The regular session of the Thirty-eighth General Assembly commenced January 13 and 98 days later adjournment was taken sine die, but counting out Sundays and adjournments both houses were in session 78 working days.

At the time of adjournment 142 bills remained on the desk of the governor to be acted on, having been passed in the closing days of the session; and these were all approved, the last one on April 28. There were 45 senate bills approved with publication clause and 61 house bills, a total of 116 which may go into effect before the regular time. The others become effective July 4, 1919. There were 39 legalizing acts approved.

This Index and History aims to cover all the essential facts regarding every bill introduced. In a few instances the pages of the Journals recording the facts could not be found. The titles of bills are not given but rather a brief statement indicating the actual contents.

In the classified list of bills passed, commencing on page 6, the Senate and House files are separated, and the number in parenthesis is the chapter number as it will appear in the Session Laws when the book is published.
