as Chief of Emergency Medical Service on the County Civilian Defense Council and cooperates with that organization. A Medical Advisory Council has been set up in each County with the Chief of Emergency Medical Service acting as chairman. This council is composed of one or more assistants to the chief selected from the local physicians, a nurse deputy, and a representative of the American Red Cross, a hospital representative and representatives of various voluntary groups such as the American Legion, Boy Scouts, civic clubs and the like.

A list of the personnel of the Emergency Medical Service showing the setup in each County in the State has been completed and copies furnished to the Chief Medical Officer, Office of Civilian Defense, Washington, D. C., the Regional Medical Officer, 7th Civilian Defense Region, Omaha, Nebraska, as well as to the Governor of Iowa and the officers of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission. Due to the fact that a great many physicians have been called into military service, as have a great many nurses, there have been many changes in personnel during the past few months, but these corrections have been issued as soon as the information reached this office.

It is the function of the local organization to train personnel for emergency medical field units and also to organize and set up casualty stations in various sections of the County. These latter will supplement existing hospitals and may be established in schools, churches and lodge halls. Special attention in the establishment of such casualty stations or emergency hospital units has been given to the so-called "target" areas in the State and the adjacent Counties and under the leadership of Mr. R. E. Neff, this work has been handled very efficiently. Mr. Neff has confined his efforts to 61 counties in the State and in nearly all of these he has a definite outline of emergency hospitals with a record of their cot capacity; he has emphasized the need of ample heat, water, light and sewage in any building designated as an emergency hospital. It is Mr. Neff's intention to start work in the near future on the 38 less populous counties and make an appeal for at least one emergency hospital site in each County, probably in the County seat.

Nursing personnel in the State has been depleted due to the enlistment of many nurses in the military services and it has been the duty of the Emergency Medical Service to urge the establishment of training courses for Volunteer Nurses' Aides, as well as to back a movement to bring back into active service a great many nurses who have retired or gone into other fields of endeavor. Also, Emergency Medical Service has approved the movement to secure additional student nurses for the training schools throughout the State and this effort has been quite successful, although there are still some vacancies in some of the training schools.

Home Nursing courses have been very popular throughout the State and this training will be of untold value in caring for patients in the home. First Aid courses have also been well attended and of course in the training of Volunteer Nurses' Aides, the arranging for Home Nursing courses and the teaching of First Aid Emergency Service is indebted to the American Red Cross because these activities are in their hands. As an example of the marvelous job the Red Cross is doing in Iowa, Mr. Hogan, the Red Cross representative on the Medical Advisory Council, reported that 10,518 persons have completed the Home Nursing Course in Iowa; 1,219 instructors have been certified for teaching Home Nursing Courses, and out of 129 Red Cross chapters in Iowa, all but twenty have had classes in Home Nursing. In First Aid courses the figures are just as important—37,786 First Aid certificates have been issued and there are a total of 1,461 certified First Aid instructors in the State. These figures were based on statistics as of April 30, 1942 and with continued activity in all phases of Red Cross work since that time, the totals are no doubt much larger at this time.

The creation of a reserve supply of blood plasma for use within the State of Iowa has been given a great deal of consideration by Emergency Medical Service and under the plan now in operation blood plasma is prepared at the University of Iowa laboratory, at the State Department of Health laboratory and in six hospital laboratories in the State. At present a reserve of 470 units of blood plasma is on hand and this is distributed to designated hospitals throughout the State. This blood plasma is available to private patients in hospitals, the only requirement being that in case any stored blood is used, arrangements must be made to replace it by the donation of blood so that the regular reserve may be kept intact. In case of a major disaster in any section of the State, this blood plasma would be immediately available.

In order to acquaint the local county organizations with the functions of Emergency Medical Service, a series of meetings have been held in the more populous county seats to which the local Medical Advisory Council as well as other interested members of the local Civilian Defense organizations were invited. It has been the practice to ask the members of the Medical Advisory Council and others interested in the medical phase of Civilian Defense in the adjacent counties to attend these meetings. The Chief of Emergency Medical Service in the county in which the meeting has been held has been in charge, with E. G. Zimmerer, Deputy Chief of Emergency Medical Service for Iowa, on hand with a talk outlining the functions of Emergency Medical Service, showing a sound slide film furnished by the Washington Office of Civilian Defense, and then leading a discussion of local problems as presented by the people in attendance. To date ten meetings have been held in the following cities: Dubuque, Cedar Rapids, Ottumwa, Davenport, Adel, Mason City, Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Creston and Fort Dodge and the interest in them has proved their worth.

The local chiefs of Emergency Medical Service were furnished with copies of memoranda from the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington, D. C., dealing with the question of collaboration of medical services of industrial plants with the local Emergency Medical Service and urging the setting up of casualty stations in the vicinity of large plants and arranging for effective use of local hospital facilities in case of an emergency. In Iowa large industrial plants are confined to a few of the larger cities but these instructions were sent out to each county because even in the less populous spots there are pumping stations and the like and of course any disaster at these points could be of vital importance to the entire State.

Emergency Medical Service through the State Department of Health has tried to carry out sanitary measures in the way of protection of water supply, proper housing facilities for industrial workers, with a system of education of defense workers being carried out under the direction of W. L. Bierring, M.D., Commissioner of the State Department of Health, to protect them against industrial hazards and disease.

Another function has been added to the duties of Emergency Medical Service, that of State Mortuary Services. Paul McAuley, Mason City, Iowa, a member of the Board of Embalmer Examiners, has been appointed by the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission as Chief of Mortuary Services for Iowa and he will work in conjunction with Emergency Medical Service. His appointment is a recent one and he is now arranging to send federal publications on mortuary services to the members of his profession throughout the State.

EMERGENCY UTILITY DIVISION

Prior to the organization of this division as a part of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission's Protective Defense service, the Iowa State Department of Health was requested by the United States Public Health Service to set up an inventory of water works equipment and materials that might be available in an emergency resulting from sabotage or direct enemy action.

The State Department of Health, through its Division of Public Health Engineering, therefore proceeded to obtain insofar as possible an inventory of water works material and equipment available in the State with the understanding that such material would be called for only in the event of extreme emergency resulting from enemy action or from sabotage. The returns from the inventory were tabulated and a master list of all equipment was kept in the office of the State Department of Health for use in case of emergency.

At that time, also, a brief list of suggestions was sent to all the water works in the State requesting that they take extra precautions in the protection of water works and water works appurtenances.

Also, about that time the United States Public Health Service requested a detailed survey of protective features of twelve water works in the State in which were located large industries important in the war effort and also in which were located troops.

Response to the inventory was, on the whole fairly good; however, no great effort was made in follow-up pending the setting up of a Protective Defense program within the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission and a transfer of the functions undertaken by the State Department of Health to the Commission.

In May, protective defense services were set up as a section of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission. Governor Wilson appointed Mr. A. H. Wieters, Director of the Engineering Division of the Iowa State Department of Health, to serve as Utilities Coordinator.

The utility services as originally outlined included protective services for water works and sewerage, electric and gas utilities, and transportation.

Governor Wilson appointed a Technical Advisory Committee for Emergency Utility Services at the request of the State Coordinator, which included leaders in the various fields covered by the water and sewerage, gas and electric, and transportation utilities in the State.

On June 10th, a meeting of the Technical Advisory Committee of the Utilities Section was held in the offices of the Des Moines Water Works, and Mr. Rodney Q. Selby and Captain Alex Miller of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission, and Mr. A. H. Wieters, Utilities Coordinator, presented to the Technical Advisory Committee an outline of the policies, and there followed a discussion of ways and means to put into effect a program. It was decided that the Technical Advisory Committee should be broken down into three sub-committees and that the work of the Utilities Service should be divided into three main categories. Following are the members of the Technical Advisory Committee with the breakdown into subcommittees.

Water and Sewerage Subcommittee

Dale L. Maffitt, General Manager, Des Moines Water Works, Des Moines, Iowa

John Ames, City Manager, Ames

John Drabelle, Iowa Light and Power Company, Cedar Rapids

Howard R. Green, Consulting Engineer, Cedar Rapids

George Charlesworth, Electrical Engineer, Iowa Commerce Commission, Des Moines

Leonard Donahue, Superintendent, Motor Carrier Division, Iowa Commerce Commission, Des Moines

O. W. Limestall, General Superintendent, Rock Island Lines, Des Moines, representing the railroads

E. R. Bitterly, Superintendent, W. C. F. & N. Railway Company, Waterloo, representing bus transportation

Birney Baker, President, Des Moines Transportation Company, Des Moines, representing the truck carriers

It was further agreed that there should be subsequent meetings of the technical subcommittees and that each would work out a program covering its particular field.

It was further concluded that the protective transportation service might better be carried out in some subdivision other than the Utilities Section, and subsequently a change was made and the Transportation Subcommittee was assigned to another section of the State setup, leaving only the water and sewerage services and the gas and electric services in the Utilities Section.

Since the Water and Sewerage Subcommittee and the Gas and Electric Subcommittee carried out their programs independently of each other, the report on each of the subsections will be dealt with separately.

REPORT OF THE EMERGENCY WATER AND SEWERAGE SERVICE

The first meeting of the Water and Sewerage Subcommittee was held in Des Moines on July 15th, and at that time the protective program was discussed and plans were outlined for carrying out the program.

Because of the large number of water works in the State, it was felt that to expedite matters the State should be further subdivided and that other water works men should be asked to cooperate. Inasmuch as the State Department of Health had already set up ten health districts in the State with a resident public health engineer in each district who, in his ordinary duties, contacted the water works throughout his district and was therefore more or less familiar with the water works, it was decided that the ten water defense zones would correspond with the existing state health districts. It was further decided that a prominent water works superintendent or person in charge of a local water works be asked to serve as the zone coordinator in each of the districts and that the district engineer of the State Department of Health be asked to serve as an assistant zone coordinator in each of the districts. This policy was carried out and following is a list of the zone coordinators and assistant zone coordinators:

Zone No.	Zone Coordinator	Assistant Zone Coordinator
District No. 1	W. J. Long Sec'y and Gen. Mgr. Waterloo Water Works Waterloo, Iowa	R. B. McAllister District Health Service Decorah, Iowa
District No. 3	Leon L. Schoel City Engineer Spencer, Iowa	F. R. Pfeiffer District Health Service Spencer, Iowa
District No. 4	Oscar Sutherland Water Superintendent Sioux City, Iowa	M. H. Anderson District Health Service Sioux City, Iowa

The subcommittee then agreed upon the following program:

1st. Because of the critical material situation, because of the apparent necessity of mutual aid among the water works in the State, and because of the difficulty in securing necessary material and equipment for maintaining and operating waterworks, it was deemed advisable to not only continue the inventory of water works material and water works equipment that might be available in case of emergency, but to expand the original list of material and furthermore to make such material available not only for emergency resulting from enemy action or sabotage, but also for emergency arising due to ordinary operation and to ordinary wear and tear on equipment. The necessity of such a mutual aid program had been repeatedly brought to the attention of water works men by the War Production Board and it was urged that at least until the middle of 1943 it would become more and more necessary for water works to depend upon material they could get under a mutual aid plan to keep the plants in operation.

2nd. The Coordinator was instructed to prepare, with the assistance of the Advisory Committee, a manual on emergency services for water works and sewerage plants which would serve as a guide to local communities in setting up the emergency services on a local level.

3rd. The Coordinator was instructed to call a meeting of all the zone and assistant zone coordinators at an early date to outline the program and to suggest to the zone coordinators that zone meetings be held for the purpose of passing on the information to the water works and sewerage superintendents and operators, and to local Defense Council Chairmen throughout the State.

4th. The Coordinator, through the assistant zone coordinators, was instructed to conduct Security surveys of water plants throughout the State to determine what had been done for the protection of the water works against sabotage and against possible enemy action.

On August 7th, a meeting of the zone coordinators was held in Des Moines, at which the above program was outlined and the cooperation of the zone coordinators was solicited. The zone coordinators made further suggestions as to the details of the program and agreed that zone meetings would be held throughout the State.

Mutual Aid.

In September, a new inventory form was sent to each of the 589 water works in the State requesting them to list all equipment and material which might be available in case of any kind of an emergency to all water works in the State. Naturally such inventory involves a great deal of work, particularly in the larger communities, and returns were very slow in coming in. A second request was sent to those delinquent after about a month which brought considerable additional response.

At the present time the compilation of these inventories is nearing completion. Sixty-one per cent of the 589 water works in the State responded, although many of the smaller communities reported that they had no material available. A vast majority of the communities which did not report are small communities which do not have much in the way of inventory material to report as they do not ordinarily carry much additional equipment or material in their stock. So it is felt that while only sixty-one per cent of the municipalities have reported, probably eighty-five or ninety per cent of the water works material and equipment in the State which would be available in case of emergency will be found on the inventory list.

A list of all of the material available in each zone has been or will very shortly be placed in the hands of the zone coordinators and the assistant zone coordinators, and a master list of the State-wide inventory will be on file in the offices of the State Department of Health, Des Moines, Iowa. In the event a water works official requires material or equipment, he will first contact the zone coordinator or assistant zone coordinator in his zone, and in the event the material is not available within the zone in which he is located, the request will be transferred to the State Coordinator and the State-wide list will be consulted. There already have been several calls for equipment due to breakdowns in a water plant.

Necessarily the inventory material will be constantly changing, so therefore it will be necessary to attempt to keep the inventory up to date. Each water works securing material from another water works is requested to inform the zone coordinator so that the inventories can be changed to correspond with the transfer of equipment. Furthermore, it is planned that questionnaires covering changes in inventories will be sent to each water works about each six months.

Following is a tabulation by zones of the number of municipalities reporting available materials under the Mutual Aid Program:

Zone Meetings.

The zone coordinator and assistant zone coordinator in each of the ten zones have conducted meetings to explain the purpose and objectives of the Emergency Service Program. Continued water service being imperative for the protection of public health, minimizing fire losses, and the operation of war industries, an appeal was made to the water works officials to cooperate in the emergency program to assure continued water service. The importance of coordinating and integrating the program with the local defense organization was particularly stressed.

Captain Alex Miller of the State Industrial and Defense Commission attended most of these meetings and described the entire State Defense setup. The State Coordinator or one of his assistants attended all of the meetings and described the protective setup insofar as water and sewerage were concerned. Following is a list of the zone meetings that have been held:

Facility Security Survey

Security surveys were first made at twelve cities in important defense areas using a comprehensive thirty page form provided by the United States Public Health Service. A less comprehensive thirteen page form was then developed for use at the remaining ninety-nine first and second class cities in the State, and a skeleton single page form developed for use of the remaining 478 towns with populations under 2,000 having public water supplies.

Before starting on the surveys, the ten State Department of Health district engineers were called in for a conference to assure as nearly as possible uniform standards throughout the State. The engineers were instructed to take the cost and availability of materials into consideration in recommending protective measures and to place the greatest stress on restricting access to water works property by permanently barring all unnecessary entrances to buildings, locking all necessary entrances to buildings and other structures, and locking and screening all accessible windows. Lighting and fencing were recommended only when the necessary material was available and hiring of full time water works guards recommended rarely although deputizing of trusted water works employees and further utilization of existing police facilities recommended wherever feasible.

Security surveys have now been completed at all sixteen of our first class cities, at seventy-three out of ninety-five of our second class cities, and at 349 out of 478 towns under 2,000 population. Grouping them all together, Security surveys have been completed at 438 out of a total of 589 public water supplies or seventy-five per cent of the public water supplies in the State.

Obvious defects have been called to the attention of the city officials at the time of the survey and recommendations made verbally for providing additional protective measures. The survey reports are all forwarded to the State Department of Health office in Des Moines, where they are checked and letters stressing the recommendations made in the field are sent to the city officials in all cases where protective measures appear inadequate. To date, 369 letters have been sent out with recommendations for adopting further protective measures, and forty replies have already been received from cities and towns informing us that the recommendations have been complied with.

This work is being continued and should be completed by the first of the year or shortly after. Following is a tabulation of the work that has been done in each district so far:

Manual of Emergency Water and Sewerage Service

In accordance with the instructions, a manual setting forth in some detail suggested Emergency Service Program for the guidance of local communities was prepared and distributed to the local water works officials throughout the State. The objectives of the water service plan are listed on pages 4 and 5 of the manual with an expansion of the water service objectives included in Section III on page 6, a copy of which is attached. This manual also covers, briefly, suggested emergency services for sewage plants, which is about all that has been done insofar as the sewage plants are concerned.

Plans for the Future

In the near future another meeting of the Advisory Committee will be held to discuss plans for the future. With the general war situation changing from day to day, it is rather difficult to promulgate plans too far in the future. One of the most important future plans will be the continuation and the elaboration of the mutual aid program. It is felt by the committee, in light of information received from the War Production Board, that mutual aid might well become practically the only means of securing necessary maintenance and repair material to keep the water works operating. Also, it may be necessary to formulate a similar mutual aid program for sewage plants in view of the increasing shortage of material and equipment.

The Facility Security Survey will be continued until it is completed and some sort of follow-up will be made to see whether or not the recommendations have been complied with. As many of the follow-up surveys will be made by personal visits as are possible. Because the staff of the Engineering Division of the State Department of Health is being rapidly depleted by virtue of the engineers joining the Armed Forces, follow-up surveys in the smaller communities may not be possible. Such follow-up will then be undertaken by letter.

GAS AND ELECTRIC PROTECTIVE SERVICE

A meeting of the Gas and Electric Subcommittee was held in Des Moines on July 17th, at which the protective defense services were outlined.

The situation in regard to gas and electric utilities is quite different from the water situation, in that a few large plants serve a considerable segment of the state of Iowa. Since Facility Security surveys were being made in all of the larger power plants in the state by the Army and by the Federal Power Commission and recommendations for additional protective services were made directly by these agencies, it did not seem necessary that this work be undertaken by the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission.

It was further felt that because of the lack of standardization of equipment and material, an inventory similar to the inventory of water works equipment would not be justified, there being only a few items in common use that might be available in an emergency.

Furthermore, in the electric utility field the entire state is traversed by a network of interconnections so that if a plant were to be put out of commission entirely, electric service could be restored through the network of transmission lines using another source of power whereas in the case of the water works field interconnections were impossible.

The Advisory Committee therefore felt that a manual pointing out the minimum necessary protective services which should be undertaken would be the principal function of such committee, and such a manual was prepared by the Technical Advisory Committee and sent to some 250 municipal and privately owned power plants throughout the state.

EMERGENCY PUBLIC WORKS

In the State organization this division is headed by Mr. Fred R. White, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Commission. The responsibilities of the division are the clearing of roads and highways; clearing of gassed areas and the coordination of equipment interchange between counties and communities.

The State Highway Commission has a maintenance organization consisting of a regular force of 1,300 men or an average of about 13 men per county. In addition, in every county there are a half dozen or more men who work extra or part time on primary road maintenance. In past emergencies, such as heavy snowfall, it has been possible to expand to 3,000 men in a matter of hours.

The State is divided into six engineering districts. Each engineering district is divided into four maintenance divisions. Thus there are 24 maintenance divisions with a division maintenance engineer in charge of the primary road maintenance work in each such maintenance division. This primary road maintenance organization constitutes an excellent framework for the emergency public works division of the State Civilian Defense organization.

Through this state highway maintenance organization, it would be possible at a moment's notice to mobilize men and equipment at any particular point in the State. If there were an emergency in any County, the division maintenance engineer would immediately have under his orders and subject to his direction, the men and equipment from four Counties. If these were not sufficient to accomplish desired results, the district engineer could immediately direct adjacent divisions to turn over men and equipment to the affected area.

In addition to State equipment, County equipment and personnel is available to division engineers for emergencies.

AIR RAID WARNING SYSTEM

Wm. D. Nettleton of Mason City is controller of the State Air Raid Warning System, which is operated under the direction of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission in cooperation with the Army warning system which emanates from Information Centers operated by the Defense Command of the Army.

The system has been activated on a twenty-four hour basis and is manned largely by volunteer help. At each Warning Center a State Guard noncommissioned officer is in charge. For security reasons the Army has requested that Warning Center locations and operations be not disclosed.

SERVICE CORPS DIVISION

The non-protective field of activity in Civilian Defense is a large one and not sharply defined. Loosely speaking, it consists of those things essential to the war effort which do not come under the heading of Protective Defense. The national pattern for Service Corps activity includes organization for social welfare and recreational services. In Iowa, the Commission has chosen to regard those things as a responsibility of the Board of Social Welfare and although frequently conferring with this board on problems in this field connected with the defense program, it has not assumed to infringe upon the statutory direction which specifically assigns these responsibilities to the Board of Social Welfare.

In October, 1942, the Commission employed Mr. Bernard Nowack as an assistant to the Executive Secretary to take over the direction of the State Speakers Bureau and other Service Corps activities.

There are now thirty-two County Speakers Bureaus organized in the State as well as separate bureaus in Des Moines and Sioux City. According to the nation-wide tabulation on the organization of Speakers Bureaus prepared by the Speakers Section of O. C. D., which includes State Reports up to November 17th, Iowa ranks fifth in the United States, sharing honors with Minnesota in the percentage number of Speakers Bureaus organized.

Block Leaders Plan. The purpose of this plan is to encourage the effective participation of every household in the community war effort; to get vital war information into every home rapidly and accurately; to promote a spirit of cooperation in neighborhood enterprises and any other activities of the community war services. The organization of the Block Plan did not begin until early in November. Reports in December showed that 18 counties and 42 cities had set up the plan and had it functioning in the "Share the Meat" campaign. This campaign, designed to obtain voluntary meat rationing in Iowa homes, was undertaken in cooperation with the State Nutrition Association under the leadership of Dr. P. Mabel Nelson of the Department of Home Economics of Iowa State College.

Other activities sponsored by Service Corps Division in addition to Rationing are Salvage, War Fund Campaigns, Victory Gardens, Services for Service Men, Consumer Education and Publicity Programs.

ADMINISTRATION

The Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission has held monthly meetings at the office of the Governor in Des Moines since its organization. Members of the National Defense Coordination Committee of the 49th General Assembly have regularly attended these meetings.

All questions of policy and procedure are placed before the Commission at its monthly meeting for determination and the financial statements of the Commission are presented monthly for approval of the members.

A statement of expenditures of the Commission from March 1, 1941 to December 31, 1942, is attached hereto and made a part of this report.

GOVERNOR WILSON'S MESSAGE

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE FIFTIETH GENERAL ASSEMBLY, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, FELLOW CITIZENS:

I extend my sincere congratulations to you, the chosen representatives of the people as members of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa.

You have been honored by selection of the electors of your respective districts to assemble here at the State Capitol to determine and declare the policies and procedure of the State in matters of public importance. Your assignment imposes at once a heavy duty and a solemn responsibility.

This meeting of representatives entrusted with authority is the solid substance of the American system of republican government under which the American people have made that progress which today commands the admiration of the whole world.

It is our duty, yours and mine, all of us, to give a new demonstration of our appreciation of freedom within the pattern of representative government.

We are fortunate, also, in the atmosphere of confidence and good will prevailing here and in the singleness of purpose that you all feel. We are of one mind as to the issues that were under discussion by the voters last year. You enter upon your duties under most favorable auspices.

This is the Fiftieth General Assembly, which indicates that our State is nearing the close of its first century of statehood. The structure built in those growing years is solid and enduring.

Your opportunity for service comes at a time which calls for all the noblest qualities of manhood in the exercise of the highest functions of citizenship.

We are engaged in adjusting our peaceful pursuits to demands that are imposed from the most distant parts of the globe. The time is therefore important for our State as one of the component parts of the American republic and of the whole of the world. Here in Iowa as everywhere that men are free to think and act there is need for unselfishness and patriotic service as never before.

Looking out from the comparatively tranquil vantage point of Iowa, we sometimes find it hard to comprehend the whole medley of conflicting world interests and clashing opinions.

But we do know, and fully understand, the seriousness of the situation as it involves our free institutions and the safety of our peaceful homes.

The Iowa General Assembly has convened in a time of great national peril through war. In the dark days of 1861-65 two special sessions were needed to provide for Iowa's part in the supreme effort to save the union. Fortunately, Iowa made early preparation for the crisis of this time. But the present war has brought about complications no one could anticipate. It will devolve upon you to be diligent and foresighted as to many matters touching the march of our people and our allies toward a just peace through a complete victory.

I have confidence in you and have no doubt that you will measure up to the high standard needful that Iowa shall do all and more than her share in the gigantic task of winning the war. Iowa's part is to contribute greatly to the crushing of organized destructiveness and to the permanent restoration of order to the prostrate civilization of our generation.

Necessarily our chief concern as citizens of the greatest republic ever organized by free men is to safeguard Iowa and the United States and thus to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. We have dedicated ourselves and all we have to this cause.

We can serve humanity best by maintaining here in Iowa a strong government responsive to the public will, an industrial organization kept at the top of productive capacity, and a community spirit actuated by the finest qualities of patriotism. That we may do our share in the common cause of humanity ever seeking the higher levels, we have the duty to make secure the material and spiritual values of our own heritage.

It has been my privilege and a distinct honor to address two preceding legislative assemblies and to work with them for the common good.

Members of the Senate and of the House have cooperated splendidly and have done their work well. There has been at all times a fine spirit of cordiality. It has been a gratifying experience.

I have come to know better than ever before the unyielding determination of Iowa people to buttress the public service with honesty, integrity, and an intelligent understanding of the liberties that we prize and the rights that we are sworn to maintain.

I commend to you my successor as one with whom you will do well to counsel freely.

It is pleasant to me to know that the work I have been doing, not only relating to legislation but in the many executive activities of the office of Governor, is to fall to one who will carry on in a manner worthy of our great State.

In fulfillment of the constitutional mandate to advise you of the condition of the state and to make recommendations, I shall be brief. The condition of the State is good. The machinery of state government is running smoothly and with efficiency. The State's finances are in better condition than ever before. Taxation is always a matter of controversy, but it is highly gratifying to note that the state does not impose any millage tax upon real property.

The report which I am required to make as to reprieves, commutations and pardons granted during the term just closing, will go to you as a separate presentation.

The budget report will be laid upon your desks as soon as printed and deserves your careful scrutiny. You have wisely followed the precedent of two years ago in formation of an unofficial committee to pass upon bills clearly non-controversial in character and to speed their passage. Appropriation bills and other bills of importance should be considered early in the session. The budget is perhaps the most important report for it touches all departments and activities. I urge you to give it careful study and consideration in every detail.

With the tremendous taxes levied and to be levied in order that the war may be brought to a final and speedy ending, may I suggest that no new or additional taxes be levied other than those necessary to help win the war, and to take care of those who have as a result of the war been placed in a position of need.

The recommendations in the budget are ample to take care of the needs of the various departments, and if the recommendations are followed these needs can be met without any new or additional taxes, if the amount of the recommendations are increased materially, then as a matter of course new taxes must be levied. The reports of various departments of the State will also be available to you in printed form. They will inform you of many matters about which you will be called upon to legislate. You will find the heads of departments ready and willing to give you information as to the workings of the state government, and you will find them genuinely interested in the welfare of the State.

In the first year of clash of arms, Iowa provided upwards of 100,000 men for the armed forces of the army and navy of the United States and other branches of the service. Our sons and brothers are found in every camp and on every training field.

They are on the ships and trailing the long air lanes to the scenes of conflict. They are in the jungles and deserts of Africa and Asia, on the bare beaches of the South Seas, guarding the ice-bound coasts of the far North, and standing shoulder to shoulder with the men of Britain, China, Russia, France and other freedom loving countries.

We owe it to the men and boys and women of Iowa who have offered their services and their lives in defense of our liberties and our homes, and are in fact making the greatest sacrifice of which American citizens are capable, that the State of Iowa and the people of Iowa show our appreciation in all ways appropriate.

Our armed strength in the fighting lines and back of the battle fronts is our contribution to a cause that far transcends all other obligations of our time. Let us give our fighting forces and their families and their children ample assurance that their sacrifice will not be forgotten. All honor to every one who contributes in any way to the winning of the war.

Iowa, the greatest agricultural state, is deeply engrossed in the mighty problem of production of food for war use. We have done much for the encouragement and promotion of good farming. The magnificent response of all persons engaged in agriculture is reflected in the record-breaking output of food products when most needed.

We must make sure that the productive capacity of Iowa is maintained at the peak.

Iowa industry and labor have responded with equal promptness and patriotism. To the managers and the workers of our factories, small and large, great credit is due. When the story of Iowa's part in the war effort can be fully told, their singleness of purpose, their laying aside of petty problems in the interest of full devotion to their tasks will fill a heartening chapter.

Prior to December of 1941, large numbers of Iowa National Guardsmen were within the borders of the State, available for call in any emergency.

Following the treacherous Japanese attack upon our nation, and pursuant to authority granted by the Forty-ninth General Assembly, there was organized by executive order, the Iowa State Guard, to assume the functions of these men who were immediately recalled to Federal service.

The Iowa State Guard has had an average strength of 172 officers and 2,100 enlisted men. On active duty at Camp Dodge is the First Military Police Battalion with an average strength of 22 officers and 210 enlisted men. To all of these men, who give readily of their time and abilities for patriotic service, the State of Iowa is indebted.

As individuals and as an organization, they have reached a high state of efficiency.

In a letter dated June 10, 1942, to the Adjutant General of Iowa, Major General John F. Williams, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, stated: "I can say to you frankly and honestly that while I have visited practically every state in the Union this year and have seen the State Guard installations in nearly all of them, I have seen none that surpasses yours."

The Iowa State Guard deserves the support of the people of the State. It should be maintained for the duration of this conflict.

The report of the Iowa Industrial and Defense Commission will be printed in the Journal. The Forty-ninth General Assembly provided for this work, which has been effectively and efficiently done. The Commission has given attention to fitting Iowa industry into the scheme of war production, an intricate task involving many details.

Since the declaration of war, the Commission has been called upon by the executive of the State and the Federal government for numerous services, all of which have been readily given, with the cooperation of thousands of patriotic citizens of the State. Their tireless efforts command our admiration and support.

No mention of the patriotic work of volunteer civilians would be complete without recognizing the immense job undertaken by the Selective Service Boards of the State and by other boards and groups dealing with war programs.

All answering at the call of the nation, doing their utmost for the success of their assigned work, and drawing no compensation from whatever source, these men and these women have indeed served beyond the ordinary requirements of civilian duty. To them, we are grateful.

By strict adherence to the laws adopted by the General Assembly, the Insurance Department has been eminently successful in orderly reduction of the amount of farm tenancy in the State. Millions of acres of corporate-owned land have become the family-owned farmsteads. Encouragement to the ownership of the land by the men and women who till it is a continuing problem, ever entitled to your serious study and helpful action.

The program of conservation has moved steadily forward. It must always be so, for the good of our land and for the welfare of our friends of the streams and woodlands.

Iowa can well feel just pride in the progress which has been made in the last four years in the construction of farm-to-market roads, and in the improvement and maintenance of our primary road system.

For the duration of the war, restrictions on materials will curtail the work which may be done on our roads.

The post-war program of road building, and problems of financing resulting from gasoline rationing, may well have your attention to the end that we anticipate the needs for both roads and employment when by the force of our arms victory is ours.

New building construction authorized by the Forty-ninth General Assembly was delayed by the pressure of the war effort. The funds appropriated therefor are intact and should remain so. Consideration might well be given to the investment of these and any additional funds appropriated for such purposes in United States bonds, and to the authorization of a post-war program meeting the intent suggested above.

The Forty-eighth General Assembly passed the State Car Dispatcher bill for central control of all state-owned vehicles. As a result of this action the State has operated such motor vehicles at greatly reduced cost, averaging two and one-half cents per mile for passenger cars, including administrative cost and depreciation. The success of the program is further attested by the fact that more than 80 cars have been sold and not replaced.

With the growing seriousness of the world conflict, the advisability of early and extensive official preparations for the Centennial of Iowa Statehood diminished. The year 1946, however, should be hailed by all Iowa, our glorious history reviewed, our great accomplishments set forth in witness of our eternal gratitude to Divine guidance and the heritage bestowed upon us by our forefathers.

In previous messages to the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth General Assemblies, I made recommendations as to betterments in the functioning of the various departments and in some cases reorganization and consolidation. Many of the recommendations were acted upon favorably, and my experience in administration has convinced me that these changes were to the good. I believe that we have been and are continuing to make steady progress toward improvement in the functioning of our government both as to the State and in local matters.

The desire of Iowa people generally that the educational system be kept at the highest standard led to the creation by the last General Assembly of a committee to study the school laws and to recommend improvement and such changes as would give Iowa the best possible in the field of education. There was also established another committee to recommend modernizing the rules and practice of the courts of the State with a view to improved administration.

These two committees are composed of men and women competent and well informed in their respective fields and they have been diligent in the study of the two subjects to the end that recommendations made will be of real value. These reports will be on file and printed copies will be in your hands. I take pleasure in calling them to your attention.

I return again to a thought I have previously expressed and to reiterate and emphasize the same as forcibly as lies within my power. It is especially timely in view of the world-chaos involving the breaking down of social and political structures and the search for restoration and rebuilding.

In my address to the General Assembly four years ago, upon taking of the office of chief executive, I stated:

"It is my firm belief that the three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive—are as important and essential today as they were when first established by our patriotic forefathers, and I shall do all in my power to see that no one of them encroaches on the duties or prerogatives of any other."

Again, two years ago, on the same subject, I said:

"Now as never before must we insist that the three branches of government—the executive, legislative and judicial—be preserved, each enjoying and exercising the powers delegated to it, none engaging the unworthiness of encroachment upon the prerogatives of the other. A surrender now, by any one, of its rights, means the imminent downfall of the republican system of free government in the United States."

After four years of service in the executive branch of the government of Iowa, and having had the opportunity of service also in judicial and legislative positions, I am more firmly convinced of the wisdom and foresight of our forefathers when they established a republic in which the three branches of government were to be forever separate and distinct each from the other.

The future of our republic, and of the states formed in the same pattern, and the freedom of our people can be most certainly safeguarded by continuation of this wise separation of governmental powers by the scrupulous devotion of those who are clothed with responsibility. The vigilance imposed by the crisis of world war must extend to a firm determination to absolutely reject any and every proposal to destroy or weaken these fundamentals of free government by and for the people.

Those of our rights surrendered under the pressure of war and emergency to the executive must upon the termination of the war and emergency be restored to the people intact.

I am sure you will permit me a closing word of sincere thanks to you, and to your predecessors in legislative assemblies, and to the people of Iowa whose servants we all are, for the fine spirit of cooperation at all times prevailing here, for the eagerness of all to serve the public interest, and the desire manifest at all times that our moral, spiritual and material resources shall be made use of for the common good.

