REMARKS BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy addressed the House as follows:

Thank you Mr. Speaker and ladies & gentlemen of the House. This legislative session we are perfectly poised – perfectly poised to maintain the historic progress we made last year while putting people before politics.

If the Iowa caucuses showed us anything earlier this month, Iowans want us to have a more hopeful, optimistic politics...and we are perfectly poised to do so.

But it will not be easy...it's an election year and we all know it will be easy to slip into partisan politics and negativity....Is it possible we can disagree without being disagreeable?

If we can do this...if we can work together...we can continue to deliver positive things for Iowa.

Last year we made great strides in education, health care, and renewable energy. This year we are perfectly poised to maintain that progress, if we have the will to do so, and we can maintain that progress while still balancing the budget. We will be smart with state's pocketbook.

A word of thanks to those who have served this body well. Two Democrats are running for the lower chamber – the Senate. Representative Jochum and Representative Dandekar – thank you for your service. For the Republicans who will be serving in their last session –

Representative Hoffman, Representative Tomenga, Representative Clute, Representative Boal, Representative Gipp, Representative Greiner, Representative Jacobs and Representative Schickel.

Thank you for your service. To any other Republican who would like to be added to this list...I would be happy to publicly thank you as well.

We are perfectly poised to maintain the progress we made last session while putting people before politics...Now let's roll up our sleeves and get to work.

REMARKS BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Minority Leader Christopher Rants addressed the House as follows:

Thank you Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, friends and families....

It's only the 14th of January and already it's been quite an interesting political year here in Iowa – one full of surprises, excitement, renewed optimism and a few disappointments.

People across the country fixed their eyes on Iowa, waiting to see what we would do in our respective parties to chart the future of the nation by selecting our candidates for the presidency. Now people across our state are fixing their attention on this chamber to see what we will do to chart the future of the state. Will there be surprises? Excitement? Do they have reason to feel optimistic or disappointment?

Across Iowa, while families sat down at the kitchen table and hashed over presidential candidates, they also talked about their fears and hopes. They are worried about their children, wondering if they are getting the kind of education they need for a good job. They worry about how they are going to take care of their parents. And they worry about how they can afford to take care of their own healthcare. They worry about what kind of a world their kids are growing up in.

Parents are right to be worried about the relevancy of their children's education. Particularly because last year Iowa's standards were reduced. For the first time ever, Iowa lowered the bar for teacher standards, and lowered the bar for student performance. All the while our competitors at home and abroad were setting higher expectations. Parents are right to be worried. But we can restore their confidence. Republicans propose that Iowa adopt, for the first time, state wide standards for student achievement, curriculum and proficiency. We believe every student needs access to a curriculum that prepares them for global competition, and that means more math and sciences.

Families are right to be worried about affording health care. For the past year, they have heard all sorts of ideas from candidates promising free health care coverage for the nine percent of Iowans that have none. While candidates focus on those without coverage, what about the 91 percent of Iowans who do have coverage and are more concerned that their costs keep going up? For all the talk we have heard in this state about how poorly the federal government pays our doctors and hospitals for Medicare, the state of Iowa pays even less for Medicaid. And because of this, Iowans pay a 10 percent hidden tax on their health care premiums. Thanks to the actions of this House in 2005 and 2006, we started to address this hidden tax with the provider rate increases we approved. But that progress stopped last year. It's time to give Iowans a break by completing the job and eliminating the hidden health care tax.

The cost of health care is not the only concern of Iowa families. Many our of friends and neighbors are confused and angered when they change jobs or change insurance plans but keep the same insurer and suddenly find their coverage limited or non-existent due to pre-existing conditions. This is a critical issue for Iowans who are nearing retirement and will have to wait several years for Medicare. There is a common sense solution to this which Republicans support...change our insurance laws to prevent this from occurring in the future.

Iowa families also realize that they must be more responsible for their health. Health care costs will continue to rise if we do not start leading healthier lives. That is why Republicans believe that we should come forward with ways to promote wellness activities and to help Iowans manage chronic diseases like diabetes and asthma. We have done this before, in the IowaCare bill passed unanimously in 2005. Unfortunately, putting these programs into place has not been a priority for the Department of Human Services and the costs to taxpayers continue to escalate. Through bipartisanship, we can make wellness and chronic disease management not just a priority for Medicaid or IowaCare, but for all of Iowa.

Property taxpayers are right to be worried – no, not worried – angry about their tax bill. Last year they heard promise after promise that something would be done and every promise was broken. From Governor Culver's promises on the first day of session, to the promises made in this chamber on the last day of session, we all were told that something would be done, yet the only people who have something to smile about are some outside consultants who were handed a blank check to pay for yet another study. This fall however, we learned that property owners are out of time. According to a report by the Legislative Service Agency, we have reached a tipping point. The most telling line of the report is that the next five years will be markedly different from the last five in terms of property taxes. For those of you that haven't read the report, that means if you think your taxes are high now – you ain't seen nothin' yet. If this General Assembly fails to act, homeowners and farmers will see a $500 million tax increase. Let me say that again. Failure to act results in a $500 million tax increase. Now some will want to downplay the report, but we all know what is going on – higher ag prices raise ag land values under the productivity formula for property taxes, and as those rise residential values will be carried up to. If Democrats are content to kick the can down the road yet again, and only plan to study the problem staring them in the face, then please, please, at least agree to not make the problem any worse. Iowa common sense says, when you're in a hole and want to get out – first, stop digging. Sometime in the next 30 days this chamber will set allowable growth, the state aid for school districts. At that same time, we will have the choice to allow school districts to levy more property taxes - $45 million more – or we can decide to have the state pay this cost rather than hitting property owners. Republicans suggest that with the record increase in revenues, the state should pay.

As if worrying about their children's education or how they'll pay their insurance premiums and property taxes at the same time isn't enough – some Iowans are worried that they are going to see one more expense added to their family's budget – dues withheld from their paycheck to support a union they choose not to belong to. Mr. Speaker, this is the most divisive issue that was placed before this chamber for debate last year, and it would have the most devastating impact on Iowa's fragile economy. We can spend the next 100 days moving chess pieces around, trying to prepare for this debate – one that would surely destroy any semblance of bipartisanship for the session. Or – you have the power to dispose of the issue today, and take SF413, the so-called "Fair Share" bill that guts our Right to Work Law off the table for discussion this year. Members of my caucus will not support this bill, and there are members of your caucus that don't want to vote on it. Even Samuel Gompers, the founder of the American Labor movement said "there may be here and there a worker who for certain reasons... does not join a union of labor. It is his legal right and no one can or dare question his exercise of that legal right." Mr. Speaker, tabling this bill for the year is the bipartisan thing to do.

Many of these issues we could have predicted would be around when we adjourned last year. But there is one that has cropped up anew – and that happened when a single Polk county judge threw out the will of this body and nullified our law declaring marriage to be between one man and one woman. Traditional marriage is an institution that this chamber has twice, in bipartisan fashion, protected with overwhelming majorities. Yet today one judge has turned Iowa law upside down and inside out, in a way that the elected representatives would never think to do. Mr. Speaker, you have a choice. You can let this stand, and by inaction the majority party will affirm what this one judge has done. Or you can bring up for a vote a bill or resolution that would overturn this ruling. In fact, HJR 8, with 48 bipartisan co-sponsors is sitting in Judiciary Committee ready for action. I know that the quick and casual answer is to say we don't have time, we'll let the courts sort it out. But Mr. Speaker, we do have the time. If this chamber can spend an hour debating the merits of registering propane tanks, then surely there is one hour, out of 100 days that we can debate the merits of marriage. That's all I'm asking for, one hour to debate and vote. This is a bipartisan issue – members of both caucuses are on record supporting such a resolution. I don't think that's asking too much to protect this sacred institution.

Ladies and Gentlemen, it's costing more and more just to be middle class in Iowa. Both spouses are already working. They are already stretching just to pay the mortgage and health insurance – not to mention things like paying off student loans and setting aside just a bit for retirement or savings. They don't need their state government setting them up for a tax increase. The facts speak for themselves. A irresponsible billion dollar increase in spending last year. A half a billion dollar property tax increase on the horizon. New property tax levies. The threat of forced union dues coming out of their paychecks. An interim committee that proposes new taxes on health care services. And last week the governor proposed taking away their largest tax deduction. Middle class Iowans can't afford what the governor and this legislature are laying in front of them. We can do better, and it can be done in a bipartisan fashion.

Teddy Roosevelt once said, "Rhetoric is a poor substitute for action, and we have trusted only to rhetoric. If we really want to be a great nation, we must not merely talk; we must act big." Roosevelt's axiom applies to our state as well. Be it affordability and portability of healthcare, raising educational standards, or property tax relief – the time for talk is over, its time to act. Mr. Speaker, Republicans are ready to go to work.

REMARKS BY THE SPEAKER

Speaker Murphy addressed the House as follows:

Since I have mentioned this person by name during the past two sessions, and before I welcome you all back today, the first thing I would like to say is welcome back to a member who has served our country abroad for the last two years. Representative Zirkelbach, welcome back.

Now to the rest of you, welcome back, it is time for us to go to work.

Last year when Democrats took control we talked about our Plan for Prosperity, which targeted a number of things we thought we needed to do to push this state forward. One of them was the Power Fund to make Iowa the renewable fuels leader of the world. We passed the Power Fund bill last year. But the first bill that we did last year was raising the minimum wage, a bipartisan effort to help middle-class families, which went into full effect earlier this month.

We also focused on early childhood so four-year olds would have access to education. We focused on teacher quality so we could raise teacher pay from forty-second to twenty-fifth in the nation. We wanted to focus on higher education. The previous five years saw a ninety per cent increase in tuition at our Regents universities. Last year, with the work that we did, the Board of Regents raised tuition by three per cent, two tenths of a per cent below the inflation rate and the lowest tuition increase in twenty-seven years. Along with that, we also focused on what would help middle class families. We passed the small business health insurance bill that was a very bi-partisan effort to offer some new incentives to help small businesses offer health insurance to their employees. We had a tough vote on the tobacco tax, but we put all that money into health care. The Department of Human Services reported that about seventeen thousand more Iowan's had access to health care due to the initiatives this legislative body passed.

But, we also could not forget the veterans. There were numerous bills that we ended up passing last year to address some of the veterans concerns as they arose from people coming back from Iraq and Afghanistan.

Then there were those things that we didn't accomplish. One of those was property taxes. This year we have an interim committee that Representatives Wise, Shomshor and Olson have worked on, and I know it is a two-year study, but we are hoping this year we will be able to come up with a bi-partisan effort to do some things in the areas of commercial and industrial property taxes to help businesses in this state so they can help middle class families.

This year, we need to focus on our commitments made last year. Continue our focus on early childhood, teacher quality and higher education. We need to make sure that we make higher education affordable to middle class families. We need to make sure that teachers are treated with the respect they need, especially when you think of the fact that we rank statistically in the top five or ten categories in almost every performance measure that is judged by what our children achieve.

We also have an interim committee that dealt with health care. I know everybody has referred to it as Senator Hatch's committee. But, I know there are five legislators in this chamber that worked on that bill and will be coming to us with recommendations they passed last week to help make health care more accessible and more affordable to middle class families and we are glad that they did that work and we are going to look very closely at those recommendations and see what we can pass.

There is also the issue of veterans retaining their job status when they return from military service. Rep. McKinley Bailey unveiled proposed legislation several months ago. It is not right when somebody goes over and serves their country for one or two years and they don't get their same job back and they don't get the same pay they had when they left. Addressing that issue needs to be a priority for this chamber. We need to adopt that legislation early. We need to make sure that we treat our veterans the way they have protected us. That is only out of due respect that we make sure they get their job back with the same pay. So, I am very hopeful that we will be able to get that bill done early this legislative session.

