PROPERTY REPORT

Senate File 2088, Section 80

December 30, 2010

Senate File 2088, Section 80 requires the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) to 1) complete an inventory of surplus and unused state properties other than historic buildings, including properties owned or under the control of the department of transportation, and recommend which assets could be sold at a premium price; 2) perform a lease audit and begin renegotiating office leases to obtain more favorable lease terms; and 3) explore potential opportunities for state agencies to sell some properties to a private sector owner and then lease them back.

DAS is to submit a report to the general assembly by January 1, 2011, concerning the requirements of this section. The report shall, if applicable, identify any statutory barriers for pursuing efforts described in this section and shall include in the report its findings and any recommendations for legislative action.

1) Real Estate Audit—List of Surplus and Unused State Properties

DAS periodically contacts property managers within the Executive Branch to determine whether any agency has identified real property as surplus. Agencies contacted include DOC, DHS, DNR, and DPD. It should be noted that these agencies (as well as DOT, which sells surplus property on a regular and routine basis) have specific authority for disposing of surplus real property.

To date, DAS has not been notified that any agency has real property which is not in use and/or should be sold.

Statutory barriers: DAS does not have statutory authority to deem real properties as "surplus" and engage in selling of the same. In fact, under 8A.321 (8) requires DAS to obtain authorization of a constitutional majority of each house of the General Assembly and approval by the Governor to dispose of real property belonging to the state and its state agencies. While section 82 of SF 2088 allows DAS in conjunction with DOC and DHS to identify and sell real property, this is limited, and the only authority provided to DAS to sell real property without approval from the general assembly and the Governor.

2) Lease Audit—Statewide Lease Renegotiations

DAS undertook a massive effort to renegotiate all leases for office space, both at the seat of government, and outside the seat of government. The attached spreadsheets identify the savings associated with each lease that was renegotiated. Through these efforts, DAS was able to achieve more than $4M in lease cost savings during the next few fiscal years. (Refer to EXHIBIT A for statewide lease renegotiation details.)

3) Sale and Leaseback of State Office Building Assets

While there is some history of local governments and states selling assets, most recently, two other states have taken on such an initiative: Arizona and California.

ARIZONA

Through five (5) underwriting firms, Arizona offered certificates of participation for shares in these buildings:

- The state Coliseum, $84.9 million
- Executive Tower (home to various state agencies and the Governor's Office), $43.9 million
- Legislative buildings, $37 million
- Archives Building, $29.5 million
- Department of Revenue, $30.9 million and its parking garage, $4.5 million
- Department of Public Safety headquarters, $53.3 million
- State hospital, $179.8 million
- Phoenix Day School for the Deaf, $29.5 million
- Four buildings at the Arizona State Prison Complex in Florence, $163.8 million
- Two units at the Eyman prison complex in Florence, $82.2 million

Certificates of participation were offered in $5,000 increments. The sales of these buildings produced $735M in revenue to the state. The program is defined at this website:

<http://www.azdoa.gov/news/Arizona.COP.POS.5.27.10%20-%20FINAL.pdf> (Please note: this document is 267 pages in length)

A press release from the Arizona Department of Administration details the results of the offering:

The Director of the Department of Administration, on behalf of the State, moved forward yesterday with the successful sale of its Series 2010A Certificates of Participation in association with the sale and lease-back of State assets. As a result of the sale of the Certificates, the State will receive approximately $735.4 million of proceeds for deposit to the State's General Fund. This financing approach will help offset the projected shortfall in the General Fund and address cash flow needs for the current fiscal year.

The sale and lease-back of State assets was authorized by the Legislature and approved by the Governor as part of the budget solutions enacted for fiscal year 2009-10. Under this approach, key State assets are nominally sold to a bank trustee and simultaneously leased back to the State for the approximate 20-year term of the financing. By nominally selling the assets, the State is able to retain control of the facilities and continue to operate them as it normally would, subject to making the annual lease payments. The bank trustee uses the proceeds of the Certificates sold to investors to purchase the facilities from the State. The State then deposits this money into the General Fund. At the end of the financing term when the Certificates are repaid, the facilities are automatically released as collateral for the Certificate financing.

