JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIRST CALENDAR DAY
FIRST SESSION DAY

Senate Chamber
Des Moines, Iowa, Monday, January 8, 2001

Pursuant to chapter two (2), sections two point one (2.1) and two point three (2.3), Code of Iowa, the 2001 Regular Session of the Seventy-ninth General Assembly convened at 10:10 a.m., and the Senate was called to order by President Kramer.

Prayer was offered by the Reverend Sam Massey, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Des Moines, Iowa, guest of President Kramer.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Leave of absence was granted as follows:

Senator Fraise for Monday, January 8, and Tuesday, January 9, 2001, on request of Senator Gronstal.

OPENING REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Kramer addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Welcome to this historic chamber. It provides us a beautiful place to work and serves as a constant reminder of the history and tradition of the Iowa Senate. Welcome to family and friends who are here today. Welcome to our new and returning members. Congratulations to all who were recently elected.

You will find here an outstanding and helpful staff, good friends old and new, a family sort of support for one another, a unique and caring place.

We have all been given much, and as it is written, "To whom much is given, much is expected." My children refer to this as lecture 432-b.

Theodore Roosevelt said, “Far and away the best prize that life offers is the chance to work hard at work worth doing.” What we do here is work worth doing.

If we seize the opportunity to move an agenda forward, we will serve our constituents well . . . those folks who put their trust in us by giving us a precious gift—their vote.

I have no doubt we can agree on large themes:

Economic development.

By definition, increasing and enhancing the quality and number of jobs and increasing private and public wealth. Only by doing this, do we make possible the necessary investments in public service, facilities, and infrastructure that lead to the enhanced quality of life we all want. Encourage, even demand, participation by business and civic leaders, along with elected public leadership, to form collaborative and committed partnerships.

World-class education.

From earliest childhood to graduate levels of specialty. Every child arriving at school ready to learn; every child being challenged to reach their full potential; and every child having a well-prepared and caring teacher in every year and in every subject.

Quality of life unmatched elsewhere.

From air and water quality to superior public health to attractions that reflect our values and showcase our best traditions.

Care for all our citizens.

Especially those who need it most . . . those who are mentally ill, those who are disabled, those who need a temporary helping hand.

And our children.

In the words of the agenda of the Children’s Defense Fund, “It is time for American adults (us) to stop our moral hypocrisy and live the values we want our children to learn. If we want them to stop being violent, then we should stop being violent. If we want them to be honest, then we should be honest. Parents, teachers, preachers, and public officials must conduct themselves as they would want their child—or any child—to emulate. Our children need consistent love, time, attention, discipline, family stability, and limits at home and in school, and they need to see that adults in their nation, private sector, and their communities value and care for them—not as consumers or future customers to be exploited, nor as a nonvoting group to be ignored—but as heirs of America’s institutions and values.” So our behavior, as well as our policy making, is worthy of scrutiny.

Embrace our agriculture heritage.

See biotechnology not only as an economic driver, but also as one with the potential to feed the world. Accept the knowledge that we must accept changes in our mythology of farming. Our roots are deep, and change of the magnitude required feels like giving up what we believe. But “value-added” are not just words . . . they are required for sustainability.

Power to the people.

Disciplined government spending that allows us to restore dollars to Iowa families, because they will make wise choices that benefit us all.

So here we are—January 8, 2001—a new General Assembly.

Lots of talk and lots of speculation: “Who will run and for what?” “How much partisanship and conflict will occur?” “When will the ‘honeymoon’ be over?” “How many firemen-first mentalities?” “Who will focus only on the controversial, and so delay or prevent important work from being accomplished?”

We can make one another “look bad.” We can offer amendments to catch each other on “bad” votes. We can shine the light on the “splits,” partisanship, chamber differences, rural/urban.

There is equal—or perhaps more—potential to squander our opportunities than there is to seize the opportunities we have been given by our constituents.

Martin Luther King said, “The measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy.”

Today, we are at a moment of comfort and convenience. Our tests will come during moments of challenge and controversy.

So perhaps we should practice the old Swedish proverb, “Fear less, hope more; eat less, chew more; whine less, breathe more; talk less, say more; hate less, love more; and all good things will be ours.”

REMARKS BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Senator Iverson addressed the Senate as follows:

I want to welcome all the Senators, staff, and visitors who are present today for the opening of the 2001 Regular Session of the 79th General Assembly. Isn't it exciting to be here again? I especially want to extend a warm welcome to those new Senators who are joining us for the first time today. I look forward to working with each and every one of you during the next few months.

Each legislative session brings with it numerous challenges, and this session will be no different than the rest. We must continue to work toward a responsible and balanced budget that reflects the priorities of Iowans. That is our job.

One way of ensuring the continued growth and prosperity of our great state is to adhere to the 99% spending limit bill that was passed some years ago. We will continue to promote Iowa values by limiting the growth of government and wasteful spending. We must put a greater emphasis on the family budget and a smaller emphasis on the government budget. By providing meaningful tax relief and eliminating wasteful spending, we are investing in Iowa's families and our people.

Although we have many challenges ahead of us, we also have many opportunities. As Senators, we are in the position to make Iowa schools the best in the nation, and we can do that by enhancing student achievement.

Continuing to do what we do best, we can make Iowa's economy more competitive by diversification and by working to create more opportunities for the citizens of Iowa.

We need to continue to promote industry in Iowa. This can be achieved by supporting and promoting the Right to Work law. Iowa's status as a Right to Work state is an important tool for luring good-paying jobs to Iowa, most especially in the rural areas. We must also continue to promote value-added agriculture and embrace the growing field of biotechnology.

These goals that I have outlined aren't just my goals; they are the goals of everyone in this room. They are the goals of the Iowans we represent. We've had a history of working together to solve Iowa's problems. We have for six consecutive years voted overwhelmingly to reduce taxes on hardworking families. We have worked together to improve our schools. We have worked together to clean up our environment while strengthening our economy.

Not all of our ideas become law, but we still must remain committed this session and into the future to developing solid solutions to the problems facing Iowans.

Finally, I also want to take this opportunity to thank the administrative staff and the staff of the central agencies for all the hard work they have provided in the past, and for their efforts in the upcoming session. I look forward to working on these issues with each and every one of you.

REMARKS BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Senator Gronstal addressed the Senate as follows:

Thank you, Madam President.

Madam President and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. First of all, I'd like to welcome everyone back this year, the new members, those of you that moved from the lower chamber to the upper chamber, those who won re-election last fall on the campaign trail and the holdover Senators; it is good to see you.

Normally, these opening day speeches provide a litany of issues designed to appeal to a host of different constituencies and interest groups. I'm going to depart from that tradition today and talk about just one issue: Who will teach our children?

Yesterday, I drove to Cedar Falls to drop off my younger daughter at UNI. Sara is pursuing a degree in elementary education and wants to specialize in talented and gifted. I'm proud of her. We all know from experience and from research that good teachers make a difference in the lives of students. In fact, the quality of the classroom teacher is the single most important predictor of student success.

I would like my daughter to become a teacher in Iowa. I would like her to become a member of that elite group, a group of teachers that are among the best in the nation.