Looking back over the years since first I was privileged to serve in the legislative halls, I can truthfully say that the unity and harmony of Iowa people has been tremendously impressed upon me. The carrying on of the wholesome traditions of Iowa is at least partly in your hands. I beseech you to give every measure and every proposal that comes before you earnest study and thoughtful consideration and to jealously guard against the intrusion of selfish interests or destructive elements.

The people of Iowa want good government. They are loyal to all American ideals and institutions.

You as the representatives of the Iowa people can and will contribute much to the general welfare, in this terrible time of universal distress and wavering emotions, by building firmly on the solid foundations of this great State.

I am bidding farewell to a work for the State of Iowa and the people that has been a delight to me. I shall continue to serve my native state in another field. I will try to take to the capital of our great nation, the candor and frankness and clearness of thinking that is inspired by the boundless prairies of my native state.

I shall make effort at all times to obtain expression in terms of national action of the unqualified opposition of Iowa people to waste and extravagance and political favoritism in the spending of public funds.

I shall endeavor to reduce to the essential minimum the red tape and bureaucracy of government, and promote in all ways the common sense economy that we have been able to apply in the Hawkeye State.

Steadfastly, as a spokesman for Iowa people, I shall consider it my duty to insist that the honesty and integrity of Iowa fields and shops prevail in the business councils at Washington. In doing this I will need your, and the people of the State's, support. God bless all of you.

The Governor was escorted from the chamber by the committee previously appointed.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 3

Whereas, The tragedy of a world conflagration is imposing unprecedented financial demand upon the people of the entire Nation, in the form of greatly increased tax levies and the voluntary investment of private funds in defense savings; and

Whereas, The Nation's "all-out" effort for an overwhelming victory over the Axis powers will place upon our people from time to time in the months ahead new and increased financial burdens to meet the demands of the war program and insure adequate defense of our Nation and the American way of life; and

Whereas, One of the vital contributions which the Iowa Legislature can make toward an efficient prosecution of the Nation's war efforts is to safeguard and strengthen the financial resources of the people of Iowa to the end that they may be better able to meet and fulfill their financial obligations to the Nation; and

Whereas, This Fiftieth session of the General Assembly of the State of Iowa desires to express a legislative policy in the matter of state and local expenditures; now, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the State of Iowa, the House Concurring:

It is hereby determined and declared that it be the policy throughout the Fiftieth session of the Legislature of the State of Iowa to enact no legislative measures which will require increased or additional levies or additional expenditures in any county, municipality or school district of the State which are not a necessary part of the Nation's defense program, or are necessary for the relief of the needy or for the maintenance of standards of efficiency required by the public welfare; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the respective appropriation committees of the Legislature in drafting the General Appropriation Bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1943 be and it is hereby requested to include only those expenditures which support the essential functions of the State government, provide for needy persons, and those necessary to establish an adequate defense of our people; and

Be It Further Resolved, That this session of the State Legislature refrain from enacting any supplemental appropriation bills excepting emergency measures essential to the welfare of the people, or required to maintain proper standards of efficiency in the functioning of the State government.

Laid over under rule 34.

GOVERNOR'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MR. CHIEF JUSTICE, AND THE HONORABLE JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, STATE OFFICERS, AND FELLOW CITIZENS OF IOWA:

In full keeping with the orderly progress of self government under a free system, the sovereign people of Iowa have again passed judgment on their public affairs, by the election of their officials to conduct the public business for the ensuing term. They have expressed their opinion and their confidence in accordance with the American way. They have placed the responsibilities of the administration of government upon the elected officials and they have a right to assume that these responsibilities will be faithfully discharged.

To fully express my appreciation of the honor that has been given me today is beyond my ability. But I do appreciate it and I appreciate the trust and confidence that accompany it. While it carries honor, yet that honor can be sustained only so long as the great responsibilities and obligations it imposes are faithfully met and discharged.

Not since the second administration of Governor Kirkwood, in Civil War days, has an Iowa administration begun and a legislature convened, with our country at war. Because of this, the problems that confront us are peculiar. For more than a year the united effort of all has been absorbed by the war effort. The emergency, and its necessary demands, have changed our economic and social attitudes and these changes will increase daily as the fight goes on. Usual peacetime activities and commodities have been restricted, many thousands of our men and not a few of our women have joined the armed forces. Our money has been poured out in ever increasing millions to meet the cost, and our fertile fields have responded to the untiring work of our farmers by producing the greatest volume of food in our history. The efforts and production records our farmers have made—and their determination to do even more in spite of a desperate shortage of help—is one of the great patriotic contributions to the cause of freedom.

Iowa labor is far below the national record of lost man-hours. Its leadership and the rank and file have demonstrated that they are interested in the long range welfare of the working man and the war effort rather than in jurisdictional disputes.

Our industry has proved its genius and ability to produce far beyond quotas or expectations and often in spite of the mysterious bottleneck of priorities.

In every community patriotic and unselfish citizens are contributing, without pay, untold time and energy to ration boards, selective service, civilian defense, and other vital public activities. At great personal and financial sacrifice to themselves they are doing a magnificent job under difficult circumstances. They deserve the public thanks.

Throughout the state thousands of women are sewing, doing Red Cross work, acquiring proficiency in first aid, giving of their efforts and ability wherever they can best be used.

The untiring and patriotic service of the ex-service men of our state in every community is an example for all.

These unusual and vital activities have been, of necessity, the important work of our people and the citizen has responded with patriotism, zeal and unbounded effort. The results speak for themselves and thus the great voice and united action of the individual citizen is answering the challenge to our security and freedom.

The national government is demanding sacrifice, restriction and curtailment of our normal civilian goods and activities, as a necessary part of the war effort. Rationing of food and other commodities in support of our armed forces and the United Nations has been and will be gladly complied with by a willing public that has efficiently administered such programs locally as a patriotic duty.

Restriction of non-essential activities by the public is vital in this emergency. By the same rule, however, the national government must ration and restrict its non-essential activities. Government must devote its full zeal and effort to winning this war. Government cannot be profligate while the people sacrifice.

Our first concern as a state and as individuals is to win this war and return our boys to their homes. It is the most colossal task the American people have ever faced. It can be accomplished only through sacrifice, production, and intelligent cooperation coupled with unselfish non-political and able national leadership.

The curtailment of normal civilian activities, construction and venture means also that normal government activities and venture must be curtailed. This does not seem to be the time for experiment in public affairs. The necessary business of government must be cared for, but innovation or change during this period should be examined carefully and should be measured by its reasonable necessity or advantage to the public welfare, or the more efficient operation of our state. I believe the public demands such action.

Respecting, as I do, the province of the Legislature as the supreme law making body of the state, I do not believe a complete and detailed program of legislation nor any attempted direction of specific enactment to be proper in an inaugural address. The formulation and passage of legislation is the sacred province of the elected representatives of the people. Some general suggestions, however, may be helpful at the beginning of the legislative session and may serve to present certain subjects for consideration and for such action as the General Assembly may determine.

First, may I say that I see no present necessity for any additional taxation for the coming biennium. Knowing the care with which you will guard public expenditures I am confident as to your attitude in this respect.

The cost of living, due to war conditions, has increased materially and will go higher. This increase reflects itself in state government in two fields. First, our state employees, and especially those in the lower salaried brackets, are facing financial difficulty. Consideration should be given to the necessity for increases in salaries to relieve this situation.

Second, the cost of food and supplies for our institutions under the Board of Control has increased by a percentage greatly in excess of the increases to the general public. This is occasioned by the fact that, prior to the present emergency, our Board of Control was able to buy surplus commodities in larger quantities at prices usually far below the ordinary market. Under present and future conditions of shortages and demands, however, their purchases now must be made as and when supplies are available, and the regulation of costs and the demand for goods is such that no comparatively advantageous prices can be had. Serious consideration should be given to this matter so that our obligation to the unfortunate wards of the state can be fully met. In my budget message to the Legislature I shall make recommendations with respect to appropriations to meet these conditions.

The bookkeeping and accounting system of our state is antiquated, cumbersome, and inefficient. It has grown through the years with the expansion of state government, and the resultant confusion and maze of detail is proof that the faults should be immediately corrected. A simplified, efficient system, even though the cost of installation be substantial, would return big dividends of efficiency, convenience and simplification and could probably be operated by a reduced personnel.

With federal taxes already at unprecedented heights, and warnings of still other and higher levies to come, state government, if possible, should do all in its power to minimize the tax load of its citizens without, however, endangering the necessary and vital functions of state government. The condition of our treasury, the surplus on hand and present and reasonably anticipated income, indicate that, at least for the years 1942 and 1943, a substantial reduction of the income tax can be had. I suggest that this reduction, by such amount as, in the judgment of the Legislature, will not prejudice the other necessary functions of government, be made by way of a credit on the return rather than by alteration of the rate. Such method would be simple and would require no expensive administrative changes.

Because of the reduction in the amount of gasoline tax collections, some concern has been expressed with respect to the obligations on our highway bonds. I can say to you that present receipts and anticipated receipts of such taxes indicate that there will be sufficient money from such sources to maintain our highways and meet our bond commitments. I am confident that, in keeping with the pledges made to the people of Iowa 15 years ago and repeated periodically since, the burden of paying our road bonds will never be translated into a direct property tax.

In accordance with Chapter 311 of the Forty-ninth General Assembly, the Supreme Court has compiled a system of rules governing civil proceedings in the courts of the state. Their report will be filed with the General Assembly. These rules represent exhaustive study and conscientious effort on the part of the court and of a committee of distinguished and able public-spirited members of the bar, all of whom have devoted their time and talents without compensation and for the sole purpose of expediting and simplifying the rules of procedure for the benefit of the public. I believe this action to be a progressive step in the interest of justice and recommend the serious and thoughtful study and investigation thereof by the members of the General Assembly.

Substantial sums, heretofore appropriated for capital improvements, such as the state office building and other construction, remain unspent due to war restrictions. I recommend that these unspent funds be safeguarded and invested in public securities as a trust in order to make them available, at the end of the emergency, for the purposes for which they were appropriated.

With the birth of our state, education became of prime importance and Iowa early became known as one of the foremost states with regard to the opportunities for learning open to its young people. We have maintained our vigorous interest in and support of our school system. In response, however, to the feeling that modern progress indicated a need for correction of certain inefficiencies in that system, the Forty-ninth General Assembly established a committee to look into our needs and to report its findings and conclusions. That report has been made. It is the result of exhaustive hearings and study by the committee and has commanded the untiring effort of the members as well as valuable assistance from qualified persons in the education field. I recommend careful study of this report by the Legislature to the end that such progressive and beneficial changes may be made in our school program as may, in your judgment, be required. Our objectives should be, as they have been in the past, the highest educational opportunities and facilities for our children. Education is the foundation and safeguard of a free government.

I suggest careful attention to the problem of aid to underprivileged children. The counties are now spending approximately $900,000 annually, in the aggregate, for pensions to widows with children in need of aid. These expenditures, plus the state funds now provided for child welfare, might be reorganized and, at very little extra cost, establish a program for aid to all underprivileged children. Federal funds are available under certain conditions, but the substantial and practical administration and control of any such program should be retained by the state.

The problems, difficulties and confusion that occur in connection with our long primary ballot should, as soon as practicable, receive consideration by this or succeeding Legislatures. Efficient public government is best served when there is the greatest possible opportunity for informed voting by the citizen. This sentiment has been expressed by countless Iowa voters. A fair correction of this situation, in such instances where confusion does exist, would be a progressive step in the satisfactory exercise of franchise by the people but would probably entail substantial changes, in some instances, in our election laws. The Legislature may consider that, under the tension of this emergency, such changes should or should not be made. I call it to your attention as one of the fields for improvement in our public government.

Because of the rapidly changing and unpredictable demands of a wartime emergency and the possible vital need for immediate action, or necessity of the war effort, during the legislative interim, provision, no doubt, should be made to meet such contingencies as may arise. There are many peacetime standards and regulations in our statutes that should not be lowered or abandoned except under the imperative, temporary demands of emergency. This problem is important and should receive definite consideration, in the state and national interest. I believe the Legislature can devise such means as will solve this problem without invasion of or danger to the fundamental sovereignty of our law-making body.

The various social and humanitarian services maintained by the state should not be neglected. Their needs should be carefully reviewed and any deficiencies corrected. Increased living costs affect the needy as well as the employed.

One of our greatest potential fields of economic progress is that of the industrial use of agricultural products. Its substantial development through constant experimentation should be encouraged by the state: we should increasingly support and strive to obtain the establishment of more industries for the processing of our products. We have ample raw materials, labor and transportation. We are advantageously situated. The development of this field could go far in the solution of many of our peacetime economic problems.

There are many other matters that will command your attention. Time and this occasion will not permit a proper review of them. I am sure that consideration of these specific problems is already being given.

With over 100,000 of our men now in service and before this emergency ends, if we raise an army of 8 to 10 millions, then no doubt over 200,000 in service, it would be unfair to experiment with or substantially alter functions of government in their absence. Our citizens in the armed forces have earned their right to every consideration we can give. They have a right to voice their opinions on important issues and to participate in important changes when they return. Their numbers may constitute nearly one-tenth of our population. Their interests and their right to full participation are in our charge and we must be faithful to that trust.

As a state government, established and operating under the American system of local sovereignty, we face a serious challenge. The principle of government of laws enacted by the elected representatives of the people is threatened by a growing national tendency toward bureaucracy by which government is conducted under orders and regulations, promulgated by appointed officials, rather than by clearly defined statutes. I do not refer to the emergency powers of war but to the growing peacetime tendency that is continuing with respect to non-war controls.

The federal government has been invading the province of the state to an alarming degree. If continued it can eventually result only in the destruction of local self-government and bureaucracy can end only in tyranny.

We are a sovereign state, united with the other sovereign states to form a free, self-governing union. The safeguards of the constitution and of legislative law were established to protect the individual against the autocracy of edicts.

We can best protect our system by maintaining the efficiency with which it meets the requirements of our citizens. When state government fails in this respect it invites encroachment of federal authority regardless of whether or not such authority can solve the problem.

As part and parcel of this great nation it is our duty and our privilege to do our full share in man-power, in production and in money, for the defeat of its enemies and the preservation of its ideals. No state has surpassed us in performance of this duty. The citizens of no state have a higher sense of obligation nor a greater willingness to sacrifice in its discharge. We are an inseparable part of a united people unswervingly obligated to maintain the institutions of freedom.

The responsibilities as well as the benefits of free government rest upon the collective judgment, vision and wisdom of the individual citizen. The blessings of our American way of free enterprise and opportunity were secured through the sacrifice and the struggle of the individuals who, collectively, banded together to form and establish a government guaranteeing these rights. That system, born in the wilderness of a new continent, and here developed to the greatest degree of perfection ever known, is now being threatened by a foreign, barbaric vandalism that would destroy it and substitute therefor a system of slavery and human exploitation of a so-called "new order." With each passing day we as individuals, and collectively as one people, must fight and sacrifice with an unalterable determination until Nazism and the evils of its black magic have been destroyed and there is a total permanent eclipse of the "Rising Sun."

The brilliance and heroism of the men in our armed forces has already enshrined them in the temples of liberty. The brilliance of their deeds in our defense will light the path for future generations. They will keep the faith and hold our ramparts. We, in turn, must keep the faith with them. The destiny of human progress for countless future generations is in our keeping today and is our responsibility. The vigor with which we discharge that responsibility will determine the opportunities for freedom to be enjoyed by generations yet unborn.

We have heard much of theorizing, we have heard much of visionary planning; but we must not lose sight of the fact that Utopia cannot be created solely out of the mist of dreams. There are no privileges, there are no comforts, there is no progress except those which are earned. Our forefathers worked and sacrificed, as we have worked and sacrificed, to obtain the comforts and blessings of opportunity and free enterprise. They had and there is no Genie of the Magic Lamp to produce the heart's desire, at command.

While our all-consuming present duty is the destruction of treachery and barbarism in the world and the restoration of peace and the "Pursuits of Happiness," yet we must also consider the problems of that peace in order that they may be met and solved in the interest of a happier world.

Modern progress has decreed that in the world of tomorrow we will have greater responsibilities to, and more extensive participation in, the international problems of nations. Communication and transportation have eliminated distances and have reduced the world to a small globe, indeed. Mistakes of the past must be analyzed and corrected. Future policies must be based less on selfishness and more on cooperative understanding of the problems of our neighbors.

In this adjustment, the voice, ideals and influence of the people of this state, as well as the other states, must be asserted and felt in order that we have a part in the fabrication of reconstruction. The diplomacy of a cloistered few, secretly arrived at and actuated by their own selfish motives, should not again be permitted to impress itself upon trusting peoples. Iowa is but a part of our great national unity, and yet it is a sovereign and equal part of that unity and we are entitled to an equal voice in the maintenance and protection of our ideals.

In conducting the affairs of our state, legislative, judicial and executive, we must not lose sight of the benefits of the separation of powers. We must jealously guard its preservation because only through such a division of power are the rights of the individual guaranteed, maintained, and protected. Concentration of power in any of the three divisions or the encroachment of any one upon the other leads to so-called regimentation and centralization of governmental authority which is destructive of the basic principles under which we demand to live. We have carefully guarded these principles in our state. We shall continue that vigilance.

In beginning this administration I appreciate the opportunity afforded me in the past of serving in both Houses of our Legislature with a large majority of the present members of each House. It has given me a respect for and an appreciation of the prerogatives of your independent branch of government. This Fiftieth General Assembly is composed in the main of veteran lawmakers; your judgment, sincerity, and zeal in the public interest has been proven in the past. Due to the care and vigilance of the administration of the past four years, our state is in splendid condition to meet the contingencies that may occur. I know that you will guard the public interest with judgment and integrity; I shall respect your province and your responsibilities. It will be our mutual objective to conduct the public affairs of Iowa in the public interest, for the preservation of the ideals of free men and for the happiness and progress of those who follow us. Guided by the faith and wisdom of our "Fathers", inspired by their courage and our own appreciation of our heritage, led by the proven tenets of Divine mandate, we can discharge our debt to those who gave us freedom by preserving it for ourselves, by perfecting it as a greater heritage for posterity.

The license fee for each said license shall be Three Dollars per annum, provided, however, the fee for gasoline pumps shall be One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) per annum, if paid within one month from the date the said license is due.

A license on every gasoline pump is due the day any such pump is placed in operation."

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 8

Whereas, George T. Sullivan, gunner's mate, Francis M. Sullivan, coxswain, Joseph E. Sullivan, Madison A. Sullivan and Albert L. Sullivan, seamen, all brothers and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan of Waterloo, Iowa, have been reported by the Navy Department as missing in action; and

Whereas, The enlistment of these five brothers has received nationwide notice because of their outstanding loyalty and patriotism in volunteering as one in the service of their country; and

Whereas, The mother of these five brothers has received special honor from the Navy Department in recognition of her noble sacrifice in sending her five sons into service; and

Whereas, These brothers, in contradiction to the recommendation of their superior officer, and upon their own insistence, faced the dangers of enemy shells on the same ship, as one in unity and with a singleness of purpose; and

Whereas, High naval authorities have accounted their possible loss as the heaviest blow suffered by any American family since Pearl Harbor; now, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, Senate Concurring: That we express the feelings of all true Americans, and of Iowa in particular, in paying honor to these brave young men.

Be It Further Resolved, That in their sacrifice we recognize that they have contributed to the lasting honor of all Iowa and the glory of American arms, a sacrifice which shall go down in the history of our nation as one of heroic proportions and everlasting merit.

Be It Further Resolved, That we hereby express our deep concern and the concern of all Iowa in the fate and welfare of these five brothers, and hereby extend our prayers and hopes that the coming days will bring word that all are still alive.

Be It Further Resolved, This Legislature can use no words more fitting in this hour than those of the immortal Lincoln addressed to a mother who lost five sons in the Civil War:

"I pray the Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

Be It Further Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the General Assembly of the State to which these sons have brought such great honor; that copies of the same be transmitted to their parents and to the wife and young son of Albert Sullivan, to all of whom we reverently bow in recognition of the sacrifice which they have been called upon to bravely face.

Unanimous consent having been given for the immediate consideration of the resolution, McFarlane of Black Hawk moved its adoption.

Motion prevailed and House Concurrent Resolution 8 was unanimously adopted by a standing vote of tribute.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 9

Whereas, The tragedy of a world conflagration is imposing unprecedented financial demand upon the people of the entire nation, in the form of greatly increased tax levies; and

Whereas, The nation's "all out" effort for an overwhelming victory over the Axis powers will place upon our people from time to time in the months ahead new and increased financial burdens to meet the demands of the war program and insure adequate defense of our nation and the American way of life; and

Whereas, These tremendous financial demands emphasize the need for holding state and local expenditures to the lowest minimum consistent with the public good; and

Whereas, Rising living costs have greatly enhanced the problem of needy people receiving old age assistance and assistance to the blind to subsist on the funds that may be reasonably available at this period, and

Whereas, The principle of individual self-help is a traditionally American one, and

Whereas, The federal social security laws do not permit the matching of funds or grants to states unless the state program consider every source of income of the recipient, and

Whereas, The present manpower shortage renders it practically impossible for the people to obtain casual labor or to fill jobs of a temporary nature requiring only light work, and

Whereas, Many recipients of old age assistance, and assistance to the blind, are capable of obtaining and performing casual labor or to fill jobs of a temporary nature, and such recipients should be afforded an opportunity to perform such services for the period of the duration of this nation's conflict with the Axis powers, and

Whereas, It is deemed reasonable that recipients of old age assistance or assistance to the blind be allowed to receive from personal earnings a sum not exceeding $240.00 annually, and this income, when received from any source, be disregarded in determining need in all such cases, and

Whereas, Modification and liberalization of federal social security laws is necessary to permit states to include this provision without loss of federal grants:

Therefore, Be It Resolved By the Senate of the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa, the House Concurring: That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to forthwith take such action as may be appropriate to modify and liberalize the federal social security laws to permit recipients of old age assistance and assistance to the blind to receive from personal earnings a sum not exceeding $240.00 annually for the period of the duration of this nation's conflict with the Axis powers, without having the same charged to them or considered in determining need in all such cases.

Be It Further Resolved, That the secretary of state be and he hereby is directed to forward a certified copy of this resolution to the Vice President of the United States and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each member of the Congress (Senate and House of Representatives) of the United States from the State of Iowa.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 10

Whereas, Claude R. Wickard is Secretary of Agriculture, and there has been a demand by the United States government for increased production of food in the war effort, and

Whereas, The progress of increased production is retarded by lack of protein feeds necessary to provide balanced rations for livestock, and,

Whereas, The Commodity Credit Corporation has protein feeds available in this territory, which should be immediately released to aid in meeting the demand for increased production, and

Whereas, The 1939 Year Book of Agriculture emphasizes the fact that protein feeds to supplement the feed of home grown grains are necessary in the economical production of pork, beef and poultry, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring: That Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, and the Commodity Credit Corporation, be requested to immediately release and make available to the farmers of Iowa, protein feeds, especially soy bean meal, to supplement the home grown grains in connection with the increased production and feeding of pork, beef, poultry and other livestock necessary in the war efforts, and that the Secretary of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to mail a copy of this resolution to Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Senator Guy M. Gillette, to Senator George A. Wilson and each member from Iowa in the national House of Representatives.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE
SUPREME COURT OF IOWA

TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF IOWA:

In accordance with Chapter 311, Acts of the Forty-ninth General Assembly, the Supreme Court of Iowa has prescribed and herewith reports to the General Assembly rules of pleading, practice, and procedure and forms of process, writs and notices, for proceedings of a civil nature in courts of this state, for the purpose of simplifying the same, and of promoting the speedy determination of litigation upon its merits.

These rules are the result of efforts over a period of about twenty-two months during which a study has been made of the rules of procedure in this state and in other jurisdictions, including the new rules promulgated by the Supreme Court of the United States. During this period the court has had the valuable assistance of an advisory committee, appointed by the court, consisting of fifteen representatives and able lawyers, and some twenty subcommittees of equally capable attorneys and judges. Much credit is due the members of the committee and subcommittees, whose names are listed in this report. All served without compensation.

Tentative drafts of these rules were furnished to every lawyer and judge in Iowa, from whom several hundred communications were received. These communications were carefully considered. The tentative drafts were also discussed in meetings of lawyers held in every judicial district in this state.

The final report of the advisory committee was submitted to the court about December 10, 1942. Since that time each member of the court has carefully studied the report and numerous changes have been made therein.

This report includes:

1. Names of members of the advisory committee.
2. Names of members of the subcommittees.
3. Some information regarding the work of the committees.
4. Table of contents.
5. The rules.
6. Appendix I, showing statutes affected by these rules. (The inclusion of a statute in this table by no means indicates that the existing procedure has been changed by these rules. The greater portion of the statutes listed as of no further force and effect have been incorporated in the rules either verbatim, in substance, or with slight modifications.)

Ten additional copies of this report are being furnished to the General Assembly (twelve in all). While these are about all the copies now available, arrangements can probably be made to furnish the General Assembly with many additional copies, perhaps one for each member, if so desired.

Respectfully submitted,

T. G. GARFIELD, Chief Justice,

Supreme Court of Iowa.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

THE HONORABLE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE:

THE HONORABLE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

THE HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE FIFTIETH GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

In accordance with the provision of Chapter 7.1 of the Code, I am herewith submitting drafts of suggested appropriation bills with reference to administration, operation and maintenance of departments for each of the fiscal years of the ensuing biennium as contemplated in Part III of Section 84.15.

It is to be noted that the operation costs of state government as recommended in the budget and as reflected in these suggested appropriation bills, is lower for each year of the ensuing biennium than for each year of the past biennium by over one million dollars per year. This decrease is occasioned by savings caused through the elimination of nonessential capitol construction and other nonessential activities.

The necessary cost of operation of required functions of government has increased, but such increase is confined in its practical entirety, to unavoidable increases in food costs and the vital necessity for increases in wages and salaries, especially in the lower brackets, and the unavoidable increased cost of supplies. In these fields of increase, with respect to food and supplies, the state and the administrative heads of the various departments have no control. These prices have gone up in every business and activity and in every home.

It is to be noted that the essential foodstuffs and supplies of the institutions under the Board of Control such as our penal and mental institutions and the essential increases that must be made in wages in these institutions in order to maintain the help vital to their operation, has increased approximately $732,000.

With reference to the Board of Education, an increase of approximately $285,000 is indicated largely as a result of the operation of the schools and colleges under the Board of Education operating on a twelve month basis, due to the war emergency demands of national security, rather than on a nine month basis as heretofore the practice.

In many departments of government reductions have been made in many fields of activities that are not vital and necessary, at this time, to the efficient operation of government, but it is noted, and I am certain that every person realizes, that all businesses, private and public, have been faced with the necessity of increasing wages and have had to pay substantially more for supplies, materials and equipment in recent months, and are facing the known necessity of further increases in the future so long as the conditions of war economy continue.

With reference to the State University, the Iowa State College, and the Iowa State Teachers College, recommendations contemplated the normal operation of these institutions without regard to their utilization by the Federal Government for war training. At the time of compiling the budget and the preparation of the suggested appropriation bills, information is not at hand that will clearly indicate whether or not the full responsibility for the operation of these institutions will remain with the state or whether the war demands will absorb a substantial portion of our facilities. Manifestly, the degree to which Federal demands and the war effort do absorb or utilize the facilities of our state institutions, will determine to a great extent the financial cost of maintenance and operation to the state.

There are a number of other fields of state activity normally requiring expenditure of substantial sums of money, that, in my opinion, can be curtailed, but due to the fact that statutes now require such activities, recommended appropriations therefor have been made in the budget, but such recommendations will be changed from time to time, dependent upon the action of the legislature.

By way of illustration, I refer to requirements of publication of the Code each four years which, under the statute, would require the Code to be published after the 50th General Assembly. The cost of publication of the Code is estimated to be between $75,000 and $100,000 depending upon the cost of labor, print paper and other material elements. In my opinion, there is no vital necessity for publication of the Code at this time and the purposes and conveniences intended by the present statute could be met by an amendment thereto eliminating the necessity for such publication in 1943 and authorizing the publication only of a combined volume containing the session laws of the 49th and 50th General Assemblies and such other action as may be taken by this General Assembly.

A substantial saving of an estimated amount in excess of $40,000 per year can be made by issuing certificates or renewal for automobile licenses and continuing the present plates. In addition to the great difficulty of securing steel for such plates, it would appear that the continued use of the plates, issued in 1942, is practical and will answer all reasonable purposes.

A substantial saving can be made if the legislature sees fit to eliminate the re-issuance of drivers licenses, and authorizes the renewal of present licenses, under proper qualification, upon payment of the fee and the issuance of a certificate or receipt therefor under the general plan recommended by the Motor Vehicle Department. Such a plan will eliminate the expense of the purchase of paper for the reproduction of licenses and of the use of expensive equipment and the services in connection therewith.

Further detailing of the great number of instances where savings can be made would be impracticable. Many of these fields are now being explored by your body, many are being considered by the administrative and executive departments. State government is being operated on a careful and economical basis, but each field and department is making every effort to curtail in small as well as large details. United action by the legislative, the executive and the administrative branches will result in definite and substantial savings.

From time to time as action is taken by the legislature in connection with the appropriation of public funds, I shall, as contemplated by statute, make such amendatory changes in the budget recommendations as will conform to legislative direction.

Respectfully submitted,

B. B. HICKENLOOPER, Governor.

"Honorable Henry W. Burma

State House,

Des Moines, Iowa

My Dear Mr. Burma:

For your information I am enclosing a report submitted to the Department of Agriculture and also to the agricultural committee set up under Concurrent Resolution 35 of the Forty-ninth General Assembly. This is a progress report and should be considered as such if it is submitted to the Fiftieth General Assembly.

I think you will recall that Mr. Urban, who was chairman of this committee, appeared before the agricultural committee and discussed this progress report with them at one of the recent meetings.

Any further information I can give you or if I can be of any service in preparing a report to the Legislature, please call on me.

Yours very truly,

PROGRESS REPORT OF SUBCOMMITTEE APPOINTED TO STUDY LIVESTOCK MARKETING IN IOWA

The United States was not yet at war when Concurrent Resolution 37 was passed by the Forty-ninth Iowa General Assembly. This resolution requested a study be made of marketing conditions in Iowa. A subcommittee was subsequently appointed by the Honorable Mark G. Thornburg, Iowa State Secretary of Agriculture, and directed to proceed with the study. The committee, which consisted of two members from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, two from the Iowa State Department of Agriculture, and two from the Iowa State College, accordingly went to work to find the answer leading toward improvement in marketing Iowa livestock.

Considerable work was done through study within the committee itself, and through cooperation with producer and packer groups meeting with the committee. Because of acute conditions brought about and intensified by the war, however, the work which the committee considers only well begun has been temporarily discontinued.

Obviously, the primary interest in the mind of every American is to win the war. Virtually all industry has dedicated total effort toward this end, and the livestock industry in particular has demonstrated a determination to carry its full share of the war burden.

So many factors involving production, processing, and urgent demand for livestock products are therefore out of normal balance; or at least so many conditions which did exist when the legislature's request for this study was made are now of minor importance in the greater effort facing our state and country.

For example: (1) Oils and fats which a relatively short time ago were so plentiful as to find market outlet in soap manufacturing are now a dire necessity in the war effort. They will continue in this status at least for the duration of the war. (2) The sharp upward bend in livestock prices, plus government price control, has tended to freeze present grades and types, and to minimize normal margins. (3) Although the packing industry has shown every intention to cooperate in the study whenever requested, the urgency to utilize all effort toward processing in minimum time makes it impractical to take any part of the study directly into the packing houses. (4) Particularly because of necessary expense involved, and also because adequate technical assistance is not available, market reporting on cattle and probably sheep in the direct trade is not considered feasible.

These, briefly, are among the numerous factors which have influenced the committee to discontinue its study. The committee, nevertheless, realizes the importance of solving livestock marketing problems which face the Iowa producer. It realizes furthermore, that these problems will probably be fully as important after the war as they were before. Therefore, the committee recommends that its work so far accomplished (see accompanying outline) be held in abeyance until some further date following the successful outcome of the war, to be then again taken up and used as a stepping stone toward completion.

Members of the subcommittee are:

I. W. Arthur
Fred Beard
W. O. Fraser

Rollie Pemberton
Bob Overton
K. L. Urban

Signed: K. L. URBAN, Acting Chairman.

REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 37

This is a report of the subcommittee appointed to consider the three specific requests in House Concurrent Resolution No. 37 of the 49th Iowa General Assembly. Suggestions offered by the subcommittee are listed under each request.

Request No. 1.

Determine definite market grades of swine which may be closely correlated with carcass cut-out value.

Subcommittee suggestions on Request No. 1.

A. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Iowa State College will be asked to continue and to expand their work to develop more accurate and objective grade standards for hog carcasses of different weights and grades.

B. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and Iowa State College will be asked to conduct slaughter tests of different weights, grades, and classes of hogs to help relate live hog grades to carcass value and carcass grades.

C. The U. S. Department, the College, the State Department of Agriculture, the Meat Institute and the Interior Packers' Organization will be requested to cooperate fully in the effort now under way in which four packing plants are killing sorted lots of hogs of different weights, grades and qualities, photographing the hogs and keeping a complete and accurate record of the cut-out results in an effort to more closely relate live grading to carcass values.

D. Further tests should be made of the ability of buyers and sellers to estimate yields, grades and values of live hogs as compared with their resulting cut-out values. The agencies mentioned in C above will be invited to cooperate in making these tests.

Request No. 2.

Provide a concise summary of the innovations necessary to incorporate such grades into present swine marketing system.

Subcommittee suggestions on Request No. 2:

A. Conduct educational work to acquaint farmers with the grades of hogs. This work should be carried on more aggressively when results in connection with Request No. 1 above become available.

B. Encourage farmers when marketing hogs to get the yield and grade of their hogs which they sell.

C. Arrange for and encourage packers to cooperate in B above in instances where there are uniform bunches of hogs coming at a time when it will not interfere too seriously with commercial operation of the plant.

D. Encourage swine producers to acquaint themselves with price differentials between grades at different plants.

E. Encourage farmers to deal only with buyers who have demonstrated their ability and intention to pay premiums for hogs of outstanding quality and confirmation, desired weights and finish and higher slaughter yields.

Fulfillment of Request No. 2 will be based on results obtained from investigation and research to be carried on under Request No. 1. Therefore most of these suggestions are offered by the committee as immediate alternatives.

Request No. 3.

Make such changes in the market news service as would provide producers with detailed market information regarding price differentials between various grades and prices at important direct-buying centers. Subcommittee suggestions on Request No. 3.

A. The committee realizing the inadequency of present market news coverage on livestock other than hogs, recommends that steps be taken to provide concise and practical market reports on both cattle and sheep in a manner similar to that now followed in covering hogs.