There are some other issues addressed by interim committees that we want to take a look at. There is the whole issue of water quality. We have the Water Quality Planning Task Force which made recommendations. We won't be able to do every recommendation, but there is no question that we will be focusing on the environment.

There was a huge increase last year for REAP funding, the first increase since 1991. We want to continue to focus on REAP and water quality and also take a look at recommendations from the Climate Change Advisory Council.

We also talk about job growth in Iowa. There is no question that we want Iowa to continue to grow so that young people can find good jobs and settle down and raise families here in Iowa. And we need to find ways to make it happen, because these are the workers and families who will form the middle class of the future. We have the worker's shortage interim committee that has made recommendations. And we also need to look at what was proposed by the Generation Iowa Commission, which recently issued a guide for creating job opportunities for young people.

There is no question that these are a lot of priorities, but we are going to try to get as many done as we can, while managing to balance the state budget. We have almost six-hundred million dollars in our two reserve accounts. The first time they have been full in years. We have the Senior Living Trust Fund with one-hundred and eighty-two million dollars in it when it was down to seven millions dollars just a few years ago. We are very proud of our budget and we are going to continue to maintain fiscal discipline.

There are also a couple of other issues that we will need to try to address this legislative session. We will, no doubt, need a bi-partisan effort to address some of the issues that Representatives Huser and Lykam and Tjepkes have worked on with regard to infrastructure funding for our roads. We need to see whether there is common ground where we can come together to pass a bill that will help take care of our infrastructure needs so we don't have the type of tragic incident that occurred in Minnesota last year.

The last point I want make is that, when we talk about job opportunities, we always talk about working hard and playing by the rules and being fair. There is a whole issue now with immigration. I think we need to take a look at why immigrants are coming to Iowa, and in some cases being brought up here without proper documentation, and then getting jobs. Our focus will be on employers who knowingly hiring immigrants who are not properly documented. Hopefully we can do a bill this session that will deal with these issues.

There is no question that we have a lot on our plate. The goal is to get accomplished as much as we can. There is no question that we need to do it in a bi-partisan manner as much as possible. There is no question that at times we are going to have our differences, but our goal is to overcome those differences and find commonality where we can work together and move this state forward. It is not about the one hundred people that are in this room that are duly elected to represent their districts. It is about the three million people that follow our leadership in this chamber to strive for a new future and to move forward. So, with that, I welcome you all back. I look forward to being in session for the next one hundred days or less, hopefully, and to see what we can get done.

I thank you all for your service that you give to both your state and your districts and lets see what we can do now for the citizens of the state of Iowa in a bi-partisan effort. Thank you.

Fellow statewide elected officials: Miller, Mauro, Northey, Fitzgerald, and Vaudt; all department directors, and state employees.

To General Dardis, Chief Justice Ternus; Justices and members of the Court of Appeals, and special guests. Welcome!

I would like to begin today by recognizing the brave men and women who are serving in our armed forces.

Thank you for your service. We appreciate the sacrifices you and your families, are making on our behalf. To those families who have lost a loved one in the current conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan, I say, although no one can truly know your pain, you should know all Iowans share your grief. Our thoughts and prayers are with you.

On a personal note, one of my most memorable experiences last year was greeting members of the 133rd Battalion upon their return home from Iraq. There, I had the pleasure of meeting one soldier, Specialist Jason Timler, from my hometown of McGregor.

Jason and Representative Ray Zirkelbach are members of the 1st Division of the 133rd Infantry, simply known as the Ironmen. These brave Iowans were overseas for nearly 22 months, serving the longest overseas deployment by an Iowa unit since World War II.

The 133rd has also been one of the most highly decorated units deployed to Iraq. The soldiers of the 133rd have: Earned 26 Bronze Stars, with 3 of those cited for valor; they earned 11 Army commendation medals for valor; and, conducted more than 500 combat missions, more than 30 of them earned the Purple Heart; (including Representative Zirkelbach) and they built 29 schools for Iraqi children.

So, we are all very proud of the 133rd! And, as a token of our appreciation, please join me in welcoming Specialist Jason Timler to the chamber.

Article Four, Section Twelve, of the Iowa Constitution says, and I quote: The Governor shall communicate, by message, to the General Assembly, at every regular session, the condition of the state, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient.

Well, it's my Constitutional duty, my pleasure, and my privilege to report, that on this 15th day of January, in the year 2008:

The Condition of our state is strong!

Here's why: First of all, our fiscal house is in order. The budget you passed and the one I signed was fiscally responsible. It included a $600 million dollar cash reserve, the largest in Iowa history.

Second, our bio-economy is booming. With your help, we are building the Silicon Valley of the Midwest and becoming the renewable energy capital of the United States.

Most importantly, this is resulting in historic job creation and economic development.

The bio-fuels industry has added more than $8 billion dollars to Iowa's economy, and has created or supported more than 50,000 new jobs.

The state has partnered in this effort too. In 2007, with our assistance, more than 1,800 new green-collar jobs were created. And, more than $3 billion dollars of private sector green investments were made.

Communities across Iowa that have experienced real economic challenges, like Keokuk, Fort Madison and Newton, have recently seen a new rebirth by tapping into the booming wind industry. Each of these cities is in the process of adding hundreds of new wind-generation manufacturing jobs.

I believe this is only the beginning of what's possible!

A recent study projects within a 600 mile radius of Iowa, more than $20 billion dollars in wind projects will be constructed over the next seven years. To capitalize on this opportunity for our state, I've traveled across the nation, and to countries like Germany, Denmark and Spain, to do everything within my power to bring these jobs to Iowa.

And we've gotten results.

Iowa is now home to five wind generation manufacturers who have recently decided to locate or expand here – Acciona, Siemens, Clipper, Hendricks, and TPI.

So, to put it in perspective, Iowa is now one of only two states in the nation manufacturing the three major component parts of a windmill - towers, turbines and blades.

These new advanced manufacturing “bio-jobs” we're creating are key to Iowa's continued economic growth.

In addition, the Condition of the State is strong because last year you passed and I signed historic legislation. These new initiatives related to job creation, renewable energy, health care, and education, will improve our quality of life and strengthen our economy.

Most importantly, we kept the promises we made to the people who sent us here.

We promised to raise the minimum wage - and we did.

We promised to increase teacher pay and expand early childhood education - and we did.

We promised to provide income tax relief for tens of thousands of hard working Iowans - and we did.

We promised to expand health care for Iowa's kids - and we did.

We promised to lift the ban on stem cell research and build a state of the art research facility at the University of Iowa - and we did.

We promised to provide our veterans injury, education and housing assistance – and we did.

We promised our seniors we'd put more senior advocates to work across Iowa - and we did.

We promised to make college more affordable and to support our public and private colleges and universities at the highest levels since 1981 - and we did.

We promised to increase civil liberties protections for all Iowans, to fight discrimination and harassment at work and in our schools - and we did.

We promised to invest in our environment, by supporting REAP, the Resource Enhancement and Protection program, at its highest levels ever - and we did.

Finally, we promised to make Iowa the national leader in renewable energy. We said we'd establish an office of Energy Independence and create a, $100 million dollar renewable energy research and development fund. And we did!

We should be proud of these accomplishments. Now, it's up to us to build on them.

So, for all of these reasons, I'm happy to report, the Condition of the State is strong!

I believe our goals this session are simple - protect our priorities, balance the budget, and address some unmet needs.

Our budget must reflect our commitment to protect the new initiatives we launched last session.

So, in order to maintain our lead in this new bio-economy, we must continue to support the Iowa Power Fund.

Let's make sure we pay our teachers what they deserve, and do whatever it takes to bring them to the national average in teacher pay.

We need to maintain the funding levels for our community colleges, regents' institutions and private colleges.

Let's expand early childhood education so we can meet our goal of offering it statewide by 2010.

We must meet the obligation we have to the most vulnerable among us, our uninsured children. Let's expand health care to 7,500 more kids.

And let's not forget those who helped us make this state such a great place - our senior citizens and our veterans.

The only way we can be certain to fulfill these priorities is to keep our fiscal house in order. Here's how we can do it: limit new spending; continue to live within our means, and protect our cash reserves.

Today I want to share with you the steps I've already taken to present a balanced budget.

First....we just have to say no!! In August, of last year, I asked my Department Directors to submit budget requests that limited any new spending.

Second, the budget I'm proposing allows us to keep our promises. It also protects our priorities, identifies a few new revenue sources, and fully funds our cash reserves. Third, our administration continues to find ways to save taxpayer money, and we're making government more efficient.

To my second Constitutional duty of the day I will touch on such matters as I deem expedient!

The fact is, there are still unmet needs. We have much work to do in the areas of: health care, environment, renewable energy, infrastructure, tax fairness, workforce development, and worker's rights.

Let's start with health care.

Why shouldn't every Iowan get the same type of insurance coverage as elected officials get?

Well, that's my goal.

Let's take up the challenge of making health care affordable and accessible to all Iowans!

I want to acknowledge the hard work of the Affordable Health Care Commission, chaired by Senator Jack Hatch and Representative Ro Foege, and thank all who contributed to this effort.

I believe, as the report indicated, there are some immediate steps we need to take.

We should expand pooling options for associations, small businesses, and organizations in an effort to reduce the cost of group rates.

Let's allow parents to cover their adult children up to age 25, on a family plan. Let's eliminate exclusions and waiting periods for people who are transitioning from group health plans to individual plans.

Let's cap long-term care insurance rate increases, at 12 percent per year, to protect our aging policyholders.

Let's set the standard for electronic medical records and telemedicine! Iowa providers are now partnering with the state and federal government to build the nation's first statewide fiber-optic health care information network.

Additionally, we need to address our health care worker shortage. Let's start with nurses. We need more of them, and better pay for them.

The U.S. Department of Labor ranks Iowa as the 49th lowest paying state for registered nurses. This is unacceptable and we need to do something about it.

So, I'm appointing a task force to meet and make recommendations by March 1st of this year, on how we can best increase nurse's pay and address the shortage.

As a former nurse, Lieutenant Governor Judge, is the perfect person to lead this effort, and she's agreed to do so.

We also need additional funding for early detection. So, in my budget I have dedicated resources to ensure more Iowans, especially women, have access to early screening for cancer.

Finally, if you send me a bill to ban smoking at the local level, I will sign it!! While all these steps are critically important, the reality is, our most effective health care reform opportunity lies in the area of prevention, wellness and chronic disease management.

So, in an effort to save the state millions of dollars and improve the lives of thousands, we will institute a new state employees' wellness initiative. After all, wellness and prevention are key to reducing costs, reducing medical claims filed, and reducing the number of procedures performed, and keeping people healthy. This has already been done in places like Asheville, North Carolina. Over a three year period, the city of Asheville cut their medical claims in half for their employees by encouraging fitness and managing chronic disease. I believe we can, too.

In addition, we will initiate a state employee's chronic disease management program. This will put trained professionals to work coaching state employees and their families about how best to eliminate or reduce the effects of the five most common chronic diseases, like: obesity, heart disease, and diabetes.

Finally, whether it's popular or not, the fact is, the best way to achieve affordable, accessible health care for all, involves each of us taking responsibility for the quality of our own health.

That's why Lieutenant Governor Judge last summer started a statewide conversation about the future of wellness. I want to commend her for her efforts, and thank her for the tremendous work she's doing as Iowa's Lt. Governor.

The Lieutenant Governor's Commission on Health and Wellness has forwarded their findings to you. One of the most frightening things the wellness commission noted is that, 50% of Iowa's kids are overweight and 20% of those kids are morbidly obese.

That's why this session I have recommended we establish a minimum standard for physical activity in our schools. We will also partner with the American Diabetes Association and other groups to create a statewide focus on wellness for our children.