Investor interest in the State's Certificates was very strong over the two-day order period, with over $1 billion in orders to purchase the Certificates. Despite the State's weakened fiscal condition and need to address projected budgetary shortfalls in the current and future fiscal year, investor interest was high due to the mission critical nature (or essentiality) of the facilities being used as collateral in the financing. The facilities include the Executive Tower, the Legislative buildings, the Department of Public Safety Headquarters, various State prison facilities and other assets of the State. According to David Raber, Interim Director of the Department, "Many of the large institutional investors noted the importance of the critical facilities being used as collateral as an important consideration in their decision to invest in the State's financing."

As a result of the strong response from investors, the State was able to secure this important funding for the State's General Fund at an overall true interest rate of approximately 4.57%, well below the expectation of many financial experts. According to Mr. Raber, "For the State to be able to borrow $735.4 million over a twenty-year period at an interest rate of 4.57% is very helpful in addressing the State's fiscal challenges, and reflects well on investors' view of the State and the Governor's efforts to address budgetary concerns going forward."

Arizona is scheduled to sell, in the ensuing months another block of assets with an estimated value of $300 M.

CALIFORNIA

In California, the sale-leaseback of state office buildings met with litigation by taxpayers. Initially, a temporary injunction to stop the selling of the buildings was not granted, which would have allowed the California Department of General Services to sell 24 government buildings, hoping to raise $1.2 billion. The taxpayers appealed, and an appellate court will rule soon on whether the sale can continue. Likely, the new Governor will determine whether the state proceeds.

California's initial steps included evaluating which buildings should be put up for sale, and identifying what profit might be gained from the sale of the buildings. The administration projected the state would receive $1.98 billion from the sale of the buildings.

California then conducted a competitive process to select a firm that would conduct the sale. CB Richard Ellis was chosen, and could earn .08% of the total sales price, or about $1.6 million. The proposed terms of the sale included the following items:

- a. A lease term of 20 years, with an opportunity to extend for 30 additional years;
- b. Automatic increase in the lease rates of 10 percent every five years, and could increase annually based on inflation;
- c. The state would pay for gas and electricity occasional painting and re-carpeting; the private owner would pay for sewer, trash disposal, water, and other property management services, such as custodial services.

IOWA

DAS has identified these state office buildings for potential sale – leaseback arrangements: (Refer to Exhibit B for Fact Sheets on some of these buildings.)

- a. Central Energy Plant
- b. Facilities Maintenance Building (109 E. 13th Street)
- c. Grimes Building
- d. Hoover Building
- e. Jessie Parker Building
- f. Lucas Building
- g. Parking Ramp
- h. DPS Building
- i. Wallace Building
- j. 150 Des Moines Street (IWD satellite building)
- k. Workforce Development Building
- l. (former) Mercy Capitol Hospital (no fact sheet)
- m. 709 E. Locust (slated for demo; no fact sheet)
- n. 711 E. Locust (slated for demo; no fact sheet)
- o. Iowa Labs Facility, Ankeny (no fact sheet)

Other buildings that might be considered, but are outside the scope of DAS code responsibilities, include the state prisons, the IPERS building, the mental health institutes, DPS headquarters located throughout the state, DNR parks, including Honey Creek, Iowa Finance Authority, Regents institutions, such as the School for the Deaf and School for the Blind, Ola Babcock Miller, etc.

Pros and Cons of Sale-Leaseback Initiative

Pros

Up front benefit of one-time income to the general fund.

Depressed real estate market may allow for lower than normal rent payments.

Sale-leaseback may be attractive to investors, due to the guaranteed occupancy.