B. In carrying out A, the suggestion was raised for discussion as to whether or not it would be advisable to place trained market news reporters at the principal livestock market centers in interior Iowa and southern Minnesota. These men could be used to report hogs, cattle, and sheep markets to the Des Moines office for dissemination.

C. A discussion was held on the point that market reports covering important interior Iowa buying stations should be financed by funds appropriated by the Iowa Legislature, since the reports are imperative to producers within the state of Iowa.

D. It was suggested that producer and packer groups give consideration to the practicability of reporting interior Iowa livestock markets by firms and to the suggestions outlined in B.

Read first time and referred to committee on ways and means.

TITLE IV—GRANTS TO STATES FOR AID TO DEPENDENT CHILDREN Appropriation

Section 1. For the purpose of enabling each State to furnish financial assistance, as far as practicable under the conditions in such State, to needy dependent children, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the sum of $24,750,000, and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year thereafter a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of this title. The sums made available under this section shall be used for making payments to States which have submitted, and had approved by the Board, State plans for aid to dependent children.

State Plans for Aid to Dependent Children

Sec. 402. (a) A State plan for aid to dependent children must (1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State, and, if administered by them, be mandatory upon them; (2) provide for financial participation by the State; (3) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan, or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan; (4) provide for granting to any individual, whose claim with respect to aid to a dependent child is denied, an opportunity for a fair hearing before such State agency; (5) provide such methods of administration (including after January 1, 1940, methods relating to the establishment and maintenance of personnel standards on a merit basis, except that the Board shall exercise no authority with respect to the selection, tenure of office, and compensation of any individual employed in accordance with such methods) as are found by the Board to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan; and (6) provide that the State agency will make such reports, in such form and containing such information, as the Board may from time to time require, and comply with such provisions as the Board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports; (7) provide that the State agency shall, in determining need, take into consideration any other income and resources of any child claiming aid to dependent children and (8) provide safeguards which restrict the use or disclosure of information concerning applicants and recipients to purposes directly connected with the administration of aid to dependent children.

(b) The Board shall approve any plan which fulfills the conditions specified in subsection (a), except that it shall not approve any plan which imposes as a condition of eligibility for aid to dependent children, a residence requirement which denies aid with respect to any child residing in the State (1) who has resided in the State for one year immediately preceding the application for such aid, or (2) who was born within the State within one year immediately preceding the application, if its mother has resided in the State for one year immediately preceding the birth.

Payments to States

Sec. 403. (a) From the sums appropriated therefor, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to each State which has an approved plan for aid to dependent children, for each quarter, beginning with the quarter commencing July 1, 1935, an amount, which shall be used exclusively for carrying out the State plan, equal to one-half of the total of the sums expended during such quarter under such plan, not counting so much of such expenditure with respect to any dependent child for any month as exceeds $18, or if there is more than one dependent child in the same home, as exceeds $18 for any month with respect to one such dependent child and $12 for such month with respect to each of the other dependent children.

(b) The method of computing and paying such amounts shall be as follows:

(1) The board shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to be paid to the State for such quarter under the provisions of subsection (a), such estimate to be based on (A) a report filed by the State containing its estimate of the total sum to be expended in such quarter in accordance with the provisions of such subsection and stating the amount appropriated or made available by the State and its political subdivisions for such expenditures in such quarter, and if such amount is less than one-half of the total sum of such estimated expenditures, the source or sources from which the difference is expended to be derived, (B) records showing the number of dependent children in the State, and (C) such other investigation as the Board may find necessary.

(2) The Board shall then certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount so estimated by the Board, (A) reduced or increased, as the case may be, by any sum by which it finds that its estimate for any prior quarter was greater or less than the amount which should have been paid to the State for such quarter, and (B) reduced by a sum equivalent to the pro rata share to which the United States is equitably entitled, as determined by the Board, of the net amount recovered during any prior quarter by the State or any political subdivision thereof with respect to aid to dependent children furnished under the State plan; except that such increases or reductions shall not be made to the extent that such sums have been applied to make the amount certified for any prior quarter greater or less than the amount estimated by the Board for such prior quarter.

(3) The Secretary of the Treasury shall thereupon, through the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department and prior to audit or settlement by the General Accounting Office, pay to the State, at the time or times fixed by the Board, the amount so certified.

Operations of State Plans

Sec. 404. In the case of any State plan for aid to dependent children which has been approved by the Board, if the Board, after reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the State agency administering or supervising the administration of such plan, finds—

(1) that the plan has been so changed as to impose any residence requirement prohibited by section 402 (b), or that in the administration of the plan any such prohibited requirement is imposed, with the knowledge of such State agency, in a substantial number of cases; or the Board shall notify such State agency that further payments will not be made to the State until the Board is satisfied that such prohibited requirement is no longer so imposed, and that there is no longer any such failure to comply. Until it is so satisfied it shall make no further certification to the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to such State.

(2) that in the administration of the plan there is a failure to comply substantially with any provision required by section 402 (a) to be included in the plan;

Administration

Sec. 405. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the sum of $250,000 for necessary expenses of the Board in administering the provisions of this title.

Definitions

Sec. 406. When used in this title—

(a) The term "dependent child" means a needy child under the age of sixteen, or under the age of eighteen if found by the State agency to be regularly attending school, who has been deprived of parental support or care by reason of the death, continued absence from the home, or physical or mental incapacity of a parent, and who is living with his father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, stepfather, stepmother, stepbrother, stepsister, uncle, or aunt, in a place of residence maintained by one or more of such relatives as his or their own home;

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 13

Whereas, This nation is now engaged in a world wide war which has brought about a tremendous demand upon our transportation facilities, and

Whereas, It is recognized that a serious problem has arisen relative to the continuation of our transportation facilities because of the shortage of rubber, and our government has urged as a result of investigations and conclusions reached by the Baruch Committee, a development of synthetic rubber to alleviate the shortage, and

Whereas, It is a desire of this state to cooperate in every way possible with the Federal government and its committees and to make available its surplus commodities which are essential in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, and

Whereas, In the state of Iowa raw materials are available for the manufacture of alcohol used in the production of synthetic rubber, and

Whereas, It would be economically advantageous to erect factories for the production of synthetic rubber in the area where the necessary raw materials are produced, and where the high protein by-products are urgently needed for animal feeds; therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That rubber administrator, William M. Jeffers, and our two senators, the Honorable George A. Wilson and the Honorable Guy M. Gillette, and our eight Congressmen be urged to use their best efforts to help unsnarl the present situation relative to the production of synthetic rubber from agricultural products; that such plants be located in the surplus crop area including the state of Iowa to the end that our state, nation and humanity be benefited and also to the end that this war be brought to a successful and more rapid conclusion.

OSCAR PETERSON.

ELMER COOPER.

A. J. JOHNSON.

*See Journal of February 9, 1943, for correction of record.

McFarlane of Black Hawk raised the point of order that a Call of the House is not in order after the previous question has been ordered.

The Speaker ruled the point not well taken for the reason that the previous question applied only to the motion to re-refer, which had already been disposed of.

The House proceeded under the Call of the House.

Dodds of Des Moines moved that the House adjourn until 10:00 a. m. Tuesday, February 9, 1943.

Getscher of Fremont moved that the House recess until 2:00 p. m. today.

The Speaker held that the motion to recess was out of order as the motion to adjourn takes precedence.

Shimanek of Jones raised the point of order, that a motion to adjourn is not in order under a Call of the House.

The Speaker ruled that a motion to adjourn is always in order and has the effect of lifting the Call of the House.

Roll call was demanded.

JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE

HALL OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
DES MOINES, IOWA, FEBRUARY 9, 1943.

The House met pursuant to adjournment, Speaker Burma in the chair.

HOUSE FILE 125 RE-REFERRED

Reed of Jefferson asked that Bonn of Iowa be permitted to correct the record on his vote from "nay" to "aye" on the question to re-refer House File 125 to the committee on liquor control, as shown on page 354 of the Journal of February 8, for the reason that he made an error in casting his vote.

Objection was made.

Mr. Reed moved that Mr. Bonn be permitted to correct the record on his vote.

Fishbaugh of Page raised the point of order that it was too late to change a vote after the results thereof had been announced.

The Speaker held the point not well taken for the reason that in this instance the member was not attempting to change his vote, only to correct the record on his vote; and that under Roberts Rules of Order, there being no specific House Rule on the question, a member may make such change or correction under general consent; and, objection being made, a motion permitting him to do so is perfectly proper.

Prentis of Ringgold moved as a substitute that the Monday's absentees be permitted to cast their votes today.

McFarlane of Black Hawk raised the point of order that this would be contrary to the Rules of the House and therefore require a two thirds vote for suspension of the Rules.

The chair held the point well taken.

McFarlane of Black Hawk moved the previous question on both the motion by Reed of Jefferson and on the motion by Prentis of Ringgold.

Roll call was demanded.

On the question "Shall the main question be now ordered?"

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 17

Whereas, Daylight working hours are a vital factor in the preparation and harvesting of crops, the feeding of farm animals, and the production of all farm commodities; and,

Whereas, The new war time known as daylight saving time since its establishment has proved to be wasteful, rather than time-saving; and,

Whereas, In these days of dire need every possible hour on the farm must be used for the production of vital foods; and,

Whereas, The factories engaged in war production are largely on a twenty-four hour per day basis and those not thus engaged are largely on a short day basis of work; and,

Whereas, Because of these conditions this change in time has not resulted in the saving of electric power and fuel; now therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That we respectfully petition Congress of the United States to repeal the act known as "daylight saving time", Chapter 7, 2d Session, Public Law 403, 77th Congress (S. 2160) which was approved by Congress January 20, 1942, and which establishes a standard time for the United States one hour earlier than mean astronomical time, and by this appeal permit agriculture to operate with a greater degree of efficiency.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the two Iowa Senators and the eight Iowa Members of the House of Representatives and that they be thus petitioned to use all their influence and best offices that this change in time may be made and put into effect before the heavy farm work season begins.

Weichman of Benton asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution and moved its adoption.

Motion prevailed and House Concurrent Resolution 17 was adopted.

OBSERVANCE OF VALENTINE DAY AND ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

In observance of the Valentine season, Te Paske of Sioux introduced the Lady Member of the House, Mrs. Lynch of Pocahontas, with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER: Just for a moment this morning may I presume to interpret and express the sentiments of 107 members of this House. We are about to observe Lincoln's birthday. Next Sunday is St. Valentine Day. Not so bad that these two days come so close together. But on Sunday we do not meet as a body, so we shall just briefly observe these two days at the same time, and think of St. Valentine as of today.

And so we set these few moments aside to express our love, respect and admiration for womanhood. Womanhood! How the word appeals to the best there is in each of us. What tender memories, what profound experiences, what highest joys, what deepest sorrows, what greatest sacrifices, what fondest hopes are there, without womanhood in the picture!

"There's neither life, nor death, nor birth
That has a feather's weight or worth,
Without a woman in it."

So this morning we make bold to kidnap from Pocahontas her Representative, and claim her as the member at large, the lady member of the whole House. We shall let her symbolize womanhood for us all. We are proud of her as an example to womanhood during these days of faltering and failing manners and morals.

(The Page presented a basket of flowers to Mrs. Lynch.)

To you, therefore, lady member of the House, we all join in extending our sentiments of high regard, profound respect and sincere admiration. We know something of the path you have walked, the hard way you have come. Your success has not been handed to you on a silver platter. That indomitable will, that ceaseless perseverance, that crowning success, and that highly useful and efficient service to your community, and now to the state of Iowa, will be an inspiration to all who hear your story.

So your fellow members of this House extend to you this token: the flowers, in their beauty and fragrance, to bear to you our sentiments for the passing moment; and the vase—in the days to come as you place in it other flowers, will be a reminder of this winter morning, when 107 stalwart men of the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa rose up and called you blessed.

Mrs. Lynch, the Lady from Pocahontas, responded.

In commemoration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, Cooper of Adams addressed the House, paying tribute to the Great Emancipator.

Good of Boone presented the civil government class of Beaver, their superintendent and instructor, and Justin R. Doran of Beaver, former representative from Boone county.

SENATE FILE 81 SUBSTITUTED FOR HOUSE FILE 86

HOUSE FILE 68 WITHDRAWN

Yager of Dickinson asked and obtained unanimous consent to withdraw Houe File 68 from the further consideration of the House.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 8

Whereas, Stock feeders in Iowa are finding it difficult and in many cases impossible to obtain oil meal, cotton seed meal, soy bean meal, tankage and similar feeds so necessary in the feeding and finishing livestock for market; and,

Whereas, Where available these must generally be purchased if at all at increasingly exorbitant prices in mixtures and compounds generally known as commercial stock foods; and,

Whereas, The difficulty in obtaining these necessary food substances, at reasonable prices in the usual forms, is seriously slowing down and discouraging the production of meat so necessary to the war effort; and,

Whereas, It is being commonly asserted and believed that this situation does not arise from an actual shortage of these products so much as by manipulation and preferences which might be prevented and removed by national authority.

Be It Therefore Resolved by the Senate of the State of Iowa, the House of Representatives Concurring: That we call upon the Congress of the United States to institute such investigation of this subject as may be necessary to determine the fact and fix blame, if any, and pass legislation, if any is required, to correct the situation complained of.

Be it Further Resolved: That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Agriculture and to each member of the Iowa delegation in Congress.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 16

Whereas, The Congress of the United States has before it for consideration, House Bill H. R. 1012 and Senate Bill 246 affecting Air Commerce; and,

Whereas, Air Commerce (Air Lines) represents a minor part of civil aviation and private flying and fixed base operations represent a major part of civil aviation whose operations are not interstate in character and therefore are of no concern of the federal government, the pending legislation would deny to the states their inherent rights to govern within their own state and would seriously jeopardize private flying and fixed base operations, and;

Whereas, By applying the intent of this legislation to other forms of transportation our national economy would be seriously affected, and;

Whereas, There is no immediate need for this legislation as the President of the United States is vested with full power under the Defense Act to regulate all aircraft, civilian or otherwise if necessary, and;

Whereas, Those men who are serving their country in the various branches of service are unable to voice their sentiments or opinions on this proposed legislation at this time, and they are the persons who have contributed more to the development of aviation and are entitled to their place in aeronautics when and if they return from active duty, and;

Whereas, There is ample time for such legislation to be considered in the future since consideration has not been given future developments and improvements which will change methods now used in the regulation of aircraft.

Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved: That the state legislature of Iowa respectfully requests that no action be taken on the above mentioned bills or any similar bill or bills by Congress until the present war is over and peace is established.

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of the United States Senate, the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, the Clerk of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of Congress and to each of the Iowa Senators and Representatives in Congress.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 17

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring:

Whereas, The federal government in the levying of a tax on gasoline and upon automotive units has invaded a field of taxation heretofore exclusively reserved to the states, and

Whereas, There has never been any direct relationship between such federal taxes and federal aid to the states for highway purposes, and

Whereas, It appears that normal federal aid for highways may not be continued beyond the end of the present fiscal year, and

Whereas, Gasoline rationing has drastically and seriously reduced state revenues for highway purposes, and

Whereas, The federal government has sources of revenue not available to the states, therefore

Be It Resolved that the Senate of the State of Iowa, the House of Representatives concurring: Do memorialize the Congress of the United States to take action necessary to effect the retirement of the federal government from the field of automotive taxation, with special reference to the tax on gasoline and the use tax on automotive units, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each United States senator and each congressman from Iowa.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANK C. BYERS, Chairman.

A. H. AVERY, Chairman.

On the part of the Senate.

On the part of the House.

HONORABLE GEORGE A. WILSON
Governor of Iowa
Des Moines, Iowa

HONORABLE BOURKE B. HICKENLOOPER
Governor-elect of Iowa
Des Moines, Iowa

Gentlemen:

Section 68 of the Code requires that the state uniform law commission shall report to the Legislature an account of its transactions and its advice and recommendations for legislation.

There have been two meetings of the national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws since the adjournment of the last General Assembly. All three of the Iowa commissioners attended the meeting at Indianapolis in September, 1941. The writer was the only member of the commission attending the meeting of the national conference held at Detroit in August, 1942. Both of these sessions were engaged to a large extent in consideration of a revision of the uniform sales act, which is among the uniform acts in force in Iowa. The present work of revision is being done in collaboration with the American Law Institute and will be a part of a new uniform commercial code, comprising revisions of the uniform negotiable instruments act, the sales act, bills of lading act, warehouse receipts act, and possibly some others. Obviously the purpose of the revision is to bring these important uniform acts, which have been generally adopted by the states, up to date and make them more effective in respect to modern trade and commerce.

Among the more recent uniform acts adopted by the national conference is one known as the uniform simultaneous death act. Although it was not promulgated by the national conference until 1940, it has already been adopted as the law in 18 states. It deals with the situation wherein two or more persons die in a common disaster. The question of establishing survivorship, the rights to property and insurance proceeds incident thereto, has given the courts considerable difficulty. For instance, our own supreme court has refused to apply in these cases the ancient presumptions as to survivorship and has simply put upon the person claiming a certain survivorship the burden of proof with respect thereto (see Graybill v. Brown, 94 Iowa 290; In re Estate of Evans, 228 Iowa 908).

The uniform act provides a simple but logical solution for the problem. We think it should receive favorable consideration and action by the General Assembly.

At the 1942 meeting of the national conference four uniform acts were finally adopted. They consisted of amendments to the uniform guardianship act, amendments to the narcotic drug act, amendments to the acknowledgments act, and a new act called the uniform vital statistics act. The amendments to the uniform veterans guardianship act which is found as chapter 542.1 of the Code of Iowa, were drafted at the request of the United States veterans bureau and largely for the purpose of meeting, and providing a solution for, certain problems that had arisen during the years of the administration of the original uniform act.

The amendments to the narcotic drug act were prepared at the suggestion of the narcotic bureau, and they would amend the provisions of the uniform narcotic drug act which is found as chapter 155.1 of the Code of Iowa.

The amendments to the uniform acknowledgments act consist in the addition of a certain section providing for acknowledgment of instruments by persons in or with the armed forces of the United States before a commissioned officer of those forces and without the certificate of acknowledgment divulging the place of acknowledgment. This amendment is very urgently needed and has the approval of the Judge Advocate of the army and the Judge Advocate of the navy. While we do not have the uniform acknowledgments act in Iowa and we do not urge its adoption, we do think that this amendment in behalf of the men in the armed forces of our country should have immediate and favorable action.

It is our opinion that the present provisions of the Iowa law with respect to vital statistics are sufficient, and we do not recommend that the uniform vital statistics act, as just adopted by the national conference, be considered for passage by the General Assembly.

Iowa has adopted and enacted into law 19 of the uniform acts promulgated by the national conference. Many of the states have gone much further than this. Our neighbor South Dakota has adopted 39; Illinois, 26; New York, 26; Pennsylvania, 35; Wisconsin, 38; Wyoming, 22.

We do not take the position that Iowa should adopt all of the uniform acts, but we do believe that great benefit would be derived not only by our state, but by the nation, if Iowa would give careful and favorable consideration to most of these acts. Uniformity in respect to matters which readily lend themselves to such treatment tends to obviate unpleasant disputes and facilitate business transactions. We would like to recommend that, as has been done in a number of other states, a special committee on uniform legislation be appointed in the Senate and in the House, to which committees the consideration of the uniform acts would be referred.

Among uniform acts which have received general acceptance by the states and which would go far to improve the administration of justice in Iowa are certain acts relating to the introduction and admission of evidence in the trial of cases. These acts were prepared by the eminent legal writer and authority upon the law of evidence, Dean John H. Wigmore, who has for many years been a member of the national conference. The acts referred to are known as the business records of evidence act, composite reports as evidence act, judicial notice of foreign law act, and official reports as evidence act. These were all promulgated by the national conference in 1936. Somewhat related to the same subject, we recommend for consideration by the Legislature the uniform expert testimony act.

Respectfully submitted,

IOWA COMMISSION ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS

DEAR MR. GUSTAFSON:

REPORT OF IOWA STATEHOOD CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE

IOWA
STATE DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY AND ARCHIVES
Des Moines
Ora Williams, Curator

February 4, 1943.

HON. BOURKE B. HICKENLOOPER,
Governor of Iowa,
Des Moines, Iowa.
Dear Mr. Governor:

The Forty-ninth General Assembly of the State of Iowa adopted House

Concurrent Resolution 23 providing for the appointment by the governor of Iowa of a committee of nine persons for the purpose of considering preliminary plans for the proper celebration of the Centennial of Iowa statehood during the year 1946. Under said resolution, the governor appointed the committee making this report to you, and whose names are signed hereto. The last paragraph of said resolution provided that said committee prepare plans and submit the same to the Fiftieth General Assembly for such action as it may deem proper.

Said committee has had two meetings, and as a result of careful consideration of the provisions of said resolution, and in accordance with the instructions contained therein, we hereby respectfully submit to you, and to the Fiftieth General Assembly through you, our report as follows:

There is no thought of diverting any particle of the thought or energy of the people of Iowa from the great main purpose of helping to win the war.

The celebration of the Centennial anniversary of the State of Iowa is, however, an important and worthy object in itself.

Hope is entertained that victory in the war may come at a date considerably in advance of the time for the actual celebration of the Centennial. In such case, the celebration should be planned to combine with the anniversary theme the additional theme of honor to the fighting men who have helped to win the victory.

It is entirely possible that the end of the war, releasing the energy of our people for a Centennial celebration, might come midway between sessions of the Legislature. In such case, it would be advisable to have the machinery for the purpose set up in advance, so that a commission could start to function at once, instead of having to wait for a half year or even a year for the activity to be authorized.

It is for this last reason that we offer at this time a general outline of tentative plans for the celebration of the Iowa statehood Centennial in 1946.

The actual date of the admission of the State of Iowa into the Union was December 28, 1846. The date is most inconvenient, for three reasons: Business activities are congested then, at the close of the calendar year; everyone is busy with holiday festivities and observances; and the weather is likely to be anything but favorable, certainly prohibitive for any outdoor program. Therefore, it is suggested that the entire Centennial year of 1946 be devoted to widespread local observances of the anniversary, in which every community of the state can join, and emphasize its own particular part in the progress of Iowa for the 100 years; with perhaps an official recognition of the exact anniversary date, at the state capitol. We assume that the Iowa State Fair will signalize the anniversary at its annual exhibition in its own way.

To this end we suggest that every county, every city, every town, every church, lodge, club, association, or other group of any kind, plan to observe, in a manner fitting to its own line of activity, its own anniversary, whether that be for the exact 100-year period or for a greater or less period of time. Many such observances will be held before the year 1946, but when that year comes, then all celebrations should have special reference to the Centennial year.

It also is suggested that, in addition to the public schools, all study clubs and other groups in the state which meet regularly should include in their programs of study from now until 1946 something with reference to the history of the state and to its progress in all lines.

There are numerous books which in whole or in part cover the history of the state quite fully and ably. But from these more extensive works it would be well to make a compendium of the main facts in the state's history, to be published in economical form for the use of teachers and pupils in the public school system.

The State Department of History and Archives, the State Historical Society of Iowa, and the Iowa Association of Local Historical Societies should be expected to give direction to much of this study, as part of their regular activity. The Centennial series of Iowa historical books published by the State Historical Society will be drawn upon for material, including those already published, and the remaining volumes of the series which are to follow.

The purpose is not to promote a merely academic study of state and local history, or a merely commercial advertisement of Iowa, but to represent faithfully all the activities, material and moral, which have gone into the making of a great state; to stimulate state pride; to stir a lively gratitude for the Providential and human influences which have made Iowa what it is today; and to strengthen the purpose of all Iowans to learn from the lessons of the past in order to build Iowa institutions and character even better as the state's second century begins.

Our suggestion is that the observance of Iowa's statehood Centennial should be an all-Iowa affair, covering every branch of legitimate activity, past and present.

To place in effect the preliminary plans and program referred to above, and to consummate other plans that might be prepared in the future, the undersigned committee hereby make two definite concrete recommendations:

1. That if the governor and the Fiftieth General Assembly approve the general program and plan above submitted, the governor should be authorized to appoint a Centennial commission to prepare and frame definite plans and programs and to have full charge of the directions of Centennial observances in the state. The committee suggest that said commission should consist of between fifteen and twenty members, one of each member to be appointed from and to represent each of the following organizations or lines of activity:

Agriculture.

Education.

Patriotic organizations.

Industry and Commerce.

The State Department of History and Archives.

The State Historical Society of Iowa.

The Iowa Association of Local Historical Societies.

Women's organizations.

Transportation.

Daily newspapers.

Weekly newspapers.

Radio stations.

And any other activity which seems advisable.

Our second definite and concrete recommendation is as follows:

2. Your committee feels that it would be well for the Centennial commission to be supplied with a small fund, say one thousand dollars ($1,000) for the biennium, with which to meet actual expenses such as postage, printing, telephone calls, and clerical work. The commission appointments should be completely honorary, with no allowance for time or expense.

Respectfully submitted,

IOWA STATEHOOD CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE.

On motion by Heffner of Hamilton, the following report of the special committee on agriculture was ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER: House Concurrent Resolution No. 85 of the 49th General Assembly reads as follows:

Whereas, agriculture is the basic industry of Iowa, and the continued prosperity and development of the state is largely dependent on the general prosperity of its farm population, and

Whereas, changing conditions, both foreign and domestic, have created grave agricultural problems including those of confused and undesirable marketing conditions, increased production due to modern machinery aggravated by underconsumption, absentee ownership, decrease in the number of family-sized farms, as well as many other related and acute problems, and

Whereas, the permanent solution of this problem, as yet unfound, presents a challenge to the state, and

Whereas, the temporary nature of the present farm program, dependent as it is upon annual congressional appropriation, offers no permanent solution, and

Whereas, the time available to members during a legislative session is too limited to pursue the intensive study required,

Therefore Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the governor be and he is hereby requested and empowered to appoint a committee, the chairman of which shall be the secretary of agriculture, and the members of which shall be composed of five (5) members from the House of Representatives and five (5) members from the Senate. The duty of this committee shall be to study and investigate agricultural problems and to suggest means for meeting them, reporting the results back to the Fiftieth General Assembly.

No member of the committee shall receive any compensation for his services, but each shall be reimbursed for his actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of his duties as a member of the committee. The chairman of the committee shall certify the expense of each member thereof to the Department of Agriculture, and upon certification thereof, such expense shall be paid by the Department of Agriculture out of its department funds in the same manner as other expenses of the Department of Agriculture.

Representatives: J. S. Heffner, Jay C. Colburn, David A. Dancer, Henry W. Burma, Gustave Alesch.

The first meeting was held in the office of the secretary of agriculture on July 15, 1941. Governor Wilson appeared before the committee and stated he was formulating suggestions as to the activities of the committee and would mail a copy of the suggestions to each of the members. He was also of the opinion that the committee would need some finances to carry on their duties. The governor and the secretary of agriculture were asked to appear before the interim committee in regard to finances. This resulted in an allotment of $2,000.00 for the Department of Agriculture to be used solely for the expenses of the committee. At this meeting the following telegram was sent to Senator Edward Thomas, chairman of the subcommittee on agriculture at Washington, D. C.:

"The agricultural committee of the Iowa legislature, in session in Des Moines, July 15, 1941, opposes the fixing of maximum prices of agricultural products unless necessary under the national defense program and unless the price be kept on an equality basis with the products of industry and labor."

On August 26, 1941, the committee held their second meeting and after several hours' discussion the committee was of the opinion that they should direct their activities along two lines—that of farm tenancy and livestock marketing. The chairman appointed the following committees:

Farm tenancy and rehabilitation: Senator Stewart, chairman, Senator Elthon, Representatives Heffner, Dancer and Burma.

Marketing: Senator Leo, Chairman, Senators Fuller and Munger, Representatives Alesch and Colburn.

The farm tenancy committee planned four hearings; one in northwest Iowa; one in northeast Iowa; one in southwest Iowa and one in southeast Iowa. The first hearing was held in Pocahontas, October 23, 1941, Senator Stewart presiding. Those present consisted of a committee from each of the three major farm organizations; bankers of this territory; member of the chambers of commerce; individual farmers and members of the legislature of this district. A complete transcript of this meeting is on file at the office of the Department of Agriculture.

Shortly after this meeting was held and before a definite date could be arranged for a further hearing, these United States of ours were at war. We hesitated to go further and owing to the emergency which now exists and with increased farm prices, farm tenancy has continued to improve and no further meetings have been held.

The livestock marketing committee working in conjunction with the committee set out in Concurrent Resolution 37 to study livestock marketing and market reports (said committee consisting of two representatives from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, two from the Iowa State College and two from the State Department of Agriculture) held several meetings and investigations in the study of the livestock marketing situation in Iowa. Plans were formulated to study rail grading of hogs. Due to the war these studies had to be discontinued. The committee also devoted its efforts to the study of livestock marketing reports also through these efforts the daily broadcast of livestock market reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have been improved in that they have been made more complete and understandable. Further progress should be made along this line.

At a later meeting held in September, 1942, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The Office of Price Administration has been authorized to fix ceiling prices on various commodities, including meat and other agricultural products, and

Whereas, It is apparent there is now a shortage of meat products, and

Whereas, Iowa as the leading meat producing state in the Union can produce an almost unlimited supply of meat, and

Whereas, The Office of Price Administration is about to adjust inequalities of the price fixing law, and

Whereas, The Forty-ninth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, by resolution adopted by the Senate and House, provided for the appointment of an agricultural committee to study agricultural problems,

Be It Therefore Resolved: That this committee in special session held in the State House in Des Moines, Iowa, on the third day of September, 1942, hereby offer the services of this committee to said Administration, to the Department of Agriculture of the United States and to the War Production Board, Food Division, to the end that an equitable program may be adopted at once which will stimulate the production of meat and agricultural products."

A copy of the above resolution was sent to the Office of Price Administration, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, and to the members of Congress from Iowa. At this meeting it was decided that this committee should hold a later meeting and formulate a report to the legislature which we are herewith submitting with the following recommendation:

That the committee support the National Farm Production Program and do everything in their power to encourage food production which is so vital to the winning of the present war.

That a like committee on agriculture should be continued to study and prepare for post-war conditions pertaining to agriculture. This committee believed that at that time farm tenancy and livestock marketing will become two of the major problems and there is a possibility that definite agricultural legislation will be necessary to meet these conditions.

In general, this committee believes that parity prices should be maintained if possible without subsidies by the federal government.

For the information of the General Assembly, there has been expended $457.45 of the $2,000 allotted, leaving a balance of $1,542.55. This money has been used entirely for the actual expenses of the members of this committee.

Respectfully submitted,

PAUL P. STEWART.
RICHARD V. LEO.
D. D. FULLER.
DAVID A. DANCER.

JOHN S. HEFFNER.
HENRY W. BURMA.
JAY C. COLBURN.

Sloane of Polk asked and obtained unanimous consent to withdraw the amendment filed by him, found on page 486 of the Journal of February 17.

Sloane of Polk called up the amendment filed by him, found on pages 526 and 527 of the Journal of February 19, and moved its adoption.

Prentis of Ringgold moved that a committee be appointed to notify the Senate that the House was ready to receive it in Joint Convention. Motion prevailed and the Speaker appointed as such committee: Prentis of Ringgold and Butterfield of Black Hawk.

The committee appointed to notify the Senate that the House was ready to receive it in Joint Session reported that it had performed its duty. The report was accepted and the committee discharged.

The sergeant-at-arms announced the arrival of the President of the Senate and the honorable body of the Senate.

The President was escorted to the Speaker's station, the Secretary to the Chief Clerk's desk, and the members of the Senate were seated on the west side of the chamber.

JOINT CONVENTION

In accordance with House Concurrent Resolution 16, duly adopted, the Joint Convention was called to order, Lieutenant Governor Robert D. Blue, President of the Senate, presiding.

The President introduced State Department Commander Dan O'Brien of the American Legion; and M. Y. Kinney, member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, who in turn, presented Past National Commander Ray Murphy, who addressed the Joint Convention as follows:

YOUR EXCELLENCY, THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF IOWA, THE HONORABLE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

In 1936, when I was privileged to serve as National Commander of The American Legion, there was no session of the Iowa Legislature, and I was, therefore, denied the pleasure of appearing before the Legislators of my native state—a privilege that has been granted to other National Commanders in accordance with a precedent of some years' standing. I had never hoped to have that pleasure—now it is mine, because the present National Commander, with deepest regret, has been compelled to cancel his engagement here today. I share the general regret that Commander Waring cannot speak to you. He is a straightforward, two-fisted fighting man, who fears no man and no group of men, who devotes his every thought and effort toward winning the deadly struggle in which the nation is now engaged.

I have been privileged to speak before other legislative assemblies. Once I spoke before the Massachusetts legislators in the historic capitol, in the city of Boston, where every inch of earth is hallowed ground. There I could almost hear the tread of the early patriots as there came to mind the fateful pre-revolutionary days in the city that some have called the Cradle of Liberty.

Once I was privileged to appear before the South Carolina Legislature in the capitol that still bears the scars of shells fired from General Sherman's guns—an historical fact which is not forgotten in the capital city of Columbia, for memorial plaques bear witness to the damage by the damyanks. They still pronounce "damyanks" as one word down there.

Thrilling as those and like occasions were to me, I confess with no reluctance that I enjoy a greater thrill, and deem it a greater privilege to appear today before the law-makers of my own, my native state.

I hope it will not seem immodest of me to express my gratitude now to the Iowa Senates of prior years, which, on four separate occasions, confirmed my appointments to state offices under both Republican and Democratic administrations. No passing of the years, and no separation from the state I shall always call home, can lessen my sense of pride in the service I was permitted to render in that state, and in the confidence that chief executives and the Senate of this state, reposed in me.

Another personal observation, if I may be permitted it—I regret the absence of the governor of this state—a man of promise—a fellow Legionnaire, who has launched upon a career that will bring credit to himself and to Iowa. I appreciate the national, and even greater than national significance of the occasion which has called him to the eastern coast, where, in the name of the people of Iowa, and in honor of the thousands of Iowa lads who serve in our country's navy, he participates in the ceremonies that will mark the beginning of active service of the greatest fighting machine that has ever sailed the seven seas—the battleship Iowa. We may paraphrase the poet's lines, and say,

"Sail on, Oh, Iowa, strong and great!
Humanity, with all its fears,
With all its hopes of future years,
Hangs breathless on thy fate!"

If Colonel Waring, the National Commander, were here today, doubtless he would have keyed his speech to the dominant thought of the day—that this is an anniversary of Washington's birthday. More than two hundred years after his birth, nearly one hundred fifty years since his death, Washington looms ever larger on the horizon of time. Time has not dimmed his memory, it has but added to it. Perspective has not changed the view of this matchless man—it has but brought him out in bolder relief.

