INDEXER'S PREFATORY NOTE

This index is essentially the 1946 index revised to include the acts of the 52nd and 53rd General Assemblies, and to minimize certain sources of dissatisfaction.

Several new main headings have been added, among which are, FLOOD AND EROSION CONTROL, INSURANCE RATE REGULATION, COUNTY ASSESSOR, PRIVATE DETECTIVES, ANTI-FREEZE, NATURAL RESOURCES COUNCIL.

Insofar as possible cross references have been eliminated or supplemented with chapter or section numbers of general application. This was done on the theory that the user will prefer to go directly to the Code.

Where chapter numbers, or a few general section numbers in addition to the cross reference are given, the cautious researcher will consult other main heads for laws of special application. Thus: EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS, see chs. 633-638, also ESTATES OF DECEDENTS. The chapter references are to the general law of probate, descent and distribution, and accounting of executors and administrators. However, to determine duties under the inheritance tax law, one should follow the cross reference or turn directly to TAXATION, subhead Inheritance tax, to get the citation to chapter 450. Similarly, if one wishes to find whether an executor may sue in his own name, it is necessary to follow the cross reference, or see such main heads as ACTIONS or RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE, which will lead to R.C.P. 2. Likewise, to determine whether the administrator of a deceased garnishee may be brought into the garnishment proceedings, it is necessary to follow the cross reference, or see the main head GARNISHMENT. Either method will lead to section 642.4 which is not within the range of the general reference.

Where chapter rather than section numbers are given, the user desiring a more detailed listing can find it, either by consulting the analysis at the beginning of the chapter or by following the cross reference.

If the subject to be looked up is one of a general nature, time may be saved by using the Skeleton Index at the back of Volume II.

Rules of Civil Procedure are printed throughout the chapters to which they pertain and are also collected in the section following Criminal Law in the back of Volume II. The page numbers at which the rules are printed in the text of the chapters have been eliminated from this index. One may quickly find the desired rule in the back of Volume II, and a footnote at the end of that rule will direct the way to the related chapter. Such elimination reduces the number of two-line index entries and consequent indentations, thus making it easier for the eye to follow down the left side of the index column and pick out the desired key word. This smoothing out process was aided by eliminating surplus and repetitious cross references and by shortening excessively long entries which tended to interpret rather than identify the sections. The function of an index entry is to direct, not interpret. One should read the section itself to find what the law provides.

It is hoped that the above changes in the index have made it a faster and more satisfactory aid for looking up the law.
