Human Trafficking Office

Human Trafficking

Human trafficking is defined under the federal Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 as the recruitment; harboring; transporting; or obtaining of a person by means of force, fraud, or coercion for purposes of servitude, debt bondage, slavery, or participation in the sex trade.¹ It may include, but does not require, physical movement of the victims. Human trafficking may also dovetail into other crimes such as drug trafficking, larceny, and money laundering, as traffickers are frequently involved in other illegal activities. Human trafficking is a crime that preys upon and exploits vulnerable members of society.

Iowa Efforts to Identify and Combat Human Trafficking

The Criminal and Juvenile Justice Planning Division of the Iowa Department of Human Rights states that human trafficking is believed to occur at higher rates than state-level data captures, but the actual numbers of occurrence are unknown. Efforts to identify and combat human trafficking in Iowa include:

- The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy has integrated training on human trafficking into basic academy courses for new recruits and hires.
- The Crime Victim Assistance Division of the Attorney General's Office provides services to human trafficking victims and trains local and state justice system professionals to recognize and report incidents of human trafficking.
- The Department of Public Safety (DPS) has established a Human Trafficking Office.

Human Trafficking Office

The DPS received $200,000 and 2.0 FTE positions in HF 2459, the Standing Appropriations Bill, during the 2016 General Assembly to establish the Human Trafficking Office. The duties of this Office include:

- Serve as the point of contact for anti-human trafficking activity within the State of Iowa.
- Consult and work with other agencies and organizations having expertise in dealing with the crime of human trafficking.
- Develop a strategy to collect and maintain criminal history data on incidents related to human trafficking.
- Develop a strategy for sharing victim and offender data among governmental agencies.
- Apply for and assist other governmental agencies to apply for grants to combat human trafficking.
- Research and recommend training to identify and respond to human trafficking victims.
- Report by November 1, 2017, and annually thereafter, to the General Assembly regarding the Office's activities related to combatting human trafficking and the identified occurrences of human trafficking within the state.