"Debunkers" have had their fling at him, and he emerges an even greater figure. Some writers who began his biography in scoffing mood, ended in a prayer of thanksgiving that Washington had been given to America and to the world. His tactics, often Fabian, won no great military victories—his strategy won a new world. He scorned the familiar stratagems of ambitious men, yet he succeeded as ambition and ability alone cannot succeed—because he possessed above and beyond all others of his day and time—the matchless merit of character—a character so strong, so unswerving, so uncompromising with pettiness or evil, that it was—majestic; a character that gave tone and purpose to a new nation in a new world—a character to which, in contemplation, our American statesmen of every period, would do well to repair.

As you know, it was not intended that I should speak to you today. I have no thought that I can add to your knowledge of the conditions that today confront us, and threaten our national existence. Lately I have thought that unless one had the duty of speaking, and unless by speaking one could aid the nation in its war effort, silence were the better part of wisdom. A corollary of the right to speak with freedom in this free country, is the right to be silent.

What I shall say, as many of you well know, will be said from the standpoint of one who long ago felt that this war must inevitably come to us, that the President and the Secretary of State were eminently right in their conduct of our foreign affairs, and in their appraisal of the import and effect of totalitarian ideologies, and of the impact of total war in Europe and in Asia upon this hemisphere and these United States. I speak as one who has naught but sympathy for the declared objectives of the President of this country in the life and death struggle in which we are now engaged.

It will take the teamwork of every loyal man and woman in America, regardless of class, creed, or color, to win this war, no matter how heroic our incomparable fighting men have been and will be. Our fighting men will win this war if Joe Doakes, average American, does not let them down—and Joe Doakes will not let the fighting men down.

When I say that the civilians of America will not let the fighting men down, I am not looking with rose colored glasses at the gigantic panorama of the country at war. There are things in America which give gravest concern to every loyal American. How much ought to be said, how much can safely be said about some of them is not always easy to determine.

One thing which concerns me, as I am sure it does you, is the disposition toward class feeling, class distinction, a product of foreign soil, and of largely alien influence, that should not grow in America. There is entirely too much of a tendency to classify people, and to sort them into lots, and pack them in grooves. We are pro-labor if we follow without doubt or question the leadership of union labor officials, we are anti-labor if we do not. No difference of opinion is permitted—either we follow blindly the theories and support completely the actions of the labor union leaders, or we are anti-labor, no matter how much we sympathize with the legitimate aspirations of the man who labors, no matter if we have worn the callouses of manual toil, or sprung from those whose life was spent at labor. This is one of the indications and one of the products of a class struggle which, I, for one, bitterly resent and deeply deplore.

I resent the recent "discovery of democracy" by those in America, who, prior to June 22, 1941, opposed every effort to strengthen our national defense, and denounced Great Britain and her allies for conducting an imperialistic war. No American who was not loyal to America before June 22, 1941, is any more loyal to America now. God help America if it must depend upon the Harry Bridges and the Earl Browders to win this war. God pity America if we are so weak that in the name of national unity we dare not point out that they are the same subversive influences today they were before Russia was attacked by Germany.

My hat is off to the two million Communists and the one hundred seventy-eight million non-Communist Russians who have fought for Mother Russia with a gallantry and fortitude unsurpassed in history. My guard is up against the American Communists who followed the party line, who found no word of criticism for the Nazis until Russia was attacked, whose present concern for America is concern that springs from devotion to another country, and to an alien ideology as un-American as Naziism itself.

I've been bewildered by an apparent disposition of those in charge of the war effort to engage in party and inter-party politics, when of all times in our history, politics should be adjourned. I've been bewildered by the welter of conflicting stories emanating from Washington and elsewhere about the rubber situation, the gasoline and fuel oil shortage, sugar and other rationing. I've been bewildered by the inconveniences I'm called upon to endure, and I know I'm going to be more than ever bewildered when I try to find money to pay my income tax.

I've been confused by the confusion as I've wandered about the long marble corridors of Washington, by the endless contradictory statements on an endless variety of subjects coming out of the Capital City.

I have been gravely concerned by other things. I make no charges, and I accuse no individual now, but I sense, and I wonder, how many others have sensed that the two elements have joined hands and made common cause, those elements which became loyal Americans on June 22, 1941, and those elements which have committed themselves to the high task of "making America over". There is plenty of opportunity for them to work in complete security, under the cloak of national unity. There are plenty of such elements in positions of power and influence in the national picture today.

These are the sinister soldiers of a third front, disguised as loyal Americans, serving sometimes muddled ideologies that cannot be distinguished in their ultimate objectives from the ideologies we are mobilized to fight today.

That they have no present "plan", fully blown and ready for "the day", hardly makes them less dangerous, if indeed, it does not make them more dangerous, for a "plan" could be subjected to scrutiny, analysis, and criticism, and the heat of public opinion.

Probably their work might be unavailing if it were not that they have the unconscious help of many loyal and patriotic men, whose work and positions are utilized in furthering the trends and tendencies which the third frontiers hope will serve their ends.

You may have read the article "Our Third Front", written by Dr. Robey of Columbia University, appearing in the August, 1942, issue of The American Legion magazine. It is worth your time. The doctor points to five things, involved in a broad pattern:

1. A constant and everlasting reaching for power in Washington, beyond the needs of war time, to bring our economic system under complete governmental control.

2. Withholding of all possible information about the production now being accomplished by our economic system, so that our people are largely unaware of the miracles private enterprise has accomplished.

3. A smear campaign against business management, the smears receiving front page publicity, the rebuttals buried in the back pages.

4. Prevention of any criticism not considered "constructive", i.e., praise.

5. Undermining the confidence of the public in the ability of the Congress.

Like Dr. Robey, I make no charge of a plot, as such, or a "plan". I believe, however, that his serious statements are worthy of profound thought.

I am sure of this—that all the lessons of history teach that the liberties of men have not been wrested from parliaments. They have been protected by parliaments. They have been wrested from rulers.

I need hardly suggest to this audience that we will have won an empty victory if we defeat our enemies on land, on water, and in the air, only to find that we have created a Frankenstein for war that will have destroyed our peace-time liberties as well. The President, as Commander-in-Chief, needs extraordinary powers, so that he may meet totalitarian methods with instant decision.

Of necessity he must delegate many of them. Watch those powers! It is your job and mine to see that those grants of extraordinary war-time powers come back to us, the people. Unless we are watchful, not only of insidious influences, but of the machinery we have freely created, and the powers we have willingly granted, and unless we, the people, are ready to take over when the peace comes and are capable of managing ourselves and our economy, the nation may readily take the seemingly easy way, and surrender by default to some form of totalitarianism.

This, then, only less important than winning the war, I consider as your job and mine—that we so inform ourselves of trends and developments, of what goes on in community, state and nation, and in all the world, that we shall be ready to defend and maintain the American Way as valiantly, intelligently, and effectively in peace as we shall in war. An army can only be prepared for battle if its leaders know what the army must face. They must learn the strength, the resources, the capabilities of its enemies. A democratic people can only be prepared for liberty when they know the dangers that threaten their institutions in peace, as well as in war.

We must be prepared for the possibility of inflation, and we must insist now that anti-inflationary policies be employed in every way possible. We know that in a period of violent inflation the effects upon the living standards and the personal fortunes of a people may be worse than in time of war. Of course that means heavy taxing of the principal sources of income, those which have the spending power, and this may mean the farmer and the war worker, and certainly does not mean the white-collar class, at least as I know it.

We must realize that at the end of the war, if we win, plants must be reconverted to peace-time production, and jobs must be found for many millions of former war workers and returning service men.

And this above all, we must see that free enterprise, under proper public regulation, is not supplanted by state control. The system of free enterprise has the faults inherent and developed in free men, but every fault it has can be matched, multiplied and magnified in government ownership. I say this as one who has no direct financial stake in any private business, but as an humble observer of things American. I say it as one who profoundly believes that to the extent we abandon properly regulated private enterprise, we shall forfeit our individual initiative and our personal liberties. When I speak of private enterprise I mean not only big business, well regulated, but I mean the smallest business, and the farmer.

One last suggestion I now have; let every man and woman in America pause to think upon what makes America tick—what makes it go; they must then realize that its mainspring is individual, private enterprise, the right to which must never be surrendered to any government, foreign or domestic.

The war, in Africa as of today, is going against us. Already, to thousands of American homes, sorrow has come. It will not always be so. We will win this war, and bloodshed and death in battle will cease, but ere that day we must have endured much, must have sacrificed more, far more—must have resolved doubts and fears, must have fought the dispiriting effect of war-weariness, must have given unstintingly of our blood and treasure, must have yielded the fruits of our toil and the sweat of our brow; we must have gone down into the Valley of the Shadow. Self-deceit will not avail. We must, and we will unflinchingly, face the issue. We battle not for living space, not for colonies or gold, not for pelf or power; we battle first, to live; we battle, next, that the scourge of war may be banished from the earth, that it may never come again to peaceful peoples. We battle for the living things that make up our daily lives. We battle for our flag because of that for which it stands, in this our land.

I like to think of that flag and of our country in the words of an editorial writer of a great metropolitan newspaper, the New York Times, who said:

"What's a flag? What's the love of country for which it stands? Maybe it begins with love of the land itself. It is the fog rolling in with the tide at Eastport, or through the Golden Gate and among the towers of San Francisco. It is the sun coming up behind the White Mountains, over the Green, throwing a shining glory on Lake Champlain and above the Adirondacks. It is the storied Mississippi rolling swift and muddy past Dubuque and St. Louis, rolling past Cairo, pouring down past the levees of New Orleans. It is lazy noontide in the Pines of Carolina. It is a sea of wheat rippling in Western Kansas. It is the lush green of an Iowa cornfield. It is the San Francisco peaks far north across the glowing nakedness of Arizona. It is the Grand Canyon and a little stream coming down out of a New England ridge, in which are trout.

"It is men at work. It is the storm-tossed fishermen coming into Gloucester and Provincetown and Astoria. It is the farmer riding his great machine in the dust of harvest, the dairyman going to the barn before sunrise, the lineman mending the broken wire, the miner drilling for the blast. It is the servants of fire in the murky splendor of Pittsburgh, between the Allegheny and the Monongahela, the trucks rumbling through the night, the locomotive engineer bringing the train in on time, the pilot in the clouds, the riveter running along the beam a hundred feet in air. It is the clerk in the office, the housewife doing the dishes and sending the children off to school. It is the teacher, doctor, and parson tending and helping body and soul, for small reward.

"It is small things remembered, the little corners of the land, the houses, the people that one loves. We love our country because there was a little tree on a hill, and grass thereon, and a sweet valley below; because the hurdy-gurdy man came along on a sunny morning in a city street; because a beach or a farm or a lane or a house that might not seem much to others were once, for each of us, made magic. It is voices that are remembered only, no longer heard. It is parents, friends, the lazy chat of street and store and office, and the ease of mind that makes life tranquil. It is summer and winter, rain and sun and storm. These are flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone, blood of our blood, a lasting part of what we are, each of us, and all of us together.

"It is stories told. It is the Pilgrims dying in their first dreadful winter. It is the minute man standing his ground at Concord Bridge, and dying there. It is the army in rags, sick, freezing, starving at Valley Forge. It is the bridge at Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood, and the tangled forest of the Argonne. It is the wagons and the men on foot going westward over Cumberland Gap, floating down the great rivers, rolling over the great plains. It is the settler hacking fiercely at the primeval forest on his new, his own lands. It is Thoreau at Walden Pond, Lincoln at Cooper Union, and Lee riding home from Appomattox. It is corruption and disgrace, answered always by men who would not let the flag lie in the dust, who have stood up in every generation to fight for the old ideals and the old rights, at risk of ruin or of life itself.

"It is a great multitude of people on pilgrimage, common and ordinary people, charged with the usual human failings, yet filled with such a hope as never caught the imaginations and the hearts of any nation on earth before. The hope of liberty. The hope of justice. The hope of a land in which a man can stand straight, without fear, without rancor.

"The land and the people and the flag—the land a continent, the people of every race; the flag a symbol of what humanity may aspire to when the wars are over and the barriers are down; to these each generation must be dedicated and consecrated anew, to defend with life itself, if need be, but, above all, in friendliness, in hope, in courage, to live for."

These are the things we live by—the things for which we fight.

This is the America you and I have known. To sustain it requires faith—faith and good works. Let no man be ashamed of that faith. For today, as never before, all that humans and human kindness, tolerance, and ambition have wrought along the tortuous path that all humanity has trod, is at stake. Freedom hangs breathless on that faith. As never before, the America we know and love calls you and me to service, perhaps to die in defense of our democratic institutions, but certainly to understand them, to cherish them, to dedicate ourselves to them, to live for them, that they may endure and live for us. And if need be, with our right to live "The American Way", to dream the American dream, encroached upon by the sinister and Godless forces that threaten to engulf the world, if the ultimate sacrifice be required, every true American will regret that he has but one life to give for his country.

On motion by Morrissey of Jasper, the Joint Convention was dissolved.

The House reconvened, Speaker Burma in the chair.

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly: That a committee of three be appointed to draft suitable resolutions commemorating his life, character and service to the state.

Colburn of Shelby asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution and moved its adoption.

Motion prevailed and the resolution was adopted.

The Speaker appointed the following committee to draft suitable resolutions: Colburn of Shelby, Kuester of Cass and McFarlane of Black Hawk.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 19

Whereas, In the present emergency which exists relative to the limited supply of food in our country, it has been intimated by members of our administration that the United States might permit the importation into this country of livestock products infected with foot-and-mouth disease; and

Whereas, Millions of dollars have been spent and thousands of animals have been killed in the United States to free this country from the ravages of this dreaded disease, and laws in the interest of public health have been enacted by federal and state governments to require farmers to eliminate such disease from their farms and prevent its spread; and

Whereas, This dreaded contagious disease can be transmitted by fresh and frozen meats as well as by live animals, and strictest regulations and restrictions should be maintained to prevent infection of our domestic herds from such contagious disease now present in foreign countries; and

Whereas, There has been no treatment effective yet conceived in foreign countries to combat and prevent the spread of this disease; and

Whereas, In as much as rigid inspection of slaughtering and sale of meat for human consumption is required of our citizens, such condition should also apply to any meat or meat products brought into this country from foreign lands; now, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That for the reasons stated in the preamble of this resolution, the Congress of the United States is respectfully requested to continue the embargo against foreign countries now in force until such countries are free from, and have established, and have in force adequate sanitary conditions to prevent the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease; and

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this preamble and resolution be forwarded to the Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, to the United States House and Senate Committees on Foreign Relations, to Vice President Henry A. Wallace, to the Honorable George A. Wilson and Honorable Guy M. Gillette, United States Senators from Iowa, and the eight Iowa members of the House of Representatives.

Laid over under Rules 34.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 18

Whereas, Apparently there has been no determination made by responsible officers of the government of the total required production of essential food and fiber for the duration of the war and for the reconstruction period following the war; and

Whereas, Food and fiber goals have thus far been established only on a short time basis, and

Whereas, The war manpower commission was created for the purpose of analyzing and giving proper weight to the minimum manpower requirements of all war industries including agriculture, the armed forces and the necessary civilian economy, and

Whereas, Although several months have elapsed since the creation of said manpower commission, the drain of agriculture's trained manpower into industry and the armed forces through the selective service system, continues at substantially the previous rate, notwithstanding the fact that thousands of auction sales have been held and that breeding herds of sheep, hogs and both beef and dairy cattle continue to be reduced through shipment to market as a result of the manpower shortage already existing throughout this area, and

Whereas, Notwithstanding the fact that agriculture in the great plains area, normally renews completely its mechanized equipment every ten years and the further fact that the whole middle west has just come through a ten year period of depressed times which made normal replacement difficult, thus multiplying the minimum requirements for both new machinery and repair parts, and

Whereas, Notwithstanding the recent increase over previous allocations of iron and steel for farm equipment granted by the war production board, there may reasonably be reduced acreage as compared to 1942 for the combined reasons of manpower shortage and inadequate machinery and repair parts, and

Whereas, Iowa now has thousands of its young men serving in the armed forces and being almost wholly an agricultural state it is self-evident that a very large percentage of any subsequent drains on our manpower have and must come from our farms, and

Whereas, If Iowa is to contribute her best in the prosecution of this total war, it can only be done through maximum utilization of its one great resource, namely, "agriculture", and of our farmers in the fields. Manpower, machinery, repair parts, tires, gasoline credit availability, credit, cost, non-recourse production, loans, equitable relationship between price floors and ceiling to production costs to the added risks incident to the efforts to meet expanding production goals under wartime conditions, the apparent necessity for lifting all acreage restrictions on wheat and other commodities as has been done for corn.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring: That we earnestly recommend and ask that the Senate committee on agriculture and forestry make an immediate and thorough investigation of all the agricultural "musts" to the end that the requirements of sufficient manpower, sufficient current credit, proper price relationship between production costs, ceilings and floors, sufficient farm machinery and repair parts, gasoline, rubber, fertilizer and other necessary supplies be definitely determined on a long time basis, not only for the war years, but for the reconstruction period following the war and allotted to agriculture so that sufficient food and fiber may be forthcoming to meet increasingly expanding goals and to supply the requirement of our armed forces, the civilian population, the lease-lend commitments to the allied nations and food for occupied countries and that such investigation include the careful weighing and consideration of the inter-relationship and division of authority and responsibility among the following agencies in connection with such determination: United States department of agriculture, office of price administration, war production board, war manpower commission, office of petroleum co-ordinator.

Be It Further Resolved That, A copy of this resolution be transmitted to each member of Congress from Iowa, presiding officer of the senate, speaker of the house of representatives, secretary of the United States department of agriculture, office of price administration, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture and forestry.

Laid over under Rule 34.

The bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the House and the title was agreed to.

House File 239, a bill for an act to amend section four thousand six hundred forty-four and fourteen hundredths (4644.14), Code, 1939, relating to the levy of a five-eighths mill tax on all the taxable property of a county for the secondary road fund and limiting the same to taxable property outside of cities and towns; and also amending section six thousand two hundred eleven (6211), Code, 1939, by granting to the council of a city or town the power to levy annually a five-eighths mill tax on the taxable property in such city or town for the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and repair of streets, alleys and highways in said city or town, was taken up for consideration.

Cooper of Adams offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

Amend by substituting a comma (,) for the period (.) following the word "alleys" and within the quotation in line six (6) of section two (2) and adding thereafter and within the quotation the words "including bridges and culverts therein."

Amendment by Cooper of Adams was adopted.

Fishbaugh of Page offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

Amend by adding thereto after the period in line five (5) of section one (1) the following: "Provided, however, that upon petition of two per cent of the voters voting for governor in said county at the last general election, the question shall be submitted in the manner provided in sections 5265 and 5270 to 5274, inclusive, of the Code, as to whether said tax, if levied, shall apply to all the property in the county."

Further amend by striking the period in line six (6) of section two (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ", provided said levy is not made on all the property in the county by the board of supervisors."

Avery of Clay moved that the vote by which the amendment by Cooper of Adams was adopted be reconsidered. Motion prevailed.

Avery of Clay moved that action on House File 239 be deferred until 10:15 a.m. Thursday, February 25, 1943.

Motion prevailed and action on House File 239 was deferred.

President Blue announced a quorum present and the Joint Convention duly organized.

McFarlane of Black Hawk moved that a committee of three, consisting of one member from the Senate and two members from the House, be appointed to notify the Iowa Pioneer Lawmakers' Association that the Convention was ready to receive them. Motion prevailed and the President appointed Senator Findlay of Webster on the part of the Senate, and Representatives McFarlane of Black Hawk and Wamstad of Mitchell on the part of the House.

The committee waited upon the Iowa Pioneer Lawmakers' Association and escorted them to the seats provided in front of the rostrum.

President Blue introduced the Hon. Ray P. Scott, president of the Iowa Pioneer Lawmakers' Association, and the program was then carried out as arranged with special music furnished by the Songfellows Quartet, by favor of WHO broadcasters.

The Hon. Henry W. Burma, Speaker of the House, gave the following address of welcome on behalf of the Legislative Assembly:

Pioneer Lawmakers, and Songfellows of Iowa, the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa greets you and extends to you a warm welcome.

Your presence here is evidence that though you are not now members of this Assembly, you are still interested in the affairs of government and we of the Fiftieth General Assembly are grateful to you for the fine service you rendered in years gone by as lawmakers of Iowa. During the sessions that I have sat here in the chamber, when you gentlemen came in I looked upon you with respect and admiration, and more so now when the stability of our American institutions and our American homes is threatened. We need more than ever before the pioneer courage, the pioneer spirit, and the pioneer conception of loyalty, of honor, and of justice.

You have rendered a valuable service. You were the trailblazers for us, so to speak. We regard your efforts and your work very highly. We are indeed happy to have you here this afternoon and, as one eminent person once said, "We will think very much of you, and will think of you very much".

I thank you for coming here and we want you to know that the Fiftieth General Assembly deeply and warmly welcomes you here this afternoon. Thank you.

President Scott then introduced the Hon. Claude M. Stanley, former Senator, who addressed the Joint Convention as follows:

Mr. President, members of the Fiftieth General Assembly, Pioneer Lawmakers, and my fellow Americans:

I am happy to be here today to participate in your program. I would be much more happy if I were participating in the great program of our country to which your president has just referred. I am in somewhat of a peculiar situation in that I am out of the Senate and have not been out long enough to be eligible to be a member of the Pioneers.

In addressing the General Assembly of Iowa, as one having been a former member thereof, I have a feeling that I am to some extent in the position of the former president of a business men's club at the inauguration of his successor. After the installing official had inducted the newly elected president into office, had taken the gavel from the outgoing officer and had presented it to the newly installed officer, he turned to the retiring president and said: "It is my painful duty to pin on you this badge of a past president of this organization. In the performance of your service you have been diligent and faithful and your suggestions and advice have been well received. There are fifteen past presidents in this organization. We welcome you in. But soon you will learn, as each one of us has learned, that you are in somewhat the position of a mother-in-law. She suggests many ideas and offers much information and advice, and little heed is taken."

In discussing our present military task it is my desire to call to your attention some of the services that have been and are being rendered by the men and women of Iowa in the military field.

Iowa was created as a territory in the year 1838, and since that time our state has on every occasion where military service was required done her full share and even more than her full share, by having furnished a higher percentage of her population to the armed forces than was furnished by many other states. Governor Robert Lucas in his first message to the Legislative Assembly in 1838 advocated an efficient and disciplined militia for the territory, and caused legislation to be set in motion to accomplish that result.

The first occasion on which military service was performed was with respect to the dispute over the boundary line between the State of Missouri and the State of Iowa. That was known as the Iowa-Missouri War. At that time Iowa was a territory. That was in 1839 and was the beginning of a long list of distinguished services performed by Iowa citizens in the military field.

In 1846 when the call came for soldiers to enlist for service in the war with Mexico the militia organization of the Territory of Iowa was practically nonexistent, but Iowa furnished for that service a regiment consisting of ten companies.

In 1857 Iowa men participated in defending the state against the invasion by a hostile band of Sioux Indians during which the Spirit Lake Massacre occurred.

In the war between the states known as the Civil War Iowa furnished a total of 76,242 men. These men participated in many of the campaigns and battles against the Confederate Army. Of these, 13,001 lost their lives either as battle casualties or through the ravages of disease. The records are full of the valiant deeds of individuals and of the organizations on many fields of battle.

When war was declared against Spain in 1898 President McKinley issued a call for 125,000 volunteers. On April 25 of that year the governor of Iowa ordered all four regiments of the Iowa National Guard into action. These regiments saw service in Jacksonville, Florida, and Chickamauga Park, Georgia, and one regiment, the 51st Iowa, saw service at San Francisco, California, and in the Philippine Islands, and participated in many campaigns incident to the Philippine Insurrection. For the Spanish American War Iowa furnished 5,859 officers and enlisted men through the National Guard organization.

In 1916 when there was serious threat of trouble on the Mexican border Iowa sent three organizations of Infantry, a Battalion of Artillery, and Squadron of Cavalry to the southern border of the United States where the troops remained until early in 1917 when they were returned home.

For the first World War Iowa furnished 114,218 men which included the entire personnel of the National Guard recruited to war strength. In the organization of the 42nd Division, known as the Rainbow Division, Iowa furnished an Infantry regiment which was designated as the 168th Infantry. In order that this regiment might be brought to full war strength detachments were taken from the other regiments of the National Guard, and it may be said that this regiment was representative of the entire state. Other Iowa men went into this service through conscription or volunteered, and all served with credit to themselves and to the state.

In the present World War which is an all-out war Iowa has to this date furnished 176,128 men and women for service. Of these, 71,034 were inducted and 105,084 have voluntarily enlisted. They are now serving in all parts of the world and units have been identified in Africa and in the Southwest Pacific and other points. From the reports we are now getting the 34th Division, which includes the Iowa National Guard, has been engaged in the Tunisia fight in North Africa.

In all of this service Iowa has exceeded other states in its proportion of men and women in the service as to population. Hours could be put in extolling the bravery and relating the services that have been performed by the men and women from this state. It is sufficient to say that based upon the past history of Iowa as it is related to a military task that that task has been and will continue to be well and honorably performed.

Our present military task is not accomplished. The war has yet to be won. The President has named this an all-out war. The Prime Minister of Great Britain, Winston Churchill, has said: "This will be a war of blood, sweat and tears." There is no spot on the face of this globe that is not within the theater of operations. However, at this moment the ground forces of the warring nations are operating on foreign soil. Let us keep them there so that the worst ravages of the war will not come to our continent.

This is a war in which the services of men and women are needed not only for the armed forces but are also needed for the production of the materials of war and the foodstuff needed for our armies and our allies. We have seen that in each succeeding war the weapons used in battle have been so improved that it requires more men to support and supply those men who serve on the firing line. Because of this we are all engaged in this conflict.

This brings serious problems before us which must be solved both at the state level and at the federal level. The responsibility for conduct of the war is at the federal level. In this our responsibility as a state is to support the federal action. We should do this in such a manner that will not destroy our responsibility to the people of the state at the state level.

The American way is the way of liberty, justice and freedom. It is founded upon the constitution of the states and that of the United States. It is a dual form of government in which both participate. Each constitution defines those functions to be performed by each part of the whole government.

The American way as established by our forefathers is a way of peace and not as a way of war. War is the unusual thing contemplated in the organization of our government both state and national.

Of necessity when our country is called upon to defend itself against a common enemy certain of our peacetime activities and certain of our individual rights and privileges must be suspended until victory shall come. We must give full aid and support to the commander of our armed forces, the President of the United States. All that we have and all that we can do must be made available to be used against the common enemy. However, this can be done in a manner that when victory is won we will not have destroyed either part of our dual government or the American way of life.

The Honorable Abram P. Staples, attorney general of the state of Virginia, as president of the American Association of Attorneys General of the United States in his address to this association expressed his view as to the functions of both state and federal government in both peace and war. With these views I agree. He said: "Let me, at the outset, make it clear that I neither advocate nor approve any action by the states during the time the nation is at war which would in any manner impede or obstruct the national government in its successful prosecution. On the contrary, it is my belief that unless our dual system of government can be made to function successfully in waging war it ought not to survive. And if it bogs down and cannot meet this supreme test we may be sure it will not survive."

Again he said: "It is essential that the state governments function efficiently at all times, but especially is this true in time of war. As said by President Roosevelt in his second inaugural address as governor of New York: 'When states become indifferent to their duties, the natural tendency is for the national government to grasp for more power.'"

Again he states: "But while I advocate this acquiescence and cooperation in the free exercise of federal powers appropriate to the conduct of the war, at the same time I believe the attorneys general should openly and firmly emphasize the fact that the field of normal state powers yields to no other federal power except that to wage war. We must ever be conscious of the fact that once the congress has exercised the war power in a normal state field, it will be reluctant to recognize when peace comes, that it must relinquish that field."

Again he states: "This tendency of congress to expand its own legislative sphere is not an unusual human trait. It is quite common."

Again he states: "If the regulatory powers of the state legislatures in local matters are to survive, it is absolutely essential that the states take planned, concerted action to prevent their destruction. This they have never done."

I also wish to quote from statements made by Elizabeth Brandeis, the daughter of the former justice of the supreme court of the United States, in an address published in the "Survey Graphic" in December, 1942, on the subject of "Centralization and Democracy." Among other things she said: "Most important of all, we must preserve the states because they are indispensable to a democratic system of government. We dare not transfer too many functions of government to Washington for fear of destroying the roots of democracy without which the whole tree will wither and die. This is far more than a figure of speech. For after all, what is a democratic system of government? Universal suffrage is not enough; not even when coupled with protection to civil and political liberty. Democratic government means government by the people, not just on election day, but all the year round. It requires real participation in government by private citizens."

In conclusion she states: "Democracy is not merely a form of government. It is a faith. In this country we believe profoundly that government by the people, though it will never be perfect, is better than any other form of government. But faith alone is not enough. To maintain democratic government, we must take care to preserve and develop arrangements by which private citizens can function effectively in the government process. That means above all, keeping as much government as possible 'back home' in the forty-eight states where private citizens live."

Since the beginning of our governments, both state and federal, there has not been a session of the legislative body of either that has not transferred from the people some of the rights and functions that were reserved to them by both state and federal constitutions. As the prophet of old said: "Let us render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's;" we say: "Let us render unto the federal government the things that are federal, and retain in the states the things that are state."

About a decade ago when our state and nation was struck with the depression there was a tendency on the part of many states to abdicate to the federal government, to surrender their responsibilities for the welfare of their people to Uncle Sam. It seemed the easy way out. Too many were willing to sell their birthright for a mess of pottage. As stated in the Brandeis' address this was one of the first steps in the destruction of our dual form of government.

Let us remember that the welfare, happiness and prosperity of the people of our state is first our responsibility and is our first responsibility. Let us meet that responsibility and let us solve its problems. Let us guard the rights of our citizens against the encroachments of the federal government, and let us not in performing the military task now before us and in saving our country from our enemies who would destroy liberty, freedom and justice lose "The American Way."

President Scott introduced the Hon. Frances Johnson, former Speaker of the House, who addressed the Joint Convention as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, Pioneer Lawmakers, and Guests:

This is an unusual privilege for one who used to be a member of this body, and I have to confess very humbly that I approach it with the same shaking of the knees and quivering of the voice that I did on the first day that I sat in the southeast corner of this Assembly Hall some twenty years ago. I feel also in a peculiar position, and yet it is one that I think the farmers of Iowa have gotten used to in the last several years, in that I am preceded and followed by a member of the legal profession. Since World War I the farmers have found themselves in about this position. First, we go to the lawyers to draw the deed and the mortgage, and then a little later we go back to another lawyer during the foreclosure proceedings to help us get out of the predicament that the first lawyer got us into. And so this is not unfamiliar territory for me, a farmer, to be in on the present occasion. However, that is not addressing myself to this particular subject which was assigned to me today, that of "Our Production Job."

Colonel Stanley has very ably presented the job that Iowa is faced with from the military standpoint, and Iowa is going to make a contribution comparable to all the other sister states in that respect in the winning of this war we are now faced with. But in so far as agriculture and the production of food is concerned Iowa has a very different, a very much larger job than do our sister agricultural states.

It is not any wonder, if you look at Iowa today, that the pioneers who came to this state in those early days should cast rather covetous eyes in this direction. But let us remember that those pioneers had not had the experience and did not know the unfathomable possibilities of this state agriculturally. When they pioneered this section Iowa was not as inviting those days as it is now. In fact it has been a real job to pioneer, for those men and women to go out and do the things that have been necessary to make Iowa as productive as it is today and to discover the fact that underneath the prairie grass that covered this state there lay at least twenty-five per cent of the most productive of the Grade A land that all of the forty-eight states in these United States would eventually possess. That is Iowa's heritage today, and we have been able to bring it up to a point of almost maximum capacity production in so far as crops are concerned. Of course the weather favored us last year. In 1942 we exceeded all previous production records that even Iowa has been able to attain in the past.

Farmers are not sure that they are going to be able to repeat that showing in 1942. Yet they are expecting, I am sure, in spite of the handicaps that we are faced with, to do their very best to get that job done.

Just to give you some insight into the size of the job I would like to quote a few figures on what is being asked of us. In 1942 we were asked to produce 3,625,000 hogs over 1941. We were asked to produce some 25 million dozen more eggs than we did in 1941, some 360 million pounds more milk than in 1941, and to slaughter some 213,000 more head of cattle, and to increase our acreage of soybeans, in order to increase this supply of fats and oils which are so necessary to win the war, by some 801,000 acres, without doing so at the expense of corn production and other necessary food and feed production. That job was not accomplished in every respect, and yet I have to say we did achieve some wonderful records.

But the thing we are interested in now is what are we going to be able to do in 1943. Everyone who is schooled in military tactics and support knows that an army cannot do as it did back in the days of the Civil War and the Revolutionary War and some of those which preceded that, and that is forage for its food as it conquered a country. We just don't do things that way any more. So it is up to the farmers of this nation to not only support that army of ours but to support the supporting civilian population and perhaps contribute in a degree, a large degree, to the support of the military forces and the civilians of our Allies, because without them probably we cannot win this war alone. I think that is generally conceded. And so we do have a real job facing us for 1943.

I am just going to just quote a few more figures of what is expected of us in that respect so that maybe we can get some idea of the size of the job. As far as corn is concerned we are going to be expected to produce more of that, because corn is one of the daily essentials to the production of livestock. These oil crops, such as flaxseed, soybeans, and so forth, we are again expected to make tremendous increases.

I wish you could have been with me last Monday when I interviewed the AAA committeeman from my own township in respect to my own farm, when I was asked to increase my own soybean crop by 200 per cent. Well, I thought I had been raising a respectable acreage up to that time. But that gives you some idea of the adjustments that farmers in this state are going to be asked or expected to make in order to meet some of these goals.

We are going to be expected to increase the farrowing of pigs this spring 15 per cent, or 115 per cent of 1942, and next fall by 20 per cent, or 120 per cent of 1942. I was just checking over some of these figures on total hog population and expected production in order to meet this job before I left the office this forenoon, and I discovered a rather interesting thing, that if you come near achieving the goal in hogs for 1943 that has been set out for us that every man, woman and child who is recognized as a citizen, as a resident of this state, by the last census, will have to produce on an average of from nine to ten hogs next year—every citizen, man, woman and child, produce on an average of ten. When you divide that by the number of farmers in the state—first by the number of people living on farms, and then divide the number living on farms by the number of heads of families, you will realize that this state is going to produce a very sizable amount of hogs if Iowa is to achieve this goal.