Unfortunately, the future of teaching in Iowa is uncertain. We are fools if we assume that Iowa student achievement will continue to be number one or number two while Iowa teacher salaries are 35th in the nation. Eventually, either student achievement will decline or Iowa teacher salaries will increase and better reflect their success with students. The current imbalance will not continue.

We must take bold steps this year to reward those great teachers that have given our children such a good start. If we fail to act now, we will lose them to states that value education more than we do. We must show the next generation of teachers that we recognize their professionalism and will reward it accordingly.

And we must act now. Forty percent of our teachers will retire in the next ten years. There will never be a better opportunity to ensure a bright future for quality education in Iowa.

If we do the right things this year, Iowa children will continue to have the best and the brightest teachers and their school achievement will reflect this. If we do the right things this year, three or four years from now there will be a good chance my daughter will want to stay in Iowa.

If we don't do the right things, I fear I'll have to visit my grandchildren in Texas or California or one of those thirty-four states that value education more than we do.

Democrats stand here today committed to work with you in a bipartisan way to solve this challenge. Both Democrats and Republicans promised to address this issue during the last campaign. Now it is time for us to sit down and work together to make sure our children get the education they deserve.

We must commit significant new dollars to this effort. This session's response to the crisis in education can't be just another political shell game. We must do better than the majority party's last effort in this area, the one then Governor Branstad referred to as "hesitant halting half steps."

We will help no one by funding teacher salaries by crowding more kids into a single class or by stealing from technology funds or by decimating staff development budgets.

Recruiting and keeping the best teachers possible for our kids, that should be the defining issue of this session. Let me also briefly say what this session shouldn't be about. It shouldn't be about playing politics.

Election years are about defining our differences. We have just come through one of the closest and most divisive national elections in our history. What Iowans want and need now is for us to solve problems.

Let's give Iowans a break from partisan politics for this session and make this year about securing our children's future.

Thank you, Madam President.

President Kramer presented Governor Vilsack, who delivered the following Condition of the State and Budget Address:

Iowa always has been a land of great opportunity. The earliest Iowans, the Sac and Fox tribes among them, lived well and prosperously from our soil's great bounty. Pioneering Americans were drawn to our great rolling prairies, as they moved westward in the 19th century and settled here to make new lives for themselves. Later, newcomers came from Ireland, Germany, Sweden, Norway, Holland, and Czechoslovakia to this land of promise. They made Iowa their home, as did their children and their children's children.

Opportunity has always been here for the taking, here for anyone with a sense of adventure and a spirit of exploration.

Today, more than at any time in the past, Iowa is a place of great potential. But in order to seize the limitless opportunities that lie ahead, we, too, must be willing to dare and to challenge the status quo.

Our future of promise does not depend on a continuation of the old ways and of the old economy built on low commodity prices and low-tech jobs. This path has led to below-average family incomes and stagnant population growth. Rather, our future of promise must be based on a new economy. A new economy that uses genetic codes, computer chips, and other science and technology marvels to create new frontiers.

A new economy that relies on well-educated and productive workers, is energized by dynamic, global markets, rewards innovation and creativity, and is driven by rapidly growing, technologically connected small businesses. Such a new economy will lead to higher incomes for working Iowans and their families and a better quality of life for all Iowans.

Iowans can, and Iowans should, lead this new economy.

But leadership will require courage—the courage to change. Working together, we've achieved much in the past. We've reduced class sizes in the early grades, improving opportunities for basic skills learning. We've begun to make our communities safer by reducing the supply of dangerous drugs like meth. We've enhanced our natural resources through aggressive private land conservation, helping to clean up our rivers and streams. We've expanded health care to thousands of children through an expansion and better outreach of the Hawk-I health insurance plan. Despite all that and more, there is still much work ahead of us.

As I reflect on our mission to lead the new economy, I am drawn to lessons learned in our history. Nearly 200 years ago, Thomas Jefferson understood that America's promise was contained in a new, expanding economy. He was drawn to the possibilities and promise of the West. And in 1803, he won approval from Congress for his visionary project—what was to become one of America's greatest adventure stories. He commissioned two men eager for knowledge, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, to explore new territory and to chart a course to new opportunity. Lewis and Clark planned and prepared. They put together a team of talented, innovative people. They relied on the expertise of their team members—a native American woman, Sacagawea, who welcomed these strangers to a new land and helped them communicate by translating the Native American languages and an African-American slave named York who helped to make critical decisions about routes to take which guaranteed their safe return. They took risks, and they used the latest technologies. And they were absolutely determined to, committed to, succeeding.

This brave group of adventurers had to rely on each other in order to succeed. For four years, Lewis and Clark and their team experienced the absolute wonder of discovery. Their explorations included Iowa: During their epic journey, Lewis and Clark traveled along Iowa's western border—and even buried one of their own in our soil.

Because they found a way to work together toward a common goal, they were able to open new territories to a young nation. They opened paths to previously uncharted territories. Succeeding generations seized these new opportunities and built a nation, a strong great nation—an American nation—nothing less than the strongest and most bountiful nation in history.

Today, let us commit ourselves to the challenges of transforming to a new economy and leading it with the spirit of teamwork and dedication to a common goal that drove Lewis and Clark. Let us, through our work together here and now, help Iowans seize the limitless opportunities of the new economy.

Let us build an Iowa that, with each succeeding generation, will become only better and stronger.

There are over 500,000 children going to schools across the state in kindergarten through twelfth grade. Each child has their own dream, their own developing potential, and their own educational need. A quality education provided by quality teachers makes a dream come true, the potential realized and the need met. If we are to transition to a new economy and lead it, we must start by transforming our schools and continue the commitment to excellence and high student achievement.

Two Iowans who already have committed to Iowa's leadership in the new economy are Marvin Pomerantz and John Forsyth. Each of these men understands the critical role that a high-quality education plays in the new economy. Last year, Marvin and John worked separately and jointly with educators, administrators, parents, school board members, and business leaders to develop a framework that will significantly improve student achievement by enabling Iowa schools to recruit and to retain quality teachers.

Their plan is driven by a simple principle: For our children to achieve their very best, they must be taught by the very best.

The single most important factor in a quality education—beyond involved parents—is a quality teacher. For years, Iowans have been blessed with many quality teachers. However, we can no longer take quality teachers for granted. In a world of opportunity, quality comes at a price.

Today, fewer young people are going into teaching. Beginning teaching salaries are thousands of dollars less than the starting salaries of most jobs available to high-achieving college graduates.

Many young people who make the choice to teach soon leave the profession. In Iowa, 28% of our teachers leave the classroom after the first three years for better opportunities. We lose 17% of our teachers in the first year alone, and that's about twice the national average. School officials are faced with the fact that up to 40% of Iowa's classroom teachers will be retiring within the next ten years.

As Iowa tries to recruit and retain talented teachers, so does the rest of the nation. The nation will need 2.2 million teachers over the next ten years but is equipped to educate and prepare only 1.4 million. That means there will be a shortage of 800,000 teachers. And as Iowa seeks to compete for that shrinking supply, our teacher salaries rank 35th in the nation.

If Iowa is to lead the new economy, our children must be high achievers, taught by the best teachers. Thanks to the work of Marvin Pomerantz and John Forsyth and their teams, work supported by legislative leaders from both chambers and from both sides of the aisle, we have a plan to do just that.