And we should take the steps necessary to replace unhealthy food choices in schools, with a statewide effort to promote healthier school meals, and better options when it comes to vending machines.

So, my budget places significant resources into wellness initiatives and I look forward to working with you on taking steps to a healthier Iowa.

There's one more thing. As a former coach, I used to say, if you want to talk the talk, you better walk the walk.

So, in an effort to provide leadership on this important issue, I have asked every state employee, and today I ask everyone in this chamber, and all Iowans, to join the Lt. Governor, and me, to take on the: 100-Day Lighten Up Iowa Challenge. Let's lose weight and exercise more together!

The program begins tomorrow, and so I encourage you to sign up today at: WWW.GOVERNOR.IOWA.GOV, or call 1-888-777-8881.

Now, let's move to needs related to our environment. Clean air, clean water and conservation are important Iowa values. So, I think we need to take two important steps this session to protect them. One: I believe we should fully honor our commitment to Iowa's natural resources through the incredibly successful REAP program. In addition, we need to find a sustainable funding source for REAP.

I've identified, I believe, the best way to pay for it. That's why I've proposed expanding the bottle bill. This is fitting as we celebrate its 30th anniversary this year. This bi-partisan success was sponsored by former Governor Branstad in this very chamber when he was a legislator, and signed by former Governor Ray, in 1978.

After thirty years of Keeping Iowa Beautiful and keeping bottles and cans out of the ditches and landfills, I believe expanding the bottle bill is an idea whose time has come.

So, I propose we make more containers subject to the deposit including the plastic and aluminum containers of bottled water, juice, and energy drinks that more and more consumers are seeking out.

I am also proposing the deposit be changed to 10 cents per container. The solution is practical, and workable. One more cent will go to your local recycler, one cent to permanently protect our environment, and the rest goes right back into the consumer's pocket where it belongs!

I believe it's the right thing to do. That's why I'm committed to working with Legislators, grocers, retailers, redemption centers, environmental groups and consumers to get the bill signed into law as soon as possible.

Number two: to address air quality, my budget calls for a first -ever, statewide, million dollar, new odor management program.

I'm calling for a field-based, study with hands-on research by experts at Iowa State University, with real, on the ground impact.

Number three: To improve water quality, I urge this body to continue its work in seeking common ground on the sometimes challenging issues related to contained animal feeding operations, siting, zoning, local control, and protecting our lakes, rivers, and streams. I have, and I will continue to meet with all interested parties to try to move forward on this issue.

You know, we've made real progress on renewable energy, and now is time to build on it.

As I stated previously, funding the Iowa Power Fund and supporting the Office of Energy Independence and the Power Fund Board should be our top priorities.

But, it's also time for a new Renewable Energy Portfolio Standard. We must require 25% percent of all energy produced in Iowa be from a renewable source by 2025.

I'd also like to expand the Renewable Fuels Infrastructure Program, to include terminal blending of ethanol and biodiesel.

Let's help our farmers, consumers, and ethanol, and biodiesel producers, by developing the infrastructure necessary to increase access and drive greater consumption of Iowa-grown bio-fuels. This will increase the demand for flex fuel vehicles, which will allow us to sell more E-10, E-85 and biodiesel at the pump.

Speaking of infrastructure, we all know there are needs with our bridges and roads because of the density and age of our roads system. Addressing this issue is critical to our public safety, quality of life, and economy.

That's why I have directed the Department of Economic Development to come up with a long-range, comprehensive infrastructure plan for Iowa.

And we're not just talking about bridges and roads – we're looking at rivers, trails, walkways, light rail, public buildings, schools, correctional facilities, and telecommunications.

We must address every facet of our 21st century infrastructure, to ensure we continue to grow our economy and support the jobs of the future.

While I've said I'm not in favor of increasing the gas tax, with oil at $100 per barrel and gas prices at record highs, I have been clear about my willingness to join in any bipartisan agreement on how to best generate the revenue necessary.

In the meantime, my budget calls for a quarter-billion dollar investment in our corrections system. The package includes a new penitentiary at Fort Madison. This will replace the outdated civil war-era facility. Replacing this prison is, first and foremost, a matter of public safety. We will also be making significant investments in modernizing the facilities at Mitchellville, Anamosa and Rockwell City.

Most importantly, in an effort to significantly reduce recidivism, we will invest more than ever before in substance abuse and mental health treatment.

In addition, my infrastructure plan allows us to stand up for our veterans whom we owe a debt of gratitude. We'll invest $20 million in the Iowa Veterans Home in Marshalltown, to provide the quality long term care these veterans deserve.

Now, let's move to the issue of tax fairness.

I believe our corporate tax structure must be fixed.

It's just not fair that big, out of state, multi-billion dollar corporations that do tens of millions of dollars of business in Iowa avoid paying Iowa income taxes because of an outdated tax loophole.

While it might be convenient for them, it's just not fair, especially for Iowa-based businesses.

So, let's level the playing field for locally owned, small businesses on Main Street, especially as they compete with larger, out-of-state, corporations.

It's just a matter of common sense. Twenty other states have closed this loophole. Of those, seven are listed on the top ten list of best states in America to do business, according to Forbes Magazine.

Our neighbors in the Midwest like: Nebraska, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas and North Dakota, have already done this, and we should too!

A final challenge before us includes making sure we have a prepared workforce to meet the needs of the 21st Century.

We have all seen the data that shows our state will soon face a workforce shortage, unless we do something about it. That's why I recently convened the first-ever Governor's Workforce Summit to bring those affected by this challenge to the table to come up with solutions.

Based on this, I'm proposing we build a $5 million dollar science, technology, engineering, and math – or STEM – Center at the University of Northern Iowa.

This will help us double the number of math and science teachers in our public schools and make sure every high school graduate is ready for the jobs of the future.

In addition, I am asking you to join with me in fully funding our successful community college level workforce training program, known as ACE.

And, to meet the workforce needs of the future, let's continue to do what we can to make college more affordable. One way to do this is by expanding the All Iowa Opportunity Scholarship.

This new Needs-Based scholarship program has been very successful. Today, 179 students who have each received scholarship awards of up to $6,200, are now enrolled in universities and community colleges statewide who likely would not have been able to go to college without it.

Finally, we must raise the bar and expect more from our students in the classroom. We will do whatever it takes to institute Iowa's new Model Core Curriculum statewide standard by 2010. Our goal should be to teach our kids to "love to learn" more chemistry, more physics, more algebra, and more trigonometry.

I am also interested in working with you to determine how we can best address issues related to educational equity.

Let's make sure all Iowa students receive the same educational opportunities, regardless of geography, family income, or school district.

There's one more thing we need to always keep in mind regarding our workforce—the people on the front-lines: our workers!

Iowa has always had a tradition of fairness in the workplace. Republicans and Democrats proved this when they locked arms and joined together in a bipartisan effort to pass the state's first-ever collective bargaining law.

Our predecessors showed great courage when they found consensus on this, and so many other important labor-management issues. I believe, if we try, we can too.

Let's start by talking about what we can agree on. Let's make Iowa the best place in the nation to work. We can all agree a dignified work environment is an Iowa value.

We can all agree we must pay our workers competitive wages. We can all agree that the right to bargain collectively in the workplace is an important right. We can all agree that companies should be held accountable for hiring illegal workers.

And, we can also agree that it's critical to have healthy and productive labor-management relations in our state.

So, for the benefit of working Iowans, I challenge you to try to find consensus, and to not be afraid to debate difficult issues, like, prevailing wage, independent contractor reform, choice of doctor, fair share, and the right to bargain matters like employee discipline and discharge.

Perhaps one place to start our discussion is with wages. The fact is, Iowa currently ranks 41st in the nation in the wages we pay our workers.

And, the Generation Iowa Commission, which is trying to help us reverse the "Brain Drain" just made improving wages their number one legislative recommendation to keep young people here.

Finally, our workplace needs to be, diverse, inclusive and welcoming. It should be a place that respects workers and accepts all people. If we want to meet the workforce challenges of the future, we must embrace the talents of all Iowans.

Let's do what we can, to ensure Iowa is a land where the American Dream can come true for everyone in our workplace.

In closing, I'm asking for a call to action. Let's always remember what unites us, not what divides us.

My friends, civility works. People expect us to do our work, and to get along. I stand ready to do my part.

I often think about the "Character Counts" program my children John and Clare take part in at their school. This statewide character development initiative is directed by my friend State Representative Scott Raecker.

Three years ago, Michael Josephson, the Founder of "Character Counts" came to this chamber, and spoke to the Legislature about the importance of character. I was in the chamber that day, and I believe the "Six Pillars" of Character: Trustworthiness, Respect, Responsibility, Fairness, Caring and Citizenship are important principles that should guide us every day.

Our duties and our opportunities are tied together. And in both, we find the possibilities for greatness. So, Members of the General Assembly, let's embrace that greatness.

Let's lift up our great state this session. Let's ensure 2008 is a year in which our civility and our constituents are our focus. Let's give it our best effort, tone down the partisan rhetoric, get the peoples' work done, and end the session as friends.

Last year we proved our collective hopes and dreams for Iowa are worth fighting for. Well, I'm asking for a renewal of our commitment to Iowa's future.

One year ago, I stood before you, and spoke of my belief that this was "Our time , to lock arms and work together for the common good". Our time, to create, "One Iowa, With One Unlimited Future". A future not for Democrats, not for Republicans, but for all Iowans.

Well, one year later, I believe this even more than I did then.

I know, if we approach our efforts with the same spirit of optimism, honesty, and hard work, that every Iowan knows, we will be successful. When we do this, citizens will look back at our efforts, and say, "We have a government as good as our people."

Thank you, God bless you, and God Bless the State of Iowa.

Governor Chester J. Culver was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

On motion by McCarthy of Polk, the joint convention was dissolved at 11:05 a.m.

The House resumed session at 11:15 a.m., Speaker Murphy in the chair.

Good morning. I appreciate the warm reception and the kind invitation to once again speak with you about the state of Iowa's judiciary.

We're gathered here because by constitutional design all three branches of government contribute to the administration of justice in our great state. The role of the judicial branch is evident: to administer justice according to law, equally to all people. Your role is different, but equally important: to marshal the resources we need to fulfill this important responsibility. My annual report serves not only to inform you of our present ability to fulfill our constitutional mandate, but also to advise you of specific strategies required to meet the ever-changing needs of the people we serve.

I am pleased to say that the judicial branch is ably fulfilling its constitutional mission to the people of Iowa. This positive assessment is due in part to the resources you provide us. It is also due to the efforts of our capable judges and court employees who enable our branch of government to resolve thousands upon thousands of cases that cover the gamut of legal issues and social problems.

While I am proud of our solid performance, I am not here to take comfort in the current state of affairs. I have come here to talk about the future, in particular, two challenges that have a tremendous bearing on the future of Iowa. First, I will address the challenge of ensuring equal justice to all people. Then, I will discuss the challenge presented by the special needs of children who are in our care.

I. Equal Justice to All

The premise of equal justice to all people involves two principles: access to justice and impartial justice. Ensuring access to justice is, perhaps, one of the greatest challenges facing the future of our court system. As Iowa's population and economy change, as demands for court services grow, the courts must also change and grow to ensure that Iowans continue to have equal access to justice. There are many steps we can take to provide and facilitate access to the courts. Today, I want to discuss four issues that we, as a state, should address if we are to continue to provide meaningful access to the courts: adequate high-caliber judicial resources, electronic filing, pro se forms and language interpreters.

Judicial Resources

Judges are the driving force of our court system. Consequently, the first step in ensuring access to justice is to provide an adequate number of judicial officers who have the required intelligence and character and who have the resources and tools to perform their important role as efficiently as possible.