Cons

Higher annual costs to the State may occur as the State would make ongoing lease payments to the new owner that would likely be greater than the amount the state currently spends to own and operate the buildings.

Selling at a low point in the market may result in less revenue.

Unlike some other States, the State of Iowa owns the buildings outright; there are no bond or other debt obligations on any of the buildings that might be sold.

Loss of building control.

Legislation Needed and Additional Next Steps

In order to undertake and complete this initiative, DAS will need broad legislative authority that will allow the department to identify and sell surplus real property belonging to the state. Also, an in-depth analysis of whether this initiative will work for Iowa is required.

Additionally, funding and guidance are necessary to complete these tasks:

1. Hire a consultant to help us identify buildings that should be sold, and to evaluate the worth of each.
2. Determine how the sale should be structured.
3. Identify the lease terms that are most advantageous to the great State of Iowa.
4. Conduct the sale and collect proceeds.

Recommendation

At this time, DAS does not believe the benefits of such an initiative outweigh the risks and potential for long-term debt. We do not believe this is an avenue that will ultimately produce good results to the Great State of Iowa.

CENTRAL ENERGY PLANT

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Central Energy Plant, 110 Southeast 13 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Department of Administrative Services
Years Constructed:	1976
Designers & Builders:	Brooks Borg Skiles Architecture Engineering

History/Overview

When two new state office buildings (Wallace and Hoover) were in the planning stages in the mid-1970s, it was realized that the Capitol Complex's growing needs included greater power-generating capacity. The original power plant was built in 1800 north of Grand Avenue. A new heating and cooling plant was constructed in the southeast corner of the Capitol Complex in 1976. As part of the move, a study was done to explore alternative energy sources, and by the late '70s the State was already testing using solar energy. Although technology at the time did not result in efficient options for solar energy then, recent updates are leading state government to using more sustainable and efficient energy sources.

FACILITIES MANAGEMENT CENTER

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Facilities Management Center, 109 Southeast 13 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Department of Administrative Services
Years Constructed:	1980
Designers & Builders:	Brooks Borg Skiles Architecture Engineering

History/Overview

The Facilities Management Center is tucked into the southeast corner of the Capitol Complex and serves as the hub for many of the Capitol Complex's most important "behind the scenes" offices, included Architectural & Engineering Services and Capitol Complex Maintenance. These offices help keep all other state agencies operating in good, safe and efficient facilities. The original structure was constructed in 1980 and was renovated in 2007.

Green Features

- Free cooling
- Optimized steam heating
- Air Handling Unit (AHU) economizers
- Lighting schedules and Air Handling Unit (AHU) occupied/unoccupied schedules are programmed through the building automation system
- Fluorescent lighting upgraded to efficient T-8 lamps with electronic ballasts
- Incandescent bulbs replaced with energy-saving compact fluorescent lamps

GRIMES BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Grimes Building, 400 East 14 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Civil Rights Commission, Department of Education, Iowa Communications Network
Years Constructed:	1965 (planning) – 1968 (building was occupied)
Designers & Builders:	Smith Vorhees Jensen – Architects Associated Frank N. Bunker – State Architect Fane F. Vawter & co. – General Contractor Central Plumbing & Heating – Mechanical Contractor Brown Brothers, Inc. – Electrical Contractor

History/Overview

The James W. Grimes State Office Building, completed in late 1967/ early 1968, was the second general-use office building constructed on the Capitol Complex, the Lucas Building being the first. At the time of its construction it was hailed as a “contemporary-style building” that emphasized simplicity in its design. On the outside walls, alternate panels are recessed about four feet with glass panels in the set-back space. From the road, however, the building appears to have no windows.

The Grimes Building was also designed to hide all pipes, vents and rooftop air conditioning equipment by a low enclosure on the roof. George Shane, an art critic for The Des Moines Register newspaper, noted of the design in 1965 that “some might find in the extended roof a pleasant hint of the Oriental digressions of Frank Lloyd Wright or Edward Durrell Stone but there are no clichés or impedimenta to interfere with the design’s forth-right simplicity.”