We have learned a lot in the last few years how to do this job out of the experience of these pioneers. I think it would be useless for me to spend my time here simply elaborating on the size of this job, if I did not say something about how it is going to be done. I have enough respect for not only the philosophy but the inherent natural ability of Iowa farmers to believe that this kind of a job, while it does have to be planned, it does have to be programmed, still the desire to do it is the only thing that will accomplish it, and therefore that it must be done on very much of a voluntary basis with the proper kind of incentive and the proper furnishing of equipment and help in order to do those jobs. Therein lies at least two of the problems that confront the Iowa farmer in 1943—equipment and help.

And yet the Iowa farmer is not just going to be particular about the hours that he puts in nor too particular about the pay that he receives for getting that job done, because after all he is a part of his democracy, his state and his nation above all other things, and recognizes that he has as much responsibility as an individual to see that that job is done as anyone, whether that other individual be in the army or be in the supporting civilian population.

Some of the newspaper boys asked me before I came up this afternoon if I did not intend to talk about parity. Somehow or other they connect that phrase with the head of the farm organization as well as with the members. Well now, after all parity is not a thing that gets things done. Parity is simply a measure of whether the man is fairly compensated for doing the job after it is done. So I think parity as such has no particular connection with the subject which I am discussing here this afternoon. I know it is one that is being talked about in congress, it is being talked about by the farmer, it is being talked about by every group over the nation; but after all it is not the important thing, because after all parity prices may not be the kind of prices that will pay for the job of getting production in agriculture any more than good prices or poor prices are responsible for the lack of getting a production job done in industry or in the army. So let's not try to measure this thing in terms of that kind. After all price incentives probably have to be used, because it does cost something to do this job, and the greater you crowd your production beyond your capacity the higher the cost of production is bound to be. Industry has found that out. Agriculture knows it fully as well.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I think that I have probably said about as much, and consumed about as much time on this program on this particular subject, as I need to. May I simply say in closing that we are convinced that while this production job is going to be best achieved on a voluntary basis, that the farmers of this state and all of the other states who are going to be responsible for doing this job can better achieve it if, like the army, they organize their forces and put the men who are most able to do certain things in those places where they best fit. And that is our philosophy, and on that basis I am sure that agriculture in Iowa is going to render its full share of support towards the winning of this war and the preservation of this democracy. Thank you.

President Scott introduced the Hon. F. F. Faville, former Chief Justice of the Iowa Supreme Court, who addressed the Joint Convention as follows:

Mr. President, Lieutenant Governor, Members of the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa, and my Fellow Pioneers, and Guests:

I want to tell you a story that is a legend. More than a hundred years ago, more than four hundred years ago the legend says, a little band of aborigines floated down a magnificent river in their little canoes, and they stopped, climbed a high bank, looked over the beautiful prairie panorama with its carpet of many colored flowers, saw the murmuring forests and the laughing, rippling rills, and they cried out "Ioway, Ioway," which, being interpreted means "This is the land."

Now whether that legend be true or not the fact remains that of all the discovered land of the globe lying in one sigle tract or body, nowhere, not even in the fertile valley of the Nile, is there exceeded the fertility of the matchless soil of this state lying here in the heart of the continent and washed, guarded and girdled by the two great rivers of the Republic.

So we come here today at the high pinnacle of Iowa fortune to visit together for a few moments about this state and what it has been. It was originally a part of the Louisiana Purchase. Then it became a territory, annexed at one time to Missouri, at another to Michigan, at another one to Wisconsin, and for thirteen years it had no home at all. It was just left "out in the cold." But, as has been said to you this afternoon, about 1838 the territory was formed. I want to read to you, and I know that is excusable on this occasion, from my father's geography which he studied in a New England school in 1839. And this is what he learned then:

"If we glance an eye over this immense region, connected by navigable rivers—if we regard the fertility of the soil, the variety of productions, and if we combine those advantages offered by nature, with the moral energy of the free and active people who are spreading their increasing millions over its surface—what a brilliant prospect opens upon us through the darkness of future time! We see arts, science, industry, virtue and social happiness already increasing in that region beyond what the wildest fancy would have dared to hope, thirty or forty years ago."

Think of that prophecy. Today we can come here and see this very thing. As a foundation of what I want to say to you, I am going to make a request. When we adjourn this meeting and go into the rotunda, I want you to all pause long enough to look at Blashfield's matchless picture, for I think no matter how it may be interpreted, yet after all it portrays marvelously the essentials that founded this State. There is the old pioneer, marching along by the covered wagon with his gun, his sweet-faced wife holding her babe on her lap. But the significant thing is that four angels fly ahead of this pioneer coming into Iowa, and they are the angels, I think, that founded this great State—the angels of industry, of education, of religious freedom and of law. Without them the fertility of our soil would be for naught. We are at the head of literacy in the United States. There are peoples that have learned to look to us because we have conceived the essential fundamentals of a new government.

I was asked to talk to you about the legislation that has happened in the last nearly one hundred years. The first state legislature in Iowa was elected on October 26, 1846. It convened November 30, 1846, and you may be surprised to know that Iowa was not admitted to the Union, formally, until December 28, 1846. But the legislature was so anxious to get to work and get something done that they were not only elected but they actually convened before that state was admitted to the Union.

What kind of a land did they come into? There was not a conveyance in Iowa except the ox carts and the wagons, which were as old a means of transportation as Abraham when he tended his sheep on the Judean hills. The telegraph had just been invented. There was no telephone. No one was so insane as to think of the possibility of a radio or an automobile. There was not a safety match. The sewing machine was not invented until after that. No one dreamed of the possibility of a kodak. There was not a typewriter. Photography had just been discovered. No one was crazy enough to think of an airplane except "Darius Green and his flying machine." The idea of a submarine was impossible. The x-ray was never dreamed of. The reaper had just been invented. There were no paved roads. There was no barbed wire. There were no tractors. There was no rubber for teeth. There was no harvester. There was no electric light, and nobody had yet dreamed of the blessed thing, the Iowa primary.

One of the first important things that legislature had to do was to deal with the counties. They only had twenty-seven counties in Iowa at that time, and they were kept rather busy changing the names of the counties. May I tell you some of them? I wonder if you know what your own actually was. At that time we had a Bancroft county, or shortly afterwards. We had one called Buncombe. They say that they called it Buncombe because it was away up in northwestern Iowa, and it never would amount to anything. There was Belknap—a name we heard of in the Civil War. Did you know there was a Cook county in Iowa? Chicago stole it away from us. There was a Fox, a Grimes, a Kiskekosh. They had a bad time trying to spoil that beautiful name, an Indian name—Kiskekosh. There was a Risely, a Slaughter, a Wahkaw, a Yell, and a Crocker, all of which they changed in due time.

One of the first things that legislature did was to adopt a school law and put Iowa on record in favor of the belief of Benjamin Franklin that an educated people never will go wrong permanently.

One of the very first acts they passed was one to authorize the governor to select all the salt springs in the state of Iowa. I have hunted diligently and failed to find where he ever made any report that he discovered any. Some politicians have made a discovery of salt creeks, but as far as salt springs were concerned, we had none.

One of the very first things they did was to authorize the construction of canals, because there were no railroads, no roads, and the need was to get transportation of some kind.

But they were magnificent and generous. They gave the governor a salary of $2,000, the secretary of state $1,000, the auditor $1,200, and the judges of the supreme court $2,000 apiece.

Now since that time, from the first session of the legislature of Iowa to today there have been just 3,759 members of both Houses, just a little under 4,000 men, and a few women, members of the legislature that have helped make the laws for this great state. We have had, including the present one, 29 governors. We have had 71 judges of the supreme court of Iowa. We have furnished 12 cabinet members from this state and 3 others who were born in Iowa who were appointed to the cabinet from other states. We have now furnished two justices of the supreme court of the United States; and we have also from Iowa given to the nation a man whom I regard as the greatest international statesman in the world, Herbert Hoover. (Applause).

Colonel Stanley has told you about what Iowa has done in the Civil War and in the other wars. I want to tell you a story, if I may, that I had from the lips of the man who was a little stripling of a boy nineteen years of age during the Civil War. He carried the colors of his company, those colors now preserved in a case in this State House.

One spring morning his Iowa Company with others was in a battle on the side of a mountain in Tennessee. The fog and the mist of the morning hung over them. They had orders to march up through the fog and mist into the sunshine and then halt and reform their lines. And this boy carried the colors, and they started up through the fog and the mist, and they went above it into the bright sunlight, and the enemy, who was entrenched on the brow of the hill, began firing at them. These Iowa boys forgot all about the military command of the Colonel. They were being shot at by the enemy. And this boy carried his flag on ahead. He hid behind a tree. He crouched behind a projecting rock. He got behind a big stump, but he went forward, and at last he made a run for it and planted his flag down in the very face of the enemy.

His Captain shouted to him through the noise and the turmoil, "Sergeant, don't be rash. Bring that flag back to the men." And the little Irishman, standing with his flag, said, "Captain, the flag stays here. Bring your men up to the flag."

And he kept that flag there, that flag, and our flag of "equal rights for all and special privileges for none." We have planted them by the blood and the brains and the courage of the great people of Iowa. We have planted them under the eternal and everlasting stars of God Almighty, and no power on earth shall ever take them down. (Applause)

I was going to say something to you about the productivity of Iowa, but Mr. Johnson has said it much more ably than I possibly could. I want to bring this thought to you. What we need in Iowa is a revival of these traditions and a firm resolve to continue the same things as the basic and fundamental principles of our civilization that these pioneers of America years ago laid down for this great State. Someone has very wisely said, "Of all that is good Iowa affords the best," and that is true. At this hour of a nation's crisis, what an inspiration it is that from these assembly halls, from this body of men, we can send out word to the Nation that in this great cause, we are true to the foundation principles upon which this State was established.

I know that you will join with me in your thoughts, if not with your lips, in the sentiment of the poet:

Thou, too, sail on, O ship of State!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!

Humanity with all its fears,
With all its hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast, and sail, and rope,
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat,
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!
Fear not each sudden sound and shock,
'Tis of the wave and not the rock;
'Tis but the flapping of the sail,
And not a rent made by the gale.
In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore,
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!
Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee—are all with thee!

God bless America. I thank you. (Applause)

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Senate has adopted the following concurrent resolution, in which the concurrence of the House is asked:

Senate Concurrent Resolution 20 relating to educational privileges of Japanese-American youths.

Also: That the Senate has adopted the following concurrent resolution in which the concurrence of the Senate was asked:

W. J. SCARBOROUGH, Secretary.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 20

Whereas, Upon the shoulders of American boys, eighteen years of age or over, has been placed the responsibility of forming a part of the armed forces engaged in the present titanic struggle for world liberty, and

Whereas, Apart from the physical aspects of the sacrifice our younger men are thus called upon to make is the matter of their education. It is a serious and a momentous thing, to them and to their country, to interrupt, perhaps to prevent, their academic and professional training, and

Whereas, It now appears that it is the purpose of the war relocation authority of the United States to accord eligibility to some twenty-five hundred young Japanese-American students, located in war relocation centers, to leave such centers and enter any of a large number of colleges and universities—in other words, to accord the privileges of higher education to a group of young people, citizens by virtue of their birth in this country, whose loyalty and patriotism are rendered doubtful because of their racial extraction, thereby unfitting them to be soldiers, while denying a similar opportunity to our own young men of unquestioned loyalty, and

Whereas, It is admitted that practically all of the Japanese-Americans to whom higher education is to be afforded are physically fit and capable of performing services which would be useful to the war effort, where their patriotism might be demonstrated without placing them in a position where possible disloyalty might be perilous, therefore

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring:

1. That no discrimination be shown in the matter of educational advantages, between America's young citizens, of whatever race or nationality—in short, while young men of undoubted loyalty and Caucasian extraction are required to serve in the armed forces, that these young men of Japanese ancestry and less certain loyalty be given opportunity to serve the war effort in ways in which their racial extraction will prove no impediment.

2. That steps be taken, through executive intervention or order, or by means of legislation if necessary, to prevent allowing Japanese-American youths the privilege of leaving concentration centers and securing an education in American colleges and universities, while the same privilege is denied to loyal American young men called to military service.

3. That if any Japanese-American youths have already been given the privilege of attending colleges and universities, they be returned to their relocation camps, and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, also to the two Iowa senators, and to the eight members of the House of Representatives, and that they thus be petitioned to use their influence and best offices that the injustices mentioned may be avoided.

Orebaugh of Polk offered the following resolution:

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, That

Whereas, The application of arbitrary rules and regulations by the rent control division of the O. P. A. promulgated under the authority of federal legislation, has resulted in an unfair and inequitable imposition against landlords; and

Whereas, By virtue thereof sub-standard rentals cannot be brought to a fair parity with other rentals and undesirable tenants may not be ejected from property; and

Whereas, As a result property owners in many instances are compelled to accept rentals insufficient to maintain their properties and make a fair return on their investment; and

Whereas, Landlords are compelled to retain renters who are destructive to property and in some instances the health and welfare of other occupants of the premises; and

Whereas, The rent ceilings in Iowa are far below the parity of labor and commodities as a consequence of which an unjust burden is imposed against a landlord; and

Whereas, This situation is the result of national policy and not local administration:

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, the Senate Concurring;

That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to forthwith take such action as may be necessary and appropriate to make more flexible the arbitrary rules of the rent control division of the O. P. A. and provide the means through which unfair and inequitable impositions against landlords may be heard by an impartial tribunal on the merits of the case.

tive houses, and shall be first signed in the house in which the bill originated."

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 14

Whereas, The people of the state of Iowa have steadfastly and sacrificially, in peace and in war, manifested their devotion to the ideals of democracy; and

Whereas, A vigilant citizenry is the best safeguard of the democratic way of life; and

Whereas, it is held by the people of Iowa to be a fundamental right of the people to know how their duly elected representatives in the General Assembly vote on the final passage of all measures affecting the people, and to protect this right have impressed the constitution of Iowa with the following provision:

"Passage of bills. Article 3, Sec. 17. No bill shall be passed unless by the assent of a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the General Assembly, and the question upon the final passage shall be taken immediately upon its last reading, and the yeas and nays entered on the Journal." and,

Whereas, Measures of grave concern to the people of Iowa and of the nation are not infrequently passed by the Congress of the United States without a recorded vote of its members on final passage, thus depriving the people of Iowa of a fair opportunity of knowing how their duly elected members in the national legislature voted thereon; and

Whereas, A fair opportunity on the part of the people of Iowa to scrutinize the acts and conduct of the members of Congress is essential to the fulfillment of the ideal of democracy, and

Whereas, Men and women on the fighting fronts, on land and sea, and those held in enemy prisons in distant places in the world, are entitled, upon their return to the homeland, to have a record of the votes cast by their representatives in the national legislature, on the final action on all important measures during this critical period of the nation's history;

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Fiftieth General Assembly of Iowa, the House Concurring: That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to forthwith take such action as may be appropriate to require a recorded vote of the members of the Congress on the final passage of all bills and all measures of general public interest.

Be It Further Resolved: That the secretary of state be and he hereby is directed to forward a certified copy of this resolution to the Vice President of the United States and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each member of the Congress (Senate and House of Representatives) of the United States from the state of Iowa.

ADOPTION OF REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

Reports of committees on House Files 342, 399, 327, and 335; and Senate Files 93, 80, 181, 160, and 176 were declared adopted under Rule 73.

Shimanek of Jones gave the following report as the delegate from the House of Representatives to the Sixth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments, held at Baltimore, Md.:

REPORT OF DELEGATE TO SIXTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COUNCIL OF STATE GOVERNMENTS,

Held in Baltimore, Maryland, January 24, 25, and 26, 1943.

The Sixth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments met in Baltimore, Maryland, January 24, 25, 26, 1943. This was the first meeting of the General Assembly since the United States got into the war: the entire program was concentrated upon war problems and war activities, and was focused upon the successful prosecution of the war.

I was very well pleased with the representation from Iowa at the General Assembly, as we had the largest delegation in attendance since the start of the General Assembly. The following were present:

W. G. C. Bagley, Treasurer of State; Fred Cromwell, member of Senate; C. A. Iverson, Dairy Industry Department, Iowa State College; J. C. Pryor, President, National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws; John M. Rankin, Attorney General, and myself, C. F. Shimanek, member, House of Representatives.

The formal sessions opened Sunday night, January 24th, with the President's address by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, of Maryland, in which he outlined in detail the part which the States had taken in developing first the defense program, and later in cooperating with the national government in the prosecution of the war. He emphasized particularly the United States' part in selective service, in rationing, in the adjustment of transportation difficulties and impediments, in the development of necessary state legislation, and the organization and operation throughout the country of state councils of defense which have taken over the job of maintaining the war effort on the home front.

Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson discussed in detail the progress of the war. He outlined the steps which have been taken in the development of our American army from a small organization consisting of some 200,000 officers and men to the gigantic army which we now have of more than five and a half million, a large part of which is fighting on fronts located at the four corners of the globe.

The secretary emphasized that the size of the army was a technical question which must be decided by the general staff. He stated that many more persons were going to be called into the armed services for training, and expert training, in 1943, in order to be ready to take their places in combat units in 1944. The secretary said he knew of no considerable amount of evidence which would indicate that the war would be over in 1943, and hence the army was preparing for 1944 as well.

Beginning Monday morning, January 25th, the session dealt to a very large extent with our domestic problems of war; and there was more open discussion and participation from the floor than in previous general assemblies.

At the morning session, January 25th, Senator Thurman A. Biddinger, chairman of the board of managers of the council, presided and introduced Honorable James E. Murray, United States Senator from Montana, and chairman of the special committee on small business.

Senator Murray outlined the plight of small business in our war economy. He discussed the various efforts which had been made from time to time to convert small business to war activities and to use small business more extensively in both war and civilian programs. He said the job had not been well done, that greater interest must be developed in this program, greater attention given to the project, if we were not to lose what had been, and what is, the very backbone of the American business system: namely, the small enterprises employing millions of men and scattered throughout the country.

The general discussion which ensued indicated that small businesses were confronted with serious problems in all parts of the country, and that unless definite, constructive and expeditious action is taken in the very near future we might develop and come out of this war with an economy composed almost altogether of big monopoly groups—a development which might suit those groups themselves but which would certainly not serve the public interest and the public welfare.

Ohio, presiding, dealt with problems of production, manpower, rubber, civilian defense, and transportation.

This was one of the most interesting and constructive sessions that the General Assembly of the Council of State Governments has ever had. With the exception of an initial statement on production by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, there were no formal speeches. And for four hours the heads of the war agencies of production, of manpower, of rubber, of civilian defense, and of transportation, discussed with a packed house of state executives, administrators, and legislators the civilian problems of the United States in time of war.

Delegates from all over the country asked questions concerning their particular interests and their more acute problems; questions so raised were discussed and answered by the heads of the war agencies.

It seemed to be the concensus of opinion from the discussion that production had gotten under way, was along the road, and was rolling; that manpower was still in the throes of organization with many problems yet unsolved: problems of set-up and administration, problems of farm labor, problems of excess industrial labor in some parts of the country and shortages in others, and problems having to do with the more effective functioning of selective service in order to make it more really selective.

A highlight of this session, certainly a highlight if one is to judge by newspaper reaction and countrywide comment, was the statement of Mr. Jeffers, Rubber Administrator, to the effect that production in the synthetic rubber field was being hampered and delayed by too many army and navy officials visiting, inspecting, and supervising production work in plants.

Many questions were raised with respect to the administration of civilian defense activities, and a number of delegates wondered whether, under existing circumstances, we were not overdoing some phases of civilian defense, perhaps at the expense of other and more important war tasks.

In the field of transportation, the rationing of gasoline, the conservation of rubber, the regulation of motor transport, and the full utilization of our railroads all came in for much discussion and many questions.

Never before perhaps have so many top-ranking federal officials, charged with such far-reaching responsibilities, sat down with so many top-ranking state representatives for a free-for-all, uninhibited discussion of such critical and far-reaching problems.

The state dinner on Monday evening, presided over by the president of the council, dealt with international affairs.

John G. Winant, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, outlined in detail the organization of the war machine in England and discussed the impact of war upon the civilian population.

He explained that Great Britain was not only in the war—it was actually, immediately, and physically located in the war zone, just twenty miles from the front line trenches. Hence, the problem of civilian organization for war and of civilian supply during war had been problems of the utmost importance and very acute in nature for more than three years.

Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, discussed the future of the United States in the world that is to be. He began by emphasizing that our first, all-important, all-absorbing problem was the job of winning the war at the earliest possible time; but that second only to that was the job of winning the peace, lest we again, in the short space of two decades, have to sacrifice our resources and the lives of hundreds of thousands of our citizens in another war.

He particularly emphasized that the United States must this time avoid the mistakes of 1918; that is, winning the war but losing the peace.

He suggested a specific plan, stating that he knew the plan was not perfect but he thought the time had come to be specific and to inspire and invite the fullest discussion and fullest criticism of definite, concrete plans for world organization and world administration in the period of time to come after the war—such organization and administration in the interest of independent nations, it is true, but also in the interest of all nations.

The specific plan which he suggested provided for a world parliament, a world administrative organization, and a world court. He discussed the major problems of organization and operation after the war: problems of disarmament; problems of the administration of air boards and airways of the future, of shipping, the administration of gateways to the seas, and international trade; the expansion of education and the development of justice; and the establishment of a United Nations force to support equitable and peaceful administration. Some such organization based upon international cooperation, international participation, and international justice would be very necessary if we are to attain and preserve international peace, the governor stated.

Governor J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island presided at the Tuesday morning session, which was devoted to discussion of the problem of oil, and the question of "The States in the Future."

Hon. Everett Lee De Golyer, assistant deputy petroleum coordinator, substituted for the Secretary of the Interior, Harold L. Ickes, who was ill. Mr. De Golyer discussed in detail the oil problems confronting the country, problems both of gasoline and fuel oil.

Specific attention was given to the problem of the eastern part of the country where transportation difficulties—due to enemy submarines, overloaded railroad facilities, and lack of adequate pipe lines—had all combined to produce one of the most acute civilian wartime problems that has confronted the country.

He was hopeful that plans now under way would, to some extent, ease the situation and perhaps prevent its recurrence in another year.

Governor J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina, in discussing the future of the states, traced the development and growth of our democratic system as a parallel to the agricultural-commercial-industrial growth and development of the country. He emphasized that federal encroachment upon the original domain of the states had come about largely because of a lack of social consciousness in some of our state governments. He called attention also to the inevitability of increased federal power and authority during wartime, but despite these circumstances, he insisted that the states today were infinitely more powerful than ever before. More than that, he said, they have not yet reached their peak. In the development of a post-war world, Governor Broughton estimated that the national government will be forced to occupy itself more with international problems, and less with domestic difficulties. In addition to this, the national debt of two hundred billion dollars by 1944 will, he indicated, lay a restraining hand on federal ambitions. In contrast, he called attention to the improving financial position of the state governments, which should equip them to shoulder many burdens of domestic concern in the post-war period. The future of the American states, he concluded, has never been so bright.

The Attorney General of the United States, Francis Biddle, discussed the emergency war legislation program. Reviewing the cooperative arrangement between the council of state governments and the department of justice, which established the machinery to draft and present to the 48 states a series of legislative proposals designed to make the nation's war effort more effective, Attorney General Biddle cited this blending of state and federal activity as federal recognition of state responsibility. He emphasized that the detailed and realistic approach taken by the drafting committee was an example of the democratic process at its best, and he urged that the scope of this two-way machinery be broadened to include both administrative and legislative problems.

In continuing this discussion of emergency legislation for war, Governor Leverett Saltonstall, of Massachusetts, urged that the states prepare themselves to act quickly when the need arises. Some problems, he said, will require volunteer effort, some will need legislative action, and some will need executive initiative. The important thing, he said, is for the states to be free to act speedily by whatever method is necessary. The governor reviewed his use of emergency war powers for governors act as adopted by the Massachusetts legislature, cautioning against the use of such powers where another method is available. He nevertheless praised the availability of such powers during the interim when the legislature is not in session. Governor Saltonstall urged the states to tackle their problems of wartime business of government in the immediate future with the following watchwords: maintain—improve—curtail—postpone—prepare! By so doing, he concluded, the states can make their greatest contribution to Victory.

The business meeting of the assembly occupied the closing hours of Tuesday's session, during which committee reports and resolutions were presented.

Four hundred and thirty-four official representatives from 41 states participated in the program. Hundreds of additional guests attended many of the sessions.

The Sixth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments adjourned at 5:30 p. m., Tuesday, January 26th, subject to call in January, 1945.

It is submitted that the underlying theme of the whole session is the maintenance of the principle of individual state rights, and that if there is going to be any organization which will accomplish the purpose of securing back to the states their individual rights after the present war is over, it will be the Council of State Governments. For this reason, if for no other, it is important that this organization be supported.

Respectfully submitted,

C. F. SHIMANEK.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 26

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the Congress of the United States call a convention, in pursuance of the provisions of article five (5) of the constitution of the United States, for the purpose of proposing an amendment to the said constitution, prohibiting the President of the United States from serving more than two terms of four years each; unless, in lieu thereof, the Congress, in its wisdom, shall elect to submit to the several states a proposed amendment to said constitution, providing for the said limiting of the tenure of office of any President of the United States to two terms of four years each, subject to ratification by three-fourths of the states in manner provided.

That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of Congress, and to the Iowa members in the Senate and House of Representatives of Congress.

Doud of Van Buren asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution and moved its adoption, prefacing his motion with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE: When Benjamin Franklin was leaving the convention hall after the adoption of our federal constitution he was asked by a citizen of Philadelphia what kind of a government we would have, and that wise man said "A republic, if you can keep it so". Our first president was a man who had led the American colonists and its armed forces through the dark crisis of the revolution. The grateful people of those days would have made him king but he wisely turned it aside. They were likewise so grateful that they were willing for him to serve as their president so long as he was willing, and even at the expiration of his second four-year term there was an insistence against his will that he continue to serve. It is common knowledge that he refused because he did not think it consistent with the idea of our republic.

He was later succeeded by the man who is known as the author of the Declaration of Independence. This great president had opposed the adoption of the constitution. He thought it contained too much central power. Although he had been a great president and had served through equally trying times in the history of our republic for two four-year terms, he refused to serve further. He was petitioned by the legislature of Vermont in 1807 to reconsider his decision not to serve more than two four-year terms and this is what he said: "I should unwillingly be the person who, disregarding the sound precedent set by an illustrious predecessor, should furnish the first example of prolongation beyond the second term of office." He further said to them "If some termination to the services of the chief magistrate be not fixed by the constitution or supplied by practice, this office nominally for years, will in fact become for life and history shows how easily that degenerates into an inheritance."

No less a person than the first lady of the land has likewise added her voice in protest against the present campaign for not a third term but a fourth term. She states in her published column that such talk was distracting to the war effort. Some have said that she should have addressed her remarks to her distinguished husband instead of placing them in her column because they would then have gone to the source which created the present situation.

This resolution merely petitions our Congress to act under the constitution and either call a constitutional convention for the purpose, or on its own initiative submit to the state legislatures a constitutional amendment prohibiting any president of the United States from serving more than two four-year terms. Such an amendment would take care of the very situation which Thomas Jefferson prophesied would come to pass and since the practice has been abandoned which would otherwise prohibit more than two four-year terms, it appears necessary that the termination of the service of a chief executive should be fixed by the constitution as so wisely stated by President Jefferson.

It is my humble opinion that in view of the fact that the band wagon for the fourth term is already on its way, we should do something to arouse the conscience of the American people to this present danger so that we can all join in returning to the sound principles established by Washington and observed by every president of the United States up until 1940.

Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

Roll call was demanded.

The committee waited upon Mr. Hoover and Lieutenant Governor Robert D. Blue and escorted them to the Speaker's rostrum.

Lieutenant Governor Robert D. Blue, President of the Senate, was introduced by President pro tempore Byers, and, in turn, introduced Mr. Hoover, prefacing his introduction with the following remarks:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, distinguished guests, and fellow Americans:

This morning as we are gathered here together the scourge of the Nazi machine and the yellow pestilence are attempting to destroy Christian civilization. This morning uncounted millions of victims of this pestilence turn their hollow eyes and their emaciated hands toward the middle west, toward America, begging for some crumbs of the bread of life from the bounteous American table. Yet as we are gathered here this morning, thousands of acres of corn, and soybeans, and other foods go unharvested. And so we have gathered here in this great State of Iowa the representatives of twelve of the great states of this Union to discuss the problem of manpower and food, and we have here to lead in this discussion Iowa's most distinguished native son, a man whose service to humanity in the last world war preserved the lives of countless thousands of men, women, and children in Europe, and whose administration of the food problem here in the United States was without parallel. It is a rare privilege and a great honor to present to the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa the Honorable Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States.

Mr. Hoover delivered the following address:

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE HERBERT HOOVER

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR BLUE, MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE IOWA ASSEMBLY, AND FELLOW AMERICANS: I am greatly honored to be invited to speak before the legislature of my native state. Iowa never loses the devotion of her native sons. Her fields and her streams, her towns, never lose their attraction. And I am glad, as a son of Iowa, to come back where I was born, where I spent my boyhood. My parents and my grandparents came to Iowa in a covered wagon. They lie buried in her soil. They toiled to build this community, to bring their children greater education, to open for them wider opportunity than had been theirs. And that has been the spirit of the state of Iowa. It was here that I was given that tender care of mind and body and those first steps of education that have been a treasure and a blessing to me ever since. I have traveled a great deal since I left Iowa, and for your comfort, I may say that there is no fertile square soil of earth equal in size where the people in it have so high an average intelligence, so high an average education, so high a standard of life, of living comfort, as the state of Iowa. Moreover, it has within it the moral and the spiritual backbone of the United States.

As I am speaking elsewhere on the food question, I had thought to speak to you for a few moments on some of the approaches to lasting peace. You probably remember that old story about the point in the funeral where the minister asked if there was any comment, and after some period of waiting a gentleman from the back of the room said "If there is no other subject before the meeting, I will speak on the state of Iowa".

Now, Americans, regardless of the past views or their political groups, are united on a single purpose today. Whatever our opinion may have been there is only one way out of the war and that is to win it, and to hope that we shall thereby attain for the world a better peace. There are before us two campaigns: The first is to defeat the enemy, and the second is to win this lasting peace. The military victory alone will not give peace. That was proved in 1918. And when firing ceases after this war, nations will be exhausted; they will be starving; we will be met with huge economic and governmental problems. The whole world will call for haste in peacemaking. There will be little time to think out the enormous problems of a lasting peace. We must begin to think now. Lofty aims are not enough. Such ideals are necessary but it is only the starting point of the job of making a realistic lasting peace. In fact, the difference between aims and actual peace is the same difference as that between the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Making peace is just as hard and realistic a job after this war as the problems of the American people were after the Revolution. And if we are to do a better job of peacemaking this time, it will be because of a better public understanding of the problems and a better preparedness to meet them than at the last.

We must begin to think of these problems on a very much larger plane than ever before. Certainly with centuries of failure to make a lasting peace we need a new approach this time. In finding a new approach we can look back a little into those great occasions of peacemaking at Vienna in 1814 after long years of a world-wide war, and at Versailles in 1919 after another world war to seek for some lessons, to gain some experience, and some light that may guide us. I can only speak from reading about the Congress of Vienna, but I can speak with knowledge of Versailles; I was not only in position to observe its processes intimately and hourly and daily, but I had to deal with its consequences for fifteen years, upwards, and I have observed the continuation of them ever since.

Now, there was something in common between these two great conferences which endeavored to end world wars. Both Vienna and Versailles failed to allay the dynamic forces which create war. Both tried to substitute for such real remedies a superstructure to preserve peace, and that upon weak foundations. The Congress of Vienna set up the Holy Alliance; the conference at Versailles set up the League of Nations, and whatever the difference or analogies may be between these two great occasions, the experience at Versailles is clear enough in our memories for a lot of vivid lessons. The first of these is that actual peacemaking must fall into two parts, no matter what the setup may be. The first part is the settlement of military and territorial and economic and ideological questions, and the second part is to build on this foundation some superstructure to preserve peace.

The discussion today seems to be mainly turned upon the forms of these superstructures, such as world leagues and world councils and world union, or federations, or world parliaments and I have no criticism to make of any such discussion, but the whole problem must have a far deeper and a far more realistic approach than that. These great explosions in civilization do not have their origins in single men or perverse action of groups of men whose punishment will end in a war. These men and their actions are themselves the product of deeper forces which must be stopped or allayed, or there can never be a lasting peace.

I believe that the new approach lies in a deep reach into these dynamic forces which have built up these great world crises. They could be grouped into six categories. They are the ideologies, the economic pressures, the excessive nationalism, militarism, imperialism, and the complexes of fear and hate and revenge. The destruction of peace from these sources must be stopped and allayed in the first party of treaty-making. That is by the settlement of political and territorial and economic and ideological questions. If they are successfully met, it means lasting peace. If there is failure to meet them, it means renewed war. Any superstructure of leagues or conferences or federations or parliaments or what-not cannot endure unless these foundations are first built.

The treaty of Versailles, as distinguished from the League, inevitably failed to meet most of those destructive forces. It expanded imperialism; it failed utterly to extinguish militarism. It furnished an enormous fuel of economic destruction. It left a disastrous trail of fear and hate and revenge. Its only real success was a temporary expansion of personal liberty and representative government and the great experiment of the League. But it was failure to deal with the age-old destructive forces that underlay the failure of the League of Nations that made the League absolutely futile. . None of the superstructure to preserve peace which we are discussing today, I may repeat, can endure until these destructive dynamic forces are first dealt with and that is a realistic job. And I may add that this failure to meet these forces was no fault of President Wilson and the American delegation. They made a heroic effort to bring about a just peace. They were finally driven back by these age-old forces and their age-old subtle diplomacy. He finally placed his hopes in the League and the spread of democratic government, but that was not enough.

Now, I have insufficient time to discuss the details of this failure, to deal with these dynamic forces which make for war and I would not want to take your time to do so. But I might just mention one or two. Incendiary fires were set along scores of national borders; debilitating economic barriers to trade were increased and not decreased. Burdens were placed upon peoples which they could not perform. States were divided in a fashion which made economic recuperation impossible. And then there was the answer to militarism. The only answer is disarmament and there was wholly a failure to really disarm the enemy. There was failure of the allies to disarm themselves. And the Germans were allowed to perpetuate a military caste whose sole purpose is war. The lesson in that is this caste, both in Germany and Japan, must be put out of the war business.

Another of these failures was the attempt to punish a people instead of their leaders. There is a personal responsibility on the heads of states and their associates for violation of treaties and agreements entered into with free will. Too long has it been assumed that there is something sacred about the heads of a state who project and provoke war and wholesale murder. Certainly the Versailles experiment showed that no nation can be punished as a whole and at the same time leave any hope of lasting peace. Victory with vengeance is ultimate defeat in the modern economic world. We can have peace or we can have revenge, but we cannot have both—not upon the peoples at large.