Part-time Magistrates

I want to first focus on our part-time county magistrates. Part-time magistrates handle procedures that require urgent judicial attention such as search and arrest warrants and emergency hospitalization matters. They also resolve thousands of everyday lawsuits such as small claims and landlord-tenant cases, and they preside over misdemeanor and traffic offenses. In many counties, the part-time magistrate is the only resident judge.

Our part-time magistrate system has remained relatively unchanged since the mid-1970s, yet during this same time our state has changed dramatically. Rising demands for mental health services, population migration, increasing numbers of drug crimes and incidents of domestic violence, more appearances by self-represented litigants, shifts in our economy, and a more diverse population are some of the changes that have affected our communities and placed different and greater demands on our courts.

We think it is time to step back and ask whether the present magistrate framework is meeting the needs of local communities for equally accessible justice and, most importantly, what improvements are required to meet these needs. The Iowa Supreme Court has assembled a broadly based task force to answer these questions. One of your former colleagues, Cedar Falls attorney Donald Redfern, has graciously agreed to lead this group. The task force also includes four legislators: Senator Keith Kreiman, Senator Larry McKibben, Representative Rick Olson and Representative Richard Anderson, as well as representatives from the judiciary, the legal community, law enforcement, and local government. In my speech to you next year, I hope to share some of the task force's recommendations for improvement of our magistrate system.

Ensuring a High-Caliber Judiciary

As I stated earlier, an important element of ensuring equal justice is a high-caliber judiciary. Thanks to the foresight of our grandparents and parents, Iowa has a judicial merit-selection system that ensures our judges are as fair and impartial as possible.

Since becoming chief justice, I have talked with many chief justices from other states who hold Iowa's judiciary in high regard. They view our bench as being one of the most capable, ethical and impartial in the nation. This good reputation is absolutely due to Iowa's merit selection system for appointing judges, which emphasizes professional qualifications above all else—and most especially, above politics. Merit selection ensures that our judges possess integrity, legal excellence, diligence and prudence—the attributes most valued in judicial officers. As a result, Iowans can be assured that their judges are highly capable and make decisions based upon legal principles, not political considerations.

All the same, the quality of our judiciary hinges on Iowa's continued ability to attract experienced and skillful lawyers to the bench, a goal that may become increasingly difficult if lawyers perceive that the pressures and demands on judges outweigh the benefits of judicial service. If this happens, the quality of justice in Iowa will surely suffer. And, over time, the consequences will expand beyond the judicial branch. At the annual meeting of the Conference of Chief Justices last summer, a top attorney for a multinational corporation spoke to the chiefs and stated that when searching for a suitable new location for offices and plants, corporations consider, among other things, the quality of a state's court system in making this business decision. So we all have an interest in a high-caliber judiciary.

For two reasons, I am very concerned that we are at a critical juncture. As I mentioned earlier, Iowa is changing and so is the work of the judiciary. Today, the work of judges is much more stressful, demanding and complicated than it was just a decade ago. We also anticipate a large number of judges retiring over the next few years. The quality of their successors will affect the quality of justice in Iowa for the next twenty years or more. There is, however, something you can do to ensure that well-qualified attorneys continue to apply for judicial service. It is imperative that judicial compensation reflect the vital and increasingly difficult role judges play in our society. We believe the salary recommendations of the Iowa State Bar Association's Judicial Compensation Task Force achieve this important goal. You have already implemented the first and second phases of the task force recommendation. I urge you to follow through this year with the third and final phase.

Paperless Courts: Electronic Filing and Document Management

Now I want to discuss electronic filing and document management, a case-processing tool that will make judges and court employees more efficient and productive and a technology that will improve access to court records. With this technology in place, judges and court staff will be able to retrieve a full court file electronically and simultaneously review the same court file from different locations, judges will be able to review a court file from their home or office, and lawyers and litigants will be able to file and view their court files 24/7 from any location in the state.

Last year, I told you we would test this technology in two pilot counties by the end of 2007. Well, things did not turn out exactly as I had predicted. We have selected two counties, Plymouth and Story, as our pilot sites for testing this ambitious undertaking. However, we are running behind schedule due to contract negotiations with vendors. We are not concerned by this delay. Our primary goal is the construction of a system that is affordable and functional—not rigid adherence to a timetable. At this point, we hope to begin testing the system in the pilot counties later this year.

Now that we are on the verge of beginning this long-awaited change, the prospect of wide open Internet access to court records has given us pause. While broad Internet access to court records will shine even more light on the work of Iowa's courts, which we welcome and support, it will also make sensitive information about countless Iowans available to the merely curious, and worse, to identity thieves—an unwelcome by-product of the Internet that we cannot ignore and should not facilitate. Since I last spoke with you about this project a year ago, the court has received and reviewed public comments made in response to our proposed rules regulating the use of this system. The most troubling concern expressed was the potential chilling effect that unfettered public access would have on citizens using the courts. Unconstrained exposure of the details of one's personal problems that are chronicled in court records would surely discourage Iowans from using the courts, or at the very least affect what allegations are made and what evidence is introduced into the record. We cannot allow a system designed to improve the delivery of justice to operate in such a manner as to discourage access to the courts or to undermine confidence in the fairness and reliability of the court process.

For these reasons, we have scaled back our plans for remote public access to electronic court records. We intend to provide full public access to nonconfidential electronic court records only through public access terminals located in clerk of court offices. In addition, we plan to provide limited, remote online access to certain registered users who need such records to conduct their court business such as litigants and attorneys, and to government officials who need certain court records to fulfill their statutory and constitutional functions. We believe these new parameters will strike a balance between our goal of providing convenient and open access to court records and our responsibility to promote public safety and to ensure full access to the courts.

Self-Represented Litigants

Now I want to tell you of our efforts to address the needs of litigants who represent themselves in family law cases—another topic I mentioned to you last year. These efforts are quite important because they will enhance court access for thousands of Iowans who cannot afford an attorney to represent them in these often life-altering cases.

Last summer we released our first set of self-help forms, which are for use by a divorcing couple who does not have any minor or dependent children. The public's response was positive and immediate. In addition to the countless sets printed from our website, over 1000 paper sets were gone in the first month. Soon, we will make available forms for another type of family law case—forms for parents who seek to change or resist changes to their child support orders. After that our committee will tackle forms for parents who seek to change or resist changes in child custody orders. We know that these last two categories of forms are of great concern to many of your constituents, and we hope these forms will meet their need for access to the courts.

Over time we intend to offer Iowans self-help forms for a wide variety of court procedures. However, we have learned that producing an easy-to-understand legal form is not so easy. It is painstaking and time-consuming work—even for the committee of talented judges and lawyers who are developing our forms. We now realize that we need a staff lawyer who can support this monumental endeavor. This lawyer would also assist with the development and promulgation of our court rules in general. Can you imagine how your work would proceed without the aid of your talented service bureau attorneys? We hope that the relatively modest cost of a staff lawyer will meet with your approval. In this way, we will have the resources to address the growing demands of pro se and other court users.

Interpreters

In addition to the challenge posed by self-represented litigants, Iowa's courts are significantly affected by the increasing diversity of Iowa's population. A recent analysis of our statewide use of Language Line, a service to access interpreters over the telephone, identified twenty-eight foreign languages, from Albanian to Vietnamese, spoken in Iowa's courts in a recent twelve-month period. The demand for Spanish language interpreters in Polk County is high enough to justify employing a full-time Spanish interpreter just for that county! The courts have an obligation to ensure equal access for everyone before us, including those who speak and understand little or no English. Consequently, communication through the use of interpreters is an essential element of equal access to the courts.

As a general proposition, the state covers the cost of interpreters for criminal and juvenile court proceedings. But the Code does not address how, if, or by whom interpreters for litigants in most other types of cases will be paid. When these litigants do not have the financial means to pay for their own interpreter—and most do not—we pay the interpreters and absorb the expense. If we do not, the case would be delayed indefinitely. Although we tax these expenses as costs, litigants are rarely able to reimburse the state, so we end up diverting court resources from other priorities. Our district court administrators say this problem is growing. We believe an appropriation specifically for this purpose will improve the process for all concerned. Because other state offices are likely facing the same challenge, you may want to consider developing a comprehensive solution.

II. Improving the Lives of Children in the Courts

I've discussed many of the challenges we must address so we can continue to ensure equal justice to all people. Now I turn to the challenges presented by the special needs of children who are in our care—children who are abused and neglected and children who commit delinquent acts. Like you, we regard our work with children as one of the most important things we do.

Children in Foster Care

In my remarks to you last year, I talked about the plight of Iowa's most vulnerable children—children in foster care. I described our efforts to strengthen court oversight of child welfare cases so we can expeditiously find permanent, loving homes for these children. Today, I thank you for heeding our concerns, joining our efforts, and making these children one of your top priorities. You should be so proud of what you did for these children during last year's session. By working together, all three branches of government made great strides to improve results for children in foster care. Time does not permit me to list everything we have accomplished, but among other things,

- we added and assigned more judges to preside over juvenile cases so each child has the same judge throughout the child's involvement with juvenile court,
- the CASA program was expanded to all 99 counties, and

- we have built a strong collaborative effort that serves as a catalyst for continuous reform.

The details of our progress are included in material we will provide to you following my remarks.

These successes demonstrate our collective power to promote change and ensure a bright future for a new generation of Iowans. President Franklin D. Roosevelt once said, "We cannot always build the future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future." While we have accomplished a great deal towards that goal, our work on behalf of children in juvenile court has just begun.

Iowa's Young Offenders

It is now time to focus our attention on the young people who end up in Iowa's juvenile justice system. Unlike the violent youths who are often the subject of national news stories, most young Iowans who are referred to juvenile court services are accused of nonviolent property offenses such as shoplifting and vandalism. The good news is that the majority of these young people are one-time offenders, who are handled without intensive supervision or treatment. Nevertheless, many young people present more difficult cases. Youths who commit serious offenses and have serious problems have a greater chance for continued unlawful behavior that may eventually land them in our adult criminal justice system. And if, in the future, they end up incarcerated, their children will be more likely to end up in the same way. But thankfully, we can stop this destructive cycle for many.

Juvenile Court Services: Restorative Justice Model

Using a restorative justice model, the people who work in Iowa's juvenile justice system help hundreds of troubled young Iowans confront their problems, change their negative behavior and forge better lives for themselves.

What is restorative justice?

Restorative justice has three goals:

- To ensure community safety
- To hold young offenders accountable, and
- To teach them how to make better decisions in the future.

To achieve these goals, Iowa's juvenile court services (JCS) uses an evidence-based, risk assessment tool that enables juvenile court officers to distinguish between youths who have a low, moderate or high risk of committing more delinquent acts. Risk factors include drug use, family conflict, truancy, poor academic performance, and a history of delinquent acts. In addition to the risk assessment, JCS assesses the underlying problems and needs of each youth.

Armed with this information, JCS provides supervision, treatment and services tailored to address the needs of a particular child. For example, we treat their drug and alcohol addiction, teach them problem solving and communication skills, treat their mental health problems, teach them how to manage their anger, and provide educational assistance. If their bad behavior is linked to family problems, we work with the parents to address their problems, improve their parenting skills, and improve their relationships with their children. At the same time, JCS emphasizes victim restitution. Restitution helps young offenders understand how their behavior affected their victims and impresses upon them the importance of making amends.

Why invest our time, resources, and energy in these young people?

As research shows—and as most parents know—teenagers have immature thought processes. Because young brains are still developing, juveniles tend to be impulsive, emotionally volatile and highly vulnerable to peer pressure. They overlook alternative courses of action and underestimate the long-range consequences of their behavior. But the same immature brains that make juveniles susceptible to misbehavior also make them good candidates for reform. The key to successful reform is finding the right response.