Recognizing that quality is about more than dollars and cents, this plan outlines how we can better develop and support quality teachers. The plan challenges all involved with student learning to aim high and to constantly improve.

The plan to improve student achievement has four basic elements.

First, it requires a rigorous course of study to become a teacher and participation in a multiyear induction or mentoring program in the first two years of teaching, which will guarantee teachers who are better-prepared for the classroom and better-supported once they've begun teaching.

Second, it establishes a research-based program of continuing education designed to improve student learning.

Third, it proposes to strategically increase teacher pay by fixing base pay at levels linked to the national labor market for teachers that will allow Iowa to remain competitive for talent.

Finally, it creates a variable pay program that rewards teachers, administrators, and certified staff for annual improvements in student achievement.

All of these simply reflect one of Iowa's oldest and most deeply held values—excellence in education.

Joining John Forsyth are the Iowans who worked in the development of this framework, as well as a number of Iowa's board-certified teachers and Milken Foundation grantees. These are teachers who have reached the pinnacle of their careers through hard work and continuing education. These are the teachers who have helped our students to excel. They model the career development, the commitment to quality, and the love of the calling reflected in the plan presented for your consideration. Please join me in thanking each of them for their contribution to our children, our future, and the future of Iowa.

The success of this plan depends in part on adequate funding. The framework will take several years to fully implement. During that time, some of the resources should and must come from dollars already allocated to our K-12 programs. But new funds also will be required.

Discussion of new funding often is a discussion of choices. But ensuring higher student achievement is no longer a choice. It is a requirement if we wish to transition to a new economy and lead it.

To reflect the priority that I believe we should place on this effort, I propose in the budget presented to you an initial first-year investment of $40 million in new state dollars. I propose that we make this significant investment now, in the form of a supplemental appropriation, before any other budget decisions are made.

We must all work together, in a bipartisan way, to transform our system. But this level of first-year funding will show real commitment. Appropriating first-year funding now shows the depth of that commitment—a commitment to change and to leadership in the new economy.

Last year, a team of talented Iowans showed their own commitment to change and to leadership with a blueprint for Iowa's future in the next ten years. Led by David Oman, a Republican, and Betsy Brandsgard, a Democrat, these bold thinkers made many recommendations for action. One of the principal recommendations revolved around their conclusion that by the year 2010, Iowans should be electronically connected to each other and to the world. They predicted that our access to emerging technologies would move Iowa to the forefront in education, e-commerce, medicine, and e-government. They predicted a revitalized new economy for Iowa, built on technology.

Creating a new economy and leading it will require affordable access to the Internet and other advanced telecommunications services—for all Iowans.

During my walk across Iowa, I visited many great small communities like Turin, Iowa, population 75. Sixty years ago, the leaders of that community made the decision not to invest in the new technology of that era—sanitary sewers. That decision has impact yet today, for the community cannot attract a convenience store that would make access to basic groceries more convenient. We have a chance to bring the world to the people of Turin, and hundreds of similar-sized communities, and help make Iowa a leader in the new economy. But we must move now to bring emerging technologies everywhere in Iowa at a price we can afford. In order for all Iowans to have that affordable access, there must be a strong, collaborative partnership between the public and private sectors.

Today, I ask for your support for the development of an Advanced Telecommunications Alliance. This alliance would bring public and private sector leaders in telecommunications together in a formal structure to design an advanced telecommunications service plan for Iowa. At this inception, we should challenge this new alliance to electronically link all Iowans with each other and with the world by 2005—a full five years before the prediction of the Strategic Planning Council.

I am confident that those telecommunications leaders will get the job done, if Iowans understand the enormous opportunities that such connections allow. Achieving that understanding will be easier if technical planning and assistance, identifying the benefits of being connected, is available.

To help communities access that planning and technical assistance, we should create a fund—a Digital Communities Account. Making resources available to communities through the account will accelerate the understanding of the importance and the potential of being connected. Such an understanding will create the demand for services to which the private sector will respond. When that occurs, every Iowan, from grandparents wishing to e-mail their grandchildren to large business owners or small business owners needing access to global markets, will have access to advanced telecommunication services—a prerequisite to leadership in the new economy.

Today, Iowans lead busy, and at times, complicated lives. We balance family and friends, work, community and church responsibilities. We need a government that helps us deal with these responsibilities and reflects our values.

When we need information or services from state government, we have a right to expect accuracy, efficiency and quality. E-government, information, and services available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, will help meet our expectations and make things a little easier and a lot more convenient.

Working together, we can create E-government so that every Iowan who seeks information, applies for a license or permit, or files a tax return or other document, will be able to do so whenever and however is most convenient for them.

Let us accept the challenge of 100% E by 2003. Iowans need it. Leadership of a new economy requires it.

In the same vein, we need a more accountable government. Accountability is a core Iowa value. We can and we should reflect that value in our statutory law defining how we govern and decide. That is why we ask for your support of the Accountable Government Act. Under the Act, the executive branch would strategically plan, develop performance measurements to gauge progress, and budget according to the desired results. We would be required to annually report to citizens and welcome regular performance reviews. We would be equipped to make decisions on data when limited resources require choices.

Working together, let us adopt the Accountable Government Act. When coupled with the mandate for fiscal responsibility and saving contained in our Constitution and prior budget reform acts, the Accountable Government Act will complete the effort to have a government with the values of the people it serves. A government well suited to help us lead the new economy.

Recently, I had the privilege of welcoming to the Governor's office two of Iowa's top, young scholars—Colin Holtze and Dana Hansen. These two young people are in their first year of college—Colin at Duke and Dana at Iowa State. What must we do today to maximize our chances of having these two bright, young people, and thousands like them, shape Iowa's future?

I believe the answer lies in transforming our economy and leading the new economy—particularly in areas where Iowa has a competitive advantage. Younger Iowans may know that Iowa boasts some of the richest, most productive soil in the world—land that has fed a nation and has helped to feed a world. But do they also understand the power of the research and development taking place on our university campuses or at businesses located across the state? Work that will expand the uses of our crops from food and fiber to cures for cystic fibrosis and other illness, to renewable, cleaner burning fuels, and to biodegradable materials suitable for manufacturing a wide variety of products.

Imagine a world where rosemary is used for more than adding flavor to food. Imagine a day when it will produce an antioxidant that wards off illness or disease.

Imagine a world where pharmaceutical drugs are no longer needed to treat illness and disease because gene therapy has prevented the illness or disease in the first place. Imagine a world where the effects of weather on crops can be managed by applying a substance to plants already planted, that will enable the plants to adjust to unexpected weather patterns. Iowans do not have to imagine such a world. We live in it—right here in Iowa—just ask the folks at Kemin Industries in Des Moines, the Plant Science Center at Iowa State University or the Biomedical Centers at the University of Iowa.

Iowa's formulae for keeping and attracting the talent of tomorrow requires a change in economic development philosophy to promote industry clusters of the life sciences, advanced manufacturing, information solutions, continued investment in research and development, and additional support for entrepreneurs.