Still another great lesson from Versailles is that no form of peace treaty is final. Peace can be preserved not by preventing all change, putting the future in a strait jacket, but by seeking to control, change and direct it. Obviously any such attempt to maintain the status quo as followed Versailles is a direct invitation to war for, peaceful means of proper adjustment having been denied, the change can come only through force. War becomes the only available solvent.

Another great lesson from Versailles is that during a long period while the world is emerging from war to a stable peace the forces of disintegration or renewed aggression must be kept down with military force, and the United Nations will need to stand on guard and not, as after Versailles, disintegrate amongst themselves.

There are many other lessons from this experience to which we need to give heed. Peace will not spring full-blown from any formula. As I have said, there can be no lasting peace unless these dynamic forces that make for war are allayed and stilled. No superstructure to maintain peace can succeed unless that is first accomplished in the peace settlements.

A second new approach to peace lies in the actual machinery and method of peacemaking. And here again there is a profound lesson to be heeded from Versailles. At the end of the last war we had an armistice which lasted for nine long months. During that time, a thousand diplomats, of forty nations, in daily sessions wrangled and struggled to settle the gigantic problems which had been loosened on the world. And they entered upon it with no preparation. Daily I witnessed the age-old forces of militarism. I saw the rise of selfish nationalism, the clash of ideals, personalities, and the ambitions of men. Hate and fear and revenge sat at that peace table. The very bringing together of all of these interests intensified the conflicts and generated new ones. It created a hundred nests of intrigue. The attempt to solve a hundred problems all at once made infinite opportunity for dark corner operations in intrigue, with the whole world pressing for haste lest the economic order should collapse. So I saw the conference degenerate into a struggle for power. Gradually the spiritual forces were driven back by the forces of destruction. The economic clock of the world was slowed down during the long delayed conclusion. Instead of releasing the forces of recovery, the armistice was a period of social and political and economic degeneration all over the world and therefore the cry was for haste, haste.

If we are not again to see the tragedy of Versailles, we must have a new approach to this whole machinery of making peace. We must avoid the whirlpools and the rocks upon which that conference was wrecked and the recovery of the world must not be dangerously delayed again. We must not act in haste. Therefore, our first opportunity is to provide a stage for peacemaking that will favor the spiritual forces of good will and idealism, rather than old-time diplomacy, and will give these residual forces amongst the human race a chance to reorganize and reform. We must prevent nests of intrigue that can again do evil. We must take time to solve these problems. Now it doesn't take a prophet to anticipate that these conflicting forces will again be in motion the instant that hostilities cease after this war. Yet, when victory comes after this war we must join with our allies and again try to lead the world to a promised land, against this terrible maelstrom of conflicting forces, and if we are to have a lasting peace it will be by cooperation with them in finding a method in making it secure.

In my view, in the new approach to peacemaking, there should be no general peace conference such as Vienna or Versailles, and there should be no armistice. There should be substituted a conditional peace absolutely imposed by the United Nations which would include not only the usual armistice provisions for ending combat, but would also include the settlement of certain urgent problems which at once are required to establish political order and to restore economic life, and allow the world some chance of spiritual recovery as well. Thus the armistice period should be eliminated altogether and a conditional peace be set in operation instantly, before these forces of degeneration have got in their deadly work. The settlement of the long due problems will require a cooling-off of world emotions. Many of these problems must have time for deliberation. Many of them must have time for development of world opinion. They should be separated from each other for solution and each placed on its merit, under the supervision of the state departments of the different allied governments and in accord with the growth of public mind and opinion.

And the third approach to lasting peace must be some organized cooperative action to prevent conflict or aggression. Whatever this superstructure may be, it imperatively requires time for development. It must have adherence in the hearts of people if it is to endure. The League never had its roots deep in many of the peoples of the world and we must not forget that America required six long years after the victory of Yorktown until we had evolved constitutional government in the United States.

Now, as I said on many occasions before, the purpose of this war—the most terrible of three centuries—is to make a lasting peace. We must first win the war. But we will not win lasting peace unless we prepare for it. And we can prepare only by full and free public discussion and the cold surgery of realistic analysis. If we scan these former convulsions in the modern western world, we can see that, following these long periods of general war and disorder, new shapes of civilization and new forms of nations have emerged. Civilization has taken new impulses and new directions. We must expect new forms, new directions from the gigantic explosion that began in 1914. No one can pretend to see these shapes clearly. But even if we are emerging into another era of civilization, then also we shall need peace. And in the making of that peace, there will be a fleeting chance for the leaders of mankind to bind the wounds, to restore the faith, and to bring new hope into this world. Thank you.

House File 470, by committee on elections, a bill for an act to amend section ten thousand eight hundred sixty-nine (10869), Code, 1939, relating to certification of jury lists.

Read first time and passed on file.

HOUSE RESOLUTION 10

To express disapproval of any program establishing price ceilings on "live animals".

Whereas, Increased livestock production is a definite part of our total war effort, and

Whereas, Price levels and price relationships are a powerful influence in determining the ability of farmers to meet these increased production goals, and

Whereas, Livestock production has already been hampered by price uncertainties, confusion, and the inability of producers to plan their production programs because of these conditions, and

Whereas, The suggestion being made to impose price ceilings on "live animals" would be impractical of administration and would consequently add further to the "black market problem", in addition to creating inequalities and price uncertainties which would further decrease production of these badly needed war necessities,

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa: That we hereby express our disapproval to any program establishing price ceilings on "live animals" and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Prentis Brown, Administrator of the Office of Price Administration, James F. Byrnes, Economic Stabilization Director, and Secretary of Agriculture, Honorable Claude R. Wickard.

Weichman of Benton asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution and moved its adoption.

Motion prevailed and House Resolution 10 was adopted.

Greene of Crawford, Wilson of Calhoun, Cox of Webster, Wilson of Monroe, Pritchard of Hancock, Butterfield of Black Hawk, Miller of Humboldt, Orebaugh of Polk, Martin of Appanoose, Robinson of Delaware, Dvorak of Tama, Nelson of Woodbury, Latchaw of Muscatine, Prentis of Ringgold, Duffield of Guthrie, Bryson of Hardin, Boekwolddt of Ida, Yager of Dickinson, McFarlane of Black Hawk, Tatum of Harrison, Burk of Greene, Lage of Scott, Fishbaugh of Page and Carver of Palo Alto presented the following resolution:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 27

A concurrent resolution providing for the scrapping of old cannons and mortar located upon the Capitol grounds of the state of Iowa.

Whereas, The old cannons and mortar located upon the Capitol grounds are obsolete and of no value only as a relic; and

Whereas, These old relics were presented to the state of Iowa many years ago by an act of Congress and war department, and only being four in number; and

Whereas, The government of the United States of America asks that all old metal be scrapped and turned over for use; and

Whereas, We feel it our duty to do everything possible to win the war; and

Whereas, The scrapping of these relics will help our boys and girls in serving our country, by providing implements of war and modern equipment; and

Whereas, The American Legion, Spanish American, Women's Auxiliaries and other patriotic organizations or the majority thereof desire that such relics be scrapped;

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the cannons and mortar now located upon the Capitol grounds of the state of Iowa be scrapped and any and all proceeds be credited to the United Service Organizations of Iowa.

Laid over under Rule 34.

HOUSE FILE 377 WITHDRAWN

The bill having failed to receive a constitutional majority was declared to have failed to pass the House.

Latchaw of Muscatine moved that the vote by which Senate File 52 failed to pass the House be reconsidered and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table. Motion prevailed.

Carlson of Woodbury presented Corp. Betti Gilhaus, formerly of Sioux City, Iowa, a member of Company III, Second Regiment, Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, who addressed the House as follows:

HONORABLE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: In studying history the student can often discover that the past is the key to the present as well as the future. Such is the case of many European nations. There have been times in the history of nations when the past has come back to haunt the present time and the mixture of the two has caused great catastrophes. Adolph Hitler himself is, perhaps, the most renowned example of this.

Hitler is little more than a copy cat in many ways. Oh, yes, he and Rudolph Hess were the authors of Mein Kampf but many of the most important fiendish ideas were the brain children of an earlier, but lesser known German named Ritter Von Schonerer. His radical ideas were a shock to the Europe of the 1870's and 1880's. The Prussian Chancellor Bismarck, being a Christian, would have nothing to do with his hideous anti-Semitic ideas. His plan was to destroy the Jews, drive them out of Germany, murder the entire race, if possible. Von Schonerer firmly believed in the superior German, world conquest and international slavery for everyone, except the master race.

But perhaps the most important of all—his grandiose schemes were the destruction of Prussia's most bitter enemy. Von Schonerer most firmly believed that Prussia could never be a world power as long as hated Austria held the prominent position among Germanic states. It is history, ladies and gentlemen, that whenever Austria was strong and powerful, then Prussia was weak. He used every means at his disposal to bring about the fall of the Austrian Empire. On this matter he had the utmost support of Chancellor Bismarck of Prussia, as the great military leader knew only too well Austria had to crumple to the dust before Prussian militarism could make her might felt in Europe.

Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria knew better than to trust Bismarck, but he failed to understand the Prussian cunning. His son, Crown Prince Rudolph, constantly warned of the danger of men like Ritter von Schonerer. To his trusted friends the Crown Prince confided that the existence of Austria was at stake. Rudolph was a realist and he saw about him an autocratic imperial court that was declining in prestige, while the new military power of Prussia was rising. Bismarck feared Rudolph as he knew the Austrian heir would stand in the way of his power. It was Rudolph who discovered Prussian spies at the court of Vienna, only to realize he was helpless.

It was fortunate that for a few years Prussian-Austrian affairs were congenial. The old German Emperor William I had a son named Frederick William, who was a rebel. His love for the Austrian character, for Vienna and for his friend, Crown Prince Rudolph, was very touching. They were both young men and both heirs to their thrones. At last there will be understanding between the peoples of our nations. But the forces of evil were stronger than these two young men's dreams. Even as Frederick William ascended the throne in Berlin, the gods were laughing at his thoughts of peace and friendship towards, not only Austria, but all Europe. A short three months later the new German Emperor and King of Prussia was dead. His death by cancer of the throat left the throne to his son, who happened to be the exact opposite of his father. Young Wilhelm believed not in his father but in Bismarck, in conquest, in power. His arrogant spirit despised the soft Austrian character. He hated his father's best friend, Crown Prince Rudolph. He believed, as von Schonerer, in utter destruction. But not even Wilhelm II sanctioned the slaughter of entire populations. No one but Hitler believed in von Schonerer to that extent.

Rudolph was a firm believer in the old European idea that France and Austria should at all times have a strong alliance and abide by it at all times. The Crown Prince often wrote his friend, Szeps, that as long as France and Austria were powerful friends, Prussia would be forced to hold her minor position in European power, but once the two allies were divided then Prussia would pounce on Austria. The brilliant son of Franz Joseph declared time and time again that Austria was the key to the existence of France. If Austria should fall to German might then France would be doomed.

A great French statesman, Painleve, agreed with the Crown Prince and did all in his power to bring about closer collaboration between their nations. But theirs were voices in the wilderness. Mayerling was not only a love tragedy, but the tragedy of a man's belief in his nation. Rudolph killed himself in utter despair of Austria, for he saw his hated enemy, Wilhelm II, on the throne of Germany, Austria's enemy, Bismarck, at his ear, and France too interested in herself to care about Austria.

Austria was a central power in the first World War because Germany saw that under the guise of friendship, she could better destroy the Austrian-Hungarian Empire. Whenever old Bismarck smiled at a nation, he was planning her destruction, and the younger Wilhelm followed his advice. Franz Joseph fell into the trap at Sarajevo by declaring war. The Hapsburg rule of a thousand years was nearing its end. But still Austria held on as a nation, starving, defeated, and broken, she held her independence. All her great food-producing provinces were taken from her at the close of the war. Even her former French friend, Clemenceau, refused to yield an ounce of sympathy to her starving people. All food had to be transported into stricken provinces as their former supplies were cut off. Yet Austria lived, ladies and gentlemen, not to think of revenge and blood lust or another war, but to live in peace and hope for the alliance of France once again.

Little Dollfuss, the Austrian Chancellor, recognized Adolph Hitler in 1933 as the incarnation of all Austria's enemies. He knew only too well Hitler was planning the death of his nation. In one of the most fiendish examples of brute force ever suffered by one man, Dollfuss was shot by the Nazis in his chancellory in Vienna. As he lay dying, he asked for a priest. A storm trooper kicked him. He was bleeding to death. He asked them in God's name to have mercy and help him. The Nazis called him a swine and told him to bleed to death.

Frau Dollfuss was visiting the Mussolini family in Italy at the time. They were all good friends. When the news was brought to Benito Mussolini that Adolph Hitler had murdered his good friend, Dollfuss, Mussolini, ladies and gentlemen, flew into a rage! He massed his troops on the Bremer Pass and called London. No, the Austrian situation was of no importance to 10 Downing Street. England saw no reason for declaring war on Chancellor Hitler. Premier Mussolini begged the foreign office at Paris to back him up. The French government informed Mussolini that the German riots within both Germany and Austria were of no concern to the Third Republic. The death of Dollfuss was only the untimely end of one man. The Italian Premier was forced to withdraw his troops from the border. That is history, ladies and gentlemen. It's there in black and white for all to read. But time marches on and men change, as do nations. The Mussolini of that day in 1934 was not the Il Duce of a few years hence.

But even after all that, Austria remained independent. Kurt von Schuschnigg became Chancellor. A deeply religious man, he despised violence. On the spot Dollfuss was slain, Schuschnigg erected a shrine. Schuschnigg believed in human kindness, he trusted his fellow men, especially a man named Arthur Sess-Inquart. Many times he declared Sess-Inquart was his most trusted friend, the one man he knew loved Austria as he did. Judas himself would have turned red with shame if he could have seen Sess-Inquart turn Austria over to the Nazis.

During that one hour Hitler gave the Austrian Chancellor to decide his fate, the history of many nations changed. In utter despair Kurt von Schuschnigg asked both England and France to help Austria. He begged them to use their offices of government and convince Hitler they would completely destroy him if he dared cross the Austrian frontier. At that time the German army was still in its training stage, "Der Tag" had not arrived and the combined weight of the two great powers would have stopped Hitler cold. This was March 11, 1938. Not so long ago and yet, even at that late stage Adolph Hitler admitted to a Jew-Axis statesman he would have been forced to recall his armies. Austria was sacrificed upon the altar of selfish interests and the fate of Europe was sealed. A nation and a man were made prisoners and remain so to this day. Kurt von Schuschnigg has been tortured and denied sleep, but he will not let the Nazis break his spirit. He will not die.

Now France, too, has become one of the victims of German dreams. Hitler declared his Nazis will rule for a thousand years. We are waging this most horrible of wars to destroy his prophecy.

It came to pass that in 1940, as the French government of Premier Reynauld fled before the blitz and the Stukas and the French armies were exhausted, with the civilian population wandering down the roads of France and with the nation on the verge of surrender, the British Prime Minister Winston Churchill came to France to confer with Reynauld. He presented to the French Premier a desperate plan of survival.

France as she was could do little else but surrender. If, however, the French government would accept the British plan of merging the two nations into one concrete government with one authority and the combining of the two armies into one command, then the French would be able to stay in the war as the belligerent ally of Britain.

In his last speech to America, Reynauld had concluded with these words: "If it takes a miracle to save France, then I believe in miracles." As Premier, he was willing to accept this united Franco-British plan as the miracle. Many great Frenchmen were with him in the cause of a fighting France rather than a France bowed down to German demands. General de Gaulle, now of the Fighting French, was one of these men. But France was divided. Reynauld was forced to refuse Churchill's offer. He had no other choice. Some of his finest generals as well as his closest friend, Comtess de la Portes, demanded that English power have no control over Frenchmen. They claimed it was to the interest of France that hostilities cease and the French find their own destiny with the Third Reich. France had been foolish to declare war for England's benefit to begin with, the powerful Helen Portes told Reynauld. Well, he resigned as Premier rather than surrender his nation.

My reason for bringing this chapter of the war to your attention, ladies and gentlemen, is an enlightening one, a prophecy of long ago. Now prophecies are not always believed. One thing is certain, the Nazis do not wish to believe the authenticity of this one.

The emblem of the Fighting French today is the Lorraine Cross. From the province of Lorraine in France in the fifteenth century there came a young girl who found her nation in chains, the French armies defeated, the people in vast sections of the land under the enemy rule. The only resistance was a few bands of soldiers under the banner of La Hire or the Bastard du Orlean. Mark Twain called Joan of Arc "the most wonderful child the ages have produced". With God's command she became the commander-in-chief of the armies of France at the age of seventeen. Less than a year later her nation was free of the yoke of the English. She had destroyed England's proudest armies, defeated her generals and the only English left in those parts of France that her banner touched were the dead ones. On June 18th, in the year 1429, Jeanne de Arc won one of the most decisive battles in history. It was on the red field of Patay. She dismounted and, looking about her, she prophesied "In a thousand years—a thousand years—the English power in France will not rise up from this blow."

Ladies and gentlemen, five hundred years had passed when Churchill and Reynauld met. English power did not rise in France. Five hundred years from now there has to be both an England and a France to fulfill the remainder of her vision.

Let us stop and wonder if the past history of nations has the hidden keys to their futures locked up within their books.

The bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the House and the title was agreed to.

Senate File 7, a bill for an act to amend section fifty-seven hundred forty-five (5745), Code, 1939, as amended by chapter 205 of the Laws of the Forty-ninth General Assembly, by granting additional powers to cities or towns to regulate the seizure, collection, protection and disposal of dogs, and to enter into contracts therefor with certain societies or associations, with report of committee recommending passage, was taken up for consideration.

Dodds of Des Moines moved that the remarks by Duffield of Guthrie on Senate File 7 be inserted in the Journal.

REMARKS BY DUFFIELD OF GUTHRIE URGING PASSAGE OF SENATE FILE 7

MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE ASSEMBLY: I believe Senate File 7 was to be handled on the floor by the gentleman from Polk, Mr. Orebaugh. In his absence, I ask permission of the House to present the bill.

I assure you the task, though unpremeditated, is not ungrateful.

In these days of uncertain investments, there is one investment that is enduring and certain in returns—a dog.

Trouble can swoop down over a man, and strip him shining, bone clean of everything, including maybe his ambition and self-respect, and leave him to go trudging off down the valley of the shadow of humiliation, and as we used to say in Mr. Fimmen's county (Davis) "with nothin' led, driv or follerin" but his dog—and his women folk, maybe; but if they go along, it's shamed and humiliated they are—shoulders drooped, head hanging; but the dog rollicks and romps among the weeping willows, treating those emblems of eternal sorrow in a manner familiar and contemptuous.

For fear these opinions, although soberly advanced, may be deemed immaterial and facetious, I want to say in explanation, that the purpose of this bill—Senate File 7—is to permit the cities of the state, where the stray dog is a problem, to contract with humane organizations such as the S. P. C. A. and the Animal Rescue League, to collect the strays and if unable to find the owner or some other person on whom the dog can lavish fidelity and affection, put the animal to death just as painlessly as ever death can be administered. Some doubts have been raised as to the power of cities to enter into such contracts, although I understand Polk county has such a contract; and the passage of this bill is asked to put at rest any doubts as to existing contracts, and also to enable other cities to take the same humane action.

I have investigated the Des Moines situation and I am satisfied as to the unselfishness of the motive which has prompted the introduction of this measure and its passage in the Senate.

My sympathetic attitude will be understood by the man who owns a dog and shares, in some measure, the protective instinct of his faithful friend.

Duffield of Guthrie moved that the bill be read a last time now and placed upon its passage which motion prevailed and the bill was read a last time.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Father J. A. Kress, Chaplain of the Waverly hospital and pastor of the Catholic Church, Shell-rock, Iowa.

Burma of Butler, McFarlane of Black Hawk, Reed of Jefferson, Duffield of Guthrie, Robinson of Delaware, Martin of Appanoose, Dvorak of Tama, Hutchison of Kossuth, Edwards of Union, Latchaw of Muscatine, Stinemates of Montgomery, Dodds of Des Moines, Gardner of Linn, Weichman of Benton, Scott of Fayette, Mills of Adair, Sharp of Clayton, Baldwin of Wapello, Hedin of Scott, Johnson of Marion, Avery of Clay, Gardner of Bremer and Heffner of Hamilton offered the following resolution:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 30

Whereas, There will be approximately ten million (10,000,000) men and women in the armed services and auxiliaries to return to peacetime employment after the war is over; and

Whereas, There will be millions of men and women to be transferred from war industries of peacetime employment; and

Whereas, The magnitude of this undertaking is such that it would be unwise to postpone its study until the war is over; and

Whereas, It is of the greatest importance that any post-war plan for the state of Iowa shall be adapted to the economic resources and conditions peculiar to this state, in preference to some ready-made plan coming from Washington; and

Whereas, It behooves the states to be prepared to enact state legislation and recommend federal legislation dealing with serious problems arising from post-war economy; therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring: That a post-war economic planning commission be created and said commission be hereby created. Said commission shall consist of fifteen (15) members to be appointed by the governor of Iowa. One member of said commission shall be designated by a majority of the members of said commission as chairman. Said members shall receive no compensation for their services, except their actual and necessary expenses to be audited by the comptroller of the state and paid from the general fund of the state.

The commission membership shall consist of persons interested in agriculture, industry, labor, transportation, education, the press, professions and other broad social and economic interests.

President Blue announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

Senator Whitehill of Marshall moved that a committee of six, consisting of three members from the Senate and three members of the House, be appointed to notify the Governor of Iowa and the Captain of the battleship Iowa that the joint convention was ready to receive them.

Motion prevailed and the President appointed Senators Whitehill of Marshall, Hattery of Story and Pine of Louisa on the part of the Senate, and Representatives Gardner of Linn, Butterfield of Black Hawk and Reed of Jefferson on the part of the House.

The committee waited upon the Governor and Captain McCrea and escorted them to the Speaker's station.

President Blue presented Governor Bourke B. Hickenlooper, who introduced Captain John L. McCrea, captain of the battleship Iowa, prefacing his introduction with the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, STATE OFFICERS, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND GUESTS: It is a pleasure this afternoon for me to exercise this signal honor. It is a pleasure for all of us here in Iowa to receive this honor of the visitation of the distinguished gentleman who is here. Not alone because he is a distinguished gentleman and American citizen but also because of the things that he represents on his visit here. The mightiest ship that the world has ever seen bears the name of our state. It is not surpassed, it is not equaled by any ship anywhere in the world. We have that distinction and it is one of which we can be justly proud. I know from the expressions of sentiment from all over the state of Iowa that we are justly proud.

We in Iowa are in fact a proud people. We are a proud people in our heritage, in the independence with which we conduct our own affairs, in the independence with which we assume the responsibilities for our own well being. And we are proud in the discharge of these responsibilities. We believe, in this emergency, that we in Iowa can contribute much and we have gone forward and have contributed in every field of war activity our full measure of contribution. We don't say that here in order to boast about it, nor do we say it in order to avoid any further contribution, but we do recognize within ourselves that we have obligations to perform and we, in our midwestern farm way, go about the discharging of those obligations, honestly, sincerely, and vigorously, and it brings us, in the last analysis, great pride.

During the history of the United States, four ships—four fighting ships—have borne the name of Iowa. The last one that sailed the seas was the famous Iowa of Spanish-American War fame. The next one, or the third—that was the second battleship Iowa—the third battleship Iowa, I believe, had its keel laid and then, under a disarmament conference agreement, the construction of that battleship was halted, and it was scrapped. In 1923, I believe it was, the old battleship Iowa that performed such gallant service and such outstanding service in the Spanish-American War, became the subject for experimentation and was eventually sunk by naval action in connection with the investigation of high explosives. It gave us a touch of sadness at that time to know that the gallant old ship had gone down. But I am sure that every person in Iowa knew that when the Iowa went beneath the waves that time, it left behind it certain answers that perhaps are coming to our benefit today in naval action and in the destructive power of high explosive shells, bombs, and other such weapons.

Today there is in commission, as I said a moment ago, the mightiest of all fighting ships and it bears the name Iowa. In 1897 the state of Iowa, through its legislature, in honor of and appreciation of the glories of the battleship Iowa and its activities and its actions appropriated a substantial sum of money in order to buy a magnificent and beautiful set of silver for the officers' mess of that ship. That silver was purchased and it was presented to that ship and so long as that ship was in commission as a battleship of our nation the silver that you see before you today graced the officers mess of that ship. Then when the battleship Iowa was broken up in 1923, the Navy Department returned this silver to the custody of the state of Iowa and it has reposed with us and it has been cared for as one of our prized heritages, one of our prized possessions, in the department of history and archives ever since that time.

Even in previous sessions of the legislature, you will recall, the sentiment was unanimous, that when that great ship took to the high seas this silver that so rightly belongs on the fighting ship with the name of Iowa should be returned again to the high seas to sail with our name. And today that ship is ready—or, I don't know that it is ready for the high seas, but I assume that it will be very, very shortly indeed—that ship will again take the seas and, while this silver may not accompany it in time of war, yet we in Iowa want that ship and its personnel to know that this silver again will grace the sideboard of that great vessel.

Taking time from a very busy—and none of us know how busy—season of tremendous responsibilities, the captain of that ship has come here from the dock where that great ship lies, has come here today to receive this silver. We are proud to have him here. I want to tell you something about him.

He was born in the midwest state of Michigan and he calls that state his home. He was later graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis. After his graduation, some years, he went further in addition to his naval studies, studied law and received the degree of bachelor of law; later continued his legal studies in connection with his naval activities and received a master's degree in law. He is a graduate of the War College and of numerous other service schools of perfection in his branch of the armed service. He was an aide to Admiral Stark, who was at that time Chief of Naval Operations. He has been prominent in staff work in the development of our navy and our naval activities. He has commanded ships on the high seas; he has had shore duty and shore stations of importance; and just recently one of his last assignments was a call to the White House as a naval aide to the President of the United States in these trying times. As such naval aide he arranged for and accompanied the President on his recent famous trip to North Africa.

He is a man of world wide experience. He knows all oceans. He knows ships. He knows fighting ships. He knows men. He knows fighting men. We who know of him feel that the destinies of the ship which bears the name of the state of Iowa, the destinies of the crew, and the destinies of freemen and our liberties, will be safe under his command. We are grateful for his visit.

I present to you now the commander of the battleship Iowa—and, in turn, I present on behalf of you and the state of Iowa this magnificent silver service, a portion of which we can see on this top rail—and I believe the rest of it is down below. We present it to him for use on this ship under such circumstances as he or succeeding commanders may determine.

I present to you, Captain, and to you, my friends, I present a gallant sailor, a brave man, a sailor of the high seas, the "boss" of the battleship Iowa, our friend Captain John L. McCrea, U.S.N.

Captain John L. McCrea of the battleship Iowa then addressed the joint convention as follows:

MR. SPEAKER, MR. PRESIDENT, GOVERNOR HICKENLOOPER, MEMBERS OF THE IOWA GENERAL ASSEMBLY: To the Assembly and to the people of this state I would say that the ship's company of the Iowa accept your splendid gift with mingled feelings of appreciation and responsibility.

It is only natural that the ship's company serving in that mighty ship, bearing a mighty name, should be touched by the spirit of this joint resolution. But more than that, you have bestowed on us a treasure. In our turn, let me assure you it will be cherished deeply by those who serve on the Iowa; cherished as a symbol—not only of your thoughtfulness, but especially, of your trust.

For, as I see it, that is precisely the estimation of your gift. That is why I cannot help but regard this joint resolution in the light of responsibility. By this resolution you have entrusted to us something which was a part of another Iowa; a famed Iowa; in such manner is tradition built. You have made us and our ship, a part of your great family of Iowans. But, measured in higher terms, yours is an act of faith. You charge that we shall always remember. That, we shall strive our utmost to account for with a victory, in your name, for all the peoples who labor and fight in the United Nations.

The ship which it is my high privilege and honor to command could have been named after any one of a dozen other states. Our sponsor, as you know, was Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, the wife of our Vice President, both of them your distinguished neighbors. When Mrs. Wallace sent our Iowa down the ways to fight for humanity, the right name had been chosen for the right ship. I would like to feel that your Navy, well aware of the forceful traditions of initiative and resourcefulness which has made this prairie land of yours into one of our nation's greatest states, deliberately chose the name Iowa for a ship of which so much is expected. Therefore, we in the Iowa feel our responsibility keenly—a responsibility to carry forward those same traditions which have made your state great among others, so that the people of Iowa will be well represented in whatever part this fine ship may play in the destruction of rule by force.

You may rest assured that we will be ever conscious that sailing under your name implies your special confidence in us and in our ship. Believe me, we shall not fail you.

This occasion turns our thoughts back to the shining history of other Iowas. The first Iowa, built during the war between the states, the second Iowa which opened fire at Santiago Bay during the Spanish-American War and took on board the intrepid Spanish Admiral, Pascual Cervera, as a prisoner—these are our illustrious predecessors afloat. It is a matter of regret, real regret, in the fleet at this moment, that the last Iowa had to be scrapped under the terms of the Washington Naval Disarmament Treaty in 1923. Will you permit me with much sincerity and great humbleness to suggest that the word "scrap" will have a different meaning to your Iowa—the new Iowa twenty years later?

The invitation of this Assembly that I come to Des Moines to receive this silver, is, as I have said, deeply appreciated by our entire ship's company. I wish it were possible for me to take physical possession of this treasure and give it safe conduct to the ship. However, the exigencies of the service, and its uncertainties, cannot be lost sight of, especially in time of war. It is, therefore, with these uncertainties in mind, that I hereby request that this silver service be retained in the custody of the state of Iowa, until the cessation of hostilities. It is with real regret that I make this request. Its import I am sure you will understand and appreciate.

Your distinguished governor recently spoke to us on our quarterdeck. I remember what he said in your name that day, to the entire ship's company:

"We are happy to be here to bring you the greetings of the people of Iowa, to give our faith to the officers and crew, and to express our trust that this ship will do its part in protecting the frontiers of freedom."

Today, I reply to that greeting and to that faith and that trust. All of us in the ship's company will do our part. We shall consider it our obligation in the name of Iowa not only to protect, but to widen the frontiers of freedom as we now know them.

Iowa has given us her silver, and her faith, and her trust. But that is not all. She has given us, probably without quite realizing it, an inspiration. I refer to those stirring words which are emblazoned on the great seal of your state and on your state flag: "Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain." These are great words. They shall ever inspire those who now sail in the Iowa, to bring mankind its greatest victory. These same words shall serve as a beacon light to all who shall sail in her in the peace to come.

President Blue then introduced Herman L. Feldman, President of the B'nai B'rith Council of Iowa, who addressed Captain McCrea and the joint assembly as follows:

MR. CHAIRMAN, YOUR EXCELLENCY GOVERNOR HICKENLOOPER, CAPTAIN MCCREA, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA, AND GUESTS: It is a distinct privilege to be here today to present on behalf of the Iowa members of B'nai B'rith lodges our service ship program for the great battleship Iowa. I fear after hearing the splendid presentation by our good governor and Captain McCrea, my words and efforts are feeble. I will say to you, Captain McCrea, it is a great privilege to present for the men of the battleship Iowa our small efforts to aid in their relaxation, and help in making them more comfortable and more happy during their leisure moments. On behalf of the B'nai B'rith of Iowa, I present to you and your men the following: Subscriptions to 169 current magazines and periodicals, the same selection as made by the personnel of the U. S. S. Massachusetts; leather covers for all the magazines; spinet piano for your recreation room; bull fiddle for the ship's orchestra; victrola with adaptor for attaching to ship's loud speaker system; records for victrola; game gifts similar to those supplied to Commander Granford; recording machine with discs for the boys to record messages for families when the ship is at sea; and finally, a series of three ship's parties, one for each watch, under the supervision of the chaplain to help stimulate the morale of your crew just before the ship goes into service.

We hope, Captain McCrea, that our efforts will bring joy and happiness to all. Our heartiest wishes for a safe and successful return from the battle fronts.

To which Captain McCrea replied:

Thank you, Mr. Feldman, very much. On behalf of the ship's company of the Iowa, I want to thank you not alone for what you are doing today for the ship's company, but for what you have already done. I might mention many things that have been done by your splendid organization and all of them have been of great assistance to us. Just before I left the ship, as I told the governor today, the executive officer spoke to me and said, "If you see any of the B'nai B'rith people out there, tell them how very much we appreciate everything they have done for us and what I understand they contemplate doing for us.", and I now do that.

I might remark that I was touched by one little thing that Mr. Feldman said and that was about the leisure time that our men seem to have. Well, they know it already, but they have a very impatient captain, or as the governor says, a very impatient "boss". And for the time being, our efforts are going to be concentrated in trying to put that ship together. I might remark that I am sure that none of you can appreciate the tremendous job it is to just put an organization like that together. With twenty-five hundred people on that ship, if you had nothing more than just to provide for their comfortable living, that would be a tremendous job in itself. But when you have not alone to provide for that, but you have to provide for all conditions of battle, both night and day, and the various ship control stations that have to be looked out for, it is almost a superhuman task.

Someone remarked to me at a gathering of Iowans a few weeks ago and said something about the ship being big. I said "Yes, if I could borrow the words of Edna Ferber, I would say that she was 'So Big.' ". But it really rests on our shoulders and it is a big responsibility, I assure you, to put that ship together, to put it in fighting form. A ship one tenth its size would be a big job, and a ship the size of this that will sail under your name, seems to be about one hundred times that job.

We want to thank again the B'nai B'rith Council for everything that they have done for us. They have done a very splendid job. So much so, that, as I told you, my Irish Catholic executive said I should be sure to get in touch with these people and tell them how much we appreciate it.

Senator Hart of Lee moved that the joint convention be now dissolved. Motion prevailed and the convention stood dissolved.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 24

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Fiftieth Legislature of the State of Iowa, the State House of Representatives Concurring therein: That,

Whereas, our nation is engaged in the greatest war effort of our history and the President has announced that 11,200,000 men will be in the armed forces of our country by December of this year; and

Whereas, Our national economy has been converted from peace to war with several tens of millions of our citizens now engaged in producing the implements of war; and

Whereas, It has been stated by high government authority that sixty-five million of our citizens (both in and out of the armed forces) will be engaged in the war effort by the end of this year; and

Whereas, After the war is over the transformation of our country from a total war economy to a civilian peacetime economy, including the complete disruption of employment of fifty to sixty million people, is a problem of which the consequences can be almost as fatal as the result of the war itself unless proper steps are taken now; and

Whereas, It is inevitable that our national government will of necessity spend many billions of dollars in the post-war period, to cushion the transformation of the nation's economy from war to peace; and

Whereas, It is of the utmost importance that the funds so expended shall be spent on useful work and in an efficient, economical, and businesslike manner so that the nation will have something of value to show for the money spent after the unemployment problem of the post-war period shall have passed and to the end that the principle of self help rather than public bounty shall be uppermost; and

Whereas, Highway construction is useful work and will be vitally necessary and is one of the best means of providing employment for idle men, and produces a durable necessary public improvement for the convenience and welfare of all our people;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, the House Concurring:

1. That we hereby endorse the proposal submitted to the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, and the House Committee on Roads, of the National Congress on March 4, 1943, by the American Association of State Highway Officials, for the immediate authorization of three billion dollars to be expended on highway construction over a period of three years following the close of the war.