Now, let me be clear: Public safety always comes first. I'm not talking about using a soft glove approach on hardened juvenile delinquents, including those who end up in adult court. That said, there are many juvenile offenders who have the potential to become responsible, productive citizens if they receive the right kind of direction, structure and treatment.

In fact, studies show that using risk assessments and community-based programs reduce delinquency and help young people become law abiding citizens. Let me give you two examples of young people who overcame their problems with the help of JCS. To preserve confidentiality, I have changed their names.

Juvenile Court Success Stories

When referred to JCS, fourteen-year-old Brittany was using drugs, doing poorly in school, and regularly running away from home. After attempting to distribute prescription medication at school, the juvenile court adjudicated her as a delinquent, placed her on formal supervision, and ordered her to participate in several programs, including treatment for depression and drug and alcohol abuse. A case worker helped Brittany and her parents improve their relationship. Once Brittany's family relationships improved, other positive changes followed. Today, after many months of treatment and services, Brittany is a straight-A student, involved in extracurricular activities at school, and setting her sights on college.

Michael was an even more difficult case. He came to the attention of JCS for an assault complaint at the age of eight and, over time, gained quite a reputation as a bully and troublemaker. By the time he was seventeen, he had been referred to JCS for seventeen more complaints and had been through an array of programs. Nothing seemed to work, but JCS did not give up. Michael was placed in a 90-day highly structured group foster care program, and he finally started to make changes. When Michael eventually returned home, he began to make good decisions for himself. He stayed out of trouble, excelled academically, and participated in extracurricular activities at school. His relationships with his schoolmates improved so well that they named him homecoming king. Now Michael is working part-time and attending college.

These stories repeat themselves across Iowa, and involve young people in all economic brackets; with only a single parent or both parents at home; from suburban cul-de-sacs or inner-city neighborhoods. While preparing for my remarks, I learned of many young people who turned their lives around. I wish there was time to tell you about all of them and their achievements.

There's a common thread running through many of our success stories that I have not yet mentioned. Most of the young people who have come to my attention attribute their turn around, in large part, to one or two caring adults they encountered in the juvenile justice system. Iowa's juvenile court officers and staff, school liaisons, trackers, and other juvenile justice professionals believe in the untapped potential of these young people and in their own capacity to make a difference for most. Words cannot express the thanks we owe all the selfless men and women who work with these youths day and night. I wish it were possible today to personally recognize each and every one of them. I do want to recognize our eight chief juvenile court officers, all of whom are here today and will be available after my remarks if you wish to speak with them. Would our juvenile court officers please stand?

Of course, we do not have all the answers. Many young people don't achieve the success of Brittany and Michael, but their examples illustrate the kind of change we can help bring about with restorative justice. With your support, we can help more youths overcome their problems, realize their potential, and become productive citizens who will contribute to their communities.

Legislative Action

First, we urgently need more juvenile court officers and support staff to strengthen our oversight of troubled youths. As most of you know, our juvenile court staff is central to our successful work with these young people. They routinely meet with the youths under their supervision, attend court hearings, meet with families, work with law enforcement and school officials, and visit youths who are placed out of home. Due to a new federal law, juvenile court officers must increase the frequency of their visits with youths in out-of-home placements and with their parents. This practice is a good one that we will follow, but realistically we must have more staff to fulfill this federal mandate.

In addition to more juvenile court officers and staff, we also need two more judges—one of whom will be used exclusively in juvenile court and another who will handle a variety of cases, including juvenile court cases. These judges will help sustain our one judge/one child policy, which is a crucial component of work with juvenile offenders, as well as with abused and neglected children.

We also urge you to provide even more funds for children who are waiting for treatment for mental health problems. I spoke to you last year about the large number of children waiting for this treatment, and you responded generously by providing funds to treat nearly 300 more children. You should feel so good about what you did for these children. I must tell you, however, that the number of children in need of mental health treatment continues to grow. Our chief juvenile court officers say that many of these children, who they describe as low-risk, high-needs children, end up in the juvenile justice system. We can change this result by treating their problems early on before they get into trouble with the law. Based upon your positive response last year, I know you share our concerns and will do what needs to be done to fund mental health treatment for our children in need.

As another improvement, we suggest a simple statutory change that would increase the potential term of a juvenile consent decree from one year to two years. A consent decree is a procedure frequently used for low-risk youths. It is analogous to a deferred judgment for adults. If a youth complies with all of the conditions of a consent decree, the court will dismiss the delinquency action, allowing the youth to avoid a delinquency adjudication. But the current one-year term for this decree is too short for youths to complete treatment for mental health problems or substance abuse. So the judgment of our juvenile court judges and officers is that our reformed youth would be greatly benefited if consent decrees could be used for two years rather than only one.

Although the judicial branch can accomplish a great deal to improve the lives and prospects of the young people who come under the umbrella of the juvenile court, we can accomplish a great deal more with your support. I ask you to keep these young people in mind as you set your priorities this year.

Now I would like to mention one other endeavor that is making a difference for children, families and communities.

Drug Courts

Alcohol abuse and drug addiction are frequently the underlying cause of juvenile delinquency. They are also often the underlying cause of adult criminal behavior, child abuse and neglect, and many other problems that hurt families, and ultimately, communities. We know because we struggle with these problems in our courts every day.

When we deal with addicted, nonviolent offenders in the conventional way, by imposing punitive measures without motivating them to end their addiction, we are guaranteed to see them in court again and again and again. According to District Judge Thomas Bower, "The charge may be burglary, but the cause is drug addiction." To get to the root of the problem, the judicial branch is working with others to expand the use of drug courts.

Drug courts employ a problem-solving approach that emphasizes treatment and integrates social services with consequences for noncompliance. Drug court judges retain their sanctioning role, but also actively direct and monitor an offender's progress. Drug courts help offenders develop problem-solving skills, help motivate them to change, and help improve their compliance with probation. Experience shows that when compared with offenders handled in the traditional way, drug court participants are more inclined to follow through with their treatment. And successful treatment is the key. It reduces recidivism and improves the lives of offenders, which ultimately improves the lives of their families.

As Judge Bower, who presides over the drug court in Black Hawk County, observes, "Many of the individuals in the drug court program have victimized their family members and friends through theft and deceit. So, in addition to helping individuals end their addiction, the program helps reclaim relationships and reunite families."

Iowa presently has ten drug courts. Most of our drug courts are designed to work with adult offenders; a few are designed to work with juveniles. I'm pleased to report that we're adding two more drug courts for adult offenders in the 6th and 8th judicial districts. We are also adding three new family drug courts and expanding two existing family drug courts with the aid of a sizable five-year federal grant. These judge-led family drug courts will emphasize treatment for meth-addicted parents with the overarching goal of helping these parents keep their families together.

Most judges who preside in our drug courts volunteered for this tough assignment. It's tough for several reasons. First, these cases are much more time-consuming than most conventional court procedures. Second, because there's less emphasis on purely legal problems and more emphasis on complex social problems, judges are required to use skills and knowledge not taught in law school. What's more, these cases are often emotionally draining. I am very grateful for the leadership and dedication of the judges who make our drug courts possible. Some of those judges are here today, and they too will be available for conversation after my remarks. Would our drug court judges please stand so we can recognize you?

Conclusion

Today, I have talked about two important challenges: ensuring equal justice for all people and addressing the special needs of children in our care. Although both primarily involve the work of the courts, their impact extends far beyond the walls of Iowa's courthouses and well into the future. Why? Because many of the problems that our courts struggle with every day affect the well-being of our communities as well as the well-being of future generations of Iowans. Naturally, other institutions deal with these matters, often before we do, but when all else fails, these problems land in the courts for us to resolve. So the work of the courts has a tremendous bearing on the future of Iowa.

This morning, I have outlined a number of steps we can take to ensure our capacity to meet both challenges. We have a court system of which all Iowans can be proud, but we must be vigilant to maintain it. Ensuring that all citizens have equal access requires the constant attention and commitment of all three branches of government. I urge you to do your part. There is also much we can do together to address the problems of abused and neglected children and young offenders. We intend to expand the reach of our successful juvenile justice programs and drug courts and to strengthen court oversight of child dependency cases so more children, families, and communities can benefit from them. Your support of these efforts is essential.

Before I end my remarks, I want to emphasize the importance of doing all we can in this legislative session to address the special needs of children who are in our care because the work we do now will in many ways affect their future, and ultimately, the future of our communities. Let's help all our children become responsible, productive adults so future generations can build schools, not prisons.

If my words have not persuaded you, listen to the words of a real-life father, whose teenage daughter was struggling with serious problems. She was uncontrollable and defiant, abusing alcohol, stealing from a sibling, and continually running away from home. Her distressed parents eventually turned to DHS and the juvenile court for help. Last month, the father wrote to one of our judges. He says,

“[My daughter] was running away. We were putting ads in the paper asking her to call us and tell us she was okay...We think she would have committed suicide before she reached the age of 18 if we had not made contact with the [county] DHS...”

His letter goes on:

“She is now married ...with three children and doing nicely with her husband

This all could have ended up much differently and terrible if we hadn't followed the recommendations of [DHS] and your Court Room. [My wife] and I will always say that this is what made the difference from a tragedy to the eventual triumph.

Thanks for listening. I just wanted to go on record because though this has been more than 20 years ago, her mother and I have never forgotten that you started the action that got our family straightened out.”

The words of this father convey the importance of our work far better than I can. It is enough to say that childhood is brief and so is the window of opportunity to help these children. Consequently, the future of these children depends a great deal on what we do now—so please, let's do all we can.

Major General Dardis delivered the following Condition of the Iowa National Guard Message:

Thank you very much for that warm welcome.

I'm honored once again to stand before you and report on the Condition of the Iowa National Guard.

A Guard that has evolved from a territorial militia, formed to provide collective security on the American frontier, to a full-spectrum operational force prepared to defend our state and nation during an age of persistent conflict.

For more than 170 years, generations of Iowans mustered from throughout our communities to carry on this Prairie Soldier legacy, serving through a Civil War, domestic emergencies and disasters, World Wars, and ideological struggles.

Today, these Global Minutemen, like those who came before, carry on this proud legacy, serving their state and answering our Nation's call to duty here at home and around the globe.

Speaker Murphy, President Kibbie – thank you for inviting me to provide this update. It is a great honor for me to appear before this joint convention of the eight-second General Assembly of the Iowa Legislature.

The Iowa National Guard is indeed fortunate to have this opportunity to highlight our issues, tell our story and above all thank you and all the citizens of Iowa for the overwhelming and enduring support of our men and women in uniform. We could not succeed without it.

I also want to thank and recognize your colleague, our comrade-in-arms, Representative Ray Zirkelbach, a proud member of the longest serving unit in the history of the Global War on Terror – the "Ironman" Battalion, 1-133rd Infantry, Iowa Army National Guard!

Sgt. Zirkelbach: I'm sure you don't get tired of hearing it, and I certainly never tire of saying it to our returning Warriors – Welcome home!

Good to have you back home with your family, friends and the Iowa Guard Team. I thank you for your extraordinary service and for your family's tremendous sacrifice on behalf of our state and nation. Thank you for a job well done!

Governor Culver, members of the General Assembly, distinguished guests and fellow Iowans:

Last year I reported the condition of the Iowa National Guard was strong – the strongest it had been in generations. Today, I stand by that assessment. We are a battle-hardened and respected fighting force that continues to carry out our federal, state and community missions with vigor and determination.

Yet, six years of war and more than 10,000 mobilized Soldiers and Airmen, leaves no doubt we are an organization that is stretched and stressed. We see it in the faces of our Warriors sent off on their second, and in some cases, third deployments since 9-11; we see it in our families, asked to endure lengthy and in some cases repeated separations; and we see it in returning Soldiers and Airmen, struggling to reintegrate with their families and routines of their daily lives.