The three-story building, which also has a basement, cost approximately $3 million to construct. Governor Harold Hughes laid the cornerstone, and the Legislature named the building for James W. Grimes, the third governor of Iowa. Prior to becoming governor, Grimes was a member of the Iowa Territorial Legislature. He was a political enemy of Governor Robert Lucas, even asking the President to remove Lucas from office. Interestingly, the first two general state office buildings on the Capitol Complex were named “Lucas” and “Grimes” in 1966.

During Grimes’ time as governor, the state Capitol was moved from Iowa City to Des Moines. Governor Grimes approved the present location of the Statehouse. He went on to be elected to the U.S. Senate in 1858 and again in 1864, and gained notoriety as a Senator for breaking party ranks, along with six other Republican senators, and voting against the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson.

James Wilson Grimes died in Burlington, Iowa, in February 1872 at the age of 55.

HOOVER BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Hoover Building, 1305 East Walnut Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Attorney General's Office, Department of Administrative Services, Department of Human Services, Department of Revenue
Years Constructed:	1975 – 1978. First appropriation received in 1973. Dedicated on June 9, 1979.
Designers & Builders:	Brooks, Borg and Skiles – Architecture Engineering Vawter & Walter, Inc. – General Contractor Brown Brothers, Inc. – Electrical Contractor Proctor Mechanical Corporation Johnston Controls – Automation

History/Overview

Construction on the Herbert C. Hoover State Office Building began in 1975. At the time, the General Assembly was unable to agree on a name so an essay contest was held among all Iowa public school history classes. The name "Herbert Clark Hoover," in honor of the 31st U.S. president and only Iowan to hold that office, was declared the winner. The original plans for the building called for four floors above ground and two floors below ground. However, when bids were received it developed that there was enough money in the appropriation to add another floor. Today the seven-story Hoover Building houses the largest number of employees on the Capitol Complex.

JESSIE PARKER BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Jessie Parker Building, 510 East 12 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Department of Corrections, Department of Education – Vocational Rehabilitation, Department of Elder Affairs, Iowa Ethics & Campaign Disclosure Board, Parole Board, Public Employment Relations Board
Years Constructed:	1959, with expansions and additions ca. 1969, 1977
Designers & Builders:	unknown

History/Overview

The Jessie M. Parker State Office Building was originally known as the Vocational Rehabilitation Building. In 1988 it was renamed to honor “a distinguished Iowa native who gave a lifetime of caring and dedication to Iowa’s youth and to persons with disabilities,” thereby becoming the first Iowa state office building named after a woman.

The State’s Vocational Rehabilitation facility started out as a house, according to historical documents. Gradually additions and expansions were added to the house, until it was finally torn down and replaced with additional office space. It was, at least in part, Ms. Jessie Parker’s work to ensure the facilities at this location were accessible to those with disabilities that would eventually lead to the Vocational Rehabilitation Building being named for her.

Jessie M. Parker was born February 25, 1879, in Lake Mills, Iowa. She furthered her education at colleges and universities in Grinnell, Iowa; Cedar Falls, Iowa; Des Moines; and Valparaiso, Indiana. From 1897 to 1915, Parker taught the third and eighth grades in the Lake Mills school system and became the city's first woman high school principal. When she became superintendent in 1927, she was appointed school supervisor and inspector for Iowa's Standard Rural Schools. In 1938, Parker became State Superintendent of Public Instruction. As superintendent, Parker reorganized the school system, established professional teacher certification guidelines, expanded curriculum aids, revised the school accounting system, and developed the "home-to-school" phone system for ill children. Parker served one term on the Lake Mills Community School Board. In recognition of her contributions to education, Parker was included in the 1940 edition of Who's Who in America. Parker died May 1, 1959. Following her death, the Mills Graphic newspaper wrote: “The impact of her leadership and promotion of education has been felt throughout Iowa, barring possibly only a few schools to which she has not made a personal visit.”