Let us invite young people to Iowa's exciting future through the use of traditional economic development tools in new ways to develop the industry clusters of life sciences for companies like Kemin and Trans Ova, for advanced manufacturers like Rockwell Collins and Maytag, and information solutions for companies like ABC Virtual Communications and Diversified Software Industries. Let us invite young people to Iowa's exciting future through increased investment in the cutting-edge research and development taking place at our regents universities. Let us invite young people to Iowa's future through increased investment in entrepreneurship with a tax credit for investors, providing the venture capital for new start-ups.

Let us begin today to extend the invitation to higher incomes, better quality of life, and leadership in the new economy.

The new economy will not help everyone. The over 100,000 workers in Iowa earning the minimum wage likely will not be helped. A majority of them are women, and many are raising families. The purchasing power of the minimum wage today is much less than it was in 1982. If we are to restore the purchasing power of the minimum wage and provide a better chance for women and their children in particular, we should raise the minimum wage by $1.00 over the next two years. Currently, a person making minimum wage, working 40 hours a week, makes a little over $10,500 a year. With two wage earners at that level, a family of four would still qualify for some levels of assistance. Let us restore some measure of dignity for a hard day's work. Let us raise the minimum wage so that many Iowans working full time don't need assistance, but can have the satisfaction of doing it all on their own.

My time with you today is limited and does not allow a full discussion of all the proposals designed to help Iowa move forward. Rest assured that a continued and expanded effort at protecting and enhancing our natural resources and expanding cultural and recreational opportunities remain a priority. More resources for Vision Iowa, Enrich Iowa, REAP, Destination Parks, the Clean Water Initiative, and private land conservation are proposed. We will persist in our efforts for more local control over the location of large livestock facilities, and we will support an expansion of Iowa's successful Bottle Bill called for by an ever-growing grassroots environmental effort.

Jarren Ozburn, Trevor Boldra, and Joel Vasquez. Who are these Iowans? They were Iowans with compelling, untold, and tragic stories. They were Iowans who never experienced the joy of learning something new. They will not experience the joy of falling in love, of welcoming new life into the world. They were children in Iowa who, along with Shelby Duis and seven more children, died recently as a result of child abuse. These 11 children join seven adults who died from domestic abuse last year. They join the 65 children and adults who have died from abuse in the last five years—a number that would grow if we had accurate figures of elder abuse. A number that would grow by tens of thousands if we added those physically and psychologically hurt by abuse.

Shelby Duis' bruised and battered body put a name, a face, and a story to abuse in Iowa. Tragically, before her death and after her death, there were many others.

How many have to be injured or die before we get serious about abuse? How many have to be injured or die before we increase the protection services and improve training? How many have to be injured or die before we recognize the link between substance abuse, mental illness, and violence, and support strategies that work to break the cycle—like insurance parity and treatment?

Leadership in a new economy will mean little if our hearts are hardened to the cries of the most vulnerable. We will honor and bring meaning to all those who have lost their lives to senseless violence by fully and comprehensively dealing with abuse in this state. Today, let us pledge not with our words, but our actions to do what is required to protect the most vulnerable among us. Let us not be satisfied with half measures. Let us commit the full measure of devotion to the task of stopping abuse—of stopping abuse in Iowa, now.

I began this morning by talking about our state's history. It was built by hard work and with a strong sense of community. And it was built by people who came here from all over the world. From the beginning, immigrants have come to our state and helped it to prosper. As they became new Iowans, and added to our economic wealth, their diversity also brought strength and cultural richness to our state.

Historian Stephen Ambrose has said that the story of Lewis and Clark is America's story. It is the story of a diverse group of people, working for a common goal, who came together. They could not have succeeded in or survived their journey of exploration had they not done so. They proved that there is nothing that men and women cannot do if they act as a team dedicated to a common purpose.

The challenges that lie ahead of us are large and many. The opportunities that lie ahead are greater and more numerous. And if we can come together, work together toward a common purpose, we will create an Iowa high tech enough to lead a new economy and high touch enough to protect its most vulnerable.

The Iowa of today, like the America of 200 years ago, is a land of unlimited potential. Two centuries ago, our nation turned to two men to chart the course to new opportunities. Iowa today will turn to literally thousands of well-educated, productive citizens to chart new territory. With our collective work here, now we will decide if children's dreams will come true in Iowa, if a small-business owner in the smallest of our communities can have access to the world here in Iowa, if the bio-revolution will find a home in Iowa, or if our compassion is strong enough to break a cycle of violence and abuse or stop prejudice.

In 1805, a couple of years into their journey, Meriwether Lewis wrote in his journal, "The party are in excellent health and spirits, zealously attached to the enterprise, and anxious to proceed, not a whisper of murmur or discontent to be heard among them, but all act in unison, and with the most perfect harmony.”

As we embark on our journey, let it be said of us as well.

Thank you, and God bless you and our great state.

Governor Vilsack was escorted from the House Chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Representative Jacobs moved that the joint convention be dissolved, which motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate Chamber.

Mr. Speaker, Madam President, Members of the General Assembly, Governor Vilsack, Lieutenant Governor Pederson, distinguished guests, and friends:

Thank you for the warm welcome.

As I was preparing for today's speech, I thought of the many esteemed public servants—legislators, governors, even presidents—who have addressed the General Assembly, indeed the people of Iowa, in these magnificent chambers. For more than 20 years, it has been the great honor of the Chief Justice of the Iowa Supreme Court to stand here and report on the state of the judiciary. Today, as I address you for the first time, I do so with genuine humility and a sense of awe.

Before I begin my remarks, I need to mention a few matters.

First of all, on behalf of the Court, I welcome the new legislators who join us today. We look forward to working with you on any issue involving the administration of justice.

Like the new legislators, I'm also a new kid on the block. Because I'm new, I feel I should tell you a little bit about myself. Those who know me recognize that I am candid and plainspoken. I am sure that some will say this is an understatement. What you see is what you get. My colleagues on the Court will tell you that, when I feel strongly about a cause, I am a passionate advocate. But they will also tell you that I know the value of consensus building.

I pledge to do all that I can to promote communication with you, within the Judicial Branch, and most importantly, with the public. With that in mind, I am pleased to announce that we are taking a step in that direction today. This address is being broadcast over the Internet.

I want to also mention that the members of the Court and I invite everyone to join us, after my remarks, for refreshments and conversation in the courtroom downstairs. I assure you that the refreshments are under the three-dollar limit for gifts, and the conversation is free.

And finally, I am proud to tell you about our Child Advocate of the Year, Jill Viau of Adel. She is not only a remarkable advocate for children; she is a remarkable person. While in college, Jill was a "Big Sister" for two children. For six years she worked as a volunteer mentor for teenage mothers. Jill also volunteered in a program that helps children with cancer. For the past ten years, she has devoted many hours as a court-appointed Special Advocate, working on behalf of abused children who are before the court for protection. Jill demonstrates the very best of what it means to be an Iowan. And now it is my great pleasure to introduce our Child Advocate of the Year, Jill Viau. Please join me in applauding her.

I want to thank you for the invitation to talk to you about the state of the judiciary. Although the news is not uniformly good, we have some exciting opportunities within our grasp that will lift the delivery of court services out of the past and into the present. I am going to describe those opportunities and outline the steps we need to take to realize them. We have already taken many steps in that direction.

HARNESSING TECHNOLOGY TO IMPROVE GOVERNMENT

Let me begin with a brief look back.