Ladies and Gentlemen: this is what keeps me awake at night. I worry so much for the health and well-being of our Soldiers and Airmen and their families. We are trying to assist in every way possible and yet it never seems like enough.

These are indeed challenging times for the one percent of Americans who proudly serve their nation in uniform. And it is increasingly true for the Soldiers and Airmen of the Iowa National Guard, who make up nearly two percent of our nation's National Guard forces.

Our military is not weak or hollow; it is not broken. It remains the preeminent military power in the world. And I want you and the citizens of Iowa to know, that the Iowa National Guard stands ready to meet anticipated state and federal mission requirements.

What we don't know and what most concerns senior leaders is this: "Where is the breaking point?" As Adm. Michael Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said recently: "The well is deep, but it is not infinite." Yet, in this age of persistent conflict, the demands on our military will not subside in the near future.

Protracted confrontation among state, non-state and individual actors willing to use violence to achieve political and ideological objectives will likely increase as trends in globalization, technological developments, shifts in demographics, competition for resources, and climate change continue to create friction among nations and throughout diverse populations.

The enduring lesson of 9-11 is that try as we might, we can't wish this reality away or close our eyes to the threat it poses to our national interest and domestic tranquility.

Whether we like it or not, a network of global extremists is at war against our country and it is clear that they seek to exploit those trends to challenge our security.

Some of you may be saying: "Okay, that's an interesting comment on the current national security debate, but what does it have to do with the Iowa National Guard?"

The answer is: everything!

When we were attacked on September 11, 2001, we had to respond with a Cold War Army reduced in size by more than 300,000 Soldiers from its Cold War peak, ill-suited and unprepared for the type of conflict thrust upon us.

We were in that position as a result of decisions made during the previous decade to cash the peace dividend and drawdown our military forces by nearly two-thirds.

The Cold War was over; we had won. We basked in the glow of an overwhelming victory in Operation Desert Storm. We scanned the horizon for peer competitors and saw none. Reductions in defense spending made sense.

However well-intentioned these reductions seemed at the time, today we are paying the price for those decisions.

When this decade began, the active Army was in desperate need of organizational change and transformation. The same was true for the Army National Guard. It was configured and resourced as a strategic reserve unprepared and ill-equipped for the demands that would soon come its way.

Accelerated security demands brought by the Global War on Terror forced the country to do what it has always done in times of military necessity – turn to the National Guard. And the National Guard responded in numbers unprecedented since World War II, at one time providing more than half the combat power in Iraq. The Iowa National Guard contributed its share, mobilizing more than 100% of its authorized strength during the past six years.

Looking back it is fair to say that those brave Americans fighting in this global war on terror, and their families, paid for the Cold War peace dividend with their blood, sweat and tears. And the men and women serving in the National Guard, especially, the Iowa National Guard, were no exception.

Inadequate funding for personnel, equipment and training forced the Army National Guard to cross-level units within and across state boundaries, severely impacting future unit and individual readiness. This practice did and continues to have a detrimental impact on Iowa National Guard readiness.

In order to overcome these challenges, the Army and its reserve components accelerated transformation and rebalancing efforts.

This means the National Guard is no longer a strategic reserve. It is now viewed as an operational force expected to prepare, train and deploy in a manner and at a rate much different than we saw during the Cold War.

This is a positive development. If properly trained and equipped, the National Guard can add much-needed depth to our active component forces at a fraction of the cost. Currently, the Guard provides more than a third of the Army and Air Forces' force structure, yet consumes only 7 percent of the resources needed to fund active duty forces.

And keep in mind that the dollars invested in the National Guard provide twice the benefit because its capabilities are immediately available to the Governor in times of domestic emergencies and natural disasters.

Once transformation and rebalancing of the Army National Guard is complete, there will be 112 brigades, including 28 Brigade Combat Teams, 46 Multifunctional brigades and 38 functional brigade formations in the Army National Guard. This rebalancing plan has created unique opportunities to station complete units, to the extent possible, within state boundaries. Iowa is a Brigade Combat Team state, home to the 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 34th Infantry Division; nearly a full brigade combat team is headquartered in Boone, with supporting units stationed across the state.

This realignment and restationing improves command and control of these units and greatly enhances our ability to meet manning, equipping, training and mobilization requirements. While this is a positive development for the Iowa National Guard, it will create future challenges.

When the 2nd BCT is called to active duty, and that time will come given the current security requirements, it will be a significant event for the Iowa National Guard and the State of Iowa. We can expect more than 3,500 Soldiers to deploy from this state at one time – nearly 50 percent of our Army National Guard strength.

In today's global security environment, we expect our National Guard Soldiers to mobilize and deploy for 12 months once every four to five years, and our Airmen for 45 days every 18 months. This means the old mantra of "one weekend a month and two weeks a year" no longer applies to these citizen-warriors.

Not including a BCT mobilization, we believe, on average, the Iowa National Guard will deploy between 800-1,200 Soldiers annually, as well as approximately 600 Airmen every 18 months. Given the current environment, we believe, these are sustainable taskings.

The Army Force Generation cycle and Air Expeditionary Force concept have changed expectations. With these new models come increased pre-mobilization training and preparation requirements, which will cause our Soldiers and Airmen to spend more time away from families and jobs in the months and weeks preceding a deployment.

Our members and their families are beginning to understand and come to terms with this new reality. Employers, communities and policymakers must do so as well. In order to sustain these deployment cycles, we must have a reserve component force that is predictable, accessible, manned, equipped and organized to serve as an effective part of the Joint Force.

The current state of our Active military in this age of persistent conflict leaves us no choice. As the Commission on the National Guard and Reserve recently noted there is "no reasonable alternative to increased reliance on the reserve components."

Policymakers have accepted that the Active Army needs to grow – current plans call for adding nearly 75,000 Soldiers by 2010. But recruiting these new Soldiers and developing the officers and non-commissioned officers to lead them will be a daunting and time-consuming challenge.

This means continued reliance on reserve component forces for the foreseeable future. Continued changes in laws, rules, regulations, personnel and funding systems at the Department of Defense and congressional levels are needed in order to sustain the National Guard as an essential part of the Nation's all-volunteer force.

I'm talking about changes that improve readiness, modernize antiquated mobilization policies, and enhance current programs and organizations that support service members, their families and their employers not just before and during deployments, but also when they return home.

Investments in training and equipment are meaningless if we turn our backs on the needs of Citizen-Soldiers and Airmen when the deployment is over. Not only is this a readiness issue for the National Guard – we need them for future missions – more importantly, it's the right and honorable thing to do. We must develop programs and regulations that fully accommodate the unique nature of reintegrating reserve component service members.

Promises to fully equip and resource the Army National Guard are promises that must be kept to our Soldiers. They have served and sacrificed for our state and nation; they have proven their ability to accomplish their missions; and they have kept faith with the American people. Now, we owe it to them and future Soldiers to keep our end of the bargain.

In order to keep this promise, the Army must provide timely and predictable resources to the National Guard. The Army has pledged to boost Army National Guard spending by $23 billion through 2011 and promised further increases in subsequent years.

Although the Air National Guard transformed to an operational force many years ago, it too faces significant funding challenges. It is faced with a rapidly-aging and overworked fleet of airplanes. The Air Force will need to invest heavily over the next several years to recapitalize its force.

The Iowa Air National Guard will benefit if the Air Force succeeds in acquiring the necessary funds to rebuild what it calls the "required force." Initial plans call for stationing the KC-X Tanker at Sioux City and the F35 Joint Strike Fighter at the Des Moines International Airport. This will ensure future flying missions for these Iowa units for years to come.

In order to sustain these promises, Congress will need to maintain defense spending to a minimum of 4% of gross domestic product, a relatively low percentage compared to previous conflicts (38% WWII, 14% Korea, 10% Vietnam).

I realize that for the most part these are not policy issues that come before this body. However, these are things that directly impact the condition of the Iowa National Guard.

The Iowa General Assembly and our Commander-in-Chief, Governor Culver, have been extremely supportive of our legislative proposals to help meet the needs of our Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen, their families and their communities.

We see this in the Iowa National Guard Education Assistance program, which is helping nearly 1,100 Soldiers and Airmen attend college this year.

We see it in state matching dollars provided to the Guard to leverage federal military construction and maintenance funding to maintain and refurbish old armories and build future Readiness Centers in key demographic areas around the state.

We see it in legislation that indirectly helps our Soldiers and Airmen, like the recently enacted military leave bill and previous legislation to help returning veterans purchase a home or help family members care for a loved-one injured in battle.

Many of you continue to ask: "What more can we do for our Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen?"

You have done and are doing all that we have asked of you. Our Soldiers and Airmen are overwhelmed by the tremendous outpouring of support they receive from elected leaders and ordinary Iowans throughout the state who continue to send care packages and contribute their time and talents to causes that support our deployed service members.

What our Soldiers and Airmen want more than anything else is your continued support. They will endure any hardship and sacrifice beyond comprehension if they believe you still have faith in them. These men and women have devoted their lives to serving others.

I want to introduce you to some ordinary Iowans that serve their state and nation in extraordinary ways. These men and women live throughout our state; they represent more than 9,500 Soldiers and Airmen, their family members and employers. These individuals are making a difference in communities, across our great state, for the nation and indeed for people in dangerous spots around the world.

The Iowa National Guard is an organization of opportunity, giving young Iowans reason to stay in our great state to serve others, give back to their communities and enrich their lives.

Let me give you an example of one such man. His name is Capt. David Harper, a traditional Soldier assigned to the Iowa Army National Guard's 224th Engineer Battalion. When he's not serving in uniform, Capt. Harper is the Dean of Students at Pekin High School in Packwood, Iowa where he also coaches football, wrestling, basketball, track, and baseball.

Captain Harper selflessly gives of his time and talents to the community of Packwood, Iowa. He commits time to enhancing school facilities, performing maintenance for elderly and disadvantaged community members, delivering Thankgiving meals, and spending time with youngsters through participation in the Big Brothers program.

Captain Harper has served his Community, State, and Nation in a selfless manner throughout his life. He served more than 11 years as an Enlisted Soldier, including six months deployed in support of Operation Desert Storm in 1991, on State Active Duty in support of the 1993 Floods, and most recently on Active Duty in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, from October 2004 –January 2006.

Captain Harper has chosen a career as an Educator, and a Soldier, in order to make a positive impact on the future of his community, state, and nation. He embodies the traits, characteristics, and values that we espouse in our members. He is a role model for all Iowans and a proud member of our Iowa National Guard officer corps.

Captain Harper, please stand and be recognized. Thank you, Captain Harper, you may be seated.

Captain Harper's contributions are significant. But he is one of many such men and women serving in the Iowa National Guard today.

These next two individuals I want to introduce are also making significant contributions to Iowa. Staff Sgt. Anthony R. Duong (dwong) was our top recruiter last year, bringing 31 new Soldiers into the Iowa Army National Guard. What is truly amazing about this is that he did it in the Sioux City market, an area of the state with smaller demographics and one that has never produced a top Army National Guard recruiter.

Also significant is the outstanding relationship that he has developed with the high schools in the area, particularly Sioux City North High School where he is an assistant wrestling coach and peer mentor. Staff Sgt. Duong (dwong) has established an exceptional reputation among athletes, and the general student population, because they know that he is there to do more than just recruit for the Iowa National Guard. He is there to invest in their school and to make a difference in the lives of young people in that community.

Sgt. 1st Class Steve Groon was selected as the national recipient of the In-Service Recruiter / Intra-State Transfer Coordinator award. His sole mission was to talk Soldiers leaving Active Duty into coming to Iowa, where they could attend an Iowa college and serve in the Iowa National Guard. And he did this better than anyone else in the nation. Many of us talk about ways to get people to come to Iowa. Sgt. 1st Class Groon did more than that – he turned talk into action by delivering 30 new Iowans to the state last year alone.