Parker was inducted into the Iowa Women's Hall of Fame in 1986 and the Vocational Rehabilitation Building was renamed in her honor in 1988. Today the Jessie Parker Building houses a number of agencies outside of Voc Rehab, including the Parole Board, Ethics and Campaign Disclosure Board, and others.

LUCAS BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Lucas Building, 321 East 12 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Attorney General Offices, Auditor of State Offices, Department of Human Rights, Department of Inspections & Appeals, Department of Public Health, Iowa State Patrol
Years Constructed:	1949-1952
Designers & Builders:	Tinsley, Higgins & Lighter – Architect-in-Chief Anthony & Hunter – Associate Architect Beuttler & Arnold – Associate Architect Wetherell & Harrison – Associate Architect

History/Overview

Known for many years simply as the “State Office Building,” the Lucas State Office Building is the oldest – and was for several years the only – general office building on the Capitol Complex. Planning for the Lucas Building first began in 1941 but construction was delayed by the Second World War. Construction finally began in 1949 and was completed in 1952.

The Lucas Building wasn’t named until 1966, when construction was nearing completion on a second state office building. The state building committee at the time agreed that it wouldn’t make sense to call one the State Office Building while giving the new building a name, or to have two “State Office Buildings.”

The six-story Lucas Building was so named for Robert Lucas, recognized as Iowa’s first territorial governor, serving from 1838 to 1841. Ironically, the other office building was named for Governor Lucas’ political foe at the time, James Grimes.

The need for a general office building was recognized long before the Lucas Building was completed and occupied. In fact, as early as 1919 the state legislature appropriated one million dollars for a “temple of justice” to relieve some of the crowding in the Capitol. By the 1940s and ‘50s, however, it was recognized that the most urgent need was for general office space. Up until then, several state departments were housed in rented space in downtown Des Moines office buildings, or occupied legislative committee rooms when the Legislature was not in session.

Planning for the state’s first general office building began in earnest around 1941, but those plans were soon affected by World War II. A newspaper article from that time said that planners were still determined, however: “A never-say-die state office building committee decided Wednesday to send a representative to Washington, D.C., to determine if the supplies, priorities and allocations board meant to include the proposed $1,650,000 Iowa office building in its recent ban on public construction.”

Construction was indeed delayed, further efforts to move forward with construction thwarted by a shortage of building supplies such as steel, as well as a shortage of draftsmen and construction workers.

Architects were still interviewed and selected, however, and a site location on the east side of the Capitol narrowly won out over a spot to the northwest of the Capitol, approximately where Iowa Workforce Development is located today.

Plans for the exterior of the Lucas Building called for Indiana limestone to “harmonize with the state historical building,” which is now called the Ola Babcock Miller Building. At the time, it was the only other major construction, aside from the Capitol, on the Capitol Complex.

The new state office building was designed to face a park-like “mall” area stretching from the east of the Capitol, thus the main entrance faces in a northerly direction and not toward nearby East 12th Street or Walnut Avenue.

The building itself was designed to be a “utilitarian” facility, and the plaque inside echoes this sentiment, stating that the Lucas Building was “dedicated to efficiency and economy in government.”

PARKING STRUCTURE

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	State of Iowa Parking Structure, 650 East Grand Avenue, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Public and state employee parking; Department of Administrative Services – State Motor Pool
Years Constructed:	2002-2003 (Opened in February 2003)
Designers & Builders:	Johnson Development Corporation

History/Overview

The land at the northwest corner of Pennsylvania and Grand was purchased by the State along with the land for the State Historical Building in the mid-1980s. In 2003 the parking ramp was opened there to replace surface parking lots west of the Capitol. This made way for the West Capitol Terrace, and the seven-level ramp now provides more than 800 vehicle stalls for state employees and the visiting public. The State's Motor Pool is also housed in the parking structure, with the office located on the third floor.