During the last decade, nothing transformed our world more than information technology. With your support and with the vision and hard work of many, the Judicial Branch harnessed technology to improve the administration of justice.

We computerized nearly every facet of Iowa's court system and connected all clerk of court offices and administrative offices to a statewide network. In doing so, we gained substantial management and case processing efficiencies, increased productivity, and facilitated communication. Our court information system is the model and envy of many states.

But we did not stop there.

We worked hand-in-hand with other government entities, including the Department of Transportation, the Department of Human Services, the Department of Public Safety, and the Department of Revenue and Finance to electronically link our computer system with theirs. Through these links, we easily move mountains of information without paper, postage, or delay. These partnerships have improved a wide range of government services and made new services possible.

These innovations are only the beginning. We can and must do more.

BRINGING THE COURTS TO THE PUBLIC

With the aid of information technology, we can provide a host of court services where they are needed, when they are needed, anytime and anyplace. We have the momentum to do this now.

WEB SITE (www.judicial.state.ia.us)

We took a step in this direction in 1998 with the creation of the Iowa Judicial Branch Web Site. Our site is first and foremost a public information tool. It houses an array of useful information about the courts and the legal system. For example, it includes (1) basic explanations of court procedures, structure, and history; (2) biographical information on all Iowa justices, judges, and magistrates; (3) appellate court opinions; and (4) the child support guidelines. It also contains manuals to assist domestic abuse victims. The manuals are in four languages: English, Bosnian, Vietnamese, and Spanish.

This year we'll revamp the site making it easier to use, and we'll add more information.

But with the web site we are just scratching the surface. We can do much, much more.

Think of viewing court records or paying traffic fines or child support from the convenience of one's home or office. This would be a huge advantage for busy Iowans. We are currently working on two projects that will eventually make this possible. They are dramatic steps, and we should take them now.

ON-LINE COURTS

We are putting the finishing touches on the first step, a program that will put court dockets on-line, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. With this service, Iowans will have at their fingertips summaries of case information such as court schedules, fine-payment records, judgments, liens, child support obligations, and other case events, from all 99 counties and the appellate courts.

We are ready to launch this program once you decide how to fund electronic access to public records.

ELECTRONIC DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

The second step, the centerpiece of our on-line court system, will be a program we call electronic document management system or EDMS. It will enable people to electronically file their court documents and view entire court files on-line.

EDMS could eventually result in a paperless court system. However, I want to assure you that the Judicial Branch will continue to accommodate citizens who want to conduct their court business with paper. We will be equipped to scan paper filings into the system and to make paper copies when requested.

After several years of carefully studying the feasibility and cost of EDMS, we are ready to test it. In a few months, we will be operating pilot projects in Clinton County and Dubuque County. Later this year, we will test the program here at the appellate level. After the tests are done, we hope to take this technology statewide.

But we're not going to stop there. We can do more.

VIDEO COURT

During the recent presidential election saga, Americans had an opportunity to watch televised arguments before a state appellate court. At the time, a journalist asked me if the Iowa Supreme Court would ever allow television coverage of its proceedings. He was amazed when I told him that the Iowa Judicial Branch has allowed cameras in our courts for the past 20 years. Although we allow televised coverage, the media has not taken advantage of this by covering proceedings gavel-to-gavel.

Unfortunately, the public's perception of the court system is influenced by television shows such as People's Court, Divorce Court, and Moral Court, the goals of which are to entertain and sell household cleaners. Some people fear that video broadcasts of the courts would undermine the dignity of our court system. I disagree. Television broadcasts of real court proceedings, the goals of which are to administer justice, will promote public understanding and, in turn, heighten respect for our courts and the rule of law.

I am pleased to announce that the state's new judicial branch building will be equipped with everything needed to broadcast proceedings of the Iowa Supreme Court and the Iowa Court of Appeals.

TECH FUNDS

Opportunities of the magnitude I have mentioned require more than careful planning and hard work; they require reliable and continuous funding sources.

Dependable funding fosters planning, sparks innovation, and speeds deployment of new technology. You wisely recognized this when you created a dedicated funding stream for court technology and earmarked those funds solely for that purpose. We commend you for your foresight. By doing this, you gave us the power to revolutionize the court system. If we take the steps I have outlined, we can bring the courts closer to the people.

OTHER STEPS

While it is true that technology has been the driving force for much of our recent progress and it offers exciting opportunities for progress in the future, we must remember that it is not an end in itself. It is a useful tool to help the court system perform its basic function of providing justice.

We have additional steps to take. These steps do not involve the trappings of technology. They are simple but crucial steps that involve fundamental issues such as due process, performance, and resources.

INTERPRETER STUDY

Our legal system seems complex and intimidating, even to those who were born here. Imagine how it must seem to persons who do not speak or understand English. As a first generation Italian-American, I have some knowledge about the struggles immigrants face with our language. I witnessed my grandparents and my father having some of the same struggles.

We must be vigilant to safeguard the rights of, and provide access to, all who come to the courts regardless of which language they speak. Justice requires that we do so. That is why the Iowa Supreme Court has established a task force to assess the need for improvements in interpreter services. If improvements are needed, the task force will recommend a plan for addressing them. We must remove any barriers to justice.

PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENTS

We work for the public, just as you do. As public servants, we understand that our performance is directly related to the public's trust and confidence in us. Believing that we're on the right path is not enough. We need to objectively evaluate whether we are. And we have a plan to do just that. Recently, we adopted a five-part plan for ongoing reviews to measure Judicial Branch performance. The plan includes doing the following:

- Monthly, each judicial district will conduct a review of court statistics to determine whether they are meeting our time standards for case processing;
- Recently, we surveyed all court employees to find out how they think the courts perform in key areas such as fairness, integrity, efficiency, accessibility and communication. We'll repeat the survey periodically;
- We are encouraging each judicial district to hold employee discussion groups to hear employees' concerns and ideas for improvements;
- We are providing a standard exit questionnaire to each juror, asking them to evaluate their court experience; and
- We will conduct focus group sessions to seek the views of key court users such as attorneys, litigants, witnesses, and others.

Our performance reviews will serve as reality checks, help us identify any weaknesses in the court system, and generate ideas for future improvements.

JUDGESHIP STUDY

Our performance suffers when we do not have enough judges. The constitution gives you the responsibility to provide additional judges. However, we are keenly interested because the number of judges you provide directly affects our ability to carry out our constitutional mandate to serve the people.

In response to our shared concerns about the integrity of the statutory judgeship formulas, we started an intensive study of our trial court workload. This fall, more than half of our trial court judges and magistrates participated in an eight-week time study designed by the National Center for State Courts. As you know from your own work, some issues require more time than others. The results of the time study will show us the average amount of time a judge needs to handle each type of case. The end result will tell us the number of judges and magistrates we need to dispose of cases in a timely manner. Soon, we'll present the Center's report to you with our recommendations.

JUDICIAL BRANCH OPERATIONS

We know we must carefully manage the resources you provide. And we know we must exercise fiscal discipline. But when resources fall critically short of the public's demand for justice, even the best management will not slow the erosion of court services.

Due to the high cost of employee health insurance and other circumstances beyond our control, we began the fiscal year with a $2.4 million deficit in our operating budget. Despite our best efforts to manage around the budget shortfall, we found no way to avoid the unpleasant task of cutting public services.