Staff Sgt. Duong (dwong) and Sgt. 1st Class Groon, please stand and be recognized for your outstanding accomplishments! Thank you, please be seated.

One of the unique things about Iowa is that it's still a place where a small employer can have a big impact. Augustine & Sons, a 2,000-acre grain and livestock operation near Rose Hill, Iowa with only two full-time employees, is a prime example of how size doesn't matter.

This family farm near Oskaloosa is the first Iowa recipient of the Secretary of Defense Employer Support Freedom award presented annually to employers for outstanding support to employees serving in the National Guard and Reserves.

Ladies and Gentlemen: this is a big deal! There are only 15 such awards given each year in a country with millions of employers, large and small. Augustine and Sons must have been one of the smallest. In September last year, they went to Washington to receive the award and met the president, the vice president and the secretary of defense. A scheduled six minute photo op turned into a nearly hour-long conversation with President Bush.

Augustine & Sons is making a big difference for the family of 1st Sgt. Matt Strasser currently serving overseas with an Afghanistan National Army Training team. But don't take my word for it; listen to how 1st Sgt. Strasser describes what his employer has done for his family:

"Thank you for letting me come and go during my last few weeks of work so I could spend as much time with my family as possible. Thank you for allowing my family to live on the farm during my first deployment, rent free (they are again providing this benefit).

"Thank you for taking my boys fishing, watching their sports games while I'm gone and fixing their dirt bikes. Thank you for watching them when they're sick so my wife, Jessica, can go to work, and for flowers on our kitchen table when she's had a rough day. Thank you for plowing winter's snow from the drive and for taking time away from your own families to help mine."

These are just a few of the things the Augustines have done for their employee. There are many others. One of our values is selfless service – Augustine & Sons has clearly demonstrated this enduring Iowa National Guard value.

Continued employer support for our deployed Soldiers and Airmen is crucial. 1st Sgt. Strasser said it best: this support "allows us to do what we do with total commitment and the confidence that our families and our jobs will be safe."

Dan, Mike and Keith Augustine please stand and be recognized for all you have done for this family. Joining the Augustines are 1st Sgt. Strasser's wife, Jessica and their two sons, Reese and Tyler. Thank you, please be seated.

One of the Iowa National Guard themes we wanted to emphasize this year is legacy of service. To do so we selected two families to represent the many families that have chosen to serve their state and nation in the Iowa National Guard over multiple generations.

But before I introduce them to you, there is another family I want you to meet that has earned an enduring place in our Iowa National Guard family. For them and nearly 20 other Iowa National Guard families over the last six years, this distinction came at a horrendous price – the loss of a loved-one.

A beloved husband and father, Master Sgt. Scott Carney died in a HUMVEE accident in Herat, Afghanistan on August 24th last year. Master Sgt. Carney left behind a beautiful wife, Jeni and two adoring sons, Jacob and Justin. Through the loss of their loved-one, they learned the true meaning of service and sacrifice. For them these are not mere words but consequential actions that have forever changed their family.

Jeni, Jacob and Justin, though your loss is great, I hope you find some small measure of comfort in knowing that Scott's legacy and dedication to serving others lives on in the men and women of the Iowa National Guard – a family to which you will always belong.

Jeni, you have been an inspiration to us during this most difficult time for your family.

Thank you...please be seated.

The Corell family has a long and proud military legacy. A great uncle served as a general officer during World War I. Grandfather Benjamin Preston fought in World War II as a Marine in the Pacific earning 3 Bronze Stars at Guadalcanal and two Corells, a father and uncle, served in the Marine Corps after the Korean War.

Col. Ben Corell began his career in the Iowa Army National Guard more than 22 years ago when he enlisted into Bravo Company, 1st Battalion, 133rd Infantry in Oelwein, Iowa. His three sons followed suit.

Staff Sgt. Wade Corell, a full-time Active Guard and Reserve Soldier, enlisted in the 1-133 in 2000. He is an Operation Enduring Freedom veteran.

Sgt. Travis Corell, an Active Guard and Reserve recruiter for the Iowa Army National Guard in the Waterloo area, also enlisted into the 1-133rd in 2000 and is also an Operation Enduring Freedom veteran.

Sgt. Tyler Corell enlisted into the 1-133 in 2002, where he currently serves as a Rifle Team Leader. He is both an Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom veteran.

In 2005, when the 1-133 was alerted for active duty, Col. Corell was the battalion commander and all three of his sons served under him. His wife asked that he take only one son with him on the deployment. Tyler insisted he choose him.

In all, more than 50 family members deployed with the 1-133 to Iraq – an enduring example of our Iowa National Guard family legacy of service.

Family legacies are not unique to the Army National Guard. The Iowa Air National Guard has many as well.

The Kenagy family is a wonderful example of an Iowa Air National Guard family legacy. For three generations, the Kenagy's have served their state and nation in an exemplarily manner.

Sr. Master Sgt. Dwight Kenagy served in the Air Guard for more than 30 years including a deployment with the 185th Fighter Wing to Vietnam from 1968 to 1969.

Master Sgt. David Kenagy enlisted in the Air Guard in 1992 as a traditional Airman and in 1995 became a full time technician working in the area of Aircraft Flight equipment.

Senior Airman Keith Kenagy is currently serving on Operation Jump Start in the Arizona desert building roads.

Airmen First Class Brian Kenagy serves in the electric shop at the 185th Air Refueling Wing and will start college in the fall.

And last but certainly not least, Dannette Kenagy, has represented the 185th Family Readiness Group since 1994 and has served as a state council representative in our family readiness program for many years.

David and I have a unique history I'd like to take a few moments to share with you.

Twelve years ago I ejected from an F-16 on takeoff after a catastrophic engine failure. I experienced a successful ejection and thankfully everything worked as advertized.

The young man that packed my parachute that day was Dave Kenagy. Here is one General that is extremely happy he chose to work in the parachute shop and that he was and is a true professional in every sense of the word.

Thanks, Dave, for your dedicated service and a job well done!

At this time, I'd ask the Kenagy and Corell families to please stand and be recognized for the multiple generations of service these and many other Iowa National Guard families have given to their state and nation!

Thank you, please be seated.

Today, nearly 1,500 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen are serving or preparing to serve on active duty in support of the global war on terror.

In the past year, nearly 800 returned from deployments. I'd like to highlight a few of their accomplishments.

Soldiers and Airmen: Please stand as I recognize your units and remain standing until I complete my comments.

The 1st Battalion, 133rd Infantry, deployed more than 640 members in the spring of 2006 to the Iraqi province of al-Anbar, at that time one of the most dangerous parts of the country.

During their deployment, they:

- Completed more than 500 security convoy missions;
- Logged more 4.4 million mission miles delivering over one-third of the fuel needed to sustain coalition forces in Iraq;

- Captured and processed over 60 insurgents; and
- Discovered 10 weapons caches.

Originally scheduled to return home in April 2007, the 1-133rd's deployment was extended four months by the "Surge", making theirs the longest continuous deployment of any National Guard unit during Operation Iraqi Freedom, and earning them the distinction of being the longest serving Iowa military unit since World War II.

Two Soldiers from the unit were Killed-in-Action, Sgt. 1st Class Scott E. Nisely ("NYZ lee") and Sgt. Kampha ("kum paul") B. Sourivong, during combat operations near Al Asad, Iraq, on September 30, 2006.

The unit received 116 Improvised Explosive Device strikes and had 35 Soldiers awarded the Purple Heart for injuries received during enemy attacks.

Thirty Soldiers earned Bronze Stars, three with V device for Valor, 73 earned Combat Action Badges, 396 earned Combat Infantry Badges, 24 earned Combat Medic Badges, and 196 earned the Army Commendation Medals, 11 with V device.

277 Soldiers had previously deployed and more than 81 percent of eligible Soldiers reenlisted during the deployment.

This unit's incredible journey was captured by the CBS program "60 Minutes", which devoted an entire hour to telling the story of the Ironman Battalion. The program, titled "Fathers, Sons and Brothers," was a unique, one-of-a-kind project that showed the National Guard and the state of Iowa in a very favorable light.

The unit is represented here today by Col. Ben Corell, the Battalion Commander and his son, Sgt. Tyler Corell.

The 16 Soldier Afghan National Army-Combat Service Support Embedded Training Team (ANA-CSS ETT) provided advanced logistical and combat service support training to the Afghan National Army. The team was part of a multi-national effort to ensure the safety and prosperity of the country of Afghanistan and the Afghan people.

The ETT trained Afghan Army and local police, secured cities and towns, opened new schools, donated supplies, and aided the economic and industrial development of Gardez. They performed more than 120 Combat missions with the Afghan National Army while conducting resupply mission within their area of operations.

The ANA training team is represented here today by Capt. Steve Johnson and Command Sgt. Maj. John Brietsprecker.

The 1034th Combat Service Support Battalion deployed 76 Soldiers – 23 had previously deployed – to Iraq in early August 2006, where the unit conducted multi-functional logistics operations at Logistical Support Area (LSA) Anaconda near Balad, Iraq.

During the last 14-month deployment, the 1034th CSSB operated the largest logistics base in the Iraqi theater of operations, managed more than 1,800 assigned Soldiers, monitored the issuance of more than 32 short tons of ammunition, managed more than $100 million dollars of equipment, and improved the overall operational readiness rate of equipment to 92%.

Twenty-one Soldiers earned Bronze Stars Medals.

The 1034th is represented here today by Lt. Col. Dave Verdi and Sgt. 1st Class Jeff Peterson.

Company C, 2nd Battalion, 147th Aviation Battalion (Air Assault) mobilized in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom on April 11, 2006 and deployed overseas in September 2006.

Based at Balad Air Base north of Baghdad, Company C conducted combat operations throughout Iraq, including battlefield circulation, VIP transport, and air assault missions. In June, the unit conducted several air assaults in support of the start of surge operations in Diyala province. Company C led its battalion in mission execution, conducting 740 missions and accumulating more 7850 flight hours.

Just to give you an idea of the operations tempo this unit experienced during their deployment, in an average year back in Iowa, the unit typically has about 1300 flight hours. This means they accumulated six years of flight time in one year – in a combat environment without a single aviation accident or injury. And thankfully, they completed the deployment without a single aircraft being shot down - only minor battle damage from small arms fire.

Soldiers in the unit earned 28 Combat Action Badges, 13 Bronze Stars, 60 Air Medals and 12 Army Commendation Medals.

Company C is represented here today by 1st Lt. Eric M. Nelson and Chief Warrant Officer Four Joedy VanVelzen.

These Iowa National Guard Citizen Soldiers have once again demonstrated that the Citizen-Soldiers of the Iowa Army National Guard can and will perform above and beyond the call to duty.

The Iowa Air National Guard has also deployed a number of its members in support of the Global War on Terror.

Its Medical Group team, represented here today by Lt. Col. Mark Davis, volunteered for deployment to Iraq where they believed their civilian expertise and experience could save lives and lessen the effects of personal injuries.

They left the confines and security of the base and instituted a one-of-a-kind critical care initiative, treating Iraqi civilians in their local communities, which provided much-needed hands-on care and life-saving treatment.

The team completed more than 20 air evacuations; provided sick call services for hundreds of Army and Air Force personnel; provided tactical Combat Care training; and compassionately counseled U.S. Army Mortuary staff struggling with their difficult duties.

Lt. Col. Davis has been named the Air National Guard Outstanding Biomedical Sciences Officer and Outstanding Physician Assistant of the Year.

Col. Jennifer Walters, Capt. Christopher Latcham, and Chief Master Sgt. Sean Larson from the 132nd Fighter Wing deployed to Bagram Air Base, Afghanistan, where they supported nearly 1,400 deployed Airmen in 35 austere locations throughout the country.