PUBLIC SAFETY BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Public Safety Building, 215 East 7 th Street, Des Moines
Primary Occupants:	Department of Public Safety
Years Constructed:	1915 Renovations and addition: 2005-2007
Designers & Builders:	1915: unknown 2005-2007: Architect of Record – Design Alliance, Inc. of Waukee, IA; General Contractor – Hansen Company, Inc. of Johnston, IA

History/Overview

The Public Safety Building was originally constructed in 1915 as a branch house for the International Harvester Company of America. It is believed the lower floor was used as a showroom for the tractors and farm equipment the company produced, while the upper floors stored manufactured parts for the company. The building was used for other purposes, including possibly as apartments, before the State purchased the building and began using it as the Records and Property Building.

A major renovation of the building began in June 2005 to re-purpose the building for state offices for the Department of Public Safety (DPS). Architects Design Alliance Inc. of Des Moines and Bahr Vermeer Haecher Architects of Omaha undertook the $18.5-million project, which consisted of remodeling and renovating the original structure, and constructing an addition that would blend in with the original building, which is eligible for listing on the National Registry of Historic Places. The renovations and construction were completed in 2007.

The Public Safety Building now houses about 180 employees in the following offices and divisions of the DPS: Commissioner’s Office, Professional Standards Bureau, Public Information, Division of Criminal Investigation, Iowa State Patrol Headquarters, Intelligence Bureau, Administrative Services Division, State Fire Marshal’s Office, Governor’s Traffic Safety Bureau, narcotics Enforcement, and the Plans, Research & Training Bureau.

Green Features

During the renovation a number of “green” concepts were utilized:

- Operable – Low E windows with thermal break.
- Fritted glass on curtain walls to reduce solar heat gain.
- Window roller shades with 95% opacity on north side of building and 97% opacity on the remaining three sides. Reflective backing to reduce solar heat gain but transparent enough to still see outdoors.
- Glass-block flooring on fifth floor to allow light to filter to fourth floor. Clerestory windows above fifth floor also provide natural light into the building.
- Glass butt-glazing in offices to allow natural light to filter into center core of building, reducing electrical lighting loads.

- Higher percentage of materials brought to site within 500-mile radius to reduce fuel costs for shipping.
- Stone coping and brick recycled or re-used on-site to reduce waste in landfills.
- Native plants for landscaping, capable of withstanding arid conditions. Landscape irrigation system not provided to reduce water usage.
- Energy efficient T5 and T8 lamps used in light fixtures.

WALLACE BUILDING

Quick Facts

Building Name, Address:	Wallace Building, 502 East 9 th Street
Primary Occupants:	Department of Agriculture and Land Stewardship, Department of Natural Resources, Rebuild Iowa Office, State Fire Marshal's Office
Years Constructed:	1973 (planning/first appropriation received) – 1977 (completed). Dedicated July 7, 1978.
Designers & Builders:	Durant, Deininger, Domer, Kramer and Gordon of Dubuque – Architect Tymar Construction of Beloit, Wisconsin – Contractor

History/Overview

The Henry A. Wallace State Office Building was originally conceived as an Agricultural Building to bring together many interconnected agencies under one roof. Known especially for its frequently photographed wall of gold-colored glass windows, it was named by the General Assembly in honor of Henry Wallace, the native Iowan, farmer, journalist, scientist, businessman, humanitarian, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Commerce and Vice President.

Until the Wallace Building was occupied, various agricultural and natural resources-related agencies were housed in the Capitol, a converted school building on the Capitol grounds, and other temporary facilities.

The design of the building included laboratory space, and a lobby with an indoor garden, aquarium (which was later removed) and exhibit areas. The Wallace Building also has an auditorium, and a sculpture – “Cosmic Seed” by Ronald Bladen – was commissioned for outside the main entrance.