2. That these funds be controlled and expended through the regular highway agencies of the states and the federal government, and that no new federal agencies be created or empowered to handle such work.

3. That the funds so authorized be allotted among all the states on some equitable fixed formula to the end that each state will know as soon as the act is passed the approximate amount of such funds it will receive, and plan accordingly.

4. That the funds so authorized be available for expenditure in the improvement of state primary roads, secondary roads and municipal streets.

5. That the work be done under contracts let at open, advertised, competitive, public bidding, to the lowest responsible bidder, and based on fixed, definite plans and specifications, thus avoiding and preventing the confusion, delay, waste and extravagance of work done without adequate plans and specifications, or with no plans and specifications.

6. That the Congress take immediate action on this matter to the end that time may be had to make surveys, prepare plans, secure rights of way, and get ready to let contracts and start construction promptly when the war is over and unemployment becomes acute.

7. That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Senators and Representatives in Congress from the State of Iowa, and to Honorable Kenneth McKellar, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, and Honorable J. W. Robinson, Chairman of the House Committee on Roads, of the National Congress.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE STATE BANKING BOARD

HONORABLE HENRY W. BURMA

Speaker of the House of Representatives

State House

Des Moines, Iowa.

Sir: There is respectfully submitted to you with this the report of Findings and Recommendations of the State Banking Board to the Fiftieth General Assembly as to licensees operating under the supervision of the Department of Banking as Chattel Loan Companies under Section 419.1, Code of Iowa, 1939. This is in fulfillment of the obligation of the State Banking Board to thus report.

M. W. ELLIS, Superintendent.

M. W. Ellis—LH

Department of Banking, State of Iowa—to the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa: Report of Findings and Recommendations of the State Banking Board, based upon 1942 operations of Chattel Loan Licensees, as required under section 9438.13 of chapter 419.1, Code of Iowa, 1939, Des Moines, March the Eighth, 1943.

To the Fiftieth General Assembly:

The 137 licensed lenders operating under chapter 419.1, Code of Iowa, 1939, have furnished sworn statements made on blanks furnished by the department of banking from which the data herein submitted has been taken. Since the last report to the General Assembly examinations of all lenders have been made periodically. The staff of the department has kept in close touch with the lenders and has been familiar with their operations.

The data accumulated during the nine years these lenders have operated under license from the department of banking under the present law becomes increasingly helpful in justly appraising their operations and in determining the maximum rate to be permitted.

Schedule B is a comparative consolidated balance sheet of the 137 licensees.

Schedule D is a reconciliation of surplus.

Table 3 shows that of the 137 licensed offices 108 are owned and operated by Iowans employing local capital and that 75% of the total resources are represented in these companies indicating that it is a home owned business giving employment to our own people and capital. Total assets available are more than ample for the loans made as shown in table 4.

Tables 5 and 6 show the dollar value and number of balances classified by size as well as the percentage each classification is to the whole.

Table 8 discloses the number and amount of all delinquencies showing this amount to be less than 12% of which only 3.5% is more than one month overdue.

Excellent cooperation has been extended the department of banking in its requirement that loans be made upon a regular reduction basis. The major number of loans are repayable in monthly installments with the average length of loan less than eleven months. Only 2.3% of the loans outstanding at the end of 1942 were not being thus regularly reduced. Shortening the time required for repayment is the most effective method of reducing the cost to the borrower. The average borrower, of course, finds it easier to pay interest only, but with the proper attitude on the part of the lender he can be encouraged and required to make principal payments monthly and thus work himself out of debt. The length of loans has been steadily reduced over the years. The accompanying saving to the borrowing public is undoubtedly sounder both from a social and economic standpoint than rate reduction.

At its meeting December 4, 1941, the state banking board unanimously adopted the following resolution rescinding effective December 31, 1941 all existing rules and regulations affecting the lenders licensed under this chapter, thereby placing complete reliance in the law itself.

"Whereas, The small loan licensees in their last annual convention adopted the following code of ethics:

1. The foundation of the personal finance business is confidence, which depends upon efficient service and fair dealing.

2. The business should be maintained as a constructive agency in community life, affording considerate and responsible sources of credit for those without bankable security.

3. Personal finance facilities should be conserved for such constructive or emergent purposes as will result in improvement of the financial circumstances of customers.

4. The states should enact and maintain adequate laws to regulate and supervise this business, and to encourage and safeguard investment of capital with due regard for the public interest.

5. Members should assist and cooperate with proper authorities in the effective enforcement of laws governing the business.

6. Members should support and cooperate with better business bureaus, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, credit associations, welfare societies, and other public service agencies striving to better economic and social conditions.

and further adopted the following standards of business conduct:

1. Members will explain fully to customers the actual cost, terms, and contractual obligations of loan transactions.

2. Members will use in all loan transactions, written instruments as simple, lucid, and unambiguous as circumstances will permit and will draw such instrument with a view to the bona fide application of these standards of business conduct.

3. Members will transact all business in such manner as to merit the respect and confidence of customers and the public.

4. Members will resort to legal process for collection only in the event of misrepresentation, fraud, or willful refusal to comply with the terms of the contract.

5. Members will adhere to generally accepted standards of business deportment in competitive relations, in advertising, and in their dealings with the public.

6. Members will cooperate with supervising officials and other public authorities in the enforcement of laws and regulations, and will seek to secure universal observance of these standards and principles throughout the personal finance business.

"Whereas, The licensees have demonstrated over a period of years a sincere attitude of conformity with the provisions of the statute and the principles of business conduct outlined above.

"Whereas, The provisions of chapter 419.1 are sufficient to adequately regulate and supervise this business, and the language is clear, understandable, and easily interpreted on all essential and important points; i. e.

1. Only remedial and helpful loans are authorized to assist needy borrowers in liquidating burdensome debts.

2. Licensees will not contribute to, nor help in any manner to create the need for any loan.

3. No fee or anything of value will be offered to anyone for soliciting loans or recommending a loan service.

4. No personal solicitations will be made. All individual contacts will be restricted to explanation and counsel in response to an inquiry.

5. The place of business for making loans will be recognized as being strictly limited to the specific address incorporated in the license.

6. Advertising will be dignified, clear, understandable, and fair in all statements of rates, terms, and loan plans. Care will be used at all times to avoid the possibility of misleading anyone either through the language or appearance of the advertisement.

"Therefore Be It Resolved, That all Rules and Regulations contained in General Order No. 1, dated July 10, 1936, and Supplement thereto dated August 3, 1936, be hereby repealed and rescinded effective December 31, 1941."

The experience before and since has been that the department has had the perfect cooperation of the lenders with practically no complaints from borrowers.

During the two year period since the last report to the General Assembly consideration has been given to the demand represented by the needs of our people and to the availability of private capital to meet the need. Consideration has also been given to the cost of operation of the licensees to determine the percentage of profit possible in an efficiently operated office.

We find that licensees not only provided capital to care for the demand during the year but maintained ample cash on hand as further evidence of their willingness to care for additional needy borrowers.

Our findings indicate that all offices are operated fairly and practically all efficiently and that expenses and costs parallel standards recognized as good business.

In 1942 the consolidated operation resulted in an average net profit of 5.4% as compared with 7.29% in the last report. In our opinion this is not an excessive return upon capital engaged in business containing the hazards incidental to lending money to the type of borrowers serviced by these lenders and that the rates in effect produce as low a rate "as will induce efficiently managed commercial capital to enter such business in sufficient amounts to make available adequate credit facilities to individuals without the security or financial responsibility usually required by commercial banks." (Section 9438.13-1-b)

Taxes paid by the licensees have increased yearly and represented 11.69% of gross income in contrast to 9.96% for 1940 as shown in the last report.

Under present conditions and restrictions of the Federal government the volume of this type of loans has decreased causing the number of licensees to drop from 168 in 1942 to 137 in 1943. Eliminations through sale accounted for 15 less licensees while 16 ceased to operate.

As a result of our findings we recommend the continuance of the present legal maximum rate of 3% a month upon the unpaid portion of loans not in excess of $150 and 2% a month upon the unpaid portion of the loans over $150 and not exceeding $300. The present permitted charge does not cover the cost of the loans under $75, which comprise approximately 30% in number and 12% in amount of loans made. We believe a reduction of rates at this time would adversely affect the industry and leave the needy borrower without a legal source of credit.

The tables submitted with this indicate that the licensees are operating within the purview of the law and that they have accepted the moral and social responsibilities created thereby.

Respectfully submitted,

M. W. ELLIS,

Ex-Officio Chairman.*

AMENDMENTS FILED

The committee on schools and textbooks filed the following amendment to House File 300:

Amend by striking therefrom, Article VI, pages 276 to 289 inclusive, of Chapter V, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

ARTICLE VI

Teachers' Contracts

Sec. 561. Definitions. The following definitions shall be applicable to this article only:

The term "teacher" shall mean a person employed full time in the public schools of the state, who is required to secure a certificate from the department of public instruction as a condition of such employment.

The term "school year" shall mean actual service of not less than one hundred eighty (180) days including leaves of absence.

The term "school district or districts" shall mean any public school corporation of this state.

The term "insubordination" shall mean willful refusal, or habitual neglect, to obey the school laws of the state or reasonable rules concerning the school work of the teacher, prescribed by proper authority, for the government of the public schools of the district concerned.

The term "other good cause", as used in connection with grounds for termination of a teacher's contract, shall mean any cause, other than those specified in section 570, which is inimical or detrimental to the general welfare of the school or the pupils thereof, but shall not include personal, political, or religious reasons.

Sec. 562. Continuous—how attained—termination—notice—method of service. Contracts with teachers shall remain in force and effect for the time stated in the contract and shall be automatically continued thereafter on the terms fixed in the contract, unless the board, by a majority vote of the full membership thereof, shall by resolution made of record terminate said contract on or before April 15 of any school year. The board shall cause written notice of said intention to terminate the contract at the close of the school year to be served upon the teacher by the secretary of the board, or his agent, giving the notice to the teacher to whom it is addressed or mailing the notice by registered mail to the teacher at his last known address.

Sec. 563. Notice of salary for ensuing year. Each board of directors shall cause written notice to be given annually not later than April fifteenth, to each teacher serving under a continuing contract valid for the ensuing year, as to the salary to be paid the teacher during such year.

Sec. 564. Record of service of notice. The secretary shall enter in the record book of the minutes of the board on the margin of or immediately following the minutes of the meeting at which the termination of said contract was authorized, his certificate as to the service of the said notice and an exact copy of the notice. Failure to make such entry shall not invalidate giving of notice if the same was actually served.

Sec. 565. Termination of contract by teacher—notice. A teacher serving under continuous contract may terminate his contract at any time between the end of the school year and the fifteenth of July next following by giving written notice of such termination to the secretary of the board. Between the fifteenth of July and the beginning of the next school year and until the end of the school year, the teacher may not terminate his contract except by consent of the board. However, nothing in this act shall prohibit a teacher from serving notice on the board during any school year of his intention to terminate his contract at the end of the school year next ensuing, provided such notice shall have been served prior to July fifteenth.

Sec. 566. Unlawful termination of contract by teacher—penalty. Any teacher who terminates his contract in any manner other than as provided in the preceding sections shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and upon the facts concerning said breach of contract being certified by the board to the state board of public instruction, the said state board shall have the authority to suspend the teacher's certificate for not more than six months.

Sec. 567. Unlawful termination of contract by teacher leaving the state—penalty. Any teacher who unlawfully terminates his contract and takes a position outside the state shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and upon the facts concerning said breach of contract being certified to the state board of public instruction, the said state board shall have the authority to suspend the teacher's certificate and upon his reentry into the state, if such suspension has been made, such suspension shall not be rescinded until he shall have been in residence in the state for at least six months.

Sec. 568. Mutual termination of contract. Any contract between a teacher and a school district may be terminated by mutual consent of the parties thereto, notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 569. Teacher may not waive rights. No teacher may waive any rights or privileges under this act either orally or in any written contract made with a district; nor shall any contract with a teacher contain any statement providing a penalty for the termination of such contract other than those provided in this act. In the event that any section or sections of a contract entered into between a teacher and a controlling board make continuance of employment of such teacher contingent upon certain conditions which may be interpreted as contrary to the reasonable and just causes for dismissals provided by this act, such section or sections of a contract shall be invalid and of no effect in relation to determination of continuance of employment of such teacher.

Sec. 570. Termination of contracts for cause—grounds. The contract of a teacher may be terminated in the manner herein prescribed by a majority vote of the entire membership of the board, for the following reasons: incompetence, neglect of duty, insubordination, immorality, or any other good cause.

Sec. 571. Method of terminating contract for cause. Proceedings for the termination of a teacher's contract for cause shall be commenced only by filing with the secretary of the board, full and detailed specifications in writing and under oath, of the charges alleged to constitute the ground or grounds for such termination.

Sec. 572. Time of filing charges. Charges against a teacher may not be filed during the summer vacation, except when a teacher has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude subsequent to the end of the school year. If the charges pertain to the quality of the professional services of the teacher, they must be filed more than sixty days before the end of the school year.

Sec. 573. Charge not to be made public—exception. The teacher concerned may inspect the charges filed but the said charges shall not be divulged to the public.

Sec. 574. Preliminary consideration of charges. Upon the filing of charges against a teacher, the board, within ten days of the date of such filing, shall meet in executive session, if such charges are sufficient to warrant a hearing thereon, and the teacher shall be forthwith advised of the decision of the board.

Sec. 575. Effect of failure to consider. Failure of the board to take such preliminary action upon charges so filed, within the said ten-day period, shall operate as a dismissal of said charges. If the board determines that the charges filed do not warrant a hearing, such determination shall constitute a dismissal of the charges.

Sec. 576. Hearings on termination for cause—time of hearing set—notice to teachers—service thereof. If the board determines that the charges filed are sufficient to warrant a hearing thereon, it shall forthwith set a date for such hearing, which shall be within fifteen days of the date upon which the board determines the charges sufficient to warrant a hearing.

The secretary or his agent, at least ten days before the date set for said hearing, shall serve upon the teacher concerned, written notice of the time and place of hearing, to which notice shall be attached a complete and correct copy of the charges filed, by personally handing the notice to the teacher to whom it is addressed, or mailing the notice by registered mail to the teacher at his last known address, and the secretary shall make a record of the service of said notice as provided in section 564.

Sec. 577. Manner of conducting hearing. The hearing shall be conducted by a majority of the full membership of the board, presided over by the president or, in the absence of the president, by a president pro tempore, and shall be held in private except by mutual consent of the parties.

Sec. 578. Nature of evidence. The evidence produced must be oral or documentary, and strictly confined to the specifications set out in the charges filed, and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer to enforce this requirement by appropriate rulings upon evidence offered, either with or without objections being made. No evidence may be offered by deposition.

Sec. 579. Record of proceedings—copy to teacher. The board shall provide for the making of a complete stenographic report of the hearing by a certified shorthand reporter of the state of Iowa, if one be obtainable within a reasonable distance and without undue delay, otherwise by other competent and disinterested person. A complete copy of said record with copies of exhibits, if any, shall be furnished to the teacher, free of cost, within ten days after the end of the hearing.

Sec. 580. Presence of teacher—counsel—witnesses—record. The teacher shall have the right to be present at the hearing, to be confronted in person by the witnesses against him, to be represented by counsel, to have the board require the attendance of his witnesses and production of documentary evidence, to cross-examine witnesses and to make a record of the proceedings.

Sec. 581. Oath of witnesses—administration—perjury. All witnesses shall be placed under oath which oath may be determined by any member of the board or the secretary thereof. Any one swearing falsely under such oath shall be guilty of perjury and punished accordingly.

Sec. 582. Witnesses subpoenaed—number. The secretary shall issue subpoenas for witnesses and documentary evidence to be called in support of the charges filed and for such witnesses and documentary evidence as the teacher may request to have subpoenaed, in the same manner as in civil cases, and such witnesses shall receive the same compensation and mileage. The number of witnesses on each side shall be limited to six.

Sec. 583. Failure to obey subpoena—contempt. The secretary shall certify the failure of any person to obey such subpoenas, to the district court of the county in which such person resides, and such court, unless good cause is shown to the contrary, shall compel attendance of the person by attachment proceedings in the same manner as for contempt.

Sec. 584. Decision of board—entry in minutes. Within three days after the hearing is ended, the board shall decide by motion and roll call duly entered in the minutes, if the charges proved are sufficient to warrant the termination of the teacher's contract; and if a majority of the full membership of the board decides that the charges have been sustained and are sufficient to warrant termination of the contract, the board shall direct the entry upon its minutes of an order terminating the contract.

Sec. 585. Notice of decision to teacher—record of service. If the decision of the board is made in the absence of the teacher and his counsel, the secretary or his agent shall forthwith notify the teacher, in writing, of the decision in the same manner as notice of hearing is given as provided in section 564 hereof, and the secretary shall make a record of the service of said notice as provided in section 564 hereof.

Sec 586. Costs—judgment for—stay on appeal. If the teacher's contract is terminated, the district and the teacher shall each pay one-half the costs of the hearing, not including the cost of the reporter or transcript, which shall be paid by the district. If the teacher's contract is not terminated, the district shall pay all the costs of the hearing. If any costs for which a teacher is liable remain unpaid ten days after notice of the decision of the board has been given to the teacher, the secretary of the board shall file a transcript of said costs in the office of the clerk of the district court. The clerk of the district court shall thereupon enter judgment thereon in favor of the persons entitled thereto and against the teacher, which judgment shall be collected as in civil cases. In case of appeal by the teacher from the decision of the board, execution for costs may be stayed by the teacher's filing supersedeas bond as in appeals to the supreme court.

Any costs for which the district is liable shall be forthwith paid by the district upon the termination of the hearing or appeal.

Sec. 587. Appeal by teacher. The teacher may appeal from the decision of the board to the county board of education, within thirty days of the receipt of notice of the decision of the board of directors, in the manner provided for appeals in section 419.

Sec. 588. Appeal by district. The employing district may appeal from the decision of the county board of education to the state superintendent of public instruction in the same manner as the teacher may so appeal under the provisions of section 322.

Sec. 589. Time of termination of contract. In case of termination of a teacher's contract after due hearing, as herein provided, the contract shall terminate immediately upon the decision of the board being made known to the teacher.

Sec. 590. Suspension of teacher pending hearing. Upon the decision by the board that charges filed against a teacher warrant a hearing thereon, the board, if the charges are based upon alleged immorality or insubordination or if the presence of the teacher would be inimical to the welfare of the students, may forthwith suspend the teacher pending final action to terminate his contract.

Sec. 591. Expunging record if charges not confirmed. If the decision of the board, after hearing, is against termination of the contract, the charges and record of the hearing, if any has been held, shall be physically expunged from the minutes upon the request of the teacher, otherwise they shall remain a part of the official record of the district.

Sec. 592. Payment of salary if charges not confirmed. In case charges are not confirmed and the teacher has been suspended pending the hearing, he shall be paid his full salary for the period of such suspension.

Sec. 593. Leaves of absence—voluntary. Upon written request of a teacher, a board may grant him a leave of absence for a maximum period of two consecutive school years for educational or professional purposes. Where the basis of request for leave of absence is physical or mental disability, the board may grant such leave for all or any part of said maximum period. Upon subsequent request such leave may be renewed by the board in its discretion.

Sec. 594. Leave of absence on account military service. Any teacher becoming a member of the armed services of the United States of America, or any of the auxiliaries thereof, shall be entitled to a leave of absence for the period of such active service. A teacher employed to replace one granted a leave of absence to enter the armed services of the United States of America or any auxiliary thereof, shall not acquire the right to a continuous contract during such employment.

Sec. 595. Leave not prejudicial to contract status. All leaves of absence shall be without prejudice to the contract status held by the teacher at the time of taking said leave.

Sec. 596. Reduction of number of teachers—reasons for superintendent's recommendation. When, because of a substantial decrease in the enrollment of pupils, bona fide curriculum modifications, suspension of schools, territorial changes affecting the district, or reorganization of the district, a board determines that it is necessary to reduce the number of teachers, it shall have full authority to do so, any provisions to the contrary notwithstanding. In making adjustment for the reasons above set forth, the superintendent shall recommend to the board the contracts to be terminated, and the board shall act in compliance with such recommendation.

Sec. 597. Necessary reduction in personnel—first vacancy. Any teacher employed on a continuing contract whose services are terminated because of a necessary reduction in personnel shall be tendered a contract for the first vacancy in the school district for which he is qualified and certified, and upon acceptance shall resume the contract status formerly held.

Speaking in tribute to the late Edwin A. Moore, Senator Robert C. Reilly made the following remarks:

MR. CHAIRMAN, MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE: It is to me a very rare privilege to come back to the House as a member of the Senate and present Assembly to say a few words on behalf of Dr. Edwin Moore. I was privileged to serve with him in the Forty-eighth General Assembly. Four years ago tonight, or about this same time, at a memorial session, he rose to speak on behalf of a late brother of mine who served with him in the Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh General Assembly.

If there are any of his family here this evening, or his friends from Harlan, Shelby county, I wish to say that Dr. Moore was one of the most sincere, intelligent representatives of his constituents. He was a sincere legislator and a fine man.

Honorable Ed R. Browne of Polk county delivered the following address:

MR. CHAIRMAN, MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE, AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Every day brings forth the continued strife between right and wrong; between good and evil. Some days the evil prevails and on other days the good, and by the accumulation of a greater number of days in which the good prevails we have what we cherish in life and in death as the monuments erected to better lives.

A paramount reason for extolling the virtues of one who has lived the ordinary span of life and passed on is that those who survive may emulate the true character, integrity, loyalty, and the good deeds of the departed.

The history of Iowa has been one of continued progress in righteousness and right living—evidenced in the building of homes, churches, and schools, and the maintaining of good government, and the building of those stable and staunch characters which have made Iowa an outstanding state in the Union.

Tonight we reflect upon the progress of Iowa during the nearly forty years covered by the period of those we honor, beginning with Mr. John Lister in the Thirtieth General Assembly in 1904, down to and including that of Dr. E. A. Moore in the Forty-ninth General Assembly in 1941, and we can point with pride to the advancements of the people which have been made in legislation for the betterment of the people of our great state.

Very few of the men whose eulogies we have heard read this evening were personally known to us who are present—in my own instance, only Mr. Gissel of Buchanan county, and Dr. E. A. Moore of Shelby county, with both of whom I had the privilege of serving. True, no one of these men, or the colleagues of their time did everything that has been helpful—nor did those who served before them, nor those who serve now close the gates of progress or stop the demand for higher and nobler purposes in legislation. They did, however, in their day and generation, honestly and faithfully discharge the duties which devolved upon them as members of this great legislative assembly and made their contributions of intelligent endeavor and sacrificial service which in the aggregate constitute our sum total of good government.

We have but to refer to some of the things accomplished in the last forty years, the period of time during which these men whose memory we honor tonight served. During the administration of Albert B. Cummins, who was governor in 1904 and later a United States senator, the great legislative battle was the freeing of the state from the claimed domination of the railroads. One of the measures adopted during his administration made it illegal for certain officials to use railroad passes.

The legislators during the administrations of Governors Harding, Kendall, and Hammill served in strenuous times—before, during, and after World War One. Iowa's contribution of men and material to the war was under the direction of Governor Harding. Following the Armistice, Kendall and Hammill guided the ship of state through the shoals of inflation and the strenuous days of deflation.

We came on to 1931 when the depression was at its worst and the tax burden was one of the major problems challenging the people of Iowa. By legislative enactment, supported by stern necessity, thirty million dollars were taken off of the tax burden of this state during the Turner administration. You will remember that during that administration we had several groups of citizens of this state come to the General Assembly in force. I remember particularly when the farmers of north-west Iowa came to the state house and took possession of it in an attempt to enforce their demands for certain legislation which they thought at that time they should have, and during that time you will remember that we had what we called then the "cow war" which was finally peacefully settled and adjusted.

Growing out of the dire experiences of those days came the social welfare demands, including old age assistance, unemployment relief, and homestead tax exemption, and part of these demands were added demands which you gentlemen of the House, and the gentleman who is here from the Senate, find now in your laps only partially solved. There was also the battle for creating the farm-to-market roads, and that battle raged in the Forty-seventh General Assembly—and when I say "raged", I mean it "raged". We didn't get any farm-to-market roads until a later session. It honestly raged. I don't mean to make any reflections upon anybody about the farm-to-market program, but that is just an incident in connection with the time these men served.

There was also under the administration of Governor George A. Wilson a legislative program which provided the funds for farm-to-market roads and legislation which brought about the consolidation of the state boards, bureaus, and commissions. During these many years, many other matters were considered, such as the "mud roads" fight. I presume Mr. MacFarlane, a member of this present session who was in that session, was in that fight; maybe there are some others that were here. That was also a fight, but out of it came the building of our extensive and substantial primary road system.

A great many other things which seemed important—some of which were important—were considered during the legislative service of these men whose memories you honor tonight by these resolutions. A few of the things representing the progress of civilization which have, in the course of time, necessitated attention and legislative enactment are the airplanes (and I understood you had that in your consideration today), and the pipe lines, busses, the enlargement of the state institutions and educational facilities, including consolidated schools and other matters of very great importance. These men served honestly and faithfully, and supported those principles which in their consciences they determined to be right and which tended towards the betterment of mankind and the making of Iowa the best state of the Union in which to live.

Do not conclude from what has been said about these men, or what I have said about the problems that challenged legislators in times gone by, that we have arrived at the end of the road of progressive endeavor. It is not so. Great social and economic problems will, in succeeding sessions of the legislature, have to be considered and wisely decided, and you men and women who today feel that you are in the throes of some anxiety and some effort in connection with the solution of the problems which now confront you in this legislature have but to read tonight's paper to know that the whole face of the globe, as we take a kaleidoscopic view of it, shows that tomorrow may change the whole front of social and economic activity. And as this war progresses, we will find that what, in the years gone by, we considered as tremendous problems weighting us down apparently beyond our strength to sustain, were mere trifles in our life's activities and that, as the great burden of the solution of this war and its incident problems roll upon us, we must with fortitude and trust in God Almighty believe that out of it all will come not only a better world for our people, but for all the peoples everywhere regardless of creed or color or race.

We can be proud of Iowa, that we never have had a great public scandal. The men and women who have served our state and our local governments have been of that type and character that we are proud to name them as having been participants in the development of this great state.

So, while there has been nothing spectacular in Iowa's governmental affairs, the record of the progress of this state since its admission shows that such government is founded upon the rock of justice and integrity and of religious fervor, the cornerstones of freedom; that we have in this state a people of such character, fortitude, and stability that subversive influences from within or without cannot jar us from the moorings to which our ship of state has been anchored.

Our government is progressive. It demands loyalty and unselfishness, and the constant vigil of the people. The freedom upon which our government is based must not be undermined or destroyed. The causes of liberty, and justice, and righteousness will never die in Iowa, and those who have taken even a small part in building this structure of true democracy in action may join in this ceremony tonight with faith and confidence that what they did contributed to the ultimate whole of peace on earth and good will toward men.

May we emulate in our lives and services the virtues exemplified by our forebears.

I tried to find to quote tonight a poem of John G. Holland's. I am not sure of its correctness but he did say, and it can be said today:

"God give us men.

A time like this demands strong minds,
Great hearts, true faith, and steady hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

And that is really the challenge to this generation of yours and mine, that we stand true to the principles of democracy and not under any circumstances permit our freedoms to be circumscribed or circumvented, nor in any way be deprived of the things which in a democracy make us hold our heads high in the fear of God and without fear of men.

The amount of said credits shall be apportioned and paid by each county treasurer to the several school districts as provided by law for the distribution of other school taxes.

(8) In any county in which is located a special charter city, which levies and collects its own taxes separately from the county, all millage credits and the amount in dollars thereof on approved agricultural land situated in said city in excess of the consolidated state and county levy by the state and said county for the taxing district in which said city is located, but not in excess of the aggregate levy by said city, shall be certified by the county auditor or county treasurer to the treasurer of the said city, who shall in turn credit on said city tax lists against the taxes levied by said city on each approved agricultural land in said city, said excess millage credits so certified to him in the same manner as herein required to be done by the county auditor on the county tax lists. The county treasurer shall pay to the city treasurer out of the funds apportioned to said county from the agricultural land credit fund, the amount of said funds so apportioned in excess of the state and county consolidated levy, which shall be applied upon the taxes on approved agricultural land in said city as herein provided. The intention and purpose of this provision shall be to allot to approved agricultural land located in such city, the same proportionate credit received by approved agricultural land in other cities and towns.

(9) If any owner fails to file such statement and designation provided for under this act as herein required, the agricultural land credit for that year in which he fails to file same shall not be allowed.

(10) The owner of any agricultural lands denied credit under the provisions of this act may appeal from the action of the board of supervisors to the district court of the county in which said agricultural land is situated by giving written notice of such appeal to the county auditor of said county within twenty days from the date of mailing of such action by the board of supervisors. Said appeal shall be tried by equitable proceedings, and the decision of the district court shall be final.

(11) the agricultural land credit as provided in this act shall not be made on any lands upon which a homestead credit as provided by chapter one hundred ninety-five (195), acts of the Forty-seventh General Assembly, has been allowed for the same year.

(12) In any case where a portion of the taxes have been paid prior to the time the amount of agricultural land credit on any eligible tract of land as provided herein has been determined, the county treasurer shall credit the amount of such agricultural land credit to which such tract of agricultural land is entitled upon the balance of the taxes due thereon for that year; provided that in case such agricultural land credit exceeds the amount of such balance, the county treasurer shall refund the amount which such agricultural land credit exceeds such balance of said taxes.

(13) "Agricultural lands" as used in this act shall mean and include all tracts of land of ten (10) acres or more lying within any school corporation, school township or school district in this state, which is used exclusively for farm and agricultural purposes and is owned by any individual, person, firm, association, joint stock company, syndicate, co-partnership, corporation, trustee, agency, receiver, or respective legal representative.

(14) Should the provisions for the agricultural land fund as herein set out be declared unconstitutional, then in that event the monies credited thereto shall be transferred to the fund created by section one thousand eighty-one (1081) hereof and distributed in the following manner:

(a) Tuition grant. Twenty-five fortieths shall be distributed to the public school corporations of the state on a pro rata basis for the payment of tuition for pupils who attend school in other than their home district where suitable school facilities are not maintained or for other suitable reasons as determined by the rules and regulations of the state board of public instruction.

(b) Transportation grant. Fifteen fortieths shall be distributed to all the public school corporations of the state where pupils are transported, for the payment of transportation costs for pupils living more than a reasonable walking distance from the nearest appropriate school as defined by law and the regulations of the state board of public instruction, on a basis of pro rata costs as determined by the state board, taking into consideration the number of pupils transported, density of pupil-transported population, and other factors beyond the control of the transporting district.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 25

Be It Resolved by the Members of the Senate of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, the Members of the House of Representatives Concurring:

Whereas, The United States of America is engaged in an all-out war against the Axis and in our drive for victory, it is necessary for the United States to furnish a vast amount of military equipment and food for millions of our own sons and daughters in service and in aid of our allies, and

Whereas, It is the first concern of every American citizen to win the war with as little loss of life and in as short a time as possible and then to make a lasting and a just peace, and

Whereas, The federal authorities in their wisdom in an effort to increase the production of military supplies have seen fit to provide on a national basis for a war savings time in accordance with which the schedules of trains and busses, the hours of persons working in defense industries and radio programs are being broadcast on a national basis, and

Whereas, It is the desire of the members of the Fiftieth General Assembly to cooperate with the federal government in the war effort, and

Whereas, The production of food for our sons and daughters in service and our allies during the war and as an instrumentality for maintaining public health and morale for the making of a lasting and just peace are as essential and necessary for the winning of the war and the making of the peace as the manufacture of military equipment, and

Whereas, Iowa is one of the great food producing centers of the world, and

Whereas, During the months of June, July, and August, particularly during the time of cultivation, haying, harvest, and threshing, the adherence to wartime in the production of food will cause the farmers of the state to lose many man-hours at a time when skilled agricultural manpower has been drained to a dangerously low level, and

Whereas, If some solution for the problem of agricultural manpower and the loss of man-hours resulting in adherence to the war savings time is not found for the agricultural states, will result in a substantial reduction in the production of food stuffs, thereby reducing the amount of food available to our soldiers, our allies, and our defense workers which will necessarily retard victory and increase the loss of life, misery and suffering throughout the world, and

Whereas, A change in the business hours of business institutions in agricultural communities and the change of the hours of meeting of the various organizations and social entertainments back to standard time during the months of cultivating, haying, harvest, and threshing will greatly increase the man-hours for the production of food, and tend to, in part, meet the shortage of skilled agricultural labor,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved by the Members of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa: That the governor of the state of Iowa be and he is hereby authorized and requested to issue a proclamation calling upon all business institutions and community organizations in the agricultural centers of Iowa to re-arrange their hours of opening and closing of all business institutions and all the various organizations to re-arrange their hours of meeting during the months of cultivation, haying, threshing, and harvest, to conform with the customary hours of labor of farmers as decreed by the laws of nature and calling upon all agricultural workers as a part of their contribution to the war effort to make any necessary sacrifices during the growing and harvest seasons to the end and purpose that agriculture in Iowa may make the maximum contribution to the feeding of our soldiers, our defense workers, and our gallant allies.

The bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the House and the title was agreed to.

Knowlton of Winneshiek moved that the vote by which House File 300 passed the House be reconsidered, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

Motion prevailed.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

We have in House File 300 a bill embodying high ideals for the improvement of our public schools. It is my considered judgment that the bill fails to more than scratch the surface in meeting the needs of the public schools of Iowa. Had the bill been up for the final passage, I would have been compelled to vote no. I want it distinctly understood that my only reason for voting aye is in the hope that the Senate will remedy the defects to make the bill meet the expectations of the people of Iowa.

A. H. AVERY.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker of the House announced that, as Speaker of the House, he had signed in the presence of the House, the following bills: House Files 76, 183, 205, 242, 260, 283, 393 and 406.

On motion by Whitehead of Dallas, the House recessed until 1:30 p. m. today.