They conducted multiple command visits, assisted with the first Air Force Provincial Team rotations; resolved request for fillers and in-lieu-of conflicts; initiated retasking of Airmen; assisted with the reconstruction of roads, bridges, wells, schools, and district and community centers; participated in humanitarian assistance missions; and conducted de-mining, unexploded ordinance and weapons caches missions.

As we all know, the National Guard is unique among our Nation's military services because of its role in coming to the aid of civilian authorities in times of natural disasters and emergencies.

Few missions are as satisfying for members of the National Guard than coming to the aid of a neighbor in need.

Over the July 4th holiday last summer, 26 members of the Iowa National Guard did just that when they deployed to Fredonia, Kansas to provide water purification services to the town's 2,600 residents. Fredonia's municipal water supply was contaminated by extensive flooding.

One day they were grilling hamburgers in Iowa celebrating the Fourth of July and the next they were purifying water in Kansas.

Before it was all said and done, these Iowa National Guard Soldiers provided more than 3.1 million gallons of potable water for their Kansas neighbors. Those of you who remember the floods of 1993 can really appreciate what this meant for the residents of Fredonia.

Representing the 1555th Quartermaster Company is Sgt. Lani Hefel and Sgt. Josh Michel.

Ladies and Gentlemen: These are your Soldiers and Airmen who have served their state and nation this past year!

Thank you, please be seated.

Few of us will forget the one – two punch of the ice storm/blizzard combination that nearly shut down the state last February. There's nothing like a good old-fashioned Iowa blizzard to remind us of the importance of our state mission.

And when that call came, the men and women of the Iowa Guard Team were ready. Nearly 600 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen responded with the skill and professionalism the citizens of this state have come to expect. We conducted generator missions, highway assistance team support, provided armories for shelters, and even transported an expectant mother stranded in Marshalltown to Des Moines for medical care.

Let me share with you a little story about the uniqueness of the Iowa National Guard that was brought home to the Governor and I during the Guard's response to this snow storm.

Governor Culver and I were traveling around the affected area when we stopped in Toledo for a briefing. We walked in and there stood two Iowa National Guard Soldiers, Maj. Todd Lucas and 1st Sgt. Willie Adams, running the Guard's storm response operations.

I said, "Governor you're not going to believe this but the last time I saw these two was in Sharan, Afghanistan – fifteen miles from the Pakistan border – where they were serving as part of a Provincial Reconstruction Team."

This story, more than any other, encapsulates the uniqueness of our mission – From Prairie Soldier to Global Minuteman; we are the Iowa National Guard!

Ladies and Gentlemen, thanks for listening to my comments, and thank you for your continued support of the men and women who proudly serve in the Iowa National Guard.

May God continue to bless you and your families, the great state of Iowa and the United States of America!

Thank you!

 2 or under the terms of the base bargaining agreement.

3 The authority and responsibility to offer new
4 contracts or to continue, modify, or terminate
5 existing contracts pursuant to any applicable
6 procedures under chapter 279, shall be transferred to 7 the acting, and then to the new, board of the combined
8 merged area upon certification of a favorable vote to 9 each of the merged areas affected by the agreement.

40 former merged area which has the collective bargaining
41 agreement that is serving as the base agreement for 42 the new combined merged area, between the former 43 merged area board and the employees of the former 44 merged area, that agreement is void, unless the 45 agreement contained multiyear provisions affecting 46 academic years subsequent to the effective date of the 47 agreement to form a combined merged area. If the base
48 collective bargaining agreement contains multiyear
49 provisions, the duration and effect of the agreement
50 shall be controlled by the terms of the agreement.

8 STATE GENERAL FUND EXPENDITURE LIMITATION

9 Sec.____. Section 8.54, subsection 2, Code 2007,
 10 is amended to read as follows:

11 2. There is created a state general fund
 12 expenditure limitation for each fiscal year calculated
 13 as provided in this section. An expenditure
 14 limitation shall be used for ~~the portion of~~ the budget
 15 process commencing on the date the revenue estimating
 16 conference agrees to a revenue estimate for the 17 following fiscal year in accordance with section
 18 8.22A, subsection 3, and ending with the ~~governor's~~
 19 ~~final approval or disapproval of the appropriations~~
 20 ~~bills applicable to that fiscal year that were passed~~
 21 ~~prior to July 1 of that fiscal year in a regular or~~ 22 ~~extraordinary legislative session close of the fiscal~~ 23 year for which the expenditure limitation was 24 calculated. Once the fiscal year for which the 25 expenditure limitation was calculated commences, the 26 expenditure limitation for that fiscal year is not
 27 subject to adjustment or readjustment except by law
 28 enacted for that purpose.

29 Sec.____. Section 8.54, Code 2007, is amended by 30 adding the following new subsections:
 31 NEW SUBSECTION. 8. a. The requirements of this
 32 subsection are only applicable under the state general
 33 fund expenditure limitation for a fiscal year when the 34 adjusted revenue estimate used to establish the 35 expenditure limitation for that fiscal year represents
 36 an increase of more than two percent over the adjusted
 37 revenue estimate used to establish the expenditure
 38 limitation for the immediately preceding fiscal year.
 39 b. If an appropriation is made for a fiscal year
 40 from a source other than the general fund of the state
 41 for a designated purpose and in either of the two 42 fiscal years immediately preceding that fiscal year
 43 the designated purpose was funded by an appropriation
 44 from the general fund of the state, for the purposes
 45 of the state general fund expenditure limitation, the 46 amount of the appropriation from the other source
 47 shall be considered to have been transferred to and 48 appropriated from the general fund of the state and 49 shall be counted as both a new revenue causing 50 readjustment of the expenditure limitation amount and

1 as an appropriation made under the expenditure

2 limitation amount. Subject to the applicability
3 condition in paragraph "a", the requirements of this 4 subsection shall apply to either or both the initial 5 and immediately succeeding fiscal years for which the 6 appropriation is made from the other funding source.
7 NEW SUBSECTION. 9. a. Commencing during the 8 fiscal year that begins July 1, 2008, if the adjusted
9 revenue estimate used to establish the expenditure
10 limitation for the succeeding fiscal year represents 11 an increase over the adjusted revenue estimate used to 12 establish the expenditure limitation for the fiscal 13 year in progress by a percentage amount listed in this
14 paragraph, there is appropriated from the general fund
15 of the state to the office of the treasurer of state
16 for the succeeding fiscal year, the indicated amount.
17 An appropriation made pursuant to this subsection
18 shall be counted under the state general fund
19 expenditure limitation amount for the fiscal year for 20 which the appropriation is made. The treasurer of 21 state shall distribute the appropriation as provided
22 in paragraph "b" to be used to restore funding that 23 was transferred to the general fund of the state or 24 appropriated from various funds and accounts in lieu 25 of funding from the general fund of the state. The 26 appropriation made in this paragraph shall continue on 27 an annual basis until the amounts listed in paragraph 28 "b" have all been distributed. If the amount
29 appropriated would exceed the amount remaining to be 30 distributed, the appropriation shall be reduced by the 31 excess.

32 (1) For an increase in the adjusted revenue
33 estimate of more than two percent but less than four
34 percent, the appropriation made in this paragraph "a"
35 shall be an amount equal to one-half of one percent of 36 the adjusted revenue estimate used to establish the 37 state general fund expenditure limitation for the
38 fiscal year for which the appropriation is made.

39 (2) For an increase in the adjusted revenue
40 estimate of at least four percent but less than six
41 percent, the appropriation made in this paragraph "a"
42 shall be an amount equal to one percent of the 43 adjusted revenue estimate used to establish the state
44 general fund expenditure limitation for the fiscal 45 year for which the appropriation is made.

46 (3) For an increase in the adjusted revenue
47 estimate of at least six percent but less than eight
48 percent, the appropriation made in this paragraph "a"
49 shall be an amount equal to one and one-half percent
50 of the adjusted revenue estimate used to establish the

1 state general fund expenditure limitation for the
2 fiscal year for which the appropriation is made.

3 (4) For an increase in the adjusted revenue
4 estimate of eight percent or more, the appropriation
5 made in this paragraph "a" shall be an amount equal to 6 two percent of the adjusted revenue estimate used to 7 establish the state general fund expenditure
8 limitation for the fiscal year for which the 9 appropriation is made.

10 b. The appropriation made in paragraph "a" shall 11 be annually, if necessary, distributed as provided in 12 this paragraph "b". Unless otherwise provided by law, 13 notwithstanding section 8.33, moneys distributed in 14 accordance with this paragraph that remain
15 unencumbered or unobligated at the close of the fiscal 16 year shall not revert but shall remain available for 17 expenditure for the purposes designated until 18 expended.

19 (1) Moneys appropriated in paragraph "a" shall be 20 distributed to the funds and departments listed in 21 this subparagraph, in the order and amounts listed
22 until the full amounts listed have been distributed.
23 To the extent the appropriation for a fiscal year is 24 insufficient to fully fund an amount listed or 25 remaining, the amount of the insufficiency shall be 26 distributed from the next succeeding appropriation or 27 appropriations. When all amounts listed in this 28 subparagraph have been distributed in full, any 29 remaining amounts of the appropriation made in 30 paragraph "a" shall be distributed as provided in

Senate Joint Resolution 2002, a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa to dedicate a portion of state revenue from the tax imposed on certain retail sales of tangible personal property and services for the benefit of the state's natural resources.

Be It Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is proposed:

Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Iowa is amended by adding the following new section:

NATURAL RESOURCES. SEC. 10. A natural resources and outdoor recreation trust fund is created within the treasury for the purposes of protecting and enhancing water quality and natural areas in this State including parks, trails, and fish and wildlife habitat, and conserving agricultural soils in this State. Moneys in the fund shall be exclusively appropriated by law for these purposes. The general assembly shall provide by law for the implementation of this section, including by providing for the administration of the fund and at least annual audits of the fund. Except as otherwise provided in this section, the fund shall be annually credited with an amount equal to the amount generated by a sales tax rate of three-eighths of one percent as may be imposed upon the retail sales price of tangible personal property and the furnishing of enumerated services sold in this State. No revenue shall be credited to the fund until the tax rate for the sales tax imposed upon the retail sales price of tangible personal property and the furnishing of enumerated services sold in this State in effect on the effective date of this section is increased. After such an increased tax rate becomes effective, an amount equal to the amount generated by the increase in the tax rate shall be annually credited to the fund, not to exceed an amount equal to the amount generated by a tax rate of three-eighths of one percent imposed upon the retail sales price of tangible personal property and the furnishing of enumerated services sold in this State.

Sec. 2. REFERRAL AND PUBLICATION. The foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is referred to the General Assembly to be chosen at the next general election for members of the General Assembly and the Secretary of State is directed to cause it to be published for three consecutive months before the date of the election as provided by law.

EXPLANATION

This joint resolution proposes an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa to dedicate a portion of state sales and service tax revenue for the benefit of water quality, natural areas, and agricultural soils in this state. The joint resolution establishes a natural resources and outdoor recreation trust fund. The joint resolution credits the fund with an amount equal to the amount generated by a sales tax rate of three-eighths of 1 percent as may be imposed upon the retail sales price of tangible personal property and the furnishing of enumerated services sold in this state. The joint resolution provides that no revenue is to be credited to the fund until the tax rate in effect on the effective date of the joint resolution is increased. After the increased tax rate becomes effective, an amount equal to the amount generated by the increase in the tax rate is credited to the fund, not to exceed the amount generated by the tax rate of three-eighths of 1 percent. The proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa, if adopted, would be referred to the Eighty-third General Assembly for adoption a second time, before being submitted to the electorate for ratification.

Bell of Jasper moved that the joint resolution be read a last time now and placed upon its adoption and the joint resolution was read a last time.