During my first month as chief justice, I traveled to every judicial district to meet with our judges, clerks of court, and juvenile court staff. They are doing their best to keep cases moving under the present difficult conditions. Based upon their comments, I believe that if these conditions continue, case processing will fall behind and delays will start to mount.

I am proud of all of our people in the Judicial Branch. And I am impressed by their boundless capacity for work and their unshakeable commitment to helping others. But even the most productive person can only do so much each day.

Our system of government calls upon all branches of government, in different roles, to contribute to the administration of justice. Our role is to decide cases according to the law, promptly and equally for all people. We rely on you for the resources required to carry out this important responsibility. Though our roles are different, our goals are the same: to provide Iowans with an accessible, fair, and efficient court system.

You have a good track record of responding to the Judicial Branch's needs. I am confident you will work with us in a bipartisan effort to respond to our present concerns. It is in the public's best interest to do so.

According to an ancient proverb: "A journey of a thousand miles begins with one step." Today, I have outlined steps that will move us toward a court system that is more accessible, more open, and more accountable. Some of the steps are highly innovative; others are fundamental; all are important. It's clear where we need to go and what we need to do. But to reach our destination, we need your help. Join with us on our journey to ensure Iowans their most precious heritage: the right to justice.

Chief Justice Lavorato was escorted from the House Chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Governor Vilsack was escorted from the House Chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Representative Rants moved that the joint convention be dissolved, which motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate Chamber.

ADJOURNMENT

On motion of Senator Iverson, the Senate adjourned at 10:33 a.m. until 9:00 a.m. Thursday, January 11, 2001.

GOVERNOR'S ITEM VETO MESSAGE

February 6, 2001

The Honorable Mary Kramer
President of the Senate
State Capitol

Dear President Kramer:

I hereby transmit Senate File 65, an Act providing supplemental funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) for the current fiscal year.

As energy prices nationwide began to skyrocket this past winter and the weather conditions continued to become more severe, I called on the federal government to provide adequate funding for the LIHEAP program to assist Iowa's most vulnerable citizens. Following an allocation of over $16 million in federal Emergency Contingency Awards, the Iowa Division of Community Action Agencies projected the need for an additional $20 million to maintain the same proportionate level of energy assistance from LIHEAP as the previous year based on an estimated 20 percent increase in eligible households applying for assistance. I responded to this need with a $20 million solution generated from the extension of the energy efficiency charge from natural gas customers amounting to approximately $1.94 per customer. Unfortunately, the Republican Legislators rejected this solution, a solution that would have met the needs of low income Iowans.

Republican Leaders in the Legislature devised a plan that they claimed would provide $15 million to LIHEAP. However, Senate File 65 approved by the Legislature authorizes only $13,006,346 in state funding to meet the $20 million need. While the attempt is less than adequate, I am approving relief totaling $10.5 million for Iowans who now, more than ever, need relief from their high energy bills.

The following sections of Senate File 65 are, therefore, approved on this date with the noted exceptions, which I hereby disapprove.

I approve Section 1 appropriating $2,343,051 from the Innovations Fund. This action will leave a balance of $16,772 in the fund resulting in no new projects being funded until it can be sufficiently replenished. Adequate funding must be ensured for the Innovations Fund in future years to continue to maximize efficiencies in state government and realize significant cost savings.

I am unable to approve Section 2 appropriating $2,446,260 from the Housing Program Fund. This section impacts the Down Payment/Closing Cost Grant Program, the First Home/First Home Plus Program, and the Housing Assistance Fund through a significant reduction in funding. These programs play an essential role in providing decent, safe, and affordable housing to low-income individuals and families in Iowa. The reduction passed by the Legislature will adversely impact the housing opportunities for the very people targeted to receive heating assistance. To accept this section would be taking from the very Iowans we are attempting to help, and I cannot approve this appropriation.

It is with great reluctance that I approve Section 3 appropriating $4,127,270 of currently unencumbered and unobligated funding from the Groundwater Protection Fund. This fund was created for the specific purpose of protecting Iowa's valuable water resources, and there is an ongoing need for incentives to meet this purpose. However, the transfer of $4,127,270 from the Solid Waste Account within the Groundwater Protection Fund will not impact current projects and will be used to meet a more immediate need in Iowa today. While Senate File 65 appropriates up to $6,553,024 from the Groundwater Protection Fund, only $4,127,270 is currently unencumbered and unobligated and therefore available for transfer.

I approve Section 4 placing a cap on LIHEAP funding for residential weatherization at $3,305,016. This action results in an additional $3,040,451 being made available for direct assistance to low-income Iowans. Because weatherization provides a long-term fix for high heating bills by improving the energy efficiency of low-income Iowans' homes, it is penny wise and pound foolish to reduce funding available for permanent prevention. However, I am directing the Division of Community Action Agencies to take the existing carryover from the weatherization fund and apply it to the next program year beginning April 1, 2001. Together with additional federal funding the Division will receive for the next program year, the weatherization program will have approximately $11 million available as compared to $9.5 million in estimated actual expenditures for the current year. Therefore, local weatherization programs will maintain an equivalent level and range of services.

I approve Section 5 providing Community Action Agencies the ability to deliver assistance from LIHEAP to low-income Iowans. By placing a cap of $2,663,921 on the administration of the program, Section 5 provides an additional $1,049,314 in LIHEAP payments.

I approve Section 6 establishing a limit of $715,000 on expenditures for assessment and resolution of energy problems.

I approve Section 7 dedicating all federal emergency funding in excess of the original core funding for LIHEAP to assist eligible households meet their home energy costs. Any future appropriations shall be used as direct assistance to those Iowans most in need.

While unfortunately this is not enough funding to meet the need that currently exists, this Act provides a significant amount of funding that will ease the pressure on some working families, senior citizens, and people with disabilities forced to decide between buying food, buying prescription drugs, or paying their heating bill.

For the above reasons, I hereby respectfully approve Senate File 65 with the exceptions noted above. While approval of this Act will provide immediate relief, the long-term answer to this problem is the development of a comprehensive energy policy for the state to ensure a reliable supply and stable price.

Sincerely,
THOMAS J. VILSACK
Governor

GOVERNOR'S ITEM VETO MESSAGE

March 13, 2001

The Honorable Mary Kramer
President of the Senate
State Capitol
LOCAL

Dear President Kramer:

I hereby transmit Senate File 267, an Act relating to state budgetary matters by providing for reductions and supplementation of appropriations made for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2000, and transferring, crediting, and appropriating certain moneys, and providing an effective date.

We have some very difficult choices ahead of us as we determine next year's state budget. Rather than create chaos with the state's budget during the last months of this fiscal year, we need to get down to the serious business of focusing on next year's budget. With revenues down, we will need to aggressively address next year's budget in a thoughtful, planned, and bipartisan manner.

Senate File 267 is, therefore, approved on this date with the following exceptions, which I hereby disapprove.

I am unable to approve Division III, Section 3 in its entirety. This provision requires a one percent reduction for most general fund appropriations. Under this Section, education and human services programs would bear the brunt of the cuts. I made it very clear to Republicans that if they chose to move forward with budget cuts, they would assume the responsibility for determining which programs and services should be eliminated. Instead of thoughtfully studying how these cuts would effect Iowans, they chose to make an across the board cut mandating a reduction in services without specifying which services to reduce or eliminate.