AFTERNOON SESSION

EXPLANATION OF OUR VOTE ON HOUSE FILE 300

In explanation of our vote against the enactment of House File 300, we beg to state:

That when the Forty-ninth General Assembly provided for a commission to revise the Iowa school laws, it was contemplated that such revision would be ready well in advance of the opening of the Fiftieth General Assembly so that it could be studied both by the members of the legislature and by the public. That, however, it was not placed on our desks until this session was more than half over. That it consists of a printed volume of 437 pages. That by that time there had been filed several hundred other bills, which also had a right to our consideration. That there has not been time enough for the school patrons and taxpayers to study this measure. That, however, considerable opposition has already arisen. That the public should have sufficient time to study this measure.

That in our opinion hasty action is not necessary or justified. That Iowa ranks highest in literacy among all the states in the Union. That the proof of the merit of our present school system lies in the result. That we do not ask or suggest that House File 300 be scrapped; but we feel that no evil will befall our school system if we are deliberate in the enactment of this measure and in that way some evil may be averted.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY TE PASKE.
BREDE WAMSTAD.

Wormley of Plymouth, Carlson of Woodbury, Whitehead of Dallas, Wichman of Poweshiek, and Robinson of Delaware offered the following concurrent resolution:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 35

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That whereas the acts of the Forty-ninth General Assembly by chapter three hundred eleven (311) thereof, empowered the supreme court of the state of Iowa to prescribe all rules of pleading, practice, and procedure, and forms incident thereto for all proceedings of a civil nature in all courts of the state, for the purpose of simplifying the same and of promoting the speedy determination of litigation upon its merits, the act providing that said rules shall neither abridge, enlarge nor modify the substantive rights of any litigant; and

Whereas, Such rules were, under the act to be reported by it to the General Assembly within twenty days after the commencement of a regular session for such changes as the General Assembly might enact; and

Whereas, Said rules do abridge and modify the substantive rights of litigants, contrary to the provisions of section one (1) of chapter three hundred eleven (311) of the laws of the Forty-ninth General Assembly; and

Whereas, Said rules, contrary to section two (2) of said laws were not placed in the hands of the legislators in printed form until after the 15th day of February, 1943, or more than a month after the commencement of the regular session of the Fiftieth General Assembly and said rules are not even now presented to the Fiftieth General Assembly as a bill so the rules may be corrected or changed as was duly provided in lines four (4) and five (5) of section two (2) of chapter three hundred eleven (311) of the laws of the Forty-ninth General Assembly, and the Fiftieth General Assembly cannot possibly have the opportunity provided it and expressly reserved to it under said section two (2); and

Whereas, Doubt has risen as to whether the rules do simplify procedure, and the work on the rules was delegated by the court to other committees, and the legislature wishes the right to pass on said rules before they become law;

Be It Therefore Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the supreme court of Iowa be petitioned, and by this resolution is petitioned not to allow said rules to go into effect until July 4th, 1945, or after the Fifty-first General Assembly shall have opportunity to give careful consideration to and make such changes in the rules, all in accordance with provisions duly made in chapter three hundred eleven (311) of the laws of the Forty-ninth General Assembly.

SENATE AMENDMENT TO HOUSE FILE 23

Amend House File 23 by striking section two (2).

REPORT OF DELEGATE TO REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF COUNCIL OF STATE GOVERNMENTS

Shimanek of Jones submitted the following report:

The regional conference on the question of "Post-War Problems in the States" was held at the Palmer House, in Chicago, Illinois, on April 2 and 3, 1943, sponsored by the council of state governments. Delegates were in attendance from eleven mid-western states, representing governors, public officials, and the legislative bodies.

The meeting covered, generally, the post-war problems which will arise in the states; specifically, employment and unemployment; post-war financial stability; the opportunity and responsibility of the states; agriculture; post-war problems facing the state legislatures; post-war educational and welfare facilities; cooperation of business and government; organization and operation of the state agencies for post-war reconstruction and development, each phase being followed by a general discussion, after the presentation of the main problem.

From the discussion presented, it appears that the following problems are likely to be the most serious to be considered:

1. The rehabilitation of the service men, upon their return.
2. Unemployment caused by the conversion of manufacturing of war products to civilian products, and by the return of service men.
3. Financial problems as to relief and unemployment.
4. The handling of an increased educational load in the schools and universities.
5. Maintaining of a market for agricultural products.

The states will have these problems to face, and unless they prepare themselves and make plans now to meet them, some other agency, probably the federal government, will have to come in and take care of them, and then we will be back in the position that we were in during the last few years, with our numerous federal "alphabetical" agencies.

Suggested proposals were made, and while it was not submitted that they were the solution, they were given for consideration; for example; Michigan proposed a housing program as one means of overcoming unemployment. A combined federal and state housing program could be worked out to fill a very definite need, and also give employment. Another proposal was to pay a bonus to returning service men, immediately upon their return, so that they could use the bonus payment to readjust themselves in becoming employed in private industry. Michigan has also set up a post-war reserve fund of fifty million dollars, and an additional construction fund of eight million dollars, for post-war construction of schools and colleges. It is also necessary that the state unemployment fund will have to be in shape to stand a heavy drain.

The post-war problems will be determined to a large extent by plans and actions taken now. With that in view, it was suggested that the state tax structure should be reexamined, with the view of being able to handle future emergencies. It was submitted, but with disagreement from some delegates, that taxes should not be reduced at the present time, but rather that the reserves should be built up and held to take care of the post-war period, while the people in general are in a better position to pay higher taxes.

In the field of agriculture, it was submitted that we will face a probable two to four year period after the war of continual demand; that we must watch and control land speculation, caused by higher prices; that the rehabilitation of men from the service back into agriculture will be a very serious problem, and that some program of stabilization of farm prices and products will have to be followed.

While perhaps no definite answer is given as to just how to handle problems which are sure to arise out of the post-war period, it is presented that these problems will have to be worked out, and that the sooner we begin to plan and prepare for them, the better off we will be when they arise. They must be worked out by all, from every angle, to find the best answer.

Respectfully submitted,

C. F. SHIMANEK, Delegate.

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE ON STATE ACCOUNTING

MR. SPEAKER: The joint committee on state accounting reports as follows: After due examination, review, and consideration of the central accounting system of the state of Iowa, examination of pre-audit and post-audit procedure, examination of various forms, records, and filing systems, and talks with various officers and deputies, we find as follows:

The system now in use is entirely adequate and modern as a whole. However, there may be made several small improvements in the system.

(a) In regard to reconciliation of balances, especially the balances between the treasurer of state and the comptroller.

(b) Recapitulation of some accounts.

(c) Elimination of the pyramiding of receipts and expenditures.

(d) Proper and timely inter-departmental memoranda.

(e) Setting up of unincumbered balances of comptroller's and treasurer's offices for public reports.

These can all be corrected and smoothed up within the departments by the heads of the various departments and their chief clerks.

We, therefore, offer the following recommendations:

First: That the executive council set up a committee on state accounting composed of State Treasurer W. G. C. Bagley, Charles Barber, chief accountant in the state treasurer's office, State Auditor C. B. Akers, T. B. Nicholson, supervisor of audits in the state auditor's office, Comptroller Fred Porter, John Kennedy, deputy comptroller in the state comptroller's office, and the governor as chairman.

Second: That this state accounting committee shall be under the immediate direction of the executive council, and shall be empowered to improve, smooth out, and perfect the accounting system we now have.

Third: That the above mentioned committee be given sufficient time, privilege, co-operation, supplies and assistance by the various departments to enable it to speedily and efficiently do its work.

Fourth:

(a) That the unexpended balance of the $6,000 appropriation made by the Forty-ninth General Assembly which was to be used for investigating state accounting procedure for this biennium be carried over for another biennium.

(b) That the said balance be used by the executive council in payment of expenses, supplies, and extra help of this committee.

(c) That from this sum this committee shall purchase for use in the comptroller's office, an accounting machine that will assist the comptroller in the proper re-capping of his accounts.

Fifth: That the state warrants drawn by the state comptroller for the purpose of transferring funds, reimbursement and refunds between the various departments of state be set apart from the state warrants drawn for regular state expenditures, that the pyramiding of receipts and expenditures may be avoided.

Sixth: That this committee shall make recommendation to the next General Assembly regarding any change in the present laws that may be needed to expedite and perfect the present state accounting system.

C. A. BRYSON, Chairman.

Report adopted.

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE ON STATE ACCOUNTING

Amend the report of the joint committee on state accounting as follows:

Strike out section designated in report as First and insert the following in lieu thereof:

First: That the executive council set up a committee on state accounting composed of the state treasurer and his chief accountant; the state auditor and his supervisor of audits, and the state comptroller and his deputy comptroller of receipts, and the governor as chairman.

Seventh: That a time limit of six months be placed upon all state warrants written by the state comptroller, and treasury checks written by the treasurer of state; that six months after the date of issuance, payment on said state warrants and treasury checks be stopped and voided, and that provision be made for future payment.

Eighth: That the present system of encumbering appropriations is a little bit vague, inasmuch as appropriations are encumbered by estimate, and we recommend that appropriations be divided into allotments for the eight biennial quarters, and that encumbrances be run against these allotments, and liquidated as the claim arises.

Ninth: That an inventory of supplies be taken at regular intervals, and that a copy of said inventory be placed upon the desks of the members of the executive council, and the comptroller.

Tenth: That a destruction list of papers and records be drawn up and agreed upon.

SIFTING COMMITTEE REPORT

MR. SPEAKER: The sifting committee submits the following list of bills to be placed upon the calendar:

S. F. 218 by Hattery.

S. F. 371 by committee on judiciary 2.

Respectfully,

HAROLD FELTON, Chairman.

MR. SPEAKER: Your joint committee on enrolled bills respectfully reports that it has examined and finds correctly enrolled: House Files 138, 348, 210, 218, 244, 275, 282, 344 and 477.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker of the House announced that, as Speaker of the House, he had signed in the presence of the House, the following bills: House Files 138, 348, 210, 218, 244, 275, 282, 344 and 477.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Leave of absence was granted Gardner of Linn on request of Farmer of Linn.

Steinberg of Story moved that the House consider only such bills as are now on its calendar; such appropriation and claim bills as may be sent over by the Senate; the question of concurrence in Senate amendments to House bills, or any conference committee reports.

Motion prevailed.

On behalf of the members of the House, Wormley of Plymouth presented Chief Clerk A. C. Gustafson with a wrist watch, preceding the presentation with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER, LADY AND GENTLEMEN OF THE FIFTIETH GENERAL ASSEMBLY: I am honored on this occasion to be accorded the privilege of presenting a gift to a very fine gentleman who has rendered an excellent service to this body.

As one of the new members, I know that all new members appreciate the good counsel, excellent advice and kind assistance you have given us. I am expressing the sentiments of the older members when I say they too are in accord with our ideas and join in thanking you. Mr. Gustafson, will you please arise.

Gus—we who know you have found you a very good fellow whether wrapped in the shadows of many confusing amendments or sporting with us in pleasure's gay throng. We present you this gift not for its intrinsic value alone, but for the golden memories you may enjoy in the jeweled hours of the days to come.

We, as House members, borrow language from a learned bard when we quote:

"It is better to buy a cheap bouquet
And give to your friend this very day
Than a bushel of roses white and red,
To place on your coffin when you are dead."
May I say in simple language "This is from Us to Gus."

And as the gentleman from Black Hawk now presents this token of time to you we hope and trust that when the hour glass is broken and time here is no more, this watch and its fair face will call to your mind the pleasant memories which we all shall keep locked within the chambers of our hearts.

In reply, Mr. Gustafson addressed the House as follows:

This is a time when deep emotion paralyzes the powers of speech. I wish it were possible for me to adequately express my appreciation and gratitude, not only for this beautiful gift, but also for the generous praise your spokesman has given my work as your chief clerk during this session. It has been a real pleasure to serve you, and if I have pleased you I am happy. One of the great compensations in this work is the feeling that you are doing your work well. You have been most kind, considerate and patient with my humble efforts to do a good job. You have been blind to all of my mistakes, and they have been many; and you have never failed to see and publicize all the things I did right and correctly.

Permit me to digress for just a moment to now publicly acknowledge my deep gratitude for the fine tributes paid me on a morning not long ago when you had a certain bill under consideration. I was purposely absent at that time, but I was informed of the good things you said about me. I appreciate the confidence you had in me by the unanimous vote given this bill but I know, too, that this was not because of personal friendship, but because you felt I could really render a worthwhile service to the state. No matter what the final outcome may be, please be assured of my desire and pleasure to be of any service to you that you may desire.

The host of friends I have made during my service to the state is my most valued possession and to this group I welcome most heartily the new members of this session and I feel a closer bond of friendship with those of you who had served before. I will not need to look at this watch to recall the pleasant memories of this session. They are as permanently engraved in my heart as that which shall be inscribed on this watch. And now as we come to the hour of adjournment and the parting of the ways, may I again thank you, each and everyone, for the very pleasant hours we have had together, and to express the sincere hope that we shall all meet again, under blue skies, free of the dark clouds of war, and peace for all time shall come to all the world. Thank you.

Knudson of Cerro Gordo invited the members of the legislature and their wives to attend the annual governor's day at Clear Lake, Iowa, this summer.

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee on enrolled bills respectfully reports that it has, on this 8th day of April, 1943, sent to the governor for his approval: House Files 138, 348, 210, 218, 244, 275, 282, 344 and 477.

The bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the House and the title was agreed to.

Orebaugh of Polk offered the following resolution:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 36

Whereas, The Fiftieth General Assembly has amended the statutes of the state of Iowa relative to old age assistance, particularly in repealing that part thereof fixing maximum assistance allowed; and

Whereas, Substantial balances exist in old age assistance funds which will be available during the next biennium to supplement the general old age assistance appropriation; and

Whereas, In the opinion of the legislature after due and careful consideration, the needs of an individual in this community, exclusive of other sources of income, far exceeds the funds available from the welfare board for old age assistance; and

Whereas, The statutes of the state of Iowa and of the United States of America permit old age recipients to supplement state aid through wages or salary insofar as the needs of the individual recipient are not exceeded; and

Whereas, Present budget estimates of the state welfare board have not anticipated the needs of old age recipients to the extent of funds and balances available for this purpose; and

Whereas, The legislature is desirous of indicating its intended policy and program in the passage of old age assistance legislation,

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, the Senate Concurring: That it is the intention and policy of this legislature that the state welfare board review as soon as practicable the case reports of all old age assistance recipients, and that their present needs be established on a fair and reasonable basis, taking into consideration the withdrawal of excess commodity food stamps, the increased cost of living and other vital factors, and that these needs be met as nearly as possible by funds and balances available and to become available for that purpose, and that where the needs of an individual exceed the assistance available to him he be permitted to supplement assistance by wages, salary or other sources of revenue to meet said need.

Orebaugh of Polk moved that the rules be suspended and that House Concurrent Resolution 36 be taken up for immediate consideration.

HOUSE REFUSES TO CONCUR IN SENATE AMENDMENTS TO REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE ON STATE ACCOUNTING

On motion by Gardner of Bremer, unanimous consent having been given, the House took up the consideration of the report of the joint committee on state accounting, found on pages 1320 and 1321 of the Journal of April 8, with Senate amendments, and the amendments read and considered.

SENATE AMENDMENTS

Amend the report of the joint committee on state accounting as follows:

Strike out section designated in report as First and insert the following in lieu thereof:

First: That the executive council set up a committee on state accounting composed of the state treasurer and his chief accountant; the state auditor and his supervisor of audits, and the state comptroller and his deputy comptroller of receipts, and the governor as chairman.

Also amend joint committee report by adding the following sections:

Seventh: That a time limit of six months be placed upon all state warrants written by the state comptroller, and treasury checks written by the treasurer of state; that six months after the date of issuance, payment on said state warrants and treasury checks be stopped and voided, and that provision be made for future payment.

Eighth: That the present system of encumbering appropriations is a little bit vague, inasmuch as appropriations are encumbered by estimate, and we recommend that appropriations be divided into allotments for the eight biennial quarters, and that encumbrances be run against these allotments, and liquidated as the claim arises.

Ninth: That an inventory of supplies be taken at regular intervals, and that a copy of said inventory be placed upon the desks of the members of the executive council, and the comptroller.

Tenth: That a destruction list of papers and records be drawn up and agreed upon.

Your message of the completion of your work in the Fiftieth General Assembly has been received by me. I thank you for your efforts in behalf of legislation for the state of Iowa and I assure you that your conscientious consideration of the matters before the legislature are appreciated.

LARS W. BOE

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorating the life, character and public services of the late Honorable Lars W. Boe, begs leave to submit the following memorial:

Lars W. Boe was born on December 27, 1875, in Calumet, Michigan, the son of Reverend N. E. Boe and Anna Reque Boe. His father was pastor at Calumet and later moved to a pastorate at Silver Lake, Iowa. Reverend Boe attended St. Ansgar Seminary from 1890 to 1893; the preparatory department of the U. C. Seminary from 1893 to 1894; St. Olaf College from 1894 to 1898 and the United Church Theological Seminary from 1898 to 1901. His first pastorate was in the country near Lawler, Iowa, from 1901 to 1904. In 1904 Reverend Boe came to Waldorf Academy at Forest City, Iowa, as its first president, and held this position from 1904 to 1915.

It was during this time that Reverend Boe became interested in politics and was a member of the Iowa House of Representatives in the Thirty-third General Assembly and a member of the Iowa Senate in the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth General Assemblies. By that time he was convinced that he must choose between the service of the church and of the state and he chose the church. After serving as Executive Secretary of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Education in the United Church, he was elected president of St. Olaf College in 1918, and continued to hold this position until his death on his sixty-seventh birthday, December 27, 1942.

While serving in the Iowa Legislature, Reverend Boe was actively interested in school legislation, and served as chairman of the committee on schools in the Thirty-sixth General Assembly. He was also active in public health, highway legislation, and the many other questions that were considered in the sessions that he attended.

Reverend Boe was married to Miss Helga Jacobson in 1909. She survives him, together with two daughters, both graduates of St. Olaf College—Miss Esther Boe, a teacher, and Miss Margaret Boe, taking nurse's training at Fairview Hospital, Minneapolis. One brother, Major A. J. Boe, Army Chaplain, and one sister, Mrs. A. M. Sattre of Moorhead, Minnesota, are other immediate relatives.

Lars W. Boe was the recipient of many honors during his career. Roanoke College conferred the degree D.D. on him in 1921, Wittenberg College made him an LL.D. two years later, and King Haakon made him a knight of the Order of St. Olaf in 1926, and commander of the same order in 1940.

We can summarize the life and services of Reverend Boe by quoting the language of Governor Clarke in his inaugural address on January 4, 1915, at the opening of the last session of the Assembly that Reverend Boe attended. In this Governor Clarke said:

"Men of Iowa—living in the best day God ever vouchsafed to humanity—ought to set for themselves a goal toward which, leaving the things which are behind, he can press forward. He ought to be inspired with a vision inviting to fine accomplishment. The man without a vision is a burden."

A final appraisal of the life and service of Lars W. Boe would be that he was a man of great faith and vision. His church and his country, for whom he labored, presented to him wonderful fields of service. To him, America was a country and a nation to love and to cherish. After Reverend Boe was taken sick, the question came up as to the rearrangement of things at St. Olaf to make greater service in the war effort. Even struggling in pain, he had a deep and abiding loyalty for his country. These are the words he spoke:

"If the Government needs and wants St. Olaf for the war effort, let them have it, and let us send our students, if necessary all of them, to the other colleges, and give the Government full control."

He permitted nothing to hinder him from serving his country loyally, even to the end.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, That in the passing of Honorable Lars W. Boe, the state has lost a valued and honorable citizen and the House would tender, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to the surviving members of his family, in their sorrow; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be instructed to send an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.

NORMAN NORLAND,
THEO. KLEMESRUD,
BREDE WAMSTAD,

Committee.

Unanimously adopted,

JAMES FREDERIC CLARKE

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorative of the life, character, and public service of the late Honorable James Frederic Clarke, of Jefferson county, Iowa, begs leave to submit the following:

James Frederic Clarke, Representative from Jefferson county, was born in Fairfield, Iowa, February 23, 1864, and passed away April 12, 1942. His parents, of English descent, were of American nativity. He attended the graded schools, then three years at Parsons College, and later three years at the State University of Iowa, where he graduated with the degree of B.S. in 1886. He graduated from the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania with the degree of M.D. in 1889 and the same year took his Master's degree from the University of Iowa. For two years after graduation he was resident physician in the Philadelphia Hospital, and in 1865 took post-graduate courses in John Hopkins University and in the University of Gottingen, Germany. On the mustering in of the Iowa troops for the Spanish War he was appointed Major and Surgeon of the Forty-ninth Iowa Volunteer Infantry and served throughout the war in the South and in Cuba, a large part of this time on detached service in charge of the medical wards of the Second Division Hospital of the Seventh Army Corps. In the World War he was in command of Unit R, with the rank of Major and sailed for France in February, 1918. At the time of his honorary discharge in 1919, he ranked as Lieutenant Colonel.

In 1900 he was appointed lecturer on Hygiene in the Colleges of Medicine and Dentistry of the State University of Iowa, and in 1901 he was chosen lecturer on bacteriology in Parsons College. He was a member of the American Medical Association. He was for some time first vice president of the Iowa State Medical Association and president of the Des Moines Valley Medical Association and has published many articles on medical subjects. He served one term as mayor of Fairfield, Iowa.

Dr. Clarke was very active in civic affairs until his health failed. In 1901 he married Melinda E. Clapp of Ohio, who survives him. He was elected Representative in 1906 and was a Democrat in politics.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, That in the passing of the Honorable James Frederic Clarke the state of Iowa has lost a valued and honored citizen, and the House belatedly tenders its sympathies to the surviving member of his family.

Therefore, Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be instructed to send an enrolled copy to his surviving wife.

Iowa; Mrs. Homer Miller, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. R. L. Watkins, Anamosa, Iowa; and Miss Vivian Heitland, Toledo, Iowa. Mrs. Emma Bantz Gissel died in 1936. In March, 1938, Mr. Gissel married Mrs. Minnie Nichwoehner, and the couple maintained their home at Sumner for a while and later moved to Hawkeye, Iowa, where they were residing at the time of Mr. Gissel's death.

Mr. Gissel served his state and community well, and took an active and constructive part in civic and public affairs. Always a loyal Democrat and active in affairs of his party, Mr. Gissel was elected to the Legislature in 1930 and served as a member of the Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth General Assemblies and Extra Session of the Forty-fifth. He lived a long, honorable and active life, and will be greatly missed in his community.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That in the passing of the late Honorable W. H. Gissel the state has lost a valued and honored citizen, and the House would tender, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to the surviving members of his family in their sorrow; and

He served as Sunday school superintendent of the Minerva church and also as trustee for many years.

Mr. Maxfield was a member of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges and of the Farm Bureau, and was a director of the Iowa Valley Mutual Insurance Association and secretary of the Marietta Creamery. He was very active in farm bureau work and was a breeder of Aberdeen Angus cattle.

Mr. Maxfield served in the House of Representatives in the Forty-first, Forty-second and Forty-second Extra General Assemblies of the state of Iowa, having been elected on the Republican ticket on the "pay as you go" platform, where he served his state and community well.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That in the passing of the late Honorable Glenmore Maxfield, the state has lost a valued and honored citizen and the Methodist church has lost an active and worthy member, and the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly tenders, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to his surviving widow.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Maxfield and that this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House.

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare suitable resolutions commemorating the life, character and public service of the Honorable Edwin A. Moore, a former member of the Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth General Assemblies of Iowa, begs leave to submit the following memorial:

Edwin A. (Gus) Moore was born in Washington county, Iowa, September 3, 1872, and passed away at his home in Harlan, Iowa, May 25, 1941, at the age of 69 years.

When Dr. Moore was six years old, his father, Dr. Edwin B. Moore, moved to Harlan, and this was his home from that time on. The late Dr. Moore attended Harlan schools and then entered Creighton University. He left Creighton to teach school for three years, then returned to take his medical course and graduated in 1901. After his graduation, Dr. Moore served as railroad physician for the Union Pacific Railroad for two years, and following that started his practice at Harlan and continued there until he passed away.

Dr. Moore is survived by his widow; one son, Rex; one daughter, Margaret; one brother, former state senator, Dr. Morris Moore, Walnut, Iowa; two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Alcorn, Adair, Iowa, and Mrs. Elva Erret, Austin, Minnesota. Another brother, the late Dr. Fred Moore of Des Moines, Iowa, passed away shortly before the death of Dr. Edwin A. Moore. Dr. Fred A. Moore was a man of great ability and nationally known in the medical profession, especially in children's diseases. Dr. Edwin A. Moore was quite ill at the time of his brother's death and never fully recovered from that time on.

Dr. Moore was very active in community affairs and held several county offices. He was especially interested in sports of all kinds, and was a member of the Champion Hose Team of the state of Iowa. He was known all over the state for his golfing ability. In 1934 he was elected to the Iowa Legislature and served three terms in the House of Representatives. He was a member of the Public Health Committee while in the House and in this capacity he rendered various services to the medical profession. It was while he was on this committee that, through his ability, he was instrumental in procuring the passage of the Basic Science Law in 1935. By his death the medical profession lost one of its greatest supporters. In the passing of Dr. Edwin A. Moore, Shelby county has lost one of its leading citizens.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly of the State of Iowa in Regular Session, That in the death of Dr. Edwin A. Moore, the people of Shelby county and of the entire state of Iowa have sustained a great loss.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House, and the Chief Clerk be directed to forward an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.

O. A. ONTJES

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorating the life, character and public service of the Honorable O. A. Ontjes, begs leave to submit the following memorial:

O. A. Ontjes was born May 30, 1877, on a farm in German township, Grundy county, Iowa, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ontjes, early residents of Grundy county, where he spent his early childhood. Later his family moved to Butler county, Iowa, where he attended rural school and the school at Aplington, Iowa.

At the early age of 23, Mr. Ontjes became the manager of the Nye-Schneider Elevator at Parkersburg. From 1903 to 1906 he was engaged in the real estate business in northern Minnesota and during those years he also built the Aplington telephone exchange and rural lines.

In December, 1906, O. A. Ontjes was united in marriage to Miss Sophia Frerichs at Holland, Iowa, where he helped organize the Farmers Savings Bank, serving as cashier and manager for 37 years, which bank rendered helpful service to the people of Holland and is still in operation under its original title. Mr. Ontjes served as mayor of Holland for two terms.

O. A. Ontjes served as Representative from Grundy county, Iowa, in the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Fortieth Extra and Forty-second Sessions of the General Assembly of Iowa. He was Speaker Pro Tempore in the House of Representatives in the Fortieth and Fortieth Extra Sessions. He was a leader of the economy block and his primary aim in public service was to keep down public expenditures and, while he was often on the losing side, his vigilance helped to curb—if not cure—the evils which he worked and fought against. His published suggestions for legislative reforms from time to time brought his name and ideas before the people of his state.

Mr. Ontjes organized the first Federal Farm Loan Association in Grundy county and remained as its directing head until 1940. There was a need for such an association and it expanded and rendered valuable service to the farmers throughout the state and the organization still retains some of the officers which Mr. Ontjes brought to it during the years of his direction.

Mr. Ontjes took an active interest in good roads and was one of the promoters of Primary No. 14 Association and at the last meeting of this organization held in Grundy county he was chosen as its president.

The business career of Mr. Ontjes covered nearly half a century and there were few idle moments for him during all that time. He substituted work for play and seemed to enjoy it, as he took very little time out for recreation.

Mr. Ontjes passed away December 31, 1942. He is survived by his widow and son, Edward Ontjes, now serving his country in the Army Medical Corps. Other members of his family are his sister, Mrs. Peter DeBuhr, Aplington, Iowa; four brothers, Fred A. Ontjes, Mason City, Iowa; Andrew Ontjes, Aplington, Iowa; William Ontjes and John Ontjes, Minneapolis, Minnesota. Another sister, Mrs. Jennie Iblings died several years ago and her son, Herman Iblings, came into the Ontjes home during infancy and grew up there.

O. A. Ontjes has passed out of the shadow into Eternal Day;
Do not call this dying, this sweet going away,
For the memory of his deeds with us lingers still,
It was God's will to call him home,
His holy will be done.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, That in the passing of Honorable O. A. Ontjes, the state has lost a valued and honored citizen and the family a loving husband, father and brother, and the House would tender, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to the surviving relatives in their sorrow; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be directed to send an enrolled copy to each member of the family of the deceased.

Unanimously adopted,

HENRY T. SABERSON

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare suitable resolutions commemorating the life, character and public service of the Honorable Henry T. Saberson, a former member of the General Assembly of Iowa, begs leave to submit the following report:

Henry T. Saberson, son of Torgus and Betsy Saberson, was born in Rock county, Wisconsin, November 28, 1851, his parents having come from Norway in 1839.

In 1875 Mr. Saberson settled in northwest Iowa where he engaged in the hardware business and later associated with a bank as cashier.

He was married March 27, 1879, to Etta Bradfield, daughter of a Christian minister, and also a pioneer of northwest Iowa. Four daughters were born, three of whom with their mother still survive: Mrs. Nina Hohberger and Miss Lulu Grace Saberson, both of Des Moines, Iowa, and Mrs. Ora J. Ryan of San Francisco, California.

Mr. Saberson served in the state legislature as Representative from Buena Vista county during the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth General Assemblies. In 1901 he accepted a position in the office of the secretary of state, which he held 18 years. When the legislature passed the "blue sky" laws, he was appointed special examiner for the executive council. Eight years later he retired.

He was a member of the Capital Lodge No. 110 A.F. & A.M., the Des Moines Consistory and Plymouth Congregational church, and at the time of his death was vice president of the Iowa Pioneer Law Makers Association, and never missed a session of this association until this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Saberson celebrated their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary the day before his death.

He passed away at the age of ninety-one after a two weeks' illness at his home in Des Moines, and was laid to rest in Woodland cemetery.

In his commercial and in his public life he made valuable contributions to the welfare of the state of Iowa and continued his interest in good government and public affairs until the very end.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, That in the passing of the Honorable Henry T. Saberson the state has lost a valuable and honored citizen, and the House would tender by this resolution its sincere sympathy to the surviving members of his family, and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House, and that the Chief Clerk be instructed to send an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.

Unanimously adopted,

STANLEY RULIEF SMITH

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorating the life, character and public services of the Honorable Stanley R. Smith, a former member of the General Assembly of Iowa, begs leave to submit the following memorial:

Stanley Rulief Smith was the third son of James A. and Mary Alice (Crego) Smith, born at Osage, Iowa, on January 5, 1881. After completing his education at the Osage high school and the Cedar Valley Seminary, he attended Grinnell College during the years 1900-1901, and then for the following two years studied law at Iowa University, and was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Upon completion of this work, he entered the services of the James A. Smith Lumber Company, being very active in the establishment of new yards in South Dakota, until 1909, when he purchased a lumber business at Tripoli, Iowa, later on adding a business at Oran, giving these his personal attention until 1919 when he removed to Osage to take the active management of his father's estate.

His business ability was again recognized when in 1934, after the death of its president, F. W. Annis, he was called to the presidency of the Home Trust and Savings Bank of Osage, and after two years failing health compelled him to relinquish this position to other hands, and he was elected vice president of the bank, a position he held at the time of his death. His business ability, especially along banking lines, has long been recognized and his advice was eagerly sought and will long be cherished and remembered.

His desire to be of service soon gained for him other recognitions. He was chosen to represent Bremer county as State Representative for 1917-1918. After his removal to Osage, he was elected its mayor for the term of 1921-1923, exercising these responsibilities to the entire satisfaction of the communities which he served. He was at one time a member of the Republican State Central Committee for the 4th district and state treasurer for the Republican organization for the years 1932-1936.

On February 14, 1912, he was married to Sadie Marie Messinger at Waverly, and they immediately established a home at Tripoli. Here were born their two daughters, Jean Ellen, now Mrs. Elbert L. Willson of Charles City, Iowa, and Ruth Marie of Osage, Iowa, and here it was that many happy years were spent—happy in the service, not alone in the home life, but in the community life as well.

During his lifetime Mr. Smith took an active interest in the lodge life of the community, being a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, Order of Eastern Star, A.F. & A.M. No. 36; and El Kahir Shrine, Cedar Rapids.

During his youth he attended the Sunday school of the Congregational church and later identified himself with that church and was at all times interested in all its activities.

Mr. Smith passed away, after a very brief illness, on June 9, 1942, leaving to mourn his passing his wife; two daughters, Jean Ellen and Ruth; a granddaughter, Sarah Jean; his mother, Mrs. Mary Alice Smith; his brothers, Fred Crego Smith, and Leland A. Smith of Osage, Lloyd C. Smith of Spirit Lake, Richard G. Smith of Los Angeles, California, and Merrill G. Smith of Charles City; and one sister, Mrs. Robert L. Leach of Chicago, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, That in the passing of the Honorable Stanley R. Smith, the state has lost a valued and honored citizen and the family a loving husband and father and the House would tender, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to the surviving widow, mother and daughters in their sorrow; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be directed to send an enrolled copy to the wife, mother and to each of the two daughters of the deceased.

Unanimously adopted,

ALBERT B. WASHBURN

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorating the life, character and public service of the Honorable Albert B. Washburn, begs leave to submit the following memorial:

Albert B. Washburn was born October 28, 1869, on a farm in Winneshiek county, the son of the late John P. Washburn and Ellen Divine Washburn, and passed away at his beautiful farm home near Hastings, Iowa, on September 26, 1942.

Mr. Washburn received his high school education in Winneshiek county schools. He received his preparatory education at Western College, Toledo, Iowa, Coe College at Cedar Rapids, and completed his education at Upper Iowa University at Fayette, Iowa.

On February 26, 1893, he was united in marriage to Mary V. Wearin, daughter of the late Otha and Martha Wortman Wearin, and settled on a farm in Mills county.

To this union were born five children, four of whom preceded their father in death. He is survived by his widow; one son, Henry W. Washburn; two grandchildren, Mary Alice and Albert Theodore Washburn, all of whom reside on the farm homestead near Hastings.

Mr. Washburn owned and operated one of the best farms in the county, yet he was always willing to take his part in public and community affairs, and devoted a good share of his time to the service of others. He also took an active part in church work, serving on the official board of his church in different capacities and acted as chairman of the building committee when the present Methodist church of Emerson was erected.

In politics he was a Republican and served his community and state well, and was honored by serving his county as its State Representative in the Thirtieth and Thirty-first sessions, where he served on many important committees. His legislative record shows his interest in the common man. No citizen of his community was held in higher regard; he was beloved by his friends and neighbors.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Fiftieth General Assembly, That in the passing of the Honorable Albert B. Washburn, the state has lost a valued and honored citizen and the family a loving husband and father and the House would tender, by this resolution, its sincere sympathy to the surviving members of his family in their sorrow, and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be instructed to send an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.