I am unable to approve the language contained in Division VIII, Sections 17 and 18. These provisions would reduce the state's contribution to the Judicial retirement system during the current fiscal year and future fiscal years. At this time, the judicial retirement system is not actuarially sound. Reducing the contributions to the fund, delays achievement of our long held goal of fully funding the judicial retirement system.

In my continued effort to work in a bipartisan manner, I am approving a number of cuts to the FY 01 budget. The Republican controlled legislature rejected bipartisanship by passing rash and not well thought out cuts that were not agreed to and would have unnecessarily disrupted services to Iowans.

I made it very clear to Republican legislative leaders that if they chose to move forward with budget cuts, they would need to identify which programs and services should be eliminated. Instead of thoughtfully studying how these cuts would affect Iowans, they chose a rash approach that would create chaos in the services on which Iowans rely.

The State of Iowa has experienced a serious decline in revenues, a decline that is unprecedented in twenty years. However, the current fiscal year is not the problem as the state will have adequate resources available to meet the needs of Iowans. This bill would have disrupted services to Iowans.

The decisions of the past limit our flexibility in responding to the FY 02 budget. We will be fiscally responsible and we will deal with the challenge presented to us. In this challenge, we have an opportunity to find efficient and effective ways for delivering services to Iowans.

For the above reasons, I hereby approve Senate File 267 with the exceptions noted above.

Sincerely,
THOMAS J. VILSACK
Governor

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

March 30, 2001

The Honorable Mary Kramer
President of the Senate
State Capitol Building

Dear President Kramer:

I hereby transmit Senate File 66, an Act relating to state general fund expenditure limitation requirements for transmission of the state budget by the Governor and passage of the state budget by the General Assembly.

I am unable to approve Senate File 66. This bill makes changes to the state expenditure limitation even though the present limitation accomplishes the purposes for which it was created. This is an unnecessary and, in some instances, unworkable revision to Iowa's original budget reform legislation.

A key part of Iowa's 1992 budget reform law was creating a mechanism for filling the state's two reserve funds. One of those reserve funds, the economic emergency fund, pre-dated the 1992 changes, but it had never been adequately maintained. The expenditure limitation, which provides that only 99% of estimated revenues may be spent, created a mechanism for filling those reserve funds.

That original expenditure limitation has worked very well. Both of the state's reserves are filled to their statutory maximum. Combined, they contain nearly half a billion dollars. Given that the present law has worked so well, there is no reason for change.

Senate File 66 would change that original expenditure limitation by stipulating that reversions (which are appropriated but unspent funds) not be considered in calculating the expenditure limitation. This is an unnecessary alteration of the expenditure limitation.

Every year, there are appropriated but unspent funds that are returned to the state general fund at the end of the fiscal year. The expenditure limitation is meant to limit expenditures. Reversions are, by their very nature, not expenditures.

Reversions are a very real aspect of budgeting, and it makes little sense to not recognize that fact. According to the legislative fiscal bureau, over the last twenty years reversions have averaged over $26 million a year.

Senate File 66 flies in the face of the legislature's own practice. The $26 million in average unspent funds each year would be higher but for the fact that the legislature has often chosen to fund technology projects with reversions. The state's successful Y2K effort was started with a legislative appropriation of $15 million of anticipated reversions in FY 1997. It makes no sense to assume that reversions will not exist for the purpose of calculating the expenditure limit but then assume that they will exist for purposes of making technology appropriations.

Iowa's 1992 budget reform effort has been successful because it was a workable approach to limiting spending. This new limitation would also remove needed flexibility in the budgeting process.

I have, for example, recommended salary savings in the FY 2002 budget through workforce attrition. It is not possible to determine at this point exactly where this $4.3 million savings will be achieved; that will depend on which employees leave state government over the course of that fiscal year. As a consequence, that savings is shown as a reversion. To not reflect that savings in the calculation of the expenditure limit takes away many of the tools that are necessary to make enterprise wide decisions about expenditures.

Sincerely,
THOMAS J. VILSACK
Governor

It seems strange to be back up here today. I remember being here many times from 1973 through 1978, but always to introduce then-Governor Bob Ray.

In reading about your problems this session, I was reminded of the General Assembly in 1967. In 1964, there was a sweep by the Democrats in the election which resulted in both houses, the Governor's Office, as well as the entire executive council with but one exception, being held by that party. In the 1968 election, the Republicans regained control of the House by a very narrow margin, but the Democrats still controlled the Senate by a three-vote margin. Harold Hughes was re-elected as Governor.

I was one of the freshmen Senators, and it was an experience. The session was the longest ever and didn't adjourn until early July. A consensus developed as soon as warm weather arrived that the air circulation system in this wonderful old building was woefully inadequate.

What made me think of the '67 session was your struggle with school legislation. Prior to 1967, state aid to schools was minimal. The public school system was largely funded with property tax. There was a consensus that something had to be done, but no agreement on how to accomplish this.

The Republicans in the House passed a school aid proposal called "The Petersen Plan," and the Senate passed a plan called "Proportionate Sharing." In addition, there was not nearly enough revenue to fund either plan, so a tax increase was unavoidable if the state was going to provide significant aid to the public schools.

Each house passed its school aid plan, and the whole thing ended up in a conference committee. The committee merged the two plans, and although it did not have authority to decide on what, if any, taxes were to be increased, acknowledged that the plan depended on increased revenue. The committee met with Governor Hughes and the leadership of both parties in each house. After some posturing, the school aid plan was agreed to, as were the taxes to fund the aid.

The proposal was reported out and passed both houses by a wide margin. A large majority of each party in each house supported the legislation, and Iowa had its first significant aid to schools. Ironically, the legislation was supported by the ISEA and the Farm Bureau — a modest miracle in itself, I thought.

I recall a guest editorial in the Des Moines Register in 1997, when California economist Arthur Laffer derided a small tax cut and also noted that "good policies always pass by the skin of their teeth ... nothing truly great is ever so clear as to command a massive plurality." This is unadulterated nonsense. Some of the greatest, most far-reaching legislation passed by the Iowa Legislature during my time passed by enormous majorities when the two parties and the legislative and executive branches came together.

The point of all this is that I think there is a consensus in Iowa today that we have to increase teachers' salaries. It may not be possible to do as much as we would like to do this session because of the drop in revenue, but still a consensus does exist. Therefore, given the makeup of state government today, a legislature controlled by one party, but by a very narrow margin, and an executive branch by the other party, the only way legislation will be passed is if both parties play a major role in the drafting of the school legislation and approve the final product. To try to do otherwise is, at best, misguided and, at worst, cynical. I can also tell you that there is more cynicism toward government today than there has been for a long time. That cynicism is not lessened by bickering over what the public considers intricate provisions in the proposed legislation. I do not think there is any political advantage to be gained unless you can pass a reasonable bill to increase teachers' salaries, and you will not pass it unless there is a consensus among the two parties and the Governor.

I have seen the statistics showing an upcoming shortage of teachers in this state. While increased salaries are certainly the most important ingredient in attracting more young people into the field, it seems to be that other programs should be considered.

For example, rural Iowa has many highly intelligent people who are unable to travel any distance to attend college or university. They are essentially locked into their region by family matters. These people would be excellent teachers. They will not be recruited away, and they will teach in schools in their region.

The University of Northern Iowa and the Des Moines Area Community College have such a program in Carroll where DMACC teaches the first two years following UNI requirements. The second two years are taught by UNI faculty, both in person and over the ICN. Of the twenty-five graduates from this program to date, twenty-three are teaching in schools in the region. The program would not require new bricks and mortar and would only involve some additional personnel. They could be taught on community college campuses throughout the state. It will only be successful however, if both sectors work together in a cooperative fashion, do not try to make the program into a profit center, and use bona fide faculty. If the college does not utilize instructors who would qualify to teach on their campus, then the programs become a farce, which must be guarded against. I strongly recommend that such a program be put into effect statewide to help address our teacher shortage.

Additionally, I understand that the teacher shortage is more acute for certain subjects. Why not give school boards authority to establish pay differentials? If a board determines that they have a special need for a physics teacher, why shouldn't the board have authority to establish a salary above the level that teacher would receive under the district's salary schedule?

I also note increased discussion for school reorganization. Some schools today are clearly too small. I recommend to you the Great Plains Report, which was commissioned by the Legislature in 1964. The last time I checked there was one copy remaining in the Service Bureau Library. The report looked at school districts and concluded that there was an optimum size — that districts could be too large and too small. The per pupil cost was like a bell curve. Districts that were too large or too small could be given incentives, beyond what exist today, to merge. You could consider county-like districts in rural areas where several districts would be merged with one superintendent and one board but with multiple attendance centers. Thus, in a rural county with four districts predominantly within the county, they could still retain their four high schools with all the extra-curricular activities remaining in the community but sharing faculty and even facilities. There would be some savings, but also some additional transportation costs. Students would have the advantage of more class offerings and better qualified instructors in some instances.

Lastly, I find myself perplexed by one action, or inaction, of this General Assembly. Some years ago you created rainy-day funds. This was even discussed in antiquity when I was down here, and it should have been enacted then. You showed foresight when you created these funds. What I fail to understand is your failure to utilize the funds now that there is a downturn in our economy and the state's revenue has fallen substantially below projections. While some may think this is not an emergency, it certainly seems so to me. Why else create the fund, if not to use when revenue dips substantially. When the economy starts to grow again, you can start to replenish the fund.

What you must realize is that state programs can certainly be cut, but when they are, there are repercussions to some of the people. Sometimes it takes years before the total impact is understood, but it does have an effect. For example, cut funds to prisons, and you are encouraging more overcrowding than we now have and a takeover by the federal courts. Cut school aid, and gradually the quality of our schools and the infrastructure will deteriorate. The same is true with our universities and community colleges. I understand that this is gradual, but it nonetheless takes place. When we try to encourage new businesses to come to Iowa or existing businesses to expand in Iowa, they all tell me they look at our infrastructure, that is, schools, hospitals, roads etc. Additionally, when you reduce state programs, invariably costs are shifted to the local property tax, which is probably the one Iowa tax that is out of line with surrounding states. By arbitrarily putting limits on local governments beyond what now exists, you are hamstringing the government that is closest to the people. Instead of limiting local government during the good times of the last ten or so years, you should have been shifting the cost from the property tax to state revenue such as has been done with schools.

I understand that in times such as these your job is difficult. There is a government that is divided politically. You are besieged by outsiders and press who know what you should do, but who do not have a consensus among themselves. Whatever you do, there will be critics who berate you. Notwithstanding all this, remember that there have been times when under such circumstances some of our best legislation has been passed and that it has stood the test of time. I certainly wish you success with the very difficult issues confronting you today.

Representative Connors presented the Memorial Choir, who performed "The Irish Blessing."

Representative Jacobs moved that the joint convention be dissolved at 2:54 p.m.

The motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate Chamber.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

May 3, 2001

The Honorable Mary Kramer
President of the Senate
State Capitol Building

Dear President Kramer:

I hereby disapprove and transfer Senate File 222, an act relating to the statute of limitations in civil actions arising out of the unsafe or defective condition of an improvement to real property.

In 1980, Governor Ray vetoed legislation to establish a statute of repose for building and construction cases, citing a delicate balance between protecting potential victims and business interests. In articulating the rationale for his veto, Governor Ray commented that "it is the potential and actual harm to an innocent victim which I must judge against the arguments of the professional persons who would like to be protected against law suits after a limited period of time."

I share Governor Ray's concerns for protecting potential victims and appreciate that our legal system must provide these individuals with a forum to seek legal relief, should they be injured. Whether it is a neighbor who uses his savings for a new roof for the family farmhouse that later crumbles due to defective materials or a child who is injured due to a faulty fire and sprinkler system at his or her school, citizens deserve an avenue through which they may seek relief for their injuries. Unfortunately, I do not believe that all such injuries occur neatly within a 10 year window. I again echo Governor Ray's sentiments from his veto message when he stated, "I must think of those to whom circumstance has not yet brought loss of property, health or even life and who, if that loss occurs, would seek and yet find no avenue of recovery..."

Realizing the negative effect this bill may have on many of Iowa's consumers, homeowners, and businesses, I am unable to approve Senate File 222. A statute of repose stipulates the time period during which individuals may bring lawsuits for certain injuries or damages. Iowa law currently provides that an individual has 15 years to file suit for injuries or damages incurred due to unsafe or defective improvements to real property. Senate File 222 would reduce this time period from 15 to 10 years.

Our legal system, by its design, places the primary burden of proof on the party seeking relief for an injury or damages. To restrict further the time period during which individuals may pursue legal remedies for their damages would place many consumers and property owners at a heightened disadvantage in their efforts to seek redress. It should also be noted that the 10 year time period afforded individuals in Senate File 222 does not begin once they realize a construction defect or incur an injury. Rather, this time period begins from the date that the potential defendant commits the act or omission that later causes the injury or damages. This means that the clock begins to tick against the injured party even before the injured party may have realized a problem or suffered an injury.

While proponents of this bill argue that 10 years should provide ample time to document any problem or design defect, this time period may not be adequate. Construction and building professionals today design structures to last for decades, if not centuries. While some defects may arise in the first years after construction, others may not surface within a 10 year period of time. During consideration of Senate File 222, legislators heard from large numbers of homeowners and businesses stating that a 10 year statute of repose was too restrictive. As business building owners, corporate entities such as Principal Financial Group, Meredith Corporation, and Wells Fargo all expressed concern over reducing the statute of repose in these situations.

Supporters of SF 222 have also asserted that the statute of repose should be shortened to 10 years in order to bring Iowa more in line with other states' legislation. While some states do provide shorter time periods, they have also created exceptions to the statute in order to maintain consumer protection.

Legislators here considered exceptions to Iowa's statute of repose via amendments to Senate File 222. These exceptions would have removed the time limitation for filing suit where there are allegations of a contractor's intentional disregard of building codes, breach of express warranties, fraud, willful misconduct, or use of defective materials. Unfortunately, the General Assembly chose not to include any exceptions to the statute of repose, thus further limiting the legal rights of consumers who may fall victim to the misdeeds of others.

Sincerely,
THOMAS J. VILSACK
Governor
